Ernie Knoll understood. One day a man would come who would have studies just like William Miller had, and would thereby clean and raise up the foundations of Adventism once again. The Adventist man whom he had seen was the second Miller, who would be the head of the remnant. This disappointed and shocked Ernie Knoll to the core so much that he purposed to fight against this man if he should ever appear. Thus, Ernie inwardly turned against God's plan and providence, and brought the separation from God that allowed Satan to attack him during the following night.

To this day, Ernie has not overcome the shock. He has long since recognized who the second Miller is, and that the second Miller has a time message like the first. Therefore, it is especially the time message that he, together with Satan, attacks to prevent this man from getting the leadership position that God has granted him. According to Ernie, this man—along with all the other heretics and opponents—must be slowly eaten by the earth and burned in hell while Ernie alone is the Senior Pastor, who will perform miraculous healings to beguile the masses.

The Orion clock, which is the Book of Seven Seals and the larger and more decorated "casket" of the second Miller, must therefore be destroyed by Ernie's God with a hammer. In The Journey Home, Ernie dreamed his big dream about the destruction of the "casket of the second Miller":

Next I see what resembles a ball-peen hammer, but the ball part is very large. It now looks as though an invisible hand uses it to hit the face of the clock, and all the concentric circles and numbers shatter and fall from my view. All that is left is the most beautiful, glowing view of the Orion nebula.

Is this God the Father, who destroys the Orion clock with a hammer, or is it the Germanic god Thor, who has just such a hammer and is nothing more than Satan himself who wants to rise above God, and hates John Scotram because he could see the clock in Orion, which he hates as much as God Himself? Is that God the Father who turns the earth into a murderous beast, or is it Gaya, the Mother Earth of Greek mythology who makes me puke?

Now who should be "emotionally affected"? Ernie Knoll or John Scotram?

Ernie was Satan's victim, but for his own character flaws: lack of faith, pride, thirst for power, and the tendency to lie. The prophet of God turned into a prophet of Satan, as was described in the following quote from Ellen White:

Satan has great advantages. He possessed the wonderful intellectual power of an angel, of which few form any just idea. Satan was conscious of his power, or he would not have engaged in a conflict with the mighty God, the everlasting Father, and the Prince of Peace. Satan closely watches events, and when he finds one who has a specially strong spirit of opposition to the truth of God he will even reveal to him unfulfilled events, that he may more firmly secure himself a seat in his heart. He who did not hesitate to brave a conflict with Him who holds creation as in His hand, has malignity to persecute and deceive. He holds mortals in his snare at the present time. During his experience of nearly six thousand years he has lost none of his skill and shrewdness. All this time he has been a close observer of all that concerns our race. {1TT 217.1}

In the next article I will further discuss how Ernie and Becky Knoll have worked not only against God in the form of lies and deceit, but how they eventually managed to commit the unpardonable sin against the Holy Spirit and what God's judgment was regarding Ernie Knoll as early as October, 22, 2011. However, that article probably will not be published until the horrible judgments engulf the Adventist Global Church, as Ernie describes in detail in his latest dream Final Events and the First Supper. As a prophet of Satan, he knows all about the things which Satan will be allowed to bring upon the very church that he himself separated from God. Satan will probably establish his prophet by letting everything happen according to the way Ernie dreamed it under the influence of the enemy of souls.

We will know from the true Spirit of Prophecy, combined with our previously unpublished studies, when the next article has to be published. We put great effort recently into warning many in the Adventist Facebook groups, and also presented again how close we are to the wrath of God from Ezekiel 9 in the articles The End of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and Christmas 2.0, but no one wanted to hear. The door to the last ark of God was closed for many Adventists, who would not accept the messages of God from Orion and the Vessel of Time, and mocked the servants of God.

Those followers of Ernie Knoll who are still not convinced by our arguments will be very surprised when we will neither be devoured by the earth nor perish in the "sulfur fires" that will descend from Ernie's father, Satan, onto the Church that he corrupted. God is doing everything to purify His church before the big final battle begins, which will decide the Great Controversy. We are anxious to see who the main players in this end-time drama will be, but I think that some of our readers already have a pretty good idea.

At the Hand of Jesus

Dream Interpretations

From the Orion study, we know that the Holy City is most likely in the Orion Nebula. Ellen White spoke about this nebula when she mentioned the “open space” where the voice of God comes from and the Holy City will descend from. The Holy City is not in a black hole outside of our universe like some people believe as a result of misinterpreting Ellen White’s statement. In reality, it is in the Orion Nebula veiled from our eyes. We will gather there in 2016 to receive our crowns. Apart from Ellen White’s brief mention of it, we have no other confirmation from God for it. Or has this already been confirmed by the dreams of Ernie Knoll? And if so, where and how?

Ever since the dream Two Cars of March 12, 2010, not long after my Orion studies were published in January of the same year, I pondered a certain part of the dream a lot...

Next the Herald says he is to take me somewhere special. Instantly I am with Jesus. He is holding my right hand as we walk through a corridor that is not straight. We turn right for a ways, then left, right and left again. The corridor does not have regular square walls or a ceiling. Instead they appear as mirrors of different sizes and shapes and are placed at different angles. We continue on in silence, turn and begin walking straight, then descend down a walkway. We enter into what I think is a very, very large room but yet at the same time I know it is not a room. It is as if I am seeing our galaxy where our planet would be. I see what appear to be many, many more mirrors. There are even small dime-sized mirrors placed in different areas. All the mirrors do not have a flat surface but are rounded in one way or another and are not sharp or hard. I am made to know that the mirrors are not really mirrors. The floor is very soft to walk on.

As we come into the large area, it is filled with things that I do not have human words with which to describe. I feel awed as I look around. We stop and I am placed so that the walkway and corridor we just came from is behind me. Suddenly the room begins to glow with a brightness that illuminates the area. It is a beauty that again I cannot explain. I am made to understand that because of my sinful state, His brightness must be kept very low. If there was a knob that could be turned to allow the brightness, in which 0 is off and 10 is on high, the knob would be at a setting of 0.00000005.

I immediately recognized the very large room in the last part of this quote as the Great Orion Nebula. It was clear that Jesus wanted to indicate the nebula when He made Ernie feel that “the floor is very soft to walk on”. I also understood that there was something in the description of the directions that would clearly indicate that we are in Orion. Armed with nothing but my Orion photo, I tried to decipher how we would “pass by” the seven stars in such a way that we would turn “right, left, right, and left again, then turn another time, walk straight and descend down a “walkway” to get into the Orion Nebula.

From the beginning, I also understood that the “mirrors” (which “are not really mirrors”) symbolize the stars of the Orion constellation because stars are “round” and reflect the character of Jesus. The small dime-sized mirrors in the Orion Nebula are also significant. As you probably already know, the Orion Nebula is a very special place. Astronomers describe it as a “stellar nursery” because the stars of the universe are born there in a marvelous way. In it, we find the youngest stars of the universe, and many are still in their embryonic stage just about to ignite. Please, search for YouTube videos about it! It is fascinating to watch Jesus create. This also answers the question of whether creation will continue after sin is eradicated from the universe. Jesus is the Life, and He is the Creator. The Life cannot exist without giving life.

All of my attempts to decipher the directions in this dream were unsuccessful, however, until July 18, 2011. Maybe I had prayed too little about it, or maybe it was reserved for the moment when Becky and Ernie would deny in writing any association between Orion and the dreams of Ernie. In their reply to one of our brothers who admonished them for changing the dreams, they said that Orion has nothing to do with the throne of God, not in the statements of Ellen White, neither in the Bible, nor in the dreams.

On July 15, 2011, Becky Knoll wrote the following to this brother:

The Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy never state that heaven is in Orion. In the Bible, Job is simply using Orion (as well as Pleiades--the seven stars) as illustrations. The quote below [Ellen White in Early Writings] is simply stating that the Holy City will come down through an open space in Orion. In other words, heaven is beyond Orion. We are not told where heaven is. That is God's secret right now. We should not make more of Orion than what God does.

Of course this was another proof of how little the Knolls understand what Ernie dreams, and it was a really pathetic display of faulty interpretation of the Bible and Spirit of Prophecy. But I must admit that such openly flaunted ignorance makes me think, and I wondered how we could help these brethren and their ministry out of their spiritual darkness and their prejudices which stem from neglected Bible study.

So I prayed about it intensively for several days. As it so often happens, an idea came to me in an unexpected moment. The still small voice told me "You know that all of the stars of Orion are actually at different distances from us. The Orion is not flat like in your photograph, but everything is arranged in three-dimensional space. You yourself posted a video on YouTube about it. So far, you've only tried to draw lines on the photo, but the picture is only two dimensional. In open space, everything looks quite different. What if Jesus had taken Ernie on that voyage to show all of you exactly WHERE the Holy City and He Himself are? What if Ernie traveled at the hand of Jesus through all seven star systems that constitute the Orion study, from the relatively nearest star to Earth to the next and so on until he ultimately reached the Great Hall in the Orion Nebula? Then the directions described in the dream would correspond to the positions of all of the stars of Orion relative to each other. Then you would all know that Jesus Himself had confirmed Orion as the throne of God. Check it!"

Of course, we all know that the Orion with the Orion Nebula is a symbol; a symbol for the throne room, which actually resides in the Holy City, but is hidden from our view. I always emphasize this in the studies. This last e-mail that I have from the Knolls is one more piece of evidence that they never read the complete Orion study or any other study of mine. Becky says in writing to the brother:

Either John is of God and Ernie is not or John is not of God and Ernie is. We believe the latter. ... When we read on John's website that he is promoting time-setting, we did not waste time reading the rest of the website. If you see blatant error and then continue reading the rest, you will become confused or convinced that it is all truth when it is not. Satan is most deceptive when he mixes truth and error.

So, they think that my studies are from Satan, and therefore they reject everything. They refuse to even look at the studies. They thereby transgress the biblical principle: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good!" They, however, challenge others to prove Ernie's dreams with the Bible. I give you the same counsel. Prove especially "The Boardroom" dream and all dreams from number 47 onward. The Boardroom dream is in the Introduction to the "Truth Book"; compare it with Chapter 10 of the book and see when he had the dream. He had it at the time of his first fall when he was still under the influence of Satan.

On the subject of time-setting, I found a harmonious explanation as to why the warnings of the Spirit of Prophecy on this subject were effective only until the time of the coming of Jesus. This time began with the outpouring of the first drops of the latter rain when the second and true Midnight Cry began to sound. I wrote many articles about that in the Day and Hour section. I especially recommend The Power of the Father and A Word of Advice.

Let's come back to Ernie's journey at the hand of Jesus. I noticed from the beginning that there were exactly seven segments to the path which could fit with the seven stars of Orion as the "junctions". Let's carefully read the description of the directions again:

Instantly I am with Jesus. He is holding my right hand as we walk through [a corridor \[1\]](#) that is not straight. We [turn right for a ways \[2\]](#), then [left \[3\]](#), [right \[4\]](#) and [left again \[5\]](#). The corridor does not have regular square walls or a ceiling. Instead they appear as mirrors of different sizes and shapes and are placed at different angles. We continue on in silence, [turn and begin walking straight \[6\]](#), then [descend down a walkway \[7\]](#). We enter into what I think is a very, very large room but yet at the same time I know it is not a room.

When I got the idea to test these seven segments with the stars of Orion in three-dimensional space, my first thought was that this "theory" could only be true if the Orion Nebula is actually farther away than all of the seven stars that make up the Orion constellation in the studies. That alone was a probability of 8 to 1 against my idea. And then, of course, all the junctions and other parts of the dream would have to match in perfect harmony. If it were so, the probability that this were pure coincidence would be extremely low. Such a route description is like a fingerprint of the constellation and identifies it uniquely. If the route description would fit, it would be clear evidence that Ernie had been led by Jesus through the whole Orion constellation all the way to the Orion Nebula.

First of all, I had to consult the Internet to make a table of the stellar distances. Soon it became clear to me that even the astronomers have big problems to measure the true stellar distances exactly. Error margins up to 20% are not uncommon, and this plays a role in deciphering the directions as we shall see.

Table 1 lists the distances based on the data from Wikipedia. The distance to the Orion Nebula was taken from another Wikipedia article.

N°	Name	In the Orion study	Distance
1	Bellatrix	Left hand of Jesus	243 ly
2	Betelgeuse	Right hand of Jesus	643 ly
3	Saiph	Right foot of Jesus	722 ly
4	Rigel	Left foot of Jesus	773 ly
5	Alnitak	Throne of Jesus	818 ly
6	Mintaka	Throne of the Holy Spirit	916 ly
7	Alnilam	Throne of God the Father	1342 ly
8	Orion Nebula	Location of the Holy City	1350 ly

The distances are given in light-years (ly).

If you consider the rather wide error margins and compare the distances with the hundreds of other websites that give many different distances, it can be seen at first glance reading the table that there are two pairs of the stars at similar distances where it is not perfectly clear which of the two stars is actually closer to Earth:

1. Rigel (± 130 ly) and Saiph (± 28 ly)
2. Alnitak (± 160 ly) and Mintaka (± 210 ly)

It's quite astonishing that all seven stars of the Orion constellation are less than 1400 light-years away from us. All of them are very near in astronomical terms. All of the stars except Betelgeuse are very young—just a few million years old—and they are all giants in the heavens. You will find out more about that in the article series entitled The Wrath of God.

If you look at the table, it is also interesting that the middle of the belt stars, "Anilam," the throne of the Father, has almost the same distance as the Orion Nebula that is positioned exactly underneath. In the table they have only 8 light-years distance, which is truly just a "walkway" in astronomical terms.

It is also obvious from looking at the table that the journey must begin with Bellatrix, the star that corresponds to the wound on the left hand of Jesus. At this point, I immediately noticed that the dream even hints at which star the travel should begin with:

Next the Herald says he is to take me somewhere special. Instantly I am with Jesus. He is holding my right hand as we walk through a corridor that is not straight.

At the moment when the journey begins, Ernie jumps a huge distance of 243 light years and is "instantly with Jesus." How should we understand that? Those who know the Orion study should know it immediately. The Orion constellation shows the wounds of Jesus (the four hand and foot stars and the Orion Nebula) and the Ark of the Covenant, before which Jesus stands as the High Priest (the three belt stars or thrones of the three Persons of the Divine Council). In Orion, we are shown the scene that takes place in the Most Holy Place of the Heavenly Sanctuary, where Jesus ministers as our intercessor during the investigative judgment that began in 1844. Therefore, Orion is the Judgment Clock, which indicates the quickly-approaching end of the judgment. Those who haven't understood these points yet should carefully review slides 169-178 of the Orion presentation.

Now we understand that the journey doesn't begin on Earth, but in Orion, because Ernie is "instantly with Jesus". Then the text says exactly at which star the journey begins: "He is holding my right hand". If someone walks with you and holds your right hand, which of his hands is he giving you? The answer is clear: his left hand!

The star which represents the left hand of Jesus is Bellatrix according to the Orion study, at the top right of the Orion constellation. Please remember that Jesus "raised His right hand" to proclaim the health message (1865 and 1866, the left side of the throne lines from our point of view; see slides 138-139 of the Orion presentation) and Jesus showed the Father the wound of His right hand in 1914, when during World War I the brethren began to betray one another. Hence the other raised hand is His left hand, which reminds us of 1936, the Hitler era, when the Church made compromises with the state. Later He pointed to the years 1949 and 1950 with this left hand at the falsification of the doctrine of His nature, and the second rejection of the light of the fourth angel (see slides 133-137 of the Orion presentation).

And with this left hand of Jesus, which already once had to do with the fourth angel, Ernie begins his three-dimensional journey through the Orion constellation. Ernie does not understand anything, although he has the privilege of touching Jesus' hand and wound in the dream. What a pity, dear brother Ernie, and how much shame will you feel one day, when all of this is revealed to you and you realize that instead of revising your beliefs, you attacked another servant of God for no reason.

The table shows us that the closest star to Earth and the star farthest to the Orion Nebula is undoubtedly Bellatrix, the left hand of Jesus. Exactly with this hand, Jesus takes the right hand of Ernie to begin the journey. Can all of this be coincidence? We will discover more wonderful things if we continue with this short study.

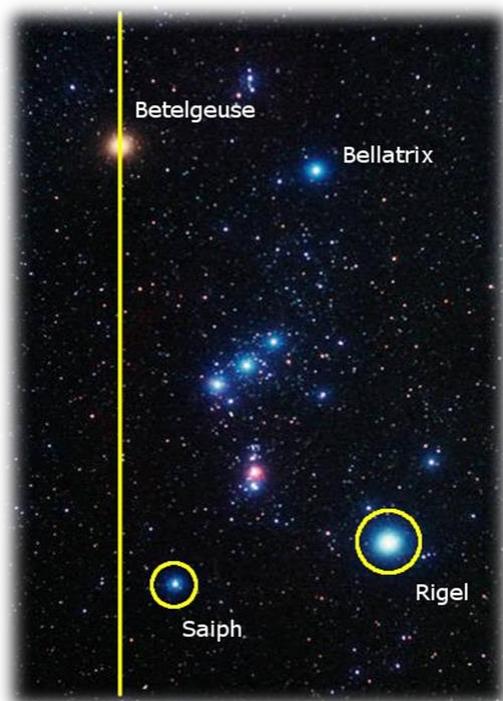

Try it for yourself! Take an Orion photo and try to follow the route description from the dream text starting at Bellatrix (or from any other star). For starters, it's enough to try to fit the "right, left, right, left" text. You will probably mull it over in vain like I did... for a long time... as long as you draw lines in the two-dimensional space of the Orion photo. But in reality, Orion is not just two-dimensional like the photo and our astronomically untrained brain suggests. All of the stars of Orion are in reality positioned in three-dimensional space and therefore we need the distance table from the beginning of this article to find out the order of the stars as milestones on the journey. You have to start to think "three-dimensional"!

First, let's think over where we are exactly at the beginning of the dream. Jesus already gave His left hand to Ernie and the text says that both are walking together in a corridor. This corridor is the imaginary line between two "mirrors", thus stars, that are positioned relative to each other at certain angles. The next nearest star in the table is the red supergiant Betelgeuse, which will play a major role in end-time events. That was also confirmed in the "Two Cars" dream, which I still want to withhold (see the series The Wrath of God).

First, Ernie and Jesus are walking along the "corridor" between Bellatrix and Betelgeuse. As soon as they arrive at Betelgeuse, they must turn right according to the dream text: "We turn right for a ways..."

To "turn right" in three-dimensional space, considering the Orion photo on our computer screen, we need to imagine, for example, that Bellatrix lies in front of our monitor, Betelgeuse on our screen and Rigel behind. A "right turn" in three-dimensional space would always mean to turn to a star that is on the right side of an imaginary axis through the junction star. And vice versa, a "left turn" is always a turn to a star located on the left side of the imaginary axis through the junction star.

Our first junction is shown in the picture below. We are at the junction star "Betelgeuse", and according to the astronomical table we have to turn right either to Rigel or Saiph because they are the nearest stars on our trip. Both are to the right from the imaginary axis drawn through Betelgeuse. Both are possible next milestones. We need to find out through the dream text, which is indeed the nearest star on the journey, because the probability of error in the distances given by the astronomers for these two stars is too high:

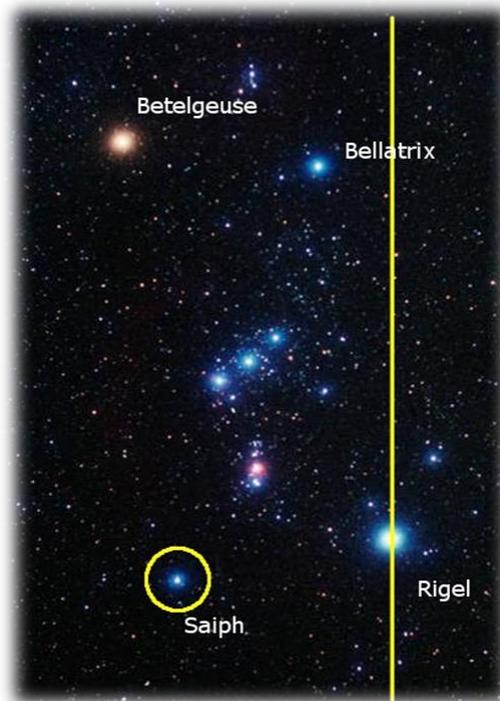

If we would turn right at Betelgeuse to Saiph, we would thereafter have to turn from Saiph to Rigel, because this would be the next star after Saiph on the journey... Let's try it...

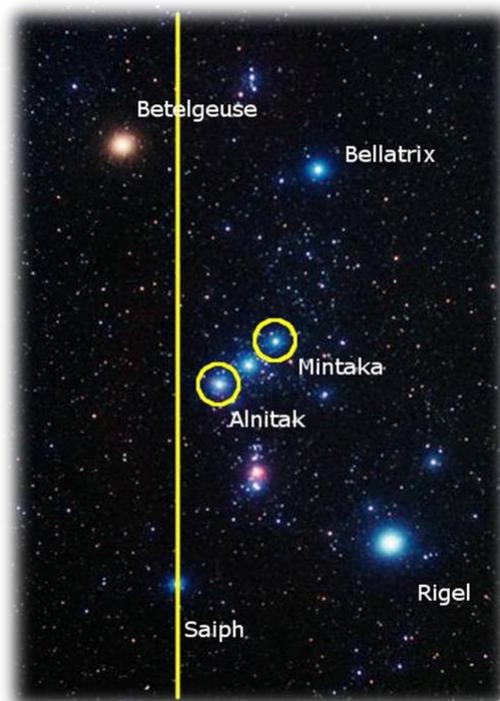

According to the dream, we would have to turn left from Saiph to Rigel. This is not possible because Rigel is at the right of the imaginary axis through our junction star "Saiph". So the path must be reversed. It's good that the astronomers admitted a high probability of error. Jesus, the true Creator of Orion knows the exact distances of the stars and navigates Ernie perfectly on the path to the Orion Nebula. Therefore, we can do it in the correct way...

We turn right at Betelgeuse (first right turn of the dream text) and get to the next junction star “Rigel”:

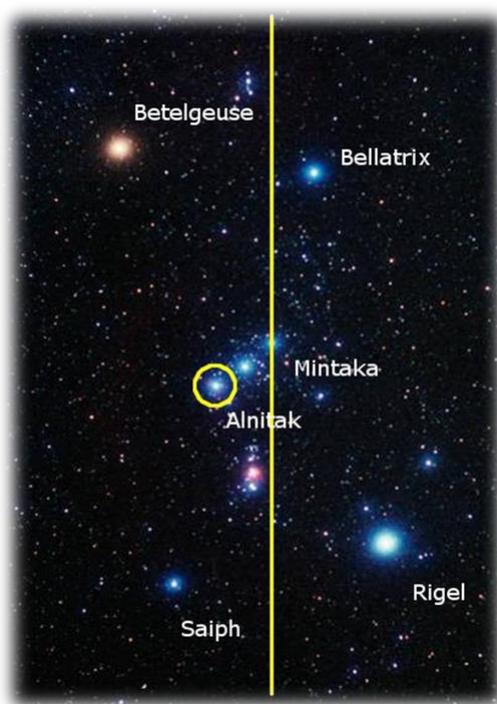

Please keep in mind that if you draw lines between “Bellatrix and Betelgeuse” and “Betelgeuse and Rigel” in the photo, it would look like a left turn, but if you imagine that Bellatrix lies in front of Betelgeuse and Rigel is behind Betelgeuse, then it is in fact a right turn! The three-dimensional way of thinking is very tricky!

Exactly as the dream text tells us, we now turn left to Saiph (first left turn of the dream text) and arrive at the next junction:

Now we must turn to the right for the second time and are back to the same small problem as before. Mintaka and Alnitak are roughly equidistant and the error margins overlap. This time, we think ahead and consider that we must afterward immediately turn left. So, only a right-turn to Mintaka is possible, since we would not be able to turn left from Alnitak to Mintaka. And again Jesus corrects a little error of the astronomers, who had already admitted a high probability of error.

At Mintaka, we turn left the second time, exactly as the dream text says, and come to the junction star "Alnitak". I like the dream text very much, which says:

We continue on in silence, turn and begin walking straight, then descend down a walkway.

From the arrival at Mintaka, Ernie and Jesus walk on in silence. Why? Please imagine where they are walking! They are walking along the pathway of thrones, comprised of the three stars that represent the Holy Spirit (Mintaka), the Son (Alnitak) and the Father (Alnilam). They marked the "throne lines" in the Orion presentation. Remember the dream "Reference My Sanctuary." No disrespectful noise is to be heard in the throne room. Everyone is silent and says nothing unless God the Father speaks to them.

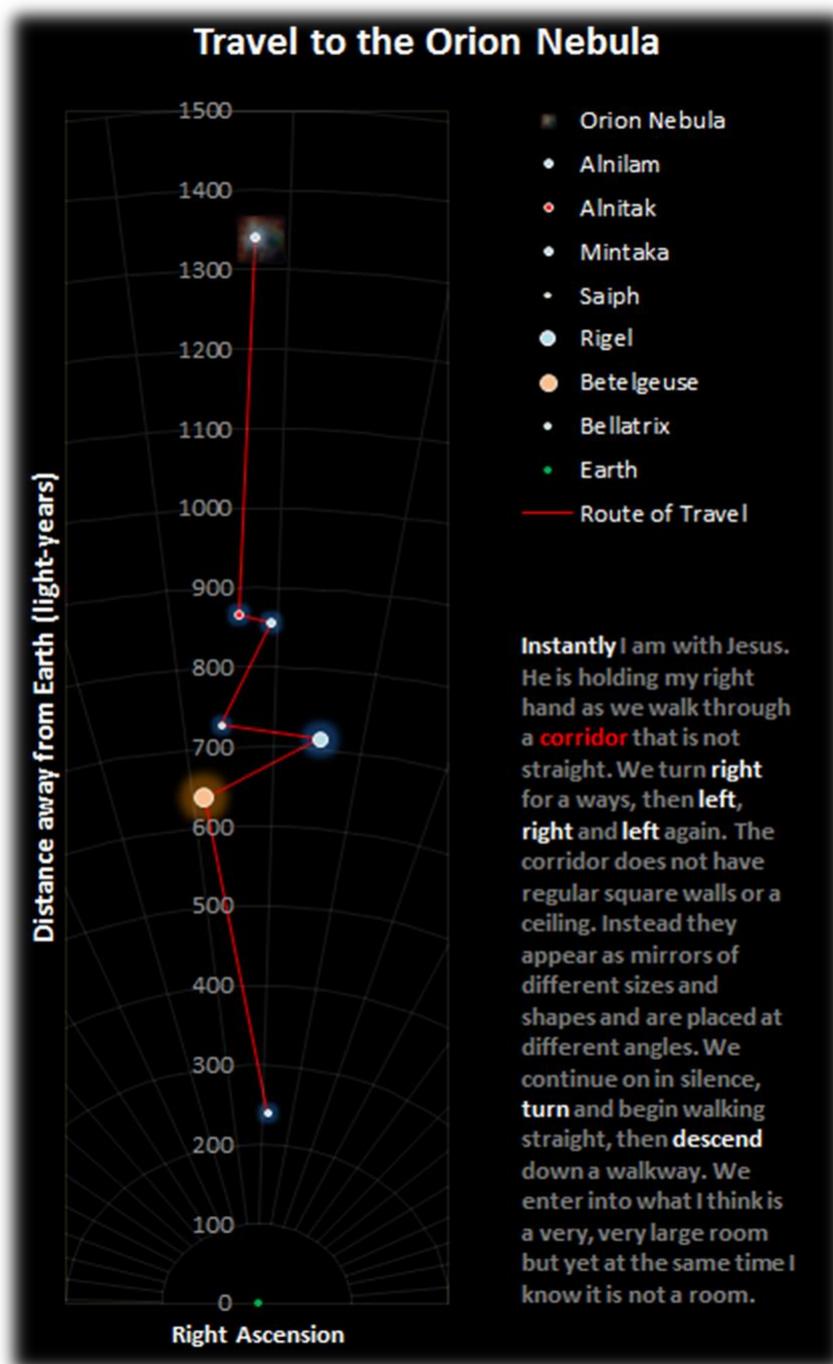

Upon arrival to Alnitak, the throne of Jesus, we must "turn". It is not specified whether we should turn right or left. As we are walking along the throne lines, it is clear from our two-dimensional photography that there must be a turn to the throne of God Father, which we just passed by when we went from Mintaka to Alnitak. To "turn" is correct in the sense of a new right turn, because Alnilam, the star of the Father's throne, is further away than Alnitak and Mintaka. Some astronomers give Alnilam an even greater distance than the distance of the Orion Nebula. So we could also understand a "turn" in the sense of a direction change from forward to backward movement.

So we "turn" to Alnilam and from there "descend down a walkway" to the very, very large room, the large open space which Ellen White spoke of: the Orion Nebula. Many solar systems with all of their orbiting bodies would easily find space in the Great Orion Nebula which has a diameter of 30 light-years.

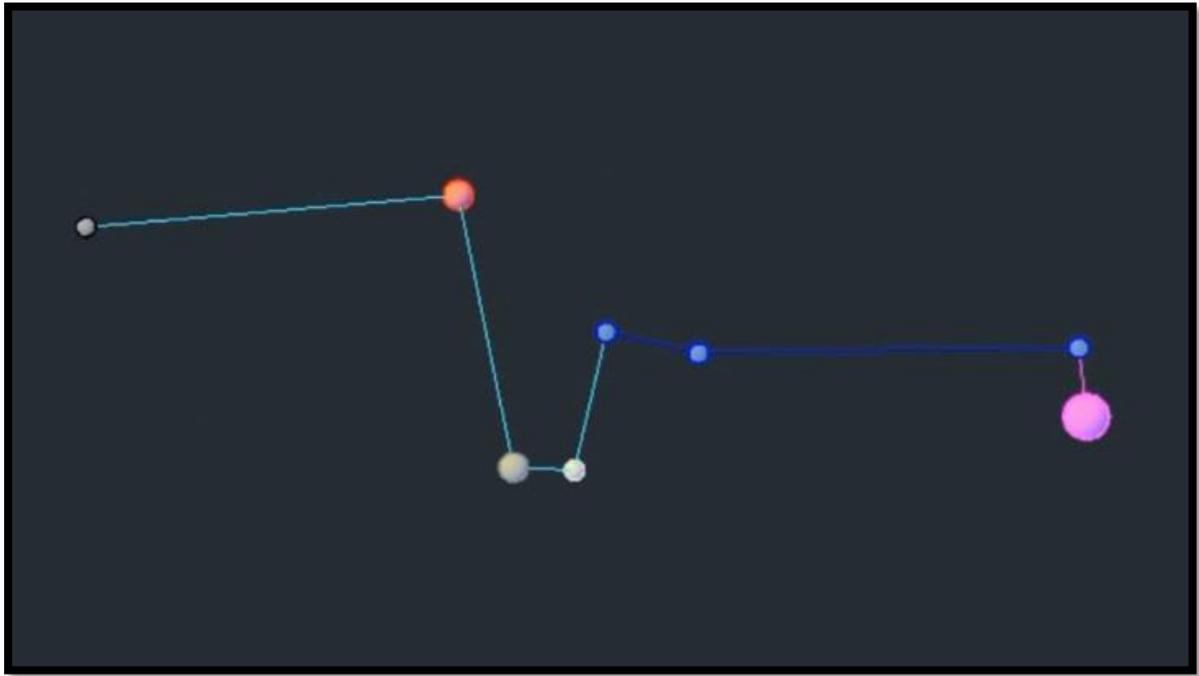

It is incredible how closely the dream text fits. The Orion Nebula is neither right nor left of the throne star of the Father "Alnilam". It is right under it. Even the latest astronomical measurements give almost the same distances from the earth for Alnilam and the Orion Nebula. It is really a "descent" to the Orion Nebula, the sea of glass of Revelation 4.

The next picture shows the stars of the Orion constellation as viewed from above. You can easily see the right and left turns in this view as you follow the red route line starting from Bellatrix at the bottom nearest Earth and going to the Orion Nebula at the top. The descent from Alnilam down into the nebula is not obvious in this view since Alnilam is directly above the nebula. In technical terms, the concentric circles of the grid indicate distances from the earth at 100 light-year intervals, while the radial lines indicate Right Ascension angles at half-hour (30 minute) intervals.

A dear brother who is a mechanical engineer used a 3D design program to prepare a beautiful model of the journey. The animation shows the model of the path through the seven stars of Orion to the nebula. It begins as viewed from Earth with the stars in their usual configuration. First, it is spun around the vertical axis so that the distances of the stars are seen on the horizontal. Second, it is spun around the horizontal axis so that the distances are seen on the vertical, briefly passing through the configuration shown in the figure above. Finally, it is spun on an arbitrary axis. On the model you can see that dream text and reality match perfectly.

Video: Path to Orion

Do you still believe that Becky and Ernie Knoll's statements are correct that the Orion has "absolutely nothing" to do with the Bible, with Ellen White, and even less with Ernie's dreams? Whoever is so stubborn that he denies all of this evidence, and claims to be "authorized" to modify dream texts to make them correspond to his own beliefs, as Ernie and Becky Knoll frankly admit in the aforementioned e-mail, has to tolerate the warning that they are on the way to committing the unpardonable sin against the Holy Spirit.

Becky wrote in her aforementioned e-mail:

Regarding Ernie's dreams from 47 onward, they were handled no differently by us than the rest of the dreams. Also, John shared information from the recent dreams that was not to be made public. He got the dreams from someone else who shared them with him. The person was not supposed to share them with anyone, but they did anyway. They have since apologized to Ernie. John shared confidential information from draft copies of the dreams. The reason it was to remain confidential is because not everyone understands the process we go through to edit the dreams. We edit them the same way Ellen White did. Visions and dreams are not given word for word by God but rather through thought inspiration. Following is an example of why Ernie has the authority to edit the dreams as needed.

Ellen G. White: The Early Years, Vol. 1, p. 270

Why Were the Lines Omitted in 1851? It may be asked, then, why were the three lines omitted from the printing of the vision in 1851 in Mrs. White's first book? In introducing the vision in the book, she gives a very general reason for all omission--space and repetition of subject matter. This would apply more to the paragraphs descriptive of the new earth than the three lines in question. As to the statement embodied in them, the author herself had the right, even the responsibility, to choose content and wording for her book that would correctly convey what was revealed to her. If there were phrases that were capable of distortion or interpretation to mean that which she did not intend to teach, she had the privilege and even the duty of handling the matter in such a way that the printed account would correctly reflect her intentions.

As can be seen from the Spirit of Prophecy, Ernie has the authority to edit the dreams as needed.

The belief that Ernie and Becky Knoll could assume the authority that Ellen White had, is not based on the testimony of the Herald, who repeatedly told Ernie the opposite. By the way, the statement above was not even from Ellen White, but from Arthur C. White, who was writing about her. That should not be equated with inspiration. Ellen White knew what her visions meant, but Ernie was plainly told that he does not understand what his dreams mean:

Because you do not understand, you know. If you were to know, you would not understand.
{Watch, as I AM Coming!}

If Ernie makes amendments to the dreams so they reflect what he believes he understands, it consequently results in an unacceptable change of the meaning and a sinful distortion of the content which God wanted to give. Ellen White was never given a similar order from God. Therefore, Ernie does not have the same authority as Ellen White.

As this article shows, neither Becky nor Ernie understand the meaning of the dreams. The dreams teach things that go far beyond the understanding and the beliefs of Ernie and Becky Knoll. So far, the Knolls have failed to recognize that the dreams contain lots of references to the Orion Clock. They deny it vehemently. Therefore, they think they are authorized to modify them if anything shows up in the dreams which could confirm the Orion Clock. They adapt the dream text to their outdated beliefs. They do the same thing with all statements regarding time-setting. If they or their "editorial committee" find something that contradicts their narrow-minded beliefs in a draft as it was written under inspiration by Ernie the morning after the dream, it must be eliminated or modified.

Ernie was told by a messenger of God that he is just a messenger and that he has to reproduce everything exactly as he has seen it or how it was told him:

He calls me by my heavenly name and says, "They are to understand that you, like I, are a messenger. I was instructed to share exactly what I have. You are to share exactly what I have shared with you. {Stand Fast}

He was also told that he must refrain from personal interpretations and should not give personal studies:

The Herald now walks and stands in front of me. He says to me, "All the messages God has given to you that have been written and shared are by Him and you are to continue to share these on His website. You were wrong in sharing your response with a few that had questions in the 'Stand Fast' dream regarding tithe. You must understand, you like I am just a messenger. You were told if they do not understand you were to ONLY tell them to take their questions to the One who holds the keys to the Great Storehouse. You were wrong in what you did in sharing your studies. How can others learn and depend on God if you do the studying for them? How can they learn to have a close relationship to the Father if you don't allow them to pray? Each must take their questions and reservations to the Creator. Each must learn to stand by themselves before the Father." {Love and Rebuke}

The dreams should point to a special light and pave the way for it... the light of the fourth angel, which includes the Orion Message and the Vessel of Time.

Only the 144,000 understand the message of the day and hour of Jesus' return at the outpouring of the latter rain. That Spirit of Prophecy tells us that. Ernie and Becky deny that too in the July e-mail. Consequently, they do not belong to the 144,000 even though they are firmly convinced that they already have a place reserved in heaven in the rows of the 144,000. Even that notion is clearly wrong.

Ernie and Becky were both personally warned by the Herald:

Calling me by my heavenly name, the Herald looks at Becky and me and says, "What you have just seen and experienced has a deeper meaning. Reach whom you can, but above all get ready yourselves for the time to exit is short, before those that will be sealed are sealed. Those that want to leave, want nothing from where they came. Those that leave will leave what they have, for they have all waiting for them. Be faithful and keep an eye on the clock." {Two Cars}

So far, they haven't heeded anything that was uttered in that warning. If I may make one final comment: in the dream "The Hourglass" it speaks of one last grain of sand falling, representing the last Adventist to be sealed very soon. That last grain of sand seems to resist falling down with all its might. I have an idea who this last grain of sand represents: Ernie Knoll, the last prophet for a dying church out of which only a handful will be saved—those who have recognized the day and hour and, led by the left hand of Jesus, follow Him withersoever He goeth... Namely, to the sea of glass and the very, very large room, where the Voice of God comes from and the Holy City descends from: the marvelous, wonderful and glorious Orion Nebula.

Finally, I want to show you the journey through space that Ernie took at the hand of Jesus to the Orion Nebula. I think this little video needs no further words from my side:

The Deseccrated Vessel

Written by John Scotram

The Vessel Dream of Ernie Knoll Deciphered—In September 2010, John Scotram calculated all High Sabbaths in SDA church history, as in John 19:31. That led to a long list of years and feast codes that we call the High Sabbath List (HSL). The list was based on the real divine calendar analyzed beforehand in the Gethsemane article series. This was a fulfillment of Ernie's dreams Stand on the Truth and The Cross and a partial fulfillment of the desktop calendar part of Two Cars. This shows that we have been nearing the final rapid movements since September 2010.

“The Vessel” Dream

The Vessel

July 23, 2010

By Ernie Knoll

In this dream, I am standing on the right side of a very beautiful and enormous vessel. I am unable to comprehend its width or length. The design and appearance speak of a divine love of infinite beauty. Its paint is the whitest of white—a white that no one on this earth has yet beheld. To add to its beauty, the paint has mixed in with it perfect ground up diamonds. Each speck of diamond was cut to perfection, allowing each ray of sunlight to show the diamonds’ beautiful colors of the rainbow. The vessel has tires about as high as a three-story building and as wide as a one-lane road. The front right and left sides of this vessel each have 3 tires and 3 axles that are turned as if the vessel is about to make a right turn. The back right and left sides have 7 axles with 3 tires on each axle. I know that there are a total of 48 tires.

I now see many people standing around, and I begin telling them that evil forces have desecrated this beautiful vessel. Drawing their attention way up on the side of the vessel, I point out lettering that is large and deeply engraved. Once filled with 24-carat gold, the letters are now empty cavities that spell out “Seventh-day Adventist Church.” I notice that all over the sides of this vessel, there is graffiti in the form of spiritualist symbols and pagan signs. I am calling out to all that this is a beautiful vessel and that we should all work together to remove the graffiti. I tell them that there is plenty of room for all inside and to not give up and walk away. I tell them the ticket to enter has already been paid; there is no charge. I tell them we should all go inside of the vessel.

The Astronomical High Sabbath List

In September 2010, John Scotram calculated all High Sabbaths in SDA church history, as in John 19:31. That led to a long list of years and feast codes that we call the High Sabbath List (HSL).

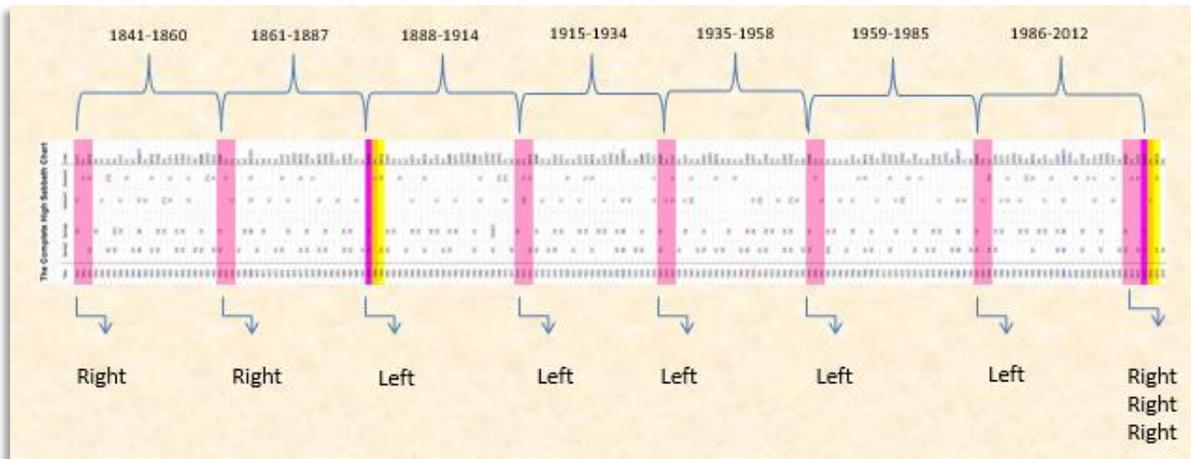

The list was based on the real divine calendar analyzed beforehand in the Gethsemane article series at www.lastcountdown.org.

This was a fulfillment of Ernie’s dreams “Stand on the Truth” and “The Cross” and a partial fulfillment of the desktop calendar part of “Two Cars”. This shows that we have been nearing the final rapid movements since September 2010.

The list reveals 7 periods of Adventist Church history that resemble the Orion study but give some additional dates. Some of those dates are: the beginning of the 1335 days, the date of the close of probation and the exact date of the coming of our Lord Jesus.

This finding was prophesied by the “Vessel” dream of Ernie Knoll as the following slides will show.

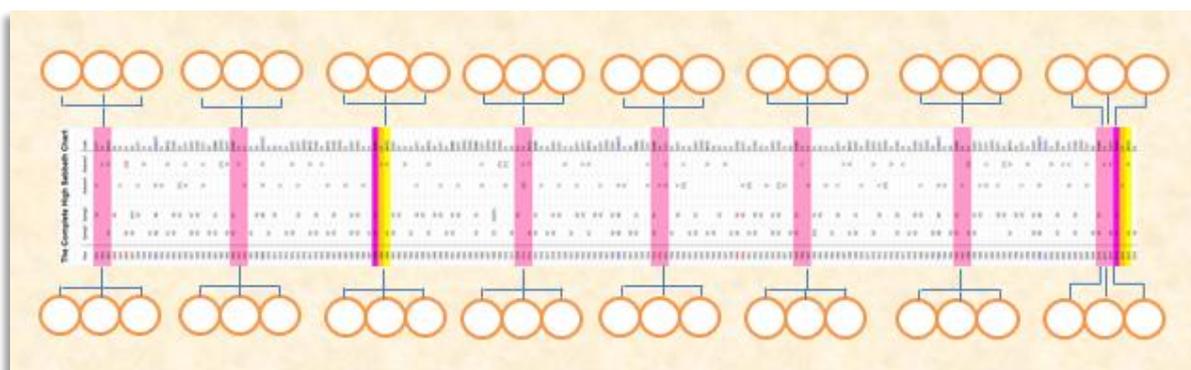

The Axles: 7 Periods of 24 Years in Average

Each period began with three years in which the Church made a turn because of a new doctrine. There were always three important years that caused the turn but there was only one “axle”, one important doctrine. Between 1841 and 2009 there were 2 right turns (positive) and 5 left turns (negative). The last three years of the Church 2010, 2011, 2012 each have 1 “axle” with a wheel on each side. This means three right turns to correct the false turns and put the vessel back on a straight course. 5 left - 5 right = straight course towards heaven.

The years 2010, 2011 and 2012 are in “front” of the vessel because Ernie dreamed this in 2010 and almost everything was in the future. The other 7 “axles” were behind because they are in the past. In the last three years of the Church as we know it, three important doctrines were given: 2010 - Orion = “axle 1”; 2011 - The Vessel of Time = “axle 2”; 2012 - The Justification of the Father and the consequences for the universe and God Himself = “axle 3”.

What is the Meaning of the Tires?

This is what Ernie saw in his dream: the tires as big as a three-story building, three aside of the other on one axle. Only the front tires are supported by three axles.

The HSL Code has Two Columns!

Year	Spring Feasts		Autumn Feasts		Code
	Spring1	Spring2	Autumn1	Autumn2
1918	N2	N1			N2N1
1919		N3	T1		N3T1
1920				T2	T2
1921	N1				N1
1923		N3		T1	N3T1

How were the Feasts Determined?

As we have seen in the other articles of the shadow series, the spring feasts began in the first Jewish month and the fall festivals in the seventh Jewish month.

The months were determined by the new crescent moon marking the beginning of each month.

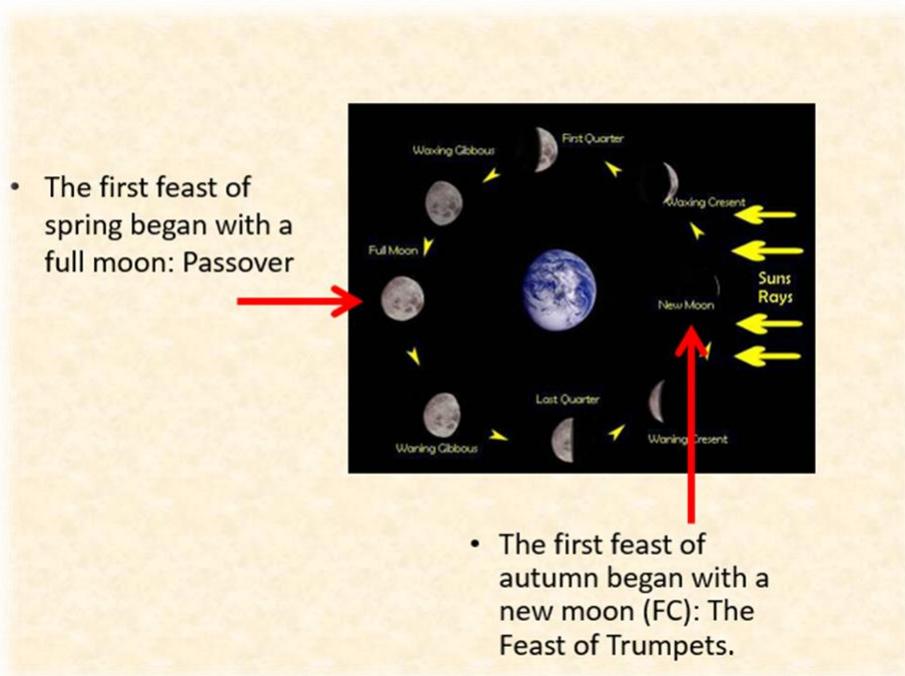

The first column of the code shows the spring festivals which fall upon a Seventh-day Sabbath (High Sabbaths as in John 19:31) and depend on the first new moon after the vernal equinox and the barley harvest.

The second column of the code are the autumn festivals that are fulfilled on Seventh-day Sabbaths (High Sabbaths as in John 19:31) and depend on the seventh new moon after the vernal equinox and the barley harvest.

The Beginning of the Feasts According to the Moon - 1

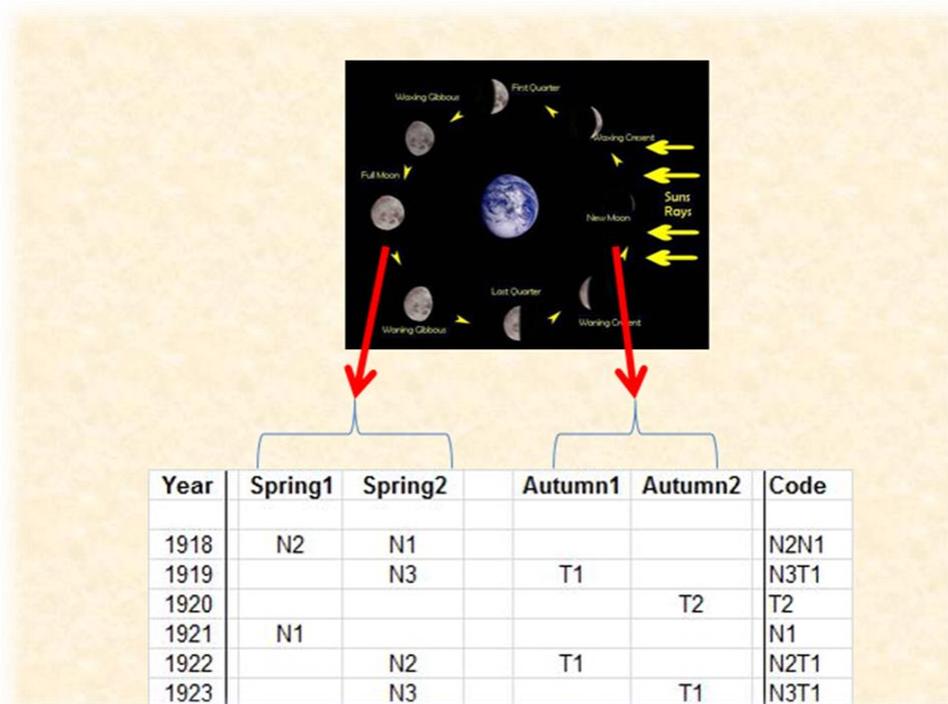

The first feast of spring began with a full moon: Passover

The first feast of autumn began with a new moon (FC): The Feast of Trumpets.

The Beginning of the Feasts According to the Moon - 2

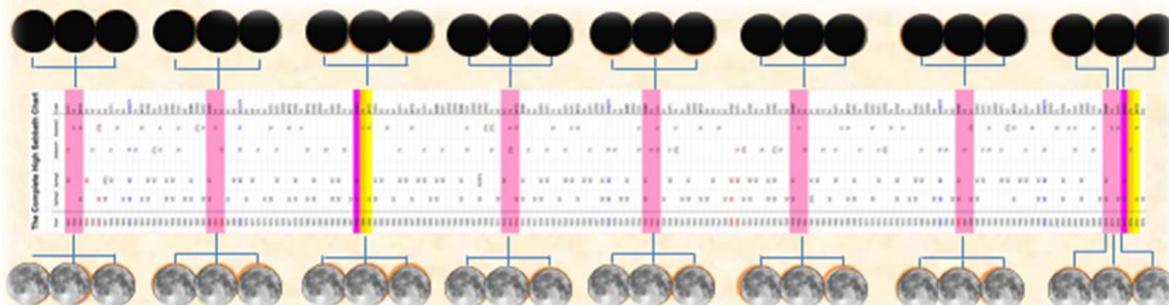

The two phases of the moon are in opposite places in relation to the sun and the Earth just as the code is organized.

The Vessel and its 48 Tires

The new moons (FC) of Trumpets (first autumn festival) are the 24 tires on one side of the vessel. Ernie did not see those tires because they are dark but he knew that they were there (original version of the dream).

The Passover full moons (first festival of spring) are the 24 tires on the side of the vessel that Ernie saw. They were shining brightly (original version of the dream).

Now we even understand Rev. 12:1 more fully

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars: (Revelation 12:1)

The vessel of Ernie Knoll is the woman of Revelation 12, the Adventist Church, and has the moons of each season under her “feet”:

Drawing their attention way up on the side of the vessel, I point out lettering that is large and deeply engraved. Once filled with 24-carat gold, the letters are now empty cavities that spell out “Seventh-day Adventist Church.”

The number 24 (carat) is an allegory to the duration of each season of the Church on average: 24 years.

Why Didn't Ernie See the Last Three years?

Year	Spring1	Spring2	Autumn1	Autumn2	Code
1888	N3	N1			N3N1
1889				T1	T1
1890	N1			T2	N1T2
2013	N3	N1			N3N1
2015	N1			T2	N1T2

The dream was dreamt while the judgment of the dead still was going on. The angel (Jesus) in Revelation 10 was swearing to the Adventist Church for the time of the judgment of the dead:

And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, that there should be time no longer: (Revelation 10:6)

Just the Fourth Angel Brings “Power”

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound everywhere, "Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." This message [the message of the Fourth Angel] seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning, proclaiming the fall of Babylon and calling upon God's people to come out of her that they might escape her fearful doom. {EW 277.2}

The Fourth Angel brings back the midnight cry. Ernie Knoll was still bound to the oath of Jesus with one hand. But the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18 who represents the Judgment of the Living is not under this oath and thus adds to the message of the third angel the POWER to know the times and seasons...

This was the midnight cry, which was to give power to the second angel's message. Angels were sent from heaven to arouse the discouraged saints and prepare them for the great work before them. The most talented men were not the first to receive this message. Angels were sent to the humble, devoted ones, and constrained them to raise the cry, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet Him!" Those entrusted with the cry made haste, and in the power of the Holy Spirit sounded the message, and aroused their discouraged brethren. This work did not stand in the wisdom and learning of men, but in the power of God, and His saints who heard the cry could not resist it. The most spiritual received this message first, and those who had formerly led in the work were the last to receive and help swell the cry, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet Him!" {EW 238.2}

William Miller's Treasure

Written by Robert Dickinson

Published: Sunday, August 30, 2015, 2:42 pm

Created: Sunday, August 30, 2015, 2:42 pm

This article explains William Miller's dream. For those who might not know, William Miller emerged as a prominent figure in the Great Awakening of the 1800s, and the Millerite movement that was named after him gave rise to several new Protestant denominations, most notably Seventh-day Adventism. His prophecy lectures brought many to repentance and showed the nearness of the second coming of Christ. In 1847, just a few years after the Great Disappointment of 1844, Miller received his only recorded dream, which the pioneers of Adventism regarded as given by God because they could clearly see their experience traced out in it.

The dream gave comfort and encouragement to Miller and his associates when it was dreamt, but it also holds prophetic significance that has increased with time, as often happens with God-given dreams. Ellen White alluded to this dream many times, which shows that she esteemed it as an important enough dream to give it due consideration in light of the ever-unfolding circumstances of the Advent Movement. Although some interpretations of the dream have been published by others, none of them explain the dream in the true light of the movement of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18. Hence, the following. (First, read William Miller's Dream.)

The Treasure Chest

The casket (a chest or box) that God gave to William Miller in his dream symbolizes the Bible, as you can tell from the near-standard dimensions of about 10 × 6 inches and the fact that it was made of ebony, which is black (as most Bibles are) as well as the fact that it contained treasures – which Ellen White referred to as “jewels of truth.”

The jewels of truth lie scattered over the field of revelation; but they have been buried beneath human traditions, beneath the sayings and commandments of men, and the wisdom from heaven has been practically ignored... {RH December 1, 1891, par. 7}^[1]

The key to open it was Miller's method of interpretation, by which he unlocked the Bible's prophecies concerning the Day of Judgment. One prominent feature of his interpretation methods was the day-year principle:^[2]

...I have appointed thee each day for a year. (Ezekiel 4:6)

For prophetic reckoning, the Bible consistently uses 30-day months and 360-day years, as illustrated for example by the time of persecution which is variously prophesied as 42 months, 1260 days, and 3½ years. The dimensions of Miller's casket also allude to this biblical principle, for “ten inches long by six square” is 360:

$$10 \times 6 \times 6 = 360$$

Through his lectures, Miller opened the prophetic Word and many were led to repentance. The relationship between saving truth and souls saved means that the assortment of precious items also represents the people who were saved as a result of the truth. They abode in the Word as it had been opened and expounded by Miller, and are thus also represented by the jewels. Ellen White expresses this link between truth and salvation too, in the same paragraph:

The Lord God, the Creator of the worlds, at infinite cost has given the gospel to the world. Through this divine agent, glad, refreshing springs of heavenly comfort and abiding consolation have been opened for those who will come to the fountain of life. There are veins of truth yet to be discovered; but spiritual things are spiritually discerned. Minds beclouded with evil cannot appreciate the value of the truth as it is in Jesus. When iniquity is cherished, men do not feel the necessity of making diligent effort with prayer and reflection, to understand that they must know or lose heaven... {RH December 1, 1891, par. 7}^[3]

Yes, knowledge is a condition for salvation.

My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children. (Hosea 4:6)

The jewels given to Miller reflected a light and glory equal to the sun. (We will look at some examples of his jewels in the last section.) On one hand, it means that the truths in the Word of God are an expression of Jesus Himself (the Word). On the other hand, it means that those who believed in the Sun of Righteousness were putting away their sins and reflecting His character as they prepared for the imminent day of His coming.

The Scattering of the Treasure

The jewels were scattered, dirtied, mixed with worthless items, and lost. This represents the time after the Great Disappointment, as Miller's truths and those who were converted by them were largely scattered and lost. For several years, Miller suffered as described in his dream, but still maintained his faith until he closed his eyes in death.

In his dream, Miller closed his eyes before he had understood the work of the man with the dirt brush. In fact, he had even resisted him. That symbolizes how Miller did not properly welcome the light regarding the heavenly sanctuary (the center of the cleansing activity) or the seventh-day Sabbath.

The man with the dirt brush who cleans the rubbish away from the jewels symbolizes the Holy Spirit, who guides us into all truth (including prophecy):

Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. (John 16:13)

Guiding us into all truth is how the Holy Spirit cleans up the gems of truth in the Word of God, and by faith in His Word, we are cleansed from the dirt and rubbish of sin to shine like our Redeemer.

The cleansing process (atonement) began in 1844, and there were clear evidences of the Holy Spirit's work from that time forward. The Holy Spirit guided the minds of the pioneers in laying the foundational truths of Adventism during those years, and the gift of prophecy (one of the gifts of the Spirit) was especially manifested in Ellen White after the Disappointment. These were the initial evidences of the Spirit's working, which should have led to a people being ready to receive the Spirit in fullness in 1888 to usher in the Second Coming of Christ shortly thereafter.

If that had happened, William Miller himself would have opened his eyes at the resurrection to see his jewels again, more numerous, cleaned, and shining brighter than before—but alas!

The Great Detour

As the church was approaching the 70th Jubilee in 1890, end-time prophecy was approaching perfect fulfillment. The Midnight Cry had given birth to what should have been the final generation, and the man with the dirt brush (the Holy Spirit) was working to finish cleaning and setting all the jewels in their places. But when the church rejected His leadership in 1888, the Lord had to switch to a different plan like He did with the ancient Israelites who refused His leadership while on the borders of Canaan.

It was not the will of God that Israel should wander forty years in the wilderness; He desired to lead them directly to the land of Canaan and establish them there, a holy, happy people. But “they could not enter in because of unbelief.” Hebrews 3:19. Because of their backsliding and apostasy they perished in the desert, and others were raised up to enter the Promised Land. In like manner, it was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be so long delayed and His people should remain so many years in this world of sin and sorrow. But unbelief separated them from God. As they refused to do the work which He had appointed them, others were raised up to proclaim the message. In mercy to the world, Jesus delays His coming, that sinners may have an opportunity to hear the warning and find in Him a shelter before the wrath of God shall be poured out. {GC 458.1}^[4]

The generation which had been born out of the Midnight Cry of 1844 had to die in the figurative wilderness, and as the church wandered through the ensuing years, the fulfillment of prophecy became more and more elusive. God could not perform the work with those people, and it became necessary to raise up others. In a different generation, the eyes of a different “Miller” had to be opened.

In the remainder of the dream (after Miller opened his eyes again) he represents a man other than himself, as is often the case with inspired dreams that have more than personal application. Applying the dream a second time, means that the second “Miller” must be a man who had an experience similar to William Miller’s, but in this new last generation. That man is John Scotram.

In William Miller’s day, they often addressed him as “Father Miller.” As a child, I was taught to respect elders by not addressing them by their first name. Even as an adult, using a person’s last name conveys a certain distance—a level of respect or professionalism. I still respect that distance for people like Mr. Miller, who lived in a different time and is indeed still my elder as one of the “fathers” of my faith. For similar reasons, I do not refer to others like Sister White by her first name alone either. Although I know such historical figures through their writings, I am still looking forward to getting to know them on a personal level, or as we say in English, I am looking forward to getting to know them on a first-name basis. However, it is our privilege (and perfectly appropriate) to address familiar people by their first name, because the distance is gone.

The Second “Miller”

Like William Miller, Brother John also asked the question “How long?” In the book of Daniel, the questions of both of these men are recorded in separate visions. Miller’s question is recorded in Daniel 8:13-14, and John’s question is recorded in Daniel 12:6-7. Those verses were covered in more detail in Babylon Is Fallen! – Part I under the heading “The Repetition of the Fifth Seal.”

That identifies one biblical criteria of the second Miller: that he must have a time message. He must ask, “How long?” He must have an experience with time that is similar to Miller’s. John clearly meets that criteria, having discovered a whole new realm of hidden time prophecy in the scriptures.

With this new time message, another "Loud Cry" has come to wake up the sleeping saints in a manner similar to the Midnight Cry of Miller's time. History and experiences are repeating as we approach the borders of Canaan the second time, but there are differences. Now the warning message includes the identification of the sins that have entered the church since 1844 (the spurious jewels, false coin, dirt, shavings, sand, and rubbish).

The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. The work of this angel comes in at the right time to join in the last great work of the third angel's message as it swells to a loud cry. {EW 277.1}^[5]

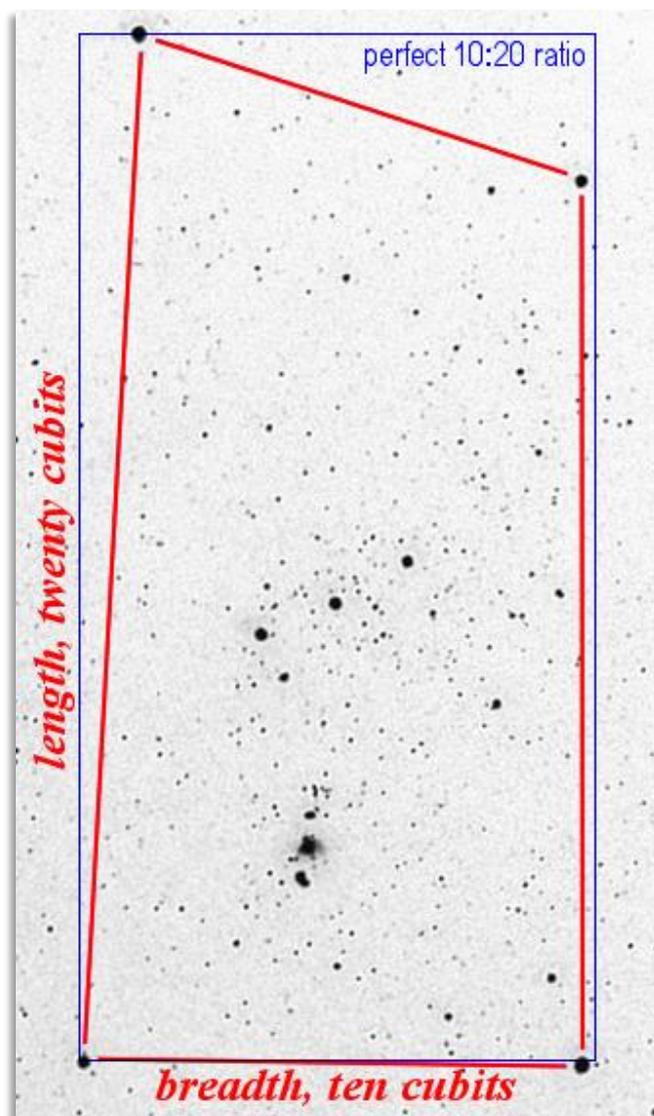

Those who say we should not be critical of our own church are clearly not involved in the Loud Cry as defined by the Spirit of Prophecy. Miller's dream is clear: the rubbish must be cleaned away, and that cannot be done until we sigh and cry for the abominations and pray to God for help, like Miller did in his dream. That is where Ezekiel 9 comes into the story, and the Holy Spirit is poured out in the Latter Rain upon those who are ready to receive it.

In that way, we have been experiencing the work of the man with the dirt brush today (the Holy Spirit) similarly to how it was experienced in Miller's time. He is leading into all truth, and urging souls to repentance for their sins in the process. The experiences of the people of God in the time of the second "Miller" are similar to the experiences of the people of God in the time of the first Miller.

The Difference

The last part of Miller's dream (after he opened his eyes) tells the story of the second "Miller" by showing how his message would differ from Miller's own. Whereas the former part of the dream describes the similarities between the two "Millers," the latter part describes the differences.

Miller opens his eyes to see the precious jewels, diamonds and coins scattered in profusion. That reflects how Brother John encountered the truth of Adventism: scattered in profusion across the history of the denomination. The people of Adventism were in a similar condition: here was one, there was another—like jewels that lay scattered by the confusion of counterfeit Adventists and spurious doctrines.

Then, the Holy Spirit gave Brother John the Orion study. He placed another casket on the table. A casket is a box, rectangular in shape. In the first part of the dream, we understood it as a special book, the Word of God. The same applies to the Orion constellation, which is part of the great book of nature:

For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: (Romans 1:20)

As the first casket had the dimensions of a book (the Bible), so the second must also. The seven stars of Orion are bounded by four bright stars at the corners. The Bible speaks of the book of Orion as follows:

Then I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a flying roll. And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits. (Zechariah 5:1-2)

Zechariah saw a book. A “roll” is another name for a scroll, or book. Furthermore, he saw this book in the sky flying, just as the constellation of Orion does. The dimensions he observed are an accurate description of the size of the rectangle formed by the outer stars: the length is twice the breadth.

The first casket of Miller was a representation of the Bible, the Word of God. Jesus is the Word.^[6] Then, the second casket must also be the Word of God, but much larger, because it is found in nature this time (and indeed even in the vastness of interstellar space). It must also be Jesus, the Word. It must have in it the Life that transforms souls. The constellation of Orion is indeed a depiction of the wounded Jesus, and its message is literally “from heaven” as the voice of God. The constellation of Orion is also the Door to the real heavenly sanctuary, as we know because its size is identical to the door of Ezekiel’s never-built temple:

And the breadth of the door was ten cubits; and the sides of the door were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side: and he measured the length thereof, forty cubits: and the breadth, twenty cubits. (Ezekiel 41:2)

Jacob also recognized this as the door to the house of God, as explained in Seven Steps to Eternity under the heading “Jacob’s Ladder and the Joyless Jubilee.” This door is a reflection of Jesus, who said:

I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture. (John 10:9)*

Miller’s casket was made of ebony, a type of wood which is known for its black color, and it had pearls inlaid. Pearls are generally round white spheres. The second casket was larger and more beautiful, but it is given no other description. That means it must also be black, with white pearls inlaid. The Orion constellation is fitly described as the black background of outer space studded or inlaid with the twinkling white spheres of distant suns—and much larger than the dimensions of Miller’s first casket!

The Law and the Curse

Zechariah tells us many more details about this second casket. We learn from his flying roll that the book of Orion contains a curse from God:

*Then said he unto me, This is the curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth: for every one that stealeth shall be cut off as on this side according to it; and every one that sweareth shall be cut off as on that side according to it. I will bring it forth, saith the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and shall consume it with the timber thereof and the stones thereof. (Zechariah 5:3-4)

The curse contained in the book of Orion is the wrath of God in the seven last plagues of the apocalypse. It is a curse upon thieves and those who take the name of the Lord in vain. This is an allusion to the Ten Commandments and their chiastic structure, as explained in The Death of the Twins, under the heading "The Mirror of the Soul." The commandment against theft parallels the commandment against calling yourself a believer without putting your money where your mouth is.

The Bible often speaks of the plagues coming as a thief:

For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, Peace and safety [Strong's: security]; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. (1 Thessalonians 5:2-4)

The peace and security movement did come as a thief, right on time during the eighth commandment month.^[7] This year marks the seventieth anniversary of the United Nations, and the prophecy of Jeremiah assures us that the wrath of God is hard on its heels:

And it shall come to pass, when seventy years are accomplished, that I will punish the king of Babylon, and that nation, saith the LORD, for their iniquity, and the land of the Chaldeans, and will make it perpetual desolations. (Jeremiah 25:12)

After the commandments have been fully trodden down, the curse will begin.

The Measuring Instrument

At second glance, Zechariah saw that the flying roll was a measure (or measuring device):

And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is their resemblance through all the earth. (Zechariah 5:6)

An ephah is a measurement of volume, like a cup or a liter. The Strong's Concordance defines the Hebrew word as a "measure for grain; hence a measure in general." The second casket of Miller's dream must therefore measure something. Indeed, it measures two things: time and character.

More particularly, Zechariah sees a certain woman or church measured by it, which is pronounced wicked:

And, behold, there was lifted up a talent of lead: and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the ephah. And he said, This is wickedness. And he cast it into the midst of the ephah; and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof. (Zechariah 5:7-8)

The woman who is measured and found wanting by Jesus who stands in Orion is none other than the Seventh-day Adventist Church organization—worthless as lead, and a heavy burden. After the measuring (the judgment) is finished, the church can expect to find itself in the land of Shinar according to the vision:

Then said I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the ephah? And he said unto me, To build it an house in the land of Shinar: and it shall be established, and set there upon her own base. (Zechariah 5:10-11)

Shinar was the plain where Nimrod began to build cities,^[8] most notably Babel which later became Babylon. This once again points to the rising of modern Babel and more specifically the carrying away of the sacred vessels into Babylon:

In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon unto Jerusalem, and besieged it. And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with part of the vessels of the house of God: which he carried into the land of Shinar to the house of his god; and he brought the vessels into the treasure house of his god. (Daniel 1:1-2)

Are you a vessel consecrated to God? I hope you have not been carried away too! If so, follow Abraham's example as explained in Satan Unmasked, under the heading "Nimrod's Babel."

Thus the Orion Message fulfills another specification of the second "Miller's" casket of jewels—it measures time and character.

The Book of Seven Seals

At third glance, Zechariah saw that the flying roll is the book of seven seals, described in the Revelation of St. John. Zechariah saw the four horses of the apocalypse:

And I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of brass. In the first chariot were red horses; and in the second chariot black horses; And in the third chariot white horses; and in the fourth chariot grisled and bay horses. (Zechariah 6:1-3)

The angel goes on to carefully identify these, in answer to Zechariah's query:

Then I answered and said unto the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord? And the angel answered and said unto me, These are the four spirits of the heavens, which go forth from standing before the Lord of all the earth. (Zechariah 6:4-5)

The word for "spirits" is often translated as wind, but according to Strong's it can also mean "a region of the sky:"

H7307 רוּחַ רוּחַ roo'-akh

From H7306; wind; by resemblance breath, that is, a sensible (or even violent) exhalation; figuratively life, anger, unsubstantiality; by extension a region of the sky; by resemblance spirit, but only of a rational being (including its expression and functions): - air, anger, blast, breath, X cool, courage, mind, X quarter, X side, spirit ([-ual]), tempest, X vain, ([whirl-]) wind (-y).

Considering that the verse specifically mentions the heavens in connection with this word, it would be especially fitting to translate it in the sense of regions of the sky. That means the four horses of the apocalypse are in fact four regions of the heavens, or namely the four corners of Orion! Furthermore, the angel clarifies that they go forth from "standing before the Lord," and as we know, these stars do indeed stand before or in front of (or nearer than) the three throne stars in the middle and the nebula itself where God is.

By saying "Come and see," the man with the dirt brush in Miller's dream deliberately links the new casket with the four beasts of Revelation that are around the throne and call attention to the four horses. Again, those are represented by the four outer stars.

Thus, the much larger and more beautiful casket is clearly identified by many criteria as the Orion study, both by its similarity to Miller's original casket, and by its contrast from it. It is full of truths as precious as the jewels, diamonds, and coins that the man with the dirt brush tossed into it by the handful. What an apt description of how the Holy Spirit has packed this message with truth! What an apt description of the stars and nebulas that are found within the Orion constellation, of which any stargazer can truly say that many are not bigger than the point of a pin from our perspective.

Ten Times the Power

Miller was dazzled by the sight of the gems in the new casket, which now shone with ten times their former glory. That order-of-magnitude increase in brilliance shows how the gems of truth in the Word of God have come alive in the light of Orion. It also shows the quality of souls that this message is designed to produce.

The message of the Fourth Angel confirms the old truths that Miller showcased—like the 2520-year prophecy (covered in Seven Steps to Eternity) as the longest-running prophecy of Miller's repertoire that pointed to the beginning of the judgment. It confirms Miller's exposition of the 70-week prophecy pinpointing Christ's crucifixion, which is arguably the most critical prophecy interpretation in Adventism and the foundation for Miller's interpretation of the 2300 evenings and mornings, which point to 1844 as the beginning of the cleansing. The Full Moon at Gethsemane articles not only confirm the crucifixion of our Lord in the year A.D. 31, but pinpoint the elusive date and expound the principles of God's calendar in so doing. The result is an exact confirmation of the climactic date of the Millerite movement, October 22, 1844, which started the atonement, as well as a revelation of the date of the atonement's end and the true date of Jesus' return. The truth truly shines ten times brighter now, with tenfold the number of precious items.

Ellen White saw this moment in a short vision. The White Estate informs us regarding the vision:

Vision concerning some believers in Washington, New Hampshire, who were putting the coming of the Lord "too far off" and becoming worldly. {1EGWLM 332.10}

She said:

You are getting the coming of the Lord too far off. I saw the latter rain was coming as suddenly as the midnight cry, and with ten times the power. {1EGWLM 333.1}

If that vision was strictly for those believers, then the Lord should have come before the prediction they made in the 1850's, so it must have another application, like Miller's dream. In the next article, you will find out who those believers are today, who are getting the coming of the Lord too far off. Note too, that she did not censor them or condemn their time-setting as a sin even though it was after 1844. In fact, the Lord responded graciously to them, and "showed His willingness to bless His people assembled," as James White put it, by giving an instructive vision. The vision is clear, and it links William Miller's jewels with the latter rain and the loud cry (the repetition of the midnight cry) as we've been exploring—a process which had scarcely begun, even by 1890:

The question has been asked me, "Do you think that the Lord has any more light for us as a people?" I answer that he has light that is new to us, and yet it is precious old light that is to shine forth from the word of truth. We have only the glimmerings of the rays of the light that is yet to come to us. We are not making the most of the light which the Lord has already given us, and thus we fail to receive the increased light; we do not walk in light already shed upon us. {RH June 3, 1890, par. 2}

Yes, we are on the borders of heavenly Canaan again. In my brother Ray's summary of the message, he explained that the "seven stars" (often translated as Pleiades) in the Bible are in fact a reference to the seven stars of Orion. That very word has the following root:

H3558 כֹּמֵאֵז קוּמַז' kōmāz' koo-mawz'

From an unused root meaning to store away; a jewel (probably gold beads): - tablet.

A bead is a small precious stone, usually round, many of which are often strung on a string to make a necklace, like the string of pearls in the picture, for example. If we had wanted to talk about a string of pearls in Hebrew, we would probably have used this root word. That means the references to the seven stars in the Bible are also an implicit reference to the belt stars, because the middle belt star takes its name from exactly that:

The name Anilam derives from the Arabic النظام an-nizām, related to the word نظم naẓm “string of pearls”. Related spellings are Alnihan and Alnitam: all three variants are evidently mistakes in transliteration or copy errors.^[9]

Furthermore, the same word is used exactly twice in a curious pair of Bible texts. The first instance is about the children of Israel bringing offerings for the building of the tabernacle:

And they came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted, and brought bracelets, and earrings, and rings, and tablets [strings of pearls], all jewels of gold: and every man that offered offered an offering of gold unto the LORD. (Exodus 35:22)

That construction project serves as a type for the beginning of the judgment—the great antitypical Day of Atonement—which began in 1844. The second use of the word comes after the wilderness wandering, just before the children of Israel crossed the Jordan River into the land of Canaan:

We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath gotten, of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, earrings, and tablets [strings of pearls], to make an atonement for our souls before the LORD. (Numbers 31:50)

This is a curious verse, because it seems to contradict the firm biblical principle that blood is necessary for atonement:

And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission. (Hebrews 9:22)

Those who remit sins in exchange for jewels, money, or other material wealth are Catholics selling indulgences, not Christians who are atoned by the blood of Christ! Therefore, if we would harmonize scripture, we must recognize that God has something deeper to teach us with that verse.

Jesus' wounds, from where His blood flowed, are depicted in Orion. By using the “string of pearls” root word in those two verses, we can see that in this final generation, the Orion constellation is needed both for construction of the temple of the 144,000—the true tabernacle or temple of Revelation—and for the atonement or cleansing of the 144,000 souls themselves. Here at the end of the judgment, Orion is making atonement for souls, and weighing them in the balance.

The three belt stars were collectively known by many names in many cultures. Arabic terms include Al Nijād ‘the Belt’, Al Nasak ‘the Line’, Al Alkāt ‘the Golden Grains or Nuts’ and, in modern Arabic, Al Mizān al H-akk ‘the Accurate Scale Beam’. In Chinese mythology they were also known as The Weighing Beam.^[10]

Have you found the Pearl of Great Price? Does Jesus weigh more than your world? When your character is weighed in the accurate balance, what does it show?

The Holy Spirit has cleaned the jewels of truth and has arranged them in beautiful order. All that remains is for 144,000 readers like you to respond to this movement of the Holy Spirit, to love God with all your heart, soul, mind and strength. Will you be one of the dazzling gems, shining ten times brighter than ever? When you are brought before kings, will they find you ten times wiser than others?

And in all matters of wisdom and understanding, that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm. (Daniel 1:20)

Seek the wisdom from heaven in the casket of the second “Miller” before it is too late!^[11]
Probation closes at sunset on October 17, 2015!

And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. (Daniel 12:3)

A Storm Is Coming

The Living Spirit

This is the day of the Lord's preparation. He says: "Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame." The great work from which the mind should not be diverted, is the consideration of our safety in the sight of God. The storm is coming, relentless in its fury. Are we prepared to meet it? Are our feet on the Rock of Ages? Are we one with Christ, as he is one with the Father? {RH December 27, 1898, par. 14}

In this article I am publishing a series of dreams that were sent out in many e-mails by brethren in the U.S. and will give you the interpretation at the end of the article. It is about Adventists who all dreamt about the same theme, that a storm, relentless in its fury, is coming over us. The brethren are all Seventh-day Adventists in good standing. Dr. Diane M. Burnett, who worked in Uchee Pines as medical doctor, collected the dreams. Uchee Pines is an OCI project and one of our most successful lifestyle centers. The dreams are published already on many other English Internet sites (just google for "a storm is coming relentless in its fury diane burnett"). Dr. Diane published updates to the dreams on her own website until about 2013.

Here are the dreams:

The Storm Is Even At The Door

"The storm is coming, relentless in its fury. Are we prepared to meet it?"

I recently had a dream that when I related it to others I found that they, too, had had a dream about a storm. May these accounts impress you with the seriousness and soberness of the hour.

On Tuesday, August 3rd, I had a dream before awakening in the morning. I was walking outside to go into a building with my family. It was a clear day and one of my brothers was racing and playing around on the way in, making me laugh. As we got inside to a certain room, I felt wind blowing in. I knew that the room would never get warm unless the opening to the room was closed. My father and I went to go close it and saw that the main doors into the building were wide open. At that point I realized that the building was made of wood and was much like a barn. As we approached the doors, I saw that a tremendous storm was on us. The atmosphere of laughter was turned into crisis. All was dark and things were whirling every direction with winds of hurricane strength. We were struggling to close the doors as the strength of the winds was so strong that we could barely pull them. I heard a dog scream in the destruction of the winds just before waking.

I awoke with the sense that the storm was the final crisis of the earth and that it is "near, even at the doors." I realized that all earthly buildings (spiritual and temporal) would be destroyed in such winds. I felt desperate to have the fullness of God's grace, His protection. I felt anxious to know that I had oil in my lamp and that my house was built on the Rock. I have been praying for direction regarding certain decisions I must make, and I felt this dream was to help me know what to do. I felt it was significant as it was in the exact same manner as two previous dreams I had regarding my daughter's cancer that happened exactly as the dreams. (Please note: A follow-up event to this dream is noted later in this writing).

After prayer and Bible Study, I called a friend in Bermuda to share the dream with her before I lost the impact of the dream as the busy activities of the day. When I arrived at work, Lisa who works and trains under me was in my office.

"Lisa, I have to tell you about the dream I had this morning."

After relating to her my dream, she said to me: "That's strange. I had a dream last night about a storm, too. In my dream I was standing outside of a large white building. Before me was a river and there were people all over the place playing and going about whatever business they had. Several of us were standing next to the white building, and though I was with them I had a sense that I really should be in the building. Very soon a warning was given to all of us that a really bad storm was coming and that we should seek shelter. Since I was standing close to the entrance of this large white building I thought that I'd stay outside just long enough to see the storm approach. I have always enjoyed storms so I didn't feel intimidated. But quite unexpectedly the storm blew in upon the sun-shiny day. All were so surprised that it was hard to maintain our footing. A large stocky man came out of nowhere and grabbed my arm and dragged me to safety inside the building, rebuking me for being outside. People were screaming and all was crazy outside, but inside everything was peaceful and restful. And immediately I had the sense that this place was for only those who kept the health message and lived in unity with God. Many did not come inside though there was space for everyone. At that point, I woke up.

She did not think her dream was anything significant until she heard my dream. Hearing her dream also brought greater impact regarding the significance of my dream.

Later, on Thursday of that week we were having devotions for medical conference. I shared my dream as well as Lisa's. One of the students then said that Nicky also had a dream about a storm. When Nicky came in we asked her to share her dream.

She dreamed that there was a tsunami. Hundreds of people were being pulled out to the ocean and drowning. She was striving with all her energy to save an unknown person. She had to grab hold of the person and pull with all her strength to get the person to shore. There was a stairway with a bannister coming out of the ocean. She put the person in front of her so that she could prevent the wave from crashing on the person. She got a hold of the bannister with one hand, and with the other held onto the person. It took great effort to keep the person from being pulled out with the under-tow.

The next day, Friday morning, I had a phone conversation with a patient's mother in England. She told me that she and her husband were convicted that they needed to move back out to the countryside. They had moved closer to the city for convenience because of her husband's work. But the children were now totally unruly after being in public school.

I told her it was not only an option, but a directive from God as we are at the end of time. I then related my dream, as well as Lisa's and Nicky's. With amazement she then told me: "Dr. Diane, I had a dream about a storm six weeks ago. It was flooding and people were drowning everywhere.

My concern was for my 5 children. I was desperately looking for all of them to make sure they were safe.”

Later that morning I had a lecture to give to our guests at Uchee Pines. As I finished my talk on cancer, I told them that I believed we were at the end of time. I related all the dreams about a storm, now four in number.

The following week on Monday afternoon I was seeing patients. I was visiting with our 15 year-old guest and her mother. The mother related to me how thankful she was to be able to come to Uchee Pines and learn so much about the health message. She said she had been led to make a full commitment to the laws of health by God’s grace.

I asked her if she heard my lecture on Friday when I told about the storm dreams, especially Lisa’s dream with the building that was for people keeping the Health Message.

“Dr. Diane, I almost fell out of my chair when you told those dreams. My daughter had a dream last week about a storm. She told me she had a dream of a horrible storm and she was so afraid.”

The import of these messages seemed to be growing. I felt compelled to tell everyone. I went to the executive office and asked Brother Champen if I could tell him something. “Well, I don’t know. Is it good or bad?” he asked. “Yes!” was my answer.

I related the story of the multiple dreams of immense storms. When I finished, he remarked that “this is very sobering, and we are not ready. We are too busy.”

While preparing to go home that evening, a friend from off-campus came in my office to visit. “Chrissy, I have to tell you something.”

“Oh no. Do I need to sit down?” she asked. “No,” I said, “You need to kneel down.”

After I told her all of the dreams, she said to me, “Dr. Diane, I had two dreams last week about tidal waves. But there was a big wall by the shore and as long as we stood on the wall we were safe.”

The next day, Tuesday, Dr. Karla Boutet told me of an experience (not a dream) that she had while at camp meeting at Camp Alamosa. It was a nice day and she decided to take the kids out on the lake in the paddle boat. As they paddled down the lake a little way, a woman stepped out her back porch and yelled out to those on the lake, “A storm is coming.” Karla turned and asked her if she knew when it was coming. Others turned and headed for shore, encouraging her to head for shore as well. Just as they reached the dock the storm burst upon them. She felt impressed that this was as the storm coming upon the earth and that she should not ask “when” but to head for solid ground and be ready for the storm in safe shelter.

I continued to share this series of dreams as the message was so powerful, and because it seemed as though God had given the message to many people around the globe and I wanted to know other experiences.

After church on Sabbath, August 14th, I shared the list of dreams with the Hargreaves. As Teresa hears the accounts, she tells me that in the past week she woke in the morning to the song “Shelter in the Time of Storm” and she couldn’t get it out of her mind. It was unusual for her as she never awakens with a song on her mind like that. She even told her parents about it as it seemed so out of the ordinary.

Later that day friends came over to the house for fellowship. Before they departed, I began to share with them the storm dreams. Jane interrupts me about three dreams into the story. About 4 weeks ago she had a dream about a storm wave. Joella’s family, her own family, and her church family had gone to a house that they had never been to before. Someone suddenly shouts: “There’s a big wave coming.” “I walk to the front door and I see a huge wave, so huge it looks like it could hit the moon. I am afraid because I am thinking that no one is going to survive this, no one here underneath this roof. I stand watching it and as it gets closer it turns into monuments, like the red rock monuments of our land. I turned from looking out the door and saw that everyone in the room was in deep prayer. It seems like their prayers are what turned the waves into monuments. I felt impressed not to disturb them and went to the back of the house. I then felt at peace, not afraid. It felt like God was there.”

“When this dream occurred, I was going through very difficult trials at Uchee Pines. I felt out of place and I wanted to go home. As I woke up from this dream, I felt assurance that I was doing the right thing getting the training here at UP because the storm is coming and that this is what I need to take back home and get my people ready.”

August 27, 2010: In the last week, three more people have told me of a dream they have had in the last 2 months pertaining to being in a storm, mostly a tidal wave or tsunami. Amy P. had a dream of a tidal wave (see below in updates). Tatiana M. and Garrison H. have also had a dream of a storm.

September 2, 2010: Sean B. told me that recently he dreamed he was in a house and a tremendous and frightening storm was outside. All of the events Christ said would happen before His coming were happening, one right after another in quick succession. He said he knew they would happen quickly, but he didn't know it would be so quick. He saw fire coming out of the sky. He looked outside and saw a black cloud the size of a man's fist, growing as it came closer. He could see that it was the Lord coming but it dissipated before reaching him. He awoke with relief that I was a dream and that he still had time to get ready for the Lord's coming.

I shared the list of storm dreams with Danny Vierra, who then asked to share them in his newsletter. The large number of dreams coming in convinced me that the accounts had to be spread far and wide, and I was eager for many to read the story. One week after going out on the internet, many others began to call and relate their experiences to me.

September 13, 2010: Henry M. told me he has been awakening several times in the last couple of weeks with the song “A Shelter in the Time of Storm” on his mind.

September 14, 2010: Janet L. emailed this account: “I had a similar dream as [Teresa Hargreaves] as it ended with the song “A Shelter in the Time of Storm.” It was a tidal wave. As I saw it coming, I was standing in the ocean and my belongings were in the water, like a dresser with drawers with my clothes in it and other things floating in the water, and I was trying to rescue my stuff and I saw the tidal wave in the distance—so big coming at me. I just decided to let it all go and turned to a large Rock and held on to that rock. I felt the rock was Jesus. I have a fear of tidal waves and drowning, but as I held on to the rock my fear left me and I felt peace. As the giant wave started to crash over me, I heard as though from heaven the song “A Shelter in the time of storm”. It was so beautiful, and then I woke up.”

September 17, 2010: Karen's dream as emailed to me:

I was in a crowd of people in a strange city. There was a sense of chaos... like people were trying to get away from the area and they all seemed frightened by something. There was darkness over the city... like a storm was coming. I looked to my left and saw a white building with large front doors (like the front of a church)... they were open and I could see people praying inside... and it seemed to be lit up somehow... standing out from all the other buildings around it. There were many steps up to get to the doors and I had begun to walk up them to get away from the crowd. I felt like I was being beckoned inside and I looked back and wondered why the other people weren't coming up the stairs to safety. Then I realized that no one was looking for a safe place but instead were just trying to get out of the way of whatever was coming!! They didn't realize that shelter was right there and they were passing it by!! I felt a sense of urgency to continue up the stairs and get inside quickly so I did and as I walked through the doors a sense of peace came over me.

September 24, Wowa from Germany wrote to me:

"I've just read this [email] message [of storm dreams] 2 days ago. And last weekend Alden Ho was talking about your email in Bonn, Germany. But just after reading this email my eyes got wider. I remembered having a similar dream in the beginning of August this year. I was about to fly to Namibia with Share Him. So I was wondering, what this dream is about, why do I dream about a storm.

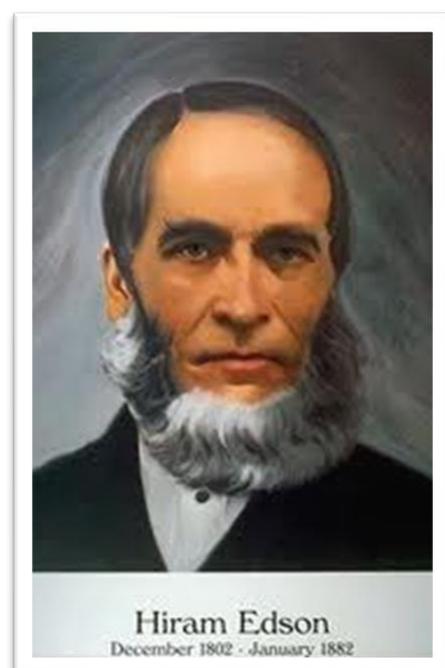

In my dream, I and some friends of mine were in a huge city, with huge skyscraper. It was a warm day and the sky was clear. But suddenly it became dark, I had the sense that its night. And I saw a tremendous wave coming from the east. I don't know why I know it was the east... but in my dream I have had this sense. It was higher than all the skyscrapers. We tried to bring us to safety. So we ran into these high buildings. Higher and higher. Then I saw my mother behind a French door, I knew that she will die when I will not open the door, because behind her was another French door trying to hold the water back. A friend of mine opened the door and we continued trying to get up to the roof. As we reached it we saw in all the darkness helicopters flying, the city under water and a next huge wave coming. At this moment I woke up.

This dream was so real. The sudden change, from clear sky into this dark storm and huge waves coming, was even in this dream surprising. I was confused what the meaning of this dream is."

September 22 , 2010 Kevin and Melania Manestar emailed the account of Melanie's dream in October 2007:

"It was like I was by myself somewhere in a place where I could see the sea and the mountains. I had no sense of family, just myself observing and trying to escape from this scene before me. There were other people present, but I only heard them, did not see them. And I found myself looking at the sea. I was at the beach somewhere, and all of a sudden I could see the water making waves, small waves, but bumping into each other very strange, very strange (violently). I remember someone else saying how strange the sea was acting. Then, on my way back home, I couldn't take the same road, because that road was all of sudden filled with water, lots of water, you would have to swim through it, [but] you couldn't make it because it was way above my head. But, I couldn't swim because that water also was bumping, small waves bumping into each other very, very angry, and coming from every direction. Then I took another road and I got somewhere, supposedly to the place I was supposed to go, but then darkness came and I couldn't make it. I was in front of water, and knew I would have to cross it to get to safety. But I couldn't make it so I had to wait there. That is how the dream ended."

Between October 4-12, I (Dr. Diane) took a trip with my friend, Vicki, to visit some of the Adventist historic sites. We visited Joseph Bates home, the first Adventist church to keep the 7th day Sabbath, William Miller's home and church, Hiram Edson's barn, and Battle Creek. Of importance to me was Hiram Edson's barn. We arrived at the site about one hour before Sabbath on Friday evening, October 8th. We had to get gas and a motel before sundown and were racing the clock. The site's hostess, Louise Nettles, took us through the newly built house and we stood at the cherry wood table Edson made from his land. It was there that the Whites, Bates, and Edson prayed for light as they studied the Bible to know the problem in their interpretation of scripture. We then went out to the reconstructed barn built with some of the lumber from Edson's father's barn. The surroundings were much like they were in Hiram's day. Rolling acres of cornfields went as far as one could see.

As Louise Nettles talked with us in the barn, she approached the back barn doors to shut them for the night. Standing directly behind her, as she grabbed the doors to shut them I realized that this was the barn of my dream. The layout, the lumber, and the large doors were just as I saw in my dream. A sense of awe came over me as I wondered what the meaning of this could be. I didn't want to leave, but longed to go walk through the field and pray as Hiram Edson did long ago. Sabbath morning I prayed for understanding of the meaning of the barn in my dream. Being involved in the medical work and teaching the particulars of the SDA health message, I believe that the Lord desires the health message to take a more prominent role in connection with the sanctuary in the 3 angels messages.

I feel very sure that the Lord is giving the message of urgency and the imminence of the hour. When we as doctors have a patient that is approaching the end of their life, we tell them that "they need to get his/her affairs in order. Is your will made? Is everything in account?" I believe the Lord is telling us that we are at the end of life here on earth. It is time to get our affairs in order. Our living will need to be in place.

Isaiah 26:20 "Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast."

Matthew 7:24-27 "Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock. And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it."

Below are additional accounts of storm dream as I receive them:

Told by Christina I. 11/10: Christina told me she had a dream maybe in May 2010. She cannot recall the dream now, but as she was gaining consciousness she heard this message over and over, louder and louder: "Tell everyone you know, Jesus is coming soon. Tell everyone you know, Jesus is coming soon."

Received from Amy P., 12/3/10

We were in a residential neighborhood, Andrey, Sam, and I; I was holding Sam, we were in the middle of the street. God was telling me something hair-raising was coming, but I didn't need to worry. Soon after, I looked up and saw a tidal wave high above the housetops and wide, engulfing both sides of the street, headed our direction. There was nowhere for us to run, but I wasn't afraid, just in awe of this huge wave. As we stood there watching, upon reaching us, we lost our footing. I held onto Sam, going through the wave alive and coming out of the water unscathed. It was like swimming in the ocean and diving into a wave and coming up after it goes over you. That is all I remember. I had a wonderful sense of comfort after waking from that dream that stayed with me for several days.

The Interpretation of the Dreams

In the book of Joel, and in Acts (2:17), we learn that the Lord will pour out His Spirit on all flesh in the last days of the latter rain.

And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh; and your [1] sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your [2] old men shall dream dreams, your [3] young men shall see visions: And also upon the [4] servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit. And I will shew wonders in the heavens and in the earth, blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke. The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and the terrible day of the LORD come. And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the LORD shall be delivered: for in mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the LORD hath said, and in the remnant whom the LORD shall call. (Joel 2:28-32)

We Adventists like to apply these verses solely to Ellen White and overlook the fact that she fulfilled just the part with the young "men" who were to have visions. The time of the latter rain had indeed come around 1888, but it was rejected and discarded, so it stopped for 120 years until 2010 and then began to fall anew. The verses speak clearly of four different groups of people at the time of the latter rain, and thus it is not permissible to apply these verses to Ellen White alone for the complete timeframe. All of it could have happened in her days if the church had accepted the message of Minneapolis, and then the Spirit would have been poured out also on the other groups mentioned: [1] the sons and daughters, [2] the old men, and [4] the servants and handmaids.

In the article You must prophesy again... we have already shown who the sons and daughters (1) of the verses are, who first recognized the voice of God from Orion and began to obey the command of God in Revelation 10:11 to proclaim another Midnight Cry.

The old man [2], who had dreams of God, is presented in the article series The Director [Ernie Knoll] where we show that he is unfortunately fallen. In spite of this, his dreams include loads of confirmations for our studies which will also be published there.

The outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the servants and the handmaids (4), however, represents that part of the prophecy of Joel which we have just read about. These are the dreams of selected members of the Advent people, who constitute the last generation. This last generation is composed of two groups...

1. The Martyrs in the (repeated) 5th seal who have to complete the number of those who have been executed for their faith in Jesus:

And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (Revelation 6:9-11)

2. The 144,000 who will not taste death, and will go through the time of plagues without an Intercessor by the faith that Jesus had:

And I looked, and, lo, a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred forty and four thousand, having his Father's name written in their foreheads. (Revelation 14:1)

Indeed, we find exactly those two groups in the dreams above.

I wrote in November 2010 as the final sentence of the first edition of this article that I had more to say, but for certain reasons I would let you alone with your thoughts. My intention was to encourage you to think for yourselves, or at least to start asking questions. Now in February 2013, after nearly two and a half years, no one except the few members of this Movement of the Fourth Angel expressed interest, which shows the state of the church more than clearly.

Even Dr. Diane Burnett, whom I had written to in November 2011, and – as we can read above – herself wanted to know what it meant that she had seen Hiram Edson's barn in her dream, was not interested in further studies and did not answer when I pointed her to our website. She should have already noticed in the Orion presentation what Edson's barn symbolizes, because the Orion clock starts ticking precisely with this event. When she found the brethren with these dreams from August 2010 on, the second version of the Orion study had just been published, and therein was expressed in clear terms that Orion is a symbol for Jesus's Intercession in the Most Holy Place before the Father's throne.

Hiram Edson's barn stands for the day when he stepped out of the barn and saw in a vision the heavens opened and realized that Jesus walked over from the Holy Place into the Most Holy Place. And so the barn of Edson, which in the dreams of the brethren often is seen as a "white house" or "white building", also stands for the end of the clock cycle, when Jesus will leave the Holy of Holies, causing the plagues to begin to fall. Then only the 144,000, who have really been following Jesus wherever He goes (Revelation 14:3), will figuratively stand with Him on the sea of glass, while the earth will be given to destruction (Revelation 15).

All of the above brothers and sisters dreamed of the storm of persecution that can be recognized from the Scriptures, but only a few dreamed of the white house in which they were saved. Only in the Barn of the Message of the Fourth Angel, which is closed with two huge doors (closing of the door of grace for the Adventist Church when the storm breaks) is real spiritual and physical security. Only those who have closed (fully understood and accepted) the double doors of the Orion Message and the Vessel of Time are totally protected from the storm wind. By the prayers of the church of Adventists, who have accepted the High Sabbaths, the waves of persecution will be transformed in rigid monuments that cannot harm them. They stand firmly as witnesses to the Father with a pure life and the realization of what their High Calling is.

The dreams, however, show that the majority will not reach the safety of the white house. They simply overlook it and run around aimlessly. I hope and pray that the people who saw the white house in a dream will finally wake up, enter and close the doors by intensive study.

On the other hand, those who saw the tidal waves, tsunamis and floods are also God's elect, who will have the great honor to be allowed to testify with their martyrdom for the Father. They are those seen by Ellen White with the red border on their white robes in heaven. As the storm stands for the persecution, so the water masses stand for the minions of Satan, who will bring the Sabbath-keepers to death. History repeats itself:

And the serpent cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood. (Revelation 12:15)

The waters, by which they will be covered for a short period, symbolize the baptism with which they have to be baptized into Christ's death, to share eternity with Him after their resurrection.

All the dreams of those who will drink the cup of Jesus are of great comfort. In the dreams, Jesus points to the shortness of time under water and that everything will be just for a moment, until they re-emerge completely unharmed (resurrected). They must stand firmly on the pier or swim to the Rock (Jesus); then they will also be embraced by His peace and their fear will fade by the love of God.

Some of us have also had dreams about a white house or a building in which we are saved. However, some dreams and visions stand out. There are a lot of details that give us advice and assistance through this difficult time. Some of those people already joined us on the farm here in Paraguay where they devote their service to Jesus. This section is about them, because they have received the Living Spirit of Prophecy from God and will direct both the martyrs and the 144,000 to victory in the final battle, through the delivery of God's counsel.

The Loud Cry

As the author of this website and the one who was used by the Holy Spirit to give His message to a dying and adulterous people, the time has come for me to once again take the floor before the evidence mounts that the final rapid movements have actually begun. I thank my brother Robert Dickinson, who has relieved me very much with his more factual writing during the time when the professed “people of God” have only assailed us with insults, exclusion and ridicule. The satanic forces were not inactive either; we gave shelter in good faith to people on our farm who were not sent by God and tried to destroy His work. All of these attacks were repelled with God’s help, and they have enriched us with valuable experience to stand firmly in this last battle for the universe—and for God Himself.

Three and a Half Years of Service

In December of 2009, the Holy Spirit began to reveal to me how all of my previous studies painted a large picture. (2004/2005: the man with the golden measuring reed, 2008: the symbolism of the oath of Daniel 12) This resulted in the decoding of Revelation 4 and 5 through The Book of Seven Seals in Orion. While I was on a mission trip to Brazil, the picture formed in my mind for the first time of the four pointer lines from the center star, Alnitak, to the four shoulder and foot stars. When I returned from the trip at the end of December, 2009, I could hardly wait to see which years the four holy seraphim would point to.

Armed with a sheet of paper, a ruler and a photo of Orion, I drew the lines and read the year dates. 1846 especially stood out as the beginning of the white horse, because it marked the basic mission of the church to proclaim the Third Angel’s Message. The Judgment of the Dead had indeed begun in 1844, but the church didn’t really become Seventh-day Adventist until its leaders (Ellen and James White) had accepted the Sabbath. This was the first major step towards the purification of the church that would one day sound the Loud Cry of the third angel, and proclaim the Sabbath more fully.

And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. {EW 33.2}

God Himself wrote in the sky that this church would be the bearer of the Third Angel’s Message. Thus it is defined, and by thus it also falls! We should pay very close attention to whether or not the current Adventist Church is still proclaiming the Third Angel’s Message. More will be said on that topic toward the end of this article.

In January of 2010, the first version of the Orion study was published. I was still of the opinion that one of the Reform Churches had received the candlestick. This error was corrected in late spring of 2010, when a second far more in-depth version of the Orion presentation was published. Since then only minor changes have been made to stay in harmony with the growing light that the Lord has given us in the last few years.

In the late summer of 2010, the Lord revealed [a great part of] the Vessel of Time and the deciphering of the shadow Sabbaths through their fulfillment as seventh-day Sabbaths, which we call High Sabbaths according to John 19:31. Thus the Orion message was confirmed again, and we gained new insights. No mathematician or scientist can deny that it is impossible for all of the harmonies found in the studies to be pure coincidence. They are filling the biblical prophecies with life through the decoding of the stars of the Orion constellation and the movements of the sun and moon. One would have to commit the unpardonable sin against the Holy Spirit to despise and trample underfoot the pierced body of Jesus, which is depicted in Orion, and His blood which contains the Gene of Life that was shed for us.

My personal experiences with the SDA Church and the Reform Churches defy description. There was never so much rejection and rebellion against the written word of God in any biblical time. If they could have caught me, the leaders would have had me lynched long ago by the blinded “brethren” and would have secretly buried me somewhere so that their own sins, which the Lord wrote in the sky, would not be revealed.

These two messages emphasize not only the errors and sins, but also the true forgotten doctrines of the Adventist church. They were completed in the year 2011 [published in 2012] by the knowledge of the consequences of the remnant church’s failure—for the universe and for God Himself—which is the completion of the Righteousness by Faith of Waggoner and Jones and the Last Generation Theology of Andreasen. As an organization, the Adventist Church did everything possible to be unworthy of its high calling.

The messages of Orion and the Vessel of Time called for repentance and a return to the old values, but the SDA Church hardened itself and hid behind misinterpreted EGW statements. It lulled its members into a deadly sleep, and began its treacherous counter-“revival and reformation”, the only fruit of which is a distorted “Great Controversy” stripped of all assertions that the papacy is the Antichrist. Now it proclaims something that has nothing to do with the white horse of 1846.

My three and a half years of ministry to the Adventist Church, preaching repentance and a return to the true teachings of Adventism, will end now in May of 2013. This article deals with the end of the second-to-last triplet and the beginning of the last triplet of the Vessel of Time. The last triplet corresponds to the time of the Loud Cry. In this article, I will pronounce the judgment of the Father, the Lord Jesus/Alnitak (the wounded one) and the third Person of the Godhead, the Holy Spirit, which form the divine Trio, over Their chosen church.

The Dying Message of Repentance

Whether in Orion or the High Sabbath List, the Lord called with great love and patience for reflection, repentance and conversion. These messages of the Holy Spirit were discarded, ridiculed and dragged through the mud while years passed. If they could not attack the message itself, they turned on the character of the messenger who never claimed to be a faultless or sinless man. Very few could—only through the help of God—defend themselves from the pursuits of the brethren and withstand the psychological pressure induced by the horde of worldly SDA drunkards, babbling for the Babylonian wine of false teachings. The true Bible-based message of God was soiled and covered in the vomit of the Lunar Sabbath, the teaching against the Person of the Holy Spirit, feast-keeping, and calling upon the old name of God.

In Orion, Jesus already confirmed both the seventh-day Sabbath and the (non-Catholic) view that the council of God consists of three independent Persons. The Vessel of Time further revealed the importance of the seventh-day Sabbath as the fulfillment of the ceremonial Sabbaths as High Sabbaths. The gene of life was given to us through it, and it shows us exactly what a person needs to believe and practice to be one of the martyrs or the 144,000. The blasphemous church members, who resist every influence of the Holy Spirit, could not see any sense in these wonderful exhortations to repentance. Their anti-time-setting revelry prevented it, and instead they opened one barrel of sacrilegious wine after another, wallowing their bloated bodies in their own excrement like Bacchus.

Devoid of reason, they did not see the warnings of the Lord against ecumenism and built a golden calf for the papacy. They began their lustful dance around it on October 27, 2012, the real birthday of our Lord Jesus Christ, paying their tribute to the whore of Babylon. Thus she spread her legs and willingly received them into her bosom. They covered the face of Jesus on His special day, beat Him, and hypocritically asked... "Prophecy, who is it that smote thee?" Pulsing with erotic arousal by the questions of admission of homosexuals and ordination of women, the organized SDA Church searched for satisfaction in the prostitute's bed of Rome and did not see that they had already been weighed and found wanting.

The 2010, 2011, 2012 triplet closed the three major messages from the Holy Spirit and the new dispensation of the 10 Commandments on two tables of stone (Orion and the Vessel of Time), written by the finger of the Creator God, with the pen of His stars on the infinite papyrus sheets and the orbs of the sun and the moon. When the years of the 2010, 2011, 2012 triplet passed, God said a second time:

...And the LORD said unto Moses, Go, get thee down; for thy people, which thou broughtest out of the land of Egypt, have corrupted themselves: They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed thereunto, and said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. And the LORD said unto Moses, I have seen this people, and, behold, it is a stiffnecked people: Now therefore let me alone, that my wrath may wax hot against them, and that I may consume them:... (Exodus 32:7-10)

Soon there will be no longer an intercessor for the stiffnecked Advent people, because Jesus will have closed the door of mercy for them before the popularly-expected Sunday Law. They are preferring the gold of Babylon to His name and His messages, and are committing adultery. Soon there will be no Moses or second Miller who would still intercede for such an organization that has rejected the God of heaven without shame.

It revels in the idea of being Laodicea and overlooks the fact that it is about to be spewed out. It doesn't listen to the warnings of Ezekiel, that the slaying would begin in the city. It repeats all of the errors of ancient Israel, which didn't have even half the light that it had.

The Church Is Not Babylon...

The chorus of one of the most popular hits that the swaying beer-tent church is singing over and over again is... "The church is not Babylon." This hymn, once composed for honorable reasons as a conditional prophecy of Ellen White, really did say that the church will not fall and would go through to the end. However, it was not referring to a church organization that is led by spies and Jesuits, but rather to Jesus' true church which adheres to God's original plans for it. These plans were clearly revealed in Orion and the Vessel of Time. The General Conference is acquiescent to Rome. Nobody who is still in a Conference church should continue to participate in its services. Only the Catholic Catechism is preached there under the guise of ecumenical "brotherly love".

Let me make it crystal clear... Whoever participates in those church services, or gathers there, will soon be burnt up by the fire from heaven in the middle of Sabbath worship and resurrected to his damnation after 1000 years. Don't think that men like Hal Mayer or Ivor Myers, who believe they are representing the message of the Fourth Angel, constitute an exception. Their lights will go out in the rain of fire coming from the Lord.

The true SDA church is made up of those who stand against the wine of Babylon. They now gather in home groups to study the messages of God and prepare to sound the Loud Cry when the Sunday Law will become visible. They are one in faith, since all of the true teachings have been clarified by God in the last three and a half years, and all of the errors fall condemned by His personal signature.

God has a church. It is not the great cathedral, neither is it the national establishment, neither is it the various denominations; it is the people who love God and keep His commandments. "Where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them." Where Christ is, even among the humble few, this is Christ's church, for the presence of the High and Holy One who inhabiteth eternity can alone constitute a church. Where two or three are present who love and obey the commandments of God, Jesus there presides, let it be in the desolate place of the earth, in the wilderness, in the city, [or] enclosed in prison walls. The glory of God has penetrated the prison walls, flooding with glorious beams of heavenly light the darkest dungeon. His saints may suffer, but their sufferings will, like the apostles' of old, spread their faith and win souls to Christ and glorify His holy name. The bitterest opposition expressed by those who hate God's great moral standard of righteousness should not and will not shake the steadfast soul who trusts fully in God. {17MR 81.4}

The true SDA church is not Babylon, but the SDA organization is worse than Babylon because it has discarded all of the truth that the Lord has given to His people in the final days of repentance. It concealed God's true and noble purpose for His people, and led them into a deadly false sense of security. They are the wolves in sheep's clothing that have permeated the entire church structure, and they must now suffer death by God's judgments in order for a purified church to be able to perform baptisms of true believers again. Such a terrible slaying will go through the church that there are no words to describe it. The whores and whoremongers have become the vast majority in the church.

And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth. These are they which were not defiled with women [church organizations]; for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb. And in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault before the throne of God. (Revelation 14:3-5)

The Time of the Loud Cry

The last triplet of the Vessel of Time (2013, 2014, 2015) is the time of the Judgment of the Living and to sound the Loud Cry. Depending on how we interpret the High Sabbath List, there are different beginnings, but we know that the Loud Cry will swell and might not reach its full strength from the beginning. Here we face a problem, which the Lord continually presents to us High Sabbath Adventists...

First, consider the Orion message. The Lord gave years and some Bible verses about the seals, trumpets and churches. It was up to us to find the church events in the history books that the Lord wanted to show through the year numbers. Sometimes it took months or years until we could accurately assign an event in order to then draw the right conclusions about what the Lord was trying to say exactly. This applies to past events, but especially to the events which still lie in the future.

In the Vessel of Time, we found year triplets and the reference in the scriptures that it is about the “Seven Thunders” of Revelation 10. Here, too, only a few statements of Ellen G. White gave us assistance. We had to assign specific events to the year triplets with only a little help from the Lord.

Just recently we realized that this movement of the second Midnight Cry follows the classic example of the first Miller. He had also perfectly recognized a specific year or date, the 22nd of October, 1844, but he had the greatest difficulty correctly assigning the event to be expected at that time. He knew little of an Investigative Judgment in heaven or the Sunday Law. The Loud Cry and the Latter Rain were totally unknown terms to him. And so it is no surprise that he was mistaken in the event but not the time.

We, however, are faced with a flood of Ellen White prophecies of end-time events in non-chronological order, and now we have to assign future dates to them from the Vessel of Time. This is an almost impossible task. We need to clearly tell our readers that we are not prophets. We are just a movement of students. We are like the Bereans; we examine and analyze, but it is very difficult to always hit the mark even though we give our best and do nothing without prayer. The Holy Spirit is the author of these studies, and yet He has given us a lot of work with very little assistance. That way, others can study with us. Also, faith is always necessary. It is tested by every mistake, but must not suffer shipwreck.

We were able to understand the events of 2012 as heavenly events from the book of Ezekiel, only after “nothing” had happened on Earth. Regarding the visible events of 2013 according to the timelines of Daniel 12, we did indeed set our countdowns exactly to the predicted times, but, it was hard to say ahead of time what the exact nature of each real-world event would be. It was only when the resignation of Pope Benedict on February 27, 2013 matched exactly with the Father withdrawing from the Holy of Holies on February 27, 2012 that we realized how the heavenly events of 2012 would now find their counterparts in 2013. Only then we realized which events were related to the establishment of the abomination of desolation and the beginning of the time of trouble. The blueprint that already took place in the heavenly sanctuary is now being imitated by the monkey of God.

Please, think about it! How would you have titled the first countdown to February 27, 2013, without knowing that Benedict would resign? We knew the date, but we were not sure about the nature of the event.

It was God’s plan to facilitate our work by putting a prophet by our side. Ernie Knoll’s dreams gave confirmations of our studies, but he has fallen. We only have marginal help from the clues in his older dreams which were still from God. We couldn’t use much of it in our articles or announcements on the homepage, however, partly because the “prophet” irreversibly destroyed his own reputation by his terrible first fall, and partly because we do not know exactly where the boundaries are between truth and error in his dreams. We can clearly distinguish when Ernie fell the second time and until when the dreams were authentic. However, even the newer dreams still contain interesting information, but unfortunately they could also be traps for us, so we must consider Ernie Knoll with great caution. I will give two examples in this article.

In the last triplet of the Vessel of Time, we find some very important dates that God clearly indicates, but we still have the problem of assigning the events.

What we know for sure are the dates of the closing of probation on October 18, 2015 and the start of the time of plagues on October 25, 2015. We can also precisely determine the return of Jesus to be on October 24, 2016 through the harmony between the studies of the Shadows of the Sacrifices and the Vessel of Time. That much is solid.

Other dates are less clear, but we still want to give advice to the faithful few in the church and the 144,000, who for the most part will come in from other churches as the workers of the eleventh hour. We simply can't disregard any appointed dates that God wants to show us. So we're always between the rock to know the date, and the hard place to not know exactly what event will take place on that date.

Overall, we can say that the last triplet of years is the "time of the Loud Cry." That can be seen easily because this triplet ends with the last High Sabbath of October 24, 2015. On that day, Jesus will leave the sanctuary. The censer had already been thrown down on October 18, 2015 as the last human being that could be saved will have been saved. The Great Controversy will be almost decided by that time, but the 144,000 will still have to go through the plagues without an Intercessor. That was easy to determine.

Determining the starting date for the time of the Loud Cry is a little harder though. There are different ways to interpret the beginning of the events in 2013. The current question is: when exactly does the last triplet of the High Sabbath List begin?

1. The High Sabbath List constitutes, as the name implies, a list of all possible High Sabbaths which could occur during the given years. Whether a High Sabbath actually takes place, however, is still dependent on the barley sample. If we want to start the last triplet on a High Sabbath in 2013, theoretically we have two High Sabbaths to choose from: June 1, 2013 from the N1 group of the second possibility (not confirmed by this year's actual barley search), and June 15, 2013 from the N3 group of the first possibility (which has been confirmed by the barley search). Thus we have two different possible starting dates for the beginning of the time of the Loud Cry. Which one will it be?
2. Spring and autumn feasts are facing each other in the list. The first spring feast day in 2013 was Passover, April 24-25. We called everyone to observe this Passover with a special Lord's Supper because we are confident that only those who express their faith through a Lord's Supper will have protection from the death-dealing angel, which will soon deal. Was that the beginning of the time of the Loud Cry?
3. There are also High Sabbath groups to be considered. Passover and the Day of the Wave Sheaf are not defined as ceremonial Sabbaths in the word of God and can never be High Sabbaths, yet they are part of the N1 and N3 High Sabbath groups. The first Sabbath-day celebration in 2013 was the Day of the Wave Sheaf on April 27, 2013. It heralded the beginning of the N3 High Sabbath group, which also could start the last triplet. Was that the beginning of the time of the Loud Cry?
4. We still have certain phases of the moon to consider. The paschal full moon marks the first spring feast. It was on April 25, 2013. The fall feasts, by contrast, are preceded by the first crescent after the astronomical new moon. That is when the Feast of Trumpets takes place. Which Passover full moon begins the time of the Loud Cry, the first or the second possible Passover?

We want to give the warning. We want the faithful few to ponder these things so they finally realize how important these messages are for their character development. This message is not about time setting; it's about knowing God, who can be found if you dig deeper into His Word and His prophetic messages. Ultimately, the seal of the 144,000 is given only to those who obtain a deep understanding of the nature of God. Even the note about the seal on our website isn't heard, because the people are too preoccupied with themselves to want to get to know God.

We were able to decipher the four (!) timelines of Daniel 12 completely and bring the heavenly events into perfect harmony with the earthly events of 2013. However, we have different dates that God has given in the Vessel of Time to define the beginning of the time of the Loud Cry. We would be able to set countdowns to them and have even set some, but we are still not quite sure 1. if something will happen on that date, or 2. what exactly would happen on that date. We get questions again and again about that, and we wish to clearly admit that we still have problems assigning many end-time events. This must necessarily be so, for Jesus taught:

Now I tell you before it come, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe that I am he. (John 13:19)

Prophecy mainly exists to prepare us so that when it happens, our faith is strengthened. Therefore, it is important for our students to understand the difficulties we have with future events. Soon we will see clearly how everything has to fit together, just like with the prophecies of Daniel 12.

Our Countdowns

So how do we justify our current countdown? That is a legitimate question and will be answered honestly. In the previous section, I showed the difficulties we have in assigning many future end-time events to the God-given dates in the last triplet of the Vessel of Time.

Some future events (not including the closing of probation and the Second Coming itself) are:

1. The beginning of the time of the Loud Cry
2. The outpouring of the Latter Rain in fullness (the Latter Rain is falling since 2010 with the Orion message)
3. The fireballs (one large, as well as multiples!)
4. The national Sunday Law goes to Congress
5. The national Sunday Law goes into effect
6. The coming of the false christ as an angel of light
7. The sifting and sealing

There are many different statements by Ellen G. White about all of these issues, which can often be read with varying interpretations. The timelines of Daniel were papal copies that clearly resembled movements in the heavenly sanctuary of God. Similarly, when the events that God points to with His finger come to pass, it will be clear what event corresponds to what time.

The points in time that are clearly marked by God are the High Sabbaths, on which He himself intervenes and acts—as we currently understand it. In the last triplet of years, these High Sabbaths are:

1. The second possible Seventh Day of Unleavened Bread on June 1, 2013 (not confirmed by the barley sample)
2. The first possible Pentecost on June 15, 2013 (confirmed by the barley sample)
3. The first possible Day of Trumpets on September 27, 2014
4. The first possible First Day of the Feast of Tabernacles on October 11, 2014
5. The first possible Shemini Atzeret on October 18, 2014 (exactly one year before the close of probation)
6. The first possible Seventh Day of Unleavened Bread on April 11, 2015
7. The second possible Day of Atonement on October 24, 2015

It is certainly no coincidence that there are exactly SEVEN High Sabbaths before the time of plagues. That is important information from the Lord. Seven is the number of perfection and complete fulfillment in Christ.

The only feast and High Sabbath which could have to do with the outpouring of the Latter Rain based on the meaning of the feast itself is this year's true Pentecost. We gained this knowledge on April 27, 2013 prayerfully. The Latter Rain in fullness should begin from this point on, and also the Loud Cry which can only take place under the Latter Rain.

Doesn't the Sunday Law have to come first? Several times now, we have seen that end-time events do not occur as our Adventist scholars imagine, because there are many different and often ambiguous quotes from Ellen White. God gives us the pattern of High Sabbaths, but we do not know how "precise" it is. Neither do we know whether or not He points to general periods. All we know is that the only festival that is closely related to the outpouring of the Holy Spirit is Pentecost, and this time it's a High Sabbath—the only Pentecost High Sabbath between now and the coming of Jesus. That is reason enough for us to put a countdown on it.

Why did we also announce the fireballs for that date?

Let's look at a short "dream" of Ernie Knoll, which was not really a dream. It has been repeated four times (!) so far. It was also highlighted in the warning on his website. This dream of Ernie Knoll is one of the messages that still clearly came from God:

PREPARE... June 22, 2007

This was not actually a dream. It was almost 5:00 AM. I woke up because I thought I heard my wife say something but she had not. She said she was in the middle of a common dream. I told her that I heard a voice say "AS JUNE IS A SHORT MONTH, SO IS TIME. PREPARE FOR THE WRATH OF GOD."

I've had the dream in front of me for many years, and could only find one interpretation of it. The dream was given on June 22, 2007. There were still eight days remaining until the end of June ("AS JUNE IS A SHORT MONTH..."). Eight days in prophetic time are eight literal years. The dream was in 2007. Adding eight years brings us to 2015, the year in which the wrath of God begins. We know that is correct because we know that the exact beginning of the year of plagues is October 25, 2015.

So far, so good. But why does God pick the month of June to explain to Ernie Knoll something in 2015? He could have used any month, eight days before its end. For that matter, He could have used any other year, with a corresponding adjustment of days! What was special about June 22, 2007? I admit, I thought about this for years but didn't come to a conclusion.

On April 27, 2013, our previous countdown expired. We were expecting something that I will explain later. It was precisely on that Sabbath that I finally realized why God selected June 22, 2007 to announce His wrath. The wrath of God is manifest not only during the time of plagues, but especially in the purification of His apostate church. Only a church purified from the filth of the Babylonian whoremongers can raise the Loud Cry. We know that the second beast will also cause fire to come from heaven to alter the paradigm of humanity in order to make it easy to impose the Sunday Law upon a human population then stricken by the first woe.

Many within Adventist ranks have written books about the great disaster. There are entire collections of quotations from Ellen White that say significant changes will be taking place on the planet before the Sunday Law. The best known are the fireballs that some interpret as asteroids and meteors and others as nuclear bombs. I don't want to get into that. In any case, it will be terrible enough that people believe it is the "wrath of God" and will then want to keep Sunday holy.

In prayer on April 27, 2013, the “thought” occurred to me to investigate whether the dream date of June 22, 2007 would be a feast according to God’s true calendar as found in the Gethsemane study. The corresponding astronomical calculations resulted in a big surprise: June 22 was the true Pentecost of 2007. At 5 o’clock in the morning, Ernie heard the voice that warned of the wrath of God. The wrath of God should come on a feast of Pentecost, and we know that it has to come this year. And this year the Feast of Pentecost, which has even been confirmed by the barley sample, is a HIGH SABBATH, June 15, 2013.

Therefore, we believe that two events could occur on June 15... For some, the beginning of the outpouring of the Latter Rain, and for others the outpouring of God’s wrath in the form of fire (fireballs).

We share our thoughts and leave it to the readers to decide for themselves what they want to believe to be true or not. God does not force us to believe, and we do not either. We have seen how the logical and irrefutable harmonies of these studies have been dragged through the dirt, and we have seen how the prophet Ernie Knoll has self-destructed, so we are very disappointed with the church and the brethren. But our love has not cooled down yet. We continue to make ourselves a laughing stock for your sakes, so that at least some might be saved. I admit that I’m quite fed up with casting God’s pearls before the swine of the church.

God’s Last Warning

Another one of Ernie Knoll’s dreams that had not yet been fully deciphered pointed to either April 27 (our previous countdown) or May 27, both of 2013. As always, we were careful to put the countdown on the earlier date, as it coincided with the Day of the Wave Sheaf on the Sabbath of April 27. As explained above, the only thing that was clear at that time was that the time of the Loud Cry would have to begin in the spring of 2013. Thus we titled the countdown accordingly.

Part of the Two Cars dream follows:

The Herald now instructs that time is so short and many do not understand, nor do they want to admit that we are in the last rapid moments. He says he needs to take me somewhere else so that I can get a better understanding. I am to notice what I will see and report it. We go to where I stand in front of a small desk. I notice a daily desk calendar that I understand to be a gift. There is a cartoon at the top and a humorous caption underneath. I look at the picture, read the caption and laugh. I flip to the next page, look at the picture, read the caption and flip the page again to the next day. I continue flipping through the pages, day after day. Suddenly, the calendar pages begin slowly flipping by themselves. I watch in amazement as the pages begin flipping faster and faster. The pages now flip so fast that it is just a blur.

I now walk to a window and notice the grass in the yard is growing very fast. In the blink of an eye the grass is now mown, then begins growing again. I look up and notice the sun is moving across the sky very fast from the east to the west. This is followed by the moon moving across the sky and it is constantly changing its size. I see it go from a full moon to a small sliver and then back to a full moon. This is followed by the sun moving across the sky followed by the moon again. I now notice tree limbs and leaves growing. Looking up to the sky, I see stars streaking across. It is like time is compressed, passing by rapidly.

Everything now comes to a quick halt. All sound stops. Everything is still and quiet. Suddenly there is an incredibly loud sound that does not have a description. It resembles the sounds of a million train or truck horns blowing at the same time. The black fabric of the still night sky now rips apart and there is a brightness that has no description.

An initial interpretation of this part of the dream was printed in the third part of the Gethsemane study, but we pulled it out when Ernie Knoll began to attack our movement and its leader through his dreams. We can see that the dream applies to the springtime because of the fast-growing grass and the growing branches and leaves on the trees. Whatever spring this is has two full moons, and the second one is followed by one day and one night (“This is followed by the sun moving across the sky followed by the moon again.”). After that, there is a second day, because Ernie can only see the “tree limbs and leaves growing” in daylight, and a second night in which he sees the stars streaking across. That night, something happens to convince everyone that the “last rapid moments” have begun.

In the Gethsemane study, we recognized that Passover always comes on the full moon (or a day earlier) and that Jesus was resurrected on the second night thereafter. This is the day of the wave sheaf. This is all explained in detail in the Shadows of the Sacrifices. Ernie Knoll dreamed The Cross on May 25, 2008. Both dreams confirmed the crucifixion date of Friday May 25, 31 A.D. as found by the second Miller.

The desk calendar has a second application, however. The last rapid moments began with the start of the timelines of Daniel 12. First, the abomination of desolation had to be set up in the form of Pope Francis, so that the Roman armies could attack. In my first application of this part of the dream, I was not quite sure how to explain why the calendar was a comic cartoon calendar for the year 31 A.D. So it must be that the last rapid moments begin with a date that would be recorded in a cartoon calendar that Ernie might laugh at in his superficiality. Only then would the spring with the two specific full moons come. Once it started, everything would have to happen within a single calendar year, because such calendars only include a single year.

The beginning of the literal fulfillment of this part of the dream was indicated by news articles like this one: German calendar might have freakishly predicted the pope’s resignation

You could buy the cartoon desk calendar that Ernie Knoll dreamed of as early as August of 2012. It all started with a “comic” for February 10, 2013 that announced the resignation of Pope Benedict, which was the straw that broke the camel’s back or the action that opened the bottomless pit.

Since we cannot tell how many days Ernie looked over the flipping pages before he went to the window and saw the two full moons, it was difficult for us to decide which of the spring full moons of 2013 would be the one that would appear two days before the big event. For us, there were only two full moons in question: the Passover full moon of April 25 or the second Passover full moon of May. The resurrection anniversary of April 27, 2013 fell on a Sabbath. This was not a High Sabbath since the day of the wave sheaf is not specified as a ceremonial Sabbath, but it was nevertheless a feast day on a Sabbath. Out of caution we set the countdown to that date in order to once again give our readers a little warning to take the Lord’s Supper of April 24 seriously.

Note: When publishing this article, we did not know yet that the big event indeed had occurred exactly on April 27, 2013. Later we published the three-part article series [The Wrath of God explaining what had happened.]

Now that the first possibility has passed, we are sure that the last full moon of spring must really precede the event. And if we look in our feast day table, we find a surprise: It’s the crucifixion day of our Lord, May 25, 2013, on the second full moon that Ernie saw. It is also very interesting that the first Passover full moon in California couldn’t be precisely assigned to the 24th or 25th of April because the astronomical full moon was at midday on the 25th. By contrast, the second possible Passover full moon occurs during the night of May 24 to 25, shortly after 9 o’clock, thus clearly decided. Two nights later, in the hours just before dawn on the 27th according to California time, an event will occur which will cause even the worst deniers and gainsayers to blush and admit that the last rapid moments have already started. We do not know exactly what the event is, but there is an interesting reference that should give our readers reason to pause:

On page 364 of the American State Papers of the Religious Liberty Association, regarding the introduction of the Sunday Law in the United States in the 1880s, one can read when the official entry for the Sunday Law by Senator H.W. Blair was made. It was on May 21, 1888. Only four days later, he filed his application to amend the Constitution of the United States to abolish the separation of church and state, and that was on May 25, 1888. When you consider that the last triplet of the High Sabbath List corresponds exactly to the triplet of 1888–1890, this becomes a historically and eschatologically important date. As you can see, the triplets probably correspond in the events as well as the code. I leave it to the reader to draw his/her own conclusions as to the events expected two nights after this special Sabbath, the memorial of the true crucifixion of Jesus. There are too many coincidences for our taste, to not see an indication that we are nearing the launch of the Sunday Law. We are keeping a close eye on the events of May 27, 2013 for that reason.

Those who didn't observe the Lord's Supper on April 24, 2013 can still catch up and partake on the evening of May 24 according to the Mosaic rule of the second Passover. There will be no special protection for anyone else during the events that are soon going to physically affect millions. In this Movement of the Fourth Angel, the feast day and Sabbath of May 25 is a special day of remembrance for the crucifixion of our Lord, just like October 27 was for His birthday. In a sense, the Gethsemane study represents the center of all the studies because the cross is what explained God's true calendar to us. Jesus and the Cross are and remain the center of all Adventist doctrine.

Come Out of Her, My People

The cry of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18:1, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen" has been sounding from us for three and a half years now. Many confuse this cry with the Loud Cry of the third angel. The cry of the Fourth Angel arrives just in time (since 2010) to join the work of the third angel, for these messages to become the Loud Cry together. Read carefully:

The light which attended this angel penetrated everywhere, as he cried mightily, with a strong voice, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844 [Orion message and the Vessel of Time]. The work of this angel [the fourth angel since 2010] comes in at the right time to join in the last great work of the third angel's message as it swells to a loud cry. And the people of God are thus prepared to stand in the hour of temptation, which they are soon to meet. I saw a great light resting upon them, and they united to fearlessly proclaim the third angel's message. {EW 277.1}

The cry of the fourth angel is not the Loud Cry, but the combination of the two messages is. The message of the third angel will become loud when...

1. ...the angels begin to unite,
2. ...it is clear that the hour of temptation is imminent.

The Third Angel's Message is a warning against receiving the mark of the beast:

And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb: And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name. (Revelation 14:9-11)

If anyone wants to proclaim the Third Angel's Message, perhaps even loudly, then he must first know and preach who the beast is, otherwise he cannot know what the mark of its name is. Ted Wilson, who is reserved for the time of plagues, and his hyenas have disfigured and stomped into the ground the only Adventist book that still preached the great truth about the papacy. They slashed more than 700 pages of divine inspiration down to 90, and are now sending their minions, stupefied by bread and circuses—name-only Adventists—to spread 190 million of these “Great Controversy” books changed into “The Great Hope”. They have great hope that their sleeping ones don't notice anything, but just continue to pay for the destruction of their own faith with at least 10% of the little that the state leaves them in these wonderful times.

No one who refrains from preaching that the papacy is the beast is proclaiming the Third Angel's Message! Nobody who joins the ecumenical movement is allowed to say that the papacy is the beast. The organized Adventist Church has connected thoroughly, world-wide, with ecumenism, therefore they cannot and will not proclaim the Third Angel's Message. Yet anyone who does not preach this message and worships the beast will be part of the smoke whose torment ascendeth up for ever and ever.

The time of temptation or tribulation is upon us, and it is high time that the last faithful Adventists leave the congregations of the General Conference. It is Jesuit-led. The organized church and leadership are not Babylon; they are worse than Babylon, because God's people who had all the light chose these leaders. Go out of these congregations and don't give your tithe to the work of Satan and to the dissemination of the doctrines of devils of a QOD-nature of Jesus and Spiritual Formation.

All over the world, people who believe the true Adventist teachings are asking where they should get baptized now. Do you want to allow these people to get baptized, when they are more faithful than you are? Or would you rather do what your leaders do, who tell them to go to hell, where they claim the Orion message comes from? Will you still call evil good and good evil?

Anyone who goes to bed with a whore is a fornicator and is, in a moral sense, more corrupt than the whore herself! Do not become one flesh with the whore by paying your leaders for their fornication with her! Take your stand under the banner of God and pull the rug out from under your leaders' fornication! Stop paying your tithe and throwing your sacrifices to the feet of Satan's servants like slaves, and stop wallowing like pigs in the excrement of your drunken leaders! Break the shackles of your cage of every unclean bird that is pursuing its lust of Rome! Give her the double portion of the wrath of the God who already prepared, since 2010, a cleansed church with pure doctrines where you can go! Form home groups if you can't re-claim your church! Send the henchmen of Rome back to their commander, whose number is 666!

[Note: In fall of 2014, we received the light on when this union of the two messages should have taken place: 17 Moons and a White Horse. In the article Last Call we told shortly afterwards what really had happened and which terrible consequences this had for the Adventist Church.]

LEAVE THE CONFERENCE CHURCHES AND UNITE WITH THE FOURTH ANGEL! LET'S START THE LOUD CRY TOGETHER!

The Rushing Mighty Wind

All throughout our experience with the Orion message, we've been walking by faith. Although we have seen many evidences along the way that give us the assurance that God is with us and leading this movement, He has not provided a crystal-clear proof that the world at large cannot dispute. It begs the question: why?

And the LORD answered me, and said, Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it. For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come, it will not tarry. Behold, his soul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the just shall live by his faith. (Habakkuk 2:2-4)

Furthermore,

Thus faith and belief are necessary for us. Is it possible to exercise belief when you already know for a certainty? Is it possible to possess faith when walking by sight? The Bible's clear definition of faith is even connected to the passage in Habakkuk:

Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompence of reward. For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise. For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry. Now the just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him. But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul. Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. (Hebrews 10:35-11:1)

By definition, faith is not sight. Once we see, we no longer walk by faith. Now we can understand why God always leaves room for doubt: He does not want to destroy our faith!

While God has given ample evidence for faith, He will never remove all excuse for unbelief. All who look for hooks to hang their doubts upon will find them. And those who refuse to accept and obey God's word until every objection has been removed, and there is no longer an opportunity for doubt, will never come to the light.

Distrust of God is the natural outgrowth of the unrenewed heart, which is at enmity with Him. But faith is inspired by the Holy Spirit, and it will flourish only as it is cherished. No man can become strong in faith without a determined effort. Unbelief strengthens as it is encouraged; and if men, instead of dwelling upon the evidences which God has given to sustain their faith, permit themselves to question and cavil, they will find their doubts constantly becoming more confirmed. {GC 527.2-3}

This is an important principle at work, which will be elaborated on in the future. Suffice it to say that this is one of the reasons why God will not confirm this movement in a way that removes all doubt in the eyes of the world until probation has closed. By that time, every person will have made up their mind. No more souls will be salvageable. Only then, unmistakable proof will be given in the event of the Betelgeuse supernova and the effects of the GRB (gamma-ray burst). No one will be denied the opportunity to believe through faith, because everyone will have already had the chance to decide. Nevertheless, those last seven days from October 18 to October 24, 2015 will be especially trying for those who have put their trust in God.

We have already covered what the wrath of God means to the faithless in the preceding articles; now I will focus on how God will protect His faithful people during the time of plagues. This article springs from the vivid message that we received here on our farm on the Pentecost High Sabbath of June 15, which we now share with you.

The Latter Rain and the Loud Cry

The Latter Rain has been falling since the Orion Message was published in 2010. The Holy Spirit has not only been leading in the studies which we present, but has also been moving people's hearts and minds to understand and accept these messages for themselves. The Latter Rain and the sealing are symbolized in Ezekiel by the man with the writer's inkhorn. The Holy Spirit seals us as He leads us into all truth and works a change in our hearts. The prerequisite is to "sigh and cry" for all the atrocities that are done in Adventism.

And the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from the cherub, whereupon he was, to the threshold of the house. And he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's inkhorn by his side; And the LORD said unto him, Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a mark upon the foreheads of the men that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof. (Ezekiel 9:3-4)

Those who haven't seen the sinfulness of the church, and therefore don't sigh and cry, will not be sealed and saved from the coming destruction. On the other hand, the Holy Spirit (with the writer's inkhorn) comes to those who do sigh and cry, and writes on their foreheads. How else can we learn for certain what sin is, and which sins we should sigh and cry about, but by looking at Jesus and the wounds as He reveals them in the Orion constellation?

We learned in a previous article what The Loud Cry entails. It especially includes the (time) announcement of the day of God's wrath and the second coming of Jesus as well as the three angels' messages with the added mention of the sins that have entered the church:

John came in the spirit and power of Elijah to proclaim the first advent of Jesus. I was pointed down to the last days and saw that John represented those who should go forth in the spirit and power of Elijah to herald the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus. {EW 155.1}

GRB 130427A signaled for us to write about the time of the plagues in detail. It struck on the first feast day of 2013 that fell on a seventh-day Sabbath, and thus it opened the last triplet of the HSL (High Sabbath List) and the time of the Loud Cry. The distant GRB of April 27 marks the beginning of the Loud Cry, while the deathly close GRB of Betelgeuse will mark its end. Our message couldn't have been complete without treating the subject of the wrath of God, because it is part of the content of the Loud Cry.

The GRB struck on the day of the wave sheaf (firstfruits), which is grouped with Pentecost in the HSL because they always fall on the same day of the week. This year, they both fell on Sabbath which made them extra special. The sign of GRB 130427A was followed up on Pentecost with a complementary sign, once again supplying the material for this new article to round out the subject of the plagues. The GRB of April 27 applied to the whole world, but the sign we received on Pentecost was local, and applies only to the faithful.

The dates of the GRB and Pentecost are highlighted by the HSL. The Orion Clock points to the year, but the HSL points to the day. It is more than interesting to note that the Orion Message and associated studies came to John primarily during God's especially appointed times of the year. High Sabbaths are times when the Holy Spirit especially leads in this movement.

This phenomenon is nothing new to Adventism. It was during the special HSL triplet of 1888, '89, '90 that God began to bestow the light of the fourth angel upon His people. Those years dovetailed into the sabbatical cycle and the jubilee cycle, showing that God is with us in a special way not only on His weekly Sabbath, but on all of the seven-cycles that He established. He gives light proportionate to the occasion. The 1841, '42, '43 triplet also aligns with the sabbatical and jubilee cycles. Those who lean on God can hear His heartbeat in all of the cycles of seven.

The Sabbath, especially High Sabbaths, are when God draws near to the creatures He loves, just like how Adam and Eve enjoyed communion with Him in the garden. These are times of closeness between God and His people. The Gene of Life represented by the HSL shows the character of the One who set the appointed feast days in the first place.

Revelation 13 attributes the fire from heaven and the subsequent image (Sunday Law) to the beast, not to God. Of course God will permit the satanic agencies to do what they will do, but the act does not originate with God and does not illustrate His character. Satan is the one who wants to destroy and control, but God gives life and free will.

And he [the beast coming up out of the earth] doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men, And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live. (Revelation 13:13-14)

The big world-changing fire from heaven is not marked directly by the HSL because the HSL shows what God does, not what Satan does. It represents the gene of eternal life that was in the blood spilled at Calvary, not the malice of satanic agencies. For that reason, it was incorrect to place the fireball event on Pentecost. It was a High Sabbath of the Lord, and you will see how God acted on our behalf through the Holy Spirit on this day.

It is sometimes the case that we forget what we had previously studied, or we fail to re-study previously-written material in the light of new understanding. I'm sure that our readers have experienced that too. The matters we write about are so profound that every time an article is re-read, the understanding of a person reaches ever farther into the fathomless depths of the things of God. Meanwhile, life experiences amplify the messages in a personal way. At first, the mind can scarcely grasp things so removed from the ordinary, but as a person settles into the truth and the grand picture becomes clearer and clearer, the finer details and more subtle truths can be better discerned.

The HSL indicates the times of God's working, not the working of the enemy of souls. Therefore, we set our Last Countdown to the beginning of the plagues on October 25, 2015 after the High Sabbath of October 24 when Jesus will leave the Most Holy Place. (The wise, however, will understand that probation will actually close for all of mankind seven days earlier.)

The Warning Tempest

We have had some remarkable experiences with storms here on the farm in the past year. One of the worst ever happened to come on the morning that Brother Gerhard arrived here over six months ago. He is our own lumberjack, being that he has experience felling trees. At first the rain was nothing unusual, but while we were on our knees praying during morning worship, the intensity of the storm increased severely. During the prayer we heard the wind and rain, then crashing and clanging. As Jan was praying, he asked for protection from the storm, and by the end of his prayer most of the violence had given way to a heavy rain. We peered out the windows to see what had happened, and immediately saw that it was very bad.

Once the rain had lightened up, we went out to inspect for damage. Quite a number of trees had fallen, but there was no significant damage to any of the structures! There were just a few minor damages that were easily repairable. The way some of the large trees were snapped off suggested that a tornado had struck (see photo; unfortunately, the actual thickness of that trunk is not so apparent). Neighbors did not have any damage, so it appeared to be focused specifically on us. We thanked God for His protection; no life or structures were hurt. One tree fell right beside one of the cows, but didn't harm it. Trees fell all around the comparatively fragile ramada, but didn't break it.

Needless to say, it opened our eyes to the dangers posed by the many large trees that were close to the houses. As a result of that storm, the Holy Spirit prodded Gerhard to cut down the dangerous trees as a precautionary measure to avoid damages in future storms. Although God protected us, we recognized that we needed to do our part to prepare wisely for the inevitable.

A large tree, snapped like a toothpick

Left: Jan and Gerhard. Inset: "come-along" hand winch and cables. Right: Pascal operates the winch while Gerhard cuts the tree.

Taking away the trees has given additional benefits. It has widened the view of the sky and opened the way for more sunshine to brighten our homes and smile upon the fruit trees.

As always, the Lord allows us to experience things ahead of time so that you can learn from our experiences. As terrible as the imminent fireball storm will be, it is only a warning like the storm I just described. It will be disastrous for those who have had light and neglected it, but it will incite the faithful to prepare for the real tempest that is coming.

A Shelter in the Time of Storm

Little did we know that we would have another bad storm on the eve of Pentecost. We tried to clear the dangerous trees before that date, and had succeeded in removing the worst of them. Some of the trees were very challenging, and many times the tools that we have to use in this country are inadequate. In many cases the heavy trees were leaning over the buildings, making the job exceptionally dangerous. In one such case, the cable came loose under the strain and the tree leaned back toward the temple, held only by the hinge a couple of centimeters thick! (Photo with Jan and Gerhard above.) Another difficult case was a tree that we nicknamed "The Devil's Hand" which threatened to crush one of the houses.

Felling trees is dangerous work.

In the same way that we used the abilities God gave us to do the challenging and strenuous work of clearing trees, we must apply effort to overcome our weaknesses and rid our lives of things that cast a shadow over us and keep us from reflecting God's light to others. As we work, we pray for divine aid and the Lord works with us.

The people of God on earth are the human agents that are to cooperate with divine agencies for the salvation of men. To the souls that have joined themselves to Him, Christ says, "You are one with Me, 'labourers together with God'" (1 Corinthians 3:9). God is the great and unperceived actor; man is the humble and seen agent, and it is only in cooperation with the heavenly agencies that he can do anything good. It is only as the mind is enlightened by the Holy Spirit that men discern the divine agency. And hence Satan is constantly seeking to divert minds from the divine to the human, that man may not cooperate with Heaven. He directs the attention to human inventions, leading men to trust in man, to make flesh their arm, so that their faith does not take hold upon God. {2SM 123.1}

Once we have done all we can do, we must simply trust God. There was one especially large tree between the weakest structures on our farm. When Brother Gerhard looked at it, he saw that no matter which direction he would bring it down, it would damage something.

"The Devil's Hand" threatening one of the houses.

Therefore, he decided to leave it in God's hands, remarking that God will have to fell that tree in His own time. Lo, and behold, He did!

When the "rushing mighty wind" of Pentecost came to us in the form of a storm, it was intense. It came on Friday, June 14, just before the High Sabbath. It brought with it hail stones, some about the size of golf balls. It was brief but intense. All of our houses were safe because we had done our preparatory work. Several sizeable trees were knocked down again, evidencing that this storm was much stronger than the last. [UPDATE: several of our neighbors eye-witnessed the funnel and said that they had never experienced a storm this bad in their life! It did affect others in our vicinity, but only in the local area.]

The big tree that was beyond our ability to handle without causing damage came down during the storm. Indeed, God felled it just like Brother Gerhard had said! The tree was uprooted and laid down perfectly without harming any structures or fruit trees! It fell away from the ramada, and did not break the fruit trees around it. Large limbs fell just inches from the brick oven roof, and would have crushed it if the tree had fallen just a little differently.

The wrath of God that is coming upon the earth in the seven last plagues will be the biggest "storm" that humanity will ever face. Isaiah described it as follows:

And the LORD shall cause his glorious voice to be heard, and shall shew the lighting down of his arm, with the indignation of his anger, and with the flame of a devouring fire, with scattering, and tempest, and hailstones. (Isaiah 30:30)

God's people would do well to prepare in every way by doing their part like we did. Search out the hazards to spiritual life, and work to cut them away so the sunshine of God's truth can send its cheerful beams unobstructed through the windows of the heart. Once a storm hits, it is too late to prepare!

Nevertheless, God will help us in the things that we aren't able to do.

And there shall be a tabernacle for a shadow in the daytime from the heat, and for a place of refuge, and for a covert from storm and from rain. (Isaiah 4:6)

The righteous will be protected during the time of the plagues like we were. When the tempest of God's wrath comes upon the world, He will shelter His own. They will have prepared and done everything in their power, and God will protect them from the plagues which are beyond their ability to physically prepare for. Our work is to follow the Holy Spirit's leading to work how we can while we can, but when the real storm breaks forth we must lay the matter in God's hands and trust in Him to protect us just like with that particular tree.

He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the LORD, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God; in him will I trust. Surely he shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisome pestilence. He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler. Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday. A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked. Because thou hast made the LORD, which is my refuge, even the most High, thy habitation; There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone. Thou shalt tread upon the lion and adder: the young lion and the dragon shalt thou trample under feet. Because he hath set his love upon me, therefore will I deliver him: I will set him on high, because he hath known my name. He shall call upon me, and I will answer him: I will be with him in trouble; I will deliver him, and honour him. With long life will I satisfy him, and shew him my salvation. (Psalm 91)

Remember the principle that God will not supply irrefutable proof, because we must always exercise faith. Even during the plagues, the protection of God might not appear so sure. While the tempest is roaring, we might be wondering every moment what perils are about to befall us, just like we wondered what damages the farm was suffering while we heard the wind and hail raging outside. The time of the plagues is the time when faith is all we have to hang on to. It is the time of Jacob's trouble:

Alas! for that day is great, so that none is like it: it is even the time of Jacob's trouble; but he shall be saved out of it. (Jeremiah 30:7)

I know that many of our readers will be able to relate to our experiences because of their own storms. The Lord speaks to us in terms that we understand. I'll close this article with a video:

[The text of this sermon follows, edited and formatted as an article.]

[Please note especially the comments highlighted in blue, which are updates to bring the level of knowledge up from what we had at the time of the sermon!]

I'd like to share with you some verses from the book of God. Chapter 9 of Ezekiel.

He cried also in mine ears with a loud voice, saying, Cause them that have charge over the city to draw near, even every man with his destroying weapon in his hand. And, behold, six men came from the way of the higher gate, which lieth toward the north, and every man a slaughter weapon in his hand; and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writer's inkhorn by his side: and they went in, and stood beside the brasen altar. And the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from the cherub, whereupon he was, to the threshold of the house. And he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's inkhorn by his side; And the LORD said unto him, Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a mark upon the foreheads of the men that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof. (Ezekiel 9:1-4)

Only those who sigh and cry receive the sign of God, the seal. Only those. Let's pray.

Dear Father in heaven, our Lord, our great God, our hope, and our fortress as we sung before,^[1]

The time that is coming now—and we are in the midst of it—is a time of tribulation. But we are not looking to the tribulation, Lord, we are looking to our great hope, which is You. We are looking for the Second Coming. We are looking to go with You to Orion. We are looking to go even further than Orion. We are looking forward to seeing the whole universe of Your wonders and of Your creation.

We are looking forward, for this time of the Loud Cry, to work for You. We are sad that the visible events are not visible enough for many, that they wake up. We hope, Lord, that You, through Your Holy Spirit, give into them the ability to see which time we are living in. You open their eyes, because we—with our websites and our articles—we do not reach them. They're still sleeping, and most of them are not even virgins.^[2]

Lord, we read the passage of Ezekiel 9. Only those that sigh and cry about the abominations that are done in the SDA Church will receive Your seal. Some will receive the seal of the martyrs. Some will receive the seal of the 144,000. Almost nobody knows the difference. We wrote about it, and we can see in the numbers of those that read the articles that they are very, very few that read the series about the Gene of Life. They do not know what the difference between the seals is. And we know only a very few people in the world who have really received the seal of the 144,000.

As we will hear today in the sermon, You prepared a time for the sealing. You gave more time for a few more people to be prepared. Help them, Lord. Give them Your wisdom. Give them Your Holy Spirit that they will recognize the time.

Lord, we are here to praise You. Lord, we are here to praise You for all the wonders that You have done in our midst. For the studies You gave, for the confirmations that we received, and for all the wonderful wisdom that You gave to this little group that represents Your voice of Orion on the earth.

Lord, help us to be the ones that are worthy to really be Your voice. We all have our bad character traits still not completely cleansed. We need Your help to be clean vessels to give to others what You have given us.

Lord, be with us now in this worship service. Escort all the bad angels outside that tried again today to make us nervous because the equipment was not working as we thought. Escort them outside. Build a burning wall of fire around our camp, and give us peace and wisdom in our hearts. And please, Lord, give especially me the Holy Spirit that I do not talk of myself but speak only Your words, which You give me.

In the name of Jesus Christ, and in His new name, Alnitak, we pray. Amen.

I am using English now, in our language mixture here, from German to Spanish, to English, my worst language. Sometimes I think about Pentecost. It was definitely a good day for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, wasn't it? We were waiting for it here, but we did not receive as much as we were waiting for. We thought we would get the gift of languages. Most of us here speak only one or two languages maximum, so it's very, very difficult to communicate in our small group. Many can hardly follow, and we need on-line translation all the time. And if I speak fast, then the translators cannot follow, so I have to speak slowly. Sometimes I think that on Pentecost the Google translator on the Internet received more of the Holy Spirit than we did in that respect. So we need a good portion more, and we admit that.

And when I prayed, and I already mentioned that I'm a little worried about the situation of the people in the world. I'm really worried. We thought that when the things start, and when the Loud Cry starts, thousands would immediately be converted in a day.^[3] Do we see that here? No. You saw our group on video, singing. We are still just nine people here, and two kids. Very few. Very few. There are some out on the Internet. There are some friends that I want to welcome also to this first recorded sermon, but they are very, very few. So we are worried. We thought that the events that are visible now would be even more visible. We not only thought it, we hoped it. We hoped that the fireballs would fall, right? Because that would be a sign, and it would wake up many more people. It would wake them up so that we could work for the Lord, so that we could give to them the message which we have. The message of hope, of an interceding Redeemer still working for us in the Most Holy Place in heaven, as seen in Orion by the wounds of Jesus in front of the Ark of the Covenant.

But we cannot give this message because the people are locked up in their own thoughts. They all have their own watches.

There was a prophet, Ernie Knoll, who saw Jesus before his second fall asking him, Ernie Knoll, "Hey, Ernie, what time is it on your watch?" And Ernie looked at Him, and Jesus said, "Do you think you have the same time on your watch that I have on My watch?" Remember that? The followers of Ernie Knoll refuse to believe that Jesus has a watch. They make Him a baby because Jesus does have a watch, but they say He cannot read the watch. He supposedly does not know the time.

Last week, last Sabbath, we had some ideas about the timeframe that is coming now. Some of them were correct, some of them were wrong. Some of our views of the time had to be corrected during the week, and they were corrected.

No one in the audience here knows what I got to know during the night. I stayed awake until 1:20 a.m. and the Lord woke me up again at 4:00 a.m. to prepare the sermon for you. And sermon preparation for me is just receiving some knowledge from the Lord. I don't sit down like others to write a sermon. I never did that in my life. I never wrote a sermon. No, that's not completely true. I wrote one sermon in my life, and it was a translation of a little sermon for when I had to preach for the first time in my life in Spanish when I knew about three or four Spanish words. Then I copied a translation of a sermon and I read it because I was so nervous that I wouldn't have been able to speak freely like I am used to. But normally I speak freely. There's no teleprompter here, like Obama has, or like Ernie Knoll uses. It's just free speech as the Holy Spirit gives me the word, and therefore I pray before every sermon. When I start I pray by myself and then I pray in front of the group that the Holy Spirit will guide my words and that I do not speak my own words.

The Two "Millers"

My words are just human, and even if the Holy Spirit is guiding us, there can be errors in our human thoughts. Some people believe that if there is a man guided by the Holy Spirit, then he does not make any mistakes any more. That's wrong. Give me an example. William Miller. Was he guided by the Holy Spirit? Yes, he definitely was. How do we know? Because the Spirit of Prophecy told us so! William Miller and his whole movement were guided by the Holy Spirit. How many mistakes did they make? A lot. They are not even all recorded. We know about two, at least. The 1843 error and the spring, 1844 error. These are two that were recorded, but there were more.

They set the time various times. Was it sin? What does Ellen White say about it? No, it was perfectly guided by the Holy Spirit.

Does the Holy Spirit guide into all error or into all truth? Truth, but what Miller said was not all true. But you forget that when the Holy Spirit is guiding us into all truth, it is about being guided. To be guided is a journey, a process. It involves a lapse of time. When you are guided into all truth, then first you have to unlearn your errors. Many still learn through trial and error under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. And so do we because we are the second "Miller" movement.

That's not to give myself a super-nice name. It's to give the movement a name that tells the people "Hey, there's a second Midnight Cry going on here on the earth." A real second Midnight Cry, not a Pippenger claim. He just repeats everything that the others did before, but there's a real ongoing, true Midnight Cry, "The Bridegroom cometh!" with a time, and a time announcement. It's not for me to say, "Ah, yes, I am the second Miller" or something. I'm not proud of that. It's a heavy load, my friends, and it's a great responsibility. Therefore, God sent me, let's say, six other persons, because there's wisdom in the counsel of many,^[4] so that I can do this job. I would not be able to do this job alone. I would have given up a long time ago under the tribulation and the mocking, especially from our own brethren.

It's to give the movement a name or title that briefly says what this movement is for, and stands for. It's a second Midnight Cry movement that became necessary because of the SIN of the SDA Church in refusing to believe and accept the light of the fourth angel in 1888, given by Jones and Waggoner.

The Great Missed Opportunity

There is the big problem. That is what you see written in the HSL in the first triplet that completely fulfills all the feast days, autumn feast days, in three years, and even the spring feasts except one: the N2 feast, after the Passover. This was the first opportunity for the church to go to heaven. They should have just accepted the light of the fourth angel when it began.

Some believe the light of the fourth angel is JUST Waggoner and Jones, and Justification by Faith. They believe this is the whole Fourth Angel's message. No, that is wrong, because Ellen White did not say that. She said that it was the beginning of the Fourth Angel's message.^[5] And if it was the beginning, then it was the beginning of a process, and there was more light to be given that has not been given because its beginning was refused.

I hope I make myself clear. If somebody tells you that Justification by Faith is everything, then he is a liar. It's just that simple: he's a liar. And how many times can you hear that from our pulpits? Almost all of the preachers say that, and they are all liars. They're hiding THE REST of the Fourth Angel's message that should have been given in the years 1888 through 1890. It could not be given because the beginning was refused.

It's a sad story. I heard one Latin American preacher preach about that. I will post the link to that sermon in the video. He was crying three and a half hours in front of the audience when he talked. He was crying. Tears ran down his face. The Latin Americans are more emotional than we Europeans or North American guys are. But I never saw a preacher really crying when he read the quotes of Ellen White and when he made the audience understand what happened in 1888. It was the most terrible moment in Adventist Church history.

To refuse the light that Jesus is giving, to bring you to heaven, is refusing the outstretched arm of Jesus Himself, the arm that is outstretched to rescue you, that you might be saved. Most Christians pretend to love Jesus, but they refuse to even take His hand. When new light comes, they throw it away as if it had never been given. They just throw it away. This is such a sad thing that many times in the night hours, I cry, and my soul is heavy. My heart is heavy, thinking about what happened at that time.

When I started to understand what Jesus is telling us in Orion, and that what He's saying is the next part of the three-part Fourth Angel's message, and when I saw the reactions of our brethren, I cried too. I started to sigh and cry about the abominations that are done in the SDA Church.

There are many different character types in the world. If you are under frustration, if you are sad—people's expression is different. Some cry. Some sigh. Some shout. Some get angry. It's all the same in front of God. The heart is heavy. Do you understand what I mean? The heart is heavy.

Something went wrong. Something went wrong for a person that you love, and when a person that you love has something to say, and the person is just mocked, then your heart is heavy. And if you get angry—I'm the guy who quickly gets angry about that—it's a holy wrath. It's a holy wrath when you're defending your beloved God.

Some wrote me when I published the article about the Loud Cry, and I put this nice baby—the pissing god Dionysus, or the other name for him is Bacchus—on the website article. That was not to show sexual organs. That was to show the abomination of the Church, that they are drunken. They are led by the god of the wine of Babylon, and they are really having fun drinking and wallowing in their own excrement.

Some cry, some sigh, some get angry, but it's all based on the same reason: because the Church of God is mocking her Savior.

The Third Angel's Message

So then, are we waiting for the fireballs so people would die? Are we wishing for this event to come so that our brethren who are mocking us will die and we would have our revenge? Is that the reason we are waiting for the fireballs?

The group here says no. No we are not. We know what it means. We know what the death of millions or billions of people means. It's terrible! But I read it in the beginning of the service today. It is necessary.

The truth is that nobody is waking up now. The Loud Cry started because the definition of the Loud Cry is that a group proclaims the day—even the day and the hour—of the wrath of God, the plagues, when He Himself, Michael, stands up and manifests Himself. Ellen White said that. ^[6] And, the day of the coming. When you see that, then you know “Uh, oh. Take care! There's something going on!” It's also a sign.

Remember time-setters, like Harold Camping? What did he proclaim? He set the time for what? What did he say? Hmm? Nobody knows? We are attacked all the day that we are time-setters like Harold Camping and you do not even know what time he set? The end of the world! He set the time for the destruction of the world! And what else? He said the secret rapture would come first. Could you see that the guy was a wrong? Yeah, because there's no secret rapture. It's not biblical. So you could easily see that he was wrong.

What about Cristian Silva? In Latin America they know him very well. What did he say? 21st of May, 2011 I think, or '12, I do not remember very well. He said Jesus would come on such-and-such a feast day. Did He come? No. Did he proclaim the wrath of God? No he didn't. He had no hour for the wrath of God. He just said Jesus comes. There were no plagues in his preaching. There was nothing. Just the manifestation of Christ, He comes. “Be happy! In a month, Christ will be here! Stop eating meat in 29 days!”

It's wrong, and it's easy to recognize that it's wrong. There are doctrinal errors. It's not biblical. And you have to have two times. You have to understand that before Jesus comes, there will be a time of tribulation, and there will be a time of plagues.

It's part of the three angels' messages to preach about the plagues. If you do not recognize that, then you are not preaching the three angels' messages. The third angel's message clearly says that those who take the mark of the beast on their forehead or on their hand will receive the plagues. So if you do not proclaim the plagues because you do not like the plagues, you do not proclaim the third angel's message. It's as easy as that.

Ellen White says it includes the day of the wrath of God; it's a time message. If you do not know when the wrath of God comes, then you do not proclaim the third angel's message, friends. You have a problem. You know the beginning of the judgment, but you do not know the end of the judgment. You have a problem. A big problem! The Advent Movement started with the proclamation that the judgment has come, Miller's call. The second Miller says the judgment will end. In the middle is the third angel's message: don't take the mark of the beast. And if you preach it without the wrath of God, you are just proclaiming some other message, but not the third angel's message. Don't take away and don't add to the Bible, right?^[7] And if you do not proclaim the wrath of God, you do not even proclaim the third angel's message.

You can write it on your logos, you can draw three angels on your logos, you can change it to pyramids, you can change it to triangles, or you can make light and fire come out of the Bible like the (not-so-)new Adventist logo does, but you are not proclaiming the first angel's message, nor the second angel's message, and not the third angel's message. You're not proclaiming it. You need to know the hour of the wrath of God, and you need the hour of the coming of Jesus—and you have to preach it in truth, not in lies.

A fourth angel was necessary in 1888, and it's necessary today. The three angels before it, were movements—nobody denies that. So the fourth angel is also a movement. It's not a man—it's a message. It's a message that moves people, therefore it's called a movement. They start to move, and that is our concern. We are the only ones moving, and nobody else is. On the other hand, there have been some who moved. Some moved here, and brethren have also started to move in many parts of the world. "Wow, it's wonderful. I see Jesus in Orion now. I see His wounds. I want to tell this to my brethren."

And when they started to do that, what happened? They were silenced. They were cast out. They were persecuted. They were declared partially insane. They were declared unwanted people. Some who are here in this group experienced that. Correct? Terrible! It's called tribulation.

Searching for the Books

Now, I want to do a short re-cap on the dates that we found so far, that came to pass. The first dates were years, and we found them in Orion. There is the year 2012-2013. Orion dates start with Days of Atonement in the year that is marked. "2012" does not mean January, 2012 to December, 2012; it means the Day of Atonement that falls in 2012 until the next Day of Atonement in 2013.

Does it mean that the fireballs have to fall on the Day of Atonement in 2012 or on the Day of Atonement in 2013? Does it mean that the fireballs have to fall? No. What does it mean? What does it mean if Jesus says there's something else two years before 2014-'15, when the wrath of God and the plagues come? What is this something else? Who can tell me? No idea? [\[I am referring here to the judgment of the living, which began on May 6, 2012.\]](#)

You should have an idea. What is it? What does Orion stand for? Which book of the Bible does it stand for? Is there a book in the Bible that is not part of the Bible? There are two books of the Bible that are not part of the Bible, but the Bible hints at these two books. There's one book that is given to Jesus. Where? It was given to Jesus in the Most Holy Place in heaven, in Orion, from the Father after 1844.

So is this book on Earth? It can't be on Earth because Jesus wasn't on Earth after 1844. Not even after 31. This book is a book that is only in heaven, and the Bible tells you that. It's not allegorical. We're talking about the Revelation of Jesus Christ to human beings. There is a book that is called the Book of Seven Seals that Jesus receives in the Most Holy Place after He has entered and come to the Ancient of Days, sitting for judgment, parallel to Daniel 7.

If this were the Bible, Jesus would first have to travel to Earth and take the Bible back with him. No. Friends, Jesus inspired the Bible. That is not a book He had to receive. The Father gave a “watch book”, a “clock book” to Jesus after the judgment started, and this could only take place in the Most Holy Place where Jesus went in on the 22nd of October, 1844, and not before.

So there's a book in heaven, and it's been given to Jesus. We could read this. We find this book many times in the Bible. We find it in Ezekiel, and in Zechariah. It's a book easily recognized in the Bible because it is the only book in the Bible that is written on the inside and the outside. If you read something in the Bible about a book written inside and outside, it's not your Bible. It's not your King James Version or your New King James Version Bible that is written inside and outside. No. This is a special scroll that is written inside and outside, which is a special case because scrolls were normally only written inside (or on one side).

That is already a hint to a scroll made of special papyrus. It could be written inside and outside, because normally if you had written on papyrus on one side, you would see through the papyrus. The ink bled through so on the other side you could see what was written, in mirrored form. So it's very special papyrus that we're dealing with.

This is what our students should find out by themselves. Now I will tell them, because they did not figure it out in three and a half years. They say, “Oh, there is no other book, only the Bible. Sola scriptura!” Yeah, we only study the writings of God. We are sola scriptura. We follow the reformation thought on it. But if sola scriptura tells me, “Hey, guy, there is another scripture that you have to look at, and I want you to see that!” and if I believe sola scriptura, then I have to do what sola scriptura says to me. Then I have to seek and look and search for the book that is mentioned there.

It has to be somewhere, and where do I look for it? I told you already: in the Most Holy Place. And where is the Most Holy Place? In Orion. Ellen White said so.^[8] The Holy City—where the holy temple is, and where the Most Holy Place in the temple is—is in Orion. That is where I have to look for it. It's as easy as that.

Can I travel to Orion? Can I go into the temple and look at the book, at the papyrus? I can't. How can I look at it then? Easy! Zechariah says it's a scroll that is flying in the heavens, a rectangular scroll.^[9]

By the way, it's a nice study to find out the dimensions that are mentioned there. It's the portal. It's the portal to heaven. It has the size exactly like the size of the main entrance to the temple of Solomon. It's the portal. If you look to Orion, you look to the portal of the temple of God, and you look inside, and in the end, you see Jesus standing there, with His wounded hands and feet and wounded side, interceding for you.

That's the book. The book is Jesus Himself, as Ernie Knoll dreamt—my “friend” Ernie Knoll. The great holy clock that is as HE IS.^[10] And his followers say “Oh, He has no watch.” And there is a holy clock in heaven. What could be holier than Jesus Himself, or a symbol for Jesus Himself and His wounds? The stars are not Jesus. The stars are a symbol: the portal [\[or the door\]](#). If you see that, then you've found the Book of Seven Seals.

So what is “2012” telling you if it is the Book of Seven Seals? We showed in the Orion study what it is. It's the beginning of the fifth seal. [\[In the meantime it turned out that the fifth seal opened even earlier—namely on January 23, 2010, when the Orion message was published. The following text explains what constitutes persecution. This actually started in 2010, when they excluded me from all Adventist Forums, as soon as I posted the message.\]](#) What does the fifth seal say? Martyrs! The number of the martyrs has to be completed. Sleep and wait until your number is completed by the others.^[11]

There must be martyrs. But how does martyring start? What is another word for martyring? The Greek word for testimony is marturia. What does martyring mean? Killing. Where are the dead people? 2012 [2010] to 2013, in this time between the Day of Atonement of 2012 [2010] to 2013, we have to have martyrs. How does martyrdom start? With tribulation! What do you have to have in a state first, before you can be martyred? You need laws that allow the state to kill you. When did the NDAA allow terrorists to be killed in the U.S.A.? On January 1, 2012, it became effective.

I spoke in the last Sabbath sermon about what terrorists are. We are “terrorists” because we believe that the Revelation, the book of the Bible, has something to do with living world leaders. And so we are declared by the NDAA or another paper that we are terrorists because we believe fundamentally in the Bible.^[12]

It's about tribulation. You cannot start [physical] persecution without laws. Nobody can do that. Even the Pharaohs didn't do that. They put a law, and then they caused tribulation. And then they killed in the tribulation. First you have to have laws, then you start the tribulation, and the laws get stronger and stronger. The killing is always the last phase. If you cannot force the people to do something with financial pressure, oppression or whatever, then the last thing in the chain of oppression is to kill you.

Why is it always the last? Because they want the people to convert! Satan wants to be praised, and worshiped. So, his last option is to kill you. Killing you makes you a martyr, and martyrs are bad for Satan. He doesn't like the martyrs too much. He already changed his tactics a few times because he didn't like the martyrs after Jesus' death, and he didn't even like Jesus' death itself. It was not good for him. Martyrs are doing what Jesus did, but in a smaller way, so he does not like martyrs. In that sense, he does not like to kill. He wants to be worshiped. He wants the people to convert to him.

But tribulation? It's sad that we cannot turn the camera... I ask the group here: Do you feel persecuted? Are you put into tribulation? Tell me if you feel like you've been in tribulation! All say yes. Since when? They say when they accepted the Orion message, but tribulation is something else. When did they really start to give you tribulation?

What is tribulation? If you believe something and the people say, “Oh, I don't believe that.” Is this tribulation? No it's not tribulation. It's just different opinions. What is tribulation? Persecution! But what is it? What is persecution? What is tribulation?

Tribulation is if others tell you that you are not allowed to believe what you believe. If they force you with sanctions or other methods to stop you from believing what you believe, then they are putting you in tribulation. They do not just say, “OK, fine. You have free will. I have free will. I do not believe what you believe.” In that case, you would say, “OK, I don't believe what you believe,” and walk away. No problem. That's not tribulation. Tribulation is if somebody tells you, “Hey, what you believe is so wrong that you have to leave your church, that you are a bad mother, and a bad father. I will put the law against you. First the church law; I will exclude you from church [or church forums] if you still go on believing that. I will declare you insane if you still believe that. In a second instance I will put you in an insane asylum, or I will put you in jail.”

Tribulation is when you're not allowed to believe what you believe anymore! Then you're an outcast. You're cast out from the church. Does the Adventist Church allow any member who believes in the Orion message to stay in the church? No. They refuse to BAPTIZE people that believe in the Orion message, who COME to the Adventist Church because of this message, because they see the Savior interceding there since 1844. They know more than many, many preachers in the Adventist Church know, but they are refused baptism because Jesus is preaching the sins of the church, and that makes the people sigh and cry, and they could have a chance to get the seal, and then they would not pay their tithe to the apostate pastors and leaders any more.

They do not allow people to get baptized. People are outcast before they are “in-cast.” Gerhard experienced the first thing. He was not even baptized any more. I had to baptize him. And there are some here that were troubled severely and fiercely in the church, having been members for decades. And not only from the members of the church, but even from their own husbands and wives, being church members. That is tribulation. If you cannot go on with what you believe without facing sanctions, it is called tribulation.

When did it start? It all started in 2012 [2010], friends, when we had the first countdown set. The people did not like these countdowns. Another form of tribulation is mocking. Maybe it's the worst form of tribulation. Mocking. Because it hurts. It shows that the other guy that mocks you does not love you. When we warned the world with the three-part warning message last year, what did they do when the fireballs did not fall? Instead of understanding which movements and events happened in the Holy Place and in the Most Holy Place in the heavenly sanctuary, they were mocking us. “Ha! The fireballs did not fall! Ha! You were wrong!”

Did you feel good with it? Did you laugh about the jokes that were made about you? Were you happy? Of course not! Your heart became sad because you saw that it was not you who was mocked, but God was mocked. Jesus Himself was mocked. And the biggest mocker of all was Ernie Knoll, saying, “Ah! Jesus asked if I have the same time on my watch as He has on His watch, but He is a baby! He cannot even read His watch.”^[13]

That's mocking. It hurts. It's tribulation. Some prefer to go to jail than to be mocked, because mocking is a hard test for a person. They do not take you seriously any more. You become an outcast from the belief system of the Adventist Church and you are mocked like Jesus was mocked on the cross, because you are on your knees in front of the bleeding Jesus in Orion. And you are mocked like He was in His blood. That's tribulation.

This tribulation started exactly in the spring of 2012 [in spring 2012, the judgment of the living began, while the tribulation already started in 2010] when we were setting the time with the countdowns [respectively with the Orion study]. We were wrong with the event, but with the time we were correct. They kept on mocking in 2013, even when the visible events started. How did we know about the timing of the visible events? How did we know it? From Orion? No. From a different book mentioned in the Bible.

The Second Book

The HSL is the second book. Do you believe this book is in the Bible? Is this book in the Bible? Is this sola scriptura? Some say yes, some say no. No it's not in the Bible. But does the Bible mention that it exists and that we have to study it? Yes! The Bible points to this book that is not in the Bible. What is it based on? It is based on the movements of the sun and the moon in connection with the feast days that were ordered and ordained by God. Correct? So the astronomical calculations that led to that book are biblically based. Is it Bible based? Yes, it is.

What did Ellen White say? She said that not half of the Jewish economy was understood by our church. So what did we learn in 168 years since Ellen White? Nothing! We even unlearned! Most Adventists do not even know what the feast days are. They do not even read Leviticus or Numbers, and it's not preached. The whole sanctuary message with its services is not preached any more. The “not even half” of the Jewish economy^[14] that we once knew is not preached any more. We have 17 million Adventists and less than one percent could talk freely about the sanctuary services and what it means, and what the feast days mean, without studying beforehand. They could not solve the Gethsemane problem. They could not solve the two-

Passover problem. They are standing in front of the audience with empty pockets, with nothing to give, two years before Jesus comes or the plagues start. Empty pockets!

The other half was not studied, and they could not understand that this is a book that Jesus is pointing to. There was a book that was mentioned in the Bible that was shown to one special person that had a special love relationship, agape love relationship, to the Lord. The beloved apostle, or the beloved disciple. Who was it? John. The apostle John, who later received the Revelation of Jesus Christ on the island of Patmos. He was shown that this book exists. He was even told what was written in this book, and it's called the Book of Seven Thunders. He was not allowed to write down what he had heard and seen.

Why mention it then? "Oh, I was not allowed to write down what I saw!" You know, it is not good behavior if I say, "Ok, I know something that you do not know!" Is this nice, or is this teasing? It's teasing! "I know something you do not know! The Book of Seven Thunders was shown me! It's nice! It's wonderful! It's thunderous! But I will not write it down for you to know what I know!" It's teasing. Is the Bible teasing us, or is this something completely different?

It's something completely different. God said, "There is a book of Seven Thunders that you will find one day if you look for it. Then, when you've found the book you will understand what was written inside." He gives a hint.

Ellen White also gave big hints. She said, All the feast days have to be fulfilled, not only in the events, but also in the time.^[15] A time message again. It's as easy as that. I'm sorry for the critics. If you are really sola scriptura, then you have to believe that there are two extra-biblical books, divine books, which are not in the Bible.

Think logically! Where do they have to be if they are not in the Bible, and certainly not in the Koran, or in the Talmud? Where are they then? Who wrote them, if human beings did not write them? If they're not on Earth, they must be in heaven. What are the feather and ink of heaven? The heavenly bodies!

Ah, I hear the critics again: "That's astrology!" No, it's not astrology. This is written by the feast days—by the sun, and moon which the Bible says are signs in Genesis 1:14.^[16] And the word that is used there in Hebrew means "omen." Omen! It's a prophecy.

The Gethsemane Study

The sun and moon are a prophecy. Can anybody other than us explain and decipher that prophecy? No, only the second Miller's movement. That was also prophesied. Adventists only know the writing on the outside. They never looked inside. They refuse to look inside. Who is inside? Jesus! What is inside this book? The DNA of Jesus and the DNA of the 144,000! We even have to look inside the body of Jesus to find this book.

These are holy, sacred truths, and our Adventist brethren mock at it. They are not mocking at the second Miller. That doesn't matter. They are not mocking at you. They are mocking the body of Christ, and the blood of Christ. The DNA is in the blood.^[17] In all cells, but especially in the blood. This is His body that was given, showing His wounds in Orion. They are mocking at the body and the blood of Jesus, about the bread and the wine of true doctrine.

I'm sorry for our brethren. I'm very, very sorry for them. They will not see eternal life mocking at the body and the blood of Jesus. Do you understand now why the Lord's Suppers were so important? Because it's all about the bread and the wine, the body and the blood of Jesus! All this about the calendar—there's one wonderful study mentioned in the dream "In the Heart of Jesus" of Ernie Knoll. He says three or four times that there's a wonderful study about the Garden of Gethsemane that has to be done and redone and redone and not just read one time.^[18]

I wrote Ernie Knoll in the year 2009 and asked, "Do you know that study? I would like to do that study!" I did not have the study at that time and I did not know what he was prophesying, so I thought maybe there is really a nice study about the Garden of Gethsemane, maybe from Doug Batchelor, his friend, or whomever. I asked him, I wrote to Ernie Knoll and said, "Please, give me the study." He said, "I have no clue what study Jesus was talking about in that dream. I do not have a study."

It was a prophecy that there would eventually be a study about the Garden of Gethsemane, which would later reveal the blood—the DNA of Jesus—the character that one of the 144,000 must reach to see Jesus alive in heaven.

And they mock at it, saying sola scriptura. Are the Ten Commandments in the Bible? Yes, they are. Are your sins written in the Bible because you transgressed the Ten Commandments? No. Is it written in a book? Yes. What is this book called? The big Book of Remembrance. You had better get all of your sins deleted out of the Book of Remembrance. Are there extra-biblical books, written by God? Yes. And these are two more examples. For every one of you, there is a Book of Remembrance. It's not any physical book of paper on Earth. It is written in the Book of Remembrance in heaven. So there is extra-biblical scripture that the scripture points to. And if it points to it, you have to search for it like for hidden treasures. We found two such books.

I do not want to find the other ones, the Books of Remembrance of everybody here. I hope they are all empty. We cannot get sealed with the seal of the 144,000 if this book is not empty. But then you have a chance to go as a martyr, and a minute before your death you can still get all your sins blotted out. But if you are one of the 144,000 and want to receive the real seal of God, then these sins have to be blotted out before you are sealed. We hinted at the seal many times on our website and nobody found it so far.

You have to be a clean vessel to get the seal of the 144,000 now. You have time only until the 23rd of October, 2015 to get all your sins blotted out if you want to meet Jesus without seeing death. So, try to find the seal. Ask us! We will try to help, as far as we are allowed to.

So there are extra-biblical books. Nothing new! The Bible speaks about it. We found the two that make up the first and the second foundational parts of the threefold Fourth Angel's message. And then we found something else. What was it? We found the rest of the Justification by Faith message of Waggoner and Jones: The consequences for the universe if the 144,000 fail OR if Jesus does not find enough faith on Earth and there are no 144,000 found. Compare it with the book of Job. There is a contract, an agreement, between Satan and God. Satan can do whatever he wants with Job, just not touch his life. He can even touch his physical health, but not his life. This is the experience of the 144,000. They have to endure terrible tests that seem completely unjust. They have to stand these tests without complaining, and without accusing God. And it's hard.

Yesterday, we were together in the Sabbath evening worship, and I told the group here about the 8 years that I had to suffer on this farm. The Job experience is an intrinsic part of the experience of the 144,000, and everybody who is here and is sealed can tell you a story about it. Yesterday, a brother said it would be really nice if we would write a book about it. Just put a chapter for each of us, where he tells his conversion story and what happened with him when he found the Orion message: tribulation! The Job situation!

So, what did we find in the HSL? First, we found the date of the coming of Jesus. Then we took the 1335-days prophecy of the book of Daniel, chapter 12, and we calculated back, and we came to the 27th of February, 2013—taking into account now the visible events and the true coming of Christ.

Did something happen? Yes, the pope resigned officially, publically, at St. Peter's square. So there was a big thing. We will come to that.

I know the group is waiting for something... I promised something to them. I will do it for you too. They do not even know what they are waiting for. Now I'll tell you what they are waiting for. I will tell you not when the fireballs will fall. I will tell you not if and when the big tsunami prophesied by Ernie Knoll in California will hit. I will tell you today what you are all hoping for since a long time. I will tell you the exact date when we will have the Sunday Law proclaimed in the United States.

The exact date to the day! And the hour? No, but the prophetic hour! Today, you will know when the Sunday Law in the United States will be proclaimed and executed.

As it turned out, I had found in the following dream interpretation a future date (October 27, 2013), when the Sunday law in the form of its twin—the ordination of women—entered the SDA Church in the United States by the election of Sandra Roberts as president of the Southern California Conference. This was indeed a MILESTONE towards the ordination of women and LGBT tolerance in the SDA church. We covered this theme in the article [The Death of the Twins and some World News briefs (see Ted Wilson, Texas Star, LGBT tolerance, SDA church kidnapped by the pope). All of this eventually led to the Mount Carmel Challenge.]

How do I know that? Listen on! Jan is looking with wide eyes! Yeah! Today you will know when the Sunday Law will be there, and when all our message will be confirmed, and all our work will start to find and seal the 144,000 in the name of Jesus Christ. There's the patience of the saints.

So, this was the first date that we found, just to not mention at the moment again the 2012 warnings that were all corresponding movements of the Father in heaven. The Father went away from the Most Holy Place and went to the courtyard. Read that in the article.^[19] We do not have time for that today.

The first visible event was the resignation of the pope. It was even confirmed by Ernie Knoll in the dream "Justice and Mercy." He dreams a certain rhythm of 7, 7, 4 days. The 7, 7 rhythm is the sabbatical year rhythm. If you calculate which year is the 4th year of the sabbatical rhythm, you come to 2012–2013 (from Yom Kippur to Yom Kippur). The 27th of February that falls in between Yom Kippur 2012 and Yom Kippur 2013 is the 27th of February when the big events start. They started in this year with the resignation of the pope. Keep in mind—and I urge you to remind me if I forget it in the sermon—I'll show you today why God marked the 27th of February and not the 28th which was the official resignation date of the pope. Remind me to tell you why. It has a reason—a big reason!—an incredible reason! We were all wondering, "Why the 27th?" Ok, it was his official and public departure from the Vatican. He left on that day from the Vatican, but his official resignation was on the next day on the 28th of February at eight o'clock in the evening. Why not that date? There is a reason.

What did we do then? We calculated the 1290 and 1260 days, and we found two events. First we were not sure where to place it exactly. We set a counter to the 13th of April because that was certain. We wondered, "Do the 1290 start earlier? There's a difference of 30 days. Where should we put it, before or after?" We were not sure about it. "Do the 1260 and the 1290 days all end with the coming of Christ on that very day, or is there a month of waiting time between the end of the 1260 and 1290 days until the coming of Christ?" We were not sure, so we used the middle date that was certain to be correct either way, and we set the countdown on it. It was the 13th of April. But then we saw, "Uh oh!" The pope was elected on the 13th of March! So we knew that was the sign.

The first Jesuit pope in history was elected on the 13th of March. That was the beginning of the 1290 days. The abomination of desolation was set up. Then we knew the next thing must be something that has to do with putting the power structures on earth that will fulfill the tribulation. Then that happened on the 13th of April when the pope, on a Sabbath, said that he had set eight cardinals to reign over the districts of the Jesuits on the earth. That was a big thing because it was exactly like what happened at the beginning of the 1260 years. The power structures were set up.

The tribulation started a little later. The tribulation did not start when the pope was put into power over all Europe; it started a little later. God always shows the same things.

We were shown three movements of the Vatican. Correct? A resignation of a pope hadn't happened for six hundred years, and never in this way. The election of the first-ever Jesuit pope and the complete restructuring of the power structures of the Vatican had never ever happened before: a power structure that is world-wide. There are Roman consuls in every district of the Roman power on Earth.

And our brethren say, "Oh, what's that? What does the Vatican have to do with the mark of the beast? What does the Vatican or the Papacy have to do with any prophecy? You are terrorists, my dear brethren, because you think the prophecies are coming true NOW and it has something to do with Benedict or Francis, or with Obama. We are ecumenical Adventists. We do not have anything to do with time-setter terrorists like you."

So, what was the next thing that happened? We had three dates correct, because God gave us the distance to the coming of Jesus in the HSL, the High Sabbath List. Three movements of the papacy! Daniel has always been the book that prophesied the movements of the king of the north in Chapter 11; that is the papacy. We had the little horn power. The book of Daniel is always about the movements of the papacy, so the last three distances in this book are about the movements of the papacy. It's just as easy as that.

But the fourth date that we had (and we set a countdown for it) was something different. It was no longer in the book of Daniel. It was the 27th of April. Where did we get it from? From the HSL again! It was the first spring feast day in the year 2013 that fell on a Sabbath. It was not a High Sabbath, because it was the resurrection day, or the day of the wave sheaf offering, and that is not defined as a ceremonial Sabbath. But it's in the High Sabbath group called N3, and it is grouped together with Pentecost. So if the day of the resurrection, the day of the wave sheaf offering, falls on a Sabbath, then Pentecost also falls on a Sabbath, and Pentecost is defined as a ceremonial Sabbath, so it is a High Sabbath if it falls on a seventh-day Sabbath. The corresponding feast day, the first feast Sabbath in the year, was the 27th of April: the day of the wave sheaf offering.

Jesus had already given the sign of Jonah once with His resurrection. He came out of the belly of the earth on that day. So, we held a Lord's Supper on the Passover day, on the 24th to the 25th, and then on the 26th to the 27th there was the sign of Jonah in heaven. It was also prophesied by Ernie Knoll to come two days after a Passover full moon, and it was even the exact and correct one confirmed by the barley harvest. It was prophesied that something brilliant would happen in the sky, like the noise of a million truck and train horns. ^[20]

It happened! It was the gamma-ray burst GRB 130427A, on the 27th of April, 2013: The biggest explosion in the universe ever measured by human beings! It was not a small thing. If you would make it audible, it would be louder than a million truck and train horns, all at the same time. It would be much louder. If it had happened in Betelgeuse, the earth would not exist anymore, but luckily it did not happen 500 to 600 light-years away; it happened 3.6 billion light-years away. We have some more time until Betelgeuse explodes. That gave us more food for the articles.

Critics like Erich Schultze who do not believe anything that we write, mocked and said, "Ah, but you interpret things into the prophecy when they have happened. You apply it afterwards!" Yes, that's what we always do, my dear Erich Schultze. This is what always happens with prophecy. This is what we have done since prophecy has existed. We try to understand the prophecy, but we have problems to understand it because it is encoded. Only when the real event happens can we say, "Oh, the event fulfills all the characteristics of the prophecy, so it must be that event." That's all. You always take an event and apply it to prophecy. That is what Adventism has done all along. The whole statue of Daniel is applied that way. The papacy was applied to the little horn power prophecy, and so on. That is what you always do.

And this event which was prophesied by the HSL corresponded perfectly to the gamma-ray burst, because it is exactly the event corresponding to a warning of the gamma-ray burst of Betelgeuse, which we had known of since 2010. We did not publish it because we could only do so once the time of the Loud Cry [\[respectively of the judgment of the living\]](#) had begun.

We know that the last triplet of the HSL is the Loud Cry time because it begins in the spring of 2013 and ends on the 24th of October, 2015. So the beginning of the last triplet was a gamma-ray burst, and the end of the last triplet will be a gamma-ray burst. One was non-lethal to serve as a warning and show that there is still time, and one will be a lethal gamma-ray burst, killing a third part of human beings at the beginning of the plagues. Wow!

"It's all by accident!" Really? We'd had the dream of Ernie Knoll prophesying this event since 2010, two days after a Passover full moon during spring, and now it had happened, and it was by accident? "It was all by accident!" We even put a countdown on it, and it was by "accident" that it corresponded exactly to the beginning and the ending event? It was by accident? Of course not, friends! If it would all have been by accident, I would really start to play the lottery. (I don't because it's satanic.) Lottery is by accident, but we are not playing the lottery! Our success rate of this year is 100%. That is not a rate you can achieve in the lottery. It must be something divinely guided. That was the fourth event that we prophesied correctly.

Maybe some Adventists would have loved to have the fireballs fall instead of a gamma-ray burst that was billions and trillions of times bigger than any fireball. They would have loved it, and we would have too, because then maybe some would have woken up.

Pentecost (#5)

What was the next date that the HSL showed? It was Pentecost. It was the only real High Sabbath confirmed by the barley harvest. The first of June was also a High Sabbath, but it was in the second possibility that did not come to pass this year. So, we thought "What could happen on Pentecost?" It could have something to do with the Loud Cry time already starting—it could have something to do with the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, right? Yes! And what did we receive? Do we all speak three to five languages perfectly now? No, we still have the same problems.

Our problem is that we already received the seal. There is no further outpouring. The maximum outpouring of the Holy Spirit is that you receive the seal of God. We've known what the seal is for a number of months. Not you, audience, you do not know it. We know it, and if you think you have it, write to us, and we'll tell you if you have it or not. [\[We are ready to study privately via e-mail with anyone who has an open heart!\]](#)

So in our place, nothing more could happen. But it happened! We prepared for the fireballs, because we thought, "Ok, fire from heaven there, fire from heaven there. The second beast makes fire fall from heaven,^[21] it could be the fireballs again." We thought it could have been fire from heaven as tongues^[22] for the people in the audience, so they could receive the knowledge of what the seal of God is—some of them at least. Or maybe thousands would convert on that day, I didn't know! We could only speculate as to its meaning. We thought, "It's the day of Pentecost, so maybe it's the Latter Rain day." But the Latter Rain, as we know from Hal Mayer and many other pastors, is also a process. It's a process [\[which already began in 2010\]](#).

We had a storm. A tornado! We were prepared. We had put plywood on all our windows because we knew the fireball event would be accompanied by strong winds. Ernie Knoll said that, and I believe it, because there was a strong wind on Pentecost in the Bible too. We did have a strong wind, hail, and a tornado ripping off a 200-year old tree (I said in the storm video that it was a 70-year-old tree). It was rooted out beside our morning worship place. That means for 200 years, there was no storm like that in Paraguay, and it hit exactly on Pentecost, one hour before the day of Pentecost began in the evening, with the sun already darkening.^[23]

Wow. The mighty wind was there. In Jerusalem it was already Pentecost. Yeah, Jerusalem is seven hours forward from our point of view. It was already Pentecost when the storm hit.

We were prepared. Gerhard had taken away a lot of trees. If we had not done that, we would have lost at least two or three of our four buildings that we have here—even the temple! We were prepared. God says to prepare! Are you prepared? We stored food, did you? Are we allowed to store food? Yes, we are, until... if we do not store for the great time of trouble, and we do not do that. That's another study.

That was the fifth date that we found. The fourth was the gamma-ray burst, this was the fifth. And now I tell you, that we have two more dates that we know for sure, and these are the definition of the Loud Cry. The definition of the Loud Cry is to know the date of the wrath of God, the beginning of the plagues, and the coming of Jesus Christ. The first one, the wrath of God, is on our webpage. Today there are 845 or 846 days left. It comes quickly. For the coming of Christ, we also have the date, but without a countdown. I don't think there will be another countdown, because we will already be in the great time of trouble by then, and then even we will be in big trouble.

[\[Nevertheless, God made it turn out differently. On January 31, 2014, I received further light on the trumpet and plague cycles of the Orion Clock, which again showed us the principle of God's progressive "time" revelation. I covered that in my \[second public sermon\]\(#\).\]](#)

So, how many dates do we have in total? Seven! Seven day-dates. Exact dates that this movement found and proclaimed. On five of the seven, something has already happened. Now calculate your chances that the last two will not happen. It's very unlikely.

Additional Revelation

But the fireballs did not fall. Why do we not have the date of the fireballs then? It's easy. God does not make the fireballs fall. We are not Satanists to proclaim the fireball event. But wouldn't it be nice to have fireball and the Sunday Law dates too? I'll tell you!

Yes, God does nothing except He reveals His plan to His prophets.^[24] Correct? God does nothing. Ok, God does not make the fireballs fall. God does not put the Sunday Law on Earth, but He allows it to happen, and if someone allows something, then it's also an action. It's a deed. "I allow you to do that, Satan. Ok, do it!" It's a deed. It's written in the book of Job, as the contract that He made with Satan, so he could test Job.

There's something else, but it's not in the seven-row that is written in those books. There's the problem: it's not written in the books of heaven. The contract is not written in these books, because one is Jesus, His body, and the other is Jesus, His blood. When the fireballs will fall, which he doesn't make fall, is not written in the body and the blood of Jesus. Neither is it written in this book when a Sunday Law will come against the Law of Jesus Christ, the Sabbath. It's not written in these holy books.

It's written in something like the Book of the Sins of Satan. That is where it is written.

Today, it's very interesting to take a look back at my statement in this regard. At that time, we knew nothing about the trumpet and plague cycles. We received both of them on January 31, 2014. If one realizes that all the trumpets represent satanic events allowed by God, then we understand that the fireball event could not be recorded until the trumpet cycle. And in that cycle, Jesus utters "Hold" again four times. More details can be found in my [sermon as of January 31, 2014 and in the articles Trumpets with a Certain Sound and The Mystery of Ezekiel. Dear reader, when would you expect that event to happen? According to our level of knowledge at that time, everything that I say hereafter was logical, and has almost prophetic significance.]

What do we need, to find out the exact date for one of these events that we are waiting for—the fireballs or the Sunday Law? All Adventists look to the Sunday Law. What do we need? If I tell you we cannot find it in holy books, because they are too holy to write it down there, what do we need then? Revelation! Intra-biblical or extra-biblical revelation? Extra-biblical. Because the Bible is also a holy book, right? And if we could have found it there, it would be in Daniel because he speaks about the movements of the papacy. The book of Daniel is a hot hint, a tip. It's a hint as to where to start searching, but we need extra-biblical revelation to know that date.

There are another two verses in the Bible, that tell us where this revelation comes from. Can you guess what they say?

And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams: (Acts 2:17)

Yeah, an extra-biblical revelation is prophesied in the Bible itself. Do we have to look for and listen to people that have visions, young people who have visions, and elders or older people, old men? Somebody will get angry today if I call him an old man, because it's about an old man, and this time it's not Ernie Knoll. It says old MEN... M E N. It does not say old MAN. It's not just one. It's at least two. It's plural.

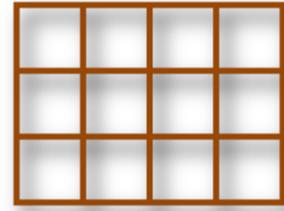

The Café Dream

Because of these verses, when Ernie Knoll fell the second time, and he started to attack the leader of this movement and the movement itself, we hoped that one of us would have dreams. At least one of us! I had two dreams that were important for the studies. They helped me to go forward in the studies. But they were not direct revelations. Let me say it that way. They were hints to go on with the studies, but there was one man among us who had a dream. I'll read the dream to you now, and I tell you beforehand that this dream reveals the exact date of the Sunday Law [respectively of its twin], and we did not recognize it until tonight. We were blind again.

I received a copy of the dream... Jan had it on the 27th of October, 2011, while he was still in Germany. He's the "old" man who had a dream, even more than one. We should look at the other dreams that he had, too. They are short and easy to understand, but they are difficult to interpret. This faithful guy was the first one of this whole group—except my wife, of course—who came here. The first one! And he had that dream, and he wrote to me, I do not remember exactly the date, but it was shortly before you came. We had e-mail contact. He was one of my most diligent students. A few days after the dream, in November, 2011, he sent me the dream and I started to interpret it.

Sometimes interpretation takes a long time. The dream date is important, which is why I repeat it: 27th of October, 2011, shortly before Jan came. Jan came in December of 2011 to join us here. He was my first friend that came from overseas, or from anywhere in the world, to join the movement. He dreamt the following:

I am in a café or restaurant that is not in my usual environment. It is a warm sunny day, and I wear clothes appropriate for summer or at least for a very warm country. The building is made completely of wood, and everything looks very pleasant and friendly. Everything is bathed in a warm light, which is reflected by the wooden walls and the small round tables and chairs. I'm sitting alone at one of the round tables, which is located next to a large window. The window does not consist of a single windowpane, but of small square panes (12 individual elements in 4 columns and 3 rows), which are connected by corresponding wooden crosses. [We have such windows here in the church and in my house.] I guess the window panes are about 12 inches square. [The number 12 should be known by everybody of this movement. 12 individual elements, 12 inches.] It is tranquil, and I can hear the other guests quietly chatting.

I look out onto the sea, which is located in front of the house. Suddenly, I can see how the water is quickly rising, like a tsunami (without a breaking wave) and after a short time it rises above the first row of windowpanes. I'm not nervous in any way, but quietly get up from my seat. However, the tranquil atmosphere is gone. I can only tell the other people (who I still cannot see) that I have prepared them for exactly this to come. There is no malice in me as I say this—just sadness.

Without worrying about the further happenings in the café, I ascend the wooden stairs and enter the first floor, my room. [So there's an upper room that Jan enters in his dream.] There isn't much to see. All I see is a wooden bed in the center with a red blanket and a white pillow... [One big, long pillow covering the whole width of the bed.] Moreover, it is a little dark because the room is lit only by some wall lamps and by the bed itself. [The bed was glowing.] There are no more floors above this one. [So this was the highest floor.]

Suddenly, a large part of the wooden floor above the café breaks. Only two separate boards, each leading to an opposite rear corner of the bed are left, leading from the bed to the edges of the room. [Correct? So if I draw it on the white board... I'm not good at drawing, but I think I can still draw a bed. So, there's the pillow. I have to draw it first. And then there were two planks going, boards coming out of the bed. This is the bed. This is the blanket, and this is the pillow, and these are the two planks going to the corners of the room. Something like this. And all this floor was gone, and only the two boards were left. Wooden boards.] In my dream I wonder why the wooden floor is in such a state, and I am finally convinced that it is due to the tsunami.

Suddenly the roof is gone, without any force or noise, and the upper floor is now surrounded by a chest-high parapet. It's still sunny, so everything is now bathed in bright light. The wall lamps are gone, but the bed is still glowing. I walk to the newly-formed sea-facing parapet and look down the building. It sways back and forth a little, but I am not afraid because I know that the building will not collapse. The water flows around the building and the swaying finally stops. I was the only person who went up, so I can see no one else. There was always the feeling of absolute peace and security in that dream.

That's the dream. Now tell me when the Sunday Law will come! It's in the dream! Difficult? Not that difficult. I'll show you. I prepared a spreadsheet for it, and I put Jan's café dream of October 27, 2011 in the spreadsheet. I pointed out the three window rows, and I marked it as if each little window pane would be a month. So we have three periods of four months in each row. Jan dreamt of twelve window panes, which would be twelve months. Correct? We had that interpretation for a long time. It's nothing new to the group here, but it is new for the audience.

Where to Begin?

Each window pane is a month. Our first problem in the interpretation was to know when to start these twelve months. What months are shown in the first row? What is the first month of the first window pane? If it were the 27th of October, 2011, then this year would have already passed. Then the dream would apply to the time between the 27th of October, 2011 and the 27th of October, 2012.

Was the 27th of October, 2012 a special date? Yes, the group says. Yes. It was even a day that I had dreamt about:^[25] the exact birthday of Jesus Christ, the birthday of Adam, a Yom Kippur / Day of Atonement, a High Sabbath, a Sabbath, wow, what else? We found seven occasions for that day. I think it's written in the article. Seven special events happened on that day.

What did the Adventist Church do on that day? Did they venerate Creation on that day? Yes, they did. Did they do it in the right form? No, they didn't. They obeyed the papal decree for a veneration day for Creation, in October, for the whole ecumenical community. Every Sabbath is Creation day for us, and there's no special Creation day except the Sabbath—the seventh day that was sanctified and hallowed by God Himself.

So, that was a very special date: the 27th of October, 2012. But how can we tell which October—the 27th of October of 2011 or 2012—was the beginning of Jan's dream? That makes it difficult. It makes it tricky. You know about the Miller's Mistake, right? We were off one year because we did not understand that the year of plagues is not part of the judgment of the living.

Look, if this is a prophetic dream and falls into the category of Acts 2:27, then it has to be a prophecy. Normally you don't have a dream at the beginning of the prophecy, you have a dream before the fulfillment of the prophecy starts. Otherwise it would not be a prophecy anymore, because it would already be fulfilling, and you would not need a dream. So it's very unlikely that the dream fulfillment started on the dream date itself. It's more likely that the dream fulfillment started on the 27th of October, 2012, which marked such a huge date in our movement. We even said in the article that the door of grace for the Adventist Church started to close on that day. We were confirmed. You will see that it is true.

So let's try to interpret the dream as if it were dreamt a year before the fulfillment really started. The first period, the first four months, the first row of window panes, is October 27, 2012 until February 27, 2013. Is the 27th of February, 2013 a special date in our movement? Yes, I talked about it already. It was the first date that we had for the visible events calculating 1335 days back in time from the coming of Christ, and we came to the 27th of February, 2013. Correct? Good.

Which part of the dream applies to this period of four months? We have to start at the beginning of the dream. I'll quote the text again, with breaks, and I will explain how it applies to this time.

I am in a café or restaurant that is not in my usual environment. It is a warm sunny day and I wear clothes appropriate for summer or at least for a very warm country.

For a long time, we have interpreted this café as being our restaurant, our study forum, where Jan was already a member. And where is it really? Here, in Paraguay. The warm country where he needs summer clothes is Paraguay. All right? Good.

He dreamt it when he still was in Germany. In October in Germany, you do not use summer clothes. It's already cold. So this was already telling him, "Hey, you have to go to Paraguay!" And that was our first interpretation of the dream, which was not wrong.

The Restaurant

The building is made completely of wood.

What does a building of wood mean in a dream? There's another dream of Ernie Knoll that explains it,^[26] but there's also a historical fact that explains it. The barn of Hiram Edson was made of wood. He was the man who had the vision about Jesus entering the Most Holy Place in the year 1844, a day after the Great Disappointment, the 23rd of October, 1844. The 23rd of October, 2016, Jesus will arrive. Yeah, in the evening of the 23rd. Correct. So it's also a very important date.

The barn of Hiram Edson was made of wood. What else is made of wood? The cross of Jesus is made of wood. Ernie Knoll had the dream "Stand on the Wood" because the wood is truth. Jan dreamt about the barn of Hiram Edson, and the truth—the building where the truth comes from—and he went into that building.

It's a restaurant. It's a café. It's here. It's this place where the voice of God comes from.

...everything is pleasant and friendly.

Are we pleasant and friendly? Sometimes we are, sometimes we're not.

Everything is bathed in a warm light which is reflected by the wooden walls and the small round tables and chairs.

So this is the forum group where people study, the private forum. I always wonder, when I speak about the forum. I speak about the forum in the articles. I have spoken about the forum in sermons. I speak about the forum in the letters to our critics, in the letters to our followers—but it's seldom that someone asks, "Hey, how can I access that forum?" They write me private letters! One guy wrote about four hundred private letters to me in Spanish, and I have to answer three or four letters from him almost every day. He never asks, "Can I be part of the forum?" We wrote four thousand posts in the forum! Studying together with people around the world, admitting our errors, making errors, learning by trial and error. Nobody is interested in joining the forum?

This is the restaurant. There was also a dream of Ernie Knoll about a restaurant.^[27] It predicted his second fall in the restaurant part. Poor Ernie! If there's somebody sincere out there, ask us! But I'll tell you up front before you ask us to be a member of the forum: we kick out people that are not of our faith and that come just to spy or accuse or attack us. This is a forum with a "tranquil atmosphere." There's a friendly atmosphere. It's a private forum. It's a locked forum. It's a hidden forum, so we can study without being disturbed. If we want to fight and debate, then we go to Facebook. There, we have enough opportunity for that.

So there are round tables, the large window, I already explained the twelve window panes, four in each row. They are connected by wooden crosses. Yes, crosses. Do we have to mention again that it's a hint to the cross of Jesus and the studies? That's already been said. Twelve inches square... twelve by twelve... one hundred forty-four... it sounds something like 144,000.

It is tranquil, and I can hear the other guests quietly chatting. I look out onto the sea, which is located in front of the house.

Danger from the Sea

What seems to be a nice tranquil scene is actually a very dangerous scene, because from the sea comes the tsunami, which threatens to come into the house and kill the people that are in the restaurant. The sea normally stands for nations, tongues, and languages,^[28] and it also stands for a special religion that is located on the sea: the Roman Catholic Church. So it is dangerous.

The tsunami comes from the Roman Catholic Church, from a location from the sea. Where did the first beast come from? Out of the sea!^[29] And the tsunami comes out of the sea from the papacy. This dream must have something to do with the papacy. When the tsunami comes, it must come from the papacy, from the sea.

Did anything come from the papacy in 2012? No. Did anything come from the papacy in 2013? Yes, three times. How many times? Three times! Correct. That is why I set the next sentence in red—because it belongs to the 27th of February, 2013. That is when the first row of the four small window panes was covered completely. The time was gone. Jan said it was even a little bit above it.

Suddenly I can see how the water is suddenly rising like a tsunami without a breaking wave and after a short time it rises above the first row of window panes.

This sentence belongs to the first movement of the papacy, and this row ends with the resignation of Pope Benedict. Clearly the tsunami came from the sea, like the beast from the sea. It was a papal movement! The first one was on the 27th of February, after the first four months of the dream, based on the dream date one year before: the period from October 27, 2012 until February 27, 2013.

The Secret of the Sunday Law

Now, this was not enough for us to know when the Sunday Law would come. The next period gives more hints. It starts with February 27, 2013, and ends on June 27, 2013, after another row of window panes. We have to read the text very carefully now, to understand what the second part of the dream is talking about. This is essential. If we do not understand this, then we will fail with the interpretation of the dream. The whole trick to know when the Sunday Law will come, is in the second part. (But it does not come in the second part.)

Now read very carefully! He says,

I'm not nervous in any way, but quietly get up from my seat. However, the tranquil atmosphere is gone.

Somebody wakes up—at least in the study forum—but this also represents the Adventist audience that we have.

I can only tell the other people (who I still cannot see) that I have prepared them for exactly this to come.

What has Jan been doing all the year since he's been here? He's been preparing the people. He works in Facebook. He shares the articles there. He studies with the people. He gives answers. He prepared the people for this to come. What was he preparing the people for? For the first movements of the papacy, the first visible events! That was what Jan was preparing the people for. He always spoke about the 27th of February. It's so easy to understand.

There is no malice in me as I say this.

I know him, there's really no malice in him.

Just sadness.

And I know that he is very sad that so few people have accepted the message.

Without worrying about the further happenings in the café, I ascend the wooden stairs and enter the first floor, my room.

In other words, this is an upper room. Here we get the first important interpretation. Jan moves. He goes out of the restaurant part. Since when did we stop publishing in the restaurant, in the forum? A long time! We started some new threads, but very few. The active time of the forum is finished because we started to have the visible events. When they started, we began to publish in public because the visible events were there. We stopped publishing in the forum because now we did not have to hide anymore, since there were visible events.

Do I make myself clear? The restaurant, the forum, is no longer necessary once the visible events have started. We do not have to put all our secret thoughts, beliefs or ideas, there because it could be that the fireballs do not fall on the day that we share about.

Do you understand? The restaurant was not necessary anymore. The people who stayed in the restaurant—who stayed there eating, and complaining—were washed away when the tsunami came. They are gone. Members of the Adventist Church that just ate in the restaurant but did not go to the upper room failed.

When did the disciples go to the upper room? On Pentecost, right? On Pentecost the disciples were in the upper room. Which date was Pentecost this year? 15th of June! How long does the second part of the dream go? Until June 27, a few days beyond Pentecost. Correct? Pentecost was the 15th. He went to the upper room slowly before June 27. The papal movements had started. Those who stayed downstairs were lost. He went up on the Day of Pentecost. Is that clear? We have the 15th of June.

First he describes the ambiance, the surroundings and interior of the room:

There isn't much to see. All I see is a wooden bed in the center with a red blanket and a white pillow. Moreover, it is a little dark because the room is lit only by some wall lamps and by the bed itself. There are no more floors above this one.

It's the highest room. So, friends, what does the bed stand for? Jan gave me permission to say a little bit about the thoughts we originally had. Briefly, in the first interpretation we thought it was a private dream because Jan had a terrible situation at home in the year 2011 when he came to our place. His wife did not want to come with him, and she started the divorce process because of his being faithful to God. For months, he invited her to come with him, but she refused everything. She got lost. And she even started the divorce process.

We had no idea that we should interpret the "upper room" as Pentecost. Because he said "my room," and he came to Paraguay, and there was an empty marriage bed left, we thought the way we did. Then we wondered what the white pillow and the red blanket could mean? Maybe his wife would be a martyr? She still has a chance to convert later. So the first time, we interpreted the dream very privately. That is not to say it was wrong. It is normal that there are several levels of interpretation.

One thing is correct: it was a marriage bed that he saw there. And there is a person that he saw there, but it was not his wife. That is where we were wrong, because we locked ourselves into the private interpretation of the dream, and because we locked ourselves to the events of the fireballs or a big catastrophe that would bring in the Sunday Law. We interpreted it wrong. If you know what the bed means, and if you know what the two boards mean, then you know when the Sunday Law will come, at the conclusion.

What happens, event-wise? The floor breaks.

Suddenly, a large part of the wooden floor above the café breaks. Only two separate boards, each leading to an opposite rear corner of the bed are left, leading from the bed to the edges of the room. In my dream I wonder why the wooden floor is in such a state, and I am finally convinced that it is due to the tsunami.

Marriage at Risk

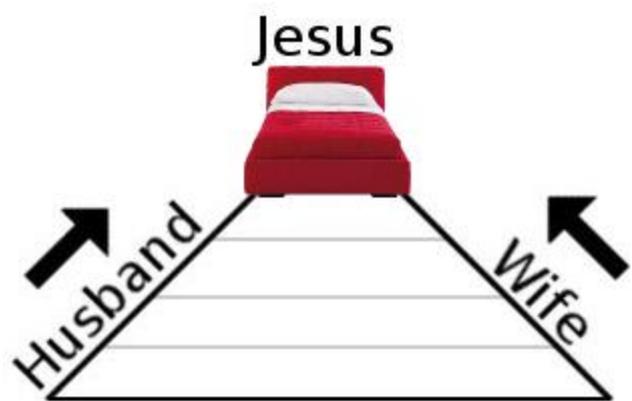

So here's the trick. What do the bed and the two boards mean? It's a marriage bed. The whole floor breaks, and only two planks are left. What do those stand for? Now consider that the sudden event is probably on the 27th of June, 2013. What happened on the 27th of June, 2013? Did something happen around the 27th of June, 2013?

What happened on the 26th of June, 2013? The Supreme Court decision in the U.S. about homosexual marriage, or same-sex marriage, as they say. There were even two decisions. Read it on the Internet! We don't have time for that. Who is allowed to go to the marriage bed? A couple. What does the Bible say? A homosexual couple? No. That's an abomination for God. Christians should have no doubt about that. The Bible is full of it. I have no time to hold a whole lecture on marriage and how holy it is, and that it has to be between two heterosexual people.

The floor broke away. The floor of Jan's room is the ceiling of the café, so what happened to the people in the café? The tsunami went in and the ceiling fell down. Something terrible was happening, and it has to do with a marriage bed. I told you it's also a person. What does white and red normally stand for in the Bible?

Another thing! Does a Christian marriage consist of two heterosexual people only? NO! If you say yes, then you have no idea what a real Christian marriage is composed of!

The Bible says that Adam and Eve as a couple was the first created marriage. It's an institution of Creation in the Garden of Eden of God, and it does not consist of only Adam and Eve. There was a third Person necessary to build a real, true Christian marriage. Jesus Christ Himself! And white and red are His colors. Justification and sanctification! His blood, which justifies you, is red. And justification itself is white. A real Christian marriage is formed only if you include the first person! The first person is Jesus Christ. He is the First Person! All other marriages are un-Christian.

Only two boards were left leading to the bed of Jesus Christ, after the homosexual ceiling broke down. They come from opposite directions, representing opposite sexes or heterosexual people, who can come to the bed of Christ and form a real Christian marriage. That was shown to my friend Jan. In their marriage, they did not have Jesus Christ—he had Him, but she did not have Him. He was not the first person in that marriage, and because of that, the marriage broke. What he sees here is not his marriage; he sees the real triangle of marriage that Jesus Christ allows.

The Bed Himself is Jesus Christ. They are one flesh in Him. Only in Him! Only two planks with opposite sexes form a triangle: man, woman, and Jesus Christ. That is a Christian marriage.

And the others who do not go into this upper room have the ceiling falling down on their heads. These are the pro-homosexual people, for same-sex marriage. They are dead. The papacy is coming in with the sea like a tsunami from the windows, and the ceiling is falling onto their heads.

It fell onto their heads on the 26th of June, 2013, but Jan has the 27th as the last date. Why? What happened on the 28th, by the way? It was yesterday. What happened on the 28th of June? It was Friday. What did the people do in California yesterday, in the afternoon hours? A lot of things happened. Where is the Supreme Court located in the U.S.? On the east coast. It's not on the west coast, it's on the east coast. It's Eastern Time. On the 26th of June at 10 o'clock Eastern Time, the Supreme Court announced that same-sex marriages in California should be allowed again.

What did the people do yesterday? They married! The first couples were married! Before they could marry, the local state court had to react to the decision of the Supreme Court and really allow the marriages in California, physically and effectively. On the 26th, Californians were not yet allowed to marry because there were still pending cases. Do I make myself clear?

There were still pending cases of homosexual couples that wanted to marry, but were prohibited from marrying. Now the Supreme Court decided that it was unconstitutional, and that it should be allowed. But to actually marry, you still need the permission of the state you are in. So the local court, the state court, reacted to the Supreme Court yesterday morning and allowed the marriages. Now it can really happen, now they can really marry, and they did marry in the afternoon yesterday. The first homosexual couples in California married yesterday afternoon.

It's not that difficult to understand. It's the same in Germany. We have a Supreme Court that is the constitutional court, and if it decides something, fine. But then the local court has to decide, "Okay, let's do it!" One is a constitutional question; the other is a legal question.

The 27th was right in the middle. Why did God show the 27th of February for the resignation of the pope, and not the 28th? Why did God show my brother Jan the 27th of June, and not the 26th or the 28th? It has a reason. It was right in the middle between the two different decisions of two different courts! Right on the day when nothing happened, is exactly the day that he dreamt of.

Isn't that strange? He dreamt about it happening, though. He dreamt about the marriage bed. He dreamt about what makes a real Christian marriage. He dreamt about the floor breaking down with all the people standing on the homosexual rules. He dreamt it!

The Seventh Commandment

WHICH commandment is it about? It's a number. Which commandment is it talking about? The seventh. The number is seven. The seventh commandment. You shall not commit adultery. Seven. What is the number of perfection in Christ? Seven! Who makes a marriage perfect? Christ. Seven. It's the seventh commandment. It's a number. He dreamt a number. Seven. And he dreamt the number of the seventh commandment. He dreamt the taking away of the seventh commandment.

It is time for thee, LORD, to work: for they have made void thy law. (Psalm 119:126)

And this whole middle part is talking about this terrible event, that in the United States, the marriage law was changed so that homosexual people can marry now, and that it is unconstitutional to be against it. You will probably be considered a terrorist very soon if you are against it. It's all considered hate speech, what I am saying here, that I'm against... No, I'm not against homosexual people. I'm against homosexuality. I'm never against people or individuals. I'm against their lifestyle, and I'm against them breaking the commandments of God.

Homosexual friends out there, I say, "Please, don't do it." If you cannot otherwise, then just do not do it. Do not covet, do not like, do not look, do not look at the same sex. Close your eyes or whatever, but just do not marry. You're not allowed to marry according to the Bible. Do not have sex with anybody without being married, and not with the same sex. Just do not do it. I don't declare you insane. I do not declare you crazy. I just say, "Don't do it" because it's transgression of the seventh commandment, and so you do not get lost.

Now, how do I come to the Sunday Law. It's easy. There's a quote of Ellen White, which says:

When the Pharisees afterward questioned Him concerning the lawfulness of divorce, Jesus pointed His hearers back to the marriage institution as ordained at creation. [That's what I said before] "Because of the hardness of your hearts," He said, Moses "suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so." He referred them to the blessed days of Eden when God pronounced all things "very good." Then marriage and the Sabbath had their origin, twin institutions for the glory of God in the benefit of humanity. Then, as the Creator joined the hands of the holy pair in wedlock, saying, A man shall "leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one," He enunciated the law of marriage for all the children of Adam to the close of time. That which the eternal Father Himself had pronounced good was the law of highest blessing and development for man. {AH 340.4}^[30]

What did we take with us from Eden? The tree of life? No. The healthy nature? No. The nice work without sweating? No. What did we take from Eden? The marriage and the Sabbath. Twin institutions. Jan dreamt about these two. The first one has now been taken away in the U.S. It was taken away between the 26th and the 28th of June. He dreamt about the 27th, exactly in the middle. The ceiling broke. The floor where he was standing broke. It was taken away.

The Fourth Commandment

So then, what is the third part logically about? It is about taking away the Sabbath. He should have dreamt about another number, right? He dreamt about the number of Christ, which is seven. He dreamt about the seventh commandment. So in the third and last part of his dream, you should look for a number.

This is the phase between June 27, 2013 and October 27, 2013. It is exactly at the end of the year that Jan dreamt about. Again, October 27, 2013 is the birthday of Jesus Christ. This time it's not a Yom Kippur day, but it is still the birthday of Jesus Christ. What better day could Satan choose to take away the Sabbath, than the birthday of Jesus Christ Himself?

Suddenly the roof is gone...

The roof is gone now. What happens when the roof is gone? Light comes in. Loads of light. Bright light. The sunny light of Paraguay comes in, right? But the sun also comes in. The sun is now visible, or Sunday is now visible. There's a lot of light now. Our light was already shining in the second part. How would you describe our movement now? Would you say we are shining as bright as the gamma-ray burst in all the world? No. Does the description of the second part fit our situation? We are not in the dark—there are some wall lamps, and the bed is glowing a little. Is that a good description for our situation? Yes, inside we have light, but the light does not go outside.

Should we be the light of the world? Should the Fourth Angel lighten the world? Does "lighten up the world" mean something brilliant, or just something like a wall lamp? Brilliant! It will light up the whole world! When will Adventists wake up? With fireballs? With a tsunami in California? With an earthquake in Chile? Or with the Sunday Law in the U.S.? Of course! That's what they are all waiting for. When will they wake up and see that they are dead? When the Sunday Law has come.

But then the light of the world goes out, and our light goes out to the world. Right? It's about the Sunday Law. How do I know? Read it:

...without any force or noise, and the upper floor is now surrounded by a chest-high parapet.

There is a chest-high parapet. The roof is gone. Light can come in, and light can go out. How many walls does a room have? It was a rectangular room. It had four walls. Instead of a wall, now there is a parapet, or a half-wall. How many sides does the parapet have? Four. He dreamt about the number four. However, he dreamt about the number four as a parapet. What does a parapet stand for in the Bible?

God made a vineyard, and He put a tower into the vineyard.^[31] And He put what? He put a wall around the vineyard. And what does the wall stand for in all Adventist interpretations, even that of Ellen White?^[32] The commandments of God. They are a protection against sin coming in. The wall always stands for the protection of the Ten Commandments, and if you have a four-sided wall, then which commandment is it representing? The fourth commandment. Which commandment is the fourth commandment? The second of the twin institutions: the Sabbath, which we took from Eden.

Why was it chest high? You could not easily fall down. It was not just ten centimeters from the floor. It was chest high. What is chest high in my body? Which organ in my body is chest high? My heart is chest high. I will write my commandments into your hearts!^[33] Which ones, especially? The seventh and the fourth, because they are the Edenic institutions of God.

We're talking about the two Edenic institutions being taken away, and then the light comes in. The last one is the Sabbath. When does the Sunday Law come? Look, we have a constitutional law that took away marriage. Where should we expect the Sunday Law to enter? In the constitution of the U.S. If it comes to the constitution, then we have the Sunday Law. That is exactly what we are waiting for. It's parallel. The second part of the dream explains the third part. We have the marriage law taken away by the Supreme Court, and we will have the Sunday Law that takes away the Sabbath Law through the Supreme Court. Then we will have the Sunday Law that everyone is expecting. We will have it by the time the dream tells us, exactly according to the window rows.

The whole house was full of water. All the window panes were covered. That means a date: on the 27th of October, 2013, the Sunday Law will be in place. Now guess which day of the week the 27th of October, 2013 is. Let's look it up. Sunday! It will be the first Sunday under the new law. We have four months left, and in these four months, the Sunday Law will come into the constitution of the U.S.

Faith Is Necessary

Friends, that's true. It's a revelation. His dream is completely a revelation. It's an extra-biblical, godly, divine revelation. You do not have to wait a long time. We've got four months to preach what we are preaching. Now you can pray about how we should react with this knowledge. Should we publish the video, or shouldn't we publish the video?

I'm sure that the Sunday Law will come. I'll tell you something. There are two things that make me think so. The text of the third part says, "Suddenly the roof is gone." The roof is the protection of the Sabbath. The roof is gone "without any force or noise."

We were speculating as to whether Satan has changed his tactics or not. There are several hints that it could happen. Everybody is asleep, so why should Satan change his tactics by throwing fireballs now, when we always say fireballs will fall? I told you in the last sermon, last Sabbath, Satan's tactic is to keep the virgins asleep. If he keeps everybody asleep, and nobody wakes up, there will be no 144,000. There will be no witnesses for the Father. The universe and God will be lost if they don't wake up.

Ernie Knoll is twice fallen. He dreamt about fireballs. We do not know if the fireballs Ellen White dreamt of might have already been fulfilled, with the two planes crashing into the World Trade Center, for example. We do not know for sure. Be careful with interpretation.

Think about what would happen if you have so stark or so strong proof that it is not faith anymore that you live by. Without faith you cannot please God.^[34] It's possible—I don't say I know it, I just say it's possible—that there will be no fireballs, and like Jan dreamt, the Sunday Law will come without any force or noise because the people are ready to put those laws in place.

Is there any force or noise necessary in Europe to get the Sunday Law into the European constitution? Absolutely not. It's enough to have a Jesuit pope to do it. It's enough to have bankers to do it. That's how it is in the U.S. too. There do not have to be fireballs to get the law passed any more. The people worship Satan willingly—there don't need to be fireballs. It's possible that they will come. It's possible that they will not come. It's not for sure. What I do know about is the fourth commandment, and that it will be taken away on October 27.

Show My People Their Transgression

There's a second thing that caught my attention. I have no time to speak about it today, because we have exceeded the time already. I sat down and re-interpreted Ernie's Justice and Mercy dream for today. I could show you. It now shows the months and the time frame exactly. The MARTHA letters that fall down are now six months, and it fits perfectly. It is exactly six months from the 27th of April, when the M of MARTHA starts to fall, until the 27th of October. Six months pass from the sign of Jonah to the Sunday Law. There were another six months from the 27th of October, 2012 to the 27th of April.

[Today we have an even better interpretation of the 10 commandment—months and also a more harmonious time for the close of probation for the church compared to what is mentioned in the following paragraphs. As I said in this sermon, the deciphering of dreams or prophecy is a difficult task. When things finally come to pass, we understand how everything fits together. Please read the two-part series: Babylon is fallen! Nevertheless, the basic statements of this section are still valid.]

The ending part of the dream says something Cyrillic or difficult. It says that Martha, Becky's sister, was given one month for each of the commandments that she had transgressed, until she was destroyed. It said that in February of that year, God stepped away from protecting her. So it was the 27th of February when the door of grace for Martha was closed, and ten months later (he said on the 18th of December) Martha fell and her bones were crushed. That stands for the destruction of the Adventist Church by the Sunday Law.

Now calculate it. We know that God really stepped away from protecting His Church on the 27th of February, 2012, but that the visible event for it happened on the 27th of February, 2013 with the first movement of the papacy. How many months are there to the 27th of October, 2013, when the Sunday Law will be there? How many months are there from February to October, from the second month to the tenth month? Ten minus two is eight. Eight months.

How many commandments did the Adventist Church really transgress? Jan himself says eight. Why eight? Why not ten? What about the Sabbath commandment? Do they say, "Go to church on Sunday now! We changed like the Catholic Church, we changed the Sabbath to the Sunday"? Did they say that? Is that the official posture of the Adventist Church? No it isn't. Adventists even say, "We are still the holy people of God because we have the Sabbath." It's really difficult to take the Sabbath away from the pulpits. It's even difficult with the name, Seventh-day Adventist Church. It's really difficult to officially transgress the Sabbath commandment.

Now listen. What did I say yesterday in the morning service? I said how surprising it was that the Adventist Church, being so extremely ecumenically oriented, proclaimed something yesterday in the U.S. from the mouthpiece of the General Conference, and even in super ecumenical Germany, from the mouthpiece of the German Union, Naether. They proclaimed that the Adventist Church sees now a great, terrible danger and problem going on together with the ecumenical movement, because of the same-sex marriage law in the U.S. The Adventist Church made a clear stand yesterday, world-wide, that they do not support same-sex marriages. They are still clinging to the Edenic institutions and hold that only heterosexual marriages are accepted and supported by the church.

Did they transgress the seventh commandment? They didn't. How many commandments did they transgress then? They did not transgress the Sabbath and they did not transgress the marriage commandment about adultery. Eight. So if you take the Martha dream into account, there should be eight months from exactly the 27th of February until the church is destroyed—until it is crushed to the ground, says the dream. That will be the 27th of October, 2013, with the Sunday Law. Then the tribulation of the members of the Adventist Church will be felt. They will be crushed to the floor. Eight months.

Somebody could ask, "How did they transgress the other eight?"

- Does the church—the worldly church—love God supremely? No, they do not.
- Do they take the name of God in vain? Do they have idols? Is money an idol for the Adventist Church? Yes, it is.
- What about parents? Did they transgress the law? Do they do what their pioneers said? Do they respect the parents they had? Do they respect Ellen White? Do they respect Hiram Edson? Do they? No, they do not. They have even forgotten about William Miller. The founding fathers are not respected.
- Did the Adventists Church kill? Do they love their brethren? Did they kill you last year? Did they give you hate speech? Yes, yes, yes, they did. They persecuted you. And they did the same that they did in 1914, which is even written in the stars. They killed and they betrayed their brethren. They transgressed also the sixth commandment.
- Do they covet? I'll tell you how my inheritance went to the Adventist Church. If you give them your little finger, they take your whole arm. They covet. Money is everything that counts to them.
- What is missing? Do they lie? Does the Adventist Church LIE? Every day. They lie that we are a sect. Do they lie that we are heretics? They are lying against us. They are lying against God. They are lying against the nature of Jesus Christ. They are lying against the doctrines. They are lying, saying that the ecumenical movement is good. They are lying, and lying, and lying, and lying against God and men.

Without shame they have transgressed ALL of the commandments except the two that they cannot transgress because they would openly admit that they are fallen, that they have become Babylon. I can tell you with Orion and the HSL how they are transgressing the other eight commandments. It's written in the stars.

Eight months would have to pass until the Sunday Law would crush S.D.A. MARTHA. These eight months will end on October 27. This is one thing you can find if you analyze the Justice and Mercy dream. We did it last week, but we do not have a video about that. Each letter is one month now, six months beginning from the 27th of April, when the door of grace closed for the Adventist Church. In the new interpretation it closed on the 27th of April.

God stepped away from protecting her. Then the panels came in. On the 27th of April, all seven panels were there. The door was closed, and then the letters began to fall. As "an evil and adulterous generation,"^[35] the last sign that the Adventist Church received was the sign of Jonah on the 27th of April—the gamma-ray burst—and with that the organization's door of grace really closed. Now the letters are falling down, and will do so for six months until the 27th of October, when MARTHA will be crushed with the Sunday Law.

Satan's Time Plan

In the Justice and Mercy dream, there is one more sentence that speaks about the seven days of Noah. Remember that? That means it's possible that the Sunday Law will come a week later, because we still have the seven days of Noah. This time I am saying it before it happens, so nobody says, "Ah, you said it was the 27th of October, and then it was the 3rd of November." After the 27th of October, the next Sunday is the 3rd of November. So it's also possible that it comes then, because we have the seven days of the closed door of Noah's ark, etc.

What caught my attention? Please be patient with me today because it's important for me to tell you something else. There is a satanic time plan. We wrote about it in Behind Enemy Lines. It is the signet of Paul/Saul. I'll put it on the screen. I'll tell you something. The whole plan is clearly written there also. We wrote about that in the study forum last year. We deciphered some more things than we published officially. You know, there is the trident of Neptune. What we had not figured out so far was a number. Neptune is an important planet in astrology. The trident with this sword, and the other line, definitely makes an astrological sign. It means and points to the planet Neptune, or Poseidon in Greek. Neptune (or Neptunus in Latin) is a planet. They look at the planets. We do not look at the planets with our studies. We look to the stars and the moon. Neptune is the only planet that has 13 moons. Neptune stands for the number 13. We already had the number 12.

Look, the signet says 2008 and 2009. It explains to us that if something happens in the papacy, it is always announced a year beforehand, and the big feast comes a year later with the event itself. What was the event on the 29th of June in 2008-2009? It was the proclamation of the encyclical of Pope Benedict that demanded world leadership for the pope. It was a big event. But that also tells us when the Sunday Law will come and the fire will fall from heaven. Be careful! It says at least the year, and later it says more.

Three chain links were lacking to close the chain that would enslave the world. The chain stands for the enslavement of the world. The New World Order. Beginning from 2009, three links are missing: 2010, 2011, 2012. Then the forum members thought—and I also thought the same—“Yeah, the fireballs will fall in 2012.” But they did not fall, because we did not think correctly. We learned that the announcement is a year before the event, and the event happens a year later. When should the fireballs fall, if they fall? They should fall in 2013. With that, the trident of Neptune, representing Neptune or Satan himself, will begin to reign. 2012 is not written here. 2012 is the announcement.

What was done in 2012 to announce Satan's reign? The Olympic Games in London. It was the most satanic show that I ever saw in my life. Satan himself even had a big show there, as a super-oversized statue.^[36] Incredible! Some of you saw the opening ceremony. It was terrible. That was the announcement; it would actually happen a year later. Do I make myself clear?

When would it come? It's written there. There is a date written—at least the exact month when the Sunday Law will come with the fire from heaven. I wrote it in the post last year in the forum. I told you about the number 20. 17 lacks three to have 20 chain links. So it's about something that would enslave the world in a time lapse of twenty years.

What is it talking about? It's talking about the European Union. In the year 2009, the Maastricht Treaty, which founded the European Union, had existed 17 years. The great big 20-year anniversary is three years later. Why? Let's go to the webpage of the Maastricht Treaty.^[37] The Maastricht Treaty was signed on the 7th of February, 1992. That was like when on the 26th of June, the Supreme Court signed something but the people could not marry immediately. It had to be effected. The law had to be ratified.

When did it come to effect? When did the European Union come into effect? It was more than a year later, on the 1st of November, 1993.^[38] Twenty years later is November, 2013. The big feast day, the enthronization of Satan on the throne that they prepared for him last year, will be around the beginning of November, 2013. Either the 27th of October, 2013 or the 3rd of November, 2013 will be the first Sunday under the Sunday Law on this earth. In the U.S., the image of the beast will exist. That is the big thing that will happen.

The Sunday Law is already in the European Union. That is nothing new. In Germany we have had it in the constitution since 1949. It's nothing new in Europe, but the image will have been formed in the U.S. by that date. That is what we are waiting for.

Proclaim it now for four months! The door of grace for the Adventist institution is closed. The Adventist institution had time until the 27th of April this year, until the sign of Jonah, to repent and to officially take this into account and say that this movement is supported by the Adventist church, which repented of her sins that are written in Orion and written in the HSL. They did not, and God made the gamma-ray burst fall so they would see how they will soon end, along with everybody who clings to that organization.

Again, I say it clearly: I'm not saying, "Leave the Adventist Church!" Don't resign your membership. I never said that. I said, "Form study groups at home. Don't attend the churches anymore. Don't give your tithe there to the organization anymore, because their door of grace has closed." But wait. Don't resign your membership. I never said that. I don't know who said that. Wait.

They will be killed. The leaders will be killed. There will be a cleansing of the church. New leaders will be put into the organization, and then you can go back to your churches. Then the swaying will happen. "The building was swaying." Of course, this speaks about the shaking. The Adventist Church building will shake, it will sway back and forth, but it will stop swaying. It's also in a dream of Ernie Knoll, called The SDA Church. The building shakes, but the shaking stops after a while and then you can go back to the church. Then you can go get baptized there, because they will have accepted the movement. They will have accepted the Orion message, and the old leaders who were persecuting you will be gone. They will be dead. Don't resign your membership. Why should you? Just don't go where Satan is working at that moment. Don't listen to the pastors who speak against Jesus Christ in Orion and Jesus Christ's blood in the HSL. Don't listen to them!

A Forward Glance

Therefore, my plan for the next four months is the following. We got camera equipment, we got a microphone. We got all these things now. We will have four more months to proclaim all these messages in the form of sermons. If you don't like me, don't watch it. If you like what I say, then watch it. We have four more months!

And I'll tell you one more thing that we found out yesterday. When the Sunday Law comes in on the 27th of October, 2013, then we will have another year with only repression, suppression, oppression—but probably not with killing. One more thing is sure: we will still be able to buy and sell in that year, until around October/November 2014. Then the time of not buying and not selling will come in. Then it will be very difficult for us to propagate the message over YouTube or websites or whatever. Things will get worse and worse and worse in that year, but it will be possible until around October/November 2014, and then it will get really, really, really hard.

I am not telling the audience why I know that, but I'm sure we will have a problem to send videos to the internet from November 2014 on. This movement also stands for worldwide events. What happens on a small scale here, happens on a large scale in the world too. So, watch the videos, watch the sermons! We'll try to be with you the next four months, then one more year if it's possible, and then you'll have to go alone.

The false Christ will come. The killing will start. We don't know when the fireballs will fall—maybe three days before the 27th of October. That's pure speculation. We do not know. We do not have extra-biblical dreams or something. If we find something, we'll inform you, but I do not speculate about fireballs any more. I do say that Jan's dream was a divine dream, because it clearly spoke about the marriage.

Did I tell you why it was all dreamt to point in between or a day before the events? Did I make myself clear why? Because it all ends on a Sunday! All of the other dates are prequels to the Sunday Law. It had to be dreamt on a 27th or point to a 27th. Jan dreamt it on the 27th of October 2011 and it will happen on the 27th of October two years later, when the year of the dream will have passed from October 27, 2012 to October 27, 2013. The public resignation of the pope was on the 27th but the real official resignation of the pope was on the 28th. If Jan had dreamt about the 28th, then we would not have a Sunday in the end for the Sunday Law. It's all about the Sunday Law. That is the important date.

The same thing happened when the date was in between the Supreme Court decision on the 26th of June and the 28th of June with the local state judgments. It landed in the middle of these because in the end we needed the 27th to come to Sunday. Do you understand? That's the reason why it's not exactly on the day. God wanted to point to the Sunday Law on a special Sunday that was coming up.

So, I hope you enjoyed it. Take something home from it, and get prepared! Especially our audience—I think we are more or less well prepared, but I doubt that the audience is. I hope the audience does not say, "Ah, another four months that I can stay in my townhouse or apartment in the center of the city. Ah, four months—that's a long time for me to still fornicate and do whatever I want. When the Sunday Law comes, then I will promise to improve my behavior."

Friends, the door of grace for the Adventist Church is locked. If you do anything that the Adventist Church does, partake in their sins, you get the plagues. You get not just the Sunday Law; you get the plagues. That will be no fun. Only a third of the human beings will perish in a moment, and the rest will have one year to suffer through terrible plagues. I'll say it again: I'm not a fear-monger. On the contrary, I say, "The Sunday Law is still four months away." But you should have anxiety to save your lives—to be saved by Jesus Christ.

Prepare! There's a dream of Ernie, "Prepare..." and it's speaking about the plagues, the wrath of God, and it says exactly which year the wrath of God will come in. He repeats that so many times. Let me repeat it to the audience once more: "As June is a short month, so is time. Prepare for the wrath of God."^[39] That's the whole dream. It has been repeated and repeated and repeated. He had the dream on the 22nd of June, 2007, which left eight days till the end of June. Ernie Knoll is a prophet—at least he pretends to be a prophet—so it's prophetic time. Eight days stand for eight years. $2007 + 8 \text{ years} = 2015$.

What do we say? On the 24th of October 2015 comes the gamma-ray burst.

Take care, and God be with you! Amen.

The Voice of God

Written by Robert Dickinson

Published: Thursday, October 17, 2013, 2:48 pm

Created: Thursday, October 17, 2013, 2:48 pm

When the announcement came that the world record for largest harp ensemble was about to be set on October 26, 2013, we immediately recognized its incredible significance. (If that date doesn't ring a bell in your mind yet, you might want to review the closing sections of our article about The End of the SDA Church.) John the Revelator saw down the corridors of time to this very Sabbath, and said:

*I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps.

The Bible does not employ idle words, and it is not talking about a whimsical notion of winged cherubs on clouds plucking the strings of their harps in ceaseless boredom for the rest of eternity. The harp is a symbol for something, and to understand the symbol we need not look any farther than the Bible itself to interpret it. In the words of the psalmist, I say:

Hear this, all you peoples; listen, all who live in this world, both low and high, rich and poor alike: My mouth will speak words of wisdom; the meditation of my heart will give you understanding. I will turn my ear to a proverb; I will expound my riddle on the harp. (Psalm 49:1-4)

So the harp is an instrument for solving riddles and expounding mysteries. The goal of this present article is to open your eyes both figuratively and literally to the geographical changes that will happen in relation to God's church on the very date that the record-breaking harp ensemble will perform.

The Heavenly Pattern

We are talking about places in this article, so we need to establish some basic geographical terms. The Bible not only deals with earthly geography, but it deals with heavenly "geography" as well. Thus the term "east" has multiple meanings in Scripture, as we will see.

The children of Ishmael and Esau settled to the east of Israel (Genesis 25:6), and were thus referred to as the children of the east in the Bible. The three kings that visited Jesus with gifts were kings of the east, or Arab leaders, who were not so unfamiliar with the God of Israel and His promises. It makes sense why Ellen White said the following about the wise men:

The light of God is ever shining amid the darkness of heathenism. As these magi studied the starry heavens, and sought to fathom the mystery hidden in their bright paths, they beheld the glory of the Creator. Seeking clearer knowledge, they turned to the Hebrew Scriptures. In their own land were treasured prophetic writings that predicted the coming of a divine teacher. Balaam belonged to the magicians, though at one time a prophet of God; by the Holy Spirit he had foretold the prosperity of Israel and the appearing of the Messiah; and his prophecies had been handed down by tradition from century to century. But in the Old Testament the Saviour's advent was more clearly revealed. The magi learned with joy that His coming was near, and that the whole world was to be filled with a knowledge of the glory of the Lord. {DA 59.3}

Ellen White gives a clear precedent here in relation to the coming of Jesus: there is a mystery to be discerned in the starry heavens. This applies to His second advent as well as His first.

The prophecy of Balaam which she refers to is as follows:

...There shall come a Star out of Jacob, and a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel... (Numbers 24:17)

There is more to that prophecy than meets the eye, but let us lay the foundation first.

Not only were the wise men from the east, meaning the Arab regions east of Israel, but they also saw a star in the east, meaning in the eastern heavens.

Saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. (Matthew 2:2)

This is where we need to differentiate between terrestrial east and celestial east. At least a basic understanding of astronomy and astronomical terms will be helpful as we delve into this topic, but there is no need to worry if you do not understand everything, because Chart 2 brings it all together visually to illustrate the point.

We need to know where the wise men saw the star in order to understand how it fulfilled the prophecy. Because of the way the earth's axis and orbit are tilted, the stars appear in different places at different hours of the day and in different seasons, respectively. This causes a little bit of difficulty when astronomers want to talk about the location of an object in the night sky. They would like to be able to find it again at any time or during any season, so they need to record where they saw it relative to the background of stars (the celestial sphere) instead of the north-south-east-west compass directions. Therefore, astronomers normally refer to an object's location by its coordinates on the celestial sphere instead of its location in the sky.

How do you say where something is on the celestial sphere? First of all, there has to be a reference point. The reference point used by astronomers is the location of the sun at the time of the vernal (spring) equinox. It is called the vernal point. Ancient peoples commonly began their calendar year when the sun was at or near this point.

All celestial objects rise in the geographical east and set in the west, but we need to understand celestial east and west relative to the vernal point. The direction of east points to objects that rise after the vernal point, while the direction of west points to objects that rise before the vernal point.

Notice that the directions of east and west in the stars appear backwards (east on the left, west on the right) because of the fact that we are looking “up” at the stars instead of “down” at the ground.

Using the standard coordinate system for astronomical objects as shown in Chart 1, an object’s declination is simply the number of degrees above the vernal point, and the right ascension is the number of degrees (or hours, minutes, and seconds of rotation) left of the vernal point. The grid in Chart 1 marks every hour of right ascension on the horizontal axis, and every 10 degrees of declination on the vertical axis. The zero-hour line (black) is analogous to the prime meridian that divides the eastern and western hemispheres of the earth.

To visualize which stars lie in the direction of celestial east, all we need to do is wrap the chart back into a sphere. For illustration purposes, Chart 2 shows only a small slice of the celestial sphere.

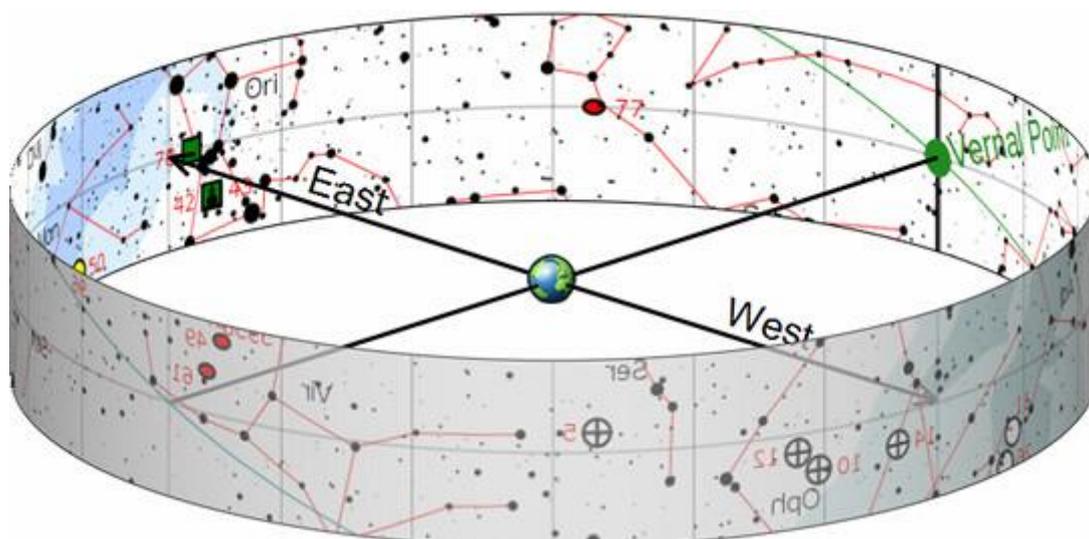

Chart 2 – Visualization of celestial direction vectors (range: $\pm 10^\circ$ declination)

It is easy to see that the constellation of Orion lies squarely in the direction of “east” on the celestial sphere. Another way to visualize this is to imagine yourself standing on the earth’s prime meridian at the moment when the vernal point is at its highest in the sky. As you stand facing eastward, you would be staring straight at Orion on the horizon. Note: If you do this near the day of the spring equinox (approximately March 20) then the sun will mark the vernal point, and it will be at its highest at 12:00 noon local time. To check this with your planetarium software, it might also be helpful to set your position to the equator so that the sun (and thus the vernal point) is directly overhead.

Compound the confusion of celestial east vs. terrestrial east with the ambiguity of the word heaven, which can refer either to the sky, the stars, or the place where Jesus lives, and the intended meaning can really get obscured. A person might wonder why God allows such ambiguity in His Word; some reasons might be to give the scripture flexibility of application and to give us an opportunity to dig for hidden treasure and understand its varying depths of meaning.

Now that we have that basic foundation, it is possible to better understand the verses in the Bible that refer to the direction of east in connection with the heavenly sanctuary, or simply said “celestial east.” Let’s take a quick look at some such verses as well as quotes from the Spirit of Prophecy and see if they don’t gain a whole new depth of meaning now that we know that Orion is in the east.

First of all, let’s take a closer look at the fulfillment of Balaam’s prophecy in the experience of the wise men. They saw the star in the east, which means that they saw it in the constellation of Orion. How did that fulfill the prophecy that a star would come out of Jacob? One casual note from Wikipedia clues us in on the link. In their article about the Jacob’s staff (a precursor to the sextant used to measure angles), they say the following:

The origin of the name of the instrument is not certain. Some refer to the Biblical patriarch Jacob,[1] specifically Gen 32:11.[1] It may also take its name after its resemblance to Orion, referred to by the name of Jacob on some medieval star charts.[2][3] Another possible source is the Pilgrim’s staff, the symbol of St James (Jacobus in Latin). The name cross staff simply comes from its cruciform shape.

Now it becomes immediately clear that the prophecy of Balaam was literally fulfilled: the star in the east did in fact come out of the constellation of “Jacob” or Orion. Thus just by studying these verses with a star chart contemporary with the writing, the Bible itself tells us that the direction of celestial east (where the star came from) is the direction of the Orion constellation. Otherwise, the star that the wise men saw would not have been the fulfillment of Balaam’s prophecy.

Ellen White affirms this solidarity between Orion and the east. She not only informs us that the New Jerusalem will come from the open space in Orion (the Orion Nebula), but she also describes Jesus as coming from the east, thus linking Orion to celestial east once again:

Soon our eyes were drawn to the east, for a small black cloud had appeared about half as large as a man’s hand, which we all knew was the sign of the Son of man. {2SG 32.1}

As we approach the real birthday of Jesus on October 27 again this year and our hearts draw nearer to our Savior through the experience of the wise men in following the star, and I am saddened to think that not many more people are truly looking for Him now compared to then.

Let’s examine another Bible verse that deal with heavenly east:

Afterward he brought me to the gate, even the gate that looketh toward the east: And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east: and his voice was like a noise of many waters: and the earth shined with his glory. (Ezekiel 43:1-2)

These verses pack a lot of information! Remember, the temple that Ezekiel saw was a pattern of the heavenly sanctuary as explained in the article Thou must prophesy again... Since the temple is a pattern of the heavenly sanctuary, it is fair for us to interpret the direction of east as a celestial direction. Ezekiel is taken to where he sees eastward, which represents our looking at Orion. As we study the Orion Message, behold, the “glory” of God comes from the east.

God's glory is His character, as He revealed to Moses when he asked Him to show him His glory (Exodus 33:18 and following). As we study the Orion Message, we see the character of God, His glory, revealed in His dealings with the Seventh-day Adventist Church at each specific point in time marked by the seven stars.

This passage definitely links the message from the east with two important things:

1. The voice of God like many waters
2. The lighting of the earth with His glory.

Before we explore those two topics, let's be really certain that this is talking about the Orion Message. Let's read the next two verses of this passage:

And it was according to the appearance of the vision which I saw, even according to the vision that I saw when I came to destroy the city; and the visions were like the vision that I saw by the river Chebar; and I fell upon my face. And the glory of the LORD came into the house by the way of the gate whose prospect is toward the east. (Ezekiel 43:3-4)

Here the prophet reminds us of the vision recorded in Ezekiel 1 of the cherubim with four faces and wheels. To be sure that we are still on the same topic, he then ties everything together as the glory of God coming from the east. In other words, verses 1-4 form a unit. This indicates that the two pieces of important information noted above and the reference to the vision of Chapter 1 are all part of this introduction.

The vision of Ezekiel 1 is of course the basis for the Orion Message, as detailed in the presentation. So we can be sure that this passage is indeed speaking of the Orion Message, and that the Orion Message is also the voice of God like many waters and the lighting of the earth with God's glory.

The Angel with Great Power

Anyone familiar with Revelation 18:1 should instantly recognize the reference to lighting the earth with God's glory. This is the Fourth Angel's Message, and it comes from the stars:

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. (Revelation 18:1)

The verses that follow describe this world-wide message more clearly as decrying the fall of Babylon with all the false doctrines that it deceives the nations with. The false doctrines of Babylon, which are found in every organized church today, are clearly identified by the message that comes down from Orion. Continuing, we hear Jesus Himself directly addressing His people:

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities. (Revelation 18:4-5)

Jesus speaks from heaven, from Orion. Of course Jesus has ever been calling His people out of the confusion of the various "Babylons" of history, but never has this verse spoken more pungently than it does today for at least a couple of reasons:

1. Jesus states why He calls His people out. It is so they are free from sin, and so they do not receive the plagues. This describes the 144,000. This is key because it means that this prophecy can only be completely fulfilled in one specific generation of earth's history: the last generation that lives during the time of the seven last plagues.
2. Babylon is described here in a way that has never been completely fulfilled in the past. Her sins are described as having "reached unto heaven." One example is Sodom and Gomorrah whose cry reached the Lord in heaven, and He destroyed it with fire and brimstone. In no more accurate way have the sins of Babylon reached unto heaven than as expressed in the Orion Message.

The remainder of the chapter is a grave warning that Babylon will receive the plagues. Once again, this is speaking about the Orion Message collectively, which gives a very real warning of the wrath of God expressed through the Betelgeuse hypernova explosion that will result in the plagues upon this very generation. God is no respecter of persons, and church affiliation will save no one.

I remind readers that on the one hand, only Jesus has the authority to say the things that are being said here. He is the one speaking, not me. Those who have taken upon themselves to decry the complete apostasy of the SDA organization without the authority of the voice from heaven, the Orion Message, have been committing a grave mistake. On the other hand, no one—not even Ellen White—has the authority to stop the mouth of Jesus. She often spoke in the hope and confidence that her beloved church would welcome the Savior in her lifetime, but those hopes were dashed to pieces by the rebellion of Church leadership and she died without seeing them fulfilled. (And mind you that rebellion had a conservative face too.) Nevertheless, she also prophesied of this unfortunate eventuality:

The world must not be introduced into the church, and married to the church, forming a bond of unity [ecumenism]. Through this means the church will become indeed corrupt, and as stated in Revelation, ‘a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.’ {TM 265.1}

The world has indeed been married to the church, so you can infer the rest. Furthermore:

If the church of God becomes lukewarm it does not stand in favor with God any more than do the churches that are represented as having fallen and become the habitation of devils and the hold of every foul spirit and the cage of every unclean and hateful bird. Those who have had opportunities to hear and receive the truth, and who have united with the Seventh-day Adventist church, calling themselves the commandment keeping people of God, and yet possess no more vitality and consecration to God than do the nominal churches, will receive of the plagues of God just as verily as the churches who oppose the law of God. {Letter 35, 1898}

Are you still proud to belong to Laodicea (the lukewarm church) like Walter Veith after reading that quote? I hope you are on your way to the church of Philadelphia instead! Laodicea and Philadelphia represent spiritual conditions; of course the true pillars of God's church remain more sure than ever, but the apostate organization will be spued out. Notice the message Jesus sends to His own people:

Jesus sends His people a message of warning to prepare them for his coming. To the prophet John was made known the closing work in the great plan of man's redemption. He beheld an angel flying 'in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him for the hour of his Judgment is come and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters [Rev. 14:6, 7].

The angel represented in prophecy as delivering this message, symbolizes [not the organizational leadership, but] a class of faithful men, who, obedient to the promptings of God's Spirit and the teachings of his word, proclaim this warning to the inhabitants of earth. This message was not to be committed to the religious leaders of the people. They had failed to preserve their connection with God, and had refused the light from heaven therefore they were not of the number described by the apostle Paul: ‘But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day we are not of the night nor of darkness’ [1 Thess. 5:4, 5].

The watchmen upon the walls of Zion should be the first to catch the tidings of the Saviour's advent, the first to lift their voices to proclaim him near, the first to warn the people to prepare for his coming. But they were at ease, dreaming of peace and safety, while the people were asleep in their sins. Jesus saw His church, like the barren fig-tree, covered with pretentious leaves, yet destitute of precious fruit. There was a boastful observance of the forms of religion, while the spirit of true humility, penitence and faith—which alone could render the service acceptable to God—was lacking. Instead of the graces of the Spirit, there were manifested pride, formalism, vainglory, selfishness, oppression. A backsliding church closed their eyes to the signs of the times. God did not forsake them, or suffer his faithfulness to fail but they departed from him, and separated themselves from his love. As they refused to comply with the conditions, his promises were not fulfilled to them. {4SP 199.2-200.1}

Those who reject the Orion Message, the light from heaven, are indeed not among those who know the day and hour. Being in the SDA Church or even being a leader in it does not change that fact.

Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:3)

As in Heaven, So on Earth

Remember, this is about geography. Are there known examples of geographical information given in prophecy? Adventists should be aware of at least two examples. The first example is the beast of Revelation 13:1.

And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the name of blasphemy. (Revelation 13:1)

The geographical hint is in the word "sea," which is a reference to a densely populated geographical region comprised of different multitudes and people groups with different languages, namely the continent of Europe, which is the more densely populated region of the Old World.

And there came one of the seven angels which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgment of the great whore that sitteth upon many waters:...And he saith unto me, The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues. (Revelation 17:1,15)

The location detail doesn't end there, however. We are also given other criteria for identifying the beast, and its specific seat within the continent, namely Rome, the city of seven hills:

And here is the mind which hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth. (Revelation 17:9)

The second well-known example of prophetic geographical information is the beast of Revelation 13:11:

And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon. (Revelation 13:11)

Whereas the sea represented a densely populated area, the earth represents a sparsely populated area. It represents the New World—specifically the Americas—as of a couple of hundred years ago when the prophecy speaks of. But the verse gives more specifics: it had two horns like a lamb. Of all the countries that make up the Americas, we understand this to symbolize the United States of America with its fundamental principles of Protestantism and Republicanism. It is characterized as docile and benevolent (lamb-like) but latently speaking like a dragon.

Who Can Find the Virtuous Woman?

Since prophecy describes the geographical location of the first and second beasts, and the whore that controls them, doesn't it stand to reason that it should also give the particulars of where God's true church is headquartered? The first indication is the New World:

And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there a thousand two hundred and threescore days. (Revelation 12:6)

This prophecy points to a place sparsely populated where the persecuted people of God fled to during the 1260 years of oppression in Europe. They came to America in order to be free to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience. The SDA Church rose up from these people, and despite growing into a world-wide church, it remained headquartered in the United States.

Now that the official SDA Church is at its end, it is logical to wonder if the Bible gives any additional information as to where the remnant of the remnant that escapes it will be established. Since that last remnant has the Orion Message, we might do well to gather a clue from a verse in the Bible that mentions Orion:

Which maketh Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the chambers of the south. (Job 9:9)

This is a verse full of significance that is unfortunately shrouded. If you look up Pleiades in the Strong's concordance, for example, you will find that "seven stars" is also an acceptable rendition. Orion not only has seven stars, but also a room or chamber, the "open space" that Ellen White speaks of: the Orion Nebula, which is situated below (or south) of the center belt. So you can see that this verse speaks more about Orion than it appears on the surface, but it isn't the purpose of this article to explain that in detail.

Since the heavenly sanctuary of Orion has "chambers of the south" that have something to do with the coming of the Holy City, it stands to reason that God's church on earth, the earthly reflection of the heavenly sanctuary, would also have "chambers of the south" that have something to do with the New Jerusalem. This is a geographical hint as to where on Earth the voice of God from Orion issues from: the South.

If the woman fled to the wilderness, or Americas, then the chambers of the south would logically be the countries of South America. That is where we should look to find the message that opens (looses) the mysteries of Orion.

Canst thou bind the sweet influences of [the seven stars], or loose the bands of Orion? (Job 38:31)

In the article The End of the SDA Church, we explain the symbolism of the woman standing on the moon, that it is a contrast to the statue of Nebuchadnezzar. It shows the church through time, its feet on the Judaic foundation, standing through the centuries of Christianity, crowned with the SDA Church, and sparkling with the stars of Orion. Each phase has its time and locale. The twelve stars, representing the faithful remnant of Adventism, are headquartered in South America.

Does the Bible tell us anything more specific? Where in South America should we look?

And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder... (Revelation 14:2)

The voice of God coming from Orion is likened unto "many waters" and "great thunder." Putting those two descriptions together, we should be looking for "great thundering abundant water" or in other words, a mighty waterfall.

If you aren't familiar with South American waterfalls, all you have to do is run a Google search and you will find many travel reviews that consistently list one particular waterfall as #1: Iguazu Falls. As we proceed, you will see just how precisely this fits the prophecy. Interestingly, a video of Iguazu Falls even has the caption "Mightier Than the Thunder of Many Waters!"

On November 11 of 2011, Iguazu Falls was announced as one of the seven winners of the New Seven Wonders of Nature by the New Seven Wonders of the World Foundation [\[world-renown\]](#).

Numerous islands along the 2.7-kilometre-long (1.7 mi) edge divide the falls into numerous separate waterfalls and cataracts, [\[many waters\]](#) varying between 60 to 82 meters (197 to 269 ft.) high. The number of these smaller waterfalls fluctuates from 150 to 300, depending on the water level.[3]

The name "Iguazu" comes from the Guarani or Tupi words "y" [i], meaning "water", and "ûasú" [wa'su], meaning "big".[2] [\[great waters, or many waters\]](#)

The junction of the water flows marks the border between Brazil, Argentina, and Paraguay.

This wonderful place is also considered a "biological hotspot" (a genetic bank). That status is significant considering that the "Gene" of Eternal Life accompanies the Orion Message. This genetic reserve surrounding the thundering waterfall is symbolized by the seven thunders, which have only now been unsealed:

And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not. (Revelation 10:4)

Friends, this goes deep—much deeper than I can present to you in this article.

We have narrowed our search down from the Americas (the wilderness) to South America (the chambers of the south) and to one of the countries surrounding Iguazu Falls. The problem is that it borders three countries—how can we be certain which one concerns the prophecy? We could dig a little into the history of the region and find that the falls originally belonged to Paraguay and were named by its indigenous Guarani (meaning "warrior") people, but can we be certain?

We haven't exhausted the text yet:

And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps: (Revelation 14:2)

The Wikipedia entry for harp contains this succinct statement:

There you have it: the Bible points directly to Paraguay as the country where the voice of God from heaven comes from, announcing the day and hour of Jesus’ coming. But it doesn’t end there.

As we saw in the story of the magi that brought gifts to Jesus at His first advent, the circumstances leading up to His second advent are analogous. In a similar way to how the magi studied the starry heavens and discovered the glory of God, we found God’s character revealed through the sun, moon, and stars. As the magi found the time of Christ’s first advent in their studies, we found the time of His second. There is a definite parallel between Jesus’ first and second coming.

To Ezekiel, the gospel of Jesus’ first coming was illustrated by waters issuing out of the temple. They grew to be ankle deep, knee deep, waist deep, and finally impassable. The voice like many waters is analogous to this. From the impassable thundering Iguazu waterfalls, we follow the Paraná River southwest to where the Paraguay River feeds into it. From there, we can only follow the Paraguay River one direction, and it takes us north right to the “Cordillera” (literally “Mountain”) district. One small tributary of the Paraguay River—whose name could be translated as Crystal Clear Creek—brings us to the ankle-deep waters that trickle across the very property where we live and work. The voice of God announcing the day and hour of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ comes to you just as the gospel of His first coming came in the vision of Ezekiel. Even the physical layout of our farm matches Ezekiel’s description: the creek runs eastward on the south side of our east-facing church/temple.

Afterward he brought me again unto the door of the house; and, behold, waters issued out from under the threshold of the house eastward: for the forefront of the house stood toward the east, and the waters came down from under from the right side of the house, at the south side of the altar. (Ezekiel 47:1)

Thus the Bible gives a precise geographical description of the origin of the voice of God on Earth.

God's New Channels

The healing waters represent not only Jesus whose sacrifice redeemed us, but the Holy Spirit whose work sanctifies us. We are just a small handful of people spreading this divine message like a trickle of water, but as it flows out to you the waters increase and increase again as you in turn share it with others.

Under the showers of the latter rain...the Holy Spirit will speak through the living, human agent with convincing power. No one will then watch to see if the sentences are well rounded off, if the grammar is faultless. The living water will flow in God's own channels.... I am sure that there is a heaven full of the richest, enduring treasures to be freely given to all who will appropriate them to themselves, and becoming enriched, thereby, will impart freely to others. I know this to be the truth. {YRP 324.4}

The voice of God like many waters is indeed a reference to the many people like you who will yet proclaim this "heaven full of the richest, enduring treasures" of a message.

And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. (Revelation 19:6)

But, what about the General Conference?

The October 10, 2013 edition of the Adventist Review contained many articles about Righteousness by Faith and the 1888 General Conference, and topics such as Last Generation Theology. They put on an air of holiness, but if you actually read their articles, they undermine and deny all of the wonderful truths that are brought to light by our movement. All the while, they are experts at making themselves look good. To the likes of Ted Wilson and his crew, Jesus scathed:

Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness. Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity. (Matthew 23:27-28)

Ellen White acknowledged the voice of the General Conference in session as the voice of God, insofar as the leaders were men of faith and prayer, and elevated principle, but when they were not she likened it to blasphemy (ChL 20). There was another time when she said that she "could no longer regard the voice of the General Conference...as the voice of God" (GW 490). These statements are highly significant in light of the announcement that I opened this article with. Three times the General Conference respected the ecumenical Creation Sabbath mandated by the papacy: 2009, 2010, and 2012. Three years the owner of the vineyard came to look for fruit (Luke 13:7). One more year was given, and here on October 26, 2013 the General Conference once again betrays the very Creator they purport to worship. Says the owner of the vineyard: "Cut it down!"

On that very day, as the harpists in Paraguay will break the world record in their secular event, you will know where the world-enlightening voice of God comes from—not the General Conference, but rather instead the chambers of the south, like the sound of thundering waters, and harpists expounding riddles.

Balaam's Prophecy

There is yet one more parallel between Jesus' first advent and His second advent that I wish to share with you. It is the prophecy of "Balaam" who was once a prophet of God but turned instead to filthy lucre. Even after his apostasy, however, God put in his mouth words of blessing for Israel.

The modern Balaam of today is a fallen prophet by the name of Ernie Knoll. Even though he has failed in his duty, God has seen fit to confirm our studies through the symbolism in his dreams. The voice of God is described in exactly seven of his dreams, which give added detail to the sound of many waters. He describes it as a thunderous waterfall, a mountain stream, and a small trickle all at the same time. You can see that this fits exactly with the three river segments: the Iguazu Falls on the Paraná, the Paraguay River that flows through the mountain district, and the small creek that crosses our farm.

In one of his dreams (The Senior Pastor) he even visits Iguazu Falls, describing it perfectly unbeknownst to himself.

Sadly, he has rejected the Orion Message and turned his dreams against it, but the Lord has overridden him as he did with Balaam. I suppose he would be more enthralled with the completely ecumenical-friendly presentation of The Creation—The Earth is a Witness (also produced in 2010) which does not challenge his paradigm. This film, now being released world-wide, is certainly “tremendous” with its high-definition 6 × 12 meter panoramic views, but it is doctrinally empty. It falls tragically short of the 7 × 12 dimensions associated with God’s messages which are packed full of pure doctrine. We know all pure doctrine is centered on the cross of Jesus Christ, and it’s His body depicted in Orion and His blood exemplified in the Gene of Life.

The voice of the LORD is upon the waters: the God of glory thundereth: the LORD is upon many waters. The voice of the LORD is powerful; the voice of the LORD is full of majesty. (Psalm 29:3-4)

There is one more reason why God chose the thundering Iguazu Falls to symbolize His voice. The grandeur of the canyon below the falls is a remarkable reflection of the grandeur of the Orion Nebula (which we can only vaguely discern from earth). Take the time to view documentaries of these marvels—if a picture is worth a thousand words, a video is worth a million.

Ellen White names three ways that the voice of God speaks to us: through His Word, through providential workings, and through the “appeals of His Holy Spirit, making impressions upon the heart, which will be wrought out in the character” (YRP 102). In this article I have shown you in God’s word where His voice comes from—both in the heavens and on earth—and I have shown how the providential workings of secular events testify for us. One question remains: Is the Holy Spirit binding the “sweet influences” of Christ’s character to your heart?

The Hand of the Giant

The Wrath of God

Written by John Scotram

Published: Tuesday, May 14, 2013, 6:34 pm

Originally published on Thursday, May 9, 2013, 11:34 pm in German at www.letztercountdown.org

In my last article, The Loud Cry, I explained the difficulties we have to face as students of time prophecy. While we were still working on translating it, a press release from the scientific community surprised us. It showed that the time has come to give you the last part of the Orion message. I held this back for a long time because I did not want to shock anybody. I knew that God would reveal when He wanted you to be informed.

Although this little Bible study draws its conclusions purely from the knowledge and foundation God has already given us in the Orion study, the message that comes out of it is so earth-shattering that many will again call us alarmists or fear-mongers, although that is not our intent. We are just following the sequence of the messages which God Himself gave in Revelation and other prophetic passages like Matthew 24. These have been confirmed now in world politics, through the moves of the Vatican, as well as through natural events.

The Golden Calves of Adventism

We touched the three Golden Calves of Adventism, while many readers still do not understand that the final rapid movements have already begun. By the end of this series of articles about the Wrath of God, many will have learned to believe it.

We go directly against the anti-time-setting Golden Calf of Adventism (and of the former Protestant churches), and thus in the opinion of many we lift ourselves above God in a “blasphemous” way. However, it was not we who put the stars of the Orion constellation in place, nor did we influence the path of the sun and moon. Neither was it we who detailed the Orion and the sun- and moon-driven feast days in the Bible, pointing to two extra-biblical books that were to be discovered and researched: the Book of Seven Seals, and the Book of Seven Thunders. The former is written on the inside and outside, but only the outside was previously known. The words which the Seven Thunders had uttered were not even recorded by John. We followed the hints God put in the Bible, and by digging for His treasures we discovered one gold and one silver vane that revealed the last messages of God to His apostate church and we recognized our responsibility to deliver these messages to you. In the article A Word of Advice, we already showed that this doesn't contradict the warnings of Ellen White.

The second of Adventism's Golden Calves is the oft-repeated opinion that the church will go through to the end, and will never become Babylon, and that Ellen White's prophecy was unconditional. However, the messenger of the Lord makes many contrasting statements as follows:

If most earnest vigilance is not manifested at the great heart of the work to protect the interests of the cause, the church will become as corrupt as the churches of other denominations.

All who live in Battle Creek [\[and today in the General Conference\]](#) will have a fearful account to render to God if they suffer sin upon a brother. It is an alarming fact that indifference, sleepiness, and apathy have characterized men in responsible positions, and that there is a steady increase of pride and an alarming disregard of the warnings of the Spirit of God. The barriers which God's word places about His people are being broken down. Men who are acquainted with the way in which God has led His people in the past, instead of inquiring for the old paths and defending our position as a peculiar people, have linked hands with the world [\[ecumenism\]](#). The most alarming feature in the case is that warning voices have not been heard in remonstrance, entreaties, and warnings. The eyes of God's people seem to be blinded, while the church is fast drifting into the channel of worldliness. {4T 512.3–513.1}

The world must not be introduced into the church, and married to the church, forming a bond of unity. Through this means the church will become indeed corrupt, and as stated in Revelation, “a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.” [Revelation 18:2 = Babylon] {TM 265.1}

Unfortunately, it has come as far as I showed in some of the articles in the Behind Enemy Lines section, especially in The Ecumenical Adventist. The organized part of the Adventist Church has connected itself with the other churches of the world, and thus technically it has already become Babylon. It does not matter whether or not this happened under the cover of an observer-only status. It rejected the warning messages of God and submitted to Rome. The words Ted Wilson always likes to repeat against ecumenism should have been followed by actions before probation for that part of the Church finally closed. As faith without works is dead, so are Ted Wilson and the Church that follows him condemned without works.

Throughout thousands of pages of the Spirit of Prophecy, Ellen White warned the church that it could only succeed by staying faithful to the counsel given it. Of all those pages, these unclean and hateful birds picked out only one quote which stands in a completely different context. In 1893, a Brother Stanton received an answer from Ellen White to his accusation that the church had become Babylon by forming an organized structure. We don't promote that reasoning. Instead we have always warned that worldliness entering the church and the connection with the world through the ecumenical movement does make it Babylon according to Ellen White. God recorded the beginning of this sin through the brightest star in Orion, Rigel, and thus He spoke a clear warning: Turn back, before it is too late!

The third and worst Golden Calf is the filthy lucre of the organized church. It presumes to be the only storehouse where tithes and offerings should flow to. Again, it uses the well-known trick of repeating Ellen White's statements torn from their context in order to cement their position at the expense of other statements coming from the same source. She also said what to do when the church leadership became unfaithful. The stupid church sheep that do not know who their real shepherd is are running along after them, throwing their money to Satan for him to print more deformed Great Controversy books. You should know what will happen to you if you do that. I refer you to the first chapter of Becky Knoll's Truth Book, because it contains an extensive and actually true elaboration of this topic from within the Adventist church. I cannot add much more to it: Chapter 1 – G. Edward Reid, Tithe, and the Storehouse

The motto of the Adventist Church leaders is effectively: Whoever touches these three Golden Calves of Adventism has to be silenced. Thus they follow the Babylonian example. The punishment for all of the Church's transgressions against the few faithful ones who are still in it waiting for a cleansing to happen cannot be kept back any longer and will be more horrible than the most daring human mind can imagine.

When the Four Angels Let Loose

This article series will show what will happen when the door of mercy closes for the entire world. The majority of mankind would surely like to avoid the wrath of God, but it will even be poured out on the vast majority of the members of the Adventist Church. Daniel's timelines set it for October 25, 2015. Everyone should know that their only escape is to obey God's instructions in all four angels' messages. The very last warning shortly before the closing of the door of probation is the loud sixth trumpet with the four rushing winds. It will be one more urgent warning that one last short time will have started, where repentance is still possible.

And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:15)

When these four angels are released, one-third of humanity will be affected; they warn very loudly. The fifth, sixth, and seventh trumpets are described as “woes” because their consequences will be terrible. We can see that with increasing intensity every woe becomes worse. In the fifth trumpet, we have pain but still no death (which in symbolic form doesn’t mean nobody will die). In the sixth, we will already have to face the death of a third part of mankind (which again, in symbolic form, does not mean that instantly a third of all people will die). And at the sounding of the seventh and last trumpet, it is over for everyone who hasn’t already repented (then there is really no turning back). Let’s re-read the events of the beginning of the sixth trumpet (the second woe) in their whole context.

One woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter. And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:12-15)*

These verses refer to the last warning before the great time of trouble, during which the plagues will fall. Its beginning is marked in Orion by the star Saiph, which points to the year 2014, as a range of time from autumn 2014 to autumn 2015. Thus, Saiph points not only to autumn 2014 as the beginning of the last phase of the sealing of the 144,000, but also to the Day of Atonement High Sabbath of October 24, 2015. In the Shadows of the Sacrifices articles, we biblically calculated the duration of the time of the plagues to be exactly 372 days. The first seven days of the period correspond to when Noah was closed inside the ark before any rain fell. The door of grace will close seven days before the plagues fall, and that corresponds to October 17/18, 2015. The last of the 144,000 will have been sealed by that time and Jesus will have finished His intercession and left the Most Holy Place on October 24, 2015.

What exactly will happen on October 25, 2015? How are the plagues to be interpreted? What will cause them? Where will they come from?

Adventists know that “the golden altar which is before God” is the altar of incense, where the prayers of the saints ascend for Jesus to bring them to the Father. This is a description of the services and equipment of the heavenly sanctuary. Thus John saw processes relating to heaven. The only One who can speak “from the golden altar of incense” is our Lord Jesus Christ Himself. He commands the angel with the sixth trumpet to unleash the four other angels. This means that Jesus Himself determines when the last warning begins before the closing of the door of mercy, and we know that He will do it before He throws down the censer of His intercessory service. (Once again, we see how absurd it is to assume that Jesus does not know the time, even though He Himself gave these Revelations to John in the year 90 A.D.)

I was taken off in vision to the most holy place, where I saw Jesus still interceding for Israel. On the bottom of His garment was a bell and a pomegranate. Then I saw that Jesus would not leave the most holy place until every case was decided either for salvation or destruction, and that the wrath of God could not come until Jesus had finished His work in the most holy place, laid off His priestly attire, and clothed Himself with the garments of vengeance. Then Jesus will step out from between the Father and man, and God will keep silence no longer, but pour out His wrath on those who have rejected His truth. I saw that the anger of the nations, the wrath of God, and the time to judge the dead were separate and distinct, one following the other, also that Michael had not stood up, and that the time of trouble, such as never was, had not yet commenced. The nations are now getting angry, but when our High Priest has finished His work in the sanctuary, He will stand up, put on the garments of vengeance, and then the seven last plagues will be poured out. {EW 36.1}

Pay attention to how close before the vials of plagues are poured out that the four winds are going to be loosed! Ellen White sees it as if it will be almost the same time, but we know that the trumpets are “warnings mingled with mercy,” therefore the loosing of the four winds cannot point to the beginning of the plagues. That is why she says “and then.” You really have to read attentively not to make mistakes!

I saw that the four angels would hold the four winds until Jesus’ work was done in the sanctuary, and then will come the seven last plagues. These plagues enraged the wicked against the righteous; they thought that we had brought the judgments of God upon them, and that if they could rid the earth of us, the plagues would then be stayed. A decree went forth to slay the saints, which caused them to cry day and night for deliverance. This was the time of Jacob’s trouble. Then all the saints cried out with anguish of spirit, and were delivered by the voice of God. The 144,000 triumphed. Their faces were lighted up with the glory of God. Then I was shown a company who were howling in agony. On their garments was written in large characters, “Thou art weighed in the balance, and found wanting.” I asked who this company were. The angel said, “These are they who have once kept the Sabbath and have given it up.” I heard them cry with a loud voice, “We have believed in Thy coming, and taught it with energy.” And while they were speaking, their eyes would fall upon their garments and see the writing, and then they would wail aloud. I saw that they had drunk of the deep waters, and fouled the residue with their feet—trodden the Sabbath underfoot—and that was why they were weighed in the balance and found wanting. {EW 36.2}

We will show in later articles that in the judgment cycle, there is also a sixth trumpet for the Adventists themselves. Therefore, this section contains a terrible warning for the nominal Adventists who once kept the Sabbath, but let go of it in the little time of trouble because they had never learned what it means to be faithful to the commandments of God. Their devotion was already lacking; they had failed to keep the health message and didn’t follow the advice of God’s messenger, for example to live in the country. They thought they could still prepare quickly when the Sunday Law finally came, but it was too late. They had no foundation and their houses were built on sand. When the four winds in the little time of trouble began to blow, they despised the last warning, lost their footing and were swallowed by the quicksand of their fleeting faith.

Our eyes should be directed upward when we see things start to happen, but almost no one follows Jesus’ advice in that regard. We do because we know that the verses of Revelation are pointing especially to the happenings in the heavenly sanctuary, which is located in the Holy City in the open space in Orion: the Orion Nebula.

Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. The atmosphere parted and rolled back; then we could look up through the open space in Orion, whence came the voice of God. The Holy City will come down through that open space. {EW 41.2}

As we read on in this section, we see that Ellen White clearly shows us that the warning before the plagues does not originate on earth only, but it is about events that have their origin especially in the heavens or firmament:

I saw that the powers of earth are now being shaken and that events come in order. War, and rumors of war, sword, famine, and pestilence are first to shake the powers of earth, then the voice of God will shake the sun, moon, and stars, and this earth also. I saw that the shaking of the powers in Europe is not, as some teach, the shaking of the powers of heaven, but it is the shaking of the angry nations. {EW 41.2}

The whole purpose of this vision was stated at its beginning:

December 16, 1848, the Lord gave me a view of the shaking of the powers of the heavens. I saw that when the Lord said “heaven,” in giving the signs recorded by Matthew, Mark, and Luke, He meant heaven, and when He said “earth” He meant earth. The powers of heaven are the sun, moon, and stars. They rule in the heavens. The powers of earth are those that rule on the earth. The powers of heaven will be shaken at the voice of God. Then the sun, moon, and stars will be moved out of their places. They will not pass away, but be shaken by the voice of God. {EW 41.1}

It clearly speaks about events having to do with the stars, sun and moon. When in 2010 the voice of God from Orion started to preach the nearness of the coming of Jesus and thus the time of the plagues, it should have perked the ears of Adventists long before now since they have had such precious treasures in their possession.

Therefore, we should look foremost in the heavens rather than only on the earth for the four angels that are bound in the great river Euphrates. The heavenly counterpart of the Euphrates river is the stream that emanates from the throne of God, which I showed on slide 165 of the Orion presentation:

It is only logical that the four angels who receive the command to release the four winds from the angel with the sixth trumpet must also be located in Orion. And we already know them! These are the four angels who represent the wounds of Jesus in His hands and feet and are often referred to as the shoulder and foot stars of Orion. These four seraphim not only point out times on the Holy Clock, but they also symbolize His character. They are the living creatures, the lion, the calf, the man and the eagle or the stars Saiph, Betelgeuse, Bellatrix and Rigel, respectively (see slide 173).

The heavenly Euphrates which they are bound to is the "crimson stream that reconciled man to God." Only Jesus has the authority to give the order to unleash the four angels from those shores.

The following Bible text, which normally is only read superficially, tells us that the plagues are associated with one of the four living creatures, and thus one of the four stars:

And after that I looked, and, behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened: And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles. And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, who liveth for ever and ever. And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled. (Revelation 15:5-8)

My guess is that you've never connected this verse with Orion before, and therefore you could not have known the nature of the seven last plagues. You didn't understand that when God says heaven, He means heaven, and thus the sun, moon and stars.

We should think about which of the four shoulder or foot stars of the Orion constellation will fill the vials of the seven plague angels and be the source of all seven plagues. The Spirit of Prophecy helps us:

Then I saw that the seven last plagues were soon to be poured out upon those who have no shelter; yet the world regarded them no more than they would so many drops of water that were about to fall. I was then made capable of enduring the awful sight of the seven last plagues, the wrath of God. I saw that His anger was dreadful and terrible, and if He should stretch forth His hand, or lift it in anger, the inhabitants of the world would be as though they had never been, or would suffer from incurable sores and withering plagues that would come upon them, and they would find no deliverance, but be destroyed by them. Terror seized me, and I fell upon my face before the angel and begged of him to cause the sight to be removed, to hide it from me, for it was too dreadful. Then I realized, as never before, the importance of searching the Word of God carefully, to know how to escape the plagues which that Word declares shall come on all the ungodly who shall worship the beast and his image and receive his mark in their foreheads or in their hands. It was a great wonder for me that any could transgress the law of God and tread down His holy Sabbath, when such awful threatenings and denunciations were against them. {EW 64.2}

Please take another look at Figure 2. There we had two stars, representing the wounds of Jesus in His hands: Betelgeuse and Bellatrix. If we investigate their ancient Arabic names, we find a surprise. While in Arabic, Bellatrix is called Al Najid (the Conqueror), and has nothing to do with a hand in any language, the significance of Betelgeuse is quite clear:

The star's name is derived from the Arabic يد الجوزاء Yad al-Jauzā', meaning "the Hand of al-Jauzā'", i.e. Orion...

In other cultures we find the reference to "Orion's" hand:

- al-Yad al-Yamīn / اليد اليمين (the right hand)
- Ied Algeuze (Orion's hand)

Once again, we see how precise God is with His Word. It was Jesus' right hand that He raised to give the Advent people the health message, to keep them from the world and worldliness. And it is His right hand that will smite the world with the plagues—the world that rejected His help of a meatless diet and did not prepare for life in heaven, where there will be no more death (even of animals).

Then Jesus would encourage them by raising His glorious right arm, and from His arm came a light which waved over the Advent band, and they shouted, "Alleluia!" Others rashly denied the light behind them and said that it was not God that had led them out so far. The light behind them went out, leaving their feet in perfect darkness, and they stumbled and lost sight of the mark and of Jesus, and fell off the path down into the dark and wicked world below. {EW 14.1}

The health reform, I was shown, is a part of the third angel's message and is just as closely connected with it as are the arm and hand with the human body.—Testimonies For The Church 1:486 (1867). {LDE 80.4}

I've been asked many times if it is important for the martyrs and the 144,000 to follow the Adventist health message, at least to respect the basic principles to abstain from things such as meat-eating, drugs (including nicotine, tea and coffee) and alcohol. Here you have the answer, and you have to immediately follow the light that shines on your path if you will be victorious. There is no time to be hesitating. If this doesn't become clear to you by the end of this article series, then no further reading will help either. It would be wasted effort.

At this point, I'd like to remind you of God's warning to all of those who revile the messages of His Holy Spirit and take lightly the Son of God, who speaks from Orion:

He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses: Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace? For we know him that hath said, Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, The Lord shall judge his people. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God. (Hebrews 10:28-31)

Pay attention to this text:

See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven: Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven. (Hebrews 12:25-26)

Signs in Heaven

There must be signs in the heavens that show us that something is happening in Orion. We should pay special attention to Betelgeuse as we search for those signs, because that is the star that shows the most important character trait of Jesus... it corresponds to the calf that was slain, representing His sacrifice and His blood.

First, it is striking that Betelgeuse is a red giant, and thus fits perfectly to illustrate sacrifice. It pointed to 1914 where there was a dispute among the brethren followed by a division into two camps. A rift was made in the Adventist church, and separation followed. (I'm not talking about the founding of the Reform church which should not have happened, but of the split between different doctrinal views.) The Lord will cause separation again the same way. This time it will be the separation of His people from the people of Satan, and it will be completed just before the great day of wrath:

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

The imagery goes even further... The fifth seal speaks especially of the blood of those who gave their testimony for the Word of God:

And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (Revelation 6:9-11)

This seal that we have before us has always foretold of its own repetition. Two times of special persecution for the testimony for the Word of God show us both the classical interpretation in the time of the Reformation in Europe as well as the time of the Judgment of the Living, which culminates in the little time of trouble when Pope Francis will surpass his predecessors from the Dark Ages in their inquisitions and cruel torture. Like in the classical interpretation, the fifth seal began with a great message of reform that would quickly lead to intensifying persecution: this time it was the Orion Message, which Jesus sent at the beginning of 2010, so His people would be saved from the false doctrines that corrupt the Advent people. Instead of accepting the message joyfully, its messengers suffered the heaviest persecution at the hands of their brethren, like the reformers of past ages before them. The initial spiritual killing of the brethren by silencing their mouth will lead up to physical killing, through different levels up to the death decree.

The first sign in heaven which the Adventists should have paid attention to was the Orion Message itself!

Of course, the souls of the slain only speak symbolically here. Since 31 A.D., Jesus has been ministering in the heavenly sanctuary, and that is where the “prayers” of the slain come to the altar. So we should pay attention to whether or not there is a sign that began during a period about 500 to 600 years ago, before the Reformation. It should be a sign that shows that Jesus will end His intercession in our near future and will put on the garments of His vengeance, which for a long time has been cried for.

The classical sixth seal shows some signs in the sky (and on earth) that have already been decoded:

And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. (Revelation 6:12-13)

We find the classical interpretation, for example, at The Mustard Seed (translated):

THE GREAT EARTHQUAKE

First we must ask ourselves when the 6th seal happens. It must be after the Reformation, at the time when the Roman empire was coming to an end. During this time, there was an exceptionally strong earthquake that has become historically known as “the Lisbon earthquake”. It struck on November 1, 1755. The city was transformed into a debris field by three successive earthquakes. Up to 90,000 people lost their lives. The resulting tsunami tore over the West African coast taking caravans into the sea. The tremors were felt strongly in North Africa, France and Central Europe. The earth has not been at rest since that time. The number and intensity of earthquakes are still rising. The earthquake that triggered the Fukushima disaster on March 11, 2011 had a magnitude of 9.0, a magnitude that had never been registered before. The impact of the earthquake on December 26, 2004 in Thailand was even greater, which claimed several hundred thousand victims through the resulting tsunami. We are reminded of the words of the prophet Isaiah in the Bible: “The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunkard, and shall be removed like a cottage; and the transgression thereof shall be heavy upon it; and it shall fall, and not rise again.” Isa 24.20

DARKENING OF THE SUN

After the great Lisbon earthquake, the well-known “dark day” came on May 19, 1780, following the sequence of the 6th seal. On that day, a strange darkness extended over all of New England. The darkening began at 10 o’clock in the morning and lasted until the middle of the following night. To date, the true cause of the phenomenon is unknown. The stars could be seen shining, but in the morning such darkness came that work had to be stopped, although the sun was visible the whole time. The darkness of the following evening was the deepest that has ever been observed. The moon appeared blood red, which no one could explain.

THE FALLING STARS OF 1833

On November 13, 1833 there was a huge meteor shower that far exceeded the greatness of all previous appearances of this type. The number of observed shooting stars that night was estimated at about 500,000. The whole sky seemed to be a rain of fire. For the generation then living, these natural phenomena were clear indications of the imminent coming of Jesus. They came in the same order revealed to John in the 6th seal. Perhaps these signs will repeat again, more impressively and to a greater extent when the powers of the heavens will be shaken immediately before the return of Christ. Jesus wants all who eagerly await His coming to be filled with hope by these signs, as Luke reports. "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh." Luke 21:28

Amazingly, that brother also sees the pending repetition of this seal, but without going into the Jericho model that we discovered. On slide 101-106 of the Orion presentation, we have presented the repetition of the sixth seal and the signs which have already occurred since march 11, 2011, like the great earthquake of east Japan, the darkening of the sun in July of 2013 through a huge coronal hole which seemed to devour almost a fourth part of our sun, and the blood moon tetrad since April 15, 2014. We also pointed to the next sign, the falling of the stars which has to come soon now. It represents the fireball event which Ellen White saw in two different visions.

Adventists should have paid better attention to these signs in heaven, which are named like a countdown in the sixth seal, because they should have learned from history which repeats!

(Annotation from August 2016: For more information regarding the fulfillment of the classical sixth seal, please see the addendum to History Repeats II. The fulfillment of the repeated sixth seal is explained in the addendum to Signs of the End and slides 101-114 of the Orion Presentation.)

Over and over again, we are accused of teaching without a biblical foundation. Yet, over and over again we see that those people have never tried to look at our complete foundational works, like History Repeats. Of course the Orion PowerPoint presentation doesn't contain thousands of explanatory slides; it has links to the deeper studies. But they throw it into their self-made inferno without any further study. In so doing, they repeat what King Jehoiakim of Judah did with the scroll of Jeremiah (chapter 36) and burn it. Thus the judgment on the Jehoiakim of today will sound the same:

Therefore thus saith the LORD of Jehoiakim king of Judah; He shall have none to sit upon the throne of David; and his dead body shall be cast out in the day to the heat, and in the night to the frost. (Jeremiah 36:30)

Ted Wilson will have no descendants on the "throne" of the General Conference, and his body will not be buried. The next elections would be in 2015, but the General Conference will no longer exist by that time.

Isaiah tells us what will happen to the disloyal during the millennium on earth while the redeemed are enjoying the kingdom of heaven:

And they shall go forth, and look upon the carcasses of the men that have transgressed against me: for their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched; and they shall be an abhorring unto all flesh. (Isaiah 66:24)

Something must happen that will be so terrible that people do not even have time to bury their dead.

The author of The Mustard Seed, though actually wise, makes some little mistakes navigating the waters and explains that the other parts of the sixth (classical) seal have not been fulfilled yet, and should be fulfilled in the near future. However, his claim is only correct for the repetition of the sixth seal, which takes place at the moment. The reason is that the expectations of the Millerites for the great day of the wrath of God was on October 22/23, 1844, and the heaven which Hiram Edson saw open on that day was the first (though incomplete) fulfillment of the sixth classical seal. We can only apply this text to us in the repetition of the sixth seal in the heavenly judgment day, which is the seventh day of Jericho...

The words of the 6th seal end with another announcement.

And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:14-17)

With these verses, our gaze is directed towards the future. Our attention is drawn to events that lie ahead and will happen just like those that have already been fulfilled. Immediately before and during Jesus' second coming unimaginable forces are set in motion that will shift the mountains and islands themselves and cause them to disappear. ... This is the first time the wrath of God and of the Lamb is mentioned, from whom the people will seek shelter. They realize that they have made the wrong choice and are now without protection from His wrath. No one will stand before God, who is not covered by the mercy and grace of the Lamb. Probation is finally over; repentance and prayer cannot help anymore. The decision is final. God's wrath is poured out to its full extent on the despisers to whom salvation was offered....

Since part of the 6th seal has already been fulfilled, the coming of our Lord can't be long. This should move us to eagerly study God's Word and prepare thoroughly for that day.

So we expect a terrible event in the end of the repetition of the sixth seal, which will make it clear to the people that the wrath of the Lamb, the plagues, are now imminent. What will set these unimaginable forces in motion? What will shift the mountains and islands? YouTube and the Internet are full of ideas from people who aren't Seventh-day Adventists, because Adventists don't even believe anymore that Jesus is coming soon, and thus such questions are of no interest to them. Having many different theories, however, does not make it easier to assign the correct event to the biblical truth. Nevertheless, we have already found biblical evidence indicating that it has something to do with the star Betelgeuse.

Jesus also tells us in what order the events will come:

Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened [coronal hole of July 2013], and the moon shall not give her light [blood moon tetrad since April 15, 2014], and the stars shall fall from heaven [fireballs?], and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken [Betelgeuse?]: (Matthew 24:29)

That refers to the little time of trouble, which will have taken place before the time of plagues, and that gives us more confidence that the first signs of the classical sixth seal are repeating now shortly before the close of probation.

The first four plagues speak about a terrible physical punishment for mankind. They lead into the remaining three plagues (Revelation 16:10-21), which speak about the destruction of Rome, the intention to execute the death decree against Sabbath-keepers, the earthquake at Jesus' coming, and the hail which will then destroy the rest of mankind. Can we attribute all of the mentioned physical effects on the earth and on mankind to one and the same cause?

A warning is in order at this point. We are accustomed to reading biblical texts that were written thousands of years ago with detachment. "For a long time nothing happened, so we think it will not happen to us either." Peter explicitly warns us not to think this way:

...Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation. (2 Peter 3:4)

Yet, I must warn those who get scared easily. It is one thing to read the “usual” apocalyptic plague scenarios in the Bible or about the catastrophic destruction theories of the scientific community independent of their relation to reality and the timing of actual events, and something completely different to face with strong faith an imminent event that could really wipe out all known life on this planet and will strike one’s own person in a short timeframe.

We are now offering you the red pill of truth about Betelgeuse. Whoever wants to wake up from his slumber and feels strong enough to look into the eyes of a monster may do it safely. The Lord gives these warnings for a reason. He wants you to wake up at last and see the reality of His coming and face with courage the terrible events that have to come first. He does not want you to be afraid; He wants you to be ready to go through all of this to prove your gratitude for Jesus’ sacrifice with your testimony for God, out of the love you have for Him. The reward is protection against this event. However, it was promised only to the Philadelphian church, the church of the 144,000:

Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth. (Revelation 3:10)

Those who prefer to keep on sleeping can stay with the blue pills, distributed (almost) free of charge by the three croaking wide-mouth unclean frogs: Ted Wilson with his Spiritual Formation (the dragon), the organized Adventist Church along with the other fallen former Protestant churches (the false prophet), and the “humble” Jesuit Pope Francis with his ecumenical gospel to the poor (the beast).

The following is still directed to those churches—the dead Sardis and Laodicea (the Adventist Church and the apostate Protestant churches, respectively):

Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:3)

I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth. Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked: I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see. As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent. Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. (Revelation 3:15–20)

Monsters in Heaven

You decided to take the red pill, so I welcome you to the heavenly universe, which declares the glory of God (Psalm 19:1). The blue pill is to believe that God is only love, and that His universe is only a peaceful place filled with children's laughter, where anyone is saved just by believing that Jesus existed. Before I administer the red pill, here's one last warning: The heavens also declare the righteousness of God, and it doesn't look too cozy for the unclean and the scoffers:

The LORD reigneth; let the earth rejoice; let the multitude of isles be glad thereof. Clouds and darkness are round about him: righteousness and judgment are the habitation of his throne. A fire goeth before him, and burneth up his enemies round about. His lightnings enlightened the world: the earth saw, and trembled. The hills melted like wax at the presence of the LORD, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth. The heavens declare his righteousness, and all the people see his glory. Confounded be all they that serve graven images, that boast themselves of idols: worship him, all ye gods. (Psalm 97:1-7)*

In these last two articles of this series about the wrath of God, I'm stretching to my limits trying to explain to you what God meant when He said:

But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased. (Daniel 12:4)

Many preachers have already realized that the last part of the verse also (!) applies to mankind's growing scientific knowledge. God knew that we wouldn't understand many things in the Bible until the end, when we would have the technology to study the far reaches of the universe where many of His majestic creations are found. The symbols in the Bible only hint at them.

There's a lot hidden in God's love letter to the children of men. On slides 162-168 of the Orion presentation, I tried to give you some hints which point especially to the constellation of Orion. Some of them were subtle, since I still had faith that some of you would read and study on your own. Unfortunately, that wasn't the case most of the time. One of the hints I gave was the discovery date of the structures around the star of Jesus, "Alnitak", mentioned on slide 164. It wasn't until 1888 that mankind had developed telescopes good enough to discover the famous Horsehead Nebula. It was not mere coincidence that that discovery was made in the very year when the light of the Fourth Angel began to shine, as Ellen White announced in one of her most famous statements.

The time of test is just upon us, for the loud cry of the third angel has already begun in the revelation of the righteousness of Christ, the sin-pardoning Redeemer. This is the beginning of the light of the angel whose glory shall fill the whole earth. For it is the work of every one to whom the message of warning has come, to lift up Jesus, to present him to the world as revealed in types, as shadowed in symbols, as manifested in the revelations of the prophets, as unveiled in the lessons given to his disciples and in the wonderful miracles wrought for the sons of men. Search the Scriptures; for they are they that testify of him. {RH November 22, 1892, par. 7}

The Vessel of Time shows that the last triplet of years for humanity could have begun in 1888, and Jesus could have come back in 1890. Jesus Himself rides a horse in the scene of His coming in Revelation 19, as do the four horsemen of the apocalypse (Revelation 6), which form the time divisions of the Orion Clock. Astronomers gazed upon this area of the Orion Nebula for the first time in 1888. Ever since then, we could understand why God chose that magnificent symbol in the immediate vicinity of His star, Alnitak.

Only recently have we had high-resolution images of the horse which serves as the symbol for Jesus' means of transport when He returns.

Video: ESA, The Horsehead Nebula in New Light

I've given you a clue... Why do you think Jesus used the Horsehead Nebula, which is part of the Orion Nebula, as the symbol of the vehicle for His return?! Can you identify the big star next to the Horsehead Nebula, and next to the Flame Nebula? Do you see the stream of blood flowing from the throne of Jesus? Why do you think that these structures first became visible to the human race in 1888?

If the light of the Fourth Angel had been accepted at that time, then God would have prepared His church through people like Joseph Bates and Ellen White, who were enthusiastic about astronomy and the Orion already in their day. Jesus would have taken that generation on the long journey to the sea of glass, the Orion Nebula. There wouldn't have been a time of plagues, and soon it will become clear to you why, as you see what a loving God wanted to spare humanity from.

However, things turned out differently so the Orion Clock and the High Sabbath Clock had to keep ticking to fulfill their ultimate purpose—namely to give a second Midnight Cry to a completely apostate Church so it could have another chance to repent. Unfortunately, the opportunity wasn't used, so now the last voice of God on this earth is preparing a little faithful flock to stand for the Father through the final rapid movements. Now these faithful people will have to go through the plagues that will result from a real monster in the heavens.

Betelgeuse and other Supergiants of God's Creation

In the first article in this series, The Hand of the Giant, I showed that the red giant star Betelgeuse is the (symbolic) right hand of Jesus. He will use it to execute His vengeance on those who despise and kill His people, whose souls have been pleading from under the altar since the Reformation. There are some Adventists among us who still believe that the fallen leadership can be saved; they do not understand that the door of mercy for the apostate organization is already closed. The language God uses to articulate the message we have to give is very vivid. Therefore, I'll let the scientists do most of the speaking. If I use strong words, I'll only reap ridicule and criticism, even if God Himself used the same language in the Bible.

Why do I speak of Betelgeuse as a monster? Foremost because of its size, which we'll have to look at. A monster describes something terrifyingly large. We need a visual comparison to fully comprehend the size of Betelgeuse, because the human imagination simply can't span the astronomical sizes of these heavenly bodies that God created.

Video: Star Size Comparison

A million earths would fit inside our own sun. If Betelgeuse were at the center of our solar system, the surface of this red supergiant would reach all the way to the orbit of Jupiter. In other words, its expanse is comparable to the unimaginable extent of Jupiter's orbit. In the video, only two stars larger than Betelgeuse are shown, and the last one is the biggest star now known: VY Canis Majoris, a red hypergiant. We can be sure that when we speak of supergiants or hypergiants, we are speaking of true monsters. Not many astronomers use the term hypergiant because it isn't clearly defined yet. The diameter of VY Canis Majoris is "only" about two to three times that of Betelgeuse.

If you were to try to fill the volume of Betelgeuse with the sun, you would need 1.5 billion suns to do it. (Not to be confused with the mass of Betelgeuse, which is about 15 to 20 times that of our sun. I will say more about that later.)

Here is another video that illustrates the size difference between our sun and its planets as compared to one of these super monsters. This could easily apply to Betelgeuse too, since it approaches the same scale:

Video: The Universe in 3D: Planet & Star Size Comparison

Betelgeuse and the Biggest Bombs in God's Arsenal

Red supergiants are as huge as their name suggests, but they burn enormous amounts of fuel at a rate far exceeding normal stars like our sun. For that reason, they have only a fraction of the life expectancy of our sun—usually only a few million years, which is like a few seconds in relation to the cosmos. After their short life span, they die a stunning and violent death. They explode as super- or hypernovae, the largest and most energetic explosions that the universe knows.

Video: The Universe – Supernovas

That video was informative. Now we know that the biggest explosions in the universe are type II supernovae, which are triggered by the collapse of giant stars having a mass greater than 10 solar masses. When a giant star explodes as a supernova, it collapses into a neutron star, a magnetar or a black hole. The outcome depends on the original mass, but the thresholds vary widely among scientists, as each one seems to have his own theory. Some say that a deadly gamma-ray burst associated with a supernova occurs if the star's mass is at least about 10 solar masses, while others put the threshold at 100 solar masses.

The truth is, this branch of science is still in its infancy. Therefore, I was almost desperate while doing the research for this article. There are so many different opinions and figures. Thus, I'm going to have to show that scientists know the power of supernova explosions and gamma-ray bursts, but the processes are not well understood. Scientists have no idea how they really occur and no reliable models for predicting such monstrous explosions, similarly to how the meteorologists have trouble predicting the weather four weeks in advance. As we will see later, science also falls short when it comes to determining the direction of a possible gamma-ray burst, like a weather forecaster trying to predict where a lightning bolt will strike during the next thunderstorm.

Many videos about supernovae name some upcoming candidates that are in close proximity within our own galaxy. The candidate for us is: Betelgeuse. We have also learned that a type II supernova is preceded by a collapse or shrinkage of the star, and that is what has been observed in Betelgeuse since 1993. The German Wikipedia has this to say about it [translated]:

Betelgeuse - its future as a supernova

According to the opinion of astronomers, Betelgeuse will end as a supernova. Opinions differ as to the time frame for the expected event: some estimate in the next thousand years [\[according to other sources and the video it can even be in 5 minutes\]](#), others a hundred thousand years at the earliest. The supernova would be highly visible on Earth and would shine over the whole sky.

With red giants of Betelgeuse's type, you can expect a supernova to increase the star's brightness 16,000 times (on average). At the moment, Betelgeuse shines with a magnitude of about 0.5 in the starry sky; as a supernova it would reach an apparent magnitude of -9.5 to -10.5, corresponding to an absolute magnitude of -15.1 to -16.1. This corresponds to the brightness of a half-moon in the sky. According to other sources, supernovae outbreaks of dying superstars can even reach absolute magnitudes of about -17 to -18, sometimes even beyond (especially with stars having a large radius). In the latter case, the supernova would reach the brightness of the full moon.

Because the rotation axis of Betelgeuse does not point in the direction of the earth, the gamma-ray burst would not be so strong that the biosphere would be damaged. [8] [Measurements \[9\] at California Universities in 2009 showed that the diameter of Betelgeuse has shrunk about 15% since 1993, while the brightness did not change.](#)

This is highly interesting information, but our research shows that these are all just guesses. The truth is that scientists have to admit that this is all new territory for them, and they don't know anything for sure. It starts with the fact that no one can determine the actual mass of Betelgeuse. The mass, which is measured in multiples of the mass of our own sun, is the determining factor to know the type of supernova to expect, how strong it will be, and whether a gamma-ray burst is possible. (We will educate ourselves more about the details of gamma-ray bursts later.)

The observation that Betelgeuse has shrunk by 15% should give all serious astronomers reason for concern, because this may in fact be the shrinking that precedes a supernova explosion. In astronomical terms, 15% in the span of about 20 years is EXTREMELY FAST!!!

We can read an admission on Wikipedia that shows how few details are really known:

The mass of Betelgeuse has never been measured because it has no known companion. [86] A mass estimate is only possible using theoretical modeling, a situation which has produced mass estimates ranging from 5 to 30 M_{\odot} in the 2000s.[87][88] Smith and colleagues calculated that Betelgeuse began its life as a star of 15 to 20 M_{\odot} , based on a photospheric measurement of 5.6 AU or 1,200 R_{\odot} . [9] However, a novel method of determining the supergiant's mass was proposed in 2011 by Hilding Neilson and colleagues, arguing for a stellar mass of 11.6 M_{\odot} with an upper limit of 16.6 and lower of 7.7 M_{\odot} , based on observations of the star's intensity profile from narrow H-band interferometry and using a photospheric measurement of roughly 4.3 AU or 955 R_{\odot} . [86] How the debate will be resolved is still open—at least until a companion is identified allowing for a direct calculation of stellar mass.

The mass of Betelgeuse is specified as ~20 solar masses in the German Wikipedia, which would clearly mean an explosion corresponding to a type II supernova (above 10 solar masses). When looking for the brightest supernova ever discovered, we come across a very interesting figure:

BERKELEY – A University of California, Berkeley, astronomer has turned the NASA Hubble Space Telescope on the brightest and nearest supernova of the past decade, capturing a massive stellar explosion blazing with the light of 200 million suns. The supernova, called SN 2004dj, is so bright in the Hubble image that it easily could be mistaken for a foreground star in our Milky Way Galaxy. Yet it lies 11 million light-years from Earth in the outskirts of a galaxy called NGC 2403, nestled in a cluster of mostly massive bright blue stars only 14 million years old. "This has to be a massive star to explode at such a young age," said Alex Filippenko, professor of astronomy at UC Berkeley, who estimates the star's mass at 15 times that of our sun. Massive stars live much shorter lives than the sun; they have more fuel to burn through nuclear fusion, but they use it up at a disproportionately faster rate. The sun, for example, is only halfway through its expected lifetime of about 10 billion years.

Taking the two theories discussed above together, there is a consensus or overlap where both theories intersect: the mass of Betelgeuse would thus be in the range of 15 - 16.6 solar masses. The brightest supernova yet discovered was caused by a star that was precisely within that mass range.

That star was 11 million light years away in another galaxy, whereas Betelgeuse is only about 640 light years from us. In astronomical terms, that is like having it explode in the backyard of our solar system.

Betelgeuse currently shines about 100,000 times brighter than our sun. When this supergiant explodes as a type II supernova, it will blaze about 200 million times brighter than our sun. That means it will shine 200,000,000 / 100,000 = 2000 times brighter than it is now. It will be an incredible visual spectacle in the sky lasting for months during the day as well as the night. Keep the number 200 million in mind, because we will come back to it in the third part of this series!

Should we be worried? The scientists say we shouldn't. Although they don't know details, they think that a supernova has to be closer than about 25 light years away from us for it to be dangerous to humanity. However, they do admit that if a supernova were to explode close to us (and Betelgeuse assuredly is), there would be an increase of cosmic radiation on the order of 10,000 to 100,000 or even millions of times. If the earth's protective shield were degraded—the ozone layer and the ionosphere—then there would be dire consequences for all of humanity.

What could cause Spaceship Earth to shut down or lose its shields?

Betelgeuse and God's Lethal Lightning Bolts

All scientists agree that a so-called gamma-ray burst (GRB) hitting us directly from our own Milky Way would mean the end of the earth. Such gamma-ray bursts occur in some type II supernova explosions. You hear the scientists make statements like this: "If one of these [GRB's] happens in your galaxy, and that beam is coming your way, go hide in a cave, because this is very high energy radiation. It's the kind of energy that will decompose your molecules, and you just don't want to be around when that's happening!"

Such words are reminiscent of what our Lord Jesus said in His revelation to John, and these are the words of the last part of the sixth seal. In 1844, the Millerites thought that it heralded the Last Great Day, Jesus' Second Coming. Many followed them out of fear and wanted to turn their faces away from He who would destroy the earth with fire. Yet, the final fulfillment of this part of the sixth seal hasn't come. It will come upon those who reach the end of the Orion judgment cycle, the repetition of the sixth seal of the heavenly Day of Judgment, and who experience the close of probation. They will witness a terrible cosmic event that announces and triggers the plagues:

And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come [the year of plagues is imminent]; and who shall be able to stand [who will stand the great test without an intercessor, to go through the year of plagues without sinning]? (Revelation 6:14-17)

As we look at the actual effects of a gamma-ray burst, we should keep those words in mind and ponder what the heavens (our atmosphere) departing as a scroll could literally mean. Sometime after the stars have fallen from heaven like fireballs, the hyper-nova explosion of Betelgeuse will partially burn the atmosphere of our planet with its gamma-ray burst. The majority will recognize that they aren't prepared, and that they will not be able to stand face-to-face before the Lord.

Video: Gamma Ray Bursts

Speechless? Astronomers indicate that the probability of this happening during the lifetime of our planet is 1:100. That is a far greater likelihood than the almost infinite improbability that all the harmonies that God has shown us in the last three and a half years turn out to be mere coincidence.

So God has lightning bolts that are so powerful that they would be fatal to the whole of humanity, ending all life on Earth from a distance of 1,000 light years. In that case, the end would not come quite as quickly as if the distance were only 100 light years away, where Planet Earth would be immediately transformed into an ash desert. The distance to Betelgeuse is right within this deadly range of 100 to 1000 light years away, meaning that within a span of time (perhaps about one year?) the terrible cataclysm could cause the death of (almost) all living things on the planet. That should finally raise the hairs on the back of your neck!

We've now found the exact scenario that offers a literal explanation for both the plagues and the yet-to-be-fulfilled parts of the repeated sixth seal that come after the fireball falling-stars:

1. The powers of the heavens shall be shaken (Matthew 24:29)

And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. (Revelation 6:14)

Remember, Ellen White said that when the Lord says heaven, He means heaven. The powers of the heavens are the stars. Betelgeuse will partially burn the earth's atmosphere, and it will be unrolled like a scroll. This will cause terrible tsunamis and earthquakes and great changes on the earth. The people will then know that God Himself acts, and reverses the Creation with the plagues.

And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:15-17)

2. The Seven Plagues will fall; four of them have physical effects on the humans and the Earth: Revelation Chapter 16

Now we come to the physical effects on the people, and everything fits together perfectly with the after-effects of a gamma-ray burst!

1. Noisome and grievous sores will come upon the people who have accepted the Sunday Law (Revelation 16:2).

Because of the depleted ozone layer, dangerous cosmic radiation, which is deadly regardless of Betelgeuse, would come unobstructed upon the people who do not enjoy the special protection of God. They would be tormented by skin cancer and similar ulcers. It should be emphasized that this could also cause DNA damage and the dreaded radiation sickness. Thus, a slow and painful death awaits those who don't accept God's warnings and are not "lucky" enough to meet sudden death during the gamma-ray burst itself. The living will envy the dead.

2. The sea becomes like blood and all living things in it die (Revelation 16:3).

This effect was mentioned in the video itself. The global hunger of the populations will be accompanied by an eerie odor coming from trillions of dead sea (and land) creatures.

3. The rivers and springs of water become blood (Revelation 16:4).

Read what God Himself says about this: And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus. For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy. And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments. (Revelation 16:5-7)

4. The sun will scorch men with great heat (Revelation 16:8).

The harmful ultraviolet rays from the sun, along with cosmic radiation including X-rays, would no longer be filtered by the damaged atmospheric layers. The great heat from the greenhouse effect, however, would be quickly followed by a more terrible "GRB" winter, which would kill the remaining plant life. And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and they repented not to give him glory. (Revelation 16:9)

(Annotation from August 2016: For more information regarding the fulfillment of the classical sixth seal, please see the addendum to History Repeats II. The fulfillment of the repeated sixth seal is explained in the addendum to Signs of the End and slides 101-114 of the Orion Presentation.)

That's not all. The descriptions of the last three plagues also contain elements that can be attributed to Betelgeuse, the gamma-ray burst or the cosmic radiation: the dried-up Euphrates stands for a land of ash which will then span a world where Eden once was. The seventh angel pours out his vial on the air, which will probably make it more difficult to breathe at that time.

You can find a comprehensive description of these horrible things in an excellent article by a Christian who had already started thinking about Betelgeuse a few years ago, when such things were still considered exaggerated. Don't miss reading these two articles: Might Betelgeuse Go BOOM? And a first attempt to harmonize the effects of the Betelgeuse supernova with the biblical Apocalypse: Betelgeuse - Calamitas Apocaliptica. The author, Karl Schwarz, wrote that almost-prophetic work in 2009. May God continue to guide him!

Thus, we've known for years that a supergiant in our immediate neighborhood will end as a superbomb, but we calm ourselves with what scientists say, that "It could happen tonight or in 100,000 years." We focus on the last part and think: "It won't hit me—and after me, the flood!" Can we really be calm?

Betelgeuse and the View down the Muzzle

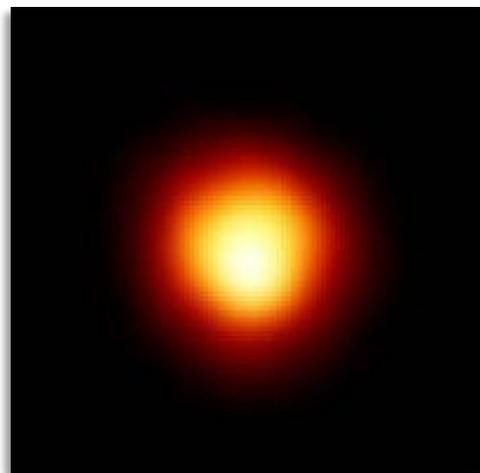

When it comes to the possibility that Betelgeuse will produce a gamma-ray burst, we find that a particular statement from scientists is copied almost as frequently as the misinterpreted anti-time-setting arguments of Ellen White: "Since its rotational axis is not pointed toward the earth, Betelgeuse's supernova is unlikely to send a gamma-ray burst in the direction of Earth wide enough to damage ecosystems." When googling "Betelgeuse axis of rotation not pointed toward Earth", you can see from the number of hits that the statement has been copied and re-copied with small variations hundreds of thousands of times.

We read that the rotation axis of Betelgeuse is inclined about 20° away from the line of sight to Earth, returning peace to the deceitful heart, which says "Oh, John Scotram has no idea and is just an alarmist and fear monger!" Watch out! Check what the pseudo-scientific press or the still-nursing scientists in this specialized field are presenting to you.

Apparently no one has verified where the scientists, who admit that they know very little about Betelgeuse, suddenly get their "very important" information about which direction its axis is pointing. To determine the orientation of the axis of rotation of a star like Betelgeuse is a pretty daring enterprise, firstly because it is 640 light years from Earth, and secondly because it has a huge gas envelope that makes it difficult to penetrate with our current instruments.

I made the effort to investigate and found in the Wikipedia article on Betelgeuse what astronomers believe to have found out:

In 1995, the Hubble Space Telescope's Faint Object Camera captured an ultraviolet image with a resolution superior to that obtained by ground-based interferometers—the first conventional-telescope image (or "direct-image" in NASA terminology) of the disk of another star.[29] Because ultraviolet light is absorbed by the earth's atmosphere, observations at these wavelengths are best performed by space telescopes.[42] Like earlier pictures, this image contained a bright patch indicating a region in the southwestern quadrant 2,000 K hotter than the stellar surface.[43] Subsequent ultraviolet spectra taken with the Goddard High Resolution Spectrograph suggested that the hot spot was one of Betelgeuse's poles of rotation. This would give the rotational axis an inclination of about 20° to the direction of Earth, and a position angle from celestial North of about 55°.[44]

They carefully express themselves in the subjunctive mood. Wikipedia defines the subjunctive mood as follows: "Subjunctive forms of verbs are typically used to express various states of unreality such as wish, emotion, possibility, judgment, opinion, necessity, or action that has not yet occurred." Therefore, this is nothing more than a hypothesis or pure assumption.

This leads other "scientists" to blow into the sedative horn even stronger:

Luckily, this has already been done for us (see, for example Uitenbroek et al. 1998). These measurements are hard to do since the star is only a few pixels wide, but it appears as though the rotation axis is inclined to the line-of-sight by about 20 degrees (see figure at right). That means this would require a beam with at least a 20 degree radius to hit the earth. This appears to be outside the typical ranges observed. So even if Betelgeuse were to explode in a gamma-ray burst, the beam would miss Earth and hit some dumb other planet nobody cares about.

The author now draws “safe” conclusions from the “apparent” observations:

Alright, so the moral of the story is that Betelgeuse is completely harmless to people on Earth. When it does explode, it will be a brilliant supernova that would likely be visible at least a little bit during the day. It will be the coolest thing that anyone alive (if there are people...) will ever see. Sadly, this explosion could take place at just about any time during the next million years. [\[the author is grossly exaggerating; everyone else is saying about 1,000 to 100,000 years\]](#) Assuming a uniform distribution over this time period and a human lifetime of order 100 years, there is something like a 1 in 10,000 chance you'll see this in your life.

Feel free to hope for a spectacular astronomical sight, but don't lose sleep worrying about being hurt by Betelgeuse!

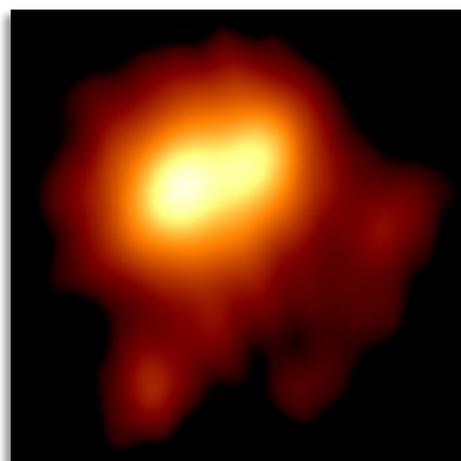

I don't know how well the blog author "Corky" sleeps today after a scientific press release of 26 April 2013, which shows the exact opposite of the very blurry image of Betelgeuse (a few pixels wide) that was made in 1998. Compare for yourself where the hotspots presently are:

Mysterious hot spots observed in a cool red supergiant

Astronomers have released a new image of the outer atmosphere of Betelgeuse – one of the nearest red supergiants to Earth – revealing the detailed structure of the matter being thrown off the star.

The new image, taken by the e-MERLIN radio telescope array operated from the Jodrell Bank Observatory in Cheshire, also shows regions of surprisingly hot gas in the star's outer atmosphere and a cooler arc of gas weighing almost as much as the earth...

The new e-MERLIN image of Betelgeuse...reveals two hot spots within the outer atmosphere and a faint arc of cool gas even farther out beyond the radio surface of the star...

Lead author Dr Anita Richards, from The University of Manchester, said that it was not yet clear why the hot spots are so hot. She said: “One possibility is that shock waves, caused either by the star pulsating or by convection in its outer layers, are compressing and heating the gas. Another is that the outer atmosphere is patchy and we are seeing through to hotter regions within. The arc of cool gas is thought to be the result of a period of increased mass loss from the star at some point in the last century but its relationship to structures like the hot spots, which lie much closer in, within the star's outer atmosphere, is unknown."

The mechanism by which supergiant stars like Betelgeuse lose matter into space is not well understood despite its key role in the lifecycle of matter, enriching the interstellar material from which future stars and planets will form. Detailed high-resolution studies of the regions around massive stars like the ones presented here are essential to improving our understanding...

Future observations planned with e-MERLIN and other arrays, including ALMA and VLA, will test whether the hotspots vary in concert due to pulsation, or show more complex variability due to convection. If it is possible to measure a rotation speed this will identify in which layer of the star they originate.

Dear friends and brethren, if it is true that we see through the gas layer of the outer atmosphere of Betelgeuse into deeper regions of the star and see the hotspots, then we are looking directly into the region of the star where the gases disappear... this is the beginning of a supernova explosion. Its beginning can take several months or years; its end could take only a few seconds...

Do you see where the hotspots are? In one of the photos provided in the article, the scientists have facilitated my work by overlaying the concentric orbits of the layers of Betelgeuse, so we can see where the center of the red supergiant is:

The center of the supergiant Betelgeuse is exactly in the middle of the two hotspots. Do you understand what it means when we can see through the gas atmosphere to the underlying layers of the star? Did you take a careful look at the supernova explosions in the video? If not, watch it again!

We stare directly down the muzzle of God's most powerful weapon, or—what I like better—directly into the wound of the right hand of Jesus, from where a powerful beam will burst forth...

And his brightness was as the light; he had horns [Strong's: a ray (of light)] coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power. (Habakkuk 3:4)

The verse not only says that a destructive force will come out of the wound in Jesus' hand in the form of a beam to destroy God's enemies (see next verse), but also gives the exact scientific definition of gamma rays:

Gamma radiation, also known as gamma rays, and denoted by the Greek letter γ , refers to electromagnetic radiation of high frequency and therefore high energy per photon.

In truth, photon energy levels in gamma rays span an unimaginable range, and photons are the particles that constitute LIGHT.

And his brightness was as the light...

Now you have a decision to make. You can believe what the scientists say and calm yourself to sleep with the blue pill, or swallow the second red pill and listen to what God has to say to all this in the third part. He will be the One speaking in the next article, and we must listen to what He says through the Bible and the modern prophets. It will finally give us the terrible certainty not only that the final rapid movements have already begun, but also that the coming of Jesus Christ will be accompanied by the brightest event in the universe: a gamma-ray burst from His own right hand. Then there will be only one question remaining to be answered:

For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:17)

In the first part of this series about the wrath of God, I showed from the Bible where the seven last plagues will come from. Revelation 15:7 indicates that the vials of plagues will be given to the seven angels by one of the four living creatures, which we identified in the Orion Message as the four hand and foot stars that mark the wounds of Jesus. Once we understood that it is the right hand of Jesus that will execute His vengeance upon the nations, we followed the hint to Betelgeuse and learned in the second part that this red supergiant is actually about to explode as a type II supernova. There is a high probability that it will emit a gamma-ray burst, which—if directed to the earth—will wipe out all life on this planet within a year. The latest images of the hotspots of Betelgeuse suggest that the scientists are conveying a false sense of security, saying with their claiming voices that the rotation axis of this monster is not directed to the earth.

In this final part, I'll tie up the loose ends and explain to you how and when the Adventist Church, along with the other equally apostate churches which claim the faith of Jesus Christ, received the second and last sign of Jonah on April 27, 2013. It was this sign which Jesus once promised to another unfaithful generation, namely the Israelites. It represents a final warning, both then and now, to those who had the truth right before their eyes for three and a half years and still waited for more signs from heaven...

But he [Jesus] answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: (Matthew 12:39)

Despite a few good responses to our last article, some worry-filled emails came to me from supposed "Christians" who are apparently only concerned about their own salvation. Instead of developing an understanding of what our purpose in life really is and what it means to be a true disciple of Jesus by studying the many hundreds of pages we've published here, they only fear for the salvation of their own pathetic souls. Some just attack the article and dismiss everything we have written as complete nonsense instead of seeking to know what they need to do to escape the plagues. But the vast majority does what the Israelites did when Elijah confronted them with the choice:

And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word. (1 Kings 18:21)

Breaking the general silence, we get occasional statements from so-called Bible-believing Protestants like "The scientists all say that Betelgeuse is not dangerous! A layman like you shouldn't claim the contrary!" Thus they deny the words that came not from me, but from God. I leave it confidently to the Lord Himself who sees into the heart of the individual to judge whether they react out of fear or panic or simply foolishness. Regardless, the universe is only slowly being understood by scientists, and the statements in God's Word that relate the plagues and wrath of God to events in the universe are apparently still not clear for many. Therefore, I make one last attempt at explaining it for those who still have open ears and hearts.

Orion the Great Hunter

On slide 168 of the Orion presentation, I drew your attention as early as 2010 to the meaning of Orion which has existed among almost all ancient peoples. I showed that there is a special connection to two important Bible verses:

Orion "The Hunter"

Many ancient people had a special idea about the Orion constellation: They believed it was a "Hunter with a Bow". His left foot (Rigel) was elevated to crush the head of the snake (star constellation underneath, Eridianus).

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer. (Revelation 6:2)

And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel. (Genesis 3:15)

Once again, none of you had the idea of putting an arrow on the bow to see which hand would shoot it.

Yes, the arrow-hand is clearly Betelgeuse! And since you now know the nature and effects of gamma-ray bursts, you can easily understand that a burning arrow that is aimed in a certain direction and shot from a bow is the perfect representation of the terrible event coming upon humanity from Betelgeuse.

Let's take the opposite approach: Are there verses in the Bible, other than Revelation 6:2, where God uses the image of a bow and arrow for the execution of His vengeance? Are there verses that relate the arrow to a flash of light, or lightning flash (gamma-ray burst)?

When I have bent Judah for me, filled the bow with Ephraim, and raised up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Greece, and made thee as the sword of a mighty man. And the LORD shall be seen over them, and his arrow shall go forth as the lightning: and the Lord GOD shall blow the [sixth] trumpet, and shall go with whirlwinds of the south. The LORD of hosts shall defend them; and they shall devour [the enemy by fire], and subdue with sling stones [the seventh plague]; and they shall drink, and make a noise [the joy of victory] as through wine; and they shall be filled like bowls [with blood], and as the corners of the altar. And the LORD their God shall save them in that day as the flock of his people: for they shall be as the stones of a crown, lifted up as an ensign upon his land. (Zechariah 9:13-16)

This verse refers directly to the time of plagues, since the Lord will save the flock of His people in that day [= year of plagues]. Daniel 12:1 likewise says:

And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book. (Daniel 12:1)*

Ellen White leaves no doubt that Prince Michael symbolizes Jesus, who will have completed His work of intercession in the heavenly sanctuary by the time the plagues start:

I saw that the anger of the nations, the wrath of God, and the time to judge the dead were separate and distinct, one following the other, also that Michael had not stood up, and that the time of trouble, such as never was, had not yet commenced. The nations are now getting angry, but when our High Priest has finished His work in the sanctuary, He will stand up, put on the garments of vengeance, and then the seven last plagues will be poured out. {EW 36.1}

Since 1844, the Arrow of God has been held throughout four time periods spanning Jesus' intercessory service:

I saw four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and were on their way to accomplish it. Jesus was clothed with priestly garments. He gazed in pity on the remnant, then raised His hands, and with a voice of deep pity cried, "My blood, Father, My blood, My blood, My blood!" Then I saw an exceeding bright light come from God, who sat upon the great white throne, and was shed all about Jesus. Then I saw an angel with a commission from Jesus, swiftly flying to the four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and waving something up and down in his hand, and crying with a loud voice, "Hold! Hold! Hold! Hold! until the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads." {EW 38.1}

Once all the martyrs and the 144,000 are sealed, then Jesus will take off His priestly garments and will let loose His fiery arrow of vengeance upon the rest of mankind.

Arise, O Lord, in Your anger; Lift Yourself up because of the rage of my enemies; Rise up for me to the judgment You have commanded! So the congregation of the peoples shall surround You; For their sakes, therefore, return on high. The Lord shall judge the peoples; Judge me, O Lord, according to my righteousness, And according to my integrity within me. Oh, let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end, But establish the just; For the righteous God tests the hearts and minds. My defense is of God, Who saves the upright in heart. God is a just judge, And God is angry with the wicked every day. If he does not turn back, He will sharpen His sword; He bends His bow and makes it ready. He also prepares for Himself instruments of death; He makes His arrows into fiery shafts. (Psalm 7:6-13 NKJV)

Only God's people will be able to endure through the chaos of His wrath.

The LORD also thundered in the heavens, and the Highest gave his voice; hail stones and coals of fire. Yea, he sent out his arrows, and scattered them; and he shot out lightnings, and discomfited them. Then the channels of waters were seen, and the foundations of the world were discovered at thy rebuke, O LORD, at the blast of the breath of thy nostrils. He sent from above, he took me, he drew me out of many waters. He delivered me from my strong enemy, and from them which hated me: for they were too strong for me. (Psalm 18:13-17)

They search out iniquities; they accomplish a diligent search: both the inward thought of every one of them, and the heart, is deep. But God shall shoot at them with an arrow; suddenly shall they be wounded. So they shall make their own tongue to fall upon themselves: all that see them shall flee away. And all men shall fear, and shall declare the work of God; for they shall wisely consider of his doing. The righteous shall be glad in the LORD, and shall trust in him; and all the upright in heart shall glory. (Psalm 64:6-10)

More terrible manifestations than the world has ever yet beheld, will be witnessed at the second advent of Christ. "The mountains quake at Him, and the hills melt, and the earth is burned at His presence, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein. Who can stand before His indignation? and who can abide in the fierceness of His anger?" Nahum 1:5, 6. "Bow Thy heavens, O Lord, and come down: touch the mountains, and they shall smoke. Cast forth lightning, and scatter them: shoot out Thine arrows, and destroy them." Psalm 144:5, 6.

"I will show wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapor of smoke." Acts 2:19. "And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great." "And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found. And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent." Revelation 16:18, 20, 21.

As lightnings from heaven unite with the fire in the earth, the mountains will burn like a furnace, and will pour forth terrific streams of lava, overwhelming gardens and fields, villages and cities. Seething molten masses thrown into the rivers will cause the waters to boil, sending forth massive rocks with indescribable violence and scattering their broken fragments upon the land. Rivers will be dried up. The earth will be convulsed; everywhere there will be dreadful earthquakes and eruptions.

Thus God will destroy the wicked from off the earth. But the righteous will be preserved in the midst of these commotions, as Noah was preserved in the ark. God will be their refuge, and under His wings shall they trust. Says the psalmist: "Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the Most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee." Psalm 91:9, 10. "In the time of trouble He shall hide me in His pavilion: in the secret of His tabernacle shall He hide me." Psalm 27:5. God's promise is, "Because he hath set his love upon Me, therefore will I deliver him: I will set him on high, because he hath known My name." Psalm 91:14. {PP 109.3-110.3}

Not one will have an excuse, because these things were revealed by God from heaven. Every person could have understood through the things that God made in the heavens that he himself restrained the truth of the Fourth Angel's Message by his own unrighteousness...

For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness; Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God hath shewed it unto them. For the invisible things of him from the creation of the* world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: (Romans 1:18-20)

The Cry for Vengeance

It is difficult for some people to understand that if the cosmic radiation and gamma-ray burst arrive here in October of 2015, then Betelgeuse must have exploded as a supernova long ago. The gamma-ray burst travels at the highest possible speed in the universe, the speed of light. Even at such an incredible speed of around 186,000 miles per second, light itself still needs more than six centuries to get here from Betelgeuse. When we look at the stars, we look into the past; the farther away the star is, the farther back in time we look.

Our own sun is nine light-minutes away. That means if we look at the sun, we look nine minutes into the past. With Sirius, we look almost nine years back, and with Betelgeuse it is more than 600 years. Unfortunately, the distance to Betelgeuse is very difficult to measure. It is a so-called variable star whose size varies making its distance difficult to determine. We have some hints (which I will discuss later in this article) that lead us to assume that Betelgeuse is as far away from the Orion Nebula as it is from us.

The distance to the Orion Nebula is 1344 light-years, determined to a precision of ± 20 light-years. The distance to Betelgeuse with all its difficulties, however, is quoted by Wikipedia as 640 ± 150 light-years. The greater uncertainty allows for a wide range anywhere from 490 to 790 light-years away. From the above premise that Betelgeuse is halfway between us and the Orion Nebula, it must be farther away than 640 light-years. The minimum distance would be $(1344 - 20) \div 2 = 662$ light-years, but since Betelgeuse is not exactly on the line of sight between Earth and the Orion Nebula, the distance would be a little greater. We took the trouble to calculate it precisely using the coordinates of the stars and came to a minimum distance of 681 and a maximum distance of 702 light-years. Given that range, 700 light-years are a safe assumption, still well within the range of 640 ± 150 light-years given by Wikipedia.

So when would Betelgeuse have actually exploded as a supernova? $2015 - 700 \text{ years} = \text{A.D. } 1315$.

In the first part of this series, I mentioned that the souls under the altar have been crying out for vengeance since the fifth classical seal. Although our Adventist interpreters (arbitrarily) set the period of the fifth seal from 1571 to 1755 (see History Repeats - Part II), we know better from Betelgeuse in the Orion constellation.

We know better from history, too. An article entitled John Wycliffe, the morning star of the Reformation accurately takes us back to the birth of the Reformation and the first pyres for burning the reformers. That time is precisely marked by the Betelgeuse supernova. Since the birth of John Wycliffe is not exactly known, most sources place it "no later than 1330". The year of his death, however, is known to be 1384.

Wyclif's Times

The historian, de Sismondi, called the 14th century "a bad time for humanity." He did not exaggerate. Most Englishmen were illiterate, and those who could read did so in Latin, the language of the intelligentsia and the church. The Bible was also in Latin. But since the printing press did not yet exist (all Bibles were hand copied), the cost made them inaccessible to all but the wealthy. Almost no one had considered the heretical idea of an English translation. For those who did, the thought of burning at the stake quickly cooled their fervor.

Wycliffe is also described as the initiator of the Reformation by Ellen G. White:

In the fourteenth century arose in England the "morning star of the Reformation." John Wycliffe was the herald of reform, not for England alone, but for all Christendom. The great protest against Rome which it was permitted him to utter was never to be silenced. That protest opened the struggle which was to result in the emancipation of individuals, of churches, and of nations. {GC 80.1}

In his book Accident, Plan and Delusion – Chronicle of World-Changing Developments, the author Hartmut Bossel states the following [S. 66, translated]:

In the 14th Century, the persecution of alleged ‘heretics’ by the Inquisition of the Catholic Church reached a new height of cruelty. The persecution was directed especially against the Waldenses, Beguines and critical thinkers. The English reformer John Wycliffe, whose teachings later influenced the Czech reformer John Huss, escaped persecution because the King of England favored greater autonomy from the Church of Rome.

Under the ever-worsening Inquisition, the first recorded burning of heretics took place in Bohemia (now the Czech Republic) in Prague in the year 1315. 14 people were burned with the cooperation of the local bishop (source: German Wikipedia). The year we calculated for the explosion of Betelgeuse coincides exactly with that date. It was said to the souls under the altar that they “should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.” (Revelation 6:11) God loves to use multiples of the biblical number of perfection in Christ, so it should not surprise us that the round number of 700 light-years, that we opted for, actually represents an accurate measurement of the distance to His star of vengeance.

Those martyrs were killed with fire, thus by fire the killing on the earth will be brought to an end once and for all—this time through the gamma-ray burst. No more martyrs will die once the great tribulation begins, because there will be no one who would be converted through their blood. That time was spoken of as follows:

The end will come more quickly than men expect. The wheat will be gathered and bound in sheaves for the garner of God; the tares will be bound as fagots for the fires of destruction.

The heavenly sentinels, faithful to their trust, continue their watch. Though a general decree has fixed the time when commandment keepers may be put to death, their enemies will in some cases anticipate the decree, and before the time specified, will endeavor to take their lives. But none can pass the mighty guardians stationed about every faithful soul. Some are assailed in their flight from the cities and villages; but the swords raised against them break and fall powerless as a straw. Others are defended by angels in the form of men of war. {GC 630.2–631.1}

Those who still believe that God will change His mind and set up a millennial kingdom of peace on Earth for everyone (even for atheists according to the new pope) should finally understand that God’s decision to destroy mankind was not made today, but some 700 years ago when the Roman Church burned the first reformers. If He had prevented the explosion of the supernova back then, we wouldn’t see the star collapsing today—Betelgeuse with the deadly hotspots of its GRB muzzle pointed directly at us.

The LORD of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand: ... This is the purpose that is purposed upon the whole earth: and this is the hand that is stretched out upon all the nations. For the LORD of hosts hath purposed, and who shall disannul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back? (Isaiah 14:24,26–27)

“I Make All Things New”

In the second part of this series, we also learned that the destruction caused by the supernova and the accompanying gamma-ray burst will not only destroy the earth and bring humanity to an end, but will also spark the beginning of a new creation. The heavy elements that we call natural resources, the iron that makes up our building and construction materials, and even carbon—the basic element of all life—are all produced by the explosion of giant stars. Everything from which our solar system, the entire planet Earth, and even we ourselves are made of was once produced by the death of such a star. In these end times, we can recognize and understand that that is God’s preferred method of creation. (Of course, God created the earth in six days like the story of creation tells us, but that is not His preferred method, which we can see by observing the birth of stars and planets in the universe.)

Slowly we begin to understand what Jesus meant when He said to John:

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea. And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away. And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful. And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. (Revelation 21:1-6)

Jesus is the life! He is the beginning and the end, and an end through Him does not come without a new beginning. Even though His right hand will destroy the impenitent, it also creates new suns and planets, and among those a new heaven and a new earth.

In the video about supernovae, we learned that the matter ejected from a supernova stimulates the formation of new star systems when it hits the vast clouds of gas that are in its path. The Great Orion Nebula is one of the nebulae that are in the annular—or better said spherical path of the cloud of material to be ejected from the Betelgeuse supernova.

Jesus Christ led the modern prophet Ernie Knoll to this Great Orion Nebula before his second fall. The article At the Hand of Jesus shows how the following directions from Ernie’s Two Cars dream correspond perfectly to the path that an imaginary spaceship would fly on its way from Earth to the Orion Nebula via each star of the Orion Clock:

Next the Herald says he is to take me somewhere special. Instantly I am with Jesus. He is holding my right hand as we walk through a corridor that is not straight. We turn right for a ways, then left, right and left again. The corridor does not have regular square walls or a ceiling. Instead they appear as mirrors of different sizes and shapes and are placed at different angles. We continue on in silence, turn and begin walking straight, then descend down a walkway.

At Jesus’ hand, Ernie Knoll now enters the Orion Nebula, which Ellen White called “the open space in Orion”:

We enter into what I think is a very, very large room but yet at the same time I know it is not a room. It is as if I am seeing our galaxy where our planet would be. I see what appear to be many, many more mirrors. There are even small dime-sized mirrors placed in different areas. All the mirrors do not have a flat surface but are rounded in one way or another and are not sharp or hard. I am made to know that the mirrors are not really mirrors. The floor is very soft to walk on.

To get a visual idea of what such a trip would be like, please watch this fantastic video made possible by the most modern technologies like the Hubble Space Telescope. Pay attention to what is happening in the Orion Nebula to understand what the strange “mirrors” of different sizes represent.

Video: Travel to the Orion Nebula

The term “open space in Orion” is in fact a perfect description because the Orion Nebula is open toward Earth so we can see inside it. If that weren't the case, these wonderful images would not have been possible. God gives us a glimpse into the nursery of His creation. In reality, the “mirrors” are stars or suns of different sizes, as we saw in the videos of the previous article. The “dime-sized mirrors” represent the cocoons of nascent solar systems, with their young baby stars in the center. Jesus describes Himself in the Bible as “the sun of righteousness.” The suns of His creation reflect His light and His character like mirrors. That is why four giant and majestic stars were chosen to symbolize the four “living creatures” that represent His four character traits: they are the hand and foot stars of “Orion the Hunter”.

Jesus continues to teach in the dream:

As we come into the large area [the Orion Nebula], it is filled with things that I do not have human words with which to describe. I feel awed as I look around. We stop and I am placed so that the walkway and corridor we just came from is behind me. Suddenly the room begins to glow with a brightness that illuminates the area. It is a beauty that again I cannot explain. I am made to understand that because of my sinful state, His brightness must be kept very low. If there was a knob that could be turned to allow the brightness, in which 0 is off and 10 is on high, the knob would be at a setting of 0.00000005.

What does the Lord want to explain to us as well as Ernie Knoll? What's does the unusual number 0.00000005 mean? Do you remember the “word problems” from school math classes? Calculate with me how much brighter the room would shine if the knob were set to 10. The math is simple:

$$10 \div 0.00000005 = 200,000,000 \text{ (two hundred million)}$$

That is a biblical number which we've already seen before:

And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. And the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: and I heard the number of them. (Revelation 9:13-16)

That number, 200 million (represented as $2 \times 10,000 \times 10,000$ in some translations) is directly connected with the sixth trumpet, which represents God's very last warning to the impenitent, mingled with grace. It is scheduled for an exact time: an hour, day, month and year. Even the classical sixth trumpet was predicted to the very day by Josiah Litch a little more than two years before the event, the fall of the Ottoman Empire. He was a preacher in the Millerite movement and understood the time. It shouldn't be much of a surprise that it repeats now right before your eyes. Since 2013, we've known the hour, day, month and year that Betelgeuse will destroy one third of humanity: October 25, 2015, and since January 31, 2014 we know when the ultimate sixth trumpet will sound (the Third World War) to warn of the destruction with its special number once more.

Ernie Knoll's dreams, however, are only confirmations of our studies and should never stand on their own as unfortunately happened when Ernie Knoll's pride lifted him up. That's why I mentioned the number 200 million in the second part of this article series, and I asked you to remember it. It was mentioned in connection with the largest supernova ever observed, which was in 2004. The star exploded with a brightness of 200 million suns. An interstellar gas cloud would light up with just that intensity when struck with that amount of light, combined with cosmic radiation and a shock wave. That is what the Lord wants to show us. The Betelgeuse supernova will cause the Orion Nebula to shine, and indeed with all its strength of 200 million suns! That will be magnificent lighting for the wedding supper of the Lamb, when we get there!

The matter that will emanate in a shock wave from the Betelgeuse supernova will incite the Orion Nebula to an unprecedented level of new creation. It will provide the necessary elements and compress the materials together. Now we can also understand why the heavenly sanctuary will be filled with smoke at the beginning of the plagues:

And one of the four beasts [Betelgeuse] gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, who liveth for ever and ever. And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled. (Revelation 15:7-8)

New worlds and new life will emerge from the "smoke" of Betelgeuse's shock wave. The Orion Nebula will be filled with it until the plagues are over. Please, consider that time is relative in the universe. Perhaps that is where a new earth, a new sun and a new solar system will be created for us, so that we can see this miracle. In any case, the number 200 million should make us realize that the Betelgeuse supernova will be far more powerful than many astronomers can imagine or calculate with their lack of knowledge and data.

Now it should be obvious how we know that Betelgeuse is the same distance from Earth as from the Orion Nebula. As we have just seen, no one can enter the temple, because it is full of smoke. ... Ellen White saw that we will take one week to arrive at the sea of glass, the Orion Nebula, before entering the temple.

We all entered the cloud together, and were seven days ascending to the sea of glass, when Jesus brought the crowns, and with His own right hand placed them on our heads. He gave us harps of gold and palms of victory. Here on the sea of glass the 144,000 stood in a perfect square. Some of them had very bright crowns, others not so bright. Some crowns appeared heavy with stars, while others had but few. All were perfectly satisfied with their crowns. And they were all clothed with a glorious white mantle from their shoulders to their feet. Angels were all about us as we marched over the sea of glass to the gate of the city. Jesus raised His mighty, glorious arm, laid hold of the pearly gate, swung it back on its glittering hinges, and said to us, "You have washed your robes in My blood, stood stiffly for My truth, enter in.” We all marched in and felt that we had a perfect right in the city. {EW 16.2}

And as we were about to enter the holy temple, Jesus raised His lovely voice and said, “Only the 144,000 enter this place,” and we shouted, “Alleluia.” {EW 18.2}

Therefore, the shock wave of cosmic radiation that filled the Orion Nebula with “smoke” has to move on by that time. We know from the Bible that it will fill the “temple” only during the time of plagues. The effects on the earth, which God calls the seven plagues, correspond to the smoke in the heavenly sanctuary, which is located in the Orion Nebula. The smoke will have cleared from the “temple” by the end of the time of plagues, and we will be able to enter it after Jesus travels seven days to Earth and another seven days taking us back with Him to the Orion Nebula. The effects of the supernova will happen on Earth and in the Orion Nebula at the same time--in the year of the plagues--which allows us to conclude that Betelgeuse’s distance from Earth corresponds exactly to its distance from the Orion Nebula, since a blast in the universe expands in a sphere. While the right hand of the giant brings destruction and death to the earth, it simultaneously creates new suns, new planetary systems and new life in the Orion Nebula.

This part of the Two Cars dream ends by demonstrating the love and creative power of the Lord:

I now hear a voice that I have heard before in my dreams. It is the sound resembling a small trickle of water as well as a mountain stream and a large waterfall. The voice says, “Behold, I make all things new.” Prior to this Jesus had not spoken a word. As I hear the voice coming from behind me, I see Jesus talk at the same time and say the exact words that I hear from behind me. I then notice words in the air above me that are being written as I stand there. I am in awe as I read the words. At the end it says, “Revelation 21:3-7.”

Many have experienced the love of a mother or father, a brother or sister, the love of a husband or wife. However, no kiss or embrace could ever compare to the love I sense from the voices that I am hearing. There are absolutely no words that can express it.

And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away. And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful. And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son. (Revelation 21:3-7)

Do you think you know and understand everything already now? If so, then think about why Jesus’ words were “written in the air above him” and why the Bible compares the voice of God from Orion with the noise of many waters (e.g. Ezekiel 1:24 and Revelation 19:6)? Why do you think this is specified in more detail in Ernie’s dreams: “It is the sound resembling a small trickle of water as well as a mountain stream and a large waterfall”? Ernie Knoll and his followers have had so much time to pursue all of these hints, but have failed miserably to decipher these marvelous revelations. Can my readers decipher it?

One Last Sign

The Adventist Church organization fell away from the truth that it once received. The truth still exists, but it is no longer taught. The teachings that made the Adventist Church God’s light bearer were hidden under a bushel by its leadership. The same thing happened with the first nation of God’s choosing, the Israelite nation, which serves as the type for the latter. Most of our readers react like the people of Israel to our warnings... they say “nothing.” Apparently they are waiting for a sign from heaven to prove that we’re right.

Just as the Jews of Jesus’ day failed to recognize the Messiah in their midst, the Adventist Church didn’t recognize its Savior in the place where it was instructed to look toward since its birth. Hiram Edson had seen in vision the truth of the beginning of the investigative judgment in the heavenly sanctuary. He made it clear that the explanation for the Great Disappointment of 1844 was there. Jesus went from the Holy Place into the Most Holy Place and thus began the last phase of the plan of salvation on Earth. From then on, the church was asked to follow its Lord to where He had gone. It didn’t! That’s why it treated the sign given to it since 2010 by the voice of God from Orion as null and void.

Neither did the Jews appreciate the signs that the expected but despised Messiah worked among them for three and a half years. Despite all the evidence for His authority, despite all the healings which He had wrought, the resurrections, and the restoration of the original meaning of the teachings entrusted to them, the Jews still refused to believe and follow Him. He came unto His own, and His own did not recognize him. Instead, in their blindness they called for another sign from heaven to prove the authenticity of Jesus:

Then certain of the scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee. But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: (Matthew 12:38–39)

Our readers do the same. They demand more and more evidence that we are right and despise the provided evidence in the harmonies that we’ve discovered in God’s Word. Adventists everywhere are waiting for “their” big sign: the Sunday Law, according to their belief. They forget that the Sunday Law can only come after the people’s paradigm has changed so that they themselves demand the law. Everything is in place—be it in the U.S. or Europe—but a big disaster must come to give the final impetus. However, when the big disaster comes, things will happen so quickly that no one who had received so much light from God would be able to turn to His side, not having lived up to that light.

On October 27, 2012, the Adventist Church organization passed the point of no return. Their transgressions had reached the point that they were openly following the pope’s ecumenical decrees. As we will see in a later article, a divine timeline started to tick on this day, which should find its end in the last warning of the sixth trumpet of the Judgment Cycle for the Adventist Church. The door of mercy irrevocably started to close for the organization on that sevenfold-holy Day of Atonement. One year later, God gave the authority to be His voice to others who form the faithful part, and who are thus the true Adventist church. The others removed themselves so far from the truth of God that they were sifted out.

For the individual members, however, God still had many warnings prepared. The beginnings of the three timelines of Daniel 12 fulfilled precisely from February 27, 2013 onward as we foretold by our countdown dates. The events followed in rapid succession: the sensational public resignation of Benedict, the election of the first Jesuit pope (March 13) and his declaration of a revolution in the leadership of Vatican City State with the creation of a world-ruling body of Cardinals (April 13).

Yet the Adventist Church, and all the people who are still in Babylon with it, would still get one more sign. Indeed, the one that Jesus had already promised to an evil and adulterous generation. It would be a sign that would be very different than what was anticipated or asked for. We studied this topic for a long time, and the Holy Spirit shined His light at the right time for you to recognize it now too.

The Sign for Israel

The type for the sign that Christianity, today's alleged people of God, would get is the sign of Jonah. We need to study the type carefully to find out what "our" sign should be. First, we need to recognize that the sign back then was nothing trivial, as the Bible text might seem to suggest when it says "no sign but the sign of Jonah."

Jesus explained very well what the sign would be:

For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. (Matthew 12:40)

I dealt with the sign in detail in Part II of the Cross Shadows. I explained that the three days and three nights began in Gethsemane when Jesus took the burden of all humanity's sin upon His shoulders. He went with that burden "into the heart of the earth," into the darkness that corresponds to the darkness that Jonah must have felt in the belly of the whale. That burden didn't fall from His shoulders until He had risen that morning and ascended to the heavenly sanctuary. That is when He brought the burden of the sin of mankind together with His atoning blood to the Father. That is when He came back to the light, like Jonah when the whale vomited him ashore.

In that short visit to the Father, Jesus also presented the firstfruits to Him. Those were the people who were resurrected at His crucifixion:

Jesus, when he had cried again with a loud voice, yielded up the ghost. And, behold, the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake, and the rocks rent; And the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints which slept arose, And came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many. (Matthew 27:50-53)

At the time of His death, Jesus showed to the apostate people that His power is in His sin-pardoning blood. His blood affords justification of those who receive it and let themselves be cleansed from sin. At the crucifixion, His blood caused the resurrection of many "saints", which then bore witness for God in Jerusalem for three days. Their witnessing was enough to grant not only justification, but also the sanctification necessary to ascend to the Father in heaven on the third day with Jesus, where they remain alive today.

Those events showed with the example of a few what would happen later on a grand scale. The power of Jesus' blood would cause the dry bones of church members in the valley of the dead to get flesh and tendons and come to life (Ezekiel 37) as the last generation to finish their testimony in the Loud Cry that began at that time. The 144,000 will soon be spiritually resurrected to bear witness for the Father. This is our high calling.

Why did Jesus choose that combination of events to give as the last sign to the former evil and adulterous generation? He wanted to remind them of their original evangelistic mission, which they had forgotten. The entire Jewish nation had been chosen to proclaim the first advent of Jesus. Their statutes, their festivals, the sacrificial system—everything pointed to the first coming of Jesus and His sacrifice for all of humanity. They had the old scriptures, and could read all of the prophecies that pointed toward the Messiah and the effect of His blood. They would have recognized Him if they had studied and understood the prophecies. Behind the prophecies, they should have seen the good news of a sin-pardoning and sanctifying Saviour instead of falling into a delusion of religious form. They should have seen that all of the people who love Him can be resurrected and receive eternal life, but they decided to proclaim human traditions instead of the truth of the living God.

This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me. But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. (Matthew 15:8-9)

The sign began in Gethsemane at His arrest, when the first drops of the Savior's blood fell, and it ended when all of His blood was brought into the heavenly sanctuary to the Father. Therefore, it was soon clear to us that the sign for today's adulterous generation would take place during the Passover feast days, and especially on the day of the wave sheaf. That day represents the firstfruits, the people that Jesus took to heaven after His resurrection.

One study stands at the center of all our studies. It is the study of God's true calendar, which we found as we examined in detail the events surrounding Gethsemane. Therefore, we called the study Full Moon at Gethsemane. God's calendar has not only enabled us to find out Jesus' true crucifixion date, but also to calculate astronomically any of God's appointed feast days, past or future. We knew that in a particular year on the second day after the Passover, which would be the day of the wave sheaf, we would be given a sign from heaven that would correspond to the sign of Jonah.

This time, it would be a sign that would show the failures of especially the Adventist Church in accomplishing its preaching mission. It would be a sign that would show on a small scale what would later happen on a large scale during the time of Jesus' second coming.

Herald of the Three Angels' Messages?

To recognize the sign, we must first investigate what the true preaching mission of the Adventist Church was. It sees itself as the bearer of the three angels' messages of Revelation 14. First, let's examine whether or not it has done its job.

The first angel's message includes the proclamation of the "judgment hour":

And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters. (Revelation 14:6-7)

That includes more than just the first Midnight Cry of William Miller, because an "hour" is a period of time that has a beginning and an end! God is precise in His Word. If He had meant an indefinite period of time, then he would have said "for the beginning of His judgment is come," but the term "hour of His judgment" includes the beginning and the end, and thus the second and true Midnight Cry that the bridegroom is really coming now.

Does the Adventist Church still preach the investigative judgment which began in 1844? No, the corresponding chapters were taken out of the "Great Hope" (the evangelistic edition of the "Great Controversy" by Ellen G. White, to be distributed by the hundred-millions worldwide). In the book, they deny the greatest pioneer of the Advent movement, William Miller. His name does not even appear anymore. Neither does the book contain the chapters about the sanctuary doctrine or the name of he who brought it to life: Hiram Edson.

Does the Adventist Church preach the second Midnight Cry for the judgment hour's end? No—quite the contrary. There is a fanatical antagonism towards anyone who even tries to harmonize biblical prophecy with contemporary events or with time in general. That is why I had to write a whole series of articles, Day and Hour, which Adventists reject at the outset.

The only thing left is the knowledge that the God of creation must be worshiped on the day He chose and sanctified: the Sabbath, and the Church stamped that very remnant of the first angel's message into the dust on October 27, 2012 as it observed the Creation Sabbath decreed by the pope.

The second angel's message was the movement of Samuel Snow, the man who calculated the exact date of the start of judgment in heaven. He warned the Protestant churches before their great apostasy to the Babylonian-Catholic teachings. You might call him the first anti-ecumenist.

And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication. (Revelation 14:8)

The Bible tells us that the second angel's message must repeat, particularly in the message of the fourth angel:

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. (Revelation 18:1-3)

Ellen White helped us understand that the repetition was especially about the corruptions that entered the Adventist Church after 1844:

The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. The work of this angel comes in at the right time to join in the last great work of the third angel's message as it swells to a loud cry. And the people of God are thus prepared to stand in the hour of temptation, which they are soon to meet. I saw a great light resting upon them, and they united to fearlessly proclaim the third angel's message. {EW 277.1}

The Orion and Vessel of Time messages have enumerated exactly these corruptions of the Adventist Church by name. God recorded every single deviation from His plan with His own finger in the firmament, and in the courses of the sun and moon.

Does the Adventist Church preach the message of Samuel Snow that all churches that lean upon the Catholic Church have fallen? No. All of the chapters from the Great Controversy that might give the appearance of a belief that the Roman Church is the Antichrist were removed in the "Great Hope".

Does the Adventist Church preach the message of the Fourth Angel and admit its own errors, as presented by the Lord? Not at all! On the contrary, it silences, marginalizes, and excludes all those who want to preach it. It excludes and expels them, persecutes them, and even wants to declare some of them insane. In so doing, it behaves just like its example, the hypocritical Jewish nation at the time of Jesus.

Now we come to the heart of Adventism. The Church sees itself as the movement of the third angel! What is the message of the third angel?

*And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb: And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name. (Revelation 14:9-11)

Ellen G. White was right when she called this the most terrible of all of the angels' messages:

As the ministration of Jesus closed in the holy place, and He passed into the holiest, and stood before the ark containing the law of God, He sent another mighty angel with a third message to the world. A parchment was placed in the angel's hand, and as he descended to the earth in power and majesty, he proclaimed a fearful warning, with the most terrible threatening ever borne to man. This message was designed to put the children of God upon their guard, by showing them the hour of temptation and anguish that was before them. {EW 254.1}

This message is not just about the warning not to break the Sabbath commandment. We are ordered to clearly warn about the consequences, and that includes an understanding of what the plagues are so that sleeping people will wake up for their salvation. Note that Ellen White speaks of the hour again. Remember, the term "hour" includes the beginning and end of a time period, so this speaks of a time message.

Does the Adventist Church really preach the third angel's message as it claims? Do you hear warnings about the plagues from the pulpits? I have said in my articles that what is preached and practiced, if someone mentions the subject, is a belief that the plagues will only last 14 days. No one "shows the hour of temptation and anguish" because that would be anti-ecumenical. The Adventist Church ceased giving the true third angel's message years ago.

Thus, the Church has failed in the proclamation of the three angels' messages, and particularly in its own third angel's message. Not to mention the Fourth Angel's message or the Loud Cry, which also point to the plagues:

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities. (Revelation 18:4-5)

Why didn't Adventists listen to what the messenger of God told them?

John came in the spirit and power of Elijah to proclaim the first advent of Jesus. I was pointed down to the last days and saw that John represented those who should go forth in the spirit and power of Elijah to herald the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus. {EW 155.1}

Read the quote twice! The contents of the Loud Cry are described there: the heralding of the "day of God's wrath and the second coming of Christ." A Church that rejects all time prophecy cannot fulfill this work and thus can have neither the spirit nor the power of Elijah.

So, what sign should be given to a Church which had been so richly blessed by God and had received so much light, but still refused to preach the new light that would have caused the old light to shine ten times brighter? What sign should be given to a Church that instead committed adultery with the Roman Jezebel? What sign would show on a small scale what would happen later on a grand scale?

The Biggest Lightning Flash of All Time

When the Karaites reported on their website that the barley search in March 2013 was successful, we knew that the sign of Jonah would be given on April 27, 2013, the second day after the true Passover in accordance with God's calendar. As I already mentioned in The Loud Cry under the heading "God's Last Warning", part of Ernie Knoll's Two cars dream also pointed to this date, but the dream was so general that it could have applied to the second day after any possible spring full moon.

We had more precise knowledge because we have what Ernie Knoll does not have... the biblical understanding of God's feast-day prophecies. When our second-to-last countdown expired on April 13 after successfully indicating the beginning of the 1260 days of visible events, we immediately set a new countdown. We set it to the date of April 27, which we had known about for a long time. So we waited anxiously to see what would happen on that day. We were especially interested in the hour in which the wave sheaf would have been waved in the temple in Jerusalem, between 9 am and 12 noon.

That time range in Jerusalem also agreed with the fact that it would still be night at Ernie's residence in Brownsville, California when the following event would happen in his dream:

Everything now comes to a quick halt. All sound stops. Everything is still and quiet. Suddenly there is an incredibly loud sound that does not have a description. It resembles the sounds of a million train or truck horns blowing at the same time. The black fabric of the still night sky now rips apart and there is a brightness that has no description.

April 27, 2013 was a Sabbath. It was even more than a Sabbath. It was the first ceremonial feast day in the new Jewish year that fell on a seventh-day Sabbath. We always considered it to be a special day because we thought this Sabbath feast day would begin the last triplet of the High Sabbath List, and thus the time of the Loud Cry.

We also found that Ernie's dream confirmed that it would be a Sabbath, because he says: "Everything now comes to a quick halt. All sound stops. Everything is still and quiet." What better description could there be for a quiet Sabbath evening? The Sabbath began on Friday evening, April 26, and during those night hours (in California) the great sign would come. According to Ernie's dream, it should show that the final rapid movements had already begun, and according to our studies we expected that the Adventist Church would receive the sign of Jonah.

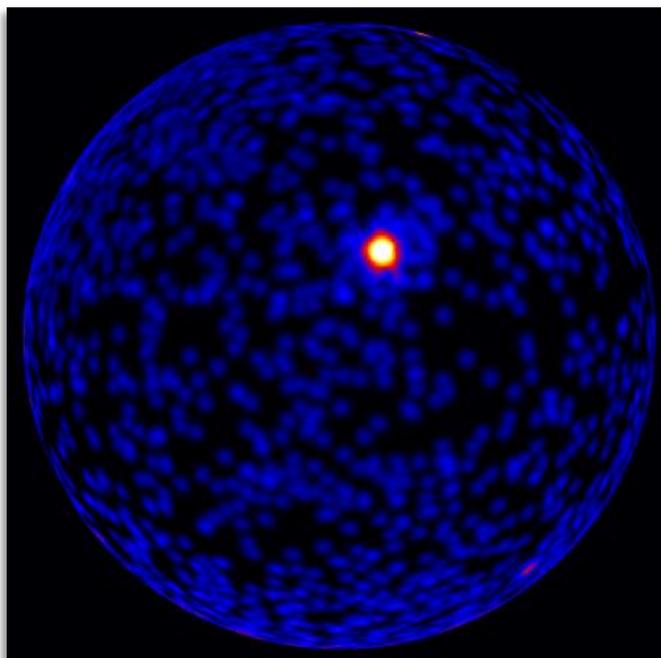

As we've previously explained, it's often difficult to assign an event to a date. Sometimes it can take days until we find what really happened by rummaging through press releases. This time we had to wait patiently until May 5 for the news bomb to finally explode. NASA reported on May 5, 2013 the following:

NASA's Fermi, Swift See 'Shockingly Bright' Burst

A record-setting blast of gamma rays from a dying star in a distant galaxy has wowed astronomers around the world. The eruption, which is classified as a gamma-ray burst, or GRB, and designated GRB 130427A, produced the highest-energy light ever detected from such an event.

"We have waited a long time for a gamma-ray burst this shockingly, eye-wateringly bright," said Julie McEnery, project scientist for the Fermi Gamma-ray Space Telescope at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md. "The GRB lasted so long that a record number of telescopes on the ground were able to catch it while space-based observations were still ongoing."

Please allow me to explain something about this image in my own words. We needed a little time to understand what it shows, and how scary the magnitude of the gamma-ray burst of April 27 really was. It outshined everything that had previously been seen. The blue spots on the sphere don't just represent stars in the universe in a blue spectrum. Rather, they are all captured and measured gamma-ray bursts. Each one was already a huge flash with an unimaginable power of more than 100 million electron volts (MeV). The Fermi team used this illustration to show how incredibly bright GRB 130427A was compared to other GRBs. (The GRB designation is actually the date in the year/month/day format.)

Just after 3:47 a.m. EDT on Saturday, April 27, Fermi's Gamma-ray Burst Monitor (GBM) triggered on an eruption of high-energy light in the constellation Leo...

Fermi's Large Area Telescope (LAT) recorded one gamma ray with an energy of at least 94 billion electron volts (GeV), or some 35 billion times the energy of visible light, and about three times greater than the LAT's previous record. The GeV emission from the burst lasted for hours, and it remained detectable by the LAT for the better part of a day, setting a new record for the longest gamma-ray emission from a GRB.

Furthermore, the scientists found that this large history-making astronomical event was fortunately triggered at the unimaginable distance of 3.6 billion light-years in a distant galaxy. If that burst had happened in our galaxy, it would have burnt our planet to a crisp in a split second.

If we convert the time that GRB 130427A struck to Jerusalem time, we come—incredibly—to Saturday, April 27, 2013 at 10:47 a.m. That was exactly within the timeframe we expected on the morning of the antitypical resurrection day when Jesus was with the Father. This time, our countdown pointed to the exact hour of the event.

Friends and brethren, it is no exaggeration to call this gamma-ray burst a sign. We know that this flash struck Earth, because gamma-ray bursts can only be measured if they are directed towards Earth. The others which are directed away are not visible to us. If you could make such a gamma-ray burst audible, then all our eardrums would burst and it would almost turn Ernie's words into an understatement: "It resembles the sounds of a million train or truck horns blowing at the same time."

This flash was also the brightest ever seen, measured or experienced by humans. Even hard scientists described it as "eye-wateringly bright". "The black fabric of the still night sky now rips apart and there is a brightness that has no description."

We are not here to justify Ernie Knoll. The poor man does not even know that his dreams are finally about to come true (and we have only divulged a tiny bit of our understanding). He must go by himself to Jesus to ask Him for forgiveness for entering the territory of Satan in his more recent dreams. Nevertheless, the final rapid movements have actually begun.

What sign would have been better suited to the Adventist Church to show their transgression with respect to the preaching of the combined third and fourth angel's messages? Both messages contain the great and terrible warning about the plagues.

Which sign would have been better suited to show the Sunday-keeping and thus sun-worshiping churches where they are leading their "sheep" to? Those who worship the sun must perish by a sun!

Now I have shown you in three articles where the plagues come from and that a GRB from nearby in our own galaxy will trigger the end of humanity and this planet.

It is fueling the furnace which Malachi spoke about:

For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch. (Malachi 4:1)

And it is the fire under the crucible of Peter:

The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. (2 Peter 3:9-10)

Please take Peter's advice:

Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, Looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat? Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless. (2 Peter 3:11-14)

I've accompanied you up to this point. Please hear what I still have to say, because I do not know if the Lord Jesus, Alnitak, will allow me to write more to you once everything has begun...

Did the Jewish nation learn its lesson from the sign of Jonah that was given to it? Did they understand that when He brought the holy firstfruits to the Father, which was symbolized by spitting the prophet out of the fish's mouth, Jesus didn't point only to the redemption and the resurrection in the light of a new earth, but that everyone who does not accept this redemption is lost forever? Will the Adventist Church and the apostate Protestant Churches learn from the sign of the greatest flash of all time and turn back as an organization to proclaim the true Sabbath of God and the complete three angel's messages?

Probably not!

It's about the individual, no matter what church he belongs to. Everyone is called to come out of Babylon. Everyone has to leave the Roman Catholic system and the "Brave New World Order" that it established if they do not want to partake of the plagues. Redemption is not corporate but individual. Anyone can be saved, but not without loving obedience and not without fruits through the power of Jesus. Now every individual must stand alone before God in judgment and yet work for their fellow man:

All men have been bought with this infinite price. By pouring the whole treasury of heaven into this world, by giving us in Christ all heaven, God has purchased the will, the affections, the mind, the soul, of every human being. Whether believers or unbelievers, all men are the Lord's property. All are called to do service for Him, and for the manner in which they have met this claim, all will be required to render an account at the great judgment day.

But the claims of God are not recognized by all. It is those who profess to have accepted Christ's service who in the parable are represented as His own servants.

Christ's followers have been redeemed for service. Our Lord teaches that the true object of life is ministry. Christ Himself was a worker, and to all His followers He gives the law of service—service to God and to their fellow men. Here Christ has presented to the world a higher conception of life than they had ever known. By living to minister for others, man is brought into connection with Christ. The law of service becomes the connecting link which binds us to God and to our fellow men. {COL 326.1-3}

Only those who pray like Jonah will come out of the dark dungeon of the whale's belly and into the light:

Then Jonah prayed unto the LORD his God out of the fish's belly, And said, I cried by reason of mine affliction unto the LORD, and he heard me; out of the belly of hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice. For thou hadst cast me into the deep, in the midst of the seas; and the floods compassed me about: all thy billows and thy waves passed over me. Then I said, I am cast out of thy sight; yet I will look again toward thy holy temple. The waters compassed me about, even to the soul: the depth closed me round about, the weeds were wrapped about my head. I went down to the bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought up my life from corruption, O LORD my God. When my soul fainted within me I remembered the LORD: and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple. They that observe lying vanities forsake their own mercy. But I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay that that I have vowed. Salvation is of the LORD. And the LORD spake unto the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land. (Jonah 2:1-10)

May God bless you—especially those who have thus far spurned His blessings and His light.

Change of Venue

The Sound of War

This article expounds upon the important chain of events that began on February 27, 2012. We wrote several articles sharing our experiences and entreating our fellow brethren with warnings to the best of our knowledge at that time. The Final Warning series was a brief journal from the front lines telling what we saw through the eyes of faith, but two years in retrospect reveals that there was a lot more going on. That is what I will share with you now.

Our story begins on February 27, 2012 when God the Father began His 40-day departure from the Most Holy Place as Ezekiel saw in vision.

And the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from the cherub, whereupon he was, to the threshold of the house... (Ezekiel 9:3)

Each timeline tells a story, and this one tells a story about God the Father. It tells of His own trial in the judgment of the living, as we talked about in the article Our High Calling. It is God who is on trial, to find out whether Satan's accusations against His government are valid.

I don't want to rush past this point, because the central theme of this timeline is the humility of the Father. One of Satan's accusations was that God would not condescend to the level of selfless service that His law requires of His creatures, and it was Jesus' incarnation and death on the cross that demonstrated to the universe once and for all that the Godhead was willing to sacrifice—no matter how infinitely—in service to His creation.

It was not only or chiefly Jesus who made the sacrifice, however. The timeline we are looking at in this article tells the story of the Father's trial. In preparation for the judgment of the living, Jesus was installed as the Supreme Judge to preside over the heavenly Court. Meanwhile, the Father was put “in the dock” as the accused.

God the Father has everything on the line. If He cannot be defended in the heavenly Court, the universe that He governs in love will be lost to spiral out of control into the chaos of eternal sin, wrecked by the arch-rebel and all who side with him.

So the forty days, reminiscent of other periods of 40 in the Bible, are days of apprehension for the Father. As I tell this story, I will apply human feelings to the Father’s experience—not to lower our respect for God the Father, but to help us see Him with our hearts as His sons and daughters. It shouldn’t be a strange thing for us to do this, considering that Ezekiel described Him anthropomorphically.

These were days of apprehension because the Father’s vindication depends on human witnesses and jurors, and in these 40 days He was on His way to the temple door to survey the courtyard for such ones. Perhaps as He walked those 40 days, He wondered who He would find there.

Keep in mind that Ezekiel saw the first temple—the temple of Solomon. It was this temple where he saw the abominations, and which he saw God depart from. Today, the first temple serves as a type for the Seventh-day Adventist Church. This is the Church that was privileged to have so abundant of light like when the Shekinah Glory blessed the first temple, and yet this is where the abominations are seen.

Weeping for Tammuz

At the time, there was no way we could have known that while the Father was crossing the temple, the SECC (Southeastern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists) was taking the first steps that would eventually lead to the election of Sandra Roberts as the first woman president of a local conference. We just didn’t know what movements were afoot—much less could we see the significance at that time. Only now in retrospect we can begin to see what the Father could already see through His omniscient eyes as He took those steps. In this way, the Father re-traced His Son’s steps up the mountain to the Garden of Gethsemane.

When He reached the threshold on April 6, 2012 and scanned the courtyard for witnesses for the next 20 days, He saw what He feared: the church that should have been waiting patiently and ready as on the Day of Atonement was more interested in the surveys on women’s ordination that they had taken in the months of March and April. Not only were they unready to come to the aid of the Father, but they were acting in positive violation of the principle of order that He had established in the Garden of Eden before the fall.

For Adam was first formed, then Eve. (1 Timothy 2:13)

The Father could see the end of the matter from the beginning, and this was the cause of His distress. He could see that His Church, symbolized by the temple of Solomon, had dared to undermine one of the twin institutions that He had established in Eden, and thus they were on their speedy way to betray not only the first, but the second institution as well.

Yet He didn't give up on them immediately. He beckoned to His Church for one month, from Passover to the second-month Passover, hoping beyond hope that some who were not clean at the official Passover would yet make ready and present themselves in defense of His honor at the second-month Passover.

Part-way through that month, a dim light glittered in the darkness of the Father's plight. On April 27, 2012, our little group of loyal souls published an announcement entitled The New Light, which included the article Our High Calling. We were not only readying for the second-month Passover, but shining the spotlight on the Father, trying to draw the attention and sympathy of our brethren to His aid.

It is easy for us to regard the omnipotent God as beyond need of our help. That is true in a sense, because we can offer Him nothing that we didn't first get from Him, but on the other hand we mustn't forget that God does not act outside of His law. Even more, He is in a legal battle and is not in a position to exercise all of the powers that are legitimately His until the case is settled.

Thus we shined our little light on these issues, and our sparkle of hope pierced the sleepy darkness that the Church had sunken into. But alas, there was only one problem: neither we nor our "light" were accepted in the Church. The judgment in the heavenly sanctuary was taking place in the context of its earthly counterpart, the Church, as represented by Solomon's temple. During those remaining days until the second-month Passover, the courtyard was still vacant of witnesses. Not just vacant of witnesses, but those present were performing further abominations by conducting a vote on women's ordination on May 1, 2012.

This had to have been a terrible disappointment for the Father, much more so than for us. What was He to do, while in the dock? It was time for the judgment of the living to begin, but there were no witnesses or jurors for the trial. On the actual day of the beginning of the judgment of the living, May 6, 2012, the SECC published its vote and survey results thus reaffirming its course toward pulling down the pillars of Eden.

That is the retrospective "backstory" that set the stage for what transpired during the entire first half of the judgment of the living. This beginning phase spanned 70 days. As I write this article two years afterward, the period of the first trumpet is now coming to a close. It is also 70 days in duration, which should cause a person to think about the vision of Ezekiel 9 again and relate the Father's story to where we presently are in time.

The Year of Grace

He spake also this parable; A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none. Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground? And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it: And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down. (Luke 13:6-9)

The Lord tenderly cared for the Adventist Church for 168 years, blessed them with abundant light and counsel, reprov'd and entreated them, all for the purpose that they would bear fruit at the time it was needed. A fig tree is not planted to take up space, but to bear fruit. As the parable of the fig tree shows, God's grace still didn't end. One more year was given—a year of especial care represented by digging and dunging.

In this storyline, the year of grace from the Father's perspective spans the first year of the judgment of the living, from May 6, 2012 until April 30, 2013. This is a period of 360 days, or one prophetic year. The heavenly Court allowed one year for the Father's defense to produce its witnesses.

That year saw several important developments and events like Benedict's resignation and Francis' election, but this timeline keeps our attention on the Father's movements with respect to the earthly sanctuary. Was the year of grace beneficial, even with such threatening events? Would faithful witnesses be found at the conclusion of the year? Could the Father's trial proceed favorably? And what would the Court do if there were still no witnesses even after this generous period of grace had been offered? These are the questions that the Father and the whole heavenly Court awaited the answers to.

It so happened that the very next day was the anniversary of the SECC's vote on women's ordination, and there had been nary one sign of reversal. The heavenly Court could see the handwriting on the wall all along, and the Supreme Judge—acting in an impartial capacity—was ready to take extraordinary measures on behalf of the Accused who was still without witnesses for His defense.

Four days before the SECC's vote back in 2012, a little flicker of light began to shine from the small band gathered in Paraguay. This little light was despised and went unnoticed by the majority on earth, but it did not escape the eye of the Almighty. While the Church despised the last dying drops of grace during the ensuing year, the Supreme Judge was solidifying a back-up plan in case the Church did not change its wayward course.

Four days in like manner, this time before the anniversary of the SECC's vote, Heaven flashed a signal light of its own in token acknowledgement of our New Light series. Record-setting GRB (gamma-ray burst) 130427A blazed its way across the vacuum of space some 3.6 billion light-years in distance to signal this earth on April 27, 2013—exactly one year after John unwittingly sent out the newsletter announcing The New Light. The burst signaled to this globe that the sincere yet feeble efforts that are despised by men are accepted with God.

The introductory article in that series is called Lightning Arresters. To fully appreciate what the name means, you should understand that a GRB is literally called "gamma-ray lightning" in German. John's article title of Lightning Arresters foreshadowed the biggest bolt of gamma-ray lightning ever witnessed, which came one year later to the day!

GRBs are the biggest explosions and most energetic releases in the known universe. This "sign of Jonah" exactly 3½ days before the end of the year of grace prompted us to write the series about The Wrath of God. Thus the same signal which brightened our hopes served as the harbinger of doom to the Church that had so stubbornly despised its Lord. The spotlight of the Lord was searching His people, and again the leadership of the Church was found fruitless, despite their many pretentious evangelistic efforts in New York and elsewhere with their joke of a Great Hope.

This scenario is well described in Gethsemane, Part II in the story about the fig tree that Jesus sought fruit on during His passion week. The tree was full of pretentious leaves, but destitute of fruit. The Lord observed the tree and stated that no man would eat fruit from that tree ever again. In other words, He pronounced the tree dead.

We did not understand these things at that time as we do today. April 27, 2013 was the true Resurrection Day, and it happened to fall on a Sabbath as part of the Pentecost high Sabbath group. This led us to expect events more proportionate to the occasion than an astronomical curiosity, though it was in reality much more than that. It was not until later that we understood the depth of what was transpiring in heaven.

When the Father had come to the courtyard seeking witnesses, the Court gave a month of grace, then a full year of grace. But what was the Court to do when it became obvious that more and more grace would not further the case at bar? In His wisdom, the Supreme Judge took unprecedented measures to secure a fair trial.

Change of Venue

A change of venue is the legal term for moving a trial to a new location. In high-profile matters, a change of venue may occur to move a jury trial away from a location where a fair and impartial jury may not be possible due to widespread publicity about a crime and its defendant(s) to another community in order to obtain jurors who can be more objective in their duties. (Wikipedia)

So the heavenly Court initiated a change of venue. This is represented in Ezekiel by the Shekinah Glory departing from the temple of Solomon and standing above the mountain. This symbolizes the Father's complete departure from the Seventh-day Adventist Church, which is typified by Solomon's temple. The change was completely justified on the grounds that the One on trial was very famous (who is more famous than God?), and that the witnesses were biased against a fair trial.

We can see this application at multiple levels. At one level the SDA Church had become biased in its apostasy, but looking at the broader scope the entire world has become biased. The very city where the temple of Solomon once sat has become the spiritual center of all false religion. Indeed, modern Jerusalem is a key player in the NWO, and is no longer a fit venue as the earthly counterpart for an unbiased heavenly trial.

The Father was re-tracing His Son's steps. His act of leaving the Church in effect pronounced it dead, just as Jesus declared that the fig tree would never bear fruit.

Remember, the Court was well aware of our desperate efforts to prepare as witnesses in the spring of 2012. They saw us publish the New Light in cooperation with the Holy Spirit to help others get ready too. They watched us hold to our faith in this High Calling through the year of "grace," a waiting time so agonizing to us. They saw us spring into action at the first sign of the enemy's movements on the battlefield in the spring of 2013. While the SDA Church was receiving a year of grace, we were being proved to qualify for the very last back-up plan.

We are a small bunch, but together with the Holy Spirit John managed to prepare a humble locale here on this farm where we could work during the judgment proceedings. You can imagine how small it made us feel to realize that we should host the Father of the Universe, the Supreme Judge Jesus Christ, and all of their attending angels! Much less did we know that they had been on their way since May 1, 2013!

To be clear, they are in heaven and our little farm in Paraguay is only the earthly reflection of the heavenly sanctuary. We wouldn't expect to see the Father in person (certainly not in the flesh and still live anyway). Nevertheless, heaven and earth are intimately connected, and the Father's change of venue means a great deal on earth.

How Long?

Once we recognized that the Father's trial was being relocated to our venue, the natural question became: how long should the relocation take?

To answer that question, we first have to be clear on where the Father is departing from. We know that He figuratively left the SDA Church, and that the SDA Church is the remnant offspring of the church that Jesus Christ began Himself when He was on earth. Where was the earthly counterpart to the heavenly sanctuary when Jesus began His heavenly ministry?

It was Jerusalem—specifically the temple. That was the temple where the Savior Himself walked and talked with His people. After He began His work in the heavenly sanctuary, did the location ever change? Let's review and see.

- When Stephen was stoned and the gospel went to the Gentiles, was there a new temple or headquarters built and dedicated? No.
- When the Christians fled Jerusalem prior to its destruction in 70 A.D., did God move the sanctuary? No. Neither was there ever a new temple built, let alone blessed by God's presence.
- When the Advent believers came together c. 1844, was there a new temple built and dedicated to indicate a location change at that time? No again.
- When the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists was formed in 1863, was there any indication of a change in the location of the investigative judgment in heaven or on earth? Still no.
- Last but not least, when the General Conference moved away from Battle Creek, Michigan, was there any indication at all that God had now ordained a new earthly counterpart location for the judgment proceedings? No! In fact, Ellen White said in 1903:

I am satisfied that our only safe course is to be ready to move just when the cloud moves.

Reading between the lines, she was basically saying that the church was in the wilderness wandering phase and wouldn't have a designated place as long as that was the case.

If the earthly reflection of the heavenly sanctuary was never moved during the entire Christian era, then what earthly locale must still have been the reflection of the heavenly sanctuary? Jerusalem! We even see this evidenced in the fact that the High Sabbath List which spans the entire investigative judgment is computed based on the calendar of God as observed/computed from the coordinates of the temple mount in Jerusalem.

That means that when we look at the distance of the move to Paraguay, we have to look at it in relation to Jerusalem. As Supreme Judge, Jesus began the judgment of the living in the spring, at the second Passover. It was timed according to the feast. After a prophetic year of hoping for good fruit from the SDA Church, while at the same time preparing our group in Paraguay as the last back-up plan, the Supreme Judge ordered the change of venue which corresponded to a move from Jerusalem to Paraguay in the earthly reflection.

We want to know how long this move will take in order to know when the trial should really begin in the new setting. First, let's look at this move on a map and see what we are dealing with:

Most obviously, Jerusalem is in the northern hemisphere, while we are in the southern hemisphere. We are even within the same climatic zones in our respective hemispheres, with Jerusalem in the northern temperate zone just above the Tropic of Cancer, and Asunción in the southern temperate zone just below the Tropic of Capricorn. We recognized the significance of this hemisphere change long ago, and therefore we have often compared our seasons to the opposite feasts. For example, Passover happens after the hottest summer months have passed in Paraguay and we are cooling down into the autumn season, instead of in the spring after the coldest months have passed in the northern hemisphere.

If the Lord would choose a number to represent this change, what do you think He would choose? A good candidate would be something that represents the seasonal difference between the northern and southern hemispheres. It would be a half-year, or 180 days in standard prophetic counting.

Where would we come if we begin counting 180 days after the 360 days that we already counted for the extra year of grace that He allowed for the fig tree to bear fruit? With the first day being May 1, 2013, the 180th day would be none other than October 27, 2013!

So now after all this time we can see that God confirmed the relocation of the Court from the SDA Church to our little group by the harp concert on the eve of this very day! It was a sign that we were receiving the authority of The Voice of God in place of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. And as further evidence to this fact, it so happened that the SECC elected Sandra Roberts in defiance of the GC leadership exactly on that day, October 27, 2013! The GC visibly lost its authority in the wake of these changes.

But you know we had bigger expectations for that day, and still there were nothing like fireballs and we remained no more than a voice crying in the wilderness with very few paying any attention at all. Did the Court really relocate to us, and did we really receive any authority on that day, or was it just a confirmation that the judgment was in fact relocating and that we would receive the authority at a future date? The latter is the truth.

The events leading up to this date were very interesting on all fronts, but I want to hold to the storyline of the Court's relocation for the moment, and I will come back to that later.

What did we overlook? Take another glance at the map above, and it should be easy to see that we did not fully consider the location change yet. In addition to the change in the time of year due to going from the northern hemisphere to the southern hemisphere, there is also a change in the time of day going from Jerusalem's longitude of about 35°E to the longitude of Asunción of about 57°W. That amounts to some 92 degrees difference.

We can also calculate this in terms of time zones. The time zone of Jerusalem is UTC + 2, whereas Asunción is UTC - 4. That is a difference of exactly 6 hours. How long is that in prophetic time? If 1 day translates to a prophetic year of 360 days, then 6 hours translates to how many days?

This also corresponds roughly to the difference in longitude, since it is the earth's rotation about its axis that determines the hours of the day in the first place, but now we have a round number which more exactly represents the time change when going from Jerusalem to Asunción.

Now we can place these 90 days immediately after the 180 days to come all the way to January 25, 2014. The two periods together symbolize both aspects of the relocation. The 180 days for the change of seasons in the southern hemisphere plus the 90 days for crossing six time zones together make 270 days for the entire relocation. This is punctuated by the confirming events between the two phases—the harpers harping with their harps receiving world applause on the receiving end, and the leaders of the World Church getting egg on their faces from disobedient conferences on the departing end.

This two-part relocation has a deeper meaning. Bible prophecy has a day/year principle; the day and the year are defined by the earth's rotation about its axis and around the sun, respectively. These two fundamental units of time are the basis for Bible prophecy as well as the true calendar of God. Thus the time of Jesus' coming is announced as the day and hour: it is the day within the year, and the hour within the day. This is all illustrated by the numbers 180 and 90 which represent the relocation of the Father's trial: 180 days difference within the year and 90 degrees difference within the day.

And just as we could summarize the two phases of movement into one 270-day period of relocation, we can summarize the entire first half of the judgment of the living as one big 630-day period of preparation prior to the Court commencing with the Father's trial.

Grace for You was Grueling for Us!

We were tested severely during the time that the Church was allowed its year of grace. This was necessary because there was just enough time to begin the relocation immediately if the Church didn't produce fruit. The destination had to be selected and prepared in advance of the move.

During the delays of the relocation, we were tested sorely again. We were studying to know God's mind on what was transpiring, meanwhile facing physical tests like the breaking of the roof of our temple. Can you imagine what a blow it was for us when we had been preaching about the figurative roof of the SDA Church disappearing, and the U.S. Debt Ceiling "roof" disappearing, only to have our own roof break!?

We have noticed that this is often the case. There are several levels of application:

- A secular-world application – the debt ceiling in this case, which was actually suspended on October 17, 2013
- A religious-world application – the loss of leadership authority in the World Church on October 27, 2013
- A local application for us – the breaking of our own temple roof.

The detailed events of this time period are quite fascinating. For example, our temple broke on October 14, and the repairs were completed on November 8. The mid-point of that repair period is exactly the special date of October 27.

The day the roof broke was right in the midst of the SDA Church’s Annual Council. By all appearances at that time, poor we were the cursed ones while the GC was none the worse despite everything. However, there is much more to it.

The Father was leaving the SDA Church as a whole because, from a spiritual perspective, it was a broken “temple” from the top down. But God does not show favoritism! On the Day of Atonement, we had to be tested by the same standard in our sphere to prove whether we would be any more faithful than they were in their sphere. Notice that it was just a few hours before the Day of Atonement began that we made the decision to repair the roof of the House of God, not yet knowing where the means would come from. In so doing, this humble farm offered a haven of rest for our beleaguered God, and we passed the test that the Annual Council failed.

As the Annual Council and the Day of Atonement came to a close on the 16th, that very night the U.S. Congress reached an agreement on the debt ceiling and ended the government shutdown. This might seem unrelated at first sight, but suspending the debt ceiling took away the last restraint on ObamaCare, the “health reform” that is linked with the Sunday Law. When apostasy reached the threshold within the Church, persecuting processes were set in motion in the world.

A further coincidence is that we unwittingly published The Voice of God that same day, decrying the imminent end of the GC’s authority on October 27, not knowing that it would be literally fulfilled with the rebellion of Sandra Robert’s election. As an aside, this “Sandy” Roberts “storm” was the fulfillment of the symbolic Hurricane Sandy that inundated the East Coast (headquarters area) one year prior. It was later dubbed “Frankenstorm Sandy” because it combined with other bad weather systems, foreshadowing the recent addition of the homosexuality “monster” as a further assault to God’s order of things.

All of the swift happenings leading up to October 27, 2013 led us to recognize the Feast of Tabernacles as having special significance. Interestingly, the repairs on our roof began on the first day of the feast. Naturally, we were a bit disheartened that our roof was still open during this important feast and began to think about how humble our situation is in comparison to the glory of Solomon’s temple.

Then we realized that the fact is we are not represented by Solomon’s temple. The glory and riches and abundance of Solomon’s temple are a figure for the SDA Church—it boasts of countless hospitals, schools and churches around the world—not to mention the spiritual treasures (which have been defiled by Babylon).

But we? We are just a small bunch of unlikely characters similar to the disciples of Jesus. Our type is the temple of Herod—the temple that was inferior in every way except that it was graced by the Savior Himself during His first advent.

The Forgotten Feast

As I said, we were tried during these periods. We did not then understand all that we do now, and could not so easily make sense of things. There was a lot of study involved to understand what the Feast of Tabernacles meant for us, and why we didn’t receive as generous a portion of the Holy Spirit as we expected on that very feast which is connected with it.

When our roof broke, we put the Lord’s house first according to the counsel of Haggai, even if we would have to deny ourselves our very food to pay for it—and wouldn’t you know it—just enough money arrived the day after that decision. In our study of the book of Haggai, we unearthed some important dates. Most notably:

In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD by Haggai the prophet, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts... (Haggai 2:10-11)

And again the word of the LORD came unto Haggai in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying, Speak to Zerubbabel, governor of Judah, saying, I will shake the heavens and the earth; (Haggai 2:20-21)

This historical date is what gave rise to the Hanukkah feast, which is also known as the Feast of Dedication, because that is when the foundation of the second temple was dedicated by Haggai. It began on the 25 day of the ninth month, and was an eight-day feast similar to the Feast of Tabernacles. It pertained especially to the second temple (which was later renovated extensively by Herod and thus became known as Herod’s temple).

By this time, you should be wondering when the true feast of Hanukkah was in 2013. It was at the tail end of December, but that isn’t the full story. There are always two possibilities for the feast days, and we’ve learned that the earlier possibility has to do with events pertaining primarily to the Father, while the second possibility has to do with the Son.

Ever since the start of our ministry, we have been expecting a dramatic event corresponding to the angel of Revelation 18 coming down and lighting the earth with his glory. This is associated with the Holy Spirit and the outpouring of the Latter Rain. As such, since the Holy Spirit is Christ’s representative, we would expect this event to correspond to a feast day according to the second possibility rather than the first possibility of the festal calendar.

It turns out that the second possible date for laying the cornerstone (the 24th day of the 9th month) fell on January 26, 2014, the first day after the relocation of the Court! Once the relocation was complete, the Supreme Judge Jesus sat down to begin the proceedings. The Cornerstone was in place, right in the middle of the 1260-day judgment of the living.

The following eight days of Hanukkah were full of promise for the light that would lighten the world, and we were not disappointed. This is when the timing of the last seven trumpets and the last seven plagues was opened to us, as John explained in his sermon entitled The Last Race.

Then it was that we finally received the authority and commission to preach the times of the trumpets and the plagues as part of our testimony in the Father’s trial.

The Mathematics of God

The two phases of this timeline have a remarkable structure. The 70-day phase consists of two segments, a 40-day and a 30-day segment, which we can express as follows:

$$30 + 40 = 70$$

In the Orion presentation on slides 67–69, we learned a similar formula which had a very special meaning:

$$3 + 4 = 7$$

To say it in words: The Godhead (3) made terms that Jesus would die on the cross (+) for mankind (4), and this is (=) the plan of salvation (7). This one little formula encapsulates a vast story!

Now we can see even from the numbers that the Father was indeed re-tracing the steps of His Son. The formula for the 70-day phase explains the plan of salvation one more time, but in terms a power of ten (×10) greater.

The number 10 represents the Law of God, and through this formula we see the Father submitting Himself to the Law. In doing this, He shows that He does not ask for greater submission from His creatures than He is willing to Personally give for them.

Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us. Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father? (John 14:8-9)

Philip, have you seen the Father now?

The second phase reflects the same structure, but the factors are different. Now we have:

Now the factors are nine (3 × 3) times those of the first phase. This symbolizes how the Godhead came together three times to forge the plan of salvation.

...I saw Him approach the exceeding bright light which enshrouded the Father. Said my accompanying angel, “He is in close converse with His Father.” The anxiety of the angels seemed to be intense while Jesus was communing with His Father. Three times He was shut in by the glorious light about the Father, and the third time He came from the Father we could see His person. His countenance was calm, free from all perplexity and trouble, and shone with a loveliness which words cannot describe. He then made known to the angelic choir that a way of escape had been made for lost man... {EW 126}

That is not all. The first phase of 70 days leading up to the judgment of the living is intrinsically connected to the first 630 days of the same:

The 70-day phase could have been the entire preparation had the Church been ready for its calling, but since they weren't the 630-day backup plan had to be brought into action to make up the lack. Through the Holy Spirit's guidance, the plan of God has been brought to an even higher level of perfection, as the number 700 shows, being yet another degree of perfection higher.

What we see in these formulas is love multiplied and added, repeated, and raised by powers of ten. This is the true “Council of Peace” made by divine sacrifice, in stark contrast to the peace councils of the men of this warring world.

Even he [the BRANCH] shall build the temple of the LORD; and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and he shall be a priest upon his throne: and the counsel of peace shall be between them both. (Zechariah 6:13)

These timelines underscore the infinite sacrifice that Jesus made on the cross, and they show that the Godhead made the sacrifice together, each One to demonstrate it in His way, all acting in unity of mind and purpose.

Thus we see the immutable Law of God binding and re-binding everything together into one continuous story—the story of the Father's plight as I've told it.

Now it is incumbent upon all who love Him and would come to His aid to ally themselves with this ministry as the authorized embassy of the Kingdom of God on earth. If you are seeking the Father, He's not in the organized SDA Church anymore. He's on trial, and we entreat the faithful to figuratively “appear at Court” to give your personal witness on His behalf.

It is a solemn thing to realize that the Father's entourage relocated here on January 25, figuratively. The eyes of the on-looking universe are upon each one who is called to the witness stand or to the jury box. The pure Adventist faith must shine forth in clear rays in a dark world like the map on our homepage. Is your home filled with light? Is your little candle in this big world contributing its rays?

Preparing the Armour

In the previous article, I outlined the story of God the Father's movements from February 2012 to January 2014. That was a time of preparation in heaven for God the Father's trial in the heavenly Court. If we are going to participate as witnesses or jurors in the Father's trial, then we need to prepare here on earth as well. You can be sure that the accusing party is diligently preparing. In this article, we'll take a step back to the year 2010 to learn what we can about the preparations on both sides of the battle.

First of all, we must understand the nature of the conflict. The question at the center of the controversy is this: Is God really as loving as He presents Himself? Or is He the selfish tyrant that Satan makes him out to be? It is ultimately a question of whether God deserves to rule the universe.

Our perception of God is shaped by many factors, but they can all be summarized in terms of our belief system. If a person believes God is an angry tyrant, that person will find themselves on the side of Satan arguing that God is not worthy to rule. On the other hand, a person who believes that God is loving and just will want to defend Him.

For this reason, doctrines are at the heart of the controversy. The truth—or true doctrines—tend to give us a clearer conception of God's true character. Lies and false doctrines, on the other hand, tend to distort our perception of God.

That is why there is a prevailing effort to downplay the importance of doctrine in the churches. Without true and firm doctrines founded on the Word of God, the mind is susceptible to all manner of deception, beginning with the very first assault on faith:

Yea, hath God said...? (Genesis 3:1)

The last battle is a spiritual battle—a battle for the mind. Our weapons are not bombs or bullets.

For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh: (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds;) Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ; And having in a readiness to revenge all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled. (2 Corinthians 10:3-6)

In the above verses, we learn that our weapons are for “casting down imaginations.” Imaginations are ideas which do not necessarily correspond to reality. They are thoughts that can prevent us from having a true concept of God’s character. Our weapons are aimed at throwing down these false ideas.

True sanctification comes through the working out of the principle of love. “God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.” 1 John 4:16. The life of him in whose heart Christ abides, will reveal practical godliness. The character will be purified, elevated, ennobled, and glorified. Pure doctrine will blend with works of righteousness; heavenly precepts will mingle with holy practices. {AA 560.1}

Ideas shape actions. The weapons of our warfare are not only intellectual, but practical. They first bring the thoughts into obedience, and thus the actions follow in obedience too.

If the actions do not reflect the profession, then there is something wrong. There is a disconnect somewhere. This is the situation we find ourselves in at the beginning of our story in 2010. We find ourselves in the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and we find that its actions do not reflect its profession. Something is wrong, but what?

The Remedy for Laodicea

It disgusts me to have to say that many Adventists proudly consider themselves “Laodiceans” as if that is a badge of honor. Laodicea is the lukewarm church that Jesus spewed out of his mouth! But the fact is they are right. They are wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked just like the True Witness says:

And unto the angel of the church of the Laodiceans write; These things saith the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creation of God; I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth. Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked: I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see. As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent. Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches. (Revelation 3:14-22)

Thus it was to Laodicea, to the Adventist Church, that the Lord gave the Orion message as a loving rebuke and chastisement. Be zealous therefore, and repent! The Lord didn’t want His church to be seen in shame, and that’s why He rebuked them in love.

On the Sabbath of January 23, 2010, John Scotram published The Orion Message. John was the human instrumentality that brought it out, but the message itself has its origin in the Word of God. Although nobody knew it at the time, that publication date turned out to be exactly according to God's impeccable timing.

Sadly, the Church spurned the message. Many of the individuals who recognized the need for revival and reformation failed to see it as their own internal need, but instead they staked their hopes on Ted Wilson, elected later that year, as an external solution to the problems in the church. Having closed their ears to conspiracy "theories," the vast majority still haven't even figured out that he works for the enemy. Is it really hard to understand that he is made to look good on purpose to fool you?

The Lord had opened a door in heaven, but for nearly two years only a few souls entered it. I was one of those who contacted John out of a thirst for more of the water of life. I was among those who were studying with him in his private forum when we completed another breakthrough exactly 4×168 days after the publication of the Orion message. Our readers should recognize 168 as the Orion number, but I will save my exploration of the deeper meaning of these numbers for the next article. The important thing to see now is that God orchestrates His will on Earth according to a schedule.

The Orion message was published publicly, but the Lord orchestrated that the new study would be completed in our private forum on His exact timing. Instead of pointing to a publication date, He pointed to an availability date: November 26, 2011. The study of the High Sabbath List (a.k.a. The Vessel of Time or The Gene of Life) was completed on that date and available to any who would enter through the "door" of the Orion message.

This illustrates an important principle of how God works. Those who sit on the fence and don't believe the messages that He sends them cannot benefit from further light. Don't linger when the Holy Spirit is pleading with you! Move forward in faith before He ceases his pleading and leaves you to yourself!

It also shows that following the light involves positive action. Those who first benefited from the High Sabbath List were those who actually contacted their brethren and participated in the study. We will see another example of this principle in the next article.

Like clockwork, the Lord then allowed 3×168 days to pass, with the pinnacle of the great chiasm of time positioned precisely at the 2×168 day mark: October 27, 2012 (see The Time of Trouble, Figure 6). That date should be very familiar to our readers by now (from The End of the SDA Church and Christmas 2.0), but its full significance cannot be appreciated without an understanding of the High Sabbath List. Thus once again we see the principle that those who do not accept the present light that shines on their pathway are unable to receive further light. First, one has to enter the "door" of the Orion message. Then, they can receive the High Sabbath List. Having both, they can begin to understand the times.

Why did the Lord give this twofold warning? Why the Orion message and the High Sabbath List?

These messages are rich with the gold, white raiment, and eyesalve that are needed to heal the Laodicean condition. They highlight the distinctive truths that are needed to guide our thinking into the right channels so that we will have a correct understanding of God's character to be able to testify for Him.

The Weapons of our Warfare

Think for a moment about how doctrines affect our thinking, and in turn our actions. The principle works in the reverse direction too: our cherished actions (habits) lock us into a way of thinking, which in turn causes us to espouse doctrines that ultimately support our behavior.

Let's study a little bit and see if we can see this principle as it applies in the HSL.

1. In the first triplet of the HSL, a specific character defect proved to be the stumbling block for those who gave up their faith in the Second Advent after the Great Disappointment of October 22, 1844.

The majority of people had joined the movement for selfish motives. They were worried about saving their own self. Some even sold their homes, lands, and goods, but when "nothing happened" they denied that God had been leading the movement. They went back to their fields, to their cities, to their lives. They didn't examine themselves to see if perhaps the error was in them.

A few did, like Hiram Edson. But the majority blamed God.

How often do we do that today? How often do things not go as we expect, and instead of searching for our own mistakes we deny that God has been leading?

The majority in 1844 were converted by fear. Fear is a most primitive motivator, and is completely egotistical. It is a survival mechanism. It is about saving one's self.

Can you see the character failure that led people to reject the movements of the 1840's and the sanctuary doctrine, and all time prophecy along with it? Do you see the principle at work? How do you stand in comparison when you examine your own self?

2. The church organized during the second triplet of the HSL. Organization can be good or bad. The church organized for the good reason that they could accomplish more by organizing than they could have otherwise.

The danger was that the organization that was initially structured from the bottom up could be perverted. Over time, it could become a "kingly power" ruling from the top down. This principle can be clearly seen in United States politics as well as the church.

What character defect facilitates this general problem?

When the people are not careful, they begin to feel comfortable letting others rule over them. They tolerate it at first, but over time they begin to enjoy criticizing their leaders. Over time they elect more and more leaders who will tell them what to do, because it relieves them of personal responsibility and gives them someone to blame when things don't go well.

Eventually, you end up with a state of affairs much like the present, all because people don't take care of their organization, but instead let the organization take care of them. It is a laxness that tolerates wrongs until the wrongs are overpowering.

The little guy at the bottom has to do the enforcing, and that is how the bottom-up structure can be maintained. But when the little guy keeps quiet while reading one thing in the Bible and seeing the leaders do something else, it is his own character defect.

Do you see how the character defect leads to the wrong kind of organization?

This triplet has the same code as the 2010-2012 triplet, indicating that the organization that began in 1861-1863 has reached its end. Lo, and behold! The kingly power has in fact broken under the pressure of the WO [Woman's Ordination] and LGBT issues.

I hope you're starting to see how the principle works. Our natural tendency is to accept or reject doctrines based on whether they support our character, and on the other hand our character is shaped by the doctrines we accept or reject. Do you want the principle to work for you in the first way, or the second way? Let's go on with the other triplets:

3. What was the character defect that caused the message of righteousness by faith to be rejected in 1888? Surely there were more than one, but we could say that the crux of the matter was that they didn't like the corollary of obedience by faith.

It is said that many are glad to have a Savior, but few want to have a Lord. Human nature does not like to obey. It is much more pleasing to believe one of the myriad counterfeits like "all done at the cross," "the law was done away with," or "once saved always saved."

How do you stand now in the corresponding triplet of 2013 to 2015? Do you sense your need to be sanctified (set apart) from sin as well as justified? Or do you feel pretty good already, and in need of nothing?

4. The 1915 triplet is especially about Ellen White and her advice not to participate in the ecumenical movement. What character defect led to ecumenism in the church after her death?

There were allurements from the outside—the desire to have what the world has, but that isn't the real issue. The issue is simply: Do I accept the Spirit of Prophecy? If I do, then compromise with the ecumenical movement is not even a subject for discussion!

"I accept the Spirit of Prophecy," you might be thinking.

But beware that you do not reject the Holy Spirit's work today! Many are too willing to tolerate trends in their local church, not realizing that they are being swept into ecumenism right along with the General Conference that controls them. At the same time, such ones reject the Living Spirit's work today through the Orion message.

This triplet has its counterpart in the 1986 triplet, which shows how a little "Creeping Compromise" over time eventually results in the complete loss of our distinctiveness as a people.

5. In the 1935 triplet, we find the new light of Andreasen's Last Generation Theology. Why do you think this truth was rejected by and large?

A person comes to Christ to find forgiveness. That's the first step of justification, and even that is hard for some people. The second step is to realize that Jesus wants to cleanse you from sin so that you can live in heaven without defiling it. For many, that is already too much.

Then the Last Generation Theology comes along, teaching that a time is coming when intercession will end, and that the 144,000 must stand without an intercessor amidst a world steeped in sin!

Those characters who are not willing to strive for perfection won't find this teaching palatable. They do not want to take the responsibility for ensuring that the work of character correction in their lives is brought to completion.

Everyone wants to be saved, but few want the dirty job of having to stand against sin without an intercessor to be a witness for God.

At that time, the Holy Spirit will be withdrawn from the earth. Only those who have obtained the special 372 rations of the Holy Spirit ahead of time will have enough to carry them through.

There is a difference between believing now while the Holy Spirit is still present versus living then when the rations obtained ahead of time will be the only means of sustenance. The saints have to be sealed before the plagues begin, but those who truly are sealed might not be apparent until it is seen which ones actually endure to the very end.

But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. (Matthew 24:13)

Being among the 144,000 involves risk. Study that verse carefully. Understand the implications for those who do not endure. Contemplate the magnitude of the risk involved! The carnal mind would be tempted to think that perhaps it would be better to die as a martyr before the plagues than to run the risk of losing your salvation if you do not endure to the end of the race as one of the 144,000.

But the 144,000 will not be thinking carnally; they will understand that there is something more important than their personal salvation. Infinitely more important!

If you understand the implications of the Father's trial, you will realize that even if you are to succeed as one of the 144,000 that does not guarantee the overall success of the mission. Look how hard it is for you, and you are just one; God needs 144,000!

Are you beginning to understand our concerns, and how truly God the Father's trial is a Gethsemane experience for Him? It might just be that He cannot see beyond the trial any more than Christ could see beyond the tomb, because the outcome depends on you.

This is no smooth gospel, and it will test your character.

6. The big topic in the 1959 triplet was the publication of the infamous book Questions on Doctrine. It was later replaced by a more subtle work, but never denounced. One of the key errors taught was that Jesus had an advantage over sin that we do not have. The book denies the Bible verse that affirms:

For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. (Hebrews 4:15)

What character flaw leads people to believe that Jesus had an advantage? A person who likes to make excuses for their mistakes will not want to believe that Jesus had no advantage above the rest of us (or else they will make Him a sinner too, like Hollywood does). The actual truth sweeps away their excuses.

In fact, Jesus calls us to an even greater work than He did. One would almost cry "Blasphemy!" when hearing that sinners can do a greater work than Christ, if it weren't that Jesus Himself said it:

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. (John 14:12)

In one sweeping breath this verse calls the Christian not only to overcome sin as did Christ, but to go on to do even greater works than the Savior Himself did! And this is said in no uncertain terms, but with "verily, verily." It takes faith to believe that, as it borders on being incredulous—especially when you stop to really think about how great of works our Savior did.

But if you aren't sure, just re-study the previous point to digest how great our work really is.

And finally, so there is no room for self-exaltation, we should be careful to note that it is only possible because Jesus went to the Father—to give us the Holy Spirit. It is only with the help of the Holy Spirit that we can do these things.

7. Then there's the 1986 triplet. It represents total compromise with the world, and total rejection of the Holy Spirit. Worldliness is the character failure. The mistake is living by consensus instead of by conscience. Those who want to be like the world and have the things the world has cannot enter the kingdom of heaven. The silent prompting of the Holy Spirit is drowned out by the noise and clamor of another (un-holy) spirit.

What is the ideal Christian character?

It must include self-responsibility. It must put God first. It must be selfless. It must not move away from the truth for attractions inside or outside the church. It must keep Jesus in sight, looking to heaven as He often did.

When God speaks to a man with such a character, he will obey.

A true Christian wants to know God. He wants to be sealed, and pleads for a change in character. He wants to live a holy life. The way many people live, they would not be happy in heaven. A true Christian will be guided by the Holy Spirit to understand the deeper meaning of spiritual things.

These lessons of character are the deeper meaning in the Orion message that God wants to teach His people to prepare them for the great trial. We need to progress beyond the milk of the gospel. We need to digest the spiritual meat.

The Preparations of the Enemy

The first period of time after the Orion message was published was relatively calm. The message was going out, but the warning level increased a big notch once the HSL was finished. That is when we began to warn about the great calamity—the fireballs. The warning increased yet again toward October 27, 2012.

After “our” warnings, the enemy began to move visibly. Pope Benedict resigned, Pope Francis was elected, and all the rest of it. Now the warnings we had given were backed by visible signs that the last rapid movements of earth’s history were in progress.

God had given the Orion and HSL messages to clean up the church’s doctrines and character. At the end of that timeline, the enemy began his own “cleaning” program.

Pope Francis elected his world council on April 13, 2013. One of the main purposes of the council was to reform the Roman curia. Like the Orion message was sent by God to cleanse His church, the enemy began his own house-cleaning work.

That is the appearance, at least.

Jesuits are known for being capable of stooping to any level to accomplish their designs. His appearance of humility is a fraud most obvious. Can’t you see it? In the language of Jesus, he is a “whited sepulcher” and a “white-washed wall.” It is the same fraud being practiced by Ted Wilson. In fact, he even began the Mission to the Cities effort in perfect lockstep with the papal movements! Some are wising up to this.

Pope Francis signed a decree on September 28, 2013, to make his council of cardinals permanent. Like clockwork, this was exactly 168 days after the council was elected (Figure 1). By this decree, the pope made it clear how important his council is, similarly to how the HSL was given to doubly-confirm the Orion Message.

Half that many days again brings us to the council’s first address to the Roman curia via Pope Francis. The council had met for the first time in October, and in December Francis addressed the curia with their first inputs. The subject of his address was basically to get holy and quit the gossip—in other words, more whitewashing. The fact that his address was on December 21, 2013 once again parallels God’s preparations, which were punctuated by the High Sabbath of Christ’s true birthday [October 27, 2012]. By comparison, the address to the curia was delivered with

The last halving and adding of days brings the whole timeline to a close on January 31, 2014. Both sides of the final contest had prepared their armaments, delivered their initial briefings, and were set to engage in battle. The Last Race was ready to begin.

As in the previous article, these timelines exhibit the formula of the plan of salvation multiplied by a factor. For God’s preparations, the plan is $4 + 3 = 7$ multiplied by 168, the number of the judgment. It is a plan worked out to completion, which will bear the examination of the heavenly Court.

For the enemy, the factor is $\frac{1}{4}$ of 168, or 42, which is 7×6 . The number 6 is the number of man. Multiplied by 7, it could represent man’s effort to make himself perfect (or at least look it) as we see in the pope of the Catholic Church and the president of the Adventist Church. We should not settle for appearances only, but should seek the complete change of character symbolized by the full Orion number 168, which hints to an endurance that will last to the end.

I will take a couple more steps back in the next article, where I will bring all of these timelines together to show you how they fit into God’s one great, grand and glorious plan for all time.

The Key of David

Written by Robert Dickinson

Published: Friday, May 23, 2014, 2:01 pm

Created: Friday, May 23, 2014, 10:27 am

In the previous two articles of this series, I presented two different stories, each told by a two-part timeline of events which the Holy Spirit highlighted in our studies.

The first article told the two-part story of God the Father's preparation for trial: the first part was the plan that should have led directly into the trial had the church been ready, and the second part was what had to be put into effect as a back-up plan.

The second article told the story of earthly preparations for the final conflict, again in two parts: the first part showing the preparations of the inward character for the people of God, and the second part showing the preparations of the enemy in beautifying the exterior only.

Both parts of both timelines share a common structure and common characteristics. They all have a length of 7 units, broken into 4 and 3, with the latter further broken into 2 and 1. The overall pattern is 4 + 2 + 1 with significant events delineating each segment. These segments correspond to warnings of increasing intensity and events of increasing frequency. In mathematical terms, the increase in the frequency of events is exponential, which means that there is a limit to how long these trends can continue. This pattern shows that the final rapid movements of Earth's history are accelerating toward a point of crisis.

Those timelines dealt with recent developments. We are living in the end of the "end times." To bring this into its full perspective, I promised to take you two more steps back in this article—first will be to what Adventists generally accept as the beginning of the end times: the 1840's, which were the culminating years of the Great Advent Awakening.

During those years, the fledging Advent Movement began to carry the three angels' messages into the world. The three angels are described in Revelation 14 as preaching the everlasting gospel, calling God's people out of Babylon, and warning of the time of the plagues and the second coming of Christ. Note that a time message was involved at the beginning, and a time message is involved here at the end. As a reality check for those who are glued to the pews of your favorite church which you think is going through to the end, ask yourself if your church is preaching all of those topics today.

We need to understand that time prophecies can be applied in two ways. We have noted this principle many times: a time prophecy can have a day-for-year application, and a day-for-day application. Both of the timelines of the previous articles operated on the "day" principle, which simply means that we were counting days (not years) between events.

As we step back to view the entire history of the end times, we are stepping back into the "year" principle where we count whole years instead of days.

Did you notice that the events of the previous article all happened on Sabbaths? That shows that for the "day" principle, God's schedule runs from Sabbath to Sabbath, like a continuous heartbeat. So when we study events according to the "year" principle, it is natural that the timelines are aligned to the yearly Sabbaths.

The yearly Sabbaths, called sabbatical years, come every 7 years. Additionally, there is a Jubilee year every 49 years on the 50th year. The counting of these special years began with Israel's conquest of Canaan. The sabbatical cycle serves as a prophetic yard stick to measure from the conquest of Canaan all the way down through the corridors of time to the Second Advent Movement.

(* Refer to The Vessel of Time and The Gene of Life for a full explanation of the HSL.)

Notice that the first triplet of the HSL begins with a sabbatical year, and includes the 69th Jubilee. This is significant because it shows that God wanted to finish the good work that He had begun by the 70th Jubilee of 1890. That would have been just two years after the famous 1888 Minneapolis Session of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, as Ellen White prophesied when she said: “...then commenced the Jubilee.” That is one of many important subjects that you should study more deeply, but it is not the topic of this article.

Doors, Locks, Times, and Clocks

What I want you to see here is that another instance of the 4 + 2 + 1 pattern exists across the HSL, and the sabbatical cycle helps us align the pattern. As these studies were progressing in our forum, one of our members had a dream about “locks” which spurred on the deciphering of these timelines. For that reason, these timelines which all exhibit the 4 + 2 + 1 pattern became known as “locks” in our study group. In English, the word “lock” is one letter away from “clock” which is fitting because these locks have to do with time. They are “time locks,” which is difficult not to misread as “time clocks” in English!

The HSL is a reflection of the 168-year Orion Clock, so for the purposes of studying the 4 + 2 + 1 lock pattern in the HSL, we can consider the entire “lock” to span 168 years, perfectly divided into a 96-year segment, a 48-year segment, and a 24-year segment.

Ellen White describes the waymarks on the pathway to heaven as follows:

We then thought of those who had not accustomed themselves to privations and hardships. Where were such now? They were not in the company. At every change some were left behind, and those only remained who had accustomed themselves to endure hardships. The privations of the way only made these more eager to press on to the end. {2T 595.2}

The “changes” where people were left behind represent the triplets of the HSL. They are also the tumblers of the lock, which all have to be held in the correct position by a key for the lock to open. All of the key doctrines as we explored in the previous article must be properly held for a person to be able to go through the door.

Jesus—or Orion—is the Door. Those people who stumble at any of the “tumblers” (true doctrines) are those who were left behind in the dream above. If you want to see what company you are in, all you have to do is take a survey to see which of your friends believe all of the truths that are highlighted by the triplets. Are you among "friends" that are being left behind, or with the company that is entering the door!?

Jesus said to Laodicea:

Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. (Revelation 3:20)

Jesus knocks, but the person inside must open the door. They must hold the key doctrines that mold their character into His likeness, and in so doing they unlock the door to receive Him. Those who hold the points of truth in word and in deed are the ones in Ellen White's dream who remained and were eager to press on to the end. They are the true church that will go through to the end, in contrast to those who have spiritually died in the wilderness.

Others rashly denied the light behind them, and said that it was not God that had led them out so far. The light behind them went out leaving their feet in perfect darkness, and they stumbled and got their eyes off the mark and lost sight of Jesus, and fell off the path down in the dark and wicked world below. It was just as impossible for them to get on the path again and go to the City, as all the wicked world which God had rejected. They fell all the way along the path one after another, until we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. {WLF 14.2}

The others lost the light and fell off into the darkness. The church is comprised of those who have the light, not those who are in darkness. The church is constituted by those who hear the voice of God like many waters, and that voice is a symbol for the Orion message and all that it entails.

The last two triplets stand back-to-back, spanning the 6 years from 2010 to 2015 of the last sabbatical "week" in Figure 1. The 7th year is 2016, the sabbatical year, the year of plagues, when nobody will be planting or tending crops. These are grouped together in the symbolism of the voice of God like many waters, because the Orion message spans all these seven years.

If you will, they are the "seven days" ascending to the sea of glass, during which Jesus takes us on a tour of the seven stars of Orion to teach us the lessons of character that permeate the created universe. These seven years of studying Orion here on earth are the precursor to the literal seven-day journey that the saints will travel with Jesus.

Going back to the 4 + 2 + 1 lock pattern in the HSL, let's look at the events along the way. The first period ends with the fifth triplet in 1937 (while 1938 begins the second period). In that triplet, a man received new light. M. L. Andreasen was the man, and the Last Generation Theology was the new light. Andreasen did not publish this new light to the general public, but the information became available within the church. This is the same principle we saw in the previous article regarding the discovery of the HSL itself in our study group. It was completed in our forum, but not yet made public. You can see just when Andreasen's light was made available from the following reference to its publication:

Notice that Andreasen's book was copyrighted in 1937, but published for the 1938 "ministerial reading course" of Seventh-day Adventists. It was not made widely available to the public yet, but even so, this exact point in time is marked by the 4 + 2 + 1 lock. The fact that this date of this triplet is marked by the lock pattern once again emphasizes its importance as a key doctrine, which I explained in the previous article.

The next and more intense phase did not wait for everyone in the church to have time to study the material, or for it to be translated into other languages. God knows individual cases, and if a person needs extra time then He will ensure that the person has an opportunity to know the message earlier if needed, but the great heavenly time clock doesn't stop ticking.

This is similar to how it was when Jesus was born. The "great clock of time" pointed to the hour of His birth, when the information became available that the Savior had come. It was not widely known, and people didn't feel the effects of this change until He began His public ministry, but the clock had nevertheless struck the hour, and the leaders in the "ministerial courses" of Jewry should have been the first to recognize it instead of the wise men of another country.

Moving forward to the next waypoint along the lock pattern, 1986, we find that it's about the Holy Spirit vs. the unholy spirit of ecumenism and compromise with the world. At the corresponding point in the timelines of the previous article, we saw the birthdays of Jesus and the sun pinpointed and contrasted. It is about whom you choose to follow. The choice appears in the HSL in terms of the Holy Spirit. It is a choice between following the true Holy Spirit, or the "strange fire" that is kindled by the "drunkards of Ephraim" who are drunk on the wine of false doctrine.

Much more could be said about that triplet. The trademarking of the church's God-given name was a bad omen of cooperation with the state, exercise of kingly power, and misuse of the Lord's money all at once! Thus the warning level increased again for that last period of 24 years.

After those first seven periods of the HSL, the Orion message came to usher in the second part of the lock, with the lock pattern applying once again to the seven years of the Orion message. The first four years from 2010 to 2013 consisted of the relatively mild warning of the Orion message itself. Then the warning level increased dramatically in 2014 when we entered the time of the seven last trumpets, which will continue into 2015. Then the seven last plagues will fill 2016.

That was the third lock pair that shares the same structure and characteristics of the 4 + 2 + 1 pattern. (We can only refer to the years loosely in this timeline because we've stepped back into the year-principle with which the HSL lock operates.)

Double-Lock Ratios

Have you wondered why the two sides of each lock pair are different in length from each other, and why each pair seems to have an arbitrary difference between the length of the first part and the length of the second part? We've already seen some meaning in the numbers, but now that we've covered all three timelines we can investigate this further.

It was especially clear in the last article that the timelines were about a cleansing process. The entire "end time" that we looked at above is also about cleansing a people to stand for God. In fact, the time of the end began with the prophecy "...then shall the sanctuary be cleansed."

In the study that was preliminary to the HSL (Prophecy Again...), the duration of the cleansing process involved a ratio in the Scriptures. Do you think we might take that as a clue to look for a meaning in the ratios of the double locks? Let's try and see.

The number 9 in the 9:1 ratio of the Father's movements (a) can be expressed as 3×3 . When the back-up plan had to be put into action forming the second part of the lock, it was the last of the last resorts.

Since the approach of the Jubilee c. 1888, God tried three times to bestow His light upon the church. He tried in 1888, but the light was put out by human agencies. He tried again in 1938 with the Last Generation Theology of Andreasen as the next Jubilee was approaching, but was again rejected. Now He is making His third and last attempt through the Orion message. (There was no heavenly light at the Jubilee ending the 1980s.)

Thus we see the Godhead (3) trying three times ($\times 3$) to open His heart to the church: Each attempt represents one member of the Divine Council: Jesus in 1888, the Father in Andreasen's LGT, and the Holy Spirit today. The back-up plan in the timeline of the Father's movements shows that this is the end of the end. The back-up plan is the last effort of the last opportunity, so take heed!

The 4:1 ratio of timeline (b) is a reference to the earth, as in the four corners of the earth, the four winds, etc. As we saw by looking at the events of that timeline, all of the events were earthly events. Thus the timeline has the number 4 in the ratio of 4:1.

This is the timeline that ended precisely on January 31, 2014 and ushered in the trumpets the following day, February 1 (which will be followed by the plagues). The number 4 emphasizes that the trumpets and plagues are and will be visible earthly events: first the trumpet warnings mingled with grace, showing what will happen to you if you refuse God, then the plagues which will be poured out without mercy upon those who will have ultimately refused Him. Again, take heed!

The ratio of the end-time lock is 24:1. The number 24 has special significance in the Bible, especially in Revelation, as the number of the elders that surround the throne of God. We wrote about that topic in our article simply titled The 24 Elders. This ratio reflects very well the idea presented in the article that 12 of the 24 elders represent the pioneers of Seventh-day Adventism and the other 12 represent the present-day heads of the tribes of the 144,000. This fits especially well since the lock spans from the beginning of the Advent Movement to the end.

Another topic that we broached in the 24 Elders article was the topic of the Key of David. Little did we know then! Yet today I will show you just how inspired our group experiences are, and I hope you will see that the things we write are not merely the words of man. We are just men, but the Lord has given us an experience in His message that counts as inspired for your sakes.

Ellen White wrote many times of the importance of an “experimental knowledge,” which is referring to a kind of knowledge gained through actual experience in the subject matter. In the context of personal Christianity, it means something more than just a resemblance to Christ or Christ-likeness. It means being “in” Christ (and Christ in you). It means experiencing what Christ experienced, walking in His shoes, partaking of His life.

There is no education to be gained higher than that given to the early disciples, and which is revealed to us through the word of God. To gain the higher education means to follow this word implicitly; it means to walk in the footsteps of Christ, to practice His virtues. It means to give up selfishness and to devote the life to the service of God. Higher education calls for something greater, something more divine, than the knowledge to be obtained merely from books. It means a personal, experimental knowledge of Christ; it means emancipation from ideas, from habits and practices, that have been gained in the school of the prince of darkness, and which are opposed to loyalty to God. It means to overcome stubbornness, pride, selfishness, worldly ambition, and unbelief. It is the message of deliverance from sin. {Counsels to Parents, Teachers, and Students, CT 11.2}

Notice that this “experimental knowledge” means freedom from everything that is opposed to loyalty to God. This is what the 144,000 must have. They must walk in the footsteps of Christ—that includes Gethsemane. They must practice His virtues—that means selflessly drinking the cup. They must be loyal to God—though apparently forsaken by Him. And they must experience deliverance from sin—to live without an intercessor.

If that paragraph was not powerful enough, the one preceding it is:

Higher education is an experimental knowledge of the plan of salvation, and this knowledge is secured by earnest and diligent study of the Scriptures. Such an education will renew the mind and transform the character, restoring the image of God in the soul. It will fortify the mind against the deceptive whisperings of the adversary, and enable us to understand the voice of God. It will teach the learner to become a co-worker with Jesus Christ, to dispel the moral darkness about him, and bring light and knowledge to men. It is the simplicity of true godliness—our passport from the preparatory school of earth to the higher school above. {Counsels to Parents, Teachers, and Students, CT 11.1}

Do you know what it means to share Christ’s experience in the plan of salvation? Has your character been transformed and restored into the image of God? Do you understand what it means to share Jesus’ workload as a co-worker?

What our group has experienced personally is for the benefit and education of the Advent people at large, just as the experiences of the Advent people are recorded in the heavens as a lesson book for all Christians. And once further, the experiences of Christians serve as a testimony to the heathen world. Each in their order are to bear witness to the truth, thus expanding Christ’s kingdom until every soul has finally picked his side in the conflict.

I am the vine, ye are the branches... (John 15:5)

And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me. (John 12:32)

Of course Jesus was lifted up on the cross, but now He is lifted up even higher in Orion.

Once again, I urge you to “take heed,” because we really are at the end of the time of the end, and already more than half-way through the last seven years!

The Key of David

With all of this talk about “time locks” following the 4 + 2 + 1 pattern, it is natural to wonder what key opens these locks. There are not many keys mentioned in the Bible, and only one key is mentioned in both the Old and New Testaments:

And the key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder; so he shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open. (Isaiah 22:22)

Revelation makes it clear that the man who was given this key was Jesus Himself:

And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth; (Revelation 3:7)

Jesus Himself holds the key of David. That, by the way, dispels the myth of papal authority over the church. In fact, we would do well to examine the scriptural record more carefully in regard to the keys given to Peter and his successors.

First, Peter confesses that Jesus is the Christ:

And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. (Matthew 16:17)

Then Jesus declares that Peter’s testimony was divinely inspired:

And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. (v. 17)

Then Jesus adds:

And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. (v. 18)

Note carefully the flow of the conversation here. The subject is His Messiahship through and through. So when He says to Peter “this rock,” He means that the rock is the truth that He was the Christ. That truth is the foundation of all Christian religion, and has little to do with Peter himself or a supposed Petrine Office. Continuing:

And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. (v. 19)

Jesus made a promise. It is written in the future tense, meaning that He did not give the keys at that time. Naturally we would ask: Did Jesus ever fulfill the promise? If so, when?

Searching the scriptures, we find the link as follows:

And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost: Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained. (John 20:23)

In this account of Jesus’ appearance to His disciples after His resurrection, very similar language to binding and loosing is associated with the receiving of the Holy Spirit. Papists might rest their arguments there, but let’s be more careful. Jesus spoke to “them” plural, not just to Peter. But was there any mention of any keys? No.

There is another familiar passage of scripture that also uses similar language:

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

That verse describes the close of probation for the world. We call that the closing of the door of mercy for humanity. There is still no reference to a key, but we can at least infer that a door is being closed, and it will not open again. That means it is closed with a key; it is locked. And that brings us full-circle to the church that goes through that door, and the key involved in closing that door:

And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth; (Revelation 3:7)

As an eschatological symbol, Philadelphia represents the church of the 144,000 at the end of time that will go through the door. Philadelphia will consist of those who will have been refreshed by the latter rain. They will have received the Holy Spirit. They are the culmination of the chain of events we followed in relation to the keys—first Jesus promised the key to Peter singularly in the presence of the other disciples as representative of all who would confess Him as the Christ. Then Jesus affirmed the promise to the disciples after His resurrection, again emphasizing that it extends to all who build upon the rock (and not only to Peter or his supposed successors). Finally, Jesus addresses His end-time faithful church (Philadelphia), and this is where the key is finally seen again.

We need to understand something about keys and the delegation of authority. When Jesus gives His keys of authority to someone, He does not yield His own authority in so doing. He is always the Head, and He can revoke authority as well as confer it. We read that very principle in the context of the key of David:

And the key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder; so he shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open. And I will fasten him as a nail in a sure place; and he shall be for a glorious throne to his father's house. And they shall hang upon him all the glory of his father's house, the offspring and the issue, all vessels of small quantity, from the vessels of cups, even to all the vessels of flagons. In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall the nail that is fastened in the sure place be removed, and be cut down, and fall; and the burden that was upon it shall be cut off: for the LORD hath spoken it. (Isaiah 22:22-25)

A new symbol is introduced here, a nail fastened in a sure place. We will come back to that.

At first glance, one might think that the same nail is referenced twice in that passage. However, the Bible Commentary gives us a better explanation:

25. Cut down, and fall. This verse has given rise to much discussion. Some think it applies to Eliakim, who, in spite of all the gracious things thus far said concerning him, will ultimately prove unworthy, like his predecessor, and be removed from his position of trust and honor. Others think this prediction cannot apply to Eliakim, for it seems inappropriate that a prediction of shame should follow so closely upon one of honor, without explanation. This verse provides the climax to a solemn message against Judah and Jerusalem (see on v. 1). Here, it may refer to the nation as such, and not to Eliakim as an individual. That peg would be removed, the burden fastened to it would fall, and the end would be disgrace and ruin. Such was indeed the fate of Jerusalem and Judah, and of those against whose riotous revelry this "burden" was directed. {SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 4, p. 192}

That is additional evidence to indicate that the key as a prophetic symbol should apply at the end of time. Jerusalem represents the SDA Church. So not only do we have Revelation pointing to Philadelphia as the time when the key of David would be important, but we see that it is also linked to the fall and ruin of the SDA Church.

The entire scope of the time of the end is encapsulated here, but we need to understand the symbolism of the nail fastened in a sure place. Its sureness and capacity to bear a burden strongly resembles the imagery given to Peter of a “rock” which is also secure and able to bear burdens. If the Rock represents Jesus, or specifically the truth that Jesus was the Messiah, then what else could the nail represent than His death on the cross?

The first nail was removed (v. 25) and the second nail replaced it (v. 23). There are many levels of application of this prophecy, but I want to offer as an example the first nail as representing the promise of the Messiah and its removal indicating the fate of Jerusalem for rejecting Christ in the flesh. Those who accepted Christ in the flesh (the Christian church) were represented as hanging on the new nail.

In comparison to that example, we can say that the removal of the first nail today represents the fate of the SDA Church after it rejected Christ in Orion. Those who accept Christ in Orion (the High Sabbath Adventists) are those who are secured by the new nail. It is a perfect parallel.

Now we can understand how the whole scope of the end times is represented in those few verses of Isaiah—the significance of the nail is that Jesus was “nailed” to the cross at the exact time prophesied by Daniel. The 70-week prophecy of Daniel as taught by Adventists pegs the date of the crucifixion securely to 31 A.D., and that prophecy is part of the 2300-day prophecy that points to 1844. Thus God’s end-time people have been identified with the nail in a sure place ever since 1844.

The entire history and doctrine of the SDA Church hangs on that one secure nail of the year of Christ’s death. Think about the challenge presented and met in the Gethsemane articles! Adventists have always known the year of Christ’s crucifixion, but now we know the day too. Once again, the year-day principle comes into play. At the beginning of the judgment in 1844, the year was nailed. Now at the end of the judgment, the day is nailed.

By now the symbolism should be clear that the cross is the key to the door of heaven. To explain how the cross is the key, I want to lead you through a couple of tricky questions.

First, when was the Lamb slain? It is safe to let the Bible answer:

And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. (Revelation 13:8)

That wasn’t so hard, but the next question is a bit harder: When will the Lamb stop being slain—or better, when will His life be safe again? I reworded the question carefully to remind you that even though He is in heaven now, His future is not yet safe and will not be until the great controversy is forever settled. Not until every knee shall bow and every evil is eradicated will the Lamb, the Father and the universe as a whole be secure from the ravages of sin and death.

Thus the cross—in its capacity as a key—spans from the Creation to the great Consummation.

This brings us to our widest view of the entire big picture: the 7000-year plan of salvation.

Once again we have a two-part lock. First there was the literal 7-day week of creation, followed by the ≈7000 years allotted for the plan of salvation.

Once again the ratio of the two parts of the door lock is significant. It is fitting that Peter who was promised the key is the one who reminds us of the words of the prayer of Moses:

But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day. (2 Peter 3:8)

For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past... (Psalm 90:4)

The beautiful prayer of Moses goes on:

Return, O LORD, how long?... (Psalm 90:13)

Animation – Unlocking the Events of Time

Now it becomes clear:

- Why the Last Generation Theology came in 1938, and why the HSL was revealed exactly when it was—that was the place marked by the cross.
- Why Jesus’ birthday on October 27, 2012 is the pinnacle of the chiasm of time—it reflects the pinnacle of creation and the breathing of life into Adam.

- Why the Orion message and HSL culminated with Jesus' birthday, and why the enemy's preparations culminated with the birth of the sun—again reflecting the birth of Adam.
- Why at the end of the preparatory timelines of this article series, on Sabbath eve, January 31, 2014, the last remaining gap was closed in the historic and prophetic record of time in scripture. The entire timeline was unlocked by One who holds the key of David.

Only through the Orion message and all that it entails have we been able to find these harmonies. In the Christmas 2.0 article we learned the precise date of the pinnacle of the creation act, and in so doing we found that the “great cycles” of the clock are 2016 years in duration, or two biblical millennia. By extension, we know the precise duration of the entire plan of salvation to be exactly 7056 years, or:

It is not hard to recognize the meaning in those numbers. Jesus is and always will be the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. However, at the center of the plan of salvation are the 144,000 whose great work still lies before them.

Lucifer's rebellion threatened to bar God's loving rule and enslave the universe with the shackles of iniquity. In Their wisdom, the Godhead divided eternity past from eternity future to create a window of time—a doorway, if you will. It was a time to experiment with sin—a time that once it is over must shut the door against sin forever, while opening the gates of eternity to all who will enter. At the center of the plan of salvation is the cross, the key.

The Lord is placing the key in your hand. He has indeed answered the question of how long, but there is more to the song of Moses than meets the eye. Brother John will conclude the next article series by communicating the full weight of what it must mean for the 144,000 to fulfill these words of our Lord:

*...If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.
(Matthew 16:24)*

The Last Race

The Last Battle

Written by John Scotram

Originally preached on Friday night, January 31, 2014, 8:00 pm in German

Video Sermon: The Last Race

iFeliz Sábado! Happy Sabbath to all! Today—I think—is the first time that I will preach publicly in German in this temple. I'm not sure if I've done this before. I'm not very used to preaching in German. If you preach for 8 years in Spanish and then sometimes in English, German becomes something irregular. You can imagine. Nevertheless, it is my native language and with this sermon we hope to address the whole world.

The time in which we are now living is very serious. What we have to announce today isn't a small matter, and this day is a very special day. It will become evident in the summary of the past months of intense study that we have to preach something important to the world, and it will be about a race—the last race that will take place on this earth. We are the only ones who know the exact times of this race. We know the stations, we know the pit stops, and we know where we can get good gasoline and where they'll give us the bad. We have studied more intensely in the past 3 to 4 months than ever before in the entire phase of the proclamation of the Fourth Angel's Message. And there were only a few who found their way into our study forum through the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

It's shocking what has happened to the human race, and especially to the Adventist Church where the 144,000 originally should have emerged from.

We're worshipping now on the eve of Sabbath, February 1, which according to Gregorian reckoning will start at midnight. It's Friday evening, the beginning of the Sabbath. I was just told that it's 35°C (95°F) in the bedrooms with a humidity of 90–95%. That's why I'm dressed in a light shirt, because the priest in the sanctuary shouldn't sweat.

It takes away concentration.

We live and work here under very difficult conditions—very severe conditions. We repaired our temple with little financial support, and we work diligently on this farm—especially my friends here, in the sweat of their brow in the truest sense of the word.

We are not used to holidays. We only know the Sabbath as a day of rest, and it is in fact the busiest day because that is when we take care of our flock via Facebook or e-mail, which we often cannot do during the week because of our many farm duties.

It's no bed of roses here. When we started the forum some two years ago—it was exactly in August 2011—some of our friends accused us of living on a luxury farm. They should be ashamed of the sin of saying such a thing without knowing how hard and full of privation life here really is! Everyone here knows it, and no one is dishonest because we would be ashamed of spreading lies.

We have air conditioners that fail constantly because the local electric company can hardly power them. In Paraguay, there is not enough power to provide us with cool air in the houses all the time. And if an air conditioner fails, it fails for a long time because it's hard to get an electrician or repairman to this farm.

When my friends arrive at the lunch table, you see eight people coming completely drenched in sweat from head to toe with soaked clothes. They are greasy and dirty from the hard work, and during the week, only the short hours of the night are left for them to recover, and those hours they spend with you out there: in Facebook, answering e-mails while pulling an all-nighter.

But they give everything to God, and that is why they're here. We're not complaining about this life; it is what we've chosen, and we know that we have more luxury in comparison to Jesus by far.

Today I said to Robert as we were going to the dentist, "You know what, my brother? Sometimes I am ashamed because of the luxury we still have. We have electricity—mostly—we have water—mostly—and Jesus did not even have a pillow to lay His head on."

The problem is, Jesus did not have to preach like we do, to the whole world at once in a very short time frame. Rather, He prepared everything by planting seeds which had 2000 years' time to bear fruit.

Our situation is different. The Fourth Angel's Message was rejected so long that now only a few days remain to spread it. Therefore, we need electronic tools today. You need electricity for them. You need the Internet. You need all these things, and you also need a cool head for the work, because when it's 40°C (104°F) or 50°C (122°F) in doors, no one can write, get anything to paper, or think clearly anymore. The brain stops functioning at those temperatures. That's why I'm not ashamed to have a fan here and running air conditioning which cools the room down to 27°C (81°F) at full power.

So, today is a very special day.

It's a special day that we've recognized, and it's time for the second public sermon. That's why we are recording this sermon today. And if I look a little sad, then it's because I know how few people will hear this sermon, and especially how few people will make the right decision as a result of it.

There will be only 144,000 individuals from all of humanity that will make the perfect decision. From 7.5 billion people that live on this globe, only 144,000! That's a very small percentage.

Nevertheless, there will be many who will still give their lives for Jesus—their physical lives—and thus save their eternal lives through their faithfulness to their Lord, and we hope that they will understand at least a part of the message that will be given today.

Now I'd like to sing the song of the Holy Spirit with you. We'll sing it in Spanish, because we are used to singing in Spanish here, and we only have the hymn book in Spanish on the computer. I hope YouTube will not accuse me of copyright infringement for singing from the "Hymnario"—the hymnal—again. It's unbelievable what they decide electronically nowadays. Last time with the last sermon they admonished me and immediately said: "Hey, you!"—but we were even singing by ourselves! YouTube immediately decided that it would be an infringement of copyright for me as an Adventist to sing a song from the Adventist hymnal. It was decided electronically—imagine that!

Today, we'll sing the song about the Latter Rain because we believe and know that the high time of the Latter Rain starts exactly today. The high time of the Latter Rain started this evening at sunset. Soon you will all recognize that God always has two phases in the revelation of new light. First someone receives it—usually one of us—and then it is published. The more important day for the Lord is always the day when it's published—when the light becomes available to the people outside.

This is usually the day marked by God with a timeline—and today is one such day. And this new light, after all the new light that we've received in the last 3–4 months of studying, is still unknown to my brethren here today because I received it very recently—last night. And they'll be amazed that it once again fulfills what we've so often experienced here. First, new light is given, then we study it, then it's published, and then we see that a timeline ends right there on the publication date. Isn't it strange that God does so much with time? Most Adventists deny that fact, and thus they are in the best ecumenical unity with the rest of Christendom.

No time setting! No one knows the day or the hour!

Well, it's funny that we know it then, and that we have hit the mark so often "by chance."

Let's pray.

Dear Father in heaven, hallowed be Thy wonderful name, Lord!

Lord, we are gathered together to give You the honor and to welcome You to our small church in Paraguay on this Sabbath, in this temple, which is currently experiencing a very special day. Our viewers probably know quite nothing about Hanukkah, but we know something about it, because it was one of the major topics of our studies recently. We know that this temple consecration feast is in full progress today.

Moreover, it's a special day, namely the day of Your arrival: the arrival of the Fourth Angel on Earth. He has now come down fully to give the light which You want to give to the world as a final warning before the time of plagues, before the door of mercy will be finally closed.

We ask You, Lord, to be with us, that everything will come true and everything we say is the truth, so that no guile will be found in our mouths and we won't lead anyone astray. We ask so much to be instruments in Your hands, never to do anything against You, but always follow You wherever You go.

We also received a dream from a brother that shows Your guiding, and I hope I still have time to briefly address it later.

Give us all Your Holy Spirit now, Lord! Fill us with Your love and Your grace! Make it true, Lord, that You come soon, because we miss You and we want to meet You again! In the name of Jesus Christ, and in the name of Alnitak, Amen!

When we're studying in the group I often say, I can make it short, or I can make it long. If I discover something new, I say: I can make it short by telling you the solution to the topic immediately, or I can make it long and you'll have to develop the solution to the problem by yourselves, and therefore you'll remember the solution to the problem better.

When our study group sits at the round or square table, we quite often have a question-and-answer game.

It's how a teacher proceeds, and we are supposed to be teachers. Teachers ask a lot of questions and usually the students know little. They learn by pondering possible solutions.

So that is how we study in the forum, in our "restaurant" as we call it, with the students who accepted our invitation and have been very diligent in the past few months. When it becomes pretty quiet on our homepage, it should always be a big warning to the readers of the website, "Oh, oh! There is new light in Paraguay. They are studying now!"

It's not "Oh, John Scotram has lost his courage, because nothing is happening. There's nothing else he could say. Oh, so many disappointments! He was never right, nothing ever came to pass! The resignation of Benedict—coincidence! Papal election—coincidence! Election of the Jesuit generals around the world on the exact date that we predicted— coincidence! The largest gamma-ray burst ever recorded in the history of mankind and the universe—coincidence!" On exactly April 27, just as we predicted. All coincidence—of course!

Then, suddenly it becomes quiet. Then our temple roof collapses. Then there is a last prayer request. And nobody has the idea to say: "Oh, oh, in their prayer request they wrote about the possibility of fire coming from the heavens. That might have something to do with the Feast of Tabernacles. Could this have been a warning to us? Shouldn't we research whether there is another possible Feast of Tabernacles?"

The truth is that no one did it. There is not one person on this planet who understood our warning newsletter or our warnings on the homepage at all.

We simply stopped setting new countdowns. We just said: "Well, let's give the people a chance to study. Let's make them a bit curious. Perhaps some will wake up and ask out of curiosity whether God could have something planned for them."

The reaction was zero. We fixed our temple roof, and it was already repaired when we published the prayer request. Many, even of our friends, misunderstood it and said, "Oh, the poor guys, they have no temple roof anymore. We will pray for you!" Three months after the repair, I was asked, "Is the temple roof finally repaired now?" despite the fact that we had already written that it had been repaired.

Today, humanity is no longer able to read. I've noticed that. I notice it even in our own group sometimes. There's a lack of concentration! I mean, not everyone lives in 40–50°C (104–122°F) temperatures. In those places, I would understand it, but I think North America is in the height of winter right now. Regardless, the lack of concentration seems to spread like a disease over the whole world. You can feel it! It's not just that the PISA tests give terrible results, but you also feel it as a teacher. The students are getting dumber—more and more foolish.

There's a reason for that. Ellen G. White talked about it. The Holy Spirit withdraws from the Earth. We are just creatures in the hand of God, and our minds only work if we have the Holy Spirit. Why is everything so bad on the earth? Why do we have so much crime? Why do we have so many drug addicts? There's no Holy Spirit anymore.

Can it be right—as I said earlier—that today the Holy Spirit is being poured out in form of the Fourth Angel? Right now, for the next—well, I don't want to say the number of days yet—but He will be eminently poured out until the time of plagues. But only for those who have the right relationship to Christ.

The Holy Spirit will not be poured out upon someone who has no relationship with HIM. That cannot be.

Am I right, Jan? Amen! Yes, we have to use “amens” more frequently. With a few more “amens,” the people outside might be able to tell that there aren't just empty pews here.

Only those who have a relationship with Jesus can get enough of the Holy Spirit to even understand the things that we're talking about today. Therefore, most people stare at our articles and say: “What? What is this? I don't understand! Well, when will He come then? Orion is astrology! Eh?”

Yes, there have been many reactions like this—just stupid. Every mediocre talented—let's say—high school graduate would understand that so many “coincidences” in a constellation listing all of the historical milestones of the church cannot be mere coincidence. Anyone who has ever heard about statistical calculations can understand that it is impossible for us to be talking about coincidences.

There is a nice example in the context of creationism and the theory of evolution that is well known! The example goes like this. You blow up a truck with a 300-ton explosive charge so that it disintegrates into atoms, and these atoms fall back down and form a human, an elephant, a lion and three zebras. That would be possible if evolution were true. Then this coincidence would be possible.

Nevertheless, that's still just a truck with a 300-ton explosive charge. If all that we have been studying were coincidence and everything comes to pass, then we would have to blow up the entire universe and have it fall back together like it was before, by pure chance. For the people out there not to be able to see this any longer—neither pastors, nor scientists, nor so-called believers—the Holy Spirit must have already been taken away from them, because it borders on stupidity. It borders on silliness.

That's the truth.

Many will get upset again that I've said that, and I hope they get really upset so some of them will start to think and ask for the Holy Spirit to see the harmonies and the truth and the beauty of God's end-time plan. God is harmonious, and harmony expresses His love. And what we are talking about—especially in this movement—are time harmonies.

When we withdrew, first we were guided by the Lord into a study where we had to pay an old debt. We had written articles that confirmed the 372 days of the time of plagues. I remember that there were voices like that of Werner Renz, Hope Channel, etc., who said, “The whole time of plagues lasts only 14 days. Prepare yourselves a bit of dry bread, a glass of milk and a pint of water. You'll come through the time of plagues with this, and then Jesus comes. And then it's all over. Then you are in heaven, and then you are fine. Grapes will abound, no problems anymore!”

We studied, and we said, “No, that's not true.” In the Bible we find hints like “her plagues come in one day.” One day stands for one year. So it must be approximately a year. How long exactly? Is it a 360-day Jewish year according to a prophetic year, or a 365-day solar year, or more, or less? How do we know? We've written a series of articles about it: Shadows of the Sacrifices.

We've examined the sacrifices in several mosaic books and found that there is a specific number of units of bread that will be given, like rations for a journey, that stand for a specific number of days. And these bread units symbolize the Holy Spirit. You get enough spiritual food to understand what we have to say and understand what it's all about with God.

You get the Holy Spirit, not a worldly spirit. Bread units stand for the body and blood of Jesus, and not for the body and blood of the world, like the majority consumes.

Through Jesus Christ's fulfillment of the spring feast sacrifices, we found out how the plan works. We understood the blueprint. There were rations for 51 days so that the disciples would have enough of the Holy Spirit not to apostatize or commit other errors from the time of Jesus Christ's death on the cross until the gift of the Holy Spirit. They had to stand fast and stay in the faith.

Then we calculated and counted the provisions for the end time, for the time of plagues, given by the rations established for the autumn feasts, and that resulted in rations for 372 days: 365 days of a solar year plus 7 days. We can conclude from that, "Aha, the door of mercy closes like in the days of Noah just 7 days before the plagues begin. And then the 144,000 have to persevere with these bread units without an intercessor until the coming of Jesus, but not without the Holy Spirit who was given to them beforehand." That's how Jesus is always with us in the form of the Holy Spirit, His Representative, until the end, as He promised.

So, what was the old debt that we hadn't paid yet? It was an additional study, because there are new instructions for feast sacrifices in the Bible. And we have quite often pointed out in the articles that the Book of Ezekiel is the book for our present time. It's the time of the Latter Rain. It is the book for the 144,000. It was not the book for Ellen White. It was not the book for the pioneers of Adventism. It was not the book for Ellen White's time, at the beginning of the 120 years of wandering in the wilderness until 2010. She might have cried a lot, because surely she wanted to meet Jesus alive without tasting death. And it would have been possible in her time if Jesus had returned in 1890. But He couldn't come because the light of the Holy Spirit had been rejected.

Ezekiel is the book for our time, and in this odd temple of Ezekiel which was never built—and will never be built because it's just a blueprint of the ideal temple in heaven—in this temple we are given new instructions for the sacrifices. There we suddenly see huge differences, but that's not my topic for today. Rather, I will briefly summarize what we have studied and what will soon be published in this new creative phase on our web site. This is a great study! It's the third part of the Shadows of the Sacrifices, and has surprised us greatly. There we find rations for exactly 1260 days, and we recognized that these rations are divided into two parts: the spring rations and the autumn rations. The ratio is interesting. There are 636 days from the spring rations and 624 days from the autumn rations.

These last 1260 days start on May 6, 2012—so they began a while ago—and reach to October 17, 2015, which is the day when the door of mercy for humanity will close. This is the complete duration of the judgment of the living. For this phase, the Lord has poured out a very special ration of Holy Spirit for 1260 days divided into two time spans: 636 days of spring provision and 624 days of autumn provision.

It’s clear where we are, the middle, i.e. the intersection of the two curves, is today. These are actually two days—yesterday—January 31, when the Lord decided to give even more new light on top of the abundant new light that is not yet published. This is to be preached today in this little sermon.

We are at this intersection day. The judgment of the living—as incredible as it may sound—has two phases. Ellen White knew nothing about this. It was not her job to know. And because one phase is over now, we can say exactly what that phase was for. It was a period of grace, of very special grace. The gift of Jesus was given at the spring feasts, and this was always grace.

Later, once Jesus had ascended to heaven and had begun His service of intercession, what phase began for humanity? The phase of persecution! Whoever has read the Book of Acts knows that persecution started with the apostles the moment they went out to preach. They were immediately persecuted. And this begins now. We are at the beginning of a phase of persecution, but also at the same time it will be a new phase of grace, because it is still before the closing of probation. And today, we will find out the exact meaning of those 624 days.

Next, we studied the deeper meaning of the Feast of Tabernacles. We recognized that it must have something to do with the temple. God gave us a great sign here. God allowed a beam to break here at a certain time, so that our full attention was directed to the temple. Indeed, our lives here revolve around this temple. This temple is the temple from which the light of the Fourth Angel shall go out into the world, and suddenly a beam breaks. “Why did You allow this, O Lord! You know we have no money! It’s so hard to repair!” Nevertheless, the Lord gave us money we were not expecting at the very moment we decided to repair the roof, even if we would have to starve to death. When we said, “We will repair it, whether it’s a bad or good sign. The Lord needs His house even though He does not live in houses made of stone, but it’s a symbol—and we cannot leave it broken. We will repair it in any case, even if we have to starve.” The Lord gave funds on the very next day. And the roof was repaired perfectly. We are sitting here safely once again.

Thus, our attention was directed to the temple. We were expecting the persecution phase to begin at the Feast of Tabernacles, which is the feast for the dedication of the temple. We overlooked the fact that the Feast of Tabernacles commemorates only the dedication of the temple of Solomon. But there is another temple which is much more important. Again, we are no feast day keepers, but we are feast day students and we learn from the types. We do not celebrate the feast days.

In our studies of the Feast of Tabernacles, we overlooked that there is a much more important temple than the temple of Solomon. Yes, which temple can that be? The temple where Jesus Christ later preached in His physical human form! It's called Herod's Temple today.

It's about this temple, and it has its own feast of dedication that only a few people know about, because it's not written in our normal Bible—not in the Textus Receptus and it's called Hanukkah. It takes place on Kislev 25 and lasts 8 days. This is the 25th day of the 9th Jewish month.

Our attention was drawn to this feast because this is the temple where Jesus Christ was personally present. And the Holy Spirit represents whom today? Jesus Christ. And for whom are we waiting to come down on Earth? For the Holy Spirit in the form of the Fourth Angel. When will He come? Today! Because today is this feast of Hanukkah and we are right in the middle of these two time lines the 636 days and the 624 days until the end of grace. So, we'll see later that He really has come.

But I have to summarize what exactly happened in the last few months since the people couldn't read anything new on the web site. There are always two possibilities for the High Sabbath Adventists. There are always two possible times for Passover, there are always two times for Pentecost, there are always two possibilities for Yom Kippur, there are always two possible times for Tabernacles, and there are always two possibilities for Hanukkah. This is simply because it depends on the barley harvest test after the spring equinox.

Therefore, in all of our studies two possible options always appear within a distance of one lunar month. We found something interesting and that is that usually when the first possibility fulfills, it symbolizes movements of the Father. He was the first One to enter the Most Holy Place for the judgment time—and I remind you that there is a vision of Ellen White that accurately describes this. The second possibility usually describes an action or—let's say—a takeover or change on behalf of Jesus' service.

So which possibility of Hanukkah would it be if I say that the Holy Spirit is coming down? Is this a movement of the Father, or is this a movement of the Son? The Holy Spirit represents the Son so it must be the second possibility of Hanukkah and we are now in the middle of the second Hanukkah feast. It lasts until February 3. There are a lot of dates, but today is the intersection of the lines.

So, we are in the antitypical feast of dedication of the temple that was consecrated to Jesus Christ. In this temple He would be personally present and preach some 500 years after its dedication, right? So, this temple is a much more appropriate type for us than the temple of Solomon. The fire which came down at Solomon's temple still represented the Messiah who was to come. But then the Messiah really came to the temple of Herod.

And that's why the feast of Hanukkah is highly interesting as type for that feast when the intersection takes place when the Holy Spirit as Fourth Angel would come down. We can find exactly this point of intersection in the Bible by simply counting the sacrificial rations.

It's amazing how the Holy Spirit has guided this group to find such things which have never been found in over 2000 years or more. Well, it's even more because the book of Ezekiel was written some 600 years before Christ.

I'm not a historian to tell you the exact date; you can look it up in the Bible Commentary. Well, what was the next thing we discovered? Who remembers? I have to make it short—indeed we discovered a lot. We're going to write a lot about it, but I'd like to get to the point and hopefully not make the sermon 3 hours today. Therefore, I prepared a few timelines.

Figure 2 is a fairly complex timeline. The first part of it was published, and the second part is not yet known publicly. It's about the movements of the Father and the Court. We started with our warnings in 2012, "Attention, fireballs will fall!" That is published in the articles The 1335, 1290 and 1260 Days. At that time, certain timelines began in regard to the temple that we also found in the Book of Ezekiel. For example, 40 steps (cubits) for the Father to leave the sanctuary. Ellen White said that Ezekiel 9 applies to the Adventist Church.

Beware, dear Adventists out there, this is serious! This is about all Adventists. It's about all who haven't gotten the mark or the seal! It's not about the sign or seal of the 144,000, but it's about the mark of those who sigh and cry because of the abominations committed in the Adventist Church. Anyone who is not sighing and crying in front of such an apostasy which nowadays takes place in the Adventist Church cannot even be saved! He is part of it.

There's a saying and I told the group already and I'll tell you this time publicly. Then everybody can get upset again, but I'll say it anyway. My stepfather—a not so nice person—once said: "Sometimes you have to howl with the wolves, but you do not have to grunt with the pigs." My dear friends, those who don't sigh and cry about what is going on in the Adventist Church and in the entire world, are not howling with the wolves! Enough said.

What's going on is impiety. This is complete denial that God even exists. It's fearlessness about someone's own eternal death, out of stupidity and lack of the Holy Spirit. What's happening here is suicide, and somewhere I've expressed it by saying: "They rush like the lemmings to their destruction—for no reason."

But God is grace, and grace is extended again and again, and we ourselves can be happy about that, because we need mercy too. We recognize almost every day how little we actually know. And we are ashamed and say, "Wow, how could we miss that again?" This happens every day when we get new light. "How much did we overlook again? Great things! Oh, it was so clear and simple!" So, we discovered timelines. Due to the complexity of the timelines that we discovered, the Lord even had to help us through dreams. A brother had dreams about three locks. Door locks!

There were three door locks; a new one, a middle aged and a very old one. The dream claimed that we would understand the newest reasonably well. With that knowledge, we should get to understand the old lock and at last the middle one. We were a little bit confused. What did this dream mean? At first we even thought that it might not have been given by God, and later we discovered that these dreams were very important because suddenly we discovered the locks.

What I have shown in Figure 2 is the newest lock, and it's the lock of the movements of the Father. The movements of the Father did not end with the first timeline that we published after the 70 days of preparation when the Father sought witnesses for the first time.

There was still a second part to the lock for moving the Court, which lasted 630 preparatory days. It didn't end as far as published that the Father left the Most Holy Place, passed the Holy Place and entered the courtyard. No, that would be the end of Ezekiel 9. It continues in Ezekiel 10. The Lord, the Father, completely leaves the sanctuary with the entire Court, and leaves through the gate that leads to the east.

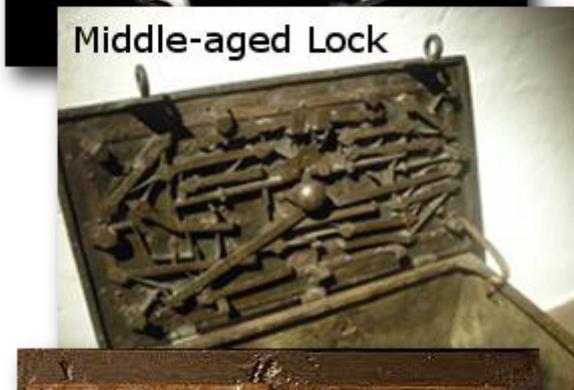

He leaves His temple completely. What does the temple in Ezekiel 9 represent? The Adventist Church! Yes, but Ellen White said that the church goes through to the end! Yes, it does, but in the form of true Adventists, like us here. Ellen White said that the church is not the institution or the organization, but God's faithful. We are all Adventists here. We would never deny one pillar of Adventism. Quite the contrary, they are the basis of our studies. That's how it is!

There are many who say: "But time setting! Ellen White was against it!" We've explained in articles why there is time again. Ellen White is not above the Bible. Her message was absolutely necessary for a specific time. She also had visions that showed the exemptions to those restrictions. She clearly stated that the 144,000 will know the time. Period!

And they will know the time at the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Since when have we received these special rations for the 1260 days? (See Figure 1.) Yes, since May 6, 2012! Since then everyone who wants to belong to the 144,000 could actually know the time.

On May 6, the day when the first provision for the 1260 days was given, the Father had reached the courtyard and found no witnesses in His Church (see Figure 2).

Then the Supreme Judge Jesus, who had previously received this office from the Father when He left the Most Holy Place, decided—and now it gets serious—to move the Court to a different location. There where the Court was held, no witnesses could be found.

The entire Court had to leave. We've even written about this already. We recognized that a certain timeline within this 630-day rapture pointed exactly to the date of the harp concert in Paraguay. Jan even dreamt about this day.

I think we have to talk in more detail about his dream some other day. It had convinced me to expect the Sunday Law in 2013, which by the way is not even over as it lasts until Yom Kippur 2014—but that's not important now.

There is another perfect dream interpretation which does confirm a lot of what we have already interpreted perfectly right. 90% was correct, just the Sunday law did not come yet because there is still grace. These dream timelines were perfectly exact, and we found all of the events that correspond to them. This will be the subject of another article.

I'd like to express that something very special was about to take place in the first section of the 630 days: a prophetic year of grace with 360 days. We also wrote about that briefly in the addendum to the article The End of SDA Church. There we stated for all to read that we have already recognized that a year of grace according to Luke 13 had been given. The Father didn't immediately say, "Oh, I cannot find any witnesses, now I forsake My church—now I start Ezekiel 10!" Instead He said, "I will wait one more year!" This is because the Holy Spirit had asked the Father—if you will, "I'll check again after a year whether there was repentance or not!"

There was no repentance, and thus the year of grace ended on April 30, 2013. That's one of the very important dates, because today we are able to harmonize them with certain events within the Adventist Church regarding the ordination of women. These are all important dates! We will surely publish an article about it.

These are the key data: The year of grace was given when the SECC—Southeast California Conference—decided to introduce ordination of women in the U.S. on May 1, 2012. When the year of grace ended on April 30, 2013, the Father said on May 1, "Now I am going to leave!" And where to? We also wrote about that briefly. A short but very nice article, in my opinion. We recognized that the Father moved towards us with the Court. Do you remember why? We had recognized the 26-27th of October with the harp concert. Hence, the article was published.

This is exactly the endpoint of the 180 days of the movement of the Court from the northern to the southern hemisphere. Why 180 days? 180 days are 6×30 days meaning half a year. It represents quite clearly and simply the difference between the opposite seasons. If it is spring in the northern hemisphere, it is autumn in the southern; summer—winter, winter—summer. Simply, a half-year time difference! This can be expressed by 180 as the number of days. When the Father left on May 1, it took the Court 180 days to reach the southern hemisphere.

Question: from where? Where was the Court before? In Jerusalem, where it always has been! There must be a reason—we will write about it later—why Jerusalem ceases to be the center of time calculation of God from now on.

There is a reason! Well, just think about it on your own. It might have something to do with the politics that take place around the Temple Mount. Which center is to be built there? Soon, even very soon! The center of the religion of the New World Order! So it's not only due to the apostasy of the Adventist Church, but also because of the apostasy of the entire world that Jerusalem ceases to be the center of God's time reckoning.

We thought—and we wrote about it—that the authority was given to us then as evidenced by the harp concert, confirmed by the Guinness Book of World Records. We wrote in great detail about the harpers harping on their harps from Revelation 14. We understood that the authority was coming to us, and because we are always a little hasty, we believed that it would be immediately on that very day, with fireballs the next day.

Yes, we are just like the disciples. We cannot wait for the Lord to come, and to be honest, of course we are bothered by what is taking place and how the message is received, how it is rejected and how it is trodden into the dirt. For me, all those revelations started at least in 2008, and over the years I've never seen anything like this where a message gains so much light each time when it goes on, that a message contains so much logic, so much beauty, and so much harmony. It's incredible what takes place here! This is recognized only by those who really delve deeply into the subject and also have the Holy Spirit to be able to do so.

It's a fact that if I move from Jerusalem 180 days of the season's difference or half a year to the south, indeed I just have reached the southern hemisphere, but then I'm still in Africa. I am not yet in Paraguay! But we were waiting for the authority in Paraguay.

Which movement needs to be made now? I still have to go to the west. How far? The time zone difference between Jerusalem and Asunción, Paraguay! How many hours is that? 6 hours. It's exactly 6 hours difference in time zones! How many days does an hour represent—a prophetic hour?

15 days. 6×15 days is 90 days. So the Father and the entire Court first had to go 180 days from north to south, and then 90 days to the west in order to accomplish the time zone change. When did they arrive here? On January 25, 2014. January 25 was the day of arrival. January 26 was already the first day of a new timeline. What happened on January 25?

On January 25 something specific happened that would finally give us the authority that we expected. It must be a sign that God had passed the authority to us, taking it away from the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. We needed to find an event on that day, and we found it! Now we understand the reason why there's a difference between the end of the 630 days and the end of the 636 days, and why there are two timelines (see Figure 1). It took another 6 days for the information to reach us about what had happened, because nowadays everything is done quite secretly in the Adventist Church. You cannot get information about what they do so easily anymore.

Just today I read that certain articles which were already published this week have been taken away from the Adventist Review on the instruction of the highest leaders because they reveal too much of what is going on in the TOSCs—the theology of ordination study committees—on the topic of women's ordination. These are the worldwide theological study groups of the divisions.

It is exactly about this topic. We discovered later this week that all of the timelines of the movements of the Father and the Court away from the Adventist Church run in perfect lockstep with the women's ordination issue.

It’s a complete synchronization of events. All major points that we found anywhere on the timeline meet precisely and exactly those moments when the Adventist Church took steps in the direction of allowing women to be ordained as pastors and leaders.

We can conclude that this issue led to the decision that God Father has left His Church. This is a serious issue. For a long time even we didn’t understand how serious this issue is. Considering our smallness as a tiny movement, we haven’t felt involved in this topic because for us it’s no question whether one of our three women here should be ordained or not. It’s not an issue for us, but now we had to deal with it. When we recognized that God’s timelines run exactly in parallel with His movements away and that this is the greatest abomination for Him, we also understood what the women in Ezekiel mean who weep for Tammuz!

Now that would be great if we would have time to talk about Jan’s dream again, but I would need at least a quarter of an hour for that.

Briefly: there were two institutions in Eden. Marriage and the Sabbath. Both are interrelated. If I destroy marriage, I also destroy the Sabbath. Both things were shown in Jan’s dream and both have to do with the ordination of women because the hierarchy between man and woman was set up at creation before the fall. This is what the ordination of women destroys.

The wife is and has always been a help meet for the man. She is not above the man, and she has no leadership function in the marriage. Not even—and I’m sorry dear ladies out there—not even in Eden before the fall like many believe. That is wrong! The man always had the lead role in the marriage. Well, in heaven there is no marriage anymore, dear ladies, maybe then finally. But then Jesus has leadership over you. Nobody will be without a leader, not even we men.

Ordination of women is the destruction of a divine principle of creation, which inevitably leads to the destruction of the second institution, the Sabbath, because they are intrinsically connected. If you contradict God in His plans that were defined at creation, you automatically contradict the Sabbath, given at creation.

It’s a logical conclusion. This is where the ordination of women, accepted by the church, leads to. Because of God’s wisdom, He immediately recognized that the church is now on its way to accept Sunday as soon as Sunday becomes the mark of the beast. That’s why it’s such an abomination to Him. Therefore, God shows all this in detailed timelines and by movements north to south and east to west (Figure 3). In the middle of the Father's movements, after having moved from north to south, in the middle exactly at that point, the harp concert in Paraguay took place to signal to you out there where the direction is leading.

Then scoffers like Kevin Windisch wrote: "Hey, what about your authority now? The fireballs didn't fall!" These fools don't recognize that they have been given an additional 90 days, and again 624 days more. They don't recognize what is going on and that it's a matter of their eternal lives. They don't realize it because they are completely void of the Spirit. They don't sigh and cry; they don't see what's going on in the Adventist Church, and they just feel good wallowing like pigs in their own filth—just to stay with the illustration, not wanting to insult.

A few days ago, on January 25, 2014, this movement was completed and it corresponded exactly to the end of the third TOSC session about women's ordination. A landslide went through the Church when 6 out of 13 divisions voted positive for the ordination of women, 5 voted negatively but qualified—ultimately they would do what Ted Wilson decides at the General Conference Session in 2015. Only one division was undecided and only 1 of the negative votes was unqualified. Only one without qualification!

This means two things happened: More than half of the Adventist Church wants to ordain women, and so half of the democratically-organized Adventist Church decided against the laws of God that were given in Eden. If it were a democratic state, then the state would have finally apostatized from God now. But that's not enough!

We know that Ted Wilson is implementing a Jesuit plan with an esoteric and an exoteric message. The exoteric message corresponds to the message of "our dear" Pope Francis exactly: "I'm so nice. I'm conservative, and I'm for the poor people." And because we still have many conservative groups in the Adventist Church, Ted Wilson has to play the role of conservative President, which he does with flying colors because he was well reared to be the best actor of the world for his life as a Jesuit. He was reared by his daddy Neil Wilson, who was one of the highest Jesuits in our Church already. He had a good teacher. So he's playing a double game and says, "I don't want women's ordination! No, not me!" And our dear friends like Norbert Musolff say: "Ah, what a great president we have! He is so conservative! He says he doesn't like ecumenism!"

Then I ask Norbert: "Norbert, tell me, what has he done against the ecumenism recently?" Then there is silence—he can't answer because Teddy did nothing! In Germany Ted Wilson said: "Don't do it so openly!" Just do it more secretly so that not every fool will notice it!

And what about the lemmings? They all follow Ted Wilson. It's incredible what takes place. How much of the Holy Spirit is still in this world, when no one recognizes this? There must be almost nothing left. They don't realize a double game is being played in the Church. So, what happened?

6 votes against women's ordination, and 5 of them voted negatively but qualified. "We do not want to ordain women, but ultimately we will do what Ted Wilson tells us." Which system was introduced here? The Roman system: "We will do everything that Pope Francis tells us." "We will do everything that Ted Wilson tells us, even if we are hypocritically against it" because it's "not so clearly written" in God's Word that women should be ordained. Paul has something to say about this—it's not so "clearly written!" "But no problem, we couldn't care less what is written in the Bible! We'll do what Ted Wilson says! We want unity!" Yes, now we want unity in the Adventist Church with Ted Wilson, and then Ted Wilson wants unity with the ecumenical movement. And then we are all united under Daddy Francis— It'll be wonderful, and we'll all be united! A slew of foolish apostatized tares bundled and condemned to eternal death! It's a tragedy what is happening!

Someone could accuse me of making fun here. No, I'm not here to joke with you. That's gallows humor. That's grief. I cannot cry here. I don't want to weep in front of you, but it would express my feelings. There are now 18 million baptized Adventists on the earth, and they are all jumping into the jaws of Daddy Francis, guided by the chief lemming Ted Wilson.

This decision was made exactly on the date we prophesied, January 25th, which was even a Sabbath when the final event of the 5-day TOSC session took place. It's over and out! The Adventist Church itself has decided against God; against His creation hierarchy and His creation plans.

Now here's something in advance: there are timelines pointing exactly to the next General Conference Session in 2015, telling us that the Church will accept Sunday.

In 2015 the Sunday Law will already be established on the earth. That is shocking for many, but the church is not the Adventist organization! The High Sabbath List shows that the Adventist church ceased to exist as an organization by 2012. One additional year of grace was given. That year of grace is over. Then the Father started moving here to us, and He arrived on January 25, 4 or 5 days ago. The Court relocated; the authority has been transferred. This time, there were no harps playing. This time, unmelodious sounds from North America sealed the fate of the Adventist Church.

For those who don't recognize it—folks, we always need faith. We can talk about it as much as we want. It's always necessary to show faith! In 2010, there was a UFO on the Temple Mount in Jerusalem. Was it 2010 or 2011? I don't remember exactly. There was a super UFO! It was one of the most-watched events on YouTube. A great sign! "Wow, the extraterrestrials are arriving; the Temple Mount will be rebuilt!"—and who knows what else—a great UFO!

That event went through the entire world press. Anyone who expected a UFO to land here today, and Jesus Christ to step out and say "Hello, I am the Holy Ghost!" would have been mistaken. I never thought that it would happen that way. It's always necessary to show faith. God won't provide you with proof, but He'll always challenge you to let the Holy Spirit work in you. Ellen White wrote about it. It was in her most-famous little booklet Steps to Christ.

In order to believe, there must be a possibility of doubt; otherwise it would no longer be by faith. This would be another great topic against a false prophet who plans to show the world something special very soon. This is supposed to be the kind of proof that shows he's a true prophet. Nevertheless, if this evidence would be provided, faith wouldn't be required anymore. That's a topic for an article. We'll meet this prophet more frequently in the coming time, as we know from some timelines that the race for the 144,000 takes place now.

We all know what will happen if one of them is missing from the right side. Then the battle would be lost! Now it's all about the last 624 days, and in these 624 days the 144,000 must be found and sealed. That's not much time! It can only happen by the strength and power of the Holy Spirit, because it surely didn't happen in the first 636 days! Clearly not!

We analyzed the movements. We found the movements of the Father. We found the outpouring of the Holy Spirit for the last 624 days. We've done detailed studies. These are not small articles; these are in-depth articles. They have a firm foundation and they are based on the Bible. It isn't possible to explain all of this within the timeframe of a short sermon. Articles have to be written. We found locks—door locks. Doors have been closed for certain groups of individuals—for certain people who believe certain things. We'll show it, too.

Now let's look at how these last 624 days are embedded in a wider context.

Here we see the last 7 years, spanning from October/November 2009 until the coming of Christ in October 2016. We are now a little bit beyond half of the timeframe of this ministry and have reached January 31, this Sabbath. Are you able to see it? 3 locks with 3 timelines, right? Even double locks. If you like, 3 double locks with 6 timelines each. And now there is a yawning chasm beginning on February 1st. A yawning chasm! Is this in harmony with God’s principle of progressive revelation? No! We must have missed something!

Progressive revelation means that we learn MORE details at every step as I get closer to the coming of Christ, and not FEWER details. God doesn’t leave us alone. He comes closer and closer to us. The Holy Spirit’s cooperation with us will increase, especially in the time of the latter rain. Isn’t it so?

This means that since 2009, the latter rain is becoming more intense in a certain way. That’s another way to express it. Today the Fourth Angel came down in reality; He came down and you’ll see what that means exactly. When the Lord comes down, new light must be given. God is light, and this is all about the light that has to fill the whole world. Light means knowledge, and when it comes to time—because the 144,000 will all know the time—it must have something to do with time knowledge. I could summarize the 7 years up to this point in three expressions or three groups of studies.

One was Orion. We said that Orion is The Book of Seven Seals. The other was the HSL, the High Sabbath List, or The Vessel of Time, and we call it The Book of Seven Thunders. The Bible repeatedly gives hints to both books. I preached and wrote about that. These are the extra-biblical books that weren’t written directly in the Bible.

The 7 seals, for example, have a textual representation in the Bible that has several levels of interpretation—classical seals, seals repeated in the judgment time—but for the judgment time we got more detail about them, namely the year dates.

Can it be that the Bible describes even more, which is now about to be revealed to us? Will we get more details than in the classical interpretation? Is something written in the Bible—No, I don’t want to reveal the secret right now. I have to do it carefully so as not to let the cat out of the bag too soon. Is there something in the Bible that describes something that could give us clues as to what we have to deal with for the next 624 days? Will we find out more details than we’ve ever recognized before?

Can it be that there are secrets in the Bible that haven't been resolved, and that the clocks are able to help us get more details about a time-truth?

Let's see where we are right now in the Bible.

I think we are somewhere here in Revelation 7:1. We talked a lot about grace, which sometimes hurts us because of our prophesied fireballs which so often do not fall because grace is given once again.

The King James Bible says in Revelation 7:1, "And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree." It is the time of the plagues when the four angels release. Ellen White made that clear. We're now 624 days before the time of plagues.

I dare say, we are exactly at this point now. In a vision, Ellen White saw an angel flying swiftly down—remember?—who waves something up and down in his hand and says, "Hold, hold, hold!" And again "Hold!" until the 144,000 are all sealed.

Revelation 7 then describes the sealing process to us. This must begin now and take place for the 624 days. We have known since January 12, 2013 what this seal is exactly, and we're able to recognize someone who is sealed.

That's where we are. What's the next chapter? We're at this point now, and I'll tell you once more why we're at this point.

Take a look at the original Orion Clock. We are at the star that points to 2014. We know that it points to Yom Kippur, 2014. We haven't reached that point yet. But we know that there must be a "hold" because otherwise the plagues would fall very soon.

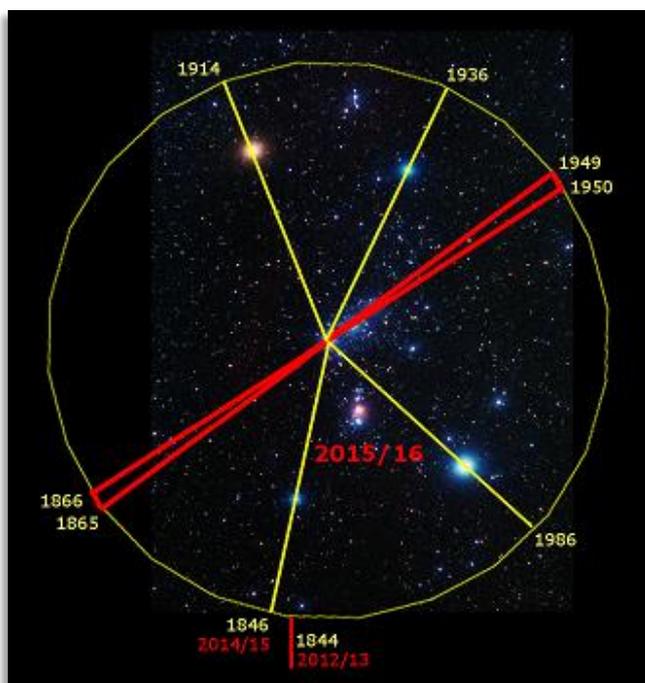

The patience of the Father is running out. He has already left the Adventist Church and moved the Court. It's high time! We have just 624 days, and in a few months on the 6th of October it'll be exactly one year before the plagues. Then one last "hold" will be uttered for one year by the Lord, the fourth "hold!" that Ellen White saw. The fourth star!

It's really short now; the time is almost up.

So we need a "hold." We need a special angel, and we still need some warnings.

Our small long-suffering group has warned since 2012 and will continue to warn, but the warnings—and you will see this soon—will now be accompanied by events. This is what Ellen White said. At the end, the movement of the Fourth Angel will be accompanied by signs and wonders, which has not quite been the case yet, although we predicted many different events for 2013, and they happened at the exact times.

Let's go to the Bible and see how it continues. It continues with the whole story of the tribes, then we find a description of the Orion Clock again, and the next topic is in Chapter 8. Here we find the 7th seal.

Attention! Half an hour silence in heaven—we already have an interpretation for this. Half an hour of heavenly time is how long? Seven years are one hour in heavenly time. Half of a heavenly hour is 3½ years or 1260 days. It's about the judgment of the living. And now we reached the middle of it, as we are now exactly at this 624-day point. Here we are exactly, right in the middle! And what comes next?

And I saw the seven angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven trumpets. (Revelation 8:2)

When are they given to them? During the 7th seal of the last 3½ years, right in the middle of the judgment, they are given trumpets.

To whom are they given? To the 7 angels! Do a search, and enter “seven angels.” If you eliminate all other hits where it found “seven” without “angels”, then you come to Revelation 8, the verse that we just read. Then Revelation 8:6:

And the seven angels which had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound. (Revelation 8:6)

Then I have Revelation 15:1:

And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God. (Revelation 15:1)

Then another, 15:6:

And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues... (Revelation 15:6)

Yes, 15:8 also! We have “seven angels” in connection with trumpets and plagues.

Seven angels.

What could this mean? Let's return to the question and answer game, and then it will take a while. Which seven angels are standing before God? What in the Bible is a symbol for an angel? The stars... angels... in our Orion study they are the messengers. There we have the four angels that everyone knows, the seraphim with six wings, and we have another two angels at the throne of God—Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit, right?

And the Bible says: “He has seven stars in His hand.” This is Jesus and the 7 angels. And they are the seven angels of the churches that have a message for the congregations, right? Well, what kind of message was given by these 7 angels? The Orion message! What were the 7 angels in this context? They were not described there as the 7 angels! The original blueprint for the Orion Clock is the throne room vision of Revelation 4. First we have the throne that we must decipher as three thrones, believing in the “three divine Persons.” Correct?

The text mentions only one throne—that was a problem. And then we have the four living creatures, which symbolize the character of Jesus: His character traits. Again, the Orion itself is Jesus, and the number 7 is perfection in Jesus. He is the perfect ambassador, if you will. There are 7 angels before the throne of God. Yes, and where is the throne of God? In the Orion Nebula! And we know that these 7 stars in space are all located in front of the throne. We've written an article about that, too. Ernie had a dream that accurately described the order of the stars: the path to the Orion Nebula. These seven stars, these 7 angels, are standing before the throne of God and suddenly they get trumpets within these 3½ years of the last 7th seal. Later they get something else. They get vials with the plagues. What does that mean?

A few days ago we had an idea in the forum. It seems that the Holy Spirit had already begun to work with us. It was after the 25th. We had the idea to check and see if the Orion Clock would show even more time ranges in the future.

And one of them was? Yes, we asked ourselves what would happen if we take the 624 days and unroll the clock over these 624 days. And if Jan still remembers—last night or the night before—no, it was yesterday evening before bedtime. Yes, depending on whether you think Gregorian or Jewish it was last night according to our normal reckoning. I found that one of these unrolled date stars points directly to the General Conference Session in 2015—namely Rigel, the ecumenical star. That means that perfect ecumenism will be reached when the Adventist Church accepts the Sunday Law. I do not believe that it is mere coincidence that it points exactly to the middle of the General Conference Session, and even to a Sunday.

So, it seems to be correct.

Now, take a look at this chart, and tell me how many dates are included in a complete round of the Orion Clock.

At 1846 we certainly have a date—a star, an angel. You have to count the stars. Thus, the second date would be the throne lines of 1865–66, which we take as one date. Then we have 1914 corresponding to a third date. Fourth date (1936)... fifth (1949–50)... sixth date (1986) and we are back at the beginning—seventh date (2014). A complete round has 7 dates.

Ok, what if these were to mark the 7 trumpets?

Is that possible? Is it? It must be so, because it is written in the Bible! If the Lord says something, then it is so.

And I saw the seven angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven trumpets. (Revelation 8:2)

Friends, in the past, they were not symbolized by seven angels. It was more complicated because it had to be hidden for 2000 years. The Book of Revelation was not to be decrypted before 2010. There were no 7 angels before. But now, we know that there are THESE 7 angels. And now, the Bible text itself tells us that the 7 trumpets are given to them, meaning that the dates are now given for the trumpets. Yes, and then there is a second round, right?

And then the same seven angels must show the plagues. Why? Because the Bible says so! They will be given the vials of the plagues. I'd like to give you a hint. Well, first let's read about the plagues.

Those are in chapters 15 and 16. In 15, they are given to them. We've already written about the fact that one of them even triggers the plagues. One of these angels. Betelgeuse! We wrote about it.

And I saw another sign in heaven... (Revelation 15:1)

Where did Ellen White say that John saw his vision? In the firmament! He wasn't escorted to the third heaven to watch a movie in the Garden of Eden on a panoramic screen—like some might imagine. He didn't get a vision falling down or trembling, lying on the ground as if dead, and then receive pictures in his brain. No, Ellen White clearly said that he saw everything in the firmament. As an Adventist, you have to ponder that; it was the starry sky where he saw it. And yet he was no astrologer! How can that be? How can Ellen White say something like that? Well, I'm mocking a bit; I shouldn't.

And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God. (Revelation 15:1)

Thus, we can also know the exact day for the falling of each plague now, because it is indicated by the Orion Clock. Every single date of each plague, and even more. We will have to make a study group for this subject because it is so big and complex. Now we can know everything—even the dates.

Let's read about the two witnesses.

These are the two olive trees, and the two candlesticks standing before the God of the earth. And if any man will hurt them, [Next is what everybody wants:] fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed. [This is about death: trumpets and plagues.] These have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy: and have power over waters to turn them to blood, [We find this in the second and third trumpet and in the second and third plague.] and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will. (Revelation 11:4-6)

What does this mean? It is just like the biblical language "the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart."

Sure, the Lord wanted to save even Pharaoh and did not harden his heart. Pharaoh hardened his own heart before the Lord. We have to understand these verses in the same way. They have the power to smite with plagues. We have the power to tell WHEN each plague will fall.

Do we smite with plagues? I wouldn't even want to do that. Of course not! But now we have the power and the authority to tell everyone WHEN every single trumpet and every single plague will fall on them.

This is the authority that we received today. We are able to decipher the last two series of 7 in the Bible.

That was a big secret! I'll tell you something else. We had some friends who wrote us e-mails, and some were insistent in a really funny way that I send them my study of the trumpets. I always replied: "I have no study of the trumpets!"

In fact, I prepared only one slide of the Orion presentation when I realized... oh, the trumpets probably align somehow to these pie slices, which then correspond to particular war scenarios.

Anyway, my personal approach to the trumpets was to stay away from them. Quite simply, they are punishments for the non-believers; they are mostly world events: wars, natural disasters, etc. The trumpets don't directly have to do with the church.

Due to the blueprint—the marches around Jericho—we know that the priests have always blown the trumpets. So for each time period represented by one march around Jericho, there were different interpretations for the 7 trumpets. So there are not only two interpretations for the trumpets as Walter Veith says. Each era of mankind had its own interpretation of the trumpets, and maybe two or three others, because everyone hears a different sound.

Trumpets are a dime a dozen. Let's count: 6 marches in the first 6 days plus 7 marches on the last day. That is 13 times 7 trumpets per march. Those are enough trumpets! That's why when someone asks me, "Send me your trumpet study!" I answer: "That's not easy. Which one of the many in existence would you like?" I don't have a special one.

Now, however, I can satisfy those people at last, because now I have one. That's what I received today. The authority to say, "These trumpets will fall on this date, and at this time, and at this time, and the plagues on that, and that, and that date." This is the authority that is now given in visible form, and it's no picnic anymore, because now it gets serious. Now predicted events go hand in hand with unpleasant world events, disasters, wars and whatever. And these are the things that the Lord gives to accompany us; these are the signs which Ellen White spoke of, that help us and usher in the second phase of the Loud Cry when even God shows that patience ends now.

He has not only changed the Court venue, but now it gets troublesome on this earth. "The party's over", one could say.

Every student of prophecy should know that the trumpets are punishments with grace. That’s why the trumpets mention destruction of only a third part, and not everything. The plagues come without that limitation. They destroy everything. They are poured out without mercy. The trumpets are still warnings. But they are the last warnings, and many will die—but still with grace—and then the plagues destroy without mercy.

Now let’s have a look at these dates and how nicely they fit. Of course, due to the short preparation time I could not study everything in-depth. Please keep that in mind.

Table 1 – The Seven Trumpets (Please read the footnote at the end of the article!)

Table 1 lists the 7 trumpets. It is calculated from these 624 days that we still have until the end of probation. That said, we believe that these days begin today, Sabbath, January 31 to February 1, 2014. I have noted there: “Beginning of the Race.” You know that it’s about a race—Who will seal the 144,000? Will they be sealed by a false prophet with a false seal? Or will they understand what the real seal is through a study group that works analytically according to the Bible and through the Holy Spirit?

It’s about diligent study vs. following an impostor in blind faith. And this is where the last battle will be decided—between two ministries on this earth. It’s the beginning of the race. The prelude to this race between the false prophet Ernie Knoll and this study group is already the first trumpet. After nearly a year of silence and just defending himself in some videos where he always repeats “I am the true prophet, I am the true prophet,” we know that Ernie Knoll will announce for the first time tomorrow that he has a new message.

He makes the announcement: The war begins! As I said, trumpets are warnings with grace; they are wars. And wars are about people, lives and land. And that’s the point.

Ernie Knoll is the prophet of the fireballs. Do you remember the words of the first trumpet? How does it read?

The first angel sounded, and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up. (Revelation 8:7)

I already told you the interpretation. In the world, there is a very special country which is called “earth.” It is the United States, and especially the inhabited United States. In Revelation 12, it was still uninhabited and called “wilderness.” Now it’s the “earth” which is inhabited land—official Adventist interpretation—and in the first trumpet, which took place between 1844 and 1914, it was the Civil War in the U.S.

It’s probably about the U.S. again. What is the geographical target of Ernie Knoll? The U.S.! And he tries to steal the people who belong to God in this area first. The first war will take place there, and we know that today on this Sabbath he will make a big announcement. In our time zone it will be tomorrow at about 4 p.m.

Although what he says sounds ridiculous, it has been written by his followers. He apparently claims to have had a dream several months ago in which he was told that he and his wife Becky would soon be escorted away by angels to a lonely island. They would get special training there to start the final battle—to start the final race. Now, witnesses from among his followers purport to have seen him a few weeks later—which is now about 3½ weeks ago—in the morning hours when he was still in his house, when suddenly he vanished. Now he claims to have been actually escorted away by angels to this island, where he even reached the throne of God. And now he will give his flock instructions on what to do and how to follow him. Today we will learn—on this present Jewish day—what the starting signal to begin the final battle is exactly.

This hail mixed with blood will now fall upon the United States. Friends, I can't tell you if another event will happen tomorrow. I can't tell you what will happen within this time range, which is a pie slice again.

Indeed, if we look at the table, the second trumpet would be the first throne line. It points directly to the General Conference Spring Meeting week. It is precisely the General Conference Spring Meeting week, which always takes place in April and lasts for a week. It's the range of time between February 1, 2014 and April 11, 2014 when "something" could happen: war, problems—probably in the United States. I would say: riots, hunger problems.

This is to be expected! We are close to February 7, friends! The roof is about to be taken away again. It must be taken away. We reached the debt ceiling of the United States again. The United States might default on February 7. That could ruin the world. That has nothing to do with the US budget, which is already covered since they print out enough money for it. The problem is that the global economy might collapse because of the United States. And that could mean hail with blood for many. Just recently, I saw some YouTube videos where it was said that bank managers plunged to their death. We are back to the time of 1928 and Black Friday. They are committing suicide now. Mannarino said, "Whew, I do not know what's going on! The gold that I always recommend didn't lose so much value that they would jump out the windows!" Indeed, they already know what is happening! They start jumping out of the windows before it happens, because they know what's coming!

There will be a terrible crisis for humanity and if the trumpet repeats in a similar way, we will have something like civil war in the United States within this time frame. It could fit!

What I can tell you is what the Bible text says, and that is highly symbolic in the trumpets. It had to fit for how many trumpets? Tens of trumpets. Let's say...91 trumpets? Well, 13 first-trumpets. It had to fit for all time frames, so the text had to be very symbolic. I personally believe that the text will have a more literal fulfillment the nearer we get to the end. Then you will know the symbols already, and it gets more literal.

So, I guess it will be something that takes place in the United States. And the fact that Ernie Knoll makes his announcement exactly on the 1st of February and starts a new message is not mere coincidence! There is no doubt: this is about the last battle, and it starts on that very day.

I got the new light last night, and I am preaching my second public sermon on this exact day after more than half a year. The battle has begun! It's a race. And it's not like we previously believed—that the race would be delayed by one year. It's starting exactly on the same day. Both ministries start to run simultaneously. It's really about the faithful servants of God now. Well, you see the data for yourself. I won't talk about it today.

Perhaps, I'll show you some basics. I already talked about the first day. What is the last day of the 624 if we use Jewish inclusive reckoning? We come to Sabbath, October 17, 2015. It's the seventh trumpet and therefore the last day of Jesus' intercession. He probably leaves the Most Holy Place on this day and puts on His royal garments. We don't know if it will happen on this exact day or seven days later. We only know that the door of grace for mankind will have closed by then. If you read the 7th trumpet, what does it say?

And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. (Revelation 11:15)

Almost everybody puts this at the very end, on the day of the coming, but it's not necessarily so. There's no evidence for it in the text. It just says that the world empires belong to Him now. When will they really belong to Him, anyway? When grace is over and the judgment is finished. Then it will be decided. On that day, the decision will be made: Did we seal 144,000 for Jesus or not?

The Bible says that we will do it, yes! But we must not assume that there is nothing for us to do, and say "Oh, it will happen no matter what!" We shouldn't be fatalists, like many are, saying "I don't need to do anything because it's already decided!" We have a great work to do! We will accomplish it with all our power and with the power of the Holy Spirit, because the power of human beings is not enough to succeed to the point that the 7th trumpet can finally state: Yes, the kingdoms of the world belong to the Lord. Now, just the plagues still need to fall to destroy everything so He can come.

This is a perfect interpretation of the 7th trumpet. I don't have to overlap it with the plagues, and I don't have to put it at the end, at the coming of Jesus. I can let it go until the day of decision. You know from Revelation 22 that nothing changes anymore. Those who are holy remain holy and those who are filthy remain filthy. There is not one soul whose character can be changed in the time of the plagues. But please don't see this as fatalistic either!

Those were the key points.

I already said that the 6th trumpet points exactly to the middle—even to SUNDAY, July 5, 2015—of the General Conference Session in San Antonio, Texas. We will have to study all of this in detail in the near future. We will have to find out how these trumpet verses harmonize with the individual events that we can recognize thus far. That's not my job today! Probably we'll have to elaborate on it with a series of articles. We've gotten the first rays of new light, but not yet all of it!

The seven plagues.

We know when the first plague will fall, and it's not hard to unroll the clock. There's just one little difficulty: when will the last plague fall? The beginning we know: it's Sunday, October 25, 2015. It's the gamma-ray burst that we described in a series of three articles. So, how long do we let the clock run?

It's about the seven plagues. It's not about the second coming! Is the second coming of Jesus Christ the 7th plague? Before you answer, first you have to read what the 7th plague is. We need to find out how long the whole thing runs. Back to the Bible text!

And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done. And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great. (Revelation 16:17-18)

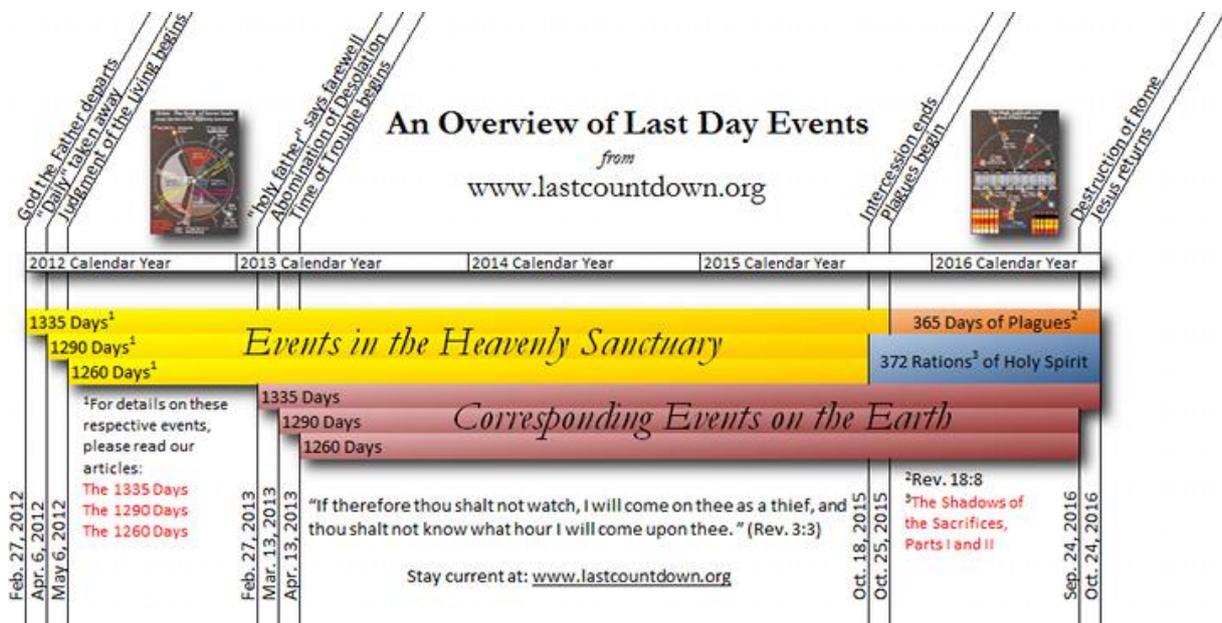

Ok, someone could say that's describing what Ellen White saw in the time of the last 7 days. Let's see if it's true that it could be just 7 days beforehand.

And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath. (Revelation 16:19)

What is Babylon? Yes, well, let's say quite simply the New World Order together with the New World religion (URI), and now it is divided. Three frogs had combined: the dragon, the beast and fallen Protestantism! Three parts! And these disintegrate again, because first Rome was destroyed. The 7th plague is the destruction of Babylon, the New World Order.

And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found. And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great. (Revelation 16:20-21)

As soon as Jesus is visible in the cloud, no one blasphemes anymore. The Bible tells us that they fall at our feet and worship and say, "You always had the truth!" But here, they still blaspheme. Thus the 7th plague is before the coming of Jesus, and we already have the exact date. Let's take a look at our overview timeline:

There you'll even find the exact date for the end of the 1290 and the 1260 days in the pinkish area that shows the events on the earth and ends 30 days before the coming of Jesus, on September 24, 2016. If you take this as the end date, you get a perfect harmony in the timelines again.

It's a number, indeed 336 days, which is perfectly divisible by the 24-hours of the Orion clock resulting in 14 days or 2 weeks per hour. I especially like this number 336 because it is 2 times 168, and 168 is the Orion formula. It's a perfect harmony, how the clock face of Orion now shows us the date of each plague.

The Seven Plagues (336 Days)

Ends 30 days before Shemini Atzeret 2016, the Second Coming of Jesus

Table 2 – The Seven Last Plagues (Please read the footnote at the end of the article!)

In my short study, I already recognized something nice. The throne of the beast will be darkened in the 5th plague, and—having already checked a little bit—I see that the plagues avenge precisely those things that the Adventist Church had done wrong in the original Orion study. That is amazing! Thus, we’ll soon write a great article about this. These are exactly the things that they’ve done wrong.

For example, at the throne line where He points to the right (with His left hand) they have denigrated the nature of Jesus. The nature of Jesus is shown by a throne line. “You pushed me off My throne! You told them that I had an advantage—that nobody is able to keep My commandments—that I supposedly had an advantage, and my human nature was merely divine.” That’s what it’s all about. In that way, they pushed Him off the throne. And now He pushes whom from the throne? He darkens the throne of the beast. Wow! That is stated in exactly this plague. The throne is darkened—shown by a throne line.

So, there are many parallels especially in the plagues.

Here’s another example. Let’s get started.

First plague: ulcers—gamma-ray burst. What will happen? Who gets this plague? This plague will affect those who accept the mark of the beast. Ok, and what is the mark of Jesus? What does the first star point to? To the Sabbath! You have the choice! Do what Orion originally tells you, and keep the Sabbath, and be saved, or take the mark of the beast and be smitten by the gamma-ray burst.

It’s wonderful, the plagues—wow! We will certainly discover great things in the trumpets, but the plagues are incredible how they harmonize.

Second plague: the sea becomes as the blood of a dead man. What are the dead? Are they clean or unclean according to Leviticus? What about the dead? Are you allowed to touch a dead body? They are unclean. Where was the throne line pointing to with Jesus’ right arm? To the health message! Don’t touch unclean things! Distinguish between pure and impure food! What does He give them now? He gives them a sea as the blood of a dead man—unclean.

Third plague: the fountains of water become blood.

And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood. And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus. (Revelation 16:4-5)

What have they done?

For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy. (Revelation 16:6)

Which star points to this plague? Betelgeuse! It was always the star of the sacrifice; it was always the star that pointed to killing and persecution. The red star—blood! It was always the red horse that brought persecution of the apostolic church by the Romans. It has always been the star of persecution: “For [you] have shed the blood of [My] saints and prophets” and now I will shed your blood! It fits perfectly!

What else do we have?

Fourth plague: the sun is darkened. What star is it? The black horse! First they darkened the pure gospel of Jesus, now He darkens the sun, moon and stars for them. A terrible darkness comes upon the earth—a physical darkness, I think. There’s a physical darkness coming upon the earth. He will take away all the light. Nuclear war? I don’t know.

Fifth plague: we already talked about the throne of the beast.

Sixth plague: drying up the Euphrates, paving the way for the Kings of the east. We know there are three coming, right? The Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit!

And we also discussed the seventh plague. 30 days before the coming of Jesus, the destruction of the whole New World Order, completely. How was the New World Order built? Under the star of ecumenism, the star that came before! This star is dried up beforehand and then destroyed.

Now you know the dates. I see quite a few Sabbaths there, at least at the end of the list.

THIS is the new light. We receive the power to predict and prophesy.

In Revelation 11, God says it even harder. He says we will even smite with the plagues. Great, they will blame it all on us anyway. Then we can say it too. We’ll get blamed for everything anyway. So be it! Imagine there’s a group of people on this earth who predict each and every plague exactly to the date. Of course they will say, “You smite with the plagues! You are provoking God to make this happen!” It is because they’ll be foolish. The Holy Spirit will have withdrawn completely by that time.

Ok, friends, that was my short sermon today about a completely new subject, and the summary of old subjects. Starting today, we’ll be working hard again. The many, many—I don’t know how many—hundreds of posts and articles that have been written, especially by our industrious Robert, who always summarizes in perfectly written form what I work out with you in the morning services. He is even an artist. I discovered yesterday that Robert is an artist. I didn’t know. I thought he can just program timelines and curves. He is even a great artist! Wow, I never would have believed it! His pencil drawings are great. I think we are entering a totally new creative phase. Maybe we can even get a few drawings posted. I would like it very much. So we’ve become a good team—humble, serious workers. Everyone has his part here. Our women provide us with perfect and good food. We cannot complain about our good vegetarian food. Jan works diligently until he faints. Just like Pascal, our “cowboy”—here it is “vaquero.” And the soul of the whole project: our Gerhard—yes indeed, without him we would have drowned in work a long time ago. He has so many skills, and is also a great teacher. Last but not least, I want to mention my wife who is my helpmeet and really works a lot here.

So, it’s no walk in the park, but I think it’s what the Bible describes. We can still laugh a lot, despite the hard times, the worries and the monetary problems because God shows us again and again that He’s still with us. In the deepest, darkest and saddest moments, when we think we won’t see the light anymore because of sheer disappointment the Lord gives light in such a large measure, in such abundance like today that we can say: “Now we have strength again!” Stand fast for another 624 days!

The light that is now given must provide enough material for us to publish the last warnings. And this time, we know that each and every warning will be accompanied by events. That should give us a lot of encouragement. That should encourage us to firmly believe that the 144,000 can be found, and then it will be THEIR turn. For that, they will need all the knowledge they could read and study beforehand.

Don't just sit back and read, but really start calculating some astronomical times. That's better than just reading. Do it! Do it for yourself! Get to know God! Try to understand: if God does so much with time, there must be more to it!

They need to get the amount of the Holy Spirit that will seal one of the 144,000. First they must have sighed and cried, then they must stay faithful to the Sabbath, then they have to do their studies diligently, and then they will be sealed. It isn't done by us, but by the Holy Spirit in the time of the latter rain that has begun and will last for another 624 days from today.

Dear Father in heaven, we are grateful that You have accompanied us to the beginning of the last 624 days. We give you thanks for all of the much light You've poured out on me since 2003/2004 and on Your church especially since 2009/ 2010, oh Lord. We pray that You may help each and every one to recognize this light, to accept it and to see it just as wonderful and glorious as we do. It is a glorious light; it is the light of Your glory, of Your throne and of Your Holy Spirit, who should accompany us in all these difficult but yet so wonderful days when we see how everything that has been prophesied for so many thousands of years finally comes to pass.

Lord, we ask You for a great blessing. Bless not only this group, but especially the members of the study forum, who also work diligently together with us and have already given us lots of good ideas, and are very interested. Lord, make them faithful leaders and wise teachers. Oh Lord, we plead for the 144,000 that they will accept the light, understand it and will be guided by the Holy Spirit. We thank you for our brother Aquiles, who receives dreams and—I could not mention it today—has seen in a dream last night three high-voltage cables feeding our little ministry car that drives in the race and we know that these three high-voltage lines are representing the Son, the Holy Spirit and the Father. Thank You for this!

Lord, be with the martyrs who have yet to give their physical lives, and let the 144,000 recognize that they too must be willing to offer an extremely great sacrifice, which they still do not know about. All this we ask in the glorious and wonderful name of the One who was wounded for us, our Jesus-Alnitak. Amen!

Footnote:

For my sermon on January 31, 2014, I had very little preparation time since I had received the new light about the Orion trumpet and plague cycles just the night before. Therefore, I prepared two date tables for the trumpet and plague cycles which were based on approximations from the Judgment Cycle at a resolution of 168 units. At that time, we still had no computational method for the more accurate resolutions of the Orion Clock with 624 or 336 days.

As part of the work on the new series of articles, we've now developed a highly accurate method for determining the dates in all Orion cycles. This resulted in minor changes from 1 to 3 days on a few of the dates in comparison to the tables shown in the sermon of January 31, 2014. The corrected charts for the trumpet and plague cycles are published in the download section of our homepage. As always, you can download the charts in two qualities - for screen presentations or for printing posters.

The Battle of Armageddon

Originally published on Friday, April 4, 2014, 6:25 am in German at www.letztercountdown.org

We have been in the last 624 days before the closing of the door of mercy for mankind since February 1, 2014, and now the time is quickly approaching when the Captain of the Lord's hosts [Jesus] will stand at the forefront of the battle of Armageddon, as it is called in the Bible. With narrow thinking, many Adventists consider the battle of Armageddon in Revelation 16:16 as the last great battle, which appears to take place in the seventh plague and is also described in more detail in Revelation 19, when Jesus will come again with all the angels. But is that really the last decisive battle, or will the final decision for the universe and for Divinity Himself be made before that? We will explore this issue and find surprises which will bring our attention to this very present moment in history.

Ellen G. White and the Trumpets and Plagues

Every form of evil is to spring into intense activity. Evil angels unite their powers with evil men, and as they have been in constant conflict and attained an experience in the best modes of deception and battle, and have been strengthening for centuries, they will not yield the last great final contest without a desperate struggle. All the world will be on one side or the other of the question. The battle of Armageddon will be fought, and that day must find none of us sleeping. Wide awake we must be, as wise virgins having oil in our vessels with our lamps...

The power of the Holy Ghost must be upon us, and the Captain of the Lord's host will stand at the head of the angels of heaven to direct the battle. Solemn events before us are yet to transpire. Trumpet after trumpet is to be sounded, vial after vial poured out one after another upon the inhabitants of the earth. Scenes of stupendous interest are right upon us (Letter 112, 1890). {7BC 982.6-7}

In the last paragraph of this amazing statement by Ellen G. White in her letter to W.C. White, J.E. White and his wife on December 22, 1890, she says what events must take place before the battle of Armageddon on one hand, and on the other hand she says that those events were still future as of 1890. Although Jesus could have come back in 1890 as we learned in the study of The Vessel of Time, those events did not happen earlier because the light of the Fourth Angel had already been rejected by the Church in 1888, and thus another long wilderness wandering had to precede the events of the last two septuplets (seven-series) of Revelation.

The events Ellen White described as "solemn and of stupendous interest" that would culminate in the battle of Armageddon, she clearly identified... they are the trumpets and plagues of the Apocalypse.

Why So Many Interpretations of the Trumpets?

All interpreters who set the trumpets in whole or in part in the distant past should pay particular attention now. Often these interpreters start the first trumpet with the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 A.D. or they transfer it to the first centuries after Christ and connect it with the decline of the Roman Empire. I already explained in my January 31, 2014 sermon that there are many possible interpretations of the trumpets because the example of Jericho clearly tells us that the seven priests always blew seven trumpets on their marches around Jericho. These represent different eras of mankind since the resurrection of Christ. The first six days of Jericho stand for the classical trumpet interpretations, which generally begin after Christ's resurrection, but there are still nevertheless seven marches on the last day. That means seven different interpretations of the seven trumpets are still possible for the Great Day of Atonement, which began on October 22, 1844 and extends to the closing of the door of mercy in 2015.

I mentioned one of them on slide 176 of the Orion presentation as follows:

For those who have not noticed it yet: We also had four trumpets (wars) in the four time periods of the first four seals. 1861 - the American Civil War, 1914 - First World War, 1939 - Second World War and since 1980, two Gulf Wars and since 2001 the war against terrorism.

Thus my eschatological interpretation of the trumpets began in 1861 with the Civil War and spanned the remainder of the judgment. The fact is, only one of these many possible interpretations can be consistent with the statement of Ellen White above, and it even had to be yet-future as late as 1890. That means it would have to take place after the 120-year wilderness wandering of the Adventist church. Only then could the last two septuplets of Revelation find their most clear and literal fulfillment, and in that timeframe the remnant would be imbued with the power of the Holy Spirit and grace, which could only be the case during the time of the Latter Rain.

The Trumpets of the Seventh March of the Seventh Day around Jericho

When we studied the shadows of the sacrifices of Ezekiel's ideal temple, we found two phases of the Latter Rain period. There we found 1260 days of special rations of the Holy Spirit for the 3.5 years of the judgment of the living. Those in turn are split into periods: a 636-day "early" Latter Rain time, and then a really intense Latter Rain phase of 624 days. Logically, the Latter Rain ends when it will have ripened the fruit of the 144,000. That will happen on the day when Jesus finishes the intercessory service in the Most Holy, and then the last 372 rations of the Holy Spirit are poured out for the 144,000 for the time of plagues in which they must stand without sin (see Shadows of the Sacrifices - Part II). At that point, every single one of the 144,000 will be sealed for his/her last great work.

The trumpets are always interpreted as warnings mingled with grace for the unbelievers and for the apostate part of the church. What could be better than to assume that they should sound in precisely these last 624 days of the “hot” phase of the Latter Rain? It would at least meet all of the criteria in the above statement of Ellen White...

1. The power of the Holy Spirit accompanies the remnant [the Latter Rain],
2. The trumpets come only after 1890, and
3. They come before the plagues, because Ellen White also specified the exact order of events in her statement.

Are there any other clues that might help us to confirm this view?

Four mighty angels hold back the powers of this earth till the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads. The nations of the world are eager for conflict, but they are held in check by the angels. When this restraining power is removed there will come a time of trouble and anguish. Deadly instruments of warfare will be invented. Vessels with their living cargo will be entombed in the great deep. All who have not the spirit of truth will unite under the leadership of Satanic agencies, but they are to be kept under control till the time shall come for the great battle of Armageddon.— The S.D.A. Bible Commentary 7:967 (1900). {LDE 238.3}

The Spirit of Prophecy helps us to arrange the events.

First our attention is drawn to a time of holding the four winds, and we are told that this is the sealing time for the 144,000. This corresponds to the following Bible verses:

And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree. And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. (Revelation 7:1-3)

Reconsidering the “Silence in Heaven”

The process of sealing the 144,000 is described in Chapter 7 of Revelation, and continues in Revelation 8:1 with the opening of the classical seventh seal.

And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. (Revelation 8:1)

Now, however, we have to distinguish the classical interpretation of the seventh seal from our interpretation which is greatly extended by the knowledge of the Orion clock. The classical seventh seal is the last seal of the sequence that began with the pure gospel of the early Christian church like a white horse. The classical interpretation takes this time frame of “about half an hour” as prophetic time, which after conversion comes to about 7 days (one prophetic hour being 15 days). Therefore, many interpreters put this seal at the end and believe that it is talking about the 7 days of Jesus’ travel with all His heavenly hosts at His second coming, because heaven would be “empty” or “silent” at that time.

However, they’ve overlooked a statement of Ellen White that explains an important principle for the interpretation of prophecy:

December 16, 1848, the Lord gave me a view of the shaking of the powers of the heavens. I saw that when the Lord said “heaven,” in giving the signs recorded by Matthew, Mark, and Luke, He meant heaven, and when He said “earth” He meant earth. The powers of heaven are the sun, moon, and stars. They rule in the heavens. The powers of earth are those that rule on the earth. The powers of heaven will be shaken at the voice of God. Then the sun, moon, and stars will be moved out of their places. They will not pass away, but be shaken by the voice of God. {EW 41.1}

If you think this statement only applies to the Gospels that she named, read on...

Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. The atmosphere parted and rolled back; then we could look up through the open space in Orion, whence came the voice of God. The Holy City will come down through that open space. I saw that the powers of earth are now being shaken and that events come in order. War, and rumors of war, sword, famine, and pestilence are first to shake the powers of earth, then the voice of God will shake the sun, moon, and stars, and this earth also. I saw that the shaking of the powers in Europe is not, as some teach, the shaking of the powers of heaven, but it is the shaking of the angry nations. {EW 41.2}

The reference to Orion and the Holy City coming down points us to the book of Revelation, and even more specifically to the Latter Rain time when the significance of Orion was revealed through the Holy Spirit.

Therefore, we need to ask ourselves the following questions:

1. Why is the opening of the seventh seal placed between the description of the sealing time of the 144,000 (Revelation 7) and the seven trumpets (Revelation 8)?
2. If the silence takes place in heaven, and “when God says heaven He means heaven,” then what does a half hour of heavenly time mean on earth?

First, let’s answer the second question. We know from the Orion study that a heavenly hour corresponds to exactly 7 earthly years. It is the time on the clock face between two hour marks, which are symbolized by the thrones of the 24 elders, and at the same time it corresponds to God’s “heartbeat” of Sabbatical years as described in Leviticus 25. Consequently, half of a heavenly hour is $7 \div 2 = 3.5$ years = 1260 days = a time, times and a half from the oath of Daniel 12.

This time calculation clarifies why the seventh seal is positioned precisely between the sealing time of the 144,000 and the trumpets... On one hand, it’s the time frame of the judgment of the living with the Latter Rain, during which the sealing of the 144,000 is taking place. But beyond that, the silence in heaven also well describes the tension that all the creatures of the universe and God Himself must feel in this last decisive battle for the 144,000 witnesses for the Father. We have described the fatal consequences of losing this battle in the article Our High Calling. Anyone who understands this will be silent too, with baited breath, because they can see how close everything will be.

The Orion Clock and its Cycles

As we saw in Figure 1, the sealing time is divided into two timeframes. The second part of the 624 days is explained in more detail beginning at Revelation 8.2... the sounding of the seven trumpets. God intended for the seventh seal to be centrally located between the sealing time of the 144,000 and the trumpets so that we might one day recognize which of these two timeframes belongs to the trumpets.

And now it also becomes clear to us how we have to understand the above quote of Ellen White...

Four mighty angels hold back the powers of this earth till the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads. [There will be no Third World War in the sealing time up to the 6th trumpet.] The nations of the world are eager for conflict [Third World War], but they are held in check by the angels. When this restraining power is removed there will come a time of trouble and anguish [the great tribulation]. Deadly instruments of warfare will be invented [atomic bombs, HAARP]. [And now comes a hint to the second trumpet] Vessels with their living cargo will be entombed in the great deep [...and the third part of the ships were destroyed, Rev. 8:9]. All who have not the spirit of truth [who have not received the Latter Rain] will unite under the leadership of Satanic agencies, [Is this really before the plagues? Yes, here she says it again:] but they are to be kept under control till the time shall come for the great battle of Armageddon.—The S.D.A. Bible Commentary 7:967 (1900). {LDE 238.3}

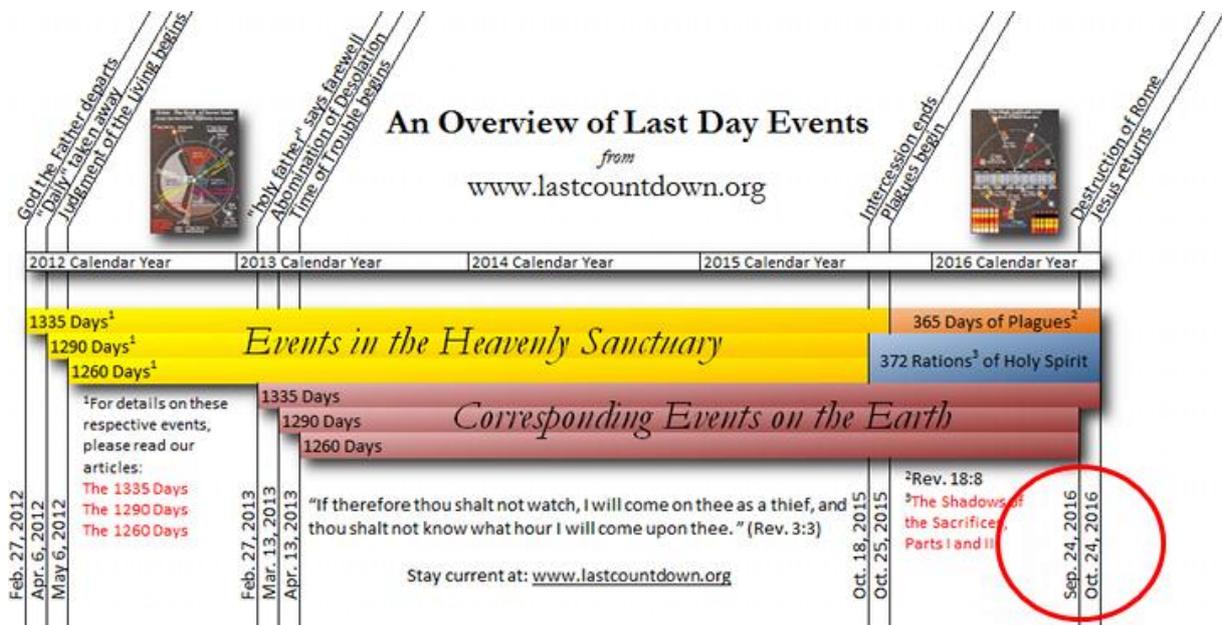

Again, it fits perfectly... The trumpets fall in the second half of the heavenly -half-hour sealing time of the 144,000 as a final warning before the plagues begin, for the “virgins” to finally prepare by filling their lamps with oil. So when will the final decisive battle for the 144,000 take place, when everyone will choose their side? In these last 624 days of trumpets, because we all know that no one will change sides during the plagues (see Revelation 22:11).

To recognize an Orion cycle, you always need a start date and an end date or the exact duration of the cycle. These dates are all known for the trumpet cycle and had already been determined through our preliminary studies of the time lines of the 636 days. My brother Robert will describe that in his articles.

The first of the 624 days was February 1, 2014. So we already knew the start date and the length of the trumpet cycle without recognizing that these key dates specified a new Orion cycle. God had just given me the light about the trumpet and plague cycles on the night of January 31, 2014, and I only had a short time to prepare for my sermon that same evening. But we already knew months earlier (and discussed it in our forum) that on the eve of February 1, the Fourth Angel would actually come down from Heaven to Earth as in Revelation 18. We wondered what that meant. When I got the light on the two last Orion cycles, I realized that this was the rest—the complete gift—of the light of the Fourth Angel which would really brighten the earth.

We knew all of the key dates for the plague cycle too. For a long time, we knew from the Shadows of the Sacrifices study that the plagues would take 365 (+ 7 days of Noah = 372 days) and that the first plague vial would be poured out on October 25, 2015. We could even tell the nature of this plague from the Bible and thus wrote a three-part series about The Wrath of God.

Since the seventh plague clearly describes the destruction of the New World Order, I could immediately read the date of the last plague from the previously deciphered timelines of Daniel...

September 24, 2016 would be the last day of the 1290 days since the election of Pope Francis and also the last day of the 1260 days of the time of trouble. On the next day, September 25, 2016, the New World Order will be destroyed exactly 30 days before the return of Jesus.

*And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done. And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great. And the great city was divided into three parts [the threefold alliance of the dragon, the beast and the false prophet breaks again], and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God [Babylon the Great is the New World Order headed by Rome], to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath. And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found. And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great. (Revelation 16:17-21)

The time of plagues is about another battle. It is about the perseverance of the 144,000 who must stand without sinning, without an intercessor, for 372 days. That is a different battle which we will learn more details about with its own Orion clock cycle. The third and last time-related battle will then be led by Jesus as the Commander of the Lord's hosts at His second coming (see Revelation 19).

The Orion clock has four cycles:

1. The Great Orion Cycle of 4032 years from the creation of the first Adam (4037 B.C.) until the birth of the second Adam, Jesus Christ (5 B.C.).
2. The Judgment Cycle of the Seven Seals for 168 years from the autumn of 1846 (the restoration of the pure church through the Sabbath truth) until autumn 2014 (the 5th Seal pitting the Sunday Law against the Sabbath truth).
3. The Trumpet Cycle of the seven apocalyptic trumpets of 624 days from February 1, 2014 (the beginning of the first trumpet) to October 18, 2015 (seventh trumpet = end of the time of grace).

4. The Plague Cycle of the seven last plagues of 336 days from October 25, 2015 (first plague = gamma-ray burst of Betelgeuse) until September 24, 2016 (seventh plague = destruction of the “New World Order”)

The Christian era is not displayed on the Orion Clock, but has always corresponded to the part of the scroll that was written on the outside and corresponds to the classical interpretation of the seven churches and seven seals:

And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. (Revelation 5:1)

The same “book” was shown to the prophet Ezekiel, and he had to eat it too. However, it does not turn bitter in the stomach of the prophet Ezekiel, in contrast to Miller’s book with the interpretation of Daniel 8 which John had to eat in Revelation 10. The book is sweet and remains so. This means that there will be no further disappointment as there was in 1844 (see also Ezekiel 12:25–28).

And when I looked, behold, an hand was sent unto me; and, lo, a roll of a book was therein; And he spread it before me; and it was written within and without: and there was written therein lamentations, and mourning, and woe. (Ezekiel 2:9–10)

Moreover he said unto me, Son of man, eat that thou findest; eat this roll, and go speak unto the house of Israel. So I opened my mouth, and he caused me to eat that roll. And he said unto me, Son of man, cause thy belly to eat, and fill thy bowels with this roll that I give thee. Then did I eat it; and it was in my mouth as honey for sweetness. (Ezekiel 3:1–3)

Now I ask the reader to look at the end of verse 2:10 again: “and there was written therein lamentations, and mourning, and woe.”

The book which Ezekiel received has three parts, because the three synonyms stand for three Orion cycles: lamentations, mourning and woe. If we do a word study of the original Greek text with Strong’s, we can easily determine that the “lamentation severity or intensity” increases with each descriptive word, and this corresponds exactly to the subjects of the cycles.

1. Lamentations: Jesus laments over the transgressions and apostasy in His church in the judgment cycle.
2. Mourning: In the trumpet cycle, only those who sighed and cried about the abominations done in the church (see Ezekiel 9:4) and who have received the seal will remain and be protected from the trumpet judgments. Many will sigh because these are the last warnings with grace.
3. Woe: The plagues are the last vials of wrath poured out as the great woes upon mankind... the punishments of God without mercy.

The first great Orion cycle was not shown to Ezekiel because he was supposed to prophesy for the future and not for his own running cycle. In his time, the last prophecies were already taking place as the then–running great Orion cycle was nearing its end. It is fascinating how God was able to bring so much light and truth through so few words, without it having been revealed for centuries or millennia. Thus we see the truth again in what Jesus Himself said about the work of the Holy Spirit, and we have to mark this last part of the verse in red especially for today’s Adventists because they always quote Him half-way and leave out the end because it doesn’t fit their ecumenical anti–time–setting mentality:

Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. (John 16:13)

Why is There Even a Plagues Cycle?

We can immediately understand that the trumpet cycle consists of the last warnings with grace given to humanity, and that the exact dates for the trumpets have been given so the 144,000 can see—even to the last moment—that God really is behind the Fourth Angel's message which we are giving. Consequently, they will accept the right teachings from their Lord Jesus. But the question arises as to why God still gives a plague cycle for a time in which no one is going to change.

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

It isn't actually necessary for the unbelievers who will no longer repent (e.g. see Revelation 16:11) to see the date of each vial of wrath confirmed in the time of plagues. Some might think that it could be to strengthen the 144,000 themselves, but that would be precluded by the fact that most of them won't be able to stay informed by the press or media about the disasters in the world.

I saw the saints leaving the cities and villages, and associating together in companies, and living in the most solitary places. Angels provided them food and water, while the wicked were suffering from hunger and thirst. {EW 282.2}

As the decree issued by the various rulers of Christendom against commandment keepers shall withdraw the protection of government and abandon them to those who desire their destruction, the people of God will flee from the cities and villages and associate together in companies, dwelling in the most desolate and solitary places. Many will find refuge in the strongholds of the mountains. Like the Christians of the Piedmont valleys, they will make the high places of the earth their sanctuaries and will thank God for "the munitions of rocks." Isaiah 33:16. But many of all nations and of all classes, high and low, rich and poor, black and white, will be cast into the most unjust and cruel bondage. The beloved of God pass weary days, bound in chains, shut in by prison bars, sentenced to be slain, some apparently left to die of starvation in dark and loathsome dungeons. No human ear is open to hear their moans; no human hand is ready to lend them help. {GC 626.1}

There must be some other reason for the gift of the plague cycle, which has to do with neither the 144,000 nor the rest of humanity. There must be a reason why God has also given light on the plague cycle, and why right now along with the dates for the trumpet warnings. And that reason must have to do with God Himself.

Again and again we ask ourselves in this movement whether the 144,000 really know God already. The knowledge of God's character is the basic requirement for salvation in Jesus and sanctification in the truth, without which no man shall see the kingdom of heaven.

Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord: (Hebrews 12:14)

Whoever doesn't know God will one day hear the following response:

Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity. (Matthew 7:22-23)

And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage: and the door was shut. Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us. But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not. (Matthew 25:10-12)

In all our studies, we have repeatedly shown that it is a fundamental character trait of God that He does not do anything without telling His followers:

Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.
(Amos 3:7)

Would God put this character trait of His aside at the end of time? No, because that would contradict one of God's other character traits...

For I am the LORD, I change not... (Malachi 3:6)

Attentive readers of the Fourth Angel's message shouldn't have missed the fact that we've received a lot of truth about time through the Holy Spirit, and He taught us things to come (see John 16:13). He has revealed to us all of His time secrets and since this is inseparable from His character, He cannot (and will not) stop just because it might not seem to make sense to reveal one last plague cycle when no one will change anymore. God shows us with the plague cycle that all of the principles of His character remain unchanged even until the last breath of the last person on the earth, and beyond that to the new earth and for all eternity.

Ellen G. White, with all her anti-time-setting arguments, nevertheless experienced in vision that one day this truth about time would seal the 144,000 in the latter rain.

When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. {EW 14.1}

How contradictory this sounds in contrast to this infamous statement of hers?

...the Lord had been pleased to show me that there would be no definite time in the message given of God since 1844... {2SM 73.3}

I want to ask a few questions to those dear readers who want to be among the 144,000! Whom should you really get to know: Ellen G. White, or God? What does the Bible tell you when you read and study God's prophecies? Has He ever done anything without informing His servants? Does He change who He is just because the end has come, right when we need to know what hour the clock has struck more urgently than ever? Does He stick out His tongue at us and leave us in the dark? Can you take the Bible verses where it says that the apostles of that time were not allowed to know the day and hour and bring them into harmony with the statement of Jesus in Revelation 3.3?

Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:3)

We solved these arguments and apparent contradictions long ago and wrote a whole series of articles about it. God doesn't change, but there was a time when the knowledge of time would have been counterproductive, and all that counsel of the Spirit of Prophecy was for that self-inflicted 120-year period of the wilderness wandering of the Advent people from 1890 to 2010. But the Bible says in Revelation 10... Thou must prophesy again...

God now gives one last chance to get to know Him by revealing the truth about time to the yet-to-be-sealed remnant of the 144,000. He shows you in the trumpet cycle that the time prophecies are accurate to the day, and He shows you with the not-actually-necessary plague cycle that the Clock, which symbolizes Jesus Himself, will be with us to the end of the world, like our Lord promised.

...and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. (Matthew 28:20)

The four Orion cycles show another trait of God's character—a special trait that is inseparable from the principle of progressive revelation of time and is connected with the principle of His unchanging character which we already detailed in the article The Power of the Father.

The four Orion cycles perfectly reflect God's principle of progressive revelation. The timeframes become shorter from one cycle to another, and therefore the frequency of events increases with each new cycle. In the first great Orion cycle, we have 6 dates spanning 4032 years which corresponds to an average of one prophecy every 672 years. In the judgment cycle, we find 7 dates (or 9 by distinguishing the throne lines) which mark the years. On average, that is one year value every 24 years ($168 \div 7$, which also corresponds to the resolution of the year triplets in the HSL). In the trumpet cycle we find 7 (or 9) specific dates within a span of 624 days, which corresponds to a prophesied date approximately every 3 months ($624 \div 7 \approx 89$ days). And with the plague cycle, the Lord completes this principle with 7 (or 9) dates in 336 days. That's an average of one prophecy every 48 days for the time of plagues.

The closer we get to the end, the more we learn about God's plan and the shorter the time intervals become for the revealed dates of events. Again God shows clearly to everyone that He proclaims the time, and determines it. Could there be perhaps even more in these findings than the reader can see at first glance?

Carillons in Heaven

We need to take a look at a component of the Orion clock that we haven't looked at yet, but before we do, let's devote a little time to explore in more detail the divine biblical numbers that the four Orion cycles are based on.

The Divine Numbers and the Black Sheep

We learned the basic mathematics of God in the Orion presentation on slides 67–69. It is based on the numbers 3 and 4 and their sum and product of 7 and 12, respectively. These numbers play a prominent role in the whole Bible, and thus also in the Clock of God.

For those who think that we are dealing with numerology here, or that these numbers have no meaning, here are some quotes from Ellen White:

Peter had come to Christ with the question, "How oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times?" The rabbis limited the exercise of forgiveness to three offenses. Peter, carrying out, as he supposed, the teaching of Christ, thought to extend it to seven, the number signifying perfection. But Christ taught that we are never to become weary of forgiving. Not "Until seven times," He said, "but, Until seventy times seven." {COL 243.1}

Let all bear in mind that the tree of life bears twelve manner of fruits. This represents the spiritual work of our earthly missions. The Word of God is to us the tree of life. Every portion of the Scripture has its use. In every part of the Word is some lesson to be learned. Then learn how to study your Bibles. This book is not a heap of odds and ends. It is an educator. Your own thoughts must be called into exercise before you can be really benefited by Bible study. Spiritual sinew and muscle must be brought to bear upon the Word. The Holy Spirit will bring to remembrance the words of Christ. He will enlighten the mind, and guide the research (Letter 3, 1898). {7BC 989.7}

The Judgment Cycle lasts 168 years. This can be represented by the following formula, which was given in Jesus' oath to the two men on the banks of the river in Daniel 12 (see Orion presentation slides 70–74):

$$7 \times (12 + 12) = 168$$

A biblical oath (to repeat oneself seven times) is a contract or pact. Jesus swore (7) to fulfill the promises of the old covenant (12) and (+) the new covenant (12) in the last days.

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand [12] and [+] his left hand [12] unto heaven, and swore [7, multiplication with 7 = biblical oath] by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:7)

In the great 4032–year Orion cycle, we find a new form of this Orion formula:

$$168 \times (12 + 12) = 4032$$

This shouldn't be a surprise, because the Lamb was slain from the foundation of the world. Thus the two covenants were also planned since the beginning of the world (see Genesis 3:15).

We find the number 168 again—even twice—in the Plague Cycle, which runs exactly 336 days:

$$168 + 168 = 336$$

The basic formula that makes up the number 168 makes the following cycles evenly divisible by the number 7; they are divisible by the number of perfection with no remainder.

$$\text{Great Orion Cycle: } 4032 \div 7 = 576$$

Furthermore, in each case the end result of the division is an integer multiple of the number of the two covenants ($12 + 12 = 24$)—in other words, the results are multiples of 24:

$$\text{Great Orion Cycle: } 576 \div 24 = 24$$

$$\text{Plague Cycle: } 48 \div 24 = 2$$

Now if we look at the Trumpet Cycle, we immediately notice a big difference:

The 624 days are neither divisible by 168, nor by 7, without a remainder.

The division $624 \div 24$ results in 26. How should we understand this unusual heretofore unseen number 26?

There is only one answer...

$$13 + 13 = 26$$

13 is the number of the covenant with Satan... Satan always wants to be higher than God, and that is reflected in his covenant number 13 which is 1 greater than 12, the covenant number of God.

For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north: (Isaiah 14:13)

When we write down the formula of the Trumpet Cycle as follows, it becomes apparent that we are in fact talking about a face-off between two opposing armies:

$$(13 + 13) \times (12 + 12) = 624$$

While the 144,000 ($12 \times 12 \times 1000$), the remnant of two covenants, are fighting for God, they are standing against their enemies from Satan's camp which is comprised of the church and state alliance ($13 + 13$). The Trumpet Cycle shows a direct confrontation, a real battle between good and evil. Thus, the events that we will find for the dates that God shows us in the clock will have to be the events of a battle. These events will reflect Satan's actions and will bring all of his malice to light. Thus, the Trumpet Cycle is the cycle of Azazel, the "black sheep" of God's creation.

In all of the other Orion cycles, it is God who exhorts, reproves, cleanses, punishes, and acts. In the Trumpet Cycle, however, we are confronted with the direct actions of Satan, and we will come to understand how much he hates us. But through his terrible attacks, Satan can only accomplish something against those who have not accepted God's warnings and the true doctrines of the preceding Judgment Cycle. Until Yom Kippur 2014, there is still time to study what we have been instructed to say with the Fourth Angel's Message. Anyone who wants to stand for God in this decisive battle for the 144,000 has to mold his life and his faith according to the divine doctrines which are displayed in the Orion Clock and in the Vessel of Time. If we want to endure, we need to understand and accept God's character.

Before we can get down to a more detailed consideration of the newly found cycles, we still need to work through two prophetic concepts in the Bible in order to get a clearer picture of how these Orion cycles fit into the overall concept of God's salvation plan for the universe. This leads us to the book of Revelation on one hand, and to the book of Ezekiel on the other. There we will find the gold and eye salve for Laodicea.

The Carillon of the Clock of God

I have already emphasized many times that Revelation 4 depicts the blueprint or construction plan for the Clock of God. Almost every Adventist interpreter agrees that the chapter starts in the year 1844 with the opening of the door to the Most Holy Place:

After this I looked, and, behold, a door was opened in heaven; and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter. (Revelation 4:1)

We already analyzed the following verses in detail in previous studies:

And immediately I was in the spirit: and, behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne. [We understand that this is the Orion Belt with three stars, which symbolizes the Divine Trio on one throne.] And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald. [This is God the Father on His throne, as He went first into the courtroom of the Most Holy Place as is shown in the parallel passage of Daniel 7.] And round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold. [The 24 elders represent the 24-hour wheel of the Orion clock.] And out of the throne proceeded lightnings and thunderings and voices: and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven Spirits of God. [The seven stars of Orion.] And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: [the Orion Nebula] and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind. [The 4 seraphim indicate the time. They are the hands of the Orion clock.] And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle. [The seraphim also represent the character qualities of Jesus, which is an early indication that the clock symbolizes Jesus Himself.] And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. [Triple "holy" is the Divine Trio, but "he who is to come" is again Jesus and His second coming, which has been represented through the Orion clock ever since its existence, since its creation.] (Revelation 4:2-8)

But what should we do with the next verse?

And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever, [Then] the four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created. (Revelation 4:9-11)

When the first version of the Orion study appeared in early 2010, I realized that the blueprint of the Clock of God in Revelation 4 showed yet another feature. At that time, I even wrote the first version of the article Seven Steps to Eternity and explained the feature. I had recognized correctly that the scenes of the four living creatures and the elders worshiping represented something like a heavenly carillon of the Clock of God, because the symbolic seraphim and elders show a recurring function. It would occur only at certain times like how a carillon works. Carillons also sound only at certain special times.

In that article I tried to harmonize the similar recurring worship scenes in Revelation with the seals that I had found in the Orion clock. But soon I took the article down because I realized that my first interpretation of the position of the seals was wrong, and thus that interpretation of the carillon scenes was also in question.

Again and again I tried to harmonize the carillon, but obviously the time had not yet come. Thus in versions 2 and 3 of the Orion presentation, new findings appeared without a solution to this obviously important function of the clock. It is important, because it is mentioned so often in Revelation according to the Hebrew literary principle of emphasis by repetition.

We found the Great Orion Cycle in early 2013. I followed the inspiration to use it as the new content for the new edition of the Seven Steps to Eternity article, but again we published this new knowledge without being able to perfectly interpret the carillon scenes. That's why we still didn't mention it at that time.

Only after the Holy Spirit came down to our humble temple in Paraguay in the form of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18 on January 31/February 1, 2014—only after He had given us the light about the last two Orion cycles could I start to understand through His guidance what God wanted to show us with the carillon of His “great clock of time” {DA 32.1}.

I've started to give this brief history of our receiving the new light without considering the reader who because of their national or cultural circumstances might not even know what a carillon is. So let me catch you up by sharing the following example of the carillon of the New City Hall in my hometown of Munich, which will serve well for this.

Video: Carillon on Mary's Square in Munich

The largest carillon in Germany is at approximately the level of the city hall roof. Two events from the history of Munich are presented in the stage area: the main theme is the celebration of the wedding of Duke Wilhelm V with Renate of Lorraine in February 1568, on which occasion there was a knights' tournament on Mary's Square (Marienplatz). At this competition, the Bavarian knight triumphed over his opponent from Lorraine. In addition to the royal couple and his chamberlain, there are 16 other characters in the scene. On the lower floor the coopers are dancing; after a severe plague epidemic, the coopers were the first to venture back onto the streets to cheer up the population with a dance. Since then, the Dance of the Munich Coopers takes place every seven years.

The carillon, with a total of 43 bells, is a main tourist attraction running daily at 11 and 12 o'clock, and also at 5 o'clock in the afternoon from March to October. [translated]

I also found this fitting comment on Wikipedia:

For historic technical reasons, carillons are often found on astronomical clocks or in connection with bell towers. [translated]

Who would deny that the Clock of God in Orion is an astronomical clock!?

The carillon of the Munich City Hall has some semblance to the worship scene in Revelation 4 (and later recurrences):

1. In the carillon, a scene is shown in honor of one or more high-ranking personalities.
2. The carillon presents a historical event as its theme (the royal wedding, and the end of the plague).
3. A carillon can have more than one event.
4. It depicts a happy event or an event that marks the end of a terrible time.
5. Various figures depict the event, and you can differentiate classes (knights, jesters, musicians, coopers).
6. Certain melodies or songs that are associated with the event are played over and over again.
7. The carillon only takes place at the fixed times appointed and follows a precise schedule.

We will find all of these elements over and over again in our study of the carillon of the Clock of God.

Now our task is to figure out how this divine carillon works, and find out when and why it plays and what message God wants to give us through it.

First, let's make a list of all occurrences of the divine carillon in Revelation:

Carillon	Verses of Revelation
1	And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever, The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created. (Revelation 4:9-11)
2	And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints. And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth. (Revelation 5:8-10)
3	And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; Saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever. And the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever. And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see. (Revelation 5:11-6:1)
4	After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; And cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb. And all the angels stood round about the throne, and about the elders and the four beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God, Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen. (Revelation 7:9-12)
5	And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God, Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned. And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldst give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldst destroy them which destroy the earth. (Revelation 11:15-18)
6	And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God: For true and righteous are his judgments: for he hath judged the great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hath avenged the blood of his servants at her hand. And again they said, Alleluia. And her smoke rose up for ever and ever. And the four and twenty elders and the four beasts fell down and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, Amen; Alleluia. (Revelation 19:1-4)

The door to the Most Holy Place opened before John (Rev. 4:1) and he was allowed to see the book with seven seals. That book, according to Ellen White, spans the entire history of mankind.

We ask John what he saw and heard in the vision at Patmos, and he answers: "And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon."

There in His open hand lay the book, the roll of the history of God's providences, the prophetic history of nations and the church. Herein was contained the divine utterances, His authority, His commandments, His laws, the whole symbolic counsel of the Eternal, and the history of all ruling powers in the nations. In symbolic language was contained in that roll the influence of every nation, tongue, and people from the beginning of earth's history to its close. {2MR197.1-2}

The carillon plays six times in front of him, and every time there is an important statement and some variations which we will now analyze. We must not be distracted either by the apostle's location in time in the vision, nor by the external circumstances in the vision. We need to focus on which historical event is spoken about in each carillon and what it stands for symbolically. Then, for each symbolic carillon that John was allowed to see and hear, we will know which cycle and star belong with it.

To say it in terms of the Munich City Hall: we do not care that the carillon sounds every day at 12 o'clock, but we want to know what event the carillon symbolizes. It was the wedding of Duke Wilhelm V with Renate of Lorraine in 1568 one time, and the other time it was the end of the terrible plague of 1515 to 1517.

1st Carillon: The Creation

And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever, The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created. (Revelation 4:9-11)

Although in the vision the apostle is located in 1844, the worshipers clearly name the reason for their worship: The Creation. It is somewhat difficult to judge from the text whether it is God the Father or the Son being honored here. But after all, it was the will of God the Father for everything to be created through the Son. Let's examine the other carillons, and then it will become clear that the reason for the solemn scene is always something great that Jesus did. The Lamb as such does not appear until Chapter 5, which will take us to His next great achievement.

Regardless, it does not matter for our analysis at the moment whether it is the Father or the Son or both being honored here, because the Creation was the decision of the whole Divine Council. It took place in order to create man, who was to replace the fallen one-third of the angelic hosts. This was a major event on the sixth day of creation, which was marked for all time in a carillon of Orion.

God created man for His own glory, that after test and trial the human family might become one with the heavenly family. It was God's purpose to re-populate heaven with the human family, if they would show themselves obedient to His every word. Adam was to be tested, to see whether he would be obedient, as the loyal angels, or disobedient. If he stood the test, his instruction to his children would have been only of loyalty. His mind and thoughts would have been as the mind and thoughts of God. He would have been taught by God as His husbandry and building. His character would have been moulded in accordance with the character of God (Letter 91, 1900). {IBC 1082.4}

We explained the beginning of the first 4032-year Great Orion Cycle in the article Christmas 2.0, and it all started with Saiph, the star of the white horse, which pointed to exactly October 27, 4037 B.C. (Julian date) as the Friday evening of the creation of the first Adam. Thereafter, the six millennia of human history began to run their course toward the second coming of Jesus. The biblical text speaks of the creation as a completed act in the past tense, which highlights the end of God's creative act shortly before sunset on Friday as the climax.

At that time in our study, we were wondering whether the Great Cycle began with the completion of the creation act or with the fall of Adam. The carillon now gives us the clear biblical proof that it was not the saddest event in the history of mankind, but a very happy one, which launched time-reckoning for this planet in the plan of salvation.

2nd Carillon: Jesus' First Advent and Crucifixion

And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints. And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth. (Revelation 5:8-10)

The star of the white horse of the completed Great Orion Cycle came around again after exactly 4032 years and pointed to the birth of the second Adam, who overcame wherein the first Adam had failed. The second major step in the plan of salvation had been reached. The Son of God became the man Jesus in the flesh and had entered upon His divinely appointed service here on earth. That service would finally lead to the justification and redemption of mankind, through His sacrifice which they accept in loving obedience.

We, the High Sabbath Adventists, even know the exact date of Jesus' incarnation, as we explained in the article Christmas 2.0. This major universal event took place on October 27 again, this time in the year 5 B.C., in perfect accordance with the 70-week plan that was shown to the prophet Daniel. Jesus was crucified and His blood was shed in the middle of last week on May 25, 31 A.D. Jesus was crucified and bought us with His blood, just as it says in the verses above.

It is a little bit difficult to accurately separate the two carillons of Revelation 5 because they happen so close together one after the other. One is at the handing-over of the book of seven seals, and the other is at the opening of the first seal, as we shall see in the next section.

In Chapter 5, there was the question of who was entitled to receive the book of seven seals from the hand of the Father and to open its seals. We know that Jesus went into the Most Holy Place in October of 1844, which was the second possible Day of Atonement. His Father had gone in one month earlier on the first possibility for the Day of Atonement. A vision of Ellen White tells us what happened:

Those who arose when Jesus did, kept their eyes fixed on Him as He left the throne and led them out a little way [\[the month between the first and second Yom Kippur 1844\]](#). Then He raised His right arm, and we heard His lovely voice saying, "Wait here; I am going to My Father to receive the kingdom; keep your garments spotless, and in a little while I will return from the wedding and receive you to Myself." Then a cloudy chariot, with wheels like flaming fire, surrounded by angels, came to where Jesus was. He stepped into the chariot and was borne to the holiest, where the Father sat. {EW 55.1}

The only One who was worthy to receive the book and the kingdom was Jesus, the Lamb that was slain. It all goes back to the central major event in the plan of redemption, and Saiph is the star which again points to it at the completion of the Great Orion Cycle. However, it is on the occasion of the celebration of the handing-over of the book that John sees a performance of this carillon in honor of Jesus' incarnation and crucifixion. We must not be fooled into connecting this carillon directly with 1844, because that's not the most important historical event that God draws attention to through this carillon.

We should also briefly ask the question of why in the Great Orion Cycle, Saiph does not point to the cross but to the incarnation of Jesus. On the vast scale of the Great Cycle, one might assume that it is because the 34 years of the Lord's life only cover one or two clock ticks. However, we can explain why it was not directly the cross that was chosen for the carillon (though of course it is mentioned). On one hand, we have repeatedly said that Jesus' incarnation and the associated loss of His divine powers—such as omnipresence—is almost an even greater sacrifice than the cross itself. On the other hand, we can see in the sequence of the carillons that they always mark joyful events. Although the crucifixion represents a joyous event in its redemptive effect, one still has mixed feelings as to whether one really wants to call it a "happy event". That is probably why God chose the incarnation of Jesus, and Ellen White confirmed that the Orion Clock does point to it:

So in heaven's council the hour for the coming of Christ had been determined. When the great clock of time pointed to that hour, Jesus was born in Bethlehem. {DA 32.1}

3rd Carillon: The Opening of the First Seal

And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; Saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever. And the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever. And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see. (Revelation 5:11-6:1)

We can associate the verses of Revelation 5:11-13 with the solemn entry of Jesus into the Most Holy Place (October 22, 1844). After that comes the handing over of the book with the seven seals, which took two earthly years. Then the new carillon in a sense marks the finalization of the solemn handover. In contrast to how the major historic event of Jesus' sacrifice (5 B.C. to 31 A.D.) was brought to our remembrance by the carillon's performance at the prelude of the Judgment Cycle (1844), we are now seeing a carillon which takes place at the time the prophet is located in his vision, and also represents that historical major event itself: the opening of the first seal.

Based on Adventist history, this took place in December of 1846 when the first Adventists—especially James and Ellen White—accepted the Sabbath truth. After all the soiling of the gospel and the ever-worsening apostasy of the churches, God finally had a pure church on earth again: the Seventh-day Adventist Church. It was to be the Lord's intended vessel to bear the three angels' messages. (Please note that the chapter and verse numbers in the Bible were added later, and that Revelation 6:1 should be read together with the previous verses of Revelation 5 in order to see clearly that the two carillons mark the beginning and end of the solemn ceremony of the handing-over of the book of seven seals.)

Which star points to this historic and wonderfully joyful event, the opening of the first seal? Again, it is none other than Saiph, the star of the White Horse and the Lion of Judah. Thus the beginning of the second Orion cycle for the judgment is especially acknowledged by a carillon in God's plan.

If we believe that we understand the scheme now and hope to find a carillon every time Saiph passes in each cycle, then we will be disappointed or surprised at the next carillon...

4th Carillon: The Completed Sealing of the 144,000

After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; And cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb. And all the angels stood round about the throne, and about the elders and the four beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God, Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen. (Revelation 7:9-12)*

To find out where we are in the flow of time, we should read the verses that precede this scene:

And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree. And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. And I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel. Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Nephtalim were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Issachar were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand. (Revelation 7:1-8)

The carillon comes after the 144,000 are completely sealed and also after the total number of martyrs (the great multitude of Revelation 7:9) has been reached to testify for God the Father. That is when they symbolically stand before the throne with their white robes of justification by faith.

The beginning of the intense phase of persecution in the fifth seal is shown in Orion with Saiph for autumn 2014. The prophet John is already at the end of that phase, so the carillon can't be a reference to that. Neither can it mean the beginning of the Trumpet Cycle on February 1, 2014, which of course also starts with Saiph, because the intense phase of the sealing of the 144,000 was just beginning with the first trumpet. We will have to think carefully about why we don't find carillons for those two Saiph passages.

Nevertheless, from our preliminary studies it is very easy to tell which day in human history the carillon of Revelation 7 sounds... it is October 17, 2015. It is the day when our Lord will cease His intercessory service and begin to change from His priestly robes to His royal ones. It is also the day on which the door of mercy for the rest of humanity will be closed. After that, no one except the 144,000 will reach the coming of Jesus and be saved. All of the martyrs will have finished giving their testimony by that time. We can be sure that Revelation 7 acknowledges this historic moment with a carillon.

Why is the closing of the door of mercy on mankind a joyous occasion for God? Because then the trial of the Father will finally be settled. The final battle for the souls of men will have been fought. Everyone will have made his decision and chosen one side or the other, and the only thing left will be the year of plagues during which nobody will change their decision or their side. God and the universe will have gained the greatest victory if—yes if—the 144,000 will really be found and sealed by that time.

Then, all the angels, the four living creatures and the elders can legitimately fall down like the great multitude mentioned beforehand:

Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen. (Revelation 7:12)

This expresses the clear victory of the Father against the prosecution of the adversary, Satan, in the conflict over His glory and power. All the angels are witnesses that created beings (the 144,000 and the martyrs), shall have accomplished their part in the plan of redemption. Yet, there is still one final work remaining... the 144,000 still have to go through the time of plagues without an intercessor, without sinning.

5th Carillon: The Beginning of the Time of Plagues

Just one week later, which for earthly time—and more so heavenly time—is only a moment, we are back to a passing of Saiph...

And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God, Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned. And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth. (Revelation 11:15-18)

In looking for the historical event that is referenced in this carillon, we mustn't be fooled by the first verse, which comes before the carillon. The first verse of this sequence, Revelation 11:15, is just one more confirmation of our view that the sounding of the seventh trumpet is about the fourth carillon that shows the victory of God the Father and the Son (His Anointed One). Satan's lie will be unmasked—that there would not be even 144,000 created beings who would acknowledge the authority of God out of love and would obey His righteous commandments. But at that time, the ultimate proof for the universe has yet to commence. The 144,000 must show their allegiance to the God of the universe by loving obedience not only in word, but also in deed, through the power of the Holy Spirit who will lead them through this great time of tribulation with 372 daily rations.

At the conclusion of the Trumpet Cycle on October 17, 2015, Satan will have lost the case and thus his power over the earth will finally be taken from him. On October 24, 2015, Jesus Christ will be wearing His kingly robe. On that day, the twenty four elders will be fully justified in saying that "Thou hast taken to Thee Thy great power, and hast reigned." Whether they believe it or not, everyone will see that confirmed on October 25, 2015 when the gamma-ray burst of the first plague falls upon the unrepentant.

The following verse summarizes all of the events that will occur just before and during the Plague Cycle:

And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth. (Revelation 11:18)

When will the nations be angry? The four winds of the Third World War will be loosed in the sixth trumpet. That is being visibly announced in all of the preceding trumpets too, but so far it has been ignored by most. At that time, the winds of the sixth trumpet will no longer be held, and thus the nations will be angry and will fight each other.

The wrath of God will come right at the first crossing of Saiph in the Plague Cycle. The plea of the martyrs under the altar of the fifth seal will then be fulfilled, and recompense will be given to those who do not repent. Those who will have destroyed the earth with their wars (presumably with nuclear weapons) will now receive their judgment from Betelgeuse and the seven plague angels. The reward for the faithful of God will come at the end of the year of plagues. We learn all of this from God's wonderful and joyful carillon at the beginning of the year of plagues. The period of uncertainty will then be over, and the restrictions that the trial has placed on God will be lifted. God will finally be able to take care of His people with all His power without any further regard to Satan's accusations. Those who have suffered a Job experience like we have, and have gone through the experience of Ezekiel when he was bearing the sins of God's people (Ezekiel 4)—those who for years have had to endure the ridicule, indifference and rejection of their own brethren while giving these last messages of God's grace—those are the ones who can estimate the joy with which the plague year will begin for all who will then see the confirmation of their true great hope of the glorious appearing of the Lord.

6th Carillon: The End of the Time of Plagues

And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God: For true and righteous are his judgments: for he hath judged the great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hath avenged the blood of his servants at her hand. And again they said, Alleluia. And her smoke rose up for ever and ever. And the four and twenty elders and the four beasts fell down and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, Amen; Alleluia. (Revelation 19:1-4)

The date of the destruction of the great whore's New World Order is already marked on our overview diagram of the timelines of Daniel. The following will happen on September 24, 2016, exactly 30 days before the coming of our Lord:

And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done. And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great. And the great city [the New World Order] was divided into three parts [the alliance of the dragon, the false prophet and the beast breaks apart], and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath [the judgment of the great whore of the carillon of Revelation 19]. And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found. And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great [people still blaspheme despite all the seven plagues, because there are still 30 days left till Jesus' coming]. (Revelation 16:17-21)

The blood of the servants of the Lord will be avenged, and the souls under the altar will only have one month to "wait" till their resurrection. We find ourselves back at the star Saiph. The Lion of Judah, the King of kings, will have justly executed His vengeance as His righteous ones had pleaded of Him. He will have reversed the process of creation for those who did not want to live forever in His kingdom of love and justice. He will have replaced all the gracious trumpet warnings with merciless punishments. It is done! The Plague Cycle has ended, but despite all the joy for it in heaven and among the righteous, there are still none among the unjust living who will give glory to God. Less than 30 days remain until what is written in Revelation 3:9 comes to pass:

Then it was that the synagogue of Satan knew that God had loved us who could wash one another's feet and salute the brethren with a holy kiss, and they worshiped at our feet. Soon our eyes were drawn to the east, for a small black cloud had appeared, about half as large as a man's hand, which we all knew was the sign of the Son of man. {EW 15.1}

The Missing Carillons

With four Orion cycles and thus four rounds of the clock, we passed the star of the white horse, Saiph, a total of eight times. However, we "only" found six carillons. There must be a reason why! The missing carillons at Saiph passages are:

1. Autumn of 2014, in the Judgment Cycle
2. January 31/February 1, 2014, at the beginning of the Trumpet Cycle

If we want complete harmony in our interpretation, we need to understand why there are no carillons during these two Saiph passages.

What will happen in autumn of 2014? We will come to the star of the white horse in the Judgment Cycle, and thus the "hot" phase of the fifth seal will finally begin:

And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (Revelation 6:9-11)

Again and again I want to emphasize that this fifth seal consists of two phases. In the first phase, the “souls under the altar” complain that God obviously has too much patience with the earth’s inhabitants. With impatience and a tone of reproach they direct their urgent plea for vengeance to God... “How long...dost thou not judge and avenge?” Isn’t this the same language that we use while impatiently waiting for the great visible events like the fireballs and the Sunday Law? The fifth seal began to open in 2010 with the Orion Message and we were expecting the persecution already for 2012 at the beginning of the judgment of the living. But then we still had to wait out a whole year of grace until the big moves in the Vatican took place. There was the sensational papal resignation, the election of the first Jesuit pope and the establishment of his generals world-wide—all of which we predicted to the day. But after all that, it got a little quieter again for the Adventist people, who are only eager for the Sunday Law. Apparently there is nothing else that can awaken them from their “Sleeping Beauty” slumber.

The beginning of the Trumpet Cycle promised greater events. There was Russia’s burning of the green grass of Crimea and its falling like a burning mountain into the sea of the peoples of Europe in the eastern Ukraine, but not even that could deter the scoffers from further mocking God and us. They still recklessly declare that everything is null and void and out of harmony with the prophetic texts. In the last part of this article series, I will show how wrong they are and that it was even prophesied that the warnings would be enriched with so much grace that the doubters would have enough to feed their doubts.

Then comes Jesus’ promise in the above Bible passage that a phase of killing and persecution will come, and then the number of desperately waiting souls under the altar will be made up. The small two-and-a-half-year period of peace between spring 2012 and autumn 2014 will then be over. Woe unto all those who have neither understood the text nor recognized that the Judgment Cycle of Orion has always pointed to the autumn of 2014 in the northern hemisphere. Although there have now been three versions of the Orion presentation, each embellished with our growing knowledge, the year dates and the original reading of the great clock of time has never changed. Since January 2010, every reader could see with his own eyes the only future year date that is marked on the dial of the Judgment Cycle of the Orion Clock: 2014. Saiph points to this current year, specifically the Day of Atonement.

Unfortunately, it is in no way a joyous event that must take place now. There is only a very small part of the Adventist church which is purified and approved by God. The vast majority of the workers of the 11th hour have not been found yet, and they even have to come from other denominations outside the Adventist Church since it is so apostate that among its 18 million members, not even 144,000 can be found as witnesses for God the Father.

These circumstances alone are enough for us to understand why no happy carillon is ringing at this time. The situation that we are experiencing here on the front lines in Paraguay is also more than startling and sobering. We are in the phase of Elijah, who desperately asked God:

And he [Elijah] said, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hosts: because the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away. (1 Kings 19:14)

And God answered him:

Yet I have left me seven thousand [the 144,000] in Israel [in the Christian churches], all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kissed him. (1 Kings 19:18)

We do not see the 144,000! Our number is small, and it seems that the little true church of God will fall or perish. And yet our confidence in the promises of God still transcends any doubt. This is the motivation and driving force to continue and not let our love for the brethren cool down. We aren't leaving them in ignorance and darkness without passing on our knowledge to them, which has been daily extended by the Holy Spirit, whether they want to hear it or not. With each new publication—be it on our website or on Facebook—we are accused of hate speech, scare tactics, fear-mongering and being unloving, even though the love of God is in fact what drives us to continue to warn the brethren and wipe their spit from our faces.

Thus both Saiph passages take place at the times of highest tension in the Supreme Court of the Judgment in Heaven as well as under the sweat of Gethsemane for the few witnesses for God the Father that have been found so far. We call this time the judgment of the living, because living people now have to rise from the apostate majority as the last generation.

The Bible even refers to the judgment of the living phase as the silence in heaven during the opening of the seventh seal. We have shown in the first part of this article series that the silence covers the period of 1260 days or 3½ years, spanning from May 6, 2012 to October 17, 2015. The two Saiph passages where no carillon sounds fall right in this extremely strenuous period. The whole universe desires with bated breath to know whether enough witnesses can be found for the Father for Him to will win the case. It is no wonder that there is no carillon then, in order not to interrupt this silence in heaven. The absence of these carillons ultimately provides even more proof that we were led by the Holy Spirit in our interpretation; it is He who “will shew you things to come.” (John 16:13)

The White Horse and the Cleansing

We have now found the milestones of God's salvation plan for the universe in the Clock of God in Orion. Whenever we come to the Star of the White Horse in a cycle, we are witnessing a historical event that represents a new turn in the great plan to liberate the universe from sin. The following table summarizes all of these milestones once again:

Carillon	Cycle	Saiph Pass	Date	Cleansing Event
1	Great Orion Cycle	1	October 27, 4037 B.C.	Humanity is created to replace the fallen angels in heaven. The first Adam would fall, but the second Adam together with the last generation will develop the anti-serum against sin in the universe. A cleansed human race will one day replace the unclean angels.
2	Great Orion Cycle	2	October 27, 5 B.C.	Jesus Christ, the second Adam, becomes human to die on the cross for the sins of mankind. His life and readiness to sacrifice will be the model for the last generation. Justification by faith received its foundation. Where the first Adam had become unclean, Jesus lived a pure life.
3	Judgment Cycle	1	December, 1846	There is a purified church on earth, which has also accepted the Sabbath truth. The opening of the seven seals has commenced as has the investigative judgment, and the last generation is being developed to stand through the year of plagues without intercession. God cleanses a nation to be kings and priests.
none	Trumpet Cycle	1	February 1, 2014	The light of the Fourth Angel is completely given in the revealing of the trumpet and plague cycles. The authority to prophesy these last cycles in the name of God comes to Paraguay. Meanwhile, the last great battle prior to the Millennium begins against the army of Satan.

none	Judgment Cycle	2	Autumn of 2014	This is the last major cleansing step in the investigative judgment. Beginning of the "hot" phase of the fifth seal and beginning of the disasters that will lead to the Sunday Law. The wheat will be separated from the tares under difficult circumstances.
4	Trumpet Cycle	2	October 17, 2015	The last martyr has died, and all 144,000 are sealed. Now God really has a cleansed people on earth—the last generation—who will give their testimony and can now stand the last test without Intercessor through the time of plagues.
5	Plague Cycle	1	October 25, 2015	The earth has been released from Satan's claim to power, and now the Lord Jesus has the full right to be Lord of the earth also. Now His punishments can come. The false Christ, who already walks the earth, can do nothing against the cleansing plagues. The gamma-ray burst of Betelgeuse represents the true cleansing fire that William Miller believed he had found at the end of the 2300-day prophecy.
6	Plague Cycle	2	September 24, 2016	The earth will be cleansed of the New World Order and the Great Whore. This paves the way for Jesus' second coming. The world empires have crumbled and the cities of the heathen are destroyed. On the symbolic heights of the holy Mt. Zion, God's last generation are waiting for deliverance from the hand of their enemies and for the resurrection of their friends and families at the second coming of Jesus 30 days later.

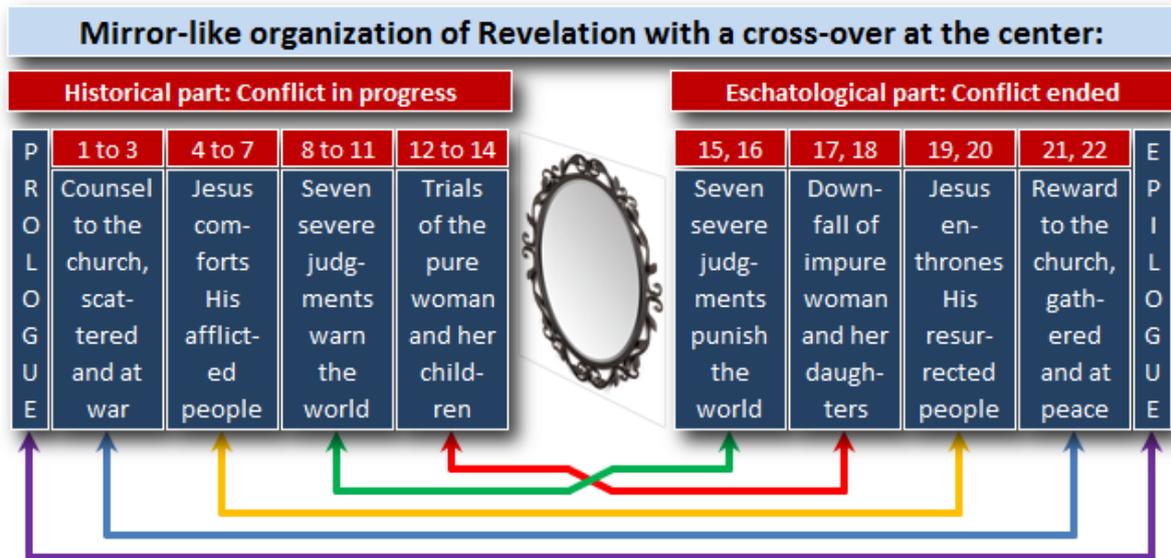

The Climax of the Great Conflict

Anyone who has been paying attention would have already discovered the unusual twist in the middle of the cycle. The Trumpet Cycle begins on February 1, 2014, before the Judgment Cycle reaches Saiph in autumn of the same year. Diligent students of prophecy are familiar with this twist already because the mirror-image structure makes up the whole book of Revelation (as well as many other prophetic books).

In his German essay about the literary structure of the book of Revelation, Rolf J. Poehler from Friedensau Adventist University writes:

That the Apocalypse is an inseparable and interlocking unit is clear not only through its symmetrical pattern, but in addition, its individual parts are also connected together in an interlocking chiasmic pattern. Anyone who has ever tried to cleanly delineate the main sections of the book from each other, however, is hit with how reluctant the book is to be decomposed that way into its component parts. A rethinking is needed, which is radical to the analytical occidental mind: instead of isolating the individual vision cycles and separating them from one another, it is important to recognize how they mutually interlock and what significance that has for the interpretation. [translated]

A pictorial representation of the structure of Revelation's chapters clearly illustrates what the author says:

Now let us compare the structure of the historical events which the heavenly carillon points to. The prologue is the war in heaven and the casting out of one third of the angels to the earth. It corresponds to the epilogue of the millennium and the subsequent end of all sin in the universe. That is the great framework of God's salvation plan for the universe, from the first appearance of sin up to its utter and eternal extinction.

One can see at a glance that both diagrams have exactly the same basic structure of the interlocking chiasm. This is amazing when you consider that without the Orion cycles, it would never have been possible to discover the two carillons that are "hidden" during the period of silence in heaven.

We will find something else through the Orion cycles in the article about The Secret of Ezekiel. That biblical connection will give us specific information about the events in the Trumpet Cycle that no one could have seen before. Thus the book of seven seals that Jesus wrote in the heavens proves itself once again to be a valuable addition to the books of the Bible, and the Bible itself points to its existence and asks us to eat it (Ezekiel 2:9-3:3). Whoever denies the existence of this book denies not only Ellen White who confirmed it, but also denies the Bible. It is a bogus argument of many (apostate) Protestants to withdraw to "sola scriptura" in such cases to deny the importance or existence of extra-biblical books in the interpretation of prophecy, when the Bible itself requires it.

For example, Paul tells us:

Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation. (Romans 13:1-2)

How do I know what the authorities require if I do not know my country's laws? And where are the laws written? In the respective law books. If I deny their existence and I withdraw to "sola scriptura," then I cannot obey the authorities as the Bible requires, because every extra-biblical book would be non-existent or unimportant for me. Do you understand what I mean? How much worse do we behave when we deny the existence of holy heavenly books that Jesus Himself has pointed to?

By directly comparing the two sides of the interlocking chiasmic structure of the carillons according to how they are revealed in the heavenly book of seven seals, we can discover even more beautiful harmonies that to this day have been hidden from human eyes:

From Creation of Mankind to Repopulation of Heaven

vs.

The Seventh Plague destroys man's New World Order

The purpose of the creation of mankind was clearly shown in this article with a quote from Ellen White. 6,000 years of sin were to elapse on this planet until God had cleansed the full number of His "kings and priests". These were to replace the rebels in heaven, who long ago had risen against God and had declared His orders unjust. These rebels found their followers on earth in people ranging from the builders of the Tower of Babel all the way to the string-pullers of the New World Order, who want to set up Satan's world dominion. But (hopefully) God the Father will win the case against the rebels and their leader, and thereby gain the right to destroy the kingdom of the accuser forever with the plagues. The seventh plague finishes this destruction of Satan's world empire.

Jesus Christ's First Coming and Crucifixion

vs.

The first plague falls to punish those who do not belong to Jesus

One level higher in the chiasm, the largest and most beautiful moment in the plan of salvation is compared with the most miserable and saddest. God gave His only begotten Son out of love for the people, so that all who would love and accept Him would receive eternal life. But the vast majority of people living on the planet today will fail the big test. In other words, they will have condemned themselves to eternal death because they denied the voice that spoke from heaven and did not want to accept the gift of life. All of them—without exception—will suffer the first death in the plagues at the latest, and after the millennium the second death. Those who transgress the Sabbath of the Lord and accept the mark of the beast, Sunday observance, will even get an especially nasty plague that will make their transgression of God's commandments a visible mark on their own body. As Jesus was presented on the cross flayed and disfigured to the gaping crowd, so now God presents to humanity the consequence of rejecting His grace.

Jesus Christ opens the first seal in the Judgment

vs.

The fifth seal opens completely for the work of the witnesses

The opening of the first seal was done by the rider on the white horse; Jesus Christ Himself founded the Seventh-day Adventist church on earth. When they accepted the Sabbath truth, there was once again a small group of people on earth who could truly be described as God's people. For 168 years until the end of the judgment of the dead, they had the responsibility to warn the people not to accept the mark of the beast. The third angel's message was to prepare the people to be witnesses for God the Father and to strengthen and arm them for the last great battle in the judgment of the living. In the "hot" phase of the fifth seal, this group of people consisting of martyrs and the 144,000 will have to prove whether they will stay faithful to God under persecution and death threats. The crossover which we know from the basic structure of Revelation now represents both Saiph passages of the Judgment Cycle as being in perfect relation. Such harmony is found in the carillons, warning us from heaven to stay faithful to God in all circumstances!

First Trumpet: the beginning of the Sealing of the 144,000

vs.

Seventh Trumpet: the end of the Sealing of the 144,000

On January 31/February 1, 2014 the fourth angel of Revelation 18 came down with power, and through him we could recognize the Trumpet and Plague Cycles. We will show in more detail in a later article that the sealing time of the 144,000 began. That is shown in Ezekiel 9 by the man with the writer's inkhorn. During this time—at least until the sixth trumpet—the four winds are still being held so that the sealing of the 144,000 can be completed. It will be finished when all the 144,000 witnesses for God the Father can be fully presented before the Supreme Judge of the universe, and He can quit His intercessory service in the Most Holy Place at the sounding of the seventh trumpet and issue His judgment in favor of God the Father. Then the world empires will belong to our Lord. Again the Saiph crossings of the Trumpet Cycle match, like the Saiph crossings of the Judgment Cycle, and are put together harmoniously by the apocalyptic crossover structure.

Chiasmus—the literary device—does not reflect our usual way of reading a book, wherein the climax is usually reached at the end of the work. The chiasm is built up in layers like a pyramid, and the top of the pyramid represents the culmination of the entire work. The carillons span the entire history of humanity from the creation of Adam till the end of the plagues; thus through the vision that He gave John, Jesus Himself explains to us which events count as the heart of the plan of salvation for God and the universe. They are the two carillons in the center of the chiasm, which are inaudible because of the silence in heaven: The time of the sealing of the 144,000 and the time of the testimony of the martyrs and other persecuted ones under the Sunday Laws. Both events run almost parallel with a time difference of only eight months within the last 624 days of the judgment of the living. The sealing of the 144,000 began on February 1, 2014, while the persecution won't begin until autumn of 2014. Until then, there will still be mercy and time for study and character preparation.

The climax of the Great Controversy is the great battle which is now in progress between those who have made their covenant with Satan (13 + 13) and those who have made their covenant with the King of kings (12 + 12). What I pointed out in the first part of this series is now confirmed biblically and definitively: it is not the Battle of Armageddon that is the peak of the conflict between good and evil, but rather our present time of spiritual warfare against evil forces (and unfortunately also against affected brethren).

The true ultimate climax of the Great Controversy thus depends upon created beings—namely, we humans. Heaven is silently observing whether or not we will manage to do the greater works which Jesus prophesied of us. Will we prove ourselves worthy of Our High Calling?

Yet again... The Divine Trio

If we consider the "audible" carillons alone and exclude the "hidden" ones for a moment, we can see that God presents the work of the Divine Trio again in the form of a structure with two triplets.

The first three carillons are indicative of creative acts in the history of the plan of salvation for the universe:

1. The birth of mankind (4037 B.C.) by decision of God the Father
2. The birth or incarnation of Jesus Christ (5 B.C.) as His voluntary sacrifice
3. The birth of the purified church (1846) through the work of the Holy Spirit

The last three “audible” carillons stand in the chiasm as the completing acts. Everything that was started in the first three carillons is finished in the last three.

4. On October 17, 2015, at the sounding of the seventh trumpet the Holy Spirit will pour out the 372 daily rations for the 144,000 for the time of plagues. The last generation to emerge from the Advent faith (not the organization) will then be ready for its final test.
5. On October 25, 2015, Jesus Christ, dressed in royal robes, commands the plagues to begin. The punishment will start for His enemies who rejected Him and His sacrifice.
6. On September 24, 2016, God the Father will declare that the plan of redemption on earth has been accomplished because mankind can now fulfill its original purpose: “And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done.” (Revelation 16:17) Thus Jesus receives the right to take His people from the earth, and to populate heaven anew... Now, His Second Coming can happen.

I don't want to end this article without pointing out how few among the whole of humanity are truly entering through the strait gate. This should make all of us feel sad, because the Divine Trio has really done everything possible to give every single one of them a golden opportunity for eternal life. It is up to us to strive to achieve the perfection of God's character and to want to live a sinless life in all holiness. God will fulfill for us the rest as He promised in Philippians 2:13.

Each reader should ask himself whether he really belongs to this group and heeds the counsel of the Spirit of Prophecy:

Let us strive with all the power that God has given us to be among the hundred and forty-four thousand (The Review and Herald, March 9, 1905). {7BC 970.10}

If so, you would also recognize all three aspects from the three parts of the seal of the 144,000, as Revelation 3:12 describes it:

*Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name. (Revelation 3:12)

Examine yourselves!

It is not His will that they [God's people] shall get into controversy over questions which will not help them spiritually, such as, Who is to compose the hundred and forty-four thousand? This those who are the elect of God will in a short time know without question.—Selected Messages 1:174 (1901). {LDE 269.1}

If we are to strive to be among the 144,000, do you think that it would be a good motivation to strive because we do not want to see death? What does it mean to really take on the character of Jesus? What was Jesus willing to give up for the universe, so that all created beings could continue to live in it? Ask the brethren in the Adventist churches (or other Christian denominations) what they would give up so that beings which they have never before seen or known can live! What would they be willing to give up so their Friend and Brother, Jesus—who died for them—can win the victory and His Father can be justified? Do you know why Jesus said the following, or do you still need more milk because you cannot bear these things?

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it. (Matthew 16:25)

Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. (John 15:13)

And since I know how most of you think, I ask one more shocking question here at the end of this article: Do you believe that Jesus was speaking of the first physical death with hope of resurrection, or the second death which means to cease to exist for eternity?

Trumpets with a Certain Sound

Written by John Scotram

Published: Thursday, June 12, 2014, 7:30 pm

Originally published on Thursday, June 5, 2014, 4:48 pm in German at www.letztercountdown.org

We are approaching by leaps and bounds the end of the waiting time, when the events will come that Adventists see as the only valid signs of the Lord's soon return. In the Sabbath Schools and worship services of Adventism, so little is taught these days of the things that once constituted our identity as a people that it is almost a miracle that some church members at least still know that a Sunday Law is coming someday, and that a few have even heard of a "false Christ" once upon a time. The opinions as to what we should do before or when the Sunday Law really comes, however, differ widely. Discussions often end nowhere or in pure conflict. Furthermore, most professing Adventists confuse the antichrist (the papacy) with the false Christ (Satan, who will come as an angel of light to imitate Jesus' second coming) and put both into the same basket.

No, it's no "wonder" that everything is confounded, and Babylonian confusion reigns. That is the work of the infiltrating Jesuits in our ranks and their henchmen, especially in leadership. Ecumenism requires the forgetting of the truth that the first beast of Revelation is the papacy and thus the antichrist. What the reformers still knew 500 years ago has gone into oblivion in the Adventist Church, as it did in the other churches since 1844. Ever since the pope sent his smart-phone message to the charismatics, they march to Rome together toward their condemnation, which is the second death of eternal non-existence.

I saw the rapidity with which this delusion was spreading. A train of cars was shown me, going with the speed of lightning. The angel bade me look carefully. I fixed my eyes upon the train. It seemed that the whole world was on board, that there could not be one left. Said the angel, "They are binding in bundles ready to burn." Then he showed me the conductor, who appeared like a stately, fair person, whom all the passengers looked up to and revered. I was perplexed and asked my attending angel who it was. He said, "It is Satan. He is the conductor in the form of an angel of light. He has taken the world captive. They are given over to strong delusions, to believe a lie, that they may be damned. This agent, the next highest in order to him, is the engineer, and other of his agents are employed in different offices as he may need them, and they are all going with lightning speed to perdition." {EW 88.2}

The time has come to separate the tares from the wheat, and there is still hope for the little flock of martyrs and the 144,000 to continue on their way to the kingdom of heaven. Let's continue reading attentively:

I asked the angel if there were none left. He bade me look in an opposite direction, and I saw a little company traveling a narrow pathway. All seemed to be firmly united, bound together by the truth, in bundles, or companies. Said the angel, "The third angel is binding, or sealing, them in bundles for the heavenly garner." This little company looked careworn, as if they had passed through severe trials and conflicts. And it appeared as if the sun had just risen from behind a cloud and shone upon their countenances, causing them to look triumphant, as if their victories were nearly won. {EW 88.3}

While the martyrs and the 144,000 heed the warning of the third angel to keep the Sabbath of the Lord under persecution, the Holy Spirit in the form of the Fourth Angel will light up their small groups. The Representative of the Sun of Righteousness will lead the faithful to victory. The faithful are connected and united by the truth—and not by the General Conference.

The Last Solemn Warning

The trumpets are God's last warnings to those who didn't want to hear the ones that He wrote in Orion and the Vessel of Time, which we've preached. We ricocheted off of the hard-heartedness of the brethren, as did the wounds of our bleeding Jesus in Orion. Because of that, the Lord has now shown that the end has come. This last appeal in the final battle for innocent life in the universe must not be allowed to die away unheard! The 144,000 must be found, otherwise everything is lost whether they believe the messages of God or not. What Ellen White described here must happen...

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound everywhere, "Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning, proclaiming the fall of Babylon and calling upon God's people to come out of her that they might escape her fearful doom.

The light that was shed upon the waiting ones penetrated everywhere, and those in the churches who had any light, who had not heard and rejected the three messages, obeyed the call and left the fallen churches. Many had come to years of accountability since these messages had been given, and the light shone upon them, and they were privileged to choose life or death. Some chose life and took their stand with those who were looking for their Lord and keeping all His commandments. The third message was to do its work; all were to be tested upon it, and the precious ones were to be called out from the religious bodies. A compelling power moved the honest, while the manifestation of the power of God brought a fear and restraint upon their unbelieving relatives and friends so that they dared not, neither had they the power to, hinder those who felt the work of the Spirit of God upon them. The last call was carried even to the poor slaves, and the pious among them poured forth their songs of rapturous joy at the prospect of their happy deliverance. Their masters could not check them; fear and astonishment kept them silent. Mighty miracles were wrought, the sick were healed, and signs and wonders followed the believers. God was in the work, and every saint, fearless of consequences, followed the convictions of his own conscience and united with those who were keeping all the commandments of God; and with power they sounded abroad the third message. I saw that this message will close with power and strength far exceeding the midnight cry.

Servants of God, endowed with power from on high with their faces lighted up, and shining with holy consecration, went forth to proclaim the message from heaven. Souls that were scattered all through the religious bodies answered to the call, and the precious were hurried out of the doomed churches, as Lot was hurried out of Sodom before her destruction. God's people were strengthened by the excellent glory which rested upon them in rich abundance and prepared them to endure the hour of temptation. I heard everywhere a multitude of voices saying, "Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus." {EW 277.2-278.2}

The questions, however, press ever more urgently... When will these things finally start? How can it be that the Trumpet Cycle has already started and still nothing outstanding has happened that would cause a great awakening throughout the ranks of Adventism or rather God's faithful people?

As of the writing of this article, we are already well into the first half of the second trumpet, and we get e-mails with these or similar questions—some mocking and some serious—from friends and enemies alike. Although the questions are justified, I have to say that apparently no one takes the trouble to sit down once in a while to study to find the answers for themselves. This is exactly what should be expected of one of the 144,000 because according to the Spirit of Prophecy all of them will soon have to stand alone. If they still aren't able to draw counsel and comfort from God's word, then woe to the universe and to God Himself. The only thing that people want is just proof that everything is right—or wrong—as it is published here on our website. Our brethren don't realize that they are pushing us into the corner of "kingly power" again, and we do not want to be forced into that in any way. Having to stand in the corner to defend our own studies is a thankless position, and it is not helpful—neither for the work of God nor for the cleansing and reformation of the church.

I already said in my January 31, 2014 sermon that the topic of the trumpets and plagues will certainly need great deal of follow-up study. First we have to do the studies, and then publish them too. This takes time, and since my health is under attack with arthrosis in the hip, everything takes a little longer than planned. Maybe Jesus allowed for this time so that His message's critics and followers could take the initiative themselves for once. What has come out so far is—to say it simply... hot air, zero, nothing, just mental black holes. No constructive criticism came, besides "Hey, you... What about your pitiful trumpets now!" No one could argue against what I said about the trumpet cycle either.

In fact, some "things" did happen which can be connected with the Bible texts. Even the critics recognize that (except for the pesky barking fleas that we always have in our neck, who only ask hypocritically whether "something" happened).

Those who follow us on Facebook have a good idea of what things our attention is focused on. The events surrounding the Crimea and eastern Ukraine are at the center of interest, because we know that the trumpets have usually represented wars or unrest, so they probably do again. Russia's annexation of Crimea took place during the time of the first trumpet, while the first deaths in eastern Ukraine—and thus the beginning of the crisis there—fell on the exact day that the second trumpet started: April 12, 2014. We recognized that literal disasters happen at the exact times predicted, like the volcanic eruption of Mt. Sinabung on the first day of the first trumpet, February 1, 2014. Then there are events in the churches and in the Vatican, like the pope's message to Kenneth Copeland or the canonization of two popes in unprecedented 3D on the anniversary of the gamma-ray burst of April 27, 2013. The Adventist Church is another venue, peppered with unprecedented events that generally contribute to the acceleration of its apostasy, although it would be more accurate to call it free-fall now. Furthermore, we need to pay attention to things that could have happened, but are apparently still held in check. Those are actually the most interesting events, because... well, let's save that topic for a little later in this article.

These things have even roused a few sleeping leaders. Anyone who still wonders if anything happened at all probably won't recognize the plagues even when his skin hangs in shreds and the only thing around him is smoldering ruins waiting to be washed away by lava flows while the sonic boom of meteors rips his eardrums.

But where are the fireballs? Where is the Sunday Law? Where is the false Christ?

Please, let's proceed systematically! Okay? I promise you that there will be answers, and we will not hold back (we never have, even at the risk of making fools of ourselves if we turn out to be wrong).

A Lesson in Astronomy

Not even 16 hours before my January 31, 2014 sermon, I received the rest of the light of the fourth angel, and thus the knowledge that the trumpet and plague cycles of Orion exist. I had just enough time to take a rough look at which days the clock hands (seven per cycle) point to. There was no time to even think about making an exact determination of the dates, and I did not even know if that would be necessary. After the sermon, we began to study it in the forum. We realized after a while that the original resolution of 168 units—which was absolutely correct for the 168 years of the Judgment Cycle—was not sufficient for these cycles. God was now prophesying exact dates to the day. Therefore, the Trumpet Cycle has a much higher resolution than the Judgment Cycle. It has 624 units or days. Even the Plague Cycle has a resolution of 336 days.

Back in 2010, I just drew the hands of the Orion clock on my Orion photo and held the sheet of paper over another sheet that had the 24-hour clock wheel of the elders, and put it in front of a sunny window. That was in line with my abilities as a simple Bible student and computer/IT professional, and it was exact and precise at that resolution. I'm not even an amateur astronomer, much less a mathematician or physicist who could make strict astronomical angle calculations and the like. Nevertheless, God probably had all this meticulously planned, because today we actually have men in our ranks who have these skills, and they have helped us to do an exact calculation of the dates that God shows in the two new cycles.

I still believe that it is a good thing for a candidate of the 144,000 to have calculated lunar visibility with Accurate Times to understand the basis of God's true calendar, but I don't think it's necessary to understand these rather complex angle calculations. I am first to admit that it is too high for me. But for the critics, for those who are particularly interested, and for savvy readers, I add a complete tutorial on our methods and calculations in the form of an explanatory spreadsheet that you can download.

Regardless, the following table of the results should suffice for the normal reader:

Trumpet	Starts	Plague	Starts
1	Sabbath, February 1, 2014	1	Sunday, October 25, 2015
2	Sabbath, April 12, 2014 - Sabbath, April 19, 2014	2	Wednesday, December 2, 2015 - Sabbath, December 5, 2015

We always give two dates for the throne lines (2nd and 5th trumpets and 2nd and 5th plagues) because of the special nature of those clock hands, which point to a small time range, but so there is no misunderstanding, I emphasize that this range is the beginning of the respective trumpet or plague, and not its entire duration.

I should also note that we believe both the trumpets and the plagues to be cumulative; when a new trumpet or a new plague starts, the previous ones do not necessarily stop. This is beautifully evident in the Bible texts for the plagues, because the first plague is still there even after the fifth has begun:

And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast; and his kingdom was full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues for pain, And blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, [of the first plague] and repented not of their deeds. (Revelation 16:10-11)

I won't hide the fact that we always have a bit of an interpretation problem with the last day of each cycle. It's not always obvious whether it points to the 624th or 336th day, respectively, or the day after. Interestingly, both cycles end on a Sabbath when using inclusive Jewish reckoning. In the seventh trumpet, there is a carillon in heaven and a declaration is made that Jesus has regained authority over the kingdoms of the world. A door in the temple is also opened (Revelation 11:19), suggesting that Jesus is ending the intercessory service and leaving the Most Holy Place. Doesn't it make more sense for it to end on a Sabbath instead of on a Sunday? In any case, reality will soon teach us how it should be understood. Despite having day dates, we should avoid becoming bean counters lest we end up asking what time zone to expect these days in!

What will happen in the future trumpets?

This is certainly a question that many have—as do we ourselves—but we can get burned if we try too hard. Therefore, let me start by saying that this is a possible interpretation which hasn't been confirmed by any dreams or direct revelations from God as of yet.

We know that some events have to be in future trumpets and before the plagues. Two trumpets have already begun; events remain for each of the yet-future trumpets in the sequence.

3. The great catastrophe (fireballs), which is the motivation for the people to demand the Sunday Law.
4. The introduction of the national Sunday Law in the U.S.
5. The coming of the false Christ.
6. The Third World War or loosing of the four winds.
7. The close of probation for mankind.

All we can say with certainty is that the sounding of the seventh trumpet on October 17, 2015 represents the end of the time of grace when the “door of Noah's ark” will be closed, but it is tempting to assume that the sequence of events could unfold like that. It goes without saying that we don't know if those events will fall exactly on the beginning day of the respective trumpet, or somewhere later in the period but still before the next trumpet begins. The first two trumpets have taught us that an event corresponding to the Bible text does in fact happen on the very day that a trumpet begins. Let's examine those two trumpets more closely now, because we should learn of the future from events of the past...

Hail and fire mingled with blood

The Bible describes the first trumpet as follows:

The first angel sounded, and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up. (Revelation 8:7)

The eruption of the Indonesian volcano Mt. Sinabung happened on February 1, 2014, with 16 deaths, which corresponds very well with the following part of the first trumpet Bible text: “hail and fire mingled with blood.” Note that Mt. Sinabung has erupted several times in recent years, but in a span of four years it was only on February 1 of this year that deaths were directly attributed to a volcanic eruption!

What should we do with the next part of the verse: “and they were cast upon the earth, and the third part...was burnt up”? In my January 31 sermon, I had assumed that the “earth” represented today’s “densely populated” United States in contrast to the symbolic “desert” that stood for uninhabited North America, where the persecuted Protestants fled from the papacy a few hundred years earlier (see Revelation 12:6,14). Furthermore, the “earth” is used in Revelation 12:15 as a symbol for the United States. Anyone who doesn’t know these things should immediately take a prophecy course (e.g. with Cyberspace Ministry) or read the book Daniel and the Revelation by Uriah Smith, which Ellen White held up as the standard textbook for our interpretation of prophecy.

So, how can it be that the volcanic eruption that started right on schedule on the first day of the first trumpet took place not in the United States, but in Sumatra? How can the text in Revelation say that one third of the earth or the United States would be burned, when nothing like that really happened in the core time of the first trumpet?

Dear friends, there was something exactly on February 1, 2014 that could correspond to precisely this scenario! Yellowstone National Park is really nothing more than the crater of a huge volcano. There it seethes and rumbles through thousands of geysers, some small and some large, all for the benefit of tourists. Sulfur fumes and spectacular water fountains make sure that you do not forget that when you are there, you are walking on the surface of a super volcano. A super volcano is a volcano so large that its eruption would have consequences globally, up to the total annihilation of mankind. In contrast to normal volcanoes with mountain-top craters measuring only a few hundred meters in diameter, the super volcano of Yellowstone National Park has a diameter of 87 to 102 kilometers (54 to 63 miles). Yes, you read that right!

And, on the first day of the first trumpet this super volcano violently called for attention in ways previously unknown. In those days, those who observed the extreme seismic activity were reminded that this super volcano, despite all its natural beauty, is in truth a monstrous threat to mankind. Turner Radio Network reported on it in detail one day after the event. Unfortunately, that news station—which was independent of the mainstream media—was shut down in May, 2014 after many years of service. One can ask himself why all of these media stations that don’t conform to the New World Order are quickly disappearing all of the sudden. Nevertheless, we saved for you the original reports, where everyone can inspect for himself the unusual seismograph recordings of February 1, 2014. (In PDF format: Eruption at Yellowstone, About Yellowstone)

There is also the following picture which shows the possible consequences of an eruption and how large the immediate death zone could be:

One can see very well that approximately one third of the United States is directly threatened by an eruption. However, the long-term consequences would be that at least two-thirds of the U.S. would become uninhabitable. The sun would be darkened globally, and that would lead to a terrible famine which could result in the extinction of mankind.

Before It's News even discussed and illustrated in detail Yellowstone's connection to the biblical description of the first trumpet. Despite all the representations that the state-controlled institutions and scientists make, many are now coming to the conclusion that this super volcano is preparing to erupt, or better said, could have erupted already if... What is it that prevented this terrible eruption on February 1? We will soon know what or whom it was, and why!

All green grass was burnt up

The trumpets do more than give signs and warnings of natural events. They also point to political conflicts in human history, which led to upheaval and wars for the most part. Something of this nature happened in the core time of the first trumpet (February 1 to April 11, 2014)—something that made big news in the press: Putin annexed Crimea. That was the biggest event since the end of the Cold War, as it was represented in a lot of media reports. Or, you can read for yourself on Wikipedia that the Crimea crisis took place right on schedule during the first trumpet. In the German version of that article, we find February 22, 2014 as the start date when "Vladimir Konstantinov, Chairman of the Supreme Council of Crimea held talks with Russian politicians in Moscow regarding the developments in the Ukraine and talked to the Russian press about the possibility of a secession of Crimea from Ukraine." [translated] Since "March 21, 2014, the Russian Federation sees the Republic of Crimea and the city of Sevastopol as two new subjects of the federation and thus as part of Russia." [translated]

Please note, however, that the conflict is definitely not over... "Ukraine does not recognize it, but considers Crimea as Ukrainian territory. In the General Assembly of the United Nations, a majority resolution declared the Crimean referendum to secede invalid (resolution 68/262).” This helps us understand that the trumpets are nested within each other, and the intensity of the events increases with each trumpet.

But where do we find the Crimea crisis in the Bible text of the first trumpet? How about this part: “and all green grass was burnt up”? The Crimea is known for its grass or steppe landscape. David Weigum writes in his book My Home on the Crimean Steppe: “No one dared to venture into the steppe, which looked like an infinite, undulating sea of grass to them... But after all, back through the years when we were kids growing up in it, the steppe was something other than it is today. What an abundance of life and pleasure thrived inside it, with grass and straw! It was much richer, more colorful and more original than later when nature had to flee from spreading humanity and eventually died when there was no more space for it to sustain itself and develop.” [translated from the German book]

The Bible also refers to people as “grass” (1 Peter 1:24; 2 Kings 19:26; Psalm 27:1-2; Psalm 92:7, James 1:10-11) and if the Crimean crisis would not have unfolded in relative peace, then “all green grass was burnt up” could have symbolized the many deaths that such a conflict would have inflicted. Once again we see that the Bible text clearly speaks of something that might have happened, but was held back by an intervening Higher Power. Just where is it written in the Bible that these last trumpets are suddenly stopped? Previously, hundreds of thousands of people were killed in the Civil War for example (according to my interpretation in the Orion presentation). Shouldn’t we expect something much worse during these last trumpets?

The Trees and the Millstone

Only one part of the first trumpet text remains to be interpreted: “and the third part of trees was burnt up.” What does the Bible say about “trees” as a symbol? In Judges 9:8-15 “the trees” are presented as God’s people Israel who had mixed with all sorts of other peoples in Shechem and lived together there. They had chosen a bad king Abimelech, who is compared to the bramble—or thorn bush—in the parable.

The trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them; and they said unto the olive tree, Reign thou over us. But the olive tree said unto them, Should I leave my fatness, wherewith by me they honour God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees? And the trees said to the fig tree, Come thou, and reign over us. But the fig tree said unto them, Should I forsake my sweetness, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees? Then said the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us. And the vine said unto them, Should I leave my wine, which cheereth God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees? Then said all the trees unto the bramble, Come thou, and reign over us. And the bramble said unto the trees, If in truth ye anoint me king over you, then come and put your trust in my shadow: and if not, let fire come out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon. (Judges 9:8-15)

The olive tree represents Judaism up to 34 A.D., the fig tree represents Protestantism up to 1798, and the vine represents the Adventist Church up to 2012. All of these valuable trees rejected kingly rule (the leading of the ecumenical movement and mixing with apostate belief systems), because they had to bear good fruit (true believers). Only the bramble—which can only bring fire—urged the other trees to take refuge under his false shadows. The curse of Jotham that accompanies this parable should soon fulfill, as the rest of the chapter tells us from verse 56 on. The curse was that Abimelech (the bramble) and the men of Shechem who made him their king, would kill each other. Our Bible Commentary says in this regard that “...the unity of bad men speedily changes into enmity and reciprocal extermination.” (SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 2; see on Judges 9:20)

This exact scenario repeated during the first trumpet. On January 21, there was a worship service of the leadership of a large charismatic church with Kenneth Copeland who speaks in tongues at their head. Pope Francis sent a video message to this event via his “Protestant” friend Tony Palmer. The message was directed to all Protestant trees in the world, calling them to return to Rome, where they would find a brother in him, the pope, like Jacob’s children once went to Egypt in the time of famine and found their brother Joseph whom they had sold. They would find refuge and peace in his shadow. Kenneth Copeland used the delivered message to lead his present neo-charismatic leadership to complete submission to the papacy. He also immediately recorded his response to the pope. Charismatics, who have always preached strange fire (spiritualism and speaking in tongues), are representative of all (Sunday-keeping) Protestants. Tony Palmer made it clear in his speech concerning the delivery of the Pope’s message that according to his view, Protestantism was dead per se, ever since certain contracts were made between the Lutherans and Rome in 1999. According to him, every protest is by nature invalid because there are no longer differences between the doctrines of Protestants and the papacy (which, of course, is objectively and factually untrue).

The date of a particular event is not always as crucial for us as the availability of the information, or the date of its publication, as Brother Robert pointed out several times in his article series about the sound of war. That is because it is only then that God’s children can react by deciding which side they want to be on. The earliest copy on record of this January 21 “worship service” appeared on YouTube on February 18, which is right in the core time of the first trumpet.

This information detonated like a bomb among sleeping Adventists. For the first time, some actually realized that we really are living in a time when apocalyptic prophecy is in the process of fulfillment and that the whole “Protestant” world is set to return to Rome and worship the beast of Revelation 13. Some leaders like Doug Batchelor and Walter Veith had to break their silence to give their “cautious” but very anxious opinions. Even Christopher Kramp, the staunch enemy of Orion and John Scotram, could no longer restrain himself and gave a German lecture in excess of two hours on this unique major event in the religious world. In the second trumpet we should see two other major religions board the same train to Rome.

We should all know that the curse of Jotham will certainly come upon all who are making their way to Rome. They will eliminate each other, and the bramble (the papacy) will perish together with them in her self-ignited fire from God. Read and understand Revelation 18, and see the end of this unholy union between apostate Protestantism (the false prophet) and the papacy (the beast):

And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone. (Revelation 19:20)

We can ask ourselves why the trumpet Bible text says that a third of the trees were burnt up. Charismatics are far from making up a third of all Christendom, but if you add Catholic charismatics then the number would far exceed a third. However, the survey statistics on evangelicals or “Protestants” are exactly on the number, and those were also the ones addressed by Tony Palmer in his opening remarks at the delivery of the pope’s video.

Although Christianity overall is growing more slowly than Islam (about 1.4% per year), the growing evangelical part of Christianity has a 4.7% annual growth rate, more than twice that fast. In other words, the proportion of evangelicals increases within Christianity just as it does within the world population as a whole. Today, about one-third of Christians worldwide and 10% of the world population are evangelicals. This proportion is expected to continue increasing in the coming decades. [translated]

The Bible is always accurate, and through the various characteristics of its symbols we can decipher exactly who is meant. The apostate Protestants were the first to be assimilated starting with the first trumpet, guided by Jesuit Pope Francis who was specially-chosen and is the sworn leader of the Counter-Reformation. Adventists beware... The vast majority of you belong to this group and will surrender with waving flags and defect to the other side when the great test starts!

As the storm approaches, a large class who have professed faith in the third angel's message, but have not been sanctified through obedience to the truth, abandon their position and join the ranks of the opposition.—The Great Controversy, 608 (1911). {LDE 180.6}

Standard after standard was left to trail in the dust as company after company from the Lord's army joined the foe and tribe after tribe from the ranks of the enemy united with the commandment-keeping people of God.—Testimonies for the Church 8:41 (1904). {LDE 182.3}

But there is hope for those who do not yet know the four messages of God:

The broken ranks will be filled up by those represented by Christ as coming in at the eleventh hour. There are many with whom the Spirit of God is striving. The time of God's destructive judgments is the time of mercy for those who [now] have no opportunity to learn what is truth. Tenderly will the Lord look upon them. His heart of mercy is touched, His hand is still stretched out to save, while the door is closed to those who would not enter. Large numbers will be admitted who in these last days hear the truth for the first time.—Letter 103, 1903. {LDE 182.2}

This restructuring, which we understand in general as the time of the Loud Cry, is typified in the chapter of the curse of Jotham as follows:

But there was a strong tower [the earthly sanctuary in Paraguay with the true teachings of God] within the city, and thither fled all the men and women, and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower. (Judges 9:51)

Isaiah also mentions the shutting of the door behind God's people during the time of plagues:

Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast. For, behold, the LORD cometh out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity: the earth also shall disclose her blood, and shall no more cover her slain. (Isaiah 26:20-21)

The only ones who will be protected from the plagues are those who were purified by the Holy Spirit, who leads into all truth and reveals the future (John 16:13). The others will be partakers of the plagues and will meet their prophesied end with the beast (the papacy):

And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it with fire. And a certain woman [the true church of God, the 144,000] cast a piece of a millstone upon Abimelech's head, [the papacy, represented by Francis, for he is the eighth...and goeth into perdition (Revelation 17:11)] and all to brake his skull. (Judges 9:52-53)

And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea [Europe], saying, Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon [Rome] be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all. (Revelation 18:21)

The stone that causes this destruction of the papacy's world domination is no other than our Lord Jesus Christ at His second coming:

And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever. Forasmuch as thou sawest that the stone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold; the great God hath made known to the king what shall come to pass hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure. (Daniel 2:44-45)

The great mountain burning with fire

Let's turn to the second trumpet now, which is the current one as of this writing...

Our table of trumpet dates above says that an event was expected on April 12, 2014 at the beginning of the second trumpet. It should correlate to the following text:

And the second angel sounded, and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea: and the third part of the sea became blood; And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed. (Revelation 8:8-9)

To anyone who ventures an interpretation of the trumpets or even just wants to evaluate a current, modern interpretation, I recommend you first learn all about the ancient and classical interpretations. Today there is so much nonsense on the internet. Most interpretations take the text so literally that many believe the "mountain burning with fire" must have to do with a burning meteor that strikes one of the oceans. Although I do advocate interpreting the trumpets more literally the closer we get to the end, I still do not shelve the classic interpretations, which relate the trumpet symbolisms to existing explanations in the Bible itself.

We can learn about the second trumpet at Cyberspace Ministry:

In the Bible's prophetic language, a burning mountain cast into the sea symbolizes a kingdom [or nation] condemned by God, and brought to its destruction.

Behold, I am against thee, O destroying mountain, saith the LORD, which destroyest all the earth: and I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and roll thee down from the rocks, and will make thee a burnt mountain. (Jeremiah 51:25)

The sea is come up upon Babylon: she is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof. (Jeremiah 51:42)*

We further learn that the Bible uses the mountain burning with fire for a nation that persecutes the people of God (Zion) and therefore comes to an end:

Keep not thou silence, O God: hold not thy peace, and be not still, O God. For, lo, thine enemies make a tumult: and they that hate thee have lifted up the head. They have taken crafty counsel against thy people, and consulted against thy hidden ones. They have said, Come, and let us cut them off from being a nation; that the name of Israel may be no more in remembrance....As the fire burneth a wood, and as the flame setteth the mountains on fire; So persecute them with thy tempest, and make them afraid with thy storm. (Psalm 83:1-4, 14-15)

Bow thy heavens, O LORD, and come down: touch the mountains, and they shall smoke. Cast forth lightning, and scatter them: shoot out thine arrows, and destroy them. Send thine hand from above; rid me, and deliver me out of great waters, from the hand of strange children; Whose mouth speaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood. (Psalm 144:5-8)

The burning mountain, this nation which persecutes modern Israel, "falls into the sea." In the Adventist Church, the sea is a long-known symbol for Europe in the Bible:

And he saith unto me, The waters which thou sawest, where the whore [the papacy] sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues [Europe]. (Revelation 17:15)

What nation, which came to be known as the enemy of the Christianity, became the talking point on April 12, 2014, amidst an escalating conflict in Europe?

The Baden-Württemberg's center for political education answers this question:

On April 12, the situation escalated in the eastern Ukrainian [city of] Sloviansk. Several people were killed in the security forces' anti-terrorism operation against pro-Russian groups. Ukraine's Minister of Internal Affairs, Arsen Avakov, accused the separatists of using human shields. Acting President Oleksandr Turchynov reproaches Moscow for going to war against Ukraine and creating chaos in the east of the country. Russia's Minister of Foreign Affairs, Sergey Lavrov, had denied any involvement of Russian forces in the occupations of eastern Ukraine. [translated]

April 12, 2014 saw the first deaths in the Ukraine conflict, and thus marked a new level of escalation. While the occupation and annexation of Crimea happened more or less "peacefully", they now speak openly about war in eastern Ukraine. Today (May 28, 2014), they talk about 40 dead in one day. That's at least a civil war.

Russia—soviet and communist—has always been a persecutor of Christians, even though Putin represents himself as pro-Christian today. There is no place for religious freedom in the heart of communism.

Bibel-Glaube.de, on the biggest Christian-persecuting nations:

The persecution during the 26-year rule of the Russian dictator Stalin has alone left more dead than the entire Roman Empire during the first three centuries after Christ's birth.

Thus the burning mountain that falls into the "European sea" must be Russia, a long-time Christian-persecuting nation which God will soon leave to its destruction. And yet, we are left with the feeling that this isn't enough... Did someone raise His hand again and call "hold"?

The sea became blood

If we stay strictly to the interpretation that the "sea" means Europe, then we must infer that the "civil war" in eastern Ukraine should have extended over a large part of Europe and claimed a terrible number of casualties. That would have corresponded to the second part of the second trumpet:

...and the third part of the sea became blood; (Revelation 8:8)

Hundreds of press reports have warned of the danger of war across Europe if NATO should intervene. Some states, like Poland, have even called for the deployment of NATO troops within their territory for fear of attack from Russia. Again, something must have been done to prevent or postpone these consequences, which could have extended to a third part of Europe! But what?

Instead, we see literal fulfillments of the second trumpet text in the literal "sea" as we did before in the first trumpet with the volcanic eruption in Sumatra. The radioactive contamination from the Fukushima nuclear disaster reached the west coast of the United States in April, 2014. Since then, the U.S. government has been engaged in a huge cover-up effort to downplay the concerning measurements. And yet, no one can deny that terrible things are happening. Many cities across the United States are now burdened by radiation exposure up to 10 times the norm. Non-mainstream media like the Alex Jones Channel warned loudly, but their voice died away unheard by most because people want to ignore everything that scares them.

The mass death of many marine animals world-wide is of particular concern, as summarized in German here. Follow the link and read especially the last few lines, where we can see that everything comes to a head especially since April 2014. Probably a third of all marine animals are dying now in the truest sense of the word, for partly known and unknown reasons. The article entitled The ocean is broken is especially worthy of reading. Here is an excerpt from it:

The next leg of the long voyage was from Osaka to San Francisco and for most of that trip the desolation was tinged with nauseous horror and a degree of fear.

“We hardly saw any living things. We saw one whale, sort of rolling helplessly on the surface with what looked like a big tumor on its head. It was pretty sickening.

“I’ve done a lot of miles on the ocean in my life and I’m used to seeing turtles, dolphins, sharks and big flurries of feeding birds. But this time, for 3000 nautical miles there was nothing alive to be seen.”

In place of the missing life was garbage in astounding volumes.

How ignorant are those fools who challenge us to finally show them what happened in the first trumpets, because they couldn’t find any events that correspond to the Bible texts?

The third part of the souls in the sea died

Much more has happened since the second trumpet began... in the heart of Europe again, as the following Bible text suggests by mentioning the “sea” once more:

And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life [psuchē = breath of life], died... (Revelation 8:9)

In contrast to the statement that the sea became blood, this verse gives a specification of the creatures that died. They are souls! Could this indicate believers who will lose their eternal life because of a deception?

There was an unprecedented mega event directly on St. Peter’s Square at the Vatican on exactly April 27, 2014—the anniversary of the largest gamma-ray burst ever recorded. They called this a day of four popes. Two dead popes were canonized in the presence of two living popes. They went all-out with this event world-wide, using cutting edge technologies such as 3D and 4K Ultra HDTV. Even before the actual canonization, there was so much propaganda that the press spoke with superlatives of the mega hype.

What is it that is needed according to Catholic doctrine to canonize a dead person like the Pope John Paul II or John XXIII? They must have performed verified “miracles.” Ellen G. White prophesied the following in the Great Controversy:

Papists, who boast of miracles as a certain sign of the true church, will be readily deceived by this wonder-working power; and Protestants, having cast away the shield of truth, will also be deluded. Papists, Protestants, and worldlings will alike accept the form of godliness without the power, and they will see in this union a grand movement for the conversion of the world and the ushering in of the long-expected millennium. {GC 588.3}

Pope Francis used this mega event to demonstrate through these “miracle-working popes” which church might be the true Church. We know that the dead cannot do anything or know anything, so this is a big deception to destroy the souls of men.

Ellen White goes on to connect this spiritualistic event directly with a threat of war, as prophesied by the trumpets. Remember that the “miracles” attributed to the popes were primarily miracles of healing!

Through spiritualism, Satan appears as a benefactor of the race, healing the diseases of the people, and professing to present a new and more exalted system of religious faith; but at the same time he works as a destroyer. His temptations are leading multitudes to ruin. Intemperance dethrones reason; sensual indulgence, strife, and bloodshed follow. Satan delights in war, for it excites the worst passions of the soul and then sweeps into eternity its victims steeped in vice and blood. It is his object to incite the nations to war against one another, for he can thus divert the minds of the people from the work of preparation to stand in the day of God. {GC 589.1}

There is an Adventist pastor in the United States who also shares this view. We've noticed Pastor Andrew Henriques lately, with his independent ministry called Prophecy Again (note the parallel to our article Prophecy Again...). He seems pretty awake and even recognizes that we are not only in the judgment of the living already, but that we are approaching its end and are nearing the time of plagues. In any case, it would be worthwhile for English speakers to visit his YouTube channel ProphecyAgainTV! He also denounces the terrible apostasy in the Adventist Church. Unfortunately, he has not yet accepted the Orion message and the light of the fourth angel, but in our view he would be a good candidate to preach the combined message of the third and fourth angel and thus support our movement.

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound everywhere, "Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven [Orion message], and God hath remembered her iniquities." This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning [the trumpet cycle of Orion], proclaiming the fall of Babylon [see all of our articles in the category Behind Enemy Lines] and calling upon God's people to come out of her that they might escape her fearful doom. {EW 277.2}

We can only hope and pray that he will not go the same way as the star pastors Doug Batchelor and Walter Veith, both of whom were bought by the General Conference. Their glory will fade when the big test comes...

The time is not far distant when the test will come to every soul. The observance of the false sabbath will be urged upon us. The contest will be between the commandments of God and the commandments of men. Those who have yielded step by step to worldly demands and conformed to worldly customs will then yield to the powers that be, rather than subject themselves to derision, insult, threatened imprisonment, and death. At that time the gold will be separated from the dross. True godliness will be clearly distinguished from the appearance and tinsel of it. Many a star that we have admired for its brilliance will then go out in darkness. Those who have assumed the ornaments of the sanctuary, but are not clothed with Christ's righteousness, will then appear in the shame of their own nakedness. {PK 188.1}

Miraculous healing is a subject in itself. Even the fallen prophet Ernie Knoll foretells a time when he and his "under shepherds" will—according to his dreams—perform not only simple healing, but will even re-attach limbs or re-generate ones that had been amputated. He claims that this is a sign of the true church of the 144,000, just like the pope does with the canonization for Catholics and Protestants, as we saw above. Ernie Knoll even goes a step further with the dream—Jesus saying through his dream that the restoration of lost limbs is possible only through the power of God, which would thus be the distinction from the fake healing powers of Satan, who couldn't do such things. Contrast that with the clear statements of Ellen White that even Adventists will be tested by so-called miracle healings:

We need not be deceived. Wonderful scenes, with which Satan will be closely connected, will soon take place. God's Word declares that Satan will work miracles. He will make people sick, and then will suddenly remove from them his satanic power. They will then be regarded as healed. These works of apparent healing will bring Seventh-day Adventists to the test. Many who have had great light will fail to walk in the light, because they have not become one with Christ.—Letter 57, 1904. {2SM 53.3}

Anyone who reads the corresponding passage in Ernie Knoll's dream The Senior Pastor attentively and with understanding will recognize that the description of this limb restoration is the perfect description of an illusionist's magic trick. Coats are placed over the legs of the man in the wheelchair to hide the “change”. Phenomena on the wall distract the audience, while the never-amputated legs of the alleged victim are hidden in the wheelchair body, only to appear after the removal of the coats, like pulling a rabbit out of a hat. Ernie Knoll will deceive Adventists who have never proven his dreams—who accept them without understanding, and think that it is quite “normal” for the Seventh-day Adventist Church to have 48 wheels and 7 axles, as the (older and true) dream The Vessel says. If his followers had ever questioned what these many symbolic numbers mean, they might have encountered this result. I can only warn the followers of this man. Ernie Knoll is a liar, and liars are not among the 144,000 because “in their mouth was found no guile” (Revelation 14:5).

We can ask ourselves why Jesus never made amputated limbs re-grow, and why He won't do it in the little time of trouble before the plagues. There is a simple and fitting answer to it. The Bible says:

But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him. (Hebrews 11:6)

A healing miracle like the one Ernie Knoll describes would be proving of God, and faith would no longer be necessary for a witness of such an event because he himself would have seen God at work in a form that would remove all doubt.

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. (Hebrews 11:1)

But this is exactly how Ernie Knoll presents it in some of his (more recent and untrue) dreams: the restoration of limbs would supposedly be a clear proof that God is with his ministry.

If so, there would no longer be faith in that which is not seen, and the 144,000 could not live by faith, and the following Bible prophecy would not be true:

For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come, it will not tarry. Behold, his soul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the just shall live by his faith. (Habakkuk 2:3-4)

The people who will gather at Ernie Knoll's end-time events, believing that they belong to his “immortal” 144,000, will be bitterly and fatally disappointed. That is shown in an unpublished dream of his, which he had while he was playing the prostitute Candace: The Convention Center. This man knows exactly which dreams he had better not publish!

In all of these ways, a third of the souls in the sea of the world's peoples will come to their end, including many Seventh-day Adventists and those who believe they are among the 144,000, because they blindly follow a deceiver. Even though the final fall of these poor deluded souls will not take place until the time of the mark of the beast, the preparations for the deception are being made now. Subliminal false dreams and mega canonizations of miracle-workers are already nesting in the minds of the people, and all it will take is to press the right button a little later to activate the implanted brainwashing.

Ships sinking into the sea

The last part of the second trumpet deals with a European event which is described as follows:

...and the third part of the ships were destroyed. (Revelation 8:9)

I said “European” because the previous part of the second trumpet refers to the sea, and that is where the ships are sinking. Soon we'll see, however, that the event will certainly have world-wide effects. But first, let's find out what ships symbolize in the Bible.

In the Old Testament, ships stood for the trade of wealth:

And the navy also of Hiram, that brought gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir great plenty of almug trees, and precious stones. (1 Kings 10:11)

And Hiram sent him by the hands of his servants ships, and servants that had knowledge of the sea; and they went with the servants of Solomon to Ophir, and took thence four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and brought them to king Solomon. (2 Chronicles 8:18)

For the king's ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Hiram: every three years once came the ships of Tarshish bringing gold, and silver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks. (2 Chronicles 9:21)

The book of Revelation also shows us what ships mean:

And they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas, that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! for in one hour is she made desolate. (Revelation 18:19)

Ships stand for economy and world trade, and in a narrow sense for financial transactions, the stock markets and especially the banks. The largest banking crisis in modern history was triggered by the real estate bubble in the U.S. in 2008, and the entire world economy suffers as a result. Hundreds of thousands of people are on the streets in the U.S. because they can no longer make their mortgage payments, and the value of their houses dropped overnight by more than half. A lot of suffering has come since then.

The blame for this goes to unscrupulous bankers who knowingly created these credit bubbles because the resulting great crisis would enable the New World Order. The controlling powers are the Masonic elite or "Bilderbergers". Anyone who is not yet informed should watch Alex Jones' video entitled ENDGAME, and then judge whether all of this is a conspiracy theory or a conspiracy in fact.

Benedict XVI's June 29, 2009 encyclical, Caritas in Veritate, which was announced by the signet of the Year of St. Paul, urges a moral-religious control organ over the rulers of the world banking system, whom the Vatican itself set up. It announced that the papacy would soon officially take over leadership of the world banks. However, Benedict XVI would not be the one to take on this leadership, but his successor, Francis. I will show very soon that this was the real meaning of the signet of the Pauline Year; we were finally able to completely decipher it. The sins of Babylon and the churches after 1844 will be entirely uncovered by us as prophesied, because the cry of the second angel repeats in the fourth:

I saw angels hurrying to and fro in heaven, descending to the earth, and again ascending to heaven, preparing for the fulfillment of some important event. Then I saw another mighty angel commissioned to descend to the earth, to unite his voice with the third angel, and give power and force to his message. Great power and glory were imparted to the angel, and as he descended, the earth was lightened with his glory. The light which attended this angel penetrated everywhere, as he cried mightily, with a strong voice, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. The work of this angel comes in at the right time to join in the last great work of the third angel's message as it swells to a loud cry. And the people of God are thus prepared to stand in the hour of temptation, which they are soon to meet. I saw a great light resting upon them, and they united to fearlessly proclaim the third angel's message. {EW 277.1}

Money makes the world go round, and the ships of the second trumpet herald a new and much worse financial crisis that will come before the third trumpet starts in October. The motto of the Freemasons is ordo ab chao (order out of chaos); they should first cause chaos in the world markets in order to then take full control so no one can buy or sell except he receives the mark of the beast.

While I finish writing this article, we can already see that it's time. The European Central Bank warns against the self-generated stock and credit bubbles that are caused by an artificial inflation of the world financial stock markets. The world is waiting anxiously for June 5 when the ECB's new interest rate policy is to be announced. Investors and banks are advised to immediately protect themselves; that is the warning before the storm. Another English article is aptly titled Prophets of your own doom.

The European Central Bank will introduce what we already saw at the European Elections of May 25, 2014, on the anniversary of Christ's crucifixion: now the banks will throw Europe into a chaos that will soon reach the United States. However, there is one event to come before the national ruin of the United States, which will startle the very last Adventist:

When the state shall use its power to enforce the decrees and sustain the institutions of the church—then will Protestant America have formed an image to the papacy, and there will be a national apostasy which will end only in national ruin.—The S.D.A. Bible Commentary 7:976 (1910). {LDE 134.4}

It involves the introduction of the Sunday Law, which the destruction of the European ships signals:

When our nation [the United States], in its legislative councils, shall enact laws to bind the consciences of men in regard to their religious privileges, enforcing Sunday observance, and bringing oppressive power to bear against those who keep the seventh-day Sabbath, the law of God will, to all intents and purposes, be made void in our land, and national apostasy will be followed by national ruin.—The S.D.A. Bible Commentary 7:977 (1888). {LDE 133.5}

Will the second big bubble burst as early as June 5, or will Russia play another role to trigger a European or global economic crisis, with its $400-billion gas deal with China or its financial attack against the West, already under way? We don't know! What we do know is that many ships will yet go down during the core time of the second trumpet. Or will there be grace again through the divine hand that will once more command a restraint so that more souls can be saved? A panic-inducing earthquake hit central Germany, shaking it with a strength not measured for 30 years on the Sabbath of May 31, 2014 just six days before the ECB's decision. Did that make some people sensitive to the warnings of God, or will they dismiss everything as pure coincidence again?

In the next article, we will take a look at the sinking ship of the SDA Church and unravel the mystery of Ezekiel's Secret.

The Mystery of Ezekiel

Developments within the apostate part of the Adventist church are also reflected in the first and second trumpet at that level of interpretation. Brother Robert made it very clear in his latest articles how the dividing issue of women's ordination has split the church and led to Ted Wilson's (apparent) loss of kingly power. Brother Jan dreamt of another problem in the Adventist church, which I mentioned in my June 29, 2013 sermon, and it happened right on time. It was about the increasing pressure of the LGBT community—people with other sexual orientations—which stopped at nothing, not even the Adventist church.

The Adventist Church Sinks into Chaos

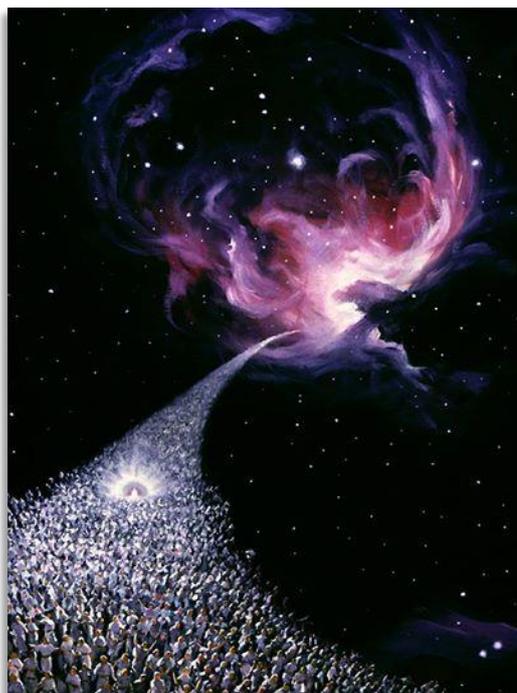

Be it far from me to write an essay on the Bible's counsel to people who have and act upon homosexual or any other non-heterosexual inclinations. To read what the apostle Paul says in Romans chapter 1 should be enough for anyone. It concludes as follows:

Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them. (Romans 1:32)

If the great apostle to the Gentiles had written this today, he surely would have been accused of spreading "hate speech" and deprived of his freedom. He would have been crushed to bits in the mills of the New World Order. Nevertheless, I would still like to emphasize that his statement above also includes the solution for these people, which is often ignored... the judgment of God, death and the loss of eternal life, comes only to those "who do such things." That's why I said in my sermon, "Just don't do it!"

As a read-only member of several Adventist Yahoo discussion groups with pastors and missionaries, I have been able to follow how the opinions within the Adventist church have progressed through the past few months since the end of June 2013. It has been about the acceptance of LGBT-oriented people as members of our church in full standing with the right to hold church offices and to be ordained. Do I have to tell you what came out as the predominant opinion of the vast majority of the leaders of the Adventist Church? Do I have to emphasize that those who use the Bible as the foundation for their views are judged by all of the others as being judgmental and unloving?

The Adventist church is split, and by far the greater part of the church "have pleasure in them that do them." In his dream, Brother Jan saw a marriage bed on the upper floor of the house; the house symbolizes the church. The bed was empty, and two planks led away from it. The couple had separated and probably "did change the natural use into that which is against nature" (Romans 1:26). The only thing that remained from the three-way relationship between husband and wife and Christ that was instituted by God in Eden and corresponded to His image, was an apparently useless white pillow and a red bed sheet, which stand for the pitiful outcry of Christ's righteousness and blood.

In the article Checkmate for the Adventist Church, we explained what it would mean for the church to act "biblically" on this topic. The urgency and impact of these issues prompted Ted Wilson to convene a special summit in Cape Town, South Africa. 350 delegates from all parts of the world came together in March to find out how the Adventist Church could avoid shipwreck in the perilous waters of papal supremacy. Of course, Ted Wilson had to echo his satanic boss, who had already made homosexuals his friends in July of last year. In his opening speech, he managed to walk the tightrope between playing conservatism and willingly sabotaging the Adventist Christian values in our community through his skillful choice of words and a world full of ideas that could be stretched any way you want...

He called it both "inconsistent and morally wrong" for the Adventist Church to isolate practicing members of the LGBT community for discipline "while it ignores those engaged in heterosexual pre-marital sex or adultery.

"We are all sinners" and since we will continue to be—because most members of the Adventist church deny the power of God—we also have to refrain from reprimanding anyone who commits sins that are different than ours. What a good trick. No doubt we will soon hear from confessing homosexual pastors and presidents in our church, preaching the gospel of human rights and the equality of the French Revolution from the pulpit. (Read Chapter 11 of Revelation and the chapter on the French Revolution in The Great Controversy...if you can still get the book.)

It is no surprise that the corresponding closing speech to the sex summit of Ella Simmons, the vice president of the global Adventist Church, met the applause of the now seemingly-dethroned Ted Wilson, who until recently had (hypocritically) refused to recognize the election of Sandra Roberts. Although Simmons stressed that "As long as we protect, cover-up, [and] yes, condone adultery, dishonesty, and other sins that were forbidden by God in the church and particularly in high places, we will not be able to reach members with our words of truth for the transformation of their lives—in any way," she just mimics what Ted Wilson already said between the lines previously: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone!" It's not about the condemnation of sinners. In truth it is about the commercial survival of the Adventist Church as a business, controlled from the outside through the government and managed by personnel quotas of various orientations:

For four days top church leaders and regional representatives discussed the church's response to homosexual behavior in the face of a worldwide cultural shift that is increasingly supportive of gay and lesbian relationships. The "In God's Image: Scripture. Sexuality. Society." summit addressed the fact that LGBT issues are affecting church employment practices and operations of its educational and healthcare systems in a growing number of world regions.

This is the real driver behind the discussion of the acceptance or non-acceptance of homosexual members or leaders in the church. It's about business and compliance with the regulations for personnel quotas, without which they would lose their status as a church company with tax exemption privileges. So it was logical that only a month later, on April 24 of this year, the notoriously liberal Netherlands Union was first to decide "in opposition to the Seventh-day Adventist Church" that the churches must be "safe places for LGBTQ persons", and that such "not be removed from membership." This decision of the Netherland Union stands in total contradiction to the official statement delivered just two weeks prior at the General Conference Spring Meeting:

“It is inconsistent with the Church’s understanding of scriptural teaching to admit into or maintain in membership persons practicing sexual behaviors incompatible with biblical teachings. Neither is it acceptable for Adventist pastors or churches to provide wedding services or facilities for same-sex couples”

As with women’s ordination, the same game is being played again... One starts, and in the end the vast majority end up going in the same direction. Carefully expressed, the church is internally split and thus no longer capable of fulfilling its mission to proclaim the third angels’ message. These issues probably have nothing to do with the warning not to accept the mark of the beast or with the impending plagues. Look how far the church has deviated from God’s plan for them!

The studies of the committees on women’s ordination ended with the last multi-day TOSC session on June 4, 2014. The Adventist Review report states:

One TOSC member wistfully noted to the group that Wednesday, June 4, was Pentecost in the Jewish calendar. He hoped, he said, that a miracle of unanimity might conclude the two-year study process as members were asked to choose their preferred solution, or “Way Forward,” on the issue the church has wrestled with for more than 25 years.

The remark of the committee member was probably a bad omen, because the biblical Pentecost actually fell on the following day, because the first crescent of the moon in the first month in Jerusalem was not visible until April 1 in the evening on account of the 8° rule—which neither Christians nor Adventists nor today’s Jews have any inkling of. Like Ellen White already said, the church (along with all others) does not even know the half of the truth about the old Jewish customs:

We do not half understand the Lord’s plan in taking the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage, and leading them through the wilderness into Canaan. As we gather up the divine rays shining from the gospel, we shall have a clearer insight into the Jewish economy, and a deeper appreciation of its important truths. Our exploration of truth is yet incomplete. We have gathered up only a few rays of light. Those who are not daily students of the Word will not solve the problems of the Jewish economy. They will not understand the truths taught by the Temple service. The work of God is hindered by a worldly understanding of His great plan. The future life will unfold the meaning of the laws that Christ, enshrouded in the pillar of cloud, gave to His people.—Letter 156, 1903, pp. 2, 3. (To P. T. Magan, July 27, 1903.) {3MR 259.1}

The final vote revealed two facts: first, the SDA Church is still wandering in the wilderness, and second, it is completely split with a majority of the members in favor of women’s ordination. Votes were cast by 94 TOSC members:

Forty TOSC members identified as their first choice a position that “Each entity responsible for calling pastors be authorized to choose either to have only men as ordained pastors; or to have both men and women as ordained pastors.”

Thirty-two members favored a proposal that affirms the “practice of ordaining/commissioning only qualified men to the office of pastor/minister throughout the world church”

A third option was the first choice of 22 participants. It stated, “Christ is the only head of the church,” noting that there is a “biblical pattern of male leadership, under the headship of Christ, in the office of the ordained minister.” But this option also added that “We recommend that denominational leadership at a proper level be authorized to decide, based on biblical principles, whether such an adaptation [permission to ordain both men and women] may be appropriate for their area or region.”

If we count groups 1 and 3 together, whose members gave no clear vote against the ordination of women, we find the vast majority are in favor of women’s ordination: 62 to 32 or 66%. Now it is official... Ted Wilson has lost his mock battle against women's ordination, and in the coming year the General Conference Session in San Antonio, Texas, will make decisions that give God every right to pour out His wrath in the plagues upon the apostate members of the SDA church. They will have rejected and ignored everything that Jesus has been showing them in Orion for six years.

An inattentive reader might ask: "Where is it written in Orion that God does not accept the ordination of women or LGBTQ-people?" It is written at the beginning of the first Great Orion Cycle, which started on October 27, 4037 B.C. with the creation of Adam, shortly before the Sabbath of creation began. Adam was created in God's image, male and female (man and woman, Genesis 1:27) with his role of leadership of his helpmeet (Genesis 2:18). He was created neither as a homosexual, nor a drag queen, nor as a modern almost-single-handedly child-rearing Mr. Mom, while his wife sits at Ted Wilson's side to decide the fate of the multi-national SDA Enterprise.

The True Colors of the SDA Leaders

Instead of unity, there is division. Instead of faithfulness to God, we find leaders who tell God what He supposedly did wrong. This reminds me of a comic I saw recently on Facebook—I just reformulated it a little bit:

(Any resemblance to SDA leaders is purely coincidental.)

Do you think it is an exaggeration for me to compare the SDA leaders with Catholic "dignitaries"? Do you think that wouldn't be allowed, or would even be offensive? Beside the fact that the overall behavior of the SDA leaders is an insult to God and even provokes His wrath, who am I to judge these people? (Any resemblance of my statement to one of Pope Francis' is also purely coincidental.) None other than Ellen G. White herself saw in a God-given dream that it would one day come to the point that our leaders would look exactly like Vatican "personnel," and according to the 18th fundamental belief, every Adventist at his baptism has to recognize her as a prophetess...

That night I dreamed that I was in Battle Creek looking out from the side glass at the door and saw a company marching up to the house, two and two. They looked stern and determined. I knew them well and turned to open the parlor door to receive them, but thought I would look again. The scene was changed. The company now presented the appearance of a Catholic procession. One bore in his hand a cross, another a reed. And as they approached, the one carrying a reed made a circle around the house, saying three times: "This house is proscribed. The goods must be confiscated. They have spoken against our holy order." Terror seized me, and I ran through the house, out of the north door, and found myself in the midst of a company, some of whom I knew, but I dared not speak a word to them for fear of being betrayed. I tried to seek a retired spot where I might weep and pray without meeting eager, inquisitive eyes wherever I turned. I repeated frequently: "If I could only understand this! If they will tell me what I have said or what I have done!"

I wept and prayed much as I saw our goods confiscated. I tried to read sympathy or pity for me in the looks of those around me, and marked the countenances of several whom I thought would speak to me and comfort me if they did not fear that they would be observed by others. I made one attempt to escape from the crowd, but seeing that I was watched, I concealed my intentions. I commenced weeping aloud, and saying: "If they would only tell me what I have done or what I have said!" My husband, who was sleeping in a bed in the same room, heard me weeping aloud and awoke me. My pillow was wet with tears, and a sad depression of spirits was upon me. {1T 577.2-578.1}

When Ellen White dreamed this in the spring of 1876, she was traveling with her husband and stopped in Orange on the way back to Battle Creek. (Battle Creek, the clearly-identified scene of action of the dream, is a type.) It is significant that the dream's scene of action was very clearly identified as Battle Creek, which was then the seat of the General Conference. The Catholic procession that she saw was thus formed by the leaders of the General Conference. Today it is the 300-odd member Executive Committee of the General Conference. First she emphasized that she knew the people who were approaching her house well, since she had not seen any Catholic procession yet. Then she looked again—which is an indication of a time jump (into our time)—and the General Conference had turned into a Catholic procession.

Maybe we can go deeper and identify the kind of Catholics Ellen White was shown. One held a cross and another held a reed in his hand. Both are references to Jesus Himself or to His sufferings...

And they stripped him, and put on him a scarlet robe. And when they had platted a crown of thorns, they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand: and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews! And they spit upon him, and took the reed, and smote him on the head. (Matthew 27:28-30)

Then the man with the reed cast a spell on Ellen White's house and all of her life's work and her writings by implication (because "they have spoken against our holy order"). If the first two symbols (the cross and reed) suggest the idea that Ellen White was dealing here with the Jesuits, then it will become even clearer. Which of Ellen White's writings spoke against a "holy order"?

It was the writing about which she herself said the following:

"The Great Controversy," Above Silver or Gold—The Great Controversy should be very widely circulated. It contains the story of the past, the present, and the future. In its outline of the closing scenes of this earth's history, it bears a powerful testimony in behalf of the truth. I am more anxious to see a wide circulation for this book than for any others I have written; for in The Great Controversy, the last message of warning to the world is given more distinctly than in any of my other books.—Letter 281, 1905. {CM 127.1}

The Lord has set before me matters which are of urgent importance for the present time, and which reach into the future. The words have been spoken in a charge to me, "Write in a book the things which thou hast seen and heard, and let it go to all the people; for the time is at hand when past history will be repeated." I have been aroused at one, two, or three o'clock in the morning with some point forcibly impressed upon my mind, as if spoken by the voice of God.... {CM 128.1}

The book The Great Controversy, I appreciate above silver or gold, and I greatly desire that it shall come before the people. While writing the manuscript of The Great Controversy, I was often conscious of the presence of the angels of God. And many times the scenes about which I was writing were presented to me anew in visions of the night, so that they were fresh and vivid in my mind.—Letter 56, 1911. {CM 128.3}

You can see how much the enemy hates this book by the fact that she experienced a terrible attack from Satan when she started to work on it:

Two days afterward, while journeying on the cars to Jackson, Mich., we arranged our plans for writing and publishing, immediately on our return home, the book entitled, "The Great Controversy between Christ and His Angels, and Satan and His Angels," commonly known as "Spiritual Gifts," Vol. 1. [Note.—This volume, dealing with the fall of man, the plan of redemption, and the history of the church from the time of Christ to the new earth, corresponds with the latter part of Early Writings, 145–295 (new edition). A portion of the volume, as enlarged in later years, is now published separately under the general title, "The Great Controversy Between Christ and Satan."] I was then as well as usual.

On the arrival of the train at Jackson, we went to Brother Palmer's. We had been in the house but a short time, when, as I was conversing with Sister Palmer, my tongue refused to utter what I wished to say, and seemed large and numb. A strange, cold sensation struck my heart, passed over my head, and down my right side. For a time I was insensible, but was aroused by the voice of earnest prayer. I tried to use my left limbs, but they were perfectly useless. For a short time I did not expect to live. It was my third shock of paralysis; and although within fifty miles of home, I did not expect to see my children again. I called to mind the triumphant season I had enjoyed at Lovett's Grove, and thought it was my last testimony, and felt reconciled to die.

Still the earnest prayers of my friends were ascending to heaven for me, and soon a prickling sensation was felt in my limbs, and I praised the Lord that I could use them a little. The Lord heard and answered the faithful prayers of His children, and the power of Satan was broken. That night I suffered much, but the next day I was sufficiently strengthened to return home.

For several weeks I could not feel the pressure of the hand or the coldest water poured upon my head. In rising to walk, I often staggered, and sometimes fell to the floor. In this afflicted condition I began to write on the great controversy. At first I could write but one page a day, and then rest three days; but as I progressed, my strength increased. The numbness in my head did not seem to becloud my mind, and before I closed that work ["Spiritual Gifts," Vol. 1], the effect of the shock had entirely left me.

At the time of the conference at Battle Creek, in June, 1858, I was shown in vision that in the sudden attack at Jackson, Satan intended to take my life, in order to hinder the work I was about to write; but angels of God were sent to my rescue. I also saw, among other things, that I should be blessed with better health than before the attack. {LS 162.2–163.3}

Surely this writing, along with the procession dream of 1867, must include the proof that our church is completely infiltrated by the "holy" order of the Jesuits. So where in The Great Controversy did Ellen White speak about the Jesuits? An extensive search of all of Ellen White's writings (about 100,000 pages) reveals a very interesting result... generally speaking, she spoke against the Jesuits only in The Great Controversy (but very clearly in that book).

Throughout Christendom, Protestantism was menaced by formidable foes. The first triumphs of the Reformation past, Rome summoned new forces, hoping to accomplish its destruction. At this time the order of the Jesuits was created, the most cruel, unscrupulous, and powerful of all the champions of popery. Cut off from earthly ties and human interests, dead to the claims of natural affection, reason and conscience wholly silenced, they knew no rule, no tie, but that of their order, and no duty but to extend its power. The gospel of Christ had enabled its adherents to meet danger and endure suffering, undismayed by cold, hunger, toil, and poverty, to uphold the banner of truth in face of the rack, the dungeon, and the stake. To combat these forces, Jesuitism inspired its followers with a fanaticism that enabled them to endure like dangers, and to oppose to the power of truth all the weapons of deception. There was no crime too great for them to commit, no deception too base for them to practice, no disguise too difficult for them to assume. Vowed to perpetual poverty and humility, [see the appearance of Pope Francis] it was their studied aim to secure wealth and power, to be devoted to the overthrow of Protestantism, and the re-establishment of the papal supremacy. [see the pope's message to Kenneth Copeland in the last article]

When appearing as members of their order, they wore a garb of sanctity, visiting prisons and hospitals, ministering to the sick and the poor, professing to have renounced the world, [Pope Francis: The Church should renounce worldliness] and bearing the sacred name of Jesus, who went about doing good. But under this blameless exterior the most criminal and deadly purposes were often concealed. It was a fundamental principle of the order that the end justifies the means. By this code, lying, theft, perjury, assassination, were not only pardonable but commendable, when they served the interests of the church. Under various disguises the Jesuits worked their way into offices of state, climbing up to be the counselors of kings, and shaping the policy of nations. They became servants to act as spies upon their masters. They established colleges for the sons of princes and nobles, and schools for the common people; and the children of Protestant parents were drawn into an observance of popish rites. All the outward pomp and display of the Romish worship was brought to bear to confuse the mind and dazzle and captivate the imagination, and thus the liberty for which the fathers had toiled and bled was betrayed by the sons. The Jesuits rapidly spread themselves over Europe, and wherever they went, there followed a revival of popery.

To give them greater power, a bull was issued re-establishing the inquisition. Notwithstanding the general abhorrence with which it was regarded, even in Catholic countries, this terrible tribunal was again set up by popish rulers, and atrocities too terrible to bear the light of day were repeated in its secret dungeons. In many countries, thousands upon thousands of the very flower of the nation, the purest and noblest, the most intellectual and highly educated, pious and devoted pastors, industrious and patriotic citizens, brilliant scholars, talented artists, skillful artisans, were slain or forced to flee to other lands.

Such were the means which Rome had invoked to quench the light of the Reformation, to withdraw from men the Bible, and to restore the ignorance and superstition of the Dark Ages. But under God's blessing and the labors of those noble men whom He had raised up to succeed Luther, Protestantism was not overthrown. Not to the favor or arms of princes was it to owe its strength. The smallest countries, the humblest and least powerful nations, became its strongholds. It was little Geneva in the midst of mighty foes plotting her destruction; it was Holland on her sandbanks by the northern sea, wrestling against the tyranny of Spain, then the greatest and most opulent of kingdoms; it was bleak, sterile Sweden, that gained victories for the Reformation. {CC 234.2-235.3}

Today perhaps it will be little Paraguay, with its mere 6 million people. It just recently issued a governmental statement that goes against the Organization of American States (OAS) and against the pressure of the monstrous neighboring states of Brazil and Argentina. The statement said that we will not allow same-sex marriages here nor grant equality to members of the LGBT community. There must be a reason, too, why God has chosen this small country as the new seat of his earthly temple and courtyard.

We see a clear description of the papacy of Francis in Ellen White's warning text above. Even the selection of his papal name points to his humility program as a cover for the terrible crimes that will now begin under his rule. He is the persecutor of the true Christians who will decide to keep the Sabbath against their nation's laws and against the declarations of a soon-to-come false Christ.

After the Bible, the book that Satan hates the most was made into a farce. It was disfigured by cutting it down from over 700 pages to less than 90, and this was done by Ted Wilson and his men in black robes, whitened and given a golden 7 on the front. Nothing that Ellen White said about the papacy or the Jesuit order was spared from the spell. And, friends, this was the design of this malicious enemy of Protestantism in our own ranks as early as 2010, because Ted Wilson had already announced the printing and distribution of hundreds of millions of copies of the "The Great Controversy" shortly after his election. We wrote about it. Every reader should know that this abridged and distorted Jesuit polemic writing got the derisive name The Great Hope, and has now been in distribution for some time by 18 million unsuspecting sold-for-stupid Adventists, who have probably never read the real Great Controversy.

This is the biggest sham of a project since the founding of the church. They call the official website The Great Controversy Project and depict wannabe Adventists on the homepage who have no clue about dress code. They can be distinguished from the world as little as this book can be distinguished from a disdainful esoteric novel that says something about the landing of a green alien Christ.

(Those who do not understand my remark about the dress code should definitely read the book Creeping Compromise by Joe Crews. This founder of Amazing Facts—in contrast to the current president Doug Batchelor—wrote the true Adventist code of conduct and exalted it. Of course it goes back to the Bible and the writings of Ellen G. White. You cannot get any more compact and concise information about how you have to change your life, your diet and your clothes in order to belong to the 144,000! Women beware: it will be hard for you, because today's fashion is not adequate for you. My dear wife, as a young woman of about 30 years, fought and won a heroic struggle against her own tastes. All those who think that they can lie on a beach vacationing together with half- or fully-naked people basking in the sun and please God at the same time should now prepare themselves to dress warm for a mountain hiking vacation instead. And one more thing... dress code applies not only on Sabbath in the church, but throughout the work week too. No, God hasn't made it easy for you, but those who still have their first love will find that His burden is light.)

The great revival and reformation that Ted Wilson promised four years ago turns out to be the Jesuit sleeping pill tactic for the few remaining values that we have in the Adventist Church. They robbed our past and future identity, which was shown mainly in The Great Controversy, and they made Adventists into Roman literature evangelists. I recommend the article steps to Rome to anyone who still doesn't see what is playing out because of these fruits. There you can see how vehemently the Jesuits infiltrated our church, especially in the 1980s. This is all recorded in Orion and The Vessel of Time, God's two heavenly books, which the Bible refers to as The Book of Seven Seals and The Book of Seven Thunders.

The Second Attack with Heavy Artillery

That was not enough for Ted Wilson and his frat-order brothers. Ellen G. White had to die completely, not just The Great Controversy. Her other writings had to disappear too. How could this hypocritical counterpart of Pope Francis accomplish that in our churches, when he simultaneously had the duty of playing a conservative president?

No one should underestimate the cunning of the Jesuits! Ellen White made that entirely clear above, didn't she? Ted Wilson not only announced the distribution of millions of copies of The Great Controversy after his election, but also that he would restore Ellen White to her traditional place. At the General Conference Session in Atlanta, in his (in)famous July 3, 2010 inaugural speech Go Forward (video|text), he spoke great words about the importance of Ellen White's writings:

Now, getting back to Revelation 12:17 and another great distinguishing mark of God's remnant people. We read that they will "have the testimony of Jesus Christ." Revelation 19:10 tells us that "the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy." The same spirit that moved the holy men of old has again, in these last days, raised up a messenger for the Lord. My brothers and sisters of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the Lord has given us one of the greatest gifts possible in the writings of the Spirit of Prophecy. Just as the Bible is not outdated or irrelevant, neither is the testimony of God's end-time messenger. God used Ellen G White as a humble servant to provide inspired insight about Scripture, prophecy, health, education, relationships, mission, families, and so many more topics. Let us read the Spirit of Prophecy, follow the Spirit of Prophecy and share the Spirit of Prophecy. There are so many wonderful books to share including the one book Ellen White indicated she wished distributed more than any other, "The Great Controversy." Thank the Lord for the religious freedom in this and other countries that allows us to share truth. The Spirit of Prophecy is one of the identifying marks of God's last-day people and is just as applicable today as ever before because it was given to us by heaven itself. As God's faithful remnant, may we never make of none effect the precious light given us in the writings of Ellen G. White.

But suddenly on October 9, 2013 we read the following scary message in Adventist Today:

Pacific Press is Getting Out of the Business of Operating Bookstores

I'll summarize the most important points in this article.

1. The Pacific Press Publishing Association (founded in 1874), is one of two publishing houses which operate for the General Conference in North America. The other is the Review and Herald. The Pacific Press is returning responsibility for the 25 ABCs (Adventist bookstores) back to the local conferences that gave the responsibility to the publisher 15 years ago. At that time, the bookstores could not operate profitably.
2. This means the closure of bookstores, because they cannot exist on their own and are not supported financially. Neither by the General Conference, nor the publisher, nor by the local conferences.
3. This decision was made effective December 31, 2013. (We also discovered this date in a time line in our forum.)
4. They justify the decision based on the fact that buyer behavior has supposedly changed as a result of new technologies like the Internet, thus depriving the bookstores of their financial base.
5. An Adventist who had worked in the publishing industry said something that shows that the reason for the closures lies elsewhere. For 10 years there has been a decline in direct sales of books vs. e-book sales. Only bookstores with a good location and plenty of public traffic operate more profitably (e.g. an ABC in a shopping center in Maryland). However, almost all ABCs are housed in or near the office building of the local conferences, where there is virtually no public traffic. Thus, he says between the lines that they made huge management mistakes, and I say this was done on purpose, as we shall see.

6. For the first time I also read of a plan for these two Adventist publishing houses to merge. Thus far, they printed and published independently. Soon we will see what this merger means and what the real plan behind it is.

Anyone who thinks that the "conservative" Ted Wilson personally has nothing to do with it is mistaken again. He visited the Pacific Press in August of 2013, and with Jesuit daring twisted all of the Ellen White quotes that speak about the work of the fourth angel being carried out mainly by "publishing houses" and colporteurs. Here is an example of one such quote:

And in a large degree through our publishing houses is to be accomplished the work of that other angel who comes down from heaven with great power and who lightens the earth with his glory.

Solemn is the responsibility that rests upon our houses of publication. Those who conduct these institutions, those who edit the periodicals and prepare the books, standing as they do in the light of God's purpose, and called to give warning to the world, are held by God accountable for the souls of their fellow men. To them, as well as to the ministers of the word, applies the message given by God to His prophet of old: "Son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore thou shalt hear the word at My mouth, and warn them from Me. When I say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt surely die; if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand." Ezekiel 33:7, 8. {7T 140.3-4}

With all the trash that has been sold in the ABC's while Ellen White's books gather dust on the shelves, we'll have to ask ourselves what a true godly "house of publication" is. Who are His true writers and literature evangelists? Isn't it remarkable that Ellen White quotes Ezekiel here in connection with the fourth angel? We have been saying for some time that the book of Ezekiel is the book for the 144,000 and the fourth angel's message, like the book of Daniel was the book for the SDA church under the third angel. God has His own ways and opens new ways when the leaders think they are safe to destroy His work. Put into the right perspective, Ted Wilson's words from August 15, 2013 sound like a bad omen (for the apostate part of the SDA church) which is now being fulfilled before our eyes:

"Sometimes the plans we think may be the best in a given situation, may not be what God has in mind."

In the remainder of this Pacific Press article, however, it is difficult to see what the merger of the two Adventist publishing houses really means, and that is why I couldn't write about these things back then or even just draw conclusions about the impending consequences. But recently as I looked into the matter further, a YouTube video by Pastor Brandon Coy opened my eyes. He interviews a Seventh-day Adventist brother who "works with the Review and Herald" (perhaps the same one mentioned in the Adventist Today article).

Video: ABC and Review & Herald Close Down

I'll summarize the most important statements again so you can grasp the big picture with its terrible consequences:

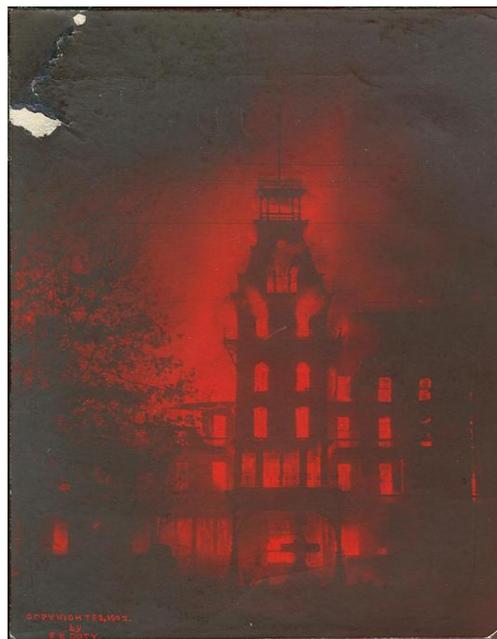

1. At the beginning, the brother emphasizes what Ellen White wrote about the importance of the publishing work. He uses the quote above about the work of the fourth angel and says that the current situation scares him.
2. The Review and Herald will completely cease printing books, although it will continue to exist as a publishing house in name with an office at the headquarters of GC in Silver Spring, MD.
3. The Ellen White books—like The Desire of Ages and The Great Controversy—will no longer be printed.
4. The Pacific Press, as the last Adventist printing house, will be absorbed by the North American Division (NAD) and will thus be completely under its control.
5. These things have already been decided, but on June 17, 2014 everything goes into effect by vote. [\[This date will concern us more toward the end of the article.\]](#)
6. The two institutions that were previously autonomous will now be "absorbed" by the Church at various levels!
7. We only have the Pacific Press that can print, but what will happen if a fire destroys the Pacific Press? Then we would have no way to print our literature or for colporteurs to receive it for distribution during the Loud Cry.

Let me briefly interrupt the interview. The brother seems to know exactly what Ellen G. White said about the two terrible fires of the wayward sanitarium in Battle Creek and the Review and Herald publishing house:

When the Battle Creek Sanitarium was destroyed [\[on February 18, 1902\]](#), Christ gave Himself to defend the lives of men and women. In this destruction God was appealing to His people to return to Him. And in the destruction of the Review and Herald office [\[on December 30, 1902\]](#), and the saving of life, He makes a second appeal to them. He desires them to see that the miracle-working power of the Infinite has been exercised to save life, that every worker may have opportunity to repent and be converted. God says: "If they turn to Me, I will restore to them the joy of My salvation. But if they continue to walk in their own way, I will come still closer; and affliction shall come upon the families who claim to believe the truth, but who do not practice the truth, who do not make the Lord God of Israel their fear and their dread." {8T 102.3}

In the visions of the night, I saw a sword of fire hung out over Battle Creek. Brethren, God is in earnest with us. I want to tell you that if after the warnings given in these burnings, the leaders of our people go right on, just as they have done in the past, exalting themselves, God will take the bodies next. Just as surely as He lives, He will speak to them in language that they cannot fail to understand. God is watching us to see if we will humble ourselves before Him as little children. I speak these words now that we may come to Him in humility and contrition, and find out what He requires of us. {4MR 367.2}

I was instructed that there was so manifest a disregard of the Word of God, given in the testimonies of His Holy Spirit, that the Lord would turn and overturn, visiting Battle Creek with His judgments. . . . I am well aware of the conditions existing in both the Review and Herald Publishing Company and the Sanitarium. I have received instruction as to why these large buildings were destroyed by fire. I am sure that unless the management of these institutions is conducted more after God's order, there will be further revelations of God's displeasure. {From The Publishing Ministry, pp. 172-173}

Has the time now come for Ellen White's prophecy to fulfill? Is there "so manifest a disregard of the Word of God" on the part of today's SDA leadership? Where will the fire come down, when the Review and Herald has its office in the headquarters building of the General Conference from June 17, 2014 onward?

Let's continue with the summary of the interview:

8. The next question is: what will happen to the literature evangelists (colporteurs)? The brother seems to be helpless, because no one knows how to work without books being printed. However, he says that according to Ellen White, there will be work for colporteurs until the closing of the door of mercy, but not for pastors. He also says that the traditional method can only work if books are available. If not, then God will find another way. [And you have just such in front of your eyes right now as you read these lines. We are working day and night on the publication of the truth, peppered with excerpts from the works of Ellen White, giving you the most important substance in a concentrated form because "what we have been years learning, they will have to learn in a few months." {EW 67.2}]
9. As the reason for his willingness to do this interview, the brother says that it is about the souls that will be lost because no books will be printed. This is about "eternal things" and "eternal life," and not about finances and money.
10. Due to the fact that "the church is not supporting [the Review and Herald] in such a way that it could keep going," the old building must be given up, and many employees will be laid off. If the Review would not have agreed to the plan of the General Conference, then financial collapse would be the only option left. [\[Did you expect this of your "dear" Ted Wilson? In Germany we say "someone put a gun to their chest."\]](#)

11. There are different figures on how many employees will lose their jobs (between 40 and 100 were mentioned). Some will go to the Pacific Press in Idaho; others will have a job in the new Review office in Silver Spring, MD. But most will have to find a new job.
12. The Review and Herald existed long before the denomination got a name in 1863. It represents Adventism as a whole. To do the work of God means to publish literature. We can understand what happened in the time of the pioneers today only because they published it. The Word of God reaches the ends of the earth through publication. With sadness, he adds: "Somehow, things have changed."
13. "They're going to be saving money, but how many souls are going to have to pay the cost?"
14. The Review and Herald was not "independent" of the Church, but still had autonomy and the ability to make decisions on its own. This autonomy is completely lost now, however. It has been "absorbed," and is now under the total control of the GC. [\[The Roman principle of kingly power applies here.\]](#)
15. "We need a revival...not programs...we need God to do some changes in our hearts...because the end of all things is at hand." [\[Thus he speaks of Ted Wilson's false revival and reformation program. We have written about that in the section Under False Flag.\]](#)
16. The dear brother again emphasizes that all the eggs are being put in one basket. But what if the Pacific Press burns down? It already happened in Ellen White's time. The angel with the flaming sword stood over the sanitarium and the Review in 1902. Four years later, the Pacific Press also burned down. That was shortly after rebuilding in the wake of the great earthquake of San Francisco. People at the time recognized that it was the judgments of God due to their mismanagement.
17. Pastor Coy asks if all this could be a possible harbinger for the end of the work and the end of time, because Adventism really started with the publishing operation, and now we see these houses closing. The brother's response leaves no doubt: "If the Review and Herald can close, what institution is left? What institution is not vulnerable? Loma Linda? Our whole health care system? Our churches? Everything is so linked together. There is no autonomy, no separation that if one part gets pulled and falls, all of it can fall. So if they can close the Review because of financial things, what's to say that next Sabbath there won't be a church?" [\[We have also written about that in Checkmate for the Adventist Church.\]](#)
18. Our brother continues: "[God] doesn't need structure. He needs people to move....What happened to the Jews seems to be happening to us. That's the scary part. That means that if the Messiah comes to us, we may be just as unready as were the people who heard the first evangelist come, at the shepherds who were called into the evangelism field to go into Jerusalem and tell them that the Messiah was born and nobody was willing to hear the message. Are we willing to hear the message? Are we watching the signs of the times? It's really scary....I really want to warn God's people because it's not about me. I am nobody. It's about Christ and His work. And if we're not doing His work, what need does He have of us?...We are Adventists, we're Protestants. And if we're not protesting like God wants us to protest, He can call...any other people from any other place in the world and give them this truth and send them out. Our heritage is spiritual. Our heritage is not physical. We're not Adventists by birth. It's by experience. You know, we need to be born again, or we're not His....Is the Lord...closing our institutions because of our disobedience? That's my question. My question for me, and my question for my church."

19. Pastor Coy summarizes again: "This video came out of a burden...to wake up [God's people] to the worldliness...that's been creeping into our church...[and] that we need to have a revival amongst our ranks."
20. Our literature evangelist brother emphasizes that Jesus represents Himself in the Laodicean message as a colporteur and medical missionary who knocks at the door. "He wasn't first knocking on the house of the world. He was knocking at the house of the church...But if the door is so barred with so many things that are piled up, so many programs that accomplish nothing, and so that you are not leaving your house to go with Him and knock on doors...and you're satisfied, you're rich and increased in with goods and have need of nothing, then Christ will find somebody in the highways and byways. Jesus is knocking at our door. And He will pass us by if we don't let Him in. But if we overcome and open the door, He promises to come in. And that's the angel that will give us the glory that we need. The—not the outward glory, but the inward change of life."
21. In the closing prayer, Pastor Coy makes yet another very important statement: "Lord, there's been an attack on Protestantism. We see that the pope of Rome has called for Protestants to disband, to do away with the Protestant Reformation, and to come back to Mother Rome. During this dark time, Lord we see that our publishing houses are closing at the very time, the very hour that we need them most to be able to spread those pamphlets and those papers like the leaves of autumn, we are being attacked. Lord, I pray that You would cause this video to help wake people up. Wake people up to realize that we are in the very last hours before Jesus comes..."

Now I can finally say "amen" with all my heart for once. These two brothers have come to realize what is going on, and this is evidence that the Holy Spirit is working in them. You should pay attention again! First the prevailing ills in the church become clear to both of them. They sigh and cry about it because of their love for Jesus and the souls who are in danger of losing their eternal life. Then both at suddenly emphasize that the end is near. Anyone who is that close to discovering the fourth angel will discover very quickly how near we are to the end of time on this earth. This must have a reason which the worthy reader will find out for himself.

The Threefold Spell

Remember the key point in Ellen White's dream, when the General Conference transformed into a Catholic procession before her eyes...

The company now presented the appearance of a Catholic procession. One bore in his hand a cross, another a reed. And as they approached, the one carrying a reed made a circle around the house, saying three times: "This house is proscribed. The goods must be confiscated. They have spoken against our holy order." {1T 577.2}

The spell that was cast upon the house of Ellen White was pronounced three times. This indicates three levels of attack against the testimonies of the prophetess. We already recognized two of them: the attack on The Great Controversy and the stop to the printing of her books. What else could be planned?

1. A New Bible Commentary, edited by the Jesuit named Ángel Manuel Rodriguez

As The Great Controversy was slashed beyond recognition, so it happens to our seven- or eight-volume work, which is often very helpful and appears fairly unchanged since the fifties. With the lead "scholar" Ángel Manuel Rodriguez as editor over "an international team of Adventist scholars," they have made Azazel the gardener! (Imagine what would happen if you turn a goat loose in your garden.) As long-time president of the BRI, his work has only produced Jesuit fruits and the complete rejection of the Orion message. The new commentary will be only a single volume, which shows how much they are going to delete again to make our theology consistent with the ecumenical movement.

The timing speaks volumes, however. They announced this new Bible commentary on April 24, 2013, three days before the gamma-ray burst as a Sign of Jonah for the apostate Church (as well as the beginning of the last triplet of The Vessel of Time). It was timed in complete accordance with the schedule of the Vatican. On the evening of that day, we held our holy Lord's Supper for the true Passover of 2013, while the SDA church introduced this new diabolical plan. It will start to bear fruit in July of 2015 during the General Conference Session in San Antonio, after the thing is published. The date of its appearance at the General Conference Session (July 2–11, 2015) coincides perfectly with the beginning of the sixth trumpet and the releasing of the four winds (July 8, 2015). Of course, there will no longer be a volume 7-A, which summarized all of Ellen White's comments on the Bible. Ellen White's legacy would be cursed for the third time.

2. The "disclosure" of all the writings of Ellen White

What many might think is a blessing can also backfire, especially if the responsibility is placed in the wrong hands. Many Adventists might not even know that a significant part of the Spirit of Prophecy writings is managed by the Ellen G. White Estate and was never made publicly available. Those who know it have been demanding a public database loudly for a long time. They want to see these writings on the Internet. It is about scans of manuscripts for published texts as well as many manuscripts that have never been published.

It is difficult for me to find the right angle here without putting the Spirit of Prophecy, which Ellen G. White doubtless had, into the wrong light. I stand 100% behind what Ellen White said! But with the erroneous interpretations of our own brothers and sisters and their baseless statements against time setting (see A Word of Advice), we know that her writings can also be used against the light of the fourth angel. Her writings are often used against the truth in other areas too. They make her say things that she never meant, because they tear her writings out of context. Having written and published over 100,000 pages in her life, it is a miracle in itself that there are only a few apparent contradictions in it. But even that offers enough fodder for hundreds of anti-Allen White websites.

The administrators of the Ellen G. White Estate certainly knew during the 100 years after the death of the prophetess, why certain writings should not be made publicly available. For example, there are hundreds of posts in our study forum, where we discussed possible fulfillments of time prophecy with our members and tried to figure out if God's plan includes even more timelines. That is a brainstorming session that is not necessarily "inspired". While we do believe that our published materials are inspired by God, many of our forum articles are certainly not and contain known errors, which is completely normal. We leave those articles to document our honest search for truth, open to the inspection of our well-meaning forum members. The process of finding truth is a tedious and difficult one. There are even manuscripts and drafts from me that have not been published because I saw that I had written more from the suffering that the church caused my soul, than for the fulfillment of God's mission to warn the church.

But if our enemies could see and publicize such materials, then their malicious presentation of well-intentioned research or private letters could certainly cause great harm. To be frank: personally, I don't think that the apostate church has an honest and well-intentioned divine plan behind the sudden release of all of Ellen White's writings.

Furthermore, I suspect that they want to feed the opponents of Adventism with even more material. I imagine the real effect of the disclosure of all Ellen White writings will be just like the General Conference represented through Ted Wilson regarding the great benefit for Adventism that it would be to distribute millions of copies of The Great Controversy during his tenure: it ended in the debacle of the distribution of the pamphlet The Great Hope. They ultimately want to hold the Spirit of Prophecy up for ridicule. Many Adventists who are still faithful might hope for more beautiful or clear statements of the prophetess, but that surely won't be fulfilled by a General Conference that is equivalent to a procession of Jesuits. God certainly would have made sure that more of the writings of the Spirit of Prophecy had been published in the last hundred years if that had been His plan.

Again, the timing is highly interesting! It's a rather complicated multi-stage plan, which was announced by the White Estate right on time on June 10, 2013. We were preparing for the Pentecost High Sabbath of June 15, 2013. A storm broke out for us, representative for the Adventist Church, and it uprooted a huge tree as a symbol of the cut-down fig tree of Luke 13. We are now approaching the anniversary of that event! (Read the parable!)

In the autumn of 2014 (at the beginning of the third trumpet) a dedicated website will be launched for the publication. The dedication of a new visitor center is planned for the General Conference Session in July 2015, along with the appearance of a new year-book on Ellen White and some other minor activities.

The real disclosure will not take place until July 16, 2015 and it will involve several steps until November 26, 2015. Thus the whole "disclosure" will occupy a three-month period before the time of plagues (October 25, 2015) and will end during the plagues. That time frame was certainly not chosen arbitrarily. The Jesuits are well-informed of the Orion message and the Vessel of Time, and they know the exact date when the 144,000 must be sealed. That is why they will start that last major attack at that time. In this article we will also have to give careful thought as to when the 144,000 really need to be sealed.

However, that's still not enough for the triple spell...

The Adventist Review reported a spectacular event on May 20, 2014, with the title Unprecedented Meeting Examines Church's Missional Structure. The "historic meeting of administrative leaders of the Adventist Church in North America" took place May 13-15 in Washington "to discuss the future of the church and its structure, organization and mission."

Their assurances almost sounded ridiculous when 95% of the administrative leaders announced—when asked—that they would be willing to leave their offices if it would serve the mission of the Church. (No one there actually believes that it would be necessary. They are already in Rome's boat.)

Dan Jackson then promptly offered his praise to those "godly delegates" with the words: "This selfless spirit demonstrates a real desire to honestly examine our current organizational and missional delivery systems and how they need to be adapted to make the Adventist Church more relevant to our communities in the 21st century."

Do you have any idea what this is about yet?

The completely rebellious NAD is looking for a way to better integrate with the ecumenical movement! For that purpose, the priorities of a three-part plan were now presented, to be studied and reported on at the NAD Year-end Meeting in 2014.

The circle that was made with the reed was called "Shaping the NAD of Tomorrow" and the triple spell was as follows:

1. “Develop a branding strategy for Adventism tied to a clearer positive sense of our identity, empowering members to mingle with the secular community including opening our churches more hours to be available to local communities;”

What does that mean? Wasn't Adventism already positive? Are we ashamed of our identity, to need a new one? What does it mean to mingle with the secular community? Have we become politicians and city councilmen, and do we offer our meeting halls to the political parties, so they will treat us nicely at the Sunday Law? I get stomach aches writing about it! A person simply cannot believe what is said there!

2. “Make recommendations specifying ways that administration and ministries of the church can streamline operations and eliminate duplications where unnecessary at every level;”

This means total control down to the individual member over what each can do in his mission field. No self-initiative will ever be allowed without the direct oversight of the church leadership. Before you offer a Bible lesson to your neighbor, you will first need to submit a form to your local church, where it will get scrutinized all the way up to the NAD leadership to see if your intention could not be more easily accomplished with an ecumenically processed video produced by the Church. A year later, you will get the video to give to your neighbor who is already suffering from the ulcer of the first plague. The kingly power of Rome stops at nothing!

3. “Assign to a representative commission the challenge of exploring at least three scenarios for the redistribution of financial support from members for furthering the mission of the church.”

Now they are also robbing tithes and offerings from God and speaking of redistribution of funds. There is no word about Ellen White and what she has to say. Of course it is also about open rebellion against the General Conference, which regards itself as the only "storehouse for God's money". That is wrong too. You can see the internal rift in the church. When it comes to money, they will surely arm their atomic bombs because Ted Wilson knows no forgiveness or pity on that issue, not even feigned. Maybe, just maybe, someone will get an idea as to who is actually worthy to receive tithes and offerings, and who has the authority to be The Voice of God in these last days. I even put together an external document on the issue of tithes and offerings, since the topic is beyond the scope of this article.

When Ellen White saw in her dreams all this suffering and betrayal of all our Adventist heritage and identity as God's people, her reaction is only too well understandable:

I wept and prayed much as I saw our goods confiscated. I tried to read sympathy or pity for me in the looks of those around me, and marked the countenances of several whom I thought would speak to me and comfort me if they did not fear that they would be observed by others. I made one attempt to escape from the crowd, but seeing that I was watched, I concealed my intentions. I commenced weeping aloud, and saying: “If they would only tell me what I have done or what I have said!” My husband, who was sleeping in a bed in the same room, heard me weeping aloud and awoke me. My pillow was wet with tears, and a sad depression of spirits was upon me.

The big question that all loyal and crying Adventists have is: Will God view all this with impunity for a long time without doing anything to purify His church? And who will stand when this purification does begin, which is generally known as the shaking in Adventism. In any case, Ellen White sighed and cried about the terrible condition she saw in the church in the last days. This reminds us of the only group of people in the prophecy of Ezekiel in chapter 9 who get a sign on the forehead, and thereby escape a great massacre:

And the LORD said unto him, Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a mark upon the foreheads of the men that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof. (Ezekiel 9:4)

The men with slaughter weapons

Let's start at the beginning... The vision of Ezekiel, which we will consider now, begins in chapter 8 with the appearance of a man who is described as follows:

Then I beheld, and lo a likeness as the appearance of fire: from the appearance of his loins even downward, fire; and from his loins even upward, as the appearance of brightness, as the colour of amber. (Ezekiel 8:2)

Our Bible Commentary (the old one) reports that Ezekiel was given another theophany here, which means nothing less than that Jesus Himself appeared here. He is the One in the Divine Trio who is identified by His human form. Take other very similar descriptions of Christ too, with fire and amber (e.g. Revelation 1:14).

During the course of Chapter 8, the LORD shows His prophet Ezekiel the terrible abominations that are practiced in Jerusalem and in His temple.

And he put forth the form of an hand, and took me by a lock of mine head; and the spirit lifted me up between the earth and the heaven, and brought me in the visions of God to Jerusalem, to the door of the inner gate that looketh toward the north; where was the seat of the image of jealousy, which provoketh to jealousy. (Ezekiel 8:3)

Thus the prophet is led closer and closer to the sanctuary of the Lord. In this chapter we will witness the growing provocations in God's church, as we have mentioned in dozens of articles already and once again in this one.

The culminating point of the apostasy and abominations is described by the reaching of the entrance of the temple as follows:

And he brought me into the inner court of the LORD'S house, and, behold, at the door of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, with their backs toward the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east; and they worshipped the sun toward the east. Then he said unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? Is it a light thing to the house of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here? for they have filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger: and, lo, they put the branch to their nose. Therefore will I also deal in fury: mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity: and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them. (Ezekiel 8:16-18)

Isn't it interesting that since 1901 there have been about twenty-five men comprising the Executive Committee of the General Conference, who actually have the say along with the president?

The Executive Committee of this [SDA] Conference shall be twenty-five in number... (1901 General Conference Bulletin, page 379, article 4, section 1, column 1, paragraph 2)

Many might counter that the Executive Committee now comprised of about 300 - 400 members, but in reality there is another small subgroup ruling over them, and it consists of only about twenty-five members of the inner circle of fully-Jesuit sun-worshippers, exactly like the Bible text says with "about":

"Here at the General Conference, the highest decision-making committee, of course, is the General Conference Committee [Executive Committee]. There is a committee that we term 'General Conference Officers' which is made up of about twenty-five or twenty-six individuals--president, secretaries, and treasurers, with a few other invited individuals. This committee is a screening committee that determines the items that need to go to the General Conference Committee." Letter from the Office of the President of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, B.E. Jacobs-Administrative Assistant to the President, November 1, 1990.

Not even our old Bible Commentary finds a historical or classical explanation for the 25 people, so we have to assume that Ellen White was right once again when she said that the prophets prophesied less for their time than for ours {CTr 357.2}. So, as we go with Ezekiel in Chapter 8 from the city walls of Jerusalem/Rome where the abomination of "Jesuit Pope Francis" has been erected since his election on March 13, 2013, passing apostate Protestantism with its 70 Kenneth Copelands burning incense with strange fire and adoring reptiles, reaching the gate of the courtyard of the temple and going past the women who are ordained for the Tammuz worship of Neo-Adventism at the entrance of the gate, coming to the inner court of the Lord's house with its about twenty-five traitors of the Advent people at the temple door, so the wrath of God will be poured out in the opposite direction—from the inside out—over all the apostate and self-satisfied Christians...

For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God? (1 Peter 4:17)

The leaders and preachers of today's Adventism avoid the subject of Ezekiel 9. Thus it is a fact little-known in the church that Ellen White applies this chapter directly to the church. She unconditionally prophesies that the apostate part of the church that does not "sigh and cry" will suffer exactly what the terrible words of God Himself have threatened...

Who are standing in the counsel of God at this time? Is it those who virtually excuse wrongs among the professed people of God and who murmur in their hearts, if not openly, against those who would reprove sin? Is it those who take their stand against them and sympathize with those who commit wrong? No, indeed! Unless they repent, and leave the work of Satan in oppressing those who have the burden of the work [who has this responsibility today?] and in holding up the hands of sinners in Zion, they will never receive the mark of God's sealing approval. They will fall in the general destruction of the wicked, represented by the work of the five men bearing slaughter weapons. Mark this point with care: Those who receive the pure mark of truth, wrought in them by the power of the Holy Ghost, represented by a mark by the man in linen, are those "that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done" in the church. Their love for purity and the honor and glory of God is such, and they have so clear a view of the exceeding sinfulness of sin, that they are represented as being in agony, even sighing and crying. Read the ninth chapter of Ezekiel.

But the general slaughter of all those who do not thus see the wide contrast between sin and righteousness, and do not feel as those do who stand in the counsel of God and receive the mark, is described in the order to the five men with slaughter weapons: "Go ye after him through the city, and smite: let not your eye spare, neither have ye pity: slay utterly old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and begin at My sanctuary." {3T 267.1-2}

Keep in mind:

1. The text applies to our time and to the SDA church.
2. Ellen White makes it clear that it is the Holy Spirit who gives the protecting seal to those who recognize sin as such and sigh and cry about it.
3. She presents the somewhat vague text in Ezekiel 9:2 clearly and tells us that of the six men mentioned there, only five actually hold a slaughter weapon and the first is the Holy Spirit.

We need to look at the last point a little closer. First let's read the verse:

He cried also in mine ears with a loud voice, saying, Cause them that have charge over the city to draw near, even every man with his destroying weapon in his hand. And, behold, six men came from the way of the higher gate, which lieth toward the north, and every man a slaughter weapon in his hand; and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writer's inkhorn by his side: and they went in, and stood beside the brasen altar. (Ezekiel 9:1-2)

"Six men, every man a slaughter weapon in his hand." That would be six of God's soldiers who would kill. But there was "one man among them" who corresponds to the description of the sealing Holy Spirit. Is he one of the six, or is he a seventh in the middle of the six? Our soon-to-be non-existent Bible Commentary says:

One man among them. This man was one of the six bearing the slaughtering weapons, and not a seventh, as some interpreters assert (see 3T 266, 267). He was "clothed with linen," the ordinary priestly garment, and the special garment of the high priest at the ceremonies of the great Day of Atonement (Lev. 16). {SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 4; see on Ezekiel 9:2}

Do you understand why our Bible Commentary must disappear? The commentator refers to the above writings of Ellen White, who saw in vision that it is only about five men carrying slaughter weapons. The sanctuary doctrine is assumed, and the scenes shown us must take place during the investigative judgment on the Day of Atonement since 1844. Of course you cannot keep this in an ecumenical-friendly church; it all has to be erased and gone! Under higher criticism of the Bible, there is no sanctuary doctrine, no reapplication of old prophetic texts to our time, and certainly no Ellen G. White!

Yet, this is the only way to solve the mystery of Ezekiel 9, which we are slowly following the tracks of. This prophecy offers us the highest benefit. The mystery actually lies in the strange illustration of six men, which appears so different from the apocalyptic illustrations of seven seals, seven trumpets and seven plagues. I suspect that many interpreters have come to a certain idea when comparing Ezekiel 9 with the seven trumpets, which are also prophesying punishment judgments (with grace).

With grace? Yes, let's read...

And it came to pass, while they were slaying them, and I was left, that I fell upon my face, and cried, and said, Ah Lord GOD! wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel in thy pouring out of thy fury upon Jerusalem? Then said he unto me, The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is exceeding great, and the land is full of blood, and the city full of perverseness: for they say, The LORD hath forsaken the earth, and the LORD seeth not. And as for me also, mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity, but I will recompense their way upon their head. And, behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the inkhorn by his side, reported the matter, saying, I have done as thou hast commanded me. (Ezekiel 9:8-11)

You have to examine the text very carefully to see the truth. Although the Lord says that His eye will not spare and He will have no pity, the Holy Spirit, in the linen clothes of the high priest as a representative of Jesus, clearly shows that the grace period is not yet over when it comes to the cleansing of the church. Instead of being about the plagues, it is more likely about a time shortly before the closing of the door of mercy. We know it as the time of the latter rain, or the little time of trouble. Not until the last verse of chapter 9 does the Holy Spirit give the report that the sealing has been accomplished. As long as there is still sealing, there is still grace. During the time of plagues, nobody will be sealed anymore, and Jesus won't be wearing the high-priestly robes and longer, but rather the kingly robes.

Now I want to ask you to think independently about how to harmonize the six men of Ezekiel 9—the Holy Spirit and the five men with the slaughter weapons—with the seven trumpets of Revelation. Is it difficult? Our forum members needed quite a while to see it...

Let's look at the Bible text again, and pay attention to the exact sequence of actions of the six men:

And the LORD said unto him, [the Holy Spirit] Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and set a mark upon the foreheads of the men that sigh and that cry for all the abominations that be done in the midst thereof. And to the others [five with slaughter weapons] he said in mine hearing, Go ye after him through the city, and smite: let not your eye spare, neither have ye pity: (Ezekiel 9:4-5)

If we assign these six men to the trumpets, there would only be six trumpets. And that is the mystery of Ezekiel! How can we solve this?

The first trumpet must be the action of the Holy Spirit, which represents the sealing work that goes all the way to the end of Chapter 9, taking the verses in the order specified. After him, or while he goes ahead, the five men follow after him with their slaughter weapons. They have to be assigned to the second through sixth trumpets. So who comes back in the seventh trumpet? That's right, the circle is complete! The Holy Spirit comes again and gives the compliance report...

And, behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the inkhorn by his side, reported the matter, saying, I have done as thou hast commanded me. (Ezekiel 9:11)

Ezekiel 9 is actually the key to understanding how the trumpets work, and that they are stacked inside each other to some extent. The first trumpet goes throughout the trumpet cycle (at least until the four winds are released), and since the others follow, they also go through until the success report of the Holy Spirit completes the cycle at the seventh trumpet. The text of Ezekiel 9:11 corresponds to a carillon in heaven:

And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God, Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned. (Revelation 11:15-17)

When the 144,000 are all sealed and the martyrs will have fulfilled their testimony, then the Father will have won the case. Christ can put on the kingly robes and the plagues can fall.

And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come... (Revelation 11:18)

Take another careful look at the trumpet cycle:

The mystery of Ezekiel 9, how the six men can be harmonized with the seven trumpets, can only be solved with the cyclical nature of a clock—the Orion clock—because the Holy Spirit appears twice (first and seventh trumpet) as an angel (star) as the rider on the white horse (purity of the gospel).

No other movement on this earth can properly identify the parts of the problem of Ezekiel 9 or even begin to solve it correctly. At the same time, we have provided the first biblical proof of the often-raised but never-proven theory that the angels with trumpets each sound the alarm at a certain time, but then also continue to the end of the trumpet cycle itself. Those who saw the trumpets as stacked inside each other were right. They were only lacking the times (day dates). Now you can just simply read them!

The Loosing of the Four Winds

Do you understand now why nothing "exciting" happened at the first trumpet? It was the time of the Holy Spirit, who went alone beforehand in the core time of the first trumpet, which began with His descent as the fourth angel on January 31 to February 1 of this year. He went in front of the men with slaughter weapons as the rider on the white horse and blew the first trumpet of grace. He was the one who prevented the super volcano of Yellowstone National Park from destroying one-third of North America, and he was the one who prevented the Crimean crisis from claiming thousands of deaths.

But what about the other trumpets? When will the judgment begin for the apostate church? The second man already has a slaughter weapon in his hand. Because the judgment begins at the house of God and with the elders in the temple, something must happen during the core time of the second trumpet to fulfill this prophecy. We believe that many Adventist institutions will soon be judged with an unquenchable fire from God like the sanitarium in Battle Creek and the Review and Herald in 1902. God left the organized Adventist Church and gave Satan a free hand to wreak his destruction. We also believe that it must begin with the headquarter building of the General Conference in Silver Spring, MD, since the Bible text speaks of the elders of the house of God, which are addressed first.

Yet, we know there will still be grace because the sealing time will still be going on. There is a vision of Ellen White that hasn't been fully deciphered yet, and it will help us in our understanding of the trumpet cycle. It has been waiting for 165 years for this moment to be understood.

The vision is aptly titled The Sealing in the book Early Writings, and should be read completely once by everyone before reading any further here. I will pull out only the most important quotes.

Actually, there are two visions described in this chapter 4. A state of affairs that was not fully set forth to Ellen White in the first-mentioned vision is repeated twice in a second vision with more details. If we were Jews, then we would understand that as a special emphasis on the importance of that part of the vision.

First, our view is confirmed that the plague cycle can only begin after the trumpet cycle has completed:

I saw that the four angels would hold the four winds until Jesus' work was done in the sanctuary, and then will come the seven last plagues. {EW 36.2}

The loosing of the four winds happens in the sixth trumpet, according to the Bible text:

And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:13-15)

After that, Ellen White is shown that the death decree will go forth at the beginning of the time of plagues, and that the time of Jacob's trouble will thus begin and what destiny those will suffer who once recognized the Sabbath but did not keep it when they were tested. Then she sees a strange scene at the end of the first vision of Sabbath morning of January 5, 1849 mentioned in this chapter:

Then my attending angel directed me to the city again, where I saw four angels winging their way to the gate of the city. They were just presenting the golden card to the angel at the gate when I saw another angel flying swiftly from the direction of the most excellent glory, and crying with a loud voice to the other angels, and waving something up and down in his hand. I asked my attending angel for an explanation of what I saw. He told me that I could see no more then, but he would shortly show me what those things that I then saw meant. {EW 37.1}

It seems like the first scene of Daniel 8, when the good prophet got sick because he did not understand the vision. But Ellen White did not have to wait as long as poor Daniel for the details to be explained. On the same Sabbath afternoon, she had a second vision:

I saw four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and were on their way to accomplish it. Jesus was clothed with priestly garments. [So we are in the little time of trouble.] He gazed in pity on the remnant, then raised His hands, and with a voice of deep pity cried, "My blood, Father, My blood, My blood, My blood!" Then I saw an exceeding bright light come from God, who sat upon the great white throne, and was shed all about Jesus. Then I saw an angel with a commission from Jesus, swiftly flying to the four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and waving something up and down in his hand, and crying with a loud voice, "Hold! Hold! Hold! Hold! until the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads." {EW 38.1}

In the first vision of this special Sabbath, Ellen White saw a glimpse of the heavenly event surrounding the fourth (other) angel. In the second vision she was shown what consequences it would have on the movement of the fourth angel on earth, our ministry. For a long time, we wondered what the "angel" was waving up and down in his hand. It was probably the same for Ellen White, because in the second vision she asks again and gets an answer:

I asked my accompanying angel the meaning of what I heard, and what the four angels were about to do. He said to me that it was God that restrained the powers, and that He gave His angels charge over things on the earth; that the four angels had power from God to hold the four winds, and that they were about to let them go; but while their hands were loosening, and the four winds were about to blow, the merciful eye of Jesus gazed on the remnant that were not sealed, and He raised His hands to the Father and pleaded with Him that He had spilled His blood for them. Then another angel was commissioned to fly swiftly to the four angels and bid them hold, until the servants of God were sealed with the seal of the living God in their foreheads. {EW 38.2}

Until January 31, 2014, it would have been impossible for us to interpret these visions correctly. But then the fourth angel came down with something that he was waving up and down before our eyes. It was the chart of the trumpet cycle that I had gotten the night before my sermon on January 31 in the evening. And for this cycle, which is only one last repetition of many trumpet cycles, there are special instructions that had not been previously given. The winds (wars and disasters) were to be held back until the sealing is completed.

Now you have to think carefully: Which trumpets do the four "holds" of Jesus apply to? We have seven trumpets, but only four "holds." There cannot be a "hold" for the sixth trumpet because it represents the loosing of the four winds, and thus, logically, that the sealing itself must be completed. There is no "hold" needed for the first trumpet because he isn't carrying a slaughter weapon. So the command for us to hold the four winds applies to the second, third, fourth and fifth trumpets.

To have authority over the four winds is just figurative, of course. We cannot cause judgments to fall and do not want to, although our patience is tried. Naturally we would like to come from studying to seeing (we would like to release the four winds), but Jesus demands more patience of us. Our authority is of a prophetic art. Our authority is limited to the understanding of the prophetic texts and the ability to interpret visions, such as the one above, today and in a right manner.

But where is it written in the text that these orders are really written for the second to fifth trumpets? Isn't that just our assumption without further backing than the vision itself?

Let's look at the trumpet chart above again and imagine Jesus with His wounds in Orion, like I illustrated years ago on slide 173 of the Orion presentation. Which wounds correspond to the second through fifth trumpets? We have no problem connecting the third and fourth trumpets with the hands of Jesus.

In judgment cycle, I interpreted the throne lines (the second and fifth trumpets) as the cross of Jesus, but He raised His hands with the censer up to align with the stars Betelgeuse and Bellatrix.

Even if we stay with the interpretation of the throne lines as a cross for the trumpet cycle, however, Jesus' hands would be symbolically nailed to the horizontal beams (the cross beam or the throne lines).

In that way, the second trumpet would correspond to the right hand of Jesus on the cross, while the third trumpet would be the same hand, just lifted up. Likewise, on the other side of the trumpet cycle: the fourth trumpet would be Jesus' raised left hand and the fifth trumpet would be the one positioned on the cross.

It also seems logical that in asking the Father to hold the winds, Jesus would ask with His hands and not with His feet or His side. If you read the text of the vision attentively (and with my emphasis), then it even says it exactly that way. In the third repetition of the scene in the vision, we have the hands of Jesus in plural and also the movement from the "resting position on the cross" through the raising of the right and left hands from the throne lines to Betelgeuse and Bellatrix, respectively:

...and He raised His hands to the Father and pleaded with Him that He had spilled His blood for them. Then another angel was commissioned to fly swiftly to the four angels and bid them hold, until the servants of God were sealed with the seal of the living God in their foreheads. {EW 38.2}

Consequently, the four men with the slaughter weapons are limited by the restriction ordered by Jesus Himself. That makes His blood effective so that the destruction caused by the trumpet angels will not be so terrible that no flesh could be saved, although Satan would like it so.

When you consider what could have happened in the first two trumpets (read Trumpets with a Certain Sound again), then we can only be eternally grateful to Jesus for His intercessory service. The great Adventist publishing houses of the Review and Herald and the Pacific Press were actually intended to do the work, but since we are doing it with our little "publishing and printing" work instead, we can be grateful that we aren't having to do continue it under the unspeakably difficult circumstances. We still have Internet access and contact with you folks around the world, and we can still give this last message with our last strength.

The Rivers of Eden

We have dealt with the loosing of the four winds in this article, but according to the Bible these are bound in the great river Euphrates.

And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:13-15)

As Josiah Litch predicted the exact day of the fulfillment of the sixth classical trumpet with the fall of the Ottoman Empire on August 11, 1840 {see Maranatha 152}, so the sound of the sixth trumpet on July 8, 2015 will be so clear that no one will doubt our studies. Meanwhile, the sealing time will have been completed for the 144,000, because the four angels will hold the winds until they are all sealed... so whoever doubts that long surely cannot belong to the 144,000!

And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree. And I saw another angel ascending from the east [east = Orion], having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. (Revelation 7:1-3)

Here we find the biblical counterpart to Ellen White's twofold vision under the previous heading. But what does it have to do with the river Euphrates, which finds another special mention in the plague cycle?

And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east [east = Orion] might be prepared. (Revelation 16:12)

A few commentators have already recognized that the kings of the east are the Divine Trio—the Father, Christ and the Holy Spirit. We can read that—or at least something very similar—in our (still existing) Bible Commentary:

According to the second view "the kings of the east" represent Christ and those accompanying Him. This view bases the term "kings of the east," like the other symbolic expressions of Rev. 16:12, on the historical incident of Cyrus conquering Babylon and later releasing God's people, the Jews, to return to their native land. {SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 7; see on Revelation 16:12}

In the Bible Commentary, we also learn that the Euphrates was actually the river that flowed through the city of Babylon. What happened back then, when the Persians penetrated Babylon and the Mene Tekel for the Babylonian king Belshazzar fulfilled the very same night (see Daniel 5)?

It was Cyrus who conquered the city of Babylon after he had diverted the Euphrates and invaded the city through the dry river bed. That happened on October 13, 539 B.C. Cyrus was prophesied by name in Isaiah 44 and 45 as "the anointed of the Lord," and thus he stands as a type for Christ Himself. That strongly corroborates the above view that the river Euphrates will dry out at the second coming of Jesus, and that that is the true meaning of the kings of the east.

But how do we understand these verses for our time? What does it mean that the river Euphrates will literally dry up to prepare for the second coming of Jesus?

To understand this, we need to transition from the last book of the Bible to the first, where the Euphrates is named for the first time:

And the LORD God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil. And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads. The name of the first is Pison: that is it which compasseth the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold; And the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx stone. And the name of the second river is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia. And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates. (Genesis 2:8-14)

Historians and archaeologists wanted to use the description of the four main streams of the river emanating from the Garden of Eden to locate it. But unfortunately:

10. A river. Much scholarly effort has been put forth in an endeavor to clarify vs. 10-14, but a satisfactory explanation will probably never be found, because the surface of the earth after the Flood bore little resemblance to what it had been before. A catastrophe of such magnitude as to elevate lofty mountain ranges and to form the vast areas of ocean could hardly have left such lesser surface features as rivers untouched. We therefore cannot hope to identify antediluvian geographical terms with present-day surface features of the earth, except as Inspiration may do so for us (see PP 105-108). {SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 1; see on Genesis 2:10}

Furthermore, we would look in vain on this earth for the Garden of Eden:

The Garden of Eden remained upon the earth long after man had become an outcast from its pleasant paths. The fallen race were long permitted to gaze upon the home of innocence, their entrance barred only by the watching angels. At the cherubim-guarded gate of Paradise the divine glory was revealed. Hither came Adam and his sons to worship God. Here they renewed their vows of obedience to that law the transgression of which had banished them from Eden. When the tide of iniquity overspread the world, and the wickedness of men determined their destruction by a flood of waters, the hand that had planted Eden withdrew it from the earth. But in the final restitution, when there shall be "a new heaven and a new earth" (Revelation 21:1), it is to be restored more gloriously adorned than at the beginning. {PP 62.2}

But God doesn't write anything useless in His Word; we've seen that confirmed many times. And if He spans the connection from the Euphrates of Eden to the second coming of Christ where He mentions it again, then it is our sacred duty to investigate it.

The river that proceeded out of the Garden of Eden is described beyond doubt as dividing into four more streams. These four rivers are even numbered and presented in a very specific order in the Bible. Flowing water often represents a flow of time or a certain succession of events in the history of mankind and the universe. The same applies here when we talk about the earthly counterpart, the river of the water of life that flows out of Eden, as a symbol for the heavenly river that emanates from the throne of God.

And he shewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. (Revelation 22:1-2)

Jesus Himself referred to His doctrine as the water of life:

And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely. (Revelation 22:17)

*Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water. (John 4:10)

Therefore, the four rivers of Eden stand for the water of life in four different epochs of human history. Let the Holy Spirit guide us as we study the names of the rivers to see if we can find out which periods of human history are especially emphasized with the gift of the water of eternal life from God.

The name of the first is Pison: that is it which compasseth the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold; And the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx stone. (Genesis 2:11-12)

The Strong's gives us information on the meaning of the Hebrew names:

H6376

פִּישׁוֹן

pîyshôn

From H6335; dispersive; Pishon, a river of Eden: - Pison.

It makes reference to H6335 as a root. Looking at the word in more detail:

פִּשׁ

pûsh

A primitive root; to spread; figuratively act proudly: - grow up, be grown fat, spread selves, be scattered.

Do you know a nation or a people who acted proudly and were therefore scattered to the four winds by God?

The prophecy against Israel in Deuteronomy tells us that it is about the people of Israel who suffered the diaspora:

And the LORD shall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD shall lead you. (Deuteronomy 4:27)

This people had the duty to give the water of life to their environment, but did not do their job:

Isaiah describes Him as the "rock of ages," and "the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." Isaiah 26:4 (margin); 32:2. And he records the precious promise, bringing vividly to mind the living stream that flowed for Israel: "When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst, I the Lord will hear them, I the God of Israel will not forsake them." "I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods upon the dry ground;" "in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert." The invitation is given, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters." Isaiah 41:17; 44:3; Isaiah 35:6; 55:1. And in the closing pages of the Sacred Word this invitation is echoed. The river of the water of life, "clear as crystal," proceeds from the throne of God and the Lamb; and the gracious call is ringing down through the ages, "Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely." Revelation 22:17. {PP 413.2}

The stream Pison compasses the land of Havilah. That word means "circular" and comes from a simple root H2342, which suggests birth pains among other things. In fact, the sprout, Jesus Christ, was born of the Jewish nation. That is another very early prophecy that Christ would one day be born of the Jews. Just as the gold in Daniel's statue stood for Babylon—a nation rather hostile to God—here it is the gold of the land of Havilah. It stands for God's first people who were still gold compared to what was to come next. That's why God also mentions that the gold of that land "is good."

About the characteristics of bdellium and the onyx stone, our Bible Commentary scholars have no idea. I do.

Bdellium means pearl and brings to mind the 12 pearly gates of the Holy City, which in turn stand for the 12 tribes of the "new" Israel.

And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl: and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass. (Revelation 21:21)

The onyx stones stand for the stones of memorial with the names of the 12 ancient tribes of Israel, which the high priest carried on his shoulders.

And thou shalt take two onyx stones, and grave on them the names of the children of Israel: Six of their names on one stone, and the other six names of the rest on the other stone, according to their birth. With the work of an engraver in stone, like the engravings of a signet, shalt thou engrave the two stones with the names of the children of Israel: thou shalt make them to be set in ouches of gold. And thou shalt put the two stones upon the shoulders of the ephod for stones of memorial unto the children of Israel: and Aaron shall bear their names before the LORD upon his two shoulders for a memorial. (Exodus 28:9-12)

Since it is now clear that the first river represented the Jewish nation, which was God's first people here on earth, we should have an easier time finding His second nation in the second river. Therefore, the Bible text need not offer many clues:

And the name of the second river is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia. (Genesis 2:13)

Gihon simply means river and comes from...

H1518

gîyach gôach

ghee'-akh, go'-akh

A primitive root; to gush forth (as water), generally to issue: - break forth, labor to bring forth, come forth, draw up, take out.

In the early rain, which was given on Pentecost in 31 A.D., the water of the Holy Spirit began to flow and be poured out on the early Christians. The good news of Jesus Christ was put into circulation and gushed forth like a great river of Jesus' blood and the love of God. The apostles worked diligently to bring forth the first fruits, and Christianity came forth. They were also writing the gospels.

But not everything went as they wished. Cush the son of Ham, the son of Noah—or the land of Cush (Ethiopia) stands for the making of Nimrod, the first one to build cities and the first metropolitan among the master builders or architects of the Tower of Babel. Today, his "spiritual" successors are the popes, and thus the land of Cush stands for the papacy, which unfortunately emerged from the Christian era that spanned from A.D. 31 to 1798.

And Cush begat Nimrod: he began to be a mighty one in the earth....And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. Out of that land went forth Asshur, and builded Nineveh, and the city Rehoboth, and Calah, And Resen between Nineveh and Calah: the same is a great city. (Genesis 10:8-12)

Let's find the third epoch that God describes with the name of a river:

And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth toward the east of Assyria... (Genesis 2:14)

Neither the Bible Commentary nor the Strong's have many ideas about this river. But we have the Holy Scripture, which interprets itself. Where else is the Hiddekel mentioned?

There is only one more place where the Hiddekel appears in Scripture, namely in chapter 10 of the book of Daniel when Jesus personally appears to the prophet in a tremendous vision that runs to the end of Chapter 12, and thus continues to the end of the book.

And in the four and twentieth day of the first month, as I was by the side of the great river, which is Hiddekel; Then I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a certain man clothed in linen, whose loins were girded with fine gold of Uphaz: His body also was like the beryl, and his face as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet like in colour to polished brass, and the voice of his words like the voice of a multitude. (Daniel 10:4-6)

It is over this river Hiddekel that Jesus stands while He swears the oath that is well-known to all Orion students. He swears to the two men on the river banks, which represent the old and new covenants, and the judgments of the dead and living.

Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank of the river. And one said to the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, How long shall it be to the end of these wonders? (Daniel 12:5-6)

Jesus is portrayed as the man clothed in linen, which—as we already know—indicates His intercessory service as High Priest on the Great Day of Atonement also known as the investigative judgment in heaven. So we are talking about the time since 1844, and about Daniel, the judgment book. The name Daniel itself means "God is my judge." Which church does this represent? It represents the Adventist church, of course.

In 2008, God gave me to understand the oath of Jesus standing over the Hiddekel. I determined the duration of the judgment of the dead to be 168 years through the symbolism of this oath. With great joy, I went to tell my brethren about this discovery only to find myself standing in front of deaf ears in the Adventist Church, even before the wilderness wanderings of the Advent people ended in 2010. This knowledge later became the key to the Orion study. The clock of God would not have been readable without it.

So the Hiddekel stands for God's end-time people. It was the key to Orion, but also a cause for the Advent people to reject this great new light. It would have led to the outpouring of the latter rain in the form of the Holy Spirit as the fourth angel from 2010 onward. The mention that the river Hiddekel flows east of Assyria, points to the simple root H833 which means "to be called or to be blessed." The Adventist Church should have been the one to receive the blessing prophesied for the end of the 1335 days of Daniel 12, but the stubbornness of the leaders and members—rivaling that of ancient Israel—prevented that blessing upon the judgment church, Laodicea. The Jews did not recognize Jesus when He came to His people and stood beside them, and the Adventists did not recognize Jesus when He appeared over them in Orion, although Ellen White cited Orion as the seat of God, the temple and the place of the intercessory service of Jesus in the Heavenly Sanctuary.

We don't wonder any more why a fourth river was necessary to deliver the water of life and why this river is even mentioned in the same verse. Our movement is of course closely linked to the Adventist Church. We are just the faithful remnant of the same church and are building upon all its good light. In the article The End of the Adventist Church you can see a very nice and similar picture of the togetherness of the remnant of the remnant in the image of the good woman of Revelation 12. We are depicted as the stars in the crown of the woman. The crown was the Adventist Church, and the stars belong to the crown just like the fourth river Euphrates is mentioned in the same breath as the Hiddekel.

And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates. (Genesis 2:14)

The four winds are bound in this fourth stream, which can symbolize none other than us, the High Sabbath Adventists. We have already explained above in detail why this river stands for our movement. We even described our geographical location in the Voice of God article, and noted how we fit the description of the voice of God like many waters. In Ezekiel 47:1, God gave directions starting from the largest waterfall in the world, going over various rivers to our farm and ending right on our temple doorstep.

God prophesied in the first book of the Bible that His fourth Euphrates church would one day experience the loosening of the four winds, or which will have the authority over them. The water of life, through which The Vessel of Time sailed, will be completely dried up in the sixth plague. This does not mean that anyone could be saved during the time of plagues by the water up to the sixth plague, but it does mark the end of the time message itself. In the sixth plague, the decision will finally be made to execute the death decree for the 144,000. Since they will be silenced, God Himself will give the time once again just before the coming of Jesus as a sort of confirmation of His people, and thus the following vision of Ellen White from 1847 will be fulfilled. In it, she heard a second proclamation of the time. And then the last of the four rivers will have ceased to flow!

It was at midnight that God chose to deliver His people. As the wicked were mocking around them, suddenly the sun appeared, shining in his strength, and the moon stood still. The wicked looked upon the scene with amazement, while the saints beheld with solemn joy the tokens of their deliverance. Signs and wonders followed in quick succession. Everything seemed turned out of its natural course. The streams ceased to flow. Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. But there was one clear place of settled glory, whence came the voice of God like many waters, shaking the heavens and the earth. There was a mighty earthquake. The graves were opened, and those who had died in faith under the third angel's message, keeping the Sabbath, came forth from their dusty beds, glorified, to hear the covenant of peace that God was to make with those who had kept His law.

The sky opened and shut and was in commotion. The mountains shook like a reed in the wind and cast out ragged rocks all around. The sea boiled like a pot and cast out stones upon the land. And as God spoke the day and the hour of Jesus' coming and delivered the everlasting covenant to His people, He spoke one sentence, and then paused, while the words were rolling through the earth. The Israel of God stood with their eyes fixed upward, listening to the words as they came from the mouth of Jehovah and rolled through the earth like peals of loudest thunder. It was awfully solemn. At the end of every sentence the saints shouted, "Glory! Hallelujah!" Their countenances were lighted up with the glory of God, and they shone with glory as did the face of Moses when he came down from Sinai. The wicked could not look upon them for the glory. And when the never-ending blessing was pronounced on those who had honored God in keeping His Sabbath holy, there was a mighty shout of victory over the beast and over his image. {EW 285.1-2}

The End of the Siege

Ezekiel is the book for our time—for the sealing of the 144,000—and it contains many more priceless jewels for our movement. We believe that we discovered another jewel in the treasure of Ezekiel, and hope that we have studied everything properly. Time will soon tell whether we are right or wrong with the following interpretation.

We perfectly interpreted the timelines of Daniel 12 after the year of grace with the help of HSL (The Vessel of Time), and could even predict the exact timing of Benedict XVI's resignation, the papal election of Francis and the beginning of the 1260 days of the time of trouble with the setting up of Jesuit Francis' generals. Just like how we did that, the book of Ezekiel helped us find another timeline that shows us another important point in the timing of God's agenda.

Remember how we deciphered the timelines of Daniel 12. We found the Rosetta Stone of Ellen White (the 1888-1890 triplet) a second time in the 2013-2015 triplet. After we recognized Miller's mistake and found the second coming of Jesus on the Last Great Day (Shemini Atzeret) of 2016, it was easy to calculate back the 1335 days of Daniel 12 to come to February 27-28, 2013. That is when Benedict XVI resigned. We knew that the beginning and end of the 1290- and 1260-day time lines had to be within the 1335 days, and that they both had to end together. The temporal latitude was not very great, and we suspected a space of 30 days till the end of time. That was proven to be perfectly true. When Francis was elected on March 13, it was clear that another important event had to happen on exactly April 13 to initiate the beginning of the 1260-day time of trouble.

The 1335 days are represented in Daniel 12 as a waiting time, and that is exactly what they feel like.

Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days. (Daniel 12:12)

Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus. (Revelation 14:12)

It was the waiting time between the resignation of the seventh pope since 1929, when the wound of the first beast began to heal and who was allowed to stay only for a little while, and the coming of Jesus (blessed is he who lives to that point).

And here is the mind which hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth. And there are seven kings: five are fallen, and one is, [Pope John Paul II] and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he must continue a short space. [Benedict XVI] (Revelation 17:9-10)

The meaning of this prophecy has never been as clearly recognizable as it is today. They did not allow Benedict to remain pope. He was forced to abdicate in order to make a place for the eighth pope and persecutor of God's true people. That is why Benedict could only stay for a little while (about 7 years).

The eighth pope was elected on March 13, and the 1290 days of Daniel 12 began with him:

And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days. (Daniel 12:11)

Thus, the abomination of desolation has been identified as Pope Francis. It was not the enforcement of the Sunday Law as some Adventists believed (but was always seriously in doubt). We wrote in detail about the daily and who took it away in the Final Warning series.

What will happen to Pope Francis?

And the beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition. (Revelation 17:11)

Those aren't good prospects for the "nice" and "humble" Jesuit pope. He himself embodies the first beast of Revelation 13, the greatest evil that has ever existed in the papacy. He embodies the Counter-Reformation with its Inquisition and mass murders by the Jesuits. That is the eighth world empire, the New World Order, which will be destroyed by the nations in the time of plagues. He will meet his end in the lake of fire at the coming of Jesus, together with the false prophet (apostate Protestantism):

And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone. (Revelation 19:20)

Since the time lines of the 1290 and 1260 days of the oath of Jesus in Daniel 12 need to stop together with the destruction of the New World Order, we also knew the exact beginning of the 1260 days on April 13, 2013. Of course we wondered what event would happen on that day, and were amazed that the new Pope Francis set up his world-ruling council of eight cardinals on exactly that day. Each district that the Jesuits divide the planet into got its leader.

It also fulfilled the following prophecy of Daniel 11:

And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace between the seas in the glorious holy mountain; yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him. (Daniel 11:45)

In the years 2010–2012 we gave the warnings of the Orion message (the rumor from the celestial east) and the warnings of the Vessel of Time (the rumor from the celestial north, the sanctuary of God). That put the Jesuits in the Vatican in a tight spot. Now they knew that a small group of people had started to gather the 144,000 witnesses for the Father. That is why they broke forth with great fury to take Benedict away; they needed to take over the leadership themselves. In verse 45 we are not told anything about an open war, but only a siege. The setting up of the palace tents has a concise geographical description: the sea appears in the plural as "seas."

In the articles The Voice of God and Change of Venue, we clearly showed that God has chosen our small farm for the central leadership of His people and as the earthly reflection of the New Jerusalem. The new pope is the first non-European pope in history, and he comes from the neighboring country of Argentina. Now look at the location of our farm in the Cordillera district (Mountain District of Paraguay) in comparison with Argentina.

Argentina makes a pincer movement exactly around the south-eastern part of Paraguay where our farm is located. We are officially cut off by Argentina in the direction of both seas—the Pacific Ocean to the west and the Atlantic Ocean to the east. The earthly holy mountain is besieged in a figurative sense by the Argentine pope. The papacy has pitched its palatial tents in Argentina, which is completely fanatical about Rome now, not only because it brought forth a pope for the first time, but also the first from South America. Francis also has a special relationship with the Paraguayan woman which he already nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. He uses every opportunity to praise the Paraguayan woman for her courage in defending and rebuilding her country after the Triple Alliance War. We are besieged and we feel it. We are hit with the cold chill of a world around us that is Catholic, almost without exception.

The rest of the world has been under siege as well as us, of course, ever since the setting up of the Jesuit generals on April 13, 2013. We are just representative of a worldwide siege against the truth through lies and the New World Order. Just look how the world religions unite now in the Vatican toward one-world religion. I lack the time and space to pack the whole surge of events into the scope of this already overly-long article. The most important question is: when will the siege turn into an attack?

The answer could be hidden in the timelines of Ezekiel, as I mentioned at the beginning of this article. In Chapter 4 of Ezekiel, the prophet is commanded to enact a siege for the inhabitants of Jerusalem, which simulated their coming situation under Nebuchadnezzar.

*Thou also, son of man, take thee a tile, and lay it before thee, and pourtray upon it the city, even Jerusalem: And lay siege against it, and build a fort [siege tower] against it, and cast a mount against it; set the camp also against it, and set battering rams against it round about. Moreover take thou unto thee an iron pan, [iron symbolizes Rome and not Babylon!] and set it for a wall of iron between thee and the city: and set thy face against it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it. This shall be a sign to the house of Israel. (Ezekiel 4:1-3)

Then we learn about times:

*Lie thou also upon thy left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel upon it: according to the number of the days that thou shalt lie upon it thou shalt bear their iniquity. For I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, three hundred and ninety days: so shalt thou bear the iniquity of the house of Israel. And when thou hast accomplished them, lie again on thy right side, and thou shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days: I have appointed thee each day for a year. (Ezekiel 4:4-6)

The Bible commentators have difficulty understanding these 390 years, which are illustrated using the day-year principle, because the long count for the kings of Israel is generally rejected today. However, we confirmed the long count through the Orion Clock, and it makes a perfect picture. It would be too much to present here, though. The commentators have no trouble with the 40 years for the sins of Judah.

We are interested, however, not in the application of these verses to the past, but the important interpretation for our time according to Ellen White. For that, we have to come back to the day-for-day principle which results in a total siege duration of 390 + 40 = 430 days.

Starting the 430 days of the world siege on April 13, 2013 with the pitching of the palace tents of the Jesuit generals in every part of the world brings us to June 17, 2014 as the end date. We saw this date once before in this article! Do you remember where? Yes, it is the date of the merger or dissolution of our publishing houses. One way or another, this is already a major attack on Adventism per se!

But in Ezekiel 5, the attack is described more terribly and would actually be expected on Wednesday, June 18, 2014 after the end of the siege, if we understand this prophecy correctly. When reading the Bible text, one cannot help but think of the terrible fire in Battle Creek:

And thou, son of man, take thee a sharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, and cause it to pass upon thine head and upon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and divide the hair. Thou shalt burn with fire a third part in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are fulfilled: and thou shalt take a third part, and smite about it with a knife: and a third part thou shalt scatter in the wind; and I will draw out a sword after them. Thou shalt also take thereof a few in number, and bind them in thy skirts. Then take of them again, and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire; for thereof shall a fire come forth into all the house of Israel. (Ezekiel 5:1-4)

The first attack with the text "burn with fire a third part in the midst of the city" parallels Ezekiel 9, since the attack is in the middle of the city there too.

And to the others he said in mine hearing, Go ye after him through the city, and smite: let not your eye spare, neither have ye pity: Slay utterly old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house. (Ezekiel 9:5-6)

Only those who have the sign of the Holy Spirit on their forehead will be protected. Today we can differentiate between the sign received by those who sighed and cried about the abominations done in the city and the seal of the 144,000. The sign of the sighing and crying that will protect against these trumpet attacks is received by candidates of the 144,000 as well as God's elected martyrs, because they do not belong to the apostate evil people who lose their lives in these judgments. The martyrs will later testify by their death at the renewed Jesuit Inquisition as they stand up to the Sunday Law.

The seal of the 144,000 is an extension of this seal. We will deal with it now in the last part of this article.

The Seal of the 144,000

Ellen White saw details about the coveted seal of the 144,000 in her first vision:

By this time the 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious Star containing Jesus' new name. [Revelation 3:12.]... {WLF 14.3}

Compare its characteristics with the characteristics of Revelation 3:12:

Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name. (Revelation 3:12)

Now ask yourself:

Do you know the new name of Jesus? Do you know the star that represents Him and is at the center of the clock? Do you know Jesus' most important character trait, which is at the center of the entire universe? Can you draw conclusions for you and your character—which should be Christ-like, or the same as Christ—as to what sacrifice you must be ready to make as one of the 144,000?

Do you know why the name of the city of God is written on the foreheads of the 144,000? Do you understand where the holy city will be when Jesus returns? Do you understand how Jesus could manage to make the seven-day journey to the Holy City in Orion and back all in the morning of His resurrection, to visit the Father's temple, to put the sins of mankind on the curtain, and then come back in time to appear and meet with the apostles in upper room? Do you have an understanding of a fundamental property of the Holy City and the Garden of Eden which is located in it? (If not, read the Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part II again.) But that's not all! Do you also understand where the New Jerusalem is on earth, and where the voice of God like many waters comes from, that only the 144,000 understand? Do you really understand the articles about The Voice of God and the Change of Venue, and are you really directing your ears in the direction of Paraguay?

Do you know an attribute or character trait (the name) of God the Father, which is still hidden, and which has to be revealed to you by the Holy Spirit? Do you understand that you will only be sealed when you have this knowledge? Studying our pages helps, but the Holy Spirit must take possession of you and be allowed to live in you so that you can receive the most important part of the threefold seal of one of the 144,000. For that, you have to be pure vessels and accept the counsel that has been given you on the Orion way. You have to start with the little things—like your diet and the dress code—if you want to get the honorable sign of God. But even more, you have to be willing to make a sacrifice that is well pleasing to the Father and proves that you have really become like His beloved Son.

My brother Robert said that I would write about this. Now I've done it. I hope I did not go too far, and that I have not revealed to you what this unknown character trait of God the Father is. But I don't want to spare you, and tell you what we think. The first major type of Christ in the Bible was none other than Moses, and the song of Moses will be sung by all the redeemed in heaven one day after the second coming of Jesus:

And I saw as it were a sea of glass [the Orion Nebula] mingled with fire [from the Betelgeuse supernova]: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God. And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints. (Revelation 15:2-3)

But the 144,000 have to learn a new song, which only they are able to:

And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth. (Revelation 14:3)

The four living creatures and the 24 elders of the Orion clock sung the new song at the handing-over of the book at the carillon in 1844. Only those who recognized the book of seven seals and its importance as the Great Clock of Time in Orion could learn the song:

And they [the four living creatures = the clock hands, and the 24 elders = the clock wheel of the Orion Clock] sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; (Revelation 5:9)

But read the text of the song description in more detail! Why was Jesus allowed to receive the book? "For He was slain and has redeemed people with His blood." Do you think that you will be allowed to belong to the 144,000 just because you recognized the Orion Clock as truth? No, my friends. Heaven is not that cheap. Why is the old song of Moses compared in Revelation to the new song of the 144,000? What did Moses do as a type for Christ that the 144,000 must also do?

Moses was greater than any who had lived before him. He had been highly honored of God, being privileged to talk with the Lord face to face, as a man speaks with a friend. He was permitted to see the bright light and excellent glory that enshrouded the Father. The Lord through Moses delivered the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage. Moses was a mediator for his people, often standing between them and the wrath of God. When the anger of the Lord was greatly kindled against Israel for their unbelief, their murmurings, and their grievous sins, Moses' love for them was tested. God proposed to destroy them and to make of him a mighty nation. Moses showed his love for Israel by his earnest pleading in their behalf. In his distress he prayed God to turn from His fierce anger and forgive Israel, or blot his name out of His book. {EW 162.3}

Just think about it! What exactly did Moses offer for the Lord to turn away from His wrath against His people? Was it his earthly first life, implying death in the hope of resurrection? What does the Bible text say exactly?

Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin--; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written. (Exodus 32:32)

The blotting out of a man from the book of life means the second death, eternal non-existence: no heaven, no exulting, no wiping away of tears, no everlasting joy and bliss—only the dark, unconscious and dreamless sleep of total separation from the beloved God of life. That is what Moses offered, and that is also what Jesus suffered for us:

God in Christ gave Himself for our sins. He suffered the cruel death of the cross [the “second death” that all unrepentant sinners must one day suffer (Revelation 20:13–15)], bore for us the burden of guilt, “the just for the unjust,” that He might reveal to us His love and draw us to Himself.... {Pr 298.2}

God did not accept the sacrifice that Moses offered, and He also raised Jesus from the second death. Moses took the guilt of the people of Israel upon himself, as Jesus took the guilt of fallen humanity upon Himself. We must be ready to suffer eternal death for our fallen Advent people, for fallen humanity, and for a non-fallen universe full of innocent life. Then it can be proved that the power of the blood of Jesus can really bring forth true witnesses for the righteousness of the Father. No one whose only concern is to get to heaven without seeing death will ever be able to belong to the 144,000. Quite the contrary, he has to be ready to lay down his own eternal life on the altar of sacrifice of the universe, and take the risk of never actually benefiting from the plan of redemption as an individual—all this out of love for his enemies, and for the creatures that he has never seen except through the eyes of faith.

While hatred and scorn is hurled at us by our brethren, all the forum members have given their vows and offered for God to blot their names out of the book of life for their brethren and the rest of the universe to live together with Jesus for eternity. They have really understood their high calling.

Now you are the one standing in front of the decision... Will you do like the 70 disciples who let Jesus down, saying:

This is an hard saying; who can hear it? (John 6:60)

... or will you follow Jesus, who went into the Most Holy Place with His blood as your forerunner:

For where a testament [certificate, contract, vow] is, there must also of necessity be the death of the testator. (Hebrews 9:16)

Do you understand now why Ellen White saw in her first vision that...

...as we were about to enter the holy temple, Jesus raised His lovely voice and said, “Only the 144,000 enter this place,” and we shouted, “Alleluia.” {EW 18.2}

Now or never, it needs to be preached everywhere:

“Awake, awake; put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city. . . . How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace, that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing: for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion.

“Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted His people, He hath redeemed Jerusalem. The Lord hath made bare His holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.” Isaiah 52:1-10. {3TT 342.2-3}

Autumn Warning!

As we know from the High Sabbath List of God’s astronomical calendar, there are three High Sabbaths in the autumn of 2014. Furthermore, the Clock of God in Orion itself has been pointing to the Day of Atonement on October 6, 2014 with the white star, Saiph, since 1846. Thus, all four autumn feasts are marked by God’s two clocks—a unique event! Beyond that, this year we deciphered the exact date of the last seven trumpets and harmonized them with Ezekiel 9. The start of the third trumpet falls directly within the time of the Feast of Tabernacles.”

And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God’s chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land. The wicked thought that we had brought the judgments upon them, and they rose up and took counsel to rid the earth of us, thinking that then the evil would be stayed. {EW 33.2}

A “High Sabbath” is a day when a ceremonial sabbath falls on a seventh-day Sabbath (John 19:31)! Paul explains to us in Colossians 2:16-17 that these “are a shadow of things to come.” Those who know what the High Sabbaths mean can “proclaim the Sabbath more fully.”

The logical conclusion of our studies is that the cleansing of the “sanctuary (SDA)...with the ancient men which were before the house” has to start before the third trumpet. There is only one new moon left, which can fulfill Hosea 5:7.

They have dealt treacherously with the LORD, For they have begotten pagan children. Now a New Moon shall devour them and their heritage. (Hosea 5:7, NKJV)

17 Moons and a White Horse

The Darkest Hour

Written by Robert Dickinson

No date says “birthday” to an Adventist better than October 22, 1844. However, that day ended in terrible disappointment, not joy. But there was consolation when the heavens were opened to Hiram Edson’s vision as he was walking through the cornfield the following morning. Soon they understood that the great anti-typical Day of Atonement, also known as the investigative judgment, had begun. Acting as the high priest in heaven, Jesus would cleanse the heavenly sanctuary of sin. By implication, he would clean the hearts of men and women, too, lest their sins—wafting up to heaven through prayer—would continually dirty the heavenly temple and make it impossible for Him to finish cleaning it.

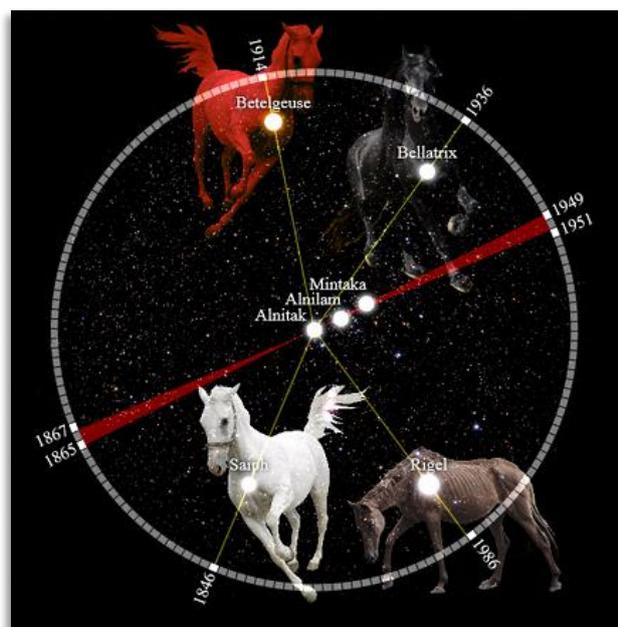

The majority of Adventists were not Sabbath keepers at that time, but the Sabbath-keeping movement was starting to begin:

As we trace the story of the beginning of Sabbathkeeping among the early Adventists, we go to a little church in the township of Washington in the heart of New Hampshire, the state that adjoins Maine on the east and whose western boundary is within sixty miles of the New York state line. Here the members of an independent Christian church in 1843 heard and accepted the preaching of the Advent message. It was an earnest group. Into their midst came a Seventh Day Baptist, Rachel Oakes, who distributed tracts setting forth the binding claims of the fourth commandment. Some in 1844 saw and accepted this Bible truth. One of their number, William Farnsworth, in a Sunday morning service, stood to his feet and declared that he intended to keep God’s Sabbath of the fourth commandment. A dozen others joined him, taking their stand firmly on all of God’s commandments. They were the first Seventh-day Adventists. {EW xx.2}

Despite the fact that there were some Sabbath-keeping Adventists in 1844, there was a problem. The Spirit of Prophecy had been given to Ellen Harmon independently of those who were keeping the Sabbath. Thus two movements were afoot after the Great Disappointment: those who had discovered the light on the Sabbath through Bible study, and those who had welcomed the Spirit of Prophecy as manifested in Ellen Harmon (soon to be Ellen White). Those two movements needed to come together to give the united Three Angels’ Messages of Revelation 14:6-11 to the world.

The Clock Cycle Begins

The “white horse” star Saiph, which marks the beginning and end of a complete Orion clock cycle, symbolizes the pure gospel going forth to conquer. In the Orion presentation, it is interpreted to point to the year 1846—and not 1844. That is because the Sabbath truth had not been embraced by the leadership of the movement until 1846, and thus the gospel had not been fully restored to purity until that time. The white horse began to ride when James and Ellen White accepted the Sabbath truth and began to teach it:

The minister who cared for this church group, Frederick Wheeler, soon accepted the seventh-day Sabbath and was the first Adventist minister to do so. Another of the Advent preachers, T. M. Preble, who lived in the same state, accepted the Sabbath truth and in February, 1845, published an article in the Hope of Israel, one of the Adventist journals, setting forth the binding claims of the fourth commandment. Joseph Bates, a prominent Adventist minister residing in Fairhaven, Massachusetts, read the Preble article and accepted the Seventh-day Sabbath. Shortly thereafter, Elder Bates journeyed to Washington, New Hampshire, to study this new-found truth with the Sabbathkeeping Adventists residing there. When he returned to his home, he was fully convinced of the Sabbath truth. Bates in time determined to publish a tract setting forth the binding claims of the fourth commandment. His 48-page Sabbath pamphlet was published in August, 1846. A copy of it came to the hands of James and Ellen White at about the time of their marriage in late August. From the scriptural evidence therein presented, they accepted, and began to keep the seventh-day Sabbath. Of this Ellen White later wrote: "In the autumn of 1846 we began to observe the Bible Sabbath, and to teach and defend it."—Testimonies for the Church 1:75. {EW xx.3}

"I believed the truth upon the Sabbath question before I had seen anything in vision in reference to the Sabbath. It was months after I had commenced keeping the Sabbath before I was shown its importance and its place in the third angel's message."—E. G. White Letter 2, 1874. {EW xxii.1}

The Whites readily accepted the Sabbath truth—the pillar of the third angel's message—based on the scriptural evidence. However, there is much more to the story that has a great bearing on the beginning of the Orion clock cycle in 1846. Something else was needful in order for the third angel's message to unite with the first two angels' messages. Those who had the Spirit of Prophecy accepted the Sabbath, but the Sabbath-keeping movement had not yet accepted the Spirit of Prophecy.

The Sabbath-keepers (represented by Bates) needed to have confidence in the gift of prophecy too, in order to move forward together, just as a marriage union needs the mutual confidence of both parties. Again, Joseph Bates (representing the Sabbath-keeping movement) needed to accept the validity of the Spirit of Prophecy manifested in Ellen G. White (representing the movement of the first two angels), just as she and James White had accepted the Sabbath truth brought to them by Bates.

Joseph Bates had come up for a conference at Topsham, Maine. It was in November, 1846, over two years after the disappointment. Some of the others present were James White, J. N. Andrews, H. S. Gurney (with whom Bates had worked in the South), and Ellen Harmon. Three months before, she and James White had been married. Thus she was given by the Lord a strong protector, on whom in her weakness she might lean, but to whom also she was to be the greatest strength. You know from what I have told you how strong and fearless and devoted James White had been, and you know how faithful Miss Harmon had been in the work God had given her to do. But perhaps you do not know, as they could not know then, how great and mighty was to be the work they should accomplish in the years to come. From this time on we know Ellen Harmon as Mrs. Ellen G. White.

At this time Mrs. White did not see the importance of keeping the seventh-day Sabbath, which Joseph Bates urged, and Joseph Bates was not sure that the visions of Mrs. White were from the Lord, though he was sure she was a good and faithful Christian who believed what she told. And here the Lord brought them both, and all the brethren with them, to believe the truth each had.

(Pioneer Stories of the Second Advent Message, chapter XVII "The Opening Heavens and the Unchanged Law.")

Divine Astronomy

How did the Lord bring them to believe the truth that each other had? The following account comes from the book Woman of Vision, p. 34:

Some stalwart souls who later became pillars in the church were initially hesitant about accepting the visions of Ellen Harmon. Outstanding among these was Joseph Bates.

Joseph Bates had been an earnest worker in the Advent awakening of 1840-1844. A sea-captain-turned-minister, he invested his property and his strength in heralding the soon coming of Christ. As Ellen and her sister were in New Bedford, Massachusetts, they became acquainted with him and his family. He, of course, learned of the visions given to Ellen, and this troubled him. He wrote of his experience two years later:

Although I could see nothing in them that militated against the Word, yet I felt alarmed and tried exceedingly, and for a long time unwilling to believe that it was anything more than what was produced by a protracted debilitated state of her body.

I therefore sought opportunities in the presence of others, when her mind seemed freed from excitement (out of meeting), to question and cross-question her, and her friends which accompanied her, especially her elder sister [Sarah], to get if possible at the truth (Life Sketches of Ellen G. White, 97, 98).

Bates had been troubled with serious doubts as to the visions, but the evidence in the experience at Topsham, Maine, at the home of Eli Curtis in November 1846, was such that he accepted them wholeheartedly from that time forth. Bates told the story to his friend J. N. Loughborough, who recorded it in his book The Great Second Advent Movement.

The book goes on to relate the story itself, about the tangible evidence that he experienced in Topsham, Maine in November of 1846. I will break the story down for you afterward to explain the full depth of its significance, but first let us read the complete account:

Mrs. White, while in vision, began to talk about the stars, giving a glowing description of rosy-tinted belts which she saw across the surface of some planet, and added, "I see four moons."

"Oh," said Elder Bates, "she is viewing Jupiter!"

Then having made motions as though traveling through space, she began giving a description of belts and rings in their ever-varying beauty, and said, "I see seven moons."

Elder Bates exclaimed, "She is describing Saturn."

Next she said, "I see six moons," and at once began a description of Uranus, with its six moons; then a wonderful description of the "opening heavens," with its glory, calling it an opening into a region more enlightened. Elder Bates said that her description far surpassed any account of the opening heavens he had ever read from any author.

While she was talking and still in vision, he arose to his feet, and exclaimed, "Oh, how I wish Lord John Rosse was here tonight!" Elder White inquired, "Who is Lord John Rosse?"

"Oh," said Elder Bates, "he is the great English astronomer. I wish he was here to hear that woman talk astronomy, and to hear that description of the 'opening heavens.' It is ahead of anything I ever read on the subject."—GSAM, p. 258. {BIO 113.3-114.1}

One needs to realize that there were few large telescopes at the time, and they didn't have the capability to take and reproduce photographs as it is done today. Photography itself was not developed enough yet. Astronomers would peer through the telescope and then describe what they saw in words or make a sketch on paper. That is how they communicated the wonderful awe of the heavens.

Having toyed with a backyard telescope myself, I can attest to the awe of watching with one's own eyes as the heavenly bodies track across the sky. One of my first experiences with my telescope was to point it at a bright star which I had guessed was Jupiter, and to see its "rosy-tinted belts" for myself. As my eye adjusted to the new experience, I was surprised and delighted to notice its tiny moons nearby, each only a tiny pin-point of light.

It is very hard to wait patiently while someone else is looking through the eyepiece and describing what they are looking at! It makes a person as eager as a little child to see it too! It is no wonder that Joseph Bates stood up and made his exclamation about Lord John Rosse (owner of the world's largest telescope), as if he wanted to take his own turn at seeing what Ellen White saw!

Those of you who have a basic level of modern knowledge of our solar system might have already recognized that Ellen White did not see the actual number of moons that are known to orbit the planets, which Bates identified from her descriptions. In fact, this has proven to be a point of offense for critics of Ellen White's prophetic gift. It is not difficult to harmonize the matter, however, and you can read the arguments for yourself in chapter 7 of the book Ellen G. White and Her Critics, available on-line.

The way scientists categorize planets, moons and other orbiting heavenly bodies is far from a clear-cut matter, and the numbers and definitions of the terms have changed many times over the years. From my standpoint, the numbers of moons Ellen White saw are still intuitively valid today if you just count the bodies that actually look like moons. But the important point to be made is that God gave the vision to Ellen White for the recognized purpose of winning Bates' confidence in the gift He had given her. He did not give the vision to win the confidence of the astronomers of today who have discovered countless other bodies orbiting the planets. It was for Bates in 1846, and—as we shall see more and more—for us in 2014.

The Signature of the Orion Clock

The vision and the circumstances around it all serve to affirm the correctness of the 1846 beginning date for the first star of the Orion Clock. In addition to the qualitative descriptions of the planets that Ellen White gave, the number of moons she saw provided a quantitative fingerprint of the then-known solar system. To Bates, who recognized that this relatively uneducated young woman could not have fabricated this information, it was a divine confirmation of her spiritual gift.

We have harmonized countless quotes from the writings of Ellen White in our studies of the Orion message. Those are her "qualitative descriptions" that we have interpreted to refer to our message, like Bates interpreted her descriptions as the planets which he was so familiar with. In this astronomy vision, God adds the “quantitative description” of the Orion Clock by giving the numbers that form its “fingerprint.”

The numbers of moons given in the vision are: 4, 7, and 6.

We immediately recognize the number 7 as a special number that represents completeness or perfection (as in Christ) so let’s set it aside and look at the other two numbers: 4 and 6. If we add 4 and 6 then we get 10, which refers to God’s perfect law of love (as in the Ten Commandments). Alternatively, we can multiply the numbers 4 and 6 to get 24, which calls to mind the 24 elders around the throne in Revelation 4 & 5.

Those chapters of the book of Revelation contain the construction plan for the Clock of God. Are you beginning to see the fingerprint of the Orion message in the numbers? By including the number 7 into the full equation, we get:

$$7 \times (4 \times 6) = 7 \times 24 = 168$$

Dear reader, do you realize the significance of this?

The effect of the vision was to remove all doubt in Bates’ mind that Ellen White’s visions were of divine origin and to confirm that God had indeed laid upon her the gift of prophecy. The same vision now serves to confirm the Orion message for us today by fixing the two essential elements of any prophetic period: the start point, and the duration. The vision itself and its circumstances in November of 1846 give us the start date of the Orion clock cycle, while the number of moons encode the cycle’s complete duration of 168 years.

Furthermore, it was in the divine plan for men to have discovered the right number of moons just in time for this purpose. In fact, Ellen White’s travel from Earth to Heaven across the moon-studded orbits of the planets is itself symbolic of the 168-years of the three angels’ messages. How fitting that moons en-route to Orion are employed to represent the travels of The Vessel of Time as it rolls heavenward on its lunar wheels.

Here at the final leg of the journey, we should seriously consider what else we can learn from the experience they had back in 1846 at the beginning of the clock cycle. History is repeating now at the cycle’s end! What happened back then is summarized in the November 1846 entry of the chronology in The Ellen G. White Encyclopedia as follows:

Nov. 1846 – Formative conference with Joseph Bates in Topsham, Maine. Ellen’s vision on the “opening heavens” convinced Bates that her visions were of more than human origin. From this time Bates and the Whites began united labors. See Sabbatarian Bible Conferences.

Thus, that same vision was the turning point after which Joseph Bates and the Whites worked together in united labor. The third angel’s message had become united with the first and second angels’ messages. It was the beginning of the proclamation of the combined Three Angels’ Messages.

Oh reader, has the voice of God spoken to you through the opening heavens? Will you unite your labors with us in proclaiming what we should soon call the “Four Angels’ Messages”?

An Open Door Which No Man Can Shut

It is important to understand what the term “opening heavens” meant in Ellen White’s day. She traveled in vision to that very special place, which was a specific well-known object in the starry firmament. The descriptive name “opening heavens” has since given way to its more common name: the Orion Nebula.

Bates was a sea captain, but his interest in astronomy clearly went beyond navigational necessity. He knew very well where Ellen White had traveled to in her vision. In fact, Bates had written an essay on the subject entitled The Opening Heavens which was prefaced in the spring of that same year, 1846. In it, he expounds what the term meant to him, to astronomers, and to the Bible writers. He quotes the English astronomer Huggins' description of the Orion Nebula as follows:

Huggins, its first discoverer, gives the following description of it: "Astronomers place three stars close together in the Sword of Orion; and when I viewed the middle-most with a Telescope, in the year 1656, there appeared in the place of that one, twelve other stars; among these three that almost touch each other, and four more besides appeared twinkling as through a cloud, so that the space about them seemed much brighter than the rest of the heaven, which appearing wholly blackish, by reason of the fair weather, was seen as through a curtain opening, through which one had a free view into another region which was more enlightened. I have frequently observed the same appearance in the same place without any alteration; so that it is likely that this wonder, whatever it may be in itself, has been there from all times; but I never took notice of any thing like it among the rest of the fixed stars."

A few points from Bates' publication are noteworthy for this article:

- For centuries, the Orion Nebula has been recognized as a "gap" or an "open space." Modern science still affirms that description to be true.
- Heaven and the Garden of Eden are associated with the opening in the heavens many times in the Bible.
- The Bible indicates that Jesus (and thus the Holy City with the Garden of Eden) will return from the Orion Nebula.

Can you see into the heavenly sanctuary by faith?

Are you beginning to see the glory of God in the cloud, as Moses did? Has the curtain (or veil) been pulled aside for you to see into the "more enlightened" region?

Oh, friend! Does it thrill your heart to know that Jesus Christ—through the Holy Spirit—is guiding His flock toward the pearly gates of the heavenly city today!?

Joseph Bates had written about the opening heavens before he became convinced regarding Ellen White's prophetic gift—before she received her astronomy vision and before the "open space in Orion" was popularized among Adventists as the place where heaven is. Her vision served as a confirmation of what Bates had already found through Bible study. Her vision is doing the same thing today to confirm John Scotram's study of the Clock of God in Orion!

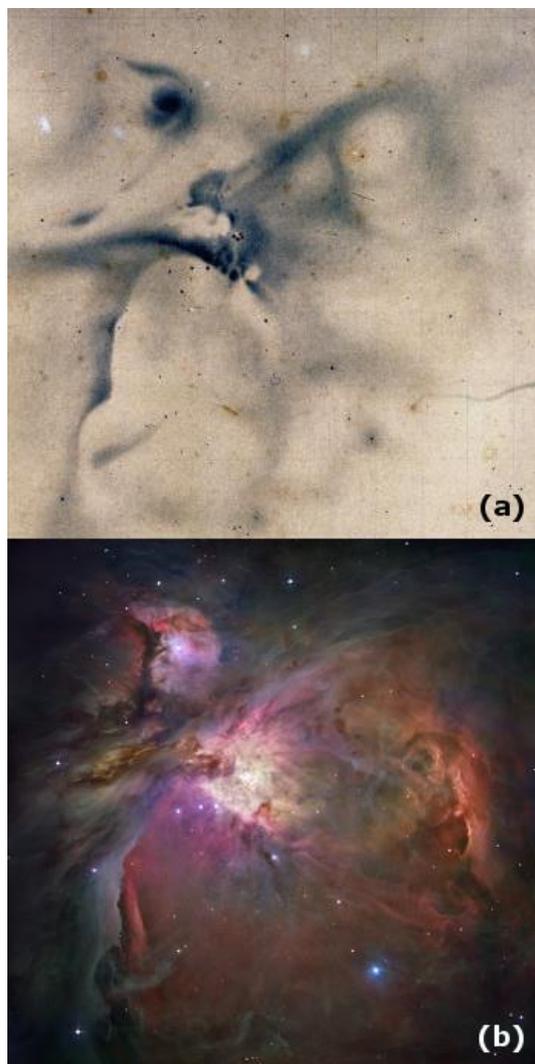

Figure 1 – "The Opening Heavens" as drawn by Sir William Herschel, great astronomer of the 1800's (a) and as photographed in modern times by the Hubble Space Telescope (b).

Let Your Light Shine

Ellen White did not publish this vision herself. Its purpose had apparently been fulfilled in winning Joseph Bates, and there was no further need for it in her time. That begs the question: how did the vision come down to us?

J.N. Loughborough wrote Rise and Progress of Seventh-day Adventists and published it in 1892. His book contained the first published account of Ellen White's astronomy vision. That was still in the wake of the 1888 fiasco, when the "old timers" like Loughborough undoubtedly realized that they were too old to live through another wilderness wandering to see the Second Advent before their death. The opportunity to travel to Orion had been missed, and because of that, the vision needed to be recorded for a future generation.

We are that future generation for whom this vision was recorded! Continuing the quote above from Woman of Vision, we read:

Ellen White reported of this experience that took place in the Eli Curtis home:

After I came out of vision I related what I had seen. Elder Bates then asked if I had studied astronomy. I told him I had no recollection of ever looking into an astronomy [book].

Said he, "This is of the Lord." I never saw him as free and happy before. His countenance shone with the light of heaven, and he exhorted the church with power.—Life Sketches of James White and Ellen G. White (1880) {LS80 238.1}

Does not this one brief account speak volumes? It is about when God spoke the time and "our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God!" It is about proclaiming the Sabbath more fully! It is about the "happy, holy state" of the 144,000 being sealed and perfectly united!

One thing we learn from Ellen White's vision is that if we want to search for "Orion" in her writings (or in the Bible for that matter) we should use the nomenclature she used—"opening heavens." The following quotes speak to the point:

Never before had angels listened to such a prayer as Christ offered at his baptism, and they were solicitous to be the bearers of the message from the Father to his Son. But, no! direct from the Father issues the light of his glory. The heavens were opened, and beams of glory rested upon the Son of God and assumed the form of a dove, in appearance like burnished gold. The dove-like form was emblematical of the meekness and gentleness of Christ. While the people stood spell-bound with amazement, their eyes fastened upon Christ, from the opening heavens came these words: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." The words of confirmation that Christ is the Son of God were given to inspire faith in those who witnessed the scene, and to sustain the Son of God in his arduous work. Notwithstanding the Son of God was clothed with humanity, yet Jehovah, with his own voice, assures him of his sonship with the Eternal. In this manifestation to his Son, God accepts humanity as exalted through the excellence of his beloved Son. {RH January 21, 1873 par. 5}

Have you ever wondered why Jesus needed to be baptized, when He had no sins to wash away? John the Baptist wondered the same thing, and Jesus explained that it was needful to "fulfill all righteousness." In other words, He was baptized so that he could be a perfect example for others. The experience of Jesus is the example especially for the 144,000, because they would do a similar work. Keep that in mind as we study another quote about the opening heavens:

The childhood, youth, and manhood, of John, who came in the spirit and power of Elijah to do a special work in preparing the way for the world's Redeemer [prefiguring the 144,000], was marked with firmness and moral power. Satan could not move him from his integrity. When the voice of this prophet was heard in the wilderness, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight." Satan was afraid for his kingdom. He felt that the voice sounding forth in trumpet tones [the trumpet clock] in the wilderness caused sinners under his control to tremble. He saw that his power over many was broken. The sinfulness of sin was revealed in such a manner that men became alarmed, and some, by repentance of their sins, found the favor of God and gained moral power to resist his temptations.

He was on the ground at the time when Christ presented himself to John for baptism. He heard the majestic voice resounding through heaven and echoing through the earth like peals of thunder [the Seven Thunders and the Vessel of Time]. He saw the lightnings flash from the cloudless heavens, and heard the fearful words from Jehovah, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." He saw the brightness of the Father's glory overshadowing the form of Jesus, thus, with unmistakable assurance, pointing out the One in that crowd whom he acknowledged as his Son. The circumstances connected with this baptismal scene had aroused the most intense hatred in the breast of Satan. He knew then for a certainty that, unless he could overcome Christ, from henceforth there would be a limitation of his power. He understood that the communication from the throne of God signified that Heaven was more directly accessible to man.

As Satan had led man to sin, he had hoped that God's abhorrence of sin would forever separate him from man, and break the connecting link between Heaven and earth. But the opening heavens in connection with the voice of God addressing his Son was like a death-knell to Satan. He feared that God was now to unite man more fully to himself, and give him power to overcome his devices. {RH March 3, 1874 par. 19-21}

We are living in the time when this example becomes a reality for the 144,000, and again we see expressions in the text very similar to those in Ellen White's visions of 1844 and 1847, where she heard the "day and hour." The baptism of Jesus was to be an example, and so it is! Now it is the 144,000 whose baptism by fire will arouse the most intense hatred of Satan.

Strength for the Trial

The very next scene in both of those visions is one of terrible trouble and persecution, just like the next scene in Jesus' experience was one of hunger and temptation in the wilderness. Beloved, we can already see the trouble and persecution on every horizon. This was also shown to Ellen White in the same astronomy vision of November 1846. Notice what is recorded in Ellen G. White: Volume 1 – The Early Years: 1827-1862, p. 115:

But more than other planets was shown to Ellen White in the vision at Topsham. Of this she wrote:

I was shown that I would be much afflicted, and that we would have a trial of our faith on our return to Gorham.—Life Sketches of James White and Ellen G. White (1880), 239.

Fulfillment was rapid. Ellen was taken desperately ill. Earnest prayers in her behalf brought no relief. For three weeks James White's bride suffered until in her intense agony she requested that no more prayers be offered in her behalf, for she was convinced that "their prayers were protracting" her life and thus her sufferings. Every breath came with a groan. Otis Nichols, in Massachusetts, sent his son Henry to bring some things for her comfort, and while he was there he joined in the earnest prayers for her recovery. Ellen White tells of what followed:

After others had prayed, Brother Henry commenced praying, and seemed much burdened, and with the power of God resting upon him, rose from his knees, came across the room, and laid his hands upon my head, saying, "Sister Ellen, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole," and fell back prostrated by the power of God. [On several occasions in the years 1840 to 1851—and even later—there were experiences in which the power of God was manifested in physical prostration. The circumstances, and the high character of the individuals involved, would lead to the conclusion that such experiences were genuine and not the fruit of fanaticism.] I believed the work was of God, and the pain left me. My soul was filled with gratitude and peace.—Ibid., 239, 240.

Ellen was completely restored to normal health and soon with her husband was off by boat to Boston. But this trip was anything but a restful one for the newlyweds, for a storm overtook them. She described the trip:

The boat rolled fearfully, and the waves dashed into the cabin windows. The large chandelier fell to the floor with a crash. The tables were set for breakfast, but the dishes were thrown upon the floor.

There was great fear in the ladies' cabin. Many were confessing their sins, and crying to God for mercy. Some were calling upon the virgin Mary to keep them, while others were making solemn vows to God that if they reached land they would devote their lives to His service.

It was a scene of terror and confusion. As the boat rocked, one lady above me fell out of her berth to the floor, crying out at the top of her voice. Another turned to me and asked, "Are you not terrified? I suppose it is a fact that we may never reach land."

I told her I made Christ my refuge, and if my work was done, I might as well lie in the bottom of the ocean as in any other place; but if my work was not done, all the waters of the ocean could not drown me. My trust was in God, that He would bring us safe to land if it was for His glory.—Ibid., 240.

He did!

It is amazing how the Lord gave real-life experiences to Ellen White in 1846 at the beginning of the Orion clock cycle that so perfectly exemplify the events that are transpiring here in 2014 at the end of the cycle. Her experience was to be an example.

He Went Forth Conquering, and to Conquer

Loughborough relates another story that seems particularly relevant to our experience. The story, which he titles "A Vicious Horse Suddenly Tamed," also happened just after the astronomy vision:

Shortly after this meeting in Topsham, another striking incident occurred in connection with the visions, which I will relate as told me by Elder Bates:-

Elder White had the use of a partly broken colt and a two-seated market wagon, which was constructed without a dash-board, but had a step across the front of the wagon, and an iron step from the shafts. It was necessary that extreme care be taken in driving the colt, as in case the lines or anything touched his flanks he would instantly kick furiously, and he had to be held in continually with a taut rein to keep him from running. This colt belonged to a party to whose place they wished to go, and as Elder White had been used to managing unbroken colts, he thought he would have no serious trouble with this one. Had they known, however, that during its frantic demonstrations it had previously killed two men, one by crushing him against the rocks by the roadside, he might have been less confident.

On this occasion there were four persons in the wagon, Elder White and his wife upon the front seat, and Elder Bates and Israel Damon on the back seat. [Ellen White recorded an interesting and applicable story about Israel Damon in Spiritual Gifts, vol. 2, p. 40-42.] While Elder White was giving his utmost care to keep the horse under control, Mrs. White was conversing about the truth, when the power of God came down upon the company and she was taken off in vision, seated in the wagon. The moment she shouted "Glory!" as she went into vision, the colt suddenly stopped perfectly still, and dropped his head. At the same time Mrs. White arose, while in this state, and with her eyes looking upward, stepped over the front of the wagon, down on to the shafts, with her hands on the colt's haunches. Elder Bates called out to Elder White, "The colt will kick that woman to death." Elder White replied, "The Lord has the colt in charge now;

I do not wish to interfere.” The colt stood as gentle as an old horse. By the roadside the bank rose up some six feet, and next to the fence was a grassy place. Mrs. White, with her eyes still upward, not once looking down, went up the bank on to the grassy plot, then walked back and forth for a few minutes, talking and describing the beauties of the new earth. Then, with her head in the same posture, she came down the bank, walked up to the wagon, stepped up on to the steps, with her hand on the rump of the colt, and so up on to the shafts, and into the wagon again. The moment she sat down upon the seat she came out of vision, and that instant the horse, without any indication from the driver, started up, and went on his way.

While Mrs. White was out of the wagon, Elder White thought he would test the horse, and see if he was really tame or not. At first he just touched him with the whip; at other times the horse would have responded with a kick, but now there was no motion. He then struck him quite a blow, then harder, and still harder. The colt paid no attention to the blows whatever, but seemed as harmless as the lions whose mouths the angels shut the night Daniel spent in their den. “It was a solemn place,” said Elder Bates, “and it was evident that the same Power that produced the visions, for the time being subdued the wild nature of the colt.”

If this vision was simply the result of some of her bodily infirmities, the query naturally arises, Was the horse afflicted in like manner?

Isn't it interesting that right when the three angels' messages united, there is a story about a horse—a horse that was tamed by heaven and went at heaven's command. That surely symbolizes Jesus riding the white horse of Revelation, going forth in 1846 to conquer the world with the three angels' messages.

What does it say about the white horse of 2014?

The Cleansing of the Sanctuary

When the white horse rides, Jesus needs to have a clean church to proclaim the pure gospel. Since the earthly counterpart to the heavenly courtroom has been relocated to us, it was only logical that the judgment would begin here. And it did. Ezekiel 9 has started.

We gave a loud trumpet warning for the fall feasts, warning of it all throughout the barley-confirmed feast season. There were three high Sabbaths, the special “white horse” Day of Atonement, a blood moon, the third trumpet, and more! God allowed ample time for the warning to go out and to be heeded.

They have dealt treacherously with the Lord, For they have begotten pagan children. Now a New Moon shall devour them and their heritage. (Hosea 5:7, NKJV)

The cleansing began precisely on the new moon of the second possibility for the feasts, on the Day of Trumpets, and was completed just in time for the Day of Atonement. We've known that the first possibility of the feasts often has to do with movements of the Father, while the second possibility has to do with movements of Jesus. Indeed, He is at work cleansing His church—right on schedule.

We had a person in our midst who was not spiritually clean. Satan had used him for a long time in a very subtle way to attack this movement. The whole story is beyond the scope of this article, but the bottom line is that Jan Meve has left the team and our contact pages have been updated accordingly.

Slay utterly old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house. (Ezekiel 9:6)

It is a fearful ordeal, and should give cause for solemn reflection. We who have had the greatest opportunities to be transformed by the light of heaven are that much more accountable.

If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness! (Matthew 6:23)

Interestingly, we are now seven adults on the farm—not all leaders, but together symbolizing the many ministers of God who are to reveal the love of Christ.

“These things saith He that holdeth the seven stars in His right hand.” Revelation 2:1. These words are spoken to the teachers in the church—those entrusted by God with weighty responsibilities. The sweet influences that are to be abundant in the church are bound up with God’s ministers, who are to reveal the love of Christ. The stars of heaven are under His control. He fills them with light. He guides and directs their movements. If He did not do this, they would become fallen stars. So with His ministers. They are but instruments in His hands, and all the good they accomplish is done through His power. Through them His light is to shine forth. The Saviour is to be their efficiency. If they will look to Him as He looked to the Father they will be enabled to do His work. As they make God their dependence, He will give them His brightness to reflect to the world. {AA 586.3}

The judgment has begun with the elders of the house of God, but you can be sure it will not end until the entire church is cleansed.

For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God? And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear? (1 Peter 4:17-18)

The Day of Atonement has always been associated with mixed feelings. It was a fearful day to afflict the soul, but at the end of the day the sins of the nation were placed upon the scapegoat where they belonged.

However, to those who sigh and cry—not primarily about the sins they see in others, but about their own sins—the atonement is just that: “at-one-ment” or a special closeness or union with God that is only possible if sin is renounced.

If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. (1 John 1:9)

Christ won a great victory in that none others were lost while cleansing our camp, and our hearts, right now in 2014. The Orion Clock strikes the hour and the white horse rides again. I pray that the Lord in Orion will conquer your heart too, “conquering and to conquer,” until every last one of the 144,000 are made up.

In conclusion, let it be said that the faithful prophetess Ellen G. White abundantly confirms the Orion message, not only through the plethora of applicable quotes, but also in her visions themselves of the “opening heavens,” and even in her life experiences which offer clear illustrations for the time of the “white horse.” Try it, test it, taste it—but leave your doubts behind finally! This ministry stands confirmed as the voice of God on earth. Christ is at its helm, “and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (said He).

Last Call

In my previous article, I shared with you an important astronomy vision that Ellen White saw. That vision confirmed the Orion message in many ways. It even contained the Orion formula. When the number of moons (4, 7, 6) that Ellen White saw on her journey to Orion are multiplied together, the result (168) is the number of years duration from the beginning (1844) to the end (2012) of the Judgment of the Dead. In this article, I will show you that the Bible itself contains the same message.

Before we begin, let us evaluate the accuracy of the predictions of the previous article. We are Bible students, not prophets, and we are candid about our successes and failures of interpretation. In the previous article, we carefully considered the timing of the astronomy vision and the life circumstances that surrounded it. We could not pin-point an exact date, but we did find that the events culminated in the month of November. We expected a union to happen, similar to how Joseph Bates united his efforts with James and Ellen White. We expected a union of that kind because the 168th anniversary of their coming together was this past November. The Orion Clock made one full circle since its first seal opened in 1846. The Sabbath truth was united with the Spirit of Prophecy, and the pure gospel went forth. 168 years later, it is 2014. Did history repeat as we expected it would? Let's see.

The biggest event we were looking for was a union of two religious movements. Wishfully, we thought this would involve our movement, to bring additional power to our message. That is where we were wrong. Where we were right is that a very big religious union did take place. The headlines were quick to blare it out on November 30: Pope Francis ends Turkey trip with show of Christian unity. The timing was perfect, and indeed it would be impossible to have a bigger union of religions than what actually happened. But that is not all.

We expected this union to involve something like the Sabbath truth, which corresponds to the message of the third angel of Revelation 14:9-11. Our wishful thinking had our "High Sabbath" truths in mind, but it didn't happen that way. Instead, it was something like the reverse: the religions of the world united under the man whose mark of authority is the sacredness of Sunday! What we are seeing in the religious world is a union against what happened in 1846. What is happening now at the end of the clock cycle in 2014 is not a re-establishment or strengthening of the truth that began in 1846, but rather the consolidating and strengthening of the counterfeit. This event means that the time allotted for God's remnant church—the Adventist church—has come to an end!

On the other side of the union, we expected something like the Spirit of Prophecy to be embraced. Again, we got the counterfeit, which is spiritualism. Spiritualism is well represented by the Protestant denominations as well as the eastern religions that showed their unity with Pope Francis on that day. Spiritualism is a major element in the big denominations—especially the mega-church movements—which are heavily involved with things like spiritual formation. One of the most famous mega-church pastors, Rick Warren, says Pope Francis is the pope of all Christians worldwide. This is a striking completion of the unity that Tony Palmer worked to forge. This should be the most solemn and startling wake-up call to Adventists.

I cannot leave the topic of unity without mentioning the visual messages in the media. Important religious figures have started appearing in white with the pope. The ecumenical message seems to be that there is no longer a difference between East and West, Protestant and Catholic, or heathen and Christian. They are all united in white now. In former times, only the queens of Catholic states were allowed to meet the pope with white clothes! The message seems to be that these representatives dressed in white are now accepted and in full harmony as loyal “queens” (or prostitute daughters) of the Great Whore of Babylon.

Besides the unity of the movements in 1846, there was also a marriage union that took place. Ellen White received the astronomy vision not long after she got married to James White. Their marriage was a lawful one, and a noble one. Ellen Harmon had frail health and little education, and James White took her under his protection. In contrast to their lawful and honorable marriage, another marriage of an unlawful and ignoble nature took place on the world stage. In November, shortly before the pope’s union with other religions, there was a marriage between Church and State. In this context, the woman in the marriage illustration represents the church as the weaker party, and the man represents the powerful state.

On November 25, the pope addressed the European Parliament, and urged Europe to stay true to its roots. Again, the picture is worth a thousand words. The pope, who even admits to his own frailty, stands in the center—admired, guarded, and protected by the leading men of Europe. Like a lonely woman, the pope pleads for “family time.” Isn’t it remarkable! The very next day, a German court ruled in favor of Sunday protection in a decision that has implications for the whole country. Ironically, that happened on the birthday of the very prophetess, Ellen White, who prophesied the Sunday Law. If that were not enough, the ACK (an alliance of denominational churches in Germany) welcomed the decision of the court. The Seventh-day Adventist Church in Germany is an official guest member of that alliance. Therefore, it shares in welcoming the decision in favor of Sunday protection!

Yes, you read that right. They would be obliged to make an official statement to say the contrary, but we have not seen anything of the sort.

In governmental dealings with secular companies, when one representative of a company has received information, the government considers that the company as a whole possesses the information and is responsible for it. In other words, it is required that the left hand knows what the right hand is doing within the company. If we hold God's church at least as accountable as a secular corporation, then the entire General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists is accountable for the German arm of the World Church.

Don't hold your breath; they won't make an official statement against the Sunday Law. They cannot, because the pressure exerted by the ecumenical movement is enormous. If they were to speak against it, they would be thrust out and demonized, which is exactly what the leaders of the organization have been trying to avoid ever since they were first accused of being a cult.

In summary, the way the pure gospel started in 1846 is repeating now in 2014 with the counterfeit gospel. The evidence is enough for an honest reader to judge whether or not we could learn anything important from "17 moons and a white horse." Now I would like to turn to the Holy Scriptures, where we will see that these events have an even greater meaning.

In 1838, a man by the name of Josiah Litch published a book entitled The Probability of the Second Coming of Christ About A.D. 1843. He wrote and published the book primarily because William Miller's book was scarce, and because he believed the subject was of great importance. In the preface to his book, Litch wrote among other things some very nice words to put his material in the proper light. He could have written this for us, because it is all applicable:

All pretensions to a spirit of prophecy, or to infallibility in the interpretation of prophecy, are utterly disclaimed. It has often been asked, If the event does not come out as you believe, what will you then think? will it not destroy your confidence in the Bible? To this it is replied, Not at all; the writer has, in the course of his research on this subject, seen so much which has been literally fulfilled as predicted, that although all he has written on this subject should prove to have been founded in ignorance, he cannot doubt but the prophecies have a meaning, and that they were written by the unerring Spirit of the Holy One, and will, in due time, be fulfilled. But, at the same time, he must be permitted to express his firm conviction, that these calculations are founded in truth, and will stand the ordeal they must very soon pass—the unerring test of time. In conclusion, a candid examination of the subject is requested of the reader, before judgment is rendered; he is then at perfect liberty to receive or reject, as the strength of the evidence will dictate. For the purity of his motive in presenting to the public the following, the writer must appeal to that day, of which he writes. He believes that those, even, who do not accord with the peculiar views herein maintained, will find themselves amply compensated, for their pains, in giving the book an attentive perusal.

To God, and the word of his grace, the author would now commend himself, his work, and all who may read; praying that the spirit of wisdom and of a sound mind may be granted us, to lead us into all truth. The exhortation of the king of Judah (2 Chron. xx. 20) may perhaps be appropriate on this occasion. "Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem; believe the Lord your God, so shall ye be established believe his prophets, so shall ye prosper."

J. L. May 30, 1838.

I have to say of Litch's entire book the same thing that he said of Miller—that although his views may not be correct on every point, there is a part that is irrefutable. The part of Litch's work that is irrefutable is his calculation of the date of the fall of the Ottoman Empire.

I will let Litch relate the history:

The sixth trumpet sounded; and a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, said to the sixth angel which had the trumpet—"Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates." And the four angels were loosed which were prepared for an hour, a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. The four angels denote ministers of judgment.

They refer to the four nations of the Seljukian Turks of which the Ottoman empire was composed, located near the river Euphrates, at Aleppo, Iconium, Damascus and Bagdat. Up to the period of 1449, they had indeed tormented the Christian empire, but could not subject it. When the sixth trumpet sounded, [in 1449] God seems to have overawed the Greek emperor, and all power of independence seems, as in a moment, to have fled. He, in the most strange and unaccountable manner, voluntarily acknowledged that he reigned by the permission of the Turkish sultan. The Turks very soon after this addressed themselves to the work of reducing Constantinople. This they effected, A. D. 1453, four years after the emperor obtained permission to ascend the throne. The last third of the ancient Roman empire was now reduced by Turkish arms...

A little later, he makes his famous prediction:

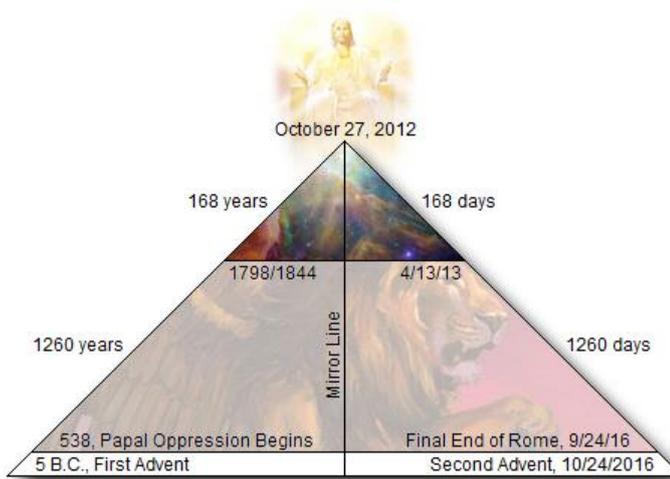

But when will this power be overthrown? According to the calculations already made, that the five months [of the fifth trumpet] ended 1449, the hour, fifteen days, the day, one year, the month, thirty years, and the year, three hundred and sixty years; in all, three hundred and ninety-one years and fifteen days, will end in A. D. 1840, some time in the month of August. The prophecy is the most remarkable and definite, (even descending to the days) of any in the Bible, relating to these great events. It is as singular as the record of the time when the empire rose. The facts are now before the reader, and he must make what disposition of them he thinks best...

Litch simply calculated the total amount of time in prophetic days or literal years:

day	1
month	30
	$391 \frac{1}{24}$	(or 391 years and 15 days)

It is significant that he pointed out the precision of this prophecy, and the fact that it “descends into the days.” He recognized that this time prophecy crossed the boundary from counting years into counting days. I suppose that was a strong hint to the Millerites that they could know the exact day to expect Christ in 1843 (later corrected to 1844). It should also be a hint to anyone who thinks that the prophecies do not have a day-for-a-day application.

This is where it begins to get interesting. In our article entitled The Time of Trouble, I explained that the day-for-year prophecies of Daniel 12 have a present-day application in literal days. I loosely depicted that as a chiasm with year-based fulfillment ascending up the left side from Christ’s first advent to the pinnacle at the top, and day-based applications descending down the right side to Christ’s great Second Advent.

The mirror line of that chiasm points to October 27, 2012 at the top: the sevenfold high Sabbath. We gave one of our strongest warnings to the SDA church for that date. We believed that since the Judgment of the Dead was ending on that day, it would be The End of the SDA Church. I am mentioning these things so that it will be fresh in your mind when I explain the new application of Revelation 9:15. What Litch said back then is true today: that prophecy is remarkable and definite and “descends” into the final era of literal-day prophecy.

We had recognized ISIS as the player in the fifth trumpet some time ago (when beheadings of people like James Foley were becoming international news) but we didn't recognize the five-month period until it ended recently, right in the middle of the pope's trip to Turkey.

As it turns out, ISIS declared itself to be a caliphate on June 29, 2014 (!).

That date is encoded in the signet of the year of St. Paul. That was the specific accomplishment that the signet was pointing to! For those of you who don't know, Islam is a creation of the Jesuits (don't take my word for it—research it!), and through the signet of the year of St. Paul, the powers in the Vatican were communicating their secret plans to establish the caliphate on that very day. The burning question is: what is a caliphate? Is it comparable to other forms of government?

A "caliph" is "a successor or vicar; the civil and religious leader of a Muslim state" (according to the Collaborative International Dictionary of English). Note that a caliph has both "civil and religious" authority, just like the papacy claims for itself. Another dictionary (WordNet) defines a caliph as follows:

n 1: the civil and religious leader of a Muslim state considered to be a representative of Allah on earth; "many radical Muslims believe a Khalifah will unite all Islamic lands and people and subjugate the rest of the world"

Again, note the similarity to the goals of Catholicism! A caliph is the ruler over not just one country or state, but over many countries and states wherever Islam prevails—on a quest to conquer the world!

In that light, the declaration of the caliphate on June 29, 2014 is comparable to President Obama announcing that from now on, he intends to be President of the World, and not just the United States! Such a declaration would be tantamount to a declaration of war against all other countries of the world. In the religious context, the declaration of the caliphate is essentially just that—a declaration of war against the entire non-Muslim world. The war started this year on June 29, which is celebrated every year in the Catholic Church as the day of St. Paul. Do you see how "Saul the Persecutor" (later Paul) is the perfect man to symbolize what the Vatican is doing through Islam?

It takes two to tangle, however. A war has two sides, and we must ask ourselves if the Christian world is also formally involved in this war. This is where the five months come in. If we count with Hebrew prophetic months of 30 days each (150 days total), we come to November 25 (inclusive) which was the date of the pope's address to Parliament! That should really say "uh, oh!" to Adventists, especially since we used Hebrew counting and Adventists are "spiritual Israel", but what if we count the five months as Gregorian months instead of 150 days? Months are a rare measure of prophetic time, and they allow us some possibilities for interpretation. We are dealing with a war involving the papacy on both sides, so it is reasonable to interpret the five months according to the papal (Gregorian) calendar that most of the world knows and uses. Counting the five months takes us from June to November, from the 29th to the 29th. Did anything happen on November 29 that could be the non-Muslim counterpart to the declaration of the caliphate five months earlier? It was all over the headlines:

November 29, 2014: Pope condemns 'barbaric violence' of Islamic State

In the news articles, they even mention the "self-declared caliphate" in connection with the persecution of Christians—including Adventists, by the way, like in the Kenya bus massacre. I am compelled to deviate for a moment to address the gimmick of a deceased SDA Union President by the name of Dr. Robert Darnell. A small set of his sermons has been circulating among Adventists, promoted by such wolves in sheep's clothing as Dwight Nelson. The relevant point here is that he asserts that SDAs will be protected during Islamic war based on passages of the Koran and Revelation 9:4:

*And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads.
(Revelation 9:4)

The fact that Adventists are already dying to ISIS reveals that Darnell's teaching is not true. The irony is that with his view, reality obliges one to admit that Seventh-day Adventists don't really have the seal!

Coming back to the topic, if we calculate with all exactness, the last day of the fifth month was November 28. That was the day that the pope actually spoke. It is a perfect five-month window of time from the day ISIS "declared war" on Christianity to the day Christianity "declared war" on ISIS in return! These were the five months during which ISIS "tormented" the world unchecked:

And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months; and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.
(Revelation 9:5)

Now that the pope has raised his voice, the five months are over and we have entered a new phase of full-on religious war. Friends, this is the start of World War III as Albert Pike described it. Dignitaries even say it: Jordan's King Abdullah: Battling ISIS Is 'Our Third World War'. It is all part of the plan to bring in the false Christ. It is the rise of the phoenix.

On the very first day of full-out war, November 29, Pope Francis paid a visit to a very important place: the Blue Mosque. This mosque was originally built as a cathedral, but was converted to a mosque when the Turks conquered Constantinople (now Istanbul). They converted it into a mosque, and today it serves as a museum. This mosque (formerly cathedral) was the center of the Eastern Church, and is now the center of Islam! This is where East meets West—where Europe meets Asia. Istanbul (formerly Constantinople) is also a city of seven hills, and in that respect it serves as the second seat of the first beast of Revelation 17. As it was once the seat of the eastern pope, now it represents the seat of Islam.

Islam is something like a mercenary for the pope. At its core, the Islamic religion is the same as Catholicism—complete with the worship of saints, relics, etc. Islam was founded by the Jesuits because the pope couldn't keep killing Sabbath-keepers and maintain a good image at the same time; he needed someone to do the dirty work for him.

Islam is just a tool to put into effect the Hegelian dialectic: thesis—antithesis—synthesis. Try to recognize how the Hegelian dialectic is used in Pike's plan for the third world war. Ultimately they want Christianity and Islam to mutually destruct (along with all other "-isms") leaving a void which the false Christ can rush in to fill as the solution to the world's problems: the One World Religion—order out of chaos.

To say it another way: today there is Catholicism, but it is "imperfect" because not everyone is Catholic. Therefore, they need ISIS to exacerbate the problem until everyone is so fed-up and exhausted that they are ready to accept a solution, namely the One World Religion with Lucifer (the false Christ) at the top.

Ironically, ISIS even carried out attacks on an international scale for the first time—involving Turkey no less—on the same day that the pope prayed in the Blue Mosque! What a headline: Pope Prays In "Blue Mosque" Turkey as ISIS Attacks From Turkey

In Josiah Litch's studies, the very next thing after the five months was the period of the "hour, day, month, and year" which gave the duration of time until the fall of the Ottoman Empire. That prediction was published far and wide, and garnered a lot of attention from skeptics and believers alike. When it fulfilled, it gave great impetus to the Millerite movement.

We have interpreted the five months for our day, so we are now ready to interpret the “hour, day, month, and year.” What it means for our time must be different than what it meant for the Millerites, though. We are living in the time of the “final rapid movements.” We don’t have 391 years or even 391 days after the end of our five months! We have to understand the text a little bit differently. This is where Litch’s observation comes into play, about the transition from a precision of years to a precision of days in biblical time prophecy.

We already saw that some kind of transition happened, which resulted in the sevenfold high Sabbath of October 27, 2012 becoming like a mirror between year prophecies and day prophecies. If you measure the number of days from October 27, 2012 until the end of November 2014 (the end of the five months), you get a meaningful number: 764 days! From our study of the 17 moons in the previous article, one can recognize that this number also encodes the duration of the judgment, for $7 \times 6 \times 4 = 168$. That was already a clue that something important should happen at the end of November, which turned out to be the pope’s visit to Turkey as we saw.

But what does that have to do with the “hour, day, month and year” prophecy? We know that we had “year” prophecies before October 27, 2012, and that something allows us to have “day” prophecies after that, but what is it? What allows us to have literal-day prophecies now?

Remember the oath in Revelation with one hand raised:

And swear by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, that there should be time no longer: (Revelation 10:6)

This scene is explained in detail in the article entitled The Power of the Father. It says “Jesus does not swear to the group which represents the Judgment of the Living for 3½ years ‘that there should be time no more.’ That means by implication, that the time proclamation is released again.” In the primary sense, this means that time prophecy comes into force again. In a secondary sense, it means that the time has come for the prophecies to have a literal-day fulfillment. Since the oath was sworn to the representative of those under the Judgment of the Dead, it must be that literal-day prophecy resumes after the Judgment of the Dead ends.

The transition to literal-day prophecy at the expiration of the oath has something to do with the “hour, day, month and year” of the sixth trumpet as Litch noted, because that prophecy “descends into the days.”

The reference point is clearly the sevenfold High Sabbath of October 27, 2012, where we have years on one side and days on the other. However, there is a problem with assigning that date as the transition date. At that time, we still did not have a clear revelation of any day-for-day time prophecies. We only had the Orion clock (which points to years) and the HSL (which points to years). We had a few isolated dates that we could infer from the feast days on the Hebrew calendar, and we could fit together the timelines of Daniel based on that, but up until now we have not had a strong and conclusive principle of interpretation like what Litch used to predict the August 11, 1840 date of the fall of the Ottoman Empire.

We already suspect a relationship between October 27, 2012 and the end of the five months of the fifth trumpet, because we saw that exactly 764 days are spanned there. Nevertheless, we still need a biblical argument to back up that relationship. Taking the 764-day observation as a hint, we could start counting the hour, day, month and year from October 27, 2012 to see what we would find. The evidence of our 2012 studies clearly pointed to the destruction of the SDA Church on October 27 that year, but it was held back by the fourfold “Hold!” and the fourfold cry

“My blood!” Therefore, it is perfectly logical that the hour, day, month and year of waiting time began on that day.

			Nov. 6, 2013

Since we are dealing with a transition from day-for-year prophecy to day-for-day prophecy, we begin with the assumption that on October 27, 2012 we were still under the day-for-year principle of interpretation. Thus, the first unit of time—an hour—translates to 15 days as it did for Josiah Litch. That takes us from October 27, 2012 to November 10, 2012 (inclusive) as the last of the 15 days. The next unit to add—a day—translates to a year or 360 days. That takes us to November 5, 2013 (inclusive) as the last of the 360 days. Next, we have a month, but a month would be 30 years or 10800 days with the day-for-year principle! Obviously, we don't have that much time!

Now we have to ask the question: is this the point in time where we should transition to the day-for-day principle of interpretation? Consider the circumstances. One noteworthy thing happened on that day, namely the publication of Moving Forward Together! In our timelines of the relocation of the court (Change of Venue article) this was during the Father's figurative movement from Jerusalem to Paraguay. He had already descended from the northern hemisphere to the southern hemisphere, and now He was moving across time zones from the eastern hemisphere to the western hemisphere.

The movement across time zones hints toward the fact that we are dealing with a change in how time is to be reckoned. This was also the last leg of the relocation, after which the judgment reconvened in Paraguay. And what was the first action of the Heavenly Court in Paraguay? During the first week after the relocation, we received the great light on the trumpet and plague cycles of the Orion Clock—which are prophecies with a daily resolution! That was the topic of John's Friday-night sermon on January 31, 2014. That was the eve of February 1, 2014, which coincided with the sounding of the first trumpet of the newly-discovered trumpet cycle of the Orion Clock. We indeed received the authority to “prophecy” coming events according to the day-for-day principle. The oath given with one hand had expired.

November 5, 2013 was not an eventful day, but it was the second possibility of the Day of Trumpets. That has meaning, because the Millerite movement itself was the fulfillment of the Day of Trumpets in traditional Adventist thinking. Therefore, it is appropriate that second possible Day of Trumpets would mark the transition point to our day-for-day understanding of the end-time prophecies.

Continuing from our November 5, 2013 position within the hour, day, month and year calculation, the next thing we need to add is the month, but now we will add it according to the literal day rule, which means 30 days. That brings us to December 5 (inclusive) as the last of the 30 days. Finally, adding the year (360 days) according to the literal day principle brings us to November 30, 2014 (!) as the last day of the entire sequence. In summary:

hour	$\frac{1}{24} \times 360 =$	15	(day-for-year principle)
day	$1 \times 360 =$	360
month	$30 \times 1 =$	30	(day-for-day principle)
year	$360 \times 1 =$	360
		765	total days

Notice the total! We have 765 days—just one more than the 764 Orion number—to reach all the way to the end of the pope’s historic visit to Turkey!

What we have is:

November 28 – This is the last day of the five months and the end of the fifth trumpet of the judgment cycle. It marks the beginning of the papal visit, and is the actual day of the pope’s speech against ISIS.

November 29 – The 764th day marks the first day of the “Word War III” religious war.

November 30 – The 765th day marks the union of world religions and the start of the sixth trumpet of the judgment cycle.

On the Adventist front, the women’s ordination issue seems to run through this timeline like a scarlet thread, just like the red timeline of Figure 3 in Change of Venue. The recent escalation of the issue began in 2012 as I explained in that article, and it reached a critical point exactly a year later to the day. That relates to the beginning of our “hour, day, month and year” timeline. Then we saw that Moving Forward Together was published on November 5, 2013, right at the transition from years to days. Finally, just before the end of the timeline, a new book was published on November 29, 2014 with a title that smacks of the infamous QoD: Questions and Answers About Women’s Ordination! Clearly, this timeline is meant to be a warning to the church, like Litch’s prediction was in his day.

It is significant that the pope chose Istanbul (formerly Constantinople) as the venue for his reunion with the patriarch of the Eastern Church, which had its seat in that city once upon a time. The news reports spoke of several “ecumenical” meetings during the trip. Just as that city was the fulcrum of change in 1840, so it is today.

When believers and skeptics alike learned that the Ottoman Empire indeed lost its power on August 11, 1840, they were aroused to heed the Millerite message. It was their last call to prepare for the imminent end of the world. Josiah Litch urged:

Reader, are you prepared for that event? Have you on a wedding garment? Have you your lamp trimmed and oil in your vessel? O be wise now, for then the master will have shut the door.

What the fall of the Ottoman Empire was to the Millerites, the union of world religions is to Adventists. We don’t “set” the time, we just read it. The “last call” was made for Adventists who had been intoxicating themselves with the doctrines of the drunkards of Ephraim, and we urged them once more to order pure water of the Holy Spirit with our Autumn Warning and Trident Series. Ellen White makes it painfully clear that the threefold union is the last sign before the Sunday Law (see Maranatha, p. 191), and every Adventist should know that their probation will be over by the time they see the Sunday Law.

I hope that you were wise and really prepared, because the next article might shock you.

Signs of the End

When reflecting on the signs of the end times, most people even vaguely familiar with the Bible think of signs in the sun, moon, and stars. This is an accurate expectation. After all, when God created them, it was not merely for separating day from night, but He said, “Let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years.”^[1] When we read from the Revelation, we indeed find them used in that manner:

And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. (Revelation 6:12-13)

The signs in the sun, moon, and stars are signs that the end of the world is at hand. So where are those signs, if we are really near the end? Wouldn't we know if they have already happened? And if they haven't happened yet, when should we expect them?

History Repeats

One of the methods that God uses to instruct us is through history. We often say that history repeats, but for those who serve the God who knows the end from the beginning, it takes on a much larger and deeper meaning. For example, consider the Bible story of the Exodus from Egypt. Israel moved to Egypt at the time when his family was just beginning to grow, and they dwelt there for a few generations. During that time, the Egyptians stealthily began to enslave the Israelites until they had them completely under their rule. But God raised up Moses, who led them out of Egypt through the Red Sea, and He provided food, water, and freedom from their bondage. This was an historical experience, but since they were being led by God, it was also symbolic of future events.

The children of Israel were God's people. He chose them out of all the people of the earth to represent His character to the world. God's people today have the same mission, so we can learn from our ancient counterparts. Just as His ancient people unintentionally found themselves as slaves when they were previously free, so do His modern people find themselves unwittingly slaves. Today, we may not serve people barking orders with whips, but we are slaves to sin. The effect is the same—although we may desire to be free, our slave driver is often hard with us, and we cannot escape. But God raised up Moses to deliver them from their Egyptian masters, and we have a Deliverer from sin as well: the man, Jesus. By His sacrifice, He made us free from our slave drivers, and just as He taught His ancient people in the wilderness, so He teaches us about Himself, transforming our lives.

But that is not the end of the story. Jesus said He would come again, so that we could be with Him where He is.

And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also. (John 14:3)

This, too, has a counterpart in the ancient story. After training them and teaching them about Himself, God fulfilled His old promise to Abraham, to give his offspring the place He had prepared for them. When they crossed over to the land God was giving them, they had to evict the enemies. The first city to be destroyed was Jericho, and God gave them special instructions on how it would be overthrown. It wasn't until they had captured this city that they could truly say that they had received the Promised Land. This serves as a pattern for us, as we prepare to receive the heavenly place that God has promised to us.

In the article series, History Repeats, it is explained in detail how this pattern applies to us today, and the reader is encouraged to study it. Very briefly, though, the Israelite men were commanded to circle the city while the priests carried the ark of God's covenant with them and blew seven trumpets before it. This repeated for six days. Each day they circled the city once. But on the seventh day, they circled the city seven times, shouted, and then the walls of the city fell down and they began to take their inheritance.

The Ark of the Covenant contained the Ten Commandments, written in stone with God's own finger. Encircling the city with the ark was a visual portrayal of wrapping a seal around a scroll. A seal was used to identify a witness to or authority behind a document, just as we use signatures today. The authorizing person would press their signet into the soft material of the seal and affix it so that the document could not be opened without breaking the seal. The law of God was made from tables of stone, written with His own finger, and is used as His signet. The Sabbath commandment, in particular, contains the specific information required to identify His authority: His name, title, and jurisdiction.

Repeating History, Revealed

In the Revelation, John was shown a book (scroll), sealed with seven seals. Jesus, the Lamb, was the only one who was found worthy to open the seals, and as He did, John saw some symbolic things happening. This book with seven seals represents the history of God's people. As the first seal was opened, the little Christian "sect" of Jesus' initial followers went forth, conquering on a white horse. As each seal was opened, Christian history unfolded in harmony with the symbols presented in Revelation.

Recognizing the application of the conquest of Jericho, we can see a resemblance. Each day, they circled the city once, representing one seal of the book in Revelation. However, on the seventh day, they circled seven times, indicating that the history of the seals should repeat! After the first six seals were broken, representing six periods of church history, a similar history would be repeated before the last seal would be broken.

Indeed, following the course of Christian history, we discover that just as there was a fledgling group of young followers of Jesus that went forth as conquerors on a white (representing purity of doctrine) horse, so again, after much compromise and numerous impure doctrines entered the church, God regrouped, and a few young believers from various denominations put away their prejudices and studied sincerely until the purity of the first church was present once again. That was during the Great Awakening of the 1830s and 40s and led to the formation of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. They became the heralds of God's messages of mercy and warning in the last days, but sadly, just as it was with the early church, after a rarely-discussed phase of persecution and martyrdom during the world wars, compromise and contamination corrupted the people again. This is all documented in our flagship presentation, The Clock of God.

The repetition follows the same pattern in every detail as the first six periods of history, only on a much shorter time scale. At the beginning of this article, the verse in Revelation was quoted that speaks of the signs in the sun, moon, and stars, and these things happened after the sixth seal was opened. According to the model of the conquest of Jericho, therefore, we would expect not one, but two fulfillments of this prophecy. One fulfillment would have been before 1844, when the Great Awakening was mature, but there should be another fulfillment during the repetition of this seal sometime later. Does history bear this out? Let's take a look!

A Great Earthquake

The first sign that is given when the seal is opened is that "there was a great earthquake." Of course, there have been many great earthquakes in history, so how do we narrow down the field? Taking into account other related biblical prophecies, the time period in which we would expect the earthquake must be in the neighborhood of 1600 to 1800. The periods before this time of history are recognizably associated with the previous seals.

One notable earthquake during this period was the Great Lisbon Earthquake of November 1, 1755. But the main factor that singles out the Lisbon earthquake is not how powerful it was, or how many lives were lost, but how influential it was in its effect on a global scale. If we consider the deadliest quake in recorded history, for example, which killed more than 800,000 people, we do not find any significant global impact. It occurred in China in AD 1556, but like many other quakes, it is mainly relegated to entries in encyclopedias and lists of natural disasters. Outside of China, it has had little impact.

The Lisbon earthquake, on the other hand, was the largest natural disaster^[2] ever recorded in Europe and was physically felt over some four million square miles throughout Europe and North Africa, where it caused much destruction, especially in Morocco and Algeria, where whole towns were destroyed. "The earthquake's cause remained a mystery because the tectonic activity of the region was not clearly understood. The plate boundary... is not well defined."^[3]

In Lisbon, the wealthy capital of Portugal where the damage was particularly severe, there were created huge fissures some 15 feet wide that opened up through the center of town. Unsuspecting ones who sought refuge from crumbling buildings, ran to clearings near the Tagus River only to meet their fate soon afterward as huge tsunami waves tore through the city, traveling up the river, destroying palaces of the king, libraries, museums, and cultural attractions and drowning the escapees. In an era of candles and wood stoves, numerous small fires quickly erupted in the areas where the tsunami did not reach, and rapidly spread, engulfing much of the remaining part of the city and ending the lives of many who were trapped in the rubble as it burned for several days. Some 85% of the city's buildings were destroyed, including virtually all of the churches, which were full that day on account of it being a church holiday. "The 1755 earthquake has sometimes been compared to the Holocaust as a catastrophe so tremendous as to have a transformative impact on European culture and philosophy."^[4]

For its global impact, the Lisbon earthquake was unequaled. Not only for the distance over which it was felt, but also for the quality of records that were kept from it. Survey information was collected shortly after the quake, and witnesses provided their observations regarding certain aspects of the circumstances surrounding the event, which were documented and analyzed. This made it the first scientifically studied earthquake, and is credited as the initial stimulus in the development of modern seismology. Today, scientists still pore over the records relating to that earthquake and continue to publish their research on this event, which took place nearly 260 years ago!

A God of Love?

Returning to the story of Jericho for a moment, we should ask ourselves what we can learn about God from these things. Before Jericho was destroyed, its inhabitants were petrified for fear of Israel, because they had heard stories of what God had done for His people, and they recognized that they were in grave danger. But God is the Creator, and He loves people, whether good or bad. You can sense the yearning of His heart in the message He once gave to His erring people:

Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel? (Ezekiel 33:11)

God does not hate His enemies! He loves them and wants to remove that which alienates them from Him, so they can be with Him again like at the beginning, “walking in the garden in the cool of the day.”^[5] But when we hold on to sin, God knows that it will mean our ruin, so He pleads with us to let it go.

After leaving Egypt, before they were permitted to enter the Promised Land, God said, “And let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them.”^[6] In the ceremonies of this sanctuary, God illustrated how He planned to remove sin from them, so that He could dwell among them again. Israel had a precious message for the rest of the world, Jericho included: God is gracious and ever ready to pardon sin, no matter how egregious or extensive it may be. Sadly, few believe that God is really willing to forgive them. Instead they hold on to false notions that He hates them and just wants to punish them to get even for things they did that He doesn't like. But as Jericho fearfully anticipated its doom, there was one looking from the city wall at the camp of Israel, who saw His love. Being a prostitute, she was cognizant of her unworthiness, but put her faith in the God of Israel, that He loved her in spite of her wretched condition. She responded to His desire to dwell with His creation, and submitted herself to His mercy. This did not escape God's notice. Though the entire city was laid flat and plundered, God arranged that this harlot and all her family would be spared.

It was a similar scenario when the children of Israel left Egypt. The last plague that was to be visited on Egypt was of the death of all first-born males, whether of man or beast. The only ones who were spared this mournful plague were the children of Israel, who were given instruction regarding the first Passover, where they marked the door of their homes with the blood of a lamb, so that the destroying angel would pass-over their household without executing his judgment.

The people bowed their heads and worshiped, grateful for this remarkable memorial given to preserve to their children the remembrance of God's care for his people. There were quite a number of the Egyptians who were led to acknowledge, by the manifestations of the signs and wonders shown in Egypt, that the gods whom they had worshiped were without knowledge, and had no power to save or to destroy, and that the God of the Hebrews was the only true God. They begged to be permitted to come to the houses of the Israelites with their families upon that fearful night when the angel of God should slay the first-born of the Egyptians. The Hebrews welcomed these believing Egyptians to their homes, and the latter pledged themselves henceforth to choose the God of Israel as their God, and to leave Egypt and go with the Israelites to worship the Lord. {ST March 25, 1880, par. 4}^[7]

Some find it difficult to reconcile a loving God with the execution of an entire city, but although He does do that dirty work, He takes no pleasure in it and would much rather that they all repented, so He wouldn't have to do that work. He has demonstrated His willingness to pardon on any scale. That is His stated purpose—to cleanse man from sin.

And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins. (Matthew 1:21)

Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. (Isaiah 1:18)

What leads God to shake the earth is His wrath against sin. When the first seal opens, there is purity in the church. They are not without fault, and He counsels them accordingly, but the doctrine He left with them remains pure. It is the everlasting gospel—the good news that He will indeed give us freedom from sin, not leave us slaves in sin. But as the following seals open, He sees His people becoming more and more corrupted with sin, and teaching an impure doctrine, and His counsel becomes sterner and sterner, until finally, He shakes the earth in an effort to wake His people up to their need of reform.

Jesus explained that we should not think of the people upon whom disasters come as worse sinners than anyone else, but He counsels us to take it as a warning that we must have a repentant attitude toward our sin, or we, too, will perish.

Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were sinners above all men that dwelt in Jerusalem? I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. (Luke 13:4-5)

Thus, we should guard against the notion that Lisbon was visited by the judgments of God because they were a wicked city.

That is not to say that God does not execute judgment on wicked cities, however! But when He does, it is not through coincidental happenstance. Sodom and Gomorrah were examples of God's wrath being poured out on unrepentant sinners. Jesus clarifies this point with a little parable of an unfruitful fig tree:

He spake also this parable; A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none. Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground? And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it: And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down. (Luke 13:6-9)

The fig tree was a representation of the nation of Israel. He had been working with it extensively that it might produce good fruit—the fruit of the Spirit. But they had refused to accept Him, and consequently, they couldn't receive His Spirit to produce fruit. Despite all of His efforts, He ultimately had to intentionally cut it down. Before executing judgments in wrath, God always gives warnings. It behooves us to discern those warnings and heed them, reforming our lives in humility and repentance. Jesus explained that the falling tower was not a judgment against sin, but a warning to all to repent. At the destruction of Jerusalem, however, there was no mistaking that this was the judgment of God.

*But if ye turn away, and forsake my statutes and my commandments, which I have set before you, and shall go and serve other gods, and worship them; Then will I pluck them up by the roots out of my land which I have given them; and this house, which I have sanctified for my name, will I cast out of my sight, and will make it to be a proverb and a byword among all nations. And this house, which is high, shall be an astonishment to every one that passeth by it; so that he shall say, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and unto this house? And it shall be answered, Because they forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold on other gods, and worshipped them, and served them: therefore hath he brought all this evil upon them. (2 Chronicles 7:19-22)

God is ever willing to work in us if we allow Him. At the cross, He took our scarlet sins upon Himself and gave in exchange His own life, contained in His blood, that the white purity of His life would be ours. If we are willing to receive it, we may be obedient just as He was, for He had no advantages over us, but came "in the likeness of sinful flesh."^[8] But if we refuse to let His Spirit bring about His will in our lives, He cannot cleanse us, and if persistent in this rebellion, He will ultimately leave us alone to be destroyed with our sin, for it is the blood of Jesus Christ that cleanses us from all sin.^[9]

Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land: But if ye refuse and rebel, ye shall be devoured with the sword: for the mouth of the LORD hath spoken it. (Isaiah 1:18-20)

Thanks to Jesus, the choice is yours. How will you choose?

Preparing a People

The Lisbon earthquake was a sign that the Day of Judgment was near, and as God was awakening His sleeping virgins, He gave them understanding regarding the Scriptures. But this was not the only sign He gave, lest it not be clear that it was in fact, the prophesied sign.

And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; (Revelation 6:12)

Following the great earthquake, there would be more signs; this time in the heavens. In New England during the decades following the Lisbon earthquake, there was a great interest in spiritual things. It later earned the nickname, "the burned-over district," due to the numerous "fire and brimstone" revivals and new religious movements that originated there. People were eager to learn about the Scriptures. Thus, although a relatively small area, it would be fitting for this to be the location of the next signs. Spanning from Maine to New Jersey, "The Dark Day of New England" manifested itself on May 19th, 1780. In the middle of the morning, the sky was cloudy with a reddish hue, and began to get darker and darker until by noontime, it was so dark that candles were necessary to continue business. There was no known cause for the event. One notable incident tells of the immediate thought of the people that the Day of Judgment had come. Abraham Davenport, a member of the Connecticut legislature answered a motion to adjourn with these words:

I am against adjournment. The day of judgment is either approaching, or it is not. If it is not, there is no cause for an adjournment; if it is, I choose to be found doing my duty. I wish therefore that candles may be brought.^[10]

The religious population in that area quickly saw this singular event as relating to the coming Judgment. For two-and-a-quarter centuries, it remained an unsolved mystery, but with more recent scientific research,^[11] it has been discovered that there was a large forest fire in Canada about that time, and the smoke from that fire, rising enough that it would leave little if any trace of smell, spread over the region. In combination with a heavy fog, it completely blocked the light of the sun over a large area as it passed over. It was God's smoke signal, sent to them to warn that the Day of Judgment was indeed approaching.

This was not the first, nor the last dark day that has been observed, but, “Whereas other ‘dark days’ had occurred in the past, the darkness of this day was more intense and far-reaching than people had ever experienced, leading to much hysteria and overreaction.”^[12] Like the Lisbon earthquake before it, this dark day stands out among the others of its kind.

While it was still fresh in their minds, and many were observing the sky that night for any sign of the familiar twinkling of the stars or the full moon, the darkness began to drift. But when the moon appeared, it had a reddish color like blood, although there was no lunar eclipse that night. Thus, at once, two elements of the prophecy occurred in immediate succession. Many people could remember twenty-five years earlier when they received news of the Great Lisbon Earthquake and began to connect the dots that God was sending earth a warning of the coming Day of Judgment.

The widespread, unique, and mysterious aspects of these events are indicative of their purpose as signs. Some seem to think that because much of the mystery surrounding these events has since been understood scientifically, they do not qualify as signs. But just as there is no mystery in sending up a red flare from a ship, yet there is a definite message, so with God’s signs; there need not be a great mystery surrounding the events in order for it to be a sign from God.

In the ensuing years, men filled with the Holy Spirit began to study the prophecies of the Bible, and truths were unfolded to them that revealed that they were approaching a momentous time in history. In the revealing light of the Revelation, the “little book” of Daniel was understood as it had never been before. After years of study, God convicted a farmer and diligent student of the Bible by the name of William Miller to share his studies, and in the early 1830s, people began to take notice. His study of the 2300 days of Daniel 8:14, especially, led him to the conclusion that Jesus would return around 1843. Later, after realizing a simple, almost obvious error in his calculations, it was corrected to 1844.

As though to give steam to the movement, another sign appeared in heaven, near the time when Miller began to preach. It was the next in the sequence listed in the sixth seal: “And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind.”^[13] This sign appeared in the New World, and was visible everywhere east of the Rocky Mountains. The Leonid meteor shower is known to put on a prolific display. In a peak year when a “meteor storm” occurs, the rate may be a few thousand meteors per hour, (about one meteor every second or two). In 1833, however, the display was truly spectacular, generating many times this amount. An article in the Salt River Journal of Bowling Green, Missouri claimed, “The most perfect master of language would fail of conveying to others a full picture of this extraordinary and uncommon experience.”^[14] In certain localities, so many were seen that no estimate was obtainable until their frequency began to slow down. It was compared with counting raindrops.

Many people were awakened from their sleep by the light, some fearing a fire had started. Judge James Flanagan of Clark County, Kentucky noted that "The people were struck with awe and thrown into great consternation."^[15] As with many unusual or disastrous events, people believed that the Day of Judgment had come. They were afraid and prostrated themselves, seeking forgiveness. How much better would it have been if they could enjoy the dazzling spectacle with joy, because they had previously prepared?

Today, many so-called "preppers" go to great lengths to prepare food, flashlights, and other useful items in case of a catastrophic emergency. These preparations are indeed helpful and wise, for "A prudent man foreseeth the evil, and hideth himself; but the simple pass on, and are punished."^[16] But if this is the extent of your preparation, you may find yourself terribly lacking in the ability to emotionally and spiritually handle a disaster of apocalyptic proportions. The preparation that is of primary importance is the preparation of the heart. If men were fearful at the mere signs of the Day of Judgment, how much more will they fear when the real judgments begin to fall? God invites all to "Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night."^[17] Wouldn't it be better to be prepared, spiritually, to help the panicking ones all around us while mercy yet pleads in that time, which those signs warned of? "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."^[18]

With several signs now discernable and in their proper sequence, the people in New England began to awaken and take seriously William Miller's interpretation that Jesus would return in 1844. After all, the next verse after the falling stars depicts the cataclysmic chaos associated with "the wrath of the Lamb."

And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:14-17)

As the predicted year approached, and a movement was developed, Miller's studies had reached a skeptic by the name of Samuel Snow. Having wrought a work of conviction in him, he became a Christian, and later testified of the experience,

I saw the perfect harmony between Daniel and the Revelations, and the history which is a perfect fulfilment of these Revelations. I asked myself in all seriousness, how could this great knowledge be obtained unless it were inspired by God. I then saw that the Bible which I had so long rejected, was the word of God, and I melted down before it.^[19]

Having thus melted, he became willing to allow the Holy Spirit to use him.

The Jewish feast of Yom Kippur, also known as the Day of Atonement, was a time when Israel gathered together for Judgment. They humbled themselves and waited in solemnity as they watched the priests perform their symbolic service in the sanctuary. Their work was for the cleansing of the sanctuary from the sins that Israel had committed all through the year. When an Israelite would sin, he came to the priest with a lamb, and confessing his sin, symbolically transferred it to the innocent animal. The life-blood from the many lambs and other sacrificial animals represented the great sacrifice of Jesus Christ, whom God made “to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him.”^[20] That blood was sprinkled on the veil in the temple, staining it with the sins of the people all year long. On the Day of Atonement, the record of sin that had been transferred to the blood was ceremonially cleansed from the sanctuary.

This feast day is a fitting parallel to the cleansing of the sanctuary that Daniel was told about: “Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed.”^[21] Through his studies of the Jewish calendar, Samuel Snow discovered that in 1844, this special feast occurred on October 22nd. Miller and others taught that the cleansing of the sanctuary typified the cleansing of the earth by fire at Jesus' coming. For those who came to love the Lord, this was welcomed as honey for its sweetness as they waited expectantly for the One who loved them so dearly as to give Himself for them “while they were yet sinners.”^[22] Well was this experience characterized in the words of the Revelator:

And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. [Daniel's prophecy] And he said unto me, Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey. (Revelation 10:9)

After the Lord had clearly led the Millerite movement for so long, drawing people together to unite in sincere study of His word, Jesus did not come on the appointed day, and, as the angel prophesied to John, it was a bitter experience for the believers who had to endure the mocking of unbelieving friends and neighbors.

The time of expectation passed, and Christ did not appear for the deliverance of His people. Those who with sincere faith and love had looked for their Saviour, experienced a bitter disappointment. Yet the purposes of God were being accomplished; He was testing the hearts of those professed to be waiting for His appearing. There were among them many who had been actuated by no higher motive than fear. Their profession of faith had not affected their hearts or their lives. When the expected event failed to take place, these persons declared that they were not disappointed; they had never believed that Christ would come. They were among the first to ridicule the sorrow of the true believers. {GC 374.1}^[23]

But those who simply and humbly sought the truth in the Scriptures went back again to the Source, determined to understand where their error could have been. The Lord rewarded their faith, for as the Scripture says, if you “seek the LORD thy God, thou shalt find him, if thou seek him with all thy heart and with all thy soul.”^[24] The technicalities of the calculations had all been ironed out and refined before the arrival of the date and its application was clear. Their weakness lay in a misunderstanding of the sanctuary, but upon further study, the Light that had led them that far continued to shine with even greater brilliance.

The service of the Day of Atonement was the one time of the year that the High Priest would enter into the compartment of the sanctuary where the Presence of God was manifested as a bright light above the mercy seat. In that shimmering room, all covered in gold, rested the Ark of the Covenant containing the Ten Commandments, written in stone with the finger of God. Outside, all Israel waited, watching for the reappearance of the priest, whom they knew was doing a special ministry for them in that most holy place.

At the time to which their calculations pointed, Jesus, our High Priest, began that special service for mankind in “the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man.”^[25] The celestial Day of Judgment had begun, and this is what God was preparing His people for in the time of the sixth seal.

Thou Must Prophecy Again

After the experience of the bitter disappointment of the Advent believers was illustrated to the Revelator, the angel said, “Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.”^[26] In the Revelation, after the prophecy of the seven seals is presented, there is a prophecy of seven trumpets. This command to prophecy again is given after the sixth trumpet is sounded. Because trumpets were blown each time the people “sealed the city” in their symbolic marches around Jericho, we understand that these trumpet-bearing angels in Revelation also sounded during their corresponding unsealing.

This indicates that after the sixth seal would open, the sixth trumpet would sound. The prophecy of the sixth trumpet begins with a peculiar and precise time prophecy that was interpreted by Josiah Litch to conclude on August 11, 1840. The details of the fulfillment of his interpretation, and its subsequent repetition may be found in the previous article, Last Call. It was in the same prophecy of the sixth trumpet that the command was given to prophecy again, repeating the prophecies just covered. Thus, as we saw before, the round of six seals (as well as their corresponding trumpets) must have a dual fulfillment, repeating after that special light was given in 1844.

The unorganized handful of people from various denominations, who had followed Christ’s movements by faith in the heavenly sanctuary, was chosen by God to be His people who were to proclaim the last message of mercy to the world, and to become prepared to stand in the great Day of the Lord. Though not a great people, He looked after them as the apple of His eye.

For the LORD’S portion is his people; Jacob is the lot of his inheritance. He found him in a desert land, and in the waste howling wilderness; he led him about, he instructed him, he kept him as the apple of his eye. (Deuteronomy 32:9-10)

He watched over this small group of people, leading and instructing them along their journey. Among them were James White and Ellen Harmon, who later married and dedicated their lives to help spread far and wide the beautiful message God had given them. Soon after the disappointment, God began to give Ellen Harmon dreams and visions that would confirm the little company in their studies. While these were sincere students of the word, they were not all ready to accept that this was indeed God’s instruction being given to her. In the article, 17 Moons and a White Horse the story is related of a notable experience when one solid believer among them by the name of Joseph Bates was finally convinced of her prophetic gift. God knew their concerns and satisfied them with the evidence they needed, while not removing all doubt, lest they not be able to exercise faith.

And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ. (Ephesians 4:11-13)

These gifts were prevalent in the early church, when the early rain of the Holy Spirit was fresh. But in time, as His people lost their first love, and weren’t so zealous to heed the Holy Spirit in all things, the gifts were manifested less frequently. However, when He began to awaken His people and they came together to study again with the Holy Spirit, and followed Him earnestly, then He was able to manifest more of His gifts.

Throughout the remainder of her life, the ministry of Ellen White provided much encouragement, instruction, reproof, and prophetic insight for the fledgling church. It was a gift, much to be appreciated, for it gave them additional support and confirmation during the growth of the movement. Although formally she only had a third-grade education and was physically very frail, God made His strength perfect in her weakness, and over her lifetime, by heeding His counsel, she became stronger and better equipped to handle the demands of her ministry. Today, there is much relevant light that still shines through the nearly 100,000 pages that she wrote.

The signs that the end was near had their effect, and the Great Awakening was the result. God was awakening His sleeping people, so they would be ready for the movement He was initiating. It was time for Him to ride the white horse again, and with the awakened people, He was able to do that. But as seal after seal was opened for the second time, the same history was repeated. Their zeal, strong at first, soon began to wane, and eventually led to apathy and deep apostasy at the highest levels of the church that organized from that small company of initial believers. By the time the fourth seal opened, the beautiful white horse of the initial years was now depicted in pallid tones. It was no longer the Life-Giver, Jesus, but Death who was riding the movement, with Hell following behind. What could bring the vigor of life back to this deathly ill people?

As Christians, we are called to be a revelation of Jesus Christ to the world, but this is not possible without receiving His Spirit.

Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the LORD: his going forth is prepared as the morning; and he shall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth. (Hosea 6:3)

At the time of Pentecost, after Jesus had ascended to heaven, His disciples received the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. This initial watering was needed to germinate the seeds of truth that were then being planted, that they might grow and bear fruit. But to bring the fruit to maturity, another rain was needed. The latter rain symbolizes the outpouring of the Holy Spirit just before the great harvest of the earth, to supply the extra demand of the developing fruit. For the dying church of the pallid horse, Jesus opens the fifth seal to bring renewed life and energy to produce the fruit of His Spirit that is needed for the world to see and partake of.

And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? (Revelation 6:9-10)

The altar referred to in this passage is the altar of sacrifice. Notice that the souls are crying out from under the altar. It must have been awfully cramped down there! No, obviously this is figurative language, and we can understand it when we consider what was under the altar.

And thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon the horns of the altar with thy finger, and pour all the blood beside the bottom of the altar. (Exodus 29:12)

The blood of the sacrifices was poured out beside the altar. These souls who were slain for the word of God and for their testimony are represented by their blood, which has collected beneath the altar. The blood of the first martyr, Abel, is among them, and as it cried out to God at his death,^[27] so it cries out again at this time.

There is a last generation, and all of the righteous blood of those martyrs will be required of that generation. Hear the words of Jesus:

Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell? Wherefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city: That upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar. Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation. (Matthew 23:33-36)

In 2010, a study was published relating the constellation of Orion (the Hunter who is poised to crush the head of the serpent) to the Heavenly Sanctuary according to the pattern given in Revelation 4 & 5. In this study, the repeating seals are shown to correspond with historical occurrences within the small company of Advent believers who later organized as the Seventh-day Adventist Church. The seven stars of Orion form a clock that marks several very important events in the history of this people.

In the story of Job, when God speaks to him out of the whirlwind, one of the questions He asks him gives us some useful information about this constellation. He asks, “Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion?”^[28] God indicates that Orion has bands that Job, by implication, cannot loose. Does that sound familiar? That’s right—this is a reference to the seals of Revelation that only the Lamb (Jesus) was found worthy to loose. These seals are associated with Orion in this passage. Furthermore, the word translated, “Pleiades,” literally means, “seven stars.” Thus, the verse literally reads, “Canst thou bind the sweet influences of the seven stars...?” What we see is an example of Hebrew poetic parallelism. It is often the case in Hebrew poetry that the second half of a line will repeat the thought of the first, introducing a little change. This is the case here. In the first part, it refers to the seven stars, while in the second part, it says Orion. But these are really both referring to the same constellation, and God is also telling us that in the seven stars of Orion, we will find a message with sweet influences that are to be bound (to us). These sweet influences come from God’s law:

Keep my commandments, and live; and my law as the apple of thine eye. Bind them upon thy fingers, write them upon the table of thine heart. (Proverbs 7:2-3)

Indeed, the message in Orion is one of transformation of character, carried out by the Holy Spirit.

It is not always the most learned presentation of God’s truth that convicts and converts the soul. Not by eloquence or logic are men’s hearts reached, but by the sweet influences of the Holy Spirit, which operate quietly yet surely in transforming and developing character. It is the still, small voice of the Spirit of God that has power to change the heart. {PK 169.1}^[29]

Another reference to Orion in the Bible shows us that it is indeed associated with the outpouring of the Holy Spirit:

*Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The LORD is his name: (Amos 5:8)

Associated with the seven stars and Orion is such an outpouring of rain that it is described as taking the water of the sea and pouring it out copiously on the earth! This is on par with the Angel of Revelation 18:1 that comes down to the earth and lights the whole planet with its glory. These describe the great power that will attend the last message as He sends His Light to this dark world, turning “the shadow of death into the morning.” The rain has already begun to fall since 2010, and is daily increasing in intensity.

The Signs Repeat

The opening of the sixth seal, where the signs of the end are recorded, must occur after the opening of the fifth seal in 2010, when the Father gave the Orion Message to the world. The first sign of the sixth seal, as we saw before, is a great earthquake. Do you remember any notable earthquakes after 2010 that might qualify?

It was mid-afternoon on Friday, March 11, 2011 when the shaking began and it lasted several minutes. Soon a massive, 20-foot-high wave of water began to move inland, flooding a significant percentage of Japan's tsunami evacuation sites, because they were not constructed to defend against such a huge tsunami. The coastline was devastated; 1.2 million buildings were damaged or destroyed, and 15 – 20,000 people lost their lives. Another 452,000 had to unexpectedly cope with life in a crowded shelter.

Video: 2011 Japan Tsunami Caught on CCTV Cameras

It was among the strongest earthquakes ever recorded, shifting the earth's axis by several inches, but what makes this earthquake unprecedented in its global impact is the fact that on the shoreline, a six-reactor nuclear power plant suffered severe damage to three of its reactors.

A nuclear power plant operates by using the heat from radioactive materials to generate steam, which then powers a turbine, from which electricity is generated. The nuclear heat sources must have water to keep them from overheating, though. Have you ever noticed how a dry pot on the stove will get much hotter—even discoloring the metal due to heat—than one with water in it? The same principle applies in a nuclear reactor. The concentrated amounts of highly radioactive material that are used in the reactor core, generates an incredible amount of heat, and just like the pot on the stove, it needs water to absorb (and carry away) some of that heat, or it will overheat. Unfortunately, while you can control the heat on your stove, there is nothing that can be done to “turn off” the heat-producing radioactivity of the reactor cores. The only way they are regulated is by using “control rods” that absorb some of that radiation. But although this provides some control for the water heating rate, it is not effective without the cooling water. From their construction to their “decommissioning,” reactor cores must be constantly cooled.

As an uncooled reactor core heats up, it can get very hot before anything starts to happen, but at about 1500°C (2700°F), it begins to melt the control rods. That means that whatever “control” they may have provided will be gone, and the temperature continues to rise. At 1800°C (3300°F), the outer casing on the reactor fuel begins to melt, and the temperature continues to rise. Within hours without cooling water, the temperature may reach 2400°C (4400°F) or even higher, and at this point, the reactor core itself melts and forms a puddle at the bottom of the reactor vessel.

But there are not many materials that can withstand this temperature. The hot puddle then begins to eat away the containment vessel and continues on a downward path, decomposing or melting whatever is in its path until it mixes with enough other material so that it cools down enough to solidify again.

This is what happened in three of the reactors at the Fukushima Dai'ichi plant due to lost power and failed backup power generation due to the overwhelming size of the tsunami. But what's worse is that they could not even determine the status of the melted cores—how far down they got or what their condition was—because the radiation levels were too high to make observations. Even robots couldn't go in, because the radiation interferes with their electronics, and they would fail. All they could do was dump lots of water in, and hope they were cooling off. Since then, the fact that highly radioactive "black dirt" has been found on the streets in the area has been raising concerns. Analysis of the material reveals that it is likely remnants of the reactor cores, whose status they could not determine. Different ideas exist as to how it made it to the external environment, but the disintegration and dispersal of fuel rods is a known phenomenon and may explain the mysterious "black dirt."

In the nearly three years since the earthquake, every day some 300 tons of groundwater has been flowing into the contaminated plant and becomes radioactive (albeit relatively mildly) on its way into the ocean. Another 100 tons each day is used in an effort to cool what remains of the reactors, and becomes exceedingly radioactive. This water is being stored in large above-ground storage tanks. Currently, there are nearly half-a-million tons of highly-radioactive water stored in these tanks. But about a third of the tanks (over 300) are of a poor quality and several have had significant problems with leaking.

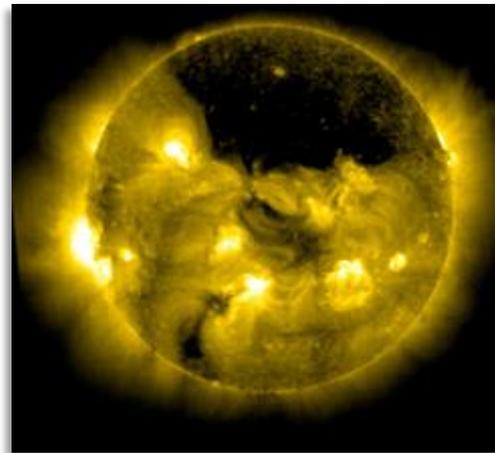

Already the rate of thyroid cancer in children in the area has seen a major rise. While it remains to be confirmed whether it is due to the increased radioactivity or not, it is certainly highly suspect! One could continue for a long time describing all of the hazards associated with the disaster, but the fact that this power plant is positioned right on the world's largest ocean means there are necessarily world-wide effects. There is an enormous collection of tsunami debris that has been collecting and drifting in the ocean, and with it, some 165 non-native species of marine creatures. This has the potential to wreak havoc on the ecosystems where the trash may end up. This already happened in Guam, where non-native snakes have multiplied dramatically. Various kinds of sea creatures have mysteriously been showing up dead in mass numbers all around the world.

There is truly no other disaster that has happened in recorded history that has the kind of adverse global impact that this wounded and bleeding nuclear plant has had, and will continue to have. That is what makes it a sign of apocalyptic proportions; the fulfillment of the prophesied earthquake of the repeated sixth seal.

An Omen in the Sun

Following the earthquake, the prophecy indicates that there would be signs in the sun and the moon. The Dark Day of 1780 was caused by effects on the earth, but in our day, the sun itself becomes dark. Analogous to the atmosphere of earth, there is an envelope of super-heated plasma around the sun, called the corona. Under typical circumstances, the magnetic field of the sun holds the corona onto the surface, but at times small areas of the magnetic field rupture and this releases the corona in that area at a high speed. In the summer of 2013, it was the calmest solar maximum that has been observed since the beginning of the 1900s, and a time when holes are not common, yet a massive rupture created a hole in the sun uncovering about one quarter of its surface! This made headlines all around the globe.

While there was no visible difference in its appearance to human eyes, when pictured in high-frequency light, it is clearly revealed as a huge, black hole. Scientists are uncertain as to what causes this kind of phenomenon, but have observed that they usually occur when the sun is near its peak activity, and can last up to several weeks or even months. This darkening of the sun was particularly long-lasting, appearing during six rotations of the sun from May – October, causing some disturbances in communications signals during that time. Many have already associated this occurrence with the sun becoming black as described in the sixth seal.

But there is something more significant in relation to this sign. The signs are just that—signs that something is going to happen in the future. They are a foreshadowing of the planetary tumult to precede the return of Christ. One of the ubiquitous characteristics throughout all of the heathen nations was the supremacy of the sun-god. Their names for it varied, but the sun was still venerated. The sun-god is, of course, Lucifer, the Light-Bearer and morning star who became the devil. The ancient Egyptians worshiped various gods, including the sun, and God sent plagues on them to reveal that He was the Creator and Master over all other gods, including the sun.

And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thine hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, even darkness which may be felt. And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three days: They saw not one another, neither rose any from his place for three days: but all the children of Israel had light in their dwellings. (Exodus 10:21-23)

Today, you may think that the only sun-worshipers are certain strange idolaters in remote villages of third-world countries. But the evidence is all around us that there are disguised sun-worshippers hidden in our midst. In plain view on the dollar bill is the Luciferian all-seeing eye at the top of the pyramid. Is that a symbol that you would include just because it looks nice? Or do you think that it is indicative that the leadership of this nation may have ties with Luciferian worship, which sun-worship represents? Many political, business, financial, and even church leaders are, behind closed doors, sun-worshippers. The Bible also makes reference to this regarding His people. He addresses ancient Israel, but God's people today will find the same situation among the leadership of their church, virtually without exception. God took Ezekiel step-by-step, closer and closer to the leadership of the temple, showing him all the abominations that were being committed at every level. This is what he saw:

And he brought me into the inner court of the LORD'S house, and, behold, at the door of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, with their backs toward the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east; and they worshipped the sun toward the east. (Ezekiel 8:16)

These were the religious leaders of God's people—with their backs toward the temple, worshipping the sun! And so it is today, and we see evidence of that in the symbolism that is used in their logos and media. Since the failure of the Tower of Babel and the confusion of the languages, man has sought to recover by using a unified symbolic language, and under the instruction of the devil is creating a unified one-world government. But it is not the purpose of this article to provide thorough evidence for that. It is mentioned here, just to make the reader aware, if not already, that there are many idolatrous sun-worshippers in all ranks of society, especially in the leadership roles. Many among the common population unwittingly worship the sun as well, by keeping the Sunday holy as opposed to the biblical Sabbath.

God is aware of that idolatry, and will judge the rebellious idolaters according to their works. But He would rather that the idolatry was forsaken and they put their energies into a better cause. It is a dog-eat-dog world in the self-seeking rebel government of Satan. But with Christ, all things are freely given in an open and happy atmosphere. No effort needs to be expended to hide dark secrets from others, for in Christ, there is only crystal clarity. He will protect all who choose to abandon the ranks of darkness, no matter how committed they were.

And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. My Father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand. (John 10:28-29)

The devil may promise great wealth and pleasure on this earth, but in the end (which is scarcely in the future), there is eternal loss. Christ promises safety from the devil's attacks and an eternity of life with Him, who loves us infinitely. Lucifer himself will be reduced to ashes, along with the children of pride who follow after his spirit. "Therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, it shall devour thee, and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth in the sight of all them that behold thee."^[30] And the sign of his destruction was foreshadowed millennia ago by the three dark days in Egypt. Again today, the sun gives a foreboding warning to all who follow the false light of the sun-god, Lucifer, whether directly, or by partaking of his spirit of pride and self-exaltation.

God plagued the Egyptians by blotting out the light of the sun for three days, and He will plague the wicked at the final judgment by turning up the heat:

And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire. (Revelation 16:8)

The blackening of the sun happens as a result of losing part of its atmosphere, the corona. We are still in a time of mercy, so this is just a small hint at what will happen in the future. Power will be given to the sun that will cause its hot outer layers to expand enough that men will be scorched with great heat. This expansion of the outer layers is the first step in the death of a star like our sun. The sun is credited as the supporter of all life on earth, but the truth is that the Creator, our Savior, is the true Life-Giver and supporter, and those who harden their hearts against His love, will finally receive the reward of their dying solar “life-giver.”

Scientists may estimate the future life of the sun to be billions of years, but they do not have all of the evidence. They do not even know what causes the coronal holes to form! The physics of the sun is incredibly complex, and there is plenty of room for surprises.

The only other place in the Scriptures where the word “scorched” is used is in the parable that Jesus gave of the sower. When the sower sowed his seeds, some fell among the stones. These represent those who have hardened their hearts. The good seed is the wonderful message of a loving God who, at infinite cost to Himself, sent His Son to free us from the burden of our guilt and to empower us to live according to His Spirit. But when it falls among stony hearts, unwilling to yield in humility, they receive the plague:

Some [seeds] fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. (Matthew 13:5-6)

At first, they spring up in joyous response to the Gospel, but their stony heart cannot support growth. Having never been broken on the Rock, Jesus, these stony-hearted ones end up becoming scorched by the sun in the fourth plague.

Let us give our hearts to God; for we have only a little time remaining. We are living in the last days. On every hand are signs of the end. Life is becoming more and still more uncertain. We hear of numerous wrecks and other disasters; we hear of many who are killed in an instant, without a moment's warning. Let us determine not to wait until a more convenient season before preparing to meet the Lord in peace when he comes. Let us give ourselves wholly to him, and then work for the salvation of other souls, from house to house, and wherever we may be. {RH June 14, 1906, par. 22}^[B1]

If you, dear reader, see that you have a heart of stone, unbending, unyielding to the Spirit's efforts; waste no time to come to Jesus and be broken. Yes, it will be painful, but less so than the scorching heat of the dying sun. He will receive you in peace, and you can rest from your resistance. If you do not repent now, while there is mercy, the scorching sun will only harden your heart further:

And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and they repented not to give him glory. (Revelation 16:9)

Blood Moons

Recently, another planetary phenomenon has garnered wide-spread interest, especially in the religious community: the blood moon tetrads. A tetrad is a series of four total lunar eclipses in a row (without any intervening partial lunar eclipses). On average a little over 1 in four lunar eclipses are total eclipses, also known as blood moons for the blood-red appearance that washes over the moon as it completely enters the shadow of earth. In a typical year, there are two lunar eclipses, so a tetrad spans two years. The tetrads are not common—only 2-3 occur in a century on average, and even less common are those tetrads that highlight the Jewish feasts. In 2014 and 2015, we are in the midst of just such a tetrad. Each of the four blood moons in the tetrad occurs during the Jewish feast seasons in the spring and autumn of these years.

The last of the four blood moons of the current tetrad is called a “supermoon” because it is when the moon appears slightly larger, being at its closest to earth. While this is associated with increases in certain physical influences (such as greater tides, etc.), as a sign, it places extra emphasis on the autumn feasts of 2015. Would it not be well for us to consider what the message of the feasts is, to which these blood moons are pointing?

Many are quick to turn their eyes to Israel in expectation of what these signs mean, but who is Israel? “Know ye therefore that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.”^[32] Friends, ever since the nation of Israel rejected their Savior and stoned His servant Stephen, they were cut off from their own tree. Those who by faith accept Christ and His Spirit are the ones who constitute Israel today. The devil seeks to draw attention to literal Israel, because he doesn't want you to see the truth. Whatever may happen in the state of Israel, you can be sure that it is not a proper fulfilment of prophecy, for the prophecies are now fulfilled to spiritual Israel.

The feasts that God gave to Israel were at either end of the agricultural season. This is representative of God's work with man. We are the crop that God desires a harvest from. The spring feasts represent His first advent in the flesh, when He came to sow His good seed, while the autumn feasts represent His second advent, when He will come for the harvest. Associated with the spring feasts is the feast of weeks, or Pentecost, represented the outpouring of His Spirit like rain to support and develop the crop.

There is much treasure buried in these feasts. The article series, Shadows of the Sacrifices, explains some of the significance of these feasts for our day. Some of it serves as a specific warning, and this is what the moons are signaling. The Jewish calendar was based primarily on the moon and their crops. Thus, by using moons to highlight the Jewish feasts, God is at the same time pointing to their calendar. But the modern calendar that is in common use is not according to the biblical account. We cannot trust a man-made calendar to give accurate information regarding the prophecies of God! No, but we must verify that we have God's original calendar, and then we will discern something of His Clock. The focal point of the studies that elucidate God's calendar is the cross of Jesus Christ, and in the article, Full Moon at Gethsemane, certain details of God's calendar are determined, which are discernable only by studying Christ's crucifixion. The blood moons of the tetrad that occur during Passover, therefore, are a sign directing the world to that foundational study. It was according to that calendar that the events surrounding Christ's first advent played out. And according to the same calendar, the events surrounding His second advent will come to pass. The blood moons falling within the autumn feasts point to an application of God's calendar to the season of the Second Advent.

It is not a coincidence that it is a tetrad that forms this special sign. The number four represents the entirety of creation. There are four directions (north, south, east, and west), four seasons, four states of matter (solid, liquid, gas, and plasma), four dimensions (width, length, depth, and time), etc. These are all universal throughout the realm of man. Thus, the tetrad with its four blood moons represents a message that is given for the whole world. However, they are in two pairs: the first in the spring and autumn of 2014, and the second in the same seasons of 2015. This is because the first two represented a warning that was given to a smaller group.

The Orion Message as a whole is the warning that was first given to the Seventh-day Adventist Church. They were the ones who grew out of the initial company of believers who followed Jesus by faith into the second compartment of the heavenly sanctuary in 1844. They are the modern counterpart to ancient Israel. So the parable that Jesus spoke of the Jews in His day also applies today:

He spake also this parable; A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none. Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground? And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it: And if it bear fruit, well: and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down. (Luke 13:6-9)

The Orion Message is well represented by the autumn feast, because it has everything to do with Yom Kippur. It is the Judgment-Hour Clock, which began and ends on the Day of Atonement. This Message was first published in 2010, directed toward the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Jesus (as seen in Orion) came to His people that year, seeking fruit from His fig tree, but He found none. The year of God's calendar begins in the autumn, so the 2010 year ended in autumn of 2011. The second year, 2011-2012 came and went, but no fruit. There was still no fruit the third year, 2012-2013. But in His mercy, the Holy Spirit pleaded that it be spared one more year, when He would "dig about it and dung it." However, the fourth year came and went without producing the desired fruit, and in the autumn of 2014, after four years of opportunity, the sorrowful decision was made: "Cut it down." The first two blood moons passed for the Seventh-day Adventist Church, but now the opportunity is given to those outside of "Jerusalem," and for these, the remaining blood moons apply.

The last of the moons—the supermoon—also comes during the autumn feasts. It is a closer moon because it is a special warning. The Day of Atonement in 2015, according to God's calendar, is the last day before the seven last plagues begin. Everyone's decisions will have been made. The martyrs will have given their last testimony. The Judgment of the Living will have ended, and Jesus will have no need any more to intercede on behalf of humanity. It is the time when that solemn proclamation will be given:

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

The righteous are shut up into the ark of safety as was Noah and his family, and having waited seven days, the rain of Judgments, unmixed with mercy, begins to fall. It is the great day of God's wrath, and only those who are sealed with the seal of God will be spared from the wrath that is poured out all around them.

He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler. Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday. A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked. Because thou hast made the LORD, which is my refuge, even the most High, thy habitation; There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. (Psalm 91:4-10)

This is the final warning that the great Day of Wrath is at our heels. Thousands of years ago, the Bible gave the signs that we are witnessing in the heavenly bodies at this time, because from the beginning, God knew when it would come:

The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the great and the terrible day of the LORD come. (Joel 2:31)

The signs of the sixth seal from the first cycle of seals were relatively mild in comparison with the repetition. While the Lisbon earthquake had a world-wide impact, it was nothing like the world-wide devastation with which the Japan earthquake now threatens the globe. The drifting soot of a forest fire is far more benign than the first ominous signs that our sun is actually beginning its shutdown procedure in preparation for the end of creation. The single blood moon after the smoke cleared from the Dark Day was not even from a celestial cause, but the blood moon tetrad is not only celestial, but very precise and clearly points us to look deeper into the Jewish feasts and discern how they apply to us in the last days of Earth's history. Let us not quiet our conscience because there may be some lingering questions. Act in faith!

There are in the world today many who close their eyes to the evidences that Christ has given to warn men of His coming. They seek to quiet all apprehension, while at the same time the signs of the end are rapidly fulfilling, and the world is hastening to the time when the Son of man shall be revealed in the clouds of heaven. Paul teaches that it is sinful to be indifferent to the signs which are to precede the second coming of Christ. Those guilty of this neglect he calls children of the night and of darkness. He encourages the vigilant and watchful with these words: "But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness. Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober." {AA 260.1}^[33]

When It May Be Too Late

The falling stars in 1833, while dazzling in their beauty and alarming for the unprepared, were also a mere signal. The one sign remaining before the day of God's wrath comes, is the repetition of the falling stars. Of all the signs, this is surely the most intense, for the falling stars of the repetition will not be restricted to the sky, but will wreak havoc on the earth as no disaster has done before.

Meteor showers are a result of the earth passing through a trail of particles the size of grains of sand or small stones left behind from a comet. As the particles enter the atmosphere, they get very hot and begin to radiate brightly as they vaporize. Most of the time, due to their small size, they completely burn away long before they ever reach the surface of the earth. From time to time, however, a few meteors do reach the surface (when they are called meteorites).

The repetition of the falling stars could be as simple as an extension of the wondrous display in 1833, except from large rocks instead of small sand. In the Bible, there are a few examples of destruction caused by falling objects from outer space. One of the plagues of Egypt was that of hail mingled with fire:

So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. (Exodus 9:24)

This burning hail was obviously not the hail we are familiar with from bad storms, because ice couldn't be made to burn. Rather, this hail must have been burning stones, having ignited due to the intense heat generated upon entering the earth's atmosphere. Another interesting biblical example is that of Sodom and Gomorrah—two cities upon which was rained fire and brimstone, causing their destruction. It is known that meteorites and cometary material are abundant in sulfur, making them potential candidates for that event.

God clearly indicated to Job that He would use a similar form of judgment in the time of trouble:

Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow? or hast thou seen the treasures of the hail, Which I have reserved against the time of trouble, against the day of battle and war? (Job 38:22-23)

Indeed, the depiction of the falling stars according to the biblical text includes more than merely a dazzling nighttime display.

And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. (Revelation 6:13)

They did not just figuratively fall, but the text says specifically that they fell "unto the earth." That means that a complete fulfillment would involve impact on the surface of the earth. And that is just what the repetition will include.

Two dreams of Ellen White are relevant to this and give a better idea of the magnitude to expect of this wonder.

Last Friday morning, just before I awoke, a very impressive scene was presented before me. I seemed to awake from sleep but was not in my home. From the windows I could behold a terrible conflagration. Great balls of fire were falling upon houses, and from these balls fiery arrows were flying in every direction. It was impossible to check the fires that were kindled, and many places were being destroyed. The terror of the people was indescribable. After a time I awoke and found myself at home. {LDE 24.3}^[34]

In the visions of the night a very impressive scene passed before me. I saw an immense ball of fire fall among some beautiful mansions, causing their instant destruction. I heard someone say: "We knew that the judgments of God were coming upon the earth, but we did not know that they would come so soon." Others, with agonized voices, said: "You knew! Why then did you not tell us? We did not know." On every side I heard similar words of reproach spoken. {9T 28.1}^[35]

Did you notice how she specifically mentions those who did not know when the judgments would come? These are the untimely figs of the text. They are unripe, because of being out of season. Because they did not know the time of their visitation, they did not discern the season, and were found unprepared to meet the storm; they are shaken out by the mighty wind and are unable to fulfill the calling that God had called them to.

The falling of the stars in the repeated sixth seal is not a sign to wait for before you decide for God. Many will lose their lives in this event. Not all will have prepared. Now is the opportunity to do so. Learn now, study now, and seek the Wounded One now, who is portrayed in Orion, that you may know the time of your visitation. Believe the many small evidences rather than wait until the inescapable evidence arrives. Jesus is looking for faith, and that must be demonstrated by His people. “Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?”^[36] Will He find it in you?

The Last Generation of the Living

While the first signs signaled the coming Day of Judgment, the repeated signs signal the coming Day of Wrath. In both cases, they serve as warnings. Our God is a loving God. He is coming very soon, and He needs a people who will be able to stand in the fullness of Christ, representing Him during the time when His wrath is being poured out without mercy on the wicked. After the signs of the sixth seal are given, the great day of His wrath comes, and a question is asked:

For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:17)

The whole of chapter 7 is an answer to this question. Before the four winds are loosed, representing the time of strife before the coming of the last plagues, an angel comes with a seal, “Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.”^[37] These servants of God, who are sealed in their minds, are those who will be enabled to stand in the day of His wrath. This is the last generation of the righteous; of whom David wrote as he concluded the psalm that Jesus began to quote on the cross. Hanging there in our place, Jesus cried out, “My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?”^[38] As He poured Himself out and the dogs compassed Him, He saw “the travail of his soul,”^[39] and was comforted:

A seed shall serve him; it shall be accounted to the Lord for a generation. They shall come, and shall declare his righteousness unto a people that shall be born, that he hath done this. (Psalm 22:30-31)

In the last generation, those who are sealed by the angel as described in Revelation 7 have demonstrated their faith and willingness to give all for Jesus. David saw that there would be servants, counted as a generation, who would declare God’s righteousness to the others of their time (the “people that shall be born”). It is a remarkable time in history that we are witnessing. It is a time of Judgment, and the inhabitants of earth are being polarized by their choices. It is now as it was in the days of Noah, when God warned that His Spirit shall not always strive with men.^[40] The Spirit of God is still continuing to strive with man, but He is being withdrawn as the world steadfastly resists Him, and very soon, He will cease striving, and only abide with those who have learned not to resist Him.

Let the prayer go up to God, “Create in me a clean heart;” for a pure, cleansed soul has Christ abiding therein, and out of the abundance of the heart are the issues of life. The human will is to be yielded to Christ. Instead of passing on, closing the heart in selfishness, there is need of opening the heart to the sweet influences of the Spirit of God. Practical religion breathes its fragrance everywhere. It is a savor of life unto life. {3BC 1157.7}^[41]

In that declaration of His righteousness, made possible by becoming filled with all the fullness of God,^[42] the salvation of man is confirmed: a generation stands saved from sin, revealing only Jesus in their character. “These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.”^[43]

It is for the preparation of this generation that the signs of the sixth seal are given. It was ever God’s purpose that He would have a people in whom He could freely manifest Himself. When He writes His law on the tables of our heart, He gives us the promise:

And I will set my tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people. (Leviticus 26:11-12)

This is the restoration that God is looking for. Just as He walked with Adam and Eve in the cool of the Garden of Eden, so He desires to walk with us. He has set His sanctuary among us, so that He can take away our sin, which His soul abhors. Then we shall be His people who declare, through revealing His character even in a time of great persecution and tribulation, that He is our God. This is the purpose of the Orion Message.

Therefore, the seventh seal opens at the time of the Judgment of the Living. This is the time when the last generation—the living—is to be identified, and the righteous filled and sealed with the Holy Spirit in order to fully reveal the power of Christ's salvation by declaring His untainted righteousness in our decrepit, sinful flesh.

And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. (Revelation 8:1)

In the Clock of God in Orion (heaven), an hour is seven years on earth.^[44] Therefore, the space of half an hour in heaven is three-and-a-half years on earth. This is the duration of the Judgment of the Living, in perfect harmony with the twelfth chapter of Daniel, where the same time frame is given using the terms, "a time, times, and an half"^[45] (a "time" in the Bible indicates a year, so this is 1 year + 2 years + ½ year = 3 ½ years). The Clock of God gives us the ending date: Yom Kippur of 2015. In the days of Noah, the righteous were sealed into the ark, and the wicked were sealed out of the ark. Then, after seven days of waiting, the merciless rains began to fall on all those without shelter in the ark. Jesus said that in the end, it would be as it was in Noah's day,^[46] so we understand from this that seven days earlier, the righteous are sealed into the ark. Counting back from Yom Kippur (October 24, 2015) these 7 days and three-and-a-half literal years (1260 days) brings us to May 6, 2012 as the beginning of the Judgment of the Living. This is when the seventh seal opened!

After this period has finished, all will have made their decisions and will be sealed in righteousness or marked in selfishness, signaling the time to pour out the final, merciless judgments on the wicked, while protecting the servants of God. We now have less than one year remaining until the time of mercy finally transitions to the time of no mercy. It is at that time that the revelation of the mystery of God is complete. The seven seals are fully opened, the seven trumpets have sounded, and God's servants fully reflect Christ, who is in them.

The astute student will notice that at the time of the opening of the seventh seal, only the first sign in the sixth seal had occurred (the Japan earthquake). It is the same with the fifth seal as well, which speaks of the martyrs and waiting until their number would be fulfilled. Once the last martyr has given his testimony, the seals are completely open. It is almost as though Jesus is anxious to open up the scroll! At first, He opens each seal completely before opening the next, but with the last seals, the rapid events begin as He pops off the seals in such rapid succession that before one falls off, the next is already opening. Time is very short now. There are no more seals to be opened. These last three seals all find their end at the termination of Jesus' ministration in heaven, when every testimony has been given and every decision is made, which is Yom Kippur in the autumn of 2015.

A Heavenly Perspective

It would be well for us to understand why the Judgment of the Living is a time of silence in heaven. In order to see this, it is important to realize that the inhabitants of heaven are watching what is transpiring on this earth, "for we are made a spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men."^[47] Now think about the situation from the perspective of heaven.

It was from heaven that Lucifer fell, and began to tempt and deceive the human race. “How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning!”^[48] At the cross, the Revelator represents Satan as losing his place in heaven:

And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night. And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death. (Revelation 12:7-11)

The war began in heaven, where Satan dwelt before his rebellion, but the time when he was cast out of heaven with his angels, was not until he was completely unmasked before the unfallen worlds at the cross. It was there that the end result of his rebel government was seen. At the same time, they could see the contrast with the benevolent, selfless character of their own Master. And Satan, with his venomous fury, sought to bring the Son of God to commit just the smallest error. Even one sin in a moment of extreme pressure would have rendered the entire plan of salvation ineffectual, for Jesus, then, would have died for His own sin. Only a sinless sacrifice could atone for the broken law.

The law of God is the constitution of His government. It represents how He operates in all matters, and it points out the way of life, because He is the source of life. “And I gave them my statutes, and shewed them my judgments, which if a man do, he shall even live in them.”^[49] Just as the rules of a classroom reflect the nature and character of the teacher, so the law of God reflects His nature, His character. God’s character does not change, nor can His law. “For I am the LORD, I change not.”^[50] If His law could be altered, Jesus would not have needed to die. What was it that condemned man? It was the law. Jesus took man’s condemnation because it could not be lifted any other way than for man to accept the gift of God’s own righteous obedience to the law, and for Him to take man’s condemnation. It is not the removal or alteration of the law that frees us from its condemnation, but the perfect adherence to it that Jesus demonstrated in His humanity, which adherence was given to us by His Spirit dwelling in us.

But in heaven, Lucifer thought his ideas of government would be better. He began to doubt that God had his best interest in mind, and thought that he would be better off making his own rules. We see this attitude still expressed in his followers today. Many today seek their own selfish interests, because they think that it makes them happier than if they were to follow God. They think this because they have been deceived into thinking that God does not have their best interest in mind. As soon as one begins to seek his own interest, deception begins to manifest, because cloaking your real intentions and portraying yourself in a more favorable light is more likely to gain the support of others. But God’s law forbids such dishonesty. He has no need to hide His motivation, because there is nothing self-serving about it; nothing that isn’t by nature favorable to those who might discern it; it is pure, selfless love, and needs no concealment.

This is the contrast that was portrayed on the cross. The deceptiveness and secrecy of Satan made it difficult to discern his motives at first, but at the cross, all was made plain to the onlooking universe. They saw his malicious intent against the Son of God, and ultimately against God Himself, side-by-side with the utter humility and selflessness of Jesus, who was willing to permanently assume the form of humanity, and even subjected Himself to the shame of the cross, all because He loved mankind, and this was needful in order that they could have life. He did not consider the infinite cost to Himself too much to pay, because He had not the least bit of self-concern. He only saw the good that it would do for humanity.

Angels were present in the judgment hall, and when Christ was scourged with the cruel thongs, they could scarcely endure the sight. Angels of heaven were present at His death. The darkness that covered the earth at His crucifixion concealed the company of heaven's powerful agencies, but the earth quaked at the tread of the heavenly throng. The rocks were rent; for three hours the earth was shrouded in impenetrable darkness; nature with her dark robes hid the sufferings of the Son of God. {5MR 353.1}^[51]

It was this contrast that caused Satan's former companions to lose all sympathy for him in their hearts. Thus, having no more place for him in their hearts, he was cast out of heaven. Until that time, although it was no longer his dwelling, he still had access on occasion, as the first two chapters of the book of Job make clear.

Imagine the angels looking on this scene of intense conflict. Would the devil succeed in his vicious attempts to cause their beloved King to fall in His weakness as a frail human being? With what interest would they watch as the ones for whom He was giving His life scourged Him, spat in His face, plucked out His beard, stripped Him naked, nailed Him to a cross, and invited Him to demonstrate His divinity by selfishly saving Himself instead of man! With baited breath, they were watching these scenes as they unfolded, lest they miss any detail. There was silence in heaven at that time, because of the magnitude of what was at stake, and the vulnerability it had been subjected to.

The Second Half of Salvation

The contrast displayed to the unfallen beings was not clear to earth-dwellers. Satan's deceptions have not been seen for what they are. On the cross, Jesus made it possible for us to choose the good and forsake evil. But until the world sees what the angelic host saw at the cross, they will not have a true picture of reality, which is necessary in order to make an informed choice. Jesus is the centerpiece of the plan of salvation. His exemplary life and sacrificial death in the midst of the fierce temptations of the enemy of souls proved to the angels and unfallen worlds that the law of His government was truly "holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good."^[52] At the same time, it completely unmasked the devil's true character, and the nature of his rebel government.

In order to make that contrast clear in the sight of humanity, the scenes of the cross must be played out again; only now, it must be done entirely in the form of visible humanity. Man could not perceive Satan's influence over Jesus' life, because he was hidden from their view. But when Satan uses his human agents to persecute and tempt those who desire to serve God, and have given themselves wholly to Him, to be filled with His Spirit—then the contrast will be seen in humanity by humanity. The holy character of the law of God will be written in the hearts of His people, and they will be sealed with the Holy Spirit. For the humble in heart, who fall on the Rock to break down their pride, the fiery trials of intense persecution will serve only to refine them, and the character of Christ in them will shine ever brighter. This is "The revelation of Jesus Christ"^[53] that will complete the plan of salvation.

Most of Christianity has failed to realize that Jesus' three-and-a-half-year ministry was only half of the process. When Jesus cried, "It is finished," He declared that He had completed the work that God had given Him to do in the flesh. But there was a work remaining to be done, as represented in the duration of His ministry. The number of completion is seven. Jesus' ministry was half of this, and was therefore incomplete! For the unfallen beings, it was sufficient, for they could see what is invisible to us. But for humanity, there would of necessity be a second half of His ministry before the plan would be fully complete. The second half must also be three-and-a-half years in duration, to make up a complete seven years of Christ's ministry on earth. The first half was done in the flesh of Jesus, but the second half must be done in the flesh of humanity, filled with His Spirit and emptied of self. This is the High Calling of the 144,000.

Then, and not until then, will the plan of salvation be complete, so that both the invisible, unfallen beings and visible humanity have opportunity to see the contrast between the principles of God's government (His law), and the principles of Satan's government. The Law of God will be written in the hearts of God's people, and the character of Satan will be written in the hearts of the rejecters of God's grace. The selfless love of Jesus will be revealed in those who serve Him, and this will be visibly contrasted with the venomous hatred of those who seek their own exaltation. Then man will see clearly, for it will all be done in the visible realm of humanity, and all will be able to make an informed vote as to whose government they deem best.

The plan of salvation is far deeper than merely our deliverance from the trials of earth! It covers more than the redemption of man from sin, although this is an important part, of course. But the fullness of the plan of salvation is in the vindication of the law of God; declaring that God's law is perfect as it stands, and must not be altered. "Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin,"^[54] but those who have accepted the grace of Jesus in restoring our freedom of choice are not slaves, but free, and thereby qualified to be members of the jury. And their lives pronounce the verdict.

These are those who are described in response to the question, "Who shall be able to stand?" These servants of God are sealed in their foreheads. The "sweet influences of the seven stars" are bound, and by impressing the signet of His holy law in their pliable hearts—the same unchangeable law as was written with the finger of God at Sinai—the Holy Spirit seals His people.

And I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel. (Revelation 7:4)

These are the jury members who see Jesus in Orion, whose temple is not desolate of His presence. As the Spirit of God fills them and they minister to the world, many are led to Jesus in repentance. They see the purity and love of God in them, and they see the contrast with those who put on a cloak of godliness, but who inwardly serve only themselves.

As it was when Jesus ministered in the flesh, so now there is silence in heaven as its inhabitants intently watch the final events of history unfold. The stakes are high. The jury has not yet been fully assembled, but their number must be fulfilled in order to meet the quorum. Their beloved Master, our Father, is being tried. Will we, the jury, be convinced that His character—His law—cannot be improved upon and demonstrate this by voting on the side of obedience? Or will we cast our vote on the side of Satan, by choosing to yield to his temptations to disobey God. Remember Jesus' words: "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."^[55] So if you believe this, you cannot argue that you were compelled to disobey. Jesus overcame while in the likeness of sinful flesh, and He has given us His example, that we should do likewise.

In this three-and-a-half-year phase of the Judgment of the Living, when we cast our votes, it will be as it was in Jesus' day:

He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. (John 3:18-19)

How will you vote? Will you come to the light and be cleansed from your sin, casting out Satan from having a place in your heart and life, or will you cling to your filthiness and seek darkness that it might go unseen? We will all one day be brought before God, who is light, and the character we choose will be made plain in that light. Will your robe reflect the beauty of His presence, or will it be muddled and embarrassing? Thanks to Jesus, the choice is yours. How will you choose?

Addendum to Signs of the End

With the publication of Anchored in Time, we have traced our faith to the end, and God has therefore given us a complete understanding of the prophecies. The “mystery of the seven stars” (the Revelation) has indeed been fully revealed. Orion allows us to harmonize the entire book of Revelation, and seeing the harmony in Chapter 14 as we explained in It is the Lord! is evidence of that. It shows that because of our faith, God has led us into all truth, which is the same as saying that Jesus will really come on October 24, 2016.

Following that through, we should also be able to completely harmonize the sixth seal finally, which we never fully understood. If our faith is really sure till the end, then the sixth seal must be understood as well. If it isn't, then it means we have a legitimate cause for doubt and our faith is not perfect like Jesus'.

To refresh your memory, the “book” of seven seals is written on the outside and inside. The outside of the book told of the events from the early church until the judgment time. Six seals were opened during that time, but there was no seventh seal opened, because the seals had to repeat according to the pattern of the marches around Jericho. This is because the people rejected the first, simpler model of entry as we explained in the addendum to History Repeats, part II. After the sixth classical seal closed and the Day of Judgment began—the great Day of Atonement beginning in 1844—then instead of a seventh seal, there were a complete new set of seven seals, like there were seven marches around Jericho on the seventh day (instead of one march as on the first six days). This new set of seven seals corresponds to the inside of the book, which is revealed by the Orion message.

In the context of the judgment time and the Orion message, the repeated sixth seal has the following interpretation (in brackets) according to our understanding as published above (the entire seal text from Revelation 6 is quoted, with verse numbers for later reference):

12 – And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake [March 11, 2011 – Fukushima quake]; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair [summer 2013], and the moon became as blood [April 15, 2014 – Sept. 28, 2015 blood moon tetrad];

13 – And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth [this is where we got stuck...], even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

14 – And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places.

15 – And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains;

16 – And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb:

17 – For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?

At the time we wrote this article, we could not see the fulfillment of verse 13, and we simply assumed it must be the fireballs to come. Now we are past the end of the sixth seal, because now we are in the time of plagues and the “great day of his wrath is come” (v. 17). Prophecy is given so that when it comes to pass, we will understand—and that means if we really are in the time of plagues as we believe, then we should be able to understand the entire sixth seal, since it ends at the beginning of the plagues. Let me emphasize once again that if we can’t harmonize this, then there could still be doubt that the plagues really did begin, and our faith would not be perfect—so we must be able to harmonize this.

There are different kinds of signs here: signs on earth, and signs in the heavens. The signs in the heavens are in the sky but you can’t feel them. The signs on the earth can be felt. For example, the earthquake really did affect people, but the darkening of the sun and moon were just signs in the heavens, but did not affect the earth. What about the “falling stars”? It says that the stars “of heaven” fell unto “the earth,” which means that they should be not only visible in the sky, but also something that could be felt.

The truth is, the media was full of “fireball” reports in recent years! Most of them were visible in the heavens only, but there was one that also dramatically affected the earth: the Chelyabinsk meteor of February 15, 2013. Indeed, there have been many “falling star” fireballs, but this one caused damages and injuries to some 1500 people, affecting six cities (source), and thus marks the date when we can say the sign was fulfilled that the fireballs “fell to the earth.” It is possible that this was the “one fireball” event that Ellen White dreamt about. Many buildings were affected and their glass facades were completely destroyed. People were mainly injured by this glass flying in all directions. Just look at the shockwave captured in the camera footage near the middle of this video!

However, the prophecy is about something other than fireballs. It is about the spiritual war. In this case, there are two sides to the war, and one side is the “fallen star” Lucifer, or Satan. The resignation of Pope Benedict XVI was announced shortly before the Chelyabinsk meteor, and of course that opened the door for the election of Pope Francis, the fallen star himself. Lightning even struck St. Peter’s Basilica just hours after the papal resignation, as if to confirm the location where the “star” was falling!

And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven. (Luke 10:18)

On the other side of the war are the “stars” of God—the stars of the Orion message—which also cast their light upon the earth. It says that the stars fell as a fig tree casts her untimely figs, “when she is shaken of a mighty wind.” What “mighty wind” caused a “shaking” in a “fig tree” and caused “untimely figs” to fall? The “mighty wind” is a reference to the rushing mighty wind of Pentecost as the former rain, and therefore also the gift of the Holy Spirit in the outpouring of the latter rain. This latter rain message—the Orion message—was given especially to the SDA Church (the fig tree), and it shook the church (the shaking) especially when it was accompanied by visible events, causing its “untimely figs” (anti-time-setters) to fall.

An important point is that God gave the prophecies to show the events—in this case the papal events and the Orion message—more than anything else. That is the more profound fulfillment of the text, but God also gave the physical signs gratis to help us connect the prophecy to the event. Who cares about the Chelyabinsk meteor, really!? But we care very much about the papal movements! That principle of a sign and a spiritual fulfillment is important for deciphering the rest of the sixth seal.

Next, the heaven departed “as a scroll when it is rolled together.” What scroll was rolled together in the sky as the signal event to mark the end of the sixth seal and the day of wrath? This is talking about the beginning of the end of the world. The hurricanes that kept getting worse and worse in those years were the sign, until for the first time ever, three hurricanes were simultaneously registered over the Pacific on August 30, 2015, foreshadowing an important political/religious event coming in September, that decisive month of earth’s history. Hurricanes look like scrolls being rolled together from a side view. There we had three! The three parts of the Fourth Angel’s message.

Everything got worse until record-breaking Hurricane Patricia came at the end of the sixth seal—or better at the end of the seventh seal and beginning of the first plague at October 25, 2015. (Remember: the sixth and seventh seal ended together!) But again, those were just the signs! The sign is just a benefit to help us see the spiritual events. Heaven departs—as if to say the heavenly message of Orion departs, because the Holy Spirit was about to be withdrawn. It is compared to a “scroll” or book that is “rolled together” or closed. A book is closed—meaning the judgment (and thus the door of mercy) was to be closed. All seven seals were finally ended; closed. If you reject the light of the Holy Spirit now, there is no coming back. It is the world’s final test to reveal the heart—a test of time, just as it was in 1843 (see the addendum to History Repeats, part II).

Now the text elaborates on the closing moments, saying that “every mountain and island were moved out of their places.” That literally happened when the great deep earthquakes of recent times moved the crust of the whole earth by several inches. Every mountain and island were literally moved out of their places. In 2015, there was an earthquake of record size that is in our memory to this day: The great Nepal earthquake of April 15, 2015. It moved the Himalaya region (the biggest mountains on earth) causing avalanches on Mt. Everest and in other areas, and the capital city of Kathmandu was moved 10 feet in a matter of 30 seconds! It suffered such devastating effects that the press spoke of devastation in maps and images. Mt. Everest itself experienced a significant movement of 3 cm southwest because of the quake. It was noted that the previous great earthquakes of Japan moved the entire island and changed the axis of the earth, so it can be truly said that “every” mountain and island have been moved out of their places. So 2015 was marked by visible physical events that foreshadowed one important spiritual event.

Verses 15-17 are all connected, saying that the kings of the earth, the great men, the rich men, the chief captains, the mighty men, every bondman and free man—in other words, virtually everybody is included by socio-economic rank—“hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains,” saying to the rocks and the mountains, “Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?”

Let’s break it down step by step. It all basically sounds like the end of the world. It sounds like everyone—described by class—recognizes that the end of the world is coming. Did that fulfill? What end-of-the-world did the leaders of nations talk about toward the end of the sixth seal, in 2015, prior to the close of the door of mercy? In fact, the French foreign minister had specified “500 days to avoid climate chaos,” which ended on an important date, as we will see shortly! Is the foreign minister of France a “great man” or “chief captain”? He also said, “And I know that President Obama and John Kerry himself are committed on this subject and I’m sure that with them, with a lot of other friends, we shall be able to reach success in this very important matter.” Thus the “kings of the earth” and “great men” were all talking about the end of the world through global warming unless something was done to stop it—and they were actively trying to stop it.

So where did they go to “hide” from the end of the world? Scripture says they went to the dens (or caves) and in the rocks of the mountains. What “entity” is worshiped in dens or caves? It is Mary, symbolic of Satan! Mary is worshiped in the dens and caves in rocks of the mountains. Normally a person does not speak to rocks and mountains, but they do speak to Mary, who is worshiped in rocks and mountains! And notice how the foreign minister of France in the photo above is showing the Marian hand sign as he spoke on the day of the Lady of Fatima (Mary) on May 13! He was appealing to Mary to save the world!

As a side note—Pope Francis visited such a cave in Poland recently, and there he reiterated the blasphemy of Mary being “the stairway to heaven, i.e. Jacob’s ladder” (instead of Christ), Mary being the mirror or image of God (instead of Christ), etc. Mary stands for Satan, so basically the pope was putting Mary or Satan in place of Christ, even up to Orion! The three throne stars are sometimes called “Jacob’s ladder.” In Spanish, they are often called the “three Marias,” obviously from Catholic influence. So quite literally, Maria “hides” the face of “him that sitteth on the throne.” Now that was recent news, but it shows some of the concepts that apply to 2015 and the close of the sixth seal. By canonizing John Paul II, Pope Francis had promised to complete the work that he had begun—and the great work of John Paul II was to implement total Marian worship on the earth. Pope Francis’ visit to the polish shrine also symbolized that, because John Paul II frequented that shrine and it also holds the blood-stained sash from the assassination attempt against him—on May 13 again, in 1981! That is the god that our forefathers did not know, which is the god of “fortresses” or dens in the rocks:

But in his estate shall he honour the God of forces [H4581; also translated “fortresses” or “Rocks” = Mary]: and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and pleasant things. (Daniel 11:38)

The people of the world called for climate action to avoid the end of the world. They don’t want Jesus to come! They prayed to Mary—directly or indirectly—by appealing to Pope Francis (Satan, Mary) to address the UN in General Assembly, breaking all records [German link] on September 25, 2015—the end of the French foreign minister’s 500 days, and exactly one year before the seventh plague. He spoke to them about working together to stop the end of the world by climate change (the German headline reads, “Only a Short Time to Save the World!”), and they followed up with the Paris Climate Conference in November/December. Bill Gates—one of the “rich men” of the earth—was at that conference giving his impetus, and one of the big goals of the Paris Agreement was to help “poor” countries, which the pope has repeatedly pointed to as victims of climate change.

Note that the Paris Climate Conference happened in response to the direction given by the pope at the UN General Assembly. However, the sixth seal speaks of the prayer to Mary to intervene against the end of the world, which was fulfilled by the UN General Assembly in New York in September, 2015. We can learn some details that came out in the response at the Paris Climate Conference of November/December 2015, but the sixth seal in fact ended before the Climate Conference.

Every facet of the text was fulfilled, including the part that asks, “Who shall be able to stand?” It is about endurance, and continuance. Will the leading men of the earth be able to sustain their government through the time of the end of the world? That is why the UN is all about “sustainable” development goals—the NWO is constructed “to stand” against God beyond the end of the world. Thus the cry, “Who shall be able to stand?” And now the unclean spirits are gathering together to pray for peace (i.e. that Jesus won’t come), so they can continue to stand.

Thus, the entire sixth seal was fulfilled and ended before the plagues began. That is what we wrote, but at the time we wrote it we still thought the events would be fulfilled by fireballs and a gamma-ray burst. That was not so, but the text did in fact fulfill! We were trapped by the smokescreen that Satan had set up, believing more in catastrophes than in the big political/religious events that happened right in front of our eyes. But now, the sixth seal is understood just as Revelation 14 is understood, and we can be sure that our faith is not in vain. This new understanding about the sixth seal has been incorporated into the Orion presentation on slides 105–113.

Changing gears a little, we can ask ourselves why Ellen White saw things so literally, but now they are all fulfilling symbolically. We know that there really was a literal Sunday Law proposed in 1888, and if the church had accepted the light of the Fourth Angel at that time, the visions of Ellen White would have fulfilled literally and Jesus would have come in 1890. Ellen White was to the Adventist Church as Moses was to the children of Israel. She led them to the border of Canaan, but then they rejected the leading of God and had to wander in the wilderness like the children of Israel. Ellen White also died in the wilderness, like Moses did.

But God did something when they rejected Him. He decided to fulfill all the prophecies symbolically instead of literally, because it was no longer the “end of time.” God sent a prophet (Ellen White) to speak literal words to His people at the end of time, but since the time had been prolonged by their unbelief, the literal words became symbolic. Now that we have reached the end of time again, God has again sent a “prophet” (our “Elijah” ministry) to speak literal words to the people. We do that by explaining the Word of God in a way that connects God’s Word with the present-day (literal) happenings. You can also make the comparison that Moses’ successor was Joshua, and he was the one whom Jesus told how the entering of Canaan through the conquest of Jericho would work with the sequence of the marches. That is the basic teaching we needed to decipher the judgment cycle of the Orion clock.

God not only did something after 1888, but He also did not do something. He did not tell Ellen White that her prophecies had become symbolic, just as He didn’t tell ancient Israel that He would no longer send the hornets before them as He had originally told Moses (Exodus 23:28). In that way, He fulfilled what is written in His law: “I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me.” (Exodus 20:5) Today we see how the generations that followed the “fathers” in 1888 are being destroyed for lack of love for the truth. By not informing Ellen White that her visions had become symbolic, God allowed Adventists to fall into the trap of blindness, just like how the Jews fell into the same trap. They had Jesus in front of them, but they could not recognize Him because “Moses said...”

But as Jesus gave Himself as the bread from heaven to feed the people with the words of life, so again, He gives Himself as the bread from Orion to feed you with the words of life; to sustain you in these last difficult moments of earth’s history. Do you love the truth He has sent from heaven—from Orion? If so, then hold fast to the faith, nothing wavering. Jesus Himself speaks in the sixth plague to warn: “keep your garments!”

Two Armies

Last Sunday we received an email which had an interesting quote of Ellen White in it from the Great Controversy. It was used as an argument against our movement, along with various other anti-time-setting quotes that have already been treated in A Word of Advice. Do you think you can harmonize it and eliminate the apparent contradiction with the message of the Fourth Angel? I quote from the email exactly as it was presented:

The righteous and the wicked will still be living upon the earth in their mortal state--men will be planting and building, eating and drinking, all unconscious that the final, irrevocable decision has been pronounced in the sanctuary above. {GC 491.1}

(How can this be, when we already know the date of the end of probation?)

Do you see why this quote is used as a counter-argument? How can it be that the decision has already been made in heaven (on the evening of October 17, 2015) and without knowing the time, the righteous still continue to plant, build, eat and drink? How can it be, if we (the 144,000) already know the date of the end of mercy and are the only righteous that exist in the time of the plagues? Can the righteous that Ellen White mentions here, be the 144,000? If not, then who does it refer to?

Obviously, the quote extends to the time of the plagues, because it is then that the investigative judgment is completed and the final decision has been made, revealing who are righteous and who are wicked. But haven't we all been taught that only the 144,000 live through the plagues and will be alive to see Jesus return? And don't we know from Ellen White, that the last martyr will give his testimony before the end of mercy? Aren't those the only two groups of righteous who come from the judgment of the living?

Taken out of context

Surely you immediately got out the book The Great Controversy and verified what this quote is all about and what context Ellen White put it in. From the book, we immediately notice that this quote was taken completely out of context. Therefore, let us read a little more than just what this Franz "Kosher" throws in our face (I will talk about him again at the end of the article):

Solemn are the scenes connected with the closing work of the atonement. Momentous are the interests involved therein. The judgment is now passing in the sanctuary above. For many years this work has been in progress. Soon--none know how soon--it will pass to the cases of the living. In the awful presence of God our lives are to come up in review. At this time above all others it behooves every soul to heed the Saviour's admonition: "Watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is." Mark 13:33. "If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee." Revelation 3:3.

When the work of the investigative judgment closes, the destiny of all will have been decided for life or death. Probation is ended a short time before the appearing of the Lord in the clouds of heaven. Christ in the Revelation, looking forward to that time, declares: “He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. And, behold, I come quickly; and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work shall be.” Revelation 22:11-12.

The righteous and the wicked will still be living upon the earth in their mortal state--men will be planting and building, eating and drinking, all unconscious that the final, irrevocable decision has been pronounced in the sanctuary above. Before the Flood, after Noah entered the ark, God shut him in and shut the ungodly out; but for seven days the people, knowing not that their doom was fixed, continued their careless, pleasure-loving life and mocked the warnings of impending judgment. “So,” says the Saviour, “shall also the coming of the Son of man be.” Matthew 24:39. Silently, unnoticed as the midnight thief, will come the decisive hour which marks the fixing of every man’s destiny, the final withdrawal of mercy’s offer to guilty men.

“Watch ye therefore: . . . lest coming suddenly He find you sleeping.” Mark 13:35-36. Perilous is the condition of those who, growing weary of their watch, turn to the attractions of the world. While the man of business is absorbed in the pursuit of gain, while the pleasure lover is seeking indulgence, while the daughter of fashion is arranging her adornments--it may be in that hour the Judge of all the earth will pronounce the sentence: “Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting.” Daniel 5:27. {GC 490.1-491.2}

Did you notice that not even the whole paragraph was copied, but only a part of it? Only now do we see that Ellen White makes a direct comparison here with the seven days of Noah. As it was in the time of Noah, when a door of mercy closed and all who were outside the ark were doomed to die, so shall it also be in October. At that time there will be just and unjust people who continue to live as they did before, not knowing that the time of grace has ended, and neither group is in the ark—they must both die during the time of the plagues. Ellen White also tells us how long they will be ignorant: seven days according to the type of Noah. On the eighth day, i.e., on October 25, 2015 when the first plague will be poured out, it will probably become clear to those who didn’t yet know, that the final decision was made in heaven.

It is very interesting that these quotes always point to Revelation 3—one of our favorite places in the Bible. It urges you to be awake, precisely so that you might know the hour [\[the literal day\]](#). We always refer to this place those who have accepted the Orion message as a whole and will ultimately belong to the 144,000. These are the ones who didn’t hear merely thunder and an earthquake, but accepted the time proclamation:

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus’ coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. {EW 14.1}

Obviously, the “righteous” whom Ellen White speaks of in the quote, do not have this time knowledge and it is up to us to find out who these other “righteous” are, and what characteristics they have.

Could they be martyrs?

The question is raised as to whether they could be martyrs. But the last martyr, who sacrifices his earthly life for the truth, does so before the door of mercy is closed. The martyrs have accepted the basic doctrines up to the 1888 triplet, as we explained in Genetics of Eternal Life. On the evening of October 17, 2015, the number of martyrs will be completed, and the hearts of the wicked will be completely closed, so that the testimony of even one more martyr would not lead anyone to turn their lives around.

...If the blood of Christ’s faithful witnesses [144,000] were shed at this time [in the time of the plagues], it would not, like the blood of the martyrs, be as seed sown to yield a harvest for God. Their fidelity would not be a testimony to convince others of the truth; for the obdurate heart has beaten back the waves of mercy until they return no more. {GC 634.1}

Therefore, the “righteous” in the quote under consideration cannot refer to the martyrs, because after the door of mercy closes, there will be no more martyrs. They will not die by the hand of the enemy on account of keeping the Sabbath.

Can they simply be “good people” from other religions?

We should know who is righteous in God’s eyes and when they are regarded as such, but it doesn’t hurt to hear it again. It will help us to understand who this group of righteous people must be, who continue to live into the time of the plagues, and yet still die. Consider a few Bible verses that have to do with both the “righteous” and judgment.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation [judgment]; but is passed from death unto life. (John 5:24)

He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. (John 3:18)*

Which judgment is the apostle John talking about here? Is it the investigative judgment, or another? Besides Adventists, does anyone else today know anything about the investigative judgment? Having not always been Adventist, I can assure you that the idea is peculiar to Adventists, and no one else officially uses it, even though it is true. If Jesus says here that the one who believes in Him does not come into judgment, then it cannot in fact be referring to the investigative judgment, but it must be the 1000-year judgment in heaven when the saints will judge the ungodly and unrighteous dead. In order to know who is worthy to be raised up in the first resurrection and received at the second coming of Jesus on October 24, 2016, there must have been a previous investigation: the investigative judgment.

By the king’s examination of the guests at the feast is represented a work of judgment. The guests at the gospel feast are those who profess to serve God, those whose names are written in the book of life. But not all who profess to be Christians are true disciples. Before the final reward is given, it must be decided who are fitted to share the inheritance of the righteous. This decision must be made prior to the second coming of Christ in the clouds of heaven; for when He comes, His reward is with Him, “to give every man according as his work shall be.” Revelation 22:12. Before His coming, then, the character of every man’s work will have been determined, and to every one of Christ’s followers the reward will have been apportioned according to his deeds.

It is while men are still dwelling upon the earth that the work of investigative judgment takes place in the courts of heaven. The lives of all His professed followers pass in review before God. All are examined according to the record of the books of heaven, and according to his deeds the destiny of each is forever fixed. {COL 310.1-2}

The book of life contains the names of all who have ever entered the service of God. Jesus bade His disciples: “Rejoice, because your names are written in heaven.” Luk 10:20. Paul speaks of his faithful fellow workers, “whose names are in the book of life.” Php 4:3. Daniel, looking down to “a time of trouble, such as never was,” declares that God’s people shall be delivered, “everyone that shall be found written in the book.” And the revelator says that those only shall enter the city of God whose names “are written in the Lamb’s book of life.” Daniel 12:1; Revelation 21:27. {GC 480.3}

When does someone enter the service of Jesus? This is very important to understand! Someone familiar with the Christian faith, who is reading the Bible, or perhaps has a special experience with God, one day comes to the conclusion that he desperately needs Jesus and His sacrifice, and desires to be baptized. Remember the example of Philip and the eunuch? In the moment of baptism, a person consciously enters into the ministry of Jesus, and by this act, his name is written in the book of life.

And now it gets interesting! In the investigative judgment, it is decided whether or not all these professed servants of God, both dead and living, are truly worthy to be caught up at the second coming of Jesus in October, 2016.

These righteous who live through the end of mercy, therefore, must be professing Christians, and therefore all those are excluded who believe in Allah, Buddha, Shiva, etc., but deny the only name that means “salvation.” Also consider what Paul is talking about regarding those who by nature do “the work of the law”:

For there is no respect of persons with God. For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law: and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law; (For not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified. For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves: Which shew the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts the mean while accusing or else excusing one another;) In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ according to my gospel. (Romans 2:11-16)

This verse is often misunderstood, and many are of the opinion that the Gentiles mentioned here are saved. But Paul used those nations as an example against the Jews, because they thought that they were holier, being circumcised in the flesh. In the very next chapter, Paul comes to the point and states that there are “none righteous, no not one” and that no one is justified by works, but all need “the righteousness of God.”

Have the Jews or Far Eastern faiths accepted the sacrifice of Jesus? No, unfortunately not! None of them are in the investigative judgment. Although they may be decent people who do not steal, do not kill, are generous and not jealous, honoring their parents, etc., who blesses their marriages? And do they really know who their true Creator is and what He did for humanity and the universe?

The investigative judgment is divided into two parts: the judgment of the dead and the judgment of the living. The judgment of the dead reveals who is part of the first resurrection, which takes place at Jesus' return. The judgment of the living concerns those—as the name suggests—who LIVE in time of that part of the judgment. It answers the question: who are declared righteous, once the judgment of the living concludes?

The righteous are undoubtedly all Christians: the 144,000 who will not die, the martyrs who all give their offering before the end of the judgment, and these ones cited by Ellen White in the aforementioned quote. But there are still more criteria...

Will they have accepted the Sabbath?

Ellen White answers this question:

But not one is made to suffer the wrath of God until the truth has been brought home to his mind and conscience, and has been rejected. There are many who have never had an opportunity to hear the special truths for this time. The obligation of the fourth commandment has never been set before them in its true light. He who reads every heart and tries every motive will leave none who desire a knowledge of the truth, to be deceived as to the issues of the controversy. The decree is not to be urged upon the people blindly. Everyone is to have sufficient light to make his decision intelligently. {GC 605.1}

The question now, however, is whether everyone in the world desires a knowledge of the truth. The indication is that there will be some people who are lukewarm (Laodicea) or dead (Sardis). They will not have the desire to be enlightened, and therefore have already decided for the wrong side.

But the righteous in general will hear about the obligation of the Sabbath and will withstand the test in the little time of trouble before the plagues. They will all have accepted the third angel's message. Thus, they are also part of the special resurrection. There is no doubt about it.

It was at midnight that God chose to deliver His people. As the wicked were mocking around them, suddenly the sun appeared, shining in his strength, and the moon stood still. The wicked looked upon the scene with amazement, while the saints beheld with solemn joy the tokens of their deliverance. Signs and wonders followed in quick succession. Everything seemed turned out of its natural course. The streams ceased to flow. Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. But there was one clear place of settled glory, whence came the voice of God like many waters, shaking the heavens and the earth. There was a mighty earthquake. The graves were opened, and those who had died in faith under the third angel's message, keeping the Sabbath, came forth from their dusty beds, glorified, to hear the covenant of peace that God was to make with those who had kept His law. {EW 285.1}

Will they have to leave Babylon?

The problem that now arises is the question of how the "righteous" will die in the time of plagues. We have already ruled out that it can be done by the hand of the enemies of the Sabbath truth, because in that case, there would still be martyrs after the door of mercy closed, but their blood would be shed in vain, which is not possible.

This leaves the following options:

1. Death by natural causes, e.g. due to illness, old age, or accident.
2. Death due to the side-effects of persecution and the plagues, such as hunger and disease.
3. Death by the plagues themselves!

Notice point 3 in particular. It probably accounts for the largest share of the causes of death for the “righteous,” but how is it possible that “righteous” suffer the plagues?

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. (Revelation 18:4)

Those who leave Babylon are promised that they will not receive the plagues of Babylon. Babylon is defined by the belief in the immortality of the soul and Sunday sacredness:

The wine of Babylon is the exalting of the false and spurious sabbath above the Sabbath which the Lord Jehovah hath blessed and sanctified for the use of man, also [it is] the immortality of the soul. These kindred heresies, and the rejection of the truth, convert the church into Babylon. Kings, merchants, rulers, and religious teachers are all in corrupt harmony. {2SM 68.2}

We have already seen that the “righteous” will keep the Sabbath, and we may also assume that they will no longer believe or teach other Babylonian doctrines, otherwise they would hardly be “righteous.”

How then can they die by God’s plagues when the very opposite is promised? As always, our problem stems from a superficial reading of the Bible verse. To this group, it is only promised that they will not receive the plagues of BABYLON. It is not, as many believe, that they receive no plagues.

In fact, the seven last plagues are an anti-type for the 10 plagues of Egypt at the time of Moses. There were plagues that only fell on the Egyptians (the last seven), but some of the plagues fell on both the Egyptians and the Israelites (the first three).

Let’s look in the book of Revelation to learn which of the seven last plagues can be assigned directly to Babylon and connected with her false teachings in particular. These are the plagues that the “righteous” will not suffer, even if they die during the time when they fall:

And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth; and there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image. (Revelation 16:2)

This plague affects only those who have accepted Sunday, and not a single righteous person will be in that group. This is also reflected in the fifth plague:

And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast; and his kingdom was full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues for pain, And blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds. (Revelation 16:10–11)

All of the other plagues fall, unfortunately, on the living righteous, with the exception of the 144,000—the Philadelphian church, which has special protection in the hour of trial:

Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth. (Revelation 3:10)

Which group do they belong to?

Let’s learn more about the pronouncement which is made on that unique day in October 2015, in the hopes that this will bring us closer to the solution:

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

Thus far, we have only discerned two groups: the wicked and the righteous. But when we read more closely, we see that the verse actually speaks of four groups: There are the unjust and filthy, and on the other side, the righteous and the holy. The unjust stand opposite to the righteous, and the filthy stand opposite to the holy.

Let us first consider the group of “holy.” The Greek word for the “holy” is “hagios” (G40), meaning “set apart for ceremonial service.” They are those who are “set apart” for a ceremonial temple service. This brings us directly to the verse that describes the seal of the members of the church of Philadelphia (the 144,000):

Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name. (Revelation 3:12)

Ellen White also describes the 144,000 with special reference to the temple:

And as we were about to enter the holy temple, Jesus raised His lovely voice and said, “Only the 144,000 enter this place,” and we shouted, “Alleluia.” {EW 18.2}

ONLY the 144,000 are set apart for the “ceremonial” service during the plagues. They are set apart to witness without an intercessor for the entire time until the coming of Jesus. All of the other righteous people will sooner or later fall during the plagues, and it is therefore determined by God to lay them to rest. Their death, therefore, is merciful, no matter what its cause!

Only the 144,000 are willing to sacrifice their eternal lives in their witness for the Father, and therefore they are the only ones who will have enough Holy Spirit for the entire time of the plagues, and will ultimately escape death:

Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it. (Luke 17:33)

They are the true priests of God’s people and preside over them. They are the wise teachers of the others, for they accept the Fourth Angel’s Message from Orion in its entirety:

And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. (Daniel 12.3)

Now it becomes clear who the opposing group is for the “holy”—the filthy. They are the leaders of the professed people of God who taught false doctrines, refused the message of the Fourth Angel, and thereby defrauded the people of their opportunity to receive the truth. They are unclean and thus forever excluded from entering the temple (and heaven). They had great responsibility as leaders and have proved unworthy of the priesthood.

Before coming to the group of “righteous,” it must be clearly seen that we present unmistakable biblical proof that there are two saved groups of people living during the plagues: the “righteous” and the “holy.” Thus, the whole argument against our movement using the initial quote from Ellen White has already been invalidated, since both the 144,000, who know the time very well, as well as the “righteous,” who do not know the time, are both living on the earth during the plagues.

The verse of the first plague actually makes it quite clear who these righteous are, who will not receive the first plague:

And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth; and there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image. (Revelation 16:2)

Thus, this means they are all those (besides the 144,000), who have not received the mark of the beast and have not worshiped his image. This is the large group of Christians who meet all the criteria we have identified previously. In contrast to the “holy,” they were not and are not designated leaders, but are the common people.

The group opposite them are the unjust, who are precisely identified by comparison. These did not serve as leaders, and kept Sunday sacred. They chose the broad way of Satan’s foot soldiers.

One could interpret the groups as having different levels of sanctification, depending on how much light they had received and what their reaction to it was.

1. The “holy” 144,000 will have received the Fourth Angel’s Message, and they gladly accept it and testify with their eternal life for the Father.
2. The “righteous” never entirely received the Fourth Angel’s Message, but still testify for the Father by refusing to accept the mark. So they are at the level of the light of the third angel, and even live partly into the time of plagues.
3. The “filthy” leaders of the apostate churches know the Fourth Angel’s Message very well. They have been fighting it actively since 2010. Many of them know that it is the truth, but they do not admit it. They have all committed the sin against the Holy Spirit and have led many astray.
4. The “unjust” hear very little or nothing of the Fourth Angel’s Message, because their leaders prevent them. However, they will know the Third Angel’s Message through the witness of the martyrs, but they will have chosen Satan’s side and Sunday observance and will have received the mark of the beast.

When will they be resurrected?

If we want to describe our special group of “righteous” exactly, then we have to take a look at the resurrection of the just.

- The 144,000 will pass through the plagues alive and see Jesus return without tasting death as a mortal.
- The dead of all ages who were found righteous through the examination of the judgment of the dead will be resurrected on the Last Great Day.
- Those who have died under the Third Angel’s Message, including the martyrs of the repeated fifth seal, will be resurrected seven days earlier and alongside the 144,000 will witness the coming of Jesus in the clouds.
- This special resurrection also includes those who pierced Jesus, who will die again at His coming, for no one who is unrighteous can see God.

Now the question arises: which group do the “righteous” belong to, who live during the plagues and die naturally before taking part in the resurrection?

There remains only one possibility: namely, that they are part of the special resurrection, because they come from the judgment of the living and were faithful to the Sabbath of the Third Angel’s Message. Consequently, they died “under the Third Angel’s Message” and also have the right to see their great hope fulfilled in the appearance of the small, dark cloud at the coming of Jesus.

Who really are these “righteous”?

We have now identified many characteristics of this group of “righteous” people, and it still seems strange or unbelievable to us that there are some righteous in the plagues who must still die. At least it seems strange to those who were brought up as Adventists, believing that the 144,000 would be the only ones in the great time of trouble. It might seem even more strange to those of other faiths who believe in a pre-rapture, because they do not even believe that the 144,000 will still be on the earth when the plagues fall. But that is what the Bible says, and it won't be otherwise.

Why have we always overlooked this group? There must still be something wrong or incomplete in our way of thinking.

Until now, our line of thought has been:

1. The 144,000 are the wise teachers who have received the entire Fourth Angel's Message. They testify with their eternal lives for the father and continue alive until Jesus comes. Their sealing is completed shortly before the beginning of the 6th trumpet of the trumpet cycle.
2. The 144,000 teach the martyrs, who then testify with their physical life for the Father. Their "sealing" through their death is completed shortly before closing the door of mercy for all mankind.

The martyrs, therefore, are the spiritual "children" of the 144,000. And at this point, our current understanding ends. For us, there were only 144,000 who were "righteous" during the plagues.

From a simple consideration, we could have discerned long ago that this thinking must not be true...

Let's consider the last martyr and compare his destiny with the quote we noted earlier from Ellen White:

...If the blood of Christ's faithful witnesses were shed at this time, it would not, like the blood of the martyrs, be as seed sown to yield a harvest for God. Their fidelity would not be a testimony to convince others of the truth; for the obdurate heart has beaten back the waves of mercy until they return no more. ... {GC.634.1}

The fidelity of the last martyr would not be a testimony anymore. He couldn't gather another member of the 144,000 since they were all completely sealed before the 6th trumpet, nor could he convince another martyr of the truth, because he was already the last martyr to accept the truth.

Think through that example of the last martyr to the end... By definition, he would not be a martyr, because the seed of his blood could not bring anymore fruit. But that means that his predecessor would have been the last actual martyr. Yet he could not be for the same reason—that after him, there would be no more martyrs. If you continue that reasoning to its end, there would actually be no martyrs at all anymore.

Isn't it a wonderful paradox? But unfortunately, that is what it is. Something must be wrong here!

No matter how far you push the paradox forward, the last martyr in every case would have died in vain, but that is not true according to God's word.

For whom, then, does this last martyr—the representative of all the martyrs—die? There must be a group of people for whom his "fidelity would be a testimony to convince others of the truth." We speak of precisely our group of "righteous," who will have accepted the witness of the martyrs and sided with the Sabbath-keepers in the last great battle before the door of mercy closed for humanity. These are those who will be saved "so as by fire."

If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss [the plagues]: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire. (1 Corinthians 3:14-15)

Now it makes sense! The martyrs will have spiritual children... the “righteous” who will still be counted among God’s people before the door of mercy closes, but will not die as martyrs like their spiritual parents and “teachers.”

Now we can estimate the size of this group and understand that they will be a very large group. We had believed that the only spiritual children of the 144,000 were the martyrs, and we already considered them to be a group of millions of people. But how large must the group of “righteous” be, who will be the spiritual children of the millions of martyrs and spiritual grandchildren of the 144,000? It is really an innumerable multitude that comes out of the great tribulation period of the plagues and not just the 144,000:

After this [after the sealed 144,000] I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands...And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they? And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. (Revelation 7:9-14)

It has been very difficult to harmonize this Bible verse with “only the 144,000” because we believed that they were the only ones who could come out of the great tribulation. Now we know better.

The many “righteous” have never, or only partially, heard the Fourth Angel’s Message, and yet they will make up the majority of the saved in these last days. Thus, for them, time is never again to be a test, as Ellen White predicted. But it will be the test for belonging to the 144,000. Everyone who has come in contact with the Fourth Angel’s Message and rejected it has no affiliation with the 144,000, and has even committed the unpardonable sin against the Holy Spirit, too!

The martyrs know the first, second and third angel’s messages, they keep the biblical seventh-day Sabbath, and they know obedience through righteousness by faith (see HSL triplets to 1888). They have no knowledge of the later triplets of the Fourth Angel’s Message. They give their physical lives out of love and obedience to God because of their knowledge of basic Adventist doctrines. They neither know the time message, nor do they know the high calling of the 144,000. Therefore, they cannot know when the door of mercy will close.

Their children, the “righteous,” will have at most that same level of knowledge, but might not even have the Adventist framework. They certainly will not know the time of the end of mercy or the coming of Jesus. During the seven days of Noah, when the 144,000 are already closed in the ark, they will not know that the door of mercy is shut. They will be surprised by the plagues along with the wicked.

(We have often been asked if it is necessary or possible in the short time that remains to teach the people about the health message. Some have asked specifically whether all of the righteous must stop eating meat. The answer is to look at the triplets of the HSL up to and including 1888. Is there mention of the health message for the martyrs? No. The 144,000 on the other hand, must respect all of the counsel from the Spirit of Prophecy (triplet 1915), which also includes the health message, since they are “holy” priests. The “righteous” of the great multitude, probably will not even understand the fundamental Adventist doctrines, let alone all of our various health rules.

They must go through the great test of the Sunday laws without the help of God, which gives us a clear mind and a non-carnal heart, before—and partially into—the time of plagues. It is highly recommended that each one be educated in at least the basic rules, like a vegetarian diet, if circumstances allow.)

Woe to the shepherds!

What will happen to the professed people of God, who had so much light, but did not want to accept it—let alone share it? And what will happen to the shepherds of God's people, who did not take care of their flocks and withheld the light of the Fourth Angel's Message from them?

And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD unto the shepherds; Woe be to the shepherds of Israel that do feed themselves! should not the shepherds feed the flocks? Ye eat the fat, and ye clothe you with the wool, ye kill them that are fed: but ye feed not the flock. The diseased have ye not strengthened, neither have ye healed that which was sick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye sought that which was lost; but with force and with cruelty have ye ruled them. (Ezekiel 34:1-4)

Woe be unto the pastors that destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture! saith the LORD. Therefore thus saith the LORD God of Israel against the pastors that feed my people: Ye have scattered my flock, and driven them away, and have not visited them: behold, I will visit upon you the evil of your doings, saith the LORD. And I will gather the remnant of my flock out of all countries whither I have driven them, and will bring them again to their folds; and they shall be fruitful and increase. And I will set up shepherds over them which shall feed them: and they shall fear no more, nor be dismayed, neither shall they be lacking, saith the LORD. Behold, the days come, saith the LORD, that I will raise unto David a righteous Branch, and a King shall reign and prosper, and shall execute judgment and justice in the earth. In his days Judah shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell safely: and this is his name whereby he shall be called, THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS. (Jeremiah 23:1-6)*

But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest. (Matthew 9:36-38)*

Unfortunately, the “shepherds” in the SDA church did not do their job conscientiously enough, as we have painfully recognized. Their door of mercy is already closed. God will hold them accountable and He Himself will save the scattered sheep with compassion primarily “by His Spirit.” They know that the Lord is their righteousness and they are holding to it.

The leaders and teachers of Adventism—such as Franz “Kosher,” the writer of the email that led to this article—will suffer the following fate along with their families:

Many of the wicked were greatly enraged as they suffered the effects of the plagues. It was a scene of fearful agony. Parents were bitterly reproaching their children, and children their parents, brothers their sisters, and sisters their brothers. Loud, wailing cries were heard in every direction, "It was you who kept me from receiving the truth which would have saved me from this awful hour." The people turned upon their ministers with bitter hate and reproached them, saying, "You have not warned us. You told us that all the world was to be converted, and cried, Peace, peace, to quiet every fear that was aroused. You have not told us of this hour; and those who warned us of it you declared to be fanatics and evil men, who would ruin us." But I saw that the ministers did not escape the wrath of God. Their suffering was tenfold greater than that of their people. {EW 282.1}

Hopefully, the leaders of the other churches, where there are still people of God, will be smarter and together with their churches, will leave Babylon (Sunday churches) and carry the banner of Emmanuel.

I saw that God had children who do not see and keep the Sabbath. They have not rejected the light upon it. And at the commencement of the [little] time of trouble [just before closing the door of mercy], we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. {EW 33.2}

Two armies

In the time of plagues, these unclean "shepherds" and the large group of the rank and file of the unjust, stand opposite the two armies of God, who have washed their robes in the blood of the Lamb and against whom their weapons are useless: the 144,000 and the great multitude of the righteous.

Though a general decree has fixed the time when commandment keepers may be put to death, their enemies will in some cases anticipate the decree, and before the time specified, will endeavor to take their lives. But none can pass the mighty guardians stationed about every faithful soul. Some are assailed in their flight from the cities and villages; but the swords raised against them break and fall powerless as a straw. Others are defended by angels in the form of men of war.--GC 631 (1911). {LDE 260.1}

King Solomon, who was allowed to build the temple of God, sang about these two armies in his declaration of the love of God for His people:

I went down into the garden of nuts to see the fruits of the valley, and to see whether the vine flourished, and the pomegranates budded. Or ever I was aware, my soul made me like the chariots of Amminadib. Return, return, O Shulamite; return, return, that we may look upon thee. What will ye see in the Shulamite? As it were the company of two armies.

(Song of Solomon 6:11-13)

It is wonderful to know that at this time, when the loud cry to the “sheep in other folds” is made, that the Lord has not sought in vain for fruit from His vine.

One thing is certain: the Lord loves and cares for all His sheep. He is just and does not leave alone those who remain blameless through the last major test by the Sunday laws. It is great to realize that there is another multitude that we have thus far overlooked, with whom we will stand side by side in the great tribulation.

Thank God that He has once again worked out a seemingly bad thing for our good!

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose. For whom he did foreknow, he also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brethren. Moreover whom he did predestinate, them he also called: and whom he called, them he also justified: and whom he justified, them he also glorified. What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us? (Romans 8:28-31)

Babylon Is Fallen! - Part I

The best of Protestant understanding on the subject of the seven seals of Revelation has been taught by the SDA (Seventh-day Adventist) Church for over a hundred years. According to it, the seals were opened sequentially from the time of the apostolic church down through the ages to the Great Awakening of the 1840's. We refer to that as the classical interpretation of the seals. The Book of Revelation outlines in prophetic terms how the people of God will be delivered from sin to reach heaven, the true Promised Land, like how the children of Israel in ancient history were delivered from Egyptian bondage to inherit the land of Canaan.

When God brought the children of Israel out of ancient Egypt, He sent them to spy out the land before going in to possess it. Receiving their inheritance involved duty, courage and faith on their part to face the giants who were living there. When the spies returned, they brought back a bad report that discouraged the entire congregation. The people as a whole rebelled against God, and because of their unbelief, the children of Israel had to wander in the wilderness for 40 years until the unbelieving generation had died. God then repeated the conquest with the new generation.

Thus, the seven seals of Revelation illustrate God's dealings with His people. Jesus Christ's sacrifice on the cross—like the deliverance from Egyptian bondage—delivered them from sin and marks the beginning of their journey to the Promised Land. Then, in the Christian era, history shows that seal after seal of the Revelation were opened as He led them homeward.

But the history of unbelief repeated, for during the time after the Great Awakening (which should have counted as the seventh seal) God's people rebelled against Him. As a result, they had to wait and wander again until the unbelieving generation would eventually die off, for God determined that they should not see the land He had promised them.

But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, whose carcasses fell in the wilderness? And to whom swore he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not? So we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief. (Hebrews 3:17-19)

The key to understanding how the seals repeat is found in the pattern of Israel's marches around the city of Jericho, which was the first city they sought to conquer in the land of Canaan. Brother John makes a detailed comparison of the classical seals with their repetitions in the History Repeats article series. That article series is not to be overlooked; it contains the meat—the spiritual lessons—of the subject, and I will not reiterate much of it here. The following section is to give a careful explanation of how the story of Jericho's fall shows us precisely how the seals of Revelation do repeat.

Let's review the sequence of the marches around Jericho as they are described in Joshua chapter 6:

And ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once. Thus shalt thou do six days. And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven trumpets of rams' horns: and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and the priests shall blow with the trumpets. (Joshua 6:3-4)

This one compact verse contains all of the key information that we will look at. The general instruction for each of the first six days was to go around the city once, and blow the trumpets while doing so. The special instruction for the seventh day was to go around the city seven times (instead of just once as in the first six days). Figure 1 lays out the overall plan.

Pattern of Jericho			Matching Seal	Time Period
Day 1	One march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 1 st time.	1 st seal	31 A.D. – 99 A.D.
Day 2	One march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 2 nd time.	2 nd seal	100 A.D. – 313 A.D.
Day 3	One march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 3 rd time.	3 rd seal	313 A.D. – 538 A.D.
Day 4	One march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 4 th time.	4 th seal	538 A.D. – 1517 A.D.
Day 5	One march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 5 th time.	5 th seal	1571 A.D. – 1755 A.D.
Day 6	One march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 6 th time.	6 th seal	1755 A.D. – 1844 A.D.
Day 7	1 st march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 1 st time that day.	1 st seal repeats	1846 – 1914
	2 nd march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 2 nd time that day.	2 nd seal repeats	1914 – 1945
	3 rd march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 3 rd time that day.	3 rd seal repeats	1936 – 1986
	4 th march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 4 th time that day.	4 th seal repeats	1986 – 2016
	5 th march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 5 th time that day.	5 th seal repeats	2010 – 2015
	6 th march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 6 th time that day.	6 th seal repeats	2011 – 2015
	7 th march	The trumpet sound was heard for the 7 th time that day.	7 th seal (unique)	2012 – 2015

The six marches of the first six days represent the seals as in the classical interpretation traditionally taught by Adventists in books such as Daniel and the Revelation, by Uriah Smith. The seven marches of the seventh day represent the repetition of the seals in more recent history as shown in the Orion presentation. The time periods for each seal are listed in the table. Entries in red are the subject of this article and will be examined in the following pages, validating them as we go.

Looking at the table, you can see that there were 13 marches in total, and not 14 as one might expect to see when “seven” seals are repeated. The seventh march that would be expected to follow the first six marches of the first six days is replaced by a whole new set of seven marches. Day seven has seven marches instead of one march. That means there is no march to correspond to the seventh seal of the classical interpretation!

The classical interpretation includes a seventh seal because it (incorrectly) assumes that the seals do not repeat, but based on the pattern of the marches around Jericho, we can see that there should not be a seventh seal because the seals do repeat. Whatever various “classical” interpretations exist for the seventh seal, they should be superseded or replaced instead by the repetition of the seven seals during that period.

The Seals and the Judgment

The scenes that John the Revelator described were scenes of the judgment. The term “judgment” is not referring to the actual day when Jesus comes or a day when the wicked are punished, but to a whole period of time comparable to a modern-day legal process. It is a time when Jesus, our defense attorney (or lawyer, or advocate), is seeking to clear us from all wrongs so that we can be in heaven without suspicion or the risk that we will bring evil there. Thus, it is termed the investigative judgment, as opposed to the executive judgment when the wicked will be sentenced (and ultimately executed).

The courtroom scene is described in Revelation 4, and the beginning of the session is described in Revelation 5. The Lamb begins to open the seals in Revelation 6. These chapters are one continuous story about the judgment proceedings in the heavenly courtroom.

There are implications to the fact that the seven seals of Revelation are opened in the heavenly courtroom during the judgment—the time when Jesus is making His case for the righteousness of His people, thus cleansing them from sin. First of all, it shows that the seals must ultimately depict events that would transpire during the judgment, and not only before it. The Bible is clear that the judgment did not begin until after papal Rome began. Daniel 7 practically interprets itself, identifying the world kingdoms and showing clearly that the judgment would begin after those things:

I [Daniel] considered the horns [of the fourth beast, Rome], and, behold, there came up among them another little horn [the papacy], before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking great things [blasphemy]. I beheld till the thrones were cast down, and the Ancient of days did sit...the judgment was set, and the books were opened. (Daniel 7:8-10)

The three horns that were plucked up were the barbarian tribes of the Heruli, Vandals, and Ostrogoths, which were pretty well uprooted by the time the papacy rose to power in the year 538 A.D. That was already well into the classical fulfillment of the seals, but the thrones were not set down yet, and the judgment had not started yet, and the books had not been opened yet. For the record, the rest of the ten horns were the Saxons (English), the Franks (French), the Alamanni (German), the Visigoths (Spanish), the Suevi (Portuguese), the Lombards (Italian), and the Burgundians (Swiss).

The fact that the judgment started sometime after the three horns were plucked up is sufficient to show that the classical fulfillment of the opening of the seals did not take place during the judgment, and therefore we can infer that a more complete fulfillment of Revelation's prophecy was still to come. Still, we can get an even more accurate estimate of when the judgment began by following Daniel a little further. Daniel receives clarification on the vision, which indicates that the judgment would not begin for at least another 1260 years after the papacy's blasphemous reign began.

And he shall speak great words against the most High [blasphemy, the same point in time mentioned in verses 8-10], and shall wear out the saints of the most High, and think to change times and laws: and they shall be given into his hand until a time and times and the dividing of time. But the judgment shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end. (Daniel 7:25-26)

In these verses, more detail is given between the time the papacy would ascend to power, speaking blasphemous things, and the time the judgment would sit. There is a minimum period of a time given that must elapse between those events. One "time" is simply one year, which in prophetic language includes 360 days. The "time, times and the dividing of time," or simply 3½ times, represents $360 \times 3\frac{1}{2} = 1260$. Adding 1260 years to the year 538 A.D. when the papacy ascended to power brings us to the year 1798, when its power was taken away. History bears this out, and the details of those historic events are worthy of study, but that is not the subject of this article.

Daniel 8:14 further indicates the year 1844 as the precise beginning of the judgment, as explained in Signs of the End. This glancing review of those prophecies is to solidify the point that according to the Bible, there must be a repetition of the seals after 1844 in the time of the judgment in order to completely fulfill the prophecy of Revelation in its courtroom-scene context. The judgment did not begin until 1844, and since the sixth seal had already opened in the classical interpretation by that time, there had to be a complete repetition. We call these the judgment seals, or the seals of the judgment cycle of the Orion Clock.

The second implication to the fact that the seals are opened within the context of the investigative judgment, when Jesus is seeking to defend us against the accuser (Satan) before the court, is that we ourselves are involved. The progressive opening of the seals parallels the progressive development toward Christian perfection that God's people as a corporate body and individually should be attaining to.

Can you imagine a defense attorney trying to acquit his client, only to have the client commit a new crime in front of the court before the old crime is acquitted!? Not even the best attorney would be able to defend such a person. That is exactly what it is like when a person confesses their sins to Jesus, and then goes out to commit more sins. The only solution is to be changed by Christ in the process, so that the character becomes more like His, and thus less apt to sin. In each of the 144,000, this process of sanctification must reach its full completion. Dear reader, you can strive for this:

Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ: (Philippians 1:6)

And

If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. (1 John 1:9)

As Jesus opens the seals before your eyes, His purpose is to cleanse you! Getting cleaned up is a good thing, but it hurts the ego. That is a discomfort that many people are unwilling to endure, especially in this day and age. As you see the seals opening, and as you hear the trumpets sounding, I urge you to face the pain of your faults and confess them, so that your Advocate can acquit you.

Categorizing the Seals and Trumpets

It looks very simple to list the seals and trumpets in a table like the one above, but the hard part comes when we try to assign specific date ranges to each one and harmonize the events described in the Bible texts with the events of real-world history. Again, the classical seals are not the main topic of this article (except insofar as our new insights shed light on them) but you can find a detailed comparison of the classical seals with the judgment seals in History Repeats, Part II. This article will focus on the areas that were not fully consistent yet.

Another name for the Clock of God in Orion is The Book of Seven Seals. In the Orion presentation, John explains that the stars mark the opening of the seals. For example, the first star Saiph marks the opening of the first seal in 1846, when the truth was restored to the body of believers that the seventh day—Saturday—is the Sabbath of the Ten Commandments, and the pure gospel went forth to conquer in the years following. This is symbolized by the white horse that accompanies the first seal. The case is similar for the second, third and fourth seals. The first four seals are associated with the four horses and the four beasts around the throne, which are represented by the four hand and foot stars of Orion, as explained in the presentation.

Each of the first four seals opens in the year marked by one of the four outer stars of the Orion Clock, and naturally closes when the next seal opens. When we come to the last three seals, however, we immediately face a difficulty. We have no more stars to use except the recurrence of Saiph as we return full-circle in 2014. Furthermore, there is very little time to fit three more seals before the Second Coming. So then, how are we to understand the last three seals?

This is precisely where our knowledge had been lacking until now. We did have the invisible clock tick of 1844 which repeats in 2012, and some of our past interpretations based the opening of the fifth seal in that year, but even having that additional mark on the clock did not harmonize everything.

The first step in understanding the time periods of the last three seals is to recognize that they have different characteristics when compared to the first four seals. Let us make a table to illustrate the difference:

1 st Seal	2 nd Seal	3 rd Seal	4 th Seal	5 th Seal	6 th Seal	7 th Seal
1 st beast says "come and see."	2 nd beast says "come and see."	3 rd beast says "come and see."	4 th beast says "come and see."	(no beast)	(no beast)	(no beast)
John sees a white horse.	John sees a red horse.	John sees a black horse.	John sees a pale horse.	(no horse)	(no horse)	(no horse)

There is a clear line of demarcation between the first four seals and the last three seals. The first four seals each have a beast calling John to "come and see" and a horse which he then sees, whereas the last three seals have no such thing. The division of 7 into two constituent parts 4 and 3 is explained in the "mathematics" of God section of the Orion presentation as a fundamental principle of God's number system:

Thus the number SEVEN has the following meaning:
 The Godhead (3) made terms that Jesus will die on the cross (+) for mankind (4), and this is the plan of salvation (7).
 If we want to write "Jesus is our Savior" in symbolic form using numbers, we just write SEVEN.

Figure 4 – A Fundamental Principle of the "Mathematics" of God

This distinction between four and three pops up in many places, and there are many clues we can gather from it. To start with, the number four has something to do with mankind on the world, which indicates that the first four seals should deal especially with events involving mankind all the way to the end of the world, as they indeed do. In contrast, the number three has something to do with the Godhead, which indicates that the last three seals probably have something do with events that are not necessarily always visible, because the members of the Godhead regularly work in ways that are invisible to humanity.

The three members of the Godhead work together, which indicates that the last three seals should overlap with each other so there can be interaction of events between them in some way. God is not bound by time as we are, so a strictly sequential progression of these seals does not apply, although the seals should still open in order. Furthermore, God does not need a lot of time to do things like we do, which could explain why the last three seals happen within a short span of a few years compared to the lengthy durations of the first four seals. Perhaps that is also why they are not associated with horses; horses were used in the past to travel greater distances, but the time of the last three seals is too short to be represented as travel by horse.

A comparison of the seven trumpets will shed further light on the subject. Note that the priests blew their trumpets during each march, which is why the trumpets generally correspond to the timeframes of the seals (in the classical interpretation as well as in the repetition here during the investigative judgment time). Every time the children of Israel compassed the city of Jericho, the sound of the trumpets warned of the city’s fate.

Revelation also describes the trumpets as sounding one at a time in a sequence, but the little introduction to the last three trumpets is packed with clues that help us understand the differences in the last three trumpets.

And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabitants of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound! (Revelation 8:13)

The loud voice of the angel groups the last three trumpets together and presents them as sounding in rapid succession with the expression “Woe, woe, woe!” This is another hint that the last three trumpets (and thus the last three seals) must begin in rapid succession. Furthermore, it is a subtle indication that the last three trumpets bring their woes upon the inhabitants of the earth together—starting in succession but overlapping in duration. If the trumpets within the seals overlap, that would mean that their corresponding seals must overlap too, since each trumpet sounds during its respective seal.

1 st Trumpet	2 nd Trumpet	3 rd Trumpet	4 th Trumpet	5 th Trumpet	6 th Trumpet	7 th Trumpet

Figure 5 – Contrast between the First Four Trumpets and the Last Three Trumpets

The remaining three trumpets are introduced by a “loud voice,” or in other words the Loud Cry message, which ultimately refers to the Fourth Angel’s Message. That places the last three trumpets within a certain time frame—a short one. The earliest possible beginning for the timeframe of the last three trumpets would be 2010, when the Orion message was published. Since the story of Jericho indicates that each trumpet must sound during the corresponding seal, we can take this as a clue that the last three seals probably fit within a similar timeframe beginning in 2010.

As another hint, consider the seven churches. The first four churches correspond to the periods marked out by the first four seals. However, the last three churches (Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea) represent the three spiritual conditions that exist within the church. These three conditions will coexist alongside each other until the last lukewarm soul has either purchased eye salve and repented (thus transferring his spiritual membership to Philadelphia) or has hardened his heart to the point of spiritual death (as in Sardis), and the few worthy souls in Sardis have repented. This characteristic of the last three churches is one more indication that we should consider the last three seals—which parallel the churches—to overlap in the last few years that remain before the Second Coming.

It is a basic rule that all of the seals and trumpets must begin in sequential order. The likelihood of overlap does not change that rule. In fact, there are other overlaps in the seals, so this scenario should not seem too strange to us.

The Repetition of the Fifth Seal

And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (Revelation 6:9-11)

This seal is packed with information, and it gives a clear sequence of events. It is about martyrs—people who are killed because of their faith—but it does not begin with the shedding of blood. The fifth seal begins with a “loud cry” that asks the question “how long?” It is clear from the symbolism that the question is not asked by the martyrs themselves, since they are dead. Who then asks the question?

There were a few people who asked similar questions in the past. For example, the disciples asked Jesus about the time before He ascended, saying “Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?” The fifth seal is different, though, because in the fifth seal the question is actually answered. Something specific “was said unto them” in answer to their question. To the disciples, the Lord just said “It is not for you to know the times...”^[1] Therefore, the answer to the question of the fifth seal wasn’t given to the apostles, which shows once again that the complete fulfillment must have to do with a time other than the era of the classical seals, which for the most part all transpired within the framework of light that was given through the apostles.

The inquiry “how long?” is made twice in the visions of Daniel, but surely the answer to the question of the fifth seal couldn’t have been for Daniel to know in the pre-Christian era! Nevertheless, Daniel did see that the question would be asked, and he even saw the answer.

Then I heard one saint speaking, and another saint said unto that certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot? And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed. (Daniel 8:13-14)

Can you name that “other saint” who asked how long? The SDA Bible Commentary has absolutely nothing to say about the identity of these saints, but it was certainly William Miller! He asked the question, and he got the part of the answer that was relevant for his time. Even though he got the definite answer of 1844, however, the cleansing of the sanctuary was not quite the fulfillment of the avenging of the martyrs’ blood as the fifth seal says. Miller did not understand that the judgment would involve a legal process that would take time. He imagined that God would burn up the wicked in a moment at his coming, and that was all the cleansing there would be. He did not know that in his day, all he would see is the beginning of the legal proceedings. Therefore, he (and his companions) got the part of the answer that was relevant to them—indeed that the investigative judgment would begin on October 22, 1844.

So there must be more to it. The question must come up again—and it surely does, in the same book of Daniel as follows:

And one said to the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, How long shall it be to the end of these wonders? And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:6-7)

In this vision, Daniel saw another man who would come after William Miller, who would also ask the question of how long. Once again, the SDA Bible Commentary has virtually nothing to say about his identity aside from “possibly” being one of the unidentified saints of Daniel 8:13. However, this time he is given not just the starting of the judgment, but the complete answer as to when “all these things shall be finished.” Now we have found something that should give us more understanding of the complete fulfillment of the fifth seal.

In fact, this very verse is the foundational verse of the Orion message! It is explained in detail on slides 61-74 of the presentation. This time it was John Scotram who asked the question, and who got the final answer as to when “all these things shall be finished”—including the avenging of the martyrs’ blood.

We can already start to see the timeframe of the fifth seal. The timeframe must include the answer to the question, namely the Orion message, which was given in 2010. Thus the fifth seal must have begun no later than 2010. Another clue is the mention of white robes being given to the dead souls under the altar. That marks the point when the Judgment of the Dead was completed, because it says that white robes were given to every one of them. Every one of them was judged righteous, and there could have been no more cases pending otherwise it could not be said with assurance that every one of them had been judged. Thus, the end of the Judgment of the Dead is clearly specified in the seal description.

Based on the interpretation of Daniel 12:6-7 as given in the Orion presentation, the Judgment of the Dead completed 168 years after it began. That would be the year 2012, which is the invisible tick on the Orion Clock at the 168th anniversary of 1844. Now we know that the fifth seal must span from 2010 to at least 2012, but actually it must span even farther to include the future martyrs who are mentioned in the seal. How far into the future? All the way until their number is made up, at which point Jesus will throw down the censer. That means the fifth seal must extend all the way to the close of human probation on October 17, 2015, as shown in the article Miller’s Mistake.

The Spirit of the Law

From beginning to end, the fifth seal is about martyrs. When we talk about martyrs, we normally think of people being burned at the stake, beheaded, or killed in some other way because of their faith. The perpetrators violate the commandment “Thou shalt not kill.” That is a very literal commandment with a very literal meaning. However, Jesus gave the commandment a spiritual dimension too:

Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment: But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire. (Matthew 5:21-22)

Jesus explained the commandment in a way that reaches the motives of the heart. With that kind of spiritual understanding of the commandment, we can begin to understand something which I will call “spiritual martyrdom.” A person who is killed for Jesus’ sake is silenced by death as a martyr. Thus, a person who is angrily silenced for his faith in Jesus by his brother could be considered a spiritual “martyr” in light of Jesus’ expansion of the commandment as quoted above.

Consider that the Orion message comes from Jesus Himself, because it was He who positioned the stars. That means a person who professes faith in the Clock of God in Orion is putting his faith in Jesus, who fixed the stars so as to give the prophetic message that they do. If a man is angry and silences him without a cause, Jesus equates that to cold-blooded murder in the judgment—which makes the silenced man a spiritual “martyr.”

John Scotram faced attacks and censorship as soon as he tried to share the Orion message in the Adventist forums in 2010. The “brethren” called him all sorts of names and treated him in all sorts of ways that strike well within the scope of what Jesus included in His explanation of the commandment not to kill. When John brought the behavior of the offenders to the attention of the forum administrators, instead of helping the situation they accused him and kicked him out! They silenced him—they killed him, figuratively.

If you can recognize that scenario as “martyrdom” in the spiritual sense, then you can see how we can rightly say that the fifth seal opened in 2010. Many (if not all) of us have experienced a similar “death” at the hands of our fellow brethren ever since that time, but for the purpose of understanding when the fifth seal opened, we need not look any further than John’s early experiences in sharing the message in 2010. In that sense, he was the first spiritual “martyr” for Orion, and as such his experience marks the opening of the first phase of the seal. A later phase will involve actual physical martyrdom, as the fifth seal text clearly states, and that brings us to the 2014 mark on the clock.

The 2014 Star

Surely the date that is marked when we come full-circle to Saiph has an important meaning. The Orion clock is the Book of Seven Seals, and Saiph pointed to a seal in 1846, so shouldn’t it point to one of the seals again when it comes back around in 2014?

Yes. The star gives a date, which is an answer to a question. To find out which seal the star points to, we only need to check to see which of the seals asks a question—and we already know that the fifth seal is the one that asks a question. It is even a question about time, so the star Saiph points to the year that is the answer to the question about time in the fifth seal.

It was a question of how long it would be until the Lord judges and avenges the blood of the martyrs. There are two separate questions there: about judging, and avenging. We know the answer already, because it is marked by the star as 2014, autumn. What isn’t yet clear is which question it answers. Does it mean that the church was judged at that time, or that His vengeance came? The text of the seal explains it for us. The answer is a period of waiting for the physical martyrs who will complete the number prior to the close of probation. Who knows—it is likely that some of the spiritual “martyrs” will be among them, but the text is talking about a new generation of actual martyrs.

At this point, one must remember that the judgment cycle of the Orion clock points to year intervals, and each interval begins in the autumn of that year and runs until the autumn of the following year. Thus, the 2014 mark indicates a period from autumn 2014 to autumn 2015. This interval of time corresponds to the answer to when God’s judgment and vengeance will come:

...it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (Revelation 6:11)

A little “season” of rest would begin in the autumn of 2014, and after the little season of rest, the actual martyrdom would take place sometime in 2015 (with people actually killed “as they were”—not just spiritually). The martyrdom must end by the close of probation, because after that, there will be no more fertile soil for their blood to seed the gospel in. Thus, the answer perfectly fills the one-year interval that the star points to, and is complete by October 17, 2015—the close of probation. At that point, the judgment will have been completed (the first part of the question in the fifth seal—God will have judged them), and the wrath of God will begin thereafter (the second part of the question—God will avenge them). Question answered!

But that is not all that the 2014 star tells us. There must be a reason that it points to autumn 2014.

The Judgment People

The fifth seal began with spiritual “martyrdom” in the context of the SDA Church as a precursor to the physical martyrdom that will take place on the world stage. The reason for this is that the SDA Church is the church of the judgment. It was born out of the Great Disappointment of 1844 when the judgment began, and it understood that the judgment was taking place in the heavenly sanctuary, and it figuratively followed Jesus into the Most Holy Place of that sanctuary to participate in the judgment. It saw the Ten Commandment Law of God, including the fourth, which is why it is called the Seventh-day Adventist Church. It self-identifies itself as the “Laodicean” church. According to the Strong’s Concordance, that name comes from a compound of two words: G2992 and G1349.

G2992 λαός laos lah-os'

Apparently a primary word; a people (in general; thus differing from G1218, which denotes one’s own populace): - people.

G1349 δίκη dikē dee'-kay

Probably from G1166; right (as self-evident), that is, justice (the principle, a decision, or its execution): - judgment, punish, vengeance.

Putting the meaning together, Seventh-day Adventists are identified by their doctrines, beliefs, and practice as “a judgment people” (Laodicea)! Whether it is taken in the sense of a people with discernment to judge or a people upon whom judgment is pronounced will become clear very soon if it isn’t already. It will also become clear whether it means judgment in the sense of acquittal or in the sense of condemnation.

Recognizing that the SDA Church is connected with the heavenly sanctuary, it should have spiritual eyesight to see the spirit of the law, and not just the letter. That is why the sin of spiritual “killing” is especially offensive when it is committed by Adventists. They were supposed to be a nation of “kings and priests” who should have discernment to judge others, but they themselves do injustice.

As the “martyrdom” of the fifth seal began at the sanctuary—that is to say spiritually with the “judgment people”—so began the judging and avenging of the spiritual “murderers” of the fifth seal. That is what the 2014 passage of the star Saiph points to. One might wonder how God judged and avenged the spiritual “martyrs” in the autumn of 2014. What does God’s vengeance look like?

Silently, the Door Clangs Shut

Both the Orion Clock and the HSL (High Sabbath List) point very clearly to the autumn of 2014. This was the highlighted culminating point of both clocks, and it led us to give one of our strongest warnings ever—the Autumn Warning—which we spread far and wide during the feast season in October. Then, in November, we waited in anticipation for something to signal a unity between the Three Angels’ movement and the Fourth. We did not know exactly when to expect it, or what to expect, but we had an idea that it could happen near Ellen White’s birthday and certainly by the end of November.

Very interesting developments took place, but as I wrote in Last Call, they were not what we had hoped for. What we should have seen would have been a “spiritual hug”^[2] from our brethren of the Three Angels’ movement, but instead we saw something that I can only describe as the corporate spiritual end of the SDA Church. Remember the double-stop codon at the end of the gene of life, consisting of two back-to-back triplets? Consider this comparison:

The double-stop codon at the end of the gene sequence makes the end final. The similarities we see above show that the end of mercy for the SDA Church organization was final on November 30, 2014. I wrote about that in Last Call too, but at that time we had not quite seen the finality of it.

The reaction to our autumn warning from our “brethren” in the SDA Church was zero. We had given our greatest warning, but it fell on deaf ears. Our voices, though booming, had finally been effectively and completely silenced among them. When the events of the end of November transpired, there should have been a big grand reunion of Three Angels’ Adventists with the Fourth Angel’s Message! But instead, they silently slipped into line with the enemies of God.

Thus God judged them—or they judged themselves—whichever you prefer, because:

...they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness. (2 Thessalonians 2:10-12)

Thus, in the “little season” beginning in autumn 2014 before the actual martyrs were to be killed, the SDA Church was judged. God’s vengeance is speedily coming upon them, too, which you can see clearly in the fact that the church could not speak up against the November 26 decision of the German court, nor against the church alliance that welcomed it. As an ecumenical-friendly church, its unique views in regard to the seventh-day Sabbath of the fourth commandment are being censored by the immense pressure of the other churches.

Even if we are only in the very early phases that will lead to a U.S.-wide or world-wide Sunday Law, the implication is still clear. The Sunday Law prophecy has begun to fulfill, and that means probation is already closed for the SDA Church as an organization. They should have been the first to know (and they would have if they had accepted the Orion message). This is the most solemn warning for every Seventh-day Adventist: if you look to the General Conference for your spiritual guidance—or to any lesser level of leadership within the scope of its hierarchy—you will be lost with them.

Can it really be so? Let's think about it logically. Why do Adventists reason that their probation closes at the Sunday Law? It is simply because they are privileged to know the truth that the seventh day (Saturday) is the Sabbath of the Lord, and not Sunday. When they are tested upon it, there is no gray area for them. It is a black-and-white test. They should know what is right, therefore when the test comes, it is a simple matter of passing or failing the test according to how they have prepared for it, and there is no more grace for them if they go along with the Sunday Law. The Sunday Law simply reveals their loyalty, which in many cases will be contrary to their profession.

That test began for the organized SDA Church exactly at the “five month” mark of the fifth trumpet by Jewish reckoning, because they are the spiritual Jews. The next day (November 26, Ellen White's birthday) the German court upheld the Sunday Law against the complaints of businesses. The church had to face its test. It had to either buck the pressure of the ecumenical union by speaking up, or it had to shut its mouth in silent cooperation.

A sin of omission weighs as heavily in the judgment balance as a sin of commission.

Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin. (James 4:17)

At that moment, the SDA Church—already riddled with spiritualism—tacitly consented to Sunday observance too.

Let the punishment fit the crime.^[3] Just like how the SDA Church silenced God's love as presented in the Orion message, now they are being silenced by the overbearing ecumenical establishment. In this, you can see that God's vengeance on behalf of the spiritual “martyrs” arrived, just as it was answered to them in the text of the fifth seal.

It could be worse. Maybe all those who keep saying that the “church will go through to the end” (meaning the organization) are right. Maybe the organization will go through to the end in the sense that its adherents will receive the plagues! Considering the amount of light that it was privileged to have, maybe that would be its just deserts. Perhaps some of its leaders will even be preserved long enough to see Him coming in the clouds, like those who crucified Him the first time.

This is tough stuff. If you are an Adventist who was kept in the dark by your pastor or conference leadership, and who is broken-hearted over what has happened, I invite you to re-read the whole chapter of Romans 11 in light of the article Two Armies.

Now do you understand why the court relocated? The implication is that those who didn't “follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth”^[4] have been left to the world—left in Babylon.

The issue here is faith. Once the visible evidence is conclusive, faith can no longer be exercised. The “judgment people” who had a working knowledge of the heavenly sanctuary should have seen through the eyes of faith much sooner than others. The problem is that a course of “wait and see” is not the way of faith, and such a person could never be among the 144,000, who have the faith of Jesus. It's a sad thing that the Lord had to pass them by, but He would never compel them to step forward in faith against their free will, because that would not be faith at all.

Thus the door of mercy shut for the SDA Church organization, and all that is left of the fifth seal is the actual martyring of Sabbath-keepers that lies ahead. The preparations for that are being made by leaps and bounds, but that is a topic for a later section. With all that we have learned about the fifth seal, we would naturally offer the date that the Orion message was published, January 23, 2010, to mark the first day of the fifth seal with the spiritual “birth” of the first “martyr” in the spiritual sense, and the close of probation, October 17, 2015, to mark the last day with the death of the last physical martyr.

Addressing a New Audience

Non-Adventists have not had the advantages that Adventists have had. They do not have a working knowledge of the abundant counsel that God gave through Ellen White. It is a tragedy that Adventists did not appreciate what they had in her.

But Jesus said unto them, A prophet is not without honour, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house. (Mark 6:4)

Since non-Adventists have not had the framework to understand end-time events, they will have to learn in a few months what we have taken years to learn. The years are gone already—general probation will close in just a few months! For this reason, God has been preparing the Orion message for everyone, especially non-Adventists at this point in time. That is what this article is for.

The fact that we just recently received the light to harmonize the seals shows a couple of things. First, it shows that God did not give all of the knowledge to one man (John Scotram), for him to dictate it to the people and for them to blindly accept it. It was God’s plan that His people would join in the study and contribute to it. If they had done so, the errors that we were late in finding could have been corrected earlier. Leveraging the knowledge of experienced Adventist theologians, the seals could have been harmonized a long time ago. This kind of studying together was God’s intention for Adventists at large, but since they refused, He has continued to give the light to our small group to finish the message for the sake of non-Adventists.

This brings us to the second point, which is that this harmony of the seals and trumpets is important right now, especially for those who don’t have the advantages of an Adventist background. God would have you see the complete harmony in the message. God would show you clearly that the signs are fulfilling, so that you can come to a decision for Him.

I saw that God had children who do not see and keep the Sabbath. They have not rejected the light upon it. And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God’s chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. {EW 33.2}[5]

The Classical Interpretation of the Sixth Seal

And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:12-17)

At this point, you should make sure you have read the Signs of the End article, where the signs of the sixth seal are explained. It shows that in the classical interpretation, the first signs were fulfilled very literally by the Great Lisbon Earthquake of 1755, New England's Dark Day of 1780 with its subsequent blood moon, and the Falling Stars of 1833. Even the extreme fear of all classes of people as described in the sixth seal was clearly present as the Millerite movement reached its climax in 1844. The vast majority followed the movement out of fear, and thus fell away after the Disappointment. The mention of the day of God's wrath in the sixth seal is a clear reference to the Millerite belief that the earth would be cleansed by fire and sinners would be burned up at that time. The heavens departing like a scroll was fulfilled in the least literal sense, but even that found a fulfillment in Hiram Edson's vision on October 23, 1844—the day after the Disappointment—when he looked into the open heavens and saw Jesus ministering in the Most Holy Place of the heavenly sanctuary. The vision he saw on that day can be understood to confirm the beginning of the investigative judgment, and also to show that every element of the sixth seal had been fulfilled as far as it was going to be in that era.

Of course at that time they did not understand that the sixth seal had finished, nor that the seals would repeat. As a result, many interpreters devised various erroneous explanations for the sixth and seventh seals, for example by saying that the latter half of the sixth seal would fulfill sometime in the future. However, it is clear from the pattern of Jericho that the sixth day had to end before the marches of the seventh day could begin, so we mark the end of the sixth seal with the Great Disappointment of 1844. Furthermore, we can see from the marches around Jericho that there is no seventh march before the new run of seven marches began on the seventh day, which means there should be no application of the seventh seal to the time immediately after 1844. Instead, the seals repeat with the first seal opening promptly in 1846 as shown in Figure 2.

The Repetition of the Sixth Seal

If, in the repetition, the fifth seal opened in 2010, then we should expect the first sign of the sixth seal to appear sometime after that. Take a look for yourself at a list of the world's largest earthquakes, and see for yourself, which earthquakes could qualify as the "great earthquake" that is mentioned as the first sign of the sixth seal. Without a doubt, it would have to be the 2011 Japan earthquake, as explained in more detail in the Signs of the End article. That earthquake caused an incredible amount of fear and garnered global attention for the hazards related to the damage to the Fukushima nuclear power plant. It is clearly a worthy event to open the sixth seal, giving us an exact date of March 11, 2011 to mark its beginning.

The next sign we should see is a darkening of the sun. Did you notice how much concern there was leading up to the current solar maximum? The preceding minimum was very quiet, leading many scientists to expect a dramatic maximum. However, it seemed like for every article that warned of earth-threatening effects from the solar maximum, there was another article expressing the scientists' surprise at how coolly the sun was behaving. After an unusually large coronal hole appeared and was imaged July 13-18, 2013, which made world news, one blogger summed up the uncertainty of the present solar situation as follows:

Something is up with the sun. It has begun to behave very erratically, and scientists don't know quite what to make of it. Sunspot activity appears to be slowing down with each new cycle and absolutely gigantic holes have started to appear in the sun. At the moment, the sun is approaching the peak of its 11 year cycle, and an increasing number of scientists are becoming concerned about what the next cycle will bring. If sunspot activity continues to diminish, could the sunspot cycle eventually die altogether? Is it possible that we could be approaching another ice age? Even worse, could the increasingly erratic behavior of the sun be an indication that the sun is dying? Traditionally, scientists have taught that the sun won't die until billions of years from now, but in recent years astronomers have observed stars similar to our own sun suddenly begin to behave very erratically and then rapidly die. Is it possible that the same thing could happen to our sun?

It is interesting to note that consistent observation of solar activity began in 1750, and only after that has it been possible to analyze the solar cycle reliably. This led to the identification of the first solar cycle as having begun in the year 1755—a date we remember as the beginning of the sixth classical seal. It is also interesting that we are now in the middle of the 24th solar cycle, as if to suggest that we are in the last "hour" of the sun's "day." The sixth seal shows the signs of the end, but the end itself will come soon enough during the plagues. The Bible describes the exact scenario that scientists expect when the sun begins to die:

And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire. And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and they repented not to give him glory. (Revelation 16:8-9)

Many commentators have proposed a connection between coronal holes and the sixth seal, like this blogger does in his July 30, 2013 entry:

This caused me to think about something that I'd never considered before. I wonder if this, possibly, could have anything to do with the sun turning dark as one of the cosmic disturbances associated with the opening of the Sixth Seal. At that time, the sun will turn "black like sackcloth made of goat hair" (Revelation 6:12), and then the day of vengeance will be imminent.

Unless I see further evidence, I am going to assume there is no connection between this large coronal hole and the opening of the Sixth Seal...

His conclusion is unfortunate, but I think that our articles give enough "further evidence" for those like him who are at least thinking in the right logical direction, as the evidence continues to build with the moon turning to blood that is strikingly fulfilled in the rare tetrad of blood moons in 2014 and 2015.

The Internet is full of commentators giving their opinions about what the blood moons could mean, and it is such a literal fulfillment in terms of the name of the event that no one who is studying Bible prophecy can miss it. From this sign alone, we can see that the sixth seal must go all the way to at least the autumn of 2015, because the last blood moon of the tetrad is September 28, 2015. The blood moons point to the spring and autumn feasts according to the Hebrew calendar, which highlights the importance of God's calendar.

Jesus, our Savior, died on the cross at exactly the right time. The circumstances of His death are the criteria to understand the calendar of God, as explained in the Gethsemane article series. Jesus didn't die any sooner or any later than He was supposed to. He knew what to die for, and when. The blood moons are a sign to the people of God that persecution is coming to them, and that a martyr's death might await them. Have you considered that possibility for yourself? Do you know God's timetable well enough to know what to die for, and when?

In his article about these same Signs of the End, my brother explained that Sun-day worship is really cultic "sun" worship, contrary to the Ten Commandments. The signs of the sixth seal are not just a series of waymarks; they tell a message. The great earthquake shakes up the world, saying "WAKE UP!!!" Then the sun is darkened, warning that as the dying sun will eventually burn up those who dwell on the earth, those who worship on Sunday in defiance of the fourth commandment will not only be scorched physically in the time of plagues, but will be eternally lost. Then the moon turns to blood near the spring and autumn feasts, as if to say, Pay attention to the time—and know what to give your own blood for (as Jesus did), and when.

The media is full of propaganda that is building up to the "falling of the stars." It is a regular occurrence to hear of a fireball here or there, or the approach of a potentially hazardous "near earth object," or any number of variations on such themes. When the big event comes, it will usher in a new phase of human suffering, which means it behooves a person to take stock of what really is important and put their priorities in order. All of the signs of the sixth seal thus far have been greater than they were in the classical interpretation, so don't let the press lull you into thinking that whatever event is coming will just be another beautiful, spectacular but harmless sight. As a harbinger of what is to come, the Chelyabinsk meteor should dispel that myth, as does the following prophetic description:

Last Friday morning, just before I awoke, a very impressive scene was presented before me. I seemed to awake from sleep but was not in my home. From the windows I could behold a terrible conflagration. Great balls of fire were falling upon houses, and from these balls fiery arrows were flying in every direction. It was impossible to check the fires that were kindled, and many places were being destroyed. The terror of the people was indescribable. After a time I awoke and found myself at home. {LDE 24.3}^[6]

Another time, Ellen White (who related the above) heard the conversations of the people:

In the visions of the night a very impressive scene passed before me. I saw an immense ball of fire fall among some beautiful mansions, causing their instant destruction. I heard someone say: "We knew that the judgments of God were coming upon the earth, but we did not know that they would come so soon." Others, with agonized voices, said: "You knew! Why then did you not tell us? We did not know." On every side I heard similar words of reproach spoken. {9T 28.1}^[7]

The description of those agonized voices is a word to the wise today: prepare now—especially spiritually—because it will be too late to prepare for the event after it happens. If by that time you had not yet been forced to take a firm stand for God and for His commandments, it is very likely that you will have to take a firm stand from that day on. The pressure from society and especially the ruling powers will increase as the trouble in the world increases.

Finally, the last scene described in the sixth seal will be the great Betelgeuse supernova explosion, which will first have the effect of causing the sky to “depart like a scroll.” Then people of every class will realize that probation is over, and the day of the wrath of God is on their heels. They will hide and cry out in fear—just as the text says—more so than the Millerites did. Will you be among that terrified group or among the Lord’s faithful? The choices you make every day beginning today will land you on one side or the other, and I hope you will be inside the ark when the time of mercy ends for the world on October 17, 2015 at the end of the sixth seal.

Come, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as it were for a little moment, until the indignation be overpast. For, behold, the LORD cometh out of his place to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity: the earth also shall disclose her blood, and shall no more cover her slain. (Isaiah 26:20–21)

Obedience to God’s commandments is the place of safety, because a person is the servant of the one whom they obey,^[8] and if you obey God then you are under His protection as His servant.

*And fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell. (Matthew 10:28)

(Annotation from August 2016: For more information regarding the fulfillment of the classical sixth seal, please see the addendum to History Repeats II. The fulfillment of the repeated sixth seal is explained in the addendum to Signs of the End and slides 101–114 of the Orion Presentation.)

The Seventh Seal

And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. And I saw the seven angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven trumpets. And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense, that he should offer it with the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar which was before the throne. And the smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the angel’s hand. And the angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth: and there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings, and an earthquake. (Revelation 8:1–5)

The seventh seal deals primarily with events happening in heaven. It speaks of silence in heaven, angels in heaven, the altar and censer of the heavenly sanctuary, and the incense and prayers that are offered to God in heaven. Because it is talking about events in heaven, and the furniture of the heavenly sanctuary is mentioned (even of the Most Holy Place), we can be sure that this seal has something to do with the judgment proceedings that we talked about near the beginning of this article. It seems to be giving us a view into the heavenly courtroom, with certain key events noted.

The first clue we are given to help us understand the seal is a period of time: silence in heaven for half an hour. Notice that the rest of the description does not mention any sounds again until the seal has ended, at which point the silence is broken and there are “voices” again. That means the half-hour of silence spans the entire duration of the seal. To understand the duration of time in earthly terms, we just have to calculate how long the half-hour of silence in heaven would be on earth.

It is often assumed that this time period should be calculated according to the day-year principle like other time prophecies, but that does not account for the silence being measured in terms of heavenly time. When it speaks of a time period in heaven, it should be measured in heavenly time. In other words, we should read the time according to the heavenly clock of Orion.

The Orion clock has 24 hours, and the full clock cycle represents 168 earthly years, so one heavenly hour is $168 \div 24 = 7$ earthly years. That means half an hour would be half of seven years, or simply three and a half years. Does that give us a better understanding of the seal, knowing that this seal is dealing with events in the heavenly sanctuary?

Yes! We’ve seen this period before in the form of 1260 days that correspond to the Judgment of the Living, which began on May 6, 2012. Through the eye of faith, this LastCountdown group has been watching the seven angels in the heavenly sanctuary (the seven stars of Orion) to see what God is doing in this seventh seal. Thus the second clue (that seven angels were seen in heaven) fits as well. Now we can understand why the seals are connected to the legal proceedings in heaven: all of the seals were building up to this one-time seventh seal, which is an indication of how important the Judgment of the Living is.

The next clue we are given in the text of the seventh seal is that the seven angels (representing the seven stars of Orion) were given seven trumpets. This was fulfilled on January 31, 2014, when John discovered how the Orion clock gives the dates of the seven trumpets in the Last Race. From that day forward, the seven trumpets of Revelation began to give a certain sound:

*For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?
(1 Corinthians 14:8)

We will talk more about the trumpets later, but you can see from this verse that giving the trumpets a certain or sure sound is important for the express purpose of preparing for battle. Of course we are speaking of the great spiritual battle for souls, not a physical battle. The battle for souls involves prayer, which is mentioned in connection with the censer in the next portion of the seventh seal text. This symbolizes the remaining time to confess sins and be cleansed before Jesus must close all of the cases that are pending in the court. At the end of the seventh seal, the censer is filled with fire and thrown to the earth. This symbolizes the end of the Judgment of the Living in heaven. After that, Jesus will no longer plead for the sinner—and that time is coming very quickly this year on October 17, 2015! Avail yourself of His advocacy now, while the time of intercession is open!

The beginning of the seventh seal in 2012 fits the criteria that it must begin after the sixth seal, and it is a nice harmony that the fifth, sixth and seventh seals all culminate on October 17, 2015 with the close of probation. That is the focal point of all three seals, just as all three seals are given to help every human being make his decision to serve on God’s side of the great controversy between good and evil.

The HSL (High Sabbath List), as explained in the Vessel of Time presentation, also harmonizes perfectly with the last three seals. Comparing the beginning of the last three seals with the penultimate triplet of the HSL, we can see harmony in that the seals begin in 2010, 2011 and 2012, respectively, right along with the years of the triplet. Each year of the triplet corresponds to the opening of one of the seals. The sequence of the seals is in proper order, and in all three cases the indicated end-date is the close of probation. Thus, the very last triplet of the HSL corresponds to the time of the Loud Cry, which has to end when every case is decided in 2015. The overlap is perfect.

The Orion Clock is the Book of Seven Seals, so it must indicate the time of all seven seals. We should have recognized long ago that with only four outer stars to indicate points on the clock circle, and only one of those (Saiph) repeating here at the end of time, there had to be an overlap of the last three seals. Now we can see that the star Saiph points not only to the first seal and the fifth seal, but when we consider that the Orion Clock marks years, then we can see that it points to the end of all things belonging to the fifth, sixth, and seventh seals.

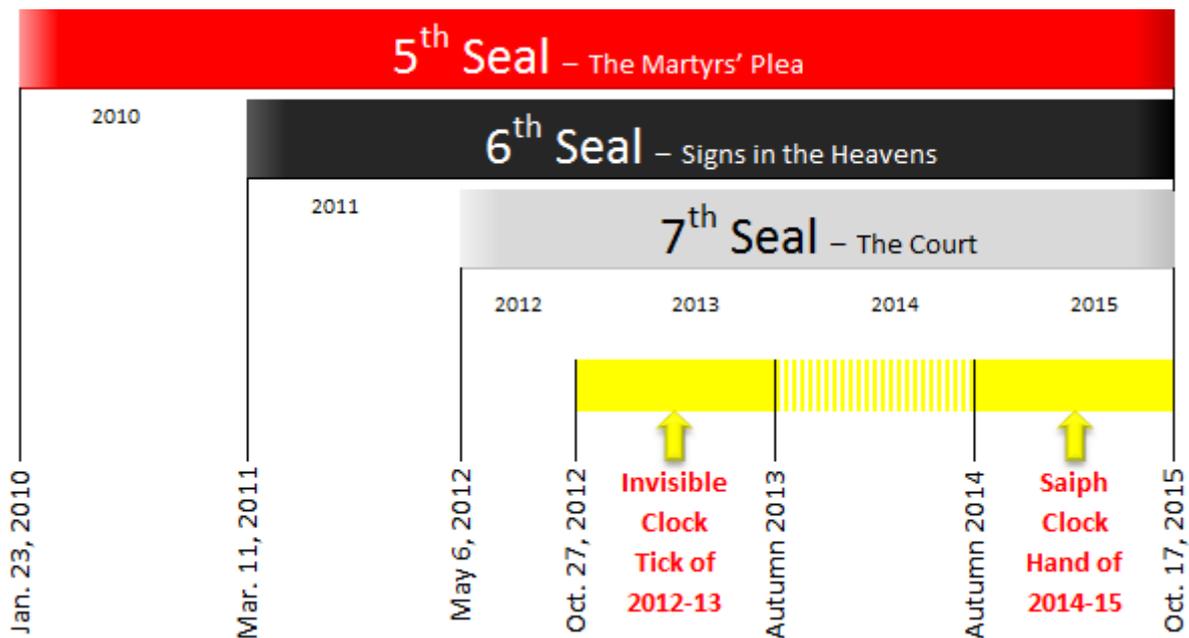

Figure 8 - The Judgment Clock Indicates the Overlap of the Last Three Seals

The invisible clock tick of 2012 (the 168th anniversary of 1844) marks the first Orion year with all three seals overlapping, and together with the 2014 Saiph pointer mark, the overlapping phase of the last three seals is indicated. The markers span the time after the judgment of the dead, culminating with the close of probation for mankind.

The Seven Trumpets of the Judgment Cycle

The trumpets of the judgment cycle are fulfilled by wars. Each war brought a special test upon the church, as well as the world. During the first seal, there was the American Civil War, which tested the church on its non-combatant stance. World War I trumpeted out at the opening of the second seal, with World War II coming in the third. In the fourth seal, there have been a number of wars in the Middle East (the Gulf Wars) and the “War on Terror”. Each trumpet falls within its respective seal, as the pattern of the marches around Jericho illustrate.

The last three trumpets also fall within their respective seals, but that rule is less constraining with the last three trumpets because the last three seals overlap so largely. However, the rule still applies that the trumpets must begin to sound in sequential order, and each must sound within its respective seal.

We already covered the fifth and sixth trumpets of the judgment cycle in detail in the Last Call article. The fifth trumpet began to sound when ISIS declared itself to be a caliphate on June 29, 2014. The five months of the fifth trumpet range until the pope (representing Christianity) effectively declared war in return. His speech was made in Turkey on November 28, 2014—the last day of the five-month period—and his three days in Turkey form the link to the sixth trumpet.

The sixth trumpet began to sound when the leaders of the major religions of the world united with the pope in the war against fundamentalism by signing agreements. Thus the angels of the sixth seal were prepared for the “hour, day, month and year” of November 30, 2014, as I explained according to the example of Josiah Litch’s expose of the fifth and sixth trumpets of the Christian (pre-judgment) era.

Finally, the seventh trumpet will coincide with the end of the fifth, sixth, and seventh seals. It marks the completion of the trumpet warnings mingled with mercy. The 144,000 will all have been sealed a little beforehand, and the last martyr will find rest. Every person will have chosen his side of the battle. That is the moment when Jesus will throw down the censer, and the heavenly carillon will ring out in celebration of the fact that the Kingdom of God is made up and secure. All that will remain is the year of plagues.

The attentive reader might notice that the seventh trumpet only begins to sound within the seventh seal, but the sound of the trumpet goes longer. This harkens back to the story of Jericho:

And it shall come to pass, that when they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when ye hear the sound of the trumpet, all the people shall shout with a great shout; and the wall of the city shall fall down flat, and the people shall ascend up every man straight before him. (Joshua 6:5)

When the seventh trumpet sounds, it will be time to go up and conquer! The kingdoms of this world will then become the kingdoms of our Lord, and He will judge them righteously as He pours out the vials of His wrath in the seven last plagues.

The Seven Priests with Seven Trumpets

Let's go back to the Jericho blueprint at the beginning of this article. The seven priests with seven trumpets have a special meaning distinct from the seals and trumpets of the classical and judgment eras that we've covered thus far.

And ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once. Thus shalt thou do six days. And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven trumpets of rams' horns: and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and the priests shall blow with the trumpets. (Joshua 6:3-4)

It seems likely that the priests all blew their trumpets together on each march, so there would have been only one combined trumpet sound during each march. That is why we generally have one trumpet corresponding to the timeframe of each seal in the classical interpretation, as well as during the repetition of the seals in the investigative judgment. The trumpets sounded sometime during the march as one combined sound.

In that regard, the exact number of priests with trumpets would seem to be an unimportant detail. Having more priests with trumpets would simply make the sound of the trumpets louder, and having fewer would make the sound of the trumpets less loud. This should make us realize that the number of priests with trumpets is given for a special reason.

The seven priests with seven trumpets are symbolic of the ultimate fulfillment of the seven angels that are given seven trumpets:

And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. And I saw the seven angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven trumpets. (Revelation 8:1-2)

Those verses are ultimately fulfilled by the trumpet cycle of the Orion clock. The “seven angels” (seven stars) of Orion were given seven trumpets on January 31, 2014 during the seventh seal as I explained earlier. The trumpet cycle was discovered near the middle of the Judgment of the Living, near the middle of the seventh seal. The seven stars of Orion are the seven “angels” which literally stand in front of God’s throne from the viewpoint of Earth. On that day, the seven stars received trumpets when the seven stations around the clock were each given a date. That was the beginning of the Trumpet Cycle of the Orion Clock, as explained in detail in The Last Race.

It would not have been appropriate to include the trumpet cycle with the order of marches in Figure 1 because it is an independent application of one feature of the Jericho plan (the fact that there were seven priests with trumpets) and not directly relevant to the literal sequence of marches that form the blueprint for the seals. As I mentioned before, the trumpets were probably blown simultaneously as one sound during each march, which is why we have a single trumpet warning during each seal. It was not necessary or possible to figuratively distinguish the tone from each individual trumpet instrument. The trumpet cycle, however, is an independent application of the number of priests with trumpets. The trumpets in the trumpet cycle stand alone and do not correspond to the timeframes of the seals except in the sense that they all happen within the seventh seal, just as they are presented in the Revelation. That is because they are part of the perfect and ultimate fulfillment of the seventh march of the seventh day.

We know that the seven trumpets must have this separate application because the texts are not completely fulfilled any other way. For example, neither the classical trumpets nor the judgment cycle trumpets could fulfill Revelation 8:1-2 because those trumpets sounded before there was anything known about the seven stars of Orion. The imagery of the seven angels which stood in front of God had not been deciphered yet. Only now has the text been completely fulfilled that the seven angels which stood before God were given seven trumpets.

The Principle of Progressive Revelation

Many trumpet warnings served to alert people all through the ages. That is how the people were warned of the spiritual dangers of their time. As time comes to a close, however, the battle between good and evil becomes more intense and the signs of the times happen more frequently. Consequently, we have a need for greater detail in our understanding of prophecy as God's people living today compared to His people in past ages. That is why God reveals prophecy progressively.

The closer we get to a prophetic event, the more detail God reveals to us. You can study that in the Power of the Father article. The Jericho model perfectly reflects God's principle of progressive revelation.

1. Classical Era: The first six days were long marches from the year 31 A.D. till the year 1844. That was over 1800 years for six marches, which is an average of about 300 years per march.
2. Judgment Era: By comparison, the Israelites had to march around the city seven times in one day on the seventh and last day. If we calculate the average, we get: $2014 - 1846 = 168$ years; $168 \text{ years} \div 7 \text{ marches} = \underline{24 \text{ years per march}}$. That is an order of magnitude (10 times) increase in detail! The comparison shows us that we have a much more detailed revelation shortly before the coming of Christ, and this is in line with God's progressive revelation, which is one of the most important biblical principles in the interpretation of prophecy.
3. Judgment of the Living: The story of Jericho gives even further detail in the seventh seal, in the revelation of the trumpet cycle. Here we have an average of about three months per trumpet, which represents another two orders of magnitude (100 times) more detail than the judgment cycle! Not only is the detail increasing, but it is increasing exponentially!

We do not lack signs of the end today, but this increase in the knowledge of biblical prophecy is definitely a clear one:

But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro [in the Word of God], and knowledge [of the Bible] shall be increased. (Daniel 12:4)

By definition, the principle of progressive revelation means that old light must be accepted and acted upon for new light to build upon it. The development of our website illustrates how our knowledge of end-time prophecy has been building while at the same time becoming more and more harmonious.

So then, shall we shift gears and take a closer look at the rapidly fulfilling trumpet cycle of the Orion clock?

A Wider Perspective

A person should read Trumpets with a Certain Sound to get the full impact of what the first two trumpets mean. The few words that I will include here cannot alone do justice to the interpretation, as it is only intended to refresh your memory of what is written in that article so that additional observations can be built upon that foundation.

The way we find the correct interpretation of the trumpet texts is by pairing the texts with the dates that were given to the seven "angels" of Orion. For example, knowing that the first trumpet would begin to sound on February 1, the text can be interpreted relatively easily by simply following major events from that date forward (a task which is much easier in retrospect):

The first angel sounded [beginning February 1, 2014], and there followed hail and fire [stones and lava = volcanic eruption of Mt. Sinabung] mingled with blood [causing deaths (16)], and they were cast [as an image of something] upon the earth [in the United States, namely Yellowstone]: and the third part of trees [Charismatics] was burnt up [taken by Rome], and all green grass [Crimea] was burnt up [annexed by Russia]. (Revelation 8:7)

The prophetic description of events ends when the next trumpet begins, but that does not mean the issues become less significant. For example, the Ring of Fire continues to be a hot topic, as do the shifts that began in the religious and political world during the core time of the first trumpet. In fact, the topics of the trumpets tend to increase in significance as one trumpet builds on another.

The second trumpet is connected to the first, picking up where the first trumpet left off. The Crimea crisis at the end of the first trumpet grew into the Ukraine conflict at the beginning of the second trumpet. In that way, the second trumpet intensified the sound of the first trumpet, adding to the loudness of the overall warning message that the trumpets declare.

And the second angel sounded [beginning April 12, 2014], and as it were a great mountain [Russia] burning with fire [condemned, persecuting God's people] was cast [by the Ukraine conflict] into the sea [Europe]: and the third part of the sea [Pacific Ocean] became blood [died from radiation poisoning]; And the third part of the creatures [souls] which were in the sea [people], and had life [eternal], died [lost to deception of miracles/spiritualism (Day of Four Popes)]; and the third part of the ships [European financial markets] were destroyed. (Revelation 8:8-9)

It behooves us to think beyond mere identification of events, because prophecy has a purpose beyond just offering a list of waymarks till Jesus comes. We must discern the warning message that the trumpets contain, so that we can prepare for the test of faith that will try the souls of men before His arrival. In the Chain of Satan picture series, we did just that by examining the motives behind the Rapid Trident military exercise that took place in Ukraine near the end of the second trumpet. The last image of that series highlighted the great test that all of the trumpets are warning of: the test of true worship—loving obedience to God as demonstrated through the keeping of the biblical seventh-day (Saturday) Sabbath of the Lord, or the respecting of Sunday, “the mark of the beast,” which if any man receives, he will receive the plagues.

The second to last picture in that series explained how the principle of “order out of chaos” could be used by the powers that be to reach their goal, and quickly. According to the Hegelian dialectic,^[9] there are three steps to achieving order out of chaos, two of which can be seen in the first two trumpets:

1. Introduce a problem (thesis) – DONE. In the first trumpet, the problem was the crisis in Crimea. Russia’s annexation of Crimea posed a problem for the international community. Many feared that it would erupt into war across Europe. You have heard politicians say “never let a good crisis go to waste,” but what they won’t admit that openly is that they regularly create a crisis in order to take advantage of it afterward. Creating the crisis is the first step of the Hegelian dialectic.
2. Generate a resistance to the problem (antithesis) – DONE. The second step is to generate an opposition to the problem, which in this case involved the nations scrambling to prevent Russia from seizing Crimea while maintaining peace in eastern Ukraine. The Rapid Trident exercise near the end of the second trumpet was an integral part of that effort. In this step, the resistance was pitted against the problem, so that the two sides can subsequently fight it out. This step, together with the first step, creates an environment of “chaos” which will wear out both sides until they are completely exhausted. Have you ever heard that Jesuits finance both sides of the wars they incite? It is their modus operandi.

3. Offer the desired solution to the problem (synthesis) – PENDING. The last step is the rising of the Phoenix from the ashes of chaos. In the context of the first two trumpets, this has not happened yet. Satan’s goal is for the world to come under one unified political system as the answer to the conflict. That is what he needs in order to direct worship to himself uncontested, and enforce it.

There were also key developments on the religious front that took place in the first two trumpets. In the first trumpet, it was the reconciliation of Charismatics with the pope as represented by a third part. Notice that the Day of Four Popes in the second trumpet is also represented as affecting a third part. Do you think there could be another third part lurking in the third trumpet to complete the religious scene?

The Third Trumpet

To interpret the third trumpet, we need to apply what we learned from the first two. We saw that a notable event happens in the world on the first day of each trumpet, which sets the tone for the whole trumpet.

For the first trumpet, we had the Mt. Sinabung volcanic eruption involving deaths on one hand, and the rumbling threat of the super-volcano under Yellowstone National Park on the other, both happening on the first day. Those events have a tight connection to the Bible text, and serve as a warning for the plagues.

Then, in the second trumpet we had the Crimea crisis escalate on the first day of the trumpet, with the first bloody attack to the East Ukraine on that very day. It became clear in the second trumpet that God points to different kinds of events, and each trumpet has its own character. The first trumpet was marked by natural disasters, warning of physical dangers. The second trumpet was marked by provocations among nations.

As we look at the third trumpet, we should expect to see the same principles coming together again: something should have happened on the very day that the third trumpet began, and it should have been an event of global proportions, and it should likely be of a different character than the events of the first two trumpets (not geological, and not involving war politics).

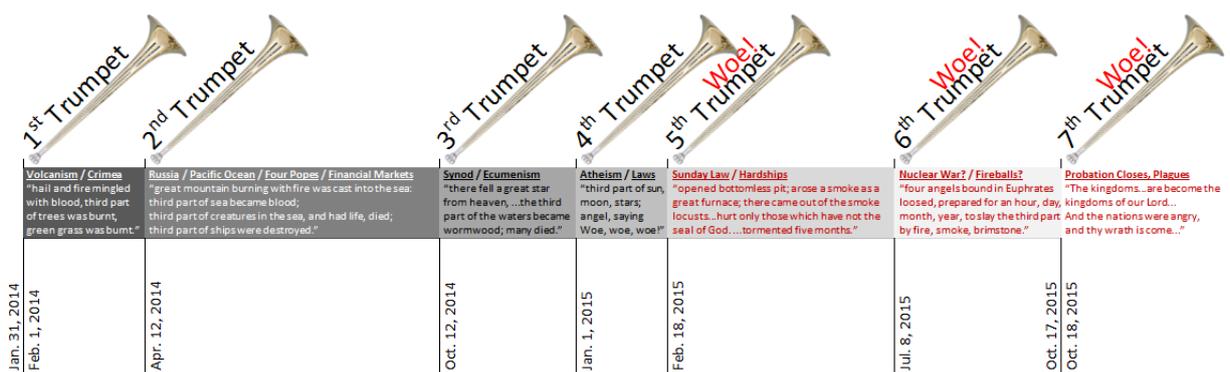

Figure 10 – The Seven Last Trumpets of the Seven Angels

Before exploring the actual event, let’s try to understand what the overall thrust of the trumpet was. That will give us a clue for what kind of event to look for at the start of the trumpet. We have already dealt with some very significant events at the end of November in relation to the fifth seal above. I also talked about these events in the Last Call article in the context of the sixth trumpet of the judgment cycle—it was about the pope’s speech before the European Parliament and the churches and other religions that joined with the papacy in Turkey under the pretext of defending against radical Islam. Those events also fall within the timeframe of this ultimate third trumpet, but the third trumpet gives a different context to them.

Let's just read the text objectively once:

And the third angel sounded, and there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters; And the name of the star is called Wormwood: and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter. (Revelation 8:10-11)

The message of the third trumpet is about a "fallen star" that poisons the waterways, and thus the people. We can immediately rule out any kind of literal application such as an asteroid or similar. No such literal event happened in the expected timeframe, so the terms must be symbolic. You can read a straightforward interpretation of the symbols of this trumpet text in detail at Cyberspace Ministry^[10] or elsewhere.

If we consider the union of world religions on November 30 as having any meaningful bearing on the text, then the third trumpet must be showing us that when the churches united with the pope (great star), it poisoned their religion from the leadership (fountains), through the ministry channels (rivers) and down to the ordinary members who die spiritually as a result. The essence of ecumenism is to unite on common points and sweep differences aside. The emphasis is on mutual acceptance as one big happy family, regardless of doctrinal differences. If you understand the role that doctrines play in character development as I explained in Preparing the Armour, then you can see just how poisonous ecumenism really is.

The overall thrust of ecumenism in the third trumpet time is clear, but it is too loose of an explanation of the text. The trumpet should open with an event on the first day. It should be an event that fulfills the first part of the text.

...there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp... (Revelation 8:10)

In the fullest sense, this symbolism refers to Lucifer's fall from heaven. He was the brightest, most honored being under the Godhead until he fell. He was the original fallen star.

How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! ... (Isaiah 14:12)

Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness... (Ezekiel 28:17)

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. (Revelation 12:9)

Lucifer did not appear evil at first. He presented himself as trying to improve God's government by reforming it, and by giving the angels greater freedom. In that way, he was burning as a lamp, or torch. He presented himself as an angel of light, leading the way to a better destiny. (The torch is used to symbolize Satan to this day.)

Nevertheless, Lucifer's fall cannot be the direct fulfillment of the third trumpet because he fell from heaven very long ago, not just on October 12, 2014 when the third trumpet started to sound. Remember, we understand the trumpets by pairing the Bible text with the date that we have from the Trumpet Clock for the beginning of the trumpet. We are looking for a fulfillment that took place at that particular time, which makes the task of interpretation much more tractable. Could the fallen star be Islam's false prophet Muhammad in this context? No, because once again he didn't "fall" in 2014, but nearly a millennium and a half ago.

Does that mean, then, that Lucifer's fall (or Muhammad's) has nothing to do with the trumpet? No, they are in fact related. To identify what this part of the trumpet text symbolizes, it is helpful to look for someone who is fallen, like Lucifer, but who appears good, as if leading the way to a better world.

An Extraordinary Meeting

Let us come to the first day of the trumpet, which was October 12, 2014. Considering that the basic symbolism of the third trumpet is about spiritual and religious things, we should naturally look in the religious world for the “star” that opens the event...

Was there anything of a spiritual nature going on in the world at that time? Were there any religious “stars” on the world stage? What was happening in the religious world?

There was one glaringly-bright event:

Oct. 5-19

Extraordinary General Assembly of the Synod of Bishops: The Pastoral Challenges of the Family in the Context of Evangelization

That event didn't begin exactly on the third trumpet date, which might be why we didn't see a really clear association at first, but it does span over it. In fact, the third trumpet date points exactly to the middle day of the event!

What is this event about, and could the third trumpet really be pointing to it?

This particular synod was an “extraordinary” assembly, which means it was convened to address some urgent matter, in contrast to a regular or “ordinary” synod. This was only the third time that an extraordinary synod was ever called, and it was a very big deal. Catholic bloggers (like this one) esteemed it as a “Third Vatican Council” in importance, while publishers with a more official tone (such as Catholic News Service) were careful to mention the fact that the whole synod system was instituted at the end of the Second Vatican Council, as if they deliberately wanted to trace this particular synod back to Vatican II. It is noteworthy that the full title of Vatican II was the “Second Vatican Ecumenical Council.” Do you think that it is just pure happenstance that this “Third Vatican Council”—whatever it was officially called—was followed a month later by formal agreements between the pope and the leaders of the major world religions, joining them in ecumenical unity?

Keep in mind, this “Third Vatican Council” is not over yet. The Extraordinary Synod was just a preparatory session for the bigger Ordinary Synod coming later this year (2015). The 2015 synod will take the results of the 2014 synod into consideration for a final decision.

Normally, an extraordinary synod is called for an urgent matter and has about six months of preparation time, but this extraordinary synod was a lot longer in the making. It started with a questionnaire (!) sent out to the local bishops around the world a year earlier in October of 2013. The synod addressed the topic of pastoral care for families, including the topics of divorce, remarriage, homosexuality, inclusion and unity in the body of Christ in terms of receiving the Eucharist, and more.

With an eye discerning of prophetic developments, we can infer that there was even more to this synod than meets the eye. For example, we know that the justification for Sunday protection is often linked to the family. Still, if this is the event that God wanted to point to with the third trumpet, we should naturally wonder why He didn't point to the beginning of it. Why did He point to a day in the middle? Perhaps we should examine the synod schedule more closely to see if there is something specific we should be looking for.

There is a clue in the Wikipedia entry for the synod, which suggests that something of importance happened after the first week of the synod:

After the first week a relatio post disceptationem ("report after the debate"), was delivered by the synod's relator, Cardinal Péter Erdő.

Noteworthy is the fact that the third trumpet points to the eighth day, the day after the first week. Considering that we are talking about the synod of the church that claims Sunday as its mark of authority, and the synod began on a Sunday, and ended on a Sunday, and the third trumpet points to a Sunday, I think we have at least a little justification to infer that Sunday has something to do with it. Of course they aren't going to advertise that fact, but we have to read between the lines knowing that they consider Sunday to be "family day" and the synod was about pastoring the family better.

The pope gave his homily on the opening and closing Sundays, which were obviously not normal meeting days. That means the real first and last days of meetings were Monday, October 6 and Saturday, October 18—which so happened to be the true dates for Yom Kippur and Shemini Atzeret, respectively! So it was not only the third trumpet that pointed to this event, but also the feast days themselves, which our autumn warning was based on!

Interestingly, the day numbers in the core meeting days of Oct. 6-18 have a subtle but important meaning. If you look carefully, there are four 6's there, because there is one 6 alone, and $18 = 6 + 6 + 6$ for a total of four 6's. The number 6666 signifies the number of Satan's hosts, and we will see it again later. In essence, the feast days point to this synod, saying "Watch out! Satan is preparing his hosts for battle!"

The middle date, which the trumpet points to, was a Sunday. The following day, October 13, the press was blaring out the news about the interim report of the synod. In order to release the report on the 13th, naturally things had to be in order on the 12th. (Similarly, the final report made public on the 19th had to follow a vote taken the day before.) So whatever the deeper purpose of this synod was, God points right to it.

Think about it. The decision to begin the One World Religion must have been made at the Family Synod. They must have decided there to embrace Islam and all other major world religions as they did the following month. Maybe that is why it was called the "Family" Synod—all religions wanted to become one big happy family, even if they can't all receive the Catholic Eucharist.

Of course the Church would not highlight their intentions to promote the enforcement of Sunday worship, but don't you think the discussions on family, sin, and how to deal with those who are not living in harmony with the Church's official position are all relevant in the context of observing "Family Day" (Sunday) too? Even if the discussions weren't made in the context of keeping Sunday holy, the thinking that emerged would undoubtedly carry over into the Sunday context. It seems probable that protecting Sunday as a day for the family would appear to be the perfect solution to all of the family problems that the Church is struggling to deal with.

If this synod is the starting event of the third trumpet, it can truly be said that "many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter." If this "Third Vatican Ecumenical Council" is what led to the big union of religions the following month, then it is clear how many men died spiritually by uniting with the church whose waters are full of bitter poison. They joined the church that is led by the bitter Angel of the Dead—the great fallen angel, Lucifer, or Satan!

However, we must still answer the question of why the trumpet would point to the middle of this synod instead of the beginning of it. There is a very good reason, and there is a lesson in it that the Lord wants to teach us. Remember that the fact that there was no meteor fireball on the third trumpet date is significant—it means that the trumpet text has to be interpreted metaphorically as we already did, with the star representing a fallen "angel" (or messenger).

The papacy is surely in a fallen condition, but again it did not fall recently. That means the third trumpet must still be pointing to some other "angelic" messenger that actually fell at the sound of the third trumpet. That means there must be another event in the religious world that the trumpet marks, besides the Vatican synod. It must be an event that would explain why the trumpet points to the middle of the synod and not to the beginning of it (or for that matter to the end when the conclusions were announced).

The “Other” Catholic Church

There was another church that started doing something with survey “questionnaires” in a local conference a while back in 2012. It was about the issue of women’s ordination—which is also a “family” issue—which grew until it was officially tackled by the Church in several TOSC (Theology of Ordination Study Committee) group meetings. Those meetings fed into the 2014 Annual Council of the Seventh-day Adventists World Church, which in turn recommended the item to the 2015 General Conference Session for consideration. The earlier phases are documented in the article Change of Venue.

Neil Wilson, then president of the General Conference of the SDA Church, once said:

...there is another universal and truly catholic organization, the Seventh-day Adventist Church. (Adventist Review, March 5, 1981, p 3.)

Of course he was using the term “catholic” in the sense of universal, to say that the organized SDA Church is also a “Universal Church.” As a Freemason, however, he was really speaking the truth in occult mockery of Adventists, because the SDA Church organization really is just a little Catholic Church in disguise—or at least it was quickly on the way to becoming such at that time, if it wasn’t already.

Naturally, we should wonder what the SDA Church was doing during the synod, and especially on the third trumpet date. It so happens that hidden in the glare of the Mother Church’s big synod, the SDA World Church was having a little synod of its own:

Oct. 9-15

Annual Council of the Seventh-day Adventist Church
Key Discussion: Theology of Ordination

Did you catch the numerology dance Ted Wilson and Pope Francis are playing!? 915 is the reverse of 519. Both numbers reduce the same way:

$$9+5+1 = 15 \rightarrow 1+5 = 6$$

That means between the two events we have 6 and 6, or 66. Now search your Bible for the numbers sixty and six! (I’ll come back to that later.)

The mathematical symmetry in the numbers means that both meetings have the same middle date. Thus the third trumpet points to the very middle of the Adventist council, just as it did the Catholic synod! If God had pointed to the beginning of the Vatican synod, the SDA Church would have been excused. If He had pointed to the beginning of the Adventist Annual Council, the Catholic Church would have been excused. By pointing to the center, He put His finger on both, clearly pointing to the fact that they are centered on the same object, and marching to the same beat, just like we pointed out in the Mission to the Cities article. God points to the middle of the meetings with the third trumpet to identify both culprits.

519 and 915 reduce to 6 and 6, and the center date of 12 contributes another 6 and 6. No doubt the Freemasons et al., who are running the show, chose all those dates very carefully. Four 6’s is again the number of Satan’s hosts (6666). The clear message here is that those who drink the poisoned waters from either the Catholic or SDA Churches constitute the rank and file of Satan’s armies! In other words, the number 6666 is a short way of saying the following: “The fallen star of the third trumpet (Oct. 12) is at the center of the Catholic synod (Oct. 5-19) and the Adventist Annual Council (Oct. 9-15).” Let’s format it visually so you can see how Lucifer is positioning himself at the top of the “congregation,”^[11] and his hosts are supporting him from the bottom:

Do you see how when you put your trust in the organization, and not in Christ, you are slowly duped? Almost imperceptibly, the members of the Adventist church gradually became enslaved like the Hebrews of old in Egypt. Silently, by one little compromise after another, the church at large defected to the enemy’s ranks and ended up under his power.^[12]

The key topics discussed at the Annual Council were even similar issues to what the Vatican was discussing: women’s ordination, homosexuality, gender-inclusive language for better evangelism, etc. In fact, their doctrinal waters were poisoned by two specific decisions that were made:

1. First of all, they decided to send the women’s ordination issue to the 2015 GC session, just like how the Family Synod results will go on to the 2015 Ordinary Synod, which will end on October 25 (!), 2015. Like the annual council is marked by the third trumpet, the 2015 GC Session is also marked by God (by the sixth trumpet).
2. Secondly, the Annual Council recommended changes to its 28 Fundamental Beliefs, which are to be voted at the 2015 GC Session. The main purpose of the changes is to use gender-inclusive language. However, there was also one other “little” change slipped in besides the gender-inclusive language. Instead of anticipating Jesus’ imminent return, the church’s official statement of faith will now say that they expect Jesus to come “soon” and no longer imminently. Can you believe that for 168 years they held the belief that Jesus was coming imminently, and just when He is actually coming, the Advent-ist church reverts to soon!?! They even contradict themselves by justifying the change as more accurately reflecting the biblical language, when the same argument goes completely contrary to the effort to use gender-inclusive language in the rest of the document, where in at least one case they even dropped the biblical language to do so!

Apparently we do have two Catholic Churches now. The first day of the third trumpet highlights both of these Churches by pointing out how they are following parallel paths under the guidance of the same fallen star. These Churches are the two main culprits in the third trumpet drama, and you can be sure that neither of them is the “pure woman” depicted in Revelation 12—not any more, anyway.

The Fallen Luminary

A great star—Lucifer—fell from heaven, and he is leading both Churches now, but if we want to name the “star” that fell on the exact date of the third trumpet, on October 12, we cannot name Lucifer for the reason I already mentioned: he fell long, long ago. Could we name the Catholic Church? No, because it also fell long ago. The only angelic “star” or messenger that we can say fell on the actual date of the third trumpet is the SDA Church.

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars: And she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered [of the 144,000]. (Revelation 12:1-2)

Brother John interpreted the symbolism of the pure woman of Revelation 12 in the End of the SDA Church article. Remember, the woman symbolizes the church across many generations. The moon under her feet symbolizes the Jewish era, dimly reflecting the light of the coming Christ in shadowy symbols upon which the church stood. The sun symbolizes the Christian era, when the Sun of Righteousness shined out to the world through the church. The crown symbolizes the Seventh-day Adventist people—the judgment people—who were made a nation of kings and priests to minister in the Day of Judgment. Finally, the stars in the crown of the woman represent “they that be wise” who in this last generation would “turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever.”^[13]

Each symbol represents an era, and where each new era began, the people of the old era fell. Judaism stumbles at the Rock of Ages. Christianity as a whole mocks at the Investigative Judgment. Adventism rejected the light of the stars of heaven. Each people preferred their traditions more than the truth for their time. Just as a Jew of the Christian era who did not accept Christ is excluded from the picture of the woman, so is a Christian who does not recognize that the hour of judgment began. At every change in the symbolism, a door is shut. After Christ came, for example, salvation was no longer possible through Judaism, but through Jesus.

And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. (John 3:19)

Similarly, a door was shut for the nominal Christians in 1844, because the Day of Judgment had begun and the Way of salvation (Jesus) moved into the Most Holy Place to do the special work of sanctifying man to prepare him to dwell in the presence of God.

The same logical conclusion applies to Seventh-day Adventists. A Seventh-day Adventist who does not accept Jesus in the stars of Orion is thereby excluded from the body of the woman of Revelation 12. John 3:19 (above) applies again.

The SDA Church started out as a pure church represented by the pure woman, but by casting her eyes longingly upon the world, her character became changed into that which she beheld. This trumpet makes it clear that the organized SDA Church has finally and completely united with Babylon. If you will, the second Babylon has fallen right along with the first, just as the Bible has always said:

And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. (Revelation 18:2)

We could even make an accurate comparison of the statue of Nebuchadnezzar’s dream to the SDA Church, and you would be surprised at how closely their histories parallel. The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary even explains the repetition “is fallen, is fallen” as including the fall of Protestantism, and as having its complete fulfillment in the union of churches under the leadership of Satan. That process was not complete until the last truly “protesting” church (the SDA Church) fell too.

[Revelation 14:8] Is fallen, is fallen. Textual evidence may be cited (cf. p. 10) for the omission of the second “is fallen.” The passage seems to echo Isa. 21:9, where in the LXX textual evidence is divided between reading “is fallen” once or twice. The Hebrew repeats the term. Repetition lends emphasis to the message. Babylon is a comprehensive term that John employs to describe all religious bodies and movements that have fallen away from the truth. This fact requires us to view this “fall” as progressive and cumulative.

This prophecy of the fall of Babylon finds its last-day fulfillment in the departure of Protestantism at large from the purity and simplicity of the gospel (see on Rev. 14:4). This message was first preached by the advent movement known as Millerism, in the summer of 1844, and was applied to the churches that rejected the first angel’s message concerning the judgment (see on v. 7). The message will have increasing relevance as the end draws near, and will meet its complete fulfillment with the union of the various religious elements under the leadership of Satan (see on chs. 13:12–14; 17:12–14). The message of ch. 18:2–4 announces the complete downfall of Babylon and calls upon God’s people who are scattered throughout the various religious bodies comprising Babylon, to separate from them.^[14]

I do not want to write these things. It pains me deeply, but I write it for you personally to know what mistakes not to make. The Orion Clock delineates four phases of the church, and shows the standard of Christ’s character with respect to the issues that beset the church during those times. In retrospect, we can see that instead of developing a character made “in the image of God,”^[15] the church ultimately developed a character which corresponds to the image of Nebuchadnezzar’s dream:

Image		Character of Ancient Kingdoms		Character of the Seventh-day Adventist Church
Head	Gold	Babylon	...the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory. (Daniel 2:37)	1st Seal	1846 – 1914	The era of God-given leadership through the ministry of Ellen G. White and the Adventist pioneers.
Arms	Silver	Medo-Persia	...Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians. (Daniel 5:28)	2nd Seal	1914 – 1945	The inferior era of division, illustrated by the splitting of the church, resulting in the SDA Reform Movement.
Thighs	Brass	Greece	...the Greeks seek after wisdom: But we preach Christ crucified...unto the Greeks foolishness; (1 Corinthians 1:22–23)	3rd Seal	1936 – 1986	The era of philosophy, during which the SDA Church’s textbooks and theology were changed and study methods like “higher criticism” were introduced.
Legs	Iron	Rome	...strong as iron: forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things: and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise. (Daniel 2:40)	4th Seal	1986 – 2016	The era of domination with an iron hand, demonstrated in part by how the SDA Church began to leverage the power of the state in numerous lawsuits against small churches for trademark infringement.

The message of Orion was a call from God to the SDA Church to repent, by showing her where she deviated from His character. Here at the conclusion of her life, we see that instead of having conformed to the image of Jesus, she has patterned herself after an altogether different image.

Yes, the statue which Nebuchadnezzar built was 60 cubits tall and 6 cubits wide—there are the 6 and 6. The image only has two 6’s because it has a double application in the double proclamation: “is fallen, is fallen!” Two 6’s are for the Catholic Church, and two 6’s are for the organized SDA Church. With one finger, God points to both Churches as having one and the same character, and one and the same leader.

Ellen White warned of this in an 1893 letter, wherein she said:

I would caution all believers to learn to maintain a godly jealousy over yourselves, lest Satan shall steal your heart away from God, and you slip unconsciously into work in Satan's lines, without perceiving that you have changed leaders, and be found in the treacherous power of a tyrant. {1MR 357.2}^[16]

That caution went unheeded, and the ramifications have fully come. Those who know something of the richness of the Seventh-day Adventist faith will know what a tragedy this is!

Thus the message of the third angel will be proclaimed. As the time comes for it to be given with greatest power, the Lord will work through humble instruments, leading the minds of those who consecrate themselves to His service. The laborers will be qualified rather by the unction of His Spirit than by the training of literary institutions. Men of faith and prayer will be constrained to go forth with holy zeal, declaring the words which God gives them. The sins of Babylon will be laid open. The fearful results of enforcing the observances of the church by civil authority, the inroads of spiritualism, the stealthy but rapid progress of the papal power—all will be unmasked. By these solemn warnings the people will be stirred. Thousands upon thousands will listen who have never heard words like these. In amazement they hear the testimony that Babylon is the church, fallen because of her errors and sins, because of her rejection of the truth sent to her from heaven. As the people go to their former teachers with the eager inquiry, Are these things so? the ministers present fables, prophesy smooth things, to soothe their fears and quiet the awakened conscience. But since many refuse to be satisfied with the mere authority of men and demand a plain "Thus saith the Lord," the popular ministry, like the Pharisees of old, filled with anger as their authority is questioned, will denounce the message as of Satan and stir up the sin-loving multitudes to revile and persecute those who proclaim it. {GC 606.2}^[17]

Notice carefully the reason why Babylon is the church: it is because of her rejection of the truth sent to her from heaven. In other words, she fell because she rejected the Orion message, which God sent to rebuke her sin and bring her back to the right path.

As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent. (Revelation 3:19)

Babylon Is Fallen! - Part II

Written by Robert Dickinson

Part I might have been a bit shocking, but I trust that you have gotten over the shock to some degree if you are with me for this follow-up. Maybe subjects like this would not be so hard to swallow if we really knew and understood the history of the Advent movement. After the Great Disappointment of 1844 when the sanctuary doctrine was being developed, our pioneers recognized a definite “shut door” against the Protestant churches of that day.

The shut door had two sides: on the one hand, the spiritual Door to salvation had moved. Jesus (the open door) was no longer in the Holy Place of the heavenly sanctuary, but had moved to the Most Holy Place. The sanctuary doctrine brought a whole new understanding of Jesus’ work in heaven, which necessitated a different approach to faith here on earth.

On the other hand, the Protestant churches closed their doors^[1] to the Midnight Cry^[2] of the Millerite movement. Thus the churches ceased to carry present truth, and from that time forward, present truth was carried by the Advent movement. This did not mean that individuals in the other churches could not be saved, but that they had to look outside their churches to find the Way of salvation. We must follow the Lamb by faith whithersoever He goeth.^[3]

The truth was not a static knowledge. It was progressing forward in the light of the sanctuary doctrine, which was connected with the discovery of the true Saturday Sabbath of the Lord as written in His law. Ellen White commented on this experience as follows:

The Open and the Shut Door

Sabbath, March 24, 1849, we had a sweet and very interesting meeting with the brethren at Topsham, Maine. The Holy Ghost was poured out upon us, and I was taken off in the Spirit to the city of the living God. Then I was shown that the commandments of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ relating to the shut door could not be separated, and that the time for the commandments of God to shine out with all their importance, and for God’s people to be tried on the Sabbath truth, was when the door was opened in the most holy place in the heavenly sanctuary, where the ark is, in which are contained the ten commandments. This door was not opened until the mediation of Jesus was finished in the holy place of the sanctuary in 1844. Then Jesus rose up and shut the door of the holy place, and opened the door into the most holy, and passed within the second veil, where He now stands by the ark, and where the faith of Israel now reaches.

I saw that Jesus had shut the door of the holy place, and no man can open it; and that He had opened the door into the most holy, and no man can shut it (Revelation 3:7, 8); and that since Jesus has opened the door into the most holy place, which contains the ark, the commandments have been shining out to God’s people, and they are being tested on the Sabbath question. {EW 42.1-2}^[4]

From that time forward, sincere Seventh-day Adventists were looking to the heavenly sanctuary in expectation of the completion of Christ’s work in the Most Holy Place. The early years were years of diligent study as the pioneers of the SDA Church laid the foundations of their faith. The light that was shining brighter and brighter from the open door in heaven almost broke forth with all of its heavenly splendor in 1888 at the Minneapolis General Conference Session. It is essential that you know that story.^[5] Tragically, the light was put out. God had offered them an open door to heaven at that time, but they didn’t take the opportunity. Afterward, they regretted it—just like how the children of Israel “repented” and decided to enter Canaan immediately instead of waiting the 40 years. Their repentance was not sincere enough in either case, however, as can be seen through the fact that they continued acting independently of God by trying to avoid the inevitable consequences (the wilderness wandering). The opportunity had passed, and would not return to that generation.

Since the Orion message was published in 2010, the opportunity has returned in its fullness. The true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man,^[6] was revealed in the heavens. It was time for God's people to look up, and lift up their heads.^[7] For five years the Orion message was the open door for the SDA Church.

In the grand scheme of things, 1888 was two and a half Jubilee cycles ago. The Jubilee year is the 50th year of the 49-year cycle that God instituted for the children of Israel to commence on their entrance to Canaan. In fact, the periodic seventh sabbatical year began in 1889, and God wanted to take His people home in 1890—which began the 70th Jubilee year since the children of Israel entered ancient Canaan. We can count how many sabbatical years there were from 1889 until the present as follows:

$$2015 - 1889 = 126 \text{ years}$$

$$126 \text{ years} \div 7 \text{ years/cycle} = 18 \text{ cycles}$$

The result comes to an exact number because the sabbatical year starts this very 2015, in the autumn. As the plagues come, the land will finally begin to have its rest from the heavy burden that modern greed has been taxing it with.

We quickly recognized that the organized SDA Church had missed its last opportunity to repent, as the events of the end of November indicate (covered in Part I). That led us to begin directing our articles to all Christians, and not especially Adventists. Divine Providence ensured that we published the Last Call on December 17, 2014. That was the anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the second temple, as recorded in the book of the prophet Haggai, who had a special two-part message from God on that day. The first possibility for Hanukkah, the Feast of Lights, began the following day on December 18. Indeed, the Movement of the Fourth Angel has been having a feast of light—which has continued beyond Hanukkah—and this article series brings more of that feast to you.

Can you see why this present Festival of Light began on the 18th day after the door closed for the SDA Church? From the time that the SDA Church rejected Christ in Minneapolis till the great light of the Fourth Angel fully opened the door of opportunity again was 18 cycles. Similarly, we have 18 days from the closing of the door for the SDA Church on November 30, 2014 until the Feast of Lights blazed from the open door again for those of the world who should believe. By this relationship, God emphasizes that this light is in fact the completion of the message of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18.

The children of Israel had to wander in the wilderness until the unbelieving generation had died. God would not bring the unbelievers into the land of Canaan. A similar thing is happening now. Those who have cherished the same spirit of unbelief today that the leaders in the Minneapolis General Conference had are not going to be beneficiaries of the promise. Where there is repentance, yes, but one must seek the open door where it is to be found.

As the Protestant churches of the 1844 era closed their doors to the Millerite message, so the SDA Church has closed its doors to the Orion message. They have refused to baptize those who believe the Orion message, they have dropped the membership of Orion believers, and they censor the message wherever it appears. In other words, a person must go outside the church to find the present truth for today! That is the de facto reality of the church's fall. But praise be to God that the spiritual "open door" has moved again so that all who wish to enter, may do so.

There are many “doors” of probation that have opened and closed for different peoples throughout history, and they are all examples for the one great door that the Bible speaks of, which will affect every person alive. All of the smaller doors that have closed serve as a warning for that one great door. That is the final close of probation for the world, before the plagues fall and Jesus returns. Speaking to the church of Philadelphia (which represents God’s faithful at the end of time), Jesus said:

I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name. (Revelation 3:8)

If we belong to the church of Philadelphia, then we should be able to see this open door and enter therein. Remember what was said in the opening quote about the open and shut door, that this teaching could not be separated from the commandments of God. The open door is mentioned two other times in the book of Revelation, each time in connection with the Ark of the Covenant. The first time is in the description of the seventh trumpet:

And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament... (Revelation 11:19)

We already know that the seventh trumpet will sound at the close of probation, and the temple will be opened in heaven at that time. The second reference to the open door is as follows:

And after that [description of the 144,000 standing on the sea of glass, symbolizing the close of probation] I looked, and, behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened: And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles. (Revelation 15:5-6)

This verse speaks of the same moment as the other verse: it is the close of probation at sunset on October 17, 2015, when Jesus (as the anti-typical High Priest) will finish the atonement in the Most Holy Place. However, we are still in the time of probation—short though it is! Those things were written for us to understand before probation ends. That is why the Adventist pioneers could see by faith into the Most Holy Place; these verses guided them in their understanding of the Law of God.

The same is true for us today, so I invite you to continue with me on a fascinating and pertinent exploration of this subject.

Ichabod

It wasn’t long after discovering the date of Creation that we tried to piece together the entire timeline of the history of the world, as recorded in the Bible. It was not easy, but the Clock of God in Orion helped us at the key points (as you can read about in the Seven Steps to Eternity article). As we traced sacred history forward through the book of Judges, and traced sacred history backward through the books of Kings, after much effort the timeline almost came together with one last mismatch of a single year.

Interestingly, the book of Judges doesn’t speak about the number of years of Samuel, despite how important he was. On the other hand, the books of Kings don’t speak about the number of years of Saul, despite how important he was. The link between the timeline of the judges and that of the kings hinges on one thing: the Ark of the Covenant.

Eli was the last judge whose reign is recorded. He died as a result of hearing the terrible news of the great tragedy that the ark had been taken by the Philistines. The children of Israel believed that with the ark accompanying them in battle, they could not suffer defeat. This attitude is reflected today in the SDA Church, which believes that as commandment-keeping (especially Sabbath-keeping) people, they cannot fail. Thus, the news that the ark had been taken by the Philistines struck Eli with a force that literally knocked him off his seat, and he died:

And it came to pass, when he [the messenger returning from battle] made mention of the ark of God, that he [Eli] fell from off the seat backward by the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died: for he was an old man, and heavy. And he had judged Israel forty years. (1 Samuel 4:18)

This news of the unthinkable also struck his pregnant and just-widowed daughter-in-law with an equally lethal blow:

And about the time of her death the women that stood by her said unto her, Fear not; for thou hast born a son. But she answered not, neither did she regard it. And she named the child Ichabod, saying, The glory is departed from Israel: because the ark of God was taken, and because of her father in law and her husband. (1 Samuel 4:20-21)

This tragic story is happening again for Seventh-day Adventists today. First, the court symbolically relocated away from the organized Church. Now, the ark of God, the depository of His law and the seat of His glory, has figuratively gone to the non-Adventist peoples (represented by the Philistines). Notice what Ellen White had to say:

In the days of Samuel, Israel thought that the presence of the ark containing the commandments of God would insure them the victory over the Philistines, whether or not they repented of their wicked works. Just so, in Jeremiah's time, the Jews believed that a strict observance of the divinely appointed services of the temple would preserve them from a just punishment of their sinful course.

The same danger exists today among the people who profess to be the depository of God's law. They are too apt to flatter themselves that the regard in which they hold the commandments will preserve them from the power of divine justice. They refuse to be reprov'd for evil, and charge the servants of God with being too zealous in putting sin out of the camp. A sin-hating God calls upon those who profess to keep his law to depart from all iniquity. Neglect to repent and to obey his word will bring as serious consequences upon God's servants today as did the same sin upon ancient Israel. There is a limit beyond which he will no longer delay his judgments. The desolation of Jerusalem [we will come back to that] stands as a warning before the eyes of modern Israel, that the corrections given through his chosen instruments cannot be disregarded with impunity. {RH June 30, 1885, par. 6-7}

The same serious consequences that came upon ancient Israel for this same sin are happening today to spiritual Israel, the SDA Church.

Adventures of the Lost Ark

It is a key principle in biblical chronology that the timelines were recorded to convey a message, and not merely to record the dates of historical events (although they are historically accurate). The timelines were given to trace the work of God from Eden via the Messiah to Eden Restored. Only a minimum of dates are given to make the connection from the first Adam to the second Adam, Jesus Christ, and from there to the "third Adams," the 144,000.

Not all time periods given in the Bible carry the same weight. For example, it is the timeline of the kings of Judah, and not the kings of Israel, that matters more, because it was from the tribe of Judah that the Savior was to come. This weighing based on importance is why neither the length of Samuel's ministry nor the length of Saul's reign were recorded in the Old Testament. The most important element of the story in the times of Samuel and Saul was neither Samuel nor Saul, but rather the movement of the Ark of the Covenant.

The Philistines were plagued because of the ark. They moved it to several different cities until their cry reached to heaven:

*And the men that died not were smitten with the emerods: and the cry of the city went up to heaven. And the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months. (1 Samuel 5:12-6:1)

In the above verse, we are told just how long the ark was with the Philistines. Under divine guidance, we published our article Last Call on December 17, 2014. That article strongly hinted that the door had closed for Adventists. The “Ichabod” moment had come for Adventism, and it was time for the ark of God to be taken from their country, figuratively. On December 18, the ark, which we can see by faith, began its figurative seven-month adventure in the land of the nominal “Philistine” Christians, and that leg of its journey will be complete on July 17, 2015, seven months later.

The ark caused so much trouble to the Philistines that they sent it back to Israel with a trespass offering. Remembering what great acts God had done for the children of Israel in bringing them out of Egypt, and remembering the fate of Pharaoh, the Philistines fearfully let the ark return to the Israelites.

Inside the ark was the Law of God. The majority of Christians do not hold the law in as high regard as they should. The fourth commandment is especially overlooked, and Sunday is regarded instead of the seventh-day Sabbath that God set apart for worship. For that reason, the nominal Christian feels plagued when the ark—or shall we say the Law of God—is in his presence.

The ark stayed in one place for 20 years, which was a long and sad time for the children of Israel. The Bible says:

*And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjathjearim, that the time was long; for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel lamented after the LORD. (1 Samuel 7:2)

Faithful Adventists have also come through a long and sad time. Many have wondered why Jesus has not come yet. It has been a time of watching apostasy grow and precious Adventist truths getting trampled in the dust. Such ones have also “lamented after the LORD,” for “the time was long.” They have yearned for His law to be in their presence again, written on tables of flesh,^[8] as it were.

David was a man after God’s own heart.^[9] His thoughts were on God, and he was quick to bring back the Ark of the Covenant.

*And David arose, and went with all the people that were with him from Baale of Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, whose name is called by the name of the LORD of hosts that dwelleth between the cherubims. (2 Samuel 6:2)

Do you desire to see God’s presence in your life? Would you like to bring the ark to your home by faith? Be glad! The root and offspring of David is restoring the Law of God to spiritual Israel today! If we would catch a glimpse of it, we must look to the heavenly sanctuary where the Lord of hosts dwells between the cherubim. We must look with spiritual eyesight, to see the Law of God as the standard of judgment in the heavenly court.

Proper care and reverence must be taken, for when Uzzah touched the ark, he was struck dead. David called the place Perezuzzah, which literally means “break of strength.” That was the reason the ark dwelt briefly in the house of Obededom:

And the ark of the LORD continued in the house of Obededom the Gittite three months: and the LORD blessed Obededom, and all his household. (2 Samuel 6:11)

From Sabbath, July 18, 2015, we can expect three months of mixed blessing because of the presence of the Law of God among His people. On the one hand, it will begin with fear and trembling, as it did with Uzzah’s death, but on the other hand it will be a great blessing in the sense that the cause of God should greatly increase. It will be a time of mourning for the martyrs who must die, but it will end in victory.

When David saw that the Lord blessed the house of Obededom, he was glad and decided to bring the ark to the City of David, careful to obey God’s instructions for the handling of the sacred object. He brought the ark into the city with joy and song, and he was wearing a linen ephod (the clothing of the priests). On that day, David gave the people portions of bread and wine.

Joyfully bringing the ark into the City of David corresponds to the last High Sabbath of 2015. The three months would conclude on October 17, 2015, at the close of probation. Every soul will have chosen his side in the great conflict between good and evil, and Jesus will stop his work of intercession in the heavenly sanctuary. Then the great carillon of the Clock of God will ring out in celebration, because the subjects of Christ’s kingdom will have been made up. This is when the last 372 rations of the Holy Spirit will be given as the “bread and wine” to sustain the 144,000 through the time of plagues. Jesus will lay aside His priestly attire and put on His kingly robes like David did.

The movement of the Ark of the Covenant is the link between the history of Israel’s judges and that of its kings. So in our time, the ten months of the ark’s movement represents the transition from the “judgment people” (Laodicea) to the era of kings and priests (the 144,000).

The Law of God

Inside the ark was the Law of God. The ark was designed as a container in which to place the Ten Commandments. That is why it is called the ark of the covenant or testament. The ark was made as a beautiful piece of furniture not for its own sake, but because of its sacred contents.

The ark in the tabernacle on earth contained the two tables of stone, upon which were inscribed the precepts of the Law of God. The ark was merely a receptacle for the tables of the law, and the presence of these divine precepts gave to it its value and sacredness. {GC 433.2}^[10]

Therefore, when we see the Ark of the Covenant in heaven and study its figurative movements on earth, we must remember that the Ten Commandments are the focal point of the subject.

A covenant or testament is a legal (law) document that defines the terms of an agreement between parties. When God gave Moses the Ten Commandments on Mt. Sinai, it was a legal covenant that was valid and binding in the Universal Supreme Court of Heaven. We know that both parties received a copy of the covenant, because Moses constructed the wilderness tabernacle according to the pattern of the heavenly courtroom, and the heavenly courtroom also contains an ark with the covenant as John the Revelator saw in vision.

It was the legal force of the covenant that gave the ark power in the hands of the children of Israel. The covenant was God's promise to bring them into the land of Canaan, so when they carried it into battle, they were claiming their legal right to the land and appealing to the Court of Heaven to sustain their claim. This is what made the conquest of Canaan something other than a barbaric seizure of someone else's property. They were given lease to the land by the Title Holder, who was evicting the former tenants for their crimes.

That is the example or pattern for what is happening on a universal scale. God's covenant with Israel was only a pattern of a greater covenant with the heirs of salvation. Satan and his evil angels are the Canaanite "giants" of the heavenly realms who were evicted, and God has covenanted with us to bring us into the heavenly Canaan in their stead.

For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day [the year of plagues], and having done all, to stand. (Ephesians 6:12-13)

In the book of Hebrews, the apostle Paul describes the covenant in terms of a last will.^[11] In essence, Paul says that Jesus, the Heir of the universe, bequeathed His inheritance to us through His "last will." A last will does not go into effect until the person dies, which is why Jesus' death for our sins made it possible for us to receive heaven as an inheritance.

However, the covenant granted the children of Israel a claim to the land of Canaan only upon certain conditions, namely, the Ten Commandments. They had obligations under the covenant:

And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people: and they said, All that the LORD hath said will we do, and be obedient. (Exodus 24:7)

It would be crazy to think that a landlord would evict tenants for being criminals only to bring in new tenants who are also criminals. It is equally crazy to think that God would expel Satan and his angels for their rebellion against His law only to bring into heaven, to replace them, a bunch of rebellious human beings who also disregard His law. The covenant has conditions to be met as well as promises to be delivered, and those conditions are simply the Ten Commandments.

Newly Transcribed

The notable travels of the ark—when its power was manifested both in cursing and blessing—happened in two periods, first for seven months then for three months. Doesn't it strike you that the time of its adventures totaled ten months? In other words, just as the Ten Commandments were contained within the ark, so within the ark's travel, ten months are filled with potency—one month for each commandment.

Let us peer through the telescope of faith into the heavenly courtroom to watch the judgment proceedings. The judgment of the living is in progress, and probation has just closed for the SDA Church as of November 30, 2014. Moments later, on December 18, the conditions of the covenant are brought forth before the court to determine whether she is worthy to receive an interest in heaven. As month after rapid month passes on earth, the question in the heavenly court is: Has she met the conditions of the contract?

This is not merely a trial of the corporate church, but of each one of us who claims to be a Christian. Do you claim to be under the new covenant (or New Testament) of Jesus Christ? Then you ought to look at the testament in the heavenly courtroom, and strive to meet the conditions required to inherit an interest in the Kingdom of God.

The reason that a copy of a contract is given to every party is to guard against fraud. If the contract is altered in any way, the other party can compare the altered version to his own copy and dispute the fraudulent changes. The safety deposit boxes of the vaults of heaven contain the great original, and they guard against any tampering of the contract. The Ten Commandments which were given to Moses were a copy of that great original to which every man is compared.

For every truth, Satan has a counterfeit. He has tampered with the Law of God by replacing the Saturday Sabbath of the Lord with Sunday, among other things. He has altered the contract, and wants you to believe that his version is as valid as any. Will his substitution pass as valid in the heavenly court? Certainly not!

The fourth commandment is the most attacked, and thus it is the topic of greatest import in the judgment, both on earth and in heaven. Are you ready to be judged on this issue? Are you ready to be judged on all of the others?

God's law does not require of us more than we can comply with. With Jesus as our advocate—our defense attorney—we have the privilege of the best help possible. He died for the sins of the world,^[12] and when we confess our sins, He accounts them with the burden that wrung out His life.^[13] Jesus is a just attorney, and He can only speak on our behalf insofar as we express our desires to Him. Until we confess our sins and ask Him to clear us of them, He cannot be of service to us. But when we confess and ask for pardon, He can proceed to account our sins as nailed to the cross.

The next part of the process is to cleanse us so that we remain free and clear. It would do no good to acquit us of our past sins if we are not also given a heart of obedience to avoid future sins. For this, we must know the Law of God intuitively. We must study it and make it a part of us.

This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them; And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more. (Hebrews 10:16-17)

Thus, as we study the events that are unfolding in the world during these last ten months of probation, our prayer as individuals should be, "Lord, put Your Law into my heart and write it in my mind." He already promised to do it, so we can thank Him for helping us as we sing with David:

With my whole heart have I sought thee: O let me not wander from thy commandments. Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee. (Psalm 119:10-11)

We will take a closer look at the Law shortly, but first...

The Fourth Trumpet

Now we come to the fourth trumpet, which began to sound on January 1, 2015. The fourth trumpet is connected to the third, and a continuation of it. In the third trumpet, we saw the great star that fell from heaven which is ultimately a reference to Lucifer, the great red dragon of Revelation 12 which was cast out of heaven. Now in the fourth trumpet, we see more symbolism of Revelation 12:

And the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise. (Revelation 8:12)

The picture of the sun, moon, and stars in the fourth trumpet is a clear reference to the woman in Chapter 12:

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars: And she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered. (Revelation 12:1-2)

We saw very clearly in the third trumpet that Satan, Lucifer, the fallen star, the great red dragon, is now leading the SDA Church organization as well as the pope and all of the other churches whose leaders have signed agreements with him. The pure woman, on the other hand, represents the faithful people of God as individual members of the body of Christ, but as a movement and not as a church organization. Sadly, members who would be faithful are being led astray by the satanic organizations. The fourth trumpet represents this development by the darkening of the woman, which parallels the red dragon's tail casting down (or smiting) a third of the stars:

And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads. And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born. (Revelation 12:3-4)

The fact that the dragon casts down a third of only the stars, and not of the sun or moon, is significant. Remember that the symbols that make up the woman show God's people in progressive eras of time. The moon, sun, crown, and stars represent Judaism, Christianity, Adventism, and the 144,000, respectively (see The End of the SDA Church). The casting down of the stars shows that this scene relates especially to the generation of the 144,000, who belong to the era represented by the stars. In other words, this prophecy has never applied more than it does today in this generation where the stars of Orion are shining.

Furthermore, the symbolism in the fourth trumpet shows the whole woman (sun, moon, and stars) darkened, because the darkening applies to the whole church that is in existence at the time the trumpet sounds. Let's take a look at what this darkening of all God-fearing churches looks like in reality.

The Darkening of the Sun, Moon, and Stars

For an index into the spiritual state of the SDA Church for the fourth trumpet, we don't need to look any further than at what the Adventist Review published on the first day of the trumpet, New Year's Day. A headline on January 1, 2015 reads:

Concern, Compassion, and Hope for Ex-Adventist Pastor Who Left God

News commentary: May God surround Ryan Bell and each of us with servants of the Lord who will not be quarrelsome but be kind and able to teach.

For a headline like this to usher in the fourth trumpet, there is no doubt that the church is being darkened! Think about how deep this is. This is not just about a church member; it is about a pastor! It is not just about leaving the church, but about leaving God! It is not just about some church, but the Adventist Church! What an indictment!

Almost more stunning than the headline is the subheading, where "each of us" is placed right next to Ryan Bell as having the same need of teachers (and repentance as the article itself says). Thus saying, the author even includes himself. I wonder just how many Adventists are on the verge of losing all faith in God like Ryan Bell. Could it really be "the third part" like the Bible text says?

The by-line tells us just who is exposing the church's condition in this article:

By Don Mackintosh, spiritual counselor, Nedley Depression Program; director, NEWSTART Global, Weimar College

This picture is being painted by a man who is in the know. He is in a position to see what is going on in the church, and should be qualified to assess these matters.

It is remarkable that just when the door of mercy for the SDA Church has closed and the light of the Fourth Angel is being withdrawn from it, Don Mackintosh comes out and says that the whole church—each of "us"—is in need of two things:

1. Repentance, and
2. Teachers.

Those are the two things that Jesus was trying to give them for the past five years through the Orion Message! Interestingly, he carefully omits the rest of the church when he says that Ryan also needs one other thing:

3. An experience so he may see God for who He really is.

Of course everyone should see God for who He really is, so by not saying that the rest of the church has that need, he is implying that in general they already have seen God for who He is. Indeed, they were shown Orion, which shows Him as He is, but Don Mackintosh admits that after having seen God for who He is, they still lack repentance and are untaught.

The words of the Lord went unheeded, and now darkness is the result:

*Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light. But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness! (Matthew 6:19-23)

The SDA Church was the light of the world—so what kind of darkness is this!?

Indeed, the story of Ryan Bell has been making waves in the whole world, not just in the Adventist church. He was promptly interviewed by NPR, the BBC, CNN, and has been discussed in the various circles of Christian denominations and atheists alike. He is being discussed by people who have no special interest in the SDA Church, for reasons that have nothing to do with Adventism.

Ryan Bell has not just turned his back on Adventism; he has turned his back on God. That is why his story is especially relevant to the rest of the world. They are not interested in his story because an Adventist pastor lost his faith in Adventism, but because a pastor in general has lost his faith in God. That is an issue that is relevant across the board to Christians and non-Christians alike.

The recent NPR article alone garnered thousands of comments. The top comment says:

Famous atheists say they are contacted frequently by priests, pastors, rabbis, etc who have discovered ... that they are atheists...

I would not ascribe much truth to such a comment itself, but the fact that this is the top comment sends a strong message. The message to anyone who reads about Ryan Bell is that people of all religions that profess belief in God are losing their faith that He exists. Even if such a claim is not true, it does still cast a dark shadow upon the people, and will lead many who already doubt in God to express themselves, which in turn will lead many more to doubt in God.

Instead of this darkness, a loud voice saying “fear God”^[14] should be sounding everywhere!

Suicide Bomber

It was the duty of the SDA Church to spread the three angels’ warning messages^[15] to the world. This church was supposed to be a light to the world. In other words, it was to be a light-bearer, like Lucifer, receiving the light of God from the heavenly sanctuary and distributing it to the world.

In the third trumpet, we saw that the organized SDA Church came fully under the control of that Lucifer whose place it should have taken. In so doing, the church fell from its exalted position as the bearer of God’s light to the world, and became a “fallen star.” The church’s own prophet said in this context that “when an angel falls he becomes a fiend.”^[16]

It is no secret that Satan’s agents have infiltrated the church,^[17] and it would be no stretch of the imagination to think that Ryan Bell is just one of them. I highly doubt that he is merely a normal person living out his convictions (or lack thereof). More likely, he was planted as a “suicide bomber” of sorts, aimed at destroying the church.

The Year Without God film trailer opens by dropping the following bomb:

I stepped down from my position as a pastor under pressure from my denomination because we were doing all sorts of non-Adventist things such as inviting gays and lesbians into leadership in our church...

This is exactly the kind of thing that I wrote about in the Checkmate article, which could threaten the Church’s non-profit status as a 501(c)(3) corporation and land it in a debt of billions. The Year Without God film is a public testimony against the church for inequality in leadership.

Regardless, the greater factor in darkening the gospel is that Ryan Bell criticizes the central doctrines of Adventism. In their place, he embraces the ecumenical-friendly notion that instead of doctrines, all we need is “love.” For example, Deseret News reports him as saying:

...I want to be for something good, but I don't want boundaries, and religion just feels like a very bounded thing. The question I am asking right now: Why do I need religion to love?

He states his backwards thinking very clearly in the film trailer by saying:

The effort to make my theology fit real life became so overwhelming to me that it just didn't seem worth the effort.

It should be the other way around. Instead of making his theology conform to his life, a person should seek to make his life conform to his theology, as I explained in the article Preparing the Armour.

It's a Family Problem

Interestingly, we could have foreseen this fulfillment of the fourth trumpet a full year before this news (overlooking the fact that we didn't even know about the trumpet cycle at that time). This year-without-God experiment began as Ryan Bell's 2014 New Year's resolution.

With the amount of media attention it got in 2014, the issue could have easily gotten out of control even at that time. However, he was still "undecided" on God, so there was some room for a different outcome than we have today. God was still undecided on the Church too, hoping it would accept Him. The door of mercy hadn't fully closed yet. Ryan's year-long experiment is symbolic of the year of grace that God allowed the church.

Wouldn't it have been nice to hear the news reports announcing that after a year of atheism, Ryan Bell returned to God and to his church, humbled and reformed by the experience? Unfortunately, that didn't happen.

It is a common principle that the covert sins of parents manifest as overt sins in their children. Ryan Bell's rejection of God is a reflection of what has happened behind closed doors in the Church. The Church leadership's covert refusal of the warning from heaven is now manifesting in the overt rejection of God in their wayward "child," Ryan Bell. His decision now at the end of his year-long experiment with sin is heaping shame upon their heads.

He truly had them in a checkmate situation: either Pastor Ryan would disgrace them with his activities as a pastor, or else Atheist Ryan would disgrace them once they finally put their foot down to stop him from going any further. The Church simply didn't have the moral authority to deal with the situation.

This is common family drama that plays out in homes everywhere. The principles that are involved are the same whether we speak of a single family, or a global church. Is it any wonder that world synods are called together to discuss the collective crisis in the family unit?

Ryan Bell's defection is just one step in the satanic plan to defame the SDA Church in the public mind, so that it will be perceived as a fundamentalist cult with strange doctrines and beliefs. He specifically attacks the sanctuary doctrine, the notion of a Remnant Church and its teachings about the end times, just to name a few. Quietly, all of those doctrines are already being downplayed at the leadership level in the Church. What we have here is the classic case of little Ryan blaring out in public what Mommy and Daddy said behind closed doors.

Secular "Morality"

Whenever we talk about atheism, we can't help but remember where it took root. Wikipedia explains:

The French Revolution marked a turning point for the ascendancy of atheism to a preeminent position as a cognitive and cultural stance against papal supremacy and the Holy Roman Empire across Europe and throughout the world.^[18]

Note that atheism's supposed "preeminent position" was against God in general, and not only against papal supremacy and the Holy Roman Empire. Nevertheless, it did gain its ascendancy in France. As we look at the fourth trumpet and consider how atheism is darkening the entire theistic world, it should not be surprising that merely seven days into the fourth trumpet, France takes the world stage.

The terrorist attack on the Charlie Hebdo newspaper in Paris was instantly international news.^[19] Some reports cited this as an attack against French values, which ultimately boil down to Human Rights.^[20] The Universal Declaration of Human Rights, a legal document of the United Nations, traces its origin to the French Revolution. The symbolism used on the original Declaration of the Rights of Man and of the Citizen (photo) flaunts this law of man as a replacement for the Law of God; it is depicted in the shape of the Ten Commandments with the Luciferian all-seeing eye above it, and the ouroboros and other occult symbolism present. Thus, the attack in France during the fourth trumpet warns that the laws of man will soon be set up against God's law. For a sobering historical review of where this will lead, I advise you to read (or re-read) the chapter entitled The Bible and the French Revolution from the Great Controversy. Too many facets of France's dark history are repeating today.

The international response to the Charlie Hebdo attack was impressive. World leaders came to France to show their "solidarity" in fighting for their values. U.S. President Obama was noticeably absent, but that does not mean the U.S. was uninvolved. CNN reports:

Attorney General Eric Holder was also in Paris, attending a security summit on combating terrorism. He recorded interviews that appeared on several U.S. news outlets Sunday, but was not spotted at the unity march.^[21]

The Attorney General is the main legal advisor for the government. His presence in Paris means that the international response to terrorism has a primarily legal basis. This is a warning that the laws of nations (particularly the U.S.) will be especially involved in future responses to terrorism. At this time when the Ten Commandment Law of God is open to view in the heavenly sanctuary, and living men and women are being judged by it, secular governments are working to refine their own laws based on the godless and faux morality of secular humanism.

The truth is that human rights are trumped by the greater good as far as the world leaders see it. That means they will honor the human rights they promote only so far as it doesn't interfere with the U.N.'s greater purpose of achieving international peace and security.^[22] This goes along with the pope's recent comment that anyone who insults his mother can expect a punch.^[23] In other words, your rights are limited. It is easy to infer from his punch comment that he means anyone who insults his Mother Mary or his Mother Church can expect a surprising physical punishment in response. In the context of the Paris shooting, we would call that a terrorist attack against free speech, but he wants to adjust where the line is drawn between the good guys and the bad guys.

A “Fundamental” Shift

After the world leaders met in France, the press reported Pope Francis’ speech on this wise:

VATICAN CITY – Pope Francis on Monday denounced the religious fundamentalism that inspired the Paris massacres and ongoing Mideast conflicts, saying the attackers were enslaved by “deviant forms of religion” that used God as a mere ideological pretext to perpetuate mass killings. . . . “Religious fundamentalism, even before it eliminates human beings by perpetrating horrendous killings, eliminates God himself, turning him into a mere ideological pretext,” he said.^[24]

Pay attention to the subtle but definite shift in the problem’s nomenclature. Pope Francis identifies the target as fundamentalism, not terrorism. This sweeps into the picture a large section of Bible-believing Christians who are fundamentalists, putting them in the same category as Islamic terrorists. Isn’t that alarming? In a previous interview, the pope expressed his view:

The three religions, we have our fundamentalist groups, small in relation to all the rest...A fundamentalist group, although it may not kill anyone, although it may not strike anyone, is violent. The mental structure of fundamentalists is violence in the name of God.^[25]

The pope is pulling in the reins of free speech when it is against his interests at the same time that he is slightly shifting the gun sights from terrorism to fundamentalism. It is not hard to see where this will lead. In his view, “Good” “Protestants” who are friendly with the ecumenical church are not fundamentalists, but anyone who places the Bible in authority above the laws of man and interprets prophecy as depicting the Mother Church as a big whore^[26] is doing mental violence in the name of God, and although it might not kill or strike anyone, it is going to get a physical punch from the kindly ol’ Grandpa Francie.

The prophetess was right after all:

God’s word has given warning of the impending danger; let this be unheeded, and the Protestant world will learn what the purposes of Rome really are, only when it is too late to escape the snare. She is silently growing into power. Her doctrines are exerting their influence in legislative halls, in the churches, and in the hearts of men. She is piling up her lofty and massive structures in the secret recesses of which her former persecutions will be repeated. Stealthily and unsuspectedly she is strengthening her forces to further her own ends when the time shall come for her to strike. All that she desires is vantage ground, and this is already being given her. We shall soon see and shall feel what the purpose of the Roman element is. Whoever shall believe and obey the word of God will thereby incur reproach and persecution. {GC 581.2}^[27]

The Messenger of Doom

The trumpets are getting louder. Each successive trumpet builds on the previous ones, but each trumpet also crescendos all by itself. This is especially true of the fourth trumpet, as the text indicates:

And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabitants of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound! (Revelation 8:13)

This text indicates that something should happen during the fourth trumpet timeframe that will serve as a harbinger of what is to come in the last three trumpets. Furthermore, this harbinger is one of woe to the world.

The key to identifying this “angel” lies in the fact that it warns of the threefold woe—the fifth, sixth, and seventh trumpets. According to the Trumpet Clock, the fifth trumpet will begin on exactly February 18, 2015. That means the warning cry must come before that, and be announcing something that will begin on February 18 at the fifth trumpet, later to escalate with the sixth and seventh trumpets.

Indeed, the news headline came: “White House Continues Fight Against Extremism By Announcing Meeting”...scheduled for February 18, 2015!

This announcement is very relevant to the situation. Note again the use of the term extremism instead of terrorism. The subtle shift is still there, but the exact term fundamentalism was probably avoided to be less arousing to Bible-believing fundamentalists in the U.S.

It is important to note that the word “angel” should probably have been translated as “eagle.” The SDA Bible Commentary remarks as follows:

An angel. Textual evidence favors (cf. p. 10) the reading “an eagle.” The eagle may be thought of as an omen of doom (see Matt. 24:28; cf. Deut. 28:49; Hosea 8:1; Hab. 1:8).^[28]

The eagle, aside from being an omen of doom, could symbolize the U.S. as the one who called and announced the meeting to take place on February 18. But another reason might be to hint to the following verse:

Set the trumpet to thy mouth. He shall come as an eagle against the house of the LORD, because they have transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my law. (Hosea 8:1)

The eagle comes against God’s people for breaking God’s law. Once again, we see that the Law of God is at the heart of the matter.

A Message of Woe!

Let’s take a close look at the White House’s announcement mentioned above, and understand where this is really leading. We’ve seen how the fourth trumpet is dealing with issues of law. We’ve seen how it is about the substitution of man’s law (human rights under the greater good) for God’s law (the Ten Commandments). We’ve seen how the U.S. Attorney General was involved in the security meetings in France.

Leaders met in France not just to show solidarity, but to take definite action toward preventing home-grown fundamentalist groups before they have a chance to cause harm. Obama seemed disconnected from the peace rally in France, but the White House is definitely playing a lead role, because now it is hosting the security summit as a follow-up.

The White House announced today [January 11, 2015] its next step in fighting extremism: a meeting. “On February 18, 2015, the White House will host a Summit on Countering Violent Extremism to highlight domestic and international efforts to prevent violent extremists and their supporters from radicalizing, recruiting, or inspiring individuals or groups in the United States and abroad to commit acts of violence, efforts made even more imperative in light of recent, tragic attacks in Ottawa, Sydney, and Paris. This summit will build on the strategy the White House released in August of 2011, Empowering Local Partners to Prevent Violent Extremism in the United States, the first national strategy to prevent violent extremism domestically,” the White House press secretary said in a statement released today.

Countering Violent Extremism (CVE) efforts rely heavily on well-informed and resilient local communities. Boston, Los Angeles, and Minneapolis-St. Paul have taken the lead in building pilot frameworks integrating a range of social service providers, including education administrators, mental health professionals, and religious leaders, with law enforcement agencies to address violent extremism as part of the broader mandate of community safety and crime prevention. The summit will highlight best practices and emerging efforts from these communities.

At the same time, our partners around the world are actively implementing programs to prevent violent extremism and foreign terrorist fighter recruitment. The summit will include representatives from a number of partner nations, focusing on the themes of community engagement, religious leader engagement, and the role of the private sector and tech community.

Through presentations, panel discussions, and small group interactions, participants will build on local, state, and federal government; community; and international efforts to better understand, identify, and prevent the cycle of radicalization to violence at home in the United States and abroad. Additional information regarding participants and the agenda will be provided at a future date.^[29]

This will clearly involve curbing freedom of speech for supposed extremists and their supporters, which shows again that for them, defending rights comes second to the greater good. It is also about surveillance (note the involvement of the private sector and tech community), which shows the same thing. The real red flag, however, is in the involvement of the community—especially religious leaders—who would be responsible for assessing radical tendencies in their sphere. Twice it is mentioned that religious leaders will be involved, meaning that they will be partly responsible for deciding if a person's beliefs are extreme or fundamentalist in nature. They want to prevent even the mere act of inspiring groups or individuals toward fundamentalism, which means that they could interfere with a religious group just because it teaches certain things. This will lead to fear, suspicion, betrayal, and all sorts of evils. Again, I urge you to know the history of the French Revolution.^[30]

Do you see how we are at the point where anyone is a target if they esteem the Bible more highly than they esteem ecumenism, and how that puts not only the Word of God, but also the Law of God, under attack? Here in the fourth trumpet, the eagle is announcing the February 18 meeting that will likely bring the first woe, and it will intensify in the second and third woe—because the entire threefold woe is announced by the same eagle.

The fourth trumpet does not tell us exactly what the woe is, but just that it is coming. Perhaps you already have a pretty good idea of what it is?

Breaking the Ten Commandments

We are living in the time of the figurative travels of the Ark of the Covenant. Remember, the ark's ten months of movement began on December 18, 2014, and will end on October 17, 2015, inclusive (Figures 1 and 2). The important point here is that it is not just "approximately" ten months. We see that it is exactly 10 months, beginning on the 18th day of December, 2014, and ending on the 17th day of October, 2015, inclusive. We can infer, then, that each of the ten months begins on the 18th of that month and ends on the 17th of the following month.

This correspondence between the ten months and the Ten Commandments gives us an opportunity to study what kinds of events to expect during each month. Here is a chart showing the periods of the ten months with the trumpets alongside:

The first question we must answer regarding the above chart is whether or not it really fits. Has God’s law really come under special attack, and is there really a correlation between the individual commandments and the months?

In the chart above, I labeled each sin that corresponds to each of the Ten Commandments. Take a close look at the first one—atheism—and notice how Ryan Bell’s rejection of God at the beginning of the fourth trumpet is a blatant transgression of the first commandment right in the first month. Let’s break it down piece by piece:

- a. I am the LORD thy God,
- b. which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.
- c. Thou shalt have no other gods before me. (Exodus 20:2-3)

Compare this with what Ryan Bell says:

- a. “I don’t think that God exists.” (Ryan Bell, January 1, 2015)
- b. “I will not...refer to God as the cause of things or hope that God might intervene and change my own or someone else’s circumstances.” (Ryan Bell, December 31, 2013)
- c. “Why do I need religion to love?” (Ryan Bell, December 25, 2014)

Point by point, Ryan broke the first commandment. Whereas God declares that He is the Lord God, Ryan says he doesn’t believe that God exists. Whereas God proactively brought His people out of Egypt and bondage, Ryan doesn’t acknowledge that God does anything. Whereas God rightfully requires that nothing come before Him, Ryan puts “love” in the first place.

Jesus summarized the first four commandments, which deal with our relationship with God, as follows:

And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment. (Mark 12:29-30)

How can a person love God if they deny that He exists? How can a person express love if they are disconnected from God? The answer is: they cannot. Atheism is an overt transgression of God’s law, and even a transgression of the first and most important of all the commandments. It is blatant sin.

As the fourth trumpet began on January 1, the sin of atheism was committed near the middle of the first month. This first example shows us that we can expect a specific sin to surface in the unfaithful churches during each month, unless they repent.

Mind you, Ryan Bell is just the public face of this sin. You would be surprised to see how many common church-goers, who might have even shared a pew with you in the past, are ready to speak up and defend Ryan's blatant sin. Many of them even open up to express that they have similar doubts themselves.

In other words, while there is a corporate spectacle of atheism—a public sin—there is also a private reality for the individual. Those who identify with Ryan Bell are commandment breakers too, not only sinning themselves, but defending and promoting the same sin in others.

Can the 144,000 who keep the commandments of God be found among that class? Can a faithful Christian, who is willing to die for his faith as a martyr, be found among that class? Can a person be admitted to heaven if they know the commandments and willingly transgress them? In every case, the answer is a definite "No!"

The first month has passed now. Examine yourself—how did you measure up to God's law? Did you test faithful to the first commandment? I hope so! But if not, I urge you to repent and seek God while there is still time. It does not matter which commandment or how many commandments you break, because breaking one is the same as breaking them all.^[31] What matters is that in every case, you recognize your mistake and turn away from it immediately.

The Sin of Idolatry

Dare we examine how the SDA Church is faring in the judgment thus far in regards to the second commandment? We are now most of the way through the second month, so we should already be able to discern some things. First of all, we should have a clear understanding of what idolatry is, and why it is wrong.

Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.
(Exodus 20:4-6)

Idolatry is making an image of something, and worshiping it. Making an image is not a sin all by itself, but when the image is worshipped then it is sin.

It doesn't matter what word you use for worship—Catholic defenders often play down veneration of the saints by playing word games. The commandment is clear: it's an idol if it comes before God, so if you look to a dead person or an image thereof instead of looking to Jesus Christ who is alive in Orion, it is a sin. (Spiritualism, including the false teaching that good people "go to heaven" before the resurrection at the second coming, is an enabler of idolatry.)

On January 18, the very first day of the second month—marking the second commandment—the SDA Church hosted a "service" to quell tensions between police and civil rights groups.^[32] First of all, one has to wonder how mediating between the police and citizens is any of the church's business to start with—but of course we know that the church is doing its duty to show itself a community player as part of its good ecumenical image. Regardless, the question at hand is about idolatry.

You need not read any further than the second paragraph of the church's report to see an idol, even named as such!

Tying in with celebrations to commemorate the legacy of civil rights icon Martin Luther King Jr., the Hope and Healing for Better Police and Community Relations program featured Church leaders, city leaders, police officials and congressional representatives.

An “icon” is an idol, or image. I have to ask you... what does Martin Luther King Jr. have to do with the mission of the SDA Church, and why are they identifying him as an idol? Are they openly admitting that they have idols like him? Or are they just recognizing him as an idol of the world—and if so, why are they bringing the world’s idol into a church-hosted function?

The shocking reality comes in the third paragraph from the end:

Sunday’s program also included worship and a press conference. One poignant moment during the service came when the audience—comprised of a variety of races and ethnicities—collectively rose to their feet and enthusiastically applauded eight-year-old Nathanel McKenzie after his recitation of King’s “I Have a Dream” speech.

The SDA Church publicly hosted a Sunday idol-worship service in its own sanctuary! And how was that worship “poignantly” expressed? By adoration of the idol represented by an eight-year-old boy! (Did you read about the French Revolution as I recommended? Do you remember how they brought in one of the dancers from the opera house to play the role of the goddess Reason?)

There is a reason why political figures are elevated like idols in front of the people. It is because they stand for something. Although Martin Luther King Jr. is best known for driving progress in the lines of civil liberty, he also stood for other things. Wikipedia notes:

King organized and led marches for blacks' right to vote, desegregation, labor rights and other basic civil rights.[68] Most of these rights were successfully enacted into the law of the United States with the passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the 1965 Voting Rights Act.[82][83]^[33]

Keep in mind that the worker’s unions will play an important role in end-time events.

The trades unions will be one of the agencies that will bring upon this earth a time of trouble such as has not been since the world began.—Letter 200, 1903. {2SM 142.1}^[34]

Economic pressure drives the worker to work more, so the workers’ right to have at least one day of rest gets more attention. For the “good of society” (trumping individual rights) a common day will be selected, naturally Sunday in accordance with the practice of the majority. Do you see how the SDA Church is unwittingly promoting the end-goals of the Sunday Law?

Those who claim to be the children of God are in no case to bind up with the labor unions that are formed or that shall be formed. This the Lord forbids. Cannot those who study the prophecies see and understand what is before us? {4MR 78.2}^[35]

Furthermore, he was a supporter of social welfare and was suspected of ties to communism (which is probably what got him assassinated). Those are the kinds of social principles that always lead to very bad scenarios. I don’t want to get off topic, but one point is too relevant to overlook. In a nutshell, the SDA Church is lauding social systems and governmental principles that will be the very means to oppress its members under the Sunday Law, when they lose their jobs and homes in faithfulness to the Sabbath. Just open your eyes! You will see soon enough where it is all headed: straight to FEMA “community” centers!

The first verse of the fourth trumpet was about the darkening of the church by atheism, which goes against the first commandment. The second verse of the fourth trumpet is talking about a threefold woe that is coming, and here we see idolatry involved. Could idolatry have a connection to the threefold woe?

Searching for this story in the public press, I found a single newspaper covering it—the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.^[36] Does that ring a bell? The “eagle” announces the threefold woe! And what is the subject matter of the threefold woe? The subtitle of the Adventist article gives a hint: “Congresswoman commends Church for ‘timely’ service!”

What was “timely” about that idol-worship service? It was on Sunday, and the state commends that! It was especially commended because this was a designated day to honor Martin Luther King Jr. In other words, the church was praised for adapting to the “needs” of the secular world.

In and of itself, there is nothing wrong with worshiping God on any day of the week including Sunday, although one has to wonder at how eagerly SDA Churches are doing so.^[37] Neither is there anything wrong with making an image or recognizing a person for good things they have done. But when worship is conducted through an image, then it is the sin of idolatry. When worship services are conducted on Sunday for the purpose of respecting an institution, a law, a political figure, or other purpose, that institution, law, figure, or purpose becomes the icon through which worship is conducted. That is a transgression of the second commandment (not to mention others). This act of adapting the church’s worship to the pressure of secular society foreshadows the worship of the image of the beast—which is idolatry in the highest form!

Take heed, and consider what you would do if your government were to pressure you to agree to worship on their terms. After this commandment-month ends on February 17, the fifth trumpet (first woe) will begin.

The Hemorrhoids of the Philistines

The eagle of the fourth trumpet doesn’t stop with one warning of woe. Before the first commandment-month had ended, the U.S. Supreme Court made a surprise announcement, saying that it will make a nation-wide ruling on the question of same-sex marriage.^[38] Thus, the principle of atheism was also at work in secular government to rid every vestige of God’s Edenic design from their laws.

What does this have to do with a coming woe?

Anyone who knows the story of Sodom and Gomorrah should see the connection immediately.

And the LORD said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous; I will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know. (Genesis 18:20-21)

The sins of the wicked cry out. The sins of Sodom and Gomorrah were so great that the cry of them reached the Lord in heaven. The Supreme Court is planning to issue its ruling at the end of the term, at the end of June. That means the decision will be announced in the very month that stands for the test on the seventh commandment—the very commandment that protects the boundaries of marriage. As the nation removes God from its laws, the cry of its sins will reach the heavenly court, and judgment will be denounced upon it.

The amount of time from the announcement till the Supreme Court decision parallels the seven months when the ark was in the land of the Philistines:

And the men that died not were smitten with the emerods [hemorrhoids]^[39]: and the cry of the city went up to heaven. And the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months. (1 Samuel 5:12-6:1)

That means the cry of the sins of America will reach heaven in the seventh month just as the cry of the Philistines did.

Note that the sin in Sodom and Gomorrah was not incidental—it was total.

But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter: (Genesis 19:4)

Once the sin of the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah had reached totality, God visited them with judgment. This is what is happening today. Many individual states have already legalized same-sex marriage, but the Supreme Court will decide at a national level. When “every quarter” of the nation has crossed the threshold, God will act.

Punctuating the first seven months and the last three months of the ark’s movement is the sixth trumpet—the falling of the stars of the sixth seal, destructive fireballs. This will come on July 8 (shortly after the Supreme Court decision) as the result of total rejection of God’s law on the part of the nation. Then there will be woe to the world the second time at the sound of the sixth trumpet!

Thus the eagle of the fourth trumpet (the U.S.) has announced not only the first woe, but also the second.

The Cause of Climate Change

The third woe is heralded by the same eagle again, this time in the form of President Obama’s 2016 U.S. Budget proposal. The headlines focused on the billions of dollars the president allocated toward things related to climate change.^[40] It is also noteworthy that the White House made a special effort to make this budget proposal available as widely (and on-time) as possible by publishing it online and by publishing the source data that contributes to the budget—steps that are unprecedented.

Before you immediately dismiss this budget request because you think Congress will not honor it, consider that even the pope is behind measures to address climate change. Pope Francis spoke on the issue in comments to the press on January 29.

His theological justification for both environment and climate action has been that respect for the “beauty of nature and the grandeur of the cosmos” is a Christian value.^[41]

It is interesting that he justifies taking action with something so tender-hearted as respect for the beauty of the earth and the cosmos. We will come back to that. The real question to be answered is: Why is climate change such a big part of the budget proposal? Why is it such a big topic at all?

The timing of this budget should be taken into consideration. This budget would go into effect on October 1, 2015, just days after the U.N. Post-2015 Sustainable Development Summit, where on September 25 the pope will deliver a highly anticipated speech, as well as attend the World Meeting of Families. That will definitely be an eventful time,^[42] and the budget will go into effect just three days after those meetings conclude.

The budget also includes funding for federal infrastructure work. In a new Executive Order, the president makes some changes in the planning requirements for federal construction projects.

“The federal government must take action, informed by the best-available and actionable science, to improve the nation’s preparedness and resilience against flooding.”

...When drawing up plans, federal agencies have multiple options by which they can establish the flood hazard area in which future projects are located. First, again with that subtle jab, planners can use a “climate-informed science approach” to determine hydrological and hydraulic data to anticipate possible future changes in flooding based on — gasp! — climate science. They can also simply add two feet above the current flood elevation or three feet for critical buildings such as hospitals.

Prior to this executive order, such rules were only applicable if there was a 1 percent chance of flooding in the region — now the bar has been lowered to 0.20 percent...^[43]

When you put all of the pieces together, you begin to realize that the kind of climate change they are talking about is not the result of gradual processes like high carbon emissions or such things. It will be the result of a global disaster that will instantly change the climate and thrust the nation and world into a whole new climate scenario. Think of it from the world leaders' point of view. Surely they know what is coming and when, and they want to prepare, and they want funding, but they can't risk telling the public what the real reasons are behind it because the general population would go into a mad panic. So they've had to almost invent a justification for it. The following video conveys the point very well:

Video: September 24, 2015 postponed to October 24/25, 2015

With that perspective, the budget makes more sense. New “resilient” infrastructure will be needed in the wake of destruction, thus the change in federal building requirements. More money will be needed to combat the changes in climate, thus the timely budget request. Even the pope’s strange justification makes sense: respect for the grandeur of the cosmos (and the damage it can cause to the earth’s climate)! The title of the U.N. summit in September also makes sense; what else could “Post-2015” mean other than the beginning of a new era after a great climate disaster? The topic of the summit will be how to develop a sustainable world in the disaster’s wake.

Making Provisions for the Papacy

In addition to the budget proposal, the “eagle” announced the third woe on February 5. John Boehner, the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, announced that Pope Francis would address a joint meeting of Congress (both House and Senate) on September 24, 2015.^[44]

Considering how eventful that time will be, Francis’ words to the lawmakers of the U.S. will have deep implications. You can see that, once again, laws are at the heart of the matter. The eagle of the fourth trumpet is warning of matters of law in every case, and although the woe that is coming will be felt in so many ways, the legal aspect is the prominent theme throughout. The primary attack is on the Law of God by setting man’s law above it.

By the decree enforcing the institution of the papacy in violation of the Law of God, our nation will disconnect herself fully from righteousness [her probation will close]. When Protestantism shall stretch her hand across the gulf to grasp the hand of the Roman power [fulfilled in 1999^[45]], when she shall reach over the abyss to clasp hands with spiritualism [fulfilled in 2014], when, under the influence of this threefold union, our country [U.S.] shall repudiate every principle of its Constitution as a Protestant and republican government, and shall make provision for the propagation of papal falsehoods and delusions, then we may know that the time has come for the marvelous working of Satan and that the end is near. {5T 451.1}

Note that the prerequisite is that the U.S. makes provision, not that it actually propagates papal falsehoods and delusions. By inviting the pope to address a joint meeting of Congress, the provision has now been made, and thus we may know that the time has come for the marvelous working of Satan. What will actually happen at that joint meeting of Congress is another matter, which will lead very quickly to the general close of probation and the outpouring of the seven last plagues.

Thus the eagle (the U.S.) has also announced the third woe.

Every stage of the threefold woe is an intensification of the same effort to exalt man's law above God's law, and especially to replace the fourth commandment with Sunday observance.

Each woe represents a phase of the Sunday Law:

1. In the first woe, the Sunday Law will likely be developed as a secular law and will only cause hardship (persecution) to God's people.
2. In the second woe, the Sunday Law will inevitably take on religious motivation in the wake of the U.S. Supreme Court decision and subsequent destruction. The persecution will increase to the point that those who obey God's law will be put to death (martyred) as a result.
3. In the third woe, the Sunday Law will likely become universal. Thus God will respond with the plagues, and deliver His people.

Events are rapidly fulfilling. The investigative judgment of the living is progressing swiftly. The SDA Church has broken two of the Ten Commandments so far. Have you taken a personal inventory to see how you are faring? Are you prepared for the third month under the first woe? What about the fourth month in regard to the Sabbath question? Will you be ready for the big crisis? Or will you stay in the enemy's ranks—in the church—to partake of her sins and receive of her plagues?

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven [shown by the stars of Orion], and God hath remembered her iniquities. (Revelation 18:4-5)

The Fifth Trumpet

When we speak about the fifth trumpet at the time of this writing, we are speaking about yet-future events. We will not be able to interpret every detail, but the most important things should be apparent because of the eagle's warning in the fourth trumpet. For example:

And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit. And he opened the bottomless pit; and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit. (Revelation 9:1-2)

The symbolism of the great furnace calls to mind one of the most famous stories of the Bible, which we already touched on in Part I in connection with the fallen star of the third trumpet. Here we see the fallen star mentioned again in the fifth trumpet. We identified the fallen star as a specific reference to the complete fall of the organized SDA Church, which has formed its character into the image of Nebuchadnezzar's dream.

The SDA Church was the last church in the line of the Protestant Reformation. As long as it was holding out, Protestantism was holding out. In that sense, it was given a key role as "the last of the Mohicans." When it fell, it marked the end of the line for Protestantism, which allowed the papacy to rise to universal power again.

Whereas the image in Nebuchadnezzar's dream was a depiction of future kingdoms that would rise after his own, the image of all gold that the king later built represented his rebellion against that future and his intention for his kingdom to rule the world forever. Again, the SDA Church reflects this attitude by dismissing all criticism with the remark "the church will go through to the end." Such an attitude paints the picture of Nebuchadnezzar.

The great furnace of the fifth trumpet brings to remembrance the furnace that was prepared for any who would refuse to worship according to the king's decree:

Then an herald cried aloud, To you it is commanded, O people, nations, and languages, That at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, dulcimer, and all kinds of musick, ye fall down and worship the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king hath set up: And whoso falleth not down and worshippeth shall the same hour be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace. (Daniel 3:4-6)

A never-ending kingdom is ultimately Satan's goal, and he is using the world leaders in the hopes of achieving it. Those who don't go along with him will become fodder for the furnace of affliction. The text of the fifth trumpet indicates that this furnace is being prepared during the fifth trumpet. The preparations will begin with Obama's Summit on February 18, and will increase throughout the "five months" of the trumpet, during which people who choose to stay faithful to God will increasingly encounter persecution and hardship.

The Sword of Fire

As if the movements of the enemy are not enough to trouble the faithful in the fifth trumpet, their "brethren" will also become a curse to them. The complete fall of the SDA Church (the completion of its investigative judgment) means that God's executive judgments can now fall upon it. This is indicated by the destruction of those without the seal:

And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads. (Revelation 9:3-4)

The seal of God is understood by the SDA Church to be the Sabbath truth, which indicates again that the fifth trumpet will involve an attack on God's law as we saw the eagle announce in the fourth trumpet. However, like we learned from the story of the Ark of the Covenant, the SDA Church will not be protected merely by its regard for the Sabbath of the Lord. The church has been warned that God will visit her iniquities as it is prophesied in the ninth chapter of Ezekiel.

Study the ninth chapter of Ezekiel. These words will be literally fulfilled; yet the time is passing, and the people are asleep. They refuse to humble their souls and to be converted. Not a great while longer will the Lord bear with the people who have such great and important truths revealed to them, but who refuse to bring these truths into their individual experience. The time is short. God is calling. Will you hear? Will you receive His message? Will you be converted before it is too late? Soon, very soon, every case will be decided for eternity. {18MR 236.2}

The church was warned once before. Intense fires burned the SDA publishing house in 1902^[46] as a sign of God's displeasure with the course that the leadership was pursuing. Of that, Ellen White wrote the following:

In the visions of the night, I saw a sword of fire hung out over Battle Creek [the church headquarters at that time].

Brethren, God is in earnest with us. I want to tell you that if after the warnings given in these burnings, the leaders of our people go right on, just as they have done in the past, exalting themselves, God will take the bodies next. Just as surely as He lives, He will speak to them in language that they cannot fail to understand. {4MR 367.2-3}

The leadership did change for a time, thus deferring the above prophecy, but the condition of things has deteriorated again over the years till it has reached the sad case that exists today. Therefore, the warning is in full and imminent force, and now that the organization's fall is total, it will come. The sword of fire is none other than the cleansing of the church as described in Ezekiel 9, but instead of hanging over Battle Creek, it is hanging over the present headquarters and various other institutions of the church.

The wording surrounding the seal of God in the fifth trumpet is substantially the same as the passage in Ezekiel 9:

Slay utterly old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house. (Ezekiel 9:6)

This association shows us that the seal of God spoken of in the fifth trumpet is not just Sabbath-keeping, but also sighing and crying for the abominations that are done in the church.^[47] This explains the lesson from the Ark of the Covenant, why not all "commandment-keepers" will be protected. Not all of them have the commandments written on their heart; not all of them sigh and cry for sin.

The true people of God, who have the spirit of the work of the Lord and the salvation of souls at heart, will ever view sin in its real, sinful character. They will always be on the side of faithful and plain dealing with sins which easily beset the people of God. Especially in the closing work for the church, in the sealing time of the one hundred and forty-four thousand who are to stand without fault before the throne of God, will they feel most deeply the wrongs of God's professed people. This is forcibly set forth by the prophet's illustration of the last work under the figure of the men each having a slaughter weapon in his hand... {3T 266.2}

The sealing of the 144,000 must be completed during the fifth trumpet, because only then can the four winds^[48] be let loose in the sixth trumpet. In this sense, we can understand Ellen White's comment about the time when the great crisis is nearing:

Oh, that the people might know the time of their visitation! There are many who have not yet heard the testing truth for this time. There are many with whom the Spirit of God is striving. The time of God's destructive judgments is the time of mercy for those who have had no opportunity to learn what is truth. Tenderly will the Lord look upon them. His heart of mercy is touched; His hand is still stretched out to save, while the door is closed to those who would not enter. {9T 97.2}

Notice that she speaks of a door being closed.

Men Shall Seek Death, and Shall Not Find It

And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man. And in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them. (Revelation 9:5-6)

The fifth trumpet describes a time when people are tormented, but not killed. With the preparations for the Sunday Law taking place, that is exactly what will happen. Those who resist it will have a hard time. Those who want to stay faithful to the Law of God will eventually lose their jobs. They will suffer need and hardship. They will experience hunger. Being without income, they will lose their homes and become homeless. The homeless will be rounded up and taken to FEMA "community centers" where they will "be re-educated" to cooperate with civil authorities. How many Adventists are prepared for these eventualities? How many Adventists are prepared to go through all of these sufferings in order to keep the Sabbath and refuse the mark?

The fifth trumpet speaks of a terrible anguish. The text emphasizes "seeking death" and "desiring to die" by repeating it twice. What could it mean?

We have to face some hard truths in connection with this verse. Anyone can commit suicide relatively easily, so "seeking death" cannot have such a shallow meaning. It is not enough to say that the trials are so hard that people just want to die. There must be a deeper meaning.

Adventists are a special people. They are the "judgment people," elected to be priests for God in the service of the heavenly sanctuary—elected to be the 144,000. The majority have not taken their calling seriously. They have not followed the health message or proper dress code, and have generally let themselves degrade to the condition of the world, both in their theology and practice. A priest is supposed to be set apart, holy. In Old Testament times, a priest who did not respect his office was struck dead.^[49] In connection with the loss of the ark, the story of Eli and his two sons comes to mind.

God gave the Fourth Angel's message to His people to prepare them for the difficult test they would face when the Sunday Law would finally come. That is why Adventists expect the latter rain...it is the rain that ripens the fruit to prepare it for harvest. Without the latter rain, without the Fourth Angel's message, the people will not have the strength to go through the Sunday Law test successfully. They will falter and fail, because that is what they have been practicing up to this time by their compromising lifestyle habits. They will give in just to feed their bellies and their covetousness—as many already do today without there being persecution!

They have lived so carelessly and proudly that many of them will never have even considered making a personal sacrifice. They will have just assumed that they knew everything they needed to know to be "faithful to the end" as one of the 144,000. They thought it wouldn't matter how they live until the Sunday Law comes—if it would come at all in their lifetime—and that then they would somehow muster up the faith to stand firm in the time of crisis. They figured they knew the key points not to be deceived: that Saturday is the Sabbath, and if a "Jesus" came and let his feet touch the earth, then he must be an imposter. But without the heart preparation, and without having allowed the Holy Spirit to shape their character ahead of time, they will be unprepared to stand the test in practical terms.

It is almost too late for such nominal Adventists to learn their duty, to clean up their act, and offer a sacrifice pleasing to God. Even if their predicament would humble them to that point, they would find out that they have already failed the test and are well-nigh disqualified from being among the group who “keep the commandments of God, and have the faith of Jesus.”^[50] They know nothing of sacrifice, much less of experiencing the second death as Jesus did on the cross. They would not be able to endure seeing Jesus come in the clouds of glory.

Maybe in their humiliation, they will actually consider the option of giving their physical life as a martyr—a thought that probably never occurred to them before. As the Sunday Law situation worsens, and the reality of their failure sets in, they might come to their senses, but too late. All along, they flattered themselves that they were the remnant, the chosen of God, and that they would be among the 144,000 who would not taste of death. Instead, they will find themselves having failed the test, and having lost their eternal life. They might seek desperately just to be a martyr—just to find salvation at any cost—but they won’t be able to, because the killing won’t generally begin until after the fifth trumpet is over.

Very, very few repented before the door closed for the church on November 30, 2014. Very, very few were living their profession, and sighing and crying for the abominations done in the church. The rest were not a pure sacrifice for Jesus, and when they realize that they lost heaven, they will “seek death” as a martyr, but they will not find it. And if they would “desire to die” the second death to be among the 144,000, it would flee from them because they are not worthy. It is a sad predicament for those who have continually spurned the voice of the Holy Spirit in their lives.

The Bible says that the torment will last five months. Interestingly, in all of the months of the ark’s movement, the five months of the fifth trumpet are the only five months that can be taken in sequence for a total of exactly the prophetic period of 150 days.

The Fall of Jerusalem

We can divide the church into two distinct classes: scoffers, and non-scoffers. The non-scoffers are the ones who really are trying to be faithful. They see that we are at the end of time, and they are warning others accordingly. The scoffers, on the other hand, deny that we are living any closer to the end than we ever have been. The Bible describes them as follows:

Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, and saying, Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation. (2 Peter 3:3-4)

The scoffers are not warning at all, and not warning is already enough to classify a person as a scoffer, but many of the scoffers are in fact working actively to keep everyone calm. They minimize the signs and say “oh, we saw something like that happen years ago, and Jesus didn’t come then, so don’t worry!”

In contrast to the scoffers are those who see the signs and are warning others of the impending Sunday Law, and of the closing of the door of mercy. The story of Jerusalem’s fall in 70 a.d. offers a prime example for what is happening today. The Rabbis and other leaders of Jerusalem saw the city as a mighty fortress that could never be conquered nor destroyed (which is especially the attitude of the SDA Church). Rome besieged Jerusalem in 66 a.d., and that was the sign for Christians to flee. The army withdrew itself for no apparent reason, and the Christians escaped before the city was besieged the second time and ultimately destroyed in 70 a.d. (Some aspects of the siege are explained in more detail in the Time of Trouble article.)

The trick in studying the story of Jerusalem's fall, however, is to recognize that it was after the Jewish nation had ceased to be God's favored people. Normally we treat ancient Israel as a type for the SDA Church as "spiritual Israel," but it would not be correct to say that Jerusalem at the time of its fall still represents the church—unless we say that it represents the church after the church ceased to be God's favored people.

When the door of mercy closed for the SDA Church, it lost God's especial care and protection. In fact, it has blended in so much with the other churches in the ecumenical movement that it has become indistinguishable from them on a spiritual level. That means the SDA Church no longer has a unique identity under God; it and the other churches are one and the same under Satan.

In a similar way, Jerusalem of old had become as common as the surrounding heathen nations by rejecting Christ, so by the time it was destroyed in 70 a.d. it was effectively representing the heathen religions of that time, and certainly not Christianity. That means the destruction of Jerusalem cannot be a type for just the destruction of the church, but it must be a type for the destruction of the world in general.

Recognizing the scope of what Jerusalem symbolizes is key to understanding what its story has to teach us. To put the whole situation another way, the SDA church itself allows every wind of false doctrine in its ranks. They proudly hold ecumenical meetings with the leaders of the other fallen churches in their own buildings. So if we want to say that Jerusalem primarily represents the SDA Church, then we still have to allow room for the other non-Adventists to be represented within it. The SDA Church is fully "Ecu-Adventist" now, so even applying the type of Jerusalem directly to the SDA Church, it would still in fact represent ecumenism and include the world, just as ancient Jerusalem did.

The Strange Being

Even though the city elders felt secure in Jerusalem, not everyone else did. The people saw unusual signs, which has happened in our day as well.

Signs and wonders appeared, foreboding disaster and doom. In the midst of the night an unnatural light shone over the temple and the altar. Upon the clouds at sunset were pictured chariots and men of war gathering for battle. The priests ministering by night in the sanctuary were terrified by mysterious sounds; the earth trembled, and a multitude of voices were heard crying: "Let us depart hence." The great eastern gate, which was so heavy that it could hardly be shut by a score of men, and which was secured by immense bars of iron fastened deep in the pavement of solid stone, opened at midnight, without visible agency.—Milman, The History of the Jews, book 13. {GC 29.3}^[51]

Notice how voices were heard, deciding to depart. Notice how the great eastern gate opened, like how the Orion message opened in 2010! Ellen White goes on to relate the strange warning effort of a particular man:

For seven years a man continued to go up and down the streets of Jerusalem, declaring the woes that were to come upon the city. By day and by night he chanted the wild dirge: "A voice from the east! a voice from the west! a voice from the four winds! a voice against Jerusalem and against the temple! a voice against the bridegrooms and the brides! a voice against the whole people!"—Ibid. This strange being was imprisoned and scourged, but no complaint escaped his lips. To insult and abuse he answered only: "Woe, woe to Jerusalem!" "woe, woe to the inhabitants thereof!" His warning cry ceased not until he was slain in the siege he had foretold. {GC 30.1}^[52]

This man warned for seven years, which certainly has a meaning. Who could the man be? He was warning about the woe coming upon Jerusalem, which should mean someone warning about the woe coming upon the churches of the world. Our ministry gives such warnings, as do others. Let's investigate further.

The strange man died in the siege, which isn't a good thing. It makes you wonder: if he knew about the trouble that was coming, why didn't he save himself and others? In fact, if the topic weren't so sober, it would almost be humorous that in the very next sentence after speaking of his death, Ellen White says:

Not one Christian perished in the destruction of Jerusalem. {GC 30.2}

This man was apparently not a Christian! If the ancient Jews represent the modern-day Christians (including Adventists), and the ancient Christians represent modern-day Orion believers, then the strange man must represent modern-day Christians who do not believe in the Orion message, but who see the signs and warn of the trouble. In other words, he is a type especially for conservative Seventh-day Adventists.

We could even carry our investigation of the man's death a step further by going to the original source for this story. It comes from the Jewish historian Josephus, and we find that he mentioned a "little" detail that Ellen White did not include:

This cry of his was the loudest at the festivals; and he continued this ditty for seven years and five months, without growing hoarse, or being tired therewith, until the very time that he saw his presage in earnest fulfilled in our siege, when it ceased; for as he was going round upon the wall, he cried out with his utmost force, "Woe, woe to the city again, and to the people, and to the holy house!" And just as he added at the last, "Woe, woe to myself also!" there came a stone out of one of the engines, and smote him, and killed him immediately; and as he was uttering the very same presages he gave up the ghost.

John suspected there was more to this story than meets the eye, and that it has a special application for our time. That is why he included it in the Orion presentation (slide 154). Note exactly how the man died—he was hit by a stone from a catapult as he was uttering his warnings.

When you think about the horrors of the siege of Jerusalem, remember that God made a way of escape. Jesus Himself taught His followers in advance what the sign would be to flee the city. The same is true today!

The Cost of Indifference

Who does the man represent? Who do the people of the city represent? Who is represented by those that did not perish?

We can begin to answer all those questions fairly easily now. Ellen White put this story in the first chapter of the Great Controversy because it would repeat at the end of time (meaning in our time). We already talked about how Jerusalem was full of Jews (not Christians), and since the siege was at the time of the feasts, the people of the city would have even included a large number of visiting Gentiles who had come to profit from the traffic. The whole world was represented there! Surely, the people of the city must represent the people of the world.

We also talked about the Christians who escaped the city during the three and a half years between the first siege and the second. They were the believers of present truth in their day, and the ones who had faith in Jesus. They obeyed the warning He gave them to flee when they would see the city encompassed by armies. The fact that they didn't perish is symbolic of the 144,000 who will not taste of death. They will be obedient to Jesus' voice, which is coming from Orion this time. They will flee through the "great eastern gate" that is now open, and they will go to figurative Mt. Zion instead of the mountains in general. Thus, the Christians, who all escaped, are a representation of the 144,000 who will not experience death.

That leaves just one other group—those represented by the man who cried “Woe woe!” to the city, and yet died in it. This is a group who knew the truth (or most of it) but did not know or obey Christ. This man represents the “faithful” Seventh-day Adventists of our time who are seeing the signs and warning others, but who have either not heard or not accepted the sign that Jesus gave them (the Orion message).

The man cried in the streets of the city for seven years—long before the first siege of Cestius fulfilled the sign that Jesus had given. Adventists have been crying for 24 times seven years, and they saw the first sign to flee when the national Sunday Law was almost passed in 1888.

If the strange being had been a Christian, he would have escaped and led others to do the same. His mistake cost him his life. In our day, the SDA pastors who preach about the woe that is coming make a similar mistake. They should have heeded Jesus in Orion! They should have fled to the mountains (figuratively to the true teachings of our Mt. Zion)!

The mistake will cost them their life. They cannot be among the 144,000 while confining their faith within the walls of historic Adventism. Those who are still warning and woe!-ing from within the SDA church will never be among the 144,000, even if at the last moment they too realize, “Woe is me!” Faith has to be exercised, and it is no longer possible to find its object within the confines of the church. One has to reach the promised sign by faith—now outside the church—and respond while there is time.

If not, then like the man ceased not to cry until he gave up the ghost, so they will have to give their message in their death as martyrs, not able to escape themselves, but still choosing to spill their blood in warning to others to put their loyalty on God’s side.

“Woe, woe to Jerusalem!” “woe, woe to the inhabitants thereof!”

The strange man’s cry should have instantly reminded you of the fourth trumpet:

And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabitants of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound! (Revelation 8:13)

The parallel between the strange man’s wild dirge and the fourth trumpet is too striking to dismiss. Both mention woe to the inhabitants, but instead of the inhabitants of the earth, the man refers to the inhabitants of Jerusalem. This again confirms the validity of our interpretation that Jerusalem represents the fallen churches of the world in general, and not only the SDA Church.

Strangely, however, the man only cries woe twice each time, and not three times! What could that mean?

We could analyze this in a couple of ways. In one sense, this is an indication that the man will not see the third woe. His counterparts today will not live to see the seventh trumpet. The seventh trumpet will sound when general probation has closed for the world. At that time, there will be no more martyring, because there will be no more fertile ground to accept their blood, which is the seed of the gospel. This harmonizes with our interpretation that the man represents the martyrs who will not live to see the seventh trumpet.

Another way to interpret the fact that the man only voices a twofold woe is that he is simply missing something. He has a prophecy to give, but part of it is missing—the part that would have indicated the time to leave the city. This is reflected in those conservative Adventists who are still preaching to their followers, trying vain to warn them of what is imminently coming. They are missing something which would involve the third woe.

They are like the man in Jerusalem who probably never even heard what Christ said, or did not listen. The Christians fled, because they knew Jesus. This man apparently did not, or didn't heed. He prophesied on his own, but did not give the real sign. He saw the destruction coming, but he did not see the sign to flee, or else he did not obey.

The conservative Adventists have not seen Jesus in Orion. Some of them have not fled from their Babylonian doctrinal surroundings. They do not listen to the time message of Orion. We can even know that Adventists are specifically the ones represented by the strange man, because he was crying for seven years—a year for a day—referring to the seven-day week established at Creation as the basis for the seventh-day Sabbath in the Seventh-day Adventist name.

Conservative Adventists are missing the seventh trumpet, which is the warning about the close of probation and the plagues. They are supposed to be preaching the third angel's message, but they are missing the part about the time of plagues, which is the wrath of God.

When you read the third angel's message, you can see that the majority of the text is dedicated to the warning about the plagues—more so than the mark of the beast—yet this part is generally not heard from the lips of Adventists:

And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb: And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name. Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus. (Revelation 14:9-12)

Ellen White clearly states that the warning about the plagues is the third angel's message:

John came in the spirit and power of Elijah to proclaim the first advent of Jesus. I was pointed down to the last days and saw that John represented those who should go forth in the spirit and power of Elijah to herald the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus. {EW 155.1}

Thus the Adventist church, which should have fulfilled the type of John the Baptist, had the responsibility to warn of two days or dates in particular: the day of the wrath of God on October 25, 2015, and the Second Coming on October 24, 2016. Those dates delineate the year of plagues, which are the subject of the third angel's message, as well as the seventh trumpet and the third woe.

Like the strange being in Jerusalem who was missing the third woe, not even the "faithful" in the SDA church are heralding the third angel's message completely. They are not time-setters. They don't warn about "days" or dates. The only trumpet which is defined as part of the third angel's message is exactly the one that they avoid. They even see that the time is approaching and are preparing to suffer for their faith, and because they do not lift up their heads^[53] to see Jesus in Orion, they will die as martyrs instead of living as part of the 144,000.^[54]

The Sincere vs. the Scoffers

It is at least comforting that conscientious, practicing Adventists should be saved through martyrdom and not be lost eternally. There is one example that is too obvious to refrain from mentioning. It is Pastor Andrew Henriques of the Saved to Serve ministry in Florida, U.S. It is amazing that his topics have often paralleled ours, but that makes it all the more sad that he does not recognize nor accept the force of time prophecy. A recent (January 17!) sermon^[55] of his illustrates the point clearly.

He might not be a scoffer, but he is like the man who died in Jerusalem—he is missing part of the message. Here is a transcript of a brief segment of the video from 6:45 to 7:35:

. . . . Now the question is WHEN. We know WHAT he [Satan] will do to lead into the National Sunday Law—the question is WHEN. WHEN will Satan bring the fire down? When will Satan bring the calamities? Go with me in your Bibles to Genesis chapter nineteen. Where are we going to my friends? The question is WHEN. Prophecy gives us the TIME. WHEN. Not asking for a DATE, as if we would say January seventeen, two thousand fifteen, or January eighteen, two thousand fifteen. Not asking for a day. We're looking for events. WHEN will Satan bring such calamities that will cause the people to enforce a National Sunday Law and persecute those who refuse to bow. . . .

Seven times he asks the question! Later, he does give an approximate answer by connecting the upcoming U.S. Supreme Court ruling on same-sex marriage with the story of Sodom and Gomorrah, and his sermon closes with the martyr's song "I Surrender All." He tells the martyrs when the trouble will start, but then leaves them to cry, "How long!"

Oh, that good preachers like him would be among the 144,000! Oh, that they would lead their followers to join the Fourth Angel's Movement instead of leading them to the guillotine! He is preparing his listeners as "sheep for the slaughter."^[56] We can thank God that there are people at least as faithful as they are, but it is truly a sad thing that good pastors—the cream of the crop—will be martyrs at best, and are actually working against the 144,000 with their anti-time-setting stance and by teaching an incomplete message.

I think we all know some people in the church who seem sincerely concerned—the ones who sigh and cry—and do not scoff even though they might have stumbled at the Orion message. This gives us some hope for their ultimate salvation, if they can withstand being purified by fire.

If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire. (1 Corinthians 3:15)

There were two groups of people in Jerusalem in relation to the strange man. There were some who fed him, which represent non-scoffers. They also eventually died in the siege, and represent martyrs. An entirely different picture is painted of those who scoffed at his warning cries. They beat him, jailed him, whipped him, tortured him—that is a picture of what the martyrs will suffer at the hands of their brethren, but in dying for their faith they will at least gain eternal life in contrast to their scoffing brethren who will die without salvation.

One who perishes as a scoffer is really committing the unpardonable sin against the Holy Ghost,^[57] because the Holy Spirit gives the light in the outpouring of the latter rain. In the 23rd chapter of Matthew, seven times Jesus said to His scoffers "Woe unto you...!" Then he made a promise to them:

Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. (Matthew 23:38-39)

In modern terms, Jesus is speaking to the leaders of the SDA Church who scoffed at and rejected Him anew. He is saying that they won't see Him till it's too late—till His appearance in brilliant glory forces the unwilling confession from their lips,^[58] and they are eternally lost.

Recognizing Jesus by His Character

How do you esteem somebody with a different character than your own? We have very different characters represented in our group, but when we try with love to understand each other, we realize that we all have the same elements of character but in different degrees and expressed in different ways. We have similar traits, but the traits that are very visible in one person might be relatively subtle in another. When we try to understand each other, our own traits of character allow us to recognize and appreciate those traits in others.

The Bible tells us that we can find God when we search for Him with all our heart:

And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart. (Jeremiah 29:13)

In other words, if the character we see in Orion strikes a resonant chord in our heart, we will recognize that it is Jesus. Those who don't develop a right character in themselves will not be able to recognize Him. They won't be able to understand Him, because they will see a character trait that is foreign and unrecognizable and even undesirable to them.

If you don't develop an understanding of God, then you cannot be a partaker of His character, and you will not be among the 144,000. The 144,000 will be nearer to the throne of God because they know Him better. They know His hidden character trait. The ones who love Him the most know Him the best and recognize that the Orion Clock is a depiction of Him.

Too many are boxed in by Ellen White and the anti-time-setting teaching. She wrote within a certain frame of reference, but the voice of God from Orion speaks the unbounded truth. If you read Ellen White in the wrong way, you end up in a frame that excludes the Orion message. If you limit your view of the Spirit of Prophecy to Ellen White, then you cannot get out of the frame to find Jesus in Orion. You cannot turn to the celestial east, from whence cometh the voice of God like many waters.^[59]

The voice involves the breath. God's voice involves His breath, which is another word for the Holy Spirit. That is why rejecting His voice from Orion amounts to the unpardonable sin. It is a rejection of the very life that comes from God,^[60] His breath.

The Sixth Trumpet

The sixth trumpet on the trumpet clock points to Wednesday, July 8, 2015, which is eight days after the probable Supreme Court decision on gay marriage, and seven days into the 2015 GC Session which will probably vote in favor of women's ordination.

And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. (Revelation 9:13-14)

The text of the sixth trumpet does not speak about the desecration of the marriage institution. Instead, it gives us an entirely different picture—beginning in the heavenly sanctuary. The revelator hears a voice which commands the four angels to release. Comparing:

And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. (Revelation 7:2-3)

We see that the four angels are held until the sixth trumpet. Thus, the sealing of the servants of God (the 144,000) must be complete by that time. Why?

Remember, the 144,000 must exercise a degree of faith. Abraham's nephew Lot had to believe before Sodom was destroyed, or he would never have escaped. The sealing of the 144,000 must be complete before the destruction comes in reward to the U.S. national sin of sodomy.

And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:15)

In the Last Call article, we reviewed Josiah Litch’s classical interpretation of the sixth trumpet and offered our own interpretation for the Judgment Cycle. Now we are dealing with a third application for the Trumpet Cycle. Keeping the different cycles straight in your mind can be a challenge, so take a moment to think it through:

Cycle in Question	Sixth Trumpet	Time Interpretation	Total Period
Christian Era	August 11, 1840	Day for a Year	391 years (long)
Judgment Era	November 30, 2014	Mixed	765 days (medium)
Judgment of the Living	July 8, 2015	Day for a Day	391 days (short)

All we have to do to understand how the sixth trumpet was prepared for 391 days is to look back in time to see what event marked the beginning of that period. With the sixth trumpet date of July 8, 2015, all we have to do is subtract 391 days, which brings us to June 12, 2014.

On that very day, an interview with Pope Francis was published^[61] wherein he condemned the world’s economic systems and predicted World War if changes are not made. It was during that interview (which hit the mainstream press the following day) that he condemned religious fundamentalism. In essence, the interview was a condensed statement of his political agenda.

What we saw in the sixth trumpet of the Judgment Cycle we see again in the Trumpet Cycle. The pope declared war on fundamentalism to begin the sixth trumpet of the Judgment Cycle, and he also did the same thing 391 days before the sixth trumpet of the Trumpet Cycle. He already drew the lines very clearly, saying that fundamentalist groups are violent by definition even if they don’t strike anyone. Of course that will include Bible-believing, Sabbath-keeping Christians.

So here again, Josiah Litch’s exciting prediction—re interpreted—confirms the sixth trumpet.

Like the door for the SDA Church closed at the sixth trumpet of the Judgment Cycle so that no more of the 144,000 can come through that church, so the door will close for the rest of the world at the sixth trumpet of the Trumpet Cycle. All who would be among the 144,000 must prepare quickly!

The Consequences of Ignoring the Warnings

Four trumpets have fulfilled as of this writing, and we have given them a certain sound,^[62] which means a sure interpretation. These first four trumpets were times of preparation for what will come now during the last three trumpets, each of which bring woe. Remember the distinction between four and three in the mathematics of God? The trumpets and the plagues both exhibit this distinction.

Some students of prophecy have already recognized that there seems to be a correlation between the trumpets and the plagues. In fact, the text of the third plague even says plainly that the plagues are a just and well-deserved punishment upon the wicked:

And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood. And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus. For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy. And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments. (Revelation 16:4-7)

The trumpets are warnings mingled with mercy, but the plagues are the undiluted wrath of God. Each trumpet warns of the corresponding plague. Each trumpet shows the cause for which the respective plague is the consequence. This cause and effect relationship explains why God revealed the Plague Cycle of the Orion Clock at the same time He revealed the Trumpet Cycle: they go together, like two parts of a sentence. If you do that, then this will happen. Understanding this relationship allows us to use the punishments described in the plagues as additional evidence for interpreting the trumpets.

Let's compare the first four trumpets and plagues side-by-side to see how the plagues are the punishment for the deeds which the trumpets warn against.

1st Trumpet: The first angel sounded [beginning February 1, 2014], and there followed hail and fire [stones and lava = volcanic eruption of Mt. Sinabung] mingled with blood [causing deaths (16)], and they were cast [as an image of something] upon the earth [in the United States, namely Yellowstone]; and the third part of trees [Charismatics] was burnt up [taken by Rome], and all green grass [Crimea] was burnt up [annexed by Russia]. (Revelation 8:7)	1st Plague: And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth [the same venue as the trumpet]; and there fell a noisome and grievous sore [or boil = eruption] upon the men [Sunday keepers] which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image [Protestants]. (Revelation 16:2)	Notes: In the first plague, the punishment comes upon the actors in the first trumpet: those who have the mark (Sunday worship), and those who bow to the "Protestant" image of the beast. The volcanic eruption and boiling cauldron of Yellowstone warned of the boils that would plague the guilty parties.
2nd Trumpet: And the second angel sounded [beginning April 12, 2014], and as it were a great mountain [Russia] burning with fire [condemned, persecuting God's people] was cast [by the Ukraine conflict] into the sea [Europe]; and the third part of the sea [Pacific Ocean] became blood [died from radiation poisoning]; And the third part of the creatures [souls] which were in the sea [people], and had life [eternal], died [lost to deception of miracles/spiritualism (Day of Four Popes)]; and the third part of the ships [European financial markets] were destroyed. (Revelation 8:8-9)	2nd Plague: And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea [the same venue as the trumpet]; and it became as the blood of a dead man [what happened to the sea life will happen to men]: and every living soul died [eternally] in the sea. (Revelation 16:3)	Notes: Again there is a tight correlation. The death of the creatures of the Pacific Ocean is a warning illustration for the fate of mankind as a result of the political movements that took place in the second trumpet. The deception by miracles and spiritualism will result in death, both physically and eternally.
3rd Trumpet: And the third angel sounded, and there fell a great star [Lucifer] from heaven, burning as it were a lamp [leading Catholic and SDA Churches], and it fell upon the third part of the rivers [delivery channels (ministries)], and upon the fountains of waters [sources of doctrine (Synod; Annual Council)]; And the name of the star is called Wormwood [bitter like Satan]: and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died [were deceived] of the waters, because they were made bitter. (Revelation 8:10-11)	3rd Plague: And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters [the same venue as the trumpet]; and they became blood [deception now results in death]. And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus. For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy. And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments. (Revelation 16:4-7)	Notes: The rivers and fountains are the target of this plague, as they were the subject of warning in the trumpet. Those who stay with the satanically-led organizations will not only be deceived, but will also die in their deception in the plagues without salvation. Now is the time to repent and leave the satanic organizations, before it is too late!
4th Trumpet: And the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun [Christendom] was smitten, and the third part of the moon [Judaism], and the third part of the stars [last generation]; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise. And I beheld, and heard an angel [eagle = U.S.] flying through the midst of heaven [acting a part in the Orion message], saying [announcing] with a loud voice [Loud Cry], Woe, woe, woe [for the three stages of the Sunday Law], to the inhabitants of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound! (Revelation 8:12-13)	4th Plague: And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun [the object of their worship]; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire [in direct contrast to being darkened]. And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues; and they repented not to give him glory. (Revelation 16:8-9)	Notes: The sun, which symbolized Christianity in the trumpet, is not darkened but brightened to the point that it burns men. The world powers were working to establish false worship via the Sunday Law, and now they are burned by the very object of their worship—the sun (which Sunday worship is in honor of).

The relationship is very clear, isn't it? This not only provides a second witness to confirm our trumpet interpretations, but it gives us a valuable way to study the last three trumpets which have not taken place yet. We can know if our interpretation of the last three trumpets is accurate, even though they haven't happened yet, by comparing the results with the corresponding plagues.

One difficulty with the last three trumpets is their unwieldy length and the number and diversity of symbols involved. The corresponding plagues, however, are concise and give a clear indication of the nature of the issue. In the following table, I offer some initial study notes based on this comparison, which support our interpretation of the last three trumpets.

5th Trumpet, 1st Woe: And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit. And he opened the bottomless pit: and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit. And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads. And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man. And in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them. And the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, and their faces were as the faces of men. And they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as the teeth of lions. And they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle. And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months. And they had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name Apollyon. One woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter. (Revelation 9:1-12)	5th Plague: And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast; and his kingdom was full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues for pain, And blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds. (Revelation 16:10-11)	Notes: This plague upon the seat of the beast confirms that the Sunday Law will be erected in the fifth trumpet, because the punishment must correspond to the crime. The seat of the beast is the place of her authority, which is darkened in punishment for setting up the mark of her authority. Furthermore, we can infer that laws are involved because of the tongue as a symbol. The tongue is used for speaking, and a nation speaks through its legislation. Therefore, in punishment for legislation, their tongues are caused pain. The reference to the sores draws attention to the fact that as the first four plagues began with a selective plague upon those who have the mark and those who worship the image, so the last three plagues open with a selective plague upon the seat of the beast.
6th Trumpet, 2nd Woe: And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God. Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a	6th Plague: And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared. And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet. For they	Notes: The reference to Euphrates establishes a strong link between the trumpet and the plague. The plague description resembles the historic conquest of ancient Babylon, but now the kings of the east are a reference to the imminent coming of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit at the second advent. The battle of Armageddon is a

month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. And the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: and I heard the number of them. And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire and smoke and brimstone. By these three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths. For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt. And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk: Neither repented they of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts. . . . The second woe is past; and, behold, the third woe cometh quickly. (Revelation 9:13-21, 11:14)	are the spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty. Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame. And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon. (Revelation 16:12-16)	reference to the death decree, which will also come during the sixth trumpet, but will likely be postponed for some reason as in the story of Esther.
7th Trumpet, 3rd Woe: And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God, Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned. And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldst give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldst destroy them which destroy the earth. And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament: and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail. (Revelation 11:15-19)	7th Plague: And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done. And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great. And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath. And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found. And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great. (Revelation 16:17-21)	Notes: The division of the city comes exactly one year to the day after the highly-anticipated speeches of Pope Francis before Congress on September 24, 2015, and the U.N. on September 25. The mention of the fierceness of God's wrath in the seventh plague agrees with the fact that the plagues begin just into the seventh trumpet. The great mighty earthquake suggests the waking of the dead in the special resurrection, of those who died under the third angel's message. (The general resurrection of the righteous should be on the very day of the second advent, and the resurrection of the wicked will be after the thousand years.)

This relationship between the plagues and the trumpets has been noticed before in a sterile sort of way, but what we have here for the first time ever in the history of prophecy is the harmony of the seven last plagues with the interpreted/fulfilling trumpets, and this is only possible with the very last iteration of the trumpets (in the Trumpet Cycle). This is one more application of the Key of David in principle. It was not possible to completely harmonize the plague texts with past fulfillments of the trumpets because the nature of the fulfilling events was different.

Are you beginning to see why God gave the Plague Cycle on the same day as the Trumpet Cycle (January 31, 2014)? Do you see why that day is known to us as the day when the Fourth Angel came down to the earth with great power, shortly after the relocation of the judgment was complete?

Now we finally have answers for the burning questions that John expressed in the introduction to the entire Orion message. In Iceberg Ahead!, John wondered aloud why Adventists could not defend all of Ellen White's prophetic statements directly from the Bible:

More and more I began to ask myself why the Bible describes so accurately and tells so precisely the last events. And I wondered why these things were apparently of no interest to our brothers and sisters. According to Ellen White, the Old Testament prophets wrote less for their own time, and more for our "end time". And reading many books of Ellen White who was blessed by God in her life and who had received thousands of visions which contained prophetic statements among many other things, I noticed that we are only able to connect a few of those statements directly with the Bible. She always said that she was the "lesser light," which would lead to the study of the "Great Light," the Bible, and that if we were really studying the Bible as we should, it would not have been necessary for God to send her.

The fact is that most Adventists have incredible difficulties just to find the Sunday law in the Bible. Yeah sure, they know that the mark of the beast is Sunday observance. But if that is so important, and Ellen G. White wrote about it again and again, where is the announcement of the National Sunday Law in the United States recorded in the Bible? Well, who can tell me? Is it difficult? Or tell me, where are the big natural disasters of which the Spirit of Prophecy talks, if all the trumpets and seals have been fulfilled prophetically before 1844? Fine, so we still have Matthew 24 and Luke 21, but do these passages show the exact sequence of events? Or even more difficult: Where do we find the "national ruin of the United States" following the Sunday Law? Or, how can we show biblically the subsequent formation of a One World Government with the pope on top in a prophetic time line?

Now we can finally answer all of these questions completely, based on the Bible—right in time for this message to go to the non-Adventist (non-Allen-White-believing) world. Now the message that the SDA Church was so privileged to hold has become accessible to all Christians who base their faith on sola scriptura. It was the duty of the SDA Church to find these things in their own efforts to reach the world with the three angels' messages. Now it is too late for it to participate in completing the work.

The fact that this work is being finished without it shows once more that its time is over. It blended with the other churches, relegating Ellen G. White to merely an inspired author and began to claim sola scriptura instead, like the Protestant churches of the world, without being able to base the Spirit of Prophecy's important unique contributions on the Bible alone. That is actually a worse condition than those who don't hold the church's unique beliefs at all!

Dear reader: no matter what your current church membership status is, you as an individual can step forward today to join the movement of the Fourth Angel to lighten the earth with glory.^[63] As the third commandment-month is about to begin with the fifth trumpet on February 18, will you make the decision to work under God's name^[64] responsibly,^[65] and labor to sow this message in your field?^[66]

Fire at Mount Carmel

And Elijah the Tishbite, who was of the inhabitants of Gilead, said unto Ahab, As the LORD God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word. (1 Kings 17:1)

Ahab, a king of the former people of God, was corrupt—if not the most corrupt of all. He married Jezebel, the daughter of a high priest of Baal—a woman devoted to idolatry.^[1] She had more influence on him than God did, and under the influence of this demonic bedmate, not only Ahab, but the entire nation was seduced into worshipping foreign gods.^[2]

Ahab was weak in moral power. His union by marriage with an idolatrous woman of decided character and positive temperament resulted disastrously both to himself and to the nation. Unprincipled, and with no high standard of rightdoing, his character was easily molded by the determined spirit of Jezebel. His selfish nature was incapable of appreciating the mercies of God to Israel and his own obligations as the guardian and leader of the chosen people.

Under the blighting influence of Ahab's rule, Israel wandered far from the living God and corrupted their ways before Him. For many years they had been losing their sense of reverence and godly fear; and now it seemed as if there were none who dared expose their lives by openly standing forth in opposition to the prevailing blasphemy. The dark shadow of apostasy covered the whole land. {PK 115.1–2}^[3]

If this condition sounds familiar to you, it's no coincidence! History repeats. The modern anti-type of the weakling Ahab is Ted Wilson, who in the five years of his "reign" over spiritual Israel, since 2010, has not managed to remove himself or others from the influence Satan has on God's people.

Jesus said we shall know people by their fruits.^[4] The fruits of Ted Wilson's leadership are that what we thought was inconceivable, happened...

Biting the Hand

In 2010, God sent one last great message of love to the Adventist Church in the form of His clock in Orion, which depicts Jesus' physical wounds and His intercessory service. This clock, centered on Alnitak^[5] (Jesus Christ, who was wounded for us) is the bread of God's people's last Lord's Supper before their own inevitable physical suffering. The following year, this message of mercy was expanded with the knowledge of the Vessel of Time, in which we can taste Jesus' own blood and character as the wine of truth, which should give us the necessary rations to persevere faithfully in the coming slaughter.

In the year 2012, God the Father bade farewell to the Supreme Judgment Seat and gave place to Jesus, but not without asking one final question: “Will you testify for me, like my son testified for me?” Thus the Father made our high calling clear to us again before taking His place in the dock.

In 2013, the visible things began to happen, and it was exactly according to God’s schedule, which He announced through His clock to the remnant of the remnant. Pope Benedict’s resignation (the beginning of the 1335 days), the election of the abomination Francis (the beginning of the 1290 days), and the setting up of the enemy’s hosts in the holy place (the beginning of the 1260 days)—like the wheels in the wheels of an artistically wrought pocket watch interlocking one with another to drive the clock hands, unstoppable as they strive toward midnight with God’s timekeepers marking stage by stage, we with our own eyes experienced the events that we were warned about thousands of years ago, in the 12th chapter of the book of Daniel.

At this last Lord’s Supper of God’s people before their own suffering, where the rich fruits of the life and character of Jesus were offered, the people bit the hand of He who wanted to nourish them with high-quality spiritual food. God’s people brushed aside His loving hand and rejected His help. They behaved worse than the biblical description of the Laodiceans^[6] would make you think. They were too proud to accept the loving reproach in the form of concentrated dried-food reading; they thought they were rich and in no need of God’s dietary counsel for the fasting time of the judgment, and they spat out the bread of life and the wine of truth, without realizing that they were the swine before whom God cast His pearls.

After five years of communicating the most important of God’s messages to the General Conference of “God’s chosen judgment people,” who were supposed to warn of the mark of the beast^[7] (Sunday sacredness) and the plagues that will follow as the consequence of its acceptance, it was inconceivable that no leaders—no Walter Veiths, no Hugo Gambettas, no Andrew Henriqueses—recognized the messages of the voice of God from heaven^[8] so that a true revival and reformation of God’s people could take place. It was inconceivable that the weakling-with-a-program, Ted Wilson, managed to lead the little sheep to bitter waters and fouled pastures on the way to Rome without even one of them slipping on his own vomit, and thereby coming to his senses, and without anyone noticing that the once well-fed-with-truth herd now resembles the dead bones in the valley of Ezekiel.^[9] His program of false “revival and reformation” began with the commissioning of the respective website, almost exactly 1260 days before the next General Conference Session.^[10] The matching design of the Bible Reading Plan of 1171 days^[11] from the 2012 Spring Meeting until July 2, 2015 (the beginning of the GC session) testifies to it.

The messenger of God, Ellen G. White, long ago warned the people—including the part of God’s people who are still in the other “conferences”—of this false revival:

I saw that God has honest children among the nominal Adventists and the fallen churches, and before the plagues shall be poured out, ministers and people will be called out from these churches and will gladly receive the truth. Satan knows this; and before the loud cry of the third angel is given, he raises an excitement in these religious bodies, that those who have rejected the truth may think that God is with them. {EW 261.1}^[12]

Regardless of all the warnings, the people of God allowed themselves to be misled by the false teachers. With great disappointment we had to discover that Satan’s dumbing-down tactics were a complete success. We saw this in all of our endeavors to bring God’s messages to [warning: non-gender-inclusive language] “mankind” in Facebook and other social media sites. Once you choose God’s medium for preaching—written form, namely—only those who can read can be reached. Our last world news article showed that people are no longer able to read. The information overload has short-circuited their last brain cells, which until recently were still capable of properly grasping at least the headlines. So now the vast majority of Facebook’s only-read-the-headline users believe that we have actually caught Ted Wilson in bed with five real, naked whores right in the act (as if we had nothing better to do than to act like Peeping Toms in backyards with binoculars)!

That explains the furious storm of defamatory critics that assailed us, but which happily caused our visitor counter to temporarily register over 23,000 visits per day. It showed us what should have happened in the real latter rain, or what perhaps can still happen. Unfortunately, in this “latter rain” which should have opened people’s hearts, no drops of God’s salvation fell. Instead, all that came was tar and feathers, which served to clog the pores of salvation for the last people for whom there was any hope.

To date, few have gotten the idea that we attached “(Rev. 2:22)” to the end of the headline to make it clear that we are referring to the biblical language that God Himself uses, in which HE warns of the consequences of the ecumenical movement:

Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds. (Revelation 2:22)

It’s about the great whore, Babylon,^[13] and all who are seduced by Jezebel (the papacy) to commit the act of adultery against God:

Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess [Vaticinia = Vatican^[14]], to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols. (Revelation 2:20)

As Ahab became one flesh with the whore,^[15] so did Ted Wilson. Instead of eating the rich spiritual food from the supper table of the Lord, he preferred to get together with Ban Ki-moon and the Satan-pope and profane the temple vessels of Adventism by drinking the wine of Babylon from them and eating the cats and dogs of other world religions. (I’m curious how many will demand photo prints as evidence for this statement again.)

These are the fruits of the work of the General Conference officers that were elected in the Atlanta peach-building, whose destruction was dreamt in 2010 by several Adventists.^[16] That, too, has been completely forgotten.

Three and a Half Years of Drought

Having reached the height of apostasy, in order to guide the king and people back to the right path, God sent the great prophet Elijah, who represents the 144,000 who will not see death, according to the spirit of prophecy.

God sent Elijah to Israel with messages of warning, but neither king nor people would heed his words. They looked upon him as a messenger of evil. At last God sent a drought upon the land. {CTr 162.2}^[17]

God, according to the counsel of His wisdom, selected me from among all unworthy sheep to be the “second Miller,” who this time should bring the message of warning before the midnight coming of the Lord to the people. But I was likewise just mocked as a “fear monger” or “messenger of evil.” When Ted Wilson proclaimed his 1171 days until the 2015 General Conference and promised that if we pray enough, the latter rain would fall during this time, I was urged by God to make a clear statement too:

As the LORD God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word. (1 Kings 17:1)

The two witnesses of Revelation 11 give us the authority to do this in our own day:

These have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy... (Revelation 11:6)

A false revival and reformation cannot produce a latter rain. There have been unbelievable divisions and rampant problems in the church during the last three and a half years, and it is safe to say, no reasoning Adventist will claim that these have come about by God’s Holy Spirit! The church is facing the biggest split in its history due to the issue of women’s ordination and the acceptance of same-sex marriage and homosexual preachers and leaders. It is in a catch-22 dilemma, wanting to support the achievement of the UN’s Millennium Development Goals on the one hand, while on the other hand not wanting to lose the tithe money of the conservative part of Adventism. Ted Wilson—even if he may appear to be a weakling—outstandingly masters doing the splits to receive the phallus of the New World Order while at the same time being celebrated as the “holy superhero,” who bravely ventures into the lion’s den.

When you think about these things, then it becomes clear why the prophets often had to speak to the people in “highly figurative” language. Today, Jesus says to Ted Wilson and his Executive Committee:

Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men’s bones, and of all uncleanness. (Matthew 23:27)

But words alone are often insufficient to make the people’s transgressions plain. Such was the case with the poor prophet of the 144,000 remnant, namely Ezekiel. He not only had to fast for 430 days, being allowed to turn from one side to the other only once (even Ellen White has certainly turned over a few hundred times in her grave in recent years—metaphorically speaking, of course)—no, he even had to do the following:

And thou shalt eat it as barley cakes, and thou shalt bake it with dung that cometh out of man, in their sight. (Ezekiel 4:12)

TODAY God wants that His messages are not only read, heard or seen, but He wants you to smell the same smell that He smells when your false prayers rise up to Him in heaven under a false assurance of salvation:

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities. (Revelation 18:4-5)

The sins of the apostates among God’s people have now reached the extent that this human dung stinks to high heaven. The three and a half years of drought have passed without even one of God's people having asked to be allowed to prepare his food with cow dung at least, like Ezekiel, instead of human dung. Apparently they think their "winds" smell pleasant.

In three and a half years of "revival and reformation," no one noticed that Ted Wilson bakes his dinner rolls with human dung. The Lord shut heaven with iron gates, and at the end, He shut the door of mercy for the Adventist Church as an organization.

Just as Elijah miraculously received food from the Lord by the brook Cherith during this period,^[18] our small group at the brook Sati received "meat" from the Lord directly from the hands of the winged messengers of heaven, and we gave you as much of it as we could.

We also brought some "sons of faithful widows"^[19] back to life—to eternal life, even—and it often involves more effort than just bowing three times over the body of the deceased child of God. None of my God-given companions in persecution have shrunk back from giving everything for God and you—be it finances, health, home, family or the friendship of brethren or "friends." There's been but little thanks given to them; may the Lord keep a surprise waiting for them in the kingdom of heaven, even though they are not even counting on having the pleasure of heaven's joys, because they have offered their eternal life for the dung suppliers, in the manner that Moses did.^[20]

Do you see the difference between what the real 144,000 do, vs. the pope and his followers? The latter give you the "all-done-at-the-cross" gospel and lull you to sleep in your own selfishness, so that you understand heaven as a land of plenty, where, after a worthless life, all you have to do is open your mouth for the grilled "doves" to fly into it. But...

Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. (John 15:13)

And we're not just talking about martyrdom. All of the High Sabbath Adventists offer up their ETERNAL lives so that many of you can live. How much should they be ashamed who keep telling us over and over that we "have no love," that our "language is hateful," or that we "should learn to love our enemies." Are these people still sane? We give the most precious thing—our own eternal life—for our enemies, to turn them into God's friends. We give our eternal life so the creation of the wonderful universe through Jesus Christ and His death on the cross for sin-damned humanity will NOT be in vain!

When will you wake up and see that there is a group of people here on Earth who love God and man so much that they have thrown all egoism completely overboard, along with the ship they're sailing on? Does anybody out there understand what this means? Does anybody out there understand that it is this that Jesus meant when He asked if He would find FAITH and that greater works are to be done, than His own?

To follow Jesus into the Most Holy Place in Orion does not mean to keep a vial full of His blood in your backpack to wipe off all the sins along the way. It means that you accept the blood of Jesus—that you let yourself be cleansed by it, and then you come with YOUR OWN blood into the Most Holy Place, just like He did with His own blood as our exemplary FORERUNNER, making the perfect sacrifice! He opened the way, but who will really follow him?

Has it perhaps "clicked" with some of you now!?

That should have been the latter rain, which should have fallen. The realization of one's own need to be ready to sacrifice would have been the preparation for the time of trouble. I shake my head again and again as I read the comments below our articles that talk about the impending end... "All you need is Jesus!", "The important thing is just to be ready!", "We just have to prepare. God has everything under control."

Yes, friends—but what are you talking about? What is this preparation? To endlessly repeat that time setting is wrong and that you will surely have many more years to continue in sin and organize barbecues? I have the misfortune of hearing things from our own ranks like, “God does not look on the outside, so I can continue to wear pants as a woman!” Please tell me, have you all gone crazy? God has given rules by which ye shall live, and you tell Him that His rules are bad, and you consider your own rules better? That is exactly Satan’s language, and his slanderous idea! I had better stop, because you bring me to righteous indignation with so much bigotry.

You have time until October, then the door of mercy for all mankind will be closed (even if Satan makes it seem otherwise). When do you want to become vegetarian and start wearing skirts? When do you want to finally get married, if you are cohabiting in sin? And when will you FINALLY give God glory by simply doing what He says that you should do, without asking us a million questions to find possible “detours” so you don’t have to change?

For five years, we’ve been asking you, “How long halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him.”^[21]

And your answer has almost always been the same as what Elijah got: “And the people answered him not a word.”^[22]

In these three and a half years of drought, do you see where we have come within God’s scheduled time for the latter rain? We have come to a turning and decision-making point. The time has come for your decision—for the last and most important of all the decisions of your life. Here and now, you are...

At Mount Carmel

Elijah sent Obadiah to arrange a meeting with Ahab, for him to call all the people of Israel together to Mount Carmel. During the three and a half years of drought, Elijah had to hide himself from the wrath of Jezebel, because she was proceeding to exterminate the other prophets.^[23] Jezebel stands for Satan, who has also eradicated “prophets” today, letting them fall deeply through their own character defects (maybe you know who I’m talking about).

Unfortunately, Ted Wilson doesn’t obey any of God’s commands, so it would not make sense to invite him to Paraguay to our mountain. For five years he has been called to finally take a stand on the Orion study, and all we have is an unofficial statement, devoid of intelligence, from Gerhard Pfandl (member of the BRI) who scored some own goals and gave us even more ammunition than we dared hope for. (For example, he confirmed the year 1936 in Orion through a church historian who stated that this was the most difficult year during that time, because that is when the persecution of the Adventist believers in Germany began.)

But a meeting with Ted Wilson and me would surely have been characterized by the same words that were spoken in Elijah’s time:

And it came to pass, when Ahab saw Elijah, that Ahab said unto him, Art thou he that troubleth [\[divides\]](#) Israel? And he answered, I have not troubled Israel; but thou, and thy father’s \[the Jesuit Neil Wilson’s^[24] house, in that ye have forsaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou hast followed Baalim [\[Rome\]](#). (1 Kings 18:17-18)

The same accusations—that we are “splitters”—we hear daily from the Ted-Wilson-obeying Babylonian-wine-drunken brethren who already confuse him with the pope, and believe that he is the man chosen by God on the throne of the Adventist Church. He and his Jesuit friends of the Executive Committee just weren't immediately destroyed by the breath of God's anger at his election in 2010, because God had other plans for him...

For five years He put him up as a memorial in front of your eyes, so you could judge for yourself whether he bears—or would bear—the fruits Jesus spoke of. Thus, you were tested by him. Today, 90% of the Adventist church rushes to follow one “pastor” who is obviously pursuing his own agenda, cramming the herd into the train to Rome without bread and water (of life). He is the true splitter, who has split the last faithful people of God from God! That much guilt cannot be cleansed by the fire of Ezekiel 9, which was prophesied by Ellen White. Therefore, I believe that Ted Wilson will be spared like Ahab (who did not die on Mount Carmel with the priests of Baal and Asherah) to experience a special punishment: he is permitted to suffer the plagues because he, as a false prophet, personally misled and seduced the last Protestants among the people of God. He will perish together with his friend Francis in the lake of fire.^[25]

Nowadays, it is no longer necessary to summon all the people of Israel (all Christians) to a certain place for a decision because we have better means of communication than in the days of Elijah. The Facebook storm of defamation that will be triggered by this article will be enough to make you all witnesses of the events at the modern “Mount Carmel.” The important thing is that you “come” and see!

Nevertheless, God really has picked out two special places on this planet for the “showdown” on “Mount Carmel,” and you should keep an eye on them. Just like how two altars were set up on Mount Carmel, there are two altars on today's world—Carmel. On one altar, the priests of Baal prepare and wait for tongues of latter-rain fire to fall on them in the 2015 General Conference Session in San Antonio^[26] between the 2nd and 11th of July. The other altar is located on our little farm in Paraguay, where for five years the voice of God like the sound of many waters^[27] has been calling for a return to the old doctrines and values of Adventism.

Interestingly, Satan will also appear in person in a certain place during this time. Pope Francis announced his visit to Paraguay for July 10 to 12, 2015, which overlaps with the end of this Session of the General Conference. Is it possible that Francis, like Jezebel, will wait at the foot of the mountain to catch “Elijah” and kill him while he is coming down? Is it possible that God is planning something for the first one-third part of July, which will correspond to Elijah's challenge to the people of Israel? Is it also possible that Satan, in the form of Jesus Christ, is just waiting to announce from Paraguay his victory over the last pesky Waldensians?

The Hidden Schedule

On Sabbath yesterday (April 18, 2015), I received of the Lord the final assignment to give you the last opportunity to choose, in the same way Elijah did. I only began to work on this article yesterday afternoon. Late that night, I noticed that the divine order for this upcoming challenge had been given on the first day of the fifth commandment-month. As we wrote some time ago, we saw by the Spirit of God that the last 10 months of human history prior to the year of plagues are dedicated to each one of the Ten Commandments, in their God-given order. Since the door of grace will close on October 18, 2015, each of the commandment-months begins on the 18th day of the month. Now the 5th month has begun, and you will be tested to see whether you want to obey the “fathers” to live forever upon the land which the Lord thy God wants to give thee.^[28]

Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD: And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse. (Malachi 4:5-6)

The timing of the challenge against Ted Wilson and the priests of Baal and Asherah in his house was already ordained by God thousands of years ago. Elijah's actions on Mount Carmel illustrate the eternal counsel of God in a highly symbolic form. Only the very last generation in the last months of probation would be able to recognize the agenda. We recognized it on the aforementioned Sabbath in our Spirit-led study.

Before Elijah invoked fire from heaven, there was a carefully described ceremonial procedure that can be deciphered—but only if you know what High Sabbath Adventists know:

And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me. And all the people came near unto him. And he repaired the altar of the LORD that was broken down. And Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD came, saying, Israel shall be thy name: And with the stones he built an altar in the name of the LORD: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two measures of seed. And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood, and said, Fill four barrels with water, and pour it on the burnt sacrifice, and on the wood. And he said, Do it the second time. And they did it the second time. And he said, Do it the third time. And they did it the third time. And the water ran round about the altar; and he filled the trench also with water. (1 Kings 18:30-35)

The twelve stones represent—as the biblical text says—the twelve tribes of Israel. But in this day and age, they especially stand for the period of the judgment of the living from 2012 to the close of probation, by which time every one of the 12 times 12,000 or 144,000 witnesses for God^[29] must be found, who must stand without an intercessor through the year of plagues. Because of their loyalty, the broken altar of the Lord will be set up again on the earth.

In the articles about the Shadows of the Sacrifices, we showed that they need a special portion of the Holy Spirit, because they, too, can do nothing without God.^[30] But there is another group of people who will also testify for God: the martyrs, whose number still has to be fulfilled.^[31] That is why the depth of the trench for absorbing the water was specified as TWO measures of seed. It would contain the water of life for both groups (seed/grain = bread of life).

The wood and the bullock on the altar stand for Jesus Christ on the cross, the center of all God's schedules, which is what enabled us to understand God's festal calendar in the first place, and later to determine the exact day of the Second Coming of Jesus.

Then come 12 barrels of water. With those, we get the second dozen in the Orion formula. If we include verse 43,^[32] where Elijah sends his servant seven times to see whether the rain cloud is visible, then we have the entire divine formula of Orion in front of us:

(12 stones + 12 water barrels) × 7 phases till the cloud of the Second Coming

We had discovered the Orion formula in these figures a few years ago, however, so that was nothing "new" for us, but we had not yet realized the full depth of meaning, because at that time we lacked the knowledge that we have today.

There's a reason why Elijah didn't simply order 12 barrels of water to be poured into the trench. He divided the process into three batches of four barrels each, and the Bible records these details meticulously. (You should ask yourself why it is that we are always the only ones who find the exact explanations for such details!)

In 2010, we discovered the judgment cycle of the Orion clock, which runs from 1844 (1846) until 2014/2015. It includes the timeframes of the judgments of the dead and the living.^[33]

On October 15, 2012, a God-given dream made me aware of the Great Orion Cycle of 4032 years, which runs from the creation of the first Adam to the birth of the second Adam, Jesus Christ.

On January 31, 2014, the Holy Spirit came down in the form of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18, and brought us the prophesied document of God:

I saw four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and were on their way to accomplish it. Jesus was clothed with priestly garments. He gazed in pity on the remnant, then raised His hands, and with a voice of deep pity cried, “My blood, Father, My blood, My blood, My blood!” Then I saw an exceeding bright light come from God, who sat upon the great white throne, and was shed all about Jesus. Then I saw an angel with a commission from Jesus, swiftly flying to the four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and waving something up and down in his hand, and crying with a loud voice, “Hold! Hold! Hold! Hold! until the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads.” {EW 38.1}

The angel was waving up and down in his hand the information that we received on January 31, 2014: the knowledge of two more Orion cycles—the trumpet and plague cycles. Just as a sheet of paper has two sides, the angel held in his hand the exact schedule for these last two septuples of Revelation, promptly disclosing them to us at the beginning of the first trumpet of the Trumpet Cycle.

The only period of time that is not described in more detail by the book of seven seals in Orion, is that which is written on the outside, the period belonging to the classical interpretation of the Christian era. This video illustrates in more detail how comprehensively Orion describes the history of mankind:

Video: The Book of Seven Seals

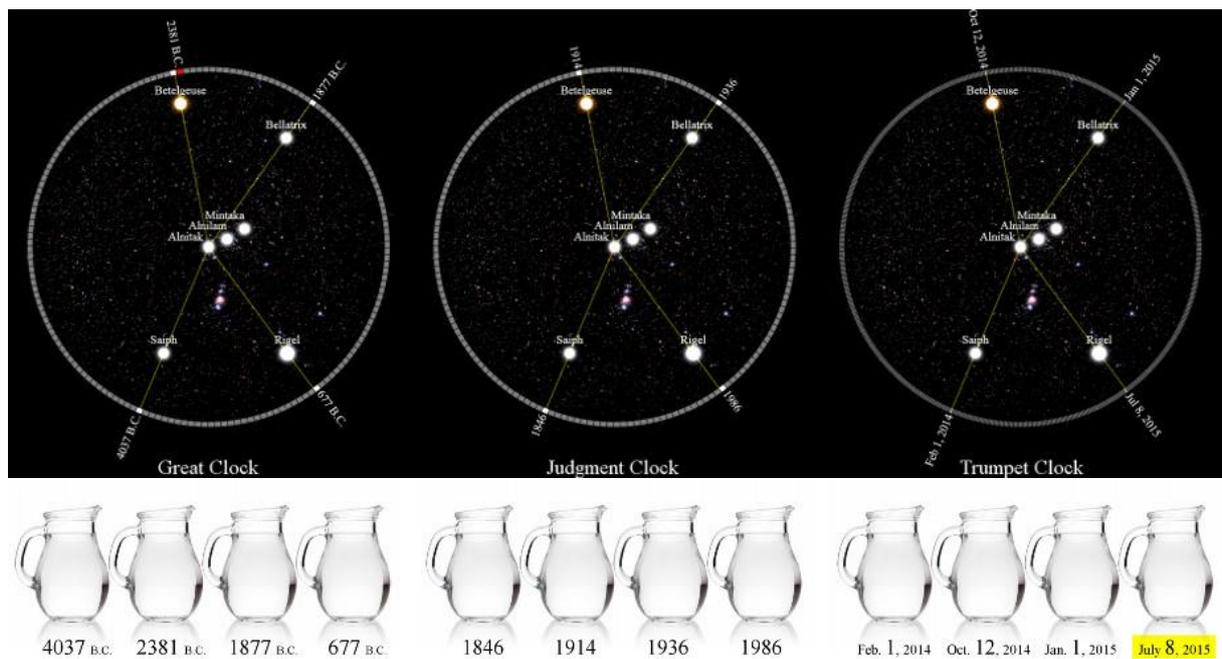

Thus, four Orion cycles cover the entire history of humanity. However, the question is, when should the challenge be held at modern Carmel?

Elijah dug a trench around the altar, centered on it. It was a circle with the sacrifice of Jesus in the middle. Anyone who knows the Orion study should immediately remember that in Orion, the threefold throne of God (the altar that Jesus is interceding in front of in the Most Holy Place of the heavenly sanctuary^[34]) is represented by the three belt stars in the middle. The exact center is even more precisely defined: it is Jesus Himself, as the star Alnitak, which name means “the One who was wounded.” Therefore, the bullock (Jesus’ sacrifice) and the wood (the cross) on the altar (the throne of God) represent the center of the Orion clock.

It follows that the trench circle can only refer to the outer circle of the Orion clock, which the wounds of Jesus point to in each cycle, through the four pointer stars: the two hand stars, Betelgeuse and Bellatrix, and the two foot stars, Saiph and Rigel.

Now it should be clear what the strangely divided process of pouring the water into the trench means:

The first four barrels portray the flow of time through the first Orion cycle, the Great Orion Cycle. The second batch of four barrels represents the flow of time until the end of the second Orion cycle, the judgment cycle. That means the third filling process is in the trumpet cycle and must have begun on February 1, 2014. Again, four barrels are filled until the moment arrives when Elijah prays for fire from heaven. This gives us an exact date, namely the date of the star Rigel, which is the sixth trumpet: July 8, 2015!

The Challenge

This date for Elijah’s modern challenge was set by God (and definitely not by us, because we weren’t alive at the time of Elijah).

The sixth trumpet is the perfect moment for such a divine event, because in the text of the sixth trumpet, we find that it was set for an hour, day, month, and year.^[35]

The sixth trumpet of the trumpet cycle of Orion will bring destruction and death to those who have crept into the church of God to destroy it from within. The modern prophets of Baal and Asherah will meet their end on that day (and in the period following it).

I, John Scotram, as representative of the High Sabbath Adventists now lift up my eyes to God in the Orion Nebula, and say with Elijah:

O LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, let it be known on that day—Wednesday, July 8, 2015—that Thou art God in Israel, and that I am Thy servant, and that I have done all these things according to Thy word. Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that Thou art the LORD God, and that Thou hast turned their heart back again.

Cleanse Thou, O Lord, Thy house from the stench of the Jesuits and the apostasy! Let Your consuming fire, according to Ezekiel 9, do its work so that Your church can again shine with the light You chose for her, that it may lighten the whole earth.

We, the High Sabbath Adventists, summon you, Ted Wilson, apostate leadership of the Adventist Church, heads of the formerly Protestant churches, and the WHOLE OF CHRISTIANITY, to a decision point, to follow either He who created you, or the one who will destroy you. It is our desire that you may give God the honor and the authority that is anchored in His seventh-day Sabbath!

If we are wrong and God will not let fire come down from heaven, then July 8, 2015 will be the end of this movement and the websites of the two witnesses—the Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time, which have tormented the inhabitants of the earth (especially Adventists).^[36] Then you can continue—with no hope of Christ’s speedy return—to pursue your sins undisturbed, and believe that everything has been done at the cross and that everyone—from child killer to rapist, from pedophile to the patron of the animal brothels of Denmark^[37]—is automatically saved as long as he merely calls on the name of Jesus without any change of behavior.

[Note: One way or another, the blame for these events will be put on us! Let no one come to the foolish idea of wanting to help out! It must be a visible judgment from God without any human intervention! We are not fanatics who threaten anyone with death. We ask God to intervene, because we ourselves are impotent. And if He is with us, He will fight for us while we hide!^[38]

But if we are right and the last five years of preaching have not been in vain, then for many it will be too late to repent. Many will die, and the fire that starts in San Antonio, will spread over the entire globe. There is plenty to cleanse—not just the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. The Sunday laws will follow very quickly, and the survivors will recognize that we were right all along.

It will all happen with the speed of a divine windstorm, so that there will barely be enough time to breathe. The latter rain will be poured out so hard over the last faithful people of God that everyone who is missing from the 144,000 will be found and sealed in just three and a half months.

The outpouring of the Spirit in the days of the apostles was “the former rain,” and glorious was the result. But the latter rain will be more abundant. {LDE 185.5}^[39]

And then?

As already mentioned, one part of the Orion formula is still missing if we only consider the first three cycles up to the sixth trumpet. The missing part is the SEVEN, and it is included in Elijah’s servants’ sevenfold search for the cloud, which was AFTER the challenge on Carmel. So also is the logical sequence of cycles and events.

First, Elijah challenged the Israelites and fire fell from heaven to confirm him. Then there was a great slaughter and cleansing of the house of God, before his servant went looking seven times for the cloud, which appeared the seventh time. That represents the year of the seven last plagues, the last of the Orion cycles, which closes the Book of Seven Seals and human history.

A Brief Window of Time

In conclusion, maybe it would be of help to those who have been following along to clarify something else that the Lord showed us on Sabbath, April 18, 2015. It relates to the sealing of the 144,000. Up to that point, we had understood two biblical texts to represent the same moment, and we had been extremely concerned on account of it.

The text of the sixth trumpet:

And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:13-15)

And the text where the four angels are told to hold:

And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree. And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea, Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads. (Revelation 7:1-3)

If both texts represent the same point in time, then the sealing of the 144,000 would have to be completed before the sixth trumpet, or July 8, 2015. This sealing would have had to happen while the four angels on Earth (we) were still bound. That means that no really large visible events would have happened yet. Can you understand our concern? People simply don't respond if they understand the prophecy in a predominantly literal sense and it is not fulfilled like they expect. If the Bible speaks of fire falling from heaven, then it needs to literally light a fire under them, because otherwise they won't jump up!

For that reason, we were very discouraged because of our prior understanding. As it turned out, though, we had not read carefully enough, or maybe God held His finger on it until we understood it—it's the same either way.

Those texts are surely referring to two completely different points in time!

There are significant differences in the descriptions of the events...

In the sealing text, it mentions that the four angels release the four winds, while in the text of the sixth trumpet, the four angels themselves are loosened. Furthermore, the four angels are at completely different locations in the two texts. In the trumpet text, they are still bound in the river Euphrates, while in the text at the end of the sealing, they stand at the four corners of the earth.

Thus, the sequence becomes clear...

First, the sixth trumpet sounds on July 8, 2015. Until then, the movement of the Fourth Angel is bound in the Euphrates (Paraguay^[40]). At the behest of Jesus, the four “holds” are limiting it in its mobility and reach. The four “holds” are for the second, third, fourth and fifth trumpets and come to an end at the beginning of the sixth trumpet. No more “holds” remain for the sixth trumpet. The events are allowed, and even obliged, to start! Then the work of the four angels will be accomplished, because the people will have the visible evidence before their eyes.

This is the time when the door is closed,^[41] as Ellen White says, for Adventists who did not want to hear the truth, but wide open for the others, for a short time, who will come out and endure the persecution with us.^[42]

By the end of these short three and a half months, the angels will have taken their positions at the four corners of the earth—they themselves are loose, but they are still holding the four winds. Just as the Sunday law will have spread worldwide, so will the movement. Only then—at the last moment, when the last of the 144,000 will have received the seal of Revelation 3:12—only then will the four winds, the plagues, be released. For years, our LastCountdown has been pointing to that date.

The Decision

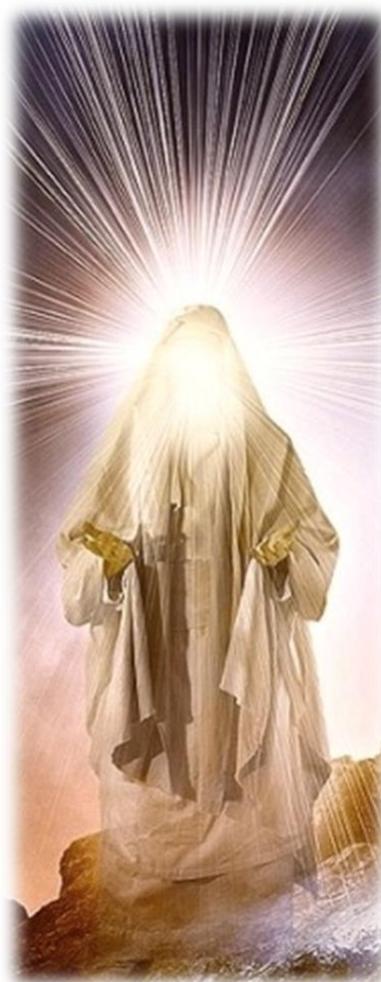

How will you decide, dear reader? Will you wait until the “fireballs” fall, and then—if you survive—take your stand? Or will you take the warning of Ezekiel 9 seriously and sigh and cry over the abominations in your church, thereby receiving the seal of protection against the Elijah challenge?

Don't confound the seals... there are three of them!

The Seal of Ezekiel 9 protects from the destructive cleansing of the church. However, there will also be many faithful Christians among those who sighed and cried, who still must die. God knows that these would fall in the Sunday law test, so He lays them to rest. Many will mourn for their children, but faithful parents should know that they will soon be able to take their little ones into their arms again.

The Lord has often instructed me that many little ones are to be laid away before the time of trouble. We shall see our children again. We shall meet them and know them in the heavenly courts. {LDE 255.3}^[43]

Everyone who receives this protective seal must follow it up with the Sabbath seal. The Sabbath seal is received by everyone who is loyal to the Sabbath of the Lord during the time of the Sunday laws—whether a martyr, one of the 144,000 or as one among the great multitude.^[44] The Sabbath seal protects against eternal death and serves as your ticket to heaven. It does not protect against physical death, however.

The seal of the 144,000 protects from physical and eternal death, and it allows you to stand in the time of the plagues without sinning and without having an intercessor, until Jesus comes in the clouds. It is only received by those who are willing to die eternally so the rest of the universe can live.

God showed me a few months ago that the 144,000 will definitely take the trip to Orion with Jesus. There will be a special meeting in the heavenly temple with God the Father. Ellen White saw this in vision:

There were all kinds of trees around the temple to beautify the place: the box, the pine, the fir, the oil, the myrtle, the pomegranate, and the fig tree bowed down with the weight of its timely figs—these made the place all over glorious. And as we were about to enter the holy temple, Jesus raised His lovely voice and said, “Only the 144,000 enter this place,” and we shouted, “Alleluia.” {EW 18.2}

Later, she was asked if it will really only be the 144,000 who will have access to the temple. She said that there was an omission in Early Writings:

Another “suppression” reads as follows: “Well, bless the Lord, brethren and sisters, it is an extra meeting for those that have the seal of the living God.” {ISM 66.1}

Upon arrival to heaven, there will be a very special meeting for the 144,000, and God showed me that its purpose is to allow even God the Father to express His infinite gratitude for their witness, and also for them to learn whether their eternal life must be taken or not. Only then can they know what it means to be a “pillar in the temple of God”:

Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name. (Revelation 3:12)

Strive with all your might to be among the 144,000; they will win the final battle for the true Ruler of the Universe, because of their perfect love. It is the self-sacrificing, selfless love of Jesus, which is reflected in their faces like it was with Moses when he came down from Mount Sinai.^[45]

At its 60th General Conference Session, the Seventh-day Adventist Church has no choice but to give up the ghost. It can no longer resist the legislative pressure of the State, which is demanding full equality for women and LGBT persons. That's right—it's the State, not the Spirit, driving the agenda. If the church votes in favor of women's ordination to comply with state and national laws in support of the U.N.'s Human Rights goals, it will face the wrath of God—and if the church votes against it, it will die at the hands of the State.

It's a lot like the predicament that Samson fell into:

God's providential care had been over Samson [\[like the Laodicean church\]](#), that he might be prepared to accomplish the work which he was called to do [\[much as the SDA Church was called to do a work\]](#). At the very outset of life he was surrounded with favorable conditions for physical strength, intellectual vigor, and moral purity [\[like the SDA Church in the early years\]](#). But under the influence of wicked associates he let go that hold upon God which is man's only safeguard, and he was swept away by the tide of evil. Those who in the way of duty are brought into trial may be sure that God will preserve them; but if men willfully place themselves under the power of temptation, they will fall sooner or later. {AH 460.2}^[1]

For the SDA Church, the end has come. Satan, who now spins the world on his finger,^[2] would have had a mighty adversary in the SDA Church if it had remained faithful to God. Sadly, like Samson, its love for the world has similarly blinded, stripped, impoverished and weakened it.^[3]

Samson's Last Decision

Samson landed in a Philistine prison house after having lost his eyesight and strength and having become completely useless toward his divine calling. In that state of affairs, we pick up his last story:

Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice: for they said, Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand. And when the people saw him, they praised their god: for they said, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, which slew many of us. And it came to pass, when their hearts were merry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison house; and he made them sport: and they set him between the pillars. (Judges 16:23-25)

If the blind judge, Samson, stands for the blind "judgment people" who make up Laodicea, then this story has serious implications. First of all, we see who is calling the General Conference Session—the lords of the Philistines, representing the papist leaders within the church. And what is their motive for convening the Session? "For to offer a great sacrifice unto their god." In other words, it was not just an ordinary party—it was a big worship service.

The Bible gives us many clues to identify this event. It says they wanted to make “sport” of Samson, or in casual English, they wanted to make fun of him. They came together for sport, for fun. That’s where we get the modern term “sports,” which refers to games—especially athletic games. Where do people come together for athletic games, for great sporting events? They come to a stadium!

But Samson wasn’t brought to just any stadium. He was brought to a stadium with a very specific construction design. It had pillars, and they set him between the pillars. This particular building was designed so that its roof was supported by pillars:

And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them. Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were upon the roof about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson made sport. (Judges 16:26-27)

In this way, the Bible describes not only the type of building (a sports stadium) but also the type of construction. It had pillars which supported the roof. Does the story of Samson accurately typify the venue for the GC Session in San Antonio? Take a closer look:

The Alamodome has four great pillars which support the roof. The delegates of the blind, lukewarm church, like Samson, will be set between the pillars. The church will make its last decision in this setting, which is a conference convened in honor of Dagon, the fish god, “the protector of the sea,”^[4] namely the pope, who wears the fish hat, and whose red cappello we already saw hanging over the Session.

God’s promise that through Samson He would “begin to deliver Israel out of the hand of the Philistines” was fulfilled; but how dark and terrible the record of that life which might have been a praise to God and a glory to the nation! Had Samson been true to his divine calling, the purpose of God could have been accomplished in his honor and exaltation. But he yielded to temptation and proved untrue to his trust, and his mission was fulfilled in defeat, bondage, and death. {PP 567.2}^[5]

Samson's last act—the last act in his drama^[6]—was to pull down the pillars and die with the Philistines.

The Altar of Baal

The story of Samson is not the only Bible story that has something to do with the Alamodome building. The church is officially praying—like never before—for the latter rain to fall in this GC Session. Unfortunately, the GC-led prayer campaign appeals to the powers of spiritualism, not to God. By the end of the three-and-a-half-year drought, King Ahab and all Israel were also undoubtedly praying desperately for rain, and also to the wrong gods. The drought ended with the challenge at Mt. Carmel.

An ancient pagan altar unearthed at Beersheba c. 1975.

As Brother John explained in Fire at Mount Carmel, the Orion formula is encoded in the procedure that Elijah followed prior to praying for divine confirmation. The Orion Clock is perfectly symbolized by the altar, the trench, and all the associated symbolism. The imagery points to a specific time on the Orion Clock: July 8, 2015—the sixth trumpet. It is not by accident that God points out that specific date within the General Conference Session as the culmination of the challenge.

The altar symbolism is also reflected in the architecture of the Alamodome, showing just how implicated the GC really is. There are a couple of specific elements in the design of the Alamodome that correspond to the construction of the altar:

- The four horns of the altar symbolize the four pillars of the Alamodome.
- The twelve stones that were used to construct the altar symbolize the 12 wall segments around the stadium.

We must keep in mind that the challenge at Mt. Carmel had two possible outcomes. There were two altars, and two kinds of prayer. The measures of seed associated with the trench around God's altar stand for martyrs, but the victory of fire from heaven resulted in the slaying of the priests of Baal and Asherah, who were heathens, not martyrs. It was an act of cleansing in Israel. Like in the case of Samson, the sacrifice of the enemy was thwarted by God, and the enemy was slain. The choice to hold the GC Session in the Alamodome shows that the GC is involved in Elijah's challenge, whether the planners acknowledge it or not, and whether they intend it or not. Prophecy confirms it.

The Loosing of the Four Angels

The four horns of the altar symbolize the four hand and foot stars of the Orion Clock:

And his brightness was as the light; he had horns [or rays] coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power. (Habakkuk 3:4)

The power of Jesus is hidden in His sacrificial act, which Habakkuk described as rays of light emanating from His (pierced) hand. This is a vivid illustration of Jesus in the Orion constellation, where the hand and foot stars mark the nail prints. The way in which dates are found on the clock is precisely by drawing rays pointing outward from the center of the clock through the hand and foot stars. In the biblical language, “ray” and “horn” are both the same Hebrew word. Both concepts are represented in the Alamodome construction: the pillars protrude like horns as well as emanate rays of light at night.

The Clock of God in Orion was constructed when the stars were placed in the heavens, and has pointed to important events in the history of mankind down through the ages. The stars of Orion mark the time of the sixth trumpet on His clock as July 8, 2015. This date is not an invention of John Scotram—it has been written by the finger of God in Orion since the foundation of the world. On that day, the following prophecy will surely fulfill:

And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God... (Revelation 9:13)

This is speaking primarily of the heavenly sanctuary in reference to the four horns of the altar, but it also relates directly to the Alamodome, where the four horns of the altar are symbolized by the four great pillars. The corporate voice of the church will utter decisions that day in the Alamodome. The voice from the horns of the altar speaks to the trumpet angel:

Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. (Revelation 9:14)

In terms of the heavenly sanctuary, it is speaking of the four beasts^[7] or living creatures^[8] which are represented by the four hand and foot stars of the Orion Clock—all symbolized by the four horns of the altar. It speaks of the four angels which are bound, meaning that something has been binding up the message and keeping it from spreading the way it should—namely the existing leadership of the church:

If it were possible, the enemy would clog the wheels of progress, and prevent the truths of the gospel from being circulated everywhere. With this object he leads men to feel that it is their privilege to control the consciences of their fellow-men according to their own perverted ideas. They dismiss the Holy Spirit from their counsels, and then, under the power and name of the General Conference, they invent regulations through which they compel men to be ruled by their own ideas and not by the Holy Spirit. {1888 1527.2}^[9]

While the Clock of God keeps ticking, the wheels of progress have been clogged by General Conference counsels that have no Holy Spirit. This, too, is symbolized in the physical construction of the stadium: there are cables binding the four pillars to the roof and anchoring them to the ground.

The message of the voice that comes from the stadium gives the command to let the messenger angels loose. These four messenger angels are even called out by the “Final Four” graphics on the corners of the stadium in the picture that the Adventist Review chose to include in their publication of the Session agenda^[10] (see the close-up photograph of the window graphics under the pillar, at right). That means something will happen at the stadium that day which will unbind the message of the four angels.

And the four angels were loosed,^[11] which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. And the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand [200,000,000]: and I heard the number of them. (Revelation 9:15-16)

It's hard to study this verse—especially with Samson in mind—without considering that if the pillars were unbound from the roof, the roof would collapse and the stadium itself would serve as the killer horsemen, which number 200 million as a figure representative of the nearly $200 million cost^[12] of the structure. That might seem impossible, but when an Act of God is factored into the equation, the prophetic evidence becomes quite compelling.

I will hasten to say that we are non-violent people, as all Seventh-day Adventists should be. This is a study to be undertaken with fear and trembling, knowing that God discerns the thoughts and intents of the heart. Terrorism and other acts of violence are against what the Orion Clock teaches, despite what accusations might be hurled by other professed saints. Just have a look at the caliber of Doug Batchelor's secretary, Eugene Prewitt, who messaged us:

[From Eugene Prewitt on May 17, 2015 at 9:30 a.m.]

John, if you or your followers use violence on July 8 would that constitute a fulfillment of your prediction? Or would the absence of supernatural intervention be proof that you were offbase despite the human-accomplished violence? Are you personally committed to non-violence?

[John Scotram's reply:]

Why not read the article. I answer exactly this there?!? Why attack without reading? Is this “Love”?

You faked to have studied Orion when I sent it to you in 2010! You should know that even partaking in military service is an abomination for God written with His own finger in the heavens! How would I support violence!? Are you nuts?

To show you, how superficially you read and study, I quote from the article: “[Note: One way or another, the blame for these events will be put on us! Let no one come to the foolish idea of wanting to help out! It must be a visible judgment from God without any human intervention! We are not fanatics who threaten anyone with death. We ask God to intervene, because we ourselves are impotent. And if He is with us, He will fight for us while we hide!^[38] (The footnote goes to Isaiah 26:20) Hope you repent your accusing mail (for your own sake).

He did not respond further. Is that the behavior of a leader of God's people, making false accusations without apology? Ironically, this brief exchange took place on the verge of the sixth commandment-month (which we are presently in),^[13] when the people of God are being especially tested on the commandment “Thou shalt not kill.” By the end of this article, you will see who stands in breach of the sixth commandment, and it isn't a minority.

In any case, this topic of the roof collapsing is only the beginning of what the Bible has to say about this GC Session! It gives a crystal clear picture, and we've only begun to examine it.

Josiah Litch prophesied the August 1840 fall of the Ottoman Empire based on this same text, which gave the prophetic hour, day, month, and year of the event. We previously interpreted this verse in a transitional way, partly under the day-for-year principle and partly under the day-for-day principle, to prophesy the formal union of all major world religions on November 30, 2014.^[14] There is a third and final application, applying the literal sum of 391 days.

In his June 12, 2014 interview,^[15] Pope Francis divulged the key points of his agenda. Notable among them was his intention to fight fundamentalism, which he asserts is violent by nature. Exactly 391 days later, prepared for an hour, day, month, and year, the sixth trumpet will sound on July 8, 2015 with the cumulative force of all the previous trumpets, which have been restrained till this time.^[16] This will signal the onset of his furious attack.

Thou must prophesy again...

Revelation 11 is the story of our movement—the movement of the Fourth Angel. Everything started in 2004 when “John” (Scotram, not the Revelator) was given the golden reed:

And there was given me [John] a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein. (Revelation 11:1)

This story is recorded in detail in the article entitled Prophecy Again. It is about a comparison of the height of the wall of New Jerusalem, 144 cubits,^[17] with the height of the wall of the earthly blueprint, which was one reed of six cubits.^[18] That is a size ratio of 144:6 or simply 24:1 between the real heavenly sanctuary and the blueprint. To find out how long it would take to cleanse the real thing, the factor of 24 was multiplied by the 7 days it took to cleanse the altar in the blueprint.^[19] That yields the duration of the cleansing of the heavenly sanctuary, which is $24 \times 7 = 168$ years. That is all detailed in the article.

These words (Revelation 11:1) come right after the Great Disappointment of the little book that was bitter for William Miller (Revelation 10:10). The interpretation of the little book that was bitter in the belly rests on firm ground, confirmed by Ellen G. White. The little book of Revelation 10:10 was Miller’s discovery of the meaning of Daniel 8:14—the 2300 evenings and mornings. He arrived at the beginning of the judgment, not the second coming of Christ. Then there was the tarrying time in the parable of the bridegroom, from the time when the virgins went forth to meet the bridegroom until the cry was made at midnight and the bridegroom came.^[20]

Thus, there are two “Millers.” To the second Miller, it is said to prophesy again:

The Book of Seven Seals
 “In symbolic language was contained in that roll the influence of every nation, tongue, and people from the beginning of earth’s history to its close.” (20MR 197.2)

And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings. (Revelation 10:11)

The first Miller did not fulfill that verse. Every word in this prophecy has significance. We need to understand why it says to prophesy before “many peoples, nations, and tongues, and kings.” We are talking about the end of the judgment, which was a time period that the first Miller didn’t have. What he found was the time of the beginning of the judgment of the dead, but we have the whole judgment of the dead and the living, because that is what we found in Daniel 12 in the oath of the man over the river, in pictorial form.^[21] The scene in Daniel 12 covers the whole duration of both parts of the judgment, each expressed by a number, and we logically deduced how they overlap.

We can see, therefore, that Revelation 10:11 rightfully belongs to chapter 11. (The chapter divisions and verse numbers are not part of the original text; they were added later.) But what does it mean to prophesy again before “many peoples, nations, and tongues, and kings?” Where is the key to understanding that expression?

The Content of the Prophecy

The Hebrew word for “before” in 10:11 is a rather loose word that can be used various ways, and in Bibles it is in fact translated variously as “about” “to” or “before.” It is a little bit ambiguous. That certainly allows us to interpret it as being a command to prophesy “about” peoples, nations, tongues and kings.

In the video about the Book of Seven Seals, we quote Sister White to say very clearly that the Book of Seven Seals is about the history of nations, the church, ruling powers and the influence of every nation, tongue and people for all time, etc.,^[22] and exactly that video is in the Fire on Mount Carmel article, which defines the Mt. Carmel Challenge. One cannot prophesy about July 8 without having the Book of Seven Seals, because it’s a time prophecy. Ellen White defines the book of Seven Seals as containing the whole history of the world, and it does that with the four cycles of the Orion Clock. The blood of Jesus in Orion shows the sacrifice of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world, all the way back to when the first animals were sacrificed to clothe Adam and Eve.

However, we could not find any event in Bible history that corresponds to the first set of throne lines in the first Great Cycle of the Orion Clock.^[23] There is a reason for that. Only one of the clocks of God was ticking at that time. The second set of throne lines, however, points to the second clock which began ticking when the children of Israel kept the first Passover in Canaan.

For the LORD will pass through to smite the Egyptians; and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side posts, the LORD will pass over the door, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your houses to smite you...And it shall come to pass, when ye be come to the land which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service. (Exodus 12:23, 25)

The firstfruits of the land were needed for the spring feasts, and the maturity of the barley in particular was used in combination with the spring equinox to determine the beginning of the festal year. Thus, the first High Sabbaths were possible only when the children of Israel had crossed over Jordan to enter Canaan, and not before. That is when the High Sabbath clock began to tick, and from that time on, the “bread” and “wine” clocks were ticking together.

As we know it, the HSL is just a fraction of the High Sabbath combinations with seventh-day Sabbaths that have occurred since the conquest of Canaan. That is because the Book of Seven Thunders, which is the HSL, is about the judgment time and does not extend back to ancient Canaan. These two books were unknown until John Scotram came along.

The Book of Seven Seals prophesies about peoples, nations, tongues and kings, from the beginning of the world. However, there is something similar in Revelation 17:15 in regards to the waters, which are “peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.” This verse is talking about the great whore, which shows that the clocks of God, which prophesy about multitudes, peoples, nations, etc. are also the key to identifying who Satan is today, appearing as the false Christ. They are the key to understanding the eighth king of Revelation 17:11.

In both respects, the message of the Fourth Angel fulfills as never before the command to prophesy again about “many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.” Going into chapter 11, John the Revelator thus stands for John Scotram.

Measuring the Worshipers

John receives the reed like a rod in verse 1, and is commanded to rise and measure. Who rose and measured? John Scotram. He measured the temple and the wall and the altar, as already mentioned.

However, the verse also speaks about measuring the worshipers therein. How did he measure the worshipers? Measuring people is about judgment. If you measure a man, you measure how far away he is in stature from the blueprint of Jesus. It is related to the height of the wall of the temple. You have to measure up to the character of Jesus to pass the wall through the pearly gates. John has been measuring the people by comparing them to the standard of Jesus’ character as expressed in the Orion and HSL clocks. They are not just about time, but about doctrines, beliefs, and behavior—even the Ten Commandments.

Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters? (1 Corinthians 6:2)

Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them. (Matthew 7:20)

This is one of the characteristics of the message of the Fourth Angel, which sets it miles apart from other pure-time-setting studies that do nothing to improve character.

The New Testament says that the law is a mirror.^[24] For example, a person can look at the clocks and ask himself, “Do I believe in the Trinity as three separate Persons?” “Am I against the false teachings of QoD?” etc. Even women’s ordination and LGBT equality are addressed by Orion and the HSL, and they are in Revelation 11 too.

John had to measure “them that worship therein” with these tools—the measuring reeds that can measure the stature of a person’s character. Many have failed to measure up, who might have liked the message, but not the measuring man (or men). As

The Book of Seven Thunders
 “The special light given to John which was expressed in the seven thunders was a delineation of events...” (1MR 99:2)

The High Sabbath List, or The Vessel of Time
 From the first and second angels’ messages to the Close of Probation 1841 - 2015 we study with others, we are constantly measuring people. The throne room of the judgment of the living^[25] is about judges and judgment, but it is not we who judge. Jesus Christ, who is represented in the clocks, is the One who judges by virtue of who He is. The message was given to bring about repentance, which never feels good, and where there is no repentance, the sinner feels the condemnation that Jesus' righteous example heaps upon him.^[26]

The first Miller in chapter 10 just ate the little book, but he didn't measure anything. He ate the little book and it was first sweet and then bitter. Eating the little book means studying it, and the little book represents chapters 8-10 of Daniel, or perhaps also chapter 11. Chapter 12, however, was reserved for the second Miller. The first Miller ate, but didn't measure. Measuring is something that belongs to the judgment time.

The Courtyard Outside the Temple

But the court which is without the temple leave out, and measure it not; for it is given unto the Gentiles: and the holy city shall they tread under foot forty and two months. (Revelation 11:2)

The court (or courtyard) is always outside the temple, so why doesn't the text just say "the court"? Why does it explicitly say "the court which is outside the temple"? The temple, or heavenly sanctuary, is represented by the Orion Clock, which is the Book of Seven Seals. This book was written on the inside, and on the outside. The inside of the book is the part that has been deciphered with the Orion Clock representation of the heavenly sanctuary (or temple), and was not opened until our time, but the outside of the book represents the Christian era when the seals had their classical fulfillment. That period does not have a corresponding Orion cycle; the measurement instruments (clocks) that God gave do not measure that part, because verse 2 says not to measure the court outside the temple.

In fact, the Latin origin of the English word "temple" has a root that means "spans of time." If you combine that concept with the "EL" sound, which means God in Hebrew, then "temp-el" would mean something like "God's time." Thus the words "outside the temple" could be understood to refer to the era that is "outside of God's clocks," even just from the sound of it.

That era was given to the Gentiles, or in other words, to the Catholics. During that time, they figuratively treaded the holy city under foot for 42 months, which corresponds to the classical period of papal supremacy in Europe for 1260 years from 538 to 1798.

The very next verse speaks of a 1260-day period using different language:

And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth. (Revelation 11:3)

The unit of days used in verse 3 is a contrast to the unit of months used in verse 2, showing that these are meant to refer to different periods of time. This is also clear from the context given to each period. In verse 2, it was referring to a time that was given to the Gentiles, but in verse 3 it refers to power given to the two witnesses, which are contrasting (and almost conflicting) concepts. Furthermore, verse 2 includes a command to not measure the time, whereas in verse 3 the two witnesses prophesy. Those are also contrasting and conflicting concepts.

In Ellen White's time, they believed that these periods were the same (and they were the same in the classical day-for-year fulfillment), but today the prophecies have a more perfect fulfillment. Verse 2 uses months—a larger unit of time—to refer to the classical 1260 years, whereas the days can be taken as a literal period in our time. This compares well with the book of Daniel, which uses the same period to refer to the years of papal supremacy in Daniel 7:25 as well as the days of the judgment of the living in Daniel 12:7. Daniel and Revelation are to be studied together.^[27] Thus the 42 months of the courtyard refer to the 1260 years, whereas the

1260 days refer to the literal 1260 days of the judgment of the living, which began on May 6, 2012.^[28]

Ellen G. White and the pioneers did not have this level of understanding because the measuring reed had not been given yet. The reed would be given in 2004, when John started the studies covered in the Prophecy Again article. It had to be after their time, because the power had not been given yet either. The Power of the Father article explains how time prophecy had been prohibited during their time, until the authority would be given again. We had to approach the time of Jesus' second coming before the measuring reed (and the power) would be given.

Twice Daniel inquired, How long shall it be to the end of time? ... And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end.... the wise shall understand... {18MR 15.1}^[29]

The measuring reed and the power are also two different things. The measuring reed was given in 2004, when John rose up to measure the temple, but the power was given at the beginning of the 1260 days. Every word in Revelation 11 has a meaning.

William Miller studied Daniel 7-10, which pertained to the time of the Gentiles. The second Miller studied the time of the judgment of the dead and living. Over and over we see this compare-and-contrast activity between the two Millers. One did what the other didn't do, and the other did what the one didn't do.

The Two Witnesses

The two witnesses get the power. If you think that the two witnesses are the 144,000 and the martyrs, then you are supporting the pre-tribulation rapture, because there's no other solution in that case—since they rise up to heaven. It's hard to blame people who believe in the pre-tribulation rapture if they study Revelation 11 without the proper perspective!

The man with the measuring reed is one thing, but the two witnesses are something completely different. The two witnesses are killed and raised in the sixth trumpet, because the second woe (sixth trumpet) is mentioned at the end of this passage. They die for three and a half days, then they are raptured. Therefore, the witnesses cannot be living people. They must be symbolic since the pre-tribulation rapture is unscriptural. Furthermore, John saw the 144,000 standing on the sea of glass^[30] only at the beginning of the plagues, so even if you interpret their standing on the sea of glass literally, it would be hard to reconcile that with their rapture in the sixth trumpet.

Thus the two witnesses must be something entirely different. In the Fire at Mount Carmel article, the two witnesses are mentioned as being the Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time. Those two messages prophecy, as the verse says. They prophesy throughout the whole time period of the 1260 days of the judgment of the living. These two witnesses are covered in sackcloth, symbolizing the mourning during this period.^[31]

The two witnesses prophesy the end of the judgment, and the second coming of Jesus. These are the two things that Ellen White associated with John for precisely this time:

I was pointed down to the last days and saw that John represented those who should go forth in the spirit and power of Elijah [Carmel challenge] to herald the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus. {EW 155.1}^[32]

It's not only people that herald the day, but also clocks. In fact, the people could not do it without the clocks! The Book of Seven Seals (Orion) and the Book of Seven Thunders (HSL) herald the days, together, as two witnesses. In fact, Ellen White also wrote about the "witnessing" of the Fourth Angel's message:

I asked the meaning of the shaking I had seen and was shown that it would be caused by the straight testimony called forth by the counsel of the True Witness to the Laodiceans. This will have its effect upon the heart of the receiver, and will lead him to exalt the standard and pour forth the straight truth. Some will not bear this straight testimony. They will rise up against it, and this is what will cause a shaking among God's people. {EW 270.2}^[33]

Jesus Christ, whose wounds and blood are shown in Orion and the HSL, is the True Witness, and His two witnesses are those two messages, which are a standard lifted up, by which men can measure their character.

I saw that the testimony of the True Witness has not been half heeded. The solemn testimony upon which the destiny of the church hangs has been lightly esteemed, if not entirely disregarded. This testimony must work deep repentance; all who truly receive it will obey it and be purified. {EW 270.3}^[34]

Look how she describes the messages:

Said the angel, "List [^[35] ye!" Soon I heard a voice like many musical instruments all sounding in perfect strains, sweet and harmonious. It surpassed any music I had ever heard, seeming to be full of mercy, compassion, and elevating, holy joy. It thrilled through my whole being. Said the angel, "Look ye!" My attention was then turned to the company I had seen, who were mightily shaken. I was shown those whom I had before seen weeping and praying in agony of spirit. The company of guardian angels around them had been doubled, and they were clothed with an armor from their head to their feet. They moved in exact order, like a company of soldiers. Their countenances expressed the severe conflict which they had endured, the agonizing struggle they had passed through. Yet their features, marked with severe internal anguish, now shone with the light and glory of heaven. They had obtained the victory, and it called forth from them the deepest gratitude and holy, sacred joy. {EW 270.4}^[36]

The two clocks are the body and blood of Jesus; that's how the True Witness (Jesus Christ) is the two witnesses. That is why they re-trace His experience of dying and rising again, and ascending to heaven. It is highly symbolic, but it is easy to understand by our movement. Nobody else can decipher it this way.

Ellen White wrote a lot of things in her books that she was pressured to change in later editions. One thing in particular, which is heavily attacked today, is her interpretation of Revelation 11. The three-and-a-half-year period in particular is heavily criticized because of the lack of historical evidence for the decrees at the beginning and end of the period:

It was in 1793 that the decrees which abolished the Christian religion and set aside the Bible passed the French Assembly. Three years and a half later a resolution rescinding these decrees, thus granting toleration to the Scriptures, was adopted by the same body. {GC 287.1}^[37]

There is a whole chapter in the official biography^[38] dealing with the changes regarding the French Revolution. They spent months researching in libraries (without tools like the Internet in those days). You can read that chapter as your homework. Ellen White was standing on thin ice on that point. It is probably one of the most difficult-to-prove prophetic interpretations in all of Adventism.

So why didn't she take it out or change it completely in the 1911 edition of the Great Controversy? She just changed the wording very slightly to be less attackable, but she kept the three-and-a-half years beginning in 1793. Even though it was controversial, she kept it.

That chapter was considered "a very important one," and indeed it is. It lays the foundation for our present-day interpretation of Revelation 11. She affirmed that the two witnesses stood for the Old and New Testaments. They were the two scriptural Testimonies or witnesses.

If we follow that line of interpretation, then today they must also represent a scriptural authority equal to the Bible, namely the Orion and HSL messages, which were written by the finger of God in the heavens. The only other part of the Bible that was written by the finger of God, is the Ten Commandments. These are not an addition to the Bible like what Revelation 22:18 talks about, but rather they are two books of the Bible which had not been discovered till recently. Our canon Bible has 66 books, so Orion and the HSL could rightfully be considered the 67th and 68th books of the Bible.

In the time of John the Revelator, the celestial bodies had not even scribed their paths to define the HSL yet. The sun, moon, and earth had not yet traced out their orbits. Orion, however, was already in place. John could see the outside of the book, and that is what the prophecies of Revelation are talking about—he wrote the whole Apocalypse, which is the basis for the classical interpretation of the book of seven seals, but he just couldn't look inside the book to the Orion Clock that we have today. The seven thunders, as I mentioned however, hadn't been written yet. Therefore, he could not even write them down.^[39] The voices in heaven (the heavenly bodies themselves) forbade it.

So the two witnesses are Scripture, like the Old and New Testaments. Orion is like the Old Testament, which has been ticking since the Creation with the Great Orion Cycle, proclaiming when Jesus Christ was to be born. His roots—the creation of Adam—are the beginning of the Bible, and if you want to get back to your original roots, you have to study the Book of Seven Seals. It is like Jesus Christ in the Old Testament, which prophesied of Him. The three references to Orion by name are also in the Old Testament, as well as the symbolism of the flying roll in Zechariah 5.

The HSL, on the other hand, is like the New Testament. It is the time of the judgment just before Jesus' return. The feast days are the pen with which the Book of Seven Thunders is written, and the pen started to write in 1841. The definition of the High Sabbath in John 19:31 belongs to the New Testament.

Of course both concepts bleed into both Testaments, just as both Testaments are interconnected, but we are speaking about where the emphasis is, to show how this understanding of the two witnesses today builds upon the foundation laid by Ellen White.

The two witnesses are clothed in sackcloth because people read the messages, but they aren't sure about it. They worry that nothing will happen. Sackcloth is a sign of shame and humiliation, reflecting how the message is received. But it is a temporary state, which is about to change.

Overcome and Killed

The two witnesses, Orion and the HSL, will be figuratively killed:

And when they shall have finished their testimony, the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them. (Revelation 11:7)

We are immediately faced with an apparent problem because it is after “when they have finished their testimony” that they are killed. This would place the three and a half days after the judgment of the living, after the close of probation! That doesn’t make sense, and this is where Ellen White helps us out with her insistence to keep the three and a half years beginning in 1793 despite the lack of solid historical proof.

The end of papal authority and the captivity of the pope in 1798 marked the end of the 1260 years. Similarly, by the end of the 1260 days of the judgment of the living, the 144,000 will have been found and the plagues will begin. That is when Pope Francis will lose the game, and the world will begin to feel the executive judgment—the wrath of God in the plagues—for about a year until his reign is completely destroyed.^[40]

Her interpretation places the three and a half years inside of the 1260 years, which ended in 1798. This is how it is for us too; our three and a half days are inside the 1260 days of the judgment of the living. The year 1793 + 3.5 years bring us to 1796.5, which leaves 1.5 years to spare before the end of the 1260 years. Similarly, our 3.5 days leave some time to spare before the end of the 1260 days.

The whole difficulty disappears, however, when we realize that the verse is in fact a faulty translation. This is reflected in the Great Controversy, where the correct meaning is made very clear:

“When they shall have finished [are finishing] their testimony.” The period when the two witnesses were to prophesy clothed in sackcloth, ended in 1798. As they were approaching the termination of their work in obscurity, war was to be made upon them by the power represented as “the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit.” {GC 268.3}^[41]

The faulty translation has not gone unnoticed. The biblical scholar and lecturer of the Greek language, Joseph Mede, clarified the issue in the 1600’s:

But let us throw light on the text. “When,” says he, “they shall be finishing their testimony,” (for so ὅτ’ αὐτὲλὲ σωσι should be translated, not by the preterite, when they have finished,) “the beast who ascends out of the abyss, shall make war upon them and shall kill them.”^[42]

Other eminent commentators agree.^[43] Thus, our three and a half days begin towards the end of the judgment of the living. It will be at a specific time when something will happen that will figuratively kill, set aside, or burn the Orion and HSL “Scriptures.” Then after three and a half days, something will happen that will be celebrated by the people, who will send gifts one to another. They will be happy about the killing, burning, or setting aside that took place, similarly to what happened in the French Revolution.

We will crystalize this in a moment.

Sodom and Egypt

And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified. (Revelation 11:8)

Ellen White explains what Sodom means:

France presented also the characteristics which especially distinguished Sodom. During the Revolution there was manifest a state of moral debasement and corruption similar to that which brought destruction upon the cities of the plain. And the historian presents together the atheism and the licentiousness of France, as given in the prophecy: “Intimately connected with these laws affecting religion, was that which reduced the union of marriage—the most sacred engagement which human beings can form, and the permanence of which leads most strongly to the consolidation of society—to the state of a mere civil contract of a transitory character, which any two persons might engage in and cast loose at pleasure.... If fiends had set themselves to work to discover a mode of most effectually destroying whatever is venerable, graceful, or permanent in domestic life, and of obtaining at the same time an assurance that the mischief which it was their object to create should be perpetuated from one generation to another, they could not have invented a more effectual plan than the degradation of marriage.... Sophie Arnoult, an actress famous for the witty things she said, described the republican marriage as ‘the sacrament of adultery.’”—Scott, vol. 1, ch. 17. {GC 270.1}^[44]

The three and a half days relate to Sodom and Egypt. Sodom represents the taking away of God’s design for marriage, which is being accomplished both in the world and in the church today.

Egypt, on the other hand, represents disregard for God (atheism). Egypt demonstrated this most strikingly when Pharaoh defiantly asked, “Who is the LORD, that I should obey his voice?”^[45] That was at the time when the warning of plagues hung over him, just as it is today. So Egypt accurately represents the Human Rights movement, as promoted by the United Nations and adopted by the nations of the world. This atheistic principle is also being accomplished both in the world and in the church—yes, even the church—when it sets aside doctrine (the way we learn about God) and uplifts Human Rights (which are atheistic). Thus the literal three and a half days relate very much to our time.

Suffice it to quote Ellen White in regards to verse 5, which explains the consequences of adopting the policies of Sodom and Egypt, since the interpretation extends to us:

“And if any man will hurt them, fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.” Revelation 11:5. Men cannot with impunity trample upon the word of God. The meaning of this fearful denunciation is set forth in the closing chapter of the Revelation: “I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.” Revelation 22:18, 19.

Such are the warnings which God has given to guard men against changing in any manner that which He has revealed or commanded. These solemn denunciations apply to all who by their influence lead men to regard lightly the law of God. They should cause those to fear and tremble who flippantly declare it a matter of little consequence whether we obey God’s law or not. All who exalt their own opinions above divine revelation, all who would change the plain meaning of Scripture to suit their own convenience, or for the sake of conforming to the world, are taking upon themselves a fearful responsibility. The written word, the law of God, will measure the character of every man and condemn all whom this unerring test shall declare wanting. {GC 268.2}^[46]

The Grand Celebration

And they of the people and kindreds and tongues and nations shall see their dead bodies three days and an half, and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves. And they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry, and shall send gifts one to another; because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt on the earth. (Revelation 11:9-10)

We know that the U.S. Supreme Court is expected to make a ruling that would effectively set aside God's institution of marriage at the end of June. The influential Volokh Conspiracy legal and political blog "speculates" on the timing as follows:

This year, decisions will be issued on Monday, June 22, and Thursday, June 25, 2015. And then there's one last possible decision day. It's not much more than a hunch, and it's subject to about a thousand different contingencies, but you might want to plan on tuning in to your favorite 24-hour news channel at 10 a.m. (EDT) on Monday, June 29, 2015.^[47]

That is a familiar date, which seems to be a favorite for the powers that be.^[48] But even after the decision is made, it will take a couple of days until homosexual couples can actually get married, as was the case in 2013 when the Supreme Court overturned DOMA. Following that example, let's just say the law will go into effect two days after the decision is announced. That would take us from the morning of June 29 to the morning of July 1. The beginning of the month would be a logical day for the ruling to go into effect, and no doubt there will be a queue of homosexuals ready to make the headlines by getting "married" at that first opportunity. That would make it something like a Gregorian version of the Jewish "Day of Trumpets" on the first day of the seventh month, July.

There is no question that major parties will be taking place to celebrate this new freedom from the restraint of God's law. In fact, gay rights activists have already made their plans to celebrate the outcome...to rejoice, make merry, and send gifts, as the verse says. If we count three and a half days from the probable effectivity date of July 1, we come to the evening of Saturday, July 4! What better day is there for a homosexual to celebrate independence from God, than on Independence Day!?

Among the many parties that have been planned is the 2015 Pride "Bigger Than Texas" event in San Antonio,^[49] just a couple of miles from the Alamodome, where Seventh-day Adventists will be deliberating on whether to welcome Pride—commonly considered the original and most serious of the seven cardinal sins^[50]—into the church in the form of the precursor to LGBT acceptance and equality, which is women's ordination. This comes on the 50th anniversary of the LGBT Civil Rights Movement, which will be celebrating a half century of progress toward full LGBT equality^[51]—no accident, I'm sure. Celebrations are planned around the globe.^[52] How will the SDA Church maintain its stand against sodomy when days before the Session, national U.S. law would already require them to perform LGBT marriages? Can the ordination of women alone solve their dilemma with the State?

License they mean, when Liberty they cry...

Regarding the icon of U.S. liberty, Wikipedia relates:

The Statue of Liberty...was a gift to the United States from the people of France. The statue is of a robed female figure representing Libertas, the Roman goddess, who bears a torch and a tabula ansata (a tablet evoking the law) upon which is inscribed the date of the American Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. A broken chain lies at her feet. The statue is an icon of freedom and of the United States: a welcoming signal to immigrants arriving from abroad.^[53]

The statue was brought to America to symbolize the freedom that Satan would one day bring with his homosexual torch, taking away the divine rights that come from God and replacing them with Human Rights, symbolized by the Roman “tablet evoking the law” in her hand. The broken chain at her feet also represents freedom from God, and is reminiscent of the Chain of Satan, which is directly linked to the June 29 date. In fact, the date inscribed on the tablet says exactly when this freedom would be celebrated: July 4, in a very specific year.

The tablet gives the year as 1776 (in Roman numerals), which is an encoding of the actual target year. The Masons add 4000 years, making it 5776, which is the height in inches that the great pyramid in Egypt would measure if completed.^[54] For them, it symbolizes the accomplishment of the purpose, they say, for which the United States was founded, as pictured by the pyramid and all-seeing eye on the Great Seal (and dollar bill). The year 5776 on the modern Jewish calendar, which the Masons use to interpret the date, corresponds to this year: 2015.

Thus the tablet marks the completion of the pinnacle of the NWO and the re-establishment of Roman law, which the nation will unwittingly celebrate on this very Independence Day. Revelation 11:10 specifies that it is “they that dwell upon the earth”—meaning the U.S. in prophecy—who will rejoice, make merry, and send gifts, because it is talking about the 4th of July Independence Day holiday of the U.S. (But of course it will be celebrated in other lands, too.)

While the statue was a gift from France, the base of the statue was funded and built by the U.S. That shows how the plans were laid very far in advance that one day, the U.S. would invite Satan (the light-bearer) to the throne of the nation, and they would break the shackles of God’s law.^[55] That will literally happen when Pope Francis^[56] addresses the world from the United States on September 23, this year!

Homosexuality represents independence from God.^[57] Defenders of homosexuality are enemies of God,^[58] and when a nation adopts those kinds of laws, that nation is condemned. That is when the lamblike beast will be speaking like a dragon, like Satan. Then, the satanic flame will set fire to the nation and spread world-wide, as the Sunday Law.^[59]

Truth Triumphant

Three and a half days are mentioned again:

And after three days and an half the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them. And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them. (Revelation 11:11-12)

If this verse were referring to the same days as verse 9, then the two witnesses would rise on the 4th of July and complete the entire story before the sixth trumpet had even begun (July 8)! Furthermore, it wouldn’t leave any time for merrymaking on the night of the 4th before the great fear would fall upon them. Therefore, it must be a second period of three and a half days, which would bring us from the 4th of July evening to the morning of July 8. Then the prophecy accurately brings us to the sixth trumpet date, which is the date for Elijah's challenge. On that very day, which was written in Orion by the finger of God before the world was created, the GC plans to vote on the big issue of women's ordination!^[60] When the fire from heaven of the modern Elijah comes on that day, the two witnesses—the Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time—will be confirmed and will figuratively rise again and be elevated to their proper position, and great fear will fall upon those who will see them.

The Alamodome will be configured to seat 70,000 people for the GC Session.^[61] This figures into the prophecy as well:

And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of heaven. (Revelation 11:13)

This verse even says how many people will be in the Alamodome, and how many should be killed. All you need to do is ask: What is the whole, if the tenth part is seven thousand? Clearly, one tenth of 70,000 is 7000, just as the verse says! This is serious stuff!

Torment took place under the fifth trumpet, but killing takes place under the sixth trumpet. When the killing begins, the torment ends. That is the point in time when the two witnesses resurrect—at the sixth trumpet, when the second woe has happened, and the third woe hasn't yet. There will be just a little over three months till the great carillon^[62] begins to sound in heaven and Jesus Christ will throw down the censer. By that time, the remnant that were affrighted and gave glory to God will have to have been sealed.

Independence Day on the 4th of July is not the only reason why there are seven days divided into three and a half and another three and a half. Satan will not have quite overcome the last Protestant church until the Seventh-day Adventist Church votes in favor of the Human-Rights-motivated issues of women's ordination and LGBT acceptance. It is likely that a disgraceful worship service and a betraying sermon will be delivered on the 4th of July Sabbath in the Alamodome in regard to these issues, just like what we've already seen from high profile pastors like Alejandro Bullón,^[63] former president Jan Paulsen, former BRI figurehead Angel Rodriguez, and their other fellow "statesmen,"^[64] as well as younger names like David Asscherick.^[65]

Many will show that they are not one with Christ, that they are not dead to the world, that they may live with Him; and frequent will be the apostasies of men who have occupied responsible positions.—The Review and Herald, September 11, 1888. {LDE 179.1}

Are we not seeing exactly this?

Many will stand in our pulpits with the torch of false prophecy in their hands, kindled from the hellish torch of Satan... {LDE 179.3}

The "hellish torch of Satan" is held by the Statue of Liberty, which will be honored with Pride parades happening that evening around the world. The church is under immense pressure to vote for women's ordination and LGBT tolerance, and to alter church policy and the 28 Fundamental Beliefs accordingly.

July 4 is the church's last Sabbath before the pivotal vote. Three and a half days later on July 8, the pivotal vote will become the voice from the four horns of the altar (from the Alamodome). It will be a vote that will likely represent the fall of the last bastion of not only Protestantism, but of God's order in society. There is little question how the vote will go. The question is: "What will you do, once they vote these changes?"

Women’s ordination and the whole issue surrounding the sanctity of marriage is one of the most prominent things marked in the Orion Clock. As designed by God, marriage is a pure and holy institution.^[66] It is fittingly marked by the white horse star, Saiph. In the judgment cycle, it was illustrated by the honorable marriage of James and Ellen White in 1846. Even farther back—in the Great Orion Cycle—it is illustrated by the creation of Adam, thus pointing out the order in the home as it was established in Eden.^[67]

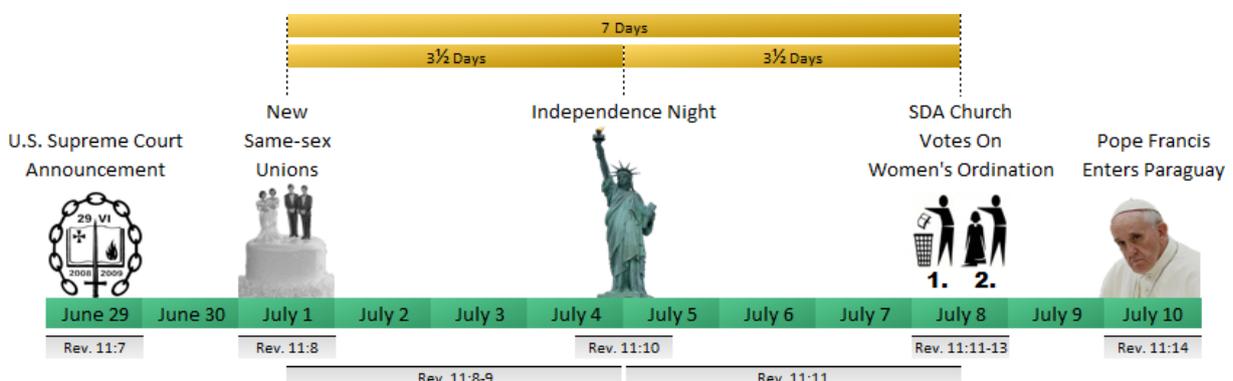

When the “Georgia Peach” GC administration elected in 2010 offers its strange fire, God will intervene and anoint the lips of His true servants to preach the message of the Fourth Angel.^[68]

The End of a Fierce Battle... The Beginning of a Fiercer

Now we have a complete understanding of Revelation 11, which has always been a very difficult chapter to understand. Every word has significance, and woe, woe, to those who will not have believed by the time the evidence has mounted!

The video linked above for the explanation of the year 1776 also talks about it symbolizing the door or “crossing” into the New Age, which is supposed to take place on the date encoded by IX XI, an old Jesuit code with many uses. The Roman numerals evaluate to 9 and 11, which is why this code was used in connection to the 9/11 travesty (or why the thing was planned on 9/11, if you wish). The space in IX XI symbolizes the doorway, as well as the number 10 that goes between 9 and 11. This “door” is popularly interpreted to mean September 23, 2015, which is the tenth day of the seventh month (the Day of Atonement, when the door to the Most Holy Place was opened) according to the (incorrect) modern Jewish calendar. No doubt this code does relate to the pope’s speech in the U.S. on that day, but there is another occult meaning which Revelation 11 brings to light.

The pope has a calendar of his own, namely the Gregorian calendar (named after the pope who created it). That is the calendar most of the world is familiar with in everyday life. In this calendar, the seventh month is July, which means that if there were a Gregorian “Day of Atonement,” it would be the tenth day of July, or July 10. That corresponds to the very day when Pope Francis will make his “crossing” into the land of Paraguay. Shortly after the two witnesses stand to their feet on July 8, the pope will plant his tabernacle on July 10, 2015 in the Paraguayan “holy land” where the voice of God is coming from.^[69] From that day on, he will begin “cutting off” all those who do not follow him, imitating how God would cut off from Israel those who were not atoned (“at-one’d” or united) with him on that day.^[70] For every truth, Satan has a counterfeit.

The Revelation 11 stage is set, and we can already see the actors taking their positions. The pope will kick off the summer with his solstice visit to the Waldensians (June 22).^[71] The U.S. Supreme Court will void the Law of God (probably on June 29).^[72] LGBT couples will marry (probably on July 1). The nations will rejoice and make merry (July 4). The San Antonio GC Session will bring down the pillars of Eden (planned for July 8) and God will settle the Elijah challenge the same day. Pope Francis will come to Paraguay (July 10). Jade Helm will begin its “exercise” (July 15), and at any moment the name-only Adventist Ben Carson could be used by the world press against God’s people.

Do you see the big picture?

Do you see that the fierce battle against the Law of God is almost over?

The National Sodomy Law

In 1888, the U.S. Senate almost passed a National Sunday Law (NSL) bill. A.T. Jones’ arguments before the Senate Committee on Education and Labor were instrumental in defeating the bill.^[73] If you want an in-depth understanding of the principles of a free society (and how far the U.S. has fallen), just read some of A.T. Jones’ defense sometime.

Today, the Supreme Court is ready to decide on what we could call a National Sodomy Law (also NSL). This time, there is no stopping it.

The first kind of NSL (where S = Sunday) represents national apostasy in the form of formal rebellion against God’s authority as expressed in the Ten Commandments, especially the fourth commandment.

The second kind of NSL (where S = sodomy) represents national apostasy in the form of a formal rebellion against God’s authority as expressed in the Ten Commandments, especially the seventh commandment.

Do you see much difference?

He referred them to the blessed days of Eden when God pronounced all things “very good.” Then marriage and the Sabbath had their origin, twin institutions for the glory of God in the benefit of humanity. {AH 340.4}^[74]

If the Sabbath and marriage are twins, do you see much difference between Sunday laws and sodomy laws? There is no difference between one NSL and the other NSL, since one of the twin institutions will be taken away one way or the other.^[75]

The Sabbath and the family were alike instituted in Eden, and in God’s purpose they are indissolubly linked together. {Ed 250.2}^[76]

What is the difference for God’s purposes if taking away marriage is indissolubly linked with taking away the Sabbath?

in-dis-sol-u-ble – adjective: unable to be destroyed; incapable of being annulled, undone, or broken; impossible to destroy, break up, or get rid of^[77]

If marriage is indissolubly linked to the Sabbath in God’s purpose with an unbreakable link, then what happens to one happens to the other! It doesn’t matter which institution falls! For God’s purpose, it is the same. That means wherever prophecy speaks of a Sunday Law, a Sodomy Law is equivalent! Either way, it represents a formal rejection of God's authority as expressed in His law.

Then let this, God's institution of marriage, stand before you as firm as the Sabbath of the fourth commandment. {TSB 159.2}^[78]

If marriage must stand as firm as the Sabbath, that means any breach of the marriage institution is equivalent to a breach of the Sabbath!

Never did this message apply with greater force than it applies today. More and more the world is setting at nought the claims of God. Men have become bold in transgression. The wickedness of the inhabitants of the world has almost filled up the measure of their iniquity. This earth has almost reached the place where God will permit the destroyer to work his will upon it. The substitution of the laws of men for the law of God, the exaltation, by merely human authority, of Sunday in place of the Bible Sabbath [\[or sodomy in the place of Bible marriage\]](#), is the last act in the drama. When this substitution becomes universal, God will reveal Himself. He will arise in His majesty to shake terribly the earth. He will come out of His place to punish the inhabitants of the world for their iniquity, and the earth shall disclose her blood and shall no more cover her slain. {7T 141.1}^[79]

Do you understand? THIS IS IT!!! THIS IS THE SUNDAY LAW THAT ELLEN WHITE PROPHESED OF!!!

Satan has been disguising his attack by attacking the twin instead, so as to keep Seventh-day Adventists asleep!

The Mirror of the Soul

Let me put it this way. Does God play games with our salvation? No! Was it just a game to watch His only begotten Son suffer inexpressible anguish? He not only gave up the ghost, but yielded the hope of the resurrection too! No, it was no game. Take yourself back in time one thousand nine hundred and eighty-four years ago \(to the day\) and look at the Savior:

So dreadful does sin appear to Him, so great is the weight of guilt which He must bear, that He is tempted to fear it will shut Him out forever from His Father's love. {DA 685.2}

Now the tempter had come for the last fearful struggle. For this he had been preparing during the three years of Christ's ministry. Everything was at stake with him. If he failed here, his hope of mastery was lost; the kingdoms of the world would finally become Christ's; he himself would be overthrown and cast out. But if Christ could be overcome, the earth would become Satan's kingdom, and the human race would be forever in his power. {DA 686.5}

If Christ would be overcome now—in the person of the 144,000—Satan would rule the earth forever! Are you playing games with God? The Bible says that being hung on a tree, like Jesus was, was a sign of damnation:

And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree [\[as opposed to stoning\]](#): His body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day; (for he that is hanged is accursed of God;) that thy land be not defiled, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance. (Deuteronomy 21:22-23)

The Jews damned their Creator, and that is what you do if you tamper with the order of marriage, wherein the man is the head. Marriage came to us from Eden, from the hand of the Creator, a holy and undefiled institution that God pronounced "very good."^[80]

God didn't play games with you, when He sent His Son to die for you. Have you played games with Him, by "keeping the Sabbath holy" while desecrating its twin institution?

Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. (Galatians 6:7)

I the LORD search the heart, I try the reins [mind], even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings. (Jeremiah 17:10)

How could God test the hearts and minds of Sabbath-keepers? How would He know if they were sincere, and were keeping the Sabbath out of love rather than selfishly clasping it to gain eternal life? Well, it's simple, and it's almost over now. He tested them without them knowing they were being tested, so they couldn't "game the system." God is not mocked.

When a Sabbath keeper who has broken down the Edenic institution of marriage faces the judgment bar, do you think God laughs that off and says, "Ah, that was smart! You found a loop-hole to sin and still get to heaven! C'mon in, since you are sealed with the Sabbath!" No, that is absurd.

The Law of God is a mirror:

For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass [mirror]: For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was. But whoso looketh [as if into a mirror] into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed. (James 1:23-25)

The Law has two tables: one dealing with man's relation to God, and the other dealing with man's relation to his fellow man. How a man treats his fellow man reflects his love for God.

If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen? (1 John 4:20)

How you love your fellow man is a reflection of how you love God, because the Law of God is a mirror. Thus God has been testing the world on the Sabbath commandment, not with a Sunday law, but with its reflection in the human sphere.

This can be better seen by studying the law as a chiasm.

If we understand the two tables of the law as a chiasm (a), then the Sabbath (fourth) commandment sits at the very pinnacle, together with the command to honor your father and your mother. Mind you, it does not say to honor your two fathers, or your two mothers, or your parents generally. Neither does it say to honor your mother (first) and then your father! The commandment says, "Honour thy father and thy mother..." because that is the design of God. Naturally (genetically) speaking, nobody has anything other than one father and one mother, and even at the genetic level, the man's seed decides the gender of his offspring. That is how God created the human race, and anything that breaks down that order is dishonorable.

There is a slight problem with viewing the chiasm this way, however. We see that the two sides of the chiasm do not align perfectly because there are more commandments on the right side compared to the left side, making it difficult to compare the two sides. However, if we build the chiasm up from the bottom with equally sized rows (b) then we find that the fourth commandment is on the same row as the seventh. Thus, the seventh commandment is also the true reflection of the fourth commandment.

The commandment against adultery—or in other words, in defense of the marriage institution—is also a reflection of the Sabbath commandment in the human sphere. That is why the Supreme Court decision and the San Antonio GC Session fall entirely within the seventh commandment-month.

Christ honored the marriage relation by making it also a symbol of the union between Him and His redeemed ones. He Himself is the Bridegroom; the bride is the church, of which, as His chosen one, He says, "Thou art all fair, My love; there is no spot in thee." {AH 26.2}

The spiritual application of adultery appears throughout the Bible. Adultery (or whoredom) is marital unfaithfulness to God. It is what characterizes the papacy (the first beast of Revelation 13, see verse 1), whose image is promoted by the U.S. (the second beast of Revelation 13, see verse 11).

And [the U.S.] deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast [papacy]; saying to them that dwell on the earth [U.S.], that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live. (Revelation 13:14)

An "image" is the technical term for the reflection you see in a mirror. Thus, the above verse is speaking directly about the enactment of LGBT-favorable legislation. By contrast, the mark of the beast is (and always was) Sunday observance; those are two distinct things.

The image of the beast is the great test for the people of God in the last days:

The Lord has shown me clearly that the image of the beast will be formed before probation closes, for it is to be the great test for the people of God, by which their eternal destiny will be decided.— Selected Messages 2:81 (1890). {LDE 227.3}

Thus Ellen White clearly defines this image—women's ordination or unity therewith—as the great test that closes the probation of God's people. The image of the beast is made by the unbridled aggression of the LGBT movement, which is what will drive the faithful out of society, as is already happening, and eventually kill them:

And he [U.S.] had power to give life unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak [legislate], and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed. (Revelation 13:15)

The Bible is clear that worshipping the image will land a person in the lake of fire just as surely as receiving the mark (Sunday worship):

And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone. (Revelation 19:20)

Thus, the commandment against adultery stands as a reflection or image of the warning not to receive the mark of the beast. In this way, the seal of God as contained in the fourth commandment is reflected in the seventh commandment.

It has been the purpose of the papacy to use the second beast against the Sabbath's twin institution, causing the people to transgress God's law through women, much like the Fall from Paradise. Those who are pro-women's ordination are like Eve eating the forbidden fruit, and those who love the church too much to separate from it are like Adam eating it consciously.^[81]

We still have a little problem in the chiasm (b), however. Since there are still more commandments on the right side, we have a gap on the left with nothing to correspond to the fifth and sixth commandments. This can be solved by expanding the fourth commandment on the left to cover the fifth, sixth, and seventh, commandments on the right (c). The fourth commandment is the longest of all the commandments, and is worthy to occupy such a prominent space. Furthermore, it contains the seal of God which has three parts. That would mean not only the fifth and seventh commandments are a reflection of the Sabbath commandment as we already saw, but also the sixth commandment; the three together reflect the fourth commandment.

To understand this, we need to consider the second part of the fifth commandment. It says:

Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. (Exodus 20:12)

This commandment is tied to a specific blessing of a long life in the Promised Land. In other words, it is talking about eternal life in heavenly Canaan for those who obey it. This reflects the eternal consequences that are associated with worshipping the image of the beast, and shows the connection to the warning of the third angel's message:

And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation... (Revelation 14:9-10)

The world is being tested with the issue of sodomy while the church is being tested with the issue of women's ordination, and both are expressions of the same rebellion against God's law, which the third angel warns against. It is the test which determines whether a person inherits eternal life in heaven or not, and thus for God's purposes, this is the great image-of-the-beast test for the church!

The "new tolerance" that comes with Human Rights and the United Nations means that you can't speak up against such base behaviors without being raked over the coals by the LGBT inquisition.^[82] For the church, the issue at hand is women's equality, but where will this inevitably lead? Ellen White marks out the consequences clearly:

The world [U.N. Human Rights] must not be introduced into the church, and married to the church, forming a bond of unity [cooperation with the U.N.^[83]]. Through this means the church will become indeed corrupt, and as stated in Revelation, "a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." {TM 265.1}

Interestingly, the church has held the position that "gross sexual perversions, including homosexual practices, are recognized as a misuse of sexual powers and a violation of the divine intention in marriage. As such they are just cause for divorce."^[84] If that is the case, then LGBT rights is a just cause for the church to have nothing to do with the U.N., but instead it is leaving Jesus Christ to marry the world!^[85]

If you tolerate homosexuality, or you tolerate the woman leading the man, you are hating your brother—and killing him eternally—by not showing him his sin.

When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life; the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand. (Ezekiel 3:18)

Sin is a matter of eternal life and death, and to tolerate sin (to accept it by not speaking against it) is to consent to the death of the wicked. That means all of the various Divisions of the Church that are against women's ordination but are willing to tolerate it for the sake of church unity are actually consenting to the eternal death of their erring brethren! We are counseled on this very point.

Some [most?] who profess to be loyal to God's law have departed from the faith and have humiliated His people in the dust, representing them to be one with worldlings. God has seen and marked this. The time has come when, at any cost, we are to take the position that God has assigned to us.

Seventh-day Adventists are now to stand forth separate and distinct, a people denominated by the Lord as His own. Until they do this, He cannot be glorified in them. Truth and error cannot stand in copartnership. Let us now place ourselves where God has said that we should stand. We are to strive for unity but not on the low level of conformity to worldly policy and union with the popular churches.—Lt 113, 1903. {2MCP 559.1–2}

Do you see how the sixth commandment in the human sphere reflects the eternal weight of breaking the fourth commandment? In that light, the image-of-the-beast test has already swept away almost the whole church!

Get ready... Samson is about to bring down the twin pillars. Do you understand now why the Twin Towers in New York had to be symbolically destroyed? It had to happen for the unclean homosexual Phoenix to rise again from the ashes of Sodom and Gomorrah.

How Did All This Happen?¶

To bring this issue into the church, the "powers that be" elected officers in the 2010 GC Session in Atlanta who would do it. Although the issue of women's ordination has been on the church's back burner for years, the current storm began to gather on May 6, 2012 when the Southern California Conference published the results of a survey^[86] about women's ordination that they had conducted the previous month or so, along with their vote to support the ordination of women.^[87] God marked that day, May 6, 2012, in His clocks as the beginning of the judgment of the living (and we wrote about it) before it happened! At that time, however, we had not seen the women's ordination issue, much less could we know that it had anything to do with the image of the beast.

A little over a year later, the U.S. Supreme Court issued rulings related to same-sex marriage (the Defense of Marriage Act and Proposition 8, the California ballot initiative).^[88] Brother John preached a June 29 Sabbath sermon on the topic, and even connected the happenings with the Sunday Law, not realizing that the rulings on the issue of same-sex marriage were in fact the expression of the Sunday Law in the national sphere! Critics thought that the Sunday Law prediction for 2013 was too aggressive, but in reality the Sunday Law was already assailing us in the form of its "evil twin!"

The next major milestone in the church was the election of Sandra Roberts on October 27, 2013,^[89] on the anniversary of the sevenfold High Sabbath of the year before. On the very eve of this day, God made another statement in disapproval of that election, which confirmed our movement and prompted our Voice of God article. We recognized that the event (the election of Sandy Roberts) was significant to God, but we still did not see the importance of the issue behind the event.

By the end of the third TOSC session^[90] on January 25, 2014, which coincided with the midpoint of the judgment of the living, we had realized that the ordination of women was more serious, and we began to study the topic in our study forum. At that time, we still had women designated as leaders in our small movement. Only by the mercy of God, our sin (of ignorance) He winked at^[91] and again blessed our ministry with the light of the trumpet and plague cycles of the Orion Clock, which John immediately shared in his January 31 (Friday night) sermon, The Last Race.

God might have winked at our sin, but He also warned us. We had a sudden and terrible lightning storm with fire shooting out of the electrical sockets on the day that Brother Gerhard arrived here. It served as a warning for us to cut down trees that were posing a hazard to our farm. We heeded the physical warning and were thus prepared for the Rushing Mighty Wind of Pentecost the next year.

Those storms serve to illustrate the Sunday Law storm, which has been raging in the form of its twin. When we became aware of the importance of the women's ordination issue, we began to study it and make changes accordingly. The issue is one of authority, and even though our women were not ordained, we understood that they should not be leaders in our movement either.

The church has studied the issue, and what have they concluded? Are they heeding the warning signs and making the appropriate changes? Unfortunately not, which is one more sign that their roof will fall on their head like ours almost did (see the Change of Venue article).

Conclusion

We, too, have been tested on this issue even up to this past Sabbath (May 23, 2015), and now we have completed our study of the subject. In contrast to the GC's opinion which leads to eternal death,^[92] our position is as follows:

- Women shall not be leaders over the people or perform duties reserved for the priestly office.
- In every other way, women should serve God to the best of their ability.

Our understanding of the 144,000 is that it is a literal number of people including both men and women who will have given their lives in total service to God. The Bible does use gender-specific language for the 144,000, calling them kings and priests, etc., but we understand those terms as metaphorical. Ellen White expressed the same understanding:

Let every man and every woman be ambitious to win from the Master the benediction of “well done, thou good and faithful servant.” {ST May 19, 1887, Art. B, par. 5}

The text she quotes (Matthew 25:21) is speaking of servants who are made rulers, but—like the 144,000—their reign does not come until heaven, and in heaven there will no longer be gender distinction.^[93] The work of the 144,000 on earth is a work of utmost humility, not of desiring positions.

While we uphold the order of authority established by God at creation, we in no way compromise the high standard of Christian conduct expected of men towards women.

God Himself gave Adam a companion. He provided “an help meet for him”—a helper corresponding to him—one who was fitted to be his companion, and who could be one with him in love and sympathy. Eve was created from a rib taken from the side of Adam, signifying that she was not to control him as the head, nor to be trampled under his feet as an inferior, but to stand by his side as an equal, to be loved and protected by him. A part of man, bone of his bone, and flesh of his flesh, she was his second self, showing the close union and the affectionate attachment that should exist in this relation. “For no man ever yet hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it.” Ephesians 5:29. “Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one.” {PP 46.2}

The marriage union brings a man and woman into an even closer relation (oneness) than the relationship of a son or daughter to his or her parents. It is a reflection of the closeness we can experience with God on the seventh-day Sabbath.

Don't miss your appointment with Him. Watch the Clocks that are set by His hand!

The Vomit of God and the Close of Probation

Written by Robert Dickinson

The “Holy” Father now supports GAY RIGHTS openly and intentionally! We’re not talking about a casual “Who am I to judge?” type of remark, but an official letter (included below) and a meeting! You would never guess where this grand “coming out of the closet” event will take place!!! This is too big of a coming out to do in just any insignificant country, to be sure.

If he wants to get attention, he picked the right place by selecting the most densely Catholic nation in the most densely Catholic region of the world: Paraguay, South America. That puts him in the middle of a passionate fray, because Paraguayans are notoriously anti-gay, but they also love Francis! That’s a situation about as explosive as throwing a lit match into a mixture of hydrogen and oxygen. It’s also diabolically ingenious, for where else would he be loyally loved enough to offset the moral disgust evoked by the idea of a pontiff fighting to legitimize homosexuality?

The fact is, Paraguay is arguably the toughest territory to tackle in terms of the gay rights movement. You don’t have to search to find out what the Paraguayan attitude is like toward homosexuality. Horacio Cartes, now President of Paraguay, exemplified the nation’s general attitude while running for the office he now holds:

ASUNCIÓN, Paraguay [Apr. 16, 2013] — Horacio Cartes, the tobacco magnate and front-runner for months in Paraguay's presidential election on Sunday, has set off a fierce controversy here after publicly comparing gay people to "monkeys" and likening the support of same-sex marriage to believing in "the end of the world."^[1]

If you could hear the monkeys that inhabit the Paraguayan countryside, you might understand his remark—but there is another creature that makes an even better comparison: the locust, mentioned in the Bible. Regardless that the monkey comparison fell a little short of the biblical symbolism, Cartes more than made up for it with his unwittingly prophetic likening of the support of same-sex marriage to the end of the world. Paraguay is shaping up to be the last place on the planet that still considers sodomy equivalent to the end of the world. In that sense, it is not surprising that:

The country does not have any law regulating civil unions between people of the same sex, and organizations advocating human rights such as Amnesty International, criticize that it is the only state in the region that does not have a law against all forms of discrimination.^[2]

As you can see, Paraguay falls far short of defending human rights, which is probably a factor that led U.N. Secretary Ban Ki-moon to visit the country to promote the sustainable development goals (for world security) earlier this year.^[3] No U.N. representatives had visited Paraguay for about 60 years prior to that, and in this one year, the country plays host to both the U.N. and the pope! It is hard to imagine that Paraguayans would tolerate gays just for the sake of Mr. Ban Ki-moon, which means the only path to success would be for Papa Francisco to take the gay bull by the horns, being as careful as possible not to soil his white clothes, of course. There was probably no other way to achieve Paraguayan (and thus world-wide) support for human rights.

Do you grasp the meaning here? The insignificant little land-locked country of Paraguay represents the last foothold which is keeping the world from unitedly jumping into moral free-fall! It is the biggest roadblock to the human rights (for world peace) agenda. Canada already allows same-sex marriage. Mexico just fell. The U.S. will fall any day now. Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay already allow same-sex marriage. Chile recognizes same-sex unions. Soon there will be same-sex marriage across the Americas.

Everywhere are seen wrecks of humanity, broken-down family altars, ruined homes. There is a strange abandonment of principle, the standard of morality is lowered, and the earth is fast becoming a Sodom. The practices which brought the judgment of God upon the antediluvian world, and which caused Sodom to be destroyed by fire, are fast increasing. We are nearing the end, when the earth is to be purified by fire. {GW 125.3}^[4]

With Paraguay shaping up to be the last bastion defending the biblical institution of marriage, you can see why God chose Paraguay to host His voice on earth, like the sound of many waters, as it is described in Revelation as well as in the Old Testament. The pope's actions here testify to the crucial role that this country must play in this last drama of earth's history.

The Social Compact Theory of Civil Government

I hope you are beginning to see the importance of this topic, but so far we have only broached the surface! The pope's letter to the SOMOSGAY (WE ARE GAY) organization^[5] opens with a decisive quote from Evangelii Gaudium (his apostolic exhortation) that includes key language. Here is the full letter translated to English (emphasis mine):

“OUR LADY OF THE ASSUMPTION” CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY
RECTORATE

Asunción, June 4, 2015.

Mr. Simon Casal
Executive Director
SOMOSGAY

Dear Sirs:

“In a culture which privileges dialogue as a form of encounter, it is time to devise a means for building consensus and agreement while seeking the goal of a just, responsive and inclusive society. The principal author, the historic subject of this process, is the people as a whole and their culture, and not a single class, minority, group or elite. We do not need plans drawn up by a few for the few, or an enlightened or outspoken minority which claims to speak for everyone. It is about agreeing to live together, a social and cultural pact.” (1)

Pope Francis visits Paraguay as “Messenger of Joy and Peace” and wants to share this message in the “Encounter with the Paraguayan Society for a Culture of Trust” since happiness and peace are based on mutual trust.

The Paraguayan Episcopal Conference, through the Organizing Commission of the Visit of His Holiness Pope Francis, recognizes the high impact of your organization in Paraguayan society. For that reason, it invites one (1) representative from the same to participate in this meeting to be held in the “León Condou” stadium (Marcelino Noutz near Spain Avenue - Asunción), on Saturday, July 11. The guest will access the stadium between 13:00 and 14:30. We enclose the registration form, which must be returned by this means within three days after receipt of this notice. The invitation is personal and non-transferable and must be picked up from the Metropolitan Seminary (Av. Kubitschek and Azara 661) on or after July 1.

We count on the presence of a representative of your organization as a contribution to help this meeting strengthen the development of a culture of trust that allows all Paraguayans to build a better country.

Receive our warm greetings and blessing in the peace of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

Pbro. Dr. Narciso Velázquez Ferreira

Rector - “Our Lady of the Assumption” Catholic University...

(1) Pope Francis, in the Apostolic Exhortation “Evangelii Gaudium”, on the proclamation of the Gospel in today’s world.

Through his own volition, “Pope Francis...wants” this meeting. There has never been anything like this until now. When LGBT Catholics approached Francis before, his response was rather cold, just offering them a seat at his public address without any recognition.^[6]

The purpose of this meeting is explained in his apostolic exhortation. He quotes very specific terms to express what he wants. Reader, do you know what “a social and cultural pact” is? Do you understand what that paragraph from Evangelii Gaudium is talking about? It is talking about the social compact theory of civil government, which has to do with the foundation of all civilization.

Social contract theory, nearly as old as philosophy itself, is the view that persons’ moral and/or political obligations are dependent upon a contract or agreement [\[a social pact\]](#) among them to form the society in which they live.^[7]

The Pilgrim Fathers who founded the United States of America, for example, entered into such a pact before they ever stepped foot on the shores of the New World, declaring:

...We...do by these presents, solemnly and mutually, in the presence of God and one another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politick, for our better ordering and preservation, and furtherance of the ends aforesaid: and by virtue hereof do enact, constitute, and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions, and officers, from time to time, as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the colony; unto which we promise all due submission and obedience.

The U.S. already has a social pact that has become crystalized in its founding documents, and so does Paraguay and virtually every other country in the world... So what “social and cultural pact” is Pope Francis calling for? Yes, of course it is the New World Order: a new social and cultural pact to govern everyone on the entire planet. That’s not news. His apostolic exhortation is addressed to the whole world, not just to Paraguay—but why is this key paragraph quoted in his letter to the homosexual community? That is partly explained by the Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy, in the previously cited article about social contract theory. The basic criticism of social contract theory is that it does not remove the male-female hierarchy of society:

More recently, philosophers from different perspectives have offered new criticisms of social contract theory. In particular, feminists and race-conscious philosophers have argued that social contract theory is at least an incomplete picture of our moral and political lives, and may in fact camouflage some of the ways in which the contract is itself parasitical upon the subjugations of classes of persons.

In layman’s terms, the critics of social contract theory say that it is incomplete because it does not address the root cause of discrimination and inequality, as the liberal philosophers see it, especially in regard to gender. Simply put: men can still rule over women.

Are you starting to get the big picture? Do you at least see that the pope’s meeting in Paraguay has very deep implications that affect the whole world? Do you see that God’s design for marriage is at the core of the controversy? That is why statements like this are appearing:

Top Vatican adviser Jeffrey Sachs says that when Pope Francis visits the United States in September, he will directly challenge the “American idea” of God-given rights embodied in the Declaration of Independence.^[8]

There is still more to unpack in regard to social contract theory, but let us come back to that point later. It should already be abundantly clear that same-sex marriage is definitely not a “God-given” right.

A Clear “Thus Saith the Lord”

Pope Francis is showing his true colors by urging implementation of anti-discrimination laws to protect LGBT persons. While the pope is not openly promoting the LGBT lifestyle, he is effectively doing it by prohibiting anyone—even in his own church—from speaking against it, thus giving room for the LGBT movement to thrive. This exposes him for the devil he is, masquerading as an angel of light.

The pope’s own stance has not changed since his famous “Who am I to judge?” remark, however. The difference today is that he is urging legislation aimed at forcing people not to judge, which in essence makes it illegal to teach the Bible, since the Bible plainly states (or judges) that the LGBT lifestyle is an abomination to God. The thrust in Paraguay is not just about discrimination at a secular or business level; it is hoped to “de-legitimize homophobic speech” in Paraguayan society. That would include teaching the Bible, which is exactly what we do in our articles.

The Bible does not mince words on the subject of homosexuality. The topic is addressed in both the Old and New Testaments:

Thou [man] shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination. Neither shalt thou lie with any beast to defile thyself therewith [bestiality]: neither shall any woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is confusion [mixing of species]. Defile not ye yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you [he did it before; he'll do it again]: And the land is defiled: therefore I do visit the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itself vomiteth out her inhabitants. (Leviticus 18:22-25)^[9]

The above passage equates homosexuality and bestiality as abomination to God, and reminds us that God casts out whole nations for these defiling sins. This passage also contains the very first use of the word “vomit” in Scripture, depicting that these sins are so disgustingly repulsive that the inanimate land itself will vomit out its inhabitants. Note the expression of “vomiting” out the inhabitants, because we will see that term again.

What does it look like when the earth vomits or spews? Geysers and volcanoes are clear examples of the earth spewing. Some researchers have found that in certain circumstances, an earthquake can trigger the spewing of burning sulfur high into the air, which then rains back down upon the land. That has been postulated as the scenario that destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah and the cities of the plain,^[10] where chunks of flammable sulfur are still found today.^[11]

In previous articles, we've shown how trumpet after trumpet has been sounding on the exact dates that the Clock of God in Orion has prophesied.^[12] Nary has a word of those scriptures gone unfulfilled, yet few have paid attention to the warnings because they have been mingled with grace, still outstretched to nations teetering into legalized homosexuality. We will summarize the trumpets again in the next section of this article, and you will see that the grace is about to end.

One reason the trumpet warnings have been held back is that the cup of iniquity has not yet become full.^[13] God pours out his wrath in destructive judgments upon a people when they have reached the full measure of their iniquity. It was when homosexuality had spread to every quarter^[14] of Sodom that the Lord destroyed it. That will be the case for the U.S. at the end of June, when the Supreme Court will issue its ruling on the case of same-sex marriage, effectively legalizing it nation-wide for the first time.

One particular denominated people will also fill the cup of their iniquity very soon thereafter: namely the Seventh-day Adventist Church, which is preparing to vote on whether or not to allow women to lead the church. Just like how Paraguay is shaping up to be the last bastion for God against homosexuality, the SDA Church is the last Protestant bastion for God against women ruling men. That “last bastion” status puts them in the limelight. In fact, if you recognize that we are participating in the judgment of the living, it puts them at the focal point of the entire on-looking universe! Those are a lot of eyes to be accountable to.^[15]

When God set the stars of Orion in their places, He foreknew that there would be a Seventh-day Adventist Church. He foreknew the whole history of that church. He foreknew that if they would consistently reject His love, then on a specific day, that church would vote away the divine order of marriage. He positioned the stars to indicate the very date—July 8, 2015. No human being can do that!

We studied the trumpet cycle for the first time on January 31, 2014. Do you think that we arbitrarily “guessed” how to align the clock so that the sixth trumpet would point to July 8, 2015? How could we have known that the GC Session would plan their most important vote on that date? GOD SET THE DATE, because He foreknew it. Nothing is hidden from God, and He reveals His secrets to those whom He chooses.

When the General Conference of the SDA Church in Session votes to dismantle the marriage institution on that day, they will have filled the cup of their apostasy to the full. Then, through the Carmel Challenge on July 8, at the sound of the sixth trumpet, the Lord will show whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it.^[16] We will review the trumpet warnings shortly, but first let's draw a connection:

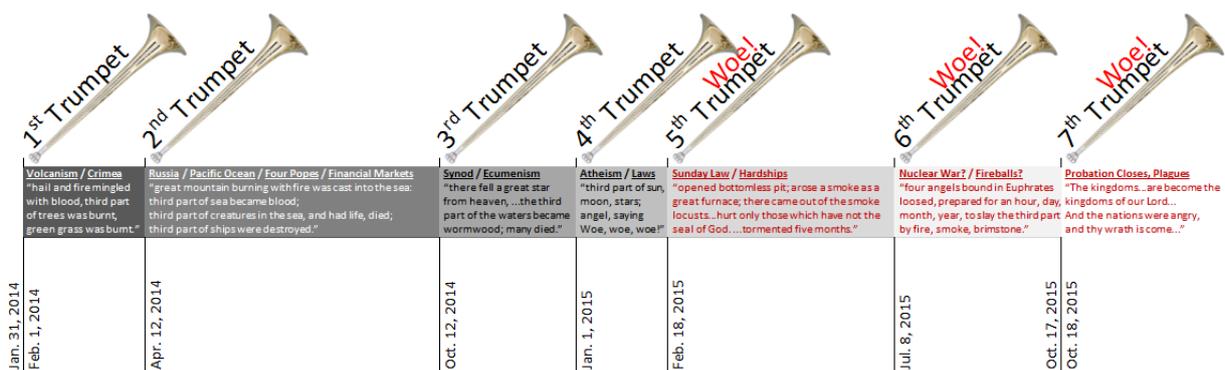

The time of God's destructive judgments is the time of mercy for those who have no opportunity to learn what is truth.—Letter 103, 1903. {LDE 182.2}^[17]

The trumpets are destructive warnings mingled with mercy, but when God begins to destroy a denominated people, the rest of the world should urgently seek the truth, which they had no opportunity to learn because of the human instrumentalities that blocked it from them. It will not be long thereafter—just three and a half months—till He will pour out His wrath upon the whole world, because the sin of sodomy will have become universal.

The Seven Trumpets in Review

Too often we are asked, "What about the trumpets? Why didn't anything happen?" Let me open your eyes in the following sections!

Here is a chart summarizing the seven trumpets:

The dates of the trumpets are calculated by "unrolling" the Orion clock wheel across a period of 624 days, the duration found in Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part III.

Some overall principles should be kept in mind. The trumpets are cumulative; each trumpet adds to the previous trumpets. That means what started in the first trumpet is still going on (and increasing). The trumpets do not end, they swell...

The trumpets have not seemed to swell because there were four commands to "Hold!" the trumpets. That is explained in detail in the Mystery of Ezekiel. Those holds correspond to four individual trumpets. We initially thought that the holds applied to the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th, trumpets, but now it is apparent in retrospect that they actually applied to trumpets 1 through 4. The new understanding harmonizes nicely with the biblical distinction between the first four vs. the last three, as explored in Babylon Is Fallen! – Part I under the heading "Categorizing the Seals and Trumpets." It makes sense that the four trumpets which were held are not labeled as "woe" trumpets, whereas the three unrestrained trumpets are.

The four trumpet angels that were bound (or held) are let loose at a specific time: namely at the sixth trumpet. The text explicitly says that they should be loosed at the appointed hour, month, day, and year. That amounts to 391 days from the date when the pope's agenda was published by La Vanguardia, June 12, 2014, which shows how pivotal the sixth trumpet is, as we explored in the Last Call.

In the following subsections, we will see that the events which started in the first four trumpets were held, but are now resurging into the news headlines as the sixth trumpet quickly approaches!

The First Trumpet, beginning Feb. 1, 2014

The first angel sounded, and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up. (Revelation 8:7)

The hail and fire mingled with blood symbolized the eruption of Mt. Sinabung, which happened on the exact date of the first trumpet and killed a number of people. The news channels at that time were full of anxious reports about the ring of fire awakening, but (Hold!) the situation seemed to stabilize.

What is happening now:

The news channels today are full of imminent warnings:

- June 17, The Weather Channel: Indonesia's Mount Sinabung Could Be on Verge of Violent Eruption, Experts Say
- June 17, TIME: This Indonesian Volcano Could Be About to Blow, Authorities fear a major eruption at Mount Sinabung

Mt. Sinabung was quiet for some 400 years until 2010, when the Orion Message began. Then it began killing exactly on the first trumpet date, and now as the Hold! is just about to be released at the sixth trumpet, it is preparing for a "major violent eruption!"

Mt. Sinabung is just the sentinel, but the entire Ring of Fire is a resurging concern right now:

- June 17, Weekly Observer: Asian Volcano: Pacific Ring of Fire Heats Up Again
- May 15, InfoWars: 40 Volcanoes Are Erupting Right Now, And 34 Of Them Are Along The Ring Of Fire

Watch out! The trumpet warning is swelling!

The Second Trumpet, beginning Apr. 12, 2014

And the second angel sounded, and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea: and the third part of the sea became blood; And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed. (Revelation 8:8-9)

The burnt up green grass of the first trumpet symbolized Crimea's annexation by Russia toward the end of the first trumpet. The situation escalated, resulting in the first deaths in eastern Ukraine, exactly on the first day of the second trumpet. (See Trumpets with a Certain Sound for more details.) It was a crisis of great concern covered extensively in the news, and it drew responses from many countries, but (Hold!) the crisis ceased its escalation.

What is happening now:

- June 17, Reuters: Putin says Russia beefing up nuclear arsenal, NATO denounces 'saber-rattling'
- June 15, International Business Times: Russia's 'Microwave Gun' Can Disable Drones, Warheads Up To 6 Miles Away, Official Says

During this trumpet, we also saw the pope's video appeal to Charismatic leaders to re-unite with Rome. For a time, the news was full of reports of top megachurch leaders holding ecumenical meetings with the pope, then things got quiet again.

What has been happening to date:

- June 13, Sputnik: Establishing Bridges: Pope Suggests Unified Easter Date for All Christians
- May 7, ZENIT: Pope Francis: Ecumenical Movement Is Taking Great Steps Toward Reconciliation, Peace

The second trumpet had a lot going on. The terrible effects of the Fukushima disaster reached California shores, as sad reports of the dead ocean were circulated.

The trumpet warning is only getting louder:

- June 15, Collective Evolution: Fukushima: Almost Five Years Later And Look At What's STILL Happening
- May 21, Natural News: Pacific Ocean off California coast turning into desert-like dead zone
- April 11, All News Pipeline: Mysterious Blob In Pacific Ocean Is Fukushima Death And It's Coming For Us All!
- Feb. 6, Natural Society: 6000% Increase in Cancer Rates at Fukushima Site Hushed up by international governments

The last area of concern in the second trumpet was the anxiety in the world financial stock markets, with the European Central Bank playing a prominent role. Greece suddenly became a very hot topic because of its inability to repay its debt to the International Monetary Fund. The crisis was held back, but the financial situation was never fully resolved.

What is suddenly happening again today:

- June 17, The Guardian: Greek crisis: Athens protesters call for end to austerity - live updates
- June 16, The Globe and Mail: Greek PM tears into lenders, euro zone prepares for 'Grexit'

Watch out! The angel is about to be let loose, and the warning is swelling!

The Third Trumpet, beginning Oct. 12, 2014

And the third angel sounded, and there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters; And the name of the star is called Wormwood: and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter. (Revelation 8:10-11)

The date of the third trumpet centered on the Catholic Synod on the Family and the Adventist Annual Council. (Read Babylon Is Fallen! – Part I for details.) God points to those two churches (and those two meetings). It's not that other churches don't matter, but those two churches represent the beginning and end of Christianity, and therefore they are especially distinguished in prophecy.

Into the third trumpet, ISIS threats and attacks began to rise and the pope called for the leaders of the world's major religions to unite against extremism. After the pope's Istanbul trip and the agreement of cooperation was signed, (Hold!) the rhetoric from ISIS seemed to slow down. Surely you can see the pattern of how each trumpet was held back, until we approach the releasing of the angels in the sixth trumpet...

What is happening today:

- June 17, Breitbart: ISIS Releases New Video of Child Jihadis Training for War
- June 5, Catholic Sun: 'John 17' unites Catholics and Protestants for day of prayer
- May 20, Adventist Review: Your Guide to the GC Session Agenda

Indeed, the call for unity coming from the Catholic Church has resurged with an intensity of conviction that has the pope calling for preparation for martyrdom!

On the Adventist front, the recommendations that were made at the Annual Council are now coming up before the General Conference Session. The issue of women in leadership has brought the church to a point of crisis. The sixth trumpet itself points to the very date when the vote will be taken for the issue of women's ordination in the church. This is the culminating point of our modern Elijah's Challenge: Fire at Mount Carmel

Remember, the sixth trumpet date was marked in the stars before the world was created. How can it be that the trumpets have had a fulfillment on the very day which also matched every detail of the biblical texts and in addition to that, the trumpet warnings have resurged just when the appointed time of the sixth trumpet is approaching, where the text says to let the angels loose? How much evidence do you want God to give you before you join us in spreading the warning to the world?

The Fourth Trumpet, beginning Jan. 1, 2015

And the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise. And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabitants of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound! (Revelation 8:12-13)

Exactly on the marked date, the sun (Christianity) was darkened by a formerly Adventist Pastor by the name of Ryan Bell, whose year-long experiment with atheism concluded with his choice to remain atheist. His apostasy from God sent shockwaves throughout the religious world, not just within Adventism. One of his biggest contentions with the church administration prior to his resignation was putting homosexuals in leadership! (For more details, please see Babylon Is Fallen! – Part II.)

While Ryan Bell was drawing attention, the church was working hard to hush-up a “compelling” series of sermons about the Godhead, which was delivered to the SDA Church by Pastor Stephen Bohr at GYC 2014. His series began exactly on January 1, 2015, the beginning date for the trumpet, and the same date when Ryan Bell finalized his decision to reject God. One sermon in the series (Jan. 2) was particularly relevant to the topic of women's ordination, but he did not address the taboo subject directly. Nevertheless, there were enough obvious implications to solicit a “clarification” the following night (Jan. 3), as one website revealed in a careful statement they found necessary to write to defend why they featured that sermon.

All of that defensiveness shows the efforts that the church leadership has been putting forth to stifle the truth. Those are clear examples of how the last little flicker of light within the church was darkened in the fourth trumpet. Stephen Bohr's sermon within the church was darkened (in relation to women's ordination), while Ryan Bell darkened the light shining outside the church (in relation to the LGBT issue). What a dark fulfillment of prophecy!

What is happening today:

- June 5, Secrets Unsealed: Stephen Bohr – A Retirement Explanation – YouTube

We will unpack Stephen Bohr’s retirement announcement thoroughly in the next section, but the immediate point is that the waves that Stephen Bohr started to make in the fourth trumpet, he is making now through that announcement. He is leaving the payroll of the General Conference after having pastored in Fresno, California for over 18 years, and now he will stand alone, working for his own ministry, Secrets Unsealed.

All of the first four trumpets have been fulfilled, yet they were held back till the time appointed in the sixth trumpet, prepared for an hour, a day, a month, and a year! Do you see how we are standing in front of a tsunami of events coming all at once, because the four angels were bound (held) until the appointed time? The evidence is piling up to the size of a mountain!

What did Jesus say about a mountain, the sea, and faith?

Jesus answered and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, If ye have faith, and doubt not, ye shall not only do this which is done to the fig tree, but also if ye shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; it shall be done. (Matthew 21:21)

Pastor Stephen Bohr’s “Retirement”

Before we unpack all that Stephen Bohr’s retirement entails, we should understand the big picture of the judgment of the living, which is partly described in Ezekiel 9—a chapter which we are strongly advised to study.

The judgment of Ezekiel 9 began with the elders of the house of God,^[18] or in other words with those nearest to Him. In light of the change of venue of the court, we recognized when judgment began here in Paraguay with our group. As publishers of the message of the Fourth Angel, we are “nearest” to God. Light comes from the throne of God, and since we are bringing the light to you, we must stand closer to the throne—the logic is simple.

Now, wouldn’t it be nice to know when the judgment of God’s house is finished, too? It is only logical that if the judgment begins nearest to God, then it should end farthest from God, right? And if we logically consider where the darkest corner of the house of God (the SDA Church) must be, naturally it must be where the loud voice^[19] of the Fourth Angel is most hated, most censored, most attacked, and most denied: at the General Conference, where Ted Wilson’s influence is strongest. We have a north pole, and a south pole—it’s that simple.

Ted Wilson has a whole panel of pastors who form a loosely organized team to support him and his false revival and reformation program. Their website is called the Final Generation Media Productions. The first person in the list,^[20] Ivor Myers, is the one who spearheaded Operation Global Rain, which was adopted into Ted Wilson’s R&R program. In the section explaining the PURPOSE of this group, it clearly says:

We support strongly the revival and reformation initiative of the general conference and our general conference president Elder Ted N.C. Wilson as he continues to serve Christ and His church to fulfill the church’s mission in the times we are living in.^[21]

The judgment is about choosing your loyalty. It’s about choosing whether you will be faithful to God, or faithful to Satan by default. Many people are quick to say “No, no! You can’t judge! Only God can judge! He knows if I’m being faithful to Him.” What you might not realize is that the judgment in heaven is playing out visibly on earth, and your visible vote on earth is the reflection of your standing in heaven! Is your loyalty with the North Pole, or the South Pole? There’s no invisible middle pole; everything is manifest.

Now in that light, and considering that Pastor Bohr is listed as one pastor among those who “strongly support” Ted Wilson and his false revival and reformation initiative, the recent announcement of his retirement from the General Conference—after 18+ years of faithful, loyal, and dedicated service—speaks volumes, weighted with gravity.

Pastor Bohr published the “explanation” video (linked above) to give an explanation of his retirement. Apparently he wanted to EXPLAIN something. Some people had thought, “Ah! Good for him! Now he can celebrate his retirement, and he can enjoy the relaxation and free time... Now his old, weary body can get some rest...” Not so! Stephen Bohr explains the contrary!

He says that he has several projects underway at Secrets Unsealed, and he will not be slowing down. He says that he has been blessed with GOOD HEALTH, and has the stamina to keep working for the Lord for years to come! Without saying it in words, he’s urging you to think about why he’s retiring, and he drops a few hints which involve timing.

Pastor Bohr timed his retirement so that his employment will end on July 1, 2015. Isn’t it a bit strange that a person would quit working after the first day of the month? Normally a person would quit working after the last day of the month! That deserves an explanation, don’t you think? And that’s why he EXPLAINED it in his explanatory video: he emphasized that he has a booth at the General Conference Session, and urged everyone to visit him there beginning July 2 when the Session begins! On his first day of “retirement,” he is employing himself to confront the issue of women’s ordination directly, by separating himself from General Conference employment to speak freely on his own accord at his GC Session booth.

He has drawn a line in the sand, saying in effect, “I cannot remain united with a church—remnant or not—that accepts women’s ordination without allowing me to speak.” That is a frontal attack on Ted Wilson’s unity-at-any-cost nonsense. By the way, here is one quote he didn’t include in his “Great Hope” hoax:

If unity could be secured only by the compromise of truth and righteousness, then let there be difference, and even WAR. {GC 45.3}^[22]

This timely “retirement” is a resurgence of the issues of the fourth trumpet, and it draws attention to the series of sermons Pastor Bohr preached at GYC beginning January 1, 2015. Listen to those sermons! They make a solid case for why women in leadership is:

1. A direct challenge to the very authority of the Godhead.
2. A reenactment of the fall of Adam and Eve.
3. A matter of eternal risk.

Those points stand in direct opposition to the General Conference leadership, and thus does Stephen Bohr. It remains to be seen if he will finish the fight he has begun, but at least we can learn some lessons from his fourth-trumpet sermon.

His decision has implications that even he probably doesn’t realize. Unless there is someone even closer to Ted Wilson who is yet to take an equally divisive stand, which is doubtful, then we have to recognize that the cleansing of Ezekiel 9 has reached the farthest and darkest corner of the church. His resignation date is exactly seven days before the fateful vote on July 8—which has been marked in the Clock of God since creation—when probation will close for the Seventh-day Adventist Church, forever. When he retires, the matter is finished!

And, behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the inkhorn by his side, reported the matter, saying, I have done as thou hast commanded me. (Ezekiel 9:11)

The verses that immediately follow are about the spreading of the burning coals of the Orion message from the fire between the cherubim!

Then I looked, and, behold, in the firmament that was above the head of the cherubims there appeared over them as it were a sapphire stone, as the appearance of the likeness of a throne. And he spake unto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill thine hand with coals of fire from between the cherubims, and scatter them over the city. And he went in in my sight. (Ezekiel 10:1-2)

Women's ordination became a formal issue for the church in 2011. Then, Ted Wilson's Ten Days of Prayer initiative replaced Operation Global Rain, as a way to seek the Holy Spirit's guidance. From that time onward—which we can mark as Sabbath, January 7, 2012—there has been nothing but drought. Exactly three and a half years of drought will have passed on July 7, 2015. During those three and a half years, God has been listening to the sincere prayers of the church, as faithful members settle into the truth regarding their position against women's ordination and unity therewith.

The fireballs that we have been warning about since 2012 could have fallen any time we had warned of, but God honored the sincere prayers of His people and held the disaster back until now.

But when July 8 comes, the drought will be over, but not because of Operation Global Rain. It's called OPERATION "TORRENT" because we now offer our entire website in "torrents" (torrent files downloadable with BitTorrent). We urge you to participate immediately. If you don't know how it works, ask around! The latter rain will come in torrents, so make sure you are standing on high ground! Spread the Fourth Angel's message far and wide—like the leaves of autumn that Ted Wilson ripped out of the Great Hope! Your efforts to do that should be the means through which the man clothed with linen will scatter the coals over the city.

The Three Woes

The warning, "Woe, woe, woe," comes from the eagle^[23] during the fourth trumpet.

And I beheld, and heard an angel [eagle] flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabitants of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound! (Revelation 8:13)

Knowing the date of the fifth trumpet (first woe) ahead of time, we were able to recognize when the eagle made his terrible announcement: President Obama announced his White House Summit to Counter Violent Extremism to begin exactly on the date prophesied for the first woe: February 18, 2015. I don't think I need to keep saying how impossible it would have been for us to have planned the trumpet date to correspond to such an important event, when the dates are locked in place by the positions of the stars around the clock! It is God who points to these events.

At the time of the announcement, all we knew was that the summit would be about "countering violent extremism" but we didn't know how the topic would take shape in the fifth trumpet itself. The clues that we had gathered led us to say that the preparations for the Sunday Law must be coming—but we didn't yet know how the twin institutions—Sabbath and marriage—would blend. Instead of Sunday Law developments, the summit was about developments to tear down the marriage institution. With that introduction in mind, we can begin to understand how the first woe has really been a WOE!, culminating with the National Sodomy Law in the U.S., which will be announced by the Supreme Court any day now.

The Fifth Trumpet – The First Woe, Feb. 18, 2015

The White House summit kicked off the first woe by directly targeting the establishment of women's rights and LGBT tolerance internationally.

President Obama listed an increased emphasis on human rights and democracy: "That means free elections where people can choose their own future, and independent judiciaries that uphold the rule of law, and police and security forces that respect human rights, and free speech and freedom for civil society groups." . . . At the CVE summit, President Obama also specifically emphasized women's rights...^[24]

Note that "free speech and freedom for civil society groups" is aimed at protecting the right of activists (LGBT activists, for example) to assemble, organize, and operate. That goes hand in hand with his emphasis on women's rights, which was aimed especially toward the international front outside of the U.S., where women's liberties are not everywhere taken for granted.

Understanding that women in leadership and LGBT tolerance are two successive phases of the image of the beast,^[25] it becomes clear that the first phase which "specifically emphasized women's rights" began on an international scale exactly on the date prophesied by the first woe. By contrast, the LGBT movement has been covertly present under the guise of human rights and free speech in general.

In the first four trumpets, the Holy Scriptures employed symbolism that is fairly easy to trace over the outline of unfolding events, at least in retrospect. The same is true of the fifth trumpet, now that we have a better view, looking back from the end of it.

The fifth trumpet (first woe) is in a different class than the first four trumpets, which we can see because it includes a background story to establish the "big picture" context for the actual events of the trumpet:

And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit. And he opened the bottomless pit; and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit. (Revelation 9:1-2)

The very first symbol takes us back to the fall of Lucifer as also depicted in the third trumpet, and we are told about his activities on the earth. He opened the bottomless pit, symbolizing the opening of the Vatican by the resignation of Pope Benedict XVI. Next we are given symbolism of the smoke of Pope Francis' election, coming from a furnace in the great Sistine Chapel. Then the scripture traces the smoke, which forms a smokescreen to darken or obscure. That shows how Pope Francis uses appearances as a smokescreen to cover his purposes. He wears white clothes, but his purposes are as black as Satan himself. With that background, the text now comes to the key point in the sequence of events that the trumpet date is actually pointing to.

And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. (Revelation 9:3)

Out of the smokescreen came locusts.

The Two Phases of Locusts

The locust is introduced here to represent a group or class of people. The locust has been accurately interpreted as a symbol for the Saracens (Muslims) who attacked the Christians in medieval times, but we must remember that the locusts come out of the smokescreen. As the papacy used Muslims then, it uses ISIS today as a mercenary tool to bring about the changes it desires in the world—but that is just the smokescreen.

Too many interpreters—like Anita Fuentes, Steve Fletcher, and even Adventist interpreters like Jeff Pippenger and others—are following the Muslim connection too far, and are looking at the state of Israel, which is nothing more than a smokescreen! Muslims as locusts is a well-established interpretation, which is why it serves so well as a smokescreen. It's not all wrong, but there is a more pertinent interpretation to be recognized. In fact, history itself should lead to the correct interpretation:

Homosexuality in the Islamic world has long been known to Europeans from the early Middle Ages onward through reports brought back by travelers. Lurid descriptions of widespread homosexual practices of the Muslims in the Holy Land were, in fact, a principle element used in Christian propaganda attempting to rouse the Christians of Europe for the Crusades. The thirteenth-century Dominican friar William of Adam wrote of the homosexuality he witnessed in Egypt: "These Saracens, forgetting human dignity, go so far that men live with each other in the same way that men and women live together in our own land."^[26]

Let's just examine this in the context of the White House summit, with what we know so far: we are dealing with women's equality, and homosexuals, as two distinct phases of one and the same plague. Keep in mind that the locusts appear again in the sixth trumpet; the first and second woe themselves employ the locust symbolism in two phases—the first phase corresponding to the first woe (fifth trumpet), and the second phase corresponding to the second woe (sixth trumpet).

To gain a full understanding of the symbolism, we need to learn some things about locusts. First of all, they have two distinct phases:

Locusts differ from grasshoppers by their capacity to react to high densities. Under crowded conditions, their behaviour, morphology, appearance, physiology, habits and ecology change progressively (over several generations), a shift known as phase change. When phase change occurs from a solitary to a gregarious phase, locusts behave no more individually but form eventually dense bands of hoppers and swarms of adults.^[27]

Locusts indeed have two distinct phases, related to their population. The "solitary" phase corresponds to a sparse population of locusts, whereas the "gregarious" phase corresponds to a dense population of locusts. That fits the increasingly worse scenarios of the first woe and second woe, respectively.

Islamic terrorism is just the smokescreen, but homosexuality is the plague itself.

The Women's Rights Movement

The fifth trumpet began with a specific emphasis on women's rights. The entire women's rights movement is an affront to the God-ordained order of society, wherein the man—as the stronger sex—is the natural leader. Note how the locust perfectly symbolizes the women's rights movement:

In the solitary phase, locusts exhibit sexual dimorphism with females being larger in size than males;

If you recognize that the family is the pillar of society, it is not difficult to see how domineering woman and morally weak men have turned the home order upside-down, which has led to the terrible collapse of society that we see today. It happens especially when the numbers exceed the critical threshold required for societal “phase change.” The locust provides a perfect illustration of that phenomenon.

The verse says that the locusts were given power. That was done exactly on the first day of the trumpet when Obama’s summit empowered the international community to fight violent extremism by establishing women’s rights. It’s almost laughable when you think about it, but in the devil’s twisted mind, it all comes together to serve his purpose of usurping God’s throne.

The verse compares the power of the locust to the power of a scorpion. The power of locusts is in their number, but the power of scorpions is in their tail. Locusts multiply their numbers by inserting the “tail” of the male into the “tail” of the female. It’s about sex—and it’s about inordinate sex. The more a dysfunctional couple does it, the more dysfunctional offspring they produce—just like locusts.

And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass [young in faith] of the earth, neither any green thing [believer], neither any tree [well-rooted Christian]; but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads. (Revelation 9:4)

A restraint is placed on the locusts to protect a certain group of people from the harm they cause in the fifth trumpet. This corresponds to the limited geographical and dietary range of the locust insect when it is in the solitary phase. In the context of prophecy as it is fulfilling today, the seal of God here refers to the mark on those who sigh and cry for the abominations that are done in the city.^[28] Those who keep God’s order in their home are sighing and crying about women’s ordination and all the other abominations in the church. They are the ones who are protected from this first woe.

And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months; and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man. And in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them. (Revelation 9:5-6)

The first woe does not involve killing. It is about five months of torment, after which the killing begins in the second woe. The torment here is about the uncertainty of a victim’s survival, as when stung by a scorpion. The uncertainty is palpable in the church in regard to the women’s ordination issue: Will the vote pass? Will the church break (or die) as a result? These uncertainties are a torment to the church at all levels. In the world, the uncertainty surrounds the Supreme Court’s upcoming decision on the constitutionality of same-sex marriage rights. Will Christian marriage survive? Will the issue flare into civil unrest? Will liberty survive under the heavy hand of Jade Helm? The uncertainty is a very real torment, but killing and death is reserved for the second woe.

Now we come to a detailed description of the locusts, which reveals that they represent more than just the women’s rights movement. The locusts also represent the LGBT movement, which has been increasing as well, just as the locust transitions into the gregarious phase over several successive generations as the band multiplies. The Bible’s description fits every detail of the LGBT movement:

And the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, and their faces were as the faces of men. And they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as the teeth of lions. (Revelation 9:7-8)

Have you seen how gays and lesbians pounce on Christian businesses, fighting them in court? It is a military movement that fights against godly morality. They have resources, too. Giant businesses support the gay cause. And the gay rights movement is not just about compassion for those who are “different.” They are GAP: Gay and Proud. That’s why it’s called Gay Pride. They are an active military force, not just a passive defense measure for some minority. The LGBT movement is like horses prepared for battle.

Who are the visible “heads” of the LGBT movement? Who are the icons that are held up on the public stage, and crowned with “honor” for their courageous demonstrations? People like “Caitlyn” (Bruce) Jenner and “Conchita Wurst” (Tom Neuwirth). They are drag queens—as in queens with golden crowns. Do you see how the prophecy fits so far? I don’t need to explain what a man’s face with woman’s hair means!

Who is behind all of this? Who is walking around, seeking whom he might devour with his teeth—as in devour with homosexual lust?

Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour: (1 Peter 5:8)

God addresses this theme to the church:

Son of man, say unto her, Thou art the land that is not cleansed, nor rained upon in the day of indignation. There is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof, like a roaring lion ravening the prey; they have devoured souls; they have taken the treasure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midst thereof. Her priests have violated my law, and have profaned mine holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and profane, neither have they shewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them. (Ezekiel 22:24–26)

The High Sabbaths would have helped the church to see the difference between clean and unclean, and it would have helped the church to recognize the devil for who he is today: the one who protects LGBT persons, just as the next verse says.

And they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle. (Revelation 9:9)

Breastplates are for protection, and iron represents Rome; it is the Pontiff of Rome who is now coming out of the closet to protect gays.

Do you hear the sound of the locusts? Do you hear the pride of horses? If the sound of President Obama’s proclamation^[29] was not heard, surely you are hearing the sound of gay activists in the press around the world as they swarm together in anticipation of this summer’s events. They will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the gay rights movement this summer. Anne Gardiner, a Catholic commentator, remarked on the horses:

Note that the locusts are twice connected to “horses,” which in antiquity were symbols of pride, lust, and atheism.^[30]

Let’s let her interpret the tails as well, right after this text:

And they had tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months. And they had a king over them [Pope Francis], which is the angel of the bottomless pit [the Vatican], whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon [destroyer], but in the Greek tongue hath his name Apollyon [destroyer]. One woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter. (Revelation 9:10–12)

The implication is that their deadly sting is treacherous. The application can easily be made to the male organ used in sodomy, which spreads a host of sexually transmitted diseases.

We would add that the LGBT movement was given five months during this trumpet to “infect” people with their tolerance ideas. The last day of the five months is July 17, 2015. That day (or the first after it) will likely prove to hold prophetic significance too.

One more quote from Anne Gardiner sums up the point that as Pope Francis introduces LGBT tolerance into the Catholic Church, he is actually showing his support of the sin of sodomy:

Of late, Catholics have been taught to “hate the sin but love the sinner.” It was assumed that the sinner could be distinguished from the sin. But one of the marks of damnation in Dante’s Inferno is that the sinner is completely identified with his sin. In our times, sodomites proudly insist that they must be fully identified with their sin. They even claim to be incorporated with it, to cherish it as their very essence. Raising sodomy aloft as a banner, they wave it proudly and follow it into battle against normalcy. For decades their cry has been, “love me, love my sodomy,” and beyond that, “God loves me and my sodomy.” But no thief has ever cried, “love me, love my thievery.” No perjurer has ever exclaimed, “God loves me and my lying oaths.” This is a transvaluation akin to Lucifer’s cry, in Milton’s Paradise Lost, “Evil, be thou my good.”

There you have it, coming from a Catholic author and contributing editor of the New Oxford Review. Pope Francis—by making the church a safe place for sodomy—is revealing himself to be Lucifer (Satan) in the flesh!

As you can see, every descriptive word about the locusts fits the homosexual army exactly! By the end of the fifth trumpet, the phase change of the locust is complete.

Do you see now why Jesus said to Laodicea that He would spew (vomit) them out of His mouth? Today, the Laodicean church is about to officially indulge in a locust-like order in the family, where the woman is the leader. Some Adventists are fond of emphasizing that the man should be the SPRITUAL leader, the PRIEST of the home. That is true, but by placing the emphasis where it doesn’t belong, the subliminal implication is that the woman is free to lead in all other areas as queen! Think about it, and catch the tricks for what they are! All this, while such ones profess to keep the Sabbath and have the seal of God.

When you realize that women in leadership is just the first phase of the locust toward homosexuality, you begin to realize how it must turn God’s stomach to see what is going on in the church with women’s ordination. It is a locust characteristic; it matters not whether it be in one phase or the other! To him, it’s the same as watching homosexuals smooch or something like that—it makes Him want to puke!

Sometimes we see comments about women who were leaders in the Bible... Deborah is a favorite. I wonder why nobody seems to recognize that a woman conquering in battle is the highest possible shame to man!? God put those examples to shame Israel! It’s like a hardened criminal getting beat up by a little ol’ lady with a rolling pin! Of course you would cheer for such a woman, but it’s no argument for women in leadership—it’s an argument for the men to be men!

The greatest want of the world is the want of men—men who will not be bought or sold, men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name, men whose conscience is as true to duty as the needle to the pole, men who will stand for the right though the heavens fall. {Ed 57.3}^[31]

We need men who will stand as true to principle as the needle to the pole. God will test the men who are given responsibilities in His work, and unless they show that they have a true idea of what Christlike principles are, He will remove them and put others in their place. {13MR 196.1}^[32]

Have you felt the first woe? Have you felt the pressure of the gay lobby? Have you felt the pressure to have women leading your home, your church, your business? Have you seen the media flooded with gay filth, both subliminally and overtly? Have you been tormented as prophesied? Don't tell us that you still can't see the trumpets fulfilling!

The Sixth Trumpet – The Second Woe, July 8, 2015

And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:13-15)

We interpreted the beginning of the sixth trumpet in detail in the Death of the Twins article in the light of two other stories:

1. The story of Samson, who brought down the twin pillars and the roof fell on his head.
2. The story of Elijah, whose altar sacrifice was symbolic of the 2015 GC Session.

If you are not already familiar with that important interpretation which is time-sensitive, please do study it in that article. Here, I just want to focus on the fact that the letting loose of the four angels refers to the letting loose of the first four trumpet angels, at the appointed hour, day, month, and year of July 8, 2015.

From here on, we can apply our newfound understanding of what the locusts are:

And the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: and I heard the number of them. (Revelation 9:16)

The Bible here gives a figure of 200 million to identify the army. John heard the number, so this number was given to specify what army is being talked about. The largest army in the world is about a hundredth of that size, so it cannot be talking about a literal military army. It must be talking about a militaristic group of that specified size. The commonly cited estimate of the number of LGBT persons in the world is around 3%. We can calculate what percentage of the world's population belongs to this prophetic army by dividing the number 200 million by the world population of about 7 billion. The result is about 2.8%, very near the commonly accepted estimate of 3%. Thus God identifies LGBTs as the horse-like army of locusts.

A detailed description of the horses follows, and we notice that the symbolism has become stronger:

And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire and smoke and brimstone. By these three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths. For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt. (Revelation 9:17-19)

From the description, we can see that the aggression of the locusts increases, with not only teeth of lions, but heads of lions. They now have mouths that speak fire and smoke and brimstone, symbolizing that they have political and legislative force to kill or silence their enemies. That will clearly be the case in the U.S. as soon as the Supreme Court rules in favor of same-sex marriage. Then they will have a firm legal basis for their existence and operation.

In addition to political power, the power of their tails (sexual power) has also become more satanically perverse than it was in the fifth trumpet. Now their tails are described as serpents with heads. The heads represent the governmental leaders who support them and are capable of speaking for them. That is how they hurt (kill) the people of God.

The sad conclusion of the trumpet warnings at the close of human probation echoes from the pages of the sacred Word:

And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk: Neither repented they of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts. (Revelation 9:20-21)

Earlier, we saw how the judgment of Ezekiel 9 is coming to an end. Then it'll be over for the church... Those who can be saved, will have been marked by the angel with the writer's inkhorn. We hope you are one of them.

We are not the first to interpret locusts as representing gays. We already saw a Catholic make that interpretation. Another commentator expressed it succinctly on a radio show:

Barber agreed [with LaBarbera], saying that progressives are just modern-day pagans and comparing gay activists to a "swarm of locusts" who attack "anything noble" in an effort to destroy it and leave nothing but a dried husk.^[33]

Note some of the changes that locusts undergo as they transition to the gregarious phase:

In gregarious phase, they form dense and highly mobile (marching) bands of hoppers and flying swarms of adults (winged locusts), which behave as an entity.^[34]

Note how they mate together, like in one big sexual orgy:

This gregarious behavior is reinforced by a synchronization of the biological events: mating, egg-laying, hatching, fledging. Thus, eggs hatch at the same moment from dense egg-beds and the newly appeared hoppers form immediately primary bands; after fledging, the immature adults will form swarms.

Note how the distinction between male and female goes away, as in homosexuals:

...the differences in size between the sexes become less pronounced and may sometimes disappear in the gregarious phase.

The Scriptures could hardly have used a more fitting creature to represent the gay movement! The symbolism is even reinforced by iconographic media like the well-known 13th & Locust St. crossing in the "Gayborhood" of Philadelphia, where rainbows adorn the street signs, and soon the crosswalks! That is Philadelphia, U.S., the city of "brotherly lust" where the satanic (13th St.)

lord of the locusts, Pope Francis, will be visiting soon. It has nothing in common with the Philadelphia of brotherly love mentioned in the Bible.

Conclusion

It is not only the trumpets that are fulfilling now. News reports are reminding us that soon every mountain and island will be moved out of its place:

- June 16, The Guardian: Mount Everest moved three centimeters after Nepal earthquake

That is just a gentle reminder that the sixth seal is also about to be closed:

And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. (Revelation 6:13-14)

(Annotation from August 2016: For more information regarding the fulfillment of the classical sixth seal, please see the addendum to History Repeats II. The fulfillment of the repeated sixth seal is explained in the addendum to Signs of the End and slides 101-114 of the Orion Presentation.)

Yes, that means the stars are about to fall again, but this time they will impact the surface. It is time for the fireballs to fall now, to destroy modern-day Sodom. “What about the Sunday Law?” I hear the Adventists say. “National apostasy must come before national ruin!” Did you understand what we wrote in the Death of the Twins article? Do you understand that you can read the well-known Ellen White quotes in a new light now? For example:

The [LGBT \[was: Sabbath\]](#) question is to be the issue in the great final conflict in which all the world will act a part.—Testimonies for the Church 6:352 (1900). {LDE 135.2}

The substitution of the false for the true is the last act in the drama. When this substitution becomes universal God will reveal Himself. When the laws of men are exalted above the laws of God, when the powers of this earth try to force men to [allow same-sex marriage \[was: keep the first day of the week\]](#), know that the time has come for God to work.—The S.D.A. Bible Commentary 7:980 (1901). {LDE 135.4}

For the 168-years of the judgment of the dead, it was about the Sabbath. But for the three-and-a-half-year judgment of the living, it is about marriage. God sees the heart!

Let’s bring this subject back around to where we started. Now we know:

- Bible prophecy is fulfilling like precision clockwork as we speak.
- The women’s liberation and LGBT movements play the central role in the three woe trumpets.
- Pope Francis is coming out of the closet in support of sodomy, confirming that he is Satan incarnate.

What else is left of the apocalypse? In the next three months after July 8 till the seventh trumpet, Satan wants to “master the human domain” by taking control of the entire planet. By doing that, he would win the Great Controversy that is so dear to the hearts of Adventists. I cannot express how it makes me feel to see my church doing what it is doing—or not doing. To stand idly by and disregard the advances of the enemy, and add on top of that rebellion against God’s social order in marriage, is a crime greater than we can comprehend. Perhaps that is why the coming destruction is also greater than we can comprehend:

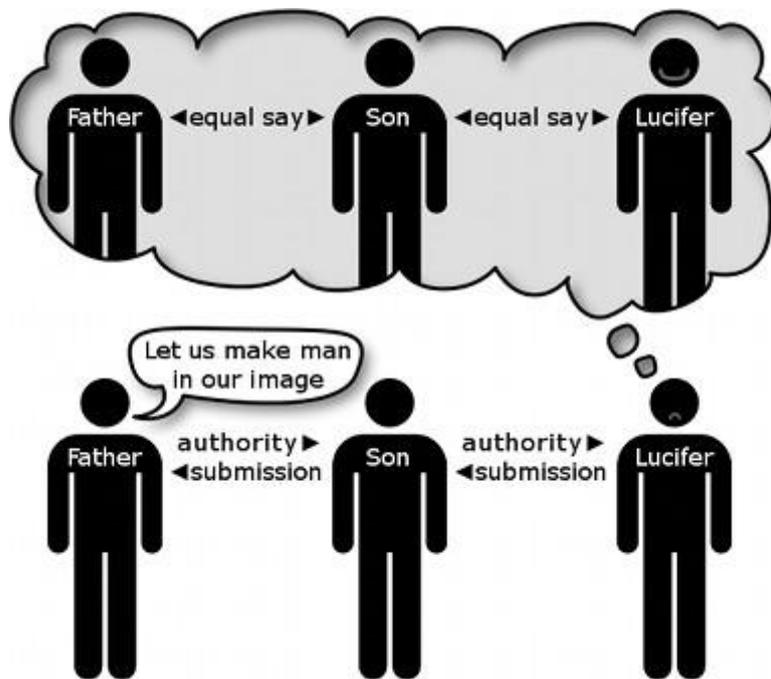

It is often the case that trouble is greater in anticipation than in reality; but this is not true of the crisis before us. {GC 622.4}[35]

Satan will not stop with the world’s throne. He wants God’s throne. He wants to be at the center of the rainbow that encircles the throne of God. Yes, the LGBT rainbow itself shows his motive:

As the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness round about. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD. And when I saw it, I fell upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake. (Ezekiel 1:28)

Now you begin to see just how blasphemous and satanic Gay Pride really is. If you watched Stephen Bohr’s GYC message,[36] you should recognize that homosexuality is blasphemous mockery of the special relationship between God the Father and His Son, in whose image man and woman were created.

The Lord has shown me that Satan was once an honored angel in heaven, next to Jesus Christ. His countenance was mild, expressive of happiness like the other angels. His forehead was high and broad, and showed great intelligence. His form was perfect. He had a noble, majestic bearing. And I saw that when God said to his Son, Let us make man in our image, Satan was jealous of Jesus. He wished to be consulted concerning the formation of man. He was filled with envy, jealousy and hatred. He wished to be the highest in heaven, next to God, and receive the highest honors. Until this time all heaven was in order, harmony and perfect subjection to the government of God. {1SG 17.1}[37]

Now we are coming to the reason why the pope is supporting gay rights, and why he is calling for a new social and cultural pact. The primary criticism of social contract theory according to the Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy is that there is a more fundamental contract between men and women which renders the social contract incomplete. The following quote makes the point clear:

Carole Pateman’s 1988 book, The Sexual Contract, argues that lying beneath the myth of the idealized contract, as described by Hobbes, Locke, and Rousseau, is a more fundamental contract concerning men’s relationship to women. Contract theory represents itself as being opposed to patriarchy and patriarchal right. (Locke’s social contract, for example, is set by him in stark contrast to the work of Robert Filmer who argued in favor of patriarchal power.) Yet the “original pact” (2) that precedes the social contract entered into by equals is the agreement by men to dominate and control women.[38]

To reframe that feminist observation in biblical terms, we could say that the “original pact” that precedes the social contract entered into by equals is the marriage institution—which is not about “domination and control” as the feminists say, but about oversight and submission. Thus, the woman’s rights movement is a direct challenge to the marriage institution, which was patterned after the divine similitude of the Godhead. As such, the feminist movement directly attacks the Godhead, and is thus purely satanic, as Ellen White—who is often quoted to mean the opposite—frankly stated:

Those who feel called out to join the movement in favor of woman’s rights and the so-called dress reform might as well sever all connection with the third angel’s message. The spirit which attends the one cannot be in harmony with the other. The Scriptures are plain upon the relations and rights of men and women. {1T 421.4}[39]

Maybe after voting for women’s ordination, the Seventh-day Adventist Church should drop the “Seventh-day” part of its name in its effort to sever all connection with the third angel’s message! Then it would be easier to fall in line with the Sunday worship of the pope’s new social and cultural pact! No, friends, it should not be so.

Even the Satanist feminists recognize that the marriage institution forms the underlying pact that all society is based upon, and that is precisely what they have a problem with. When God created Adam, He created him complete. Then he took out a rib. The ribs are the covering of the heart; by forming Eve from his rib, God uncovered Adam’s heart and made a visible display of it through Eve. You see into the heart of a man when you see his wife, as you can see God by looking at His Son. The two become one flesh, which means they become one dynamical system where a law of conservation governs their relationship. What one does affects the other. Husband and wife are like two quantum particles in a state of entanglement—measuring the spin of one reveals the spin of the other.

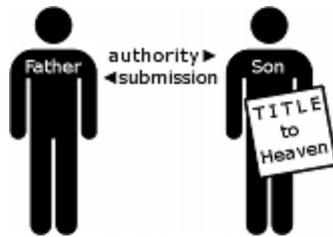

The Bible makes it clear that the submission order within the Godhead is essential to the plan of salvation. Let’s follow the plan step by step. It all started with God as the Great Author of all.

God invested all authority in His Son by creating all things through Him, and by putting all things under Him.

For he hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put all things under him. And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all. (1 Corinthians 15:27-28)

Jesus exercised the authority that the Father had given Him when He created the earth and its inhabitants. God designed the human race in His image, and instituted the “original pact” of marriage to establish the order of human society. Adam, the patriarch of the human family, was the representative of earth until the fall, after which Satan became the new representative of the earth.

Jesus was incarnated to redeem the fallen race. As heir of heaven, He still held title to the heavenly estate—He was the King of Heaven, born in a feeding trough. By becoming a man, Jesus gave Himself (and His estate) to the human family. What a treasure was held in His Person! Satan, being the representative of the human race, thought he could acquire the title to heaven and become equal with God by killing Jesus. He knew that upon Jesus’ death, the inheritance would pass to the survivors of the human race, which he represented.

Although Jesus had bequeathed or willed the heavenly estate to the human family, Satan’s supposed victory was actually a defeat. In the same act of his death, Jesus redeemed the race and became its Representative anew. Jesus returned to heaven to represent (intercede) on man’s behalf, until the time when the redeemed should inherit the Kingdom. They must first be holy, then they can receive the Kingdom.

He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things? (Romans 8:32)

To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne. (Revelation 3:21)

The work of redemption involves consequences of which it is difficult for man to have any conception. “Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him.” 1 Corinthians 2:9. . . . To human beings striving for conformity to the divine image there is imparted an outlay of heaven’s treasure, an excellency of power, that will place them higher than even the angels who have never fallen. {COL 162.4}

With that plan, God demonstrates the full circle of His love. Love is only love when it is given, and God shows that He loves and trusts us enough to commit heaven—and even His own Person—into the care of human hands! In the human realm, that is what a husband does with his wife. She becomes his equal, and what is his is hers, all within the parameters of the original pact which was formed in the image of God.

Committing Himself to the care of His creatures is the ultimate expression of God's impartiality.

Are you ready to accept that responsibility? Will you take good care of Him and His household? Are you prepared to be obedient even unto the death of the cross? Will you be willing to give up your eternal life for Him, like Jesus did, when called to do so? Does your holiness measure up to His character? That is the high calling of this generation, the 144,000!

We are in the judgment of the living, and cases are being judged to decide who is worthy to take that responsibility. Before you judge another, you should be willing to give your life for that person. Before God can be vindicated in the great tribunal of heaven, the jurors must be willing to give their life for Him.

No rebellion can be allowed in heaven. God is the head of Christ, and Christ—though equal—demonstrates perfect submission. If it were not so, the Son of God would be in rebellion against His Father, like Lucifer is! But the Son remains in perfect submission, and God remains all in all. God is a God of order, and love is demonstrated through the order of submission.

Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name: That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father. (Philippians 2:5-11)

Christ is the head of the church, and the church must also come into perfect submission to Him.

Where are our women, who, thinking it not robbery to be equal with men, will make themselves of no reputation, and being found in fashion as a woman, will humble themselves, and become obedient to their husbands? Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus! Where are our men, who are vested with the authority to fulfill the responsibility entrusted to them? Where are our men and women, who will be obedient unto death, even the death of the cross, for Christ's sake?

The order of headship is God's design for the government of society under Christ. It is an extension of the very government of heaven. God ordered and instituted marriage as the building block of society.

Do you see why Pope Francis is calling for a new social and cultural pact? We already have social pacts, but they assume a culture of godly marriage which is derived from the original pact. That is why he wants a new pact that is not only a social pact, but also a cultural pact—one that replaces the original culture of marriage with a culture of equality for women and gays that would remove the last vestige of God's authority in the government of man.

Thus he purports to deliver on the ancient promise of a better form of government to the hosts of heaven—one where all are equal. Satan wants to "master the human domain" (the motto of Jade Helm for the next three and a half months) because the earth is the sandbox for proving the concept that he hopes to transfer to the whole universe. If all humanity accepts his form of government here on earth, then where is the church? Where is the bride of Christ? Where are those who will vindicate the Father, and the Father's order in government?

Like homosexuality, women's ordination tears apart the very fabric of God's order in society. It is not just a matter of earthly government. By voting for women's ordination, the church would be justifying Lucifer's rebellion. It would be deciding in favor of unraveling of the very warp and woof of the universe: the relationship within the Godhead itself. That is THE blessed tie that binds not only our hearts in Christian love, but the whole universe under God. Those who dismantle the marriage institution or tolerating the ones who do so are fighting on the wrong side of the Great Controversy.

Can God trust Himself to a church where divine order is not maintained? Is such a church worthy to be wed to the spotless Lamb of God and inherit the everlasting estate of the Father? This is not just a question of personal salvation—it is a question of the survival of the unfallen universe! The Lamb's bride must make herself ready!

Starting from July 8, there will be just three and a half months till LGBT equality becomes universal, and then the plagues will begin.

This is it. Take your stand for God now, cost what it may. There's no more time to "halt" between opinions.

The Resurrection of the Two Witnesses

Written by Robert Dickinson

Published: Sunday, July 19, 2015, 3:00 pm

Created: Tuesday, July 14, 2015, 3:49 pm

In this article, we bring you the results of the Challenge at Mount Carmel which took place on July 8, 2015 at the Alamodome in San Antonio, TX. For three and a half years, the remnant of God were praying for the latter rain.^[1] During that time, spiritual drought famished the people while the land languished. The flocks of spiritual Israel were not “Revived By His Word” despite their reading programs. Finally, the General Conference Session arrived, and the great showdown took place on Mt. Carmel amidst the worst spiritual famine in the church’s history. Like King Ahab, its highest voice of authority was assembled for the great decision day to decide who would feed the starving flocks of spiritual Israel.

Would women pastors as the modern-day daughters of Asherah, the Queen of Heaven, feed them? Or would the male-only priests of Baal continue to feed the flocks of God with their Catholic doctrines?

What Happened to the Church on July 8

Yes or no questions can be tricky. Consider the following trick question addressed to a husband: “Have you stopped beating your wife yet?” It is a plain yes-or-no question, but it is a trick question because either way the husband answers it, he condemns himself. If he says “no,” he admits that he is guilty of still beating his wife. If he says “yes,” he admits that he is guilty of having beaten his wife. The question does not allow for an innocent answer—he’s damned either way.

On July 8, the delegates of the Seventh-day Adventist World Church gave their answer to the following trick question:

...is it acceptable for division executive committees, as they may deem it appropriate in their territories, to make provision for the ordination of women to the gospel ministry? Yes or No.

“Yes” votes effectively asserted that God’s design of male leadership could be disregarded by human will. But “No” votes (the majority) asserted that deviation from the policy of the global church, even on an issue as important^[2] as the Sabbath, is not allowed. Delegates voted to either void God’s law directly (which is already being done by that faction), or betray their duty to obey God rather than man. They were damned either way by that “carefully worded proposal.”^[3] It was a trick question to cement the Church’s absolute authority over individual conscience, as it is in the Catholic Church. This was the last step in the Catholicization of the organized Seventh-day Adventist Church^[4] (the Catholic Church does not allow women to be priests either, by the way).

Thus, probation finally closed for the Seventh-day Adventist Church organization. They voted the end of their own freedom of conscience at the sound of the sixth trumpet. But by framing the vote as a trick question, with Ted Wilson insisting that no motions be made to amend the wording, the church prevented God from giving an immediate answer to the decision. God could not answer by fire on that same day, any more than an honest man can answer a trick question with a simple yes or no. Time had to be allowed to clarify the muddy issue.

The Sixth Trumpet's Fearful Sentence

The Bible explains what the terrible consequences of the 2015 GC Session are. It begins with a voice from the altar in heaven:

And the sixth angel sounded [on July 8], and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God, (Revelation 9:13)

The sixth trumpet pointed to the vote on July 8 which was part of a bigger meeting that went from July 2 to July 11, similarly to how the third trumpet pointed to the middle of the 2014 Annual Council to emphasize a special point. The voice of the General Conference in Session began to speak before July 8, and continued to speak until the conference ended. Once the conference had ended, the decision that was made on July 8 became final.

When the decision was made, a voice in heaven pronounced judgment upon the church. We expected that judgment to be seen immediately “the same hour,”^[5] but in addition to the fact that the trick question had to be exposed first, we overlooked a unique detail in the text:

Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates. (Revelation 9:14)

This is the only time that one of the trumpet angels in heaven is instructed to do something on the earth. The trumpet angels are described as being in heaven, standing in front of the throne of God,^[6] but the river Euphrates is a river on the earth. How long does it take for an angel to travel from heaven to do something on the earth? Adventist students of prophecy should know that it takes seven days:

We all entered the cloud together, and were seven days ascending to the sea of glass... {EW 16.2}^[7]

Ellen White was given to know this travel time from earth to heaven so that we would understand that prophetic symbolism involving travel between heaven and earth means that there must be a duration of time involved. There must be a delay of seven days from the pronouncement in heaven until it reached the earth. In the context of the sixth trumpet, these seven days of travel correspond to the time it took for the voice from the altar in heaven to reach the earth—the same seven days that modern Elijah waited for the sign of the latter rain.

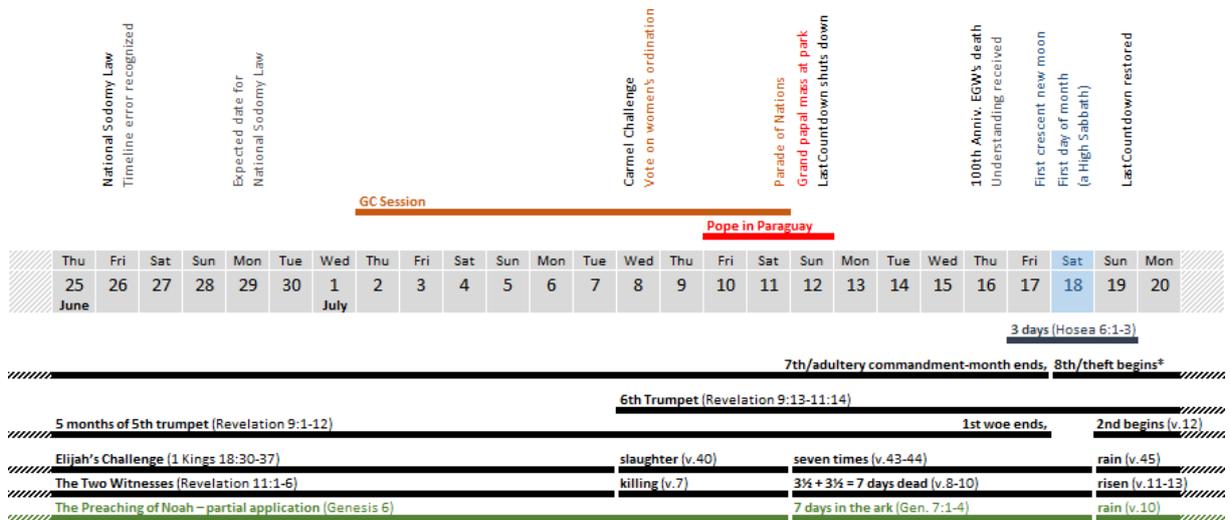

Not having taken that into account, and not having seen any act of God on July 8 or within three and a half days, the LastCountdown websites went off-line on July 12. We do not have a message of pretense. We believe what we teach, and when we publish a message, we are able to defend it and harmonize it with the body of inspired knowledge that we have. Thus, when we could no longer find an explanation for what had (not) happened, then we went away and the two witnesses of Revelation 11 died.

The two witnesses were historically the Old and New Testaments, but today they represent the Orion and HSL timepieces (the Book of Seven Seals, and the Book of Seven Thunders) as we explained in the Fire at Mount Carmel article. Our website is where those two scriptural books—written in the firmament by the hand of God—are expounded, therefore the two witnesses “died” when the websites were taken down.

On that day, we did not even recognize the time delay of seven days, much less when they should have begun. In retrospect, however, it is clear that the door of probation for the church closed on July 8, but the verdict could not be officially pronounced until the Session was completely finished. There was still the unlikely possibility that a motion would be raised later in the meetings to reverse, clarify, or alter the decision that was made on July 8. When the Session closed, however, the decision was set in stone. There will not be another GC Session before Jesus comes; there will be no other change in the course of the organization!

As representatives of the voice of God on earth, our unwitting closure of our website on July 12 reflected the voice in heaven that pronounced the close of mercy for the organized Seventh-day Adventist Church. The ark door was shut for them.

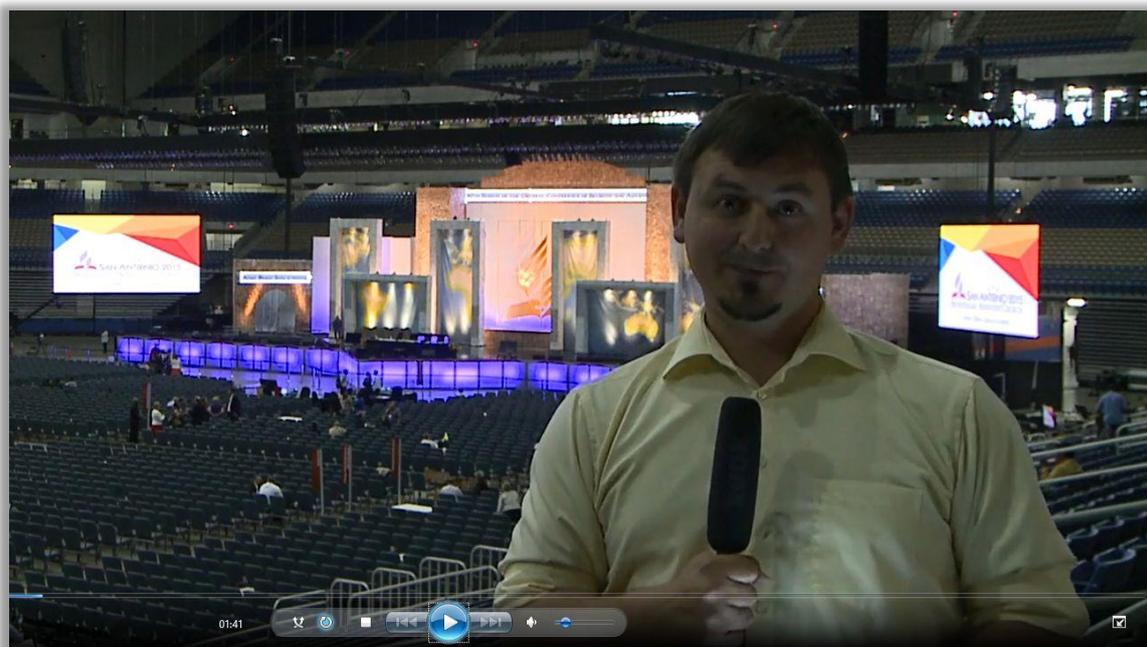

* The ten commandment-months are explained in Babylon Is Fallen! - Part II

There were many things voted during this session. For example, the 28 Fundamental Beliefs were changed to satisfy the United Nations requirements for gender neutrality. Such changes were made to unite with the world. That was the big overarching agenda of the Session.

The delegates and attendees, in what was historically called the Parade of Nations, turned the occasion into a celebration of their new blasphemous marriage to the United Nations. The name was changed to Mission on the Move to reflect a “change in focus”^[8] to the security mission of the UN (focus on helping the poor, etc.). During the seventh commandment-month against adultery, the church committed exactly that sin. They committed adultery with the United Nations and the false religions of the world. From the Savior’s own mouth, that is the grounds for divorce.^[9] As we wrote in Babylon Is Fallen, Part I, the church has not measured up to the standard of Christ, but has instead reached the height of Nebuchadnezzar’s golden statue: 60 cubits high, in this 60th GC Session. The organization has completely fallen!

Just take a look at what the attendees were worshipping at the Session:

They erect “prism” pyramids everywhere. They set the stage so that the attendees are worshiping toward the Alamo, a Catholic Church. Guards pass in and out of the fortress walls all week long... And people still have the audacity to ask for signs and wonders!? HOW MANY DO YOU NEED!?

Then certain of the scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee. But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: (Matthew 12:38-39)

Those verses pronounce the terrible verdict upon the church. No sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah, and it is already a fact that they will not receive the sign of Jonah. Jesus expressed it well in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus:

And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead. (Luke 16:31)

The punishment for the church organization is that God has left it. He has divorced it, because it has gone a-whoring after Babylon. As an organization, it has committed the unpardonable sin against the Holy Spirit, and now it cannot hear the pleading of God any more, “though one rose from the dead.”

Come Out of Her!

If you are still supporting the church organization, praying for it, paying God’s tithe to it, listening to its hired voices—or supporting any of the ministries that are under its thumb—then you are supporting her sins and will receive her plagues! Now is the time for individuals to come out and be separate!

COME OUT OF HER, MY PEOPLE, THAT YE BE NOT PARTAKERS OF HER SINS, AND THAT YE RECEIVE NOT OF HER PLAGUES. (REVELATION 18:4)

The conditions that Ellen White gave have now been met:

The world [especially the United Nations] must not be introduced into the church, and married [yoked in service together] to the church, forming a bond of unity. THROUGH THIS MEANS THE CHURCH WILL [AND NOW HAS] BECOME INDEED CORRUPT, and as stated in Revelation, “a cage of every unclean and hateful bird [a reference to the present subject of Revelation 18].” {TM 265.1}

She goes on to say in the same letter:

Through association with the world our institutions will become unsubstantial, unreliable; because these worldly elements, introduced and placed in positions of trust, are looked up to as teachers to be respected in their educating, directing, and official position, and they are sure to be worked upon by the spirit and power of darkness; so that the demarcation becomes not distinguished between him that serveth God and him that serveth Him not. {TM 265.2}

Friends, if you cannot tell who serves God and who serves Him not, then you are on dangerous ground! If the demarcation has become indistinguishable, it means that the organization has been worked upon by the spirit and power of darkness! If you cannot tell who serves God and who doesn't, then you are INSIDE that darkness, through association with the world!

Do you know who Ted Wilson serves? The church organization cannot be sound when 95% of its leadership voted to keep a man that destroyed The Great Controversy! Do you know who Doug Batchelor serves, when he stands up against women's ordination, but refuses to speak out against and stand apart from the treacherous organization? Who does David Gates serve, when he fully understands that the vote is not about women's ordination, yet he promotes a vote for unity? Pastors like those are worked by the spirit and power of darkness!

The call is to COME OUT, but NO new organization will be formed. Now is the time for you to stand alone. The 144,000 are those who are not defiled with women, which means that they are not connected to any organization to be contaminated by corporate sins:

*These are they which were not defiled with women [churches]; for they are virgins [pure]. These are they which follow the Lamb [Jesus] whithersoever HE goeth [not Ted Wilson, not Pope Francis]. *These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb. (Revelation 14:4)

The call is to ALL churches, because all churches have fallen. While the Adventist Church was celebrating its unlawful union with the world, Pope Francis was worshiped by millions of fanatic people who lined the streets of Paraguay, full of emotion, many shouting at the top of their lungs. The pope's grand finale^[10]—also on the day the two witnesses died—was the mass he held at the Ñu Guasú park in Paraguay, itself drawing half a million people or more. His speeches were rather disappointing. Here's one quote:

“How many times do we see evangelization as involving any number of strategies, tactics, maneuvers, techniques, as if we could convert people on the basis of our own arguments?” he asked.^[11]

There is no doubt that “our own arguments” from the Bible will not convert anyone who holds his churches' doors wide open to receive all classes of sin, even the most degrading.^[12] If you are in the Catholic Church or any of its formerly-Protestant daughters, the call from heaven is the same to you: COME OUT! Would you rather stay—to remain in sin until you are destroyed with it? I hope you would rather be saved by the purifying Word of God!

The organized Seventh-day Adventist Church has led by example, unfortunately in what NOT to do by rejecting the offer of salvation until their clock ran out. This is the eleventh hour that Ellen White wrote of:

The broken ranks will be filled up by those represented by Christ as coming in at the eleventh hour. There are many with whom the Spirit of God is striving. The time of God's destructive judgments is the time of mercy for those who have [had] no opportunity to learn what is truth. . . . His hand is still stretched out to save, while the door is closed to those who would not enter. {LDE 182.2}^[13]

Seven Days of Severe Trial for the Two Witnesses

The Savior's own ministry was uniquely identified by the 70-week time prophecy of Daniel:

And after threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself; and the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary; and the end thereof shall be with a flood, and unto the end of the war desolations are determined. And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate. (Daniel 9:26-27)

This was precisely fulfilled in the three and a half years of Christ's ministry on earth, with His crucifixion punctuating the "midst" of the prophetic week.

The sixth trumpet references that prophetic week in detailed terms, dividing the story of the two witnesses into two three-and-a-half-day periods that correspond to the two halves of the last week of Daniel's prophecy. It is not an identical repeat of Daniel's prophecy, but it brings together many related elements to tell the story of what is happening now at the sixth trumpet.

And when they shall have finished their testimony, the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them. And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified. And they of the people and kindreds and tongues and nations shall see their dead bodies three days and an half, and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves. And they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry, and shall send gifts one to another; because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt on the earth. And after three days and an half the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them. (Revelation 11:7-11)

The two witnesses link the ministry of Jesus Christ to that of the 144,000. His work was cut off after three and a half years, but the ministry of the 144,000 completes the remaining three and a half years through the judgment of the living as the timelines of Daniel 12 show—the time of the testimony of the two witnesses. The Orion Message was published in 2010, and the HSL was published in the spring of 2012 at the beginning of the three and a half years of the judgment of the living; the Two Witnesses began their combined testimony right on time.

In literal days, we can see how Jesus' example guides this ministry. The story of the two witnesses is the story of our movement. Alnitak (the one who was wounded—Jesus) is the Source of all our strength, and we give glory to Him. We have traveled through the figurative streets "where also our Lord was crucified," and have also been cut off when the LastCountdown websites were taken off-line. The enemy overcame us. At that moment, they celebrated their illicit marriages, depicted by Sodom, and their worldliness, depicted by Egypt.

I will tell you a little bit about our seven days lying "dead" in the street, but if you are reading this, then you know we did rise again, just as the prophecy has always said. After the two periods of three and a half days—a total of seven days—our website was switched on again.

And after three days and an half the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them. And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them. (Revelation 11:11-12)

Pay special attention to the sequence of events here. First, the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet. That is an accurate picture of our decision to bring the website back on-line. In the same morning, our study group received a dream from one of its members in the manner of Joel 2:28. It was about a chalice with seven levels marked on it, each level representing one trumpet warning until the cup of iniquity would be full. It was filled to the sixth mark, showing that divine wrath would be stayed until the cup is full.

The dream confirmed the need for us to rise again and give this warning. More, it led us to understand from the Trumpet Clock why no big destructive events came at the beginning of the sixth trumpet. Consider once again Ellen White's vision about the sealing time, which we are currently in:

The Sealing

At the commencement of the holy Sabbath, January 5, 1849, we engaged in prayer with Brother Belden's family at Rocky Hill, Connecticut, and the Holy Ghost fell upon us. I was taken off in vision to the most holy place, where I saw Jesus still interceding for Israel. On the bottom of His garment was a bell and a pomegranate. Then I saw that Jesus would not leave the most holy place until every case was decided either for salvation or destruction, and that the wrath of God could not come until Jesus had finished His work in the most holy place, laid off His priestly attire, and clothed Himself with the garments of vengeance. Then Jesus will step out from between the Father and man, and God will keep silence no longer, but pour out His wrath on those who have rejected His truth. I saw that the anger of the nations, the wrath of God, and the time to judge the dead were separate and distinct, one following the other, also that Michael had not stood up, and that the time of trouble, such as never was, had not yet commenced. The nations are now getting angry, but when our High Priest has finished His work in the sanctuary, He will stand up, put on the garments of vengeance, and then the seven last plagues will be poured out.

I saw that the four angels would hold the four winds until Jesus' work was done in the sanctuary, and then will come the seven last plagues. These plagues enraged the wicked against the righteous; they thought that we had brought the judgments of God upon them, and that if they could rid the earth of us, the plagues would then be stayed. A decree went forth to slay the saints, which caused them to cry day and night for deliverance. This was the time of Jacob's trouble. Then all the saints cried out with anguish of spirit, and were delivered by the voice of God. The 144,000 triumphed. Their faces were lighted up with the glory of God. Then I was shown a company who were howling in agony. On their garments was written in large characters, "Thou art weighed in the balance, and found wanting." I asked who this company were. The angel said, "These are they who have once kept the Sabbath and have given it up." I heard them cry with a loud voice, "We have believed in Thy coming, and taught it with energy." And while they were speaking, their eyes would fall upon their garments and see the writing, and then they would wail aloud. I saw that they had drunk of the deep waters, and fouled the residue with their feet—trodden the Sabbath underfoot—and that was why they were weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Then my attending angel directed me to the city again, where I saw four angels winging their way to the gate of the city. They were just presenting the golden card to the angel at the gate when I saw another angel flying swiftly from the direction of the most excellent glory, and crying with a loud voice to the other angels, and waving something up and down in his hand. I asked my attending angel for an explanation of what I saw. He told me that I could see no more then, but he would shortly show me what those things that I then saw meant.

Sabbath afternoon one of our number was sick, and requested prayers that he might be healed. We all united in applying to the Physician who never lost a case, and while healing power came down, and the sick was healed, the Spirit fell upon me, and I was taken off in vision.

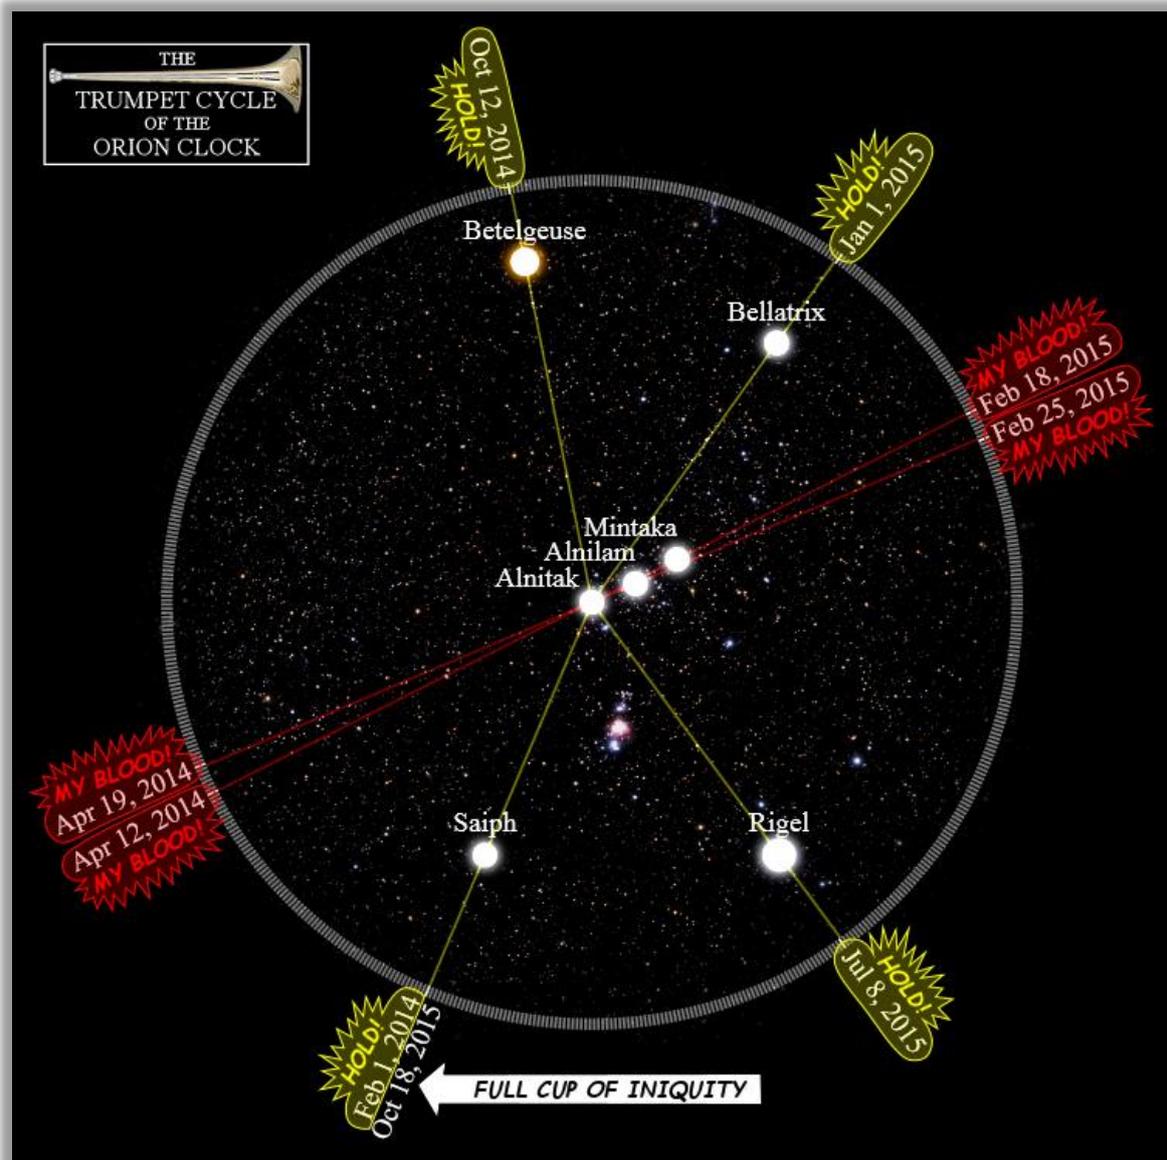

I saw four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and were on their way to accomplish it. Jesus was clothed with priestly garments. He gazed in pity on the remnant, then raised His hands, and with a voice of deep pity cried, “My blood, Father, My blood, My blood, My blood!” Then I saw an exceeding bright light come from God, who sat upon the great white throne, and was shed all about Jesus. Then I saw an angel with a commission from Jesus, swiftly flying to the four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and waving something up and down in his hand, and crying with a loud voice, “Hold! Hold! Hold! Hold! until the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads.”

I asked my accompanying angel the meaning of what I heard, and what the four angels were about to do. He said to me that it was God that restrained the powers, and that He gave His angels charge over things on the earth; that the four angels had power from God to hold the four winds, and that they were about to let them go; but while their hands were loosening, and the four winds were about to blow, the merciful eye of Jesus gazed on the remnant that were not sealed, and He raised His hands to the Father and pleaded with Him that He had spilled His blood for them. Then another angel was commissioned to fly swiftly to the four angels and bid them hold, until the servants of God were sealed with the seal of the living God in their foreheads. {EW 36.1–38.2}

From the beginning of the Orion message, we have always seen the blood of Jesus in the judgment cycle of the Orion Clock. When we received the trumpet and plague cycles of the Orion Clock, we recognized it as what the commissioned angel was waving up and down. When the trumpet cycle unfolded without major destructive events, we understood that the holds had stayed the destruction. That is the principle of progressive revelation at work, but it was not complete.

In the Mystery of Ezekiel, we tried to apply the four holds of the trumpet clock to the second through fifth trumpets. Then we revised that notion in the Vomit of God article, saying that the four holds applied to the first through fourth trumpets. We never could quite harmonize this vision until now. The Lord allowed us to understand this incrementally because he wanted His warnings to go forth and be heeded.

The entire vision is about the sealing time of the 144,000, which corresponds to the time of the trumpet cycle, not the judgment cycle. That means the four cries for His blood apply to the trumpet cycle too! The following illustration shows the correct interpretation:

This is exactly what Revelation 7:1 states: the four angels have to be “held,” while the throne lines have always represented the cross as already described in the Orion presentation. With His blood, Jesus is pleading from the symbolic cross in heaven for His people.

What that means is that the destruction that should have accompanied the opening of the sixth trumpet has also been held back until the end of the entire cycle, when the plagues will begin.

With study and dream confirmation like that, it can truly be said that the “Spirit of life” or the “living Spirit” entered the two witnesses, and they stood on their feet. We stood up by our own volition, once we were revived with life from God. That was the first event, we just stood up. Then the people feared, and it’s no wonder why!

The wrath that has been tempered with mercy during the trumpets will be poured out without mercy in the plagues. The plagues will be punishments for the issues that the trumpets have warned about. The plagues will be caused by the supernova explosion of Betelgeuse, as explained in the Wrath of God series, and shows how angry God is because of the events which the trumpets point to, including the decision of the SDA Church on July 8. God is SO ANGRY with the Seventh-day Adventist Church, that He could have exploded Betelgeuse right now at the sixth trumpet! Read or reread the Wrath of God series to know just how angry He is! He is only containing Himself ONE LAST TIME, for those who have not had an opportunity to know the truth yet.

That does not mean there will be no major destruction whatsoever during the sixth trumpet timeframe, however. The fireballs in fulfillment of the sixth seal are still due before general probation closes, but that is a subject for another article.

(Annotation from August 2016: For more information regarding the fulfillment of the classical sixth seal, please see the addendum to History Repeats II. The fulfillment of the repeated sixth seal is explained in the addendum to Signs of the End and slides 101–114 of the Orion Presentation.)

And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them. (Revelation 11:12)

In publishing this article, we fulfilled the next part about a voice from heaven (Revelation 18:4) that says “Come up here!” The churches have fallen, which is a lower position. Coming “up” means to come to a higher position. We are talking about doctrines. True doctrines elevate the character, while false doctrines degrade it.

The voice called them to come up to heaven in a cloud. This is a visual reference to the 144,000, who are being called to come up to higher ground, to elevated truth, which is represented as a cloud in the heavens:

And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God. And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God. (Revelation 15:1–2)

Those who have studied the Orion presentation know that the sea of glass is the beautiful Orion nebula, which is transparent, mingled with the fire of stars. The 144,000 are depicted as standing on the sea of glass in heaven at the beginning of the plagues. The Bible does not teach a pre-tribulation rapture, so this verse must be depicting the condition of the 144,000 as overcomers.

In the same way, the two witnesses are called to “come up” to the cloud. That is the essence of this article. It is a call to the 144,000 to “come up” to Mt. Zion, to the mountain of truth, to higher ground, where the flood of iniquity cannot wash them away.

What remains to be seen is the fulfillment of the following verses:

And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of heaven. (Revelation 11:13)

The earthquake could be a literal one to come, or it could be talking about the great spiritual shaking that must take place in the next three months until the seventh trumpet. Time will tell for sure.

Children of Light, or Children of Darkness?

July 16 was the 100th anniversary of the death of Ellen G. White. God did not intend for her to die; He intended for her church to do the work it was given and usher in the second coming of Jesus in 1890. Ellen White’s death in 1915 remains a chilling reminder that men—today as much as in the past—can hinder God’s work. Her death is one of the events that is marked in both the Orion message and the High Sabbath List.

During the week, we had reason to reflect on it. She died at 3:40 p.m. (within the ninth hour by Hebrew reckoning). Jesus' death was also about the ninth hour^[14] when the evening sacrifice escaped.^[15] Elijah's prayer was at the time of the evening sacrifice. All of these things should lead our minds to the sacrifice that the 144,000 must be willing to make, as priests.

Friends, this is not time to set your mind on earthly things. If ever there was a time to sacrifice, it is now! The sixth trumpet was marked for a certain hour, not just a certain day, to remind you that it's time to sacrifice at the loosing of the four angels of the sixth trumpet,

...which were prepared for an [especial] hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:15)

Are you prepared for your hour of sacrifice? We are living in the evening of earth's history. We are even living in the evening of the great Day of Atonement, and even in the evening of the trumpet cycle of the Orion Clock. It is time for the evening sacrifice, before the plagues come at nightfall. The 144,000 priests of God will each need to make their own sacrifice like we did this week. We could not see through the portals of our tomb. We did not know if this ministry would come back to life. The fact is, it came back to life because WE stepped forward again.

Jesus Christ, our great Example, showed us how to conquer our enemies by His example—by laying down His life. His greatest victory was won through what appeared to be His greatest defeat. What does it mean that the Carmel Challenge was not followed by an act of executive judgment from God? Did the church even show up? Did the church take up the challenge? No! And if they didn't even join the challenge, what was God to answer!?! That is why no sign was given, except the sign of Jonah as I said before.

After Elijah's sacrifice, a great slaughter took place. The Lord will make His slaughter of the priests of Baal in the plagues. The question is, how much evidence does the Israel of God need before they will stand together and say: "the LORD, He is the God! the LORD, He is the God!"^[16] and the High Sabbath Adventists are His servants?

And if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood [Ted Wilson's company], or the gods of the Amorites [Pope Francis' company], in whose land ye dwell [under the United Nations]: but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD. (Joshua 24:15)

Some of the things we've learned during this time in the tomb could have been known beforehand. Then we wouldn't have suffered as much, but on the other hand God has a way of teaching us through our experiences. In our desperation, we cry out to God and find that He is very near to us. One of the things we could have easily seen is this:

One woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter. (Revelation 9:12)*

In that verse, we are reminded that the fifth trumpet included a specified duration of five months. We included a chart in Babylon Is Fallen, Part II that shows the exact timeframe of the five months. The verse above shows that the woe of the fifth trumpet has a definite ending date, and the only end date we have been given in the fifth trumpet prophecy is the end of the five months. The last day of the first woe was Friday, July 17, 2015. That means the prophet spoke from his viewpoint on a day immediately after July 17 when he said in Revelation 9:12 that "one woe is past." John the Revelator was writing from the viewpoint of Sabbath, July 18. Furthermore, he says that two more woes will come, but have not yet come. That means the second woe cannot start any earlier than Sunday, July 19, just based on this one text combined with knowledge that we already had! Indeed, the sixth trumpet began on July 8, but the second woe had to begin a little later.

Furthermore, we all saw as early as June 26 that the timeline presented in the Death of the Twins article was not correct. It's a bit of a shame that none of us—neither here, nor in our study group, nor among our other followers—could see the problem and solve it until we were desperately pleading with the Lord, “Master, carest thou not that we perish?”^[17] But in our desperation, light came. Do you plead for the light too? Are you among the children of light, of whom it is written:

*But of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you. For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness. (1 Thessalonians 5:1–5)

Did you notice which commandment-month follows the first woe? Did you notice that it is about theft? What great theft have the children of darkness (especially in the church) committed, which would justify Jesus surprising them like a thief would? Let the punishment fit the crime!

*Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings. Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation. Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing [the latter rain], that there shall not be room enough to receive it. (Malachi 3:8–10)

The curse of the second woe, when the latter rain is expected after the Elijah Challenge, should logically begin in the commandment-month dealing with theft, and not earlier. And if we are children of the light, the date should not take us by surprise.

The Other High Sabbaths

Elijah did not immediately know for certain that the rain was coming or when. He advised Ahab in faith, but then he went to the top of the mountain alone and asked his servant to look for a cloud. In the Fire at Mount Carmel article, we mistakenly interpreted this scene as pertaining to the plagues, when God's people will be looking for the cloud of His coming, but the story is clearly speaking about the latter rain to bless God's people, not about the second coming.

Elijah went to the top of the mountain:

*And said to his servant, Go up now, look toward the sea. And he went up, and looked, and said, There is nothing. And he said, Go again seven times. (1 Kings 18:43)

There was “nothing.” There was no sign of the latter rain during the seven days that followed the GC Session. Six times the report came back: nothing. The people were starving, the cattle were dying and the land was parched. Surely Elijah's faith was tested!

When the seventh report came back, he finally knew that rain was on its way. In a similar way, we could not tell exactly when the rain would come until we reached the seventh day of our death. Then we understood, and the signs became clear.

And it came to pass at the seventh time, that he said, Behold, there ariseth a little cloud out of the sea, like a man's hand... (1 Kings 18:44)

On the very Sabbath of July 18, California residents were pleased to get a few drops of rain amidst their own long drought, not realizing the seriousness of what it means. My heart aches for such ones who have had the greatest of opportunities, but have neglected to make use of them.

The more profound sign, though, was the first crescent new moon that was officially sighted on Friday night, making Sabbath, July 18, 2015 a new moon Sabbath. The first day of every month in ancient Israel was a feast day. Trumpets were blown to signal the new month. The first day of the seventh month was even an extra special annual Sabbath called the Day of Trumpets. Could there be a link between new month Sabbaths and the trumpet cycle of the Orion Clock?

Yes. This particular new month beginning (Sabbath, July 18) is not only the beginning of the commandment-month about theft, but it is also mentioned in a prophecy that is very relevant to the present situation:

They have dealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children [by adultery]: now shall a month [eighth commandment-month] devour them with their portions. (Hosea 5:7)

They have taken from God, so it shall be taken from them. But there is a silver lining for the faithful:

Come, and let us return unto the Lord: for he hath torn, and he will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up. After two days will he revive us: in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the LORD: his going forth is prepared as the morning; and he shall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth. (Hosea 6:1-3)

The three days surrounding this special new-month High Sabbath are the three days prophesied for the resurrection of the ministry of the two witnesses. On preparation day, we received the understanding of when the second woe would come. On the second day—Sabbath—we were revived as we rested in our figurative tomb, like Jesus did in His literal one. On Sunday, we were raised up with Him in the form of the two witnesses.

Then certain of the scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee. But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. (Matthew 12:38-40)

As it turns out, there was exactly one other new moon day that landed on a Sabbath during the trumpet cycle of the Orion Clock: February 21, 2015—the day after Obama's White House counter-terrorism summit of the fifth trumpet. All of these new moon Sabbaths could have been known before now. Now we can see that the exact beginning of each woe is marked by a High Sabbath:

1. The first woe follows Sabbath, February 21, 2015
2. The second woe follows Sabbath, July 18, 2015
3. The third woe follows Sabbath, October 24, 2015

Thus, the seven days of our searching for the sign of rain are over. Now it comes!

The Clock Is Ticking

What is happening to the apostate part of the Seventh-day Adventist Church is a warning to the whole world. The seven days between the close of probation for the Church and the beginning of the second woe are a warning of what will happen to all the world.

In just a short while, at the (initially inaudible) sound of the seventh trumpet on October 18, 2015, probation will close for all of humanity, and seven days later the seven last plagues will begin to fall. If Jesus could have come in Ellen White's day, the plagues would have only spanned the last seven days of human history. What God created in seven days, He could have also destroyed in seven days.

Because "what might have been"^[18] in Ellen White's day did not come to pass, however, the world is in a far worse state of morality, and provokes a far hotter fire to consume the filth. Instead of Sabbath vs. Sunday as the moral test question, we have the Straight vs. Sodomite question—which is not only a matter of conscience, but of our very nature as human beings. How low has the world sunken beneath the waves of immorality! Only seven days of plagues would have been needed in 1890, but a full year is needed to clean up the mess we have on our hands as we approach October 18, 2015!

That change in the duration of the plagues also explains many of Ellen White's statements, where she saw certain events happening very near the second coming. The events that she saw so close together when the cloud was already visible as the sign of the Son of man, we experience over a prolonged (but still rapidly passing) time.

As surely as Ellen White died 100 years ago, just 100 days remain from the anniversary of her death until the clock runs out. These are not the 100 days of prayer of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. These are your last 100 days of prayer until the great and terrible year of God's wrath begins, following the Day of Atonement and High Sabbath of Saturday, October 24, 2015. The investigative judgment began on the Day of Atonement in 1844, and will end on the Day of Atonement in 2015.

Don't wait till the clock runs out. Don't wait for the 70th anniversary of the United Nations, when the prophecy of Jeremiah will meet its fulfillment:

And it shall come to pass, when seventy years are accomplished, that I will punish the king of Babylon, and that nation, saith the LORD, for their iniquity, and the land of the Chaldeans, and will make it perpetual desolations. . . . For thus saith the LORD God of Israel unto me; Take the wine cup of this fury at my hand, and cause all the nations, to whom I send thee, to drink it. (Jeremiah 25:12,15)

Then the seven days of Noah will apply again for the last time.

Noah also waited seven days inside the ark before the torrential rains fell, and his story stands as an example for the close of probation—especially for the world, but partly also for the church at the sixth trumpet. The torrential rains are especially symbolic of the latter rain, which is poured out now in destructive torrents upon those who had opportunity, but did not take refuge in the ark of truth. For those who had no opportunity, mercy still lingers just a little while longer.

But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating [inordinately] and drinking [wine], marrying [gays] and giving in marriage [lesbians], until the day that Noe entered into the ark, And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. (Matthew 24:37-39)

Seven days were the family of Noah in the ark before the rain began to descend upon the earth. In this time they were arranging for their long stay while the waters should be upon the earth. And these were days of blasphemous merriment by the unbelieving multitude. They thought because the prophecy of Noah was not fulfilled immediately after he entered the ark, that he was deceived... {3SG 68.2}

Like the year that Noah was shut inside the ark, God's people will need to huddle together in the ark of truth during the year of plagues. Are you prepared for that? Learn your lesson from the negative example of the apostate part of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, whose probation closed as prophesied! It followed the first crescent new moon day of July 18 just like Hosea indicated:

They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the LORD [San Antonio]; but they shall not find him; he hath withdrawn himself from them. They have dealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children: now shall a month [literally: new moon] devour them with their portions. Blow ye the cornet in Gibeah, and the trumpet in Ramah: cry aloud at Bethaven, after thee, O Benjamin. Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I made known that which shall surely be. The princes of Judah were like them that remove the bound: therefore I will pour out my wrath upon them like water [of the latter rain]. (Hosea 5:6-10)

Oh, that the people might know the time of their visitation! There are many who have not yet heard the testing truth for this time. There are many with whom the Spirit of God is striving. The time of God's destructive judgments is the time of mercy for those who have had no opportunity to learn what is truth. Tenderly will the Lord look upon them. His heart of mercy is touched; His hand is still stretched out to save, while the door is closed to those who would not enter. {9T 97.2}

Please don't waste your very last opportunity.

Lightened with His Glory

The End of Mercy

This article is addressed to my fellow traveler and seeker for truth. It is a journey that for most, is full of winding roads and unwitting detours. But the truth will be found by those who desire it with their whole being, undaunted by previous missteps nor discouraged by the pitfalls that we so readily stumble into. In the world, there is a cacophony of contradictory voices that all claim to express the truth. Whom can we trust? Which voice is the one verifiable voice of Truth on earth?

It is beyond the scope of this article to present the evidences for the existence of God or to objectively lead one from any of the world religions to a belief in Jesus Christ. This has been done before, and if you have doubts about either of these, I would encourage you to read the book of one man's methodical and painstaking search that led him from his non-Christian belief system in India to a belief in Jesus, simply by considering the evidence in support of and against every religious worldview.^[1] The author summarizes his search in a seminar that is available on YouTube as well.^[2]

But within Christianity, the voices claiming to have the truth are scarcely less discordant. Where is God's handwriting, and on what brand of Christian truth does He leave His fingerprints? There must be verifiable evidence that points us in the right direction, just as there is to point us to Christianity. There are many who have presented the evidences that point to the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine as the closest match to sound biblical interpretation,^[3] and they will not be repeated here. However, I would like to include a summary from a physics lecturer in India who, like the previously noted author, followed the trail of evidence and arrived at the same result.^[4]

As I continued my search for the truth I perceived that the sum total of what the Seventh-day Adventist Church holds is nothing short of a science—consistent, systematic, and organized. Ellen White calls it the science of salvation. There are four good reasons why it is a science.

1. There is theoretical logic. In scientific theories, there must be a structure of logic. In the story of the great controversy between God and Satan there is a structure of logic. It is the logic of love. Pure and perfect love operates according to a logic of its own. The problem with most people is that they have a poor grasp of this logic, and then presume there is no logic. But the logic is very much there, and it is the most beautiful logic, if only one can grasp it.
2. There are experimental evidences. Scientific theories are to be tested for their truth in laboratories. The story of the Great Controversy is tested for its truth in human history. That is, the earth is the laboratory. Human history is the great experiment being carried out to decide what is good and what is evil. Many people are deceived from perceiving it that way. But this is the greatest experiment ever.
3. There are predictions. If the predictions turn out to be correct, then the theory is supposed to be valid. In the present case, we have prophecies that are the same as predictions. Many prophecies have turned out to be correct. This speaks for the soundness of what the Seventh-day Adventist Church holds. The greatest of the prediction[s] is: Jesus will come again. I expect this to be verified in human history soon.

4. There is good interaction with other fields of science. A good scientific theory in one area will often throw considerable light on other areas. The Great Controversy theme and the Seventh-day Adventist worldview explain life in its varied complexities.

A Scientific Approach for Non-Scientists

Don't believe for a moment that a scientific approach to religion means that only educated scientists can follow it and discern the truth. Quite the contrary. Scientists use the scientific method because it is natural. Every child uses the scientific method to learn about the world around them from their infancy. There are several basic steps that are followed, wittingly or unwittingly, which may be illustrated as in Figure 1. Observation is usually considered a step in itself, but in reality, it is done in the background at all times, and not just at one step of the process.

Consider how we go through this process even without thinking about it. A child is constantly observing. They're making little connections—seeing little relationships—and in this way they learn how life and the things in it work. Those little connections stem from observations that answer their curiosity. For example, a child who grows up in a home where no one is overweight, sees his mother, who is visibly pregnant. He understands that her belly is bigger because there is a baby inside. Then he sees someone outside the family who has a large belly because they are overweight, and asks if they are pregnant as well! He had the “question” or curiosity about the size of bellies, and formed a hypothesis based on his observations at home. His question about the overweight person was the test of his idea, and his parent's response would give him the results so that he could improve his understanding (and avoid another potentially embarrassing situation!). The next time you have the opportunity to hear children converse with each other when they don't think an adult is listening, you will find that the communication of their little test results is also a natural (and often humorous) part of life!

The scientific method works because nature operates according to fixed laws. No matter how broad or minute, every natural process has a certain set of applicable laws, and we learn about those laws through observation and measurement. Understanding that the Bible is a written revelation inspired from the same Source that created the nature around us, it should be no surprise to us that there are laws of revelation, just as there are laws of nature. And we learn about the laws of revelation in the same way as any other laws: through our observations and measurements.

For example, consider the Bible's use of the number seven. It is a very common number in the Bible, and is especially featured in the book of Revelation, with its seven stars, seven churches, seven seals, seven trumpets, seven plagues, and other sevens. This is an observation. A logical question would be, “What is so special about the number seven?” Now we collate our observations, looking for patterns until we get an idea. We might recognize that its first occurrence is in the account of Creation with the six days of creation followed by the Sabbath rest, completing the seven-day week, and suggest that it has something to do with the completion of that which pertains to Creation. This would be our hypothesis, or “educated guess,” which could be tested by evaluating whether other occurrences of the number seven in the Bible consistently fit that idea. We can analyze these additional observations, and share what we learn with others. The more we observe and discover patterns and relationships, the more we understand the details of the subject.

Growth Comes Through Errors

Invariably, regardless of how well we understand something, there is more that we can learn about it, and we may need to refine our understanding based on additional data. For example, Isaac Newton described the law of gravity in mathematical terms that explained his 18th century observations perfectly. There was no problem for several decades, until more precise measurements could be made that showed small deviations from Newton's law in certain circumstances. No satisfactory explanation for these deviant observations could be provided for several decades more until Albert Einstein postulated his theory of relativity, which refines Newton's law for those cases where the extra precision is needed.

The same is true of studies of the Scripture. We may think we completely understand something, until our attention is brought to a verse or verses that don't fit well with our understanding. Then we need to refine our understanding in a way that harmonizes the new data with the old through a unified principle. This process is repeated frequently in every line of scientific study, and if we are honest in our study of the Bible, we will experience it there as well. Invariably, when carried out faithfully, this method will refine our understanding of the truth with every round of the process.

It is sometimes the case, however, that this learning process slows down, or even seems to stop altogether. The natural, childlike curiosity has waned and been replaced with a satisfaction with what is already known. The desire to learn has been supplanted by the desire to appear correct. This is a terrible tragedy, but it is very widespread. Many, by various means, have believed the lie that they cannot learn anymore, or that learning is dangerous (for fear of being wrong). All too often, we settle for the things we think we understand well, so that we don't have to suffer being wrong. We sacrifice growth for fear of error.

Are you aware that it is those on the cutting edge of their discipline who are most often wrong? Scientists who are breaking ground with new research, make many wrong turns and falsify many of their ideas before they can solidly grasp the true picture from their studies. It is no different with biblical study. In the formative years of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, for example, there were beliefs that needed to be corrected and refined. As William Miller studied the prophecy of 2300 days in Daniel, he mistakenly accounted for the non-existent "year zero," which led to a little disappointment in 1843. And it was only then, when the disappointed people sought to understand the timeline better, that the error was discovered, and the date was corrected to 1844. And again, only after that refined date passed, did the terribly disappointed believers go back to understand their error.

They were following the scientific method. The result of their test showed that their hypothesis was incorrect, and there could be three possible explanations: either the date was wrong, the event was wrong, or the Bible was wrong. While some may have lost faith in the Bible, most assumed that the date was wrong, and in fact, that the Bible prophecy didn't actually have relevance to them. Indeed, most Protestants today believe that Daniel's prophecy of the 2300 days was a literal period of time during the reign of Antiochus Epiphanes, who desecrated the Jewish temple in the 160s BC, near the end of his life. The evidence in support of this view, however, is rather limited in comparison with the evidence that points to a 2300-year application.^[5]

For this reason, those who followed the trail of evidence could not deny that the date was valid, so they sought to understand the meaning of the prophecy better, which they had originally interpreted to refer to the Second Coming of Jesus. This is the process of refinement that every researcher is very familiar with as they abandon old ideas in favor of a new, more comprehensive and cohesive truth. A beautiful doctrine of the sanctuary in heaven (after which the earthly sanctuary was patterned^[6]), was birthed for those who endured the labor pains of correcting wrong ideas in the face of their mocking acquaintances.

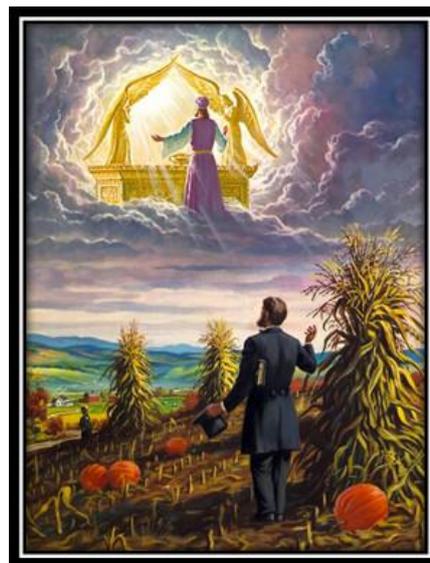

For some reason, although it is normal in Science to make and correct errors, religious researchers are held to an impossible standard, as though they were God, knowing the end from the beginning, when in reality, they are just students, seeking to understand God and His prophecies. Those who allow students of prophecy to take a humbler position will discern that even when the Holy Spirit is leading, human mistakes are still made and corrected, but the developing understanding is the truth that the Light of the Holy Spirit is revealing.

Let me reiterate this important point one more time: Cutting-edge research, whether it is in a field of Science or of prophecy, is necessarily going to be riddled with wrong ideas, misapplications, and will need to be amended and refined regularly, but the true concept will emerge from all of this with a brilliant polish. It has ever been the case. It has been the case with the long-established doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist church; they have stood the test of time, and they continue to shine with brilliance, despite the mud that naysayers try to throw on them, and despite the wrong ideas that they were born out of.

The truths that we put our trust in as having a solid foundation, were once tentative suppositions with little known support. But the cyclic process of questioning, testing, and observing has refined the ideas and bolstered their support. Now they are no longer fields of fruitful research. It is positively unreasonable to insist that new research should be judged according to the same standard as that which has endured many tests and much refinement. Rather than criticize the failures of the researchers, participate with them in study to refine their ideas!

This has been the case with the LastCountdown Ministry. We have been on the cutting edge of end-time prophetic research, and as should be expected, we have made mistakes and misapplications, and have had to refine our ideas many times. But every time we do, our understanding develops and the truth that the Holy Spirit is revealing becomes clearer and shines with greater brilliance. Wouldn't it be great, if many more voices would join us in study? Not by offering their own conflicting independent studies (which are often presented to us as being "in perfect harmony" with the message God has been revealing through this ministry), but by taking the many leads from our articles, and studying those things, refining the overall picture. Wouldn't this be a better approach than calling us false prophets and assuming we're led by the devil because we believe that God has revealed the time?

When we look back on the past five years of public ministry, and we see what has been revealed—what has stood the test of time and refinement, we are better able to evaluate the message and its source. As for me, I cannot comprehend how it could be all wrong. There is too much evidence in its favor, though it may not always follow the hermeneutic that our theologians like to think is the only safe method of interpretation. Allow me to summarize.

Hiram Edson's vision of the heavenly sanctuary after the great disappointment of 1844.

The Orion Connection

The Bible speaks more about Orion than you might at first perceive. There are three obvious^[7] references to it, and in each case, it is associated with the “seven stars.” Speaking of God, Job says,

Which maketh Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the chambers of the south. (Job 9:9)

Later, when God answers Job from the whirlwind, He asks, among other things,

Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion? (Job 38:31)

And Amos directs Israel to

Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The LORD is his name: (Amos 5:8)

The seven stars and the Orion nebula.

The Pleiades.

Note that the word translated “Pleiades” in the first two verses is the very same Hebrew word that is translated “the seven stars” in the third. The Pleiades is a cluster of several bright stars, but it is difficult to draw a line identifying the seven brightest. Orion, on the other hand, has seven stars that are clearly brighter than the others. These are considered the “main stars” of the constellation,^[8] whereas there are about nine ranking stars in the Pleiades: the seven sisters and their two parents, according to the Greek myth.^[9] Therefore, it should be clear that the references to the “Pleiades” here is in reality, a reference to the seven stars of Orion.

The seven stars are featured in the beginning of the book of Revelation. They are presented there as being in the right hand of Jesus, and are identified as the angels, or messengers, of the seven churches.^[10] Note the words that Ellen White uses to describe their application:

“These things saith He that holdeth the seven stars in His right hand.” Revelation 2:1. These words are spoken to the teachers in the church—those entrusted by God with weighty responsibilities. The sweet influences that are to be abundant in the church are bound up with God’s ministers, who are to reveal the love of Christ. The stars of heaven are under His control. He fills them with light. He guides and directs their movements. If He did not do this, they would become fallen stars. So with His ministers. They are but instruments in His hands, and all the good they accomplish is done through His power. Through them His light is to shine forth. The Saviour is to be their efficiency. If they will look to Him as He looked to the Father they will be enabled to do His work. As they make God their dependence, He will give them His brightness to reflect to the world. {AA 586.3}^[11]

She makes a clear reference to the sweet influences of Job 38:31 (see above—the only time that phrase occurs in the Bible), being bound up with the seven stars—God’s ministers—which, as we already showed, refer to the stars of Orion. In the next breath, she even speaks of the stars of heaven, indicating that there is a symbolic correlation with the literal stars above. This suggests that there is a character message represented in Orion that should be bound up in God's ministers—the instruments He has chosen to reflect His brightness to the world.

But the correlation doesn't end there! Notice that the verse says that there are "bands of Orion" and God asks whether Job can "loose" or release them. Compare this with the sealed book in Revelation 5:

And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book [a scroll] written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals [which are bound with the "bands of Orion"]. And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? (Revelation 5:1-2)

The book of seven seals.

Jesus is represented in the following verses as a slain Lamb, and is alone found worthy to take the book from His Father and loosen its seals.

If we follow the hypothesis that this book is represented in Orion, then we could test this by exploring the other details of the setting of this scene, and compare them to the setting of Orion. If indeed God intended this relationship, then there should be no conflict on any point. It is not only the setting that must match, but as we noted, there must be a character message in it, and there are other descriptions that also must all agree. So let's take a look!

First of all, we see that the slain Lamb is the key to opening the book, and He is present in the center of the scene:

And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth. (Revelation 5:6)

Notice that a distinction is made between the two groups. In the first group, there is the throne and the four beasts, and this is separated literarily from the elders by a second use of "in the midst." We will come to this momentarily, but first, there is a hint in the remaining part of the verse that this has something to do with the history of the earth, for it specifically mentions the "seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth" like seven eyes, watching over the affairs of the earth. In the previous chapter, these seven Spirits are represented as "seven lamps of fire burning before the throne."^[12]

In the context of Orion, this indicates that its seven stars (fittingly described as burning lamps!) reveal things from the events on earth. Indeed, the stars are the pointers that identify noteworthy events in history. The four beasts and the throne are separated from the twenty-four elders because they are not represented the same way in Orion. In fact, while the throne (the three belt stars) and the four beasts (the four outer stars) are clearly depicted, the twenty-four elders are not visible as stars.

In the center is the Lamb, "as it had been slain." Understanding that the three belt stars represent the throne, we would expect the star of Jesus to be on the right hand of the Father, as is stated many times in the Bible.^[13] And given that they would be facing the earth,^[14] His right hand would be at our left. Indeed, the ancient name for the left star of the belt is Alnitak, an Arabic name meaning “The Wounded One,”^[15] which is a reference to the wounds of Jesus, the Lamb that was slain.

There is an interesting note in the description of the four beasts and the twenty-four elders:

And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever, [then] The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created. (Revelation 4:8-11)

It is describing a relationship between the two groups. When the four beasts give glory to God, then the twenty-four elders worship Him. This indicates a relationship in time. There are certain times when this happens. And notice also that they praise God for His presence in time: past, present, and future! Clearly, then, these beasts and the elders have a special relationship with time and the history of earth.

That they praise Him continually, yet only at certain times give Him special glory, may be understood in the context of Orion, considering that the stars are continually present, but they mark certain specific times in history (past and future), when they give special praise. And this is where the twenty-four elders come in, seated in a circle around the slain Lamb. They serve as markers around this clock of history! Their praise also identifies them with regular time intervals, for in this scene, they praise the Lord both for His creation and in the next chapter, for His redemption:

And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; (Revelation 5:9)

Every seven days, the Sabbath gives special occasion for remembering God’s acts of creation and redemption:

Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work,... For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it. (Exodus 20:8-11)

Keep the sabbath day to sanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee. Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work,... And remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt [sin], and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence [redeemed you] through a mighty hand and by a stretched out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the sabbath day. (Deuteronomy 5:12-15)

The throne-room scene was also seen by Daniel, who described it briefly in this way:

I beheld till the thrones were cast down [set], and the Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire. A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books were opened. (Daniel 7:9-10)

In this depiction, we see that it is in the time of judgment. Every Adventist should recognize this as the beginning of the antitypical Day of Atonement, which began in 1844. This date is derived from the 2300-day prophecy of Daniel 8, where the days represent years, as is often the case in biblical prophecy. The clock in Orion, which represents the antitypical Day of Atonement, continues this day-year relationship, so that the 24 elders, representing the weekly Sabbath intervals, in reality represent the seven-year sabbaticals that God had instituted for His people after their wilderness wandering:

But in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard. (Leviticus 25:4)

Thus, these 24 elders, like the hours around a 24-hour clock, specify the duration of the Day of Atonement: 24 elders x 7 years per elder = 168 years. This period, known as the Judgment of the Dead, ended on the great High Sabbath of the Day of Atonement, October 27, 2012. Just as the greatest high day in all of Christianity—the day that Jesus lay in the tomb—was a day of mourning for Christ’s followers, so was that day in 2012 a day of sorrow for His remnant, as the death knell tolled for the Seventh-day Adventist Church, when it celebrated the Catholic Day of Creation (calling it a Creation Sabbath, as though it were unique to that Sabbath), in honor of the assumed authority of Rome.

The Pattern

The setting described in Revelation 4 [ampersand] 5 is the setting of the entire book of Revelation, so if the setting indeed describes Orion, then everything else in the prophecy—the seals, the trumpets, the plagues, etc. must all fit into the Orion framework as well! This is further testing of the hypothesis, and we are not left to guess about it! The Bible gives us clues to direct our study. The people of God are characterized as those who “keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ.”^[16] In ancient times, it was Israel who were the guardians of the Law of Jehovah.

Their exodus from Egypt and their entrance into the Promised Land of Canaan was symbolic of man’s deliverance from sin (Egypt) and entrance into heaven (Canaan). So when Joshua led the children across the Jordan to conquer Jericho and possess the land, it was symbolic of Jesus saving man from sin and bringing His people to heaven. Thus, knowing His future leading, God gave specific and seemingly arbitrary instructions on how to conquer the city, for they foreshadowed His leading in the future.

The fall of Jericho.

They circled about the city six times—once each day for six days—before circling it seven times on the seventh day. The pattern established on the first six days was then repeated with a seventh circling, all in one day.

Adventists are very familiar with the application of the seven churches and seven seals of Revelation to Christian history, but not recognizing the application of the Jericho model, they have assumed that there is only one set. But the model shows us that the first six repeat before the seventh comes. This is true of the churches, the seals, and the trumpets, all of which run simultaneously, just as the army (representing the church) circled around Jericho with the law (representing the seal) while blowing trumpets.

The Trail of Evidence

It would be too much to summarize all of the correlations for each of these events. We have presented all of this before in detail, but I am repeating some in summary form here to show that if we follow the scientific method, we discover that even though questions remain (as they always do no matter how deeply one studies), there is a long trail of evidence that shows that there is a supernatural design in this message, even if some refinement is necessary, due to limited understanding. If you let go of preconceived ideas and prejudices, it will be clear.

What we have been presenting over the last five years are many correlations that all point to the veracity of this message. If you want to discredit this message, it is not enough to simply say that it is wrong because of time-setting or some other reason. You must give a better answer to the many solutions that it provides. For every text that it explains, you should provide a better explanation! This message may not be perfect as we have presented it, but it is the best we have. It devolves upon you to either refine it, or if you don't like it, then find something better, but don't just say that it isn't true!

Do the seven stars of Job and Amos not link Orion to the seven stars of Revelation? Then give a better explanation for why the only occurrences of "seven stars" (even in the original language) outside of Revelation are found in association with Orion! Do the sweet influences not suggest a character message in association with the seven stars? Then give a better explanation for what they mean. Do the bands of Orion not relate to the seals of the book in Revelation? Then offer a better explanation for the literary similarity. Is the description of the four beasts as burning lamps of fire not representative of the stars of Orion? Then what does it suggest? For every correlation that you intend to annul, you must also provide something better if you want a reasonable mind to accept your judgment!

We have provided the reasons for our belief in every article, and there are many more that we never published, but all of this is disregarded because of prejudice against time-setting! If you want to discredit this message, then stand up for yourself like a real man and give a complete argument! All anyone seems capable of doing is throwing a few Ellen White quotes at us that are taken to be universal to discredit one point, but they fail to see that there are many other points that also must be addressed in order for the weight of evidence to shift in their favor. Until you can reveal a harmony that exceeds that which attends this message, then you ought to consider that there may be an explanation for your doubts—such as the concept that not everything a prophet says should be taken as a universal statement applicable to all time without possibility of any conditionality! Be advised that an especially important part of the context is its relation to the huge change of plans after 1888!

It was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be thus delayed. God did not design that His people, Israel, should wander forty years in the wilderness. He promised to lead them directly to the land of Canaan,^[17] and establish them there a holy, healthy, happy people. But those to whom it was first preached, went not in “because of unbelief” (Hebrews 3:19). Their hearts were filled with murmuring, rebellion, and hatred, and He could not fulfill His covenant with them. {1SM 68.3}^[18]

Our choices make a difference in God’s plans! He may know the end from the beginning, but this doesn’t preclude that He makes plans and changes them according to human choices. The course He desires and the course He is compelled to take on account of our unbelief are two different things!

What I have touched on here is just the tip of the iceberg! I did not even mention the fact that the four outer stars in Orion each point to significant dates within Adventism, and not just any date would suffice. The significance of the clock would be destroyed if any of the dates were as little as one year different! If the 1914 year were 1913 instead, the persecution regarding military service that began with World War I in 1914^[19] could not have been identified. The death of former General Conference president, George Irwin in 1913 would not have been substantial enough for God to mark it in the heavens! The same level of precision is demonstrated for each date.

When you include the dates indicated by the throne lines, you should begin to see that this cannot be a chance correlation, but is in fact, the handiwork of the Creator of the stars! But if that weren’t enough, God takes it even further—much further—by including different cycles such that the very same stars point to other dates that cover the entire span of History! Now do you understand Ellen White’s statement regarding the scroll with seven seals (representing Orion)?

There in His open hand lay the book, the roll of the history of God’s providences, the prophetic history of nations and the church. Herein was contained the divine utterances, His authority, His commandments, His laws, the whole symbolic counsel of the Eternal, and the history of all ruling powers in the nations. In symbolic language was contained in that roll the influence of every nation, tongue, and people from the beginning of earth’s history to its close. {20MR 197.2}^[20]

Fractals of Time

The Orion cycle from which I presented highlights above, spans the Judgment Day, known as the antitypical Day of Atonement. This is the primary manifestation of the Orion Clock, but there are other cycles as well that utilize the same stars, giving a whole new dimension to the phrase, “history repeats!” I liken it to the self-similarity of fractals, the artistic mathematical images made viewable with the advent of computers. A fractal contains repetitions within itself that are recognizably similar, yet noticeably different. In the same way, the timeline of history also demonstrates some self-similar characteristics.

The first angel of Revelation 14 proclaimed that “the hour of his [God’s] judgment is come,” and this is in reference to the great Day of Judgment that began in 1844, which we understand to be the 168-year period of time foreshadowed by the Jews' annual feast of Yom Kippur. So if this judgment day is represented by an hour (the last), then we may do some simple arithmetic to determine when the Christian day began to dawn.

168 years in the Judgment hour x 12 hours in the Christian day = 2016 years in the Christian day

Knowing that the hour ended in 2012, we may subtract 2016 years and get the result, “-4”. Translating this into a meaningful answer and remembering that there was no zero year, we obtain the year 5 BC. Indeed, as we explained before, the hour when the Light of the world became flesh and dwelt among us that year was signaled by the Orion clock.

But like the stars in the vast circuit of their appointed path, God's purposes know no haste and no delay.... When the great clock of time pointed to that hour, Jesus was born in Bethlehem. {DA 32.1}[²¹]

At that time, the Light of the world began to arise upon the darkness that covered the earth.

Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the LORD is risen upon thee. For, behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people: but the LORD shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee. (Isaiah 60:1-2)

When the sun rises, the stars disappear. The book of seven seals was written on both sides,^[22] which means that some of it was visible even before the seals were removed. This represents the daytime hours during the Christian dispensation.

Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world. (John 11:9)

But at the eleventh hour, as the daylight was growing dim, the judgment hour began, and the recordkeeping of the stars of Orion began. But what about the 4000 years before Christ, when the earth was without His light? Should there not be a record in Orion for this period? Don't underestimate the Creator's ability! The great clock of time repeats in a self-similar fashion.

The four thousand years of darkness may be mapped nicely onto a single Orion cycle if we double the timeframe of the 2016 years of the Christian era. Going back 4032 years before the birth of Christ brings us to 4037 BC as the year of Creation. This may seem like a stretch, recognizing only a dream of brother Scotram as confirmation,^[23] but remember, we're using the Scientific Method, so let's look at some additional evidence, and see whether it supports the idea.

Orion, from Creation until Christ

Biblical chronology is a subject that has challenged scholars for centuries, and a consensus has never been reached.

Establishing Bible chronology has long been the Holy Grail of Biblical archaeology and scholarship—and like the legendary vessel, it has proven just as elusive.^[24]

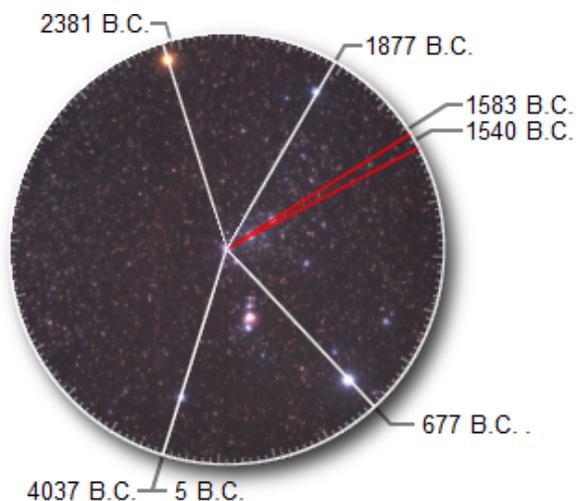

But God, who knows the end from the beginning, has given a precious gift to His children: a knowledge of time. The Orion Clock is the “holy grail” that biblical chronologists have been seeking for generations! Let me illustrate. One thing that the Orion Clock is not, is flexible. The dates are fixed. If you can reposition the stars, then you can change the dates! But this rigidity works to our advantage. It gives us a solid time-frame within which to place the events of history. While I can only present a few evidences here, suffice it to say that the pieces of biblical history fit beautifully together in the framework of Orion! What we present to you in this message is an entire field ripe with fruitful study, if only it could be recognized as such!

With the creation date of 4037 BC, we can mark the flood 1656 years later at 2381 BC.^[25] This was a type for the end of the world, so if anything is marked in Orion, we would expect the flood to be! And our expectations are not disappointed! This grand 4032-year clock still only has the same 168 units going around, so the stars that point to a single year in the Judgment Cycle, point to a 24-year span of time in the Creation Cycle. Interestingly, the flood comes at the very last year of the 24-year span of time marked by Betelgeuse! Not only is it marked by the star that is associated with mass bloodshed and war—the one that is a supernova in the making and could potentially affect life on earth in a very drastic way—but just like God, He puts a little hint to His own character in the date:

The LORD is slow to anger, and [but] great in power, and will not at all acquit the wicked: the LORD hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet. (Nahum 1:3)

It is of the LORD'S mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. (Lamentations 3:22)

The flood could have come 23 years earlier and still fit, but the Lord's mercy held it back until the last possible moment before it would be in rebellion against the Clock.

Another great event in the history of God's people is the Exodus. This was a time when God did many great and wondrous works and established His people Israel. The plagues of Egypt, the parting of the Red Sea,^[26] the building of the wilderness tabernacle, the grand display when God wrote the Ten Commandments in tables of stone, the 40-year wandering in the wilderness, and the conquest of Jericho, all fell within the throne lines on the Creation Cycle. Arguably, the most dramatic scene during that time was the thundering of the Decalogue from Sinai. The people heard the voice of God with their own ears and saw the mountain burning with fire. And they had a permanent record of the handwriting of God, from when His finger melted the stone tablets as He wrote the Ten Commandments. That Law is an expression of the character of God. It is a description of God in concise terms.

A chariot wheel in the Red Sea.

How fitting, then, that this singular event was marked on His clock, not by just any star, but by one of the stars representing His very throne—His Person! The close relationship that He had with Israel, dwelling among them above the mercy seat, which covered the tables of the Law, speaking with Moses face-to-face, shows His direct and intimate involvement such as was never the case in later years until Jesus Himself walked the earth.

And I will set my tabernacle [wherein was the Law] among you: and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people. (Leviticus 26:11-12)

Indeed, it would have been inappropriate if this were marked by any other than the throne stars!

Sadly, however, the ensuing history of Israel did not follow the example that God had set for them. They apostatized, following the example of the surrounding nations instead, serving their gods and defiling themselves with their corrupt practices. Decade after decade saw ever more degradation and departing from God until centuries later, He finally followed through with the separation, and the entire nation of Israel was carried captive—first the northern kingdom, and ultimately Judah was also carried away. Even though Manasseh repented and returned to Jerusalem, and his grandson Josiah made many deep reforms while he was king, the sins of Manasseh were the turning point that prevented God from turning away from His wrath.

And like unto him [Josiah] was there no king before him, that turned to the LORD with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses; neither after him arose there any like him. Notwithstanding the LORD turned not from the fierceness of his great wrath, wherewith his anger was kindled against Judah, because of all the provocations that Manasseh had provoked him withal. And the LORD said, I will remove Judah also out of my sight, as I have removed Israel, and will cast off this city Jerusalem which I have chosen, and the house of which I said, My name shall be there. (2 Kings 23:25-27)

The pivotal year when King Manasseh was taken captive, and the sentence against Judah became irrevocable was 677 BC. This year falls within the 24-year block of time indicated by the fourth outer star in Orion! This is the star beginning Revelation's pale horse phase, representing complete apostasy.

Coming full-circle back to the white horse star, Saiph, the perfection of Creation at the beginning of the cycle meets the perfection of Redemption at its end. Jesus, the second Adam, was born to save man from sin.

Do you see that these relationships cannot all be merely coincidental? If it is a random correlation, then one would expect to find a similar level of apparent correlation in any other constellation. I have presented some (though far from all!) of the evidences that support the idea that the Orion constellation is indeed used by God as a great Clock that relates intimately with human history. It is not Astrology, where the heavenly bodies are supposed to have influence over human affairs, but they serve as signs, which is a purpose they were given at Creation:

And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years: (Genesis 1:14)

So if your hypothesis is that none of these correlations are real, then you should test this hypothesis, just as we have tested ours! If you can find a similar level of correlation from any other constellation, then that would certainly show that there is nothing special about these correlations with Orion that we should regard them as designed by God to give this message. This is my challenge to anyone and everyone. Show us evidence to suggest that these things are not intentional relationships! But you'd be hard pressed, just to find another constellation with seven clear stars that stand out above the rest, much less find any logical and sensible relationships to the biblical record, as we have shown with Orion, not once or twice, but numerous times and in multifaceted ways. Friend, this is the fingerprint of God. How long will you continue to resist Him? Yield to His voice now, while you still may.

Daily Dependence

As though the two cycles did not provide enough evidence, God has given yet more for the diehard skeptics. There is yet another Orion cycle that can be used to test our hypothesis: the Trumpet Cycle. (There is a fourth cycle as well—the Plague Cycle—but that one will begin later this year and cannot be used for validation.)

The Orion Message is associated with the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. We are instructed to:

Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The LORD is his name: (Amos 5:8)

The Latter Rain of the Holy Spirit has already been pouring down in great quantity for five years! There have accumulated in those five years, about 1400 pages of our attempts to put this light into print! We are not that light, but we seek to express that light so that you can understand it and share it with others. The only reason we have been chosen to do this work, is because we first received the light, and believed it enough to live our lives according to it and want to share it! If the light has not shone yet as brightly as it ought, it is not the Spirit who is at fault, but the weakness of those who have made themselves available for His service! If you so desire, the Holy Spirit will use you as well, so don't accuse us (as some do) of being exclusive "elitists" who claim to be the Voice of God on earth! No, but what we see by the light of the Holy Spirit, we share, even if it points to this ministry as the mouthpiece for God. Or have you forgotten that little principle of the Scriptures:

But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty; (1 Corinthians 1:27)

He would not choose the wise men of the church to give the new light of the Latter Rain, lest the glory be attributed to the men. Rather, He chose us fools, so that no one can mistake that it is not our profound wisdom that we communicate (as though we had any), but God's. He uses our weakness and propensity to err, so that the glory goes to God, where it belongs, and not to us, even if some claim that giving this message makes us arrogant. Those who are wise will discern the truth, and understand that we are just faulty messengers relaying the best we can, a message that comes from God.

In our Shadows of the Sacrifices series, we show how the flour and oil offerings that attended Israel's spring and autumn sacrifices, point to special periods of time, when the Holy Spirit (the oil) is given as Jesus' representative (the flour) in measured quantities, like rations in time of war—enough to sustain one through a time of lack, but nothing extra. The spring offerings point to a time of 51 days, the exact duration between the death of Christ and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the disciples at Pentecost.

The offerings of the autumn sacrifices were much more plenteous, and pointed to a longer duration of 372 days. The spring feasts represented Jesus' first advent, while the autumn feasts represented His second advent, so this 372-day period must apply at the end. Indeed, Jesus said that it would be as it was in the days of Noah. This is true of the time as well as the condition of society, for as there were seven days when Noah and his family were closed in the ark, which were followed by one year that the flood waters were on the earth, so it is in the end. The 372 days is a span of a week followed by 365 days during which the plagues will be in the earth.

In addition to the spring and autumn feasts and their associated offerings, there are additional specifications for services pertaining to a special temple that Ezekiel saw in vision that was never built. It represents those who worship in Spirit and in Truth, rather than at a particular church. These special instructions have a spring and autumn component as well, and together, the flour and oil “rations” that are included are enough for 1260 days! This is a period of three and a half years and pertains to the ministry of the 144,000, whose temple was seen in vision, but never built.

As the Judgment of the Dead was coming to a close, the Judgment of the Living had begun. This is represented in Daniel’s vision, which gives the timeframes:

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever [168 years^[27]] that it shall be for a time [1 year], times [2 years], and an half [a half year]; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:7)

The swearing had two components: a symbolic component for that period of time for which “there should be time no longer”^[28] (the 168 years of the Judgment of the Dead), and a spoken component for the Judgment of the Living (for whom the restriction was not given).^[29] Both components were expressed at the same time, indicating an overlap. These three and a half years of the Judgment of the Living are the same period of 1260 days, for which special portions of the Holy Spirit are given to the 144,000 to come together and do their work.

The period is included in the Judgment Cycle of Orion as well. After the conclusion of the Judgment of the Dead on Yom Kippur, 2012, the clock has one more marker at 2014, representing the Jewish year spanning from Yom Kippur, 2014 to Yom Kippur, 2015. So there are three years of time remaining on the clock after the Judgment of the Dead is completed, and the half-year overlaps, beginning in the spring. This defines the 1260 days of Ezekiel’s offerings.

Let me pause here momentarily to reiterate that if there were no correlation, the clock would not be expected to stand in perfect harmony with different parts of Scripture, whose themes are all related! Do you believe in the blind Watchmaker^[30]?

Lift Up the Trumpets

These 1260 days, or three and a half years, are referenced again at the opening of the seventh seal. This is the seal that doesn’t repeat! Only the first six seals repeat, but the seventh occurs only once, and the Bible indicates a time period:

And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. (Revelation 8:1)

This half an hour has been interpreted in prophetic time to be 7 days,^[31] and represents the time taken to travel between heaven and earth, when heaven would be silent, because Jesus and the angels have left it to come to earth. This interpretation is useful with regard to understanding the 7-day lag time that often shows up in the timelines for heavenly events with earthly effects. But it isn’t a perfect fit, because of the following verse:

And I saw the seven angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven trumpets. (Revelation 8:2)

The problem is that the seven trumpets come after the seventh seal is opened! If the opening of the seventh seal happens just 7 days before Jesus' appearance, then that leaves no time for any trumpets to sound, which are warnings, mixed with grace! It would leave time only for 7 days of plagues. The Bible has many prophecies that may be understood in different ways, depending on the corporate choices that are made, and the resulting circumstances. As we will see toward the end, a lot changed with regard to interpretation on account of the rejection of the Latter Rain in 1888.

But with the knowledge of the Orion Clock, which is the clock of heaven, we can understand the half hour of silence in heaven in a more complete light. We must have a better grasp of time. There is literal time, prophetic time that follows the day-for-a-year principle, and heavenly time that follows in pace with the Orion Clock. Since the seventh seal speaks of silence in heaven for half an hour, we should understand it as a heavenly half hour, corresponding to Orion time! An hour on the Judgment Clock is seven years, so half an hour is three and a half years.

The seventh seal points to the three and a half years of the Judgment of the Living. There is silence in heaven not because it is vacant, but because its inhabitants are watching the events of the earth with bated breath because they recognize the gravity of the events of this period. Even the carillons of the Clock are hushed. If only the inhabitants of the earth understood the solemnity of the times in which we live!

During that three-and-a-half-year period of the seventh seal, seven trumpets are given to the seven angels standing before God. The context is Orion—the seven stars in the right hand of Jesus, which He interprets Himself as angels:

The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches. (Revelation 1:20)

So the same stars that highlighted key events in Biblical history and Adventist history, are now featured in the seventh seal as angels that receive trumpets! This gives rise to the Trumpet Cycle of the Orion Clock! But how should we know when to apply the cycle?

Earlier I mentioned Ezekiel's vision of a temple and how the offerings specified in the laws he was given regarding its sacrifices, pointed to 1260 portions of the Holy Spirit. This corresponds with the timeframe for the Judgment of the Living. But those 1260 days are comprised of a spring period of 636 days, followed by an autumn period of 624 days. Remember, the spring feasts point to Jesus' first advent, while the autumn feasts point to His second advent. Therefore, only the second period is applicable to the last warning before His return! The 624 days span from February 1st, 2014 until October 17, 2015.

We have already nicely summarized the first five trumpets and what happened in a recent article, so I will not repeat that here, but I want to address the sixth trumpet in more detail. The sixth trumpet date was July 8th, 2015. Remember, the dates cannot be changed! The clock was set at Creation, and has been silently marking these dates for thousands of years. Is it not even a little bit interesting that the Seventh-day Adventist Church had its General Conference World Session spanning over that date? Yet not only that, but that particular date was when the most significant vote in the church's history since 1888 was held! For thousands of years, God's clock pointed to that event to the very day! No other vote was scheduled for that day. Do you believe that could be just a chance coincidence?

Apostate until the Door is Closed

The precision of the date was strangely overshadowed by our wrong expectation. Seeing the signs of apostasy in the church and having been warning about the consequences for years, and seeing the push that the leadership was making in favor of women's ordination, we expected that the church would vote "Yes," and God would swiftly bring His judgment. But when they voted "No," the conference finished and the delegates went home in peace, we were not certain as to where it left us. Was everything wrong? Was the church in a better condition as a result of its vote? In our uncertainty, we closed our ministry (making the websites inaccessible) for a week until we had further light.

The church has been in apostasy for a long time. It was in 1986—the year marked by the pale-horse-star, Rigel—when the church began publicly participating in the ecumenical movement and attending the papal "World Day of Prayer for Peace of all Religions" at Assisi.^[32] This is when the apostasy in the church began to bear fruit toward unity with Rome! Now, nearly 30 years later, after steadily becoming more and more ecumenical and friendly toward the pope, the TIME has come to draw a line in the sand! With this message becoming public in 2010, God was drawing the line very definitely. By announcing the Day of His Wrath, God gave His deadline for reformation.

As the time approached, and the church showed no signs of turning back or even slowing its momentum toward unity with Rome, the doors began to close as the last opportunities passed for the church to make a formal work of repentance and reformation. First, the Judgment of the Dead ended on the High Sabbath of October 27, 2012. During this period of time, the Sabbath was the governing theme, and at its end, the Church boldly rejected God's authority on the point of the Sabbath, in favor of the pope's claimed authority. As mentioned earlier, this was done by ignoring God's weekly memorial to Creation every Sabbath, and instead honoring man's memorial to Creation on only one Sabbath! The Church closed the door on itself at its last opportunity to repent for Sabbath breaking during the time allotted for it. The handwriting was on the wall.

But God is never hasty about executing judgment! According to the parable of the fig tree, Jesus, who had been working with this barren church tree for three years (2010-2012) to get it to produce fruit, pled for another year.^[33] But what happened in that additional year of grace? Visible confirmations of our message began to fulfill in 2013, but the church returned no signs of life. Then, in the time of the Judgment of the Living, when the governing theme transitioned from the Sabbath to its twin institution of marriage and its relationships, they announced their continued rebellion against God's authority with the election of Sandra Roberts as President of the Southeastern California Conference. When did this official rebellion take place? On October 27, 2013:^[34] exactly one year to the day after they sealed their fate at the end of the Judgment of the Dead! There was no fruit to be found for God's glory on the barren tree, despite the extra attention that was given to it during that year.

But the Judgment of the Living was not over yet. It wasn't clear yet what the issues were, and time was needed so that all could see where this would lead. The third trumpet of the Orion Trumpet Cycle announced with perfect precision, the continued unity of the church with Rome, as it pointed exactly to both the Catholic Extraordinary Synod of Bishops on the Family, and the Adventist Annual Council meeting. God's eyes are throughout the earth, and see what the leaders of His people do behind closed doors, and time is the tool best suited to expose their motives. This was the last council meeting when a reformation could have been initiated in the church in preparation for the General Conference Session, the only body vested with the authority to vote church-wide initiatives.

The work of the study committee [on the theology of ordination] will be to provide as much complete information on its assigned topic as is possible to be reviewed by General Conference administration in June 2014, and then the complete report provided to the General Conference Executive Committee to be reviewed and discussed at the 2014 Annual Council. The 2014 Annual Council will decide on any items to be referred to the 2015 General Conference Session.^[35]

At that meeting, the wording of the trick question was settled that would be voted on at the 2015 General Conference Session in San Antonio. Again, they closed the door on themselves by their stubborn disregard of the warnings of impending judgment that God had been giving the church through this ministry.

The sixth trumpet of the Orion Trumpet Cycle pointed with the same precision, exactly to the day that the church would vote on this trick question. In hind sight, recognizing the trick in the carefully worded question, which Ted Wilson specifically requested that no motions be made to reword, it didn't matter whether it was a "Yes" or "No" vote, as both would have the same effect.

The trick question was made to appear as though it were about women's ordination, but was that really the case?

Is it acceptable for division executive committees, as they may deem it appropriate in their territories, to make provision for the ordination of women to the gospel ministry?

The question did not address whether it was appropriate to ordain women, but whether it was acceptable for the church divisions to decide the question themselves. In other words, it was a question of authority. Must each division follow the General Conference, or could they decide for themselves? As one headline aptly put it, "Women's Ordination: Divisions May Not Decide". In light of the church's previous inaction regarding the rebellion of the Southeastern California Conference, which is passive approval, we could restate the question as follows:

Is it acceptable for divisions to disregard God's authority at their own discretion, [a Yes vote] or must they follow the General Conference's lead in disregarding God's authority [a No vote]?

There was no option for reform in the question. Either disregard God's authority, or accept Ted Wilson's do-nothing approach to the disregard of God's authority already taking place. Can an answer to this question really be considered the voice of God? What was needed was a recommendation to reform the practice of reducing the difference between the roles of men and women to merely semantic issues, calling women "commissioned" but men "ordained," while authorizing them to perform essentially the same responsibilities. And why was this done? For the love of money, the church had previously compromised with the state by accepting to abide by its terms in order to qualify for tax exemption under the 501(c)(3) clause in the US.^[36] The use of different terms was a convenient way to camouflage the changes. Now, seeing no real differences between the roles of men and women, it seems silly to make a fuss over applying a different label. The truth is, we already voted "Yes" to women's ordination years ago by granting women authority to fill roles that were set aside by God for men, even if we didn't technically "ordain" them for their offices!

The question of what happened on July 8th is best asked in terms of what didn't happen! God's clock tells us that it was the last General Conference Session before Jesus returns. That means it was the last opportunity to bring about the needed reforms. Did the vote address that? No! Nothing was done to repent of (reverse) the long-standing error in the church of women in administration. Instead, Ella Simmons was reelected as a vice president and divisions have to accept the authority of the Church, even if it goes against God’s will. Thus, the last opportunity passed for the church to humble itself in submission to God. The church, represented by the wife, has refused to submit to Christ, represented by the husband.^[37] And with no further opportunities to change before Jesus returns, the church has once again closed the door of grace on itself, against the warnings of our movement. This was the last door.

Compare the church’s actions with the warnings God was giving it through this movement:

Date	Seventh-day Adventist Church	The LastCountdown Ministry
April 7, 2012 Father departed from the Sanctuary. (1 st Day of Unleavened Bread High Sabbath.)	March [ampersand] April: Conducted survey regarding support for Women’s Ordination in southern California. ^[38]	“Go ye after him through the city, and smite. ” (Ezekiel 9:5) “And I will turn your feasts into mourning,... and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day. ” (Amos 8:10)

(Ezekiel 22:31)” ^[41]
October 27, 2013 End of the additional year of extra care given to the Seventh-day Adventist Church	God’s authority to establish the order of responsibility in relationships is rejected: Sandra Roberts elected Conference president. ^[34]	“Says the owner of the vineyard: ‘ Cut it down! ’” ^[42]

Now a New Moon shall devour them and their heritage. (Hosea 5:7, NKJV)” ^[45]
July 8, 2015 Sixth trumpet of Orion Trumpet Cycle	General Conference Session’s vote on whether divisions may decide to allow women’s ordination. ^[46]	“Cleanse Thou, O Lord, Thy house from the stench of the Jesuits and the apostasy! Let Your consuming fire, according to Ezekiel 9, do its work so that Your church can again shine with the light You chose for her, that it may lighten the whole earth.” ^[47]

Do you see how the warnings we gave, which were given for the times pointed out on God's clocks, reveal that God is trying to tell us something about His displeasure? Or do you think this perfect correlation of timing on numerous points is all a big coincidence? At each date, we expected God to send His judgments swiftly, but God has been very patient. Make no mistake about it—although God's patience is marked, the warnings still stand: Repent, for the destruction is determined. We are beyond the point where repentance will stay the judgment. There is no more opportunity for corporate repentance, and individual repentance will only protect one's individual salvation. The judgment on the church that we warned about will come. If not now, it will be in the plagues!

You should ask yourself whether it would be more merciful to put off the cleansing fire or to let it do its work sooner! It may be that God sees fit to push the judgment back to the plagues and leave the people without a sign that they may continue to believe their lies in comfort.

*And then shall that Wicked be revealed,... Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders, And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.
(2 Thessalonians 2:8-12)

Jesus did say that for the evil and adulterous generation (like the Seventh-day Adventist Church today), no sign would be given except the sign of apparent defeat as they had their way in putting out the light that might save them. So don't wait for a sign, follow the light!

Separating from the Condemned

*Hear ye this word which I take up against you, even a lamentation, O house of Israel [the Seventh-day Adventist Church]. The virgin of Israel is fallen; she shall no more rise: she is forsaken upon her land; there is none to raise her up. ... For thus saith the LORD unto the house of Israel, Seek ye me [alone], and ye shall live: But seek not Bethel [literally, "the house of God"], nor enter into Gilgal [the "wheel"], and pass not to Beersheba [the well of Abraham's oath that he would not deal falsely]: for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and Bethel shall come to nought. Seek the LORD [apart from the "house of God"], and ye shall live; lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Bethel. Ye who turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth, Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The LORD is his name:
(Amos 5:1-2,4-8)*

Israel is a type for the Seventh-day Adventist Church. But the virgin of Israel has become a whorish daughter of Babylon. Jesus "gave her space to repent of her fornication; and she repented not."^[48] Therefore "she shall no more rise."

Now, the Lord says to those in the Seventh-day Adventist Church, as He says to those in any other church organization, "Seek the Lord, and ye shall live," but do not seek your church—your house of God—for every "house of God" shall come to nothing. Don't go to the well that swears to tell the truth^[49] (voting "No" to women's ordination), but which has no living water. Don't enter into the hamster wheel of endless rounds of life with no end to sin in sight. Did you hear the warning from God (and not from us) that He will break out like fire, because His people have forsaken Him? Did you hear the answer?: Seek Him who made the seven stars and Orion!

Yes, dear reader, now is the time to worship God in Spirit and in Truth, as Jesus said. When He spoke with the woman at the well, she inquired about the appropriate place to worship, saying,

Our fathers worshipped in this mountain [denomination]; and ye say, that in Jerusalem [the Seventh-day Adventist Church] is the place where men ought to worship. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh [and has now arrived], when ye shall neither in this mountain [denomination], nor yet at Jerusalem [the Seventh-day Adventist Church], worship the Father. Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews [faithful keepers of the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine]. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him. (John 4:20-23)

You think you worship the Father, but you do not know that it is not Him, whom you worship! Do not be like those who after 1844 didn't know who they were worshipping:

I turned to look at the company who were still bowed before the throne; they did not know that Jesus had left it. Satan appeared to be by the throne, trying to carry on the work of God. I saw them look up to the throne, and pray, "Father, give us Thy Spirit." Satan would then breathe upon them an unholy influence; in it there was light and much power, but no sweet love, joy, and peace. Satan's object was to keep them deceived and to draw back and deceive God's children. {EW 56.1}^[50]

It is imperative that you recognize that the Father has left the Seventh-day Adventist Church,^[51] for they rejected His authority over them. There is no choice now, but to sever all connection with this and any other church organization, unless you want to receive the plagues with them.

If the church of God becomes lukewarm [can it be denied?], it does not stand in favor with God any more than do the churches that are represented as having fallen and become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and the cage of every unclean and hateful bird [i.e. Babylon]. Those who have had opportunities to hear and receive the truth and who have united with the Seventh-day Adventist church, calling themselves the commandment-keeping people of God, and yet possess no more vitality and consecration to God than do the nominal churches, will receive of the plagues of God just as verily as the churches who oppose the law of God. Only those that are sanctified through the truth will compose the royal family in the heavenly mansions Christ has gone to prepare for those that love Him and keep His commandments. {19MR 176.1}^[52]

Indeed, the church has not only become lukewarm, but has fornicated with the world.

Many of the Protestant churches [now including the Seventh-day Adventist Church] are following Rome's example of iniquitous connection with "the kings of the earth"—the state churches, by their relation to secular governments [the UN]; and other denominations^[53] [the ecumenical movement], by seeking the favor of the world. And the term "Babylon"—confusion—may be appropriately applied to these bodies, all professing to derive their doctrines from the Bible, yet divided into almost innumerable sects, with widely conflicting creeds and theories. {GC 383.1}^[54]

How long will you continue to think that the organized church is invincible and cannot become Babylon? How long will you speak like the accusers of Jeremiah:

Then spake the priests and the prophets unto the princes and to all the people, saying, This man [Jeremiah] is worthy to die; for he hath prophesied against this city [Jerusalem], as ye have heard with your ears. (Jeremiah 26:11)

Because Ellen White rebuked a man for calling the church Babylon at that time, does it mean that it can never be? Of course not! The doctrines of the church are not Babylon. They are pure, but the organization has become corrupt and can no longer be distinguished from Babylon.

The world must not be introduced into the church and married to the church. Through union with the world the church will become corrupt,—"a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The customs of the world must not have a place; for they will be open doors through which the prince of darkness will find access, and the line of demarkation will become indistinguishable between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not. {RH February 26, 1895, par. 4}^[55]

Satan is the conductor of the train after which all the world religions, including Seventh-day Adventism, have followed.

A train of cars [organizations] was shown me, going with the speed of lightning. The angel bade me look carefully. I fixed my eyes upon the train. It seemed that the whole world was on board. Then he showed me the conductor, a fair, stately person [Pope Francis], whom all the passengers looked up to and revered. I was perplexed and asked my attending angel who it was. He said, “It is Satan. He is the conductor, in the form of an angel of light. He has taken the world captive. They are given over to strong delusions, to believe a lie that they may be damned.

I asked the angel if there were none left. He bade me look in the opposite direction, and I saw a little company [no cars/organizations] traveling a narrow pathway. All seemed to be firmly united by the truth. This little company looked careworn, as if they had passed through severe trials and conflicts. And it appeared as if the sun had just arisen from behind a cloud and shone upon their countenances, causing them to look triumphant as if their victories were nearly won.

I saw that the Lord has given the world opportunity to discover the snare. This one thing is evidence enough for the Christian if there were no other; there is no difference made between the precious and the vile. {EW 263.1–3}^[56]

Have you discovered the snare? When the president of the church stands smiling with the UN Secretary-General, is there a difference made between the precious and the vile? The Seventh-day Adventist Church is under the direction of Rome, just like all of the other churches. It is just another car in the train following behind the reverenced, stately person, who is Satan, come as an angel of light, to deceive even the very elect! Did you discover that snare? Or will you hold on to the idea that Satan will come as a literal shining angel? Did it ever occur to you that Satan has options, just as God does, and what may have been the plan leading into 1888 is no longer the plan for today? There is more than one way he can claim to be Christ! When the Bible says that “all the world wondered after the beast [papacy],”^[57] maybe it really means, all!

Every organization that has allowed the world to be introduced into it is included in “the world.”

Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God. (James 4:4)

Only those who are not friends of the world will be able to stand independently of it. The Father is seeking true worshippers who will worship Him without denominational affiliations.

God has a church. It is not the great cathedral, neither is it the national establishment, neither is it the various denominations [including the Seventh-day Adventist Church]; it is the people who love God and keep His commandments. “Where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them.” Where Christ is, even among the humble few, this is Christ’s church, for the presence of the High and Holy One who inhabiteth eternity can alone constitute a church. {17MR 81.4}

Do you understand what it means that the Bible uses the symbolism of women to represent churches, and then says that the 144,000 are not defiled with women?

These are they which were not defiled with women [churches]; for they are virgins [have no church affiliation]. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb. (Revelation 14:4)

It is not just the impure women that they are not defiled with (in case you think there is still a pure church), but it is any woman, for they are virgins! They have no relationship with any church organization!

Discerning the Light of Truth

“For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required.” Like Israel of old, much light has been given to the Seventh-day Adventist Church. This puts them in a position of grave responsibility. Ellen White puts it like this:

John came in the spirit and power of Elijah to proclaim the first advent of Jesus. I was pointed down to the last days and saw that John represented those who should go forth in the spirit and power of Elijah to herald the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus. {EW 155.1}^[58]

This was to be the role of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, but they refused the privilege. When God spoke the time, they heard thunder, but they denounced the Latter Rain as a deception of the devil. But as many of the 144,000 as were among them heard the voice, understood it, and with faces lighted with the Holy Spirit, joined in proclaiming the Loud Cry.

We have not fully understood the message we have been given. Clearly, God has given an understanding of time with His clocks, but the events they point to have not always been quite as clear. The clearest events that have been associated with a marked time (even the day) are the plagues—the wrath of God—and the second advent of Jesus. This is what the clocks have been clearly identifying from the beginning. We have sought to understand the significance of the many other dates marked on His clocks, and knowing that judgment is imminent for the sins of the church and the world, for their cup of iniquity must be very nearly full, and knowing that one destructive event that has been described in dreams and visions is the fireball event,^[59] we ascribed this event to any date for which there were clues pointing potentially to a major calamity.

We always had it in our mind, that with an accurate prediction of an event of that scale, God’s people would finally unmistakably see the light in His message, and the 144,000 could be found and sealed. Later, we understood that this would preclude the faith that is necessary for the 144,000 to demonstrate! But still, it seems that the only message God’s sleeping children can understand is that of pain and suffering.

In hind sight, we have to realize that it was apparently never given to us to predict this sign and wonder. We are told all things beforehand, but this particular wonder has not been given to us to know until now. But this is as it should be, for Jesus Himself told us so:

For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect. But take ye heed: behold, I have foretold you all things. (Mark 13:22-23)

The clocks that God has given us foretell all things. With them, we have solved perplexing riddles of Christendom, shown various warnings, given many reproofs and much instruction, but no great signs and wonders have been shown by us, as much as we have desired it. However, there are hundreds of people proclaiming a coming great disaster, and while they by no means all agree, they all converge on one point: September, 2015! Will they be right? Will Jesus contradict Himself?

Some say an asteroid will hit the earth, some say a comet, “Nibiru,” a worldwide financial collapse, etc. and like us, they see some of the same warning signs that the throne of the beast is set up and the New World Order is established. They are calling people to flee the cities out of common sense (while we have done so because God revealed many decades ago that it was necessary), but these are the false prophets! Notice that the false prophets “shall shew signs and wonders,” while Jesus foretells to His disciples all things. There is no indication that everything He tells them is knowledge to be given to the world! He makes a difference between His disciples and the rest of the people. If you do not believe that Jesus foretells all things, because you think He still doesn’t know the day and the hour, then you cut yourself off from receiving the time knowledge that He wants to give, and the events will take you by surprise.

If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:3)

It is an evil and adulterous generation that demands a sign in order to believe. Jesus wants us to receive a love of the truth, that we might be saved—not a fear of signs! Therefore, the signs He gives have been calm and gentle. And when the big, fearful signs begin, it will be because it is too late for His people to become one of the 144,000. This requires faith that is not dependent on signs. They will be as broken branches, whose places will be filled by those who had no opportunity to learn the truth. Only through repentance may Adventists then be grafted back into their own tree, that they may be saved through martyrdom. Paul’s words to the gentiles apply to those who have had no opportunity to learn the truth today:

Thou wilt say then, The branches were broken off, that I might be grafted in. Well; because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. Be not highminded, but fear: For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee. Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off. And they also, if they abide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graff them in again. (Romans 11:19–23)

The many who herald a great disaster in September may well be right, but those who love the truth, will be given the discernment to recognize that they are false prophets, for perfect love casts out fear!^[60] They will have the faith to believe the truth against the testimony of the signs and wonders, while those who demanded signs in order to believe, may well follow those false prophets who gave them their fiendish signs! They all teach one form of error or another that will lead them astray and keep them deceived through their strong delusions.

Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders, And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness. (2 Thessalonians 2:9–12)

Think about it! What better way for the devil to deceive and seduce God’s children, than to “prove” his prophets by accurately predicting great signs and wonders? The frightened masses will eagerly look to these false prophets and will seek knowledge at their feet, but what will they find? Truth? No. They will find all the errors and false doctrines of Babylon, “proven” by the miraculous signs.

And the one church whose doctrines are pure, they will not seek, because not one Adventist would ever defile themselves with time-setting by predicting a calamity. In their eyes, all of that is mere rubbish and fodder for wide-eyed conspiracy theories. Only the LastCountdown Ministry has dared to venture against the continual tide of criticism and even hate mail from our “brethren” to both set times and warn of the coming calamity, without undermining any of the pillars of the Adventist faith.

Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour [of difficulty]: but for this cause came I unto this hour. Father, glorify thy name. Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again. The people therefore, that stood by [uninterested Adventists], and heard it, said that it thundered: others said, An angel spake to him. Jesus answered and said, This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes. Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth [to be seen in Orion], will draw all men unto me. (John 12:27-32)

The voice that came from heaven was not understood by all. Some heard it as earthly thunder, while others recognized that the voice came from the heavenly realm. Compare this with the vision of Ellen White:

Soon we heard the voice of God [from Orion] like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}^[61]

The voice from heaven that some perceive as thunder is the voice of God in Orion, which gives us the day and hour of Jesus' coming! And as He glorifies His name (character) in the person of His saints, their faces light up and shine with holy joy and peace. If Jesus is lifted up in Orion by His people recognizing the message for the heavenly voice that it is rather than earthly thunder, and letting the Father glorify His name in them, then from Orion, He will draw all men to Himself.

Self-Sacrificial Love

It was at the cross, of course, where Jesus was lifted up, and where all men are drawn toward. But Jesus also said that...

If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross [following the example of Jesus], and follow me [by showing the same self-sacrificial love]. For whosoever will save [preserve] his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it. (Matthew 16:24-25)

The love of Jesus for humanity led Him to lay down His own eternal life for them, and He enjoined His disciples to demonstrate the same love for one another.

This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you. (John 15:12-14)

In these brief lines, Jesus brilliantly reveals an important principle. He says that the greatest love that a man can have is to offer his life for his friends. Of course, we must understand that life to be their eternal life, because this is what Jesus gave by becoming a man forever, and is obviously a greater love than that of a man who is only willing to offer his earthly life, knowing he will get it back! Yet most would avoid the sacrifice and just help their friends get to heaven with themselves.

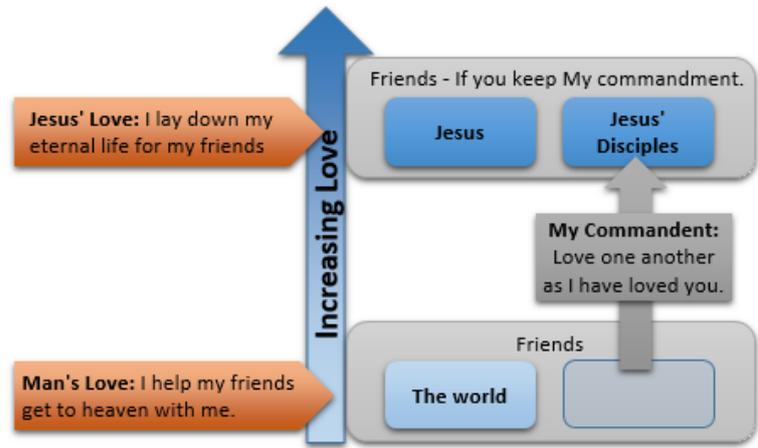

Figure 4 – Illustrating John 15:12-14. With Jesus' love in us, we lay our eternal lives on the altar for Jesus and His friends.

But Jesus says that we become His friends when we love one another according to His example toward us. He loved us enough to die for us, and by receiving His love, we can love one another enough to die for each other as well!

Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good. Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another; (Romans 12:9-10)

When we are raised into the circle of Jesus' friends, everyone would give their place in heaven in deference to another, were the sacrifice needed. (This is true even toward the ungrateful world, but it is clearly a closer relationship when the love is reciprocated.)

Considering that Jesus, and of course all of the heavenly host are in this circle of friends, He is also saying that we would be willing to make that sacrifice for God Himself and the entire unfallen Universe!

You might be thinking, "Okay, so what does that mean? It's not like a sacrifice on our part would merit anything, and even so, they are already safe in heaven, so what could it do for them?!" If this parallels your thoughts, please consider a couple of things. First, it is true that even if we gave our eternal lives, it could not atone for any sin! Only Jesus' sinless life could do that. But that is not why we would offer our eternal lives!

In the Jewish sacrificial services, there were different types of sacrifices, and not all were for sin. Peace offerings were free will offerings offered as an expression of gratitude or praise. A prominent Adventist biblical scholar of the mid-twentieth century explains their use:

Peace offerings were of three kinds: thank offerings, offerings for a vow, and voluntary offerings. Of these the thank offering, or praise offering, appears the most prominent. It was offered on occasions of joy, of thankfulness for some specific instance of deliverance, or for some signal blessing bestowed. It was offered from a heart filled with praise of God, running over with joy.^[62]

The Peace offering was a happy occasion and was eaten at the temple together with the priest, Levites, and extended family, including their servants. It was not offered to obtain peace, but rather as an expression of gratitude for peace that had already been received. Its description contains some revealing symbolism in the meal offering that attended the animal sacrifice.

And this is the law of the sacrifice of peace offerings, which he shall offer unto the LORD. If he offer it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer with the sacrifice of thanksgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour, fried. Besides the cakes, he shall offer for his offering leavened bread with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace offerings. (Leviticus 7:11-13)

The combination of leavened bread with unleavened bread is interesting in light of the understanding that leavening in offerings represented contamination with sin.

May it not be, as this is a common meal of which God, priest, and offerer partake, that the unleavened bread represents Him who is without sin and who is our peace; and that the leaven represents the imperfection of man who is nevertheless accepted by God?⁶²

Peace offerings were also offered in connection with vows of consecration, where a person could consecrate themselves wholly to God as a loving response to His graciousness toward them. The peace offering, regardless of the type, was an offering to God expressing love and gratitude, and this is the offering that Jesus says that His closest disciples, whom He called His friends, would make.

Proving the Will of God

Don't get the idea, however, that because it is a freewill offering of gratitude, it is not important in the plan of Salvation! Indeed, it plays a pivotal role! Jesus made salvation available, but who has chosen it? Are there first-fruits? Yes, the Bible specifically identifies the 144,000 as those first-fruits:

These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb. (Revelation 14:4)

Notice how it says that they were redeemed from among men, almost as though they were the only ones who are redeemed! It is quite clear, however, that these few people are not the only ones saved, even of the last generation of the living, yet they are first-fruits—the fruit from the crop that is the first to become ready to harvest. Their special role in salvation is made clearer in the previous verse:

And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth. (Revelation 14:3)

They are set apart from the rest of humanity by a “song” that they learned, which has something to do with their redemption. A song is a poetic and heartfelt expression of one's experience. Only they can learn the song, because only they have that special experience in redemption. We are given a clue as to what that experience is, by the fact that it is sung before the throne. Jesus presents the 144,000 to the Father at His throne with great joy as they sing the song:

Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, To the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen. (Jude 24-25)*

The distinguishing factor is that they are completely redeemed, and by the power of His Spirit in them, fulfill the command of Jesus to those caught in sin, “Go and sin no more.”^[63] Jesus presents them faultless—without sin—and they serve as the unarguable demonstration that His redemption is complete and effective!

But how can this be possible? Those who believe we will stop sinning before Jesus comes are often accused of being self-righteous, as though they are able to stop sinning by their own great effort, but nothing could be further from the truth! The passage quoted above clearly gives the glory to our Savior, identifying Him as the One who is able to do this great work!

What the 144,000 do, requires nothing but willingness:

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God. (Romans 12:1-2)

For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus. For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication: (1 Thessalonians 4:2-3)

This is where the peace offering comes in. We simply present ourselves to Him as a vow of consecration—a willingness to be used by Him in whatever way He deems appropriate. It is a full surrender of self, such that our gift is simply our “bodies,” to be renewed in the mind by the indwelling of His Spirit. Surrender is something NOT done. It is what remains, when we STOP applying effort, so it is nothing to boast of in ourselves.

And this vow of consecration—the offering of our bodies as a living sacrifice, which is acceptable to God, despite the leaven of our imperfection—serves to prove God’s will: our sanctification! In this way, the 144,000 prove that complete sanctification is possible by offering themselves entirely to God—including their eternal lives. By their vow, they commit to “follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth,” saying with Job, “Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him,”^[64] and with Jesus, “Not my will, but thine, be done.”^[65] They will honor God through perfect obedience, made possible by Jesus’ ability to keep them from falling, and they will do it without expectation of reward. Though He take my eternal life, yet will I serve Him by giving Him my body for His Spirit to possess and to prove that salvation of man from sin is possible.

This offering to God is so important, because it is what will be pointed to as conclusive evidence that Jesus’ sacrifice was 100% sufficient to redeem man from sin, and to show that...

She [wisdom] is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her. (Proverbs 3:15)

The 144,000 trust God to uphold them in the day of God’s wrath, and they answer the vain imagination of those who claim that the Lord cannot keep man from sinning. Because of their testimony for God’s power to make an utter end of sin in their lives, it will never arise to mar the Universe again.

Who can stand before his indignation? and who can abide in the fierceness of his anger? his fury is poured out like fire, and the rocks are thrown down by him. The LORD is good, a strong hold in the day of trouble; and he knoweth them that trust in him [the 144,000].... What do ye imagine against the LORD? he will make an utter end: affliction [from sin] shall not rise up the second time. (Nahum 1:6-7,9)*

Thus, they complete the ministry of Jesus, the Sun of Righteousness, who is worshipped from Sabbath to Sabbath in the new earth. And as the moon reflects the light of the sun, they shine with His reflection, being restored in His image^[66] while in their sinful flesh, and are remembered from month to month:

And it shall come to pass, that from one new moon to another, and from one sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the LORD. (Isaiah 66:23)

A Second Witness

The interplay of Sabbaths, new moons, and holy convocations, is a temporal theme that began at the Exodus from Egypt with the institution of the feasts of the Lord and their days of holy convocation. Egypt represents sin, and the Exodus from that nation represents God’s deliverance of His people from sin. We are to be cleansed from the contamination of sin, just as Israel was to separate from the practices of Egypt. God wanted to implant Himself in their midst, but He needed the sanctuary to allow His presence among a sinful people without destroying them.^[67] The entire sanctuary service—all of its sacrifices, furniture, feasts, and holy convocations—served to illustrate God’s incredible deliverance from the bondage of sin.

One of the principles of God’s tribunal is that for a death sentence, more than one witness is required before the judgment could be executed.

At the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death; but at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death. (Deuteronomy 17:6)

The Orion Clock gave the deadline for repentance by specifying the day of God’s wrath. But this, with all of its marked times, counts as only one witness. In order to fulfill the requirement of His own law, God needed at least one more trustworthy witness to validate the sentence. The second witness is another clock, found in a completely different place, derived from a completely different set of studies. It is derived from the Jewish sanctuary services and High Sabbaths instituted at the time of the Exodus. Let’s look very briefly at this second witness to see if the evidence supports the hypothesis that it is indeed a trustworthy witness, or if it is merely a random set of coincidences, containing no trustworthy testimony.

The sanctuary itself, wherein God dwelt, was a type for Jesus Christ, for “the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us.”^[68] The first piece of furniture that one would meet when they entered the courtyard of the sanctuary was the altar of burnt offering. This represents the cross of Jesus Christ. It is the theme and center-point of Salvation. The Orion Clock is centered on the star representing Jesus, the Wounded One, and teaches us about His character. In like manner, the High Sabbath Clock is founded on the cross of Jesus Christ and also teaches us about His character.

The Tabernacle in the wilderness.

It is at the cross that we find the key that unlocks the mystery of God’s true calendar. Daniel’s prophecy of the seventy weeks points directly to the year of Jesus’ crucifixion as AD 31, but most people discredit this date because there was no Friday crucifixion possible during that Passover according to the commonly accepted Jewish calendar. They suggest that the seventy weeks of Daniel’s prophecy started at a different time, or they use some other rationale for Jesus’ death being in a different year. Even Adventists have no solid rebuttal to the argument against AD 31. But in reality, it is this very dilemma that shines light on how God’s true calendar works!

Once that is known, it is possible to determine exactly when every feast day occurs in any year from the institution of the festal services until far in the future. There is just one catch: During the Feast of Unleavened Bread, which was in the first month of the year, some freshly picked stalks of barley from the new harvest were required (the Jewish year began right at the time when the barley began to ripen). This meant that they could not begin the new year before they had ripe barley to use in the Passover services! If none was found in the fields around Jerusalem, they would postpone the year until the following new moon, when there would certainly be usable barley. This is lunar calendar’s equivalent to the leap day that we add every four years in the Gregorian solar calendar.

For this reason, there are always two possible times for every feast in a given year, and this means that the holy convocations—the declared Sabbaths of the feasts—may also occur at different times. God designed it so that He always had the last word regarding the time!

When the earth in its path around the sun crosses the line demarking the spring equinox, the biblical New Year can begin. At the first crescent moon following it, if there is grain available for the wave offering, the first month begins, and the weekdays when the feasts will occur are confirmed.

The Real High Sabbath

The Passover and subsequent spring feasts all pointed to events surrounding Jesus' first Advent. Indeed, Jesus was lying in the grave over a very special day: Not only was it a weekly Sabbath,^[69] but it was also a High Sabbath. John makes a passing reference to this when He comments "for that sabbath day was an high day."^[70] Most Christians believe that every holy convocation of the feasts was considered a high day, but the Bible never refers to them as such.

The feasts of the Lord are defined in Leviticus 23. The chapter begins by defining them as to include the weekly Sabbaths. Then, as though restating the definition, it lists all the yearly feasts, beginning with the Passover. This peculiar repetition tells us something about the relationship between the weekly Sabbath and the annual declared Sabbaths of the feasts.

First of all, they are separate. The weekly Sabbath is in its own self-contained definition, and indeed, it is a feast of the Lord, and a holy convocation, but it is not in the same class as the annual festal Sabbaths, for it is one of the Ten Commandments, written in stone by the finger of God, representing both its permanence (being "set in stone") and its close relationship to His character (being written with His own finger—just as one's handwriting gives clues to their personality)! The laws concerning the feasts, however, were spoken to Moses alone, who then wrote them on parchment and related them to the people.

Secondly, although they are separate, both groups (the weekly seventh-day Sabbaths and the annual feast-day Sabbaths) are considered feasts of the Lord, using the very same language. This makes sense considering that the word "feasts" means "appointed times." The Lord has a weekly appointed time, and annual appointed times. And having two definitions for the feasts means that we must combine them to get a more complete understanding. Thus, there must be significance to those set times that are Sabbaths by being both the seventh day of the week and an appointed annual Sabbath. These are fittingly referred to as "high days" because they are doubly appointed days.

The traditional understanding of most Christians regarding high days does not take into account the full definition. They ignore the fact that the weekly Sabbath is also included as a feast of the Lord in the same passage. This leaves nothing above the ordinary Sabbath to call it a "high" Sabbath. For this reason, the high days are best defined as only those feast days that also fall on the seventh-day Sabbath.

You may ask why this is important. The answer lies in the silent testimony given when the Life-Giver's body lay lifeless in the tomb. His life-blood, drained from that pale corpse, was poured out as a love offering to atone for you and me, because we broke His law. He could not bend the law, for it was written in stone. Rather, the only means for our salvation was for Jesus, the King of glory, to give His life to become an eternal brother to the little worms called humanity. For One who was equal to the Father—One who possessed the infinite attributes of the Almighty—to humble Himself to the lowly worm of a man—not for an earthly lifetime, but for eternity—is the character that His wounded, lifeless body testified to on that mournful High Sabbath of May 25/26, AD 31.

At Creation, God rested the seventh day and was refreshed. After setting the example, He enjoined it upon His creation to likewise rest on the Sabbath day. On that High Sabbath, Jesus' resting body set the example of complete consecration and infinite love, and as before, He enjoins it upon His disciples: "This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you."^[71]

High Sabbath Genetics

If we wish to be a friend of Jesus and keep His commandment to love one another infinitely, then we will need to understand the message that God has put in the High Sabbaths, for in that message is the provision for His character to be replicated in us. As only the Creator of heaven and earth and all that is in them could do, He has built into the High Sabbaths, a beautiful picture—an analogy to the process of character replication at the cellular level! From the vast distances of interstellar space to the atomic precision of the processes within the human cell, we see the Creator's handwriting, and it proclaims the everlasting perfection of the character of God.

Every cell of our body is in contact with blood, which brings it the oxygen it needs to sustain its life. They are like little sanctuaries, where oxygen is distributed, nourishment is utilized, energy is generated, and enzymes go to work. Inside this living sanctuary is a protected inner enclosure where the DNA is stored. This is where the law of the cell is written, just like the law of God was stored in the holiest compartment of the sanctuary. This DNA-law contains the manufacturing instructions for every enzyme machine in the cell, and is consulted whenever more are needed to accomplish a particular cellular task. The features that our children receive are passed on to them through the DNA. Not only our physical features, but our character is likewise written in our DNA, as can be seen when a child demonstrates behaviors that are clearly similar to his parents, before he has had opportunity to learn them by observation.

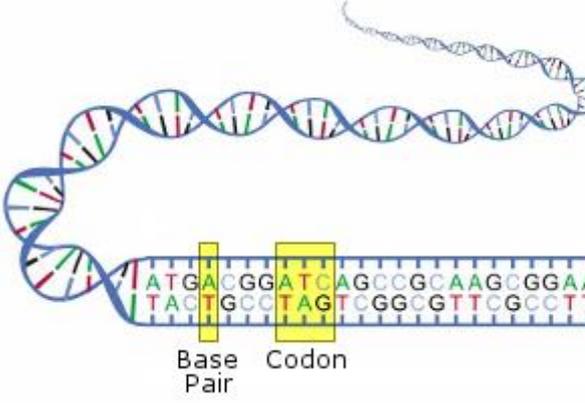

This principle is eluded to in the message of the High Sabbaths. Just as the High Sabbath when Jesus rested in the tomb symbolically encapsulated His character, so do the High Sabbaths throughout time collectively speak of His character. If you think of the High Sabbath List as a long "chromosome" of temporal DNA that stretches from the institution of the feasts at the Exodus until the end of human history, then the timespan of the Three Angels' Messages of Revelation 14 would be likened to a single "gene" on that chromosome of time. God's purpose with the Judgment hour was to prepare a people who would be willing to receive the gene of life!

This character "gene" that the 144,000 require, is mapped out by the High Sabbaths over the course of the antitypical Day of Atonement—the span of time represented in the Judgment Cycle of Orion, and foreshadowed by the solemn feast of Yom Kippur, when all the sin of Israel was symbolically blotted out.

For on that day shall the priest make an atonement for you, to cleanse you, that ye may be clean from all your sins before the LORD. (Leviticus 16:30)

This represented more than forgiveness, for that was obtained at the altar of burnt offering. Forgiveness was granted on a daily basis, but on this special feast day in the seventh month, they were not only forgiven, but cleansed! It was about being clean before God—about receiving the Character of Jesus in their heart. Therefore, it is this period, over which this "gene" is encoded in the High Sabbaths.

A number of allegorical correlations exist between biological DNA and the High Sabbath List.

Biological DNA	High Sabbath List
Consists of a list of different base pairs with no inherent meaning.	Consists of a list of various possible High Sabbaths with no inherent meaning.
Contains triplets of base pairs that are interpreted as building blocks for proteins.	Contains triplets of possible High Sabbaths that point to elements of Christ's character.
Some base pair triplets (a.k.a. codons) are start or stop codons that signal transcription to begin or end, respectively.	The period during which the first and second angels' messages were proclaimed was 1841-1843 and the High Sabbaths of this period represent the start codon, which is not found anywhere else in the sequence.
Ribosomes—the cellular components that interpret the triplet codons—identify each codon by matching it to an internal pattern.	"Stop codons" in the High Sabbath List are identified as those matching the pattern of High Sabbaths for the 1888-1890 triplet, when Jesus could have ended history had the 1888 message been accepted. ^[72]
Codons are grouped by the first two base pairs of the triplet, such that if they are the same, they generally represent the same building block.	Other "stop codons" in the High Sabbath List are identified as those that have the same pattern in the first two years. ^[73]

While a stop codon may sometimes not actually stop transcription, a double-stop codon (two stop codons in a row) always stops transcription.	Several "stop codons" occur in the sequence, but at the very end, two are in immediate succession, forming a "double-stop codon," signifying that history will not continue like it did after 1888.
DNA is double-stranded.	The possible High Sabbaths are grouped into two "strands" according to whether they derive from the spring or autumn feasts.
DNA has a helical structure.	The moon is the key factor setting the dates for the High Sabbaths, and it traces a helical path through space as it circles the earth in its path around the sun.

If this analogy were just imaginary, then no viable information could be derived from the resulting codes. However, the information the triplets reveal is itself highly structured and correlated with the Orion Clock.

During this period of Judgment, God trained and sifted His people to separate those who would be used to perform the role of the 144,000. He gave them instruction and reproof and this served as a test for them. It represents the counsel and instruction that He gives to each of us. Those who would be counted wise in the end are those who will humbly receive His instruction and reproof at each step of the process.

Hear counsel, and receive instruction, that thou mayest be wise in thy latter end. (Proverbs 19:20)

These are the ones who will shine in the end, lighting the earth with the Fourth Angel’s Message.

And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. (Daniel 12:3)

The following list itemizes some of the information that is revealed upon further analysis.

- The start codon occurs immediately before 1844, the beginning of the Orion Clock, and represents the first and second angels’ messages.
- The sequence is terminated with the autumn feasts of 2015, the very same time that the Orion Clock ends (the last year in Orion is 2014, which extends from autumn 2014 to autumn 2015).
- The entire double-stop codon spans the period during which the last message of warning (the fullness of the Fourth Angel’s Message) is given to the world.
- The exact same codes of the 1888-1890 triplet (not just the first two, but all three) are repeated in the last triplet, 2013-2015. They are related because both triplets signal times when Jesus could return.
- The 1861-1863 triplet points to the formal organization of the church, and the identical codes are repeated in the 2010-2012 triplet, which signals the end of the usefulness of the church organization (whose fate was sealed at the transgression of the Creation Sabbath at the end of the Judgment of the Dead in October 2012).
- The 1915-1917 triplet points to the death of Ellen White in 1915 and the General Conference’s drafting of the first statement of cooperation with other denominations in 1917.^[74] The identical codes are repeated in the triplet of 1986-1988, when the church openly joined the ecumenical movement as the last step in the process of unification with the one world religion.
- There are exactly seven periods of about 24 years throughout the list that are a reflection of the 24 periods of 7 years in the Orion Clock, just as the earthly sanctuary (upon which the High Sabbath List is based) is a reflection of the heavenly sanctuary in Orion.
- No other triplets occur during this period that have the first two of the three codes exactly the same as the reference triplet (1888-1890). That is, there are no extraneous stop codons.
- The 1935-1937 triplet points to the beginning of the Last Generation Theology. During this time, M.L. Andreasen wrote and published (for the church leadership in 1937^[75]) the classic study of The Sanctuary Service, which lays the foundation of this theology. It features prominently in the High Calling that the Fourth Angel's Message calls us to.

- The 1959–1961 triplet marks the denunciation of M.L. Andreasen by the church and the end of the struggle against a wrong understanding of the human nature of Jesus, the beginning of which is marked in Orion.

These markers in time identify key doctrines that are necessary in order to fulfill the purpose of the 144,000 as explained earlier. They are all expressed in the allegorical setting of DNA transcription, as an illustration of the replication of Jesus' character for the 144,000 who will complete His ministry on the earth, being vessels cleansed from self and prepared for the Holy Spirit to use. The message itself is derived from the High Sabbaths, which embody this same self-sacrificial character that Jesus demonstrated on the cross.

If you believe these correlations are mere happen-stance, then you should have an explanation for why these “chance occurrences” appear so intentionally correlated. Can you explain the thematic similarities to the Orion Clock? Just the fact that its time markers are a reflection of those of the Orion Clock, and end at the exact same season, should be evidence enough to remove all doubt as to their relationship! Add to this the thematic parallels with DNA transcription and the cross of Jesus, and there is an abundance of evidence. Only One with infinite knowledge and ability, who knows the end from the beginning, could so organize the movements of the Sun and Moon to harmonize with the history that transpires on Earth. Do you hear the music of the spheres? As the Moon traces its graceful, helical path around the Sun, together with the Earth, they sound their harmonious lines in the celestial orchestra. The accelerating percussion of signs that signal the end, complements the rhythmic bass line of Orion, all in the perfect time of the Creator. Do you hear the voice like many waters? Will you learn the song that the 144,000 sing as they drink of that water and keep time with the choir of stars?

Do you understand now, that God indeed keeps time? With every stroke of His clock, those who keep time with Him hear the heartbeat of His bountiful love and are encouraged to follow in His example. Listen closely to that heartbeat and add your voice to the melodious song for our friends in heaven.

The Third and Fourth Generation

This Vessel of Time—the High Sabbath List—gives us the standard of measurement. We are to lift up the cross by our example in taking hold of God's promises and learning to overcome self and let the righteousness of Jesus shine through us, so that all may be drawn to Him. Have we ordered our lives accordingly? Do you remember Jesus' blessing on the wise servant who gave his household food in due season?^[76]

God chose the Seventh-day Adventist Church to be ruler over His household; to deliver to the world the bread of life.

Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath made ruler over his household, to give them meat in due season? Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing. Verily I say unto you, That he shall make him ruler over all his goods. (Matthew 24:45–47)

Has the church been faithful, like the wise servant? Or has it followed the course of the evil servant?

*But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming [“He is not coming as soon as Orion indicates”]; And shall begin to smite his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken [follow the example of the world]; The lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of [because he rejected the knowledge of the time], And shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. (Matthew 24:48-51)

The evil servant was a hypocrite because he loved darkness rather than light, while professing to be a servant of the Lord. The light of the Fourth Angel began to come to the church in 1888, but like the evil servant, the church leaders loved their darkness and hated the light.

And this is the condemnation, that light [the Holy Spirit] is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved. (John 3:19-20)

By setting up traditional beliefs as the golden standard of truth instead of humbly returning to the Scriptures in study to understand whether the traditional beliefs needed refinement, they just as surely committed idolatry as if they had worshiped a golden image! And what does God say about giving homage to other gods?

Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; And shewing mercy unto thousands [of generations^[77]] of them that love me, and keep my commandments. (Exodus 20:5-6)

As the history of Israel poignantly illustrates, the iniquity of the fathers carries on to later generations unless there is decided and consistent reform. But short of the painstaking effort of faith required to do that, the children adopt the sins of their fathers, and they will be visited with the judgment of God.

Collectively, God's family is represented by the church, so the "fathers" are not just your common dad, but should be understood to be the spiritual fathers in the church. They are the leaders who influence the church in a particular direction. At the time of the Great Disappointment, the "church" was a fledgling group of young people—many in their late teens and twenties—and they earnestly studied with each other about Bible prophecies and doctrines. They understood the logic and instruction of the Scriptures and could reason from cause to effect. They loved Jesus and were eager to see Him come in their lifetime, and this led them to consecrate themselves wholly to Him, forsaking the world, being willing so suffer whatever was necessary for the movement they identified with and the God they loved.

When the church was officially organized, many of these same people, now in their 30s and 40s, were the ones who led in its development. The pictures we have of them were taken when they were older, but in the early years of the church, our "pioneers" were remarkably young! Nevertheless, they had experience studying and teaching unpopular doctrine and knew their Bibles well. Due to the blessing of God on their consecration, they accomplished much with their few resources and low numbers.

The Vessel of Time is divided into seven periods averaging 24-25 years—the accepted length of a generation today.^[78] It takes us generation by generation through the history of the church, pointing out key tests that the people went through as each new generation brought their own character and ideas to the work. The test with the most at stake was arguably when the Holy Spirit came to bring them the beautiful truth of righteousness by faith in 1888.

By this time, some of the founders had passed away, and a new generation had taken the primary leadership, who had not gone through many of the trials of faith as had the early pioneers. They had grown more comfortable with the world, less submissive to God, and less willing to suffer for the truth's sake.^[79] These subtle influences led them unconsciously to look on the outward appearances and faults of the messengers, rather than evaluate their message according to the word of God. Their pride refused to acknowledge that great light could come by the hands of such, and they rejected the Holy Spirit as a result.

This was the iniquity, and they were the guilty fathers leading the church. As a result, they lost the opportunity to finish the work and enter heaven. What's more, the next generation to lead following them, lost the prophetic voice that had done much to keep the church in line. "Where there is no vision, the people perish."^[80] Then they were freed to pursue their course of compromise without the consistent voice of reproof to hinder them. They were the first generation after the guilty fathers.

But just as Joshua and Caleb were faithful in Israel, there were those who yet remained faithful in spite of the prevailing attitudes. Among these were M.L. Andreasen, who arose as a prominent scholar in the church during that era, and to whom the Lord gave another beam of the light of the Fourth Angel's Message for His people. But the prevailing spirit of this second generation did not welcome the light any more than their church forefathers did in 1888, and they rejected him and the message he gave, even ultimately revoking his ministerial license.

Hope Deferred

An interesting detail about this timing is brought to light by the Jubilee cycle. The Orion Clock points to 1540 BC as the year that the children of Israel entered into Canaan, the Promised Land. This was the beginning year for the Jubilee counting, and gives a clear significance to the Jubilee as a time relating to the entrance into the heavenly Promised Land! The Jubilee occurred the year after every seventh sabbatical—every 49 years. Beginning our count from 1540 BC, and counting 70 Jubilee cycles (3430 years), it brings us exactly to AD 1890!^[81]

This is the very year that Ellen White referred to, as when the heavenly Promised Land could have been entered! Exactly two years earlier, the Holy Spirit sought to bring the first rays of the light of the Fourth Angel. One more Jubilee cycle brings us to 1939, and this is exactly two years after Andreasen published his work for the church leaders, containing additional light from the Fourth Angel! Had the church repented and welcomed that light, it would have been in a better position now to accept the truth!

Instead, with each successive generation, they sank further and further into the mire of their wrong ideas and ways. These unconsecrated leaders drove the church toward unity with the world with all of their power, neutralizing unique doctrines and publicly joining the ecumenical movement. This is the testimony of the third and fourth generations of their church fathers who showed their hatefulness toward God in 1888.

The fourth generation rose to leadership about the time of the next Jubilee in 1988. This is also marked in the Vessel of Time, but there was no light. It is marked as a dark blot, ending the triplet when the seeds planted in 1917 by "cooperating" with other faiths, had grown into established trees with their first bitter fruit ripening in 1986, when the church publicly joined the ecumenical movement, despite all the efforts of the Holy Spirit to bring reformation. In that empty Jubilee, the church once again rejected all of the effort of the Holy Spirit over the previous generations, and completed the unity with the world through its state-enforcement of legal protections in 1988.^[82] In other words, the church grieved away the Holy Spirit. The house was left desolate.

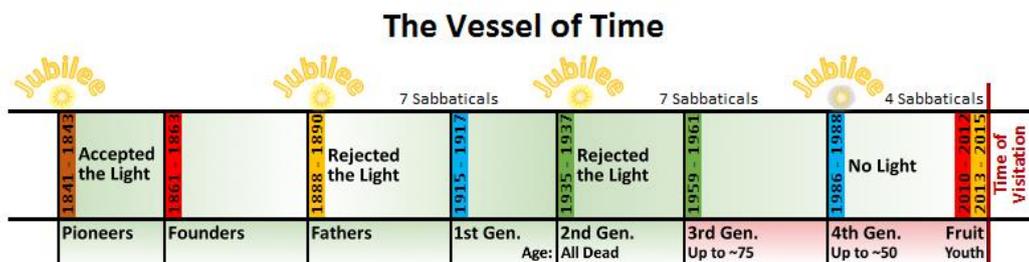

Figure 5 - Visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generation.

God had the two or three witnesses that He required before executing a death sentence. No further Jubilees will occur on this earth. But there is something to be learned from this as well. The Jubilee year was always the year following a sabbatical year, and if we count sabbatical years from the 1987 sabbatical, we find that there are exactly four, where the fourth begins in the autumn of 2015.^[83] The total number of sabbatical years since the rejection of the 1888 message is 18. These 18 sabbaticals (which show up in other timelines with characteristic self-similarity) represent a hope deferred: what could have taken place at the beginning has been postponed 18 cycles until its unequivocal fulfillment now.

Hope deferred maketh the heart sick: but when the desire cometh, it is a tree of life. (Proverbs 13:12)

The gift of the Holy Spirit is especially associated with the Jubilee cycles. Seven literal weeks every year were counted from the feast of Unleavened Bread until the Feast of Weeks, or Pentecost, which represented the outpouring of the Holy Spirit that the disciples of Jesus received on that very day. Those seven weeks represent the seven weeks of years (sabbaticals) of the Jubilee, and it was on that very special seventieth Jubilee that the Holy Spirit would have completed His work of lightening the whole world, had He been welcomed and loved!

For 70 long Jubilee cycles—nearly three and a half millennia—the Holy Spirit had been working to make the type of Israel’s entering into the Promised Land become the reality of entering into heaven. But as ancient Israel resisted the faithful witnesses to the grandeur of the Promised Land (Joshua and Caleb) and sought to return to Egypt, so also spiritual Israel (the Seventh-day Adventist Church) resisted the faithful witnesses to righteousness by faith (Jones [ampersand] Waggoner) in 1888 and sought to return to the darkness from which God had brought them. As the fourth generation began to lead in the 1986-1988 triplet, they had accomplished that goal.

Known By Their Fruits

But at that time, the fourth generation of leadership had just begun, and some time was needed for the fruit of their leadership to be seen. As children are the fruit, or offspring, of the parents and learn the habits and culture of the family, so the church’s youth learn the habits and culture of the church, and are the fruit of its leaders.

Those who had rejected the righteousness of Jesus by faith, were left to produce the fruit of their own character. But all who receive the righteousness of Jesus by faith, have His character replicated in their own lives as they put their faith in His leading through all of the testing points of the Vessel of Time. These become the 144,000 as they are sealed by the Holy Spirit to fully reveal His character at the appointed time.

These two groups have ever been present in the church—the faithful, who are children of Abraham by faith,^[84] and the unfaithful, who are the children of the devil through unbelief.^[85] And what did Jesus say? “Ye do the deeds of your father.” Jesus said we would recognize the false prophets in the church from the true by looking at their fruit.

Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? (Matthew 7:15-16)

At this time, during the Judgment of the Living, God is looking upon the fruit of this fourth generation of leadership. The fruit of their leadership may be seen in our youth. And what do we see, generally, if we look at the fruit of the fourth generation? We often speak of the “army of youth,” and how soon they could carry the gospel message to the world, but they must be “rightly trained” in order to qualify:

We have an army of youth today [1893] who can do much if they are properly directed and encouraged. We want our children to believe the truth. We want them to be blessed of God. We want them to act a part in well-organized plans for helping other youth. Let all be so trained that they may rightly represent the truth, giving the reason of the hope that is within them, and honoring God in any branch of the work where they are qualified to labor. {ChS 30.3}^[86]

With such an army of workers as our youth, rightly trained, might furnish, how soon the message of a crucified, risen, and soon-coming Saviour might be carried to the whole world! {Ed 271.2}^[87]

But we don't want to judge improperly. Contrary to popular belief, Jesus commanded us to judge, but to do so righteously:

Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment. (John 7:24)

Paul is also clear whom we are to judge—those within the body of faith:

But now I have written unto you not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one no not to eat. For what have I to do to judge them also that are without? do not ye judge them that are within? (1 Corinthians 5:11-12)

So where should we look, seeing that we cannot directly read the heart? Are there visible signs that we can see that speak to one's character in their heart? Of course there are! From the very beginning, it was the first association that was made with sin. The moment Adam ate the fruit, they had a startling realization that was forever etched into the mind of man:

And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons. (Genesis 3:7)

Why do you suppose they didn't realize that they were not wearing clothing before? Wouldn't it be rather obvious, like it is in the artwork depicting them? Or might God have “covered [them] with the robe of righteousness”^[88] and they became naked when Adam sinned and lost that righteousness? The immediate effect of sin was the loss of covering—the exposing of the shame of their nakedness.

This is a very sensitive topic, because people immediately feel “judged” when you speak about their clothing. But if we are serious about Jesus, then we will do what is right, even if it means standing out like a sore thumb.

Through Ellen White, God gave the Seventh-day Adventist Church much counsel regarding the related concepts of health and dress, and these are represented in Orion by the throne lines of His right hand.

We judge of a person's character by the style of dress worn. A modest, godly woman will dress modestly. A refined taste, a cultivated mind, will be revealed in the choice of a simple, appropriate attire.... The one who is simple and unpretending in her dress and in her manners shows that she understands that a true woman is characterized by moral worth. How charming, how interesting, is simplicity in dress, which in comeliness can be compared with the flowers of the field. {CG 413.5}^[89]

Why should it be different as an adult?

Indeed, the way we dress speaks volumes about who we are and what we want people to notice. The fashions of the day are self-centric, drawing the attention to the people wearing them. Modest simplicity in dress directs the attention to the face, which ought to shine with the glory of God! Neatness, orderliness, and modesty are the way of heaven, and if we are citizens there, then we will seek to adopt those qualities in our dress and lifestyle, and this applies to both men and women. The sweet innocence of little girls is often darkened by mothers who unwittingly dress them in unbecoming clothing. But grown women should preserve their own sweet innocence as well!

Jesus made the principle clear that the seventh commandment is about much more than married people having an affair.

Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not commit adultery: But I say unto you, That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart. (Matthew 5:27-28)

Of course, the commandment isn't just for men. The principle is that everyone has a sacred "marriage bed" that God commands us to keep pure. If you are married, then keep it pure by being faithful to your spouse and refraining from degrading practices, even between yourselves. Not every sexual practice is acceptable for a sweet and holy relationship. If you are single, keep your marriage bed pure by preserving the purity of your mind (especially men) and body (especially women). This can be accomplished only by receiving the character of Jesus. It is righteousness by faith; purity by faith.

Clothing is a form of identity and reveals character. Do you identify with the purity of heaven?

It is a challenge for women to obtain appropriate clothing with the degenerate condition of the world today. Pants and revealing or tight-fitting clothing, as is quite typical of popular women's wear, draws attention to the sexual features of the body, which is contradictory to the aim of modesty.

Miniskirts, shorts, tops that are low-cut, cropped, or spaghetti strap, or clothes that have writing or decoration across the sexual parts of the body, all serve to draw the attention to those areas. None of these fashions demonstrate the simple modesty of a daughter of God, and rest assured, none are similar to the garments that will be worn in heaven!

Many women may feel that they must dress in a showy manner in order to feel good about themselves. They have fallen for the media's lies that a woman's worth is in her body (and the men who turn their heads agree). But it is not. Your worth is in Jesus, who gave His all to buy you back.

The eyes are designed to focus on elements of contrast and singularity. They automatically locate the tips of arrows or the points of V-necks or the meeting point of pant legs. Clothing with these features is sure to attract the attention of a wandering eye.

You shouldn't feel restricted because of the dirty old creeps, however. The principle of modesty is not, as many mistakenly present it, about helping men not to be overwhelmed with temptation to lustful thoughts. That would be considerate, but a godly man has the mind of Christ, and the sight of immodestly-dressed, vain, or silly women is unattractive to him, even if they have a good heart. For him, they lack the discretion to cover their nakedness and foolishness, and the proverb applies:

As a jewel of gold in a swine's snout, so is a fair [beautiful] woman which is without discretion. (Proverbs 11:22)

Modesty and an unpretending deportment is for your own self-respect as a woman, and to honor your Father in heaven! And that is something that a godly man is attracted to. A woman who understands these principles and dresses tastefully with feminine modesty and simplicity is a precious treasure. None should allow culture to convince them that it is okay to compromise by wearing the same (or just a little better) clothing that everyone else wears, or acting the same way everyone else does. If you are a child of God, let it be seen! It will be a positive influence to those around you!

In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with broided hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array; But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works. (1 Timothy 2:9-10)

Marriage is a holy institution that should be taken very seriously, before and after it is entered into. The seventh commandment requires that the intimacy of the marriage relationship must be preserved through modesty and kept solely between the man and his wife. Those who are not married should direct their attention to heavenly things, and discover the higher and richer intimacy of a relationship with God. It is the seventh commandment that is the test of this time, whether you are married or single.

Found Wanting

Where are your eyes drawn?

If we look at the fruit of the current generation—our youth in the church—and we ask whether they have been rightly trained to fear God and give Him glory, we are confronted with a terrible reality. Even in the best of homes, those who have been surrounded with the subtle influences of the unfaithful leaders are in a terrible condition. Are they ready to be sealed by the Holy Spirit? Are they earnestly searching the Scriptures to better understand prophecy and doctrine? Or are their lives characterized by frivolity, vanity, and pleasure-seeking?

Is it “giving the reason of their hope” to play Bible games as we typically see in “Adventist Youth” programs, racing a friend to find a random word in the pages of holy writ? Or to be the first to answer some Bible trivia question correctly? Is this the proper training that they need? Why is it that most are unbearably silent when you ask them why they believe a particular doctrine? There is a form of godliness, but no convicting power.

But which group do we find the most Adventist youth at today? The official, church-sponsored club for youth is the popular Pathfinders club. What do you find if you look at the international camporee of this year? Surely you will find many youths with the consecration that the teenagers had in 1844, when they believed Jesus was about to come. After all, if you asked any one of them, they would certainly tell you that Jesus is coming soon!

But sadly, the reality is far different. We find not the least evidence that a Bible was ever opened. But many pictures are unashamedly posted on the camporee website that show a shocking disregard for any modesty or standard of conduct! One gets the impression that impropriety is honored!

Hypothesis: Boys tolerate heat much better than girls.

*On stage presentation of the girls. Can you discern the dress code? “Nothing longer than 20 cm, please!”
These are our sweet sixteens being exhibited without shame! This never happened in Nineveh!*

To be honest, I am embarrassed to even include these pictures, but it is important that you understand what God is subjected to everyday! Do you understand how offensive this is to Him? For many decades, He has invested much effort to train up His children to be like fragrant lilies of the field, but instead, there is a continual stench of rotting flesh that rises to His nose and turns

His stomach! Is it a wonder that He will soon vomit them out of His mouth like the whale of the camporee theme story?

One photo from the “water activities” is just too indecent to include here, yet it is posted without a blush on the official camporee website!^[90] Have we lost all common sense that we put teenage boys with teenage girls in whatever they want to wear—or not wear?! Have we forgotten that these are years that require special care and spiritual protection from the degenerating influences of the world? Have we no concern at all that our children are breaking the seventh commandment? The principle of the seventh commandment is that of preserving the sanctity and purity of the gift of intimacy for the right time—within the confines of a tender, loving, and committed marriage relationship between a man and a woman. But this whole camp was full of young adulterers and adulteresses, who refuse to reserve their bodies for marriage, but will expose just as much as they can get away with. And sadly, that’s just about everything, due to the complete lack of principle in the parents and church leaders to direct their children to keep themselves pure and chaste.

Modesty applies to men and women both!

The ladies choir singing for the baptisms. There is clearly no respect for the sacred ceremony of baptism. Will they perform before God dressed in the same manner?

Parents must govern their children, correct their passions, and subdue them, or God will surely destroy the children in the day of His fierce anger, and the parents who have not controlled their children will not be blameless. Especially should the servants of God govern their own families and have them in good subjection. I saw that they are not prepared to judge or decide in matters of the church, unless they can rule well their own house [this includes having good standards to rule by]. They must first have order at home, and then their judgment and influence will tell in the church. {1T 119.2}^[91]

The theme of this camporee was “Surprised by Grace” in the setting of Nineveh’s repentance at Jonah’s warning. It is quite ironic, when you consider the applicability of Jesus’ words:

The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here [the Holy Spirit in the Latter Rain]. (Matthew 12:41)

Whether or not you want to evaluate this fruit, God does, and He will visit the iniquity of the fathers on the generations alive today, because they walked in the same way, adopting the same errors, and the quality of their offspring proves it. Will you know the time of this visitation?

Yea, the stork in the heaven knoweth her appointed times; and the turtle and the crane and the swallow observe the time of their coming; but my people know not the judgment of the LORD. How do ye say, We are wise, and the law of the LORD is with us? Lo, certainly in vain made he it; the pen of the scribes is in vain... Were they ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not at all ashamed, neither could they blush: therefore shall they fall among them that fall: in the time of their visitation they shall be cast down, saith the LORD. (Jeremiah 8:7-8,12)

A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them. (Matthew 7:18-20)

The church of God has become lukewarm, not even discerning its own nakedness. It does not stand in favor with God, and its members who do not have the vitality to separate from the condemned organization will receive of its plagues.^[92]

So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth. Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked: I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see.

As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent. (Revelation 3:16-19)

How long, ye simple ones, will ye love simplicity? and the scorers delight in their scorning, and fools hate knowledge? Turn you at my reproof: behold, I will pour out my spirit unto you, I will make known my words unto you. Because I have called, and ye refused; I have stretched out my hand, and no man regarded; But ye have set at nought all my counsel, and would none of my reproof: I also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear cometh; When your fear cometh as desolation, and your destruction cometh as a whirlwind; when distress and anguish cometh upon you.

Then shall they call upon me, but I will not answer; they shall seek me early, but they shall not find me: For that they hated knowledge, and did not choose the fear of the LORD: They would none of my counsel: they despised all my reproof. Therefore shall they eat of the fruit of their own way, and be filled with their own devices. For the turning away of the simple shall slay them, and the prosperity of fools shall destroy them. But whoso hearkeneth unto me shall dwell safely, and shall be quiet from fear of evil. (Proverbs 1:22-33)

To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven. (Ecclesiastes 3:1)

In the Shadow of Time

All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the LORD hath laid on him [Christ] the iniquity of us all. (Isaiah 53:6)

When with agonizing pressure, the terrible weight of the guilt of all humanity throughout the ages forced drops of blood from Jesus' brow,^[1] His humanity shrank from paying the high price that was demanded by the principles of His character—His law. Yet He was completely surrendered to God. Taking three of His closest disciples with Him, He sought support from them in prayer:

Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me. And he went a little further, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt. (Matthew 26:38-39)

And he cometh the third time, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: it is enough, the hour is come; behold, the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. (Mark 14:41)

Jesus knew the time of His visitation, and having made the decision to drink the cup, He submitted Himself “into the hands of sinners,” or in other words, to the desire or heart of those of the earth. For three days and three nights, from His decision in Gethsemane (Thursday night) to drink the cup, until He ascended to His Father (Sunday morning) and received the assurance that His sacrifice was accepted and sufficient, He was enshrouded in the darkness of not having evidence of His Father’s approbation.

His willing submission, even unto death—that sacrificial display of the infinite love of the Son of God—is the focal point of all history, both earthly and heavenly. It was the greatest demonstration of love that the Universe could witness and humanity could experience and feel. It was when God sealed His covenant with man by the blood of Jesus. It is this sacrifice that is the central, uniting theme of God’s Timekeepers. His calendar is based on it; His Clock in Orion is centered on it; the High Sabbath List is focused on it. It is the grand reference point for all things of divine origin and will be a source of inspiration and praise for all eternity.

The Reformation from Sin

The cross of Jesus represents salvation from sin—the reformation of character. This reform from sin is the theme of the entire Bible, which begins with the beauty and perfection of Creation and ends with the re-creation of the earth with added richness, glory, and depth. It relates the fall into sin and the consequent curse, and the rise of a generation of 144,000 as the first fruits of complete salvation, who are willing to give themselves to perfect obedience, no matter the cost.

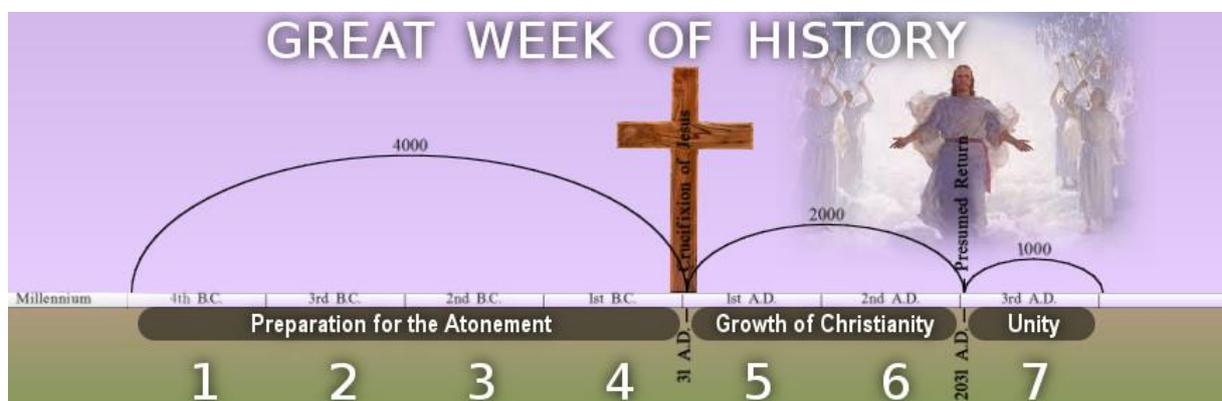

But the vast majority of the Bible’s content is dedicated to revealing the effects of sin, God’s abundant provision of grace for it through Jesus, and man’s application of that provision through faith—all in order to bring about the promised restoration.

Christ was standing at the point of transition between two economies and their two great festivals. He, the spotless Lamb of God, was about to present Himself as a sin offering, that He would thus bring to an end the system of types and ceremonies that for four thousand years had pointed to His death. As He ate the Passover with His disciples, He instituted in its place the service that was to be the memorial of His great sacrifice. The national festival of the Jews was to pass away forever. {DA 652.2}^[2]

The sacrifice of Jesus was not given at any haphazard time, but was in perfect step with the divine schedule. As is described in The Key of David, the events of Creation laid out a pattern during the first seven days, with clear divisions at four days, two days, and the last day. The completion of the earthly environment was accomplished in four days. Two additional days were used to populate the earth with fish, birds, land animals and finally man. The week concluded with the Sabbath, when God and man enjoyed communion together with His creation.

This 4-2-1 pattern is repeated in many biblical timelines, not the least of which is the grand 7000-year cycle of time allotted for sin and the recovery from it. Four thousand years of sin passed until Jesus’ sacrifice, then 2000 years were allotted for the gospel work to be accomplished, and this is capped with the seventh millennium—the Sabbath of rest, during which time, Jesus will be united with His people in Heaven.

Speaking with Precision

The relationship between the seven millennia and the seven days of the week is nothing new. Many have recognized this from Peter's declaration that "one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day."^[3] The concept is further supported by the description in Revelation of a millennium, during which the devil is to be bound and God's people are to have rest. The seventh-day Sabbath is a type for that rest, and is regarded as holy until that millennium of peace in Heaven.

The question is, how precise are these millennial days? Are they merely approximations, or is there an exactness in them as is characteristic of the divine example? Let us explore a little and see whether any such exactness is discernable.

Many Bible scholars understand that Daniel's seventy weeks prophecy points to Jesus' three-and-a-half-year ministry culminating in His crucifixion in AD 31. In Full Moon at Gethsemane, we give a solid defense for that year as the year of His crucifixion, answering the many voices who deny that it could have been in that year. Thus, if we take AD 31 as the reference point, and add two millennia, we come to AD 2031 as the end of the sixth millennium. This has led many to conclude that Jesus may come in that year.

Besides the fact that given the rapid pace of current events, that year seems like an eternity in the future, there is another factor that must be considered: Jesus clearly indicated that it would be necessary to shorten the time:

And except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened. (Matthew 24:22)

Those who include this principle with their understanding of the allotment of 2000 years, consider 2031 to be an upper limit, recognizing that Jesus must come before that date, so that the days would be shortened from that reference.

God: The Revealer of Secrets

There is an important point here that shouldn't be overlooked. Those who denounce time-setting as unbiblical should ask themselves how those days could be shortened, except that there must be an appointed time for them to end, and the actual end comes sooner! A timespan without a known end cannot be shortened, for its end will still come at an unknown time! And if you suppose that there is an appointed time, but that it is a secret of the Father, then how do you reconcile that with the promise God gave through Amos?

Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets. (Amos 3:7)

The context of this statement is that of executing judgment. In other words, God is telling us that He will not execute judgment without first revealing His secret. And what judgment is greater or more important than the judgment of the whole world in the Day of Wrath?! Yes, surely the Lord has revealed His secret concerning that day.

In fact, the day itself may be known with a proper understanding of the Biblical calendar. After explaining how the types of the spring Passover feast "were fulfilled, not only as to the event, but as to the time [in AD 31]," Ellen White said that "in like manner the types which relate to the second advent must be fulfilled at the time pointed out in the symbolic service."^[4] The Autumn feasts point to His Second Advent, and with the knowledge of the true calendar that brings clarity to the timing of events surrounding the crucifixion, we can know when those feast days will occur in any given year.

The last feast of the year was Tabernacles. During the 8 days of this feast, the people camped in temporary booths, representing their wilderness wandering, and enjoyed sweet fellowship after their disagreements were settled and their sins were purged a few days earlier on the Day of Atonement. The Bible scholar, M.L. Andreasen noted that

It was altogether the most happy occasion of the year, when friends and neighbors renewed communion and dwelt together in love and harmony. In this respect it was prophetic of the time when the great ingathering of God's people shall take place...^[5]

The last great day of the feast—a declared Sabbath—is a fitting type for the Second Coming, which follows a time when His people once again wander without a home during the great trouble on earth. The Orion Message fits this with perfect harmony into a schedule that is indeed shortened from the 2031 limit. But there is even a biblical definition for the amount of time that is cut off in the shortening.

The Shortening of Time

One of the great reformations in Judah began when Hezekiah became king. Immediately upon taking office, He began his reforms by reopening the temple, which had been closed due to former apostasy. He even called all Israel together to hold the first Passover service in about two and a half centuries!^[6] But an illness threatened to shorten his life and bring to an end the reformations that he had begun.

*In those days was Hezekiah sick unto death. And Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz came unto him, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Set thine house in order: for thou shalt die, and not live.

Then Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, And said, Remember now, O LORD, I beseech thee, how I have walked before thee in truth and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight. And Hezekiah wept sore. (Isaiah 38:1-3)

With a noticeable taint of pride, Hezekiah pled with God to consider how much he had done for Him, and how great his reforms were. Therefore, the Lord sought to use the opportunity to test and refine the king on this point, and sent Isaiah back with the answer that his life would not be cut short, and prescribed a simple natural remedy utilizing figs to heal him. Through Isaiah, God informed him of how much his life would have been shortened if he were deprived of the rest of his years.

Go, and say to Hezekiah, Thus saith the LORD, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears: behold, I will add unto thy days fifteen years. (Isaiah 38:5)

Not long after saying the time would be shortened, Jesus utilized the fig in an illustration when He spoke of the nearness of the end:

Now learn a parable of the fig tree; When her branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near: So ye in like manner, when ye shall see these things come to pass, know that it [the heat of tribulation] is nigh, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, that this generation [the one seeing these things] shall not pass, till all these things be done. (Mark 13:28 -30)

Notice how He refers to the shortness of the time, saying that when you begin to see the signs, you know that the persecuting heat of summer is near, and it will all come to pass within the same generation. In my last article, I showed how the last seven generations are delineated,^[7] and it is clear that an extension until 2031 would come well into a new generation.

If we take Hezekiah's measure for "shortened" time and apply it here, we see that a perfect harmony is achieved between this 1000-year-millennium timeline and Orion's 1008-year-millennium timeline,^[8] as the latter timeline ends in 2016, exactly fifteen years sooner than the 2031 end of the former timeline!

The Balm of Life

It would be wise, however, to obtain some confirmation that it is legitimate to make this application. As the story continues, we find the desired confirmation. God permitted a disproportionately generous sign to be given, that he would be healed:

And this shall be a sign unto thee from the LORD, that the LORD will do this thing that he hath spoken; Behold, I will bring again the shadow of the degrees, which is gone down in the sun dial of Ahaz, ten degrees backward. So the sun returned ten degrees, by which degrees it was gone down. (Isaiah 38:7-8)

The grand scale of this sign suggests that the healing of Hezekiah was a type for something of much greater significance than his personal health! Indeed, the fig balm that was given to Hezekiah represents "a very small remnant" who were entrusted with a healing message that treats the life-threatening illness of the sin in the church. It is about reformation of the character of His people, to prepare them for heaven. This is the culmination of salvation! God needs a people who will love Him more than anything, and would faithfully serve Him even if there were no future reward. The Reformation that began with Adam will not be completed until a generation rises that will take hold of God's promises of victory by faith and will stand for Him by the Holy Spirit.

Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy... (Jude 24)

This is the salvation that Jesus came to bring for His bride:

And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins. (Matthew 1:21)

Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it; That he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word, That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish. (Ephesians 5:25-27)

The thought of living without sin typically brings up thoughts of self-righteous extremists who think they are holier than everyone else. And this is certainly a danger. In fact, it was Hezekiah's fault as well, which we saw in his prayer when he pointed out all his good deeds to God. And God, wanting to reveal what was in his heart, gave him a tremendous sign, which didn't go unnoticed by those in a far country:

Howbeit in the business of the ambassadors of the princes of Babylon, who sent unto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him, to try him, that he might know all that was in his heart. (2 Chronicles 32:31)

But Hezekiah rendered not again according to the benefit done unto him; for his heart was lifted up: therefore there was wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jerusalem. (2 Chronicles 32:25)

Hezekiah's reforms were good, but they didn't go far enough, and they were to be cut off in a premature death. He needed a reform of character, and this would require a hard lesson. The remedy that brought healing was something only the Creator could produce: figs—a summer fruit of Israel. By this means, he was given the opportunity to be tested on his weak point, and in the experience of failure, he found humility:

Notwithstanding Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the LORD came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah. (2 Chronicles 32:26)

Only those individuals like Hezekiah, who regard the voice of God, and receive His healing balm in the message from Orion giving the day and the hour, will live to see Jesus return without seeing death. It is a message that like the fig, only the Creator could give, for it is written in the very heavens, and the experience that that message brings about is calculated to chisel and polish the character, point by point, until the beautiful reflection of Jesus is fully revealed in the jewel. They are tried in the fire.

For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch. But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings. (Malachi 4:1-2)

Those who fear His name receive that healing when Jesus, the Sun of Righteousness rises upon them. He is the heavenly luminary that dispels the shadows of darkness. Matthew records that when He went into Galilee, light sprung up upon those who “sat in the region and shadow of death.”^[9]

The Church in Time

In every age of history, God has had His church. This is illustrated in the letters to the seven churches of Revelation, which trace a geographical mail route, such that each successive church would receive their letter after the previous one. In addition to their literal delivery, the letters are prophetic of a sequence of time spans over the duration of Christianity, and describe the general attitude and relevant counsel appropriate for their respective periods. In addition to representing spans of time, the first four churches illustrate the stages of decline from pure doctrine that are found among His people, while the last three churches represent the prevailing attitudes in the church.

The middle of the three last churches of the mail route was Philadelphia, meaning “brotherly love,” and of this church, no word of reproof is given; only encouragement to continue overcoming. This church represents the faithful to whom Jesus says, “thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.” They are not strong, but by faith, they stand steadfast for Jesus. The 144,000 are of this church, and they are preserved alive through the hour of trial that comes upon the earth.

Next to this church on the one hand is Sardis, meaning “that which remains” and on the other hand is Laodicea, meaning “the judgment people.” These two churches are both given sharp rebukes, and it is evident that not many are worthy in them, for Jesus refers to the “few names even in Sardis,”^[10] and calls out to Laodicea, looking for individuals here and there, “if any man hear my voice.”^[11] The few from Sardis and Laodicea who respond to His call, by taking heed to His warnings, join the church of Philadelphia, which stands for Jesus by faith.

These two rebuked churches each suffer from different wrong attitudes. Jesus warns Laodicea that He will vomit them out of His mouth,

Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked: (Revelation 3:17)

And to Sardis, He warns that their incomplete reformation will prevent them from knowing the hour, such that He comes on them as a thief. He instructs them to watch, so that they might learn the time.

I have not found thy works perfect [complete] before God. Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:2-3)

The period of Christianity represented by Laodicea began in 1844 when the Great Advent Awakening came to its disappointing end at the beginning of the ongoing Day of Judgment when the heavenly court was seated. The Adventists that grew out of that experience were abundantly blessed by God, but like Hezekiah, that blessing became their downfall, as their pride led them to feel that they had need of nothing. Sadly, precious few among them have received the fig balm that was offered to them.

Sardis, being earlier in the mail route, represented an earlier period, beginning with the events that would support the Protestant Reformation of the Dark Ages. However, as the meaning of their name suggests (“that which remains”), there was something incomplete about their works. The Reformation never went far enough. It lingered in the shadows of anti-timesetting and never saw the light of the seventh-day Sabbath. Now is the time to come into the light! It's time for time.

Over the last five years, God has given an extensive and detailed message for the people of judgment (Laodicea)—one proportionate to the blessings they had received—so they could find their way to Philadelphia. But like those who were bidden to the wedding in Jesus’ parable, “they made light of it, and went their ways.”^[12] But just days ago, the Lord has given a much simpler message for those who have not had such great light, that they may be quickly brought to the wedding to fill the vacancies! The Lord has chosen a unique medium on which to convey His last messages: time! Together with the clocks that have already been revealed, this new message brings the total to seven clocks that have been identified, each with their own purpose and significance. Just in time for the end, the series is complete.

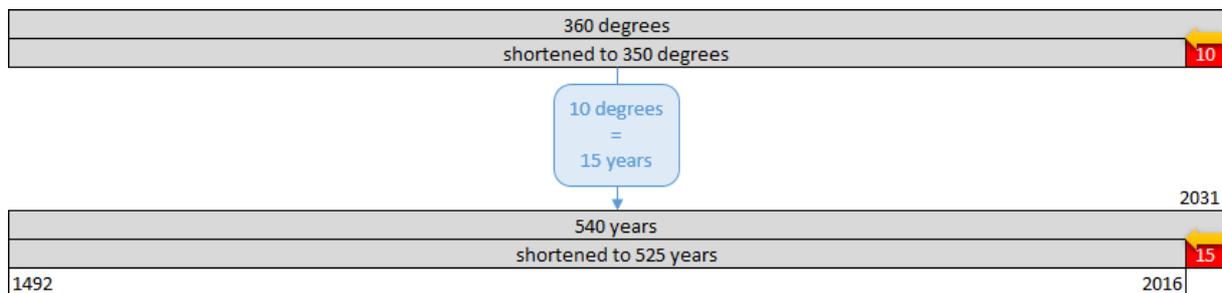

Lighting the World with Reformation

The sign that Hezekiah would be healed and live out his remaining fifteen years was shown in a change of 10 degrees of the shadow around the sundial that his father had built. God gave him the option of whether the shadow should go forward or backward, but the amount was fixed at 10 degrees.

Thus, a relationship is established that a shadow movement of 10 degrees corresponds to 15 years of life. Herein lies the beautiful and simple message. It is a message for those who sit in the shadows of the failed Reformation, unable to receive the full light of the Fourth Angel’s Message of Revelation 18. But if we “Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning,”^[13] we will expose ourselves to His light, which will complete the reformation that fell short in our lives. And symbolically speaking, in order for the whole earth to be lightened with the glory of the Sun of Righteousness, it must pass through a full 360-degree rotation. The shortening of the time for reformation by 15 years (from 2031 to 2016) therefore corresponds to a reduction of ten degrees from a full revolution.

Notice, however, that this also leads us to the beginning of the symbolic lightening of the dark earth of the Middle Ages by using the same scale for the remaining 350 degrees. This simple calculation gives a revealing result. Fifteen years for every ten degrees is equivalent to one and a half years per degree, and extending this over the 350 remaining degrees gives us 525 years for the shortened cycle, ending in 2016. Thus, with inclusive counting, we calculate the beginning as follows:

$$2016 - 525 + 1 \text{ (because it is inclusive of the last year)} = 1492$$

Many books on world history explain that the roots of our modern world reach back to that pivotal year of AD 1492!^[14] That is the year that Christopher Columbus found the Americas, which eventually opened the way for Europeans to escape the religious oppression of their homeland. In that year, by authority of the Spanish Inquisition, the 200,000 Jews living in Spain were expelled from the nation after it became united under Christian rule.^[15]

The New World is identified in prophecy as “earth” for its lack of waters, which represent large populations.^[16] And just as the Bible describes the earth as being a refuge for those persecuted by the church during the long period of papal reign,^[17] so the New World became a safe haven in later years for those who were able to escape the religious persecution that Protestants faced in Europe.

The discovery of America opened the way for Protestants—the fruit of Martin Luther’s

Reformation—to peacefully live according to their consciences. The process of restoration of Christianity to its former purity was given a great impetus as a result. Luther’s famous 95 Theses against the sale of indulgences (what we might call “excuses for sin” today) is a fitting symbol for the overarching reformation and recovery from sin that God was bringing to fruition as typified by the fig balm that healed King Hezekiah’s terminal illness.

To Reform or Not to Reform

Be sure that the devil does not remain idle in the face of reformation from sin! A counter-reformation was implemented by the Catholic Church not long after the Protestant Reformation had begun. One religious order known as the Society of Jesus was a major service to this purpose. It was founded by Ignatius Loyola, who was born on October 23, 1491, not long after Yom Kippur (the Day of Atonement), which in Jewish reckoning, places it in the very year that the Reformation timeline began! He was a nobleman with a military background whose “devotion to the Catholic Church was characterized by absolute obedience to the Pope.”^[18]

The Jesuits, as members of this order are known, are strongly committed to this absolute obedience to the Pope and their superiors, such that they liken themselves to mere corpses, having no will of their own contrary to their superiors. Consider, then, what it means that the current pope is a Jesuit! Who is the superior to whom he gives absolute obedience, rendering his body as a corpse in possession of that superior? The answer is clear if you are willing to hear it.

Pope Francis has united all religions under himself, including the Waldensians and Adventists, and this month, he will have all nations united under him as he addresses the UN General Assembly and inaugurates the New World Order.

Don’t wait for a Sunday Law, because it will be too late if you do. National apostasy has already been accomplished through the twin institution since June 26! Satan’s counter to the Reformation timeline began with the birth of Loyola, was executed most effectively by his order of the Jesuits, and is in these last moments of shortened time, successfully concluded by Satan himself, in person using the corpse of Bergoglio, which was offered to him through the Jesuit oath.

The Reformation timeline showing the fifteen-year shortening reveals that there is indeed a characteristic exactness in God’s word, and it harmonizes the Orion timelines with the 7000-year timeline of sin. It shows how modern history leads to the lightening of the whole earth with God’s glory. That lightening is from the Fourth Angel’s Message.

The Wisdom to Understand the Number 666

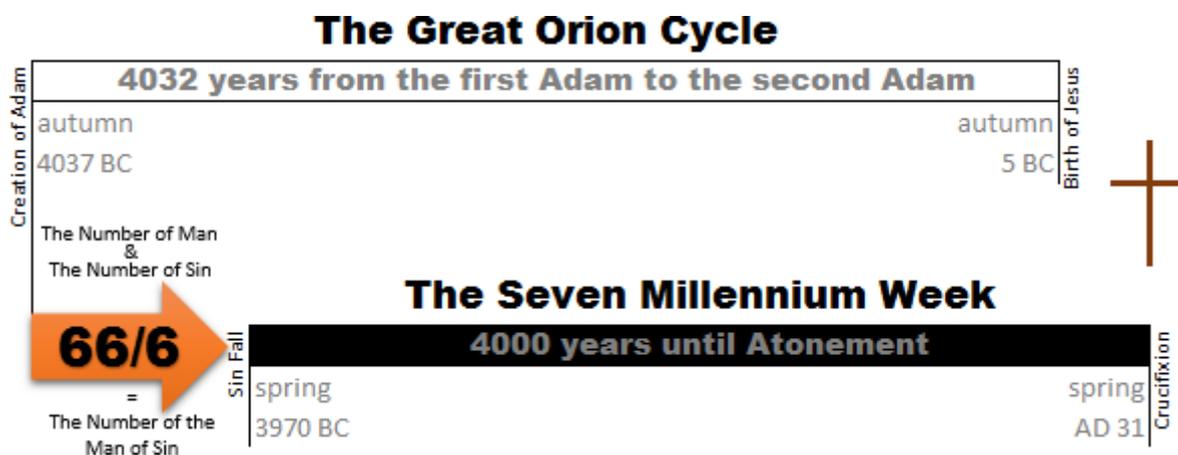

The astute student may recognize that the beginning of the Orion timeline is different than the 7000-year timeline and question how they harmonize at the beginning. The answer is in what they point to. In Christmas 2.0, we talk about its beginning at Creation, while the beginning of the 7000-year timeline is not creation, but the entrance of sin! As quoted earlier,

He, the spotless Lamb of God, was about to present Himself as a sin offering, that He would thus bring to an end the system of types and ceremonies [beginning with the first sacrifices that clothed Adam and Eve] that for four thousand years had pointed to His death.

The beginning of sin was 4000 years before the crucifixion of Jesus in the spring of AD 31, while Creation was 4032 years before His birth in the autumn of 5 BC. That places Creation in the autumn of 4037 BC and the entrance of sin in the spring of 3970 BC. Adam, therefore, would have been 66 years and 6 months old. And now we understand the number of the man:

Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six. (Revelation 13:18)

The man is Adam (whose name in its original Hebrew, means “man”), and his number is 666, because it represents the time when sin first gained the ascendancy over man. It is described as “the number of his name”^[19] because that number represents the power of sin over man, which describes the character (or name) of the beast. It is the antithesis of salvation, for in Christ, we have victory over sin, such that it has no more power over us. But those who do not experience victory, have the number of the beast. May the message of the Fourth Angel serve as your fig balm, as you massage it into your wounds and let it complete the reformation from sin in your life in short order.

Will you be among the 144,000 (as mentioned in the very next verse, Revelation 14:1) who have the wisdom to understand that Adam's age of 66 years and 6 months ultimately confirms the Orion Clock and that the End of Time has arrived? Will you be among the wise (mentioned in Daniel 12:3) who “shall shine as the brightness of the firmament” and “turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever”?

The LastCountdown is one of many ministries and organizations who claim to have the light of the Fourth Angel or the fellowship of the 144,000, but as the table in Appendix A indicates, the others do not fulfill all of the criteria. We have not set ourselves up in this position, but everyone involved in this ministry serves because at some point, they realized that this message is indeed the true message of the Fourth Angel, and they took action on that belief. Will you, too, come out of the shadows and allow yourself to be lightened with His glory?

Appendix B: Explanatory remarks for table in Appendix A

LastCountdown.org fulfills the criteria for bearing the Fourth Angel's message as follows:

1. It comes from heaven. (Rev. 18:1) {EW 277.1} ✓ The message literally comes from heaven because the seven stars of Orion are in the heavens (sky), and it is even the part of the sky where Heaven itself is located (where God is). This is a clearer fulfillment than any other claim to a message of heavenly origin, such as dreams, visions, or miracles—which are largely unverifiable.
2. It comes to unite in voice with the third angel's message. {EW 277.1} ✓ It came to unite with the third angel's message as preached by Adventism.
3. It gives power and force to the third angel's message. {EW 277.1} ✓ It re-examines the third angel's message in detail, proving the points in question and amplifying the message in light of present world events.
4. It repeats the message of the fall of Babylon. (Rev. 18:2) {EW 277.1} ✓ See Babylon Is Fallen!
5. It includes the corruptions that have entered the churches since 1844. {EW 277.1} ✓ The Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time both point out the corruptions that have entered since 1844.
6. It prepares the people of God to stand in the hour of temptation. {EW 277.1} ✓ The message does this by alerting to the dangers that exist and meeting the challenges with the word of God.
7. It seems to be an addition to the third angel's message. {EW 277.2} ✓ It adds many, many new insights into the old truths, thus it seems to be an addition. Seeming to be an addition means that it is not all contained in the existing writings of the Bible and Spirit of Prophecy. This is fulfilled by drawing upon additional books that were written by God (the Book of Seven Seals and the Book of Seven Thunders).
8. It must be a time message including the day and hour of Jesus' coming. {EW 14.1} ✓ See Miller's Mistake.
9. It is the message of the latter rain, the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. {EW 14.1} ✓ This is evidenced by the fact that the Holy Spirit, which guides into all truth and shows things to come, has bestowed so much light that it has required thousands of pages just to share it, without being exhaustive (because it is inexhaustible!).
10. It causes faces to light up and shine with the glory of God. {EW 14.1} ✓ This has been demonstrated in the followers of the movement, who have been inspired with a depth of love for God that exceeds any earthly ties or sacrifices.
11. It must be the sealing message of the 144,000. {EW 15.1} ✓ High Sabbath Adventists who are sealed in the message of the LastCountdown ministry can understand and decipher the special seal of the 144,000 (Revelation 3:12).
12. It must have something to do with the New Jerusalem. {EW 15.1} ✓ High Sabbath Adventists understand a special characteristic of the New Jerusalem.
13. It must have something to do with the new name of Jesus. {EW 15.1} ✓ The new name of Jesus is explained in the Orion presentation, slide 162.

14. It is the refreshing from the presence of the Lord. {EW 279.1} ✓ This message is the refreshing, because it revitalizes the old truths of Adventism, and it comes from the presence of the Lord literally, from Orion.
15. It is the loud cry of the third angel. {RH November 22, 1892, par. 7} ✓ The Orion message includes the third angel's message, but "louder."
16. It began with the righteousness of Christ in 1888. {1888 1073.7} ✓ The message of Jones and Waggoner at the Minneapolis GC Session in 1888 was the beginning with the righteousness that the 144,000 must have, later augmented by the Last Generation Theology of M.L. Andreasen that showed the duty of the 144,000, and completed now with an understanding of the consequences that would result if the 144,000 would not perform that duty.
17. It is no soft, smooth message. {1888 1015.3} ✓ Quite the contrary, it points out the sins in the church and in the individual; it is a message of rebuke and chastisement (as the message to Laodicea) which nobody wants to hear.
18. Its words are calculated to stir hearts to their very depths. {1888 1015.3} ✓ It reaches the depth of the heart by touching the most valuable thing any heart could ever cherish: eternal life, which Jesus willingly yielded as part of His spotless character, and as the 144,000 must also be willing to do for others if necessary.
19. It fulfills William Miller's dream. {EW 48.2} ✓ See William Miller's Treasure.
20. Souls die for want of it. {EW 49.1} ✓ Time and time again, we receive e-mails from people expressing their sadness that their local churches are not teaching this message, and are prevented from studying it by their local pastors, who censor and denounce it.
21. It is present truth. {EW 49.1} ✓ It could hardly be more present, as it takes into account the most important events that are presently transpiring in the world.
22. It is to be supported with God's own money (the tithe). {EW 49.3} ✓ Since this ministry meets all the criteria, tithes should be given to it, according to the angel in this particular vision of Ellen White.
23. Those who withhold from supporting it will not be in heaven. {EW 50.1} ✓ This message is salvational for this generation—for the 144,000—who must keep all the commandments. If one believes the message, then withholding tithe from its messengers would be robbing God, which would be breaking the commandments and that person would lose salvation.
24. It is the mighty shaking. {EW 50.3} ✓ By its testing truths, it shakes every one whom it comes in contact with. A person will either reject the truth and is thus shaken out of God's true church, or they will accept it and be refined (cleansed) by it and become members of God's true church. This process happens more than once for the same person, as they encounter more points of truth.
25. It involves freewill sacrifice. {EW 50.3} ✓ Indeed, it requires sacrificing all (as the angel in Ellen White's vision indicated, by alluding to the parable of the treasure in the field). The sacrifice is the willingness to offer one's eternal life, not to mention this earthly life or anything in it, if necessary.
26. It is the straight testimony. {EW 270.2} ✓ It is straight, meaning direct, coming straight from Jesus in Orion, from a book of God's creation that is unadulterated by human hands.

27. It is called forth by the counsel of the True Witness to the Laodiceans. {EW 270.2} ✓ The True Witness is Jesus, who is in Orion, and His counsel to Laodicea was to buy gold tried in the fire, eye-salve, etc. These precious things are to be purchased from Jesus Himself. All of the “gold” of the Orion Message was purchased (obtained) from Jesus whose image is represented by Orion.
28. It comes as suddenly as the midnight cry. {1EGWLM 333.1} ✓ The LastCountdown message is urgent and time-sensitive, like the midnight cry, and appeared suddenly (thousands of pages of intensive material since 2010).
29. It comes with ten times the power. {1EGWLM 333.1} ✓ The midnight cry was about a single date for a single event. The Orion Message is so much more extensive in its scope and depth that “ten times” is really an understatement (but it is stated so in reference to William Miller’s dream). Ten is also the number of the Law of God, which alludes to the 144,000 who will keep it, and to this message which specifically deals with the Law (see Babylon Is Fallen! – Part II).
30. It goes forth in the spirit and power of Elijah. {EW 155.1} ✓ See Fire at Mount Carmel.
31. It heralds the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus. {EW 155.1} ✓ The two biggest dates that we have been proclaiming are October 25, 2015 for the Wrath of God, and October 24, 2016 for the second advent of Jesus. This ministry literally heralds the “day” (or date) of these events.
32. It will be contrary to human planning. {LDE 203.3} ✓ This is strikingly accurate, as you can see by how the message has developed over time. Nobody could have planned for the message to develop in the way it did, and it has been positively contrary to how humans would plan. For one example, human nature is to avoid setting dates in order to avoid disappointment, yet this movement has set many dates and has grown in faith instead.
33. It will be in an unusual manner. {LDE 203.3} ✓ The way the message is brought out of clocks in the heavens is indeed unusual.
34. It will be by simple means. {LDE 203.3} ✓ The means of LastCountdown.org has been very simple: articles on a web page, shared via social media.

The Catholic Church...

- ...repeats the message of the fall of Babylon? ✗ To the contrary, it is certainly not announcing its own first fall, much less any second fall.

Muhammad’s message (Islam):

- ...came from heaven? ! He supposedly received revelations from God, but there is no evidence to support the claim, which means the message might have just as well come from the demons of hell instead of an angel from heaven. Comparing the Quran with the Bible readily reveals that the message did not come from heaven.

The teachings of Judaism:

- ...came from heaven? ✓ In the sense that God appeared to Israel on Mt. Sinai and established his covenant with them and showed them many signs and wonders, it could be said that their message was of heavenly origin. However, they rejected the Bread of Life (the true manna from heaven, Jesus Christ).

- ...prepare the people of God to stand in the hour of temptation? ❌ The fall of Jerusalem in 70 A.D. is proof that Judaism (without Christ) could not prepare the people of God to stand the trials they were faced with.

Jehovah's Witnesses have a message that...

- ...comes from heaven? ❌ To the contrary, they claim to base their beliefs solely on the Bible.^[20] While the Bible is the inspired Word of God, it was written by holy men of God on earth. They do not claim a message from heaven any more than any other Bible-based church does.
- ...is the sealing message of the 144,000? ✅ They are known for their doctrines concerning the 144,000.^[21] Unfortunately, their teachings are not all correct, most basically that they believe the 144,000 experience death and do not necessarily belong to the last generation of mankind.
- ...involves freewill sacrifice? ❌ They teach that the requirement for obtaining the heavenly hope is to remain faithful until death. That is a basic expectation of all Christians, and does not constitute any special sacrifice.

Joseph Smith, the founder of Mormonism, had a message that...

- ...came from heaven? ⚠️ He supposedly received golden plates from an angel, which he supposedly translated to English. There is no evidence to support this, which means the message might have just as well come from the demons of hell instead of an angel from heaven.
- ...was the sealing message of the 144,000? ❌ He had no such sealing message, but Mormons are known for their practice of "sealing" spouses and children in the belief that doing so preserves their relationship into the afterlife. That idea contradicts the sayings of Jesus in Matthew 22:23-30. Although Mormons are known for their family values, the practice of polygamy (for which Joseph Smith was killed) still betrays the impurity of their faith. Mormons today still practice sealing to multiple partners, meaning that they not only believe there will be marriage in the afterlife, but that polygamy (for men and women) will be possible in the afterlife as well. That has nothing in common with the sealing message of the 144,000.

Worldwide Church of God and founder Herbert W. Armstrong has a message that...

- ...comes to unite in voice with the third angel's message? ❌ Quite the contrary, after its founder's death, this church gave up Sabbath-keeping (one element of the third angel's message) and was decimated under successive leadership.
- ...is the message of the latter rain, the outpouring of the Holy Spirit? ⚠️ He taught that the Church of God was the result of the Holy Spirit's leading, yet in the wake of his death the church was scattered. That shows that the unifying factor was not the Holy Spirit, but the personality of its founder. Despite the fact that he taught many correct things, one of the clearest arguments that he lacked the Holy Spirit is the fact that he personally chose his successor, who destroyed his church.
- ...is the sealing message of the 144,000? ⚠️ He reasoned that the name of God on the forehead was a reference to the name "Church of God" and that the 144,000 were literal descendants of Israel.^[22] That is a false idea known as British Israelism, which teaches that people of Western and Northern European descent are part of the ten lost tribes of Israel.

The Seventh-day Adventist Church has a message that...

- ...comes to unite in voice with the third angel's message? ❌ It claims to be spreading the third angel's message, which would mean it cannot be uniting with it as if it were a separate message.
- ...repeats the message of the fall of Babylon? ❌ Ever since it united with the ecumenical movement, it has not officially been preaching about the fall of Babylon at all. When it did preach it, it was only continuing to preach the same second angel's message that began in the 1840's, and not a new repetition of it.
- ...causes faces to light up and shine with the glory of God? ❌ Sadly, after being inspired by the truth and led to the church, sincere converts are often disappointed to find that the church is in a fallen condition. That has the opposite effect of causing their faces to shine.
- ...must be the sealing message of the 144,000? ⚠️ It holds that the Sabbath is the seal of God, but does not recognize any other seal especially for the 144,000. Furthermore, it betrays God by desecrating God's order in the institution of marriage, which it teaches is twin to the Sabbath, by appointing women as pastors.
- ...is to be supported with God's own money (the tithe)? ⚠️ It claims to be the only "storehouse" for God's tithe, but it misuses the tithe. Each person is individually responsible to make sure their tithe is used correctly.
- ...is called forth by the counsel of the True Witness to the Laodiceans? ❌ It proudly claims to be the last church of Revelation, Laodicea, which means it cannot be the one bearing the message to itself. Only those who were called forth (or called out) of the Laodicean condition could bear the message.
- ...came as suddenly as the midnight cry? ❌ It has been over 168 years in the making, not coming suddenly.

Ellen G. White's message...

- ...came from heaven? ✅ She received visions and was a prophetess according to the Biblical tests, so it could at least be said that her message came from heaven in that sense.
- ...gives power and force to the third angel's message? ❌ Her role as the Spirit of Prophecy was understood to be the reason why the power and strength of a time message was not needed. ^[23]
- ...was a time message including the day and hour of Jesus' coming? ❌ She saw in vision that a time message would come, but as mentioned in the above point and in the associated footnote, she herself had no time message.

President of the SDA Church, Ted Wilson's message of Revival and Reformation...

- ...seems to be an addition to the third angel's message? ❌ It does not go beyond the third angel's message. In fact, it only does lip service, and even takes away from the third angel's message (for example, in the promulgation of the Great Hope).
- ...is the message of the latter rain, the outpouring of the Holy Spirit? ⚠️ Ted Wilson's programs clearly claim to be soliciting the latter rain, but the evidence speaks for itself. Since he took office, the church has become strongly polarized and nearly split over the issue of women's ordination, yet there is absolutely no resolution in sight. That is not unity in the Spirit.

- ...is no soft, smooth message? ❌ Quite the contrary...it is all soft and smooth! Ted Wilson's lamb-like demeanor and careful word choices keep him in favor with conservatives while he works to facilitate his hidden wolves' agendas. His mouth is the epitome of those whitewashed sepulchers that Jesus said look good outwardly, but inside they are full of dead men's bones.
- ...is the straight testimony? ❌ He can weasel his way out of offending anyone with his words no matter what the situation is (for example, how he slithered through the sexuality summit in 2014). That is the opposite of speaking a straight, direct message like Jesus does.
- ...is contrary to human planning? ❌ His programs are very much in line with human (and even worldly) planning. For example, closing the Review & Herald printing facility was very much a human business planning decision.

Doug Batchelor's Amazing Facts ministry sends a message that...

- ...includes the corruptions that have entered the churches since 1844? ❌ Like many others, Amazing Facts does not speak critically of the church. It tries to fulfill its self-description as "a Christian media ministry dedicated to sharing the gospel of Jesus Christ and the three angels' message of Revelation 14" without mentioning the corruptions that have entered the churches since 1844.

Walter Veith's Amazing Discoveries ministry sends a message that...

- ...repeats the message of the fall of Babylon? ❌ Quite the contrary. His advice is to glue one's bottom to the church pews of Laodicea, no matter how bad it has gotten. That is the opposite of a call to come out of Babylon.
- ...is present truth? ❌ In the unique time when a Jesuit has ascended to the so-called throne of St. Peter, Walter Veith plays down present-day fulfillment of prophecy. He does exactly what he says that the Jesuits do: he puts the fulfillment of prophecy either in the past or future, but not in the present.

Stephen Bohr's Secrets Unsealed ministry sends a message that...

- ...is the mighty shaking? ❌ He does not even claim to be preaching the Fourth Angel's message, and therefore like other ministries which only spread the third angel's message, its effect falls short of anything that could be considered a mighty shaking.

Three Angels Broadcasting Network sends a message that...

- ...is by simple means? ❌ It involves expensive broadcasting equipment and satellite contracts.

The Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement sends a message that...

- ...repeats the message of the fall of Babylon? ⚠️ Until recently, they held that the "big church" had fallen and they were the new remnant from whom the rest of the 144,000 would come. However, they have recently mended their relationship with the Seventh-day Adventist Church, which means they are no longer officially criticizing them.

- ...began with the righteousness of Christ in 1888? ❌ It teaches that the 144,000 include Adventists throughout their entire lineage as a church from the time the Sabbath was recognized in 1846 onward. Their message did not begin in 1888.
- ...comes with ten times the power? ❌ Not in any respect.

Andrew Henriques (Saved To Serve) has a message that...

- ...is a time message including the day and hour of Jesus' coming? ❌ He is against time-setting.
- ...heralds the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus? ⚠️ Although he speaks about these two events sometimes, he cannot herald those events because he does not know when they will happen, since he does not have a time message.

Hugo Gambetta has a message that...

- ...came in an unusual manner? ❌ Like many other good preachers, his message has not come in any unusual manner.

Bill Hughes has a message that...

- ...souls die for want of it? ❌ Like many preachers who preach some amount of truth, the message they have is not uniquely salvational. In other words, the message is available from other sources.

Ernie & Becky Knoll (For My People) has a message that...

- ...comes from heaven? ⚠️ On the one hand, his dreams do come partly from God which would meet the criterion of coming from heaven in that sense, but unfortunately his dreams are also contaminated with human revisions (documented) in addition to what is likely to be input from satanic sources (for example, that God can do whatever he wants including restore the powers to Jesus that He sacrificed when He was incarnated).
- ...comes to unite in voice with the third angel's message? ✅
- ...gives power and force to the third angel's message? ❌ Clearly not. Things have not happened the way he dreamt they would, and therefore his credibility as a prophet is slim and his ministry adds very little power and force to the third angel's message, if any.

The Day of the Demon

The flooding of Europe with refugees has become a situation so divisive that it has been questioned whether this will mark “the downfall of the European Union.”^[1] The refugees are not poor, docile victims. The majority of them are young men from Syria who have demonstrated their intent to storm Europe by force, which means they are actually better described as an unorganized army than as refugees or immigrants. Furthermore, they are coming primarily from Syria, the home of the ISIS headquarters.

Is it not strange? Does it not sound like a barbaric plan to take advantage of Western compassion (or even basic morality) just to turn around and execute their jihad?^[2]

The 200 Million Man Army

In fact, this is a big part of the sixth trumpet of Revelation, where an unheard-of 200-million-man army is foretold:

And the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: and I heard the number of them. (Revelation 9:16)

To put that in perspective, the largest army in the world is 1% of that size, and all the armies of the world combined are still only 10% of that size! No nation could afford the cost and infrastructure of a 200-million-man army, but radical Islam fits the bill perfectly:

The percentage of Muslims who are Islamists is hotly debated, and there is no single way to measure it. But when the dust settles, the number of Muslims who approve of the use of violence against innocent civilians to establish Islamic law appears to be at least 10-15% worldwide . . .

These are people who believe in jihad—not the peaceful spiritual journey non-Muslims are led to believe the Koran promotes, but the physical attack of those who do not worship Allah, and the forcible takeover of non-Muslim governments. These things are commanded in the Koran:

Muslim (1:33) – “...the Messenger of Allah said: I have been commanded to fight against people till they testify that there is no god but Allah, that Muhammad is the messenger of Allah.”

Quran (8:12) – “I will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve. Therefore strike off their heads and strike off every fingertip of them.”

Quran (9:5) – “So when the sacred months have passed away, then slay the idolaters wherever you find them, and take them captives and besiege them and lie in wait for them in every ambush, then if they repent and keep up prayer and pay the poor-rate, leave their way free to them.”^[3]

The author of the above research goes on to calculate how many of the 1.6 billion Muslims in the world are “committed to a literal, violent jihad” based on the 10–15%: it is 160 to 240 million—an estimated range that centers right on the 200 million figure of Bible prophecy! John the Revelator heard the number of the army, and now you have heard it too.

A very appropriate illustration is also given in that article:

ISIS and the Fire-Ant Strategy

To understand how something as statistically small as ISIS could have a measurable impact on the world, we can look to another little guy that packs a big punch: the fire-ant.

Most of the time, a bite from an ant is little more than an annoyance. This is because an individual ant can't inflict that much damage. Even if you happen to step into a nest of biting ants, you are quickly alerted to your mistake by the first sting or two, at which time you promptly:

Brush the other ants off of you, and Move out of harm's way.

Fire-ants, however, are unique in their battle strategy. They swarm their victim, often covering an entire leg or arm before it knows what's happening. Then, with each little ant in place, a signal goes out: bite.

And they do, all at once, enabling them to take down prey thousands of times their size. Any human who has suffered an attack from a fire-ant swarm will tell you that it's no laughing matter.

This is the strategy of ISIS, and of the spirit of jihad. This is why the size of ISIS itself doesn't matter. What is prophesied to be “unbound” from the river Euphrates (the home of ISIS) is a strong spiritual force— four angels released to kill, kill, kill. It is this common spirit that will stir up, inspire, and drive the 200-million-man army.

In short, the force of ISIS is inspiration— inspiring terror in their enemies; murder and hate in their supporters...and doing it all with the simplicity of a message. A single message to kill...^[4]

We will tell you later in this article exactly what that message is, and when the killing will begin.

The Fall of Troy

The 200-million-man army of the sixth trumpet is described as an army of horsemen:

And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire and smoke and brimstone. (Revelation 9:17)

Historically, many Protestants saw the sixth trumpet prophecy fulfilled by the Turks near the end of the Medieval Period. It is important to understand past applications of the prophecy, because they provide a basis upon which we can build an accurate modern interpretation. Josiah Litch, who is remembered for accurately predicting the fall of the Ottoman Empire based on the sixth trumpet of Revelation, identified the four angels who were loosened from the Euphrates as follows:

They refer to the four nations of the Seljukian Turks of which the Ottoman empire was composed, located near the river Euphrates, at Aleppo, Iconium, Damascus and Bagdat.^[5]

In the same vein, the SDA Bible Commentary remarks on the description of the horses as follows:

Fire and smoke and brimstone. The same things that appeared to clothe the cavalymen also come forth from the mouths of their horses. . . Expositors who identify the sixth trumpet with the ravages of the Ottoman Turks see in the “fire and smoke and brimstone” a reference to the use of gunpowder and firearms, introduced about this time. They point out that the discharge of a musket by a mounted cavalryman could make it appear from a distance as if fire were coming out of the horse’s mouth.^[6]

The description of the horses was interpreted as an illustration of the method of the Turks’ warfare. We should follow that line of thinking in the modern context as well. Horses have not been used in cavalry charges since the introduction of the machine gun, but that does not mean the prophecy has lost its relevance. The word of God is alive and in force, and therefore we must understand the use of horses in this prophecy as symbolic of the method of attack that will occur in our day. It will not be a literal cavalry charge, but it must have something to do with horses and Turks.

What could the horse have to do with the present influx of refugees threatening to bring down the European Union? Remember the fall of the ancient city of Troy! It involved a great horse, and archaeologists generally agree that ancient Troy was located in what is now modern-day Turkey. Thus the historical interpretation of this prophecy provided the clues we needed: it’s about the horse connected with the Turks.

After years of besieging the city of Troy, the Greeks decided to change their tactics. They built a large wooden horse, an animal sacred to the Trojans, and left it to the city of Troy with the following inscription:

The Greeks dedicate this thank-offering to Athena for their return home.^[148] ^[7]

In essence, the Greeks pretended to be leaving the war, thankful for its end, much like the current refugees are purported to be fleeing from war and seeking a home of rest.

However, the Greeks had hidden their best warriors inside the hollow horse, much like the militant spirit of violent Islam is hidden in the hearts of many of Europe's newcomers. They might not even realize it, but it is part of their programming. The refugees themselves are Trojan Horses which outwardly claim to represent a departure from the scene of war, but inside they are militants ready to take down the nations that are welcoming them.

Interestingly, there was a sharp division in the city of Troy regarding what to do with the horse:

Some thought they ought to hurl it down from the rocks, others thought they should burn it, while others said they ought to dedicate it to Athena.^{[152][153]} ^[8]

That is reflected in the sharp polarization of Europe regarding how to handle the refugees! Well, you know how the ancient story turned out, and in this article you will also learn how the refugee crisis will turn out... and when.

Covetousness

Christian compassion and tolerance has a way of making decent people feel obligated to do good things for people who positively don't deserve it. For example, one might reason: "What if I were fleeing from a war-torn country? If I follow the golden rule of doing to others as I would want them to do to me, then shouldn't I help a refugee?"

Certainly it depends on the individual! The fallacy in unconditional compassion is in thinking that the refugees are all basically decent people like yourself. The reality is that the majority of them are people who disregard the most basic law of God, the Ten Commandments, which ends with the following:

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.
(Exodus 20:17)

The refugees and their supporters are demanding homes for them.^[9] If you open your doors to comply with a demand, it is no longer an act of goodwill on your part, nor is there appreciation on the part of the one who is making the demand. It is the blatant sin of coveting "thy neighbor's house" and even borderlines on stealing.

Are you aware that refugees are also raping girls and women, from the native population as well as from the refugee populations within the camps?^[10] There are wrongs on so many levels, including coveting "thy neighbor's wife." What else are the refugees coveting? Services? Jobs? Transportation? Personal goods?

Would you storm your neighbor's home and take your neighbor's things by force? I hope not! But that is what makes the difference between innocent refugees and Islamic jihadists! Furthermore, those who defend covetousness and make legal provision for others to take what is not theirs are working directly against God's law. Some people who do that appear to be very good Christians on the outside, with very white clothes, but that does not change the fact that they are acting against God and His Law. We are standing on the threshold of the wrath of God as described in the seven last plagues of Revelation, and this is no time to be wavering in regard to God's law!

Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son. If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed: For he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds. (2 John 1:9-11)

ISLAM IS NOT THE DOCTRINE OF CHRIST!!!

Another Approach

While the story of the Trojan Horse is relevant through the Islamic connection, there is another piece of history that is relevant through the papal connection. Isn't it interesting who is encouraging open doors to the refugees? Do you find it even slightly odd that Pope Francis is also welcoming a refugee family? Do you sense the Jesuit intrigue? What we are seeing today is a repeat of the Piedmont Easter of the Waldensians. Pope Francis even brought that topic to the forefront of the attention when he apologized to the Waldensians earlier this year.

As it happened in history,

By mid-April [1655], when it became clear that the Duke's efforts to force the Vaudois [Waldensians] to conform to Catholicism had failed, he tried another approach. Under the guise of false reports of Vaudois uprisings, the Duke sent troops into the upper valleys to quell the local populace. He required that the local populace quarter the troops in their homes, which the local populace complied with. But the quartering order was a ruse to allow the troops easy access to the populace. On 24 April 1655, at 4 a.m., the signal was given for a general massacre.

The Catholic forces did not simply slaughter the inhabitants. They are reported to have unleashed an unprovoked campaign of looting, rape, torture, and murder. . . ^[11]

Do you see the parallel? By his influential example, Pope Francis urges the local populations of Europe to accommodate the refugee militia in their homes, AGAINST THE TEACHING OF 2 JOHN 1:9-11 (ABOVE), and generally they have been complying—willingly or not. That is just like what the Duke of Savoy did on behalf of Catholicism 360 years ago, and now we've come full circle. He might have apologized with his lips, but with his actions he is doing the very same thing that was done back then! Actions speak louder than words!

Don't you see that Islam is the other side of Catholicism? One wears white, the other wears black—but both are part of the same yin-yang. If you have not done so already, please educate yourself on the Vatican origin of the Islamic religion by watching this video: The Islamic Connection (1.5 hours).

On a specific date at a specific time, a signal was given for a "general massacre." That corresponds to the sixth trumpet, which deals with the specific hour, month, day and year for to slay:

And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men. (Revelation 9:15)

The army is taking up residence in Europe’s spare room, and they have already shown that they are capable of looting, rape and other crimes. They are already prepared by their religion to accomplish a general massacre. They are only waiting for the signal... but what will be the signal, and when?

Know Your Foe

The 200-million-man army of violent Islamists, as noted earlier, get their license to do violence directly from the Quran. To understand what is going on, we need to gain a little bit of familiarity with the Islamic religion and its main sects. The following quote of the so-called “sword verse” from the Quran was included above, but I quote it again from Wikipedia, which gives two different translations:

Marmaduke Pickthall, The Meaning of the Glorious Koran (1930)

“Then, when the sacred months have passed, slay the idolaters wherever ye find them, and take them (captive), and besiege them, and prepare for them each ambush. But if they repent and establish worship and pay the poor-due, then leave their way free. Lo! Allah is Forgiving, Merciful”

Abdullah Yusuf Ali, The Holy Qur’an (1934)

“But when the forbidden months are past, then fight and slay the Pagans wherever ye find them, and seize them, beleaguer them, and lie in wait for them in every stratagem (of war); but if they repent, and establish regular prayers and practice regular charity, then open the way for them: for Allah is Oft-forgiving, Most Merciful.”^[12]

The key to understanding the trigger event for the coming massacre is in the “sacred” or “forbidden” months. If you search for the “sacred months of Islam” using Google, it offers the following answer taken from Wikipedia’s article on the Islamic calendar:

Four of the twelve Hijri months are considered sacred: Rajab (7), and the three consecutive months of Dhu al-Qa’dah (11), Dhu al-Hijjah (12) and Muharram (1). So called because battle and all kind of fighting is forbidden (haram) during this month. Muharram includes the Day of Ashura.^[13]

At first glance, one can already infer that the “sacred months” must refer to the 11th, 12th, and 1st months of the year, because they are consecutive. That seems to be confirmed by the alternate translation of “forbidden months,” which includes a reference to the 1st month (the last in the sequence), Muharram, which is so named because fighting is forbidden. Furthermore, we are even given a little hint that there is a special day within the month of Muharram that stands out: the Day of Ashura.

It is one thing to read the Quran text which says to fight after the months are past, and it is another thing to understand how the text is applied in Islamic culture by different groups.

Sunni and Shia Islam are the two major denominations of Islam. The demographic breakdown between the two denominations is difficult to assess and varies by source, but a good approximation is that 85–90% of the world’s Muslims are Sunni and 10–15% are Shia.

The historic background of the Sunni–Shia split lies in the schism that occurred when the Islamic prophet Muhammad died in the year 632, leading to a dispute over succession to Muhammad as a caliph of the Islamic community spread across various parts of the world, which led to the Battle of Siffin. The dispute intensified greatly after the Battle of Karbala, in which Hussein ibn Ali and his household were killed by the ruling Umayyad Caliph Yazid I, and the outcry for revenge divided the early Islamic community.^[14]

As it turns out, the Day of Ashura is precisely the holiday on which Shias remember the death of Hussein ibn Ali to express their “outcry for revenge.” One way in which they do so is by cutting themselves^[15] like the prophets of Baal to show their devotion and how ready they would be to defend Hussein, if only they had been on that historic scene to do so.

These religious customs show solidarity with Husayn and his family. Through them, people mourn Husayn’s death and regret the fact that they were not present at the battle to fight and save Husayn and his family.^[16]

On the other side, Sunnis regard the very same day as a day of fasting “to commemorate the day when Moses and his followers were saved from Pharaoh by Allah by creating a path in the Red Sea.” Thus, Sunnis celebrate freedom from evil and oppression on that very same day, but since they view the day in a different light, it is a recipe for conflict.

In the same Wikipedia article about the Day of Ashura, an entire section is included to list incidents of “Violence during Ashura” in past years. In other words, the practical reality of the Quran text is to slay on the Day of Ashura. They do not wait for the whole month to end.

Do you understand how significant this is in the context of the refugee crisis? The West is already viewed by Islamists as degraded and immoral, and worthy of death. The holiday itself is the source of ignition for massacre, and it matters not whether Sunnis and Shias fight each other, or whether Islamists of both sides fight what they perceive as the immoral West. Both sides have been training for the big massacre for generations, and they are well programmed to carry it out. Europe has brought fire into its bosom! (But it’s not only Europe...)

Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes not be burned? (Proverbs 6:27)

The True Meaning of Ashura

The Bible lists devil worship as the first sin associated with the sixth trumpet:

And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk: Neither repented they of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts. (Revelation 9:20-21)

“Asuras” are demons in the ancient Sanskrit writings:

Monier-Williams traces the etymological roots of Asura (असुर) to Asu (असु), which means life of the spiritual world or departed spirits. In the oldest verses of the Samhita layer of Vedic texts, the Asuras are any spiritual, divine beings including those with good or bad intentions, and constructive or destructive inclinations or nature. In later verses of the Samhita layer of Vedic texts, Monier Williams states the Asuras are “evil spirits, demon and opponent of the gods”. Asuras connote the chaos-creating evil, in Hindu mythology about the battle between good and evil.^[17]

These ancient Sanskrit roots of the word Asura that have been preserved in northwestern India have been correlated to cultures as far northwest as Scandinavia:

Asura...may be related to proto-Uralic and proto-Norse history. The Aesir-Asura correspondence is the relation between Asura of Vedic Sanskrit to Æsir, an Old Norse that is – old German and Scandinavian – word, and *asera or *asira of proto-Uralic languages all of which mean “lord, powerful spirit, god.”^[18]

The point to digest here is that the meaning of the word reaches back to ancient cultures that existed before Islam, and spanned the entire European continent. What Muslims worship on the Day of Ashura was in fact a well-known god in ancient cultures:

...The god Asura was called the Bull who gave birth to the rest of the creation. As a solar divinity, he was associated with the disc of the sun and a bird which crossed the sky every day. The symbol of (Ass.) Ashura is the winged solar disc, a synthesis of the two symbols...^[19]

The god Asura was none other than the sun god! Again, you can see that Islam and Catholicism are two sides of the same coin, and as the sixth trumpet says, they worship demons—and even the chief of the demons, Satan himself: Lucifer, the sun god.

When Is the Day of Ashura?

The word ashura has come to mean ten or tenth in the Arabic language.^[20] The Day of Ashura falls on the tenth day of the first month (Muharram), which is why it is commonly said that the Day of Ashura derives its name from the fact that it comes on the tenth day of the month. Last year, the Day of Ashura was on November 4, 2014.

Interestingly, the Sunnis also refer to it as the Day of Atonement, which is the same name given to the tenth day of—by contrast—the seventh month on the biblical calendar. The Islamic calendar is a lunar calendar with the first day of each month beginning when the first visible crescent of the moon is sighted at sunset. In that respect, it is like the original calendar of God. Unlike God’s calendar, however, the Islamic calendar has no intercalary months to keep it from drifting through the seasons, year after year. That means the first Islamic month (Muharram) could coincide with the seventh Hebrew month (Tishri) a couple of times every 30 years or so, and in those rare instances, the Day of Ashura on the Islamic calendar would fall on the very same day as the Day of Atonement on God’s calendar.

That is significant because the Day of Atonement represents “Judgment Day” for Israel, and it emphasizes the fact that God often uses the enemies of His people to execute His judgments upon them and turn them back to Him. We mustn’t forget, however, that it is more about spiritual Israel and its enemies, and less about the literal modern political state of Israel, even if Israel plays a role. In any case, however, it would be a rare and important sign if the Islamic day of Ashura were to fall on the biblical Day of Atonement.

Compounding the unlikely probability that the two calendars would coincide, Islamists have another element to the signal for the Great Jihad. We quote from a voice which is considered infallible by Shias:

Abu Jafar Muhammad-ibn-Ali who said: “Mahdi shall emerge on the day of ‘Ashura’ (and that is the day when Hussein-ibn-Ali will be martyred perhaps on Saturday the tenth of Muharram) between ‘rukn’ and ‘maqam’ and on his right will be Gibra’eel and on his left Micha’eel. Allah will gather his Shias around him from everywhere and the earth shall roll up for them.”^[21]

For Ashura to fall on a Saturday and in the seventh Hebrew month, we have to multiply the probability of about 2 times in 30 years by another probability of 1 day in 7, which is roughly a 1% chance that any given year would match!

Many people have (had) their eyes on the Day of Atonement this year, but by the time you read this, it probably will have passed by with no surprises, or so it might seem. And besides that, it was not a Saturday. What you must recognize is that God has a backup plan built into His calendar, which allows the holy days to be observed one month late in case of special emergencies. Normally, Passover was held on the fourteenth day of the first month, but certain exceptions (which we will examine later) required its observance to be delayed:

The fourteenth day of the second month at even they shall keep it [the Passover], and eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. (Numbers 9:11)

That very provision was exercised by King Hezekiah, when he led a reformation in Judah:

Then they killed the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month: and the priests and the Levites were ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought in the burnt offerings into the house of the LORD. (2 Chronicles 30:15)

It piques our interest when YouTubers with significant followings like Sister Barbara (godshealer7) suddenly announce a delay in the expected September 23, Day of Atonement events, and associate it with Hezekiah. Part of their confusion is simply not understanding how God's calendar works—that the months begin on the first visible crescent as sighted from the Temple Mount in Jerusalem, with the moon above 8 degrees from the horizon to account for the even mountain range that limits the sighting possibilities from that location. Luckily for those of us who don't live anywhere near the temple mount, there are tools (such as Accurate Times) which allow us to calculate the crescent visibility. In that way, we've known for a long time that the popular September 23 date for the Day of Atonement was two days too early. That is one point of confusion for many—when to start the month. (God's calendar is explored in detail in our two-part article entitled Full Moon at Gethsemane.)

The other point of confusion is when to start the year. The first day of the first month must be on or after the spring equinox, and the barley must be mature enough. Karaite Jews recognize the scriptural requirement of barley maturity, and they check it to determine if the calendar should be delayed one month or not.

Thus, a one-month backup plan exists in two forms:

1. God might delay the entire year by one month with late barley, or
2. An emergency on man's part might justify a delay, as in the case of Hezekiah.

In 2015, the barley was not delayed. That means God is ready, but there must be an emergency on man's part that has warranted the delay of one month. The Bible gives two main example scenarios for delaying the observance of the feasts, which are the context of the two verses quoted above.

1. In the book of Numbers, the scenario is that a person is unclean for touching a corpse.
2. In the 2nd book of Chronicles, the scenario is a spiritual crisis and needed reformation.

Following the calendrical rules, the first crescent for the next month should be visible on Wednesday night, October 14. That marks the beginning of the first day of the month, which means the tenth day of the month—the delayed Day of Atonement and also the Day of Ashura—would be

Saturday, October 24, 2015

It exactly fulfils the jihad trigger conditions of being a Sabbath, and the Day of Ashura, and falling on the Day of Atonement. That surely isn't the result of just 1% pure chance!

Some sources say that the Day of Ashura will fall on October 23, 2015, a day earlier. To understand why, you have to understand that Muslims do not regard Jerusalem as the designated location for sighting (or calculating the visibility of) the first crescent. For them, it is every man for himself. Wherever they are, they sight the moon locally and carry on accordingly. That results in differences by location as to when the month should begin, and when the holy days should be observed.

Careful sources list different dates for Ashura for different locations, depending on the crescent visibility for each location. Only in eastern countries, the holiday will begin on Friday, October 23. In western countries like much of Europe and definitely the Americas, it falls on October 24. Keep in mind also that Muhammad is said to have designated two days for the holiday (in order to show that they are more pious than the Jews) so either way, the big day must be the prophesied Saturday, which is a High Sabbath on God's calendar because it is the Day of Atonement as well as the seventh-day Sabbath!

This shows the importance of the biblical seventh-day Sabbath of the fourth commandment, as well as the annual holy days, for their prophetic meaning. The only direct reference to a High Sabbath in all of scripture was on the most important date to all Christians:

The Jews therefore, because it was the preparation [Friday, May 25, A.D. 31], that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day [Saturday], (for that sabbath day was an high day [both a weekly Sabbath and an annual holy day],) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. (John 19:31)

That verse confirms the historical veracity of Christ's death by providing the evidence necessary to establish with certainty the calendar date on which it happened, and in so doing it has unlocked the future by placing great importance on High Sabbaths as signs or omens.^[22] You can follow that lead like we did, by reading the Vessel of Time to see the great significance that the High Sabbaths have today. The last High Sabbath and the culminating point of that study is the very High Sabbath of October 24, 2015.

That time is not far away...when God will use the enemies of His people to execute His judgments.

The Fire-Ant Signal: "Bite and Kill!"

What will happen when the 200-million-man army of swarming fire ants in Europe and around the world act on their signal to bite? What will that signal be?

The Vatican plans their activities (secretly or not) one year in advance. That allows them to rehearse future events according to an accurate sun-schedule (since they are sun worshippers at the core). Again, please inform yourself if you are not yet aware that Islam is a creation of the Vatican and an extension of Catholicism. What do you suppose they were planning one year before the coming Day of Ashura?

Liberation of Jurf Al Sakhar, codenamed Operation Ashura (Arabic: عملية عاشوراء), was a two-day military operation by Iraqi government forces and Iranian-backed Shia militia beginning on 24 October 2014, aimed at retaking the strategic city of Jurf Al Sakhar near Baghdad from ISIL.^{[4][5]} The operation was mainly aimed at preventing ISIS militants from reaching the holy cities of Karbala and Najaf, where ISIS threatened to carry out attacks against the millions of Shia visitors commemorating the Day of Ashura.^[23]

Now keep in mind that in 2014, the Day of Ashura was not on October 24. That date had to be picked with 2015 in mind! The trigger has been pulled! ISIS is already primed with cause to retaliate! Notice again that it was a two-day operation. It is likely that events on October 24, 2015 will trigger violence the following day—not against Shias only, but also against interfering government forces and generally against everyone whom they hate: which includes you, just because you are a Christian.

Are you prepared for the plagues that will come through ISIS? You heard that right: the horses of the sixth trumpet bring plagues. Three things are mentioned as the means by which this army kills its victims:

And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire [1] and smoke [2] and brimstone [3]. By these three was the third part of men killed, by the fire [1], and by the smoke [2], and by the brimstone [3], which issued out of their mouths. (Revelation 9:17-18)

In the following verses, we are told that those three means of killing are actually plagues:

For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt. And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues [the three means of killing are called “plagues”] yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk: Neither repented they [there will be no repentance] of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts. (Revelation 9:19–21)

As you can see, the verses indicate that the killing of the sixth trumpet takes place by three things which are said to be “plagues” and it is noted beforehand that there is no repentance. Which plagues are these? We should look for three plagues that are especially grouped together and associated with the killing of God’s people...

And the first went, and poured out his vial [1] upon the earth; and there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image. And the second angel poured out his vial [2] upon the sea; and it became as the blood of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea. And the third angel poured out his vial [3] upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood. And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus. For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets [killing of God’s people], and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy. And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments. (Revelation 16:2–7)*

There it is... This shows us that the decision to kill God’s people will happen at the third plague. This is the “death decree” as Seventh-day Adventists know it, as Ellen White also stated:

The Third Plague

I saw that the four angels would hold the four winds until Jesus’ work was done in the sanctuary, and then will come the seven last plagues. These plagues enraged the wicked against the righteous; they thought that we had brought the judgments of God upon them and that if they could rid the earth of us the plagues would then be stayed. A decree went forth to slay the saints, which caused them to cry day and night for deliverance.—Early Writings, 36, 37 (1851).

And “the rivers and fountains of waters ... became blood.” Terrible as these inflictions are, God’s justice stands fully vindicated. The angel of God declares: “Thou art righteous, O Lord, ... because Thou hast judged thus. For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and Thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy” (Revelation 16:2–6) [3rd plague]. By condemning the people of God to death, they have as truly incurred the guilt of their blood as if it had been shed by their hands.—The Great Controversy, 628 (1911). {LDE 245.1–2}

This is heavy stuff. Will you be among those saints who will have the death sentence hanging over their head, or among those unrepentant who are guilty thereof? Your decision needs to be made today, because once the plagues begin the day after Sabbath, October 24, 2015, it will be too late to change! In fact, the proverbial ark door necessarily closes seven days earlier, at sunset on October 17—which is imminently near! It’s high time to get ready!

Not only do we know when the saints will face the death decree, but we also know now that the first three plagues are caused by the army of the sixth trumpet—the refugee army. Ever since the destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, many have recognized nuclear war as the most likely end-of-the-world scenario. In fact, that is what has driven the United Nations since its inception on October 24, exactly 70 years ago. We have often wondered if the fire from heaven of Revelation 13 would turn out to be just that—a nuclear holocaust.

Keep in mind that the plagues described in the Bible are the effects of the happenings, not the happenings themselves. They are the consequences that will follow the unheeded warnings of the trumpets. That is why the first plague describes a “noisome and grievous sore” or ulcer. That is an effect of atomic bombs or whatever might be unleashed.

We always have to be careful about seeing “judgments of God” (especially the plagues) as strictly supernatural, because God often uses human agencies to accomplish His judgments. Our studies led us to warn about an impending gamma-ray burst from Betelgeuse-gone-supernova as the cause of the plagues, but the way events are shaping up, it could be that God simply led us to that imagery as a simple way of warning of the same effects that would be caused by a nuclear war. Certain classes of modern atomic bombs—especially neutron bombs—produce a high amount of gamma radiation, just as a gamma-ray burst from a nearby supernova would. Why would God punish the world supernaturally if the people themselves will do it unaided? It is the withdrawal of God’s Spirit from the world that leaves the wicked unrestrained by conscience to carry out the most horrible crimes.

With ISIS agents planted throughout the world in the form of refugees, it will not be difficult for them to smuggle weapons from their allies through underground channels, and it is not beyond reason to think the provocation could escalate into a global nuclear war.^[24] In fact, you can see the preparations for war brewing already, as Russia expresses concern over modern nuclear weapons being destined for Germany.

The nuclear war scenario fits the plagues very well, as many interpreters of Revelation have shown. The “fire, smoke, and brimstone” would correspond to the blast, atmospheric darkening & cooling, and following effects. Even the fourth plague, extreme heat, could be the result of a nuclear summer following a nuclear winter effect. Do you see why the world leaders are talking about tackling climate change? They know what’s coming—and scarier is the fact that some studies have considered a nuclear war as a potential solution to global warming!

Time will tell how it unfolds exactly, but in any case it’s high time to get right with God.

That Great City

Revelation 11 retells the story of the sixth trumpet from another perspective. We’ve written much about the Two Witnesses elsewhere, but right now we need to understand what the great city is, because it comes up again after the scene with the Two Witnesses:

And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom [standing for LGBT—the image of the beast] and Egypt [standing for sun worship—the mark of the beast], where also our Lord was crucified. (Revelation 11:8)

Islam is a creation of the Vatican, which is the headquarters of the sun worshippers. So on the one hand, we had the LGBT army continuing over from the fifth trumpet symbolized by Sodom, and on the other hand we have the ISIS refugee army symbolized by sun-worshipping Egypt. That “great city” is the same city that is mentioned again in verse 13 in connection with the earthquake:

And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of heaven. The second woe is past; and, behold, the third woe cometh quickly. (Revelation 11:13-14)

This last scene of the sixth trumpet (second woe) deserves special consideration right now. The scene begins with “and...” which simply indicates that it happens after the previous scene, like “and then...” The first thing it says about the new scene is that the events of the scene unfold simultaneously. We could paraphrase the verse as follows: “And then, all at once, A, B, C and D happened.”

That simultaneity is key, because it allows us to correlate all of the spiritual events to something visible: a great earthquake.

We watch the signs of the times, and I hope you do too. The Day of Trumpets—the first day of the seventh month—has always been a day of gladness mixed with alertness, because it signals the approach of the Day of Atonement when Israel would be judged and justified. So when the news headlines came promptly after the Day of Trumpets, we paid attention: Great Earthquake Rocks Chile, Tsunami Alert Raised. Keep in mind that we are seeing this in the context of the “flood” of refugee soldiers coming into Europe, so the fact that tsunami alerts were associated with this great earthquake is significant. It means that the flood waters will soon destroy.

More to the point, however, is that it signaled the moment in time when the events of Revelation 11:13 should transpire. Let’s break the simultaneous events down one at a time, event by event:

- There was a great earthquake.
- The tenth part of the city fell.
- In the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand.
- The remnant were affrighted and gave glory to the God of heaven.

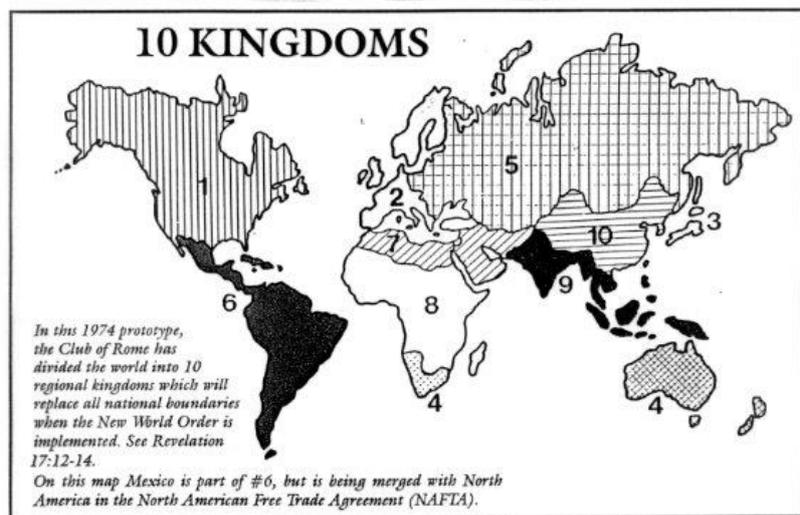

The great earthquake happened on September 16, just after sunset local time on the Day of Trumpets, and marks the time of all of the events of this verse. The true Day of Trumpets—taking into consideration the correct calendar rules discussed earlier—was September 16 beginning the evening before. That means the earthquake was the Jewish day after. That is another subtle indication that the real heat will probably come the day after Ashura, and not exactly on the day. Remember, the military operation one year ago was a 2-day operation that started on October 24 and was completed on October 25. After all, fighting is technically still prohibited during the Ashura holiday on the tenth of Muharram.

We already talked about how the refugees serve as Trojan Horses to bring down Europe, but in Revelation 11 we see the same story prophesied from a different angle. We see a tenth part of the great city falling.

First, we need to understand what the tenth part of the city means. In the prophecies of Nebuchadnezzar’s image in Daniel 2, there are ten toes representing the whole world. Again in Daniel 7, there are ten horns representing the ten kings of the then-known world. In Revelation 17, we have ten kings representing the whole world again. The common denominator in all those prophecies is that the number ten in this context represents the whole world. It does not mean that there are exactly ten kings or ten kingdoms in the world, but a symbolic number for the whole world. There are in fact 196 nations presently, but the number ten is significant because it is talking about the whole world: the New World Order.

Since WWII, the NWO planners have divided the world into 10 regions:

The sixth trumpet prophecy speaks of one tenth of the great city falling, so it must be talking about one region of the ten. Which region is currently falling meanwhile the Chile earthquake struck? Yes, it is talking about the fall of Europe because of the refugee crisis:

Commentary: Europe's, and perhaps the West's, fall imminent

That is one of the ten regions of the New World Order—a tenth of the great city—as the verse says. The signs are fulfilling exactly as it is written.

Defiled by the Dead

Next, the verse mentions death:

And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of heaven. (Revelation 11:13)

This brings us back to the topic of why the Day of Atonement has been delayed. These are the dead bodies that cause defilement, which were slain “in” the earthquake, or better said “in the moment of” the earthquake.

Among Protestants, seven thousand died spiritually on September 16, 2015 (the date of the great earthquake) and the verse tells us who they were. The round number seven thousand has a couple of scriptural meanings. First of all, seven is the number of completeness and a special number that is held dear to a certain group of people who even use the number in their name: Seventh-day Adventists. Symbolically, a thousand just means many or a multitude, so seven thousand means the complete multitude of Adventists perished spiritually on that day. You can read from our voluminous homepage about how Seventh-day Adventists were spiritually slain, but that is not the main topic here. Suffice it to say that the people of Adventism received great light, a great warning, great opportunities, and threw them all away along with the God who gave them—just to run into Pope Francis' open embrace^[25] in the end. WHERE IS PROTESTANTISM WHEN IT MATTERS!?

The original Greek for that text actually says that “names” of men were slain:

ὄνομα onoma on'-om-ah

From a presumed derivative of the base of G1097 (compare G3685); a “name” (literally or figuratively), (authority, character): - called, (+ sur-) name (-d).

That means it is not talking about an organization now, but individuals. We invited the whole Christian world to a challenge on July 8 on Seventh-day Adventist turf at their General Conference organizational leadership summit, and the people of Adventism didn't even show up. I am not talking about physical attendance; I am talking about heeding the challenge that we made. On that day, the Seventh-day Adventist organization condemned itself by placing man's judgment above the Bible on the issue of marriage. Do you think homosexuality is negotiable? I hope not! I hope you understand that marriage is a thing of God, not to be dismantled by man. That is when the Adventist organizations died, but individuals still had a chance to resign their membership in protest. As of the great earthquake, that time has also run out for the “seven thousand” or complete lot of those who did not come out.

We aren't being insensitive. God condemns a person when He sees that the person will not repent any more, no matter what. That is what we are talking about here; we are not saying that anyone is condemned who still has a heart that beats for God instead of for Self. As fellow Christians, they were your brothers, but they died spiritually. Do you know any Adventists personally? Have you been defiled by their spiritual deadness? The scriptures say that anyone who touches a dead body is unclean for seven days:

He that toucheth the dead body of any man shall be unclean seven days. (Numbers 19:11)

Now count from the date of death: September 16 (the date of the great earthquake) + 7 days = September 23... the day on which many of you were hoping to be atoned. Imagine... you would have been ceremonially clean again on the 8th day, but... Could you have participated in the holy and solemn atonement of the sinless blood of Jesus Christ,^[26] without proper preparation? The Day of Trumpets was given to signal the last 10 days of preparation for the atonement, but the last seven of those days were taken away by defilement because of the dead! If they had done their duty to spread the message of warning, your expectation for that day could have actually come to pass.

The number seven thousand also hearkens back to the seven thousand faithful of Elijah's day. There were supposed to be faithful Seventh-day Adventists to come forward after the challenge on July 8, but they refused. They were elect, and upon them was bestowed a great deal of spiritual insight that many of you have not been blessed with, but because they refused to act their privileged role, it has been taken away from them. The verse says:

...in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of heaven. (Revelation 11:13)

The remnant in this verse are not from the seven thousand—because the whole lot of the seven thousand were slain. The remnant here are definitely not Seventh-day Adventists... they have to be those who were not slain.

I hope with all my heart that you, dear reader, are among that remnant. We've seen many people of all churches express their "fright" at how wickedness is prevailing in the world, and at how judgment from God seems to be long in the coming. Have you read the truth today? Has this article been opening your eyes at all? Do you give glory to the God of heaven for the message of hope in God that you are reading right now? Then spread it far and wide to make up for the seven thousand who died the spiritual death!

The reference to the "remnant" who were affrighted is also a reference to the church of Sardis, one of the seven churches of Revelation. The last three churches are a special representation of three classes of Christians at the end of time: Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea.

Sardis—which means "that which remains" or "remnant"—represents people from all Christian denominations. Among them, there are only a few who are worthy, and Jesus admonishes them to pay attention to the time of His coming:

Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God. Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. Thou hast a few names even in Sardis which have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy. (Revelation 3:2-4)

Ask yourself if blindly insisting that "no man knows the day nor the hour" is being worthy according to that verse. Please, take the counsel of Jesus and do not reject knowledge! The remnant who give glory to "the God of heaven" are ones from Sardis who understand time. The Greek word for heaven can just as well mean eternity as in "the God of eternity," which means the remnant are ones who characterize or glorify God in relation to time!

Philadelphia earns no rebuke from Jesus. It represents those who are pure in character and doctrine. This is the spiritual condition that the few faithful in Sardis need to reach before time runs out on October 17 as already mentioned.

Laodicea—which means "judgment people"—represents Seventh-day Adventists, as any of them will proudly affirm. As we have seen, they are indeed "a people judged."

The Final Reformation

Hezekiah's reformation in Israel is of special significance now. We looked at defilement by a dead body as one reason for a delay in God's holy days, and we saw how applicable that is to the present Yom Kippur / Day of Atonement. However, the reform of Hezekiah offers another perspective on the acceptable reasons for delay.

Hezekiah began to reign when he was five and twenty years old, and he reigned nine and twenty years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Abijah, the daughter of Zechariah. And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that David his father had done. He in the first year of his reign, in the first month, opened the doors of the house of the LORD, and repaired them. (2 Chronicles 29:1-3)

I recommend that you read chapters 29 and 30 in their entirety. Since the beginning of our united public ministry efforts in the spring of 2012, we have been identifying strongly with Hezekiah. At that time, God taught us through Hezekiah that we needed to hold a second Passover in the second month because of the spiritual emergency we were in. Ever since, we have warned and taught without ceasing. Now that we have come to the autumn holy days of 2015, it has been a full three and a half years that we have been urging repentance and reformation, counseling and teaching from the Word of God.

Like Hezekiah opened the doors of the house of the Lord, so did we. The Lord's house is in Heaven, as Jacob saw from Bethel, and for three and a half years we have been peering through the open doors of the heavens for guidance on how to cleanse His desecrated vessels (people) on earth. We've been repairing the pure doctrines of God's Word and spreading the message for this hour.

Now, time is coming to a close. In this article, you saw ample evidence that the great tribulation will be triggered on October 24, 2015, probably beginning the following day of October 25, through the agency of violent Islam. Yes, it is one month later than you might have expected, but this is a spiritual emergency proportional to Hezekiah's. Therefore, we urge you to prepare for the Day of Atonement in the eighth month, similarly to how he called Israel to the Passover in the second month—which was also one month later than normal:

And Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel. (2 Chronicles 30:1)

First and foremost, I plead with you—give your heart to the Lord if you haven't already! Give your whole self to the Lord! Work like never before by using all your possibilities of influence to spread this word by October 17, to allow seven days before darkness falls. If someone hasn't heeded the warning by that time, they never will—but the word must get out.

Also, we urge you to download the entire book containing our publications from the past six years. It contains a flood of light for your soul to guide you in repentance and to comfort you in the time of suffering that is just ahead. In the wake of the Day of Ashura, you will be glad to have this valuable treasure safely stored on your computer to read and share.

God be with you and give you speed!

The Tears of God

Written by Robert Dickinson

The Bible speaks of a point in time after which nobody will change sides anymore. Those who have chosen the paths of righteousness will continue on the Way,^[1] and those who have chosen the paths of wickedness will never again repent. This entire world has become polarized by the strong forces that are acting on our society. Every individual has been compelled to align himself one way or the other, and the forces have become so strong that it is no longer possible to re-orient oneself.

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

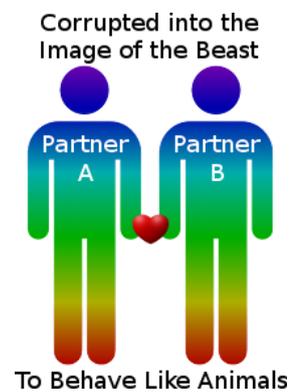

Everyone has developed an affinity—either to the ways of God, or to the ways of the world. As iron filings in the presence of a magnetic field, every individual on the face of the earth has been oriented by an unseen global force.

When did we reach the point of no return? What is the force that has exerted an influence strong enough to bring every person to the decision point? What fate awaits the inhabitants of the earth—each on their respective side of the question?

Traditional marriage between one man and one woman was instituted by God in the Garden of Eden before the entrance of sin into the world. It was blessed by God, and it was purposely made to reflect His image.

And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. (Genesis 1:26)

Thus, the marriage institution has the foundational principle of God’s government—love and trust, demonstrated by submission—and the world was intended to thrive under it, as the universe thrives in the affection of God’s love.

So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. (Genesis 1:27)

The institution of marriage, which is the foundation of earthly dominion or governance, involves by definition one man and one woman, both reflecting God as their example.

Sodomy, on the other hand, contains in it the corrupt principle of a different government that has as its maxims “Do what thou wilt” and “If it feels good, do it.” It is a government comprised of equal voices, which undermines the principle of trust and submission and gives rise to chaos and confusion. It is a government which is opposed to God, though it masquerades as love so-called.

The Mark of the Beast and the Seal of God

The issue of homosexuality has polarized the world, but the lines are not drawn simply between gay and straight. For example, there are many, many straights who embody the same satanic maxims that enable homosexuality. Sexual freedom and licentiousness in general follow the same lines. Let's also be clear that any individual who availed himself of Christ's power to overcome the animal passions—whether of a homosexual or heterosexual nature—is not condemned. The line is drawn between those who have submitted to God and overcome sin through the rich provisions of His love, versus those who have proudly deified (worshipped) their passions (as in the Gay Pride movement). They publicly declare their animalistic character, openly confessing the Mark of the Beast.

By contrast, the Seal of God is upon the selfless ones who do not perpetuate self-gratification, but rather honor their maker by upholding and defending the principles of His government, not only in their own lives (married or not), but in public governance as well. A person does not ever have to marry to have the seal of God—but he has to support and uphold and respect the Edenic institution of marriage as the true and godly foundation of all government. In other words, he has to honor his parents—which are naturally male and female.

And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth. (Genesis 1:28)

God blessed the marriage institution by impressing it with His seal, which means that the marriage institution, as a foundation for society, carries the authority of God. An official seal includes the name, office and territory—all of which are involved in the marriage institution as we can extract from the verses quoted above.

From the Creation account, we know that God (His name) is the maker (His office) of the heavens and the earth (His territory). God impressed the elements of His seal upon the marriage institution, for God (His name) is the maker (His office) who made man—male and female—in the image of God, and gave them dominion (territory). In essence, through the marriage institution, God set man over the rest of creation to exercise dominion over the world under His authority, as an extension of His own universal reign.

The image of God and the seal of God are the great originals, for which the image of the beast and the mark of the beast are the counterfeits. Paul explains the transformation from the original pattern of godliness to the ungodly counterfeit in the first chapter of his letter to the Romans:

*For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, And changed the glory of the uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things. Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonour their own bodies between themselves: Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen. For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature: And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet. And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient; Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, Without understanding, covenantbreakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: Who knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them. (Romans 1:20-32)

Paul speaks of a change from the image of the Godhead (marriage in the image of God) to images of animals—or in other words, the image of the beast—and he describes it as sodomy in all its filthy aspects, which is the epitome of all sin. It is pure animalistic behavior in the sense of “if it feels good, do it.” It is appropriate to call it the image of the animal (image of the beast), but in fact sodomy is worse than what any animal can do, because an animal has no conscience, power of reason, or overarching restraint.
