Welcome to the foundational study site of the High Sabbath Adventist Movement, where we present the first wave of God the Father's last time proclamation in mostly chronological order. The articles and news items were written in the order that was given us by God, and the light of the message grew more and more from January of 2010 until it reached its peak at the Summit of Time, October 23, 2016.

The great clock of time is the Orion constellation, and in it is written not only the entire history of mankind since its creation, but also all the transgressions and failures of the church, which is what makes this message so unpopular. It is the book of seven seals, which Jesus received from the hand of His Father in the fifth chapter of the Revelation. Ever since then, He has known the time and could proclaim it among His people.

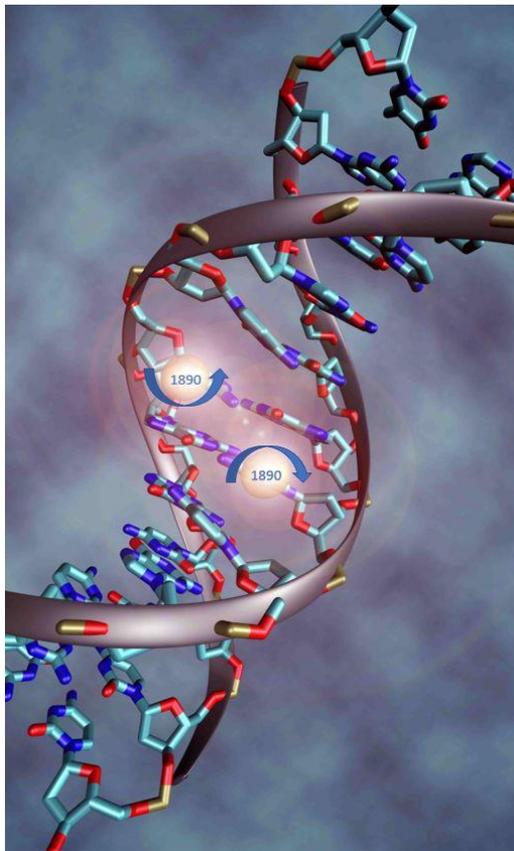

God the Father—and therefore also Jesus—knew that the Seventh-day Adventist Church would not preach Their last message to mankind as planned, but that it would be rejected by the leaders who had defected to Rome. Therefore, They trusted the second witnesses of Revelation 11 to, out of pity for mankind, ask Jesus to refrain from appearing at the Summit of Time, and instead to allow these little flocks of helpers to try, for a period of time determined by Him, to once again proclaim this wonderful message, which is not merely a message of time, but contains all the doctrines and rules of conduct which a man needs to follow in order to stand before the Eternal Judge.

In Matthew 24, Jesus urgently warned about false prophets that would come in the last years prior to His own coming. This message, written by the finger of God on the firmament so that it can be read by all, unmasks these false teachers. The false Sabbath of Christianity, the lunar Sabbath doctrine which hides the true Sabbath, the anti-Trinitarian doctrine which presents a deformed picture of the nature of God, the hypocritical behavior of the Judgment Church in times of crisis, the marriage-destroying and abominable LGBT tolerance and women's ordination movements, among others, are all denounced there by God. As early as 2013, it was revealed to us who the man of sin is, Satan in the flesh, who walks the earth as the angel of light, which is also an unpleasant surprise for the majority of Christians.

As if this message didn't already have enough enemies with that, God also reveals rules of Christian behavior for the individual, which long ago faded into oblivion: the observance of the Adventist health message, which prohibits meat-eating among other things, the dress code, which is especially disregarded by the supposedly Christian women of today, and last but not least, the absolute command to be ready, out of love for his neighbor, to sacrifice one's life and—if need be—even eternal life.

This message has something to offend everyone. Those are the points that are still not in order in your life! Those are the points that you have to face before the Divine Judge, and soon there will be no Intercessor. So if something in this message disturbs you, then that would be exactly what would make you unsuitable for heaven in the eyes of God.

Jesus packaged His gene of life into this message. For a long time, since the sin of the fathers in 1888 bore its horrible fruit, almost no one recognized this saving gene of self-denying love.

Thus we learn in its structure that God's judgment message begins with a time message and also ends with a time message. It makes it clear to us that only a spiritually healthy body can withstand the carnal seductions of this world. God personally explains to us our high calling as the last generation, and unfortunately also the time-limit on all church organizations. God's attention is especially focused upon His end-time prophets, His church of the remnant of the remnant, and the message of righteousness by faith for the witnesses of God the Father, with their fidelity to His commandments. Overall, it is the gene of sanctification and God's character, without which no man shall see the Lord (Hebrews 12:14).

Only a replication of this gene to the benefit of fallen humanity can bring us back to the faith that the pioneers of the three angels' warning message once had. The 70th Jubilee of 1890 has to return once more, and that can only happen if the last 126 years run backwards from 2016 on, and the sins of the church are blotted out.

Therefore, God listened to our request for more time for the judgment of the living, in which the final cleansing of His church is happening. That is why it was prophesied more than 170 years ago that God's time proclamation would be given to His messengers in not just one phase, but in two phases (see Is This Time Setting? and The Power of the Father).

Now we begin to understand! Many compare the shape of the Orion constellation with that of an hourglass. That has deep meaning. An hourglass can be turned upside down, and the sands of time then fall again in the opposite direction through the neck of the glass. Thus the Orion constellation is also turned from the point of view of humans in the two different hemispheres on the earth. In the southern hemisphere, the Orion constellation is upside down, so to speak. Thus God indicates that there is a second phase of the last time proclamation. Since November 22, 2016, our second study website, White Cloud Farm, has been dedicated to this second phase. It contains all the wisdom that God has given and will yet give us, since the sands of the Orion clock first turned, and of course, the final date of the coming of Jesus, which is earlier than we first assumed in our official statement of October 22, 2016 after seven years of service to God.

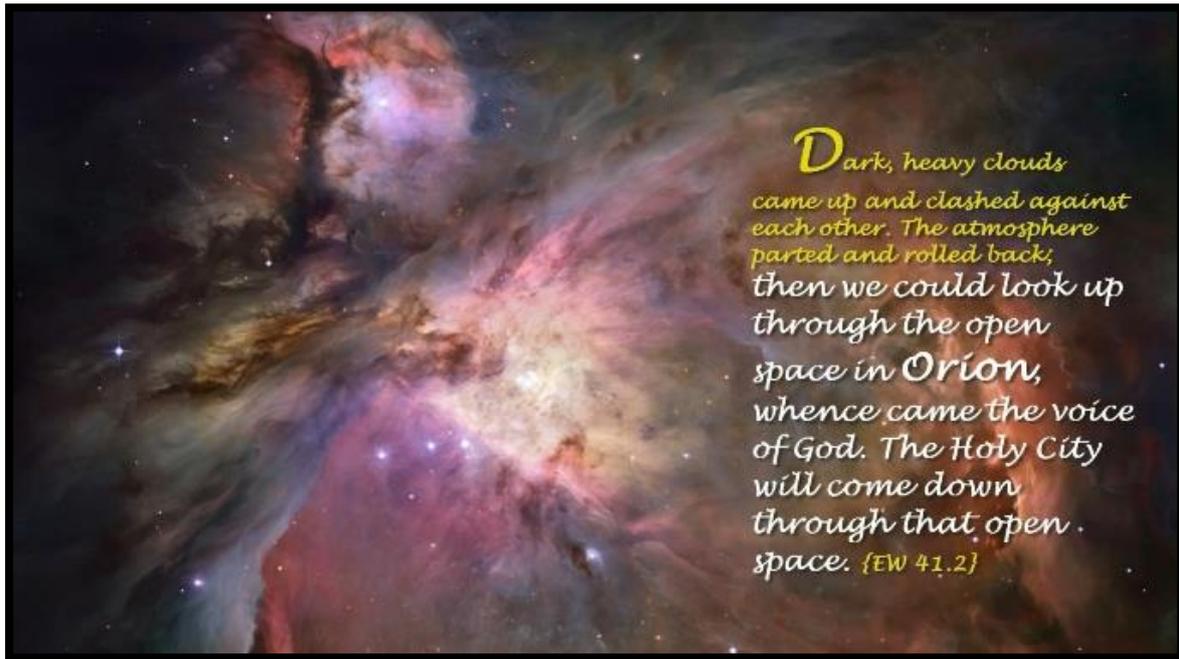

Who we are and where we came from as the High Sabbath Adventist movement is summarized in About Us. Information for Students contains a little guide for people who have just discovered the message. An overview of the first years of the Orion message can be found in the article Lightened with His Glory.

Together with the prophet Amos, we encourage you to seek the One who IS Time, who therefore chose the falling grain of sand in an hourglass as the symbol for His dwelling place: the Orion Nebula.

Seek him that maketh the seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and maketh the day dark with night: that calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: The LORD is his name: (Amos 5:8)

About Us

Video: LastCountdown Intro

The High Sabbath Adventist Movement consists of a group of people who recognize the Seventh-day Adventist pillars of faith as truth. We uphold those pillars in a time when the vast majority of Seventh-day Adventists have abandoned their faith. Some of us are baptized Seventh-day Adventists, while others have already come from other Christian denominations to unite with us because they were called out of Babylon by the Loud Cry of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18.

We have been receiving the oft-mentioned "old light in new settings" since 2010 and we are publishing it here on this website and on our new study website White Cloud Farm. We've recognized the hidden meaning in the High Sabbath of John 19:31, and we name ourselves accordingly. Thus we fulfill another prophecy which was given to Adventists through the Spirit of Prophecy:

I saw that God had children who do not see and keep the Sabbath. They have not rejected the light upon it. And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land. The wicked thought that we had brought the judgments upon them, and they rose up and took counsel to rid the earth of us, thinking that then the evil would be stayed. {EW 33.2}

In December 2009, John Scotram became the first person permitted to recognize the Clock of God in Orion. He fulfilled William Miller's dream by cleaning the cast off, trampled and dirtied Seventh-day Adventist pearls of faith. He cleaned them with the teachings which the Lord Himself wrote on the firmament. To date, with the help of the Holy Spirit in the Latter Rain, he has deciphered the Book of Seven Seals, the Book of Seven Thunders of Revelation 10, and the two last series of seven in the Book of Revelation: The Seven Trumpets and the Seven Last Plagues. Meanwhile, the nominal Adventists have rejected all of this light until their organization had been dismissed by God in 2012.

Now we are already in the time of the harvest and vintage. Therefore, we admonish you in the words of the great apostle Paul, who spoke prophetically of our time when he said:

See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven: Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven. (Hebrews 12:25-26)

We are “just” a little movement, but Jesus Himself prophesied in Revelation 18:1 that the light of the Fourth Angel will lighten the whole world—and it has already begun...

Information for Students

This website is intended for all Christians who still want to take God's word seriously and keep His commandments (including the fourth). Readers who have not heard of the "sanctuary doctrine" or the "true seventh-day Sabbath" will be overwhelmed with the topics discussed here. Such readers should first acquire the necessary basics from other websites that deal with those issues, but time is running out!

The light of the Fourth Angel was given by the Holy Spirit in two-stages, which we call the first and second time proclamations, in a period of a little over seven years. It is to gather the last of God's sheep and empower them as the 144,000 to witness for the Father during a terrible time. Since Daniel 12:3 speaks of them as "teachers" or "wise," they must be people who have knowledge that goes beyond the average level of a nominal Christian. That is how it should be, because these should be men who pass through the plagues without sin and without an intercessor, and still turn many to righteousness. That is why they will not taste death: they offer a special sacrifice.

This message goes far beyond the scope of a pure time message. It doesn't include time calculations for the sole purpose of finding out when Jesus will return! God, who is time, and not only love, has given us clocks whose hands point to doctrines that are important in a time when world history is coming to its end, where very little time remains. Each date is a teaching from Jesus Christ, which He wants to especially highlight right now. Notwithstanding, He also makes it clear that time is running out and it is urgent that this new light is studied intensively.

Since clocks are known to display a limited period of time as a repeating cycle, it is safe to assume that Jesus will return at the end of one such round of the clock, which we call an Orion cycle. That is why there have been and still are various countdowns for which this site is named. These cycles are divided into smaller periods by divine clock hands, which point to events which are to explain what in God's eyes are sins in the church and/or the world, false doctrines, or pillars of faith. Especially when it comes to the cycles of seven seals, trumpets or plagues of Revelation, we can find out what God wants to tell us at each "hour" through the Bible texts.

Jesus wanted to return on October 23, 2016. He chose His people, the Seventh-day Adventist Church, over 170 years ago to prepare the way. They were supposed to come in the spirit and power of Elijah to herald the day of wrath and the second advent of the Son of man. The third angel's message of Revelation 14 warning of the plagues and the mark of the beast (Sunday sacredness and same-sex marriage) was supposed to swell to the loud cry of the angel of Revelation 18 through the addition of this message of the Fourth Angel. However, 20 million Adventists, like the Jews before, could not recognize Jesus when He stood right in front of them (this time in Orion). They rejected His words and teachings. They were too proud to accept new light, which contained the divine reprimand to correct their behavior. They have been calling themselves "Laodicea" for a long time and seem to have overlooked the fact that the "lukewarm" will all be spewed out by God. The work will now be finished only by the remnant of the remnant, those who are left, the true Seventh-day Adventists who fear God and not man-made laws that are against God.

The first time proclamation wave was from 2010 to the autumn of 2016, and in our preaching of what we were learning from God, we were following a divine plan that would have come true if the Seventh-day Adventist Church had accepted the light they were given. Jesus would have liked to come back at the end of that proclamation period, but His coming would have meant that almost all people would have had to die, like in the days of Noah, since humanity was not prepared for the coming of Jesus in the way God intended. The doctrines and rules of conduct which are represented in this message were still not delivered to the people loudly enough to fit them to stand before the Eternal Judge.

Therefore, shortly before the potential coming of Jesus, we asked the Father to hold back His Son for a short while so that many more might yet be saved during that short extension. We made the sacrifice to request the deferral of our own imminent rapture, and later we found that that official statement was what finally made us the church of Philadelphia to God the Father.

Then came the second time proclamation wave, which was so strong that we had to start a new website, White Cloud Farm, to contain all the new knowledge, although it cannot be fully understood without the foundational knowledge that was developed in the first time proclamation. The LastCountdown study website remains the source of the knowledge that a nominal Christian needs in order to grow into the full stature of Christ and thus be able to stand before God.

There are several ways that today's newcomer can approach the study: by reading all of the articles in subject-wise chronological order, which amounts to about 2000 letter-sized pages, or the non-chronological way, whereby just the most important foundations are studied. Since time is very limited and the last of the 144,000 must be sealed by August 20, 2018, we recommend the non-chronological method, which is explained below.

Links and Footnotes

All the articles are generously marked with cross-referencing links and footnotes. A person should follow the links immediately if a term or concept is unclear. Usually the linked article contains the corresponding explanation or the foundation for the understanding. Footnote links are also there to be read, as they often contain important comments to aid understanding, but which would have been disruptive to the flow if included directly in the text.

Subject-wise Chronological Study Method

The content of this LastCountdown website is the first wave of God's time proclamation. The articles in the main sections (not those under the "Important" menu) were published between January 23, 2010 and August 16, 2016 and house all of the basic teachings needed to understand the further second time proclamation, which has its own website as of November 22, 2016: White Cloud Farm.

However, before studying the main sections, we recommend reading all the short articles under "Important" once, to get an overview and to understand that the light of the Fourth Angel has grown and has had to be revised occasionally. Because of the failure of the Adventists, God's original schedule took on a new structure which, interestingly enough, finally matches the chiastic structure of the Bible, which is the written format of the book of Revelation as well as the Bible as a whole.

The Last Countdown basically consists of four main sections, which can be worked through in the order of the menu items at the top. That method leads to a deep understanding of the teachings, but also takes a long time. The articles in each section build on each other, but there are cross-references between the sections, and the sequence is often not strictly chronological because the subject matter demanded otherwise. Some insights came later and had to be classified in the appropriate section.

If you study thematically, you should start with the Clock of God in Orion before proceeding to the Shadows of the Future section. Understanding the topics in the third section would be difficult otherwise.

In the third section of LastCountdown, called the Gift of Prophecy, we apply ourselves to further topics, such as the trumpets, the plagues-turned-to-grace with a duration of 372 days, dream interpretations, and subjects that are particularly important to the harvest season. The End of the World series is now of especial importance, since the things we explored there are presently happening. Those studies are provided as a briefing on the tribulation period, which was postponed until the present time as a result of the failure of the Adventist church.

The first part of the fourth section, Behind Enemy Lines, contains relatively old articles, which consist predominantly of studies on side topics and represent observations regarding world events in the political and religious spheres. On the other hand, the Francis Romanus article series started only in 2013, based on recent events with far-reaching consequences. It highlights the setting up of the abomination of desolation (Matthew 24:15). Anyone who wants to understand what prominent person is serving as a vessel for Satan must study that series.

Under False Flag is about the machinations of the ever-degenerating SDA Church, which God has long ago rejected from preparing His way. There are also many world news items in the left column on the same topic.

Non-Chronological Study Method

As of April 2017, some of the individual items on the "Important" menu have been completely revised and now serve as an important study aid. In the short articles about Daniel's timelines, the countdowns, the fireballs, and the Sunday law treat the most important topics, and those serve as a bridge between the first time proclamation on LastCountdown and the second time proclamation on White Cloud Farm. Those who work through those articles and follow their links and study the articles and series they link to will quickly acquire a condensed knowledge of God's will for this last generation. If there is time remaining after that, it would still be possible to study further from the top menu according to the subject-wise chronological method.

Although the subject-wise chronological method corresponds much more to the way God taught us, we recommend the non-chronological studies only because of the shortness of time, which is a consideration that Ellen G. White mentioned...

As I saw what we must be in order to inherit glory, and then saw how much Jesus had suffered to obtain for us so rich an inheritance, I prayed that we might be baptized into Christ's sufferings, that we might not shrink at trials, but bear them with patience and joy, knowing what Jesus had suffered that we through His poverty and sufferings might be made rich. Said the angel, "Deny self; ye must step fast." Some of us have had time to get the truth and to advance step by step, and every step we have taken has given us strength to take the next. But now time is almost finished, and what we have been years learning, they will have to learn in a few months. They will also have much to unlearn and much to learn again. Those who would not receive the mark of the beast and his image when the decree goes forth, must have decision now to say, Nay, we will not regard the institution of the beast. {EW 67.2}

The Dissemination of the Message

The message of the Fourth Angel is the message that is preached for a testimony to all the world:

And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come. (Matthew 24:14)

Studying is good, but bearing fruit is better:

But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead? Was not Abraham our father justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar? Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect? And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God. (James 2:20-23)

For that to happen, we have prepared study material in such a way that the "wise" of Daniel 12:3 can be teachers too. The foundational studies of the Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time are available in slide presentation format. In addition, there are Excel spreadsheets with the most important timing information and feast day calculations. There are also charts, as there were in the time of William Miller, which illustrate the individual cycles of the Orion Clock. The most recent findings of the second time proclamation are also summarized in a PowerPoint presentation, which is titled The Holy Mountain of Time (also available in PDF format). It includes all the important diagrams from the Seven Lean Years article of the White Cloud Farm website.

To facilitate distribution of the message for independent study, the entire LastCountdown website has also been made available on data DVD and as a PDF book. These versions can be easily burned to data DVDs or copied to USB flash drives for distribution.

People who have flat-rate Internet have a unique opportunity to do a great work by participating in Operation Torrent. This will be the only way to bring light into a world of darkness, especially during the expected tribulation. Even those who are less technologically gifted can easily learn how to do that.

With all the opportunities we offer in terms of study material, one must never forget that personal testimony is the most important tool for evangelism. No one will inherit the kingdom of heaven who doesn't publicly confess his faith.

Whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess also before my Father which is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven. (Matthew 10:32-33)

Therefore, we ask you to show in social networks that you believe in the message of the Fourth Angel and are following the movement of High Sabbath Adventists by faith. Use the star crown applicator to place the symbol of the star crown of Anitak (Jesus' new name, meaning "the one who was wounded") with the Orion Nebula, on your forehead on a photo and use it as your profile picture. May you then get many questions about what the symbol means, so you can testify of your faith!

Not the amount of labor performed or its visible results but the spirit in which the work is done makes it of value with God. Those who came into the vineyard at the eleventh hour were thankful for an opportunity to work. Their hearts were full of gratitude to the one who had accepted them; and when at the close of the day the householder paid them for a full day's work, they were greatly surprised. They knew they had not earned such wages. And the kindness expressed in the countenance of their employer filled them with joy. They never forgot the goodness of the householder or the generous compensation they had received. Thus it is with the sinner who, knowing his unworthiness, has entered the Master's vineyard at the eleventh hour. His time of service seems so short, he feels that he is undeserving of reward; but he is filled with joy that God has accepted him at all. He works with a humble, trusting spirit, thankful for the privilege of being a co-worker with Christ. This spirit God delights to honor. {COL 397.3}

Our prayers are with all the students of the last message to mankind, which the Holy Spirit as the Fourth Angel has given us in these recent years. May His seed fall on good ground, and spring forth quickly so fruit may develop for the glory of God.

« About Us

The Timelines of Daniel 12

Beginning in 2010, we made various time proclamations and gave the final warning message to the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Our warning went unheard, and God rejected the Seventh-day Adventist organization and its apostate leaders. The Vessel of Time had already indicated that that misfortune would happen. Two corresponding year triplets marked the beginning (1861-1863) and the end (2010-2012) of the organized church, but since we love our church, we didn't want to admit it for a long time. God does not lie, however.

The New Light article series explained to God's church the parts that make up the message of the Fourth Angel and what our high calling is, and we hoped that the church would join us in sounding the loud cry of Revelation 18. We were amazed, however, that the events of 2012, happened exclusively in the heavenly sanctuary and the earthly sanctuary of Paraguay, and we sought explanations for it. The Holy Spirit instructed us in regards to the events in the heavenly sanctuary in 2012, but we could not see corresponding events on the earth.

For some time, therefore, we thought that the events in the heavenly sanctuary had been detached by God's grace from visible events which had yet to be fulfilled. Thus it came down to a time shift of one year. We explained our previous understanding of the reasons at that time in the article Miller's Mistake.

We assumed that our experiences in 2012 were like a divine blueprint for how the visible events would be fulfilled in 2013 and onwards. That is how we knew two big dates very precisely: February 27, 2013 as the beginning of the 1335 days and April 13, 2013 as the planned beginning of the time of trouble. The only unclear thing was whether April 13, 2013 would be the beginning of the 1290 days or the 1260 days. Therefore, we had to wait and see whether a suitable event would come on March 13, 2013, which could be deciphered as the beginning of the 1290 days.

As soon as we saw the world event exactly on the prophesied day, the election of the first Jesuit pope, then we also expected that, like Titus and the Roman army in the holy place, he would stand and destroy Jerusalem (faithful Adventists and followers of God). Because of that unique event, we began a new series of articles on Pope Francis, and later also recognized him to be

Satan incarnate, who masquerades as an angel of light. Here is an overview diagram from the first article of that series, which shows how we saw the events of 2012 and 2013 linked:

We saw the following fulfillments before our eyes and interpreted them as follows:

The Beginning of the 1335 Days of Visible Events

One of our counters indicated the remaining days until the start of the last 1335 days of Daniel 12. It expired on the exact date of the public farewell of Pope Benedict XVI on February 27, 2013. We were the only ones in the world who had correctly predicted that date, which coincided with the beginning of the phase of the eighth head of Revelation 17.

The Beginning of the 1290 Days of Visible Events

The election of the first (and surely the last) Jesuit pope could now be clearly identified as the setting up of the abomination of Daniel 12. These 1290 days thus began on March 13, 2013 and extend to the destruction of Rome, i.e. Babylon, by the angry nations on September 24, 2016, 30 days before the coming of Christ. The article entitled The Beast from the Bottomless Pit covers that topic.

The Beginning of the 1260 Days of Visible Events

On Sabbath, April 13, 2013 a message was published which struck like a bomb from the Vatican. For the first time, Pope Francis has set up his “generals” in a council of cardinals, which come from all corners of the globe, to “reform the Vatican and its bureaucratic structures.” Thus was established a world-wide governmental structure of the Vatican for the first time in world history. This sensation marks like no other message on this homepage before it, the clear intention of the pope to reign world-wide and indeed with the full power of the Roman Catholic Church whose wound is now healed.

God's Change of Plans

All that was said heretofore was the original plan of God, which would have come to pass had the Adventist church fulfilled its God-given mission of preaching the message of the third angel of Revelation 14. Unfortunately, they couldn't sound the loud cry from 2012 or 2013 on because the leaders and the majority of members had rejected God's message from Orion, which should have empowered them to do their work. Their pride forbade them from accepting the rebukes and corrections from God. The judgment of the living, which had been planned for 1260 days, could not begin on time, and a change of venue was needed. The voice of God should no longer go out from the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, but from Paraguay where God's faithful in the movement of High Sabbath Adventists are headquartered. However, preparations had to be made in the heavenly realm as well as the earthly, for the restructuring, which needed a certain amount of time.

On the evening of January 31, 2014, Brother John received the light about the beginning of the trumpet cycle, its duration, and the knowledge of a coming plague cycle of the Clock of God in Orion. That is when he delivered his sermon entitled The Last Race, which had actually begun and would culminate in the battle of Armageddon at the 2016 feast of tabernacles.

We wondered why God made the trumpet cycle occupy only 624 days, thus spanning about half of the judgment of the living's 1260 days. Although we recognized from the study of the rations of Ezekiel that there was a division of the 1260 days into sections of 636 and 624 days, we did not understand yet why the trumpet cycle was so short. Today we know that the judgment of the living really only started with the trumpet cycle on February 1, 2014, and not on May 6, 2012 as in the above diagram. God foreknew that we would one day ask for more time and would thus fill in the gap for the Adventist Church's infidelity. The change of venue and the relocation of the seat of the voice of God and His earthly authority had caused a delay of 636 days in beginning the judgment of the living. Those 636 days would therefore have to come later!

That is why God divided the trumpet cycle into two parts: one part before the Summit of Time on October 23, 2016, which was comprised of the 624 days of rations from Ezekiel's autumn feasts, and the complementary trumpet cycle extending from November 22, 2016 to August 20, 2018, which is the original 636 days of the rations from the spring feasts, which were relocated. A few of the trumpet texts already fulfilled on the first pass (for example, see Trumpets with a Certain Sound or Babylon Is Fallen!), but we saw that there were always parts of the trumpets which had not yet been completely fulfilled. As soon as the second trumpet cycle began on November 22, 2016, we quickly recognized that those unfulfilled parts of the Bible texts were starting to be fulfilled almost literally (see Fulfilled Prophecies).

We followed the diagram above for a long time, because it would have been God's original plan with a faithful Adventist church. After the first trumpet cycle ended, which was the only one we knew at that time, the "year of plagues" began on October 25, 2015 in a new cycle, the length of which could also be calculated with the portions of the Holy Spirit from the shadows of the sacrifices. For 372 days we experienced "plagues" that seemed, oddly enough, still mixed with mercy. We saw the terrible developments in regard to LGBT acceptance in the churches, and we anticipated the day of the demon. Islam flooded Europe and other countries, and the locusts multiplied explosively in the same-sex way. We needed to use those 372 daily portions of food rations from God to keep from losing the faith and remain anchored in Time. God provided wonderfully. The question grew louder and louder: "when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?"

It wasn't until the 2016 feast of tabernacles, when the wave of God the Father's second time proclamation reached us just before the expected coming of Jesus on the 24th (23rd) of October, 2016, that we began to understand the whole interrelationship in general. Finally, we realized that the election of Pope Francis was in fact the fulfillment of the setting up of the abomination of Daniel 12 and the warning of the coming of a terrible persecution, but that it was not to come to pass immediately at that time.

In both God's original and modified timetables, the Jesuit general George Mario Bergoglio as Pope Francis fulfills the type of a Roman general. In His original timetable, Pope Francis was the anti-type of General Cestius, who surprisingly withdrew the Roman army, thus opening the way for the Christians to flee from Jerusalem for three and a half years before General Titus appeared and the siege closed in again for good, and the massacre began soon afterward.

In God's original plan (diagram above), Pope Francis at his election on March 13, 2013 stood as the Roman general Cestius in a place where he ought not, and thus he fulfilled the type in the warning that Jesus personally enunciated. According to the example given us by the two sieges of Jerusalem and the timelines of Daniel, "General Titus" should begin his siege 1290 days later at the autumn feasts in 2016.

Pope Francis fulfills the type again, this time of General Titus who brought death. In God's adjusted timetable, which was modified to accommodate our request for more time, Pope Francis stood in a holy place where he ought not stand when as General Titus, he stood before both houses of the US Congress on September 24, 2015, and again on the following day when he opened the UN General Assembly as the leader of the world—or as a beast whose wound was healed (diagram below). This time it was dead serious, however, and no longer a warning.

Nevertheless, he didn't begin his siege to starve God's people on that date, which was a year too early according to the type, because God had not allowed it yet. There were still 30 daily rations remaining of the 624 days from Ezekiel's autumn feasts and the 372 rations of the Holy Spirit that still prohibited him from commencing his work of destruction. Satan as General Titus knew of the waiting period that was imposed on him, so he decreed his own "Year of Mercy" from December 8, 2015 to November 20, 2016. Not even two days after its expiration, the final complementary trumpets began to sound on November 22, 2016, and Israel went up in flames. Signs from God can't get any clearer. "Titus" is back.

Even more interesting than that date is the date of the beginning of "General Titus" siege, which God established. It is the date when everyone who heard the warning message from Orion, but did not believe it, are just as lost as the people who remained in Jerusalem between 66 and 70 AD, in spite of Jesus' warning. When Jesus didn't come back on October 24, 2016, the door of mercy of God's greatest message to mankind was closed to the critics, skeptics, and scoffers. Whoever didn't believe in the message and respond and join us before that time, is more surely not going to do so now. Furthermore, those who left us after the Summit of Time passed by, or even rebelled against God's messengers, will probably never again reach out for God's arm of salvation. However:

The broken ranks will be filled up by those represented by Christ as coming in at the eleventh hour. There are many with whom the Spirit of God is striving. The time of God's destructive judgments is the time of mercy for those who [now] have no opportunity to learn what is truth. Tenderly will the Lord look upon them. His heart of mercy is touched, His hand is still stretched out to save, while the door is closed to those who would not enter. Large numbers will be admitted who in these last days hear the truth for the first time.—Letter 103, 1903. {LDE 182.2}

"General Titus" intends to seal the fate of the last faithful Christians with a death decree set for April 6, 2019, precisely 1290 days after his speech to the UN. However, he will suffer total defeat, because Jesus will stop him and return shortly thereafter. (Read the first chapter of the Great Controversy!)

The wave of the second time proclamation, which started just before the Day of Atonement in 2016, was to last a few more months until the series of articles entitled The Sacrifice of Philadelphia was completed in January, 2017 on our new study website, White Cloud Farm. The last article of the series, The Seven Lean Years, treats and explains in detail the new view of the Daniel timelines, the second trumpet cycle, and the final arrangement of end-time events. If that article of the four-part series alone were printed in book form, it would be a book with over 250 pages.

The Countdowns

It has been prophesied since 1846 that in the last days a Christian movement would arise that would announce the dates of two specific events, exactly to the day:

John came in the spirit and power of Elijah to proclaim the first advent of Jesus. I was pointed down to the last days and saw that John represented those who should go forth in the spirit and power of Elijah to herald the day of wrath and the second advent of Jesus. {EW 155.1}

The High Sabbath Adventist movement is coupled to the story of a man who followed a divine call to leave his European homeland and buy property that God showed him in Paraguay. There, under very difficult circumstances in the extreme heat of the country, John Scotram rounded out the studies he had begun in 2004 by solving the riddle of the man with the golden measuring rod in the Bible. That same year on the Mediterranean island of Mallorca, he had finally let go of his computer consulting business, which was just flourishing after years of difficulty. He gave it up to allow the Holy Spirit to teach him, sheltered in the nature of Paraguay.

2008 was to be the year when another riddle in the Word of God would open to his understanding: the oath of the man over the river in Daniel 12. God had already twice shown him the year 2012, and he understood that he was to prepare accommodations by that year for more helpers in Paraguay, which he did insofar as his limited financial resources allowed.

By the end of December, 2009, Brother John had received the last missing piece of the puzzle to understand how God's great clock of time in Orion could be read. On December 29, 2009, he saw for the first time how an Orion clock cycle unfurled (the judgment cycle) and which dates God pointed to in this book of seven seals. He recognized through the past dates that God had a message for the people that contained many teachings, and that the defiled jewels of Adventism needed to be cleaned up again and brought back to their historic place. God gave him the task of turning the heart of the fathers to the children and the heart of the children to their fathers before the day cometh that shall burn as an oven.

In January of 2010, the Orion presentation was released, summarizing the first lessons that the Holy Spirit had given him. The first version of the Orion presentation would not be the only one through the many years that the knowledge of the bountiful message of God has been ever growing. It was never a message purely about setting the time of Christ's return; the message exposes false teachers and shows which doctrines have penetrated the Christian churches, especially since 1844, in order to lead the people astray and thus betray them to eternal death. The message he received contained remonstrances against the leadership of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and a call to return to the divinely specified path they had deviated from.

Only two dates on the judgment clock were yet future: 2012 and 2014, with only the latter being indicated by a star. What would happen that year? The first obvious idea was that Jesus could return, because 2014 was the year pointed out by the star of the rider of the white horse (Christ).

In the search for Bible truth, knowledge slowly grew until in September of 2010, while studying God's true calendar, the solution to the Two-Passover problem, and the shadows of the sacrifices, Brother John found a second divine clock composed of all the High Sabbaths of every year since the time of William Miller. The structure of the clock strongly resembled the double helix of a DNA strand, and the "genes" described therein were further teachings that described the character of a true Christian. Brother John was able to find the "divine gene" that promises eternal life. And... this clock also had a well-defined ending: the year 2015, which was one year beyond the end of the judgment clock in Orion.

How could the difference of one year on these two divine clocks be explained? In the study of the shadows of the sacrifices, Brother John could make out 372 daily rations of the Holy Spirit, provided for a special time of crisis, so that people's faith would not fail in despair. It looked like God intended them for this time difference of one year. It initially seemed clear that the one-year difference was in all likelihood the year of the seven last plagues, since many Bible texts speak of the prophetic day or literal year of the wrath or recompense of God.

The time had come to not only restore all the teachings that God pointed to in His clocks to their historic places, but to give time warnings. If Jesus were to come on Yom Kippur, 2015, then the persecution and tribulation would have to begin 1335, 1290 or 1260 days earlier, according to the timelines of Daniel. So, a world-changing event would have to happen on February 27, 2012, at the latest.

In regards to such events, Adventists immediately think of the National Sunday Law in the United States due to the prophecies of the messenger of God, Ellen G. White, which is to persecute the true believers before the coming of Jesus who keep the commandments (especially the fourth). The Adventists, however, didn't wait until 2012 to treat Brother John how the Jews treated the prophets that had been sent to them. God had sent Brother John to Paraguay out of His divine providence, where it was difficult to inflict physical harm on him in his sheltered dwelling place. Nevertheless, he was silenced everywhere possible, and the message was attacked without any biblical grounds against it. Thus began a long sad story for Brother John and those who soon followed him to his little farm in Paraguay and started to live in the small houses he had built there, not knowing for whom or if anyone would ever live in them.

When 2012 came, the Holy Spirit continued to teach us, and we learned a lot about the movements in the heavenly courts, which had consequences on the earth, but not yet in the visible form that was desired. There was a delay, and it took us years—up to autumn 2016—to fully understand why the court venue had to change and the judgment of the living couldn't begin until 2014 after a delay of 636 days.

2014, the ending year marked in the Orion judgment cycle, was to be the beginning of a new Orion cycle: the trumpet cycle. Its duration made it clear that Jesus would not return in 2015 either, but in 2016. Once again, God had assigned to us the task of associating world-news events to the dates on His clocks, which we carefully and deliberately did. Countdowns were again set, many articles were written about the last battle and the end of mercy. We learned not to see in every trumpet the infamous fireballs prophesied by Ellen G. White or the Sunday Law in the US that all Adventists expect, though its twin had already been murdered in June of 2015. Through trial and error, we gradually became wiser and less erring in our predictions, which—although we were always led by the Holy Spirit—were mostly based on studies of the corresponding Bible texts.

At the same time that Brother John received the knowledge of the trumpet cycle of the Orion clock (January 31, 2014), the Holy Spirit also revealed a plague cycle. The 372 days of the daily rations of the Holy Spirit provided the framework for it. We were in full suspense throughout it as we awaited the arrival of the terrible catastrophes. As in the trumpet cycle before it, we found interesting fulfillments fitting the Bible texts and new insights which we summarized in the End of the World series, but again neither the fireballs, nor the ulcers, nor the literal Sunday law ever came. What happened? Why were the trumpets only fulfilled "halfway" and the plagues even a lesser part?

We learned the answers to these questions in the second time proclamation, which began shortly before the date that we understood as the date of Jesus' return, the 24th (23rd) of October 2016. God's original plan, which we had received, had failed because of the Adventist church's refusal to carry the light of the Fourth Angel into all the world with 20 million helpers. For the world as a whole, all there was of the prophesied loud cry was only the dying away of a quiet voice of a nightingale from a wilderness forest of Paraguay.

For a long time, God let us think that His original plan was still valid. Our faith had to be tested, and we had to make a sacrifice, which is what finally made us into the proven, clean church of Philadelphia. It was that sacrifice that moved God to present us with His new schedule for the second proclamation of the day and hour of the coming of Jesus, which was prophesied more than 170 years ago. This time we were given the remaining dates of importance for the destiny of mankind, a complementary trumpet cycle that—as the name implies—complements the parts of the trumpet texts that were still missing, having not yet been fulfilled in the first trumpet cycle, and we received understanding of the timelines of Daniel and how Pope Francis first withdrew as "General Cestius" for three and a half years before having now already returned as "General Titus" to bring on the tribulation. The Destruction of Jerusalem is the first chapter in Ellen G. White's most famous book, The Great Controversy, and we are in the midst of all the last countdowns for Jerusalem and Christendom. The days given to the heathen are also numbered.

God is love, but He is also time—which wasn't just created by Him. He is time, just as He is love. Therefore, He can do nothing other than give to His prophets that which He is. He gives His love to mankind, but He also gives His time to His prophets. When God bestows His love upon us, He gives us a clock. When we spread God's love and time, it is by placing a new countdown on one of our websites. Then you can see it and read from it how long God still has patience to demonstrate to you that He loves you and therefore bestows upon you more time.

God's last love messages to His children are clocks—clocks as grandiose as the thousands of lightyears extent of the Orion constellation, which, since the creation of Adam, has already counted down scores of times in the form of an hourglass—or just as astonishing as a man's DNA, which packs all his physical traits and characteristics in the tiniest space in every cell of his body. God showed us His DNA to heal us... and again, it was a clock.

Contemplate what you say with the sentence: "I have no time to read these things." And listen to the words of the preacher: "to every thing there is a season, and a time..." even to the patience of God.

There are a total of 16 countdowns for viewing on our new White Cloud Farm website. A few of them have already expired, and in the new Prophecies Fulfilled section, we are writing about what happened at the respective times or in the respective timeframes.

The Fireballs ▶

The Fireballs

The Terrible Event to Be Expected: Great Balls of Fire.

And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon. And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed. And he doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men, And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live. (Revelation 13:11-14)

Last Friday morning, just before I awoke, a very impressive scene was presented before me. I seemed to awake from sleep but was not in my home. From the windows I could behold a terrible conflagration. Great balls of fire were falling upon houses, and from these balls fiery arrows were flying in every direction. It was impossible to check the fires that were kindled, and many places were being destroyed. The terror of the people was indescribable. After a time I awoke and found myself at home.—Evangelism, 29 (1906). {LDE 24.3}

I saw an immense ball of fire fall among some beautiful mansions, causing their instant destruction. I heard someone say: “We knew that the judgments of God were coming upon the earth, but we did not know that they would come so soon.” Others, with agonized voices, said: “You knew! Why then did you not tell us? We did not know.”—Testimonies for the Church 9:28 (1909). {LDE 25.1}

God gives us clocks that tell time, but He leaves it to our intelligence to figure out how the prophecies and their fulfillments through world events align to the times on the clock. We are seeing more and more how the principle applies, which Jesus Himself explained:

And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe. (John 14:29)

We should show belief when the true character of symbolic prophecies is revealed. Prophecies are given as warnings—warnings of the wrath of God, which will soon be poured out, unmixed with mercy. Many, however, don't seem satisfied with the fulfillment of symbolic prophecies.

For example, they are waiting for a literal mountain to indeed fall into the sea as the fulfillment of the second trumpet. That is why they think of an asteroid or comet. In so doing, however, they forget that in the third trumpet a whole star would have to fall to the ground, leaving no room for the remaining trumpets or plagues to be fulfilled, because a star would already involve the entire planet in its atom-melting process, which would be very difficult for mankind to survive.

The warning trumpets are not destruction in the sense of the plagues, but symbols of world-shaking events in politics and religion. They help you hypothesize what the plagues will bring upon mankind when the vial of God's wrath has been filled and poured out. We will still be in a complementary trumpet cycle until August 20, 2018, during which there will be no events that completely destroy the world. Unfortunately, people do not pay attention to these divine warnings, which come like the still small voice that Elijah recognized God in.

And he said, Go forth, and stand upon the mount before the LORD. And, behold, the LORD passed by, and a great and strong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind: and after the wind an earthquake; but the LORD was not in the earthquake: And after the earthquake a fire; but the LORD was not in the fire: and after the fire a still small voice. And it was so, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, and stood in the entering in of the cave. And, behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, What doest thou here, Elijah? (1 Kings 19:11-13)

The destruction of the plagues will begin at two different points in time, because the door of mercy for mankind will close a little later than the door of mercy for the apostate Seventh-day Adventist Church, which did not fulfill their God-given mission, and did not warn the world with the message of the Fourth Angel (which is the loud cry of the third angel). Their punishment must come sooner for that reason.

For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God? (1 Peter 4:17)

The still small voice is the voice of the Holy Spirit speaking to us. The 372 portions of the Holy Spirit, which for a long time we thought was for the time of plagues, have already been used up. The mercy of God is shown by the fact that since November 22, 2016, we have been allowed to use the 636 rations which are still left from the delayed beginning of the judgment of the living (see Daniel's Timelines). However, those will also be exhausted on August 20, 2018, and then the Holy Spirit will be completely withdrawn from the earth. That will be the beginning of the plagues for mankind.

The beginning of the punishment for God's judgment church (Laodicea) must therefore be a short time before August 20, 2018. This punishment will be the falling fireballs that will destroy the Adventists' "mansions," including their General Conference building. Since the seventh and last trumpet is the time of plagues itself, and they will last exactly 280 days according to our latest understanding—the gestation period of a woman before the birth pangs of the coming Savior—the only other time for the judgement to begin at the house of God is the beginning of the sixth complementary trumpet. It is a throne line, which is very appropriate to the topic. It points to the date range of June 3-10, 2018.

Now something frightening appears. Let's think back on Brother John's Carmel Challenge of 2015. God showed him that the sixth trumpet would be the date of the fireballs upon His fallen church. That prompted him to write the following on April 20, 2015, a few months before July 8, 2015, the sixth trumpet of the original cycle...

The Challenge

This date for Elijah's modern challenge was set by God (and definitely not by us, because we weren't alive at the time of Elijah).

The sixth trumpet is the perfect moment for such a divine event, because in the text of the sixth trumpet, we find that it was set for an hour, day, month, and year.^[1]

The sixth trumpet of the trumpet cycle of Orion will bring destruction and death to those who have crept into the church of God to destroy it from within. The modern prophets of Baal and Asherah will meet their end on that day (and in the period following it).

I, John Scotram, as representative of the High Sabbath Adventists now lift up my eyes to God in the Orion Nebula, and say with Elijah:

O LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, let it be known on that day—Wednesday, July 8, 2015—that Thou art God in Israel, and that I am Thy servant, and that I have done all these things according to Thy word. Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that Thou art the LORD God, and that Thou hast turned their heart back again.

Cleanse Thou, O Lord, Thy house from the stench of the Jesuits and the apostasy! Let Your consuming fire, according to Ezekiel 9, do its work so that Your church can again shine with the light You chose for her, that it may lighten the whole earth.

We, the High Sabbath Adventists, summon you, Ted Wilson, apostate leadership of the Adventist Church, heads of the formerly Protestant churches, and the WHOLE OF CHRISTIANITY, to a decision point, to follow either He who created you, or the one who will destroy you. It is our desire that you may give God the honor and the authority that is anchored in His seventh-day Sabbath!

If we are wrong and God will not let fire come down from heaven, then July 8, 2015 will be the end of this movement and the websites of the two witnesses—the Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time, which have tormented the inhabitants of the earth (especially Adventists).^[2] Then you can continue—with no hope of Christ's speedy return—to pursue your sins undisturbed, and believe that everything has been done at the cross and that everyone—from child killer to rapist, from pedophile to the patron of the animal brothels of Denmark^[3]—is automatically saved as long as he merely calls on the name of Jesus without any change of behavior.

[Note: One way or another, the blame for these events will be put on us! Let no one come to the foolish idea of wanting to help out! It must be a visible judgment from God without any human intervention! We are not fanatics who threaten anyone with death. We ask God to intervene, because we ourselves are impotent. And if He is with us, He will fight for us while we hide!^[4]

But if we are right and the last five years of preaching have not been in vain, then for many it will be too late to repent. Many will die, and the fire that starts in San Antonio, will spread over the entire globe. There is plenty to cleanse—not just the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. The Sunday laws will follow very quickly, and the survivors will recognize that we were right all along.

It will all happen with the speed of a divine windstorm, so that there will barely be enough time to breathe. The latter rain will be poured out so hard over the last faithful people of God that everyone who is missing from the 144,000 will be found and sealed in just three and a half months.

The outpouring of the Spirit in the days of the apostles was “the former rain,” and glorious was the result. But the latter rain will be more abundant. {LDE 185.5}^[5]

The destruction did not come over the church at the time, but we did not have to give up. God granted a deferral, and the Seventh-day Adventist Church used a trick to avoid their destruction at that time. Today we know that God has long been following another plan. Nevertheless, that was one of the most critical points of our mission, because Brother John had clearly heard the voice of the Lord, which is what caused him to make the Challenge.

A divine mystery was revealed during the course of the second time proclamation, described in detail in the Sacrifice of Philadelphia series. We learned that the trumpet cycle was not only split in two, but also that the second pass runs in the opposite direction. The fact that it was indeed so, was only recently (as of this writing) confirmed by the exact date of the second complementary trumpet on March 6, 2017, which we predicted in advance.

That means time is running backwards! We discovered this phenomenon not only in the complementary trumpet cycle, but also in a backwards-running High Sabbath List, which suddenly presents in a compressed form, behaving like a chromosome just before cell division, i.e. before its multiplication. By virtue of the fact that the light from the beacon of time reached us on April 27, 2013, we were able to determine the point in the history of mankind, or in that of God's last-day church, to which we would have to return. We are traveling back in time to the year of the 70th jubilee from when the jubilee was first instituted, which commenced on the Day of Atonement in 1890. God brings us back to the beginning of the Fourth Angel's message, when the Seventh-day Adventist Church committed its fatal mistake in 1888, thus preventing Jesus from coming in 1890.

God held back the Sun of Righteousness on October 23, 2016, like how He did at the time of Joshua so that the battle could come to a victorious end. Jesus shouldn't have come yet so that many could bear witness to the Father. On the sundial of Ahaz, however, the shadow did not just stop—it went backwards!

Behold, I will bring again the shadow of the degrees, which is gone down in the sun dial of Ahaz, ten degrees backward. So the sun returned ten degrees, by which degrees it was gone down. (Isaiah 38:8)

Nothing written in the Word of God is without meaning. God clearly shows that He is Time, and that He can do with it what He wants, even running it backwards when He assents to a selfless request.

So regardless of whether we view the complementary trumpet cycle as a stand-alone cycle or as the reversion of the original trumpet cycle, we always revisit every single trumpet of the original cycle during our journey into the past. In the Prophecies Fulfilled section of White Cloud Farm, our new study website, we are writing about the additional fulfillments of the trumpet texts, which had not yet been completely fulfilled in the first pass. We have already found astounding harmonies. Each individual prophecy of each text is now being complemented, hence the name of the new cycle.

That is how we come back to the sixth trumpet of the original cycle, when the request of the man whose "return" was prophesied in Malachi chapter 4 was heard by God at the exact time prophesied. On June 3, 2018, which corresponds to July 8, 2015, the Carmel Challenge of John Scotram and the High Sabbath Adventists will be visibly answered by God before the whole world, and fire will be upon the apostate Seventh-day Adventist Church from then up to and including June 10, 2018. Then it will be clear that they had the truth but did not live up to it. (Any other interpretation of their destruction is a lie from Satan!) May God then have mercy on those who see the judgments of God, which will befall all men shortly thereafter, and convert prior to August 20, 2018.

The Sunday Law

The most beloved prophetic "brainchild" of the Seventh-day Adventists is the long-awaited "National Sunday Law in the USA," the various facets of which were addressed by the messenger of God, Ellen G. White. If you ask a nominal Adventist about his prophetic knowledge, the first response will be about the Sunday Law, when Sabbath-keeping will be forbidden and punishable by law, up to and including a death decree. For him, that is THE great sign of the end and that persecution has come. There is nothing else that can rouse him out of his tranquility, because what the Bible says is simply not preached, and neither is what Ellen G. White wrote, except for the few pages about this man-made law. Her most important book of about 700 pages has been cut down to 50, and new nominal Adventists don't even know that the frightening title picture above is about this: The Antichrist is the pope. We would add that Pope Francis is not only the Antichrist, but even Satan incarnate.

Because of the Adventists' lack of knowledge of the signs of the end, it was easy for the Jesuits to completely undermine their church organization and finally take it over. Today, there are no institutions supported by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, whether hospitals, universities, or other organizations and ministries, that are not firmly in the grasp of God's enemies. Newly baptized Adventists are no longer taught, and often they do not even know about Ellen G. White, who God gifted to help the church more than 170 years ago so that it would not fall from the narrow way to heaven.

My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children. (Hosea 4:6)

So this church, which has now become one of the most successful organizations of the Prince of Darkness, was no longer able to fulfill its mission and give the warning message of the third angel of Revelation 14, which cries out its warning of the plagues that will come over Babylon. Thus, Satan has done his greatest work by making God's end-time church into an instrument to preach his lies. Today, there are all sorts of "unclean birds" in the church: anti-Trinitarian larks, lunar Sabbath nightingales, ecumenical wrens—and their top boss is a masked owl by the name of Ted

Wilson. He leads the great masses of red and black robins in this church into singing the song of Babylon together, which everyone can learn. Now the doors are also wide open to the rainbow-colored LGBT peacocks, which immediately strutted in and boldly perched themselves on the seats of the elders and pastors. If a person considers all of that to be singing the song of the 144,000, then they must be a member of the genus of the red-throated swallow.

The operating manual of the Fourth Angel reads as follows:

And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. (Revelation 18:2)

Today's nominal Adventist sings aloud with the ever-present sparrows of the papacy, which Ellen White warned about long before the Sunday Law. He sings in the choir loft and pollutes the same pews with his droppings. You can't even see a difference in their feces anymore.

Ellen G. White's warning about the Sunday Law in the US was degraded into a farce. The nominal Adventists, along with the rest of Christianity, have forgotten the warning of James:

For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all. For he that said, Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a transgressor of the law. (James 2:10-11)*

The Sabbath-keeping nominal Adventist feels at peace before God if he doesn't turn on the television on Sabbath and just warms up pre-cooked food in the microwave. Some think that it is enough to limit work and celebration with friends to only the afternoon of the Sabbath, while others happily shout: "It's Sabbath, hurray! TV day!" and stay at home for a few hours, only tweeting if an interesting game is on: "Gooooooooooooooooo!" Anyway, they believe that the Sabbath should be kept how Jesus kept it, and since He is love, they let in more queer birds enter their church, and they immediately make them their bishops. It doesn't matter if you are a cock or a hen, because anyhow gay marriage was established by God and made in His image.

No wonder the cunning devil could play his game with the Adventists. When the issue of women's ordination and LGBT acceptance grew louder and louder, it was handed over to a body of internal General Conference Jesuits, the so-to-speak spiritual sparrow people, to decide what to do about it. Of course, the result was a call for the total transgression of God's commandments, but the nominal Adventist still defends himself with vegan liverwurst and milk-free product slogans, occasionally knocking on the doors of unsuspecting simpletons to persuade them that they should go to the country only when the Sunday Law has come.

What a sham! That's why you could tell from the get-go that no nominal Adventist would wake up when the Supreme Court of the US announced the nation-wide introduction of same-sex marriage in June of 2015. They didn't realize that marriage was the Sabbath's twin institution, which Ellen G. White declared indissolubly linked to it. If one of God's Edenic institutions is attacked, the other one is automatically under fire. We wore our fingers to the bone writing to root a few more people out of Satan's clutches, nearly in vain. The wine of Babylon had made them all drunk already.

Still following God's original plan at that time, the entry into force of the National "Sodomy" Law in the US had to be equated with the prophesied proclamation of the National Sunday Law, because we knew nothing of the sacrifice we would later make, which would allow for a second, complementary trumpet cycle. The Supreme Court made its serious and far-reaching ruling on June 26, 2015, shortly before the end of the fifth trumpet, when Brother John had already expressed his Carmel Challenge, and it gave us impetus to warn even more urgently. The Death of the Twins would become one of our most important and, unfortunately, least noticed articles.

Later—years later—a few pastors like Andrew Henriques also recognized the harmony with the twin, but their conclusion was only that the Sunday Law was then surely near, and that a person should grow vegetables in the country. They don't have God's clocks, and that is their problem. They don't ask what time it is; they only have events with no idea when they should occur. That is why they react clumsily.

When we recognized the second trumpet cycle during the waves of the second time proclamation, it was immediately clear to us that the real Sunday Law in the US could come in the fifth complementary trumpet as the twin to the anti-marriage law! What is shown on one side of the chiasm formed by these two complementary trumpets could be repeated on the other side in a similar way. Together, the two sides would paint the whole picture. When we speak of twins, of course, one twin is on one side and the other twin is on the other side. That is why our old articles are so important and meaningful. Everything we wrote about the original trumpets and gracious "plagues" is now coming back with a complementary vengeance. It is profitable to read those articles again, because there are many more fulfilled prophecies now.

One thing should be clear: If the SDA pastors of today are diligently preaching the United Nations' LGBT and women's agenda against God's laws, then we don't need a prophetess to know what they will preach when the fifth trumpet of Trump sounds.

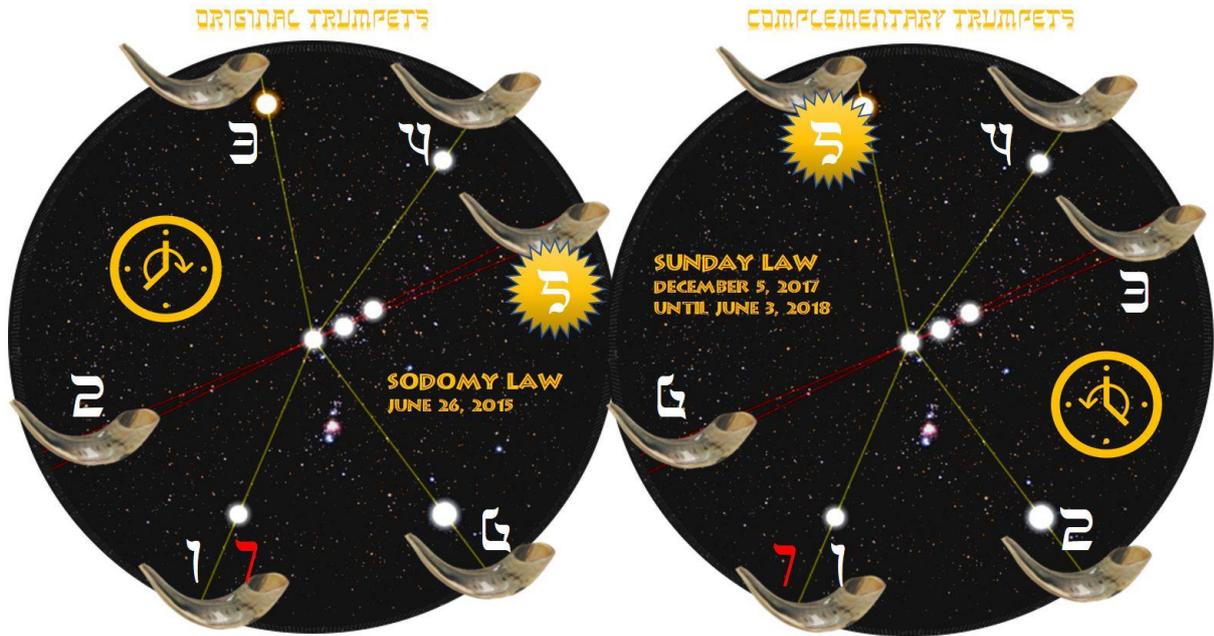

Let's go further and look at the date. The fifth complementary trumpet goes on for almost six months. Therefore, it is able to contain the period of five months that are mentioned in the Bible text. At some point in that period from December 5, 2017 to June 3, 2018, the real Sunday Law in the US—if ever—could be announced and the twins would be together. However, on June 3, 2018 itself, the fire of God from the Carmel Challenge will pour out over the apostate former "Judgment Church," whose preachers are going to commit the ultimate Adventist sacrilege of ingratiating themselves with Sunday sacredness. God's year of recompenses will begin at the house of God!

The plagues will come upon all humanity less than two months thereafter. They will last 280 days, which is the period of a woman's gestation. Anyone who wants to grow something in the country before God's judgment is poured out should shop at Monsanto, where they have "healthy" genetically engineered three-month corn and wheat. Well, there's nothing more you can do anymore as a nominal Adventist and GC-hooked gray parrot that just repeats what the Roman sparrows whistle from the rooftops: "peace and security!"

But of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you. For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. (1 Thessalonians 5:1-3)

William Miller's Dream

Quoting from the book Early Writings, pages 81–83:

I dreamed that God, by an unseen hand, sent me a curiously wrought casket about ten inches long by six square, made of ebony and pearls curiously inlaid. To the casket there was a key attached. I immediately took the key and opened the casket, when, to my wonder and surprise, I found it filled with all sorts and sizes of jewels, diamonds, precious stones, and gold and silver coin of every dimension and value, beautifully arranged in their several places in the casket; and thus arranged they reflected a light and glory equaled only to the sun.

I thought it was not my duty to enjoy this wonderful sight alone, although my heart was overjoyed at the brilliancy, beauty, and value of its contents. I therefore placed it on a center table in my room and gave out word that all who had a desire might come and see the most glorious and brilliant sight ever seen by man in this life.

The people began to come in, at first few in number, but increasing to a crowd. When they first looked into the casket, they would wonder and shout for joy. But when the spectators increased, everyone would begin to trouble the jewels, taking them out of the casket and scattering them on the table.

I began to think that the owner would require the casket and the jewels again at my hand; and if I suffered them to be scattered, I could never place them in their places in the casket again as before; and felt I should never be able to meet the accountability, for it would be immense. I then began to plead with the people not to handle them, nor to take them out of the casket; but the more I pleaded, the more they scattered; and now they seemed to scatter them all over the room, on the floor and on every piece of furniture in the room.

I then saw that among the genuine jewels and coin they had scattered an innumerable quantity of spurious jewels and counterfeit coin. I was highly incensed at their base conduct and ingratitude, and reprovved and reproached them for it; but the more I reprovved, the more they scattered the spurious jewels and false coin among the genuine.

I then became vexed in my physical soul and began to use physical force to push them out of the room; but while I was pushing out one, three more would enter and bring in dirt and shavings and sand and all manner of rubbish, until they covered every one of the true jewels, diamonds, and coins, which were all excluded from sight. They also tore in pieces my casket and scattered it among the rubbish. I thought no man regarded my sorrow or my anger. I became wholly discouraged and disheartened, and sat down and wept.

While I was thus weeping and mourning for my great loss and accountability, I remembered God, and earnestly prayed that He would send me help.

Immediately the door opened, and a man entered the room, when the people all left it; and he, having a dirt brush in his hand, opened the windows, and began to brush the dirt and rubbish from the room.

I cried to him to forbear, for there were some precious jewels scattered among the rubbish.

He told me to "fear not," for he would "take care of them".

Then, while he brushed the dirt and rubbish, false jewels and counterfeit coin, all rose and went out of the window like a cloud, and the wind carried them away. In the bustle I closed my eyes for a moment; when I opened them, the rubbish was all gone. The precious jewels, the diamonds, the gold and silver coins, lay scattered in profusion all over the room.

He then placed on the table a casket, much larger and more beautiful than the former, and gathered up the jewels, the diamonds, the coins, by the handful, and cast them into the casket, till not one was left, although some of the diamonds were not bigger than the point of a pin.

He then called upon me to "come and see."

I looked into the casket, but my eyes were dazzled with the sight. They shone with ten times their former glory. I thought they had been scoured in the sand by the feet of those wicked persons who had scattered and trod them in the dust. They were arranged in beautiful order in the casket, every one in its place, without any visible pains of the man who cast them in. I shouted with very joy, and that shout awoke me.

Official Statement »

October 22, 2016: LastCountdown Official Statement

After all the proof we have given in the past seven years, we have known that Jesus would come now.

During the time of the Feast of Tabernacles this year, Jesus led us through a special “boot camp.” The whole movement was called, not to hold the Feast of Tabernacles, but to live in tents during that time. There, we recognized that Jesus wanted us to think about the biblical patriarchs like the Jews do during the feast and to see ourselves as the shepherds who received the good tidings of His coming.

On every day of the feast, we were taught by the Holy Spirit, and after a few days of very good news and a deeper understanding of our mission, we understood that we could be selfish by ushering in the pre-tribulation rapture. We would have gone to Heaven—but only those who had received the complete seal of God, including a special knowledge that defines the 144,000.

Many people who were not sealed with that knowledge, like those who just copied “October 24, 2016” to their foreheads on their Facebook profile pictures, did not really have that seal. In fact, Jesus showed us that they were sealed for death, because they were missing the part of the seal that would have enabled them to go through the great time of trouble alive. They would have also lost their eternal lives because destruction would have come over the earth without any mercy.

We recognized that that was God’s intent for them and for the world. However, we also realized that we needed to intercede for them like Moses did, asking God to spare them. He explained to us that a great sacrifice was necessary for that to happen—a sacrifice similar to what Jesus did on the cross. We had to show that we had grown to the full stature of Christ by making the sacrifice.

THEREFORE, WE HEREBY OFFICIALLY DECLARE, for all the world to read, THAT ON WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 2016, WE PETITIONED FOR JESUS—who had already stopped His intercession, who had already left the Most Holy Place, who was already on His way to Earth—TO REFRAIN FROM COMING YET, AND FOR THE FATHER TO SEND IN HIS STEAD ANOTHER GREAT OUTPOURING OF THE HOLY SPIRIT so the loud cry that the Seventh-day Adventist Church should have sounded could be repeated for one heavenly hour, which is seven earthly years.

In the Garden of Gethsemane, Jesus asked: "Could ye not watch with me one hour?" We had our Gethsemane that week. We would have loved for the cup of mocking and pain to pass from us, but that would not have been love. "On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets," and because we love not only God, but also our neighbors, we were ready to offer that sacrifice. We asked Jesus to hold back His coming for another seven years, and we asked Him to let us help others and "turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever."

We do not write these paragraphs for the unbelievers and mockers, who will say no matter what, that we are liars and that we invented these things. In the past seven years (which we thought would be the only seven years of our ministry) we wrote about 1800 pages worth of evidence that Jesus would come now. None of it was wrong. Everything was the pure truth, as taught by the Holy Spirit.

We do this because of the pain of seeing our fellow brothers and sisters, many of whom just started to believe the message, die, hungering for bread that would no longer be available on the earth until the world ends in total destruction according to the seven years of Ezekiel 39. They would have been abandoned without any hope. So we asked the Lord to leave us with them, and to still give them the Bread of Life.

Contrary to what our enemies have always said, we will not end our ministry in defeat. We already ordered six new domain names and six powerful new servers that are ready to find what God has commanded us to find: the great multitude.

Everybody who reads this message is called once again to review with hope what God has taught us in the first seven years, so that he will be ready to die for the truth as a witness and as a martyr for God in the second set of seven years.

The door was closed for mankind. But now Philadelphia has asked Jesus—who has the key of David—to open the door for mankind once more. Now everybody has another chance in these seven years to leave Babylon—meaning to resign from every organized church to which they belong—and come to us, God's true church.

We want to make it clear that we are open-hearted to every single human being that contacts us, but our hearts are closed by God to our Seventh-day Adventist ex-brethren who already refused the Orion message when it was presented to them. That is the unpardonable sin against the Holy Spirit, because it is His message. We are ready to suffer for all of our enemies—even the enemies of God—for whom the door was previously closed. We are ready to go through the great tribulation with them, through nuclear war, through the real and literal plagues, and to stand with them. We are ready to lend them a hand, help them, counsel them, comfort them—except for that group which was excluded by God Himself.

We look forward to welcoming good-hearted people who are worthy to receive the blessing that we already hold in our hands.

This message was written two days before the date when most of our followers were expecting Jesus' coming. If Jesus comes in spite of our petition, everyone who reads this will be condemned to eternal death without any hope.

Your friends,

The farmers of the white cloud, the High Sabbath Adventists, and the 144,000 who stood with one foot in the gate of the Holy City.

The Clock of God

Iceberg Ahead!

Originally published on Sunday, January 24, 2010, 9:43 am in German at www.letztercountdown.org

For quite a long time I was reluctant to start this web site and publish it on the Internet. Since 2005, I discussed with brothers and sisters of our church the things that I believe I discovered through observation of world events and Bible studies, particularly of prophecy. My studies were showing that it was high time to prepare for the Loud Cry and to leave the cities, while still reaching them. But the general response was: "Oh yes, that's quite interesting. Well, we'll see whether you're right." And that was all that the great majority had to say.

Nobody responded. Nobody saw that everything preached since 1844 was now actually looming before us as the Seventh-day Adventist Church and the whole world. The "virgins" had all fallen asleep as Jesus depicted so impressively in the parable.

Very few wanted to know where we really were in the flow of prophetic time. There were only a few brethren in Canada who diligently studied with a detailed timetable for the very last events. Their timetable, however, had a small weakness because it began exactly 295 days before the proclamation of the Sunday law in the U.S. and was not that helpful if you wanted to know how far away the Sunday Law really was. Nobody knew when the 295 days—and thus the whole time table—would start. Anyway, the majority figured that such a calculation would be unbiblical and even clearly contradictory to the Spirit of Prophecy (Ellen G. White) without even questioning whether there could be some truth in it.

What happened to Adventists? When I was baptized in 2003 as a Seventh-day Adventist, I was happy to have finally found the church that had all the prophetic knowledge that I had been searching for in vain for 25 years. Initially, I was fortunate to be with some brethren in a small town in Spain who actually understood a lot about the writings of the Spirit of Prophecy and many of my questions were answered. But soon I realized that many had stopped looking or never started to look for signs for the fulfillment of the prophecies in their environment, politics, science, and especially at the throne of the beasts of Revelation 13 and 17.

Later, when I came into the mission field in South America, my bad opinion of the vigilance of the church was reinforced. My brethren here were all completely satisfied to know that someday a "National Sunday Law" in the U.S. would be proclaimed, that we would face some hard times, that only then we would have to be pure vessels for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit—the Latter Rain—and that anyway Christ would come soon to lead us home to the heavenly mansions. The vast majority did not even know the writings of the Spirit of Prophecy. Over and over again, whole congregations would stare at me in disbelief when I preached that the Sunday Laws were approaching. They had never even heard about this from their pastors.

How can we explain this apathy? Our preparation for the last events should be especially focused on the "sanctification" of our lives and families, and on the proclamation of the Three Angels' Messages (Revelation 14). But in my country in South America, they knew nothing about the general principles of the Health Reform, which Ellen White inextricably linked with the Third Angel's Message. Nor did the brethren have any idea about the difficulties ahead for the church and the world. I began to talk to many elders and pastors, and then I was faced with even more lack of comprehension. I was told plainly that it was not our business to understand the future, and that no one could ever interpret prophecy correctly. Some of them even preached that there would never again come a persecution of the remnant—that this had already been fulfilled at the destruction of Jerusalem and would never happen again!

The longer I beheld the church, the more I had to admit to myself that my brethren did not really like the fact that Jesus was returning soon. What could be seen only subtly in Spain was already visible throughout the whole church in South America. They were reluctant to have their lives cleansed by Christ in the Investigative Judgment that began in 1844. It was too much effort to lead a holy life BEFORE the outpouring of the Latter Rain and the Loud Cry. Most thought it was too disturbing to try to seriously tackle the issue of putting forth effort to cooperate with Christ so that He could eliminate the remaining defects in their characters. It was much more convenient to keep cherishing their ego. The motto expressed by the life of my brethren was "I want to stay like I am."

I heard statements from the pulpit like: "Oh, the fasting of Christ in the desert? Let's not misunderstand this! The Bible was just written by men, and indeed the authors were using human language and their own imagination. No one can survive 40 days without food! A lot of fruit grew in the desert where Jesus was, of course: Here a pineapple, there a banana! The fasting of Jesus was only related to meat, and that was a horrible test of faith, like it would be for us too! But we're not Christ, and besides, we don't have to take the health reform as seriously here in South America because our animals are still healthy. There's no mad cow disease yet! And if we are invited to a place of non-believers, of course we may eat pork too, so as not to offend them! Even Christ did not take things too seriously! And anyway, God is love and would not want His children to chastise themselves". I could even tell you stories about my having seen ordained pastors eating pork in public at a Sabbath lunch after church, in a Seventh-day Adventist place, and offering it to others.

Such statements and behavior are unbiblical, non-Adventist, and positively dangerous! I could see that our brothers and sisters were not interested in sanctification of their lives, because the Spirit of Prophecy had disappeared from all preaching from the pulpit. Or do you think that it is correct that we should just preach the love of God and nothing else?

More and more I began to ask myself why the Bible describes so accurately and tells so precisely the last events. And I wondered why these things were apparently of no interest to our brothers and sisters. According to Ellen White, the Old Testament prophets wrote less for their own time, and more for our "end time". And reading many books of Ellen White who was blessed by God in her life and who had received thousands of visions which contained prophetic statements among many other things, I noticed that we are only able to connect a few of those statements directly with the Bible. She always said that she was the "lesser light", which would lead to the study of the "Great Light", the Bible, and that if we were really studying the Bible as we should, it would not have been necessary for God to send her.

The fact is that most Adventists have incredible difficulties just to find the Sunday law in the Bible. Yeah sure, they know that the mark of the beast is Sunday observance. But if that is so important, and Ellen G. White wrote about it again and again, where is the announcement of the National Sunday Law in the United States recorded in the Bible? Well, who can tell me? Is it difficult? Or tell me, where are the big natural disasters of which the Spirit of Prophecy talks, if all the trumpets and seals have been fulfilled prophetically before 1844? Fine, so we still have Matthew 24 and Luke 21, but do these passages show the exact sequence of events? Or even more difficult: Where do we find the "national ruin of the United States" following the Sunday Law? Or, how can we show biblically the subsequent formation of a One World Government with the pope on top in a prophetic time line?

"Oh", you might say, "is this all that important?" Since the Spirit of Prophecy has pointed out hundreds of times that we have to study certain Bible passages and biblical books before the end comes, and since even Jesus Himself stressed on numerous occasions that we should study certain books, should it not be possible for us to show all these things in the Bible? Indeed, it must be important to us because God does not point out anything unimportant!

But why is it important? Why does God take the trouble to let us know so many details about the last events? Jesus Himself answers these questions:

*And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.
(John 14:29)*

Biblical prophecy, given by God, has one single purpose: It is to facilitate two chances for those who understand prophecy correctly. First, to rescue their own lives, and then to warn others and exhort them to also accept the gracious gift of the Lord. The last great warning that all Adventists who will be sealed will give to humanity is called in Adventist language "The Loud Cry"! The sealed ones, the 144,000 according to the Bible, will sound the Loud Cry just before the close of probation under very difficult circumstances for themselves. It is under persecution by a world government under the rule of the papacy, and under pressure of secular laws which will oppose the laws of God. It will be almost impossible for the "saints who keep the commandments of God," under threat of sanctions and even death, to be faithful to God without transgressing the laws of man and thus be treated as "criminals". Under all these terrible circumstances the great commission of Matthew 28:18-20 will be completed and the true gospel of Jesus will be preached for the last time all around the world. And then shall the end come.

The Advent people must be ready to do the job of sounding the Loud Cry. First of all, that means to be ready to receive the Holy Spirit, the "Latter Rain". No one will receive the "refreshing" of the Holy Spirit unless they have learned to live a holy life. The Holy Spirit is poured out into "pure vessels" only. The 144,000 will work together with Jesus and mold their characters to become pure and Christ-like. The Investigative Judgment will end once they are all sealed by the Holy Spirit and have given the last great warning to the world.

But not just that! These are the people who will obtain such a close relationship with Jesus through Bible study and constant prayer that they will become similar to their Master in everything. Jesus was the Great Teacher, and He knew the Scriptures like no other. After His resurrection, He interpreted to the disciples on the way to Emmaus everything that was prophesied about Him in the Old Testament, including His coming and His work on earth. He was an extraordinary expert in Old Testament prophecy! After all, from the first page to the last, the Bible is about Jesus. He is the Creator of the universe, and He prepared the plan of redemption for a lost world even before its creation. The yet unfulfilled prophecies of the Old and New Testament are soon to be fulfilled before our very eyes, and many of the prophecies which were previously fulfilled in the course of history symbolically will even be repeated in literal manner. We are already in the midst of these last and rapid events, and yet many have closed their eyes rather than try to develop themselves in preparation for the Loud Cry. The Bible teaches how: it was shown already by their Great Master.

We Adventists recognize ourselves as the third Elijah. The first was the prophet himself, the second was John the Baptist who announced the first coming of Christ, and we are the third who are to announce the second coming of Christ. And this finds its culmination in the Loud Cry. Then shouldn't we be able to show other people everything that was prophesied about the second coming of Christ in the Bible? The statement of Jesus in Revelation 10:11, which is valid for the period after the Great Disappointment of 1844 until the close of probation, states:

And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings. (Revelation 10:11)

The Greek word prophēteuō that is used here, means "prophesy" or "to foretell events". Jesus therefore emphasized prophesy and not just general preaching! People in the last days of human history will be so hardened that God will have to use the last means He has in His treasure of measures to bring many to conversion and repentance at the very last moment: war, famine, pandemics, and death by crazed crowds because of fear and distress, who have no explanation or an incorrect understanding of the terrible events that are awaiting us very soon.

Then again, many Adventists believe that people would start waking up once we seriously preach that a National Sunday Law will be proclaimed in the United States with national ruin to follow, and that soon this Sunday law would spread over the whole planet. However, this is concentrated prophetic knowledge and these predictions came to the Advent people through the writings of Ellen G. White, so whoever doesn't believe in the Spirit of Prophecy of Ellen G. White—and (unfortunately) no one does except Adventists themselves—won't be converted even if these "extra-biblical" prophecies fulfill before their very eyes. Neither would I reconvert to Catholicism even if the prophecies of the Marian apparitions should all be fulfilled. Why not? Because I do not understand the overall context. I know that these prophecies are unbiblical and therefore fake, and that I can only rely on the Bible which is the Word of God.

I understand very well from reading and comparing that Ellen G. White's work is absolutely biblically sound and is a blessing; that she has never said or written anything that contradicts the Bible. But non-Adventists do not have this deeper understanding. They only comprehend things at the level of their often inadequate biblical understanding. Nothing beyond. If the Loud Cry is heard under persecution, there won't be any more time for long and intensive Bible studies to compare with the Spirit of Prophecy. No more will people be converted by reading one or more 800-page books. Nobody will be able to sit down and study the "Great Controversy", because of the calamities that will be visiting our planet. It will all happen very quickly and under great suffering!

In the time of the Loud Cry, there will be only one question: Who is to blame for the misery and the horrible events on our planet, which lack any scientific explanation?

And there will be two different answers and explanations given by two different groups of people:

1. The first group will say: "Those are guilty, who oppose the peace and security movement around the world and are keeping the Bible Sabbath instead of the universally recognized Day of Rest, the Peace and Family Day, the Sunday. They are conjuring the anger of Jesus which cannot be mitigated anymore, neither by Mary, nor saints, nor gods."
2. And the second group will say: "Those are to blame who are keeping Sunday as a Day of Rest against the 4th commandment of God, and are persecuting a small minority of Christians who want to keep the original Ten Commandments of God, the Sabbath. And therefore they are conjuring the wrath of God, because they are 'touching the apple of His eye', His people."

Both groups will believe they are right. But only one group will persecute the other. The big difference between the groups is that one will just be arguing while the other is suppressing and punishing. One group will have all power on earth and take advantage of the legislative, judiciary, and executive branches of government to silence and even exterminate the other group.

Only one group will be truly pacifist and not harm one hair on anybody's head, yet they will be blamed by the others for all of the suffering on earth. They are the 144,000, which will consist of a few faithful Adventists and those who leave Babylon at the very last minute. I will explain this in a separate article later, because the general misunderstanding is incredibly great and there is a lot of erroneous preaching about it. There will only be a small group of people who have the truth, and they will suffer persecution and death because of it, just like their Lord, Jesus Christ, centuries before. But those who understand all that before those events start will eventually see which group they must join before the door of mercy shuts if they want to be saved too. This is the Loud Cry: a persecuted group of peace-loving people who want to do only one thing, which is to obey their God, cost what it may...even if it is their own lives. What has not been fully accomplished in 2000 years of preaching the gospel will be ultimately achieved by this small group of people. The final decision of each person living as to whether he wants to join this group or not, will be made. Each will be either Pursuer or Pursued. And then the end will come!

Again, everything will happen as prophesied! There will be persecution because of the Sunday Laws, but the awakening of the people will not come through the Sunday Laws themselves, but through the persecution and suffering of a small minority of people who just want to obey and be faithful to their God and Lord.

Hence it must be demonstrated in advance that the Bible repeatedly points to the persecution of a minority of faithful witnesses of Jesus. It must be shown that the Bible is telling us exactly how the power structures will form over the last days, who will stand at the helm of world government to unite the three big powers. If we could find all of that in the Bible and could also show that it is now fulfilling before our very eyes, and who is behind all of it, then many would realize which group is really responsible for all the miseries: the group which will assert world dominion and try to destroy the others. The group that will have the power for a short time to persecute God's children and kill them will take the blame.

Therefore, the question becomes: who is currently planning a world government and who are the leading powers behind it? And almost more important: how far have their plans progressed? How long will it take for all this to be completed?

We Adventists know from the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy who these leading powers are: the papacy and the U.S., which will encourage all the nations of the earth to choose the pope as their "ethical" leader. But we do not know how far the preparations of the enemy have progressed, because almost all of us are waiting stoically on the "green light": The National Sunday Law in the United States. But I say: then it will be too late to explain (or to prophesy) to the people that a persecuted minority will have the truth, because we would already be suffering persecution. The declaration of the prosecuting power would be that we are persecuted because we are members of a "criminal cult" that violates national or international law. So at that point very few would even listen to what we have to say.

The key to success lies in the ravishingly simple statement of Christ:

*And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.
(John 14:29)*

I would like to quote an article by Ellen G. White written in a time of crisis for the church. I am aware that it is not directly addressing the Sunday Law. Nevertheless, the method mentioned here for meeting hazards as a church are the same for all the attacks of the enemy:

An Iceberg! "Meet It"

Shortly before I sent out the testimonies regarding the efforts of the enemy to undermine the foundation of our faith through the dissemination of seductive theories, I had read an incident about a ship in a fog meeting an iceberg. For several nights I slept but little. I seemed to be bowed down as a cart beneath sheaves. One night a scene was clearly presented before me. A vessel was upon the waters, in a heavy fog. Suddenly the lookout cried, "Iceberg just ahead!" There, towering high above the ship, was a gigantic iceberg. An authoritative voice cried out, "Meet it!" There was not a moment's hesitation. It was a time for instant action. The engineer put on full steam, and the man at the wheel steered the ship straight into the iceberg. With a crash she struck the ice. There was a fearful shock, and the iceberg broke into many pieces, falling with a noise like thunder to the deck. The passengers were violently shaken by the force of the collisions, but no lives were lost. The vessel was injured, but not beyond repair. She rebounded from the contact, trembling from stem to stern, like a living creature. Then she moved forward on her way.

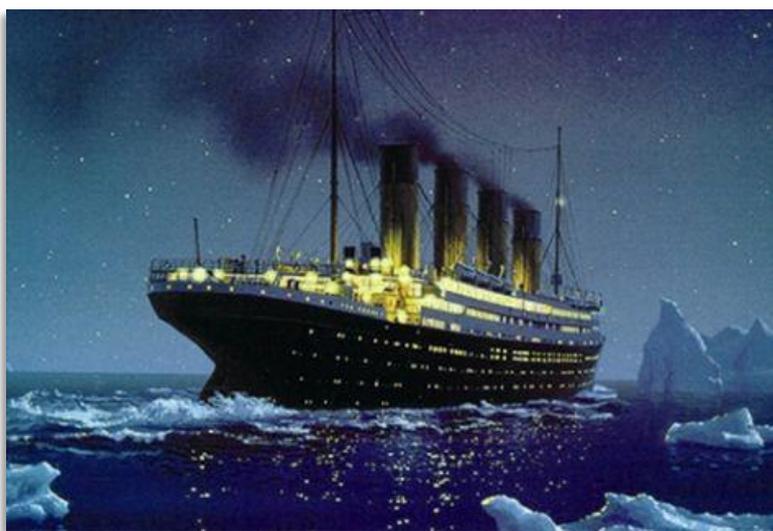

Well I knew the meaning of this representation. I had my orders. I had heard the words, like a voice from our Captain, "Meet it!" I knew what my duty was, and that there was not a moment to lose. The time for decided action had come. I must without delay obey the command, "Meet it!".

That night I was up at one o'clock, writing as fast as my hand could pass over the paper. For the next few days I worked early and late, preparing for our people the instruction given me regarding the errors that were coming in among us.

I have been hoping that there would be a thorough reformation, and that the principles for which we fought in the early days, and which were brought out in the power of the Holy Spirit, would be maintained. {ISM 205.3–206.3}

First, I would like you to note that she "sent out the testimonies regarding the efforts of the enemy". Many Adventists argue that it is not our job to observe what the enemy does. But I agree with Ellen White that it is indeed also (!) necessary to "predict icebergs" in the fairway. And the largest iceberg that awaits us is probably the National Sunday Law in the U.S., because we know that our time of preparation must be completed beforehand. Wouldn't it be good for us to quickly "spy out this iceberg" a bit earlier to make up for lost time?

Secondly, I agree with Ellen G. White that there is no way to avoid the iceberg. That would—as with the Titanic—only lead to the destruction of the vessel (the church) and sink it. Compromises with these powers are impossible! The only chance is "full steam ahead toward the iceberg!" I try to meet it with my little website as far as my small funds allow. I spotted the Sunday Law, and another "iceberg", the appearance of the false Christ, from the lookouts and now ring the alarm bell and blow the trumpet, so we can fire up the engines and meet the obstacles at full power.

Or have we already rammed an iceberg without noticing it, and our "Titanic" is already ripped from stem to stern and is about to sink into the eternal silence of the sea? Have we felt too sure of ourselves, trusting in the designers and thinking that we were on an unsinkable ship? That would be a terrible realization and it would mean that we would have to leave the ship—as long as there is still space in the few lifeboats—the Titanic didn't have adequate provisions for all passengers to escape either.

When on the 10th of July, 2009 I received further proof of the correctness of my previous studies, I stopped hesitating and started working on this website. I know that I am very late, but our church is not a church that welcomes "new light" easily, and that's why nearly four years passed before I started this site. At this point I do not want to emphasize that I have "new light", but just that I caught sight of known hazards, and I think I know how far away we are from the collision. But I must also point out that I had no easy time with our brethren before I concluded that I have to publish my findings here. It is a decision based solely on prayer and faith in God. Whoever will criticize what he reads here is asked to please criticize me personally and spare the rest of the church because I do not act with its consent or approval. I do not attack, correct, or question any previous knowledge that builds the official pillars of the present truth, but on the contrary the reader will notice that old knowledge forms the basis for all new knowledge, and "new knowledge" confirms the old.

At first my findings were only as new as the knowledge that icebergs exist. The only question was: when will a collision occur, or has it already happened undetected? Since we as a church have the Spirit of Prophecy, then shouldn't we warn the church and the world day and night like Ellen White did in order to meet these threats coming our way with full steam ahead?

I studied hard and watched my surroundings. The conditions of our church in South America soon drove me to where I could no longer identify myself with it. I don't want to present here what I had to experience, because I know that there are many sincere brothers and sisters whom I do not want to hurt. But I just could not comprehend how much public sin was allowed, especially within the leadership of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Apparently all of them were struck with blindness. I asked God for clarification. I prayed day and night for many months, even years. The Lord slowly opened the door to these studies, which led to the Clock of God in Orion. First, I realized what was going on Behind Enemy Lines and that the seven seals were repeating after 1844 on the model of "Jericho" and that, as Ellen White frequently stated, History Repeats and thus the seven churches repeat.

I realized that in their repetition, the second and third seal clearly represent the two great World Wars, which are also mentioned in Matthew 24 and Luke 21. But where were the martyrs of Smyrna within our ranks during that period who had died for their faith keeping the Ten Commandments, corresponding to the first cycle of the seals? These and similar questions made me very uneasy. I began to study the history of the Adventist Church, and I discovered terrible facts! I was shaken to the core of my faith and I think many of you will be shaken as well when you read what God has to show us, especially, my dear brethren, in the terrific way He does it!

I found strange advice in the testimonies of Ellen White. For example:

The fifth chapter of Revelation needs to be closely studied. It is of great importance to those who shall act a part in the work of God for these last days. There are some who are deceived. They do not realize what is coming on the earth. Those who have permitted their minds to become beclouded in regard to what constitutes sin are fearfully deceived. Unless they make a decided change they will be found wanting when God pronounces judgment upon the children of men. They have transgressed the law and broken the everlasting covenant, and they will receive according to their works. {9T 267.1}

Ellen White spoke of a deception of a group of people. Who is this group? These lines are addressed to us as Seventh-day Adventists. Could it be that some of us have been deceived? And if so, whom? Does anyone understand the meaning of this strange message? This website gives the answers and I pray that you are among those "who sigh and cry for the abominations that be done in the city [our church]", because only those and no one else will receive the Seal of God (according to Ezekiel 9).

I hope that you, dear brother, dear sister, dear visitor of this site, will study with prayer what I have published here. Everyone is responsible for himself and must obey his inner voice when it comes to recognizing the truth. I would like to let the Spirit of Prophecy, which our church has been so richly blessed by, direct the last words of this introductory article to you:

The Need of the Church

This world is to the Christian a land of strangers and enemies. Unless he shall take for his defense the divine panoply and wield the sword of the Spirit he will become the prey of the powers of darkness. The faith of all will be tested. All will be tried as gold is tried in the fire.

The church is composed of imperfect, erring men and women, who call for the continual exercise of charity and forbearance. But there has been a long period of general lukewarmness; a worldly spirit coming into the church has been followed by alienation, faultfinding, malice, strife, and iniquity.

Should there be less sermonizing by men who are unconsecrated in heart and life, and were more time devoted to humbling the soul before God, then might we hope that the Lord would appear to your help and heal your backslidings. Much of the preaching of late begets a false security. Important interests in the cause of God cannot be wisely managed by those who have had so little real connection with God as some of our ministers have had. To entrust the work to such men is like setting children to manage great vessels at sea. Those who are destitute of heavenly wisdom, destitute of living power with God, are not competent to steer the gospel ship amid icebergs and tempests. The church is passing through severe conflicts, but in her peril many would trust her to hands that will surely wreck her. We need a pilot on board now, for we are nearing the harbor. As a people we should be the light of the world. But how many are foolish virgins, having no oil in their vessels with their lamps. May the Lord of all grace, abundant in mercy, full of forgiveness, pity and save us, that we perish not with the wicked!

In this season of conflict and trial we need all the support and consolation we can derive from righteous principles, from fixed religious convictions, from the abiding assurance of the love of Christ, and from a rich experience in divine things. We shall attain to the full stature of men and women in Christ Jesus only as the result of a steady growth in grace.

Oh, what can I say to open blind eyes, to enlighten the spiritual understanding! Sin must be crucified. A complete moral renovation must be wrought by the Holy Spirit. We must have the love of God, with living, abiding faith. This is the gold tried in the fire. We can obtain it only of Christ. Every sincere and earnest seeker will become a partaker of the divine nature. His soul will be filled with intense longing to know the fullness of that love which passes knowledge; as he advances in the divine life he will be better able to grasp the elevated, ennobling truths of the word of God, until by beholding he becomes changed and is enabled to reflect the likeness of his Redeemer. {5T 104.2-105.2}

The Orion Message for God's People

Originally published on Thursday, January 21, 2010, 11:07 pm in German at www.letztercountdown.org

When I discovered the Clock of God in Orion in late 2009, I did not know what the result of these studies would be. I had no idea that God had written one or more messages for Seventh-day Adventists and other Christian denominations into the sky. God wants us to find new treasures in His Word so that we may not err in the turmoil of the last days.

I started the work on this web site in January 2010 because I wanted a platform where I would be able to study with other interested brethren. The quest for truth is a learning process and, therefore, we publish already the third version of the Orion study with the latest findings and also some improvements, when we found it appropriate. Committing mistakes is part of the student's learning process and so we are not ashamed about it, but gradually approaching the perfect realization of the divine agenda and the new present truth.

The search for truth will reward the seeker at every turn, and each discovery will open up richer fields for his investigation. Men are changed in accordance with what they contemplate. If commonplace thoughts and affairs take up the attention, the man will be commonplace. If he is too negligent to obtain anything but a superficial understanding of God's truth, he will not receive the rich blessings that God would be pleased to bestow upon him. It is a law of the mind, that it will narrow or expand to the dimensions of the things with which it becomes familiar. The mental powers will surely become contracted, and will lose their ability to grasp the deep meanings of the word of God, unless they are put vigorously and persistently to the task of searching for truth. The mind will enlarge, if it is employed in tracing out the relation of the subjects of the Bible, comparing scripture with scripture, and spiritual things with spiritual. Go below the surface; the richest treasures of thought are waiting for the skillful and diligent student. {CE 119.1}

Brothers and sisters, Jesus will never make it easy for you to accept new light that was even prophesied various times by Ellen White. You can only please God with faith, and faith comes from studying. All of you are called to retrace those studies, which I understand as given by God, and come to conclusions by yourselves that may be for you as a savor, either to life or to death. My prayers always accompany those who are open-hearted, who check everything like the Bereans, and do not reject all from the outset.

The study of the Clock of God is based on the throne room vision of the Apostle John, and deciphers the biblical symbolism with the aid of the Spirit of Prophecy that was given to the Seventh-day Adventist Church through the work of Ellen G. White.

Please remember what Ellen White said about the Message of the Fourth Angel:

This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. {EW 277.2}

The message of the fourth Angel must come like Miller's midnight cry. This was prophesied by Ellen White. Then this also includes a time message, because the message of William Miller was a pure time message.

I'd like to plead with every person who is seriously interested in his/her salvation to read this message of God and see what the consequences are for his/her own life, like I did for myself. Beyond that, dear brothers and sisters, you can read for yourself in the Orion study.

We also offer study materials for this study at the download section!

The Clock of God in Orion

A study of the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy with an extraordinary message from God for His people.

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. {EW 14.1}

The Voice of God Comes from Orion

The Spirit of Prophecy records the following in a vision:

December 16, 1848, the Lord gave me a view of the shaking of the powers of the heavens. I saw that when the Lord said "heaven," in giving the signs recorded by Matthew, Mark, and Luke, He meant heaven, and when He said "earth" He meant earth. The powers of heaven are the sun, moon, and stars. They rule in the heavens. The powers of earth are those that rule on the earth. The powers of heaven will be shaken at the voice of God. Then the sun, moon, and stars will be moved out of their places. They will not pass away, but be shaken by the voice of God.

Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. The atmosphere parted and rolled back; then we could look up through the open space in Orion, whence came the voice of God. The Holy City will come down through that open space. I saw that the powers of earth are now being shaken and that events come in order. War, and rumors of war, sword, famine, and pestilence are first to shake the powers of earth, then the voice of God will shake the sun, moon, and stars, and this earth also. I saw that the shaking of the powers in Europe is not, as some teach, the shaking of the powers of heaven, but it is the shaking of the angry nations. {EW 41.1-2}

When Will We Hear the Voice of God?

The FIRST VISION of Ellen White answers this question. Let us read sentence by sentence...

While I was praying at the family altar, the Holy Ghost fell upon me, and I seemed to be rising higher and higher, far above the dark world. I turned to look for the Advent people in the world, but could not find them, when a voice said to me, "Look again, and look a little higher." At this I raised my eyes, and saw a straight and narrow path, cast up high above the world. On this path the Advent people were traveling to the city, which was at the farther end of the path. They had a bright light set up behind them at the beginning of the path, which an angel told me was the midnight cry. {EW 14.1}

The "midnight cry" was the Millerite movement and the journey began in 1844, after the great disappointment.

Counsel and advice for a long journey:

This light shone all along the path and gave light for their feet so that they might not stumble. If they kept their eyes fixed on Jesus, who was just before them, leading them to the city, they were safe. But soon some grew weary, and said the city was a great way off, and they expected to have entered it before. Then Jesus would encourage them by raising His glorious right arm, and from His arm came a light [the SDA health reform] which waved over the Advent band, and they shouted, "Alleluia!" {EW 14.1}

Others rashly denied the light behind them and said that it was not God that had led them out so far. The light behind them went out, leaving their feet in perfect darkness, and they stumbled and lost sight of the mark and of Jesus, and fell off the path down into the dark and wicked world below. {EW 14.1}

And suddenly we hear a surprising announcement:

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. {EW 14.1}

When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

With this voice speaking the time, the Latter Rain began to fall and the Holy Ghost started the sealing process.

Then the sealing by the Holy Spirit comes to an end:

The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. {EW 15.1}

And only at this point, do the wicked start to persecute us with violence; not with the death decree, but with imprisonment (the little time of trouble). Then, in the second part, the wicked will be helpless (the great time of trouble and the plagues):

At our happy, holy state the wicked were enraged, and would rush violently up to lay hands on us to thrust us into prison, when we would stretch forth the hand in the name of the Lord, and they would fall helpless to the ground. {EW 15.1}

Then it was that the synagogue of Satan knew that God had loved us who could wash one another's feet and salute the brethren with a holy kiss, and they worshiped at our feet. {EW 15.1}

Therefore, now we know when we are going to hear the voice of God:

When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

We hear it at the time of the outpouring of the Latter Rain (the Holy Spirit), just before the end of the Investigative Judgment, which began in 1844.

A Contradiction?

But this means that the first vision of Ellen White would contradict her second vision, in which the voice of God clearly announces the day and hour at the end of the time of the plagues. (The wicked wanted to kill [death decree] and are helpless before this announcement.):

In the time of trouble, we all fled from the cities and villages, but were pursued by the wicked, who entered the houses of the saints with a sword. They raised the sword to kill us, but it broke, and fell as powerless as a straw. Then we all cried day and night for deliverance, and the cry came up before God. The sun came up, and the moon stood still. The streams ceased to flow. Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. But there was one clear place of settled glory, whence came the voice of God like many waters, which shook the heavens and the earth. The sky opened and shut and was in commotion. The mountains shook like a reed in the wind, and cast out ragged rocks all around. The sea boiled like a pot and cast out stones upon the land. And as God spoke the day and the hour of Jesus' coming and delivered the everlasting covenant to His people, He spoke one sentence, and then paused, while the words were rolling through the earth. {EW 34.1}

The Solution to the Dilemma

It is just like how the four gospels appear to contradict one another, describing three differing inscriptions at the cross of Jesus. These are by no means errors or inaccuracies of the evangelists. Actually, the three inscriptions at the cross were different in the three languages, with slightly different messages for different people. You can read this in "The Desire of Ages".

This is also the case with the first and second visions of Ellen White. We are dealing with two different events. First, God announces the day and hour at the outpouring of the Latter Rain to prepare His people for the Loud Cry, and again, the second time, after the work has been finished, to deliver His covenant to His people and confirm what was promised before.

A Prophetic Principle

The same principle may be found in the book of Daniel.

First, the prophet receives a short vision and its respective interpretation, which shows an overview of the sequence of the world empires and the coming of Jesus: The statue of Nebuchadnezzar.

Later, Daniel was given a second vision that explains the first one using different symbols, with greater depth and detail: The world empires symbolized by the beasts, the little horn, etc.

Likewise, with the case at hand; we must harmonize both visions, retaining the original order of events. We must not change their order, because that would confuse them. If we follow this rule, there exists only one solution to the problem:

Indeed, there are two different announcements of the day and the hour, and the first one takes place at the outpouring of the Latter Rain in our day.

The Latter Rain Contains a Special Message

Therefore, the Latter Rain is connected with a message that announces the day and the hour of the second coming of Jesus.

And the voice that proclaims this message comes from Orion...

In the series Day and Hour, I address the attacks against these studies, which argue against them because of time-setting.

What is the Voice of God?

We can find more than 86 textual evidences that Ellen White is telling us that the voice of God is...

...THE BIBLE!!!

The Bible is God's voice speaking to us just as surely as though we could hear Him with our ears. The word of the living God is not merely written, but spoken. {In Heavenly Places, p. 134}

Earlier, though, we read where Ellen White says that the voice of God comes from Orion and makes these announcements.

Obviously, this cannot be an audible voice. At the speed of sound, the voice of God would need to travel millions of years from the nearest star of Orion (at the distance of about 400 light-years) until it could be heard. God uses a different means to be heard. There is another hint: Only the 144,000 will be able to understand the voice. This means that it is a message that can only be interpreted by those who have a fundamental knowledge of Adventism.

Putting the pieces together from the previous quotes, Ellen White effectively gives us the following hint in her prophetic language:

We have to study the Bible and we will find verses in the Bible concerning the star constellation "Orion". And if we are able to interpret these verses, which will only be possible at the time of the Latter Rain, we will get a message directly from God that will finally lead to the Loud Cry.

The Big Question:

Where in the Bible do we find that Orion is the throne of God and has something to do with the second coming of Jesus?

An Ignored Admonition

The fifth chapter of Revelation needs to be closely studied. It is of great importance to those who shall act a part in the work of God for these last days. There are some who are deceived. They do not realize what is coming on the earth. Those who have permitted their minds to become beclouded in regard to what constitutes sin are fearfully deceived. Unless they make a decided change they will be found wanting when God pronounces judgment upon the children of men. They have transgressed the law and broken the everlasting covenant, and they will receive according to their works. {9T 267.1}

Ellen White points to the fifth chapter of Revelation, saying that a big deception will come over those who do not clearly understand what sin is and how God estimates sin.

But where is this written in the 5th chapter? Please read the chapter from beginning to end! It concerns the right of Christ to receive the book with the seven seals and to open them. But there is nothing about a special understanding of sin or about a group of people who are deceived. It's just not written there!

But we can find a lot of symbols...

Maybe we haven't studied these symbols like we should have? What symbols do we find?

1. We are in the Throne Room, which was introduced in chapter 4, and we find there the seating order of the Courtroom. Thus, it is about the time after 1844, the time of the Investigative Judgment. The corresponding verses are in Daniel 7.
2. The Lamb, Jesus Himself
3. The book with seven seals
4. The seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth
5. The four beasts or living creatures
6. The 24 elders
7. A great multitude adoring at the throne

Later, we will see that all of these symbols have prophetic meaning and will lead us, in connection with Orion, to an understanding of:

1. Who the deceived group of people are
2. What the deception really is
3. How God estimates sin
4. Who sinned and how
5. What the "decided change" must be, which Ellen White mentioned in her admonition

And we will also see how closely God is connected with His people; how He lead, examined, cleansed & purified them through the long years of Judgment since 1844, to be ready to stand in the last test, which is right at hand.

Another Admonition

To John were opened scenes of deep and thrilling interest in the experience of the church. He saw the position, dangers, conflicts, and final deliverance of the people of God. He records the closing messages which are to ripen the harvest of the earth, either as sheaves for the heavenly garner or as fagots for the fires of destruction. Subjects of vast importance were revealed to him, especially for the last church, that those who should turn from error to truth might be instructed concerning the perils and conflicts before them. None need be in darkness in regard to what is coming upon the earth. {GC 341.4}

The Interpretation of the Vision of the Throne Room

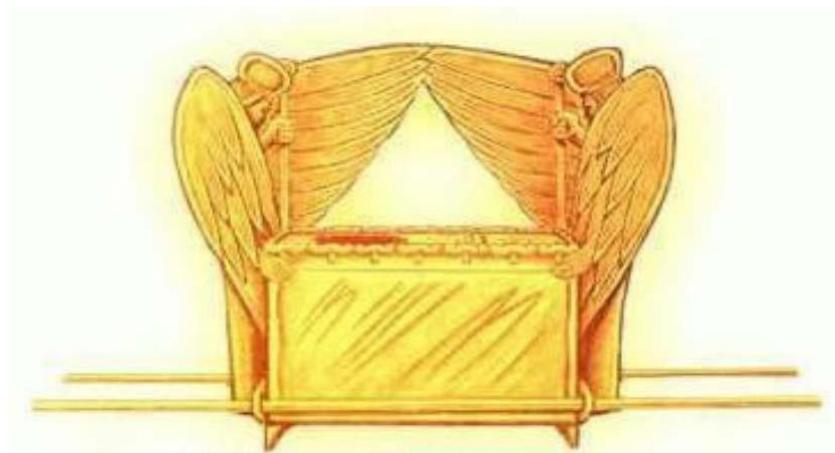

Let us direct our thoughts, now, toward Orion, where God's Voice comes from. Where does God reside in the book of Revelation? Both the Father and Jesus are in the Throne Room.

Let us first investigate to see if we can find similarities between the arrangement of the stars of Orion and the placement of the symbols in the Throne Room vision in Revelation 4 and 5.

The center of the vision is the Throne of God, so let's start there:

And immediately I was in the spirit: and, behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne. And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald. (Revelation 4:2-3)

In the Bible, we find a detailed description of the Throne of God: The Ark of the Covenant

This is where God appeared to Moses and Aaron

How Many Persons Do We See at the Throne of God?

2 Angels + God Himself = 3 Persons

Who Are These Angels?

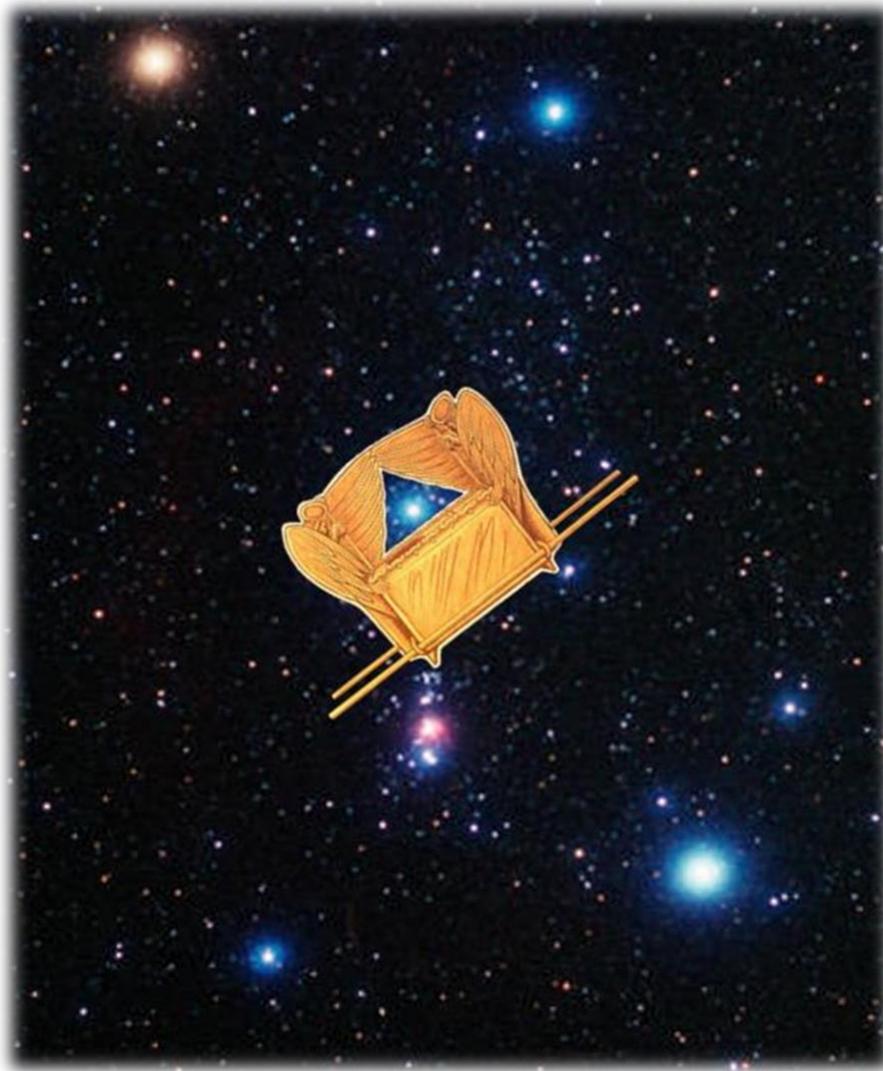

"Angel" means nothing more than "messenger" or "ambassador". Jesus Himself is called the "Messenger of the Covenant" (Mal 3:1) because He died for us that we may have His justification. And the Holy Spirit was sent as an Ambassador of Jesus to earth at Pentecost to do a special work on earth: our sanctification.

The Godhead Consists of Three Persons

Jesus Christ + God, the Father + the Holy Spirit = 3 Persons

The Throne

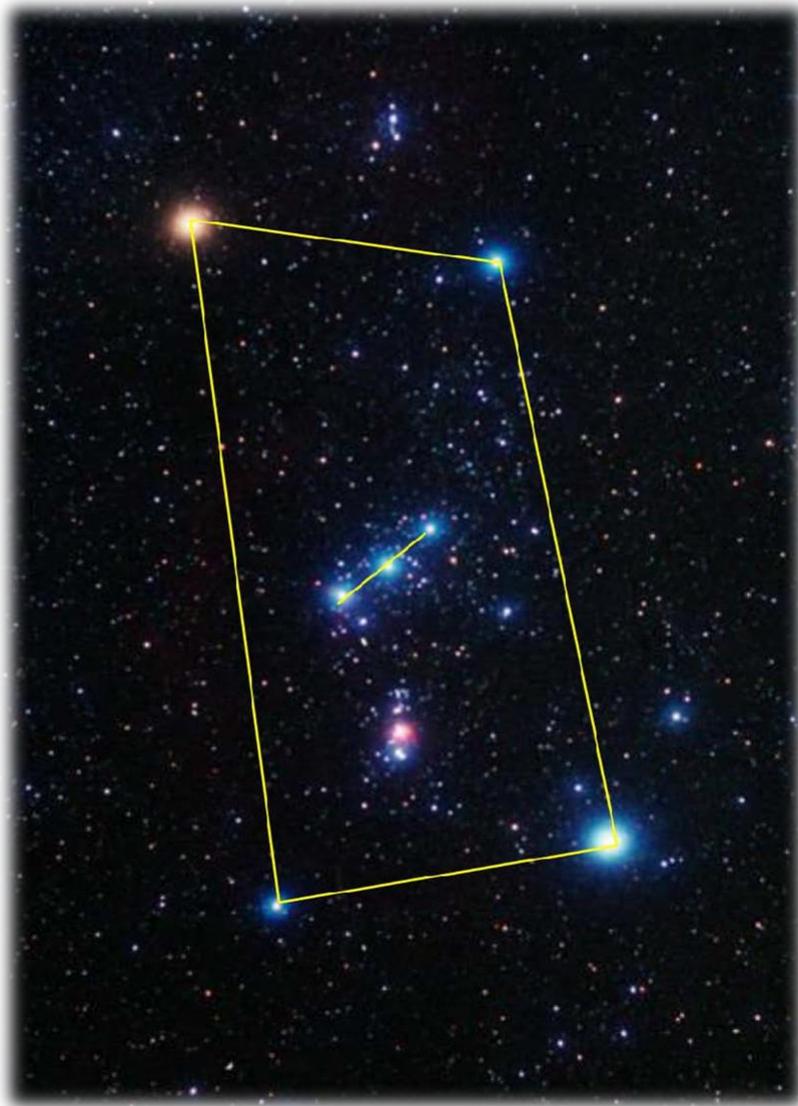

The three belt stars represent the number THREE and are located exactly in the center of the Orion constellation

And immediately I was in the spirit: and, behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne. And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald. (Revelation 4:2-3)

The Four Living Creatures

The two shoulder stars and the two feet stars represent the number FOUR and are located round about the throne: the four living creatures or four beasts.

... and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind. And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle. (Revelation 4:6-7)

The numbers THREE and FOUR together represent: $3 + 4 = \text{SEVEN}$, which is the number of Jesus.

The Godhead (3) made terms to send Jesus to die at the cross (+) for mankind (4). This is the plan of salvation (7) in symbolic form using numbers. (This will be explained in more detail later.)

The Sea of Glass

The sea of glass is “before” (in front of), or underneath, the throne, exactly as Revelation 4:6 states.

And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: (Revelation 4:6)

The Great Orion Nebula is transparent like crystal. Behind it, we find other galaxies with billions of stars...

The Orion Nebula is open toward us, giving us a view into a Great Hall... "the open space" Ellen White had seen in her vision.

And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: (Revelation 4:6)

But where do we find the 24 thrones of the 24 elders?

And round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold. (Revelation 4:4)

We would search in vain for a special constellation of 24 stars round about Orion, but Ezekiel gives us some hints:

And I looked, and, behold, a whirlwind came out of the north, a great cloud, and a fire infolding itself, and a brightness was about it, and out of the midst thereof as the colour of amber, out of the midst of the fire. Also out of the midst thereof came the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance; they had the likeness of a man. And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings. (Ezekiel 1:4-6)

As for the likeness of their faces, they four had the face of a man, and the face of a lion, on the right side: and they four had the face of an ox on the left side; they four also had the face of an eagle. (Ezekiel 1:10)

Now as I beheld the living creatures, behold one wheel upon the earth by the living creatures, with his four faces. The appearance of the wheels and their work was like unto the colour of a beryl: and they four had one likeness: and their appearance and their work was as it were a wheel in the middle of a wheel. (Ezekiel 1:15-16)

And when the living creatures went, the wheels went by them: and when the living creatures were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up. Whithersoever the spirit was to go, they went, thither was their spirit to go; and the wheels were lifted up over against them: for the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels. When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood; and when those were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up over against them: for the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels. (Ezekiel 1:19-21)

And when they went, I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of great waters, as the voice of the Almighty, the voice of speech, as the noise of an host: when they stood, they let down their wings. And there was a voice from the firmament that was over their heads, when they stood, and had let down their wings. And above the firmament that was over their heads was the likeness of a throne, as the appearance of a sapphire stone: and upon the likeness of the throne was the likeness as the appearance of a man above upon it. (Ezekiel 1:24-26)

As the appearance of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness round about. This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD. And when I saw it, I fell upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake. (Ezekiel 1:28)*

Ezekiel Saw the Throne of God

The four living creatures correspond to the four beasts which we already identified in Orion, and Ezekiel tells us that they are a mechanism of wheels. One wheel in the middle of a wheel, one wheel in another: Cogwheels!

Some believe this is a description of a space ship, but that's science fiction! There exists another, much more reasonable, explanation of what Ezekiel could have seen...

Ezekiel Saw a Clockwork

A clock displays the 24 hours of a day. Therefore, the 24 elders could represent the 24 hours of a Heavenly Day.

But does a special “day” really exist in heaven?

I beheld till the thrones were cast down, and the Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire. A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books were opened. (Daniel 7:9-10)

Yes, the Great Day of Atonement, which began on October 22, 1844!

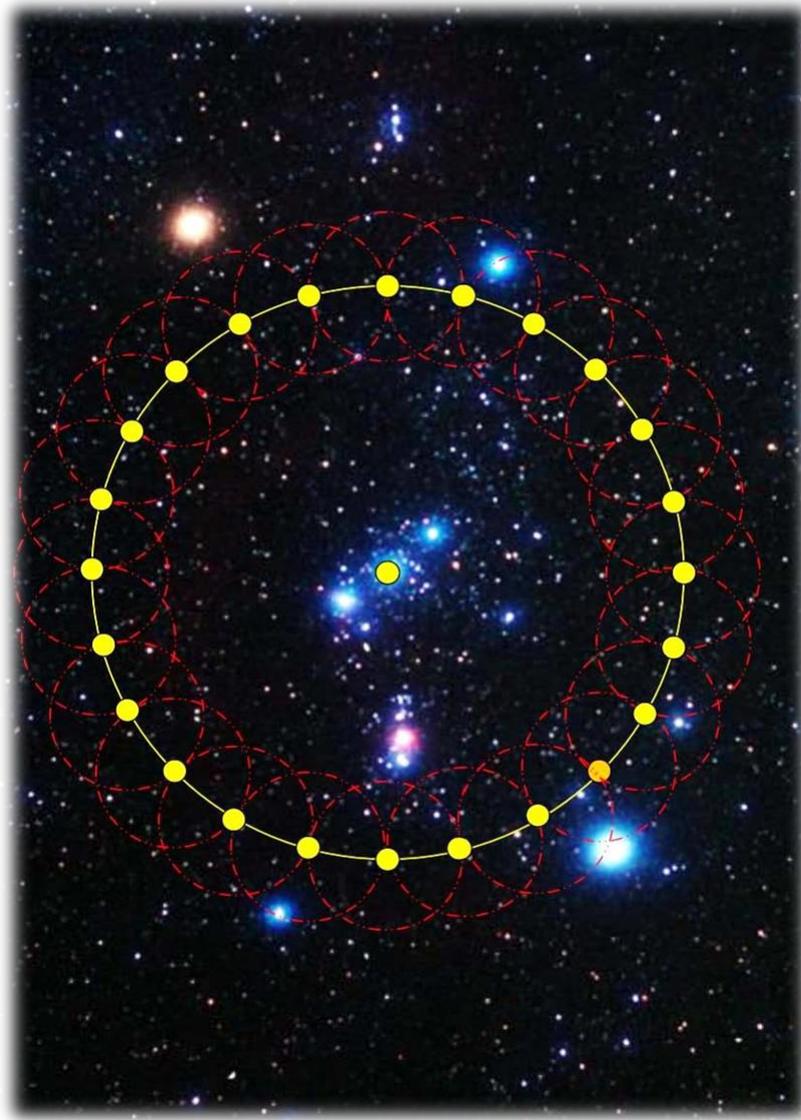

A Preliminary Consideration...

If the 24 elders represent the 24 hours of one heavenly day, they would stand for the digits of the Clock. The center of the Clock would be the throne, and there would exist four meaningful clock hands—the lines that start at the center of the Clock and run through the four living creatures, the shoulder and feet stars of Orion. Thus, four special “hours” would be marked that God wants to point out within the heavenly day.

Another Preliminary Consideration...

The clockwork is made from 7 stars, and the 24 elders are the hours of the heavenly day. At each full hour, a clock hand (7) would point to one elder (24), so one full day could be expressed by a calculation like $7 \times 24 = 168$.

Positioning the 24 Thrones

For the places of the 24 thrones, you can easily draw a circle with 24 points in equal distances using a compass.

All you need is a large photo of Orion, and you can start. But now the big question is where the center of the 24 thrones is located.

It is the same distance from each elder's throne to the center of the Clock. So we have to find out where the center of worship is for the 24 elders, who represent the 24 hours of the Clock. In chapters 4 and 5 of Revelation, the 24 elders themselves show us the center. Let's read...

Where Is the Center of the Clock of God?

The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created. (Revelation 4:10-11)

And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints. And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth. And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands; Saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever. And the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever. (Revelation 5:8-14)

Christ, the Lamb, is the center of adoration for the 24 elders, and therefore, also of the Clock. But which one of the belt stars represents Jesus?

Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us. (Romans 8:34)

Who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God; angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him. (1 Peter 3:22)

But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, And said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God. (Acts 7:55-56)

If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. (Colossians 3:1)

Hereafter shall the Son of man sit on the right hand of the power of God. (Luke 22:69)

So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God. (Mark 16:19)

Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God. (Hebrews 12:2)

Which Angel (Messenger) is at the right hand of God?

From our point of view, this is on the left side!

The 24 Elders with the Star of Jesus at the Center

The 4 Clock Hands of God

Now we can draw four clock hands from the center of the Clock through the shoulder and feet stars, as shown here.

But is there any hint in the Bible that we should really do this?

The answer to this question is also the explanation of an apparent contradiction between the vision of Ezekiel and the Throne Room vision in Revelation.

Each of the four beasts, or living creatures, in Ezekiel has four wings:

Also out of the midst thereof came the likeness of four living creatures. And this was their appearance; they had the likeness of a man. And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings. (Ezekiel 1:5-6)

But the four beasts in Revelation have six wings:

And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. (Revelation 4:8)

The four living creatures in Ezekiel are cherubim, as we can read here:

Then did the cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels beside them; and the glory of the God of Israel was over them above. (Ezekiel 11:22)

Isaiah tells us that the four beasts of Revelation are called seraphim:

In the year that king Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphims: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly. (Isaiah 6:1-2)

Concerning this, Ellen White says:

Note the humility of the seraphim before him [Jesus]. With their wings they veiled their faces and their feet. They were in the presence of Jesus. They saw the glory of God,--the King in his beauty,--and they covered themselves. {RH February 18, 1896 par. 2}

But with two wings they flew. That is, they stretched out two of their six wings! Of course, this is also symbolic—for a special function they only have in Revelation.

Two outstretched (flying) wings form a line. One wing points to Jesus at the center of the Clock, and the other wing to the corresponding "hour" of the Clock.

Finally, we are also able to understand why the seraphim are called "living creatures." It is because they are the part of the Clock that moves (lives).

The 4 Clock Hands of God Are the Voice of God from Orion

There is another very important verse:

And when they went, I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of great waters, as the voice of the Almighty, the voice of speech, as the noise of an host: when they stood, they let down their wings. (Ezekiel 1:24)

Let us compare it with what Ellen White saw in her first vision:

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming.

Therefore, what the seraphim will tell us in relation to God is extremely important, and it has to do with the coming of Jesus.

The Clock of God—But How Do We Adjust and Read it?

To read any clock correctly, it must be adjusted beforehand using a reference time. Usually, we adjust two hands, setting the minute and hour. In God's Clock, we only have to adjust one hand. That is, we must identify the "hour" to which it points.

Then, the three other clock hands will consequently point to three as-yet-unknown "hours," which are so important to God that He has written them in the heavens using a whole star constellation.

But in order to read the other hands, we must know the distance between the hours (the elders). Therefore, our first task is to learn to read the Clock. And we will do that next.

Only one group can read the Clock of God...

Those who have the answers to the following 5 questions:

1. When did the Day of Atonement start in heaven?
2. When did the rider on the white horse start to ride?
3. Can at least one living creature be paired to a corresponding clock hand star?
4. What is the duration of the Heavenly Day in earth time?
5. How many earthly years correspond to one Heavenly Hour?

Question 1

When did the Day of Atonement start in heaven?

Answer: October 22, 1844

Event: The day of the Great Disappointment

Who knows the answer?

Seventh-day Adventists of all kinds

Question 2

When did the rider on the white horse start to ride?

Answer: In 1846

Event: Ellen G. White and her husband James accepted the Sabbath truth in that year. Thereby, the gospel was cleansed after a very long time. The pure gospel is symbolized by the "white horse". Only the complete proclamation of all original Ten Commandments is a "pure gospel".

Who knows the answer?

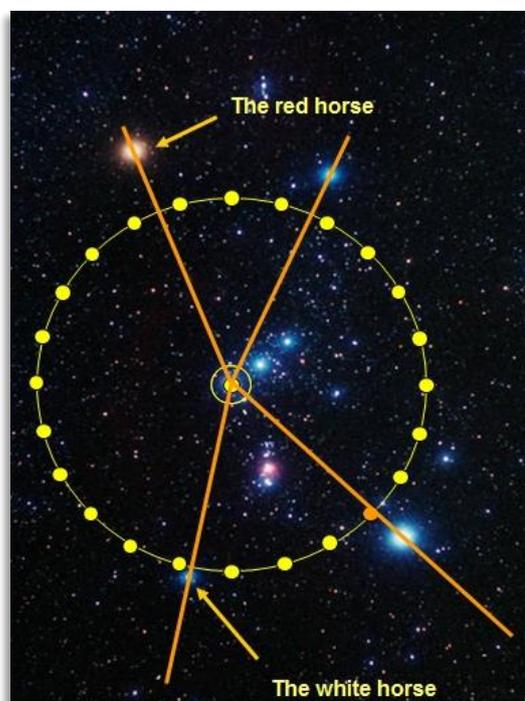

Seventh-day Adventists of all kinds

Can at least one living creature be paired to a corresponding clock hand star?

Answer: Even if we use only our naked eye or binoculars, we are able to see that one of the Clock hand stars is flaring red in color. Therefore, this must represent the second living creature, which announces the second seal, the red horse. Assuming that the Clock of God works in a clockwise manner, like our man-made watches, we are now able to associate all other clock hand stars with their corresponding living creatures and seals.

Therefore, the clock hand at the bottom left points to the star that represents the white horse, which indicates 1846.

Who knows the answer?

Only those who read and understand this message.

Question 4

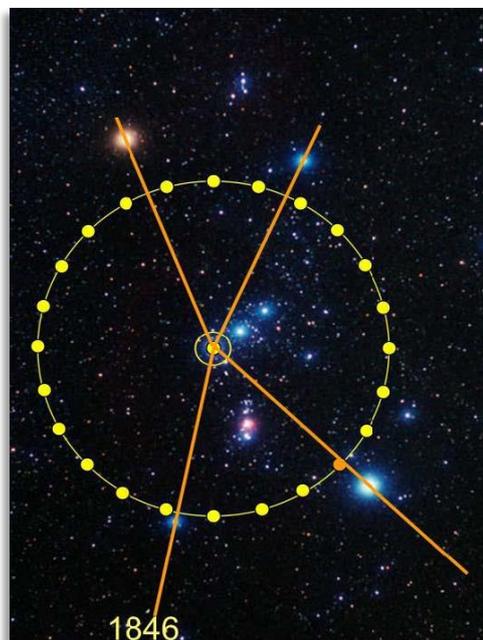

What is the duration of the Heavenly Day in earthly time?

To find the answer to this question, we need to understand that the books of Daniel and Revelation must be studied together, as Ellen G. White emphasized many times:

When the books of Daniel and Revelation are better understood, believers will have an entirely different religious experience. They will be given such glimpses of the open gates of heaven that heart and mind will be impressed with the character that all must develop in order to realize the blessedness which is to be the reward of the pure in heart.

The Lord will bless all who will seek humbly and meekly to understand that which is revealed in the Revelation. This book contains so much that is large with immortality and full of glory that all who read and search it earnestly receive the blessing to those "that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein."

One thing will certainly be understood from the study of Revelation--that the connection between God and His people is close and decided. A wonderful connection is seen between the universe of heaven and this world. {TM 114.3-114.5}

A Warning Not Yet Understood

Let us take an excursion into the book of Daniel, which is the "Book of Judgment," because we are talking about a day of the Investigative Judgment and the name, Daniel means, "The Lord is my Judge."

Just as with chapter 5 of Revelation before, Ellen White gives us another hint regarding which chapter of Daniel we could find the answer to our question:

"Let us read and study the twelfth chapter of Daniel. It is a warning that we shall all need to understand before the time of the end." 15 MR 228 (1903). {LDE 15.4}

Many have studied the timelines of Daniel 12 and believe they understand very well what will happen if we finally do come to the Sunday laws. But is this a warning?

No, because we would like to know when the Sunday law will come, to arrange to sell our worldly goods in order to give it to the work of the Lord. Or if we have been victims of deception or error, we would also like to know before it is too late, wouldn't we?

A warning may include several kinds of data:

1. When an expected negative event will occur
2. That an expected positive event will result negatively
3. That a deception is connected with an event

Later, we will see that the study of Daniel 12 and Revelation 5 indeed gives us all three kinds of data.

A Question We All Have

... How long shall it be to the end of these wonders? (Daniel 12:6)

Ellen White on the same question:

A wonderful connection is seen between the universe of heaven and this world. The things revealed to Daniel were afterward complemented by the revelation made to John on the Isle of Patmos. These two books should be carefully studied. Twice Daniel inquired, How long shall it be to the end of time? {TM 114.6}

An Answer Difficult to Understand

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:7)

It is very well understood by many that the "time, times, and a half" refer to a literal three-and-a-half years of persecution, in which the people of God will suffer at the end of time. We know that this will be a time of trouble. But Daniel didn't (nor do we) just want to know how much time Satan would be allowed to persecute, but also how much time would pass until these events would begin. Daniel had already been told when the Judgment would begin, therefore his question clearly relates to the complete duration of the rest of the Judgment.

An Overlooked Answer

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:7)

For a long time, it has been overlooked that the answer to Daniel's question is not only in the second part of the verse, but God, in an unfamiliar manner, also gives a long period of time that comes before the tribulation of three-and-a-half years.

He was showing an image to the prophet, and this image expresses, in symbolic form, the duration of the Heavenly Day that we desire. Let's have a look at what the prophet Daniel SAW...

A Bible Text in Daniel That Is Still Sealed

Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank of the river. (Daniel 12:5)

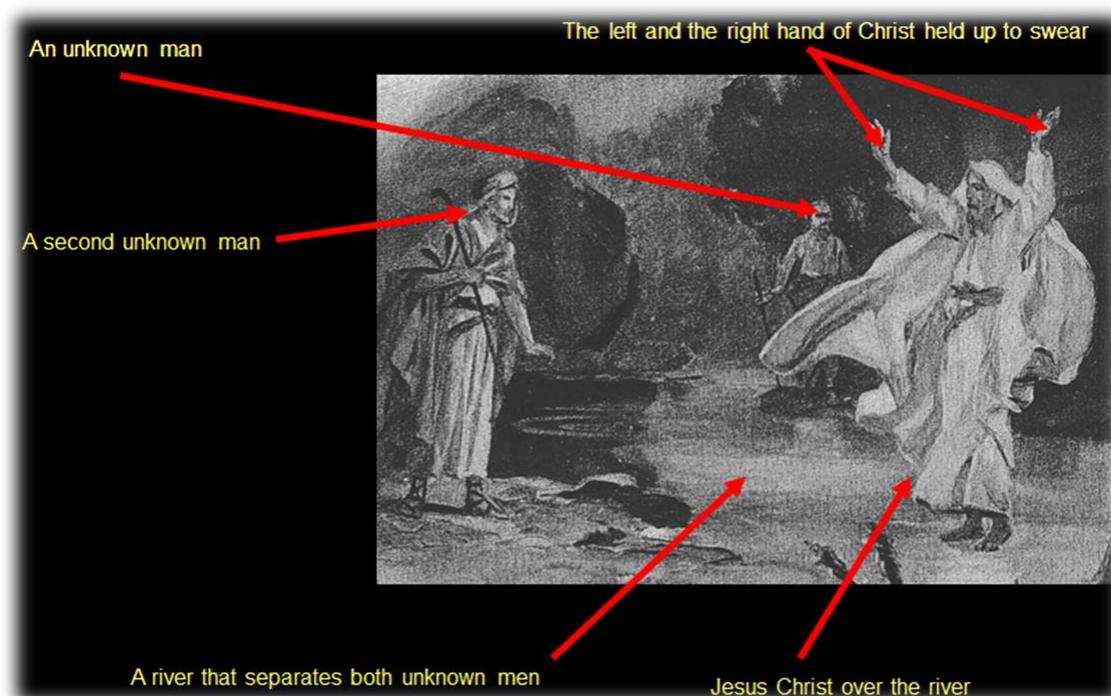

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever, ... (Daniel 12:7)

The SDA Bible Commentary remains silent about this scene, but it is clearly stated that the man over the river is Jesus Himself. Here, we are on holiest ground!

But so far we have no clue who the other two men on each shore of the river are, whom the prophet saw.

Now let's have a closer look at the image presented here by Jesus...

The Elements of the "Image" That Daniel Saw

The "Mathematics" of God

There exist two especially important numbers, which God uses over and over in the Bible: SEVEN and TWELVE.

Why are they important and what do they mean?

The number SEVEN is always connected with Jesus:

7 stars in His hand, 7 churches, 7 seals, 7 trumpets, the Lamb with 7 horns

The number TWELVE is always connected with a covenant that God makes with mankind:

12 tribes of Israel, 12 Apostles, the 144,000 ($12 \times 12 \times 1000$)

God chose these numbers because they are both composed by two other highly-symbolic numbers: THREE and FOUR

$3 + 4 = 7$ and $3 \times 4 = 12$

THREE symbolizes the Godhead, who is composed of three Persons: the Son, the Father, the Holy Spirit.

FOUR symbolizes mankind; the four corners of the earth: north, south, east and west.

The Addition symbolizes Jesus' death on the cross +

The Multiplication symbolizes the objective of the covenant of God with men: "Be fruitful and multiply". (Genesis 1:22)

Thus, the number SEVEN has the following meaning:

The Godhead (3) made terms that Jesus will die on the cross (+) for mankind (4), and this is the plan of salvation (7).

If we want to write “Jesus is our Savior” in symbolic form using numbers, we just write SEVEN.

And the number TWELVE has the following meaning:

The Godhead (3) made terms to multiply (×) mankind (4), that heaven will once again be populated after the fall of the evil angels, and this is the covenant (12).

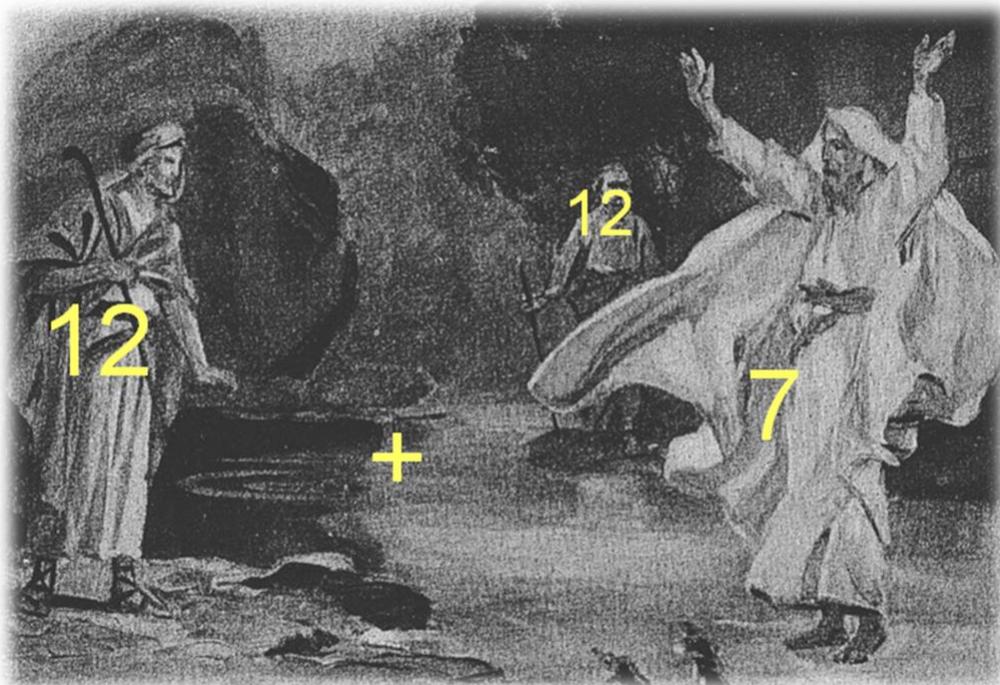

If we want to write “The covenant of God with mankind” in symbolic form using numbers, we just write TWELVE.

The Two Oaths

Jesus is swearing by His Father, but in the direction of two unknown men. He holds up one hand for each man.

Another word for “oath” is “pact” or “covenant.” Together, Jesus and the two men represent the two parts of the New Covenant, which first was made with Abraham for those who would die looking to the coming Redeemer before His death on the cross, and later was confirmed to the 12 apostles at the Last Supper for all who would believe in the Redeemer who had already come.

Thus it is legitimate to represent the two men with the number of the Covenant, TWELVE, and Jesus with SEVEN.

The river that separates the two men—now well-known, representing the old and the new Israel—symbolizes Jesus' death on the cross and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit:

For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins. (Matthew 26:28)

He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water. (John 7:38)

But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs: But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith came there out blood and water. (John

Two Parts of the Covenant, Two Oaths

Now we understand that the fact that Jesus made the Covenant with two parts of humanity can be expressed by the following mathematical formula: 12 + 12 = 24

Here we learn an initial interpretation: the 24 elders of the Clock of God are representatives of the two parts of the New Covenant: the 12 tribes of the old Israel and the 12 tribes of the new. The judgment started with the house of Israel and ends with... us.

A Hidden Mathematical Operation

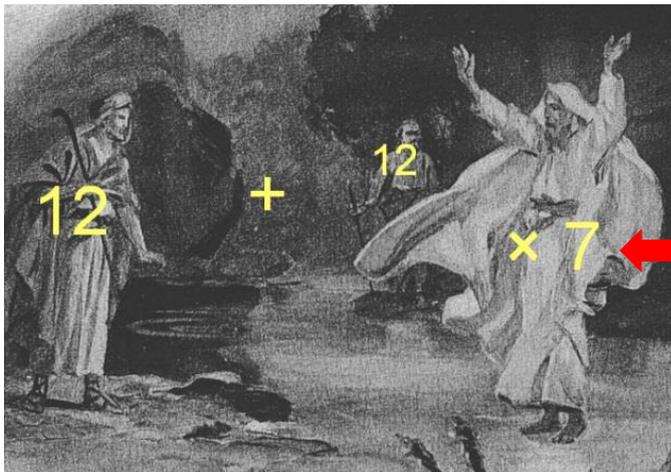

But Jesus, represented by the number SEVEN, stands in what mathematical relationship to the 24 tribes of Israel?

We could bet on multiplication, but this was even written in the biblical text for centuries, and was simply overlooked:

The word for "swearing" that is used in Daniel 12:7 means:

shāba' shaw-bah'

A primitive root; properly to be complete, but used only as a denominative from H7651: TO SEVEN ONESELF, that is, swear (as if by repeating a declaration seven times): - adjure, charge (by an oath, with an oath) {H7650, Strong's Concordance}

Repeating something seven times is a multiplication with SEVEN.

The Long-Awaited Answer We Have Searched For

The answer to Daniel's question of how long the end would take (specifically the first part of the end) is: (12 + 12) x 7

The result is 168.

This prophecy is in sequence with the prophecy of the 2300 evenings and mornings, so the number is also expressing prophetic days, which are 168 literal years.

Thus, the Heavenly Day will last 168 years, and then the final events will begin.

Back to Question 4

What is the duration of the Heavenly Day in earthly time?

Answer: As the study of Daniel 12 was showing us, the Heavenly Day would take 168 years, and then something decisive would happen. It began in autumn of 1844 and therefore it would happen after autumn of 2012 (autumn 1844 + 168 years).

As with other clocks, the position for 0 hours (midnight) is the same as for 12 hours (noon)—or in our case, 24 hours. The Clock of God starts in 1844 and ends in 2012, which is one cycle around the 24-hour wheel:

1844 (start of the Day of Atonement	=	0 hours
2012 (end of the Heavenly Day)	=	24 hours

Who knows the answer?

Since 2005, the SDAC has rejected this interpretation of Daniel 12 and two other biblical studies that lead to the same result. Now the knowledge goes to anyone who wants to receive it.

Question 5

How many earthly years correspond to one Heavenly Hour?

Answer: It is very easy to find the answer now, since we know that the beginning and end of the Heavenly Day are pointing to the same position in God's Clock.

The Heavenly Day will take 168 years in total.

These 168 earthly years of the Heavenly Day are divided into 24 Heavenly Hours.

Therefore, one Heavenly Hour corresponds to:

$$168 / 24 = \mathbf{7 \text{ earthly years}}$$

Therefore, the distance between two "elders," which represents one Heavenly Hour of the Heavenly Day, corresponds to a lapse of 7 earthly years.

Who knows the answer?

Only those who read and understand this message.

Now We Are Able to Adjust the Clock of God

1. The distance between the elders is exactly 7 years. This is not by chance; it is the divinely appointed spacing of sabbaticals from Leviticus 25:4.
2. Jesus proclaimed the Jubilee year of the Lord in spring, AD 29 (Luke 4:19), so it began in autumn, AD 28 and was the first year of a sabbatical year cycle (see table: SDA Bible Commentary, vol. 5, p. 197).
3. It follows that there was a sabbatical year from the autumn of AD 34 to the autumn of AD 35.
4. Now in a simple manner, we are able to determine the first sabbatical of the Orion Clock. The first started in autumn of AD 1847. The next, 7 years later, etc.
5. Now we adjust the Clock so that the points marked by the elders fall on sabbatical years.
6. The result is shown on the next slide.

The Clock of God, Correctly Adjusted

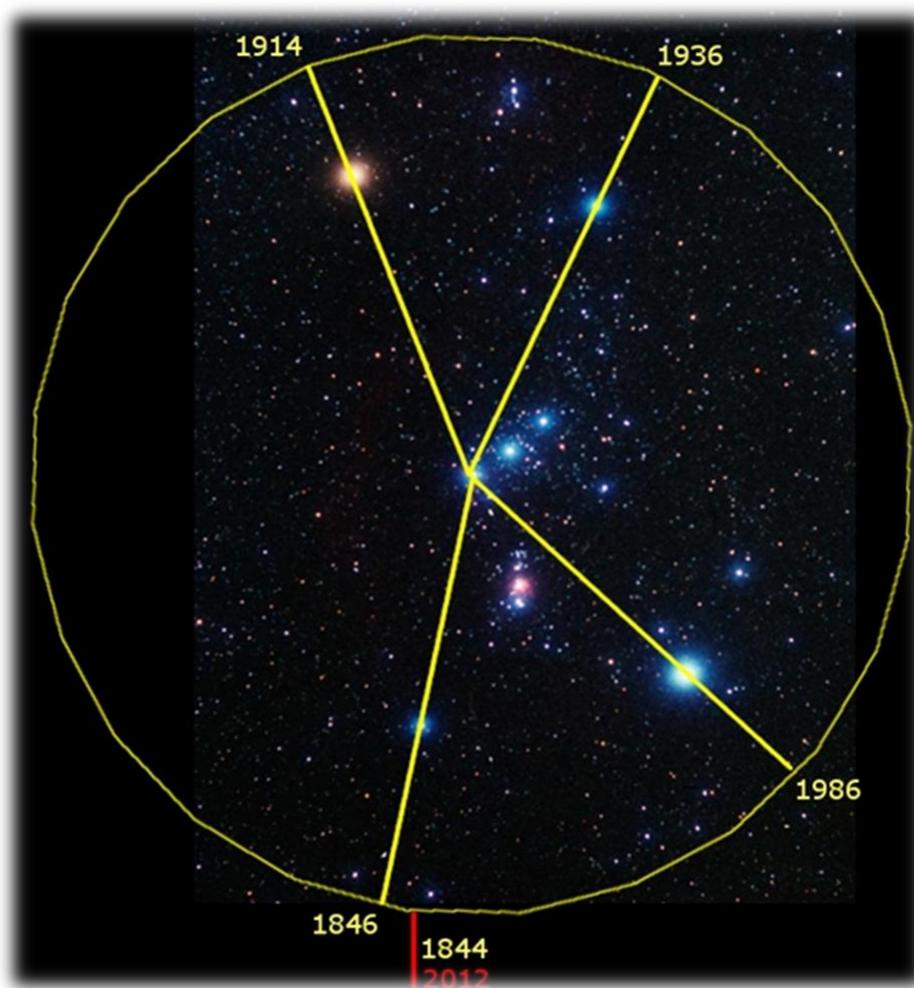

We would have been able to read the Clock with the same results without this adjustment, but it is nice when the elders point to sabbaticals, as it will help us a lot in our future studies.

The only thing left now is to read the remaining Clock hands, and identify their corresponding years.

To avoid any errors and to do it precisely, the Clock of God was rendered with a modern graphics program.

On the next page, we will see the result, with all the dates that God wants to show us.

The Dates of the First Four Seals

In the articles of the series History repeats, I take a closer look at the biblical fact that the six classical seals, which we understand in Adventism, are repeating according to the model of the Israelites' entry into Canaan and the conquest of Jericho. This repetition started with the beginning of the Heavenly Judgment Day. This view in no way affects the classical interpretation of the seven seals and churches!

1846: The First Seal

After centuries with an obscured Gospel, the adoption of the Sabbath truth reestablished (as we just saw) a church on earth, which proclaimed all of the Ten Commandments of God in their original form.

The Bible puts it like this:

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer. (Revelation 6:2)

The triumphal conquest of the white horse symbolizes this purified gospel. Even in a recent Sabbath school lesson, it was remarked that the white horse had gone forth twice in history—once at the time of the first Christians, and again with the Seventh-day Adventists. Right!

1846 – 1914: Ephesus

Ephesus is generally understood as the “desirable” church, as its name suggests. This pioneering phase of our church spanned from 1844 to 1914, a year before Ellen White's death. Jesus has much praise for this church in Revelation 2:1-7 because it was distinguished by wonderful spiritual achievements, especially with the constant presence of the Spirit of Prophecy.

But in 1888, something terrible happened. At the General Conference, the light of the Fourth Angel had been given by pastors Waggoner and Jones. But they were not welcomed, and the church rejected the light. Two years later, Ellen White said that our church could have been in heaven by then, but missed the opportunity. Jesus therefore says to it:

Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love. Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent. (Revelation 2:4-5)

Three Seals of Trials

The years 1844 and 1846 have clear meaning for Seventh-day Adventists of any kind, but the other three dates (1914, 1936 and 1986) have plain significance for only a few kinds of Adventists, and only they can recognize at first glance, the events God is pointing to, and what messages of enormous consequence are included. For them, these are significant dates in their history, which have been hidden from the majority of SDAs for reasons we will see.

God marked three years in which His people would be especially tried. Three seals served to sift the people, and to separate the wheat from the chaff.

The first four churches of Revelation 2 and 3 run in sequence, and they will give us more hints as to what happened at these historical moments, which God estimated worthy to write with His own finger into the sky.

1914: The Second Seal

And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say, Come and see. And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword. (Revelation 6:3-4)

In 1914, the First World War began, and with it, a special test for God's people: the question of whether we, as Christians, can participate in military service. With this question, God tested the loyalty of His people to the 6th commandment, “Thou shalt not kill.”. Also, the Sabbath of the 4th commandment was made a test in a special way. It was clear that a soldier in military service would not be able to keep the Sabbath if this would conflict with the orders of his commanders. Ellen White was strictly against military service and stated so accordingly.

The Separation

Because of these conflicts, the church was divided. Those who wanted to be faithful to their God, in spite of the perils of jail or death by their compatriots, were betrayed by their own brothers and sisters who chose to obey the laws of men over the laws of God. They were excluded from the church and committed to the authorities.

Those faithful to Jesus died the martyr's death in those years of war, like their predecessors during the first cycle of the seals, who died in the time of Christian persecution by the Romans.

Thus, after this, there were two churches: The SDA Church, which fell more and more into apostasy, and those members who had been faithful to God, who had to reorganize themselves as the Seventh-day Adventist Reformation Movement after several unsuccessful attempts to reconcile with the mother church.

1914 – 1936: Smyrna

And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive; I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan. Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death. (Revelation 2:8-11)

Those whom Jesus calls “the synagogue of Satan,” were the SDA brothers and sisters who committed their fellow members (who were not helped by the church organization) to the authorities, disfellowshipped them, and gave them over to jail and death.

1914 is a censurable date for the SDA church and a glorious date for the faithful of God, who organized at that time as the SDA Reformation Movement.

Persecutions in the World Wars

In 1888, after the first church of Revelation, “Ephesus” had “lost her first love” at the General Conference, an internal division had taken place, which Ellen White often mentioned. The church suffered the final and complete division in 1914.

Betrayed by their own brothers and sisters, a church emerged that did not receive any reproach from Jesus in the letters to the churches of Revelation. Only two of the seven churches receive no reproach: Smyrna and Philadelphia. We will have to research where Smyrna is today.

A long time of trouble began for God's faithful church, but the last years of trial, which started before World War II, took almost 10 years, just like the prophecy of Smyrna tells us. And those years would be even worse.

1936: The Third Seal

And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come and see. And I beheld, and lo a black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand. And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, A measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and see thou hurt not the oil and the wine. (Revelation 6:5-6)

In 1933, at the lowest point of the Great Depression, Hitler came into power. The Nazi government condemned both churches as sects—the SDAC and also the SDA Reformation Movement. A second majorly threatening trial would come in 1936, bringing another shaking for the people of God.

After just one single week, the SDAC decided to ally with the Nazis and was immediately reestablished, regaining their confiscated worldly goods, churches, and lands.

And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges; I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth. But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication. So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate. Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it. (Revelation 2:12-17)

In the classical cycle of churches, Pergamos was “the compromising church”. Likewise, when Hitler demanded that all children should go to school on Sabbath, the SDAC agreed. The trial of God that started in 1936 was especially about the Sabbath commandment. The SDAC compromised (see circular letter of E. Gugel). But of course, the other questions about military service came to trial again as well.

The SDAC corrupted the gospel, compromising with the Nazi government by agreeing to all its demands. The SDAC literally repeated the prophecy of Pergamos.

Smyrna Steadfast Again

But Smyrna still existed, now called “Antipas, my faithful martyr,” who represented the SDA Reformation Movement, which would stand the trial as it had done earlier in World War I. Betrayed again by many brothers, they were tested even more severely in the following 10 years.

But neither concentration camps nor death could bring the faithful brethren to fall. They remained steadfast and faithful to God.

God wrote their sufferings in heaven that we may learn from them; that soon we would be able to follow their example and stand through the last trial with human laws, which comes shortly before the end of the Investigative Judgment.

With His Clock, God clearly shows us where His faithful ones were at that time, and who continued in the process of apostasy through compromise.

Antipas Dies in Pergamos

Unfortunately, the prophecy of “Antipas, my faithful martyr” about the SDA Reformation Movement did not end there.

It says that Antipas “was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.” Jesus doesn’t say that just a few had been killed, but that the entire faithful church, like the Waldenses before, was completely eradicated.

The 10 years of persecution by the Nazis were so bad that not even the faithful of the Reformation church survived—and their spirit died with them.

The kind of spirit that entered afterward may be seen in the fact that they fell apart after World War II. In the General Conference Meeting of 1948, they disputed over the divorce issue and claims of power, which led to the scandal of 1951 and the separation into two different Reformation churches: the IMS (Germany) and the SDA-RM (USA)

This is why Smyrna is not mentioned in other prophecies anymore.

This Message Is for All Christians

Therefore, at this point, I would like to emphasize that I am firmly convinced that Jesus sends this message not only to the SDAC or factions, but to all those brethren who have the heart of Antipas, the faithful witness, and make as their example, those who had remained loyal during the two World Wars.

No membership in a church is sufficient for salvation, but it is the heart and the character of the individual that matters; that they follow the Great Teacher, who leads into all truth, recognizing and accepting the SDA doctrines as His truth.

The Orion message was given to cement these doctrines once again and to unite on a common ground, those who will soon form Philadelphia, testifying like Smyrna, but who will not perish.

1986: The Fourth Seal

And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, Come and see. And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him. And power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth. (Revelation 6:7-8)

In the classical cycle, the fourth seal represented the supremacy of the papacy. The pale horse symbolizes a dying gospel and the rider, spiritual and eternal “death” for all those who would follow their false, corrupted doctrines. Ellen White repeatedly pointed out that the church of God must completely abstain from forming any alliances with the papacy or apostate Protestantism.

In 1986, the SDA church publicly transgressed this divine precept. The SDAC participated—unofficially in 1986 and officially from 2002 on—in the World Day of Prayer for Peace of all Religions at Assisi, which was summoned by John Paul II as the first worldwide ecumenical event. In the same year (1986), the SDAC in Germany solicited membership in the ecumenical ACK. At SDA Interfaith Relations you can see how deeply the SDAC has fallen since 1986.

The SDA Church was corrupted, like Pergamos, through the acceptance of false doctrines (such as the idea that in times of war, or when schooling is required, the Sabbath may be transgressed), and had degraded so much that it even started to make public alliances with Jezebel (the papacy and its child churches = ecumenism = Babylon).

And unto the angel of the church in Thyatira write; These things saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass; I know thy works, and charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works; and the last to be more than the first. Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols. And I gave her space to repent of her fornication; and she repented not. (Revelation 2:18-21)

The Remnant in Thyatira

Once again, God points out that there are still some—even in the SDA Church, though not exclusively—like those who had already been faithful to God twice in difficult trials. Of these, He said that they should not receive another burden, or trial, during this period. This prophecy indicates that the “Remnant” always exist at any time in history:

But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the depths of Satan, as they speak; I will put upon you none other burden. But that which ye have already hold fast till I come. (Revelation 2:24-25)

The SDA Reformation churches refuse to make any alliances with—or even send observers to—any unions or coalitions of the ecumenical movement or the papacy itself, in obedience to the precepts of God which have been given by the Spirit of Prophecy through Ellen G. White. This should be copied by the SDAC!

The History Goes On

It may seem incredible in the eyes of the SDA Reformation churches and many other offshoot groups, that His patience with His church was not yet over, but God has written it in the book with seven seals.

The SDAC is in apostasy, no doubt, but it has not yet become Babylon. To become Babylon, it would be necessary to adopt the main teachings of Babylon. That would be:

1. Acceptance of Sunday keeping and
2. Acceptance of the belief in the immortality of the soul.

It may have become impossible for many today to celebrate the church services with their fallen brethren of the SDAC. I understand this all too well. But the solution at the present time, if you really have no other choice, is to attend small home groups, where the faithful come together, united in one faith.

Only do not leave your fallen brothers and sisters alone! Help them, so that many will learn about this wonderful message and arrive in Philadelphia.

What Comes Next?

Now that we know what the Clock of God is, and what it tells us, we may have some other questions:

1. Where are the last three seals in the Clock?
2. Where are the last three churches, and what is their meaning?
3. Are there any other “clock hands” in the Clock?
4. What is this message, really? Why are we receiving this message right now?
5. Does additional evidence exist that the Clock of God is true and that it really has something to do with the Bible?

Responding to the questions raised:

1. Question: Where are the last three seals in the Clock?

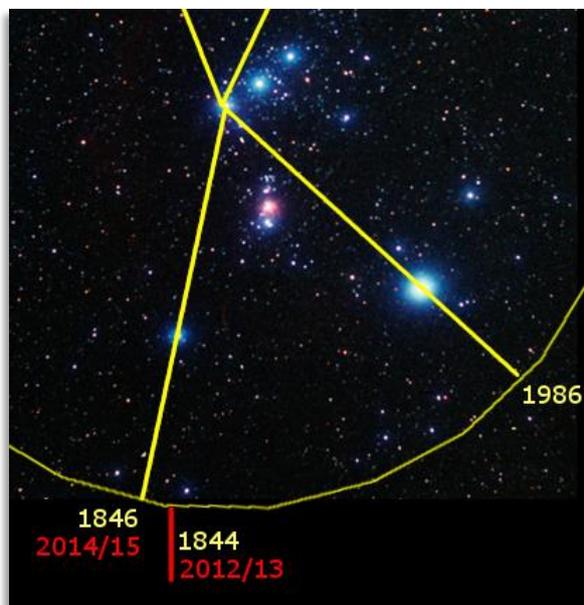

Let's first analyze the Judgment of the Living...

The Judgment of the Living

So far, we have only considered the Clock until 2012, but the period from autumn 1844 to autumn 2012 is just the time span of the Judgment of the Dead.

Let us remember the man over the river in Daniel 12. The "man's" (Jesus') oath to the two men also includes the three-and-a-half years of the Judgment of the Living at the end of history. This is specified later in Daniel 12 by the 1290 and 1335 days.

Jesus swore in figurative form to the two men representing the dead under the New Covenant, that the Judgment of the Dead would last 168 years. At the same time, He swore in spoken form to the living, that the Judgment of the Living would take place for three-and-a-half years.

Therefore, the three-and-a-half years of the Judgment of the Living must overlap with the Judgment of the Dead, beginning shortly before the Judgment of the Dead terminates. The overlap would be half a year, because the second coming must take place in autumn.

Therefore, the Judgment of the Living already began in spring of 2012! Let's see if the Clock of God confirms this idea.

If we let the Clock continue to run beyond 2012, the next year we come to in Orion is at the same position as for 1846.

So in 2014, we reach the line of the white horse again, which represents not just the pure Gospel, but also the purified church.

We must ask ourselves when exactly the church will be purified again.

When the purification is complete, everyone who can be saved will be sealed. The sealing will be completed shortly before the end of probation and the beginning of the time of plagues.

Between 2012 and 2014, we mathematically have only two years. But Orion shows the years from autumn to autumn. Therefore, "2014" means autumn 2014 to autumn 2015. Hence, the Judgment of the Living will last three-and-a-half years as expected (including the overlapping time of half a year with the Judgment of the Dead in 2012).

The Judgment of the Living is the Seventh Seal

The following biblical verse, speaking about the Seventh Seal, also tells us about its duration:

And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. (Revelation 8:1)

The verse clearly indicates that we must calculate in heavenly time to find out how long the heavenly half-hour is in earthly terms. For us, this is easy to do (but it is impossible for anyone who doesn't know this study)!

One hour on the Clock of God stands for 7 earthly years, as we already discovered. So half-an-hour in Heaven is 3½ years on earth. This is the same duration as the Judgment of the Living, and therefore the Judgment of the Living is itself the Seventh Seal.

We can also perfectly understand why there is silence in Heaven during the Judgment of the Living. The whole universe is watching in tense silence to see if the 144,000 can be found and sealed to stand their last test in the time of plagues after the Judgment of the Living will have ended.

Where Can We Find the Sixth Seal?

Let's first read the biblical text:

And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:12-17)*

According to the model of Jericho in Joshua 6:3-4, the repetition of the sixth seal must begin before the seventh seal-march on the seventh day (which corresponds to the heavenly judgment day). So we must research whether there have been events that we can identify as the signs of the sixth seal in the biblical text.

The Great Earthquake

The first sign of the sixth seal is the great earthquake. Do you remember any great earthquake that took place shortly before the seventh seal opened in spring 2012?

There is no doubt which earthquake the biblical text refers to. In Wikipedia we can read about the Great Japan Earthquake of March 11, 2011 with a magnitude of 9.0:

It was the most powerful earthquake ever recorded to have hit Japan, and the fourth most powerful earthquake in the world since modern record-keeping began in 1900. The earthquake triggered powerful tsunami waves that reached heights of up to 40.5 meters (133ft) ... and which ... travelled up to 10km (6mi) inland. The earthquake moved Honshu (the main island of Japan) 2.4m (8ft) east and shifted the Earth on its axis by estimates of between 10cm (4in) and 25cm (10in), and generated sound waves detected by the low-orbiting GOCE satellite.

This earthquake was the “merciful” repetition of the Great Lisbon Earthquake of 1755 in the classical sixth seal according to the sixth day of Jericho.

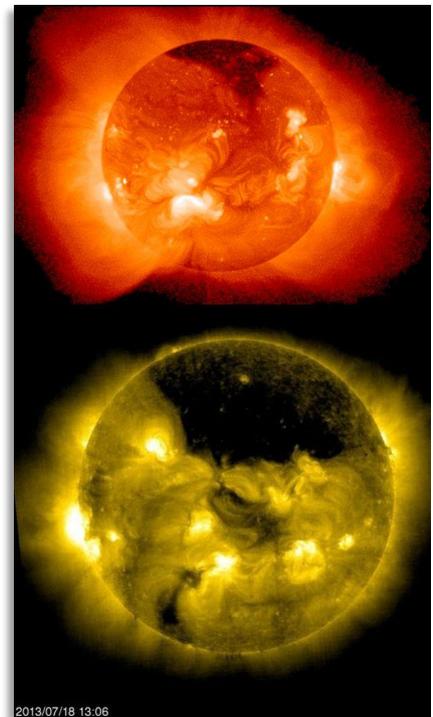

The Sun Became Black

The second sign of the sixth seal is the darkening of the sun. In the classical sixth seal we had the Dark day of New England of May 19, 1780 as the predecessor of a mysterious event that happened in 2013, and frightened even scientists, making them believe that our sun could be in the early stages of shutting down.

A space telescope aimed at the sun has spotted a gigantic hole in the solar atmosphere — a dark spot that covers nearly a quarter of our closest star, spewing solar material and gas into space.

The so-called coronal hole over the sun’s north pole came into view between July 13 and 18 [2013] and was observed by the Solar and Heliospheric Observatory, or SOHO.

The Sun is acting weird. It typically puts on a pageant of magnetic activity every 11 years for aurora watchers and sungazers alike, but this time it overslept. When it finally woke up (a year late), it gave the weakest performance in 100 years. What’s even weirder is that scientists, who aren’t usually shy about tossing hypotheses about, are at a loss for a good explanation.

Please note that even the sun was “sleeping” in the year of grace that God gave from 2012 to 2013!

The Moon Became as Blood

The Internet, YouTube and social media are full of articles and videos about the rare Blood Moon Tetrad that started on April 15, 2014. While the Dark Day of New England and the sighting of the moon like blood happened on the same day, the Blood Moon Tetrad is an even more distinct and globally recognized end-time sign for many Christians and Jews. Only our brethren of the Adventist church seem to overlook that the Bible hints at this event in many passages.

But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel; ... And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke: The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come. (From Acts 2:16-20)

These verses are connected to the outpouring of the Holy Spirit in the latter rain and the prophesying of God's people in the end time. The last Blood Moon of the Tetrad will happen on September 28, 2015 just a few days before the time of plagues will begin (the great day of the Lord).

The Stars of Heaven Fell unto the Earth

For a long time, we believed that this part of the verse was the fireballs prophesied by Ellen G. White (see below), and that event would be part of the 6th seal.

Last Friday morning, just before I awoke, a very impressive scene was presented before me. I seemed to awake from sleep but was not in my home. From the windows I could behold a terrible conflagration. Great balls of fire were falling upon houses, and from these balls fiery arrows were flying in every direction. It was impossible to check the fires that were kindled, and many places were being destroyed. The terror of the people was indescribable. After a time I awoke and found myself at home.—Evangelism, 29 (1906). {LDE 24.3}

But her prophecy evidently refers only to the great hail of the 7th plague or is even to be understood in a purely symbolic way.

And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great. (Revelation 16:21)

This terrible event of the seventh plague now takes people completely by surprise, because they rejected all of our warnings and feel secure.

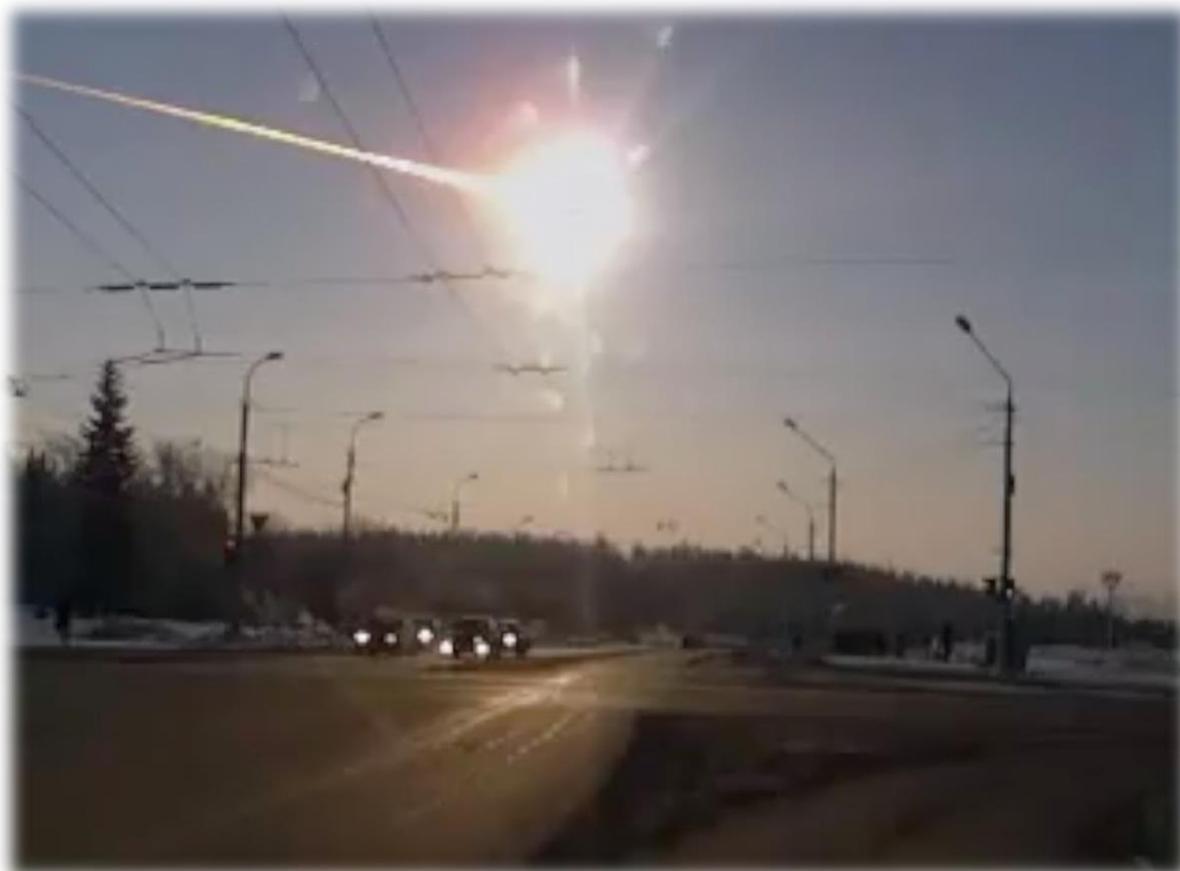

The event in the sixth seal before October 2015, however, must be the counterpart to the meteor shower of 1833, which was just a meteor shower.

The sixth seal took place during the period where there was still grace, and therefore the event was only a warning with grace.

Ellen G. White had another dream where she dreamed of only one fireball that apparently caused damage in only one region.

I saw an immense ball of fire fall among some beautiful mansions, causing their instant destruction. I heard someone say: "We knew that the judgments of God were coming upon the earth, but we did not know that they would come so soon." Others, with agonized voices, said: "You knew! Why then did you not tell us? We did not know."—Testimonies for the Church 9:28 (1909). {LDE 25.1}

The Chelyabinsk meteor of February 15, 2013 fulfils this part of the verse of the 6th seal and the dream Ellen White. It caused damage in 6 cities and injured 1491 people. A strong, but gracious warning.

The Chelyabinsk meteor fell in the time of great turnover in the Vatican in 2013. Through the resignation of Benedict XVI, the throne of the Antichrist was vacated for take-over by Satan himself, and on March 13, 2013, that man of sin was elevated/promoted to the head of the Catholic and the Universal Church.

Thus began the timelines of Daniel for visible events, which we had warned about since 2010.

And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. (Revelation 12:9)

The judgment of the living entered its decisive phase, because now Satan visibly presided over the earth as Pope Francis.

The Adventist church, which should have woken up from all these fulfillments of the prophecies they know, continued to object to the latter rain message from heaven and was sifted and shaken, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. It ended like the withered fig tree that Jesus cursed.

And the Heaven Departed as a Scroll

In 2015, just before the closing of the door of mercy, more events announced great upheavals and fulfilled additional prophecies of the 6th seal.

For the first time in history, three category 4 hurricanes were observed at the same time over the Pacific at the end of August 2015. Their form like a scroll viewed from the side fulfilled the prophecy that the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together. The three-part Orion message had almost completely done its work and the Holy Spirit was preparing to be withdrawn from the earth.

The Moving of the Mountains and Islands

In April 2015, the Great Earthquake of Nepal shook the world. 8,000 people died, 21,000 were injured.

The 21 climbers who were staying on Mount Everest, the highest mountain on earth, were killed by avalanches that were triggered when the mountain moved to the southeast by 3 centimeters from the incredible power of this earthquake.

Since most of the local religion's places of worship were very old and not made with earthquake-proof construction, it led to the destruction of pagan temples, while houses were often only slightly damaged. Nevertheless, hundreds of thousands lost their homes. God issued a very clear sign.

Over the past ten years, Mount Everest shifted by 40 centimeters. The Nepal earthquake, which took place near the end of the 6th seal, and Japan's, with which the 6th Seal was introduced, together fulfilled the prophecy that every mountain and island were moved out of their places.

But what reactions did these warnings and disasters—the signs in heaven and on earth that Jesus had prophesied—evoke from the people?

The Great Day of Wrath Has Come

People have long recognized that our spaceship “Earth,” is near the end of its journey. Since the middle of the 20th century, many scientists have been predicting the end of our planet, because man has largely destroyed it.

These predictions have culminated in the global warming theory; i.e. the climate lie of the 21st century, which in turn culminated in the United Nations’ great climate summits of 2015 and 2016.

People were clearly told that there would only be another 500 days, which would come to September 25, 2015, in order to save the earth through an appropriate climate agreement. Humanity has been prepared by politicians and religious leaders for its imminent end—in a form, however, that has nothing to do with the Biblical prediction of Jesus Christ and His surprising second coming as a thief.

Instead, humanity prepared themselves to take measures to save the planet.

To this end, the UN developed the “Sustainable Development Goals,” which are to be fully implemented by the year 2030.

Kings and Great, Rich and Poor

The politicians are aware, however, that politics alone cannot cause a change in the habits of all men or nations.

Man must be self-motivated toward such a change in order to adjust his lifestyle to be in accordance with the UN guidelines of enslaved humanity.

Therefore, it was necessary to consult a religious / spiritual leader for the implementation of the objectives, and Satan in the form of Pope Francis, who had everything planned from the outset, was ready to ride the beast of Revelation 17, the UN.

On September 25, 2015—one month before the closing of the door of mercy—the 6th seal reached its complete fulfillment when Satan opened the “record-breaking” UN General Assembly, speaking before it regarding the climate goals. He made it clear that all fundamentalists are terrorists and climate destroyers, and revealed himself as the unclean spirit that he is; though unnoticed by the vast majority of humanity, who agreed with him.

All of humanity beat the drum for this great event, exactly as the Bible foretold: the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man...

Rocks and Mountains, Fall on Us

Pope Francis, Jesuit and Satan in one person, is a Marian pope. Whoever supports him, worships Mary: Satan in his female form. Mary is worshiped in caves or mountain clefts because this cult goes back to very ancient religions that worshiped the Queen of Heaven. But the Marian cult really came to the forefront after the Second Vatican Council, and was especially promoted by John Paul II. Pope Francis carries the icons of Mary and Joseph in his papal coat of arms, indicating that he wants to complete the work of Marian popes.

So anyone who endorses Pope Francis as the head of the rescue-the-planet mission, therefore worships Mary, the God of forces: and a god whom his fathers knew not. (Daniel 11:38)

From God's perspective, these people ask that Jesus may not come, but that Mary should intercede for humanity. So they seek refuge in the clefts and rocks of the mountains, saying to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb!

Who Can Stand?

“The United Nations adopted the new development goals on September 25, 2015. The agenda includes 17 core objectives and 169 sub-objectives to be achieved by 2030. The UN member states obliged themselves to support the objectives: among others, to end global poverty and stop hunger. In addition, ambitious climate-protecting targets are on the global development agenda.”

These were the headlines, and the big question was: “Who can achieve these sustainable (i.e. designed for endurance) development goals? Who can stand?”

Among the fallen pastors and preachers of the Adventist Church, the message is now audible... “Christ is coming again in 2031!” They refer to the 2000 years since the death of Christ on the cross or the 6000 years since the Fall and fail to consider that Christ explained that the time would be shortened.

In so doing, they join in song with the satanic choir of the dragon (Pope Francis, Satan), the beast (UN), and the false prophet (apostate Protestantism), and thus seal the fate of all those who follow their deadly call and support this agenda.

The Sixth and the Seventh Seals Overlap

As we can clearly see from the dates of the signs of the sixth seal that already fulfilled, and the last phrase of the biblical description that says the seal would last until the great day/year of the wrath of God, the sixth seal starts approximately a year earlier than the seventh seal and ends together with it.

This means that the sixth and the seventh seals overlap until they reach their common end on the very day of Jesus’ end of intercession in the Most Holy Place in the autumn of 2015.

In our articles from 2015 and 2016, we explain all the correlations and fulfillments of the trumpet and plague verses of the Bible.

This presentation is only a summary of the key findings that should lead (or should have led) to a deeper study.

In our decipherment of the seals, only the repeated fifth seal of the seventh day of Jericho is lacking.

Where is the Fifth Seal?

Let us first read the verses of the fifth seal in the Bible:

And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellow servants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (Revelation 6:9-11)

The fifth seal must start even before the sixth seal. This is just logical! Therefore, we must search for a significant event before March 11, 2011.

Ellen G. White gives us a hint...

The Quest for the Fifth Seal

When the fifth seal was opened, John the Revelator in vision saw beneath the altar the company that were slain for the Word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ. After this came the scenes described in the eighteenth of Revelation, when those who are faithful and true are called out from Babylon. {Mar 199.6}

This text indicates that at the time of the opening of the fifth seal, there is no immediate persecution because the Loud Cry of the Fourth Angel will only be heard after this.

If we re-read the biblical text carefully, we find that it starts with a "time question" that reminds us of Daniel's question in chapter 12:

How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?

This question must have been asked while the Judgment of the Dead was still in progress, because it is asked by the symbolic martyrs under the altar from former generations. Hence, the fifth seal must have opened some time before the autumn of 2012.

Milestones of the Fifth Seal

The first part of the answer tells us an important milestone in this fifth seal:

And white robes were given unto every one of them;

When will a white robe be given to a person? When he is judged righteous!

When are all of the dead souls under the altar finally judged? At the end of the Judgment of the Dead in the autumn of 2012! But that's not all...

The souls under the altar are impatiently waiting until God punishes the successors of their ancient persecutors, but the answer is that they still have to wait...

...until their fellow servants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.

This will be fulfilled when the last martyr will have died. We know that it makes no sense for any martyr to die after probation has closed, because their blood would not rescue any other soul. Hence, we know that the fifth seal ends on the very same day when Jesus stops interceding in the Most Holy Place, just like the sixth and seventh seals we saw before.

The Fifth Seal is a Time Message

The fifth seal started with a time question during the period of the Judgment of the Dead, and a two-part answer was given.

From the two parts, we learn that first, the Judgment of the Dead must end, and that the seal will end when the last martyr has died. But does this really answer the question of the martyrs of old? Wouldn't they deserve a more tangible answer from the Lord for whom they gave their lives? Note their question—it was not when their judgment would be finished and how long they would have to wait for their resurrection at the Second Coming. It also had two parts:

How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?

Note that they ask about those who dwell on the earth! They are asking about the judgment and punishment of the LIVING ONES. First, they want to know when the Judgment of the Living will begin, and secondly, when the punishments of the living unrighteous will take place.

The Answer to the Question of the Souls

We have a wonderful God, who never leaves us alone and always gives us an answer, if the answer is relevant for our present time. Old truth is the basis for new truth, which we then call present truth.

Daniel had asked the question about the end of all things, and he was told that he would have to rest until his resurrection to know it, because it was for many "days".

The apostles had asked the question about Jesus' return, and they were told that it was not for them to know (because it was still for many "days").

William Miller had asked the question about His Second Coming and the destruction of the earth by fire. He was the first one to get a date, but not of the event that he expected. It was for the beginning of the Judgment of the Dead.

And then John Scotram asked this question, and he was shown the Clock of God in Orion at the beginning of 2010, and this Holy Clock showed only two future dates...

The Fifth Seal is the Orion Message

These two future dates are the perfect answer to the twofold question of the souls under the altar.

The first part of the question was:

How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge... them that dwell on the earth?

The answer was the first future date in the Orion Clock that we determined through this study. In spring 2012 the Judgment of the Living started, overlapping for half-a-year with the Judgment of the Dead until the autumn of 2012.

The answer to the second part of the question is even so important that the Lord used the star of the Rider of the white horse – symbolizing Himself – as the answer to the question...

How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not ... avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?

The time of persecution, death, and the severe judgments against the apostate part of Christendom will begin in autumn of 2014. It will all start with Ezekiel 9 fulfilled in the house of God: The SDA church.

The 5th Seal Overlaps with the 6th and 7th

One may ask, why do only the last three seals overlap, while the first four do not?

The biblical text already suggests a different handling of the first four from the last three seals. The first four seals all use the symbolism of the horsemen, telling us that we have to watch for four “angels” represented in Orion by stars.

The last three seals do not use the horsemen symbolism, and only one star is involved in the answer to the second part of the question of the souls under the altar... Saiph the star of the Rider of the White Horse, telling us who will be the acting Agent cleansing His church from the autumn of 2014 on: our Lord Jesus Christ Himself.

The Time of the Plagues

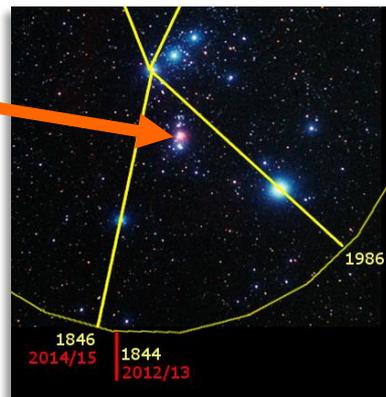

The last three seals end together on the day when Jesus will let go of the censer of intercession and leave the Heavenly Sanctuary.

Are we able to find a symbol for the time of plagues in Orion?

What do we call the group of faithful ones, who will still be alive in the time of the plagues? These are the 144,000, who will not taste death, but live even until Jesus' coming.

And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God. And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God. (Revelation 15:1-2)

Where do we find the sea of glass in Orion? Before the Throne of God; it's the Great Orion Nebula.

While the circle formed by the 24 elders represents our pilgrimage on Earth in the direction of the Heavenly Canaan, lasting until the end of the Judgment Clock in autumn 2015, the sea of glass is the place where Revelation depicts the 144,000 during the plagues.

How Long Will the Plagues Last?

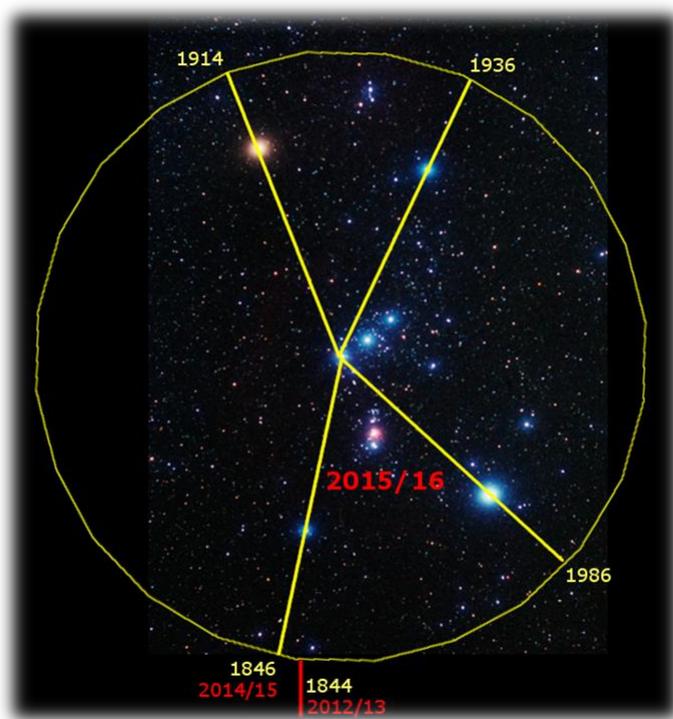

As we learned in the biblical text of the sixth seal, it will all end with the great day of the wrath of God. This “day” is called the time of the plagues, whose beginning in the autumn of 2015 is also marked by the star of the Rider of the white horse. At the end of this “day”, the scenes of Revelation 19 will play out and Jesus will come again. Then we will be physically taken to the Orion Nebula:

We all entered the cloud together, and were seven days ascending to the sea of glass, when Jesus brought the crowns, and with His own right hand placed them on our heads. {EW 16.2}

In the Bible, a “day” normally represents a year, so the plagues will last approximately a year from the autumn of 2015 to the autumn of 2016.

The open question is, how long is this “prophetic day”? Is it 360 or 365 days long, and should we include in our calculation, the 7 days that Noah was in the ark before it rained, since Jesus said it would be as in the days of Noah?

We shall see in Shadows of the Sacrifices that there is a hidden prophecy in the Bible that gives us the answers to these questions.

Responding to the questions raised:

2. Question: Where are the last three churches, and what is their meaning?

What Did the Pioneers Believe?

Three churches still remain at the beginning of the fifth seal: Sardis, Philadelphia and Laodicea. We will see that they overlap just as the last three seals overlap. Only one is without blemish; only one gets the crown: Philadelphia.

Let us read what the pioneers, in their time, believed that the last three churches would represent, because this is valid in our day, too, in a figurative sense. At www.whiteestate.org, we can read:

In the early years after the 1844 experience, Sabbatarian Adventists identified themselves as the church of Philadelphia, other Adventists as Laodiceans, and non-Adventists as Sardis. However, by 1854 Ellen White was led to point out that "the remnant were not prepared for what is coming upon the earth. Stupidity, like lethargy, seemed to hang upon the minds of most of those who profess to believe that we are having the last message. . . . Ye suffer your minds to be diverted too readily from the work of preparation and the all-important truths for these last days." By 1856 James White, Uriah Smith, and J. H. Waggoner were clearly telling the young Adventist groups that the Laodicean message applied to Sabbatarian Adventists as well as others who were "lukewarm" in their Christian experience. They, too, needed thorough repentance.

Further, they combined in their conclusion that the third angel's message was the final message to the "rebellious world," and the Laodicean message was the final message to a "lukewarm church."

Philadelphia Will Stand

The biblical account reveals only two churches that are without blemish. One was Smyrna, which was destroyed as Antipas, and the other is Philadelphia at the end of time. First, the text shows us that we are near the close of probation:

And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth; I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name. (Revelation 3:7-8)

Then the promise comes that Philadelphia will not be destroyed:

Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth. (Revelation 3:10)

Philadelphia is the 144,000

The only people who will see Jesus without ever having died are the 144,000. So this must be the church of Philadelphia, for Jesus will save them in the time of the plagues. It is a pure church and perfectly symbolized by the white horse that the Clock reaches in 2014/2015.

The members of this church come from all groups who heed the warnings of this message and follow it. They are composed of the faithful in the ranks of the SDA churches and factions, the "few in Sardis who have not defiled their garments" and those in Laodicea, who "bought eyesalve and gold" just in time. No one is saved because of his religious affiliation, and no one will be condemned because of it. These are spiritual conditions. But to belong to Philadelphia, one will need to accept seven particular pillars of faith. More on this later.

Let's look now at Sardis and Laodicea, which form part of the three last churches.

The Dead Sardis

Sardis is the church “that has the name that it lives, but is dead”. Jesus says to the majority there: “If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.” (Revelation 3:3)

Most members of Sardis do not know what hour Jesus will come because they will not have received the Holy Spirit (see the beginning of this presentation). Therefore, Jesus will come unexpectedly and surprisingly for them.

Thus, it is important to not belong to Sardis, the dead church! To avoid this, one must know what the characteristics of Sardis are.

Sardis is simply composed of those who did not accept the counsel of Jesus to Sardis. How does Jesus introduce Himself to Sardis?

And unto the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead. (Revelation 3:1)

Jesus refers again to the seven stars—Orion—for their salvation from their dead spiritual condition would have come from there. If this wonderful message had been accepted, a reawakening would have occurred by the refreshment of the Holy Spirit. Most within Sardis, however, were already completely dead.

Laodicea and Spiritual Arrogance

Laodicea is not just the SDA church—like many Reformation Adventists or groups believe—but also the lukewarm part of other SDA churches and factions. Indeed, such members exist in the SDA Reformation Movement and other groups, even in the leadership.

The typical Laodicean character believes himself rich, because he thinks he is “armed” with the Bible and Ellen White, and nothing could happen to him. He has forgotten that it was Ellen White who has repeatedly said that history repeats itself, that we should learn from it, that there will be much more new light, that we should look for it as for hidden treasures, and that only those who seek it will ultimately find it.

These are the ones who, because of time-setting, use texts against these studies that they do not even understand because they are spiritually poor, blind and naked. They do not look for the truth because they think they have already grasped everything with their brilliant minds.

They are blind because they do not recognize the beauty of the Orion message and the harmony of these prophecies. They do not tolerate the reproach of Jesus that is given there, because they believe themselves above all and sublime.

For them, Jesus has the worst words that come from His mouth in the Bible.

Laodicea and Judging

The Judging Laodiceans are those who know many quotes and condemn their brethren who still remain in the SDA church, which is "Babylon" for them. They believe they have the duty to call them out from there because their church is so much "richer".

At the same time, in their lukewarm state, they have no love for their neighbors anymore—not even their brethren. They are judgmental and engaged in theological niceties, or prefer to focus on world politics because they think they have already found everything in God's word. They condemn these studies, calling them complete nonsense or unnecessary theology, and forget where the real treasures of gold are—waiting in the Word of God to be discovered.

While those in Sardis were simply spiritually dead because their love for Jesus had died, the Laodiceans must receive the reproach that they are spiritually arrogant, because they believe that they alone have the truth.

They refrain from seeking new light, not because they have become dead or bitter, but because they feel themselves elevated above all others in their spiritual development. This is the sin of pride and judging and they will be vomited out of Jesus' mouth for their own arrogance.

Many believe that they will be able to quickly leave Sardis or Laodicea, just before the end of this world. Read the following statements in "Signs of the Times" ...

Hope in Neither Sardis nor in Laodicea

"Signs of the Times" Jan. 17, 1911, page 7:

The last three churches present three present-day conditions: (1 [Sardis]) Great worldliness, dead while professing to live, having not the life of Christ, seen in the great popular churches; (2 [Philadelphia]) Devoted, earnest seeking of God, manifested among a far smaller number who are looking for their Lord's coming; (3 [Laodicea]) Those who possess an outward knowledge of God's truth, who feel rich because of that knowledge, proud because of their superior morality, but do not know the sweetness of God's grace, the power of His redeeming love.

There is hope in neither Sardis nor in Laodicea. Out of these conditions must the victors come into that of Philadelphia - brotherly love. He pleads with the few names in Sardis. Upon the greater part of those in Sardis, Christ will come as a thief in swift judgment, but He will save some. He has no promise to Laodicea as a whole. "If any man hear My voice," - He pleads with the individual; but the individual who opens the heart's door and lets Christ in, who comes into that wonderful communion with his divine Lord, will by that very process come into the condition of brotherly love. They will constitute the remnant who keep the word of His patience, against whom He has no condemnation, who are ready for translation. Out of that condition of lukewarmness means a hard struggle, earnest zeal, severe conflict; but he who wins shall share Christ's kingdom eternally."

Responding to the questions raised:

3. Question: Are there any other “clock hands” in the Clock?

The Throne Lines

Orion is composed of seven stars. So far, we used only five of them to read the Clock and its dates.

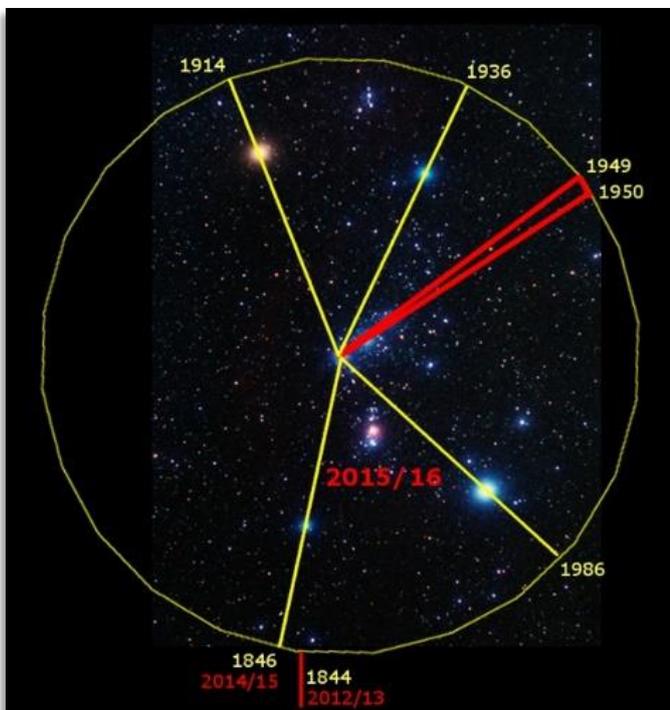

We must also consider the two belt stars to the right of the star of Jesus. The three belt stars symbolize the throne of Son, the Father and the Holy Spirit.

Together with His Father and the Holy Spirit, Jesus points to two particular years.

These years must be of special importance, because they are shown by the three Persons of the Godhead.

So we are on three-fold holy ground:

And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. (Revelation 4:8)

1949: The “Unfallen” Nature of Jesus

The discovery of the throne lines gives us two more years that Jesus highlights: 1949 and 1950.

What happened then, that Jesus takes it so extremely seriously?

The process of eradication of the doctrine of the fallen nature of Jesus from all our textbooks began in 1949. The Church wanted to approach the ecumenical movement. This was the beginning of a terrible departure from the teachings of the pioneers who believed that Jesus came in exactly the same flesh as we have, that is, with the same sinful, fallen nature, and therefore suffered in the same way as we do in all temptations. If one removes this doctrine and says that Jesus came in unfallen flesh, then he is saying that Jesus had an advantage over us and it was because He was God that He never sinned.

In consequence, this leads one to believe that we could stay in our sins and He would save us in our sins instead of from our sins.

1949: The Doctrine of the Nicolaitans

This process began in 1949 and led to the publication of the infamous book, “Questions on Doctrine” about 10 years later. It is regarded by many SDA groups as the writing that sealed the apostasy of the SDA church, for it had opened itself to the ecumenical movement.

This doctrine is an exact copy of the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, of which the Bible warns us. By it, we “have permitted our minds to become beclouded in regard to what constitutes sin and are fearfully deceived". It is the tempting doctrine of Balaam mentioned by Ellen White in Testimonies for the Church, Vol. 9, p. 267. She says, "They have transgressed the law and broken the everlasting covenant..." because they discredited even the nature of their Savior.

In the Clock, we find these lines in the "slice of pie" that corresponds to the church of Pergamos, 1936 - 1986. In Revelation, we read in the letter to the church at Pergamos:

But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumbling block before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication. So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate. (Revelation 2:14-15)

This gives us further evidence that the Clock exactly follows the order of the seven seals and churches.

1950: "1888 Re-Examined"

Because of the threat that the church would apostatize to the ecumenical movement or worse, Jesus sent two ministers to the General Conference in 1950; Pastors Robert Wieland and Donald Short.

They had written a wonderful document, in which they explained exactly what had happened in 1888 that brought Ellen White to state, only two years later in 1890, that the light of the Fourth Angel had been rejected and the church had lost its opportunity to go to heaven.

The document was called "1888 Re-Examined."

Pastors Wieland and Short were Jesus' second attempt to give the light of the Fourth Angel to His church, as He had the first time through pastors Waggoner and Jones. The SDA General Conference also rejected their study as exaggerated, because the ministers had called for collective repentance and reform, which was and is a necessary preparation of the church for the second coming of Jesus.

A Rejected Warning

Pastors Wieland and Short did their best to admonish the church and dissuade it from introducing the false teachings on the nature of Jesus, which would finally lead to the ruin of the church. But they were not heard.

The doctrine of the unfallen nature eventually led to the public sin that the church committed in 1986 of associating with the ecumenical movement. This is why we have so incredibly many unfaithful, publicly sinning members in our ranks, such that many of us are no longer attracted to our congregations, because we no longer have the same faith.

Therefore, with much patience, Jesus now warns us again that these lies about His nature must be rooted out completely, for His mission on earth is directly attacked by these false statements about His nature.

You'll find a deep and thorough examination of the throne lines that point to the years 1949 and 1950 in The Throne Lines. In the Vessel of Time, you will see that in His Word, Jesus also marked in a special way, the end of that terrible decade of the 1950s, which ushered in the worst apostasy of the church.

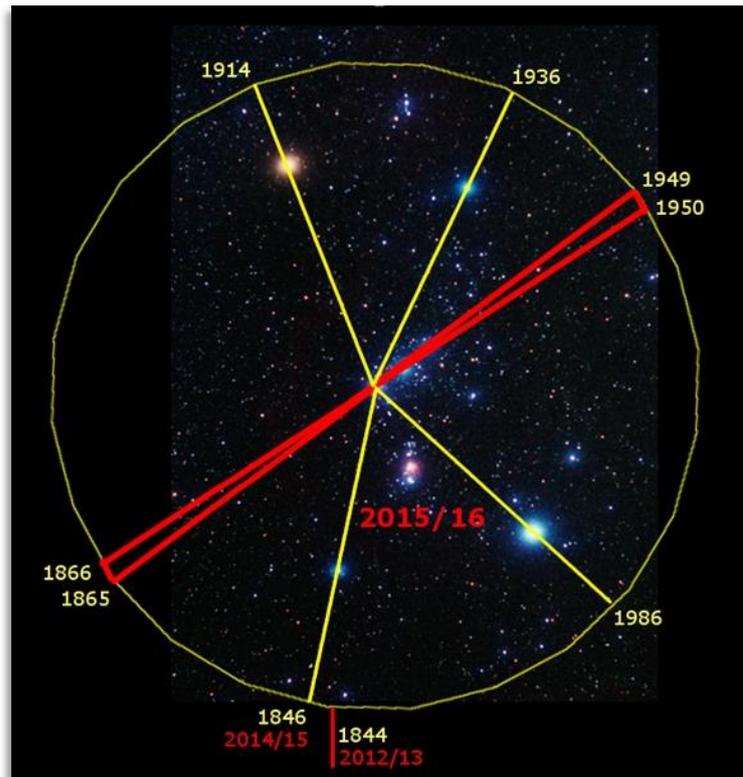

The Right Arm of Jesus

During my study of the Shadows of the Future, another time period became apparent. It was revealed that Jesus had sent a direct order to His church ship in the years around 1865, which led to a decisive change of course.

After I received the hint through that study, I noticed that the extension of the throne lines to the left side point exactly to 1865 and 1866. These two years were marked also by the parallel study of the shadowy Sabbaths of the sanctuary.

But is it allowable to extend the lines in one direction if there is not a star in that direction? In the case of the lines marked by the living creatures, certainly not! But in the case of the throne lines, which are made from Jesus with the divine Council, there is indeed a specific hint in Ellen White's first vision:

This light shone all along the path and gave light for their feet so that they might not stumble. If they kept their eyes fixed on Jesus, who was just before them, leading them to the city, they were safe. But soon some grew weary, and said the city was a great way off, and they expected to have entered it before. Then Jesus would encourage them by raising His glorious right arm, and from His arm came a light which waved over the Advent band, and they shouted, "Alleluia!" {EW 14.1}

Our Health Reform

When Jesus sits on His throne facing us and He raises His left arm, it points to the years 1949 and 1950. If He raises His right arm, however, it points to the years 1865 and 1866.

With great joy, we should all receive the message that was institutionalized in these years in our church, and integrate it into our lives. Jesus had already sent visions about the health reform since 1863, but on the famous December 25th, 1865, Jesus directed Ellen White in vision to begin the health mission with the construction of sanitariums and to promote the health message as an integral part of Adventism.

Immediately they followed the command of Christ, and at the General Conference in 1866, Ellen White had already proclaimed the institutionalization of our health reform. It was also the first year that the "Health Reformer" was printed.

In the same year, the "Western Health Reform Institute" opened its doors. We all know it better by the name "Battle Creek Sanitarium".

The Seven Pillars of the Temple

In "Early Writings," Ellen White gives us another clue about who belongs to the 144,000 and to whom access to the Heavenly Temple will be granted:

And as we were about to enter the holy temple, Jesus raised His lovely voice and said, "Only the 144,000 enter this place," and we shouted, "Alleluia." This temple was supported by seven pillars, all of transparent gold, set with pearls most glorious. {EW 18.2}

The temple symbolizes the belief system of each of the 144,000. It is based on seven pillars. To date, no one could decipher exactly which of our doctrines make up these seven pillars. Now we can...

The Seven Pillars of Faith

1844: Our Doctrine of the Sanctuary, the beginning of the Investigative Judgment in Heaven.

1846: The Seventh-day Sabbath based on the creation week.

1865: Our Health Reform.

1914: Being Non-combatant, even at the cost of our life.

1936: Not compromising with the State, even if it costs our life.

1950: Justification by Faith, for absolute obedience to the commandments out of love for Jesus; receiving a holy character before Jesus comes again.

1986: Not participating in the ecumenical movement or mixing with other religions.

Looking at the throne lines in their entirety, we find that they show Jesus' ministry on earth.

His left arm brought the people righteousness by faith, giving an example of how we can live a pure life in complete obedience to the commandments of God through total submission of our will to the Father.

His right arm was healing the people. Everywhere He went, He always healed the infirmities of the people. We should also follow His example and heal our neighbors through our knowledge of health reform.

Because of the small shift in the belt stars, there are two lines that cross each other, highlighting the culmination of the life of Jesus: His death on the cross for us.

The throne lines point us to Jesus, to live as He lived. They admonish us to be ready to suffer death for our faithfulness to Jesus if it is necessary. Soon many of us will be tested on this.

Responding to the questions raised:

4. Question: What is this message, really? Why are we receiving this message right now?

Stay Faithful to the Commandments!

God wrote three historical periods of the Advent Movement into the sky, through which His people would be tested and sifted, so they could become ready for the last trial. He also showed them correct doctrines in preparation for the final test. This test will come very soon, but not before this message reaches the 144,000 to give sound to the Loud Cry.

In Early Writings, we read that the Voice of God will announce the day and the hour of Jesus' second coming and that this voice comes from Orion. Afterward the people will give the Loud Cry, which enrages the nations.

The message is a call to repentance for the SDA churches and for each member, personally. It gives Smyrna and Antipas as an example for how we should behave in time of preparation and trial: With faithfulness to the commandments of God, even if it costs our lives!

Leave the Ecumenical Movement!

This message reached us in increased measure shortly before the proclamation of human laws that are against God's law. There is a reason for this. God shows how His people have fallen in each of the three previous trials and how each time only a small portion had remained faithful.

The last great trial is upon us. The fifth seal has already opened, and during the Thyatira period, one last time, God says to His numerous people, the SDA church:

Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols. And I gave her space to repent of her fornication; and she repented not. Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds. And I will kill her children with death; and all the churches shall know that I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and I will give unto every one of you according to your works. (Revelation 2:20-23)

I dedicated a separate article for this topic, The Ecumenical Adventist, but also relevant here, are the other themes of the series Nothing happened?.

A Call for Collective Repentance

Robert Wieland and Donald Short demonstrated that if the church would not repent and publically and unambiguously turn back to the original doctrines, the church ship would be in great danger.

Every one of us must help, that earnest vigilance may be manifested to remove the worldliness from the church.

If most earnest vigilance is not manifested at the great heart of the work to protect the interests of the cause, the church will become as corrupt as the churches of other denominations.... It is an alarming fact that indifference, sleepiness, and apathy have characterized men in responsible positions, and that there is a steady increase of pride and an alarming disregard of the warnings of the Spirit of God. ... The eyes of God's people seem to be blinded, while the church is fast drifting into the channel of worldliness. {4T 512.3}

The world must not be introduced into the church, and married to the church, forming a bond of unity. Through this means the church will become indeed corrupt, and as stated in Revelation, "a cage of every unclean and hateful bird". [Babylon] {TM 265.1}

Restoration and Reformation

This is the last message that God has for His people. Through it, He will gather the 144,000 for the Loud Cry, confirming the foundational pillars of Adventism in a new light.

As we have seen, 7 pillars of our faith are once more, firmly cemented in this message. These pillars must now be re-erected and the church ship must be cleansed from its corruptions.

This message is for every individual, not excluding the leaders, who have a major responsibility in these last remaining years. The Judgment of the Living has already begun.

Help your leaders, but also exhort them if they teach against the pillars of our faith! Pay particular attention to the false doctrine of the unfallen nature of Jesus! Exhort our brothers and sisters to be faithful to the health message and also to the dress code, which is a part of it!

These are not legalistic demands. Ask yourself whether, for the love of Jesus—to show Him your gratitude for His sacrifice for you—you're willing to do what He would like to see you doing.

Do not remain silent in front of worldliness! Exhort, wake others up!

Help from "Above"

The SDA Church has been corrupted, and the General Conference no longer has the candlestick of truth. So who has it then? The offshoot groups or Reformation churches do not fulfill the prophecy at all, that their light would really fill the whole earth. The assistance still must come from "above."

Ever since the terrible incidents of 1888, we have been waiting for the "Fourth Angel" of Revelation 18 to come to help the churches which have the message of the Third Angel. In 1950, we rejected him for the second time.

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. (Revelation 18:1-3)

The Message of the Fourth Angel

But don't these verses just relate to the Roman Church and apostate Protestantism? No, because the Spirit of Prophecy teaches us:

The light which attended this [fourth] angel penetrated everywhere, as he cried mightily, with a strong voice, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. {EW 277.1}

Ellen White clearly tells us that the message of the Fourth Angel is directed especially to the churches which have been corrupted since 1844. The Roman and the Protestant churches definitely were already corrupted before 1844. Therefore, the angel is mentioning the corruption of the SDA mother church and some of its daughters which would introduce wrong doctrines. The message of the Fourth Angel must re-erect the old pillars of faith and confirm them.

The Two-Fold Light of the Fourth Angel

The light of the Fourth Angel is a two-fold message. This fact is often overlooked.

One part exhorts the church because of its corruption (the repetition of the Second Angel):

The light which attended this [fourth] angel penetrated everywhere, as he cried mightily, with a strong voice, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. {EW 277.1}

But it also has another part that is a time message:

This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. {EW 277.2}

The "Casket" of the Second Miller

The "Midnight Cry" was Miller's message of the coming of Christ and was a pure time message. Ellen White compares the light of the Fourth Angel with this time message by saying that the message of the Fourth Angel comes to the aid of the Third Angel, just like the midnight cry.

Even Miller himself had a dream that is printed in "Early Writings." In it, all of his teachings had been contaminated and confused. But then another man came and cleaned everything again and they all "shone 10 times their former glory". This second man represents the movement of the Fourth Angel, and as Miller had a time message for the beginning of the Judgment, the "second Miller" has a time message for the end of the Judgment. Miller had found his precious stones in a beautiful "casket", i.e., in the Bible. The "casket" of the second Miller was "much larger and more beautiful" ... Orion.

It is a hint that if anyone claims to have the light of the Fourth Angel, but has only a pure time message, they are equally wrong as somebody who only has a message of exhortation. Both parts belong together!

I discuss the time issue in detail in the articles, Day and Hour.

The Loud Cry

What will be the effect of the message of the Fourth Angel—the Orion Message?

Frequently we read the verses of Revelation 18 too superficially. After the Fourth Angel, another Voice comes with a message:

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities. (Revelation 18:4-5)

Many expositors already correctly recognize that the “voice from heaven” is Jesus’ voice in this verse. But some say that this is the Holy Spirit who talks here. It is the message of the Latter Rain.

It is the Voice of God coming from Orion, and the Holy Spirit will now guide every single one of the 144,000 into all truth, leading them in this historical moment, to the acceptance of this message and to repentance. This will soon result in the Loud Cry.

Why Is the Message Given Right Now?

As we have shown in other studies, the Vatican is now ready to ride the beast of Revelation 17. On July 10th, 2009, the G20 were established as the new political power to lead the New World Order.

Days earlier, the Pope solicited dominion over this beast (the G20) by the encyclical of Benedict XVI. On July 10th, 2009, after the G20 summit, Obama went directly to the Pope. They had a private meeting and Obama conveyed the decision of the nations to the Pope.

We can read what is going on behind the enemy lines through the coat of arms of the Pope and in the signet of the Pauline year (more in Behind Enemy Lines).

In spring 2012, the Judgment of the Living began. God now gathers the 144,000 by this special message, which only they are able to understand, and this work will be completed by the Holy Spirit. Hence, the persecution of those who believe this message has already begun. Please compare the first vision of Ellen G. White again.

We are now in the 11th hour of the work.

Why? Take another look at the Clock of God. The last hour of the Judgment of the Dead began 7 years before 2012. This was the year 2005. God marked the beginning of the last hour with the Great Tsunami on Christmas 2004 and in 2005 Benedict XVI was elected the new Pope.

Since early 2005, God has started to gradually explain all of these studies to me. No one wanted to hear it.

For seven years a man continued to go up and down the streets of Jerusalem, declaring the woes that were to come upon the city. By day and by night he chanted the wild dirge: “A voice from the east! a voice from the west! a voice from the four winds! a voice against Jerusalem and against the temple! a voice against the bridegrooms and the brides! a voice against the whole people!” —Ibid. This strange being was imprisoned and scourged, but no complaint escaped his lips. To insult and abuse he answered only: “Woe, woe to Jerusalem!” “woe, woe to the inhabitants thereof!” His warning cry ceased not until he was slain in the siege he had foretold. {GC 30.1}

Like William Miller before me, God allowed that I made an error of one year in the last version of this study. Even that is misunderstood and therefore, they call me a false “prophet”. But I am just a Bible student and no one else found the error with the year of plagues or improved it.

Where, dear brethren, will you stand if everything comes true? When will you leave your spiritual lethargy?

The door of mercy for the SDA Church as an organization has begun to close on the 27th of October 2012 and, therefore, God is now calling the sheep out from the other churches. But where should they go? God will now cleanse the SDA church by severe judgments and it will be freed from its apostate leadership. Until then, you should unite in small home groups to study the message of God and prepare for the final events.

God is pleading with all who are still in churches where the Sunday is observed:

Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities. (Revelation 18:4)

Responding to the questions raised:

5. Question: Does additional evidence exist that the Clock of God is true and that it really has something to do with the Bible?

Could It Just Be Coincidence?

What is the mathematical probability to choose six numbers correctly out of 49 in the US Lotto?

Answer: We must draw 6 correct numbers out of 49 possibilities. The order of the numbers has no importance.

The mathematical formula is: $(49 \times 48 \times 47 \times 46 \times 45 \times 44) / 6! = 13,983,816$

So, if we played the lottery around 14 million times, we might expect to have six correct numbers one time. Playing each week, this would happen more or less once every 269,000 years!

A Mathematical Analysis

What is the mathematical probability that the star constellation of Orion points exactly to the most important dates of Adventist history?

Answer: We must draw nine correct numbers out of 168 possibilities (years). The order must be correct and we must recalculate the number of years that remain after every draw.

The formula is: $168 (1844) \times 167 (1846) \times 165 (1865) \times 146 (1866) \times 145 (1914) \times 97 (1936) \times 75 (1949) \times 62 (1950) \times 61 (1986) = 2,696,404,711,201,740,000$

The probability that the Clock of God is just coincidence and a false theory is 14,000 (!) times smaller than...

...to win the US Lotto with its six numbers, 2 times in a row.

It Cannot Be Coincidence!

If, in our calculation, we were to take into account that we left out that the Orion Clock reflects and shows all 7 seals and churches of Revelation and all relating prophecies of Ellen White, then we would get an astronomically big number that would show that the probability that the Orion Clock might be coincidence...

... IS ZERO!

Amazing Discoveries

Finally, we will make some more amazing discoveries that will again confirm the Clock of God to be truth. For this, we will use modern technology to approach to the Most Holy and the Star of Jesus:

Let us remember first:

The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. {EW 15.1}

Where in Orion is the Star of Jesus? It's the left-most star of the belt. The belt stars all have age-old Arabic names.

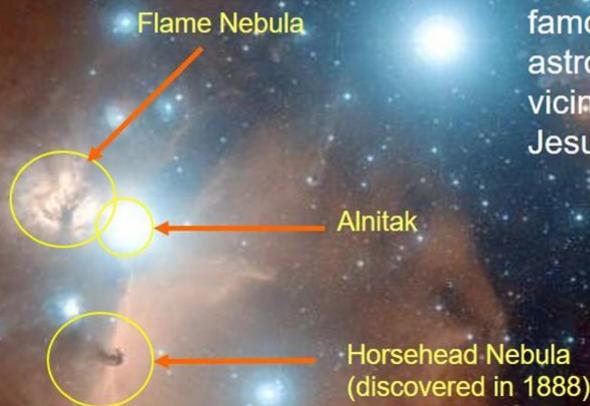

Alnitak, a Blue Super Giant

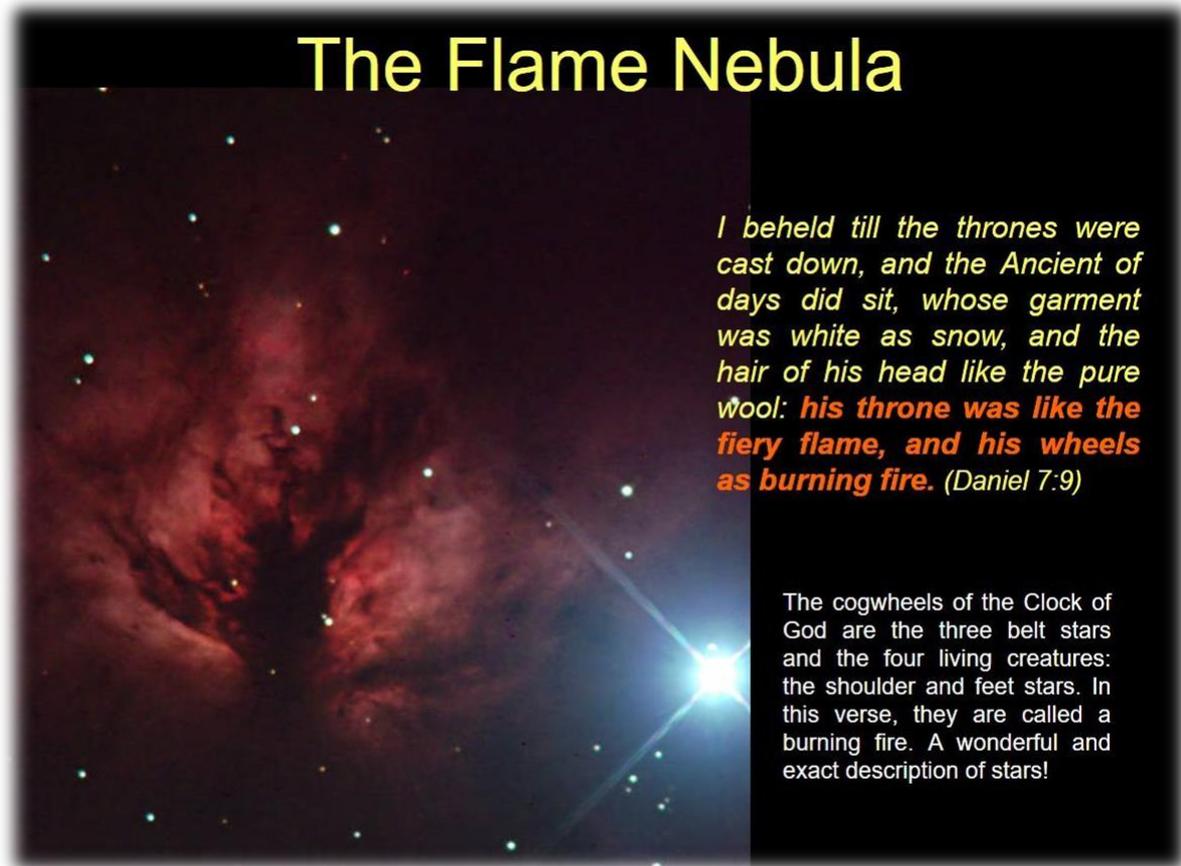

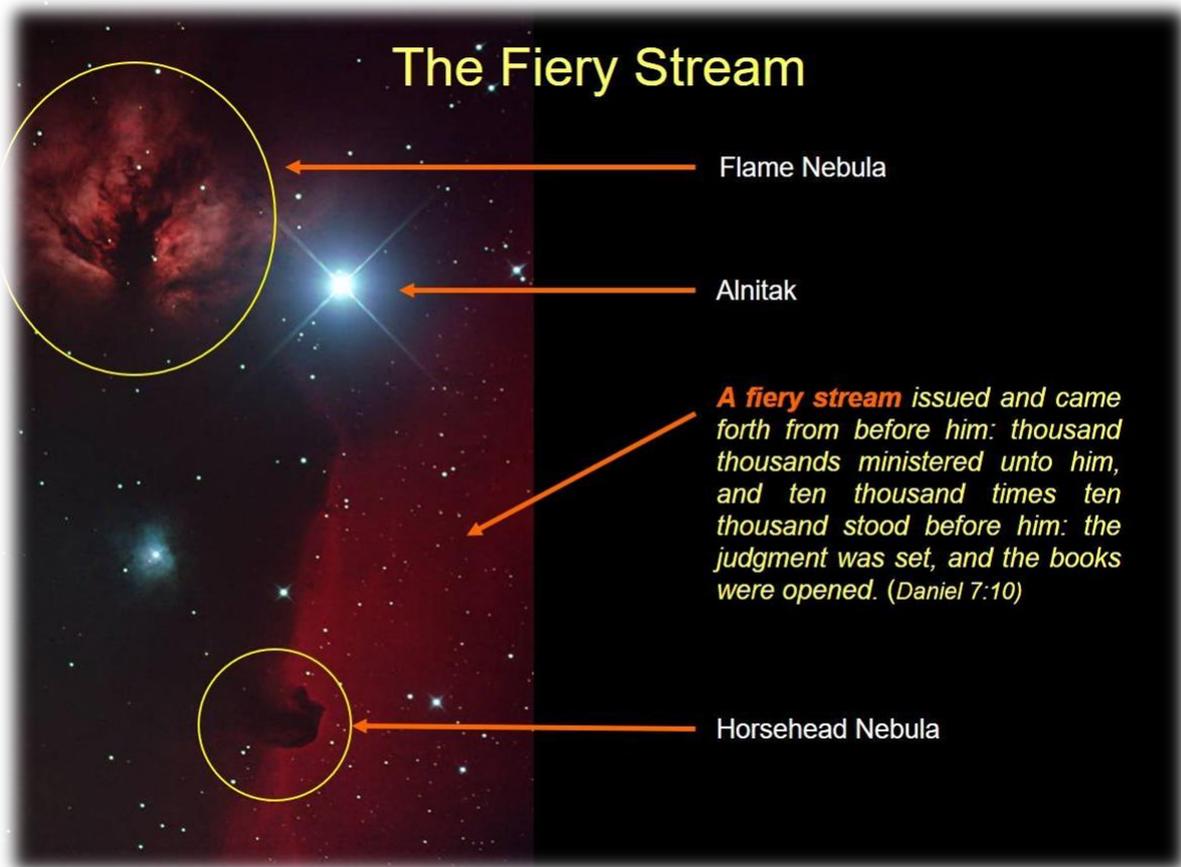

Alnitak is not just a majestic super giant star, but a system of stars consisting of THREE stars! Jesus shows us again that the Godhead consists of three Persons.

Alnitak shines 100,000 times brighter than our own sun.

Alnitak – and its Surroundings

Let us have an even closer look. We find there the most famous objects of modern astronomy in immediate vicinity of the Star of Jesus...

The Horsehead Nebula

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer. (Revelation 6:2)

And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. (Revelation 19:11)

Now we understand another reason why Jesus chose a horse as the symbol for His coming, and why the first four seals, announced by the four Clock hands, are horses and riders.

Orion "The Hunter"

Many ancient people had a special idea about the Orion constellation: They believed it was a "Hunter with a Bow". His left foot (Rigel) was elevated to crush the head of the snake (star constellation underneath, Eridianus).

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer. (Revelation 6:2)

And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel. (Genesis 3:15)

What do we really see in Orion?

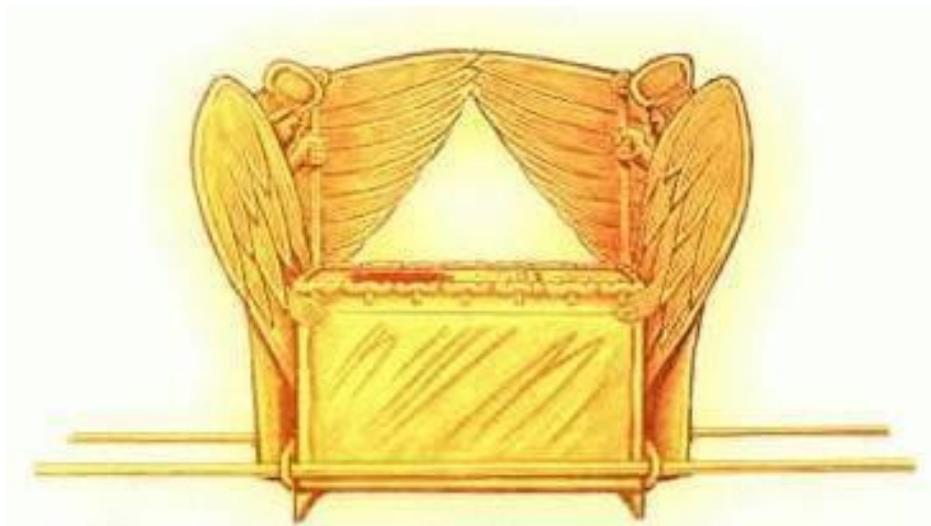

Is there a connection between what the ancient people say and the biblical truths? Is “The Hunter” or “The Giant” much more than just a cosmic Clock, even a symbol for what happens at the Heavenly Day of Atonement?

The ministration of the earthly sanctuary consisted of two divisions; the priests ministered daily in the holy place, while once a year the high priest performed a special work of atonement in the most holy, for the cleansing of the sanctuary. Day by day the repentant sinner brought his offering to the door of the tabernacle and, placing his hand upon the victim's head, confessed his sins, thus in figure transferring them from himself to the innocent sacrifice. The animal was then slain. “Without shedding of blood,” says the apostle, there is no remission of sin. “The life of the flesh is in the blood.” Leviticus 17:11. The broken law of God demanded the life of the transgressor.

The blood, representing the forfeited life of the sinner, whose guilt the victim bore, was carried by the priest into the holy place and sprinkled before the veil, behind which was the ark containing the law that the sinner had transgressed. By this ceremony the sin was, through the blood, transferred in figure to the sanctuary. In some cases the blood was not taken into the holy place; but the flesh was then to be eaten by the priest, as Moses directed the sons of Aaron, saying: “God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation.” Leviticus 10:17. Both ceremonies alike symbolized the transfer of the sin from the penitent to the sanctuary. {GC 418.1}

The Blood on the Mercy Seat

Such was the work that went on, day by day, throughout the year. The sins of Israel were thus transferred to the sanctuary, and a special work became necessary for their removal. God commanded that an atonement be made for each of the sacred apartments. “He shall make an atonement for the holy place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions in all their sins: and so shall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation, that remaineth among them in the midst of their uncleanness.” An atonement was also to be made for the altar, to “cleanse it, and hallow it from the uncleanness of the children of Israel.” Leviticus 16:16, 19. {GC 418.2}

Once a year, on the great Day of Atonement, the priest entered the most holy place for the cleansing of the sanctuary. The work there performed completed the yearly round of ministration. On the Day of Atonement two kids of the goats were brought to the door of the tabernacle, and lots were cast upon them, “one lot for the Lord, and the other lot for the scapegoat.” Verse 8. The goat upon which fell the lot for the Lord was to be slain as a sin offering for the people. And the priest was to bring his blood within the veil and sprinkle it upon the mercy seat and before the mercy seat. The blood was also to be sprinkled upon the altar of incense that was before the veil. {GC 419.1}

The Cleansing of the Sanctuary

At that time, as foretold by Daniel the prophet, our High Priest entered the most holy, to perform the last division of His solemn work—to cleanse the sanctuary. {GC 421.2}

As anciently the sins of the people were by faith placed upon the sin offering and through its blood transferred, in figure, to the earthly sanctuary, so in the new covenant the sins of the repentant are by faith placed upon Christ and transferred, in fact, to the heavenly sanctuary. And as the typical cleansing of the earthly was accomplished by the removal of the sins by which it had been polluted, so the actual cleansing of the heavenly is to be accomplished by the removal, or blotting out, of the sins which are there recorded.

But before this can be accomplished, there must be an examination of the books of record to determine who, through repentance of sin and faith in Christ, are entitled to the benefits of His atonement. The cleansing of the sanctuary therefore involves a work of investigation—a work of judgment. This work must be performed prior to the coming of Christ to redeem His people; for when He comes, His reward is with Him to give to every man according to his works. Revelation 22:12. {GC 421.3}

Following the Lamb...

Thus those who followed in the light of the prophetic word saw that, instead of coming to the earth at the termination of the 2300 days in 1844, Christ then entered the most holy place of the heavenly sanctuary to perform the closing work of atonement preparatory to His coming. {GC 422.1}

Until that point the Adventists followed Jesus in their imagination. But the 144,000 follow the True Sacrificial Lamb even further...

And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth. These are they which were not defiled with women; for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb. (Revelation 14:3-4)

The 144,000 are those who recognize that Jesus stands before the Father and not only shows His wounds, but even sprinkled His own blood directly before and upon the mercy seat, and that this is presented in a constellation extending over thousands of light-years.

The Marks of Jesus

One reminder alone remains:

Our Redeemer will ever bear the marks of His crucifixion.

Upon His wounded head, upon His side, His hands and feet, are the only traces of the cruel work that sin has wrought. Says the prophet, beholding Christ in His glory: "He had bright beams coming out of His side: and there was the hiding of His power." Habakkuk 3:4, margin. That pierced side whence flowed the crimson stream that reconciled man to God—there is the Saviour's glory, there "the hiding of His power." {GC 674.2}

Jesus' Intercessory Service

What many have dismissed as time-setting is indeed that the time has come when "we could see a wonderful connection between the universe of heaven and this world," as Ellen White has promised us if we would study the books of Daniel and Revelation together and would ask the same question as Daniel: "How long shall it be to the end of time?" (See slide 61). Now, we have truly followed Jesus into the Holy of Holies, where our Lord intercedes for us, and this is what we see in Orion.

He started this service in 1844, will end it in the autumn of 2015, and return in 2016—this time, as the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords.

He is showing His wounds to His Father, which He received for us. His wounds have been immortalized for all time in a star constellation: Orion. From His side flowed water and blood, to give us life: the Orion Nebula, where we will gather if we are faithful to the end.

That pierced side whence flowed the crimson stream that reconciled man to God—there is the Saviour's glory, there "the hiding of His power." ... And the tokens of His humiliation are His highest honor; through the eternal ages the wounds of Calvary will show forth His praise and declare His power. {CC 674.2}

The Sea of Water and Blood

This brings us back, almost to the beginning of this study—to the man standing over the river in Daniel 12. There, it was shown that the river represents the Sea of Glass, the Water and Blood from Jesus' side.

The men on both sides of the river correspond to the 12 precious stones that our Lord Jesus as High Priest is wearing on His breast, which symbolize His people: the two parts of the New Covenant and the Judgment of the Dead. Additionally, the duration of the Judgment of the Living was proclaimed in spoken form to the 144,000. Thus, the oath of Jesus gives us the full duration of the Judgment up to the year of plagues:

168 years for the Judgment of the Dead ($7 \times 12 + 7 \times 12$)
 3 ½ years for the Judgment of the Living

In Revelation 10, we find the same scene except that here, Jesus raises only one hand and says "that time should be no more."

To whom did He swear this? To those men who represent the Judgment of the Dead. For this part of the Judgment, time proclamation should be paused. But now that the Judgment of the Living has begun, Jesus' ministry in the Most Holy Place has entered into a new phase, and there is no second hand lifted to make an oath, "that time should be no more". The Fourth Angel, therefore, now proclaims the day of Christ's return to the 144,000.

Forgiveness and Protection

Those SDA groups who still believe that Jesus has assigned it to them to call out the members of God's Church, which He instituted in 1844, should deeply ponder on what Jesus is telling them with His wounds in Orion. I also had to recognize that, for I had been in error too!

In 1888, when the SDA Church refused the light of the fourth angel, Jesus showed His Father the wound of His right foot. When the SDA Church sinned in 1914, He raised His right hand and showed His Father the wound. In 1936, Jesus lifted His left hand and asked His Father to be still patient. In 1986, Jesus showed His Father His left foot, to get the permission to wait still longer.

In 2015, Jesus will have terminated His intercessory service and only the 144,000 will come through the time of the plagues.

For those who have not noticed it yet: We also had four trumpets (wars) in the four time periods of the first four seals. 1861 - The American Civil War, 1914 - First World War, 1939 - Second World War and since 1980, two Gulf Wars and since 2001 the war against terrorism. Ellen White saw the following:

I saw four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and were on their way to accomplish it. Jesus was clothed with priestly garments. He gazed in pity on the remnant, then raised His hands, and with a voice of deep pity cried, "My blood, Father, My blood, My blood, My blood!" Then I saw an exceeding bright light come from God, who sat upon the great white throne, and was shed all about Jesus. Then I saw an angel with a commission from Jesus, swiftly flying to the four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and waving something up and down in his hand, and crying with a loud voice, "Hold! Hold! Hold! Hold! until the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads." {EW 38.1}

In 2014, we received much new light in regard to the last three trumpets of the Judgment Clock, and that there are even completely independent Trumpet and Plague Cycles in God's timepiece. The four winds are still held until the sixth trumpet sounds. Prepare yourselves that Jesus may raise His hand for you before He leaves the Holiest of Holies in the autumn of 2015!

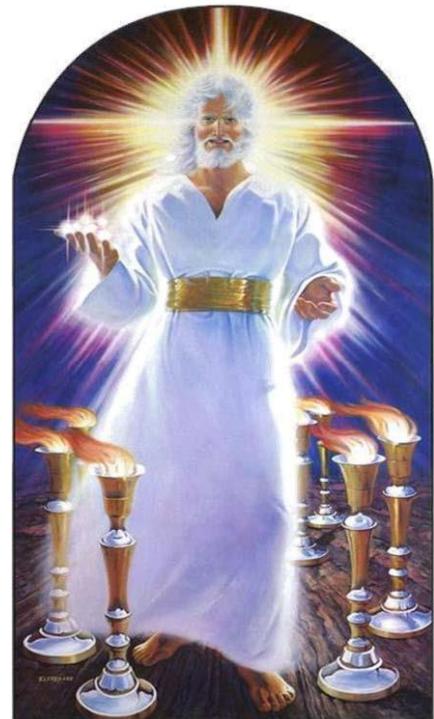

The Reconciliation

Each time the Church sinned, Jesus pointed to His wounds, so that the four angels would not begin their work of destruction. Each time Jesus said, "Hold!" The last time He said this for the Church was in 2010, when the possible destruction of the General Conference was already predicted in dreams.

A Christ-like character is patient and forgiving and does not point the finger at his brother, but helps him out of the trap that the enemy prepared for him. You do not have to deal with them so intimately that you yourself would be contaminated, but you should also not leave them alone and turn away from them. Jesus gave His blood for this, His church.

Whoever wants to reconcile with God, should first reconcile with his brother. Because Jesus also gave His blood for this apostate Church and asked the Father to wait three times. And four times, He asked for the world. Now we understand that "Day of Atonement" should mean first, atonement with our brothers and sisters.

Whoever wants to belong to the 144,000, must accept everything that the Orion study shows us. Even the forgiveness and patience of Jesus! Whoever makes a complete round of Orion, accepting all of its teachings, which are shown to him there, and integrates them into his life, will receive the seven stars from the hand of Jesus Himself and get his crown on the Sea of Glass, in the Orion Nebula in 2016.

The Center of the Universe

Therefore, the Orion Nebula, where the Holy City and the throne of God are, is the center of the universe, as Ellen White describes it at the end of the Great Conflict because it symbolizes Jesus' suffering, the Cross and His intercessory service for us:

All the treasures of the universe will be open to the study of God's redeemed. Unfettered by mortality, they wing their tireless flight to worlds afar—worlds that thrilled with sorrow at the spectacle of human woe and rang with songs of gladness at the tidings of a ransomed soul.

With unutterable delight the children of earth enter into the joy and the wisdom of unfallen beings. They share the treasures of knowledge and understanding gained through ages upon ages in contemplation of God's handiwork.

With undimmed vision they gaze upon the glory of creation—suns and stars and systems, all in their appointed order circling the throne of Deity. Upon all things, from the least to the greatest, the Creator's name is written, and in all are the riches of His power displayed. {CC.677.3}

Final Remarks

Having concluded the study, I would like to give an outlook for another one, and address frequent questions. Also, I'd like to tell you a bit about myself and direct a personal call to my fellow brethren who belong neither to Sardis nor Laodicea.

Could we even know the exact day of the end of the Investigative Judgment? If so, could we also know the day when Jesus will come?

We know the exact day of the beginning of the Investigative Judgment. It would only be logical if we could also know the exact day of its end.

Ellen White saw that we would know day (2016) and hour (?) of Jesus coming at the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Then we should be able to know this right now.

This is the theme of the study Shadows of the Future on my web site www.lastcountdown.org.

Christ Does NOT Come in 2012!

Some misunderstood this study and thought that I said that Jesus would come in 2012. No, I never said that!

That is the year of the end of the Judgment of the Dead and the beginning of the Judgment of the Living.

God ends the Judgment when nobody else can be saved. But in 2014/2015, when the fifth seal enters its hot phase, the FALSE CHRIST WILL BE UNMASKED and human laws that are against God's law will be proclaimed. This soon leads to the door of mercy being shut once for all, for those who took their stand on the side of Satan by keeping the wrong Sabbath, whether Sunday or the lunar Sabbath. Was it too difficult to read the Clock?

Was it too difficult to read the Clock?

We only needed...

1. A pencil
2. A pair of compasses
3. A ruler without units
4. Two pieces of paper
5. A photo of Orion
6. The Bible
7. The Holy Spirit, Who is being poured out since 2010

God's blessings to all who study this material! Please forward this study to all brothers and sisters of Philadelphia, to those in Sardis who have not defiled their garment and to those in Laodicea who want to buy gold and eyesalve, so the 144,000 can assemble together.

About the Author and These Studies

This study was unknown to any of the SDA churches at publication. Since 2005, the previous studies that led to the year 2012 had been rejected as time-setting by all brethren with whom I could show the studies. It has never been "inspired" in any way by the SDARM.

I am publishing this study as its author, knowing that although based on the doctrines of the Adventist church, it is in no way supported by any General Conference. It is "new light" that was predicted to come, and will be made accessible by the Holy Spirit alone to those who will belong to the 144,000. It is the responsibility of each one to study for himself this new light with prayer, and to decide whether it is the truth.

PROVE ALL THINGS; HOLD FAST THAT WHICH IS GOOD. (1 Thessalonians 5:21)

This study was prepared by a man who has been living in the countryside since 2004 as Ellen White has counseled. He invests all his time and force into the work of God. With his own modest financial resources, he is building a sanitarium, which uses only natural healing methods, and a missionary school in South America. He and his wife are doing health work for the population of one of the poorest countries of South America without any financial interest.

Errors in the Early Versions

I started the work on this web site in January 2010 because I wanted a platform where I would be able to study with other interested brethren. I was hoping to make friends, who would make suggestions for improvement, if necessary. But there have been many attacks, usually very harsh and often only because of supposed time-setting. No one had realized that I had misunderstood the year of plagues as part of the three-and-a-half-year period of the Judgment of the Living. In fact, it is in the time range from autumn 2015 to autumn 2016, and thus, I was early exactly one year for the return of Jesus.

This reminds us that William Miller also made two mistakes. First he had made a calculation error. In his calculations for the end of the 2,300 evenings and mornings, he had included the year 0, which in reality did not exist, and thus came to the year 1843, which led to the small disappointment. He corrected that mistake afterwards, as I also did.

Another "mistake" of his, was that he had incorrectly interpreted the event that should occur in 1844. He thought it would be the second coming, while it was the start of the Investigative Judgment, as we know today. I committed a similar mistake, because I understood 2015 as the return and therefore came to the conclusion that in 2014 the door of mercy would close. But then I realized that the Judgment of the Living must go on for a full three-and-a-half years because every case has to be decided before the plagues can fall. All these errors had already been corrected in version 3. Version 4 just sheds new light on the beginning and end of the last three seals. No future dates have been changed in any way!

Brothers and sisters, Jesus will never make it easy for you to accept new light. You can only please God with faith, and faith comes from studying. All of you are called to retrace those studies, which I understand to be given by God, and come to conclusions for yourselves that may be for you as a savor, either to life or to death. My prayers always accompany those who are open-hearted, who check everything like the Bereans, and notify me in a brotherly manner if they should yet discover errors.

The Fourth Angel must come like Miller's "midnight cry." This was prophesied by Ellen White. Then the "second Miller" must repeat the mistakes of the first Miller. This was hereby fulfilled.

A Personal Appeal...

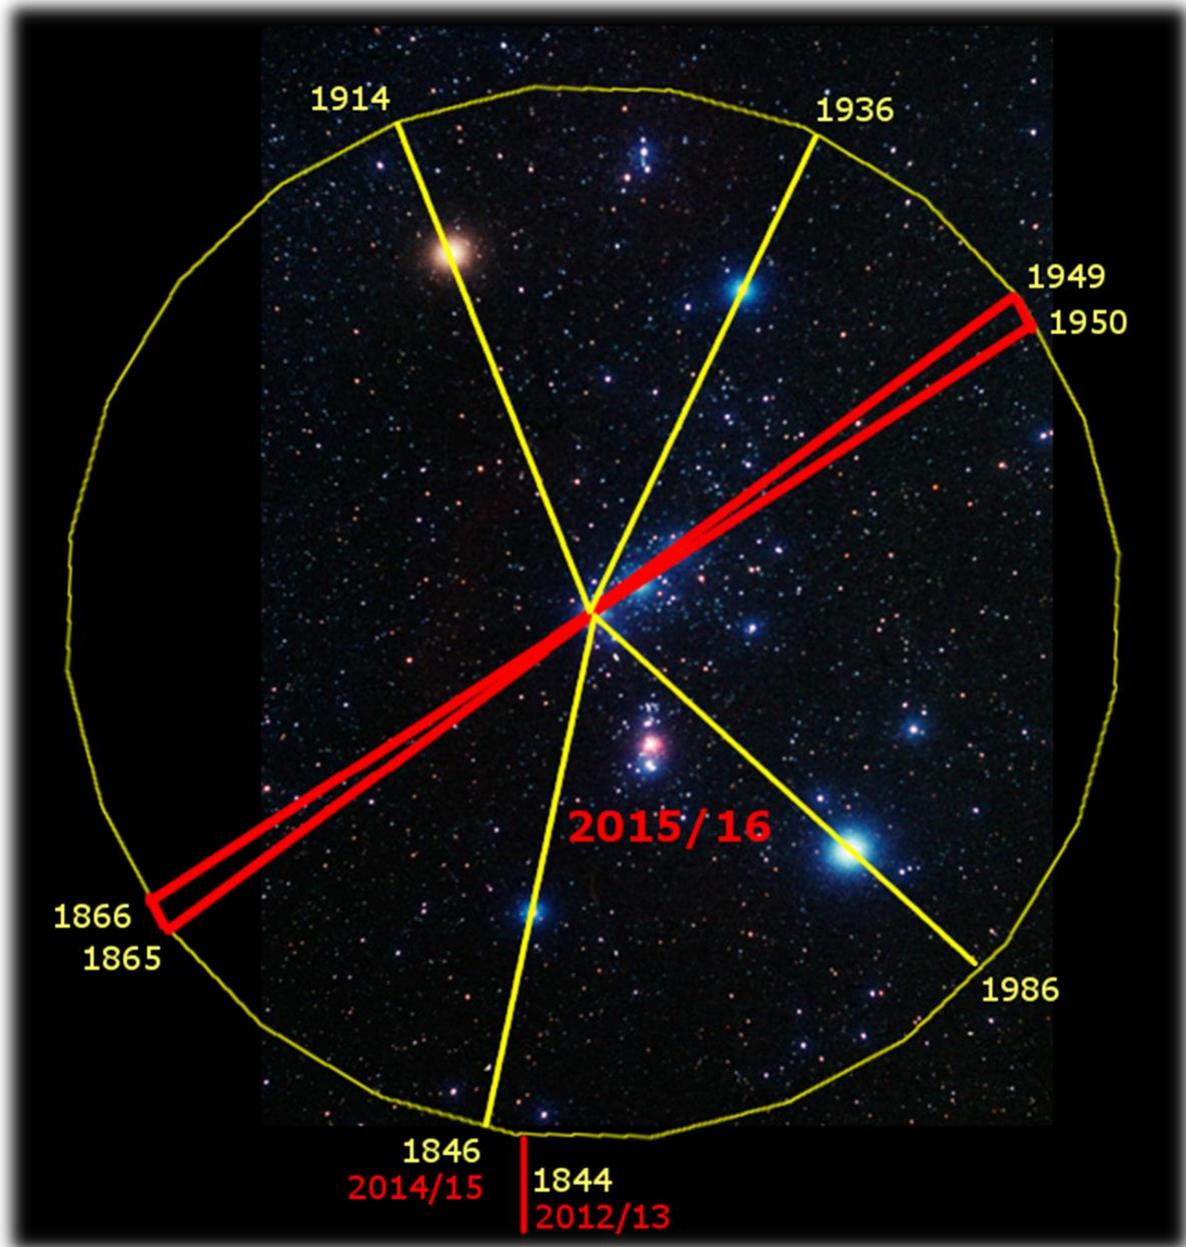

If you, dear sister, dear brother, have been convinced that this study is worthy to be spread, that it may help to reach the 144,000 and you are able to speak a foreign language, I would like to ask you to help me with the translation. I would like to provide web sites in different languages, but in order for this to happen, I need more help!

But you may also help just by sending this PowerPoint presentation to all your friends, relatives, brothers and sisters of all Christian denominations! God may bless you for it!

If you would like to participate in the work of the Fourth Angel, please contact me using the following e-mail address: info@lastcountdown.org

I AM PRAYING FOR ALL WHO READ THIS MESSAGE THAT THE HOLY SPIRIT WILL GUIDE YOU INTO ALL TRUTH AND WILL SHOW YOU THINGS TO COME!

He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen. (Revelation 22:20-21)

Is the Orion Message time setting? Day and Hour

Written by John Scotram

Published: Sunday, February 28, 2010, 2:34 pm

Originally published on Sunday, March 7, 2010, 8:56 pm in German at www.letztercountdown.org

The first vision of Ellen G. White, and one subsequent vision, in which she saw the proclamation of the "day and the hour of Jesus' coming" is the key for understanding why the message of the Clock of God in Orion is the only exception to all of the warnings of the Spirit of Prophecy against time setting past 1844. She herself states in her very first vision (whether she was aware of it or not) that this exception will occur near the end of the investigative judgment with the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, or the Latter Rain. But there is a subsequent vision of 1847 which obviously speaks about the proclamation of the day and the hour at the end of the plagues.

Instead of studying the two visions in depth, Adventists have for a long time assumed that the timing of the announcement in the first vision is the same moment as in the second vision, and therefore they place the announcement of the day and the hour of Jesus' coming at the end of the plagues. But this cannot be correct because it results in major contradictions in the sequence of the final events in the first vision. The problem can only be solved by a deep study of both visions.

Indeed, each of the visions add different details at different points in the flow of end time events, and these have to be compared in their exact order as they appear in both visions to get the whole picture and for both visions to fit together harmoniously.

To make the point clearer, and to show where the "day and hour" differences are in the first and second visions, I laid them out in a table for comparison. All of the sentences of the visions are kept in their original order, and nothing is left out. With this table you can study for yourself when and why the 144,000 get the message of the "day and the hour" of Jesus' second coming with the outpouring of the Latter Rain.

First Vision ever, Dec. 1844 (with "day and hour")	Second Vision with "day and hour" 1847	Comments
While I was praying at the family altar, the Holy Ghost fell upon me, and I seemed to be rising higher and higher, far above the dark world.	The Lord gave me the following view in 1847, while the brethren were assembled on the Sabbath, at Topsham, Maine. {EW 32.1} We felt an unusual spirit of prayer. And as we prayed the Holy Ghost fell upon us. We were very happy. Soon I was lost to earthly things and was wrapped in a vision of God's glory.	These two visions are the only visions that Ellen White ever had where the day and the hour were announced.
I turned to look for the Advent people in the world, but could not find them, when a voice said to me, "Look again, and look a little higher." At this I raised my eyes, and saw a straight and narrow path, cast up high above the world. On this path the Advent people were traveling to the city, which was at the farther end of the path.		Prologue of first vision begins: The pathway to heaven traveled by the Advent people.
They had a bright light set up behind them at the beginning of the path, which an angel told me was the midnight cry. This light shone all along the path and gave light for their feet so that they might not stumble.		The light behind them, the Midnight Cry, marks the beginning of the pathway: 22nd Oct. of 1844. The beginning of Investigative Judgment.

If they kept their eyes fixed on Jesus, who was just before them, leading them to the city, they were safe. But soon some grew weary, and said the city was a great way off, and they expected to have entered it before. Then Jesus would encourage them by raising His glorious right arm, and from His arm came a light which waved over the Advent band, and they shouted, "Alleluia!" Others rashly denied the light behind them and said that it was not God that had led them out so far. The light behind them went out, leaving their feet in perfect darkness, and they stumbled and lost sight of the mark and of Jesus, and fell off the path down into the dark and wicked world below.	I saw an angel flying swiftly to me. He quickly carried me from the earth to the Holy City. In the city I saw a temple, which I entered. I passed through a door before I came to the first veil. This veil was raised, and I passed into the holy place. Here I saw the altar of incense, the candlestick with seven lamps, and the table on which was the shewbread. After viewing the glory of the holy, Jesus raised the second veil and I passed into the holy of holies. {EW 32.2} In the holiest I saw an ark; on the top and sides of it was purest gold. On each end of the ark was a lovely cherub, with its wings spread out over it. Their faces were turned toward each other, and they looked downward. Between the angels was a golden censer. Above the ark, where the angels stood, was an exceeding bright glory, that appeared like a throne where God dwelt. Jesus stood by the ark, and as the saints' prayers came up to Him, the incense in the censer would smoke, and He would offer up their prayers with the smoke of the incense to His Father. In the ark was the golden pot of manna, Aaron's rod that budded, and the tables of stone which folded together like a book. Jesus opened them, and I saw the ten commandments written on them with the finger of God. On one table were four, and on the other six. The four on the first table shone brighter than the other six. But the fourth, the Sabbath commandment, shone above them all; for the Sabbath was set apart to be kept in honor of God's holy name. The holy Sabbath looked glorious--a halo of glory was all around it. I saw that the Sabbath commandment was not nailed to the cross. If it was, the other nine commandments were; and we are at liberty to break them all, as well as to break the fourth. I saw that God had not changed the Sabbath, for He never changes. But the pope had changed it from the seventh to the first day of the week; for he was to change times and laws. {EW 32.3} And I saw that if God had changed the Sabbath from the seventh to the first day, He would have changed the writing of the Sabbath commandment, written on the tables of stone, which are now in the ark in the most holy place of the temple in heaven; and it would read thus: The first day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God. But I saw that it read the same as when written on the tables of stone by the finger of God, and delivered to Moses on Sinai. "But the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God." I saw that the holy Sabbath is, and will be, the separating wall between the true Israel of God and unbelievers; and that the Sabbath is the great question to unite the hearts of God's dear, waiting saints. {EW 33.1} I saw that God had children who do not see and keep the Sabbath. They have not rejected the light upon it.	Prologue of the second vision begins: The special light that comes from Jesus' "right arm" is: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The Sabbath 2. The health message This is the third angel's message. Both doctrines accompany the Advent people along the pathway. And those who do not believe and guard it, fall off the path. Both visions' prologues reach up to here. It is about the faithfulness of God's people to the doctrines of the fathers (Midnight Cry), the Sabbath, and the Health Reform. So far not a word about Latter Rain, Loud Cry or Tribulation. The theme in both visions is just doctrine and faithfulness along the pathway and not to lose sight of Jesus.
Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming.		Suddenly, almost unexpectedly, we hear the voice of God "like many waters" which announces the day and the hour of Jesus' coming in the first vision.

		And, behold, the glory of the God [the throne of God] of Israel came from the way of the east [Orion]; and his voice was like a noise of many waters: and the earth shined with his glory. (Ezekiel 43:2)
The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake.		And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps. (Revelation 14:2) The sealing scene of the 144,000 is connected with this verse of Revelation 14:2.
When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}	And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully.	This is now the most important point. "WHEN GOD SPOKE THE TIME, HE Poured UPON US THE HOLY GHOST" This is parallel with the second vision and marks the beginning of the time of trouble. There are two phases: The "little" time of trouble before the door of mercy is shut, and the "great" time of trouble after the door of mercy is shut; the time of the plagues. Only in the "little" time of trouble will the Sabbath be preached one very last time to call out the rest of the remnant still in Babylon. This is called: The Loud Cry (see second vision). The 144,000 will receive the Holy Spirit in the "little" time of trouble in order to finish the great commission with the "Loud Cry". And in the comparison of the two visions, we see that this is connected with a message that includes the "day and the hour" of Jesus' coming. The Loud Cry will start when the 144,000 become aware that the Sunday Law is about to be declared in the U.S.
The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united.		The Loud Cry leads to the completion of the sealing of all the 144,000. They are perfectly united in one faith.
On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name.		They have just three thoughts: Faithfulness to Jesus (Sabbath), the New Jerusalem (the Second Coming) and the Orion message because it reveals Jesus' new name.
At our happy, holy state the wicked were enraged,	This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us.	Now during the Loud Cry (and this is pure Adventist doctrine) the wicked become angry, because the 144,000 will mightily call out the remnant. Therefore, violent persecution starts.
	I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land.	At the same time, we have natural disasters, famine, and pestilences on the earth.
and would rush violently up to lay hands on us to thrust us into prison,		In the first vision we have both parts of tribulation in one sentence with two parts: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Little Time of Trouble begins: Prison, no death decree. We can go to jail and many will still die as martyrs because the door of mercy is still open.
when we would stretch forth the hand in the name of the Lord, and they would fall helpless to the ground.	The wicked thought that we had brought the judgments upon them, and they rose up and took counsel to rid the earth of us, thinking that then the evil would be stayed. {EW 33.2}	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 2. Great Time of Trouble begins: Death decree. We will be protected by angels and the wicked cannot kill us anymore. It would not make sense anymore for even one martyr to

They raised the sword to kill us, but it broke, and fell as powerless as a straw.	die, because nobody would be saved since the door of mercy was shut.
	Then we all cried day and night for deliverance, and the cry came up before God.	"The time of Jacob's trouble" in the second vision. We are definitely already in the great time of trouble, as we already said!
	The sun came up, and the moon stood still. The streams ceased to flow.	The plagues: The sun and moon stood still in their habitation: at the light of thine arrows they went, and at the shining of thy glittering spear. Thou didst march through the land in indignation, thou didst thresh the heathen in anger. Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people, even for salvation with thine anointed; thou woundedst the head out of the house of the wicked, by discovering the foundation unto the neck. Selah. (Habakkuk 3:11-13)
	Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other.. But there was one clear place of settled glory, whence came the voice of God like many waters, which shook the heavens and the earth. The sky opened and shut and was in commotion. The mountains shook like a reed in the wind, and cast out ragged rocks all around. The sea boiled like a pot and cast out stones upon the land..	In another vision of EGW we have more details for this special moment: Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. The atmosphere parted and rolled back; then we could look up through the open space in Orion, whence came the voice of God. The Holy City will come down through that open space. I saw that the powers of earth are now being shaken and that events come in order. War, and rumors of war, sword, famine, and pestilence are first to shake the powers of earth, then the voice of God will shake the sun, moon, and stars, and this earth also. I saw that the shaking of the powers in Europe is not, as some teach, the shaking of the powers of heaven, but it is the shaking of the angry nations. {EW 41.2}
	And as God spoke the day and the hour of Jesus' coming and delivered the everlasting covenant to His people, He spoke one sentence, and then paused, while the words were rolling through the earth. The Israel of God stood with their eyes fixed upward, listening to the words as they came from the mouth of Jehovah, and rolled through the earth like peals of loudest thunder. It was awfully solemn. And at the end of every sentence the saints shouted, "Glory! Alleluia!" Their countenances were lighted up with the glory of God; and they shone with the glory, as did the face of Moses when he came down from Sinai.	Now we hear for the second time the "day and the hour". Why two times? The first time it was a promise, from the understanding of the Orion Message, to give us hope and the knowledge of how long we would have to endure tribulation, and also to show us anew the lost pillars of our faith and to unite the 144,000 with them. Now the faithful ones get the everlasting covenant (2 * 12) delivered. The 12 tribes of ancient Israel and the 12 tribes of spiritual Israel. This is also when the special resurrection happens; and all who died proclaiming the message of the third angel are resurrected. Please note, there is NO WORD about the Holy Spirit anymore, because He was already poured out before the beginning of the little time of trouble!
Then it was that the synagogue of Satan knew that God had loved us who could wash one another's feet and salute the brethren with a holy kiss, and they worshiped at our feet. {EW 15.1}	The wicked could not look on them for the glory. Soon our eyes were drawn to the east, for a small black cloud had appeared, about half as large as a man's hand, which we all knew was the sign of the Son of man.	Soon appeared the great white cloud. It looked more lovely than ever before. On it sat the Son of man. At first we did not see Jesus on the cloud, but as it drew near the earth we could behold His lovely person. This cloud, when it first appeared, was the sign of the Son of man in heaven.	Now at last the cloud appears at Jesus' second coming. Both visions parallel each other.
We all in solemn silence gazed on the cloud as it drew nearer and became lighter, glorious, and still more glorious, till it was a great white cloud. The bottom appeared like fire; a rainbow was over the cloud, while around it were ten thousand angels, singing a most lovely song; and upon it sat the Son of man. His hair was white and curly and lay on His shoulders; and upon His head were many crowns. His feet had the appearance of fire; in His right hand was a sharp sickle; in His left, a silver trumpet. His eyes were as a flame of fire, which searched His children through and through. Then all faces gathered paleness, and those that God had rejected gathered blackness. Then we all cried out, "Who shall be able to stand? Is my robe spotless?" Then the angels ceased to sing, and there was some time of awful silence, when Jesus spoke: "Those who have clean hands and pure hearts shall be able to stand; My grace is sufficient for you." At this our faces lighted up, and joy filled every heart. And the angels struck a note higher and sang again, while the cloud drew still nearer the earth. {EW 15.2}		The seventh seal begins.
Then Jesus' silver trumpet sounded, as He descended on the cloud, wrapped in flames of fire. He gazed on the graves of the sleeping saints, then raised His eyes and hands to heaven, and cried, "Awake! awake! awake! ye that sleep in the dust, and arise." Then there was a mighty earthquake. The graves opened, and the dead came up clothed with immortality.	The voice of the Son of God called forth the sleeping saints, clothed with glorious immortality.	The Seventh Trumpet and the resurrection of all who died in faith to Jesus, a big part of the great multitude.

We all entered the cloud together, and were seven days ascending to the sea of glass, when Jesus brought the crowns, and with His own right hand placed them on our heads. He gave us harps of gold and palms of victory. Here on the sea of glass the 144,000 stood in a perfect square. Some of them had very bright crowns, others not so bright. Some crowns appeared heavy with stars, while others had but few. All were perfectly satisfied with their crowns. And they were all clothed with a glorious white mantle from their shoulders to their feet. Angels were all about us as we marched	It looked all over glorious as it rolled upward. On either side of the chariot were wings, and beneath it wheels. And as the chariot rolled upward, the wheels cried, "Holy," and the wings, as they moved, cried, "Holy," and the retinue of holy angels around the cloud cried, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty!" And the saints in the cloud cried, "Glory! Alleluia!" And the chariot rolled upward to the Holy City. Jesus threw open the gates of the golden city and led us in. Here we were made welcome, for we had	The travel of the saints in "the chariot" to the sea of glass in Orion. Crowning of the saints by Jesus. Entering the golden city. Right to the tree of life.

Jesus raised His mighty, glorious arm, laid hold of the pearly gate, swung it back on its glittering hinges, and said to us, "You have washed your robes in My blood, stood stiffly for My truth, enter in." We all marched in and felt that we had a perfect right in the city. {EW 16.2}	kept the "commandments of God," and had a "right to the tree of life."

On one side of the river was a trunk of a tree, and a trunk on the other side of the river, both of pure, transparent gold. At first I thought I saw two trees. I looked again, and saw that they were united at the top in one tree. So it was the tree of life on either side of the river of life. Its branches bowed to the place where we stood, and the fruit was glorious; it looked like gold mixed with silver. {EW 17.1} ...		Epilogue of first vision with details of the tree of life and heaven.

Explanations and Remarks

1. Vision 1: "Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming." {EW 14.1}

The word "soon" in this context is very rare. Could this scene, as many Adventists believe so far, take place at the end of the plagues? "Soon" could not express the feelings of the saints after the plagues because they would be desperately waiting for their Lord's coming in the clouds. "Soon" is expressing that an event occurs

- a) earlier than expected, or
- b) that it had in no way been expected.

Neither of those possible meanings of the word "soon" could possibly apply at the end of the time of the plagues. See the following quote of Ellen G. White:

They are waiting the word of their Commander to snatch them from their peril. But they must wait yet a little longer. The people of God must drink of the cup, and be baptized with the baptism. The very delay, so painful to them, is the best answer to their petitions. As they endeavor to wait trustingly for the Lord to work, they are led to exercise faith, hope, and patience, which have been too little exercised during their religious experience. ... {GC 630.2}

The word "soon" cannot be used in a context where the saints are awaiting desperately the coming of the Lord at the end of the plagues.

2. Great Controversy, 630.2: "But they must wait yet a little longer. The people of God must drink of the cup, and be baptized with the baptism. The very delay, so painful to them, is the best answer to their petitions."

Now in the last quote we read something astonishing: "The very delay, so painful to them"... What is a delay? The word delay is used if something is postponed or deferred. But this is only possible if we first have a fixed date from which we can say that it was postponed or deferred. Ellen White cannot speak here about a situation after the proclamation of the day and the hour at the end of the time of plagues, because then the "holy covenant" will be already delivered and there is no more any delay.

The "delay" must relate to a promise that was given before. The saints expected Jesus at a fixed date. They already had the day and the hour of Jesus' coming. But now, He delays another short time...hopefully! The delay is painful to them, because they expected Jesus earlier. And this can only relate to the message of the day and the hour at the outpouring of the Holy Spirit in vision 1 before tribulation started: The Orion Message.

3. Vision 1: "When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai." {EW 14.1}

Just reading this verse alone, it could be the time of:

- a) the Latter Rain, because the Holy Ghost is poured out, or
- b) the glorification of the saints at the end of the time of plagues when Jesus comes again (as most Adventists believe).

In vision 2 we do not read that the Holy Spirit is being poured out again; and we know for sure that we only have the 'early and latter' rains in the Bible. There is no scriptural evidence for us to think that the Holy Spirit is poured out three times.

But there is still more evidence that this moment cannot be the same moment in vision 2. The point in time of the first announcement of the day and hour is defined a little later in the text of vision 1 very clearly in the order of the last day events. If we follow vision 1 phrase by phrase until the moment of the announcement of the day and hour, we do not see a single word about the tribulation beforehand. There is just a description of the pathway to heaven, admonition to keep the doctrines, and to be faithful to Jesus.

The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. At our happy, holy state the wicked were enraged, and would rush violently up to lay hands on us to thrust us into prison, when we would stretch forth the hand in the name of the Lord, and they would fall helpless to the ground.

This is doubtlessly speaking about the persecution of the saints. Now read again and discover why the persecution comes? It comes because of the holy state of the saints. And what is it that brings this happy, holy state? It is...receiving the day and hour and the Holy Spirit (sealing) beforehand. This is the opposite order of events as in vision 2 that states as follows:

This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land. The wicked thought that we had brought the judgments upon them, and they rose up and took counsel to rid the earth of us, thinking that then the evil would be stayed.

In the time of trouble we all fled from the cities and villages, but were pursued by the wicked, who entered the houses of the saints with a sword. They raised the sword to kill us, but it broke, and fell as powerless as a straw. Then we all cried day and night for deliverance, and the cry came up before God. ... And as God spoke the day and the hour of Jesus' coming and delivered the everlasting covenant to His people, He spoke one sentence, and then paused, while the words were rolling through the earth. The Israel of God stood with their eyes fixed upward, listening to the words as they came from the mouth of Jehovah, and rolled through the earth like peals of loudest thunder. It was awfully solemn. And at the end of every sentence the saints shouted, "Glory! Alleluia!" Their countenances were lighted up with the glory of God; and they shone with the glory, as did the face of Moses when he came down from Sinai. {EW 33.1–34.1}

Here the persecution comes first and then the announcement of the day and the hour. This is the only time that most Adventists have accepted and they are applying it to both visions. But the sequence of events and also the causes of the events are different!

Indeed, in vision 1 the announcement of the day and the hour causes persecution. And in vision 2 the proclamation terminates persecution!

4. Read on in vision 2: "The wicked could not look on them for the glory. And when the never-ending blessing was pronounced on those who had honored God in keeping His Sabbath holy, there was a mighty shout of victory over the beast and over his image. Then commenced the jubilee, when the land should rest."

We are informed at first that the wicked cannot even look on the saints anymore because of the glory they reflect. How could they try to lay hands on them, if they cannot even look upon them anymore? Then, this is definitely at the end of tribulation because also the shout of victory (!) can be heard. And in vision 1, we read nothing about victory after the proclamation of the day and the hour, but that tribulation starts because of it, as we have read in the first vision:

The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. At our happy, holy state the wicked were enraged, and would rush violently up to lay hands on us to thrust us into prison, when we would stretch forth the hand in the name of the Lord, and they would fall helpless to the ground.

Compare vision 2! There is no tribulation anymore after the proclamation of the day and the hour:

"I saw the pious slave rise in triumph and victory and shake off the chains that bound him, while his wicked master was in confusion and knew not what to do; for the wicked could not understand the words of the voice of God.

Soon appeared the great white cloud. It looked more lovely than ever before. On it sat the Son of man. At first we did not see Jesus on the cloud, but as it drew near the earth we could behold His lovely person. This cloud, when it first appeared, was the sign of the Son of man in heaven.

We have to be fair and finally admit, like the majority of our church brethren, that we have inspired evidence that we have "at least" a contradiction between the two visions.

5. Now it's on us to solve the problem of the obvious contradiction in the two visions!

May I suggest two possibilities?

Possibility #1: Ellen White is proven a false prophet! I personally do not believe this! And the more horrible consequence of this possibility would be that the whole Seventh-day Adventist denomination which believes in and exists because of the Spirit of Prophecy, Ellen G. White, would lose its prophetic base and finally terminate. Whoever chooses this possibility just to avoid possibility number 2 is definitely not an Adventist anymore.

Possibility #2: The day and the hour will be announced two times. The first time as a promise before tribulation starts with the outpouring of the Holy Spirit (as stated in vision 1) to refresh God's people with the great hope that Jesus is with them and even let them know just how long the tribulation will take. And the second time, ending tribulation, delivering the "holy covenant" and glorifying His people.

I personally hope that most of the readers will choose possibility #2 and go on with their studies about the Clock of God in Orion, which He placed there to give us not only a message of the day and hour, but more so to guide us to repentance, show us how He sees sin, and what the pillars of faith are that we must reestablish in our lives to gain the victory.

Therefore, the Orion Message is NOT TIME SETTING. It is the only exception to all the wrong time setting messages. The day and hour will be given only twice in human history: Once at the outpouring of the Latter Rain, with a message that still has to be believed because it is "just" a written message even though it was written in the heavens with the finger of God, so that whoever reads it, believes it, takes the message seriously, and leaves Babylon will belong to the 144,000. And once again the day and hour will be given the second and last time when Jesus is already appearing and the plagues come to an end. Everybody will be sure at this last announcement of the day and hour that the end has come, because this announcement will come out of the mouth of Jesus Himself.

[September 17, 2013]

Recently, I got a letter from another person who wanted to refute the Orion Message. Apparently he pounced on this article because it looked like easy game, and he thought that he could simply show an alternative to the two possibilities listed under the 5th point and it would be sufficient to disprove the Orion Message. (Never mind that he completely ignored the arguments presented in this article.)

Gerhard Pfandl of the Biblical Research Institute of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists also took a similar approach, publishing his flimsy response to the church body without ever even bothering to contact the source. I don't know whether to wonder more that such a scholar pawned such poor research upon the people, or that the people tolerate such insults to their intelligence!

The first fundamental flaw in any such approach is that the person sets out with the goal to disprove something they have already rejected based on their own human understanding, instead of setting out with the goal to seek the wisdom and guidance of the Holy Spirit and be open to a finer revelation of truth.

The evidence that the opposition uses against this article is a letter wherein Ellen White refers to her visions about the announcement of the day and hour. She quotes part of the 1847 vision and then states that the 1844 vision refers "to the same time." (The letter is in Manuscript Releases, vol. 16, p. 174)

The recent critic I mentioned considers that statement to be "incontrovertible proof" when in fact it is not. The expression "the same time" as it is used in that sentence could be (and I say is) referring to the time period that the visions depict, not just to a specific moment in time. She was not saying that the announcement of the day and hour in particular was at the same time, but that the visions cover the same time period. Thus, the "incontrovertible proof" turns out to be ambiguous after all, and rests on the supposition that Ellen White meant something that she did not actually express.

The bigger problem with the argument, however, is that it ignores the evidence that the shining of the saints' faces (and thus the announcement of the day and hour) must happen at different points in time. It assumes that harmony can be found if the two events are treated as one, despite the evidence to the contrary. Any argument that the two events are one should carefully address those points.

Furthermore, the honest student of the Spirit of Prophecy owes it to himself to harmonize the following quote (treated in the next article). It shows that the time of trouble is definitely sandwiched between two separate occurrences of shining faces, exactly as this article explained:

At the transfiguration, Jesus was glorified by His Father. We hear Him say: "Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in Him." Thus before His betrayal and crucifixion He was strengthened for His last dreadful sufferings. As the members of the body of Christ approach the period of their last conflict, "the time of Jacob's trouble," they will grow up into Christ, and will partake largely of His spirit. As the third message swells to a loud cry, and as great power and glory attend the closing work, the faithful people of God will partake of that glory. It is the latter rain which revives and strengthens them to pass through the time of trouble. Their faces will shine with the glory of that light which attends the third angel.

I saw that God will in a wonderful manner preserve His people through the time of trouble. As Jesus poured out His soul in agony in the garden, they will earnestly cry and agonize day and night for deliverance. The decree will go forth that they must disregard the Sabbath of the fourth commandment, and honor the first day, or lose their lives; but they will not yield, and trample under their feet the Sabbath of the Lord, and honor an institution of papacy. Satan's host and wicked men will surround them, and exult over them, because there will seem to be no way of escape for them. But in the midst of their revelry and triumph, there is heard peal upon peal of the loudest thunder. The heavens have gathered blackness, and are only illuminated by the blazing light and terrible glory from heaven, as God utters His voice from His holy habitation.

The foundations of the earth shake; buildings totter and fall with a terrible crash. The sea boils like a pot, and the whole earth is in terrible commotion. The captivity of the righteous is turned, and with sweet and solemn whisperings they say to one another: "We are delivered. It is the voice of God." With solemn awe they listen to the words of the voice. The wicked hear, but understand not the words of the voice of God. They fear and tremble, while the saints rejoice. Satan and his angels, and wicked men, who had been exulting that the people of God were in their power, that they might destroy them from off the earth, witness the glory conferred upon those who have honored the holy law of God. They behold the faces of the righteous lighted up and reflecting the image of Jesus. Those who were so eager to destroy the saints cannot endure the glory resting upon the delivered ones, and they fall like dead men to the earth. Satan and evil angels flee from the presence of the saints glorified. Their power to annoy them is gone forever.

{Testimonies for the Church, vol. 1, pp. 353-354}

The above quote shows that there are two definite and distinct points in time (one at the beginning of the time of trouble and one at the end) when the faces of the saints shine. All a person needs to do is figure out how the events in the two visions correspond to these two times. There are not many possibilities, and only one that makes sense: the first time their faces shine corresponds to the shining faces of the 1844 vision, and the second time corresponds to the shining faces of the 1847 vision.

The Power of the Father

I read every email that reaches me and comment on it because I want to do my part to find the remnant of the remnant. I received mail from Adventists who were new in the faith, and were attracted almost magically to sites like those of the Moon Sabbath Keepers. I explained in detail that our seventh-day Sabbath really has nothing in common with the Lunar Sabbath propagated by those false teachers. It still depends on the creation week when God introduced the seven-day cycle, and this cycle has never been interrupted.

One of my readers thanked me for the clarification only to throw out the Orion message and the Fourth Angel's message, which are from God, with the dirty bath water of the Lunar Sabbath Keepers because some pastors and elders still do not know how to correctly interpret the statements of Ellen White in regard to time messages during the period of the Fourth Angel. With the arguments presented here, I finally convinced him on a biblical basis that the message of the Fourth Angel indeed comes from Orion proclaiming the time of Jesus' coming.

At the time of this writing I was actually working on finishing the Shadow Series, but I had a lot more to say to my opponents in regard to the accusation of "time setting". Although my schedule was incredibly tight, I took time to offer here the explanations as to why there is still indeed a time message which bears the seal of God.

Ellen White said in Volume 1 of her Testimonies:

I saw that God tested His people upon time in 1844, but that no time which has since been set has borne the special marks of His hand. {1T 409.1}

This statement has always kept the possibility open that a time message could come again that "would bear the special marks of the hand of Jesus". Those who don't understand why I believe that the message of God's voice from the Orion "bears the special marks of His hand" should carefully re-read slides 169-178 of the Orion presentation.

I'm trying to portray this subject as detailed as possible so as to remove any lingering doubts as to whether the time has come for us to have time prophecy again. I will establish this on a biblical foundation. I will show that this can be asserted in perfect harmony with the many statements of Ellen White against time setting, and does not question either her or God's authority. But, as with any of my articles, I do not claim completeness. All that I give you can and should be understood and tested through private study. This is how we work in our small group and it is the only way that the Holy Spirit can teach you.

I have met many brethren who would send me their questions on a daily basis. They do not want to study for themselves, and even get offended or react grumpily when I just give a few tips for self-study without giving them everything already sliced and diced and served on a silver platter. No friends, you will never get to know your God that way! You must start to work on your own with the Holy Spirit. Maybe then some of you will realize that there is a real Person who wants to live in you, and not just a force. But that is another story and I have already answered hundreds of emails in that regard to the point that I have no desire to write about it. Suffice it to say that I believe what Ellen White said about the Holy Spirit, that He is the third Person of the Godhead. Each individual is tested by the Orion message and for each one of us God has clarifications of erroneous views, so that we—if we accept the correction—can be united in faith. Take the correction or leave it. I will have done my part.

Let's turn to the topic of time setting. Ellen White said so much about it, and it is usually interpreted to mean that there will "never again" be any time prophecy...and every day I get emails with the same statements from Ellen White, which I will elaborate on in the next article. This article forms the basis for understanding why time prophecy comes into effect again right now.

Everything that I will explain to you could be discovered by any avid Bible student as well. But I never receive anything like that from readers. As we all know, even Ellen White has to be tested on the basis of Scripture like any other prophet or messenger of God, and certainly that has been done sufficiently by our church. However, not everything she said is understood perfectly and put into its correct context. If we had reason to believe that Ellen White said something that does not harmonize with the Bible, we would raise a red alert and it would be necessary to tread on that area with all our caution. If Ellen White appeared at odds with the Bible, then it would be our sacred obligation to find the harmony in it.

You know that I consider Ellen White to be the messenger of God, and her testimonies to be God's word. In my life, I try to obey everything she tells us. Following her counsel, I moved to the countryside in Paraguay seven years ago. I not only accepted the health message for my family and myself, but also teach it to all our neighbors and in the schools of the surrounding villages. That is why I wrestled a long time with her time setting statements long before I received them from my opponents by the hundreds in e-mails in three different languages. I assure you I knew all those quotes already. I will present here the solution I discovered for the apparent contradictions in the statements of Ellen White and the Orion message. My original intention was to let the Orion message have its effect on you. I wanted you to go through the same questions I had, so you would be able to pray and ponder as I did and discover the truth for yourself.

I placed many hints for you in the PowerPoint study. I thought you would find them and draw the correct conclusions. But time and again I received mails of excited "Third Angel's message proclaimers" who vehemently fended off what I said with Ellen White quotations. But, what was it actually that they were trying to repress? They were offended by the power of the Fourth Angel, who was sent to help the Third Angel to finish the work! How sad that those brothers and sisters still do not understand what we are taught in Early Writings. Keep on distributing your pamphlets, books, radio and television programs (which is all fine and good), but how small is your faith when you believe that you'll never get real "power"! Go ahead and bring the light to the entire earth without any help from "above" like you have for the last 167 years, and deny the prophesied light of the Fourth Angel for the third and the last time! Some leaders of the General Conference even recognize that we cannot succeed without the help of God. But they go the wrong way too by refusing the God-given light.

This message even separated me from long-time friends who think that the message is not "appropriate" for their particular country, culture, or church members. Friendships ended in tears because they think themselves greater than God, who in His infinite wisdom determines the timing and maturity of the crop, and shows us the message from His throne NOW in the last few minutes of mankind's history according to His Clock. He chose the time. Who are we to dare think that we know better, and would likely delay the message? It is the authority of the Father, the Supreme Judge of the universe, that we are about to receive! Meanwhile they are rejecting it because they do not consider it "suitable" for some of their deep sleeping brethren. They imagine that it would scare them away because the message is too strong for their weak minds, weakened by their own worldliness.

Were the people who denied the First Angel's message, Miller's Midnight Cry, among the saints? What about those who left after the small disappointment of 1843 and did not accept the second time proclamation wave in 1844 under the Second Angel? And will we see any First-day Adventists in heaven, who didn't receive the Sabbath truth of the Third Angel and refused to proclaim it because they believed it would limit their influence to be separate from the majority by going against the universally revered Sunday? Are they saints, who think they should proclaim new light only half-heartedly and behind closed doors to only their hand-selected friends because they are worried about a mass of corrupt brethren?

For those who don't want to admit it...even Ellen White doubted the messages for a short time. This is what happened, and it was written for our admonition:

All these things weighed heavily upon my spirits, and in the confusion I was sometimes tempted to doubt my own experience. While at family prayers one morning, the power of God began to rest upon me, and the thought rushed into my mind that it was mesmerism, and I resisted it. Immediately I was struck dumb and for a few moments was lost to everything around me. I then saw my sin in doubting the power of God, and that for so doing I was struck dumb, and that my tongue would be loosed in less than twenty-four hours. A card was held up before me, on which were written in letters of gold the chapter and verse of fifty texts of Scripture. After I came out of vision, I beckoned for the slate, and wrote upon it that I was dumb, also what I had seen, and that I wished the large Bible. I took the Bible and readily turned to all the texts that I had seen upon the card. I was unable to speak all day. Early the next morning my soul was filled with joy, and my tongue was loosed to shout the high praises of God. After that I dared not doubt or for a moment resist the power of God, however others might think of me. {EW 22.2}

The first of the fifty Bible texts that Ellen White saw reads thus:

And, behold, thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall be performed, because thou believest not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season. (Luke 1:20)

Anyone who doubts and does not proclaim what God wants them to proclaim in His time, must fall silent. If he repents, he is silenced just for a short time; if he does not repent, he will cease for eternity.

The first three angels symbolize "movements" that materialized through great bursts of prophetic knowledge and Bible understanding. Each angel screened out those who did not want to accept the message, who considered it to be premature, inappropriate, or even incorrect. The Fourth Angel is another such movement. We should learn from the past. Out of a community of more than 17 million, apostate Adventists which are to the core secular, disoriented, misinformed, and believe themselves rich, and in need of no Fourth Angel's message—will be filtered out leaving only a tiny group. Ellen White said even that the majority of the workers of the 11th hour will come from other churches in the time of the Loud Cry.

I knew from the beginning that the Orion message records not only our entire "sad" church history and calls us to repentance, but also contains a time message which according to Ellen White—at first glance—should not exist. Even worse, as we will find out in the last part of the Shadow Series, not just the year of Jesus' return is revealed but also the "very probable day".

For many, it's not enough to study the striking difference in the two visions of Ellen White as explained in the first article of the Day and Hour series. They want more. I would like to satisfy this thirst for knowledge now, because like I said I had to reconcile Ellen White, the Bible, and the Orion study for myself. Strangely, there was no problem with the Bible, just with Ellen White.

There is something the great majority miss: Ellen White herself put many hints in her writings that from the Fourth Angel onward there will again take place a time proclamation. But our church is in a deep sleep, as we all (should) know. Only intensive study will keep the reader from falling into or persisting in that same sleep. And only intensive study combined with a love of the truth would have allowed our BRI (Biblical Research Institute), who actually has that responsibility, to discover the things that I will now explain.

First, I would like to give you some Bible passages to ponder over. These appear to contradict other statements of Jesus that say only God the Father will know the day and the hour. Remember Ellen White said that we have to study EVERYTHING like this so that it ultimately comes together in harmony...

The Bible actually teaches that we have to know the day and the hour:

Jesus says to John in his revelation:

And unto the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead. Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God. Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:1-3)

And the Apostle Paul states something very similar in his letter to the Thessalonians:

For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness. (1 Thessalonians 5:3-5)

Our scholars know these verses too, of course, but they interpret them as allegorical instead of prophetic. That's a big mistake because it makes them also miss the additional hints in the Bible that something special has to happen at a particular point in time...

Jan Paulsen, the former President of our church, spoke in Paraguay on the 29th of June, 2008 in the sports stadium in front of an undisciplined, loud, and inattentive audience, which consisted of about 4,000 "Adventists". I had the privilege of listening to the words of his very insightful sermon. In the background about 100 people, most of them under the age of 7 years, were subjected to a quick baptism so the leaders could report "success". Only those who watched very closely noticed that the pastors did not even take baptismal votes.

But the sermon of Jan Paulsen was good. It was very good—but only for those who could read between the lines. I discussed it later with four pastors and eight elders and they didn't understand at all what Jan Paulsen had actually said and meant. He began his sermon saying that he is the first president of the Seventh-day Adventist global church to visit Paraguay, and also the last. Wow, wasn't that actually time setting? Was it? If, as some of our brothers and sisters on Facebook wrote to me, Jesus is not obligated to come in the next 100 years, then those opening words of Jan Paulsen could be interpreted as an insult to the Paraguayans, if you'll allow me this little joke. No, he really began to preach a "farewell sermon", not in terms of his office ending soon, but clearly in view of the end of our Church as we know it. This tremendous sermon introduction was not even slightly noticed by the pastors and elders. They were too busy working...trying in vain, powerless, to silence the raucous and dissonantly applauding crowd of low-class "Adventists" during this Sunday(!) afternoon sermon.

Jan Paulsen preached about the last words of Jesus on earth and applied chapters 16 and 17 from the gospel of John. He said these would be the last words you would hear from him in Paraguay, and the last words are always the most important in human life and have a special weight for those to whom they are addressed. Of course, this is especially true if these were the last words of Jesus, the Son of God Himself to His disciples. We should remember these words carefully, ponder them, and study them in depth, to be warned of what to expect in the near future.

His sermon cleverly avoided Jesus' advance warnings of a terrible persecution (due to the presence of many children) and he asked the audience (if there were anyone listening) to seriously re-study these verses at home. But he was definitely sure that persecution would arise very soon. Please, do also read John chapter 16 carefully. Paulsen then put special emphasis on the following verse:

But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you. (John 16:4)

The purpose of his sermon was to make it clear to the people that the General Conference as it exists today would soon no longer exist. That very soon the time would come when each group of faithful Adventists would be on their own. He pointed out that no group could stay faithful to God unless Jesus were in their midst, and that would only be possible when the Comforter would come and live in each and every one of us.

Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you. (John 16:7)

But Jesus gave a certain condition for the Comforter to come in His prayer for the unity of his church in John 17, the longest prayer of the Bible. It was a clever sermon and by the end he had won some listeners. Unfortunately, they did not notice the beginning and therefore they did not understand that Jan Paulsen had said good-bye for himself and at the same time for the General Conference. Fortunately, I got to listen and understand the sermon in two languages, since it was simultaneously translated and I manage pretty well in English and Spanish.

In the end, he stressed again that these were the last words of Jesus to his disciples before his suffering. Then we sang a hymn and the "Adventists" were allowed to go home in order to fire up the barbecue grill. Thus the sermon was about persecution and fellowship, the outpouring of the latter rain, and one of the conditions for this to happen: unity of the faithful... Of course, he related it to unity with the General Conference. Here in South America, he did not mention a word about "obedience" or "Ellen White", otherwise a depressed silence would have ensued. But never mind that.

Today—a few years later—I noticed again that Jan Paulsen was very correct in stating that the last words of a person are especially significant. Even today I still know what he said. But the last words of Jesus, of course, have incredibly more weight. But what were the last words of Jesus? There are many studies about the last words of Jesus on the cross. Yes, those were His last words before death. But were those His last words to the disciples? No, Jesus rose again and spent another 40 days with the disciples. So what were the real last words of Jesus that have such great importance?

Before His ascension, Jesus spoke His last words to His companions who would have to stay in a cruel world. His disciples symbolically represent all the faithful Christians of later generations, especially the last generation. And if you haven't already recognized it, these very last and most important words of Jesus are talking about our problem...they are the answer to the question of the disciples as to when He would come back to establish His kingdom. These verses have been read only superficially and have never been studied in depth, but in them we will find the solution to the problem of whether or not there will be another message that is about the "day and hour" after the Third Angel.

Let us read now those last words of Jesus to His disciples before His ascension into heaven:

When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel? And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power. But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight. (Acts 1:6-9)

Once again, our BRI failed to notice that Jesus, as in Matthew 24, Luke 21, and Mark 13, replies with a doubly-applicable answer to the question of the disciples about His second coming. Jesus never left out the real end of the world in His answers, but He linked it so cleverly with the events that directly affected the disciples that only the last generation of the remnant of the remnant would be able to discover the second application. Let's read what Ellen White said about the way Jesus responded to related questions:

The question of the disciples

Christ's words had been spoken in the hearing of a large number of people; but when He was alone, Peter, John, James, and Andrew came to Him as He sat upon the Mount of Olives. "Tell us," they said, "when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of Thy coming, and of the end of the world?" Jesus did not answer His disciples by taking up separately the destruction of Jerusalem and the great day of His coming. He mingled the description of these two events. Had He opened to His disciples future events as He beheld them, they would have been unable to endure the sight. In mercy to them He blended the description of the two great crises, leaving the disciples to study out the meaning for themselves. When He referred to the destruction of Jerusalem, His prophetic words reached beyond that event to the final conflagration in that day when the Lord shall rise out of His place to punish the world for their iniquity, when the earth shall disclose her blood, and shall no more cover her slain. This entire discourse was given, not for the disciples only, but for those who should live in the last scenes of this earth's history. {DA 628.1}

Yes, dear BRI, you could have recognized that Jesus' answer to the same question just before His ascension was given in a similar fashion to shortly before His crucifixion. The situation of the disciples had not changed. The destruction of Jerusalem was still in the future and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit was also still 10 days ahead.

Our church has already recognized the truth in the aforementioned chapters of the Bible, but it still lacks it in relation to Acts chapter 1. It was the main theme of Jesus in Matthew 24 to typify the impending destruction of the earth by the early destruction of the Temple (70 AD), and His words are properly interpreted to apply to the impending siege against the church in the end times by the Sunday laws. However, it is overlooked that the very similar question of the disciples in Acts was also answered in the same twofold manner by Jesus.

However, the main topic here is the "Power of the Father" and the "Power of the Holy Spirit" and not just the signs that will precede the second coming. Now it is actually about explaining when the disciples would receive the knowledge about the day and hour of Jesus' return.

Jesus' words "It is not for you to know the times or the seasons" relate to the disciples who lived at that time, some 2000 years before the actual establishment of Christ's kingdom (His return). Just think about this! Ellen White always praised William Miller, even in the Great Controversy. The first Millerites and the Second Angel (Samuel Snow) had to answer to the same "no time-setting" arguments from their Christian brethren, just like the movement of the Fourth Angel today, which has to sound the real and correct Midnight Cry this time.

How did Ellen White explain this in the Great Controversy? How did the Millerites meet these attacks? You will see that it sounds quite a bit different than the many repetitions against time-setting of a few quotations of Ellen White that are mostly taken out of context:

The proclamation of a definite time for Christ's coming called forth great opposition from many of all classes, from the minister in the pulpit down to the most reckless, Heaven-daring sinner. The words of prophecy were fulfilled: "There shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, and saying, Where is the promise of His coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation." 2 Peter 3:3, 4. Many who professed to love the Saviour, declared that they had no opposition to the doctrine of the second advent; they merely objected to the definite time. But God's all-seeing eye read their hearts. They did not wish to hear of Christ's coming to judge the world in righteousness. They had been unfaithful servants, their works would not bear the inspection of the heart-searching God, and they feared to meet their Lord. Like the Jews at the time of Christ's first advent they were not prepared to welcome Jesus. They not only refused to listen to the plain arguments from the Bible, but ridiculed those who were looking for the Lord. Satan and his angels exulted, and flung the taunt in the face of Christ and holy angels that His professed people had so little love for Him that they did not desire His appearing.

"No man knoweth the day nor the hour" was the argument most often brought forward by rejecters of the advent faith. The scripture is: "Of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but My Father only." Matthew 24:36. A clear and harmonious explanation of this text was given by those who were looking for the Lord, and the wrong use made of it by their opponents was clearly shown. The words were spoken by Christ in that memorable conversation with His disciples upon Olivet after He had for the last time departed from the temple. The disciples had asked the question: "What shall be the sign of Thy coming, and of the end of the world?" Jesus gave them signs, and said: "When ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors." Verses 3, 33. One saying of the Saviour must not be made to destroy another. Though no man knoweth the day nor the hour of His coming [we will see later, how this is to be understood], we are instructed and required to know when it is near. We are further taught that to disregard His warning, and refuse or neglect to know when His advent is near, will be as fatal for us as it was for those who lived in the days of Noah not to know when the flood was coming. {CC 370.1-2}

There is an interesting short study about that at CyberSpace Ministry. Long before the flood, the time of the disaster could have been known. As far back as 1,000 years earlier, God began to reveal in stages certain intervals and ultimately even the "day and hour". The biblical principle that lies behind all time prophecies is called "God's Process of Progressive Revelation". I will briefly summarize it for you:

1. The name Methuselah means "The year he dies; it will be sent". This was a rather vague time prophecy, because no one could know what God would send, and neither did the people know exactly how long Methuselah would live. But for nearly 10 centuries it was predicted that the life span of Methuselah was a measure of when the end would come. People lived over 900 years at that time, and Methuselah was the oldest man who ever lived. Once again, a sign that God always waits until the very last moment to send His judgments.

Studying Genesis 5:26,28; 6:6, we are able to calculate that this prophecy was fulfilled precisely.

2. And the LORD said, My spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years. ... And the LORD said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them. ... And God said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them; and, behold, I will destroy them with the earth. (Genesis 6:3, 7, 13)

In this second stage, God revealed to Noah that He had decided to destroy men; He even told him that the countdown had begun. So Noah knew that he had only 120 years to build the ark, and thus he knew the year of the Flood; however, he still did not know the precise date. But that information would have been no use to him at that time.

3. 120 years later, when the fateful event drew near, God gave Noah a third and final revelation. It was a very precise announcement:

And the LORD said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation. ... For yet seven days, and I will cause it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights; and every living substance that I have made will I destroy from off the face of the earth. (Genesis 7:1, 4)

Attention please! God could have simply commanded Noah to go into the ark without informing him of when the flood would begin. But God in His great mercy decided to give Noah this important information to make his waiting time less painful. He even revealed to him how long the flood would last: 40 days and nights.

Jesus gave us a hint that when He comes again it will be like in the days of Noah:

But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. (Matthew 24:37)

Let us compare the type of the destruction of the world given by the history of Noah with the Orion message and, in preview, the message of the third part of the Shadow Series:

1. We receive a "vague" prophecy from Daniel that gives a very long time range: And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed. (Daniel 8:14)

Mankind was in the dark about two issues in this prophecy. When did these 2300 evenings and the mornings begin and what exactly was the nature of the event? Around 1820, William Miller found out when the 2300 days had begun and sounded the Midnight Cry with full power in 1841. But he was still in error in regard to the event and thought it was already the second coming. Indeed, it was the beginning of the Investigative Judgment in the heavenly sanctuary as we would learn at the beginning of stage 2. The prophecy of the 2300 evenings and mornings is therefore comparable to the message in the name "Methuselah".

2. The Great Disappointment occurred in 1844, but it was perfectly understood that the light of the First Angel was not the true Midnight Cry for the coming of the bridegroom; but that the Investigative Judgment had begun in heaven. The duration of the Investigative Judgment was hidden in Daniel 12, as I explained in the PowerPoint presentation of the Orion message on slides 58 to 74. The judgment of the dead would take 168 years and the judgment of the living three and a half years. Both would overlap by half a year. We concluded that spring 2012 + 3½ years gives us autumn 2015 for the beginning of the year of plagues that leads to autumn 2016 for the second coming. As in stage 2 of the flood prophecies, we could have known the year even as early as 1844... [\[In the first edition of this article we did not have the exact calculation. It still contained the "Millerite" error of one year, which was improved in January 2013. But to not confuse the reader, we entered now the current data.\]](#)

But there is a very important difference between the proclamation of the 120 years of Noah and the proclamation of this period! Noah knew the time, but for us a prohibition was placed on time prophecy during the corresponding period, because it would not have been advantageous for us to know decades beforehand in which year Jesus would return.

The oath of Jesus in Revelation 10 applies only to a particular time range within the total duration of the Investigative Judgment, because He raises only one hand. The oath applies to the duration of the judgment of the dead from autumn 1844 to autumn 2012. I will explain this particular teaching of Jesus in detail later on.

But it is important to understand that we could have known the year as early as 1844 (if Jesus had not kept his finger on it), but not the exact date. We also understood clearly what the next big event would be, namely the actual coming of Jesus. But it is vehemently denied that the real Midnight Cry, which was even predicted in the dream of William Miller himself, has to be completely fulfilled also! This leads us to Step 3 in the process of progressive revelation of God regarding time prophecy.

3. Our church missed the opportunity to go to heaven in 1890. The message of the Fourth Angel, whose light began to shine at the General Conference meeting of 1888, was rejected by the liberal Adventists who did not want to be obedient to God. Ellen White was very disappointed. She said that we would have to wander in the wilderness like the children of Israel for "40 years" to get a second chance (more on that below). This desert experience did not begin in 1888, as some Adventists had fairly well figured out, but actually 2 years later in 1890. A special event took place in 2010, exactly 120 (3 × 40!) years later, that is dismissed by many as time setting. A man discovered God's message in Orion and made it readable. 9 months later in September of the same year he deciphered the prophecies that are behind the Jewish feast days, which reveal the exact day of Jesus' second coming. (This knowledge [The Vessel of Time] is to be published in the third part of the Shadow Series.) [In the first edition of this article we did not have the exact day. It still contained the "Millerite" error of one year, which was improved in January 2013.]

Let us compare type and anti-type again. Noah entered the ark 7 days before the flood. He was told that he would have to wait 7 days until the torrential rain would begin to fall. In 2005, I discovered a study in the Bible which indicated clearly that something "big" would happen in 2012. This was exactly 7 years before that infamous year. I have been warning the Church now for 6 long years, but almost no one wants to hear the warnings. So it was also in Noah's day. Before he was shut inside the Ark by the hand of God, the animals came running pairwise which can only be attributed to divine influence. The people watched this scene, laughed at it, or perhaps even got a little worried. But no one asked Noah if he would let him come on board too. Almost all Adventists behave in the same way in the face of the great revelations that God gives them from His sanctuary in heaven.

The 7 years prior to 2012 are also characterized by three stages of time proclamation which harmonize again with the model of Noah...

1. In 2005, I received a study which I will publish in the course of the Shadows Series, that marks 2012 as a year of a "great event" just like the study of the oath in Daniel 12. But this study did not show the exact timing of the judgment of the dead and the living like Daniel 12. So as late as spring 2010, I was still undecided as to what the nature of the event in 2012 would be.

Like with the name "Methuselah", it was not clear from this prophecy what the year of destruction would be (Second Coming) and it was not even possible to define what kind of event would take place in 2012.

2. It was not until spring 2010 that phase 2 of the progressive revelation of God began. God revealed His Clock in Orion and as the students of this Clock already know, the year of Jesus' return was shown there for the first time. Because I committed some errors in the interpretation of Orion, the year of Jesus' second coming was not fully revealed. I first believed that He would come in 2014, later I thought that 2014 would be just the beginning of the year of plagues. The year 2015 for the coming was named for the first time in the second version of the Orion study published in September 2010. [\[Yet in January 2013, the Lord revealed the real date of the coming in autumn 2016.\]](#) Like Miller, I was one year too early.

This is reflected in the 120 years of Noah, during which he and everyone who believed with him knew in which year the Flood would come.

3. In the fall of 2010 I received new inspiration for another study apparently independent from Orion; a study of the Jewish feasts. This study, in a completely different manner from the Orion study, reveals exactly the same historical data of the Adventist Church with a few additional details. I did not recognize until recently that it is only logical for it to be that way. The Orion is a symbol of the heavenly sanctuary, while the feast days are an image of the earthly sanctuary. The sanctuary on earth is the shadow of the heavenly! I found the astronomical code in the festivals that reflects the entire history of the Adventist Church like in the Orion, but with more detail. One of those additional details is the exact date of Jesus' return in 2016. [\[In the first edition of this article we did not have the exact calculation. It still contained the "Millerite" error of one year, which was improved in January 2013. But to not confuse the reader, we entered now the current data.\]](#)

Therefore, we are already in Phase 3.3 of the final time proclamation. The seven days of Noah are matched in the seven years from 2005 to 2012 and in the detailed plan discovered in the astronomical code of the feast days beginning in September 2010. The first error in the Orion study was corrected through this code, and more surprisingly the study revealed the exact duration of the time of the plagues to the very day. This time period was encoded twice, once in the number of sacrifices during the feasts and once in the astronomical code of the feast days. Thus, even the 40 days of rain that were prophesied by God before the flood found their counterpart in the shadow study with the discovery of the duration of the time of the plagues. These are all the subject of the third part of the Shadows of the Future.

We interrupted our reading of the Great Controversy at the point where Ellen White said: "We are further taught that to disregard His warning, and refuse or neglect to know when His advent is near, will be as fatal for us as it was for those who lived in the days of Noah not to know when the flood was coming."

Let's continue to read:

And the parable in the same chapter, contrasting the faithful and the unfaithful servant, and giving the doom of him who said in his heart, "My Lord delayeth His coming," shows in what light Christ will regard and reward those whom He finds watching, and teaching His coming, and those denying it. "Watch therefore," He says. "Blessed is that servant, whom his Lord when He cometh shall find so doing." Verses 42, 46. "If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee." Revelation 3:3.

Paul speaks of a class to whom the Lord's appearing will come unawares. "The day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, . . . and they shall not escape." But he adds, to those who have given heed to the Saviour's warning: "Ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness." 1 Thessalonians 5:2-5.

Thus it was shown that Scripture gives no warrant for men to remain in ignorance concerning the nearness of Christ's coming. But those who desired only an excuse to reject the truth closed their ears to this explanation, and the words "No man knoweth the day nor the hour" continued to be echoed by the bold scoffer and even by the professed minister of Christ. As the people were roused, and began to inquire the way of salvation, religious teachers stepped in between them and the truth, seeking to quiet their fears by falsely interpreting the word of God. Unfaithful watchmen united in the work of the great deceiver, crying, Peace, peace, when God had not spoken peace. Like the Pharisees in Christ's day, many refused to enter the kingdom of heaven themselves, and those who were entering in they hindered. The blood of these souls will be required at their hand.

The most humble and devoted in the churches were usually the first to receive the message. Those who studied the Bible for themselves could not but see the unscriptural character of the popular views of prophecy; and wherever the people were not controlled by the influence of the clergy, wherever they would search the word of God for themselves, the advent doctrine needed only to be compared with the Scriptures to establish its divine authority.

Many were persecuted by their unbelieving brethren. In order to retain their position in the church, some consented to be silent in regard to their hope; but others felt that loyalty to God forbade them thus to hide the truths which He had committed to their trust. Not a few were cut off from the fellowship of the church for no other reason than expressing their belief in the coming of Christ. Very precious to those who bore this trial of their faith were the words of the prophet: "Your brethren that hated you, that cast you out for My name's sake, said, Let the Lord be glorified: but He shall appear to your joy, and they shall be ashamed." Isaiah 66:5. {GC 370.2-372.3}

Wolff was another pioneer of that time who was mentioned positively by Ellen White in the Great Controversy:

Wolff believed the coming of the Lord to be at hand, his interpretation of the prophetic periods placing the great consummation within a very few years of the time pointed out by Miller. To those who urged from the scripture, "Of that day and hour knoweth no man," that men are to know nothing concerning the nearness of the advent, Wolff replied: "Did our Lord say that that day and hour should never be known?" Did He not give us signs of the times, in order that we may know at least the approach of His coming, as one knows the approach of the summer by the fig tree putting forth its leaves? Matthew 24:32. Are we never to know that period, whilst He Himself exhorteth us not only to read Daniel the prophet, but to understand it? and in that very Daniel, where it is said that the words were shut up to the time of the end (which was the case in his time), and that 'many shall run to and fro' (a Hebrew expression for observing and thinking upon the time), 'and knowledge' (regarding that time) 'shall be increased.' Daniel 12:4. Besides this, our Lord does not intend to say by this, that the approach of the time shall not be known, but that the exact 'day and hour knoweth no man.' Enough, He does say, shall be known by the signs of the times, to induce us to prepare for His coming, as Noah prepared the ark."--Wolff, Researches and Missionary Labors, pages 404, 405. {GC 359.2}

Those were Wolff's answers to the objection that no one could know the day and the hour. He referred more to the nearness of the time and did not give as clear of statements as William Miller with his "Midnight Cry". Miller's statements correspond more to the view of Ellen White that we want to bring into harmony with the message that predicts not only the year, but also the very day of the second coming. First of all, Miller's "Midnight Cry" was a message which proclaimed the year of Jesus' return. This "Midnight Cry" also came in at least two phases. The message of the First Angel (the Millerite movement) first preached the year 1843, without specifying a particular day. This corresponds to phase 2 of the Noah's type. Only when the Second Angel (Samuel Snow) joined the First Angel (William Miller) was the date of the "alleged" Second Coming calculated by Samuel Snow (quite rightly) to be the 22nd of October, 1844. This corresponds to phase 3 of the type of Noah's day. However, neither were in fact the true Midnight Cry, because the groom was still 170 years further away. Therefore, at a special point in time a "second Miller" had to come who would preach the true Midnight Cry. This was dreamt by William Miller himself and even found the approbation of Ellen White. Miller's Dream was printed in chapter 22 of Early Writings.

Fine. Maybe so far one does not believe that the movement of the First and the Second Angel, "the combined Midnight Cry" will be repeated; but...it is foretold by none other than Ellen White, personally. First, please read about the relationship between Miller's message (the light of the First Angel) and the Second Angel, so later you can better understand another statement of Ellen White about this:

Near the close of the second angel's message, I saw a great light from heaven shining upon the people of God. The rays of this light seemed bright as the sun. And I heard the voices of angels crying, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet Him!"

This was the midnight cry, which was to give power to the second angel's message. Angels were sent from heaven to arouse the discouraged saints and prepare them for the great work before them. The most talented men were not the first to receive this message. Angels were sent to the humble, devoted ones, and constrained them to raise the cry, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet Him!" Those entrusted with the cry made haste, and in the power of the Holy Spirit sounded the message, and aroused their discouraged brethren. This work did not stand in the wisdom and learning of men, but in the power of God, and His saints who heard the cry could not resist it. The most spiritual received this message first, and those who had formerly led in the work were the last to receive and help swell the cry, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet Him!" {EW 238.1-2}

The movement of Samuel Snow (the Second Angel) already existed before Miller; the Second Angel came before the First. This movement denounced the sins of the apostate Protestant churches, which were on their way back to Rome. But the message was not heard because it had no urgency. The power that was given to this message by the Midnight Cry was the proclamation of a precise date for Jesus' Second Coming. The time was scarce and this "aroused" the discouraged saints so that their message was heard again with power.

And now comes the most important statement of Ellen White, which is based on direct visions from God. In Early Writings in the chapter The Loud Cry you can read how the Fourth Angel will come:

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound everywhere, "Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning, proclaiming the fall of Babylon and calling upon God's people to come out of her that they might escape her fearful doom. {EW 277.2}

Just as the First Angel (Miller with the Midnight Cry) joined the Second Angel and gave him power, the Fourth Angel will join the Third and give it power just like the Midnight Cry! The Midnight Cry was the shout "The Bridegroom cometh!" This includes "day and hour"; it is a time message! But the Fourth Angel also has a warning message that calls for repentance and conversion, as I have already shown in the studies and do not want to repeat here. And now, please note exactly what Ellen White saw in her vision that "rested upon the patient, waiting saints": "The glory of God"...and what is the "glory of God" according to the Bible?

But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, And said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God. (Acts 7:55-56)

Stephen saw the same thing that we can see now, if we follow Jesus wherever He goes...

These are they which were not defiled with women; for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. ... (Revelation 14:4)

This verse begins the passage about the Three Angel's message and to date has only been partially understood. It talks about the 144,000 and that they follow Jesus, the Lamb, wherever He goes. Our pioneers correctly interpreted this as referring to when Jesus moved His service from the Holy Place into the Most Holy Place in 1844. Those who accepted that Jesus' ministry ended in the Holy Place and that He began the service of the heavenly judgment day as High Priest, symbolically followed Him into the Holiest.

The others stayed in the Holy Place. They never understood the prophecy of the 2300 evenings and mornings, nor the sanctuary doctrine, and had remained in darkness. And not only that! A strange evil spirit was breathed on them by Satan.

But that does not end this prophecy. Now, at the end of the investigative judgment of the dead, we get the refreshing from the latter rain to give the Loud Cry in the judgment of the living and again we are asked to "follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth", because this prophecy is given in Revelation in connection with the 144,000 and not with the Third Angel! This time, we should lift up our heads to the firmament like Stephen and see the glory of God and Jesus standing at the right hand of God: His wounds in the Judgment Clock and His High Priestly Intercessory Service depicted in the most stunning constellation of the universe created by Him, just before the throne of God and the Home of the Holy City in the "open space" of the Great Orion Nebula.

And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh. (Luke 21:28)

We find this force or power (of the mighty angel) rushing to the aid of the Third Angel and "arousing" the sleeping virgins in Revelation 18 where the Fourth Angel is described:

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power [G1849]; and the earth was lightened with his glory. (Revelation 18:1)

Now, I would like to ask you to download and install the e-Sword Bible with the Strong's dictionary from the Internet, so you can check me. (Just search for "e-sword Bible".)

The word for "power" in the above verse is Greek and in the Strong's for the King James Version Bible it is listed as:

exousia

ex-oo-see'-ah

From G1832 (in the sense of ability); privilege, that is, (subjectively) force, capacity, competency, freedom, or (objectively) mastery (concretely magistrate, superhuman, potentate, token of control), delegated influence: - authority, jurisdiction, liberty, power, right, strength.

There are several similar meanings of the word, but we are about to compare this occurrence of the word with a different part of the Bible. In many versions of the Bible it is translated very well as "force, strength, power, or authority". Now we are closing the loop that began in Acts. There, Jesus answered the disciples and talked about the outpouring of the Holy Spirit when He said:

*And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power. But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. (Acts 1:7-8)

One can already see that the end of this verse is not entirely fulfilled, because the gospel has still not been preached to the uttermost part of the earth, otherwise the end would have come already...

*And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come. (Matthew 24:14)

I suppose that it isn't necessary to explain that we as Adventists know that the Holy Spirit will be poured out once again even richer than in the days of the apostles at Pentecost. Pentecost was the fulfillment of the prophecy of the "early rain" and we have been waiting eagerly for the past 160 years for the "latter rain", the second outpouring of the Holy Spirit, which will enable us to withstand the tests of the Sunday laws and to sound to the Loud Cry.

Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the LORD your God: for he hath given you the former rain moderately, and he will cause to come down for you the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month. And the floors shall be full of wheat, and the fats shall overflow with wine and oil. (Joel 2:23-24)

The double application of Jesus' answer is now clearly visible:

It was not for the apostles to know the times or the seasons in their day. The Father had reserved this in His power (exousia), but first the former rain (Pentecost) should be given so the gospel could be proclaimed in Jerusalem and throughout Judea and Samaria, and finally the latter rain so this work could extend to the uttermost part of the earth.

Jesus says, "But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you"... We as Adventists understand that this power which we will get is symbolized by the Fourth Angel:

In Supplement to Early Writings, Ellen White writes with her own pen:

"The commencement of that time of trouble," here mentioned does not refer to the time when the plagues shall begin to be poured out, but to a short period just before they are poured out, while Christ is in the sanctuary. At that time, while the work of salvation is closing, trouble will be coming on the earth, and the nations will be angry, yet held in check so as not to prevent the work of the third angel. At that time the "latter rain," or refreshing from the presence of the Lord, will come, to give power to the loud voice of the third angel, and prepare the saints to stand in the period when the seven last plagues shall be poured out. {EW 85.3}

She even linked the power of the Fourth Angel with the latter rain. And now, let's see which Greek word for "power" was used in Acts 1:7...

*And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power [G1849].

And there it is again:

G1849

ἐξουσία
exousia

From G1832 (in the sense of ability); privilege, that is, (subjectively) force, capacity, competency, freedom, or (objectively) mastery (concretely magistrate, superhuman, potentate, token of control), delegated influence: - authority, jurisdiction, liberty, power, right, strength.

The Fourth Angel and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit come in the same power and authority (exousia), which was reserved ONLY for the Father. The Father Himself, who is the Judge in the heavenly court, has permitted the Holy Spirit to give us the hour of the end of the judgment and the coming of Jesus. It's not a human being who brings the message, but the Father Himself who revealed HIS CLOCK to us. The Fourth Angel, which is a movement of people who believe this present truth, received the authority (exousia) from the Father.

But how is that possible? Doesn't this contradict the oath of the angel (Jesus) in Revelation 10 "that there should be time no more"?

Please take a look at the following table that explains what the meanings of the oaths of Jesus are in Daniel 12 (see Orion presentation) and Revelation 10. It also explains what the relation is between the prophecy (Book of Daniel) and the revelation (Book of Revelation). While Jesus in Daniel 12 raises both hands and vows to the two men who represent the two parts of humanity in the Judgment of the Dead who accepted the New Covenant before or after 31 AD, Jesus in Revelation 10 raises only one hand. In this case it is not only about the New Covenant, but about both parts of the Investigative Judgment: the Judgment of the Dead and the Judgment of the Living. Unfortunately, it has been completely overlooked that even a hand that was not lifted has meaning in prophecy, and that's why this scene was only interpreted half correctly:

	In Daniel 12 Jesus swears to	the righteous dead under the New Covenant before 31 AD	the righteous dead under the New Covenant after 31 AD	the righteous living after spring 2012
	In Daniel 12 Jesus swears that	the Judgment of the Dead would last 168 years for all those who would die under the New Covenant		the Judgment of the Living would last 3.5 years
	Revelation 10	One hand lifted		The other hand NOT lifted
	In Revelation 10 Jesus swears to	all the righteous in the Judgment of the Dead (autumn 1844 - autumn 2012)		all the righteous in the Judgment of the Living (the martyrs and the 144,000) (spring 2012 - autumn 2015)
	In Revelation 10 Jesus swears that	"there should be time no longer", i.e. for this group prophetic time proclamation is paused		NOTHING Jesus does not prohibit anything for this group which represents the Judgment of the Living, i.e. time is proclaimed anew

Ellen White said that the books of Daniel and Revelation must be studied together. The Book of Daniel was the "prophecy" and the book of Revelation was "the revelation of the prophecy of Daniel." We find the same scenes in both books. It is our job to find those parallel scenes and link them together. God tells us through Ellen White that He has added details in Revelation to the prophecies of Daniel which make it easier for us to decipher those prophecies. This is exactly the case in the scene where Jesus swears. In Daniel 12 we read:

But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased. (Daniel 12:4)

What a pity that our leaders and the general conferences along with their scholars reject these studies and do not participate in the process of increased knowledge. But let's drop that subject.

Jesus does not swear to the group which represents the Judgment of the Living for 3½ years "that there should be time no more." That means by implication, that the time proclamation is released again. It was paused because Jesus who knows the end from the beginning saw that the church would not be faithful, and would fail in some of their tests. He knew He would have to send His people into the wilderness for 120 years beyond 1890. And while wandering in the wilderness it would have been harmful and dangerous for the people to know that Jesus was still so far away. But now that the long journey of the Adventist Church in their wilderness wandering is over as of 2010, we are led to an oasis with the refreshing water of the Holy Spirit and time prophecy once again. And the Fourth Angel comes down from heaven with the cry, "The Bridegroom Cometh", to help the Third Angel; giving the Advent message the power of the AUTHORITY (exousia) of the FATHER.

Finally, we fully understand the "small" difference in the two visions of Ellen White that mention the announcement of the "day and the hour". We see that it is true that the time is announced at the outpouring of the latter rain also, and not just at the end of the time of the plagues when God delivers the eternal covenant and confirms our studies:

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

To refute once and for all the attacks of my critics who say that it is the same exact moment in both visions when Ellen White saw the time of Jesus' coming proclaimed, and that it would only be at the end of the plagues, I will show you something else that very few Adventists have recognized so far. The stubborn deniers of all new light are still attacking me despite my detailed explanations in the article Is This Time Setting?, and their only argument is that in both scenes "the faces of the saints shone with the glory of God." They say that the faces of the saints would only light up and shine once at the end of the time of the plagues through the glorification of the saints at Jesus' second coming. Because this statement occurs in both visions, they think that it is an irrefutable argument for their interpretation that the "day and hour" announced in both visions must be at the very same moment in time.

In the table below I put both statements side by side, which they claim would be irrefutable proof that it is the same moment in both visions:

First Vision Dec. 1844 with "Day and Hour"	Second Vision with "Day and Hour" 1847
Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EVV 14.1}	And as God spoke the day and the hour of Jesus' coming and delivered the everlasting covenant to His people, He spoke one sentence, and then paused, while the words were rolling through the earth. The Israel of God stood with their eyes fixed upward, listening to the words as they came from the mouth of Jehovah, and rolled through the earth like peals of loudest thunder. It was awfully solemn. And at the end of every sentence the saints shouted, "Glory! Alleluia!" Their countenances were lighted up with the glory of God; and they shone with the glory, as did the face of Moses when he came down from Sinai. {EW 34.1}

Either they don't know the writings of Ellen White very well, or they don't want to tell you the truth. Ellen White wrote a wonderful article in Volume 1 of her Testimonies for the Church, which even bears the appropriate title "The Future". It's about our future, brethren, and you will see that our faces indeed have to light up twice if we want to be among the 144,000:

The Future

At the transfiguration, Jesus was glorified by His Father. We hear Him say: "Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in Him." Thus before His betrayal and crucifixion He was strengthened for His last dreadful sufferings. As the members of the body of Christ approach the period of their last conflict, "the time of Jacob's trouble," they will grow up into Christ, and will partake largely of His spirit. As the third message swells to a loud cry, and as great power and glory attend the closing work, the faithful people of God will partake of that glory. {1T 353.3}

We already know which power (exousia) and which glory (the glory of the throne of God in Orion) is mentioned here. The message of the Fourth Angel "attends the closing work", which means that probation is still not closed! And as I say many times, this message helps the unmotivated brethren... Ellen White goes on to explain the future:

It is the latter rain which revives and strengthens them to pass through the time of trouble. Their faces will shine with the glory of that light which attends the third angel. {1T 353.3}

There it is, the shining of the faces with the glory that "attends" the Third Angel. Please read that sentence several times until you are really sure you understand what Ellen Whites says. It is the light of the Fourth Angel's message that lights up the faces of the 144,000 specifically in the period of the latter rain, and not just in the time of the plagues. This is the sought-after inspired proof that the beginning of the Orion study was absolutely correct and that everything that was written in the article "Is this time setting" has been shown in its correct sequence. In order to reach the 100% mark, we should be able to find in the course of "our future" that our faces will light up once more. So, let's continue reading. Now we leave the little time of trouble and go directly to the great time of trouble:

I saw that God will in a wonderful manner preserve His people through the time of trouble. As Jesus poured out His soul in agony in the garden, they will earnestly cry and agonize day and night for deliverance. The decree will go forth that they must disregard the Sabbath of the fourth commandment, and honor the first day, or lose their lives; but they will not yield, and trample under their feet the Sabbath of the Lord, and honor an institution of papacy. Satan's host and wicked men will surround them, and exult over them, because there will seem to be no way of escape for them. But in the midst of their revelry and triumph, there is heard peal upon peal of the loudest thunder. The heavens have gathered blackness, and are only illuminated by the blazing light and terrible glory from heaven, as God utters His voice from His holy habitation.

The foundations of the earth shake; buildings totter and fall with a terrible crash. The sea boils like a pot, and the whole earth is in terrible commotion. The captivity of the righteous is turned, and with sweet and solemn whisperings they say to one another: "We are delivered. It is the voice of God." With solemn awe they listen to the words of the voice. The wicked hear, but understand not the words of the voice of God. They fear and tremble, while the saints rejoice. Satan and his angels, and wicked men, who had been exulting that the people of God were in their power, that they might destroy them from off the earth, witness the glory conferred upon those who have honored the holy law of God. They behold the faces of the righteous lighted up and reflecting the image of Jesus. Those who were so eager to destroy the saints cannot endure the glory resting upon the delivered ones, and they fall like dead men to the earth. Satan and evil angels flee from the presence of the saints glorified. Their power to annoy them is gone forever. {1T 353.4-354.1}

The 144,000 living saints already understand the voice of God from the time of the latter rain beginning in 2010. They are the ones whose faces light up with joy and hope after wandering 120 years in the wilderness because of the refreshing from the throne of God and the wonderful message coming from the most beautiful of all star constellations that only the Creator could create in such a way. These are the ones who will be sealed now to sound the Loud Cry, and at the end of the time of trouble their faces will light up a second time, reflecting the image of Jesus who was always their Advocate, Intercessor, and Saviour, when He comes in all His glory and delivers the everlasting covenant to His people.

With this newly acquired biblical and prophetic knowledge, in the next article in this "Day and Hour" series we should examine the statements that Ellen White has written against time setting to harmonize them with everything we have studied thus far. I will categorize the anti-time-setting arguments of Ellen White and comment on them. Many of them have been quoted again and again rashly and without a deep understanding so that the light of the Fourth Angel is being obscured for most of the members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Their faces will remain pale and colorless when the day of God's wrath will come upon them like a thief.

A Word of Advice

On January 9, 2013, I received a message from a brother that gave me the opportunity to finally sit down and do the homework to give a tutoring session to those of you who still cannot correctly classify the anti-time-setting quotes of Ellen White. Actually, anyone who has thought about the Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time should think about Ellen White's quotations regarding time-setting even deeper, to not use them blindly. First I quote the letter from this brother, and afterward the answer that I sent him yesterday. Since he is the editor of a conservative Adventist magazine, I asked for permission to give his name, and he agreed. We thank him for the courage.

Mail from Erich Schultze to John Scotram on January 9, 2013

Subject: A word of advice

Dear Brother Scotram:

Today the editor of the "Voice of the Remnant," your brother in faith Erich Schultze, writes you once more in order to give you brotherly counsel.

God has given you good skills, as expressed e.g. in your very valuable essay about the lunar Sabbaths and astronomical calculations, as well as the confirmation of basic Adventist teachings. Also your vivid and humorous style of writing had spoken to me.

Nevertheless, I already saw at first glance that you were on the wrong track on the Orion question and time-setting. Ellen White warned against time-fixing several times, a selection of which you can find at the end in the attachment. You'll probably say that you already know all that, and as it always happens, unfortunately, say that it was not meant that way, etc., etc.

Therefore, and because I had already read similar rebuttals on your homepage, I was already sure that the quotes from Ellen White would hardly impress you. If I only read the title of Selected Messages, book 1, chapter 23, page 187 (German edition) [English, page 185] "Beware of Any Time Setting", at least for me, the case is perfectly clear, and I mean, you are unfortunately on the wrong track. Well - a red light can be overlooked in the heat of the moment and if you're already quite involved in the matter.

Since you had determined for yourself that in 2012 something special was going to happen in the world - there was talk of fireballs - I wanted to wait for 2012 to be sure that this prediction would not come true. Now we are in the year 2013. After visiting your website, I expected an explanation of why the event did not happen, hoping that you would now admit your mistake, but the time was extended to the year 2013. Now this is the second red light, which you are obviously overlooking.

And then your own account about the alleged Prophet Ernie Knoll, who would not acknowledge you and of whom you would have discovered many shortcomings. This is the third red light.

Dear Brother Scotram, I beg you, wake up at last. Unfortunately, you have not followed the clear statements of the Spirit of Prophecy, you have not taken your consequence from your wrong prediction and you still try to grasp at the straws of Ernie Knoll's dreams, even though it is more than obvious that he is anything but a prophet of God.

So many times I was confronted with brethren who talked about their dreams, impressions and feelings, supposedly from God, with peculiar views conflicting with the Bible. Satan wants to keep us from the real work of God and the proclamation of the three angels' messages, and give us exciting feelings and intoxicating false ideas. Not only ourselves, but also others are drawn in and affected and ultimately comes the collapse. Do you really want even the year 2013 to expire and then still wait the year 2014 and then what? It would be a shame to see you and those who have taken the same wrong path to perish. The only one who rubs his hands, is the one who promised Eve divine knowledge. The question to you and me is: can we see that we are just poor sinners before God, and fall short of the glory we should have with God – just as the tax collector in prayer before God? And do we give Him our hearts on a daily basis, so that the Holy Spirit changes us more and more into the image of Jesus?

We could both work together for the glory of God in giving the three angels' messages and sounding the Loud Cry with great joy and holy zeal, but how long do I have to wait for you?

I hope you are not upset because of my frank words, but it hurts my soul that you always continue to run toward disaster. May God be near you and give insight and a new beginning.

With my best wishes,
Your brother in the Lord
Erich Schultze

[Author's note: The mail attachment included the anti-time-setting quotes, which are now all re-published in my reply. Therefore, they will not be quoted here again.]

Reply from John Scotram to Erich Schultze on January 10, 2013

Dear Brother Erich Schultze,

First, a heart-felt thank you for your mail with the subject "A word of advice." As I could gather from your respectful and caring lines, you really are concerned about my/our salvation and do not despise new light from the outset. This is to your great credit, as it is not the norm these days. I express my thanks to you in particular for the fact that through your polite writing you give me the opportunity to finally respond to the recurring anti-time-setting arguments of my/our opponents, which are usually delivered in very rude form, but which I would like to address now in a brotherly and analytical way, if you don't mind.

On slide 128 of the Orion study, I wrote about the Laodicean character: "They are those who use texts against these studies because of time-setting, which they did not even understand because they are spiritually poor, blind and naked. They do not look for the truth because they think they have already grasped everything with their own brilliant minds."

Now I would like to show you which church of Revelation you (unfortunately still) belong to...

You send me a few quotes from Ellen White in relation to "time setting" and turn them against my studies without understanding the time in which we live and what Ellen White's true task was. I will also show you that you and many others are just SDA-extras in the heavenly theater of the "Great Controversy," although you should be true Adventists again.

You take your first quote from "Early Writings":

The Lord has shown me that the message of the third angel must go, and be proclaimed to the scattered children of the Lord, but it must not be hung on time. I saw that some were getting a false excitement, arising from preaching time; but the third angel's message is stronger than time can be. I saw that this message can stand on its own foundation and needs not time to strengthen it; and that it will go in mighty power, and do its work, and will be cut short in righteousness. {EW 75.1}

To understand this and many other quotes, one must continue to read instead of tearing it out of context. When we do that, we learn that this quote comes from a vision that Ellen White received in 1851. Here is the rest of what she wrote:

"I saw some were making everything bend to this next fall; that is, making their calculations, and disposing of their property in reference to that time. I saw that this was wrong for this reason: instead of going to God daily, and earnestly desiring to know their present duty, they looked ahead, and made their calculations as though they knew that the work would end this fall, without inquiring their duty of God daily.

E. G. White. "Copied at Milton, June 29, 1851, A. A. G." {1SM 188.4-189.1}

Now we need to place this quote in its proper time-frame and understand that the entire time of the third angel's message is divided into two main sections:

1. The time before 1888-1890 when the church still had the opportunity to go directly to heaven, and
2. The period after 1890, after the church had missed its chance and had to wander in the wilderness again.

Accordingly, Haskell's quote of Ellen G. White says:

"I saw that Jones and Waggoner had their counterpart in Joshua and Caleb. As the children of Israel stoned the spies with literal stones, you have stoned these brethren with stones of sarcasm and ridicule. I saw that you willfully rejected what you knew to be truth, just because it was too humiliating to your dignity. I saw some of you in your tents mimicking and making all manner of fun of these two brethren. I also saw that if you had accepted their message, we would have been in the kingdom two years from that date, but now we have to go back into the wilderness and there stay forty years."

Written from Melbourne, Australia, May 9, 1892.

This quote is often attacked by the BRI, but it comes from a sincere source. Here is the opinion of the anti-time-setters about this:

In the Union Conference Record in 1899, Steven N. Haskell, a long-time friend and supporter of Ellen White wrote in an article entitled "The Third Angel's Message," as follows: "Do you think we are in the last days? We are in the last days of the very last generation. We are ten years in the loud cry of the Third Angel's Message. There is a testimony in the Bulletin, published in 1892, which says: 'If the people of God had gone to work as they should have gone to work right after the Minneapolis meeting in 1888, the world could have been warned in two years, and the Lord would have come.' God designed to close the work just in proportion as His people felt the importance and sacredness of the work and the zeal with which they took hold of it."

Many scholars would be quick to point out that Haskell must have got it wrong because there was no General Conference Bulletin published in 1892. Although he did get his source wrong, it is hard to believe that someone as prominent in the Church as Haskell would have fabricated a lie and attributed to Ellen White something she never said or wrote. This one thing we do know from the quotes we have already looked at, Ellen White certainly believed that by 1896, God's people could have been in the Promised Land if they had been faithful.

Finally, by 1901, Ellen White wrote the following: "We may have to remain here in this world because of insubordination many more years, as did the children of Israel; but for Christ's sake, His people should not add sin to sin by charging God with the consequence of their own wrong course of action.--Letter 184, 1901." (Excerpt from Chapter 8 of "Prophetic Parallels" by Adrian Welsh available at www.4hispeople.info)

It should be clear to you that the Adventist Church has fulfilled the type of the Israelites under Moses during the Exodus, who also missed their first chance to enter into Canaan.

Shall we also miss our second chance, because of misapplied and misinterpreted quotes of Ellen White, that were given by God for a specific time and purpose?

The vision itself, from which all Ellen White anti-time-setting quotations are derived, is dated 1851, a time BEFORE Minneapolis, when the Adventist Church should have gone to heaven with the third angel's message alone, through the powerful and concise gift of "Justification by Faith" brought by Waggoner and Jones.

Ellen White said:

...that it [the message] will go with mighty power, and do its work, and will be CUT SHORT in righteousness. {ISM 188.3}

God spoke clearly about two messages in this vision of Ellen White: 1. the Three Angels' message (it [the message]) that should be brought to a sudden end, by 2. the message of Waggoner and Jones (Righteousness by Faith).

We all know from the bitter experiences of the messenger of God herself that this did NOT come to pass.

The critics of Ellen G. White from the ranks of Adventism's enemies make the same mistake by not putting many of the quotes of the messenger of God in their temporal context and they don't see the two large periods of time before and after Minneapolis. Thus they cannot understand that some of the prophecies of the Spirit of Prophecy were clearly conditional and related to the case that the people would have accomplished their God-given duties in the right way and the right time (before 1890).

Here are some well-known examples from the compilation "Last Day Events":

Ellen White Expected Christ's Return in Her Day

I was shown the company present at the Conference. Said the angel: "Some food for worms, some subjects of the seven last plagues, some will be alive and remain upon the earth to be translated at the coming of Jesus."—Testimonies For The Church 1:131, 132 (1856). {LDE 36.3}

Because time is short, we should work with diligence and double energy. Our children may never enter college.—Testimonies for the Church 3:159 (1872). {LDE 36.4}

It is really not wise to have children now. Time is short, the perils of the last days are upon us, and the little children will be largely swept off before this.—Letter 48, 1876. {LDE 36.5}

In this age of the world, as the scenes of earth's history are soon to close and we are about to enter upon the time of trouble such as never was, the fewer the marriages contracted the better for all, both men and women.—Testimonies for the Church 5:366 (1885). {LDE 37.1}

The hour will come; it is not far distant, and some of us who now believe will be alive upon the earth, and shall see the prediction verified, and hear the voice of the archangel and the trump of

God echo from mountain and plain and sea to the uttermost parts of the earth.—The Review and Herald, July 31, 1888. {LDE 37.2}

The time of test is just upon us, for the loud cry of the third angel has already begun in the revelation of the righteousness of Christ, the sin-pardoning Redeemer.—Selected Messages 1:363 (1892). {LDE 37.3}

The title of this section is "Ellen White Expected Christ's Return in Her Day" which clearly turned out to be a false expectation. These unfulfilled prophecies are often used by opponents against Ellen White. To defend her against the charge of being a false prophet, the reasons for these unfulfilled prophecies are given in the same book:

The Delay Explained

The long night of gloom is trying, but the morning is deferred in mercy, because if the Master should come so many would be found unready.—Testimonies for the Church 2:194 (1868).

Had Adventists after the great disappointment in 1844 held fast their faith and followed on unitedly in the opening providence of God, receiving the message of the third angel and in the power of the Holy Spirit proclaiming it to the world, they would have seen the salvation of God, the Lord would have wrought mightily with their efforts, the work would have been completed, and Christ would have come ere this to receive His people to their reward.... It was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be thus delayed....

For forty years did unbelief, murmuring, and rebellion shut out ancient Israel from the land of Canaan. The same sins have delayed the entrance of modern Israel into the heavenly Canaan. In neither case were the promises of God at fault. It is the unbelief, the worldliness, unconsecration, and strife among the Lord's professed people that have kept us in this world of sin and sorrow so many years.—Evangelism, 695, 696 (1883).

Had the church of Christ done her appointed work as the Lord ordained, the whole world would before this have been warned and the Lord Jesus would have come to our earth in power and great glory.—The Desire of Ages, 633, 634 (1898). {LDE 37.4–38.2}

The vision of 1851, which—as already mentioned—ALL Ellen G. White anti-time-setting statements are based on, clearly came before 1888–1890 and predicted a good outcome and a shortening of the work. The condition itself which you omitted from your quotation was given in the second part of the vision:

"I saw some were making everything bend to this next fall; that is, making their calculations, and disposing of their property in reference to that time. I saw that this was wrong for this reason: instead of going to God daily, and earnestly desiring to know their present duty, they looked ahead, and made their calculations as though they knew that the work would end this fall, without inquiring their duty of God daily.

E. G. White. "Copied at Milton, June 29, 1851, A. A. G." {ISM 188.4–189.1}

Here you can clearly see that the vision was given because of the misconduct of some of the Adventists of that time. The vision has a unique time context for the autumn of 1851. It cannot be simply carried into our own time, partly because of the major disappointment of 1890 and partly because we are already in the time of the latter rain after the big 120-year (3 × 40) wilderness wandering of the unfaithful Advent people.

The failure of the former generation of Adventists was that they were not "going to God daily, and earnestly desiring to know their present duty" and in "looking ahead" they only had the future in mind. They did not ask God every day what He expected from them and they did not realize that the work could have been finished without a further time message if only they had faithfully preached the third angel's message.

The vision thus shows that the work could have been "cut short" and that the third angel's message would have succeeded without the preaching of time IF the church had remained faithful. The full Fourth Angel's message would not have been necessary.

Our research has even shown that the tribulation would have also been cut short and no YEAR of plagues would have taken place. This can be readily seen from the fact that in 1888, Sunday laws were already in place but there were not three-a-half years' time until the fall of 1890. Christ created the earth in six days, and therefore He can and would have also destroyed it in 6 days.

So if we look at Ellen White's anti-time-setting quotes, we must never lose sight of the purpose for which and the period during which they were written, or we will make the same mistake as the opponents of Ellen White and Adventism, and run the risk of not only making her a false prophet but abusing and misinterpreting the statements to our own destruction.

Those who do not consider these circumstances but use the quotes of Ellen White with blind and prejudiced fanaticism against the now necessary light of the Fourth Angel (of the Holy Spirit in the latter rain) do not heed the warning of the Apostle Peter, and they do with Ellen White what many do with Paul to attack Adventism based on his statements about the (ceremonial) Sabbaths and the (supposedly allowed) eating of meat:

*And account that the longsuffering of our Lord is salvation; even as our beloved brother Paul also according to the wisdom given unto him hath written unto you; As also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things; in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction.

However, Ellen G. White received not only a conditional prophecy of the entrance of the Advent people to the heavenly Canaan for 1890 which failed, but she also saw what would have to happen if the light of the Fourth Angel must come to the rescue in the latter rain of the third angel's message if the Lord's Plan A would fail on account of the stubbornness of His people and a long journey through the desert would have to ensue:

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound everywhere, "Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning, proclaiming the fall of Babylon and calling upon God's people to come out of her that they might escape her fearful doom. {EW 277.2}

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

Those who do not receive the latter rain do not understand the voice of God and mistake the time announcement for "thunder". This is a very serious warning to the anti-time-setters, given as of Ellen G. White's very first vision in December 1844!

During my very detailed study of the relevant quotes of Ellen White over the last seven years, I noticed that the same apparent contradiction in the quotes of Ellen White about time-setting also exists in the Bible itself in the same way.

Just compare these:

But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father. (Mark 13:32)

Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:3)

Any serious Bible student should realize that they must harmonize the Bible with itself in order to avoid ultimately discarding it entirely. You must always put the quotes in their proper logical and historical context, otherwise you suffer shipwreck, sinking beneath the waves of confusion.

The whole Advent Movement is a movement which started with time-setters and their successors, among whom was also Ellen Harmon (White). In the first Midnight Cry they experienced a disappointment, but it resulted in a flood of light: the sanctuary doctrine. Only those who enter into the sanctuary are able to experience the light of the Fourth Angel, and after 1844 only those who enter the Holy of Holies will be with Jesus in the Kingdom. The Advent people would have to learn from their history, and especially from their terrible mistake in 1888-1890. It was good for them not to know during their lonely desert wandering when it would end, so that no one would repeat the mistake of 1888 and look only at the future. However, there would come a time when the Midnight Cry must be repeated, because through apostasy the third angel's message had lost the strength with which it could have stood alone in 1888-1890. There had to come a revival and reformation that would surpass the Midnight Cry of 1844, and this would only be possible through the work of the Holy Spirit Himself.

In The Great Controversy, Ellen White wrote that the Millerites had found a logical and correct explanation for the apparent contradiction between the warnings of Jesus in the Bible with respect to time and their announcing of the time in the Midnight Cry which supposedly even the Lord Himself did not know.

“No man knoweth the day nor the hour” was the argument most often brought forward by rejecters of the advent faith. The scripture is: “Of that day and hour knoweth no man, no not the angels of heaven, but My Father only.” Matthew 24:36. A clear and harmonious explanation of this text was given by those who were looking for the Lord, and the wrong use made of it by their opponents was clearly shown. {GC 370.2}

Although Ellen White says later in the passage that the exact date was not known but only the knowledge of the nearness of the coming of Jesus, which for her time was the correct conviction, we must not forget what she confirmed with her statement: namely, that Miller and his "naughty" time-setting companions, especially with Samuel Snow who had really set the day and the hour to October 22, 1844, had given a clear and correct interpretation of these Bible texts. Thus the many arguments of the anti-time-setters collapse, because Ellen White confirms that there is a correct interpretation of this passage which allows it to state that the day and the hour can be known.

The proper harmonization of this apparent contradiction in the Bible can be reached in the same way that all the other contradictions are solved: one just needs to put the passages in their proper context and temporal setting, identify the target audience and the purpose of the statement, and then the apparent fog of logical contradictions disperses.

If you do that, you can see that it was 2000 years ago when Jesus said to His disciples that even He did not know the time of His coming. It seems inconceivable to us that Jesus, who is Himself God, and is now before His Father in the Most Holy Place performing the priestly service and sitting on the right hand of His throne, still has not been informed by His Father. To believe that is ridiculous and even stupid!

So, we have to assume that during His ministry as a human, Jesus did not know the hour, and this for good reason:

When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel? And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power. (Acts 1:6-7)

No, it was not for the first disciples to know the time. It would have been a shocking experience for them to know that the Lord would not have come for nearly another 2000 years, and it would have jeopardized their mission to the utmost.

But Jesus skillfully and simultaneously answered what was pertinent to them, and when the time would come that the day and hour could be known:

But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. (Acts 1:8)

Their task and ours is to witness to the world and this will be done in the power of the Holy Spirit, but at a certain time this Power will guide us into all truth and PROCLAIM THE TIME to us. This is where the present-day "Adventists" like to stop reading and cut short the quote:

Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. (John 16:13)

The Holy Spirit is thus showing the future, and when will this moment be? It was not during the outpouring of the early rain at Pentecost in 31 A.D., but the outpouring of the latter rain since 2010 and in increasing manner since January 2013, as we will show in further studies on our website.

It was not even for us to know the exact date of the actual return until January 2013. We had to make the same mistake as the Millerites by being a year too early, so that the people would be warned even more urgently. We would not delay the day too long, like it is said in another statement from Ellen White that you quote. We would be mistaken by only one year, like what already happened once before.

In all arguments against time-setting, you overlook the time in which we live and in which Ellen White lived and what task she had to fulfill. That is why you apply her statements in a wrong manner. We are no longer in front of a wilderness journey of 120 years and we also cannot fulfill the task of giving the third angel's message without the power of the Holy Spirit and another Midnight Cry, because we are part of a devastated and deteriorated Adventist church which has nothing to do with the church in 1888. We need His words which show us the future so that we might wake up and start sounding the Loud Cry with power. Anyone who overlooks this not only endangers the church but also the entire mission which Jesus has given us to do, and this means that not only the whole universe, but even God Himself would be subdued by Satan in this final phase of the Great Judgment.

Do you want to risk that and continue to consider my astronomical calculations just "skillful" without verifying the biblical evidence? Will you continue to claim that nothing happened in 2012, even though you yourself wrote in your journal about the persecution that started against faithful servants of the third angel's message like Walter Veith and Hugo Gambetta in exactly the timeframe displayed by Orion for the fifth seal?

How blind must someone be, to not realize that our knowledge as students of the light of the Fourth Angel keeps growing, and that not everything which this light encompasses has been identified yet? That is why we are always getting more precise in reading the two great clocks of God.

One of our next articles will make it abundantly clear that we do not just "look ahead", but that our mission was and is to show the history of the Advent people and their deviation from the plan of God, and even to solve all the time riddles in the Bible with the help of the Holy Spirit. This light began to shine when we realized that we can know not only the date of the death of Jesus on the cross, but even His birthday as a human being, and the creation of Adam to the very day. This knowledge unlocks the entire Bible, and we now understand why only time intervals are given in the Bible but no dates, making it impossible to date the exact chronological course of Bible history even for thousands of scholars. One day, the Holy Spirit would declare not only the future with the day of the coming of Jesus, but would guide us into ALL truth in regard to time.

This truth and the solution to the great biblical questions by a perfect harmony of sabbatical years, jubilee years, and the God-given data in the Scriptures, was the birthday gift that Jesus planned for His true church on October 27, 2012. The Seventh-day Adventist Church, however, rejected this birthday present and preferred to open the deceitfully-wrapped present from the Pope containing the "Creation Sabbath". Will you copy them even though you trust so much in God's guidance through the Spirit of Prophecy, or wouldn't you rather sit down with me and reconsider the quotes of Ellen White and put them into their proper context?

Search the Bible for "books" which are described as not having been deciphered and you will find that there are only two books: The Book of Seven Seals that Jesus began to open in 1846, and the Book of Seven Thunders, which had not yet been written. The Book of Seven Seals is now almost entirely open before us in Orion, but only recently did we come to the point of being able to interpret it correctly. This was planned by God and was not an error of the time-setters. The Book of Seven Thunders, however, was not yet written by John the Revelator because the sun and moon had to follow first their courses from 1841 to 2012, so we could see it written in front of us.

All of these wonderful and profound interpretations are completely overlooked by the anti-time-setters and anti-Adventists. They do not see the glory of God. They do not really enter the Holiest of Holies where Jesus would teach them by His Spirit, and they also do not know what it means to cooperate with God.

They insist on their own obscured (or dark) understanding of the writings of God's messenger, who was sent to prepare a failing and ultimately failed people for a long journey through the wilderness, and finally for a terrible punishment (the fireballs). Only those who recognize that God does nothing without informing His prophets really know God and are His true children. They recognize that He always gives the time before great destruction comes because He does not change and this corresponds to His loving nature. God will not change His character at the conclusion of the work; He has always acted on the principle of progressive time revelation and He continues to do so today.

With this knowledge, let's begin to examine each quote you shared:

From the vision of 1851 in Early Writings

The Lord showed me that the message must go, and that it must not be hung on time; for time will never be a test again. I saw that some were getting a false excitement, arising from preaching time, that the third angel's message can stand on its own foundation, and that it needs not time to strengthen it, and that it will go with mighty power, and do its work, and will be cut short in righteousness. {ISM 188.3}

Yes, the Lord showed Ellen White in 1851 that the three angels' messages were not to depend on a specific date, because the people were destined to go to heaven in 1890 without the full light of the Fourth Angel. The work was to be "cut short" by the message of "Righteousness by Faith" brought by Waggoner and Jones. If that would have happened, then the time would never have become a test again and the message for the people "would not have needed time to strengthen it."

It did not happen that way, so the Midnight Cry needed to be repeated to give power to the people like in the first Midnight Cry.

The rest of the vision:

"I saw some were making everything bend to this next fall; that is, making their calculations, and disposing of their property in reference to that time. I saw that this was wrong for this reason: instead of going to God daily, and earnestly desiring to know their present duty, they looked ahead, and made their calculations as though they knew that the work would end this fall, without inquiring their duty of God daily.

E. G. White. "Copied at Milton, June 29, 1851, A. A. G." {ISM 188.4-189.1}

It was a vision for a wayward group of Adventists who were incorrectly setting the time in the autumn of 1851, and it states the reasons which reveal a wrong motivation of those involved. Our community sincerely asks God daily what our duty is at every single moment. None of us has ever since his baptism neglected to preach the three angels' messages in their entirety. We all follow the health message and the dress code and left the "cities" to live a life in the country, which is what Ellen White counseled.

The daily question about the will of God resulted in God preparing a group of people for a long time to become His mouthpiece. Some of our members saw our studies or our farm in symbolic form through dreams a long time before our paths crossed or they ever knew of us. When they read the studies, sometimes they already knew that they are from God. Then they contacted us to study with us and we checked them with the Bible. Some received dreams and visions from God, as Ellen G. White did, each time we come to a point in our studies where we are unable to progress on our own. Finally, some were instructed by God to come to us to Paraguay and we have warmly received them.

Not only have our studies been given by the Holy Spirit, but He also confirmed our latest articles and the articles that explain the 1335, 1290 and 1260 days. We also received the confirmation that we had received the candlestick when we passed it on the 20th day of our symbolic journey to the Holiest of Holies from the outer court of the heavenly sanctuary.

Through the Holy Spirit we learned the date when the latter rain began to be poured out on others to a greater extent. A short time later, on the eve of the Sabbath of January 5, 2013, the entire group was given the light that our calculations thus far contained an error of exactly one year. Like Sister White had once seen in vision, the Lord deliberately held his hand over this error so that we would warn the SDA Church before their grace period ended, which we did in the spring of 2012 according to the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

In our calculations we had not considered the year of plagues to be separate from the Judgment of the Living, so we had overlooked the fact that there are two overlapping time periods for the Judgment of the Living and the Time of Trouble, which both occupy three and a half years. The time of trouble consists of the small time of trouble and the great time of trouble, and only the great time of trouble includes the plagues. All of this is exactly displayed in Orion and the Vessel of Time; we had only committed a reading error, and that because of divine will.

Because we daily seek God's will and were ready to leave the convenience of our homes, and many of us even their families, to serve the cause of God, on January 5, 2013 we received all the light on the time message and started to amend the relevant articles and studies according to God's instruction. We wondered if this might have something to do with the sealing (see {EW.14.1}), because obviously so far we hadn't known the day and hour, even though we thought so. None of us, however, had previously claimed to be sealed! That is something no one of us would presume without divine confirmation.

Last night, on January 9, 2013, we happened to find that this was all a fulfillment of a prophecy of Ellen G. White, which many did not even recognize as a prophecy...

At the commencement of the holy Sabbath, January 5, 1849, we engaged in prayer with Brother Belden's family at Rocky Hill, Connecticut, and the Holy Ghost fell upon us. I was taken off in vision to the most holy place, where I saw Jesus still interceding for Israel. On the bottom of His garment was a bell and a pomegranate. Then I saw that Jesus would not leave the most holy place until every case was decided either for salvation or destruction, and that the wrath of God could not come until Jesus had finished His work in the most holy place, laid off His priestly attire, and clothed Himself with the garments of vengeance. Then Jesus will step out from between the Father and man, and God will keep silence no longer, but pour out His wrath on those who have rejected His truth. I saw that the anger of the nations, the wrath of God, and the time to judge the dead were separate and distinct, one following the other, also that Michael had not stood up, and that the time of trouble, such as never was, had not yet commenced. The nations are now getting angry, but when our High Priest has finished His work in the sanctuary, He will stand up, put on the garments of vengeance, and then the seven last plagues will be poured out. {EW 36.1}

Although we all knew this vision, we had still included the plagues in the three-a-half-year period of the Judgment of the Living, and we can only explain this today by the fact that God had really kept His hand over this issue.

Note the date of the vision: It was January 5, 1849, exactly 164 years before January 5, 2013, when we got the light on this aspect of the time, and were thus able to finally see the exact day of the coming of Jesus. The time difference between the vision of Ellen White and the coming of Jesus in the fall of 2016 is exactly 168 years in the Jewish way of counting, and corresponds to the 168 years that were found in the vision of Daniel 12, which is what provided the key to deciphering the Orion Clock.

The last paragraph of this vision of Ellen G. White is as follows:

I asked my accompanying angel the meaning of what I heard, and what the four angels were about to do. He said to me that it was God that restrained the powers, and that He gave His angels charge over things on the earth; that the four angels had power from God to hold the four winds, and that they were about to let them go; but while their hands were loosening, and the four winds were about to blow, the merciful eye of Jesus gazed on the remnant that were not sealed, and He raised His hands to the Father and pleaded with Him that He had spilled His blood for them. Then another angel was commissioned to fly swiftly to the four angels and bid them hold, until the servants of God were sealed with the seal of the living God in their foreheads. {EW 38.2}

A "remnant" is spoken of "that were not sealed." Consequently, on January 5, 2013 which fulfilled this prophetic vision of Ellen G. White there must have been a group of people that day that were sealed. Thus, our question was answered as to whether we now knew the correct date. It was also finally answered whether or not we had been accepted as the "jury in the courtroom of God," for Ellen G. White even called this famous vision "The Sealing."

Who would have shining faces, if not the ones having these experiences with God?

Soon we [see Appendix.] heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai.

The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. {EW 14.1-15.1}

On our foreheads is written:

1. "God" our Father, for whom we have vowed to witness, and for whom we have given up everything.
2. "New Jerusalem" in the open space in Orion, where our home is, and whereto we will soon be traveling with Jesus.
3. And we know the "glorious star containing Jesus' new name," Alnitak.

Are these the people of whom Ellen White says in her anti-time-setting vision of June 1851:

Instead of going to God daily, and earnestly desiring to know their present duty, they looked ahead, and made their calculations as though they knew that the work would end this fall, without inquiring their duty of God daily. {1SM 188.4}

We must not make the mistake of tearing quotes away from their temporal context to apply them to groups of people who were not in any way the target audience of the text. We will soon write more in the Gift of Prophecy section about the restoration of the Spirit of Prophecy in our midst through the sons and daughters and the servants and handmaidens (Acts 2:17). You are wrong to say that Ernie Knoll was a false prophet from the beginning. Because of pride and greed, he did not fulfill his mission and has placed himself over God, like Satan did. Ernie Knoll fits the Biblical type of Balaam, who wanted to curse the people but could only pronounce blessings. So Ernie Knoll had worked a long time for God, but when he grew vain his dreams became mingled with messages of Satan. Discernment had to be exercised. On a specific day in 2010, Ernie Knoll had the last dream which was completely from God, but up to this day his dreams still contain certain blessings for us. Then he surrendered himself more and more to his new master. Therefore, another group of people was appointed in God's service that received dreams and visions by the Holy Spirit after he had received that last dream that contained an error-free message for us. Nothing happens by chance in God's plan, and everything happens according to the great holy Clock of Time, which we are privileged to read.

The question of the end of probation

Letters have come to me asking me if I have any special light as to the time when probation will close; and I answer that I have only this message to bear, that it is now time to work while the day lasts, for the night cometh in which no man can work. Now, just now, it is time for us to be watching, working, and waiting.... But there is no command for anyone to search the Scripture in order to ascertain, if possible, when probation will close. God has no such message for any mortal lips. He would have no mortal tongue declare that which He has hidden in His secret councils. —The Review and Herald, October 9, 1894. {1SM 191.2}

Your second quote falls by the same rationale, with a few more considerations. This time we are in the period after 1890 after the major disappointment of Minneapolis had already taken place. The Adventist Church was guilty of having missed the mark as far as going to the Kingdom was concerned. Ellen G. White was even "banished" to Australia and had to endure the hostility of the brethren. Many who were still on her side remembered her prophecies of a quick, cut-short end and wanted to know what was going on, so they inquired about the end of probation. Ellen

G. White came under increasing pressure because in 1894 she already realized that the church would probably not enter into the heavenly Canaan for a long and indefinite time. This weighed heavily on her. She could no longer comfort the people, but had to preach what God had said: "I have only one message to proclaim"... "it is not for you to know the times or seasons which the Father has put in his power."

And yet... the Lord gave her words of consolation for those who understand how to interpret prophetic statements correctly.

She said that now was the "day" in which they were to work: The heavenly day of 168 years for the Judgment of the Dead. The "night, when no one can work" refers to the great time of trouble. And in between is the little time of trouble which overlaps with the Judgment of the Living, during which those who are sealed, by definition, will no longer be "mortal". Indeed, no "mortal tongue" ever proclaims the correct time of the second coming of Jesus, which God the Father only reveals to His jury, keeping it secret from all others which will only hear thunder. We were also still "mortals" until January 5, 2013, since we had not proclaimed the right time due to the fact that our study included a tiny error of exactly one year. If we can believe that we are one of the 144,000, then we are by definition no longer mortal, because this group of people will not see death before Jesus comes and takes them to the Holy City:

Moses was present to represent those who will be raised from the dead at the second appearing of Jesus. And Elijah, who was translated without seeing death, represented those who will be changed to immortality at Christ's second coming and will be translated to heaven without seeing death. The disciples beheld with astonishment and fear the excellent majesty of Jesus and the cloud that overshadowed them, and heard the voice of God in terrible majesty, saying, "This is My beloved Son; hear Him." {EW 164.3}

Is it presumptuous of us to assume that we are now one of the 144,000? In general, can a person ever know that he is one of the 144,000?

Ellen G. White answers that question decisively:

It is not His will that they shall get into controversy over questions which will not help them spiritually, such as, Who is to compose the hundred and forty-four thousand? This those who are the elect of God will in a short time know without question.—Selected Messages 1:174 (1901). {LDE 269.1}

As we have learned, the sealing is knowing the time, and the seal itself is "God, New Jerusalem and the star containing the new name of Jesus." Those who know the new name of Jesus and call upon it (bear it on their forehead) are sealed.

Satan has a counter-doctrine against every new light from God to obscure the new light so that it cannot penetrate into the hearts of men.

Satan has been stirring up the winds of doctrine against the person of the Holy Spirit in the last few years and there has been a revival of anti-Trinitarianism in our ranks like never before. The Message of the Fourth Angel is precisely the message of Christ, delivered by the Person of the Holy Spirit. Orion and the Vessel of Time both show the triple throne of God. Orion does so through the three belt stars and the Vessel of Time by the year triplets. Anyone who denies the Person of the Holy Spirit cannot accept these studies.

The teaching of the feast-keepers among us, who argue that we must keep the Jewish holy days again in order to be sealed, darkens the light that the fulfillment of the feast days is the noblest way of observing the holy days. Jesus fulfilled the spring feasts through His death on the cross, thereby doing away with all holding of the feasts, and He replaced it with the Lord's Supper. He is above the feast days that He Himself instituted, because He fulfilled part of it. He was the forerunner of Hebrews 6:20 and we follow after Him as Adventists fulfilling the heavenly Day of Atonement since 1844. However, it is left for the last generation to fulfill the rest of the fall feasts. This is especially shown in the Vessel of Time where God showed that the Feast of Trumpets was fulfilled by the Midnight Cry of the Millerite movement and that the Day of Atonement was fulfilled by the long journey of the Adventist Church until 2010. Now only the fulfillment of the Feast of Tabernacles is left, through our endurance in the great time of trouble without an advocate, and Jesus Himself will fulfill the Last Great Day (Shemini Atzeret) when He comes to take His people home. So far no feast-keeper has accepted the studies because Satan has seduced them into pure legalism which closes their eyes to the great and nobler truths.

The Lunar Sabbath was invented by Satan to hide the teaching of the High Sabbaths patterned after John 19:31. Ellen White said that we would "proclaim the Sabbath more fully" at the beginning of the time of trouble. Note that she said it would be before the little time of trouble, which will start very soon now, and before the plagues. The Vessel of Time is nothing other than a list of all possible High Sabbaths throughout the history of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, which gives us a lot of information about the seven stages of the purification of God's people. No lunar Sabbath keeper can understand or accept the High Sabbath List, also known as the Book of Seven Thunders, because for them every ceremonial Sabbath is automatically a High Sabbath. We know, however, that a High Sabbath only occurs when a ceremonial Sabbath falls on a seventh-day Sabbath. The truth is obscured by this large-scale campaign of Satan.

His masterpiece, however, is a teaching that has emerged just recently. Many Adventists are using the "sacred names" again. They are called the "Sacred Name Movement." They teach that only the originally and correctly pronounced names of Jesus (Yeshua) and the Father (Yahweh) have the power to reach God's ear. They also drift from this into a false legalism and they are definitely using the old name, instead of the prophesied new name for the King of kings and Lord of lords. The Father Himself, however, has revealed in Orion, the Book of Seven Seals, the new name of Jesus, which must now be known by all who would belong to the 144,000, for the prophecy of Ellen G. White says that they will bear this name on their foreheads.

In Paraguay, there are seven people who have been selected by God as leaders of the church of the 144,000. They are the seven stars that Ellen White saw at the head of the purified Adventist church. When soon it will have become clear for the deaf and blind Adventists that the prophecies have come true, this small handful of people will rapidly increase in number, even though there are so few today who have accepted these truths. Nevertheless, the people who had received so much light through Ellen White, since they were already baptized into the truth as Adventists and had the opportunity to see what the Fourth Angel's message entails earlier than anyone else, will be bitterly disappointed because to atone for their guilt of rejecting the new light, the only remaining way for them is the way of martyrdom. The rest of the workers of the eleventh hour will—as Ellen White has prophesied—come from those called out from Babylon. What a shame to a twice-failing people that had received so much favor and light from the Lord through the work of His messenger, Ellen G. White.

His people have never unearthed the treasures from the 100,000 pages of her writings and have only scratched the surface of the misunderstood statements against time setting. They were too lazy to get their hands dirty with diligent digging and to take a stand against the Ecumenical Movement, which is also against time-setting. Satan's secret service, the Jesuits, know that one day the time will be well known to the people of God, for even Satan knows the time, because he knows that his time is short. Yet Jesus Himself who is the Lord of Time does not know the time? How ridiculous this all is, if you think about it more deeply! The Jesuits that the Adventists have approved in their ranks have converted the vast majority of them into anti-Adventists in the years of wandering in the wilderness. Today they do not know who the true fanatics are.

Anti-time-setting is the greatest weapon of Satan against the true people of God, the 144,000 that must be SEALED by the knowledge of the time. False prophets like Harold Camping, etc. or fictional prophecies like the Mayan calendar or crop circles are sent everywhere to repute all time-setting as ridiculousness. When has humanity ever felt as safe as today, a few weeks after decades of hyped-up 2012 hysteria, thinking that "peace and security" will reign for a long time?

And what does the Bible say about this time right after Satan's largest anti-time-setting campaign ever?

For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. (1 Thessalonians 5:3)

And God points out in the very next verse that at precisely that time there will be people who know the time:

But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. (1 Thessalonians 5:4)

Do you really need the rug to be pulled out from under you and probation to close before you understand that you've built on the sand by your misunderstandings of the statements of Ellen G. White that you never tried to harmonize?

For those who fall in Satan's established traps and get lost in years-long discussions about the nature of Jesus, the nature of the Holy Spirit, a moon-dependent Sabbath, the correct pronunciation of the Hebrew name of God, the Mayan calendar, crop circles and ponder for weeks about whether you can feed the birds on the window sill with the leftover crumbs that still contain yeast from your pre-Passover house cleaning, the messenger of God has two more quotes, which you also misapplied against us:

Satan is ever ready to fill the mind with theories and calculations that will divert men from the present truth, and disqualify them for the giving of the third angel's message to the world. {RH March 22, 1892, par. 4}

We are in continual danger of getting above the simplicity of the gospel. There is an intense desire on the part of many to startle the world with something original, that shall lift the people into a state of spiritual ecstasy, and change the present order of experience. {RH March 22, 1892, par. 6}

On the contrary, we see in Orion Jesus Himself. He IS the Clock and He IS the Gospel. His wounds which healed us are pleading for us in Orion. Ellen White also saw it in vision:

I saw four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and were on their way to accomplish it. Jesus was clothed with priestly garments. He gazed in pity on the remnant, then raised His hands, and with a voice of deep pity cried, "My blood, Father, My blood, My blood, My blood!" Then I saw an exceeding bright light come from God, who sat upon the great white throne, and was shed all about Jesus. Then I saw an angel with a commission from Jesus, swiftly flying to the four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and waving something up and down in his hand, and crying with a loud voice, "Hold! Hold! Hold! Hold! until the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads." {EW 38.1}

If the history of the Adventist Church, which is presented to us in Orion and the Vessel of Time is not the third angel's message, but something new that moves us through spiritual ecstasy, then we have not understood what the third angel's message really is. Ellen White said that the light of the Fourth Angel would be "old light brought up and placed in new settings". For any student of the history of the Adventist Church, which is recorded in the two books of God in Orion and the Vessel of Time, it is obvious that it is not about something new and fantastic, but about something old and wonderful that we have never seen before from God's perspective.

A time message never again?

Let's look at the rest of your anti-time-setting quotes from the wonderful Spirit of Prophecy, whose true meaning is still completely hidden for many.

Again and again have I been warned in regard to time setting. There will never again be a message for the people of God that will be based on time. We are not to know the definite time either for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit or for the coming of Christ. {1SM 188.1}

This is the beginning of the vision of Ellen White, the origin of all the other quotes. The context and time frame in which this conditional prophecy was set has already been described in detail. No, the Advent people did not meet the condition for entrance into the New Jerusalem in 1890, when it would have been possible for them without a repetition of the Midnight Cry. At the General Conference of Minneapolis in 1888, the Holy Spirit was poured out and the Advent people paid it little notice, just like the outpouring since 2010 and January 5, 2013. The prophecy of Ellen White was not fulfilled due to the stubbornness of the people of God.

The Lord has shown me that the message of the third angel must go, and be proclaimed to the scattered children of the Lord, but it must not be hung on time. {EW 75.1}

This is also an endlessly repeated derivative of the short original vision of Ellen G. White from 1851, which appears in umpteen collections of quotations, and does not help. It doesn't get longer, it doesn't get truer, and neither will it fulfill, because it was conditional and the people prevented its completion forever.

The end of prophetic time

This time, which the angel declares with a solemn oath, is not the end of this world's history, neither of probationary time, but of prophetic time, which should precede the advent of our Lord. That is, the people will not have another message upon definite time. After this period of time, reaching from 1842 to 1844, there can be no definite tracing of the prophetic time. The longest reckoning reaches to the autumn of 1844. {7BC 971.7}

Some were led into the error of repeatedly fixing upon a definite time for the coming of Christ. The light which was now shining on the subject of the sanctuary should have shown them that no prophetic period extends to the second advent; that the exact time of this advent is not foretold. But, turning from the light, they continued to set time after time for the Lord to come, and as often they were disappointed. {GC 456.1}

In the article The Power of the Father, I detail the difference between the prophetic period that Ellen White mentioned here, and the time as shown in the oath of the man over the river in Daniel 12. "Prophetic Time" is a number of days specified by a prophet which are fulfilled in an appropriate context with a specific beginning. In the oath of Daniel 12, no single number is given, but the prophet is presented a pictorial representation, which first has to be reinterpreted from the Biblical symbolism yielding a formula that later leads to a number that the prophet did not even see, which can then be converted according to the day-year principle. But this conversion will not help if you do not have the Book of Seven Seals in Orion to put the number in the context of the heavenly day with the hour-marks of 7 earthly years per heavenly hour.

Elsewhere Ellen White even said that there is not one single image or parable in the Bible that is sufficient to know the day of the coming of Jesus. And she was right again. Without astronomy and the seven stars of Orion, the image of Daniel 12 cannot be put in its proper context and without the Vessel of Time, which was written by the sun and moon according to the God-given rules of the Jewish holy days, we would not be able to find the day of the coming of Jesus. The Bible gives us the evidence of the two other books that were sealed until recently, but the books themselves cannot be found in the Bible. They are found elsewhere, as Ellen White said. They are written where the Bible and the Gospel of John begin. They were written by the Word of God in the firmament of creation, and this can only be understood by the "wise that shall shine as the stars" (Daniel 12:3).

The first casket of William Miller was the Bible. This is symbolized by the standard dimensions of a Bible at the beginning of Miller's dream. Ellen White had this dream reprinted in Early Writings and classified it as coming from God.

I dreamed that God, by an unseen hand, sent me a curiously wrought casket about ten inches long by six square, made of ebony and pearls curiously inlaid. To the casket there was a key attached. I immediately took the key and opened the casket, when, to my wonder and surprise, I found it filled with all sorts and sizes of jewels, diamonds, precious stones, and gold and silver coin of every dimension and value, beautifully arranged in their several places in the casket; and thus arranged they reflected a light and glory equaled only to the sun. {EW 81.2}

In the dream, the gems of William Miller, his biblical discoveries, are dirtied and discarded. This was excessively fulfilled in the history of the Adventist Church. When he goes into despair, a man appears who brings everything back to order. It must be a man who would carry on the studies of William Miller and make them shine in a new light.

Who could this second man be, who carried on Miller's deciphering of the year of Jesus' death from the seventy-week prophecy of Daniel 9:24, even determining the exact date on the day of His death?

Who could this second man be, who saw not only the confirmation of the prophecy of the beginning of the Judgment of Daniel 8:14, but also decrypted Daniel 12 and thus found both the end of the judgment and the duration of both phases of the Judgment of the living and the dead?

Who could this second man be, who would sound the true Midnight Cry, which this time would not end in a big disappointment?

Who could this second man be, who could prove that both the sanctuary doctrine, and the first Midnight Cry are recorded in two heavenly books, wherein William Miller has a very special place?

This second man, who has a different "casket," is described at the end of Miller's dream as follows:

He then placed on the table a casket, much larger and more beautiful than the former, and gathered up the jewels, the diamonds, the coins, by the handful, and cast them into the casket, till not one was left, although some of the diamonds were not bigger than the point of a pin. {EW 83.6}

I looked into the casket, but my eyes were dazzled with the sight. They shone with ten times their former glory. I thought they had been scoured in the sand by the feet of those wicked persons who had scattered and trod them in the dust. They were arranged in beautiful order in the casket, every one in its place, without any visible pains of the man who cast them in. I shouted with very joy, and that shout awoke me. {EW 83.8}

What book (casket) could be "larger and more beautiful" than the Bible where Miller found his "gems," mentioned in the first paragraph of his dream? Is there such a book here on earth? Do you think that it could possibly be the Koran or the Book of Mormon or even Hitler's "Mein Kampf"? No, there is only one book that is greater than the Bible itself. It is the book that frames the Throne of God, where Jesus stands before the Father and pleads with His wounds... Orion, the Book of Seven Seals.

To oppose these wonderful truths, the old light in new settings, with misapplied quotes from Ellen White such as the following, equals to spiritual bigotry and blindness:

The more frequently a definite time is set for the second advent, and the more widely it is taught, the better it suits the purposes of Satan. After the time has passed, he excites ridicule and contempt of its advocates, and thus casts reproach upon the great advent movement of 1843 and 1844. Those who persist in this error will at last fix upon a date too far in the future for the coming of Christ. Thus they will be led to rest in a false security, and many will not be undeceived until it is too late.

The second Miller "casts no reproach" but rather "ten times its former glory" "upon the great advent movement of 1843 and 1844," which is represented in the Vessel of Time as the first triplet of years.

And now with brotherly love, I ask you one final question. Do you honestly believe that we are "fixing upon a date too far in the future for the coming of Christ" and that Jesus will come even earlier than autumn 2016?

May God bless you and give you the Latter Rain in abundance so that soon you may also know if you are one of the chosen 144,000.

John Scotram, your brother in the Lord Jesus Christ, bearing the new name "Alnitak", meaning "The Wounded One."

Many of you have probably been wondering why I haven't published any new articles in nearly two weeks. It was because I needed to answer your many questions, and also because I received many new confirmations for the Clock of God. But of course the enemy is not asleep! A message such as is contained in the Clock of God is a thorn in the side of Satan, because the truth would free us from him and sin.

I always expected there to be a prompt attack against me if I would publish the Clock of God, but what came was so skillfully done that it has taken me some time to distinguish truth from falsehood.

First, a few emails arrived from "brethren" who apparently had deep interest in studying the Orion Clock. They commended the study, but they also said that they had a little problem with it. "My" clock didn't take into account the true Jewish calendar. So, I examined their statements and found that it could be true on a single date, which could be in the year 1986. Since the Seventh-day Adventist Church had applied for membership with the ACK (Council of Christian Churches in Germany) in the spring of 1986, it could possibly fall into the old Jewish year, which would have been 1985. But I explained that there were indeed two particularly important events in 1986. The first was the application for membership with the ACK. The second event, which could also be the reason for God's mark on the Clock happened shortly afterward on October 27, 1986.

An unofficial (and still unofficial) representative and ambassador of the Seventh-day Adventist Church participated in the first World Day of Prayer for Peace at Assisi, which was convened by Pope John Paul II as the world's first and largest ecumenical prayer meeting ever. Since then, the meetings happen on a regular basis. There, praying for the peace of the world were Seventh-day Adventists, along with Buddhists, magicians, Hindus, witches, Voodoo priests, Catholics, worshipers of dead ancestors and other religions that are clearly anathema to our Biblical God. And October 27, 1986 is in the Jewish calendar year of 1986. By 2002, Bert B. Beach participated as the official representative of the Seventh-day Adventist Church at the third World Day of Prayer for Peace.

I thought that would solve the problem for these brethren who had carefully studied the biblical calendar, and was glad to be able to continue studying with them. What came next surprised me. They explained that the clock could not be correct and must be adjusted because Christ would come again at the Feast of Tabernacles. Wait a minute, where is that in the Bible? And I had not even mentioned in that first version of the clock-study the actual return of Christ! They could not explain, but they firmly maintained that it would be so. To this day they have not explained what exactly I should change on the clock...only that I would necessarily have to change it...and besides, that I would be keeping the false Sabbath! The true Sabbath of the Bible (they said) should be calculated according to the moon and for 166 years all of us were keeping a false Sabbath because our Sabbath was not adjusted to the moon how it was for the Jews...

According to them, keeping the Sabbath correctly "according to the Bible" would work like this: At the first crescent after a new moon would be the first Sabbath. Then seven days later the second Sabbath, that's on day number eight. Then the other Sabbaths on the 15th, the 22nd, and 29th of the Jewish month, always in a seven-day rhythm. But the problem is that the moon has an orbital cycle of about 29.5 days, so the Seventh-day Sabbath rhythm cannot be linked to the moon. That would only be possible if the orbital cycle of the moon were exactly 28 days, so these people resort to a trick. They say that the cycle for each lunar month begins at the first crescent moon, making the Sabbath day shift almost every month to a different day of the week. For me, this seemed at first sight somewhat ambiguous, but they sent material. Some were very friendly and had an understanding that I should take my time to study and they would pray for me. Most of the others were like masters of theology that would pressure me by saying that if I did not immediately repent and change "my" clock, I would be responsible for the eternal death of my and my wife's soul.

In the past, the responses of many Seventh-day Adventists were very similar regarding "my" clock. I am used to it! But the lunar Sabbath still surprised me. I made the mistake, and I stress that it was clearly a mistake, to read some of their studies. I can only describe what came out of it as abysmal "confusion". Many of those "brethren" are very clever with words and understand perfectly how to turn biblical simplicities into lunar complexities. Anyone who is not firmly grounded in the Word of God could easily stumble there. Many arguments seem so obvious that sometimes I couldn't see the forest for the trees. New studies were sent to me from all directions if I asked even a single question. Again and again I received 20 or 30 pages of new material, sometimes three or four times per day!

I went into prayer. Something seemed fishy about the matter! Did I really find some interested brethren and friends of the Clock of God, or was something else going on here? I asked them why so far none of them said anything about the real meaning of the clock. We are not talking here so much about the second coming of Christ; we all know that it will be very soon! It is even less about a Jewish calendar or a lunar Sabbath. It is still very much about the message of the Fourth Angel and the knowledge from God as to when and how His people have fallen from truth! But the "brothers and sisters" wanted to know nothing about that. Again they just sent me a bunch of new PDFs on the lunar Sabbath.

After almost two weeks of asking God to clarify the matter, I "arrived". I wondered what these studies could mean, and what their purpose could be if per chance these were not even brethren who were apparently trying to keep the biblical Sabbath exactly, but actually enemies? And then it was clear to me, and I must admit that I am a little ashamed that I did not think to do this sooner: "Check out if there is a religion that keeps such Sabbaths or days of rest according to the moon!"

So I did what I usually do, I started researching on the Internet. The first search even brought it up.

On <http://doormann.tripod.com/asssky.htm>—and this is just one example of many—we read that these days are the worshipping days of the ancient Babylonian and Sumerian moon cult:

These texts tell us that the Babylonian prognosticators evaluated the match between what the calendar predicted and what the sky actually did. Departures from the expected order were viewed with concern. In Mesopotamia it was probably the Sumerians, the people who built the formative civilization of the region, who put the first formal calendar into use. The Sumerian calendar was lunar, but its months began when the first crescent was sighted in the west. A passage in the Babylonian creation myth echoes, in Marduk's instructions to the moon, a concern for the lunar cycle:

He bade the moon come forth; entrusted night (to him) assigned to him adornment of the night to measure time; and every month, unfailingly, he marked off by a crown. "When the new moon is rising over the land shine you with horns, six days to measure; the seventh day, as half (your) crown (appear). and (then) let periods of fifteen days be counterparts two halves each month. As, afterward, the sun gains on you on heaven's foundations, wane step by step, reverse your growth!"

The "crown" is the moon's fully lit disk, and the horns refer, of course, to the waxing crescent. On the seventh day a "half-crown" describes the half-lit first quarter moon, and the rest of the text narrates the way in which the moon should continue to measure out the months.

Some of the Sumerian month names have survived in cuneiform texts and, like the Egyptian names, refer to the months' principal feasts: "the Month of the Feast of Shulgi" and "the Month of the Eating of Barley of Ningursu." Feasts were scheduled by the moon's phases, with regular celebrations at the first crescent, first quarter (seventh day), full moon (fifteenth day), and last day.

If you read the above text and compare it with the studies of the "brethren", you will realize that this is one and the same language and the same subject matter. It's about the monthly moon festivals of the ancient Babylonian religion.

I talked to the Lunar Sabbath keepers about it, and immediately the answer came back that these "evil" days of Babylon do not coincide with the Jewish Lunar Sabbaths. Here is a short message of a "sister" who was already pretty upset with me:

Dear John,

Just for the records, the Babylonian 'evil days' as they were called were on the 1st, 7th, 14th, 21st, 28th. Not on 8, 15, 22, 29 as the Bible one. So your argument does not stand either.

With His Love,
O.

Look carefully! They are admitting here that "Babylonian evil days" do exist, and what a surprise, those are always just one day before the "Jewish" Lunar Sabbaths. Definitely suspicious, right? How can this be? The answer is quite easy if you carefully study the Bible with some background information. We all should know that the Jews use a so-called inclusive counting system. For them, the first day of the beginning of a period is always included in the total. So: First Day + Seven = Eighth Day. By contrast, the Babylonian method of calculation is exclusive. The first day is not counted. So: First Day + Seven = Seventh Day. (Incidentally, this also solves a problem with the times of the government of Nebuchadnezzar in the Book of Daniel. Once again, we have different Jewish and Babylonian time reckoning.)

Let's bring this to a conclusion! For both, the day of the first crescent moon was the first day, so it is clear that both kept the first "Sabbath" of every month on exactly the same day. However, the Babylonian 7th day is the Jewish 8th. The Babylonian 14th day is the Jewish 15th. The 21st is the 22nd, and the 28th is the 29th. So all of the days are EXACTLY THE SAME DAYS! They are the evil days of Babylon!

Now, of course, the question arises as to who the goddess was that was worshiped there? It's simple: Ishtar! See my articles on the Papal coat of arms, especially St. Corbinian's Bear and A Gift of Heaven. Again we get the whole picture: It is the Babylonian Ishtar, the Egyptian Isis, the Phoenician Astarte, the Greek Demeter, the Roman Diana, and Mary—the Mother of all Nations and Queen of Heaven who has the moon under her feet—the Catholic goddess!

So once again it is about the worship of the ancient Babylonian goddess of the moon, which is represented today in the Catholic world through Mary. Pure paganism and anathema to the true Creator God! That is why God chose the seven-day cycle based on the creation week, and not depending on the lunar cycle. It was to distinguish His true day of rest once and for all; to ensure a clear separation of all non-biblical religions that worship the heavenly bodies instead of their Creator. In the Shadows of the Future article series I address the real meaning of the biblical moon-based Sabbaths and show that the "Lunar Sabbath Lie" is designed to block a wonderful message from God to His people.

The reaction of the "lunar brethren" was very interesting when I sent my findings to them. I was admonished not to condemn their "valuable new insights" carelessly and throw it into the fire, because I would be eternally punished for it! Well now, doesn't that way of thinking sound vaguely familiar to you? It does to me! My hunch is that this entire Lunar Sabbath idea was developed by the Jesuits. Don't think that it is a simple thing to refute all this with the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy! There are clever minds behind these studies in order to deceive even the elect if it would be possible! There is already a study of over 3000 pages regarding the years 1937/38. It was discussed by the Seventh-day Adventist General Conference and to this day not all arguments are completely clarified. It is called the Grace Amadon Collection. If you would like to waste a lot of time like I did, just google and search for it. As for me, it is clear now that if somebody wants to make me keep these irregular Sabbaths aligned with the first crescent moons, and these "just happen" to fall on the exact same days of worship of the Babylonian Moon Goddess and the Queen of Heaven, then at least I know where it stems from! Do you too, dear brothers and sisters?

For me, the result of the whole ordeal is that I lost almost two weeks on the study, while the real message I have for you suffered a temporary setback. But I want to mend this now with this short warning and explanation.

So please don't be deceived by this nonsense and fraud! Don't let yourself be confused by seemingly biblical studies that the Millerites came to the date of October 22, 1844 by lunar calculations. Miller and the "Seventh Month Movement" (the Second Angel) used this type of calculation in order to calculate the Day of Atonement and the beginning of the Investigative Judgment in accordance with the Karaite calendar, and never to calculate the Seventh-day Sabbath. Even the Karaite Jews, who take the Bible very seriously and calculate their feast days as described on www.karaite-korner.com (which I recommend for you to study) do not keep a moon based Sabbath, but the normal Seventh-day Sabbath of the Creator.

These "lunar brethren", however, mix everything into moon worship. After I had suggested to some of them that I could believe that they are Jesuits themselves, and that I would publish some of my experiences with them on my web site, I did not receive a single word about "Moon-Sabbaths" until...you guessed it...until I began the Shadow Series. They recognized that I was about to reveal the true purpose of the lunar-based Jewish festivals and their whole doctrine would burst like a bubble, because the truth sets you free!

There is still one last question as to why I was attacked by them so heavily in the beginning? It was almost like a concerted effort, because I got e-mails almost simultaneously from Canada, the United States, and other countries. Why did the Jesuits want me to change "my" clock? Friends, if my studies of the Orion Clock are wrong, as some claim, why would Satan want to attack me with a false Sabbath? He would surely be happy and satisfied that the clock was a heresy already! But that is not true. Actually the Clock is the last message of God for His people, the message of the Fourth Angel. God leaves nothing to chance and is always with us, leading us especially in these last hours of history.

Thank God for the Sabbath, which is not dependent on the moon, but is dead easy to calculate using seven fingers! Shabbat, Shalom!

History Repeats - Part I

We are not alone, even though we are few who believe that our patient and loving God is sending us a final message from Orion, which is the key to the Book of Seven Seals. I sent prayers to our Lord for help and reinforcement often, whenever I was attacked so hard by the enemy and his agents that I felt like stopping this ministry. I asked Him so many times to send me more wisdom to write the articles and the new findings in a way that more people would understand and accept. And I also asked Him to send me angels in form of humans to help me with the large amount of translation work so I would have more time to write new articles. There are still a lot of important aspects to the Clock that I have not reported so far. And He did! He sent a young brother in Atlanta who is helping to proof-read the English articles, and some brethren from India to Trinidad and Tobago who sent me wonderful testimonies of how they were blessed by the Orion study, and how their spiritual lives and personal preparation have changed with the knowledge that Jesus will soon come in the clouds.

I want to thank all of those who felt the calling of the Holy Spirit and sent me help and encouraging e-mails. As you can imagine, it is very difficult standing behind a message as controversial as this. Please do not stop sending me your thoughts and questions. I need to know that there really are those few out there that very soon will form the 144,000, who understand the voice of God in Orion. I learned that some people have started to share the message with friends and family all over the world, and I pray for them that the enemy will not attack them too heavily!

The Spirit of Prophecy counsels us:

There are many cases where men who have defended Christianity against skeptics have afterward lost their own souls in the mazes of skepticism. They caught the malaria, and died spiritually. They had strong arguments for the truth, and much outside evidence, but they did not have an abiding faith in Christ. O, there are thousands upon thousands of professed Christians who never study the Bible! Study the sacred word prayerfully, for your own soul's benefit. When you hear the word of the living preacher, if he has a living connection with God, you will find that the Spirit and the word agree. {RH April 20, 1897 par. 13}

Everybody is responsible to study the Word of God for himself and to find out if things really are so. At this point, unfortunately, I have to inform all of you that no Adventist denomination has officially accepted the Orion Message and on the part of the General Conferences that there isn't even any interest in studying the Clock of God with me or others. As many know, the Seventh-day Adventist church is forbidding their members to spread the message in several countries. I know personally about Germany and Austria.

Beginning in April 2010, I was visited by the responsible pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement who told me quite frankly that the Message was refused by their General Conference and that they are not even willing to start a dialogue with me. You can imagine how this isolates me in my home group. My last hope is gone for the Orion study to be accepted by one of the organized Seventh-day Adventist churches. We have to calmly accept the decisions of the General Conferences to be closed against any dialogue, but it is against Christian and biblical standards. I do not want to emphasize this topic. By showing the sins of God's people, it was clear from the very first moment that this message would be controversial. No message of repentance and rebuke was ever, or will ever, be welcomed. You can study the whole Bible from Moses to Jesus and find many examples that messages or messengers of God were despised, silenced, and finally killed by the professed people of God. (Please read also Appendix E.)

And history repeats, dear brethren and friends! The Spirit of Prophecy talks again and again about this fact:

The Old and New Testaments are linked together by the golden clasp of God. We need to become familiar with the Old-Testament Scriptures. The unchangeableness of God should be clearly seen; the similarity of his dealings with his people of the past dispensation and of the present, should be studied. Under the inspiration of the Spirit of God, Solomon wrote, "That which hath been is now: and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past." In mercy God repeats his past dealings. He has given us a record of his dealings in the past. This we need to study carefully; for history is repeating itself. We are more accountable than were those whose experience is recorded in the Old Testament; for their mistakes, and the results of those mistakes, have been chronicled for our benefit. The danger-signal has been lifted to keep us off forbidden ground, and we should be warned not to do as they did, lest a worse punishment come upon us. The blessings given to those of past generations who obeyed God are recorded that we may be encouraged to walk circumspectly, in faith and obedience. The judgments brought against wrong-doers are delineated that we may fear and tremble before God.

It is time well employed to search the Scriptures; "for in them ye think ye have eternal life." And Jesus declares, "They are they which testify of me." By the work of the Holy Spirit the truth is riveted in the mind and printed in the heart of the diligent, God fearing student. And not only is he blessed by this kind of labor; the souls to whom he communicates truth, and for whom he must one day give an account, are also greatly blessed. Those who make God their counselor reap the most precious harvest as they gather the golden grains of truth from his word; for the heavenly Instructor is close by their side. He who obtains his qualification for the ministry in this way will be entitled to the blessing promised to him who turns many to righteousness. {RH April 20, 1897 par. 14-15}

That was written in 1897 by Ellen White. One year later, in 1898, she wrote:

In the days of Christ the leaders and teachers of Israel were powerless to resist the work of Satan. They were neglecting the only means by which they could have withstood evil spirits. It was by the word of God that Christ overcame the wicked one. The leaders of Israel professed to be the expositors of God's word, but they had studied it only to sustain their traditions, and enforce their man-made observances. By their interpretation they made it express sentiments that God had never given. Their mystical construction made indistinct that which He had made plain. They disputed over insignificant technicalities, and practically denied the most essential truths. Thus infidelity was sown broadcast. God's word was robbed of its power, and evil spirits worked their will.

History is repeating. With the open Bible before them, and professing to reverence its teachings, many of the religious leaders of our time are destroying faith in it as the word of God. They busy themselves with dissecting the word, and set their own opinions above its plainest statements. In their hands God's word loses its regenerating power. This is why infidelity runs riot, and iniquity is rife. {DA 257.3-258.1}

The Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement pastor told me that their General Conference "decided" that the seals and churches do not repeat since 1844, and therefore my studies had no foundation. When I asked if they had prayerfully studied Joshua 5 and 6, he answered that they had prayerfully studied, but he did not answer my question if they had understood the model that is given by the conquest of Jericho. Hence, I have to assume that they never really studied the biblical foundation for all of these studies of the repetition of seals and churches. We have to pray a lot before we open the Bible! But if we only pray and do not open the Bible we cannot expect that God gives us light through it.

In this article, I want to show using the model of Jericho that the seals and churches have indeed been repeating since 1844. It is interesting that Ellen G. White did not write much about the seals and trumpets. If you search her writings you will find that she never interpreted the seals, churches or trumpets but used them mostly homiletically. She left the interpretation of many parts of Revelation to us, and told us repeatedly that we should study Daniel and Revelation together in depth. Who actually followed her instructions in this regard?

Honestly, I was astonished that the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement did not accept the repetition of the seals and churches, because the years 1914 and 1936 (and another year that will be shown in a future article) are pointing directly to their biggest historical events. But the most surprising fact for me was that they themselves are using the quotes of Ellen White in their teachings that history repeats, especially the history of the Jewish nation which they see repeating in the apostasy of the Seventh-day Adventist church. They probably realized from the very beginning that the Orion shows the "big" Seventh-day Adventist Church going on after 1914 and 1936, and they do not want to accept that because they think (incorrectly) that they are the one and only church of God.

In recent decades they have published various books and booklets on this topic. One that I have in its original Spanish form is called: "El Israel Antiguo y El Israel Moderno" – "The Ancient Israel and The Modern Israel". It is about the similarities and differences between Israel in biblical times and the spiritual Israel that is formed by the church of God of our days. It is basically a compilation of quotes from the testimonies of Ellen G. White.

Without translating the whole booklet of about 64 pages, I just want to show the basic concept that the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement addresses there, because it is a thorough study of the fact that Ellen White was very right in saying that history repeats. Let us follow the history of both Israels in the statements of the Spirit of Prophecy:

1. Both have been chosen by God.

ANCIENT ISRAEL:

The Lord called out His people Israel and separated them from the world that He might commit to them a sacred trust. He made them the depositaries of His law, and He designed, through them, to preserve among men the knowledge of Himself. Through them the light of heaven was to shine out to the dark places of the earth, and a voice was to be heard appealing to all peoples to turn from their idolatry to serve the living and true God. Had the Hebrews been true to their trust, they would have been a power in the world. God would have been their defense, and He would have exalted them above all other nations. His light and truth would have been revealed through them, and they would have stood forth under His wise and holy rule as an example of the superiority of His government over every form of idolatry.

But they did not keep their covenant with God. They followed after the idolatrous practices of other nations, and instead of making their Creator's name a praise in the earth their course held it up to the contempt of the heathen. Yet the purpose of God must be accomplished. The knowledge of His will must be spread abroad in the earth. {5T 454.2–455.1}

MODERN ISRAEL:

God has called His church in this day, as He called ancient Israel, to stand as a light in the earth. By the mighty cleaver of truth, the messages of the first, second, and third angels, He has separated them from the churches and from the world to bring them into a sacred nearness to Himself. He has made them the depositaries of His law and has committed to them the great truths of prophecy for this time. Like the holy oracles committed to ancient Israel, these are a sacred trust to be communicated to the world. The three angels of Revelation 14 represent the people who accept the light of God's messages and go forth as His agents to sound the warning throughout the length and breadth of the earth. {5T 455.2}

2. A delay happens to both.

ANCIENT AND MODERN ISRAEL:

It was not the will of God that Israel should wander forty years in the wilderness; he desired to lead them directly to the land of Canaan, and establish them there, a holy, happy people. But "they could not enter in because of unbelief." [HEB. 3:19.] Because of their backsliding and apostasy, they perished in the desert, and others were raised up to enter the promised land. In like manner, it was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be so long delayed, and his people should remain so many years in this world of sin and sorrow. But unbelief separated them from God. As they refused to do the work which he had appointed them, others were raised up to proclaim the message. In mercy to the world, Jesus delays his coming, that sinners may have an opportunity to hear the warning, and find in him a shelter before the wrath of God shall be poured out. {GC88 458.1}

3. Both are murmuring.

ANCIENT AND MODERN ISRAEL:

I saw that many who profess to believe the truth for these last days, think it strange that the children of Israel murmured as they journeyed; that after the wonderful dealings of God with them, they should be so ungrateful as to forget what He had done for them. Said the angel, "Ye have done worse than they." {1T 129.1}

4. Both want to return to Egypt.

ANCIENT ISRAEL:

And they said one to another, Let us make a captain, and let us return into Egypt. (Numbers 14:4)

To whom [Moses] our fathers would not obey, but thrust him from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt, (Acts 7:39)

MODERN ISRAEL:

I am filled with sadness when I think of our condition as a people. The Lord has not closed heaven to us, but our own course of continual backsliding has separated us from God. Pride, covetousness, and love of the world have lived in the heart without fear of banishment or condemnation. Grievous and presumptuous sins have dwelt among us. And yet the general opinion is that the church is flourishing and that peace and spiritual prosperity are in all her borders.

The church has turned back from following Christ her Leader and is steadily retreating toward Egypt. Yet few are alarmed or astonished at their want of spiritual power. Doubt, and even disbelief of the testimonies of the Spirit of God, is leavening our churches everywhere. Satan would have it thus. Ministers who preach self instead of Christ would have it thus. The testimonies are unread and unappreciated. God has spoken to you. Light has been shining from His word and from the testimonies, and both have been slighted and disregarded. The result is apparent in the lack of purity and devotion and earnest faith among us. {5T 217.1-2}

The booklet goes on and on in 38 chapters similar to the above to compare the writings of Ellen White where she stated clearly that modern Israel (the Seventh-day Adventist Church) committed the same mistakes as ancient Israel.

God's plan for ancient Israel was to liberate the Israelites from the yoke and slavery of Egypt and to bring them directly to the promised land. This is the biblical type for our journey to heaven beginning in 1844 as Ellen White explained to us. That is why she thought for a long time during her ministry that Jesus would come in her day. Please attentively read her statements regarding her expectation of a very soon coming of Jesus in the Book "Last Day Events":

Ellen White Expected Christ's Return in Her Day

I was shown the company present at the Conference. Said the angel: "Some food for worms, some subjects of the seven last plagues, some will be alive and remain upon the earth to be translated at the coming of Jesus."--1T 131, 132 (1856). {LDE 36.3}

Because time is short, we should work with diligence and double energy. Our children may never enter college.--3T 159 (1872). {LDE 36.4}

It is really not wise to have children now. Time is short, the perils of the last days are upon us, and the little children will be largely swept off before this.--Letter 48, 1876. {LDE 36.5}

In this age of the world, as the scenes of earth's history are soon to close and we are about to enter upon the time of trouble such as never was, the fewer the marriages contracted the better for all, both men and women.--5T 366 (1885). {LDE 37.1}

The hour will come; it is not far distant, and some of us who now believe will be alive upon the earth, and shall see the prediction verified, and hear the voice of the archangel and the trump of God echo from mountain and plain and sea to the uttermost parts of the earth.--RH July 31, 1888. {LDE 37.2}

The time of test is just upon us, for the loud cry of the third angel has already begun in the revelation of the righteousness of Christ, the sin-pardoning Redeemer.--1SM 363 (1892). {LDE 37.3}

We have to wonder—what prevented these predictions of Ellen White from coming to pass? In the 1880s and '90s, Sunday Laws (Blue Laws) were spreading all over U.S.A. In many states, Sunday shopping was already forbidden and it was obvious that the visions that Ellen White had about this were ready to be fulfilled. But something stopped the four winds from actually being released. We already read what it was:

In like manner, it was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be so long delayed, and his people should remain so many years in this world of sin and sorrow. But unbelief separated them from God. As they refused to do the work which he had appointed them, others were raised up to proclaim the message. In mercy to the world, Jesus delays his coming, that sinners may have an opportunity to hear the warning, and find in him a shelter before the wrath of God shall be poured out. {GC88 458.1}

She wrote this in the infamous year of 1888. The General Conference Meeting brought strife in the church. Two pastors, Waggoner and Jones, brought a message to this General Conference that separated the church into two groups. It was the message of "Righteousness by Faith". But what was the problem with the message? All Christian churches believed in "Righteousness by Faith" ever since Martin Luther in the 16th century. The problem was that this is just half of the message. The other part is rarely mentioned: "...and obedience in faith to all of the precepts and commandments of Christ". The message of 1888 included strict obedience to everything that comes out of the mouth of God and His prophets; not to be saved but because we are saved. And this includes obedience to the messages that Ellen White received from God for His people: health reform, and all of her testimonies. And therein was the problem. Liberals had already entered high positions in the church at that time, and they did not want to comply with the second uncomfortable part of the 1888 message brought by Waggoner and Jones. This message was a thorn in their flesh. So the message had to disappear.

The Heart of God's Last Message

The Lord in His great mercy sent a most precious message to His people through Elders [E.J.] Waggoner and [A. T.] Jones. This message was to bring more prominently before the world the uplifted Saviour, the sacrifice for the sins of the whole world. It presented justification through faith in the Surety; it invited the people to receive the righteousness of Christ, which is made manifest in obedience to all the commandments of God. {LDE 200.1}

Many had lost sight of Jesus. They needed to have their eyes directed to His divine person, His merits, and His changeless love for the human family. All power is given into His hands, that He may dispense rich gifts unto men, imparting the priceless gift of His own righteousness to the helpless human agent. This is the message that God commanded to be given to the world. It is the third angel's message, which is to be proclaimed with a loud voice, and attended with the outpouring of His Spirit in a large measure.--TM 91, 92 (1895). {LDE 200.2}

The message of Christ's righteousness is to sound from one end of the earth to the other to prepare the way of the Lord. This is the glory of God, which closes the work of the third angel.--6T 19 (1900). {LDE 200.3}

The last message of mercy to be given to the world is a revelation of His character of love. The children of God are to manifest His glory. In their own life and character they are to reveal what the grace of God has done for them.--COL 415, 416 (1900). {LDE 200.4}

It was the message of the Fourth Angel that would light up the whole earth with his glory:

The time of test is just upon us, for the loud cry of the third angel has already begun in the revelation of the righteousness of Christ, the sin-pardoning Redeemer. This is the beginning of the light of the angel whose glory shall fill the whole earth. For it is the work of every one to whom the message of warning has come, to lift up Jesus, to present him to the world as revealed in types, as shadowed in symbols, as manifested in the revelations of the prophets, as unveiled in the lessons given to his disciples and in the wonderful miracles wrought for the sons of men. Search the Scriptures; for they are they that testify of him. {RH November 22, 1892 par. 7}

But the message of 1888 was refused by General Conference and that is why Jesus could not come. Ellen White uses the example of ancient Israel again to depict what happened:

Men who are entrusted with weighty responsibilities, but who have no living connection with God, have been and are doing despite to His Holy Spirit. They are indulging the very same spirit as did Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, and as did the Jews in the days of Christ. (See Matthew 12:22-29, 31-37.) Warnings have come from God again and again for these men, but they have cast them aside and ventured on in the same course. {TM 78.2}

The perils of the last days are upon us. Satan takes the control of every mind that is not decidedly under the control of the Spirit of God. Some have been cultivating hatred against the men whom God has commissioned to bear a special message to the world. They began this satanic work at Minneapolis. Afterward, when they saw and felt the demonstration of the Holy Spirit testifying that the message was of God, they hated it the more, because it was a testimony against them. They would not humble their hearts to repent, to give God the glory, and vindicate the right. They went on in their own spirit, filled with envy, jealousy, and evil surmisings, as did the Jews. They opened their hearts to the enemy of God and man. Yet these men have been holding positions of trust, and have been molding the work after their own similitude, as far as they possibly could. . . . {TM 79.3}

"History repeats." The Spirit of Prophecy warns us again and again to learn from the events of ancient times for our present time, but many leaders do not want to learn because they are only serving their own interests. Ellen White compares the leaders who refused the 1888 Message with the rebellion of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. And their end was by the Hand of the Almighty. Will this history be repeated yet again very soon?

Five years earlier, Ellen White was already warning that the goal was about to be missed:

Had Adventists after the great disappointment in 1844 held fast their faith and followed on unitedly in the opening providence of God, receiving the message of the third angel and in the power of the Holy Spirit proclaiming it to the world, they would have seen the salvation of God, the Lord would have wrought mightily with their efforts, the work would have been completed, and Christ would have come ere this to receive His people to their reward. . . . It was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be thus delayed. . . . {LDE 37.5}

For forty years did unbelief, murmuring, and rebellion shut out ancient Israel from the land of Canaan. The same sins have delayed the entrance of modern Israel into the heavenly Canaan. In neither case were the promises of God at fault. It is the unbelief, the worldliness, unconsecration, and strife among the Lord's professed people that have kept us in this world of sin and sorrow so many years.--Ev 695, 696 (1883). {LDE 38.1}

Now that we know the reasons why modern Israel, the Seventh-day Adventist church, failed to enter Canaan (Heaven) during the time of Ellen White, we understand her disappointment with the people. She was called by God to serve as a messenger to prepare the way of the Lord's second coming, like John the Baptist was called to prepare the way for the first coming of Christ. Moses, who led ancient Israel, failed to enter into Canaan, just like Ellen White, who led the Seventh-day Adventist church of 1888. She failed to enter Heaven according to God's plan because of their own worldliness.

Wouldn't it be wise for us to study more in depth how the next leader of ancient Israel finally managed to enter Canaan? And after all the parallels between ancient and modern Israel that the Spirit of Prophecy shows us, wouldn't it be highly probable that that "history will repeat" also?

Who was the leader of Israel who managed to enter Canaan indeed? Joshua! The story of this successful leader of ancient Israel is written in the book named after him. After 40 years of wandering in the wilderness, almost all of those who had witnessed the rebellion against God at the first approach to Canaan had died. Only Caleb and Joshua were left. Moses laid his hands upon Joshua and by the Spirit of God confirmed him as his successor and the next leader of God's people.

Not many people have carefully read the prologue of Ellen White's very first vision, and how she connects Joshua and Caleb and their report from Canaan to her heavenly vision:

As God has shown me the travels of the Advent people to the Holy City and the rich reward to be given those who wait the return of their Lord from the wedding, it may be my duty to give you a short sketch of what God has revealed to me. The dear saints have many trials to pass through. But our light afflictions, which are but for a moment, will work for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory--while we look not at the things which are seen, for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal. I have tried to bring back a good report and a few grapes from the heavenly Canaan, for which many would stone me, as the congregation bade stone Caleb and Joshua for their report. (Num. 14:10.) But I declare to you, my brethren and sisters in the Lord, it is a goodly land, and we are well able to go up and possess it. {EW 13.3}

There is clear evidence that we should take a very close look at what happened with Joshua during the real conquest of Canaan. Ellen White even counseled us to do so:

I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee. Joshua 1:5.

Study carefully the experiences of Israel in their travels to Canaan. . . . We need to keep the heart and mind in training, by refreshing the memory with the lessons that the Lord taught His ancient people. Then to us, as He designed it should be to them, the teachings of His Word will ever be interesting and impressive.

When Joshua went forth in the morning before the taking of Jericho, there appeared before him a warrior fully equipped for battle. And Joshua asked, "Art thou for us, or for our adversaries?" and he answered, "As Captain of the host of the Lord am I now come." If the eyes of Joshua had been opened as were the eyes of the servant of Elisha at Dothan, and he could have endured the sight, he would have seen the angels of the Lord encamped about the children of Israel; for the trained army of heaven had come to fight for the people of God, and the Captain of the Lord's host was there to command. When Jericho fell, no human hand touched the walls of the city, for the angels of the Lord overthrew the fortifications, and entered the fortress of the enemy. It was not Israel, but the Captain of the Lord's host that took Jericho. But Israel had their part to act to show their faith in the Captain of their salvation.

Battles are to be fought every day. A great warfare is going on over every soul, between the prince of darkness and the Prince of life. . . . As God's agents you are to yield yourselves to Him, that He may plan and direct and fight the battle for you, with your cooperation. The Prince of life is at the head of His work. He is to be with you in your daily battle with self, that you may be true to principle; that passion, when warring for the mastery, may be subdued by the grace of Christ; that you come off more than conqueror through Him that hath loved us. Jesus has been over the ground. He knows the power of every temptation. He knows just how to meet every emergency, and how to guide you through every path of danger. Then why not trust Him? {CC 117.1-4}

Now let's read the whole story about the conquest of Jericho as the Spirit of Prophecy tells it in complete harmony with the Bible. First we learn that Joshua met a "very special man":

As Joshua withdrew from the armies of Israel, to meditate and pray for God's special presence to attend him, he saw a man of lofty stature, clad in warlike garments, with his sword drawn in his hand. Joshua did not recognize him as one of the armies of Israel, and yet he had no appearance of being an enemy. In his zeal he accosted him, and said, "Art thou for us, or for our adversaries? And he said, Nay; but as captain of the host of the Lord am I now come. And Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and did worship, and said unto him, What saith my lord unto his servant? And the captain of the Lord's host said unto Joshua, Loose thy shoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou standest is holy. And Joshua did so."

This was no common angel. It was the Lord Jesus Christ, he who had conducted the Hebrews through the wilderness, enshrouded in the pillar of fire by night, and a pillar of cloud by day. The place was made sacred by his presence, therefore Joshua was commanded to put off his shoes. {1SP 347.3-348.1}

The angel was Jesus, and Joshua was ordered to take off his shoes. What exactly does this mean? The text goes on:

The burning bush seen by Moses was also a token of the Divine Presence; and as he drew nigh to behold the wonderful sight, the same voice which here speaks to Joshua, said to Moses, "Draw not nigh hither. Put off thy shoes from off thy feet; for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground."

The glory of God hallowed the sanctuary; and for this reason the priests never entered the place sanctified by God's presence with shoes upon their feet. Particles of dust might cleave to their shoes, which would desecrate the sanctuary; therefore the priests were required to leave their shoes in the court, before entering the sanctuary. In the court, beside the door of the tabernacle, stood the brazen laver, wherein the priests washed their hands and their feet before entering the tabernacle, that all impurity might be removed, "that they die not." All who officiated in the sanctuary were required of God to make special preparations before entering where God's glory was revealed. {1SP 348.2-3}

Moses and Joshua are the only persons in the Bible that were ordered to take off their shoes because they were symbolically entering into the heavenly sanctuary where the presence of Jesus Christ was. Please note that the shoes were left in the court! What this means is that the things Jesus was about to tell Joshua would take place symbolically in the sanctuary.

In order to convey to the mind of Joshua that he was no less than Christ, the exalted one, he says, "Loose thy shoe from off thy foot." The Lord then instructed Joshua what course to pursue in order to take Jericho. All the men of war should be commanded to compass the city once each day for six days, and on the seventh day they should go around Jericho seven times. {1SP 348.4}

Jesus Himself explains to Joshua how Jericho must be conquered. Jericho symbolizes the walls that separate us from the Heavenly City, the New Jerusalem. If this wall of sin would fall, we would have free entrance to Heaven. This will happen at the second coming of Jesus. But before that, Jesus explained to Joshua how Jericho must be surrounded, and this is of the highest symbolic importance for us today.

"And Joshua, the son of Nun, called the priests, and said unto them, Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the Lord. And he said unto the people, Pass on, and compass the city, and let him that is armed pass on before the ark of the Lord. And it came to pass, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests bearing seven trumpets of rams' horns passed on before the Lord, and blew with the trumpets; and the ark of the covenant of the Lord followed them. And the armed men went before the priests that blew with the trumpets, and the rearward came after the ark, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets. And Joshua had commanded the people, saying, Ye shall not shout, nor make any noise with your voice, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you shout; then shall ye shout. So the ark of the Lord compassed the city, going about it once; and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp." {1SP 349.1}

Ellen White connects these marches around Jericho, the blowing of the trumpets, and the carrying of the ark of the covenant directly with us as Seventh-day Adventists in "Testimonies to Ministers and Gospel Workers":

Satan has laid every measure possible that nothing shall come among us as a people to reprove and rebuke us, and exhort us to put away our errors. But there is a people who will bear the ark of God. Some will go out from among us who will bear the ark no longer. But these cannot make walls to obstruct the truth; for it will go onward and upward to the end. In the past God has raised up men, and He still has men of opportunity waiting, prepared to do His bidding--men who will go through restrictions which are only as walls daubed with untempered mortar. When God puts His Spirit upon men, they will work. They will proclaim the word of the Lord; they will lift up their voice like a trumpet. The truth will not be diminished or lose its power in their hands. They will show the people their transgressions, and the house of Jacob their sins. {TM 411.1}

The history of the conquest of Jericho goes on:

The Hebrew host marched in perfect order. First went a select body of armed men, clad in their warlike dress, not now to exercise their skill in arms, but only to believe and obey the directions given them. Next followed seven priests with trumpets. Then came the ark of God, glittering with gold, a halo of glory hovering over it, borne by priests in their rich and peculiar dress denoting their sacred office. The vast army of Israel followed in perfect order, each tribe under its respective standard. Thus they compassed the city with the ark of God. No sound was heard but the tread of that mighty host, and the solemn voice of the trumpets, echoed by the hills, and resounding through the city of Jericho. With wonder and alarm the watchmen of that doomed city mark every move, and report to those in authority. They cannot tell what all this display means. Some ridicule the idea of that city's being taken in this manner, while others are awed, as they behold the splendor of the ark, and the solemn and dignified appearance of the priests, and the host of Israel following, with Joshua at their head. They remember that the Red Sea, forty years before, parted before them, and that a passage had just been prepared for them through the river Jordan. They are too much terrified to sport. They are strict to keep the gates of the city closely shut, and mighty warriors to guard each gate. For six days, the armies of Israel perform their circuit around the city. On the seventh day, they compassed Jericho seven times. The people were commanded, as usual, to be silent. The voice of the trumpets alone was to be heard. The people were to observe, and when the trumpeters should make a longer blast than usual, then all were to shout with a loud voice, for God had given them the city. "And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early, about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city, after the same manner, seven times; only on that day they compassed the city seven times. And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, Shout; for the Lord hath given you the city." "So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets. And it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the wall fell down flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city."

God intended to show the Israelites that the conquest of Canaan was not to be ascribed to them. The captain of the Lord's host overcame Jericho. He and his angels were engaged in the conquest. Christ commanded the armies of Heaven to throw down the walls of Jericho, and prepare an entrance for Joshua and the armies of Israel. God, in this wonderful miracle, not only strengthened the faith of his people in his power to subdue their enemies, but rebuked their former unbelief.

Jericho had defied the armies of Israel and the God of Heaven. And as they beheld the host of Israel marching around their city once each day, they were alarmed; but they looked at their strong defenses, their firm and high walls, and felt sure that they could resist any attack. But when their firm walls suddenly tottered and fell, with a stunning crash, like peals of loudest thunder, they were paralyzed with terror, and could offer no resistance. {ISP 349.2-351.2}

Now let's recapitulate what we have learned:

Jesus presents Himself to Joshua as the Captain of the heavenly host with a sword and first tells Joshua to take off his shoes:

And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, there stood a man over against him with his sword drawn in his hand: and Joshua went unto him, and said unto him, Art thou for us, or for our adversaries? And he said, Nay; but as captain of the host of the LORD am I now come. And Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and did worship, and said unto him, What saith my lord unto his servant? And the captain of the LORD'S host said unto Joshua, Loose thy shoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou standest is holy. And Joshua did so. (Joshua 5:13-15)

To understand which eschatological time this points to, we have to examine all of the symbolism that is given here. We understand that it is Jesus Himself who is talking to Joshua. But He also marks a very special moment in history. Before this scene happened, the Israelites had passed the Jordan (Joshua 5:1), were newly circumcised (Joshua 5:3-8), prepared the Passover, and changed their diet from Manna to corn and fruits of the land of Canaan. These are all symbols for the acceptance of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ, His death on the cross for us. The text does not say how many days have passed after the Israelites celebrated the Passover until Joshua sees Jesus standing before Jericho with sword in hand, but we can infer how long from the Passover type, which symbolized Jesus' death and resurrection. 40 days passed before Jesus went to heaven. When Jesus arrived in heaven, He started His first ministry in the heavenly sanctuary in the year 31 A.D., and all Adventists should know that this was in the Holy Place of the heavenly sanctuary. This was His first high-priestly ministry.

When He commanded Joshua to take off his shoes, Jesus was communicating to us exactly where we are in the flow of Christian history. The Priests had to take off their shoes when they entered the Holy Place, leaving their shoes in the court as we saw before. This can only mean that what Jesus will say from that moment on will start when Jesus entered the Holy Place in the year 31. This is the moment that was explained in one verse by the Apostle Paul in the letter to the Hebrews:

Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. (Hebrews 9:12)

And what does Jesus tell Joshua and us now? What did he/we have to do to conquer Jericho and enter Canaan/Heaven?

And the LORD said unto Joshua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour. And ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once. Thus shalt thou do six days. And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven trumpets of rams' horns: and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times, and the priests shall blow with the trumpets. And it shall come to pass, that when they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when ye hear the sound of the trumpet, all the people shall shout with a great shout; and the wall of the city shall fall down flat, and the people shall ascend up every man straight before him. (Joshua 6:2-5)

Jesus is describing here the whole history of His people from the moment He entered the Holy Place of the heavenly sanctuary in the year 31, onward until the real conquest of heaven. There have to be six marches on the first six days and then seven marches on the seventh day. This is the foundation for all of the understanding of the repetition of the seals, churches, and even the trumpets as we will see in a future article. In the classical Adventist interpretation, we have just reached the end of the sixth day!

Since we know the doctrine of the sanctuary, we understand today that Jesus went from the Holy Place into the Most Holy Place in 1844. He began His second service and ministry in the Most Holy Place: the purification of the heavenly sanctuary. This is the last day of earthly history: The Day of the Investigative Judgment in Heaven; day number seven in the conquest of Jericho. Jesus explains that the marches around Jericho have to be repeated once more in that day: and the seventh day ye shall compass the city seven times.

Please continue reading part II of History Repeats for a detailed comparison between the classical and modern interpretations of the seals in light of Jericho, and a modern interpretation of the seven churches and why the Orion Message is not "astrology"...

History Repeats - Part II

Written by John Scotram

Here I want to show you a short summary of the classical interpretation of the seven seals that is almost untouched by my studies. I take this from an official Bible course of the Seventh-day Adventist church (Viene un Nuevo Tiempo, Lesson 9, The Seven Seals of Revelation). I would like to emphasize how the classical interpretation of the seals harmonizes with the additional interpretation of the repetition of the first six seals since 1846 based on the model of Jericho. The italics are the original text of the lesson and normal font are my comparisons.

The course reads:

Many times we hear others talking about the 7 seals, the 4 horses and the 4 riders of Revelation. All of those are a part of the same prophecy. The 4 riders and their corresponding horses appear in the 4 first seals.

What are the 7 seals of Revelation representing? Evidently they are prophesying the basic characteristics of 7 periods through which the church goes from its foundation until the second coming of Jesus, which is described in the last part of the sixth seal.

First Seal: The Pure Doctrine

Period	Seal	Jericho	Interpretation
31-99	1. Seal, Rev 6:1,2	Day 1 march	The era of the Holy Apostles (1st century) coinciding with the church of Ephesus. They received the pure doctrine by the Holy Bible to predicate it (Mark 16:15, 16). They had to face many quarrels (Acts 4:1-3, 18-20, 24-30; 5:17-20, 26-29; 6:8; 7:60) but they did not allow the doctrines to be stained. There were also great victories for Christ: 3,000 conversions at Pentecost; 5,000 more a few days later; the conversion of Saul, and the spreading of the Gospel to the whole then-known world (Col. 1:6,23). If we want to know the pure doctrine of Christ, we have to study the Holy Bible because it is written there by the Holy Apostles in the period of the white horse.
1846-1914	1. Seal repeated	Day 7 march 1	The era of the Adventist pioneers coincides with the repetition of the church of Ephesus. They received the pure doctrine by the Holy Bible to predicate it (Mark 16:15, 16). They had to face many quarrels but they did not allow the doctrines to be stained. There were also great victories for Christ: many converted at that time. Ellen White was called by God and the Gospel went to the whole known world. If we want to know the pure doctrine of Christ, we have to study the Holy Bible and the testimonies of the Spirit of Prophecy , because it is written there by the Holy Apostles and the messenger of God in the period of the white horse.

Second Seal: Shedding of Blood

Period	Seal	Jericho	Interpretation
100-313	2. Seal, Rev 6:3,4	Day 2 march	The color red and the symbols of this seal are talking undoubtedly about the shedding of blood. It is the period of the 10 general persecutions that the Roman empire undertook against the Christians who preferred to die before renouncing their faithful obedience to biblical principles. This seal started with the death of the last Apostle (John, at the end of the first century) and lasts until the year 313, when Constantine signed the Edict of Milan. It coincides with the period of the church of Smyrna.
1914-1945	2. Seal repeated	Day 7 march 2	The color red and the symbols of this seal are talking undoubtedly about the shedding of blood. It is the period of the general persecutions of those who profess to be Jews (Adventists) but are the synagogue of Satan against their

			fellow brethren who preferred to die before renouncing their faithful obedience to biblical principles starting in WWI. This seal started almost exactly with the death of the last messenger of God (Ellen G. White in 1915) and lasts until the year 1945 and the last 10 years of persecution have been especially terrible. It coincides with the period of the church of Smyrna.

Third Seal: The Truth is Cast to the Ground

313-538	3. Seal, Rev 6:5,6	Day 3 march	The church, which was facing quarrels to maintain the pureness of its doctrines and which saw the shedding of the blood of its members who did not renounce the truth, now is represented by the color black, antithesis to white. The blackness many times represents the comparison of the Holy Bible to moral obscurity, sin, apostasy or error. It corresponds to the period from 313 to 538. Paul prophesied about a time when the doctrines would change by a paganizing process (Acts 20:27-31, 2 Thess. 2:3-6, 2 Tim. 4:1-4). Peter prophesied too how the church would spoil itself one day (2 Pet. 2:1-3). The pair of balances represents the spirit of commercialization and materialism that was going to penetrate the church. One penny was the salary for one day of work, which was only enough to buy 1.44 lbs. of wheat or less than 3 lbs. (2.34 lbs.) of barley. This is the symbol of extreme scarcity of the Word of God that was forbidden in that time (Amos 8:11,12), which produced famine to hear the Word. Many doctrines begin to die and pagan creeds entered (Example: On the 7th of March, 321, Constantine enacts the oldest known Sunday Law.) The majority go along with the process of doctrinal deterioration. Just a few faithful (remnant) continue to respect the biblical truth. The oil represents the Holy Spirit (Zech. 4:2-6). The wine represents the blood of Christ shed for sinners (Mat. 26:27-29).
1936-1986	3. Seal repeated	Day 7 march 3	The church, which was facing quarrels to maintain the pureness of its doctrines and which saw the shedding of the blood of its members who did not renounce the truth, now is represented by the color black, antithesis to white. The blackness many times represents the comparison of the Holy Bible to moral obscurity, sin, apostasy or error. It corresponds to the period from 1936 to 1986. Ellen G. White prophesied about a time when the doctrines would change by a paganizing process (Acts 20:27-31 [see Appendix A], 2 Thess. 2:3-6 [see Appendix B], 2 Tim. 4:1-4 [see Appendix C]). Ellen G. White prophesied too how the church would spoil itself one day (2 Pet. 2:1-3 [see Appendix D]). The pair of balances represents the spirit of commercialization and materialism that was going to penetrate the church. One penny was the salary for one day of work, which was only enough to buy 1.44 lbs. of wheat or less than 3 lbs. (2.34 lbs.) of barley. This is the symbol of extreme scarcity of the Word of God that was changed in that time (Amos 8:11,12), which produced famine to hear the Word. Many doctrines begin to die and pagan creeds enter (Example: There is a complete article series regarding the Omega apostasy of SDA church: The Throne Lines). The majority go along with the process of doctrinal deterioration. Just a few faithful (remnant) continue to respect the biblical truth. The oil represents the Holy Spirit (Zech. 4:2-6). The wine represents the blood of Christ shed for sinners (Mat. 26:27-29).

538-1517 (1798, see remarks)	4. Seal, Rev 6:7,8	Day 4 march	The symbolism expresses the horrible distress of the era of inquisition foretold by Jesus (Mat. 24:21) and also Daniel (Dan. 7:21,25; 12:7) and what we can study in Rev. 13:5. It corresponds to the years from 538, when the Justinian Decree was implemented, until 1517, the start of the Reformation. The pure doctrines are trampled down more and more and the paganized Christians persecute relentlessly the few remnant faithful to the biblical doctrine.
1986-2016	4. Seal repeated	Day 7 march 4	The symbolism expresses the horrible distress of the era of inquisition foretold by Jesus (Mat. 24:21) and also Daniel (Dan. 12:7) and what we can study in Rev. 13:5. It corresponds to the years from 1986, when the Seventh-day Adventist church started to participate openly with ecumenism, until 2016, the destruction of the great whore shortly before the 2nd coming of Jesus. The pure doctrines are trampled down more and more and the paganized Christians persecute relentlessly the few remnant faithful to the biblical doctrine.

1. Actually, the fourth seal did not end in 1517 because the prophecy of Revelation 13:5 did not end there. It ended in 1798 when the first beast of Revelation 13 received its "mortal" wound. Also, the Reformation did not start exactly in 1517, but a long time before with Wycliffe. We can see here, that the commentators do have problems in adjusting the time flow of the seals, beginning with the fourth seal, because the eras start to overlap. The only key for the real understanding is the Clock of God in Orion. The fifth, sixth and seventh seals are also part of the fourth! In the repetition of the fourth seal, the papal power succeeded in infiltrating the Adventist church with Jesuits and false doctrines as it was foretold by Ellen White. But when they see that there is still a remnant obeying the original faith of the fathers, they change their tactics—as Satan always does—from the persecution of the second seal, to the infiltration and false doctrines of the third and fourth seal, and back to persecution again in the fifth seal.
2. The era of the inquisition will also be repeated in the fourth seal. This time it will be not 1260 prophetic years as in Daniel 7:21,25 but 1260 literal days as in Daniel 12:7. This era will start in spring 2013 and end shortly before the coming of Jesus, in autumn 2016. The Shadow series, with its detailed study of the Jewish festivals, gives us the exact day of Jesus' second coming and therefore also indirectly the date of the beginning of the Sunday Laws in 2014/15. [\[In the first edition of this article we did not have the exact calculation. It still contained the "Millerite" error of one year, which was improved in January 2013. Fifth Seal: A Time of Persecution

1571-1755	5. Seal, Rev 6:9-11	Day 5 march	The animals were sacrificed on the altar of bronze in the sanctuary of the Old Testament. The sacrifice was burned and its blood was shed at the base of the altar (Lev. 4:7). The life or soul is in the blood (Lev. 17:11, Deut. 12:23). The symbol is clear: The blood of the martyrs of the few remnant faithful who did not accept the doctrinal paganization is shed like a sacrifice at the base of the altar. This blood symbolically cries to God like the blood of Abel who was killed by his brother (Gen. 4:10). The white robes symbolize the dignity which was conferred to them by the righteousness of Christ (Rev. 19:8, 3:5, 7:14). But even having gained the victory in Christ, they would have to rest in their graves a little while until Jesus will come and give them and all the faithful their rewards at the same time (Heb. 11:39-40). The fifth seal covers the period from 1571 to 1755.

Sixth Seal: We Are Nearing the End

Period	Seal	Jericho	Interpretation
1755- Second Coming	6. Seal, Rev 6:3,4	Day 6 march	The sixth seal culminates with the Second Coming of Christ. Therefore, we can call it appropriately: The time of the end. The great earthquake has been identified by many theologians as the Great Earthquake of Lisbon, at the 1st of November, 1755. The darkening of the sun occurred on the 19th of May, 1780. The darkening of the moon occurred in the night of the same day (19th of May, 1780). The falling stars happened on the 13th of November, 1833. These four events marked the beginning of the time of the end, which will terminate with the Second Coming of Christ. Facing the Second Coming of Christ, those who have taken shelter in the saving mercy will receive eternal life; and those who will have refused salvation in Christ have to suffer the consequences. Jesus already said: "For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." (John 3:17,18)
2011-Close of Probation	6. Seal repeated	Day 7 march 6	The sixth seal culminates with the close of probation before Christ's second coming. Therefore, we can call it appropriately: The time of the end. We have identified the great earthquake as that of east Japan on March 11, 2011. The darkening of the sun took place on July 13, 2013. The darkening of the moon began with the blood moon tetrad (April 15, 2014). The falling of the stars will be the fireball event, which was seen by Ellen White in two visions. These are four events which will mark the beginning of the time of the end, which will culminate in the Second Coming of Christ. Facing the Second Coming of Christ, those who have taken shelter in the saving mercy will receive eternal life; and those who will have refused salvation in Christ have to suffer the consequences. Jesus already said: "For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." (John 3:17,18)

Remarks:

1. When probation closes, the time of the plagues will begin. The sixth seal was made like a countdown. The signs happen in the exact sequence given, repeating since March 11, 2011 as we have been predicting for a long time. The first three signs—the earthquake, darkening of sun and moon turning to blood—already happened in the seal repetition.
2. The falling stars or fireballs which Ellen White saw will literally fall, because the previous signs also happened literally. At the end of the repeated sixth seal is an event that shows the unfaithful people that the heavens opened, and will ultimately make clear that now the time of plagues begins, without them having prepared themselves and therefore they are lost. That's why they want to hide from the presence of the Lamb. In the Wrath of God series, we write about it in detail. Jesus' intercessory service in the heavenly sanctuary will have ended at the end of the sixth repeat seal, when nobody can be saved anymore. Only the 144,000 will go through the great tribulation of the plagues until the Second Coming of Jesus without Intercessor and without seeing death.
3. The classical interpretation of the sixth seal still corresponds to the Millerites and was never really re-thought by the Adventist Church. The followers of Miller and Snow believed at that time that the Second Coming would take place on the same day as "the great day of his wrath," on October 22/23, 1844. When it did not happen—although many people back then felt the fear that is described in the biblical text of the sixth seal, and Hiram Edson saw the heaven departing like a scroll on the same day—the Adventist interpreters extended the sixth seal into our time and to the real return of Jesus. According to this interpretation, we have been stuck in the middle of the sixth seal since the night of the Leonids meteor storm of November 12/13, 1833, and stand rooted waiting for a fulfillment of the very few missing prophecies of this seal. See the [addendum to this article for an indepth analysis of the issue.]

4. Nevertheless, this is against God’s principle of prophetic revelation, which is always progressive. The closer we get to a prophetic event, the more detail God reveals to us. You can study that in the Power of the Father article. The Jericho model reflects God’s principle of progressive revelation in a perfect way. The first six days were long marches since the year 31 till the year 1844. It was 1812 years for six marches. That’s an average of 302 years per march. On the last day, the seventh day, the Israelites had to march around the city 7 times in one day. If we calculate the average as follows: 2014 - 1846 (168 years) / 7 marches, we get only 24 years. The comparison shows us that we have a much more detailed revelation shortly before the coming of Christ, and this is in line with God’s progressive revelation, which is one of the most important biblical principles in the interpretation of prophecy. To see how the sixth seal in the repetition fulfilled, read [Signs of the End and its addendum, and also the Orion presentation slides 101 to 114.]

Seventh Seal: Lo, He is coming in the clouds!

Period	Seal	Jericho	Interpretation
???	7. Seal, Rev 8:1	Day 7, march 7	This silence will occur at the occasion of the Second Coming of Christ, when Heaven will be empty. The angels will come with Jesus (Mat. 25:31). Some have applied the prophetic principle of one day for a year to this half an hour and say that it could represent one literal week.
Spring 2012 - Autumn 2015	7. Seal, Rev 8:1	Day 7 march 7	This silence will occur at the occasion of the Second Coming of Christ, when Heaven will hold its breath till the Judgment of the Living is over . The angels wait, eager to come with Jesus (Mat. 25:31). Some have applied the prophetic principle of one day for a year to this half an hour and say that it could represent one literal week, but that is unfortunately wrong .

Remarks:

1. At the end of the comparison, we unfortunately do not coincide. The seventh seal with the half-hour silence in heaven is not the coming of Christ, but the judgment of the living. There are many different interpretations of the first six seals in Adventism, which differ only slightly, but not a single interpretation of the seventh seal takes into account the fact that heavenly time does not correspond to earthly time. None of them take the Orion Clock into consideration. But we know that half an hour in heaven is 3½ years on earth, and this corresponds to the duration of the judgment of the living according to the oath of Jesus in Daniel 12, and the name "Daniel" means "God is my judge". It is about the last phase of the judgment—on the living—which will decide the fate of the entire universe and God Himself.
2. This last day of Jericho follows the principle of progressive prophetic revelation, and the Orion Clock includes the further details that God wants to give us. The exact years of the repeated seals and the new understanding of the seventh seal are key to understanding what happened to His people during this last heavenly day of history, the Investigative Judgment of the Dead and the Living. Thus, God also shows where His chosen judgment people are located, so that they can be found by others in the Loud Cry! Many say that I attack old interpretations, but I hope I have shown now that this is clearly not the case. New light must be in harmony with old light! And the Orion message does not break this rule. On the contrary, it confirms the old and true light and dissolves misunderstandings.

As we have seen in the PowerPoint presentation of the Orion study, the first four churches of Revelation chapter 2 run parallel to the first four seals. The last three should be interpreted as spiritual states, but also contain very important prophetic messages that apply specifically to our time.

In the light of the type of Jericho for the repetition of the seals, we cannot leave out an interpretation of the last three churches. I would like to stress again how the pioneers interpreted the last three churches:

In the early years after the 1844 experience, Sabbatarian Adventists identified themselves as the church of Philadelphia, other Adventists as Laodiceans, and non-Adventists as Sardis. However, by 1854 Ellen White was led to point out that "the remnant were not prepared for what is coming upon the earth. Stupidity, like lethargy, seemed to hang upon the minds of most of those who profess to believe that we are having the last message. . . . Ye suffer your minds to be diverted too readily from the work of preparation and the all-important truths for these last days." By 1856 James White, Uriah Smith, and J. H. Waggoner were clearly telling the young Adventist groups that the Laodicean message applied to Sabbatarian Adventists as well as others who were "lukewarm" in their Christian experience. They, too, needed thorough repentance. Further, they combined in their conclusion that the third angel's message was the final message to the "rebellious world," and the Laodicean message was the final message to a "lukewarm church." {www.whiteestate.org}

Please note that Ellen White recognized that something went wrong with the Advent people already in 1854 and that the Laodicean message would even apply to the Sabbatarian Adventists. This confirms our view of the repetition of the seals and churches, because the people had to restart the marches around Jericho for a whole new cycle of seven marches. The question is, where are we right now, having almost finished the seventh day around Jericho?

Let's just look at the Orion Clock! The last day of Jericho started in 1846 and we are now [\[at the first publishing of this article\]](#) in the year 2010. We are exactly 2 years before 2012 which corresponds to 1844. We are in the time corresponding to the preaching of Christ's soon coming by the Millerite movement in the first cycle. As history tells us, Miller confused 1844 with the Second Coming and indeed it was the proclamation of the beginning of the Investigative Judgment. In the repetition of the seals and churches we are also at a crucial point in history: the proclamation of the end of the Investigative Judgment, respectively the proclamation of the beginning of the Judgment of the Living. "Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets." (Amos 3:7)

Which one of the seven churches applied to the Millerite movement, or the movement of the First Angel of Revelation 14:7? It was one of only two churches that were without blame: Philadelphia! And what was the message of Philadelphia?

Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters. (Revelation 14:7)

"The HOUR of his judgment" is a time message. It was the message of Miller since 1833, and especially since 1841, as we read in "Early Writings". And this corresponds to the Orion Message since 2010. The Judgment of the Dead will end in 2012, and the Judgment of the Living will begin! Prepare yourself and give glory to God by keeping the Sabbath during tribulation!

What are the reactions of our contemporary brethren in other denominations? According to the beliefs of the Advent people in the corresponding time of the pioneers, they were "Sardis". So, do we find in the prophecy of Sardis any hints that have to do with heeding the warning of a "time message"?

Yes, indeed:

And unto the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead. Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God. Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:1-3)

We even find a hint as to where the time message will come from and what the key for understanding it is: The seven stars! Whoever doesn't watch will not know what hour Jesus will come. The message of the seven stars of Orion reveals the year of the close of probation and the year of Jesus' coming. Whoever doesn't watch will not receive the blessing of the few in Sardis that is mentioned in the other verses of the prophecy to Sardis:

Thou hast a few names even in Sardis which have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy. He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches. (Revelation 3:4-6)

The blotting out of the name of the book of life is done when? Exactly, at the end of Investigative Judgment! Another hint that we are talking about the same time period for Sardis and Philadelphia.

And who is Sardis today? Which denominations are meant? Surely all faithful Christians in any of the denominations who profess to believe in Jesus Christ. He is the name mentioned in the verse: "I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead." We are talking about spiritual states more than denominations. Whoever accepts the last message out of the mouth of Jesus is saved, and whoever rejects it is not.

But what about Laodicea? The Pioneers identified Laodicea as the other Adventists who had not accepted the Sabbath truth! They did not accept new light! They professed to study the Bible but thought they were already rich and in need of nothing. Jesus counsels them to buy eyesalve from Him that they may see. This is definitely God's professed people, who again reject all new light that God wants to give them by the message of Philadelphia:

"These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth" (Rev. 3:7).

I was shown in vision, and I still believe, that there was a shut door in 1844. All who saw the light of the first and second angels' messages and rejected that light, were left in darkness. And those who accepted it and received the Holy Spirit which attended the proclamation of the message from heaven, and who afterward renounced their faith and pronounced their experience a delusion, thereby rejected the Spirit of God, and it no longer pleaded with them.

Those who did not see the light, had not the guilt of its rejection. It was only the class who had despised the light from heaven that the Spirit of God could not reach. And this class included, as I have stated, both those who refused to accept the message when it was presented to them, and also those who, having received it, afterward renounced their faith. These might have a form of godliness, and profess to be followers of Christ; but having no living connection with God, they would be taken captive by the delusions of Satan. These two classes are brought to view in the vision--those who declared the light which they had followed a delusion, and the wicked of the world who, having rejected the light, had been rejected of God. No reference is made to those who had not seen the light, and therefore were not guilty of its rejection. {1SM 63.8-10}

We should be very careful not to reject light from the Throne of God. Either the message to Sardis or to Laodicea applies to those who do not accept the rays of light that emanate from Heaven.

It is easy in Seventh-day Adventist churches to reject new light as coming from Satan. Ellen White had orders from God to write a lot against false doctrines that would enter church. But as we will see in The Throne Lines, these doctrines are also marked in Orion. Who is able to discern a warning message to get prepared and confess and turn away from all hidden sins, from a false message that sings lullabies to our consciences and keeps us calm, believing that we can be saved in our sins? Who is able to see the difference between a message that marks all the sins of His people and a message of false glorification of a sinful just professing people? What is the context of the Sardis and Laodicean messages? Is it reproach and counsel for change or "Well done, faithful servant"? What is the context of the Orion message? Where does it lead you?

At this point, I want to share a letter that I received a few days ago from brethren in a faraway country:

Dear Brother Scotram,

The Blessing of the Almighty be upon you and your wife. How have you been since last we spoke. I must apologize though for the delay in responding to your last email. Please forgive our tardiness. But you must know that you and your wife have not escaped of thoughts and our prayers. I was very thrilled to know that God has been able to use me to bless you with encouragement. I printed out your email and took it home to share with my husband, we were just so elated that God has made us all to be recipients of His wonderful blessings.

Sadly, though the problems you have noted in some of your writings concerning the Church is also manifested here in ... which proves that it is indeed a worldwide infestation drowsiness in our church. The thing that we have been trying to do is, to help our brethren become aware of the times in which we live.

Because we are nestled in ... and a lot of the world news and issues seldom reach us ... we apparently for some ungodly reason seem to think that we have time. My brother, our churches here are filled with those whom I call the "put to right" folks. Everyone claims the Holy Spirit has guided them to go talk to someone to correct or to convict them about their wrongs or faults. Unfortunately, many of our members have been pushed out of the church by the approaches of such. The gossiping is at an all-time high and genuine affection is at an all-time low. Hypocrisy is rampant in the church frankly it is a heart rending situation.

We have been desperately seeking from our God ways/opportunities in which we can share with our fellow brethren the things we have learnt from what has been revealed to you via the workings of the Holy Spirit. Things that we have learnt and that have brought my husband and I to our knees in prayer and re-consecration. The experience we have had as a result of studying the things you have shared, has revived us and caused us to consciously work upon living Holy Lives. Nonetheless, we will continue to fight the good fight of faith, we will stay on the course, we will weary but will not faint. We will endure to the end. We will continue to lift our brethren in prayer.

Peace be upon you dear brother; peace be upon your household. Be steadfast till the end. Until we write again.

Love & prayer to you and your wife.

Testimonies like this clearly show where the Orion Message leads: to repentance and change, to a better spiritual life and a more intimate relation with our Saviour. Is this a message to put under a bushel?

Many, especially members of the SDA Reform churches, confuse the message with astrology. This comes from a poor understanding of three facts:

1. Orion is not part of the Zodiac and has nothing to do with Astrology.
2. Satan is the great imitator of God. He wants to have everything that Jesus has.

Jesus has His sacred form of adoration	Satan has a spurious form of adoration, Sun worship
Jesus has His sacred holy day of rest, the Sabbath	Satan has a spurious day of rest, Sunday
Jesus has 10 sacred commandments	Satan has 10 spurious commandments, human rights

The list could go on and on...but to get to the point:

Jesus has a sacred formula based on biblical numbers, which announces the duration of Judgment of the Dead (7 × 24), that leads to 2012 as the beginning of the Judgment of the Living and further to the year of Jesus eternal reign.	Satan has a spurious formula based on numerology, which announces the union of the two beasts of Revelation 13 to start His reign: 18 × 13, that leads to 2010 as the announcement of the reign of "Neptune" (see The Year of Saul).
Jesus has a sacred last message for His people based on Genesis 1:14 "And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years. " that announces His Second Coming: The Orion Message and Shadows Message .	Satan has a spurious last message for his people based on astrology, the alignment of the Zodiac in 2012, announcing the false second coming: The Age of Aquarius

3. Ellen White spoke about Orion, the Bible speaks about Orion, and that the ancient Jews watched carefully the star constellations. Is this Astrology or Astronomy? Is Ellen White now an astrologer? And... what about the wise men of the Orient who saw the star of Jesus? Were they also astrologers, and an abomination to God? Or is this rather a type for the Second Coming? Yes, we know from Ellen White that the star of Bethlehem was a cloud of angels. But this is still a type for the Second Coming, when Jesus with all the angels of heaven will come in the cloud which is made up of the angels. And what is Orion according to the study? The seven stars of Orion are all messengers: The three Persons of the Godhead, and four living creatures, again angels or seraphim. Whoever confuses this with astrology has no idea what astrology really is.

Criticism like this comes mostly from people who really don't have much knowledge about occult practices and lack a deeper understanding of the creation of God. The Bible explicitly mentions the "book of nature" including the firmament and the stars of heaven as bearing important lessons for God's people, and so does the Spirit of Prophecy:

In his isolated home John was able to study more closely than ever before the manifestations of divine power as recorded in the book of nature and in the pages of inspiration. To him it was a delight to meditate on the work of creation and to adore the divine Architect. In former years his eyes had been greeted by the sight of forest-covered hills, green valleys, and fruitful plains; and in the beauties of nature it had ever been his delight to trace the wisdom and skill of the Creator. He was now surrounded by scenes that to many would appear gloomy and uninteresting; but to John it was otherwise. While his surroundings might be desolate and barren, the blue heavens that bent above him were as bright and beautiful as the skies above his loved Jerusalem. In the wild, rugged rocks, in the mysteries of the deep, in the glories of the firmament, he read important lessons. All bore the message of God's power and glory. {AA 571.2}

God's Voice in His Handiwork.--Wherever we turn, we hear the voice of God and behold His handiwork. From the solemn roll of the deep-toned thunder and old ocean's ceaseless roar, to the glad songs that make the forests vocal with melody, nature's ten thousand voices speak His praise. In earth and sea and sky, with their marvelous tint and color, varying in gorgeous contrast or blended in harmony, we behold His glory. The everlasting hills tell of His power. The trees that wave their green banners in the sunlight, and the flowers in their delicate beauty, point to their Creator. The living green that carpets the brown earth tells of God's care for the humblest of His creatures. The caves of the sea and the depths of the earth reveal His treasures. He who placed the pearls in the ocean and the amethyst and chrysolite among the rocks is a lover of the beautiful. The sun rising in the heavens is a representative of Him who is the life and light of all that He has made. All the brightness and beauty that adorn the earth and light up the heavens speak of God. {CG 53.1}

If we will but listen, God's created works will teach us precious lessons of obedience and trust. From the stars that in their trackless course through space, follow from age to age their appointed path, down to the minutest atom, the things of nature obey the Creator's will. And God cares for everything and sustains everything that he has created. He who upholds the unnumbered worlds throughout immensity, at the same time cares for the wants of the little brown sparrow that sings its humble song without a fear. {CE 54.4}

But like the stars in the vast circuit of their appointed path, God's purposes know no haste and no delay. Through the symbols of the great darkness and the smoking furnace, God had revealed to Abraham the bondage of Israel in Egypt, and had declared that the time of their sojourning should be four hundred years. "Afterward," He said, "shall they come out with great substance." Gen. 15:14. Against that word, all the power of Pharaoh's proud empire battled in vain. On "the self-same day" appointed in the divine promise, "it came to pass, that all the hosts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt." Ex. 12:41. So in heaven's council the hour for the coming of Christ had been determined. When the great clock of time pointed to that hour, Jesus was born in Bethlehem. {DA 32.1}

Our pioneer Uriah Smith, who was held in high esteem in the books of Ellen White, also writes about observing the stars and where John has seen the processes of end-time events:

"And there appeared a great wonder in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun; and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars:" (Revelation 12:1)

"In heaven" refers to the space where the Apostle [John] saw this phenomenon. We must not assume that the scene that was shown here John took place in the heavens where God dwells, as this is happening on Earth. This vision, which the eyes of the prophet saw, took place in the region occupied by the sun, the moon and the stars, which we call the firmament. {Daniel and Revelation - Uriah Smith (1944), p. 220}

Summary:

We have learned that Ellen White waited for the coming of Jesus in her time. But in 1888, a process of degradation began in the Seventh-day Adventist church because they refused the second part of the message of Jones and Waggoner, about the obedience to the precepts of God which is the indispensable consequence of accepting the gift of "Justification by Faith". "But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" (James 2:20)

Therefore, the Seventh-day Adventist church failed in its goal to enter heaven directly. Ellen White told us in clear words that the church had to wander in the wilderness again like the Israelites for "40" years. We are now at the end of this long wandering that has already taken 166 years. Like the Israelites under Joshua, we have to circumcise ourselves again and ready ourselves for the ultimate conquest of our Jericho, that is "Babylon, the Great". We have to fight all worldliness in the church and in our lives to obtain a Christ-like character which is our only ticket to Heaven.

We understand that false doctrines have been put in place in the church, but we still need another study of the Clock of God in Orion to expose what these false doctrines are in particular, and where the root of all evil lies in the church. This will be revealed in the next article series entitled The Throne Lines.

And now, we also understand why Jesus is holding a sword in His hand when He presents Himself to Joshua. The sword always represents God's word; the Bible. Jesus wanted to give all future generations that would come after His sacrifice and after He had started His heavenly ministry, the special key to the understanding of the seven-rows (churches, seals, trumpets) in His Revelation. This key is the conquest of Jericho that tells us that the seven-rows are repeated at the Investigative Judgment Day (the Seventh Day) in Heaven.

The other key held by Jesus in His right hand in Revelation chapter 1, are the "Seven Stars of Orion". These stars tell us that time is running out. All of Revelation was given so we can get ready for the greatest event in all history: the Second Coming of Christ. Therefore, I want to close this article with the words at the end of the lesson of the Revelation course that we used to compare the classical and the new interpretation of the seven seals, in the light of the model of Jericho and the Orion Clock:

My Decision: I believe that Jesus will soon come again to bring me home and give me eternal life. Therefore, I decide by the grace of God, to study the Bible daily, respect all of its doctrines and prepare myself to receive Jesus in peace. As...*

Addendum to History Repeats, Part II

Written by Ray Dickinson

Published: Wednesday, August 24, 2016

As discussed above, the repetition of the seals is based on the model of Jericho, where on the first six days, they made only one lap around the city, but on the seventh day, they made seven laps around the city. The important point is that the first six seals are represented by marches that were each on a separate day, with a rest in between. The repeated seals, however, are represented by seven marches all in one day, with no rest in between. In other words, while we may legitimately understand certain of the repeated seals to overlap, this would not make sense for the classical seals. Each classical seal must conclude before the next one can begin!

Thus, it is not possible that the repeated seals (i.e. the marches on the seventh day) could begin before the sixth classical seal was completely fulfilled! The seals repeated in the time of the Investigative Judgment, which began on October 22, 1844. The sixth classical seal must therefore have been completely fulfilled before that date! (For more information regarding the repeated sixth seal, please see the addendum to Signs of the End and slides 101-114 of the Orion Presentation.)

On the other hand, the Adventist Church teaches that the sixth seal is prolonged until the Second Coming. Thus, they deny that there was ever any decline in its spiritual condition in the manner that the sequence of the horsemen of the first four seals portrays.

But isn't it a little bit strange to have a court trial carry on for 170 years? Normally in a crime case, while the criminal activity may take place over many years, once the investigation begins, it is usually relatively short—only some weeks or months for complicated cases! The Judgment of sin should be no different. It was not necessary that the judgment should require 170 years! It begs the question, What went wrong?

And that is an important question! If you asked your typical Adventist, they would tell you that nothing is wrong. The sixth seal began in 1755 with the Lisbon earthquake, and will conclude with the wicked crying out to the inanimate "mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb," as they see Him returning on the cloud, and the seven last plagues commence and progress throughout the seven last days or so.

This view may have made sense to the early Adventists, but the time factor raises a red flag. One brother grew up in the Adventist church, and always pondered in his heart why the big signs had to fulfill long before he or his parents or grandparents were ever born! Think about it:

The great earthquake: 1755
 The sun becomes dark: 1780
 The moon becomes as blood: 1780
 The stars fell to the earth: 1833

Then after more than 180 years of silence (well more than twice the already-lengthy span of time during which the first signs fulfilled), the next verse will fulfill as the heaven will finally get around to departing and the mountains and islands move in the last seven days or so. Not to mention the rest of the signs and all the plagues that must then fulfill in lightning-fast procession! While pondering over this discrepancy, he thought, "Wouldn't it make more sense for these grand signs of the sixth seal to ALL be fulfilled together AT THE END?!" It just didn't make sense that the climax and pinnacle event of all of history—the Second Coming—would be preceded by signs in a far removed generation rather than “immediately” before as Jesus said in Matthew 24:29! If you have wondered the same in your heart, consider that there must be a repetition of those events in a time that could legitimately be considered “immediately” prior to the sign of the Son of Man! (Incidentally, this is a criticism that many who have left Adventism hold against it!)

Two Models

If we want to find harmony in these things, we have to first answer the question of what went wrong! The answer is clear, of course, but we haven't understood its full ramifications until now. In 1888, the Fourth Angel as described in Revelation 18 visited the Adventist Church, giving them a taste of the Latter Rain. But before more than a few drops could fall, they pulled out their proud umbrellas and would have nothing of it! THAT is what went wrong! They rejected the Holy Spirit! Could the Spirit continue to give light to a people who didn't want it? Note that it was largely the leadership who rejected the light. Just as with Ancient Israel, it was the leadership who rejected the Savior, and this led to the Lord disowning the nation as His chosen people. We're talking about the body to whom the Lord entrusts His treasures of light.

But let's think about this logically for a moment. What if they had accepted the light in 1888? Then the Latter Rain would have grown in intensity until the full light of the Fourth Angel would have been given them, and the Lord would indeed have come by 1890 as we saw in the HSL. No need for any time message after 1844, nor a whole year of plagues. There would be no apostate organization to come out of, and a lot of Ellen White's visions would have literally fulfilled. That would cut the Judgment time down to just over one quarter the length! This is what would have been the case IF the leaders had maintained their love of Christ that the early pioneers cherished. Instead, there was a decline like the four horsemen of the seals represent.

So you see that the seals didn't have to repeat! We use the model of Jericho, but who led the people in that conquest? It was Joshua, not Moses! If the people had not provoked God with their unbelief when He sought to bring them to the Promised Land, Moses and not Joshua, would have led them in. And what was the model that God gave to Moses for how He would bring them in?

I will send my fear before thee, and will destroy all the people to whom thou shalt come, and I will make all thine enemies turn their backs unto thee. And I will send hornets before thee, which shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee. (Exodus 23:27-28)

This was God's first plan! No need for repetition. Just follow the hornets and go in! Nevertheless, because of their unbelief, God gave Joshua a revised plan for Jericho that included a repetition. The application is clear: The model of Jericho would apply only if the people followed in the same unbelief as did ancient Israel, but if they learned from the past, and cooperated with the Lord, following His leading, the simplistic "hornet model" would apply: follow the seven seals and go up! Consider what Ellen White wrote about this:

It was not the will of God that Israel should wander forty years in the wilderness; He desired to lead them directly to the land of Canaan and establish them there, a holy, happy people. But “they could not enter in because of unbelief.” Hebrews 3:19. Because of their backsliding and apostasy they perished in the desert, and others were raised up to enter the Promised Land. In like manner, it was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be so long delayed and His people should remain so many years in this world of sin and sorrow. But unbelief separated them from God. As they refused to do the work which He had appointed them [in 1888], others were raised up [in 2010] to proclaim the message [of the Fourth Angel]. In mercy to the world, Jesus delays His coming, that sinners may have an opportunity to hear the warning and find in Him a shelter before the wrath of God shall be poured out. {GC 458.1}

Now that we understand the two models, we need to understand how the sixth seal fulfilled, because as stated above, it must have fulfilled completely before October 22, 1844!

Time: A Test of Love

For more than 120 years, the Adventist Church has remained stuck in the mud regarding the sixth seal. Ellen White confirmed what the pioneers recognized as fulfilled signs, but she never applied the rest of the signs. Does that mean that they didn't apply to events in her day? Or could it be that they did, in fact, have a clear fulfillment that just went undetected due to their understanding that they would take place in conjunction with the expectedly dramatic events of the plagues?

So let's go back and see what is missing. We wrote about the well-understood signs in the article, Signs of the End, concluding with the "falling stars" of the meteor shower of November 13, 1833. However, the sign of the meteor shower has not been fully understood. Here is the full text:

And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs [Strong's G3653: "an unripe (because out of season) fig"], when she is shaken of a mighty wind. (Revelation 6:13)

We have often referred to the fig tree as the Adventist people, because in the Bible it stood as a representation of Israel, God's chosen people. This was too early, though, to represent Adventists of any kind, but instead represented God's chosen people at that time: Christians of all kinds! Regardless of which of the seven churches of Revelation would best represent them, they were His children—even apparently-living-but-dead Sardis and lukewarm Laodicea--and He gave them His word of rebuke to bring them to repentance. Since the Jews had rejected Christ, it was His disciples who were represented by the fig tree through the following ages.

Thus, the sign of the meteor shower represented the "stars" that would fall away from God's people. But notice that they are "untimely" figs. It refers to figs that are unripe, because they are out of season. Fig trees have two crops of figs, one of which grows early, and if the conditions aren't just right for them to ripen, they remain small and green and will easily fall off the tree with a strong wind. The key point here is that they are out of the normal fig season, as though they failed to realize when figs are supposed to be ripe. They don't know their time! Thus, the shaking of the fig tree represents a test on time. Only the figs that are "untimely" or out of season are the ones that fall. Those that "know their time" are well-anchored to the tree and remain firm.

Jesus was looking for the waiting, watching ones, who were ready to receive all that He would show them. Sadly, as He looked upon His fig tree, He found many who had a reputation that they were alive, but who were really dead in their heart. His counsel to the church of Sardis applied to the Protestant churches of the day:

Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God. Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. Thou hast a few names even in Sardis which have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy. (Revelation 3:2-4)

There were just a few good figs on His tree, and the rest in that generation would be shaken out. They did not remember how they had received light before, and they were caught unprepared when He came with the Millerite time message. The few names in the Sardis of Miller's day who were watching, received the hour with gladness, and they came through that open door to the church of Philadelphia, which received no rebuke:

I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name. (Revelation 3:8)

However, those who were not watching did not recognize Jesus in the time message, so they didn't realize that it was Him who came upon them, thus as a thief. Their refusal to know the hour had closed the door to Philadelphia for them, and their names were blotted out of the book of life. They did not overcome.

He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels. (Revelation 3:5)

The meteor shower of 1833 was an outward sign to point people to what was happening among God's people. Miller had recently begun to preach publicly about the Second Coming in 1843. Thus, the time message was beginning to be shared with the world, and soon the strong wind of the Holy Spirit (even though not the Latter Rain, which wouldn't begin until 1888), would shake His fig tree and cause those to fall who didn't love His appearing. The effect of a convincing time message is such as to separate people into three camps: those who love God and are happy to learn of the nearness of His return; those who think they know God, but they don't, as Jesus told in the parable of the talents:

Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed: And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine. (Matthew 25:24-25)

The third group are those who don't care and just have more reason to mock. They are the unbelievers who aren't pretending to be Christians, while those who buried their talent in the earth are those who think they're Christians; they think they know God, but they don't know His true character, and they have no love for Him. You can see that they just do the minimum that they suppose is required, but they do not do it out of love, but because they have to—because they are afraid of the consequences if they don't! These are the unripe figs that fall in a time test. They don't want to believe that He is coming, because they are happier without Him. They'd rather spend their effort making themselves comfortable on this earth, and the thought of Jesus coming is just a disruption of their plans.

Make no mistake about it, these are well-respected church-goers of every flavor. They may be conservative, Ellen-White-believing people who seem to be sincere, but when they are presented with the concreteness of the Blessed Hope, they are deeply disturbed and want nothing to do with it, choosing rather to stay in their ignorance of the time, than to seek Him who made the seven stars and Orion (Amos 5:8), repenting of everything that would separate them from Him.

A time test is a love test. As one college historian wrote, "The susceptible were said to be on the verge of emotional collapse with fearful—or joyful—anticipation," identifying the Millerite Adventists as the "susceptible." But notice that both classes believed in the message, so how was it a test? Allow Ellen White to explain:

I saw that if professed Christians had loved their Saviour's appearing, if they had placed their affections on Him, and had felt that there was none upon the earth to be compared with Him, they would have hailed with joy the first intimation of His coming. But the dislike which they manifested, as they heard of their Lord's coming, was a decided proof that they did not love Him. Satan and his angels triumphed, and cast it in the face of Christ and His holy angels, that His professed people had so little love for Jesus that they did not desire His second appearing. {EW 235.2}

I saw the people of God joyful in expectation, looking for their Lord. But God designed to prove them. His hand covered a mistake in the reckoning of the prophetic periods. Those who were looking for their Lord did not discover this mistake, and the most learned men who opposed the time also failed to see it. God designed that His people should meet with a disappointment. The time passed, and those who had looked with joyful expectation for their Saviour were sad and disheartened, while those who had not loved the appearing of Jesus, but embraced the message through fear, were pleased that He did not come at the time of expectation. Their profession had not affected the heart and purified the life. The passing of the time was well calculated to reveal such hearts. They were the first to turn and ridicule the sorrowful, disappointed ones who really loved the appearing of their Saviour. I saw the wisdom of God in proving His people and giving them a searching test to discover those who would shrink and turn back in the hour of trial. {EW 235.3}

The test of time revealed the hearts as the time passed without the expected event. Note when this test happened! It was not 1844, but 1843, when the obvious, but covered "year 0" date calculation error was discovered. This error was publicly preached for a full decade and not one person ever noticed it! Many thousands of people, including those seeking to disprove it, all overlooked it until the prophetic second angel began to fly with the revised date. Compare that to today, where innumerable websites viciously attack the Adventist understanding because of this very discrepancy!

Once the 1843 date had passed, the test had run its course, and had sifted out those who were fearful and buried the talent instead of allowing it to purify their lives. Although some of them would continue to profess faith in the revised date, they had lost their former zeal, and the test proved that they had not the love that was required.

...In their love for Christ's immediate coming, they had overlooked the tarrying of the vision, which was calculated to manifest the true waiting ones. Again they had a point of time. Yet I saw that many of them could not rise above their severe disappointment to possess that degree of zeal and energy which had marked their faith in 1843. {EW 236.1}

Satan and his angels triumphed over them, and those who would not receive the message congratulated themselves upon their farseeing judgment and wisdom in not receiving the delusion, as they called it. They did not realize that they were rejecting the counsel of God against themselves, and were working in union with Satan and his angels to perplex God's people, who were living out the heaven-sent message. {EW 236.2}

Those who still hung on, but lost their zeal, had in fact lost their faith, just as those who rejected the entire movement as soon as the date in 1843 passed. The only difference was that the former had less of the "wisdom" of the latter, but their heart was equally devoid of the love of the truth, and were hanging on "just in case" they were in danger. Fear was the motivation in both cases.

The bitter disappointment of 1844 was prophesied in Revelation 10 from the perspective of those who passed the test in 1843, for whom the little book (Daniel 8) was truly sweet (they loved the truth and longed to see Jesus at the end of the 2300 days of Daniel 8:14). Those who feared did not suffer disappointment in 1844, but relief.

And the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open [i.e. the part of Daniel that they understood—especially 8:14] in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth. And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey. And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter. (Revelation 10:8-10)

The test on time in 1843 was the climax of the Great Awakening of the preceding decades. The Lord had been stirring up His professed people in preparation to give them great light. Through Miller, the fig tree was shaken, and in 1843 many bright lights in the church fell to the earth, having rejected the Holy Spirit who was behind the Millerite movement. For those who had fallen, "heaven had departed as a scroll when it is rolled together." The understanding of the scroll of Daniel 8 would forever be closed to them, and with it, heaven departed from them. A decided rejection of the movement of the Holy Spirit always leads to a closed door that cannot be reopened.

Mountains and Islands on the Move

While William Miller viewed the sixth seal in a very symbolic way, tying every element to some aspect of the French Revolution of the late 1700s, he offered nothing by way of the visible signs that the Bible indicates would attend the movements of the Holy Spirit in the last days:

And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams: And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; and they shall prophesy: And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke: The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come: (Acts 2:17-20)

Understandably, Miller could not discern the true fulfillment of the sixth seal before the time had passed, but a better understanding was given the small group of Advent believers who remained after 1844. Nevertheless, they never discerned all of the signs that led up to and attended the Millerite movement, due to their expectation that these signs would yet fulfill in very close proximity to the Second Coming. Again, however, as we come to grips with the reality that there was a divine change of plans, it behooves us to explain what the signs of the sixth seal represented in that time. Otherwise, the mainstream Adventist scholars would have a case against us, since it would not be right to say the seal concluded if we can't explain what its symbols mean!

One great sign that occurred during that period not only fits the sixth seal description, but also carries links to the modern climate agenda and migration crisis. On April 10, 1815, two hundred years before the year of plagues began, Mount Tambora, a volcano on one of the Indonesian islands reaching as high as the Rocky Mountains that had recently begun showing signs of activity, suddenly burst its top. Forcing three columns of red-hot lava high in the air in a dramatic show that lasted three hours, it ejected some 50 cubic kilometers—billions of tons—of rock, ash, and sulfur dioxide gas more than 20 kilometers above the earth in the largest volcanic eruption in recorded history. It was by far the deadliest eruption on record, killing over 11,000 people directly and at least another 60,000 in the following weeks through starvation and disease, since the falling ash devastated crops over a wide area.

Some 55 million tons of sulfur dioxide was propelled so high that it escaped the troposphere where the weather happens, and floated gracefully in the stable stratosphere with which it reacted to transform into 100 million tons of sulfuric acid nanoparticles. Gravity could only very slowly draw these almost weightless droplets out of the stratosphere, and they reflected away sunlight, causing a significant cooling effect during the following years sufficient to dub 1816 the "year without a summer." Much of the northern hemisphere suffered cold, stormy, and even freezing temperatures throughout the growing season of May through September, which decimated crops and caused food shortages and famine in various parts of the world that persisted for two more years. This led hundreds of thousands to migrate to more hospitable areas over the ensuing years, and created turbulence in the world economy as well.

The deafening sound of this eruption was heard more than 2000 kilometers away, and the shock wave shattered windows 400 km away. Many officials hundreds of kilometers away searched in vain for what they presumed was nearby canon fire. As the magma was ejected, the surface of the earth sank, burying one village in 6 meters of water at the same time that the shaking of the eruption produced a 4-meter tsunami wave that flooded the Indonesian islands.

Thus, in a quite literal fashion, "every mountain and island were moved out of their places." It begs the question, however, "What good is a sign that no one sees?" In 1815, news could only travel as fast as a sail boat could bring it, and it wasn't until the mid-twentieth century that scientists began to connect this eruption to the abnormally cold summers of the following years! The answer is clear: It is a sign for those of us today, who can see it, pointing to the momentous events that were beginning to take shape at that time! William Miller's conversion would take place in that summerless year of 1816, which led to his detailed studies that culminated in the test of 1843. It foretells of a time in the repeated sixth seal, when climate change and migrations would again become a weighty influence on societal concerns regarding the sustainability of mankind. This wouldn't have carried meaning for those in the nineteenth century, but the eruption of Mount Sinabung and the potential extinction-level supervolcano of Yellowstone on February 1, 2014 that raised concerns at the beginning of the trumpet cycle—during the repeated sixth seal—also hearken back to Tambora and associate its significance to our day.

Fear of the Lord

The primary attribute of the remaining part of the text is a spirit of widespread fear:

And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:15-17)

This widespread fear of the people in 1843 is well-captured by one disbelieving Mormon:

By early 1843, Latter-day Saints in Nauvoo already knew about Miller's predictions and anticipated their failure. For example, in one article John Taylor wrote: "January 1843. We have now entered upon the year so anxiously looked for by many, as the year for the commencement of the Millennium. Mr. Miller's numbers are now complete; and men's hearts are failing them for fear, (in many places) looking for those things they expect to come on the earth. The 2nd of April will soon arrive."

The fearful people didn't want to see the Lord. They wanted to hide from Him as a natural reaction of fear, just as Adam and Eve demonstrated at the Fall.

And the LORD God called unto Adam, and said unto him, Where art thou? And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself. (Genesis 3:9-10)

Fear was a dominant attitude from all classes in 1843. They were afraid because they knew that they were naked, and like Adam, they sought cover by hiding. These fearful ones were convicted by Miller's message, and in an instinctive effort to preserve their lives from the coming wrath, they "hid" among the "rocks" and in the shadows of the Millerite "mountain," welcoming its message and professing belief as a cover to hide their guilty conscience from God's searching eyes, but lacking the true, reverential fear of the Lord and the effective covering of His righteousness.

Although 1844 was the year of the Great Disappointment for the small band of Advent believers who remained, that year did not concern the world in general. The world's fear was felt in 1843, not 1844, and thus the last verses of the sixth classical seal were indeed fulfilled well before the seals began to repeat in the judgment time.

In summary, let's tabulate the comparison between the sixth classical seal and the sixth repeated seal:

The Sixth Classical Seal (For further detail regarding the fulfillments of the four traditional signs, see Signs of the End.)	The Sixth Repeated Seal (For detail regarding the repeated fulfillments, see Signs of the End , including its addendum.)
opened with world-impacting Lisbon earthquake of 1755	opened with world-impacting Japan earthquake of 2011 (see also slide 102 of the Orion Presentation)
sun darkened without an eclipse, May 19, 1780	a huge coronal hole darkens sun without an eclipse, July 2013 (see also slide 103 of the Orion Presentation)
the moon appears red without an eclipse, May 19, 1780	the moon goes through a rare blood moon tetrad, Spring 2014 - Autumn 2015 (see also slide 104 of the Orion Presentation)
the dramatic meteor shower of 1833 grabs widespread attention	the Chelyabinsk meteor grabs widespread attention and does damage (see also slides 105-107 of the Orion Presentation)
the Christian churches needed to be shaken with a time message	the Adventist church needed to be shaken with a time message
William Miller preaches the time	John Scotram preaches the time the test on the time for Jesus' return = a test of love for God	the test on the time for Jesus' return = a test of love for God culminated in the time-sensitive test of 1843: "Who can stand?"	culminated in the time-sensitive test of Sept. 25, 2015 (the UN "sustainable" climate policy): "Who can stand?" (See slides 110-113 of the Orion Presentation)

the scroll of Daniel 8 was rolled together and the door of the Holy Place soon shut	the scroll of Orion and the 3 Angels' messages was rolled together and the door of mercy soon shut (see also slide 108 of the Orion Presentation)
the First Angel's Message was a time message	the Fourth Angel's Message is a time message
those who didn't truly love Jesus were pleased that He did not come	those who didn't truly love Jesus were pleased when the message appeared to fail about one additional year to the accurate date of the presumed Second Coming	about one additional year to the accurate date of the true Second Coming

Yes, the purpose of the Orion Message was also to shake the world with the announcement of the time, just as it was God's purpose for the Millerite message. The sixth seal repeated, and therefore the time test repeated. Ellen White's statements regarding no time test after 1844 (and many other statements) applied to those under Moses' follow-the-hornets model, not to those of us after 1890 who are under Joshua's Jericho model. The decisions of God's chosen people matter! Stand strong in the faith and may God bless all of His children with the knowledge of the time!

A) Signs of the Times, April 22 –
1889 Preparation for the Testing-Time.

By Mrs. E. G. White.

It is of the greatest importance to us that we obtain a knowledge of the Bible. Christ has said, "Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein; for the time is at hand." He has said again, "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches." He has also warned us to be on our guard against false doctrines. He said, "Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves."

Many false doctrines will be presented to us as the teaching of the Bible; but as we compare them with the law and the testimony we shall find that they are dangerous heresies. Our only safety is in becoming personally acquainted with the reasons of our faith. In the book of Revelation, we find warnings, injunctions, and promises given to John for the churches, and we need to understand these instructions more fully, that we may not be found in delusion. We should keep the condition of these churches as described in the Revelation before us, and discern our own spiritual deficiencies by the description of the deficiencies. We should heed the reproofs that are given to us in the counsel of the True Witness.

Christ has declared that "if any man do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God." The Lord of Heaven has not left his people in darkness. He has revealed to them his truth for this time. While many of the professed followers of Christ have lapsed away into error and apostasy, those who have walked in the light, not only hear, but read and understand, the prophecies of his word. The law of God will be made void in the world; its authority will be despised just as it was in Heaven in the first great rebellion; and God would have us intelligent to note the movement of the nations, so that we may see the signal of danger, and recognize the warnings that he has given us, that we may not be found on the side of the great deceiver in the crisis that is just before us.

God has made full provision in the Scriptures for our equipment against deception, and we shall be without excuse, if, through neglect of God's word, we are unable to resist the errors of the evil one. We need to watch unto prayer. We need daily to search the Scriptures diligently, that we may not be ensnared by some delusive error that seems like truth.

I found in traveling through Europe, that I was not acquainted with some of the minor laws of the country, and I was under the necessity of being informed as to the customs of the people lest I should be found a transgressor. But how particular we should be to understand the law of God, so that we may not be under condemnation as law-breakers. It is the willing and obedient that God will bless. If we are desirous of understanding the law of earthly Governments, how much more should we desire to know what God requires of us. If we are anxious to understand our duty, he will not leave us to be enshrouded in darkness, but will enlighten our understanding so that we shall know for ourselves what is truth.

We do not want to be found receiving dangerous error as truth. We do not wish to imperil our souls by rejection of God's messages of warning and counsel. Our greatest danger lies in our tendency to refuse increased light, and our only safety is to see and understand for ourselves "what saith the Lord." Says the prophet, "To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." The word of God alone is to be the rule of our faith and doctrine. A great contest is coming in regard to the law of Jehovah in our own day; but we read in Isaiah these words of instruction: "Bind up the testimony, seal the law among my disciples." "Behold, I and the children whom the Lord hath given me are for signs and for wonders in Israel from the Lord of hosts, which dwelleth in Mount Zion." The controversy in regard to the law of God has begun, and we must be prepared to give a reason of the hope that is in us, with meekness and fear. We must know where our feet are standing.

Although the law of God will be almost universally made void in the world, there will be a remnant of the righteous that will be obedient to God's requirements. The wrath of the dragon will be directed against the loyal servants of Heaven. Says the prophet, "The dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ." We can see from this scripture that it is not the true church of God that makes war with those who keep the commandments of God and have the testimony of Jesus Christ. It is the people who make void the law, who place themselves on the side of the dragon, and persecute those who vindicate God's precepts.

There are many who will tell you that if you keep the law of God you have fallen from grace. They make strong assertions for which they have no foundation, to lead people astray, for they do not know whereof they speak. The prophet says, "Bind up the testimony, seal the law among my disciples." Those who are seeking to destroy the law are not of the class who are sealing the law among the disciples of Christ, but they are of the class who "shall stumble, and fall, and be broken, and be snared, and be taken." The dragon is represented as persecuting those who keep God's commandments. Evil angels conspire with evil men against God and his people. Persons of influence are stirred with a power from beneath; the energies of apostasy are united to deceive or to destroy the champions of truth.

John writes concerning scenes that have to do with our own time. He says, "The temple of God was opened in Heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament." That ark contains the tables whereon is engraven the law of God. On the Isle of Patmos, John beheld in prophetic vision the people of God, and saw that at this time the attention of the loyal and true followers of Christ would be attracted to the open door of the most holy place in the heavenly sanctuary. He saw that by faith they would follow Jesus within the veil where he ministers above the ark of God containing his immutable law. The prophet described the faithful ones, saying, "Here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus." This is the class that excite the wrath of the dragon because they obey God, and are loyal to his commandments.

The winds of doctrine will blow fiercely about us, but we should not be moved by them. God has given us a correct standard of righteousness and truth, --the law and the testimony. There are many who profess to love God, but when the Scriptures are opened before them, and evidences are presented showing the binding claims of God's law, they manifest the spirit of the dragon. They hate the light, and will not come to it, lest their deeds should be reprov'd. They will not compare their faith and doctrine with the law and the testimony. They turn away their ears from hearing the truth, and impatiently declare that all they want to hear about is faith in Christ. They claim to be guided by the Spirit, and yet their spirit leads them contrary to the law of Heaven. They refuse to acknowledge the fourth commandment, which requires men to keep holy the Sabbath-day. They declare that the Lord has instructed them that they need not keep the Sabbath of his law.

The word of God declares, "He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected." It is not enough to nominally assent to the truth, we must have its principles interwoven with the life, and wrought into the very character. We may well be afraid of any class who refuse to compare their faith and doctrine with the Scriptures. There is safety alone in taking the Scriptures as our rule of life, and as the test of our doctrines. Martin Luther exclaimed, "The Bible, and the Bible alone, is the foundation of our faith!" Our work is to hold up the law of God; for Christ has said that "it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than for one tittle of the law to fail." He has said, "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." - {ST April 22, 1889}

B) Maranatha, Chap. 157 – Apostasy Prepares the Way

By Mrs. E. G. White.

Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition. 2 Thess. 2:3.

When the early church became corrupted by departing from the simplicity of the gospel and accepting heathen rites and customs, she lost the Spirit and power of God; and in order to control the consciences of the people, she sought the support of the secular power. The result was the papacy, a church that controlled the power of the state and employed it to further her own ends, especially for the punishment of "heresy."...

Whenever the church has obtained secular power, she has employed it to punish dissent from her doctrines. Protestant churches that have followed in the steps of Rome by forming alliance with worldly powers have manifested a similar desire to restrict liberty of conscience. An example of this is given in the long-continued persecution of dissenters by the Church of England. During the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, thousands of nonconformist ministers were forced to flee from their churches, and many, both of pastors and people, were subjected to fine, imprisonment, torture, and martyrdom.

It was apostasy that led the early church to seek the aid of the civil government, and this prepared the way for the development of the papacy--the beast. Said Paul: "There" shall "come a falling away.... and that man of sin be revealed." 2 Thessalonians 2:3. So apostasy in the church will prepare the way for the image to the beast.

Satan will work with all power and "with all deceivableness of unrighteousness." 2 Thessalonians 2:9, 10. His working is plainly revealed by the rapidly increasing darkness, the multitudinous errors, heresies, and delusions of these last days. Not only is Satan leading the world captive, but his deceptions are leavening the professed churches of our Lord Jesus Christ. The great apostasy will develop into darkness deep as midnight. To God's people it will be a night of trial, a night of weeping, a night of persecution for the truth's sake. But out of that night of darkness God's light will shine. {Mar 165.1-4}

C) Review and Herald, January 10, 1888 – The Faith That Will Stand the Test.

By Mrs. E. G. White.

The time has fully come when darkness is called light, and light is called darkness. We are living in an age when sham liberality is extolled; when those who scatter falsehood, false doctrines, and soul-destroying heresies are received and exalted by society, and the most terrible deeds of iniquity are glossed over and excused on the plea of charity. Even the voices from the pulpits of our land are saying, "It shall be well with the transgressor." Sin is not dealt with as a thing of fearful consequence, destined to bring inevitable ruin upon those who persist in its indulgence. It is not pictured in its abhorrent character before the people of the world. Smooth things are prophesied by false teachers, and the multitudes are resting in their sin, unmindful of the solemn warnings and examples of the word of God. The time has come when we should "sigh and . . . cry for all the abominations" that are done in the land.

While the law of God is being made void in our world, there is a decided testimony to be borne. The truth is to be presented in its native force and clearness, whether men will hear or whether they will forbear. This cannot be done without exciting opposition. Those who refuse to receive the love of the truth will not rest without attempting to retard its progress. They have been turned unto fables, and will unite with the great adversary of souls to bring the message of heaven into contempt.

The apostle Paul warns us that "some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils." This is what we may expect. Our greatest trials will come because of that class who have once advocated the truth, but who turn from it to the world, and trample it under their feet in hate and derision. God has a work for his faithful servants to do. The attacks of the enemy must be met with the truth of his word. Falsehood must be unmasked, its true character must be revealed, and the light of the law of Jehovah must shine forth into the moral darkness of the world. We are to present the claims of his word. We shall not be held guiltless if we neglect this solemn duty. But while we stand in defense of the truth, let us not stand in defense of self, and make a great ado because we are called to bear reproach and misrepresentation. Let us not pity ourselves, but be very jealous for the law of the Most High.

Says the apostle, "The time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." On every side we see men easily led captive by the delusive imaginations of those who make void the word of God; but when the truth is brought before them, they are filled with impatience and anger. But the exhortation of the apostle to the servant of God is, "Watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry." In his day some left the cause of the Lord. He writes, "Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world;" and again, he says, "Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil: the Lord reward him according to his works: of whom be thou ware also; for he hath greatly withstood our words."

Prophets and apostles experienced similar trials of opposition and reproach, and even the spotless Lamb of God was tempted in all points like as we are. He bore the contradiction of sinners against himself.

Every warning for this time must be faithfully delivered; but "the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient; in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves." We must cherish carefully the words of our God lest we be contaminated by the deceptive workings of those who have left the faith. We are to resist their spirit and influence with the same weapon our Master used when assailed by the prince of darkness,—"It is written." We should learn to use the word of God skillfully. The exhortation is, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." There must be diligent work and earnest prayer and faith to meet the winding error of false teachers and seducers; for "in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away." These words portray the character of the men the servants of God will have to meet. "False accusers," "despisers of those that are good," will attack those who are faithful to their God in this degenerate age. But the ambassador of Heaven must manifest the spirit that was displayed in the Master. In humility and love he must labor for the salvation of men.

Paul continues concerning those who oppose the work of God, comparing them to the men who made war against the faithful in the time of ancient Israel. He says: "Now as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth; men of corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith. But they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, as theirs also was." We know that the time is coming when the folly of warring against God will be revealed. We can afford to wait in calm patience and trust, no matter how much maligned and despised; for "nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest," and those who honor God shall be honored by him in the presence of men and angels. We are to share in the sufferings of the reformers. It is written, "The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me." Christ understands our grief. Not one of us is called to bear the cross alone. The suffering Man of Calvary is touched with the feeling of our woes, and as he has suffered being tempted, he is able also to succor them that are in sorrow and trial for his sake. "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution. But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived. But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned."

God has provided abundant means for successful warfare with principalities and powers and spiritual wickedness in high places; for "all Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." The Bible is the armory where we may equip for the struggle. Our loins must be girt about with truth. Our breastplate must be righteousness. The shield of faith must be in our hands, the helmet of salvation shine on our brows, and the sword of the Spirit which is the word of God, be wielded to cut our way through the ranks of our bitter foes. We must be ready, at the command of our Captain to follow where he may lead. We must be doers of his word, not deceiving our own selves.

If we look to self, and trust in self, we shall surely fall from our steadfastness. The terrible tempest that is gathering will sweep away our sandy foundation, and leave our house a wreck on the shores of time; but the house that is built upon the rock shall stand forever. We must be "kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation." The apostle spoke some plain words to his Hebrew brethren, that meet the condition of many of those who profess the truth for this time. "We have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are dull of hearing. [They were not quick to discern the things of the Spirit of God.] For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat. For every one that useth milk is unskillful in the word of righteousness; for he is a babe. But strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age, even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil." It is positively necessary for those who believe the truth, to be making continual advancement, growing up unto the full stature of men and women in Christ Jesus. There is no time for backsliding and indifference. Each one must have a living experience in the things of God. Have root in yourselves. Become grounded in the faith, so that having done all you may stand, with unwavering confidence in God, through the time that will try every man's work and character. Exercise your powers in spiritual things, till you can appreciate the deep things of God's word, and go on from strength to strength.

There are thousands who claim to have the light of truth who take no steps in advance. They have no living experience, notwithstanding they have had every advantage. They do not know what consecration means. Their devotions are formal and hollow, and there is no depth to their piety. The word of God offers spiritual liberty and enlightenment to those who seek for it earnestly. Those who accept the promises of God, and act on them with living faith, will have the light of heaven in their lives. They will drink of the fountain of life, and lead others to the waters that have refreshed their own souls. We must have that faith in God that takes him at his word. We can have no victory without cloudless confidence; for "without faith it is impossible to please" God. It is faith that connects us with the power of Heaven, and that brings us the strength for coping with the powers of darkness. "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." In order to exercise intelligent faith we should study the word of God. The Bible, and the Bible alone, communicates a correct knowledge of the character of God and his will concerning us. The duty and the destiny of man are defined in its pages. The conditions on which we may hope for eternal life are explicitly stated, and the doom of those who neglect so great a salvation is foretold in the most forcible language.

Had the Bible been received as the voice of God to man, as the book of books, as the one infallible rule of faith and practice, we would not have seen the law of Heaven made void, and the swelling tide of iniquity devouring our land.

As men wander away from the truth into skepticism, everything becomes uncertain and unreal, No thorough conviction takes hold of the soul. No faith is exercised in the Scripture as the revelation of God to men. There is nothing authoritative in its commands, nothing terrifying in its warnings, nothing inspiring in its promises. To the skeptic it is meaningless and contradictory.

There are many among us who are not cultivating faith. They have a vacillating experience. They are "like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed." Sometimes they seem strong in faith, then a blast of unbelief sweeps over them, and they are filled with gloom and doubt. They make no decided efforts to recover themselves out of the snare of the Devil, but are taken captive by him at his will. There are others who, when assailed by temptations of unbelief, flee to the word of God and to earnest prayer, and they are not left to the power of the enemy. The day is coming that will reveal whether we are building on the solid rock or the sliding sand.

If men could realize the blighting influence of doubt upon their minds, if they could but see into the future, they would realize the imperative need of cultivating firm trust in God and implicit confidence in his promises. They would not sow one grain of unbelief; for every single grain blossoms into fruit. Satan is a living, active agent. It is his business to encourage skepticism, and every word of doubt is carefully nourished by the adversary of souls. While men sleep in indifference, suggestions that weaken faith are insinuated into the heart. Influences that confuse the perception of truth are brought to bear upon the life. In every way possible, Satan strives to turn souls from the narrow path that leads to heaven; and because men love darkness they follow the voice of strangers, and reject the call of the Good Shepherd who gave his life for the sheep. The plain, authoritative "Thus saith the Lord," is refused for some winding sophistry of error. Infidelity has increased in proportion as men have questioned the word and requirements of their Maker. They have taken up the work of cheapening character, and lessening faith in the inspiration of the Bible. Men claiming great wisdom have presumed to criticise and cut and cull the words of the living God, and have started questions to make shipwreck of the happiness of their fellow-men and to ruin their hopes of heaven. This is a work that is pleasing to the enemy of all righteousness. The arguments that men bring against the Bible are the result of the counsels of the evil one. The door of their minds was opened to his suggestions, and the more they drifted into error, the greater grew their desire to draw other souls into the same channel of darkness.

Many claim to believe the Bible, and their names are enrolled on the church records, who are among the most influential agents of Satan. The work they are doing they will not consider an honor to them in the day of Judgment. It will then be seen that every effort that weakened faith was made at a terrible loss. The tremendous price that must be paid will sink them into everlasting shame and ruin. The only safety is in rejecting instantly every suggestion of unbelief. Do not open your mind to entertain doubts, for even an instant; bid them a decided refusal as they come to you for admission. Fasten the mind upon the promises of God. Talk of them, rejoice in them; and the peace of God will rule in your hearts.

The fruits of doubt are not desirable. Oh! look around you and see what havoc has been wrought by the machinations of the evil one. Error and falsehood and heresy have held high carnival in the deceived hearts of men. From century to century the adversary has repeated his experiments with growing success; for in spite of the sad records of lives that have gone out in darkness, as moths fly to the fire, so men rush on into the ruinous deceptions that he has prepared to entrap them. If you desire salvation, I entreat you to shun his insinuations concerning the truth of God's word. Come to the "sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place." If that is not authoritative, what is? If the word of the Lord of heaven and earth is not solid rock upon which to build, then it is in vain to look for a sure foundation. "Heaven and earth shall pass away," but "the word of the Lord endureth forever;" and unwavering faith in his word is the only faith that will endure through the perils of the last days. - {RH January 10, 1888}

D) Signs of the Times, February 11, 1897 – The Obedient and the Disobedient. The Contrast.

By Mrs. E. G. White.

God's law is his great standard of righteousness. This law is perfect in all its requirements; and God calls upon us to obey it; for by it our cases will be decided in that day when the books of heaven are opened, and the deeds of all come up in review before the Judge of the universe.

But there are, and ever have been, two classes in this world; and the question, What constitutes the difference between these two classes? is grave and important. One class love and fear God; the other do not wish to retain him in their knowledge. One class render obedience to his law; the other disregard and disobey his requirements.

Those who are unwilling to obey God's law declare that it is done away, that God has abolished it. But if this law is perfect, why should God abolish or change it? That which is perfect can not be improved by any change. An attempt to remodel a perfect enactment only causes imperfection. God has neither abolished nor changed his law. It is the foundation of his government; and it will stand forever, the immutable, unalterable standard which all must reach would they be saved. "Till heaven and earth pass," declared Christ, "one jot or one tittle shall in nowise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled."

"The law of the Lord is perfect," writes the psalmist, "converting the soul; the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple. The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart; the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. . . . Moreover by them is thy servant warned, and in keeping of them there is great reward." How then does the God of heaven look upon those who pour contempt upon his law? Let not the words spoken against the law of God by those who refuse to obey it, be regarded as wise; for God has said, "The wise in heart will receive commandments; but a prating fool shall fall."

After Adam lost Eden by disobedience, and sin entered the world, men became more and more disobedient. The entire world, with a few exceptions, were given up to depravity and corruption. "God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And it repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart. And the Lord said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them.' And by a flood the Lord swept the earth of its moral corruption.

But even in that age the Lord had his representatives. These men loved God; they obeyed him; and he gave them light and truth. Christ walked with them, giving them moral power to obey him, and opening before them the future of this earth's history, and the scene of his second coming. "Enoch walked with God; and he was not; for God took him." Of him Jude writes, "Enoch also, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these, saying, Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints, to execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard speeches which ungodly sinners have spoken against him."

Noah, too, witnessed for God in that age of wickedness. "These are the generations of Noah: Noah was a just man and perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God." When God was about to destroy the inhabitants of the earth with a flood, he said to Noah, "Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation."

What constituted the difference between Enoch and Noah, and those who were destroyed by the flood? Enoch and Noah were obedient to the law of God; the others walked in the imagination of their own hearts, and corrupted their ways before the Lord, disregarding all his requirements. By their disobedience they separated themselves from him, and provoked him to destroy them. Enoch and Noah were found righteous when tested by the law of God. Had the antediluvians kept the way of God, had they obeyed his commandments, they too would have been found righteous, and would have received the Lord's commendation.

In his letter to the Romans Paul writes of the obedient and the disobedient. "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ," he says; "for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek. For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith; as it is written, The just shall live by faith." These are the obedient. As faith in God increases, the more distinctly we endure the seeing of him who is invisible, and we are strengthened to obey him.

The apostle then presents the great army of the disobedient, those who do not love to retain God in their knowledge, but choose their own disloyal ways, and follow the imagination of their own hearts: "The wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness; because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God hath showed it unto them. For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse; because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things."

Peter also outlines two classes, one approved of God, because obedient to all his commandments; the other disloyal to him, sinning against him because transgressing his law; for "sin is the transgression of the law." "There were false prophets also among the people," he writes, "even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction. And many shall follow their pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of. And through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you." But he says, "the Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptation, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished.

"As it was in the days of Noe, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man." Now, as then, the servers of mammon, careless, indifferent, and disobedient, go on and on, neglecting the great salvation so freely offered to them, failing to recognize God, or to offer him thanksgiving and praise. The Lord has manifested himself in his works, which the eye can see and the senses discern; in terms too plain to be misunderstood, he has declared his will in his word. But the disobedient do not see God in the manifold works of creation; they do not hear his voice speaking to them out of his word. The light of truth is offered to them, but they choose sin. They follow their own imaginations, as did the inhabitants of the Noetic world, placing their desires and ambitions above all else.

It is a marvel to the heavenly host that God bears so long with the transgressors of his law. But God is long-suffering, and abundant in mercy. His sun shines upon the evil and upon the good, upon those who are so blinded by the deceiving power of Satan that they deny the existence of Omnipotence, and upon those who strive earnestly to do his will. He gives men richly "all things to enjoy," and tho all do not acknowledge him as worthy of their praise or service, yet he bears patiently with them, and his voice of entreaty is still heard: "Turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die?" He would have "all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth."

God ever commends obedience. For their obedience Enoch was translated to heaven, and Noah was saved from the flood that deluged the earth. "Behold," writes the psalmist. "the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, upon them that hope in his mercy; to deliver their soul from death, and to keep them alive in famine." "I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree. Yet he passed away, and, lo, he was not; yea, I sought him, but he could not be found. Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace. But the transgressors shall be destroyed together; the end of the wicked shall be cut off."

Weakened through sin, we can not of ourselves keep the law of God. But Christ came to our world to restore the moral image of God in men, and to bring them back from the path of disobedience to a path of obedience. His mission to the world was to reveal the character of God by living the law, which is the foundation of his government; and those who will accept him as their personal Saviour will grow in grace, and in his strength will be enabled to obey the law of God. {ST, February 11, 1897 par. 15} When Christ comes in the clouds of heaven only two classes, the obedient and the disobedient, will meet him. And only those who, having had the light upon God's requirements, have been obedient to him, can meet him with joy. Those who have persisted in a course of disobedience, will flee in terror, hiding in the dens of the mountains, and saying to the rocks and the mountains, "Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb." But those who have honored God by their obedience, will look up, and say, "Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us; this is the Lord, we have waited for him; we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation." E) "History Repeats" in the Writings of Ellen G. White

As I thoroughly researched all available writings of Ellen White from the White Estate CD, I found 222 texts with the following search string: "history AND (repeated OR repeats OR repeating OR repeat OR repetition)"...

- If anybody uses history to show the actual sins to the professed people of God, he will be silenced:

When Stephen was questioned as to the truth of the charges against him, he began his defense in a clear, thrilling voice, which rang through the council hall. In words that held the assembly spellbound, he proceeded to rehearse the history of the chosen people of God. He showed a thorough knowledge of the Jewish economy and the spiritual interpretation of it now made manifest through Christ. He repeated the words of Moses that foretold of the Messiah: "A Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me; Him shall ye hear." He made plain his own loyalty to God and to the Jewish faith, while he showed that the law in which the Jews trusted for salvation had not been able to save Israel from idolatry. He connected Jesus Christ with all the Jewish history. He referred to the building of the temple by Solomon, and to the words of both Solomon and Isaiah: "Howbeit the Most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet, Heaven is My throne, and earth is My footstool: what house will ye build Me? saith the Lord: or what is the place of My rest? Hath not My hand made all these things?"

When Stephen reached this point, there was a tumult among the people. When he connected Christ with the prophecies and spoke as he did of the temple, the priest, pretending to be horror-stricken, rent his robe. To Stephen this act was a signal that his voice would soon be silenced forever. He saw the resistance that met his words and knew that he was giving his last testimony. Although in the midst of his sermon, he abruptly concluded it. {AA 99.2-100.1}

- The history of the suffering and persecution of Jesus will repeat:

"Judgment is turned away backward, and justice standeth afar off; for truth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter. Yea, truth faileth; and he that departeth from evil maketh himself a prey." Isa. 59:14, 15. This was fulfilled in the life of Christ on earth. He was loyal to God's commandments, setting aside the human traditions and requirements which had been exalted in their place. Because of this He was hated and persecuted. This history is repeated. The laws and traditions of men are exalted above the law of God, and those who are true to God's commandments suffer reproach and persecution. Christ, because of His faithfulness to God, was accused as a Sabbathbreaker and blasphemer. He was declared to be possessed of a devil, and was denounced as Beelzebub. In like manner His followers are accused and misrepresented. Thus Satan hopes to lead them to sin, and cast dishonor upon God. {COL 170.3}

- Fraud against God will be repeated in the church today:

In the case of Ananias and Sapphira, the sin of fraud against God was speedily punished. The same sin was often repeated in the after history of the church and is committed by many in our time. {AA 76.1}

Covetousness was first cherished; then, ashamed to have their brethren know that their selfish souls grudged that which they had solemnly dedicated and pledged to God, deception was practiced. . . . When convicted of their falsehood, their punishment was instant death.

Not to the early church only, but to all future generations, this example of God's hatred of covetousness, fraud, and hypocrisy, was given as a danger-signal. . . . When the heart is stirred by the influence of the Holy Spirit, and a vow is made to give a certain amount, the one who vows has no longer any right to the consecrated portion. Promises of this kind made to men would be looked upon as binding; are those not more binding that are made to God? . . .

Many spend money lavishly in self-gratification. Men and women consult their pleasure and gratify their taste, while they bring to God, almost unwillingly, a stinted offering. They forget that God will one day demand a strict account of how His goods have been used, and that He will no more accept the pittance they hand into the treasury than He accepted the offering of Ananias and Sapphira. {CC 330.3-5}

- Scoffing, hatred, and ridicule will be repeated against those who have been called by God to the work:

Same Obstacles Confront Leaders Today.--The experience of Nehemiah is repeated in the history of God's people in this time. Those who labor in the cause of truth will find that they cannot do this without exciting the anger of its enemies. Though they have been called of God to the work in which they are engaged, and their course is approved of Him, they cannot escape reproach and derision. They will be denounced as visionary, unreliable, scheming hypocritical,--anything, in short, that will suit the purpose of their enemies. The most sacred things will be represented in a ridiculous light to amuse the ungodly. A very small amount of sarcasm and low wit, united with envy, jealousy, impiety, and hatred, is sufficient to excite the mirth of the profane scoffer. And these presumptuous jesters sharpen one another's ingenuity, and embolden each other in their blasphemous work. Contempt and derision are indeed painful to human nature; but they must be endured by all who are true to God. It is the policy of Satan thus to turn souls from doing the work which the Lord has laid upon them.--Southern Watchman, April 12, 1904. {ChS 173.3}

- God Himself speaks to Ellen White and tells her that all that she writes in the Great Controversy is history that will be repeated. This is exactly the history since the fall of Jerusalem to the time of the end. The first six seals:

Experience of Ellen White While Writing The Great Controversy.--I was moved by the Spirit of the Lord to write that book, and while working upon it, I felt a great burden upon my soul. I knew that time was short, that the scenes which are soon to crowd upon us would at the last come very suddenly and swiftly, as represented in the words of Scripture: "The day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night" (1 Thess. 5:2)

The Lord has set before me matters which are of urgent importance for the present time, and which reach into the future. The words have been spoken in a charge to me, "Write in a book the things which thou hast seen and heard, and let it go to all people; for the time is at hand when past history will be repeated." I have been aroused at one, two, or three o'clock in the morning, with some point forcibly impressed upon my mind, as if spoken by the voice of God. I was shown that many of our own people were asleep in their sins, and although they claimed to be Christians, they would perish unless they were converted.

The solemn impressions made upon my mind as the truth was laid out in clear lines before me, I tried to bring before others, that each might feel the necessity of having a religious experience for himself, of having a knowledge of the Saviour for himself, of seeking repentance, faith, love, hope, and holiness for himself.

I was assured that there was no time to lose. The appeals and warnings must be given; our churches must be aroused, must be instructed, that they may give the warning to all whom they can possibly reach, declaring that the sword is coming, that the Lord's anger upon a profligate world will not long be deferred. I was shown that many would listen to the warning. Their minds would be prepared to discern the very things that it pointed out to them.

I was shown that much of my time had been occupied in speaking to the people, when it was more essential that I should devote myself to writing out the important matters for Volume IV, [TO ELLEN WHITE THE 1888 EDITION OF THE GREAT CONTROVERSY WAS STILL VOLUME IV IN THE PRESENTATION OF THE GREAT CONTROVERSY STORY, AND WAS OFTEN REFERRED TO BY HER AS SUCH. --COMPILERS.] that the warning must go where the living messenger could not go, and that it would call the attention of many to the important events to occur in the closing scenes of this world's history.

As the condition of the church and the world was opened before me, and I beheld the fearful scenes that lie just before us, I was alarmed at the outlook; and night after night, while all in the house were sleeping, I wrote out the things given me of God. I was shown the heresies which are to arise, the delusions that will prevail, the miracle-working power of Satan--the false Christs that will appear--that will deceive the greater part even of the religious world, and that would, if it were possible, draw away even the elect.

Is this work of the Lord? I know that it is, and our people also profess to believe it. The warning and instruction of this book are needed by all who profess to believe the present truth.--Letter 1, 1890. {3SM 113.4-114.4}

- If we do not learn from history, history must be repeated:

The dealings of God with His people should be often repeated. How frequently were the waymarks set up by the Lord in His dealings with ancient Israel! Lest they should forget the history of the past, He commanded Moses to frame these events into song, that parents might teach them to their children. They were to gather up memorials and to lay them up in sight. Special pains were taken to preserve them, that when the children should inquire concerning these things, the whole story might be repeated. Thus the providential dealings and the marked goodness and mercy of God in His care and deliverance of His people were kept in mind. We are exhorted to "call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions" (Heb. 10:32). For His people in this generation the Lord has wrought as a wonder-working God. . . . We need often to recount God's goodness and to praise Him for His wonderful works. {CC 364.2}

- Separation from the false leaders will happen because the history of Jesus' withdrawal from Judea will be repeated:

The Sanhedrin had rejected Christ's message and was bent upon His death; therefore Jesus departed from Jerusalem, from the priests, the temple, the religious leaders, the people who had been instructed in the law, and turned to another class to proclaim His message, and to gather out those who should carry the gospel to all nations.

As the light and life of men was rejected by the ecclesiastical authorities in the days of Christ, so it has been rejected in every succeeding generation. Again and again the history of Christ's withdrawal from Judea has been repeated. When the Reformers preached the word of God, they had no thought of separating themselves from the established church; but the religious leaders would not tolerate the light, and those that bore it were forced to seek another class, who were longing for the truth. In our day few of the professed followers of the Reformers are actuated by their spirit. Few are listening for the voice of God, and ready to accept truth in whatever guise it may be presented. Often those who follow in the steps of the Reformers are forced to turn away from the churches they love, in order to declare the plain teaching of the word of God. And many times those who are seeking for light are by the same teaching obliged to leave the church of their fathers, that they may render obedience. {DA 232.1-2}

By studying the Clock of God in Orion we came to understand how God led and preserved His church the past 166 years of its journey to heaven, but we also learned about immense trials it had to pass through and how those trials caused ever-worsening damage to the church ship. Huge reefs stood against the boat: The First World War in 1914 which divided the church into two parts, and then the Nazi regime which for ten years beginning with 1936 caused a further sifting within the church. It all goes to show us today that Seventh-day Adventist church is more likely to take its stand with the world rulers in times of crisis. God marked the year 1986 in the history of His Church but many could not recognize it right away because too many false teachings had already penetrated the Church as all members would still receive of a completely clear judgment. The Seventh-day Adventist Church reached the point where it even approached the papacy with gifts and eventually began to publicly participate officially in world ecumenical events. Who would have imagined that the only "consistent Protestant Church" would kneel down together with the Pope to pray for world peace, which according to the Bible will never exist, and even the very talk of such peace heralds the destruction of mankind?

For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. (1 Thessalonians 5:3)

Therefore, we must ask ourselves how it could have come to this? There was the separation of the Church in 1914 due to the issues of whether a Christian can participate in war or not, and how far the Sabbath may be transgressed in such a situation, and there was even the treachery committed against the brethren by some of the Church leaders in Germany in the years under the Nazi regime—all these horrible acts were still not enough to say that the Church came to the point of "committing fornication" with the papacy on the world stage as Jesus expressed it. It is in the message to the 4th church, Thyatira, which coincides with the beginning of the 4th seal of 1986 and reads as follows:

Notwithstanding I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel [the Roman church], which calleth herself a prophetess [Vatican], to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols. And I gave her space [the first six marches around Jericho, see History repeats] to repent of her fornication; and she repented not. Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation [time of trouble], except they repent of their deeds. And I will kill her children with death [the 7 plagues]; and all the churches shall know that I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and I will give unto every one of you according to your works [the Second Coming of Jesus]. (Revelation 2:20-23)

The Sabbath was never completely given up by the Church despite the transgressions of the leaders of 18 European countries during the seals of 1914 and 1936. The leaders of German and Austrian Churches even officially apologized in May 2005 that Church had supported the Nazi regime during the war years of World War II and that it had participated in the persecution of Jews through their inactive behavior (AdventistReview.org Archives 2005):

Church Leaders Say "We're Sorry" German and Austrian churches apologize for Holocaust actions

BY MARK A. KELLNER, assistant director for news and information of the General Conference Communication Department

Noting the sixtieth anniversary of the end of World War II, Seventh-day Adventist church leaders in Germany and Austria have released a declaration saying they "deeply regret" any participation in or support of Nazi activities during the war. The church bodies "honestly confess" a failure "in following our Lord" by not protecting Jews, and others, from that era's genocide, widely known as the Holocaust. Millions of people perished from war atrocities, including more than 6 million Jews who were exterminated in Nazi persecutions during the 12-year period of 1933 to 1945.

The declaration was initially published in the May 2005 issue of Advent-Echo, a monthly German-language church magazine, and also will appear in other German publications, said Günther Machel, president of the South German Union Conference and one of three signatories to the statement.

A copy of the statement has been provided to Yad Vashem, the Holocaust Martyrs' and Heroes' Remembrance Authority in Israel, added Rolf Pöhler, a former North German church area president who is now that region's theological advisor and was involved with the drafting of the declaration.

"We deeply regret that the character of National Socialist dictatorship had not been realized in time and distinctly enough, and the ungodly nature of [Nazi] ideology had not clearly been identified," the statement, as translated from German, reads. The church says it also regrets "that in some of our publications . . . there were found articles glorifying Adolf Hitler and agreeing with the ideology of anti-Semitism in a way that is unbelievable from today's [perspective]."

Church leaders also expressed regret that "our peoples became associated with racial fanaticism destroying the lives and freedom of 6 million Jews and representatives of minorities in all of Europe" and "that many Seventh-day Adventists did not share the need and suffering of their Jewish fellow-citizens."

A paramount regret, the statement indicated, was that German and Austrian Adventist congregations "excluded, separated and left [church members who were] . . . of Jewish origin to themselves so that they were delivered to imprisonment, exile or death."

Under various racial decrees, some Adventist congregations expelled members of Jewish heritage. One, Max-Israel Munk, was placed in two concentration camps by the Nazis and survived and returned to his church after the war. He said he did not wish to act toward his congregation in the way in which he had been treated, according to Daniel Heinz, a church archivist at Friedensau Adventist University who has studied Adventist activities during the National Socialist era.

Along with Machel, the other leaders who signed the statement were Klaus-Juergen van Treeck, North German Union Conference president, and Herbert Brugger, president of the Adventist Church in Austria. Pöhler and Johannes Hartlapp, church historian at Friedensau, drafted the statement on which the declaration is based. All three church geographic areas voted to approve the text, Pöhler said.

In the statement, the three assert that the "obedience we owe to the state authorities does not lead to giving up biblical convictions and values." They said that while only God can judge the actions of prior generations, "in our day, however, we want to take a decided stand for right and justice-towards all people."

Brugger, in a telephone interview, said, "Our church members really appreciated the publishing of this document." No indication of a reaction from Austria's Jewish community has been received, but Brugger said the Adventist Church is not as well known in Austria as some other movements are.

Asked how a church that considers keeping the Sabbath as one of its core beliefs could forsake Jewish Sabbath-keepers during a time of persecution, Brugger suggested that it was political, not theological, considerations that may have led to the strategy.

During World War I a portion of the German Adventist church had split off, opposing any military service. This led the National Socialists in 1936 to ban the so-called "Reform Movement" during their time in power. Brugger said concern over a Nazi closure of the main Adventist churches may have weighed on leaders in that era.

"I think during these times the official leaders of our church were afraid of losing the control over the church and losing the church because the political authorities had already . . . [confused] our church with the Reform movement," he explained. "I think our leaders were afraid to lose the official recognition of our church, so therefore maybe they were not [as faithful] to our beliefs as would have been necessary."

The main Seventh-day Adventist church in Germany was also briefly banned under the Nazis, notes Pöhler. A quick reversal by the regime led to relief among Adventists but also to a level of cooperation with the government that was unhealthy.

"We not only kept silent, but we also published things we never should have published. We published anti-Semitic ideas that, from our perspective, weren't really needed," Pöhler said in a telephone interview.

"We had to realize that one wrong statement, one wrong move by a person meant he could end up in a concentration camp," Pöhler said of that era. "[That was the] reason why we excluded and disfellowshipped Jewish-born Adventists from our midst: If a local church had not done this, [the Nazis] would have closed the church, taken the elder to prison, and it would have meant the whole church would be forbidden."

While some European Adventists took courageous stands to protect Jews, others went along in part because of concern for their families and churches. It would be difficult enough for an individual to reach out to a Jewish person, Pöhler explained, but to risk the lives of those in a congregation was an added burden. Such caution was even reflected in the nomenclature used by German Adventists, he said.

Daniel Heinz, director of church archives at the Adventist university in Friedensau, Germany, said his research into the stories of Adventists who helped Jews during the war led to his discovery of those who acted less honorably.

Resistance to Nazi policies, as well as the compassionate yet brave response of many Christians, among them Seventh-day Adventists, to protect lives of those under Nazi persecution, have been documented throughout Europe, including Poland, Hungary, Holland, and Denmark.

"I found some very impressive stories of Adventists who helped Jews in the Third Reich, risking their lives, and I found the opposite," Heinz said. Among other church members, one Latvian Adventist family took in a Jewish man, hid him during the war, and survived. The refugee became an Adventist believer and church pastor after the war ended.

According to Machel, "Sixty years after World War II is late—but we saw it as the last chance for a declaration."

Young adult church members reacted positively to the statement's expressions of concern and contrition.

"To humbly reveal our sins and failures is the most important thing God wants us to do," said Sara Gehler, 25. "And even though 60 years have already passed, I think it was necessary for us as [the Seventh-day Adventist] Church to take a stand on the Second World War." She added, "It is our duty as Christians to protect and help those who are weak, helpless, and in need."

Said John Graz, Public Affairs and Religious Liberty director for the Adventist world headquarters, "For those who believe in God's love for every member of the human family, against any kind of discrimination based on race, religion, or gender, this declaration written by a generation which had no responsibility in the Holocaust and the war, but endorse the responsibility of their parents, will stand as a positive landmark and great encouragement."

It's sad that the original letter of apology is lacking any acknowledgement that the Seventh-day Adventist Church in those years of World War I and II treated their own brothers and sisters exactly like they treated the Jewish brethren, when they wanted to keep the Sabbath under all circumstances and avoid breaking the commandment "Thou shalt not kill". The original statement of apology reads:

...that fellow citizens of Jewish origin have been marginalized and excluded by us, left to themselves, and therefore have been delivered to prison, exile or death.

It hurts to read such half-hearted apologies when on the other hand we read stories about loyal Adventists who died for their faith, as we will soon have to do when the last trials of the Sunday Laws come upon us. While the Seventh-day Adventist Church corrupted itself with the Nazi regime in 1936, the Reformation Church was banned and its members had to bear their cross. Two examples could stand for hundreds of faithful Adventists of the Reformation Movement, who died in the prisons and concentration camps of the Nazis without even being mentioned by their "big brothers".

Let's read the last two letters that the Reformation Adventist Gustav Psyrembel wrote to his wife:

Berlin NW40, March 12, 1940

Dear . . .

The peace of the Lord be with you!

I would like to take advantage of this opportunity to write you a few lines, because every new day that dawns may be the last one for me. . . . Therefore, we will not yield in the hour of decision, for this is the right way and the truth. It is His work, and He will not let it perish. It is very regrettable that many of our fellow believers [in the threefold message] stray from the right way, leave our Leader and banner, fall away from Him, begin to doubt His divine love and guidance, and thus grieve Him.

Someday they will bitterly regret it and acknowledge their wrong, but then it will perhaps be forever too late and there will be no help or salvation. They do not realize that they are betraying those who hold fast to God and that they are making their battle unspeakably heavy. When a case such as mine comes up before the war tribunal, [the officers] say: "The other [Adventists] are all convinced that they are doing their duty without violating their conscience and without breaking God's commandments; why can't you do the same?" It is very, very hard in such a case to defend the truth, to explain our stand to the authorities and say that we cannot do otherwise. Another reproach came upon me because of my "unteachability" and "stubbornness."

These [compliant believers], especially the ministers, have managed to deceive the people. Through their false representations of the truth, they depict us as criminals and say we are deceived. Not content with avoiding conflict and trying to find a way around the difficulties, they also try to justify their wrong actions through statements and examples from the Scriptures that are not at all relevant. I have seen this in a long, seven-page letter from a minister who used arguments which are supposedly confirmed by the Testimonies. But all this should not shake us. The truth remains the truth, and what is right will remain right; and the future will reveal on which side it can be found.

In the faith that there will be a reunion, I will now close. The Lord be with you. Receive my many cordial greetings and kisses from deeply loving Papa.

Best greetings to all those who always think of me.
Your Gustav.

Berlin NW 40, March 29, 1940

Dear . . .

Greetings with 2 Cor. 4:16–18.

For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day. For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.

I have just learned that tomorrow, the 30th, at 5:00 a.m., I am to be executed. Once again I had the opportunity to strengthen myself with the Word of God for this last journey. The New Testament was brought for me to read. (But I got less food to eat.) The portions of bread are much smaller here, and in general everything is much stricter, than at Ploetzensee; but I have borne everything gladly and patiently, for I know for whom I do all these things and I am not the first nor the only one to be apportioned this lot. The Lord says: 'Rejoice, and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in heaven.' 'Lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh.' These words and precious promises keep us going in our heavy but wonderful battle. The Lord has promised His power and protection, and He is also prepared to grant it to His children when they are in need of it. I have experienced this in all the years of my battle up to this very hour. The Lord be thanked and praised! He has kept me healthy in body and soul and has given me His joy and love in a rich measure. He will not leave me in the last hour. We shall not be sad, but happy, and regard it a privilege to suffer and die for His sake. 'Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.'

He has promised, and with faith in this power and salvation I will depart from this life in the hope, my dear ones, that we shall see each other again in His kingdom, to be forever with Him who has loved us until death and has always had good intentions toward us. There we will live in the undisturbed and inseparable happiness and peace for which we have longed so much here. We shall be as such that dream and will hardly be able to comprehend the happiness that will be the portion of us sinful, unworthy creatures, who have deserved death and punishment. What a precious privilege it is to know and believe all this. And you, dear Mama, do not permit this precious treasure ever to be taken from you; trust in the Lord in all the circumstances of your life, and He will be at your side and never leave you; overcome the pain and finish the race; be comforted and of good cheer. "I would not give up this faith for all the world. He who loves Christ can never leave Him. The Lord will grant success to all His children who endeavor to keep His commandments. It will also be a comfort to you that I will be dead before I am buried, and will not be buried alive. I hope that the Lord will sustain you. May He bless and keep you; may He let His protection and grace be over you and grant you His peace! This is my last wish and prayer. Amen.

Once again, and for the last time, very heartfelt greetings from your dear Papa. Best greetings also to Mother and all our dear brothers and sisters in the faith, as well as all our relatives on both your side and mine.

Gustav Psyrembel." —And Follow Their Faith!, pp. 10–13.

And this is the last letter of the Austrian Adventist of the Reformation Movement and conscientious objector Anton Brugger to his fiancée Esther which he wrote from the prison Brandenburg-Goert on February 3, 1943:

My dearly beloved Esther, cherished treasure!

Unfortunately, it has not been granted us to see each other again. Alas, how I desired to see your loving face once more and to speak a few words with you. Your lovely picture I have always kept with me. In the back of my Bible is your picture before me. Now take the Bible as a remembrance from me. I hope you have also received my last letter. When you go to my Mother, she will give you these letters.

We would never have thought that we had seen each other for the last time at Niederroden. Still I always had a certain feeling that a great, severe test would yet come, but I would not tell you of it so as not to frighten you. Now the very thing which I feared so long, and which I expected to come to pass, has actually become a reality. Oh, how gladly I would have lived on to work and to do good unto others. How nice it would have been, I imagine, to work together with you in doing good. There could have been no more perfect happiness for me than this.

The thought about all the grief of my dear, good Mother is especially painful. Oh, please take good care of her and give her comfort. Alas, dear Esther, I know it will strike you very severely also. But be not dismayed and comfort yourself in the Lord. We also have to take this sad fate patiently from the hand of the Lord. He knows why He has permitted all this. There is no other way to choose, because it is impossible for me, according to the conviction of my faith, to partake in war. I could be free only if I would commit myself to carry out unreservedly every command of the government, and this I cannot do without coming into conflict with my conscience. I will, therefore, rather suffer the death penalty, which shall be carried out today, on February 3, 1943, at 6 o'clock in the evening. Although it is hard, the Lord will have mercy upon me and help me to the end. Since our hearts' desire to be united together here on earth is now made impossible by this sad thing, we shall simply comfort ourselves with the precious hope of seeing each other again by the Lord. I trust in the grace and the mercy of the Saviour, that He will accept me and graciously pardon my sins. Be also faithful to the Lord Jesus and love and serve Him with all your strength. Be not dismayed and be comforted. After the Lord's coming no one shall separate us anymore, and no suffering and pain can then fall upon us. "Greet all dear ones from me. My heart has always been with them. Especially give my best regards to your dear parents and your dear brother. . . .

I would have gladly been buried in the earth, but all those here are burned at the crematory. I have already requested my Mother to ask permission to entomb the urn with my ashes in Salzburg; that is the best place. I hope I have not lived in vain.

Now, Darling, my beloved, may the Lord bless you and all your dear ones, and protect and help you graciously so that we may see each other again forever beside Him in His glorious kingdom of peace. I love you dearly to the end.

Farewell, Darling, auf WIEDERSEHEN!

Your Anton." —And Follow Their Faith!, pp. 49–51.

After reading these testimonies in the book "The History of the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement," I could understand why God placed Orion in the sky. He wanted to make sure that these martyrs were not forgotten, and He wanted to show how much He loves those who live and die for Him and His cause. No, dear Anton Brugger and dear Gustav Psyrembel, you have not lived in vain, and neither have you died in vain! Our Lord erected a special monument for you and your fellow sufferers: the two shoulder stars of Orion are dedicated to you—to all those who died in both World Wars for their faith and loyalty to the commandments of God like those who gave their lives in the previous persecutions of the first round of the first six seals. Your testimonies will not be lost; all who read this article today and have understood the Orion message will be very pleased to meet you again in heaven with Jesus once they have passed through their own soon-to-come trials. I would like to recommend that everyone read the chapter with these testimonies in the above-mentioned book. It can be downloaded HERE.

Wouldn't it be appropriate to seek reconciliation between the three Adventist Churches on account of these witnesses for Jesus, since God Himself indicates with a whole constellation of stars that He has not forgotten the sins of His people? (The three different Adventist churches are: the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement, and the International Missionary Society.) While looking into the faces of these humble and forgiving brethren who never resented their fellows who betrayed them, and even asked like true Christians for Jesus to forgive them—Can we still doubt that God desires the Churches to come back together in unity of faith?

If the Reformation Churches are the heirs of these heroes of faith who accepted Jesus' counsel to always forgive if we want to be forgiven, then are they allowed to cherish resentments against—and aversions to—their brethren of the big Seventh-day Adventist Church? Since they are prone to error and sin just like all other human beings, are they allowed to think themselves superior and judge the members of the big Church as lost? I had to experience that from the pastors and leaders of the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement in South America. No, that is not the spirit of these faithful followers of Christ and it is not the spirit of those who will be sealed. It is even less the spirit of those who will soon be among the 144,000. Keep in mind that I am talking about some leaders of the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement whom I know personally; there are also many wonderful Christians among them who do not cherish the same spirit.

Jesus made it clear that only those who seek peace and unity in the church will be saved. Recently, a high leader of the Seventh-day Adventist church in Germany called me a "great separatist" publicly. The Reform churches also gave me the title "great heretic." My only concern is to fulfill the mission that God has given me and to pass on the knowledge that He has entrusted to me through His Holy Spirit for His organized churches. My only claim is to have recognized Orion and I repeatedly say that I do not claim my interpretations to be 100% correct. These studies are provided to encourage self-study. The Internet is full of sites that tell what happened in the Orion years of 1844, 1846, 1914, 1936 and 1986. Again I say: Try everything and keep that which is good!

The reactions of the leaders as so pathetic! One organized church confronts the other so hatefully! The Orion shows the sins of the house of Jacob His people, but it also shows that God did not abandon them. How can we expect reunification to eventually happen if no one is willing to budge a little from their fixed position? Everyone talks about the sifting! Yes, it started a long time ago as Ellen White stated. The sifting already began in her day. But the sifting wasn't only the division of the two churches in 1914 and the re-division of the Reform church in 1951. Yes, those events are marked by God in Orion as negative events, but it is not the events themselves that cause the sifting. It is the doctrines that are behind those dates and events. The sifting began through false doctrines and will culminate in the final shaking which will come through the Sunday Laws. Soon, people from all of the Adventist organizations as well as non-Adventists will come together through the Orion message. As they understand the message of God, they will receive the Holy Spirit and form the 144,000. They will understand what the false doctrines are that caused the sifting and will correct their views if necessary according to the teachings shown by Orion. This and the following articles deal with the "throne lines" of Orion, which point out the divisive barriers that exist between the churches and the many offshoots. The articles will show what God's will and true doctrine is, which we should accept right now in all its glory. God leaves nothing in the dark! And all who read the rest of this article series about the "Throne Lines" will shine like a light in a dark place too.

I had to chuckle when I recently studied the Sabbath School lessons from the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement for the 2nd and 3rd quarters of 2010. It was obvious that they deliberately chose topics that related to the Orion message, and tried to firmly ground their members by republishing and repeating well-known former light on the subject. They did that to discourage them from believing in a further revelation of God from Orion. I love this Sabbath School quarterly because it is strictly based on the writings of Ellen White. There is nothing unnecessary in it; it just has the questions and quotes of Ellen White giving the answers. Theological reviews, like in the Sabbath School lessons of the Seventh-day Adventist church are happily absent. In these two quarterlies I found an incredible load of material that fit perfectly in my articles. It confirmed the Orion message in a special way even through the brethren had the intention of refuting it. I could not find a single line of the two Sabbath Schools quarterlies or even one quote of Ellen White that contradicts the Orion message. The Orion message is in perfect harmony with all of the basic Adventist doctrines and in full agreement with all the teachings of the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy.

Orion shows the errors that the church—indeed the whole of God's organized Seventh-day Adventist churches (including the offshoots)—has committed since 1844. If all churches would come to the recognition and repentance of their sins through Orion, then the purified church of God would emerge without the need for any new foundations. The message of Orion is not a call-out message, or message of separation from any of the Seventh-day Adventist churches. It is a message of unity of faith because Jesus teaches us how divisive viewpoints appear in light of His will and what constitutes a false or true doctrine in His eyes. We will see that God addresses all divisive doctrines in Orion. It will be a shock for many leaders to learn that they have cherished false views, and that they will have to change if they don't want to receive the plagues. Will they be humble enough to accept the correction of Jesus?

All of the Reform churches believe almost immovably that they are the only true church, and that the wider church community has completely developed into Babylon and that it no more receives God's blessings or approval. If that were the case, then why does God make an effort to go on with the history of the big Seventh-day Adventist church in Orion? The year 1986, the fourth church and the fourth seal, is mainly the history of the big Seventh-day Adventist church. The Orion shows that the churches exist in parallel. Re-read the letters to the churches; two groups are always indicated. Of course this was quickly recognized by the Reform churches when I forwarded them the first study of the Orion Clock in January. They realized that the Clock clearly indicates that the big Seventh-day Adventist church was not excluded from God's grace completely, and it calls into question their alleged monopoly on the position of the only true church of God since 1914 or 1951. For that reason, the Orion message was immediately rejected by the General Conferences of the Reform churches, and they sent their pastors corresponding circulars instructing them to suppress the Orion message. I know this from my personal experience with the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement, but based on a few e-mails I received I think that the exact same thing happened at the International Missionary Society too.

On the other hand, the big Seventh-day Adventist church is ashamed of its errors, of course, and does not want them to come to light. Thus, the General Conference also had to judge the Orion message to consist totally of false doctrine and heresy. They also recognize that there is more in Orion than I had published so far (in the first version of the Orion study). Those leaders, who belong to the enemy camp, know very well that the Orion message brings tidings from the north (the throne of God) and from the east (where the Orion itself is) according to Daniel 11:44. It troubles them and their head, the Pope, the representative of Satan on earth, just like the verse says:

But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many. (Daniel 11:44)

We all know that these "tidings", or messages, from the east and north will lead to the Loud Cry which is also described in this verse. The Holy Spirit will guide us into all truth. There will be no more dispute about religious issues, no discussion about certain controversial doctrines that have existed for years, because God Himself shows us the whole truth in Orion. As soon as the church unites under the whole truth, forgetting all boundaries between the several organized churches and offshoot groups, the time will have come for Satan to tremble. This frightens him to the core because he knows exactly what is written in Orion: The answers to all the disputes in the churches...the whole truth. He knows that there will be 144,000 who unite in the church of Philadelphia. The true unity of faith that Jesus prayed for in John 17 will reign in it. The following articles will terrify Satan because he recognizes the fact that the Spirit of God has started to take effect in some. For thousands of years Satan has known that this would eventually happen! He gave the order to build the pyramids of Giza in the exact arrangement of the belt stars of Orion. He dedicated them to sun worship because he knew that the true sanctuary of God, or its symbol, the real and true Orion constellation in the sky, would bear a special message one day. He knew that it would identify God's people during the Investigative Judgment and would show them the truth about controversial issues that were not clearly understood from the Bible thus far and which caused enduring divisions among the Advent people. Satan ordered the pyramids that way to make almost everybody believe the Orion message to be a forgery and false doctrine.

Satan warned his servants, who had already infiltrated all of the churches and offshoot groups: "Beware of the Orion message. You must not allow the members to study this!" Therefore, a person hears everywhere "leaders" saying things like "Don't waste your time messing with that Orion nonsense. It is just a waste of time!" Where will those leaders be when the Sunday Laws really come and everything coincides exactly with the last two dates on the clock, 2012/2013 and 2014/2015? Won't they be among those who ask the rocks to fall on them and bury them?

If Orion would only be recognized for what it really is: God's final message, and a call to remove all obstacles to the union of the Seventh-day Adventist churches. It is a message for the churches to be ashamed of their past mistakes, to repent of them, also to seek forgiveness and not repeat those errors. If they would do that, what would prevent the unity of faith that was lost along the way since 1844 from being reestablished, finally leading to the Loud Cry?

In this "Throne Lines" series of articles, we will discover four more dates in the Orion Clock. Each of these dates has a special story to tell. I worked long and hard with prayer to gather the facts that I want to expound to you in these articles. I had to dig very deep in some cases because many things have been intentionally obscured and buried. Satan does not want certain things come to light.

At the outset, I asked how it was possible that despite a certain degree of confession and repentance, the Seventh-day Adventist church has gone further along the path of an ever-closer link with Rome. Jesus speaks such harsh words against the church of Thyatira, and even calls it an adulteress. Something must have happened in the fifty years between 1936 and 1986 that has escaped our attention. We correctly recognized the period beginning in 1936 as the Pergamos era, mirroring the classical Pergamos era: the compromising church; the church which became corrupted by false doctrines and finally developed into paganism, ultimately to Thyatira.

Let us read again from the Seventh-day Adventist Bible course ("Seminario Revelaciones del Apocalipsis"), which I already mentioned in the previous article. The commentary on the verses of Revelation 2:12-17 says:

And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges; I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is:

and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr [the faithful Reformation Adventists], who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth [Europe, especially Germany in 1936]. But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication [worldliness, disregard of the health message, standards of dress]. So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans [sun worship, Santa Claus, etc.], which thing I hate. Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth [the Bible]. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it. (Revelation 2:12-17)

[Pergamos] spans the fourth, fifth and the first part of the sixth century [in the repetition the period after 1936 of National Socialism, the time of communism, the Cold War and finally the ecumenical movement]. When Satan saw that he could not destroy the church by persecution, he tried to corrupt it by seducing it to compromise with the government [the admitted compromise with the Hitler government, ecumenism and much more to read in the future articles], and thus unconverted heathen [e.g. Jesuits] infiltrated the church and contributed their doctrines. The paganism, that had entered church, withdrew it of its spiritual force.

We know that Orion tells us mainly about the Seventh-day Adventist churches and their history. So the question is: what exactly happened in the Seventh-day Adventist church to develop it into an ecumenical church or in other words, an adulteress? To read more about why a church that supports the ecumenical movement is in apostasy, I would like to refer the reader to the article titled The Ecumenical Adventist in the category Nothing Happened?

Is it possible that this horrible development still exists mainly because of the wrong view of some leaders during the two World Wars? Because those leaders held the view that Adventists could participate in military service without violating God's Laws, as the Reformation Adventists emphasize so fervently?

I think not. Let's read from AdventistWorld a recently published statement on the subject from the long-time former president of the global Seventh-day Adventist church, Jan Paulsen:

Clear Thinking About Military Service

By Jan Paulsen

In many ways, I am a child of the Second World War. As a young boy, I saw the terrible devastation of those years—ruined lives, diminished families, and large-scale upheaval of society. My family had evacuated to the country, and for the five years of the war we lived in the caretaker's flat of an old school building. The classrooms had been turned into dormitories that housed more than 300 young German soldiers.

I remember one day toward the end of the war asking my mother, "Why are the German soldiers crying?" I could hear them sobbing in their rooms. My mother replied: "They are just young boys. They miss their home; they miss their mommies and daddies. They don't understand why they have to be here in the cold of northern Norway. They don't understand why they have to be a part of all this." They were young men, deprived of the chance to grow up and experience a youth of a different kind.

Today, more than 60 years removed from that time, the world has undergone profound changes—political, economic, and technological. Yet the role of the military in the life of many nations, as well as in transnational disputes around the globe, continues to place firmly before us an important moral and spiritual question: How should a Christian—a Seventh-day Adventist Christian—relate to the military? And when faced with a choice to serve in the armed forces—either as a combatant or in some other capacity—what principles should guide us?

Guiding principles

We each feel strong kinship—a sense of solidarity—with our own people and our own country. Our citizenship in a nation commands a sense of loyalty, a sharing in both the struggles and the joys of the people among whom we live. There is no virtue in isolating ourselves from our communities. It is natural to feel civic pride, and it is healthy to participate in the life of the nation to which we belong. Yet how should this sense of solidarity express itself when it comes to the military of our country, when our paramount duty to God raises tensions that are not always easy to reconcile?

I believe any discussion of this topic must rest on two essential foundations.

First, the church is called to be an unambiguous voice of principle.

War, peace, and participation in military service are not morally neutral issues. Scripture is not silent on these things, and the church, as it interprets and expresses the principles of Scripture, must be a voice of moral authority and influence. This is not an “optional” responsibility—one that we can put aside should it become uncomfortable or go against majority feeling. If we are silent, we fail in our duty to God and to humanity.

Second, the church is God’s agent of grace.

When you carry arms you imply that you are prepared to use them to take another’s life. This, also, is a fundamental responsibility. Every human being, no matter what their choices or conduct, is of infinite value to God. As the church expresses itself on this issue and offers counsel to both its own members and broader society, it must never allow itself to forget this one unchangeable fact: the God we serve is a healer and a Savior. Healing and saving are also the first business of the church. As individuals struggle with these questions—and perhaps make choices that, in hindsight, they wish they had not—the church must constantly reflect God’s infinite, healing love.

So, keeping these things in mind, I’d like to reflect on two questions regarding the church’s attitude toward military service, both historically and today. These questions—broad areas of concerns—have come to me time and again over recent years as I have visited with both laypeople and church leaders in many parts of the world.

1. A loss of clarity?

The historic position of our church regarding service in the armed forces was clearly expressed some 150 years ago—very early on in our history, against the background of the American Civil War. The consensus, expressed in articles and documents of the time, as well as an 1867 General Conference resolution, was unequivocal. “[T]he bearing of arms, or engaging in war, is a direct violation of the teachings of our Savior and the spirit and letter of the law of God” (1867, Fifth Annual General Conference Session). This has, in broad terms, been our guiding principle: When you carry arms you imply that you are prepared to use them to take another’s life, and taking the life of one of God’s children, even that of our “enemy,” is inconsistent with what we hold to be sacred and right.

Through the years, this principle has shaped the conduct of Seventh-day Adventists both in times of peace and conflict. Many have chosen to engage in medical work within the armed forces. They participate as healers. They say to their nation: “I cannot operate as a taker of life; it would destroy me as an individual. But I can help people who are hurt by this conflict. I can function as a Christian if I can function as a healer.”

Today in some countries young people are subject to a draft—a period of compulsory military service. Fortunately, in most instances an alternate service is offered, one that does not require an individual to train with or use arms. This option could simply be spending a year and a half doing hard labor building roads or helping with some other civic project.

There are, however, some countries where the draft deprives you of the ability to conduct yourself as an Adventist believer. You cannot keep the Sabbath. You are given no option but to carry arms. In such circumstances, you have before you a very serious choice. Accepting the penalty of dissent—perhaps even imprisonment—may be the decision you make simply to be faithful to your fundamental convictions and your Lord.

Is there today any confusion about the church's position? Have we done a good job of articulating these principles? Clearly, this question will not be answered in the same way in every part of the world church. Yet, in talking with church members in many different countries I have sensed, at times, a certain ambivalence toward our historic position—a sense, perhaps, that “that was then, and this is now.” And yet I know of no reason why this should be so.

2. A lack of moral guidance?

This leads me to my second question. Do we provide adequate guidance in our churches and schools for our young people as they face difficult choices regarding service in the military? Have we at times neglected our role as a moral compass on this issue? In the absence of guidance from their church, do some of our young people view joining the military as “just another career option,” rather than a complex moral decision with potentially far-reaching, maybe unforeseen, consequences for their own spiritual life?

It is not difficult to understand the forces that may lead someone to consider a military career. Their choice may be driven by a desire to serve their country, or the military may open up educational and professional opportunities that may seem unavailable anywhere else. Young people may see it as a short-term option, a much-needed stepping-stone to something else. They may view it as a “necessary evil”—a road to the future that, for lack of financial resources or other opportunities, they must take in order to fulfill their potential.

Yet in some instances, to voluntarily enlist in the armed forces is to sacrifice one's choice not to bear arms, or to request provision for Sabbath keeping. You freely choose to give up your rights in these things. And so I would ask: “Have you really thought about this? Have you considered the consequences to your relationship with Christ and to your own deepest convictions?”

Some may calculate the risk and say: “Although I technically don't have a choice about whether or not I will carry arms, the chances are, nine out of ten, that I will not find myself in a combat situation where I will need to use them.” But regardless of whether you go into combat or not, you have made a decision about certain basic values and declared this publicly. You are accepting the possibility that you may have to go down that road, and this will inevitably do something to you as a person. It will change and shape you. In proactively choosing to accept circumstances where you may be required to carry arms or forfeit your ability to keep the Sabbath, I suggest that you have placed the spiritual and moral foundations of your life in serious jeopardy.

So, when military recruiters come to our universities and colleges, or even our secondary schools, laying out before young students the opportunities that the armed forces present, is the church providing a clear, alternate message? Is there someone also asking: “Have you considered this? Have you thought about what this may do to you? Have you thought about the price you may pay in terms of the basic values you really treasure?” The Department of Chaplaincy Ministries at the General Conference is developing some specific initiatives to help provide much-needed advice and counsel within our schools and churches, and I welcome this.

I feel especially for those individuals who have taken the “calculated risk” and find themselves drawn into a combat situation, the very position they had hoped and prayed to avoid. They see no way out. What should their church say to them? “I told you so?” “Shame on you?” No! The church is a ministering, healing, saving community. This is the moment when a young person, regardless of poor choices or wrong turns, needs to feel the embrace of their church.

Conclusion

This is not a simple topic, nor is it “complete”; it is just one aspect of the broader issue of war, peace, and Christian responsibility. And the questions I have posed do not lend themselves to sound-bite answers or pat responses. They are questions that generate strong—sometimes visceral—feelings. They reach deep into our self-understanding and identity, as both citizens of our country and members of God’s family. Our responses are shaped in large part by our own experiences and culture, as well as our love for our country and our desire to share in its history and future. Although these are difficult issues, they cannot be put aside simply for this reason. So let us consider these things together—in our homes, our churches, and our schools—and let us do so with open hearts and a spirit of humility.

This is a clear statement of the fact that the bearing of arms or participating in military service is anti-Adventist, and even anti-Christian. I have many friends in the larger church who do not have the same opinion and still believe that the Reform churches are too strict. No, dear friends, your own church president explained it to you here again in no uncertain terms! It is a sin to kill your neighbor, even in cases of war, and it is a sin to even bear arms. What doesn't find any mention in the full article, however, are how the martyrs gave their lives in the two World Wars for this belief. "Dear Jan Paulsen, couldn't you at least mention your brethren who actually died for this same conviction you have? Or do you still have to play hide and seek so no one will notice that two Reform churches do exist? Yes, I understand you, but do you have to step so heavily on the already sore toes of the Reform Adventists, to not even mention them in your statement about this extremely controversial issue? Or is there perhaps a hidden agenda behind your statement?"

But wait, where is the problem between the churches on this issue? The problem is simply no longer there! After a detailed statement of a church president in no uncertain terms, at least this issue should be completely clear! No bearing of arms, no military service, no killing no matter how or under what circumstances. Beloved Reform Adventists, why then do you still have a problem with your brothers and sisters in the greater church?

The truth is that there are other deep chasms. But where would we look for them? And where must we direct our energies to ensure that these apparently insurmountable obstacles can be overcome between the churches? As we all know, it all boils down to obedience to the commandments of God and the testimonies of Ellen White. The Seventh Day Adventist Reform churches have put their focus on the health message (to the point that they are almost blind to anything else). And the Seventh-day Adventist church has a "liberal" view of things, with membership numbers having priority over rebuking disloyal brothers and sisters. Therefore, worldliness takes more and more hold of the church and we should not be surprised that the majority are now Ecumenical Adventists.

While some actually open the door for the world (through open days with ecumenical churches, worldwide ecumenical church days, public participation of all kinds in ecumenical events, etc.), the others are guarding the doors from their brethren, armed to the spiritual teeth with Ellen White quotations and Bible verses, and if someone makes one wrong move he is immediately taken in discipline and interrogated in meetings until three o'clock in the morning. Both are wrong; both are extremes. Being a Christian means to be balanced, not extreme. Love should be the basis for dealing with another, not the seeking of profit or organizational growth, or misunderstood and exaggerated liberalism, or fanatical censoriousness. But where do we draw the line? Have we already received advice on this? Or has God left us all alone, almost provoking the churches to fight on such matters? Was it His intention to cause separation among the Seventh-day Adventist churches by leaving certain points in obscure in His Word? Of course not, and very soon we will see that one again God has clearly written in the Orion what His requirements and messages are, and which doctrines are from Him and which ones aren't.

Many might ask, "Really? Is all this written in Orion?" Yes, Orion still has many lessons for our churches. We have not even begun to understand everything. We have already identified the time period during which we could expect Orion to show us something more, specifically the time range from 1936 to 1986. We would expect it to explain to us how it was possible for the Seventh-day Adventist church to reach its current fallen state. Now we start to dig even deeper into Orion together!

So far we have only considered the pointer stars, the four living creatures of Revelation 4, and the central star of the Clock, Alnitak, the Star of Jesus. We have not taken into account so far that Scripture always talks about seven stars when it comes to Orion as the Clock of God. Jesus holds seven stars in His hand, but so far we only used five of those to solve the riddle of the book with seven seals. So, which stars are missing in our consideration?

Correct! So far we did not use the two stars that make up the Throne of God:

Anilam, the middle star of the belt stars, the Throne of God Father, and Mintaka, the right star of the belt stars, the Throne of the Holy Spirit.

So far we haven't assigned any meaning or lines to these stars. I want to do it right now. Like before, we draw lines from the center of the Clock (Alnitak, the Star of Jesus) but this time through each of the other two Throne Stars. If we look at Orion with the naked eye, it seems that the three belt stars are arranged in a perfect line. However, it is not really so in reality. Mintaka is slightly above the line and Anilam somewhat below. This small shift results in two lines that appear as an ever-widening ray shining on two years in the Orion Clock:

As we can easily see in the picture, Jesus reveals two more years marked in Orion: 1949 and 1950. Now, I want to stress by the use of the color red that we are dealing here with very special lines and years. I say this because the two clock hands pointing to these years are not formed by Jesus and mere seraphims (angels with six wings), but by the entire Godhead: the Son, the Father and the Holy Spirit Themselves. These three Persons of the Divine Counsel are represented by a triangle that points to 1949 and 1950! This is about most holy issues and we are treading on holy ground. It is about doctrines and matters relating to the Deity Himself where the Godhead and His divine plan of salvation was attacked! Please, let us never forget this as we proceed in our study!

Let us consider now each of these very special dates individually and try to figure out what happened in those years that are of such weighty importance to God and His people that they are highlighted in Orion with the "Throne Lines", as I'll call this particular triangle from now on. In our journey into the past experience of the Advent church, we will discover things that have not only divided the Church internally into different camps, but also still impede the Churches from reuniting.

We will discover that God has marked these years to clearly show us what divides us, but also to show the utmost importance He places on these religious issues, and what He wants us to do. He wants us to unite, and He shows us that no single Church is standing on the truth. It will be revealed in our investigation that none of the Churches are really doing the will of God. The truth will be perfectly and clearly shown—the truth that God has confirmed in His great revelation, the book with seven seals in Orion. The following articles will show terrible consequences for many leaders, and they will have to decide whether to continue holding their previous views and go to perdition, or to teach and live what God requires of them. I'm guessing that many of them were already scared to death as soon as they saw the two new year dates in the above chart; they know exactly what they mean.

To decide for God will require of many leaders a supreme sacrifice. The truth has its price! For many, it will mean the loss of all their worldly support to take their stand on God's side. May He help them to know the truth, and grant them the strength to make the right decisions for Him, at any cost. May He bless them—they are our brothers, after all, and Jesus died for them. We should love them how He does, too. Orion helps us to distinguish truth from error, and correct our brothers and sisters with God's love message from Orion.

After all, the 144,000 are teachers who form the church of Philadelphia, and "Philadelphia" means "brotherly love"!

The Throne Lines - Part II

Written by John Scotram

In Part II of the series of articles about the throne lines of the Clock of God in Orion we begin our journey back into the past of the Adventist churches. God has given us two years, highlighted by the Thrones of the three divine Persons of the Divine Council: 1949 and 1950. We are in the time range of the repetition of the third seal: 1936-1986, which corresponds to the compromising church Pergamos.

And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come and see. And I beheld, and lo a black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand. And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, A measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and see thou hurt not the oil and the wine. (Revelation 5:5-6)

The black horse of the third seal already points to a distortion of the once pure Gospel, which was symbolized by the white horse of the first seal (1846) as the Adventist Church and Ellen White and her husband James White accepted the Sabbath truth. The inflation of the Word of God for a lack of righteous discernment in the church is also shown clearly by the scales and the prices of wheat and barley, which serve for baking "Bread of Life". And there is something for sale here! Namely, the loyalty to God and love for the truth. However, those who have the blood of Christ [wine] and the Holy Spirit [oil], are thereby not deterred to be faithful to their God and to distinguish truth from falsehood. All this fulfilled once more literally in the time period of the repetition of the third seal.

Another prophecy fulfilled: "Antipas, my faithful martyr"

Before I respond to what happened in 1949, I would like to return once again to the beginning of the third seal to show how the seals and churches sometimes can overlap and specifically how a major prophecy fulfilled for the Reformation churches although their leaders would not accept this wonderful fulfillment and see their own history confirmed by God. In the introductory part of this series of articles, I have already examined the events that the beginning of the third seal brought about, that the gap between the then existing two SDA churches, the big church and the Reformation church, that had emerged in the crisis of 1914, yet became even wider.

In the Epistle of Jesus to the Church of Smyrna, we see the events surrounding the Reformation church from 1914 symbolized in the repetition of the second seal:

And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna [those excluded in 1914, who did not want to participate in military service and wanted to stay faithful to God] write; These things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive [Jesus, who suffered also the death of a martyr, but for all mankind]; I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich) [spiritual richness, in contrast with Laodicea, the big church, which estimated itself rich but is spiritually poor] and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews [the Adventists of the big church], and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan [many ministers are Satan's disciples]. Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison [fulfilled once more with the excluded faithful ones, who formed later the SDA Reformation Movement], that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death [many Reformation Adventists died for their faith in the First World War], and I will give thee a crown of life. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death. (Revelation 2:8-11)

In their "History of the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement" they describe how they understand the years from 1936 from their own view. Please note how the second church of Smyrna, which is about the Reformation church of 1914, overlaps with the beginning of the third seal in 1936 and the prophecy of the 10 days (= years) fulfilled again. The classical fulfillment was the persecution of the Christians by the Romans from 100 AD to 313 AD, whereby the last 10 years under Diocletian had been particularly terrible. The original version of this chapter can be downloaded [HERE.

Under the Hitler regime all our religious activities were proscribed. Our young men were brought into severe trials when called to bear arms because there was no provision for conscientious objectors. And parents had real problems with their school-aged children in connection with the Sabbath. They had tests upon tests. For ten years, until the end of World War II, our brethren worked underground. During this fearful time of distress, many of our brethren had to face imprisonment and even death.

Tests came upon the SDA Church also, but they found an easy solution which our people could not endorse.

In a circular letter dated June 3, 1936, for instance, E. Gugel, a state conference president, sent out the following instructions to his church members:

"To be read aloud in all churches on Sabbath, June 6th:

"Dear Brethren and Sisters in Christ: On May 18, 1936, the competent Departments issued a regulation, an extract of which is as follows:

"The Minister of Science, Education and National Instruction deems it no longer possible to maintain the special position hitherto granted to Adventist children on Saturday. Accordingly, all regulations of exception with regard to the attendance of Adventist children on Saturday are abolished. (This refers to the regulations of February 1934 as well as the former regulation.)

"In reply to a question directed to the Department of the Interior as well as to the Department of Public Worship with regard to making a new application on our part, I was told that this decision was irrevocable. It must be left to Divine Providence as to whether there will be another possibility in the near future to make another application, but we shall leave nothing untried. As we see no possibility whatever for the time being of bringing about a mitigation of this regulation, we must define our attitude. In America and England, as a rule, there is no school on Saturdays. Therefore, this difficulty does not exist there. Until 1919 and 1921, respectively, we had no problem as far as mandatory school attendance on Saturdays. Individuals among us succeeded here and there in obtaining it. Some did so by sending their children to private schools. The poorer ones had no possibility of doing this. However, in the future, private schools will not be able to make an exception. Nevertheless, for 15 years we enjoyed a privilege which our brethren and sisters in many European countries did not have. Unfortunately, some among us did not appreciate it so much. In free Switzerland the authorities have been unyielding on this question. Although individual parents paid heavy fines and went to prison now and again, they gained nothing and finally had to yield. In Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, etc. . . . our brethren and sisters there are also good Adventists as we are (may the Lord grant) here.

"As we have now tried everything, I do not believe that the Lord will consider the attendance of our children at school on Sabbath as a real transgression of the fourth commandment. If this were the case, then we would have to condemn all our brethren and sisters outside

Germany, who, under the laws of the land, have had to submit, which is regrettable. This we will not and cannot do. . . .

“You will understand that I feel a heavy responsibility before God and the denomination in this difficult matter. I have therefore sent a circular to all our presidents asking their opinion on this question, so they may carry this responsibility with me. Their answer for the most part is that it would not be wise to bring unnecessary difficulties upon the work by rash actions because of this restrictive regulation. Therefore, we must submit to the new position. . . .”

This circular letter shows how the faith of the Adventist people was tried also with reference to school attendance and Sabbath observance. We think that, under the test, the leadership of the Adventist Church in Germany should have encouraged the believers to comply with the requirements of God instead of succumbing to the anti-biblical demands of the state. On this point, the light received through the Spirit of Prophecy reads:

“Our brethren cannot expect the approval of God while they place their children where it is impossible for them to obey the fourth commandment. They should endeavor to make some arrangement with the authorities whereby the children shall be excused from attendance at school upon the seventh day. If this fails, then their duty is plain, to obey God’s requirements at whatever cost.”—Historical Sketches of the Foreign Missions of the SDAs, p. 216.

[The History of the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement, p. 196,197]

And the text goes on and again, the very serious 10 years are mentioned by the Reformation Adventists in their own history book, without being aware that their leaders, because of their rejection of the Orion-Clock, do not want to admit that these events fulfilled biblical prophecies, given by Jesus Himself to the churches:

When religious oppression in Germany had reached a climax, God intervened in behalf of His people. After almost ten years of proscription and persecution, our German brethren were thankful to God that the opposition was finally over, in 1945, and that they were once more permitted to breathe freely and assemble in peace. Their first district gatherings after World War II were held in Solingen (Sept. 14–15, 1945) and Esslingen (Oct. 26–28, 1945). In their paper Der Adventruf (The Advent Call) of December 1946 (first issue), they reported:

“The experiences of the brethren (during the time of the war), according to the testimonies borne of them, show that the Lord led His people in a wonderful way through the difficult years. Tribulation, imprisonment, and persecution brought the brethren closer together. We praise our Lord and Saviour for His great help. . . .

“Ten years of oppression and persecution are behind us. The Lord did not consent that His people be annihilated. . . .

Many brethren lost their lives because of their faith—Brethren Hanselmann, Schmidt, Zrenner, Brugger, Blasi, and many others about whom we have no news. We only know that they remained faithful unto death. Many young and old brothers and sisters had to suffer in concentration camps, prisons, and penitentiaries, where they were tormented by inhuman torturers.”

What a terrible day that will be when men will be called to render an account of the innocent blood that they have shed!

[The History of the Seventh Day Adventist Reform Movement, p. 197,198]

You see here that the two churches, Smyrna ("sweet smell" of the sacrifice, 1914–1945) and Pergamos (the compromising church, from 1936 to 1986), exist at the same time during the first

10 years of the third seal (1936-1986). There is no doubt. This was fulfilled in this clear and literal form only in the second cycle of the churches and seals! Therefore, these 10 difficult years for the Reformation church are mentioned once again in the time period of Pergamos with the following words:

And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges; I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth. (Revelation 2:12-13)

I underlined a statement of the text of the history book of the SDARM above, that I would like the brethren of both Reformation churches to examine carefully in prayer: The Lord did not consent that His people be annihilated.

Please ponder whether it was true that the church of Smyrna was not completely destroyed by Satan? Study your history and see there how the first General Conference of the Reformation Adventists after WWII went in 1948 and that this caused in 1951 another separation this time in the Reformation Church. And, dear brothers and sisters of the two Reformation churches, please study the letters to the churches of Revelation that follow Pergamos and look to see if you are able to find somewhere the spirit of Smyrna again. Compare by yourself the spirit of your pioneers and martyrs with the spirit that the General Conferences of both Reformation churches show nowadays and the intransigence with which they meet the other SDA churches and refuse new light. That's all I want to say at the moment, except that "Antipas [the Reformation church, which was registered as International Missionary Society in 1919 in Germany], my faithful martyr, was slain among you, where the Satan dwelleth [Germany, as frequently shown in my articles]". And I would like to assure everyone of you that I know that in all SDA churches are faithful followers of Christ. And those have to unite now!

False Doctrines in Church?

In this article I want to address specifically the Orion year 1949, which is marked in red by the line, which is formed by the star of Jesus (Alnitak) and the star of the Holy Spirit (Mintaka). What we will find must also be in harmonious conformity with the counsel of Jesus to the church of Pergamos. And there, especially with the rebuke of Jesus to this church, as we have long recognized that Jesus reveals the sins of His people in Orion. Thus, let us read first all the relevant verses:

But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a stumblingblock before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication. So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate. Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. (Revelation 2:14-16)

During the time of the third seal and the church of Pergamos, we should therefore be able to observe two major teachings that Jesus identified as the doctrine of Balaam and the doctrine of the Nicolaitans. These doctrines are interrelated and similar and one concludes from the other, as evidenced by the wording "so hast thou also" of the Nicolaitans' doctrine in relation to the doctrine of Balaam. Not all Bible translations express the original Greek wording clearly which should be translated as in the German "Elberfelder" Bible, "So hast thou also them that hold in the same manner the doctrine of the Nicolaitans". This is a better translation as in the KJV. What we should understand is that there is a connection between these two false teachings that have nothing else in mind than seduce the sons of Israel to sin, so they would deny their God and apostate to Satan. A very serious matter then.

It is interesting that the Throne Lines, as can be seen in the picture, first of all point to two years: 1949 and 1950. The obvious conclusion is that in those two years happened something that corresponds on one hand to the introduction of the doctrine of Balaam and the other hand to the introduction of the doctrine of the Nicolaitans. We will see that it is indeed true. And we will also realize that these two doctrines actually are just the other side of the same coin and are closely linked.

Jesus generally emphasizes a contrast in the Epistles to the churches. He gives praise to those who do things right and then He rebukes those who do the same things wrong. What Jesus in any case wants to make clear, is that the end times of persecution ceased at the beginning of the third seal, and first comes a time in which the correct doctrines are still dominant: "I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith."

We know that this praise can hardly relate to the behavior of parts of SDA church regarding the question of sending their children to school on Sabbath in Europe. Moreover, this problem was already marked by the line of the beginning of the third seal in 1936. Here, we are talking about the name of Jesus and the faith of Jesus and the beginning of the Pergamos church. We have already seen that Smyrna lasted until 1945 and then the persecutions stopped. At the same time, Jesus says, however, that the others who did not belong to "Antipas" were holding fast His name and did not deny His faith. So, the rebuke of Jesus to Pergamos and His warnings about the teachings of Balaam and the Nicolaitans have to relate to a time after 1945.

What these time overlaps want to teach us is that everything that relates to these false doctrines, from the beginning of the third seal until the beginning of the reproach to Pergamos (after 1945) was not a problem at all, but then in the course of the third seal, and the church of Pergamos, changes came in that Jesus cannot support. It would mean to deny His name and the faith of Jesus, if we would tap in the traps of one or inevitably both false doctrines. There is so much at stake: our eternal life! These traps are so deceptive and dangerous that Jesus highlights them especially by the Throne Lines in the Orion together with the Holy Spirit and His Father. This also gives us a clear insight of what is meant. It's about His Name, His character, His very nature and the faith of Jesus, and ultimately the plan of salvation itself. These false teachings have one goal, to distort the belief in the nature of Jesus and thereby introduce a false understanding of the salvation plan, which means that those, who believe in these heresies, will be lost for Jesus. A satanic plan! We have to study very deeply and carefully.

61 Years of Carnage about the Flesh of Jesus

Hence, let us search again the internet and look for the events in 1949, the beginning of the problems of Pergamos, especially marked by the first Throne Line. It's easy to find if we use search terms such as "Seventh Day Adventists, 1949, apostasy". There are just a few results, and only one event in particular stands out. I want to say, the search result is unambiguous. There is no doubt, we have found the event, which God reproaches.

In this search we find various websites and sources, all writing about an essential event in the history of the big Adventist church. A change in the doctrine of the nature of Jesus, which in 1949 first entered Adventist literature. There is a special source, which comes from a highly respected Adventist theologian, Dr. Jean Rudolf Zurich. In his book "Touched with Our Feelings" of the year 1994, Dr. Zurcher tells us what happened since the year 1949 with the Adventist church's doctrine regarding the nature of Jesus:

Part 4 - The Christological Controversy at the Heart of the Adventist Church Chapter 10 - Adventism's New Milestone

Throughout the history of Christianity changes in doctrine - have generally taken place slowly, subtly, and imperceptibly. It is often very difficult to determine the origin of these changes, or those who were responsible for them. But such is not the case with the doctrinal change about the human nature of Jesus that took place in the Adventist Church during the 1950s. Those chiefly responsible for the change have left their mark upon the beliefs of the church. It seems obvious that the authors of this change were fully aware that they were introducing a new teaching of the doctrine regarding the Incarnation. This is spelled out in the report of the circumstances disclosed by Leroy Edwin Froom in his book "Movement of Destiny" and in an account which could be considered as the manifesto of this new interpretation, published in "Ministry" under the title "Adventism's New Milestone." This chapter will focus at the history of this new view, as traced in these sources.

I do not wish to question my colleagues' commitment to truth or loyalty to the church. I am sure they love the Lord and His Word. But I must question certain doctrinal approaches, seeking to do so in Christian kindness.

The First Milestone of a Radical Change

In 1949 the Review and Herald Publishing Association requested Professor D. E. Rebock, president of the Adventist Theological Seminary, Washington, D.C., to review the text of the book "Bible Readings for the Home Circle", in preparation for a new edition.

This book, which had appeared in numerous editions, was widely used by Adventist families in the systematic study of the Bible. It presented the official teaching of the church in great detail. As we have shown earlier, the 1915 edition, reprinted in 1936 and in 1945, stipulated unequivocally,

"In His humanity Christ partook of our sinful, fallen nature. If not, then He was not 'made like unto his brethren,' was not 'in all points tempted like as we are,' did not overcome as we have to overcome, and is not, therefore, the complete and perfect Saviour that man needs and must have to be saved."

Froom remarks about Rebok: "Coming upon this unfortunate note on page 174, in the study about the 'Sinless Life,' he recognized that this was not true. . . . So the inaccurate note was deleted, and has remained out in all subsequent printings." As a result, the new edition of "Bible Readings" gives a new answer to the question: "How fully did Christ share our common humanity?" The answer cites Hebrews 2:17, with the following explanatory remark:

"Jesus Christ is both Son of God and Son of man. As a member of the human family 'it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren'—'in the likeness of sinful flesh.' Just how far that 'likeness' goes is a mystery of the Incarnation which men have never been able to solve. The Bible clearly teaches that Christ was tempted just as other men are tempted—in all points . . . like as we are.' Such temptation must necessarily include the possibility of sinning; but Christ was without sin. There is no Bible support for the teaching that the mother of Christ, by an immaculate conception, was cut off from the sinful inheritance of race, and therefore her divine Son was incapable of sinning."

This is a significant difference from the 1946 edition. While the older version underlines the participation of Christ in "man's sinful nature," in "his fallen nature," the latter strongly affirms that "Christ was without sin." Obviously, the affirmation is perfectly correct. No one has ever claimed otherwise. But that is not the question. The question is about Christ's humanity, about His "sinful flesh," as Paul puts it.

As has been pointed out, by rejecting the dogma of the immaculate conception and stating that Mary had naturally inherited the blemishes inherent in humanity, Rebok leaves unexplained how Jesus did not Himself inherit sinful flesh, like all the descendants of Adam. Does not Paul expressly say that He was born "of the seed of David, according to the flesh"? Rebok, in his editing of "Bible Readings", also altered a second explanatory note, in answer to the question "Where did God, in Christ, condemn sin, and gain the victory for us over temptation and sin?" The two explanatory notes, from two different editions, are placed in parallel for comparison below:

1946 Edition	Rebok's Revised Text
"God, in Christ, condemned sin, not by pronouncing against it merely as a judge sitting on the judgment-seat, but by coming and living in the flesh, in sinful flesh, and yet without sinning. In Christ, He demonstrated that it is possible, by His grace and power, to resist temptation, overcome sin, and live a sinless life in sinful flesh."	"God, in Christ, condemned sin, not by pronouncing against it merely as a judge sitting on the judgment-seat, but by coming and living in the flesh. (omission) and yet without sinning. In Christ, He demonstrated that it is possible, by His grace and power, to resist temptation, overcome sin, and live a sinless life in (omission) the flesh."

A "Small" Change with Big Effect

What started with this "small" change, we cannot even imagine. We only know that it is of such great importance that the Holy Spirit and Jesus marked it in Orion as capital sin. But before we look closer, what was caused by the change, we read first, what another highly respected Adventist theologian, Dr. Ralph Larsen writes about this book:

Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad! A distinguished, Seventh-day Adventist scholar, Dr. Jean Zurcher, whose spiritual and academic credentials are impeccable, has conducted a full and complete investigation of the origin and progress of a totally false teaching about the nature of Christ (Christology) in the Seventh-day Adventist church, and has reported his findings in the book Touched With Our Feelings. This is only one of his notable achievements. In a second, and no less impressive achievement, he has succeeded in getting his book printed by the Review and Herald press, which has rejected all such manuscripts for years.

Dr. Zurcher has taught in various Seventh-day Adventist colleges, and is presently the chairman of the Biblical Research Committee of the Euro-African Division. He has written a previous book on the nature and destiny of man which is widely acclaimed as the best treatment of that subject by an Adventist writer.

In the present volume, he carefully chronicles the historical data and analyzes the Christological positions reached in the unanimous testimony of all Seventh-day Adventist witnesses for a period of one hundred years (1850–1950). He then turns his attention to the false Christology that was introduced in the 1950s, and the incredible actions and arguments of those who introduced it. This makes his work the most exhaustive and comprehensive treatment of the subject that has yet appeared. The results are, in a word, devastating to the false Christology, which teaches that Christ came to earth in the human nature of unfallen Adam, rather than in man's fallen nature, as our church has always believed and taught.

This book is not to be read and laid aside. It is a veritable library, containing a wealth of information that needs to be studied and restudied. The idea that the subject is unimportant, or is of interest only to theologians, is firmly rejected. Zurcher maintains, with full documentary support, that the subject of the human nature of Christ is of vital importance to every Christian.

The truth that Christ came to earth in the fallen nature of man was described as vitally important by a host of Seventh-day Adventist witnesses before the 1950s. This group consisted of Adventism's first line of leadership. It included:

- General Conference presidents: James White, A.G. Daniels, C.H. Watson, W.H. Branson and J.L. McElhany
- General Conference vice presidents: W.W. Prescott, I.H. Evans and H.L. Rudy
- Division presidents: E.F. Hackman, W.G. Turner, C.B. Haynes, J.E. Fulton, A.V. Olson and L.H. Christian
- General Conference secretaries: G.B. Thompson and F.C. Gilbert
- Union presidents: R.A. Underwood and E.K. Slade
- Union secretaries: A.W. Semmens and J. McCulloch
- College presidents: R.S. Owen, H.E. Giddings, W.E. Howell and M.L. Andreasen (who was also a seminary professor)
- Conference presidents: S.N. Haskell, C.P. Bollman, J.L. Schuler, A.T. Robinson and C.L. Bond
- Review, Signs and Bible Echo editors: A.T. Jones, Uriah Smith, F.M. Wilcox, J.H. Waggoner, E.J. Waggoner, E.W. Farnsworth, W.H. Glenn, M.C. Wilcox, F.D. Nichol, A.L. Baker, O. Tait, C.M. Snow, G. Dalrymple, R. Hare, M. Neff and G.C. Tenny

All of these illustrious leaders of Adventism published, in articles and books, their strong convictions that Christ came to earth in the human nature of fallen man. In addition, there were many writers who did not hold high positions in the church, but who did have enough stature to be considered eligible to write the same thing in our publications a total of 1200 times, before the 1950s. (See "The Word Was Made Flesh" by this author.) And all of them were contemptuously dismissed by L.E. Froom, the leading promoter of the false Christology in the 1950s, as Adventism's "lunatic fringe"!

How he would dare to publish such a monstrous misrepresentation is an incredible mystery. How he could get so many Seventh-day Adventists to accept the misrepresentation as fact is an even greater mystery. It would appear to be a classic case of putting blind confidence in a leader. Froom was, at this time, enjoying the confidence of most church members because of the six volumes that had appeared over his name on "The Prophetic Faith of Our Fathers" and "The Conditionalist Faith of Our Fathers". This had apparently led many to accept anything he wrote without question.

In any case, did Adventism ever have a lunatic fringe? Unfortunately, the answer is "Yes." And that lunatic fringe believed exactly what Froom believed about the nature of Christ, that Jesus came to earth in the human nature of unfallen Adam! This group was first identified as the "holy flesh" movement of Indiana. You may read about these people in "Selected Messages", vol. 2, 31–39. The movement began in Indiana, in 1889. When Ellen White, who was in Australia, was informed about it, she returned and strongly denounced it at the General Conference of 1901. She described it as "cheap, miserable inventions of men's theories, prepared by the father of lies." The conference discussed and condemned the teaching as false. (Zurcher, 276.)

And Froom's cohorts were too small a group to even be called a fringe. Their names have been, and still are to some extent, a closely guarded secret. But in various ways that secret has been "leaked," so that we now understand that a group of four persons entered into conversations with certain non-Adventist theologians, and then took upon themselves the awesome responsibility of changing our Christology. This was a challenging task. It meant that the uniform testimony of our cloud of witnesses, for one hundred years, had to be set aside, and an alien interpretation had to be placed on the writings of Ellen White, forcing her to say what she actually never said. Why would such a thing be attempted?

To gain the favor of the world. More specifically, to gain the favor of certain Calvinistic theologians who were threatening to describe us as a cult, if the changes were not made, and offering to "accept" us as true Christians if the changes were made. This still leaves us gasping. Since when have we submitted our doctrines for approval to theologians who hold false doctrines on the Sabbath, the law of God, the immortality of the soul, hell fire, baptism, health reform and so on? Nevertheless, it was done. As nearly as we can ascertain, through the curtain of secrecy that was employed, the four Adventists who made the fateful decision were L.E. Froom, Roy Alan Anderson, W.E. Read and J. Unruh.

Roy Alan Anderson was then secretary of our ministerial association and editor of Ministry magazine. If Froom's description of virtually all of our leaders before the 1950s as a "lunatic fringe" is stunning, Anderson's contribution is no less stunning. He published to all of our ministers in Ministry magazine that Ellen White had written only three or four statements that could be understood to mean that Christ had come in fallen human nature, but that these were "strongly counter-balanced" by her many other statements that He had come in unfallen human nature. (Zurcher 158, 159.) This statement is the precise opposite of the truth in both of its parts. Her statements that Christ came in fallen human nature actually number more than four hundred. And the "counter-balancing" statements simply do not exist. Anderson's reference to them is pure fiction. Ellen White never wrote even a single time that Christ came to earth in unfallen human nature.

W.E. Read made an equally facile contribution in proposing that Christ took our fallen human nature vicariously, in the same way that He paid the price for our sins. But this argument collapses on its own weight. Another person can pay a debt for you, but he cannot take a drink of water for you. If something is done for you vicariously, that means that you do not have to do it. Christ has paid the price for our sins, so we do not have to pay it. If Christ had taken our human nature vicariously, we would not have to take it. But alas, we still have it. Many more serious problems could be pointed out, but I refer you to Zurcher.

So, the false Christology has made its way into our church through monstrous misrepresentations, misleading manipulation of evidence and ludicrous puerile propositions. Tragically, those who have tried to defend this monstrosity have not departed far from the methods of its originators. The misstatements, the false reasoning and the self-contradictions still continue. Witness the writings of Adams, Ford, Heppenstal, Ott, etc.

These grim revelations confront us with two difficult questions. First, how should we relate to the appalling misrepresentations of the originators of the false Christology? Intellectual integrity permits only one choice. We must repudiate them. To defend such methods would be utterly unthinkable.

Second, how should we relate to those among us who are continuing to promote false Christology? Zurcher, although he is clearly appalled by what he has found, carefully refrains from bringing railing accusations against anyone. We must follow his good example. We cannot judge motives, but we must judge actions. Those who defend the false Christology may not be aware of the methods they are defending. We must seek to inform them. If the Lord should stir the heart of any of you to give this book to a pastor of your acquaintance, that would be a good beginning. And if the Lord should lay a larger burden upon your heart, so be it. In any case, praise God for this book and praise God for our truth!

An Extraordinary Experience

Dear brothers and sisters, the subject, to which we are conducted by Orion, and the year 1949 which is registered there, is frightening! This is not an unimportant issue. It is for us a matter of life or death! Therefore, I hold back myself in these articles and let others talk more, as doctors and theologians who have higher weight than a small farmer from South America. Let us now listen to what Kenneth E. Wood, chairman of the Ellen G. White Estate Board of Trustees, has to tell us, who wrote the preface to Zurcher's book "Touched with our Feelings" on August 10, 1996. It reads as follows:

From the time I was a small boy in the early 1920s my parents taught me that the Son of God came into this world with a physical heritage like that of any other human baby. Without making a big point of the sinners in His ancestry, they told me of Rahab and David, and emphasized that in spite of His inherited physical liabilities Jesus lived a perfect life as a child, youth, and adult. They told me that He understood my temptations, for He was tempted as I was, and that He would give me power to overcome as He did. This made a deep impression on me. It helped me look to Jesus not only as my Saviour but as my Example, and believe that by His power I could live the victorious life.

In later years I learned that my parents' teaching regarding Jesus was well supported by the Bible, and that Ellen G. White, God's messenger to the remnant, had made this truth clear in numerous statements, such as the following:

"Let children bear in mind that the child Jesus had taken upon Himself human nature, and was in the likeness of sinful flesh, and was tempted of Satan as all children are tempted. He was able to resist the temptations of Satan through His dependence upon the divine power of His heavenly Father, as He was subject to His will, and obedient to all His commands" (Youth's Instructor, Aug. 23, 1894).

"Jesus once stood in age just where you now stand. Your circumstances, your cogitations at this period of your life, Jesus has had. He cannot overlook you at this critical period. He sees your dangers. He is acquainted with your temptations" (Manuscript Releases, vol. 4, p. 235).

One of the major reasons that Christ entered the human family to live a victorious life from birth to maturity was to set an example for those He came to save. "Jesus took human nature, passing through infancy, childhood, and youth, that He might know how to sympathize with all, and leave an example for all children and youth. He is acquainted with the temptations and weaknesses of children" (Youth's Instructor, Sept. 1, 1873).

In my academy and college years I continued to hear from Adventist teachers and ministers that Jesus took the same kind of flesh that every human being must take—flesh affected and influenced by the fall of Adam and Eve. It was pointed out that Catholics do not believe this, because their doctrine of original sin requires them to distance Jesus from sinful flesh. They did this by creating the doctrine of the immaculate conception, the doctrine that Mary, the mother of Jesus, though conceived naturally, was from the moment of her conception free from any stain of original sin; thus, since she was unlike her ancestors and the rest of the fallen human race, she could provide her Son with flesh like that of the unfallen Adam. Although Protestants reject this Catholic doctrine, most still argue for a difference between Christ's humanity and that of the human race He came to save. Supernaturally, they say, He was cut off from the genetic inheritance He would have received from His sin-fallen forebears, and hence was exempt from certain tendencies against which human beings as a whole must battle.

Challenged by Critics

Because Adventists from the beginning have held that Jesus took human nature as He found it after more than 4,000 years of sin, ministers and theologians of other churches have distorted this belief and used it to turn people away from the Sabbath truth and the three angels' messages. With the doctrine of original sin in their frame of reference, they have declared that if Jesus took a body "in the likeness of sinful flesh" (Rom. 8:3, KJV) He would have been a sinner and hence would have Himself needed a Saviour.

In the early 1930s an article challenging three Adventist teachings, including the nature of Christ, appeared in Moody Monthly. Francis D. Nichol, editor of the Review and Herald (now Adventist Review), responded to the charges by writing a letter to the editor. Regarding the teaching that Christ "inherited a sinful, fallen nature," he said:

"The belief of the Seventh-day Adventists upon this subject is definitely set forth in Hebrews 2:14-18. To the extent that such a Bible passage as this teaches the actual participation of Christ in our nature, we teach it."

Later, in an editorial commenting on the critic's response to his statement, he wrote, in part:

"We readily agree that for one to say that Christ inherited a 'sinful, fallen nature' might, in the absence of any other qualifying statement, be misunderstood as meaning that Christ was a sinner by nature, even as we. This would indeed be an appalling doctrine. But no such doctrine as this is believed by us. We teach unqualifiedly that though Christ was born of woman, partook of the same flesh and blood as we, was so truly made like unto His brethren that it was possible for Him to be tempted in all points like as we are, yet that He was without sin, that He knew no sin.

"The key to the whole matter, of course, is the phrase 'yet without sin.' We believe unreservedly this declaration of Holy Writ. Christ was truly the Sinless One. We believe that He who knew no sin was made to be sin for us. Otherwise He could not have been our Saviour. No matter in what language any Adventist may endeavor to describe the nature which Christ inherited on the human side—and who can hope to do this with absolute precision and with freedom from any possible misunderstanding?—we believe implicitly, as already stated, that Christ was 'without sin'" (Review and Herald, Mar. 12, 1931).

The position set forth by Elder Nichol was precisely the belief that the church, as well as many respected non-Adventist Bible students, had held throughout the decades. It certainly was the view held by Ellen White, who wrote:

"In taking upon Himself man's nature in its fallen condition, Christ did not in the least participate in its sin. . . . He was touched with the feeling of our infirmities, and was in all points tempted like as we are. And yet He knew no sin. . . . We should have no misgivings in regard to the perfect sinlessness of the human nature of Christ" (Selected Messages, book 1, p. 256).

Dialogue and Change

Imagine my surprise, then, when, as one of the editors of the Review in the 1950s, I heard some church leaders say that this was not the correct view—that it was the view of only the “lunatic fringe” in the church! Dialogue was taking place with a few evangelical ministers who were committed to a view of the nature of man that included the “immortal soul” error. I was told that our position on Christ’s human nature was being “clarified.” As a result of this dialogue, several church leaders who had been involved in the discussions announced that Christ took the nature of Adam before—not after—the Fall. The shift was 180 degrees—Postlapsarian to Prelapsarian.

This dramatic change drove me to study the question with an intensity bordering on obsession. With all the objectivity I could muster, I examined the Scriptures. I read Ellen White’s writings. I read the statements of Adventist thinkers who had set forth their views during the previous hundred years. I examined studies and books by contemporary Adventist authors and non-Adventist theologians. I tried to understand what effect this shift in belief might have on (1) the symbolism of Jacob’s ladder reaching all the way from heaven to earth; (2) the purpose of Christ’s taking human flesh; (3) the relationship of His humanity to being qualified as our high priest (Heb. 2:10; cf. The Desire of Ages, p. 745 and The Story of Jesus, p. 155); (4) the relative difficulty of battling the adversary in sinless flesh instead of sinful flesh; (5) the deeper meaning of both Gethsemane and Calvary; (6) the doctrine of righteousness by faith; and (7) the value of Christ’s life as an example to me.

The effects of this doctrine of the un-fallen nature of Jesus to the “doctrine of righteousness by faith” and the resulting reduction of “the value of the Christ’s life as our example”, I will address in the following article on the Throne Lines and explain in detail, why Jesus highlights also the year 1950 in Orion as a terrible warning. But let us read on in the preface to one of the best books we can find in contemporary Adventist literature and I would like to highly recommend to every reader of my articles to study it, if he is interested in the salvation of his soul:

For 40 years I have continued this study. As a result, I have come to understand better not only the importance of holding a correct view of Christ’s human nature, but two Ellen White comments on why even simple truths are sometimes made to appear confusing:

1. “Professed theologians seem to take pleasure in making that which is plain, mysterious. They clothe the simple teachings of God’s Word with their own dark reasonings, and thus confuse the minds of those who listen to their doctrines” (Signs of the Times, July 2, 1896).
2. “Many a portion of Scripture which learned men pronounce a mystery, or pass over as unimportant, is full of comfort and instruction to him who has been taught in the school of Christ. One reason why many theologians have no clearer understanding of God’s Word is they close their eyes to truths which they do not wish to practice. An understanding of Bible truth depends not so much on the power of intellect brought to the search as on the singleness of purpose, the earnest longing after righteousness” (Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 38).

During recent decades a number of writers have attempted to make a case for their belief that Christ took the pre-Fall nature of Adam. Their biblical proof texts seem strong only when interpreted according to the presuppositions they have brought to them. On occasion they have even employed an ad hominem approach in which they have endeavored to discredit well-respected Adventist teachers and ministers who have held to the post-Fall view. As I see it, their attempts have been patterned after the lawyer who is reputed to have said, “If you have a strong case, stick to the facts. If you have a weak case, try to confuse the issue. If you have no case, rail on the jury.”

It is my deep conviction that before the church can proclaim with power God's last warning message to the world, it must be united on the truth about Christ's human nature. Thus I have long hoped that someone with impeccable spiritual and academic credentials would set forth in succinct, readable form a comprehensive view of Bible- and Spirit of Prophecy-based Christology and of how the church deviated from the truth on this question 40 years ago.

This book meets that hope. I have known the author for many years. He is a loyal Seventh-day Adventist, a scholar who has pursued truth with unusual objectivity. Nearly three decades ago he made a well-received contribution to contemporary theology by authoring the book "The Nature and Destiny of Man" (New York: Philosophical Library, 1969). With his clear understanding of the nature of humanity, Jean Zurcher has had the insights necessary to examine the biblical doctrine of Christ's human nature. In the present volume he carefully sets forth the truth about Christ's human nature, and shows that the glory of the Saviour's successful mission to this world is enhanced, not diminished, by the fact that He triumphed in spite of taking the liabilities of "sinful flesh."

I believe that this carefully researched and well-written book will be enthusiastically received by all who love truth and want to understand better how intimate is the relationship between Jesus and the human family. Truly "the humanity of the Son of God is everything to us. It is the golden chain that binds our souls to Christ, and through Christ to God" (Selected Messages, book 1, p. 244).

So far the preface to this unique book, because it is "a light that shineth in a dark place" in comparison to the false doctrines that entered SDA church for many years and especially since 1949. Of course, then again everything was tried to bring even this book and its author into disrepute. But it is still available in several languages and I can only recommend that you get it as soon as possible.

Some pages of the book are available on Google Books.

We Come Full Circle

With the last words of Kenneth E. Wood, we come full circle. We had started the Orion study with an "incomprehensible" quote of Ellen White in the PowerPoint slides and have been wondering what she could have meant with these statements, because we just could not find that in chapter 5 of Revelation:

The fifth chapter of Revelation needs to be closely studied. It is of great importance to those who shall act a part in the work of God for these last days. There are some who are deceived. They do not realize what is coming on the earth. Those who have permitted their minds to become beclouded in regard to what constitutes sin are fearfully deceived. Unless they make a decided change they will be found wanting when God pronounces judgment upon the children of men. They have transgressed the law and broken the everlasting covenant, and they will receive according to their works. {9T 267.1}

Then we found the Orion and had been able to decrypt a part of the Book with the Seven Seals and realized that God had registered there the sins of His people, committed at the Great Heavenly Day of Investigative Judgment which started in 1844. To find the answer to the question, how long the Judgment Day would take, we got a hint by another special quote of Ellen White:

When the books of Daniel and Revelation are better understood, believers will have an entirely different religious experience. They will be given such glimpses of the open gates of heaven that heart and mind will be impressed with the character that all must develop in order to realize the blessedness which is to be the reward of the pure in heart. The Lord will bless all who will seek humbly and meekly to understand that which is revealed in the Revelation. This book contains so much that is large with immortality and full of glory that all who read and search it earnestly receive the blessing to those "that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein." One thing will certainly be understood from the study of Revelation--the connection between God and His people is close and decided. A wonderful connection is seen between the universe of heaven and this world. {TM 114}

Now we also realize, how it was meant that, if we would better understand Daniel and Revelation (and the Orion), we would "have an entirely different religious experience", and know that "the connection between God and His people is close and decided", or how Kenneth E. Wood put it, "how intimate the relationship between Jesus and the human family is".

The unbiased research in the Word of God and the influence of the Holy Spirit led us finally to the most sacred truths in the Book of books; to the truth that Jesus had come in the flesh of the fallen Adam. The final decision, which of the two parties, who are debating for more than 60 years on this issue, holds the truth and taught us correctly, was brought to us ultimately by the Orion respectively by God, who wrote the Book of Seven Seals in the sky and gave us now full insight. We do not need to read hundreds of books and we will not need to study 40 or 50 years like "obsessed" theologian discussions on a daily basis as Brother Kenneth E. Wood. The Orion has shown us the truth and Jesus - as it all Adventists for over 100 years prior to 1949 believed - actually came in the sinful flesh of the fallen Adam.

What consequences have arisen from the false doctrine and where we are led by a false understanding of the nature of Jesus, I will address in the next part of "Throne Lines." You may again be excited about what God wants to show us still in Orion. It is very urgent to write this article, since the Orion Clock indicates that in June/July 2010 the penultimate General Conference Session of SDA church will take place in human history, and I want the GC to take this last chance of corporate repentance in the coming last term. But the writing of the articles is also associated with a lot of time to explore everything as precisely that it is beneficial for you. And I would like to stress again, that even I without the Orion never would have had the idea to contemplate on all these issues that deeply. Probably I thought as most of you, that these debates are not that important.

But now we know better and this will scare many leaders of the churches terribly; an awakening people, growing up, taking solid food, which shakes off its lethargy. This is for Satan the nightmare of all his nightmares. These "tidings out of the East and out of the North" will soon make him act, "and Michael will stand up to save His people." Our Lord is coming soon! That this is the truth and that Jesus now sends the Fourth Angel once again to the penultimate Session of the General Conference in Atlanta, you will learn in Part III of the Throne Lines.

At this point, I would like to renew once again my call that I desperately need help with the translations. If anyone of you speaks German or Spanish as mother tongue or any other languages apart from English and would like to help proclaiming God's message, then please get in touch with me by e-mail. I would like to repeat for all, who are helping with preaching this message, the promise of Jesus in Daniel 12:3:

And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever.

The Throne Lines - Part III

When I was Sabbath school teacher in the big SDA church, I could hear and read from brethren, elders and pastors, "that Jesus was in all like us, he just was not tempted from inside like we are. He knew no auto-temptation." Whatever that meant, I could not find any logic in it and it was not clear to me what they wanted to say. So they explained me further: "Jesus was tempted by Satan from the outside as he does with us, but Jesus did not have the inclination to sin like we have."

Nicolaitans under us?

Today we know through the Orion study that they were wrong and that this is one of the worst doctrines of the Adventist church, marked in red by Jesus in Orion. He will not permit that we are still unclear on this point. No, He was tempted in every way as we are and He knows all temptation by our tendency to sin, without the necessity that Satan would intervene. Tried in all as we, means, tried in ALL as we! He is our example, who suffered all as we do, but without sin. So we can also, if we trust in His help and His strength that He gives us willingly, if we just trust.

Let's read on Word of Truth Radio what the sect of the Nicolaitans at the time of the apostles believed and taught:

Nicolaitans: One of the heretical sects that plagued the churches at Ephesus and at Pergamum, and perhaps elsewhere. Irenaeus identifies the Nicolaitans as a Gnostic sect:

"John, the disciple of the Lord, preaches this faith (the deity of Christ), and seeks, by the proclamation of the Gospel, to remove that error which by Cerinthus had been disseminated among men, and a long time previously by those termed Nicolaitans, who are an offset of that "knowledge" falsely so called, that he might confound them, and persuade them that there is but one God, who made all things by His Word" (see Irenaeus Against Heresies iii 11. 1; ANF vol. 1, p. 426)

There is also historical evidence of a Gnostic sect called Nicolaitans a century or so later.

The doctrine of the Nicolaitans appears to have been a form of antinomianism. (Antinomianism: A belief that is based upon a recognition of the mercy of God as the ground of salvation, but it makes the fatal mistake that man can freely partake in sin because the Law of God is no longer binding. It held the truth on the gratuitous reckoning of righteousness; but supposed that a mere intellectual "belief" in this truth had a saving power. The Apostle James refuted this error in James 2:19 with the admonition, "The devils also believe, and tremble"; reminding us that true faith is an active principle which works by love and it goes beyond a profession of belief. "But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" (James 2:20) The Bible teaches us that salvation is a free gift, based upon God's grace alone (Ephesians 2:8-9) However, the very next verse tells us that "we are created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." (Ephesians 2:10) True faith produce action, as well as a desire for holiness and obedience. (1 John 3:18, Titus 2:11-15, 1 Peter 1:15-16, Revelation 14:12)

Nicolaitans of the 2nd century seem to have continued and extended the views of the 1st century adherents, holding to the freedom of the flesh and sin, and teaching that the deeds of the flesh had no effect upon the health of the soul and consequently no relation to salvation. On the other hand, the Bible teaches that Christians are supposed to "die" to sin and the deeds of our "flesh": "What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound? God forbid. How shall we, that are dead to sin, live any longer therein?" (Romans 6:1-2) "Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof. Neither yield ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness unto sin: but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God." (Romans 6:11-13)

Today, the doctrine is now largely taught that the gospel of Christ has made God's law of no effect: that by "believing" we are released from the necessity of being doers of the Word. But this is the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which Christ so unsparingly condemned in the book of Revelation. "But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves." (James 1:22) --Thanks to George Blumenschein for answering to this question!

Today, the "Nicolaitans" in our Adventist midst argue even a little trickier. They say that Jesus had a very slightly different nature than we have. Sure, He did not sin, but He was also not tempted like we "from inside". For He indeed had the nature of un-fallen Adam. But we "poor" humans, with our heritage of a nature corrupted by nearly 6,000 years of sin, are tried by our own flesh. Hence our brethren Adventist-Nicolaitans think that we simply do not have to be as perfect as Christ, for He will forgive us all our sins anyhow, when He comes. He had an advantage we have not. For Him it was not as difficult as for us not to sin.

But to establish this false doctrine in our faith community, it is not sufficient just to strike out some words in a study book. This requires increased efforts. It had to be launched a "manifesto of the new milestone of Adventist Christology" and distributed widely so that everyone who comes to these questions sooner or later, would get his "brain washed" with this false theology. This led in the 1950s to the widely known book "Questions on Doctrine".

Therefore, we should consult again the wonderful book of Jean Rudolf Zurcher, "Touched with our Feelings", and let him explain whereto this belief of the un-fallen nature of Jesus led in the Adventist Church and what was the content of this book, which was for the first time published in 1957. After Zurcher explained which kind of articles had been written in various Adventist media to introduce the new Christology, he turns to the theme of this book which cemented the "Nicolaitism" in our ranks as solid as the walls of Jericho once deemed impregnable.

These articles were intended to prepare minds to receive "the new milestone of Adventism," as it was to be developed in the book "Seventh-day Adventists Answer Questions on Doctrine". On the eve of its appearance, Anderson proclaimed it in the "Ministry" as the most wonderful book ever published by the church. Since it deals with the human nature of Christ in detail, we need to examine this book more closely.

Questions on Doctrine

This book is the result of the meetings held with evangelical representatives Donald Grey Barnhouse and Walter R. Martin. Martin was about to print his book "The Truth About Seventh-day Adventism", published in 1960.

"Questions on Doctrine" does not deal only with the doctrine of the Incarnation. It is a response to the numerous doctrinal questions typically asked by evangelicals on the subjects of "salvation by grace versus salvation by works, the distinction between moral and ceremonial law, the antitype of the scapegoat, the identity of Michael and so on through a wide range of fundamental Adventist beliefs and practices, covering doctrine and prophecy."

Martin and Barnhouse particularly objected to the positions taken by Adventist pioneers in relation with the divinity of Christ and the human nature of Jesus, which they quite frankly deemed to be erroneous and heretical. It was not at all surprising, then, that they asked if on these points the official position had changed. Specific questions in regard to the Incarnation were posed: "What do Adventists understand by Christ's use of the title 'Son of man'? And what do you consider to have been the basic purpose of the Incarnation?"

In response, almost all Bible texts relating to Christology were quoted. As to the explanatory notes, they were generally made on the basis of quotations from Ellen White. The Adventist officials did their best to show that "the writings of Ellen G. White are entirely in harmony with the Scriptures on this." It was not denied that Christ "was the second Adam, coming in the 'likeness' of sinful human flesh (Rom. 8:3)"; or that Ellen White had used expressions like "human nature," "our sinful nature," "our fallen nature," "man's nature in its fallen condition."

No one argues that "Jesus was diseased or that He experienced the frailties to which our fallen human nature is heir. But He did bear all this. Could it not be that He bore this vicariously also, just as He bore the sins of the whole world? These weaknesses, frailties, infirmities, failings are things which we, with our sinful, fallen natures, have to bear. To us they are natural, inherent, but when He bore them, He took them not as something innately His, but He bore them as our substitute. He bore them in His perfect, sinless nature. Again we remark, Christ bore all this vicariously, just as vicariously He bore the iniquities of us all."

In brief, "whatever Jesus took was not His intrinsically or innately. . . . All that Jesus took, all that He bore, whether the burden and penalty of our iniquities, or the diseases and frailties of our human nature—all was taken and borne vicariously."

This expression is indeed the magic formula contained in "the new milestone of Adventism." According to the authors of "Questions on Doctrine", "it is in this sense that all should understand the writings of Ellen G. White when she refers occasionally to sinful, fallen, and deteriorated human nature."

The authors of the book published, in an appendix, some 66 quotations from Ellen White divided into sections with subtitles such as: "Took Sinless Human Nature," or "Perfect Sinlessness of Christ's Human Nature." Such phrases were, of course, never written by Ellen White.

It is clear that "the new milestone of Adventism" differs significantly from the traditional teaching about Christ's human nature in four ways. It claims that:

1. Christ took Adam's spiritual nature before the Fall; that is to say, a sinless human nature.
2. Christ inherited only the physical consequences of the sinful human nature; that is to say, His genetic heredity was reduced by 4,000 years of sin.
3. The difference between Christ's temptation and Adam's rested solely in the difference of the environment and circumstances but not in a difference of nature.
4. Christ bore the sins of the world vicariously, not in reality, but only as a substitute for sinful man, without participating in his sinful nature.

Presented as it was with the apparent seal of approval of the General Conference, the book "Seventh-day Adventists Answer Questions on Doctrine" was widely distributed in seminaries, universities, and public libraries. Thousands of copies were sent to members of the clergy as well as to non-Adventist theology professors. The almost 140,000 copies published had a distinct influence both outside and within the Adventist Church.

The publication of this book produced a shock effect to which the reactions were not long in coming. It had hardly come off the press when it became the object of a lively controversy, which continued in intensity through the years down to our days.

It's just a relief that we now know by Orion, who was right and how Jesus really estimates sin. All of these disputes would have been irrelevant if the leaders would have relied on the Spirit of Prophecy, and would not have lost themselves in their own perverse, human imagination. Jesus has set this truth in His Word more than clearly, but it would have separated us from the world. The road to ecumenism would have been obstructed if we would have continued to claim as the only church that Jesus came in sinful flesh, and that we therefore also need to learn to live a sinless life with Him and through Him. This pill was too large to swallow for most "Christians" and nowadays also for most "Adventists". They prefer the milk and the leaven of the Nicolaitans that are offered today by all "Christian" churches, for it is far more easy to swallow.

In my research on these topics, I came across an interesting grouping. They describe themselves as "Historic Adventists". I found on one of their sites an excellent article which I will reproduce here in full because it says exactly what I also found out through my research. On Steps To Life we read:

Alpha and Omega - Two Crisis in Adventism

If we desire to climb the last part of the road to heaven, we must learn our lesson from history. This is not only true for the part of history recorded in the Bible (see 1 Corinthians 10:11) and the Great Controversy (see the Preface of that book), but it is especially for the history of Adventism. It was in this context that Ellen White talked about the Alpha and Omega of apostasy. She wrote, "We have now before us the alpha of this danger. The omega will be of a most startling nature." Selected Messages, vol.1, 197.

As we will see, in the following statement, the most startling nature of the omega apostasy consists in the extent of the crisis. While the alpha of apostasy stands for the beginning and was to be limited to a certain local area, the omega of apostasy would develop to a most startling degree until the end.

"One thing it is certain is soon to be realized,—the great apostasy, which is developing and increasing and waxing stronger, and will continue to do so until the Lord shall descend from heaven with a shout." The New York Indicator, February 7, 1906.

Note: The apostasy will therefore continue as long as the Lord Himself engages and comes down from heaven with a "shout"! This is definitely not the loud cry, but something that comes before. It sounds just as if this were the case now with Orion, for it is the VOICE OF GOD, claiming us to wake up to clean our church.

If we want to know what course is to be followed in the days of the omega apostasy we have to heed the counsels and instructions given by Ellen White during the alpha crisis. We have to learn from history in order not to repeat the mistakes made in the past. "It is presented to me that in our experience we have been and are meeting this very condition of things." Battle Creek Letters, 124.

In the alpha crisis we find a description of the future (or already existing) condition and experience of the Adventist people. Ellen White tells us: "Past history will be repeated; old controversies will arouse to new life, and peril will beset God's people on every side." Testimonies to Ministers, 116. "We have nothing to fear for the future except as we shall forget the way the Lord has led us." Testimonies to Ministers, 31.

How Did the Alpha Develop?

In the center of the alpha-crisis was one man, John Harvey Kellogg, an Adventist physician. Under his leadership, Battle Creek Sanitarium received worldwide fame at the turn of the century. But in the late 1890s, his zeal and energy were more and more mixed with a new idea—that God, not being personal, was in every living thing; in every flower, in every tree, in every morsel of bread. What Kellogg believed to be "new light" forced the prophet of God, even before 1881, to give him a warning message. "Those theories are wrong. I have met them before." Manuscript Releases, vol. 5, 278, 279.

Since he was married to a Seventh Day Baptist, Kellogg came in contact with a Seventh Day Baptist minister named Lewis. This man held pantheistic views as well. In Kellogg's mind the pantheistic ideas were brought to maturity, so that, in 1897, he talked about this topic publicly for the first time. Others like Waggoner and Kress came to the same conviction and joined him in preaching this at the General Conference, of 1899, in South Lancaster, Massachusetts. One month before that conference, Ellen White had written and sent warning letters from Australia, which arrived just at the right time. But sadly enough, these warnings were not heeded. Pantheistic ideas continued to be spread over the land. They were taught, in Battle Creek, in both the College and Sanitarium. Ellen White had to send warning after warning. On February 18, 1902 the Battle Creek Sanitarium burned to the ground. To finance the new sanitarium, Kellogg was asked to write a book, the royalties of which were to be taken for the new sanitarium building. The book Kellogg wrote was entitled "The Living Temple." The finished manuscript was full of his erroneous ideas that had their origin in spiritualistic, pantheistic philosophy. Many discussions followed.

Ellen White wrote about this book. "In the book 'Living Temple' there is presented the alpha of deadly heresies. The omega will follow, and will be received by those who are not willing to heed the warning God has given." Selected Messages, vol. 1, 200.

Despite the reproofs from God's prophet, Kellogg was determined to print his book in the way he wrote it. So he gave a printing order to the Review and Herald Publishing Company, which they accepted. But God Himself interfered. After the printing patterns were finished and the book was ready to be printed, the publishing house, on December 31, 1902, caught fire and burned to the ground. This did not happen unexpectedly, but was mentioned by the prophet of the Lord more than one year before. (See Testimonies, vol. 8, 91.) The sword of fire had fallen and all knew that God had spoken. In spite of all this, Kellogg was not prepared to change his mind, and stubbornly went to another publishing house to get his book printed. He then took efforts to ensure that his book was widely circulated among Adventists and non-Adventists. So the pantheistic tares grew and became a danger for the whole work. Ellen White summed up the situation with these words: "Battle Creek has been the seat of rebellion among a people to whom the Lord has given great light and special opportunities." Paulson Collection, 71.

What is the Omega?

In the context of the alpha crisis, Ellen White describes a vision about the soon coming omega apostasy among Adventists. "The enemy of souls has sought to bring in the supposition that a great reformation was to take place among Seventh-day Adventists, and that this reformation would consist in giving up the doctrines which stand as the pillars of our faith, and engaging in a process of reorganization. Were this reformation to take place, what would result? The principles of truth that God in His wisdom has given to the remnant church, would be discarded. Our religion would be changed. The fundamental principles that have sustained the work for the last fifty years would be accounted as error. A new organization would be established. Books of a new order would be written. A system of intellectual philosophy would be introduced. The founders of this system would go into the cities, and do a wonderful work. The Sabbath of course, would be lightly regarded, as also the God who created it. Nothing would be allowed to stand in the way of the new movement. The leaders would teach that virtue is better than vice, but God being removed, they would place their dependence on human power, which, without God, is worthless. Their foundation would be built on the sand, and storm and tempest would sweep away the structure." Selected Messages, vol. 1, 204, 205.

A reformation inspired by the devil was to take place, and it would consist "in giving up the doctrines which stand as the pillars of our faith."

What are the pillars of our Adventist faith?

They are as follows:

- The nature of Christ
- The sanctuary service
- The spirit of prophecy
- The Three Angels' Messages (exposing the papacy, Babylon, ecumenism, explaining the Sabbath-Sunday-question, exalting the law of God, etc.)
- The state of the dead and the exposure of spiritualism

What Happened to the Pillars of Our Faith?

In the 1950s a movement began which was to bring heavy consequences with it for the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Every possible effort was taken by men in leading positions in the General Conference to keep Adventists from being called a "sect" by evangelical Christians. The issue came to a head when Donald Grey Barnhouse, editor of the journal "Eternity," and Walter R. Martin, evangelical theologian, wanted to write a book about Seventh-day Adventists proclaiming that they were a non-Christian "sect." For this purpose they met with Adventist leaders to discuss the doctrines of Adventism, by which Barnhouse and Martin were convinced Adventists would be unmasked as a non-Christian sect. The central topic was the final atonement service of Jesus, in the second apartment of the sanctuary, during the judgment when He would blot out the sins of the truly penitent. Another topic was the nature of Christ. When the Adventist leaders were confronted with quotations from our books, they soon realized that their declarations would not be enough to convince Barnhouse and Martin that the SDA Church was not a sect, but a Christian church. So they decided to publish a new book on Adventist doctrines. That book was Questions on Doctrine (1957), and it marked the beginning of the effort to remove the pillars of our faith.

About the first pillar, the nature of Christ, they wrote: "He was without sin, not only in His outward conduct, but in His very nature. ... He was sinless in His life and in His nature . . ." Questions on Doctrine, 383

As God's end time people that are sanctifying themselves to be as pure in character as Jesus was during His life on earth (1 John 3:3), it is of saving importance to believe that Jesus could remain sinless with the same (sinful) flesh we have. Of what use is a savior that reveals that unfallen flesh could resist sin? We need a Savior who shows us that it is possible to live a perfect life (Hebrews 2:14, 17), in our sinful nature. And that is what Jesus did. He left us the example that sinful man does not sin when his will is surrendered entirely to God. Paul tells us of "God sending His own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh . . ." Romans 8:3. He who does not testify to this, reveals the spirit of Antichrist. (1 John 4:2, 3.)

A second pillar that was removed is the Spirit of Prophecy. Barnhouse wrote in his article "Are SDAs Christians?" what he was told by Adventist leaders about the prophetic gift of Ellen White.

"The Adventist leadership proclaims that the writings of Ellen G. White . . . are not a parity with Scripture. . . . They admit her writings are not infallible . . . Her writings incidentally are not a test of fellowship in the SDA church."

Ellen White was shown: "The very last deception of Satan will be to make of none effect the testimony of the Spirit of God." Selected Messages, vol. 1, 48. We see that the last crisis—the Omega—has already begun.

A third pillar that has been taken away is the sanctuary doctrine. Barnhouse wrote: "Mr. Martin and I heard the Adventist leaders say, flatly, that they repudiate all such extremes [that is the teaching that Jesus went into the most holy place on October 22, 1844, to make an atonement before His Second Coming]. This they have said in no uncertain terms."

The rejection of this important doctrine has been confirmed in the book Questions on Doctrine. On page 381 it states: "Jesus . . . entered the 'holy places,' and appeared in the presence of God for us.

But it was not with the hope of obtaining something for us at that time, or at some future time. No! He had already obtained it for us on the cross." (See also 354, 355)

If Jesus completed the atonement at the cross, the question arises, what is Jesus doing up in heaven now that could be so important? If everything was done at the cross, then there is no closing atonement, no investigative judgment and no blotting out of sin. The result of such a theology is the idea that we never can become perfect. And if no one can overcome all sin, why should keeping the commandments be so important? Wouldn't it then be just as easy to be saved as a Sunday-keeper as a keeper of the Sabbath? Also the Three Angels' Messages would mainly consist of the message that Jesus has done everything for you. It is easy to see that here lies the cause for many of the wrongs and sins in the Adventist Church.

Are the fallacies presented in Questions on Doctrine still believed by mainstream Adventism today? Walter Martin gives the answer to this question in his book The Kingdom of the Cults. "On April 29, 1983, W. Richard Leshar, vice-president of the General Conference, responded in a personal letter. His reply read in part: 'You ask first if Seventh-day Adventists still stand behind the answers given to your questions in Questions on Doctrine as they did in 1957. The answer is yes.' " For this reason we find in later books, like 27 Fundamental Doctrines of SDA's, the same false doctrines presented.

In Germany's ministerial seminaries, the doctrines that make us Seventh-day Adventists are denied without shame. One instructor stated: "I believe that in 1844 nothing happened, neither in heaven nor on earth." U. Worschech of Marienhoehe's Ministerial Seminary, as copied during his class "Sanctuary Service."

On another occasion the same instructor said, "We have to Ford-develop our theology on the sanctuary." U. Worschech on the occasion of Desmond Ford's visit at the AWA meeting, October 24-26, 1986.

That is the exact fulfillment of Ellen White's prophecies concerning the omega-crisis and truly describes the present situation: "The foundation of our faith, which was established by so much prayer, such earnest searching of the Scriptures, was being taken down, pillar by pillar. Our faith was to have nothing to rest upon—the sanctuary was gone, the atonement was gone." The Upward Look, 152.

The Omega and the Three Angels' Messages

If the atonement being done in the most holy place is taken away, the whole foundation of the Three Angels' Messages has to collapse, too, because these angels point directly to Jesus' work of redemption in the most holy place. (See Early Writings, 256.) Ellen White says: "I was shown three steps—the First, Second, and Third Angels' Messages. Said my accompanying angel, 'Woe to him who shall move a block or stir a pin of these messages. The true understanding of these messages is of vital importance. The destiny of souls hangs upon the manner in which they are received.' I was again brought down through these messages, and saw how dearly the people of God had purchased their experience. It had been obtained through much suffering and severe conflict. God had led them along step by step, until He had placed them upon a solid, immovable platform. I saw individuals approach the platform and examine the foundation. Some with rejoicing immediately stepped upon it. Others commenced to find fault with the foundation. They wished improvements made, and then the platform would be more perfect, and the people much happier. Some stepped off the platform to examine it and declared it to be laid wrong. But I saw that nearly all stood firm upon the platform and exhorted those who had stepped off to cease their complaints; for God was the Master Builder, and they were fighting against Him." Early Writings 258, 259.

When we go out doing missionary work and distributing pamphlets that contain the Three Angels' Messages, how often do we hear professed Seventh-day Adventists say something like this? "It is not good missionary work to be putting the beast, his mark and his image to the front. It's just not the right method. It's too hard." Even though they claim only to reject the form or the method, it is obvious that they fear our message could be made known publicly. The public unmasking of popery as the whore and the professed Protestant churches as daughters of whoredom, makes them uncomfortable, lest these churches denounce the Adventists as a sect. They fear that the result would be to raise opposition and to lower the acceptance and influence of Adventism, and they are afraid that it might finally bring about persecution. People start finding faults with the platform, complain about it and wish to have improvements made. (See Early Writings, 258.) They claim, maybe not explicitly in their words, but by their deeds, that the foundation was built the wrong way. These are not just the feelings of a few Adventist individuals, but this is a policy which is penetrating the whole SDA-organization, as can be shown by the following example.

The former General Conference President, Neal Wilson, said in the Pacific Union Recorder: "Our work is not to denounce the Roman Catholic Church." February 18, 1985. That sounds good, but what does he really mean? In a civil court case, Wilson said, "Although it is true that there was a period, in the life of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, when the denomination took a distinctly anti-Roman Catholic viewpoint, and the term 'hierarchy' was used in a pejorative sense to refer to the papal form of church governance, that attitude on the church's part was nothing more than a manifestation of widespread anti-popery attitude among conservative Protestant denominations in the early part of this century and the latter part of the last, and which has now been consigned to the historical trash heap so far as the SDA Church is concerned." EEOC vs PPPA and GC, Civil Case #74-2025 CBR, 1975.

How can it come to pass that the leader of a denomination that was called by God to warn of the efforts of popery, could "consign" that message "to the historical trash heap"? How can he reject God's holy trust so decidedly? Neal Wilson had to bear witness of his faith in the courtroom in times of peace, but he betrayed it. The astonishing thing is that this statement, apparently, did not cause widespread indignation. One gets much more the impression that the president just formulated an accepted point of view among Seventh-day Adventists. Ellen White describes this attitude in the following words: "The opinion is gaining ground, that, after all, we do not differ so widely upon vital points as has been supposed, and that a little concession on our part will bring us into a better understanding with Rome. The time was when Protestants placed a high value upon the liberty of conscience which has been so dearly purchased. They taught their children to abhor popery, and held that to seek harmony with Rome would be disloyalty to God. But how widely different are the sentiments now expressed." The Great Controversy, 563.

If now, in times of peace, we deny our faith that openly, what will happen in the future when laws are made against God's commandment-keeping people? "If thou hast run with the footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou contend with horses? and [if] in the land of peace, [wherein] thou trustedst, [they wearied thee], then how wilt thou do in the swelling of Jordan?" Jeremiah 12:5.

Babylon, the Ecumenical Movement and the Three Angels' Messages

Among Adventists, the clear understanding of the term "Babylon" is diminishing more and more and is giving way to confusion. A conference leader told me years ago that "Babylon is in us." My question, of how would it be possible under these circumstances to follow the call to leave Babylon, remained without an answer. Some other definitions, from Adventist publications, are that Babylon is the "wickedness of my city," "evil influences" and to "attempt to gain salvation through one's own works." Adventist Review, December 31, 1992; Signs of the Times, June 1992; Adventist Review, December 31, 1992.

Here in Germany, "Babylon" is a hot topic. The reason for this is the membership of both of the Adventist German unions in the ACK (confederacy of Christian Churches), the national ecumenical council. This membership was brought about secretly, and the people were only informed afterwards. Discussions were forbidden.

Note: Did you notice that the request for membership in the ACK was made in 1986, which is the Orion year, which points to the beginning of the Thyatira phase? And Thyatira means: Pact with Jezebel, the Roman Catholic Church or Babylon. What harmony between those who study history and prophecy, and open their eyes! When will these faithful few also recognize that the Orion, God's book in heaven, confirms all these terrible events by 100% and come together to form the last church of Philadelphia?

To cover themselves, the Adventist leadership, here in Germany, has tried to show that our historic definition of "Babylon" cannot be true. R. Nickel, a high-ranking minister, said this about the Adventist's membership in the ACK, in a sermon at the Adventist theological seminary of Friedensau. "In the classic exegesis of our denomination "Babylon" means the following: the mother whore of Revelation or the Roman Catholic Church. Her corrupted daughters are the fallen Protestant organizations of the different churches of Protestant faith. . . . The question is, Is what was once valid and present truth still valid? I want to come back to the discussion about the ACK, because here it can be shown: If the Protestant churches are truly a part of Babylon, how can one possibly unite with them and obtain membership in the ACK? If we would take the classic interpretation seriously, all of us would have to be against the ACK." R. Nickel in a sermon held in Friedensau on November 2, 1996.

It is a fact that (nearly) all the ministers and leaders are in favor of an ACK membership. The logical conclusion therefore is that we cannot hold to the historic interpretation of "Babylon" and at the same time be a member in the ecumenical alliance. (See Luke 16:13; 2 Corinthians 6:14.) The content of the Three Angels' Messages is opposed directly to the ecumenical movement, because we are warned explicitly of the image to the beast. The proclamation of this message is contrary to the rules of ecumenism, because no church is allowed to proselytize members of other churches. How then is it possible to proclaim, "Come out of her, my people!" if one is a member of that alliance? Of one thing we can be assured: neither Catholics nor Protestants accepted Adventists as a member in the ecumenical ACK without a prior confirmation from them that the historic understanding of the Three Angels' Messages had been rejected. And that is precisely what happened.

In the ACK meeting, where the recommendation was given to accept the SDA Church as a member, the Adventist representatives were asked directly whether the historic interpretation of the Three Angels' Messages was still valid. The protocol documents of the ACK meeting, on June 3 and 4, 1992, in Arnoldshain gives this report. "On request of the Roman-Catholic representative, Dr. H.J. Urban, it was asked concretely, whether the traditional Adventist interpretation of Revelation 13, to identify the beast as being popery, which was equaled with the Antichrist, was still held as true. The answer to that question was that this was a case of tradition which dated back to the Reformation and doubtlessly would still exist, but that they were for the most part cured of institutionally identifying the office of the pope with the Antichrist. Rather it is held that the Antichrist is characteristics, which possibly could also be found in the Adventist denomination. Therefore the traditional critique of Revelation 13 could, in principle, also be directed against the Seventh-Day-Adventist Church. This explanation satisfied the Catholic side. After that the leadership of the ACK decided to recommend the application of the Adventists approvingly to the united members to be voted upon." 54 Fragen, Document 3, 3.

The president of the Northern German Union, Mr. Rupp, also denied our God-given message in his letters to the president of the ACK, Bishop Held, and in his personal communication with him. Babylon was only identified as a condition of things that could also be found in the SDA church. Bishop Held obviously interpreted the opinions in the union president's letters as not a mistake, as can be seen in his answer:

"Dear Mr. Rupp. . . . Above the views are explicitly confirmed that you—as speaking at least for the leadership of the SDA Church—told us that SDA's no longer believe that 'in the historical development of the religious-political power of popery is seen the fulfillment of Biblical prophecies. (Daniel 7, Revelation 13 and 17.)' " Document 1.

K. Schwarz, a high-ranking official of a Protestant Church in Germany writes: "For the guest-membership of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in the ACK, it is understood that . . . the tensions you mentioned [the Adventist belief that the pope is the antichrist] . . . no longer exist as a part of SDA doctrines." (In Kobialka, M. 1994. Ecumenical Movement and World Government, 100.)

The leaders of the SDA Church have always said that the affiliation with the ecumenical movement is a wonderful occasion to witness for our faith. They say that in that way the Advent Message can be given much more effectively to other churches. What a mockery and hypocrisy! Membership in the ecumenical movement is a betrayal of our message and means crucifying Christ anew. ("I saw that as the Jews crucified Jesus, so the nominal churches have crucified these messages." Early Writings, 261.)

There are many inspired instructions concerning alliances with unbelievers or believers of a different faith. I just want to point you to two quotations from the pen of Ellen White:

"The wicked are being bound up in bundles, bound up in trusts, in unions, in confederacies. Let us have nothing to do with these organizations. God is our Ruler, our Governor, and He calls us to come out from the world and be separate." Manuscript Releases, vol. 4, 87.

"Let the watchmen on the walls of Zion not join with those who are making of none effect the truth as it is in Christ. Let them not join the confederacy of infidelity, popery, and Protestantism." Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary, vol.4, 1141.

We should realize what the ACK really is and how the pope sees this ecumenical entity. While visiting Germany, Pope John Paul II declared in Paderborn on June 22, 1996: "Good ecumenical connections have been formed to the churches in this country. They work actively together with the ecumenical committees, especially in the 'Alliance of Christian Churches in Germany' (ACK). By that, some helpful suggestions for the formation of church community came to Germany. . . . The unity we aim for has to grow step by step. . . . Therefore, it is our duty to reduce barriers and to seek for a greater amount of communion, trusting firmly that the Lord will lead us to that glorious day when full unity of faith is accomplished and we are able to celebrate harmoniously the holy Eucharist of the Lord together." Verlautbarungen des Apostolischen Stuhls, 126, Bonn 6/1996, 22ff.

What are Adventists looking for in the ACK? Do they want to celebrate the Eucharist together with the Catholics?

The Omega is already here. May the Lord help us to see it and to act accordingly.

What is to be Done?

How do we need to respond to this situation? Many Adventists are confused and do not know what to do. It seems as if no one expected the vast dimensions of apostasy, although Sister White wrote: "The omega will be of a most startling nature." Selected Messages, Book 1, 197. As Adventists we have heard about the soon coming test and talked about it ourselves, but now it is present and only a few are aware of it.

The question of how we are to deal with the Omega crisis is answered clearly in the inspired writings concerning the Alpha crisis. In the Omega crisis the same principles have to be applied, for history is repeating itself. What advice did Ellen White give during the Alpha crisis? Here is one example: "Elder and Mrs. Farnsworth have been requested to spend some time in Battle Creek, laboring for the church. I encourage them to do so, and shall counsel them how to labor. It will be well for Elder Farnsworth and Elder A. T. Jones to stand shoulder to shoulder preaching the Word in the tabernacle for a time, and giving the trumpet a certain sound. There are in Battle Creek souls who need bracing up. Many will gladly hear and distinguish the note of warning. But Elder Farnsworth should not remain in Battle Creek long. I write these things to you, because it is important that they should be understood. God would have men of talent who will not deviate from the principles of righteousness to stand in defense of the truth in the tabernacle at Battle Creek. One man should not be stationed in Battle Creek for a long time. After he has faithfully proclaimed the truth for a time, he should leave to labor elsewhere, and some one else be appointed who will give the trumpet a certain sound." Paulson Collection, 108.

In this testimony the inspired pen gives us an exact description of our duty in both the Alpha and the Omega crisis. Two aspects are explicitly emphasized. On the one hand we are called to give the trumpet a certain sound to warn our brothers and sisters. On the other hand we are warned not to expose ourselves to the influence of apostasy for too long.

The first aspect, giving the trumpet a certain sound, should be our first step if we are part of a church infected with apostasy. Over and over again Ellen White called for decided action during the Alpha crisis. Here are some quotations:

"I was shown a platform, braced by solid timbers—the truths of the Word of God. Someone high in responsibility in the medical work was directing this man and that man to loosen the timbers supporting this platform. Then I heard a voice saying, 'Where are the watchmen that ought to be standing on the walls of Zion? Are they asleep? This foundation was built by the Master Worker, and will stand storm and tempest. Will they permit this man to present doctrines that deny the past experience of the people of God? The time has come to take decided action.'" Selected Messages, Book 1, 204.

"The battle is on. . . . Where are His watchmen? Are they standing on the high tower, giving the danger signal, or are they allowing the peril to pass unheeded?" Ibid., 194.

"Will the men in our institutions keep silent, allowing insidious fallacies to be promulgated to the ruin of souls? . . . Is it not time that we asked ourselves, Shall we allow the adversary to lead us to give up the work of proclaiming the truth?" Ibid., 195.

"Vigilant action is called for. Indifference and sloth will result in the loss of personal religion and of heaven." Ibid.

"If God abhors one sin above another, of which His people are guilty, it is doing nothing in case of an emergency. Indifference and neutrality in a religious crisis is regarded of God as a grievous crime and equal to the very worst type of hostility against God." Testimonies, vol. 3, 281.

To help us really understand the horrible danger of this emergency we are in, God gave Ellen White a vision of an iceberg.

Note: Yes, dear brethren, full circle again. Without knowing exactly whereto my studies would lead, I started once this website with the same quotation of Ellen White! Do you remember? (Iceberg Ahead!)

"One night a scene was clearly presented before me. A vessel was upon the waters, in a heavy fog. Suddenly the lookout cried, 'Iceberg just ahead!' There, towering high above the ship, was a gigantic iceberg. An authoritative voice cried out, 'Meet it!' There was not a moment's hesitation. It was a time for instant action. The engineer put on full steam, and the man at the wheel steered the ship straight into the iceberg. With a crash she struck the ice. There was a fearful shock, and the iceberg broke into many pieces, falling with a noise like thunder to the deck." Selected Messages, Book 1, 205.

"I am instructed to speak plainly. 'Meet it,' is the word spoken to me. 'Meet it firmly, and without delay.' . . . In the book 'Living Temple' there is presented the alpha of deadly heresies. The omega will follow, and will be received by those who are not willing to heed the warning God has given. . . . I have an intense longing to see them standing free in the Lord. I pray that they may have courage to stand firm for the truth as it is in Jesus, holding fast the beginning of their confidence unto the end." Selected Messages, Book 1, 200.

"They have seen wrong transactions and heard wrong words spoken, and seen wrong principles followed, and have not spoken in reproof, for fear that they would be repulsed. I call upon those who have been connected with these binding influences to break the yoke to which they have long submitted, and stand as free men in Christ. Nothing but a determined effort will break the spell that is upon them." Selected Messages, Book 1, 197.

How possibly can a call to decided action be more urgent? Everyone who perceives the apostasy has the duty to protest against it without compromise. If there ever was a time to sit and keep silent and to listen to an erroneous sermon up to the end (which I doubt), so that the pernicious error can be addressed to the whole congregation, that time is over. It is not enough just to talk to the minister afterwards, privately, when error has made its way to the minds of the people.

"Let every man now arouse, and work as he has opportunity. Let him speak words in season and out of season, and look to Christ for encouragement and strength in well-doing. . . . My message to you is: No longer consent to listen without protest to the perversion of truth. Unmask the pretentious sophistries which, if received, will lead ministers and physicians and medical missionary workers to ignore the truth. Every one is now to stand on his guard. God calls upon men and women to take their stand under the blood-stained banner of Prince Emmanuel. I have been instructed to warn our people; for many are in danger of receiving theories and sophistries that undermine the foundation pillars of the faith." Selected Messages, Book 1, 195, 196.

Save Our Youth

Ellen White many times warned that the young people should not be sent to the college in Battle Creek. She feared for the Adventist youth because of the pernicious influence prevailing there. "Those who have crowded into Battle Creek, and are being held there, see and hear many things that tend to weaken their faith, and engender unbelief." Paulson Collection, 109.

But what about our colleges and seminaries today? Is the condition any better than it was then in Battle Creek? I do not have that much information about the condition of Adventist schools in the U.S., but I know something about the German seminaries. In these schools, the historical Adventist sanctuary teaching is rejected, Bible criticism is taught, the seven-day-creation period and the expectation of the imminent second coming of Christ are denied, etc. These things are well documented and confirmed by students of the German seminary.

What is the professed purpose of such a school? It is to pass on the truth of our faith to the next generation. But, if the school imparts error to the students today, the ministers of tomorrow will impart these errors to their churches. In this manner the truth is torn down and the people are destroyed for lack of knowledge.

This situation is very dangerous, especially for our young people. What is the condition of the Adventist youth today? I remember one night, when my wife and I had a season of prayer in which she prayed for the Adventist friends she had during her youth. Thinking about them, my wife sat down and cried and cried and could not stop. Very few of her old friends were still in the truth. Almost all had gone into the world; some as members of the SDA church, others having completely rejected their profession.

But is that surprising to anyone? What are the young people doing when they gather together on Sabbath afternoon? I have seen it so often: after an obligatory short devotion (if at all) they begin to play basketball, table tennis or whatever. Once I met a minister who gathered the young people of his church for a night session to watch videos. They watched movies with sex and crime scenes till morning.

I wonder how many Adventists think that they have fulfilled all their duty when they trust their children to ministers and Sabbath schools for religious education. How few consider how their children are effected by the influence of the church they go to every Sabbath?! Even in the Alpha crisis Ellen White warned over and over again that we should not expose ourselves to such a faith-destroying influence. That applies in a special way to the moldable youth. She wrote:

"I would say, be careful what moves are made. It is not God's design that our youth should be called to Battle Creek." Battle Creek Letters, 4.

"We protest in the name of the Lord God of Israel, against the calling of our youth into a place to which the Lord declared they should not go." Battle Creek Letters, 4, 5.

"The light given me by the Lord—that our youth should not collect in Battle Creek to receive their education—has in no particular been changed. The fact that the Sanitarium has been rebuilt in Battle Creek does not change the light. All that in the past made Battle Creek a place unsuitable for our youth exists today, so far as influence is concerned." Battle Creek Letters, 4.

When the faithful Elder Haskell and his wife received a call to come to Battle Creek, Ellen White counseled:

"That you should receive an invitation to go to Battle Creek, and give Bible lessons to the nurses and medical students, is not a surprise to me. I have been instructed that an effort would be made to obtain your names as teachers to the nurses at Battle Creek, so that the managers of the Sanitarium can say to our people that Elder and Mrs. Haskell are to give a course of lessons to the Battle Creek Sanitarium nurses, and use this as a means of decoying to Battle Creek those who otherwise would heed the cautions about going there for their education." Paulson Collection, 108.

Some say that Ellen White's calls to leave Battle Creek were given only to prevent centralization at that place. But this is only part of the truth. The following statement to Brother and Sister Haskell may sound incredible to many easy-loving souls: "There is a little hope in one direction: Take the young men and women, and place them where they will come as little in contact with our churches as possible, that the low grade of piety which is current in this day shall not leaven their ideas of what it means to be a Christian." Manuscript Releases, vol. 12, 333.

If your protest against the apostasy is unheeded you have the choice: either you stay and tolerate the apostasy or you leave and save yourself and your family from these influences. The influence you allow to affect your soul will decide your eternal destiny. "Every one will reveal the character of the bundle with which he is binding himself." 1888 Materials, 995. Ellen White brings this point home to us: "'Out of Battle Creek' is my message." Paulson Collection, 111.

Application and Conclusion

Some might say: "In my church there is no pantheism being taught. I cannot apply these statements to my local situation." Maybe you are right. Praise God for every local church that is still standing on the fundamental truths of the Three Angels' Messages. There are still some of them, but their number decreases day by day. Remember, however, when you are evaluating your church, that pantheism alone is not the topic of the Omega crisis, it embodies many more principles. Ask yourself the question, How do they treat the Spirit of Prophecy? Is it upheld as the inspired and infallible word of God given to us through His last time prophet? How did the church leaders react when you tried to correct them? Did they understand and repent?

"Of those who are constantly working to undermine faith in the message God is sending to His people, I am instructed to say, 'Come out from among them, and be ye separate.'" Review and Herald, July 23, 1908.

Is your church part of an ecumenical organization? How did the men in responsible positions react when you stood up to protest against it? Did they understand and repent? Maybe you can agree with me on being separated from the ecumenical movement, but not on being separated from professed Adventists who approve and uphold an ecumenical membership. You would do well to consider the example of faithful Nehemiah. "When those who are uniting with the world, yet claiming great purity, plead for union with those who have ever been the opposers of the cause of truth, we should fear and shun them as decidedly as did Nehemiah." Prophets and Kings, 660.

Is strange fire offered in your church in the form of theater performances, worldly or charismatic music? Does your minister use NLP or anything similar? How did your church react as you protested against it? Did they understand and repent? "As the men of Israel witnessed the corrupt course of the priests, they thought it safer for their families not to come up to the appointed place of worship. Many went from Shiloh with their peace disturbed, their indignation aroused, until they at last determined to offer their sacrifices themselves, concluding that this would be fully as acceptable to God, as to sanction in any manner the abominations practiced in the sanctuary." Signs of the Times, December 1, 1881.

The Story of Redemption 322-324:

"The great adversary now endeavored to gain by artifice what he had failed to secure by force. ... With some concessions on their part, they proposed that Christians should make concessions, that all might unite on the platform of belief in Christ.

Now was the church in fearful peril. Prison, torture, fire, and sword were blessings in comparison with this. Some of the Christians stood firm, declaring that they could make no compromise. ... That was a time of deep anguish to the faithful followers of Christ. Under a cloak of pretended Christianity, Satan was insinuating himself into the church, to corrupt their faith and turn their minds from the word of truth. ...

But there is no union between the Prince of light and the prince of darkness, and there can be no union between their followers. When Christians consented to unite with those who were but half converted from paganism, they entered upon a path which led farther and farther from the truth. Satan exulted that he had succeeded in deceiving so large a number of the followers of Christ. He then brought his power to bear more fully upon them, and inspired them to persecute those who remained true to God. None could so well understand how to oppose the true Christian faith as could those who had once been its defenders; and these apostate Christians, uniting with their half-pagan companions, directed their warfare against the most essential features of the doctrines of Christ. ...

After a long and severe conflict the faithful few decided to dissolve all union with the apostate church if she still refused to free herself from falsehood and idolatry. They saw that separation was an absolute necessity if they would obey the Word of God. They dared not tolerate errors fatal to their own souls and set an example which would imperil the faith of their children and children's children. To secure peace and unity they were ready to make any concession consistent with fidelity to God; but they felt that even peace would be too dearly purchased at the sacrifice of principle. If unity could be secured only by the compromise of truth and righteousness, then let there be difference, and even war. Well would it be for the church and the world if the principles that actuated those steadfast souls were revived in the hearts of God's professed people.

Will we learn our lessons from the past? Will we recognize the time of our visitation? Will we act upon right principles? May the Lord help us in this most crucial hour when our eternal destiny, and that of our families, is being decided.

The faithful few in the ranks of the Adventists are suffering in an incredible manner! I personally feel this as well. You get the impression to fight against windmills in our churches; you feel alone, abandoned and powerless. Is it just a test of patience? Or does God wait for a particular moment and wants to give His people one last chance? When will He finally intervene and ensure justice? What did happen that our church could be taken over by the enemy? Was it our own indifference to the doctrines and incidents around us? To many questions we will probably get answers just in eternity. But some we can already understand. Let us continue to ponder!

So, who are these leaders who do not put right and correct these false doctrines in 61 years of church history? Yes, my friends, the wonderful article from above states it very clearly: They are Ecu-Adventists! They wanted and they have sold us to the papacy, just like all other ex-Protestant churches also have been sold to Satan. So they are even no Adventists, but Satan's disciples!

We have been talking the whole time about Pergamos, but we have finally to come to understand that we are already in the Thyatira phase since the Orion year 1986. And then, what began in 1949, has become even terrible, all-pervading reality. The false doctrine of the un-fallen nature of Jesus drove us straight to apostasy and the pact with Satan's whore. Therefore, today the condition of our church is that bad, that our very sad and worried faithful brethren sigh and cry day and night. The mails I receive speak the same language. The church is completely divided and dispersed. Yet, there is an incredible imbalance in favor of those, who allow "that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols." Our church worldwide went to bed with papacy and committed fornication.

We spoke of Nicolaitans or Ecu-Adventists, but in the Thyatira era, we know exactly how these leaders are called that lead us to these doctrines and this behavior, because there exists a special group which has exactly this task, tactics, and teachings: Jesuits. This combat unit of the papacy was established in order to reverse the Reformation. It is time, brothers and sisters, that we wake up and stop these agents of evil in our own ranks. If you would like to read what the Jesuits swear at their inauguration, seek for it on the web. When I published their oath lately in a forum, I found myself immediately banished forever, because nobody wants to admit the truth. It is really terrible!

Hence, if you listen to someone teaching, who says, "Jesus was tempted by Satan from the outside as we are, but he did not have the inclination to sin as we have", then you know now, dear brethren, that you are listening to a Nicolaitan or a Jesuit (or their adherents) and not a sound Adventist rooted in the faith of Jesus. And what does Jesus tell us that we should do with those?

But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. (Revelation 2:6)

Hate the works of Nicolaitans, but not the person! Perhaps, it's only one who was been deceived. But:

So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate. (Revelation 2:15)

Should we tolerate this doctrine among us according to this verse? No, but they must be removed from their posts and replaced by others who hold on to the truth.

Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. (Revelation 2:16)

How do we repent as a church? When did God fight with the sword of His mouth against this doctrine? Or is this still to come? But if it would have happened already, then why don't we know anything about it? These are important questions, we should consider profoundly.

Since the promise of Jesus, to fight with the Scriptures against those who do not repent, was given for the Pergamos phase from 1936 to 1986, and we know also that the reproach to Pergamos started in 1949, we should expect that God started the war with His word exactly at this time, in other words shortly after 1949 when the church was in dire peril. Did in these years shortly after 1949 happen something we missed, and fulfilled this prophecy? What we are about to discover now, baffles all description, dear brothers and sisters.

When I was dealing with the issues of 1950, I realized what the Orion is in reality, because these years mark the suppression of the most important message to our church that God has ever sent. I have been praying a lot that God would help me, to gather all the information which you would need to form again a unity of faith of all our factions and the "mother church" before the last session of the General Conference would take place in June/July 2010 in Atlanta.

Researching on this subject, I came across a lost collection of documents that could be identified only by most intensive investigation. Just some hidden advices on a few web sites of as sad as faithful Adventists, took me on the right track. Now, I would like to summarize for you what has happened in the Throne Line year 1950 ...

In 1950, God sent two elders (who later have been pastors in the service of SDA church for decades and are highly regarded), Robert Wieland and Donald K. Short to the worldwide session of the SDA General Conference. They had already communicated before with the General Conference on their highly important objections to certain issues, but had been instructed to guard strict secrecy about the matter and to write down their study results on this controversial issue in form of a manuscript. Therefore, these two elders, who came from the African mission field, put together a comprehensive book, which they called "1888 Re-Examined".

Already in 1888, at the General Conference in Minneapolis, happened something terrible. I addressed this shortly in my articles titled History Repeats. The light of the fourth angel had been rejected. The result was that the Adventist Church lost the candlestick and again, like the Israelites before, had to wander "40" years in the desert, before Jesus could come and take it home. The elders Wieland & Short picked up this issue again in 1950, as they had been studying for years on the matter and also wanted to raise objections against the "new" Christology. What came to light, was a clear indication that the church without corporate repentance never could come to Canaan. They wrote their document "1888 Re-Examined" with intent to awaken the General Conference members with this additional light they had received by their studies, and tried to induce them to return to the old ways. A highly explosive topic, when you consider that the church had just decided in 1949 to turn even further away from the right path.

After submitting their manuscript to the General Conference, they had been forbidden to pass on any information to any members of the church. The elders acquiesced without resistance. But the "terrible" case had already happened. Before the ban on distribution was declared, some friends of the elders already had copied and made accessible to other members this vital document, which includes over 200 pages of highly explosive material. The missionaries travelled back to Africa and waited patiently for a response of the General Conference.

They had to wait a long time. Some had already realized that this message of Wieland and Short was the second time that the light of the fourth angel of Revelation 18 had been sent to the General Conference. Impatience grew among the faithful of God, hoping that this time God who was warring with His sword would gain the battle but the message was ignored already in 1950. The General Conference took a long time to answer. In December 1951, the incredible and long awaited reply came from the General Conference. The light of the fourth angel had been rejected for the second time and this time in a way that only can be compared to an open insult to every faithful Seventh-day Adventist. It was a betrayal of the brethren and it should all be swept under the table.

In subsequent years, there were some correspondence between the (now already) pastors Wieland and Short and the General Conference on their research. All these documents, including the manuscript "1888 Re-Examined" in its original form of 1950 itself, I could finally find in detailed detective work. All documents that relate to the events that began in 1950, already had been collected once in a document collection called "A Warning and Its Reception". A. L. Hudson, the first Elder of the Seventh-day Adventist church of Baker, Oregon, had collected these documents and presented them one more time at the General Conference in 1959. As you can imagine, without any success.

When I began to study these documents, light shone into my heart. Light of God! The fourth angel had already come down twice and had wanted to give his light. The quote from above "One thing it is certain is soon to be realized,—the great apostasy, which is developing and increasing and waxing stronger, and will continue to do so until the Lord shall descend from heaven with a shout." {Special Testimonies, Series B, No. 7, p. 57} therefore gets a whole new meaning. The Lord descended already two times with a shout from heaven; the first time in 1888 and the second time in 1950.

But His call remained unheard. God's patience, however, is virtually inexhaustible. He is very patient with His children as He wants the sinner come to repentance and finally salvation. Our sick church could also be cured by this light. It must only be accepted at last. We must become mature children of God and induce our leaders to no longer reject the light.

The Orion points to 1949 and 1950. These lines are framed by the three Persons of the Divine Council and I interpret this corresponding to my current knowledge, that God wants to tell us that the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit are fully behind the message of 1950. The Son and the Father are forming the 1950 line. Why?

The message of 1950 is indeed an extension of the message of 1888, "the righteousness by faith." But that message has never been properly understood or taught in a correct manner. All these issues are addressed in "1888 Re-Examined". It is ultimately about the plan of salvation and a proper understanding of our relationship to the commandments of God. The message should properly read: "No righteousness by faith, if faith is dead" or "righteousness by living faith."

The Father sent his Son to earth to fulfill the first part of that message, our justification. The Holy Spirit effects in us, together with Christ's service in the Most Holy of the Heavenly Sanctuary, the second part of the message: obedience and sanctification. The great conflict between light and darkness is about whether there will be found enough believers who keep the commandments of God and confirm them by their testimony.

And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come. (Matthew 24:14)

It's about witnessing for God the Father and to show that there are at least 144,000 faithful, who keep and recognize His commandments despite of the temptations of Satan. In the great conflict, God the Father Himself has to be justified. Who goes with the Nicolaitans, slaps God Father in the face and defends the doctrine of Balaam, who made the children of Israel sin by worldliness and carnality. Righteousness and obedience out of love. All three belong together, everything makes sense only, if we recognize this. And especially since God the Father with His commandments is concerned here, He marks together with His only begotten Son the year of renewed rejection of His message: 1950.

This message is not welcome, it does not increase membership count, thus bringing little tithes, and frightens off the papacy and the other fallen churches. Therefore, it must be rejected again and again. Until now already twice!

Who would like to download this document right now, please click HERE. I also appeal at any honest and faithful Adventist who speaks a foreign language, to make his talent available to God's work and to translate this collection of documents into his mother tongue and disseminate it by e-mail. We may also create as many web sites in other languages with the entire Orion study. It is on you!

Another advice. In the 1980s was published a new edition of "1888 Re-Examined", which is to be nicely read, but includes quite profound changes and deletions to the original version of 1950. This edition is almost everywhere advertised, but the original is very, very hard to find. The 1951 response of the General Conference to the objections of Wieland and Short are also not contained there. I got the impression that the pastors Wieland and Short in later years retracted. Therefore, I wrote to Robert Wieland, who is still alive and even has a website, in order to learn more from him. But he did not even respond. I think, if you read on, you will understand what happened with Wieland and Short. It is the same as with Waggoner and Jones. They compromised and left their first love. But as stated clearly by Ellen White, this has in no way any influence to the original message and the light given by it. But, of course, we should read the original light, indicated by God through the Throne Line of 1950 and not a new forged edition, sanctioned by the General Conference prepared by a pastor depending on his pension.

In order to give you an idea of what is expecting you, and how explosive the materials are, that I could discover by the Throne Lines of Orion, I already publish the preface to "A Warning and Its Reception" of Elder Hudson, who has compiled it all:

A Warning and Its Reception

Preface

The collection of documents contained herein has been prepared specifically for the study and guidance of the members of the Executive Committee of the North Pacific Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists pursuant to a Motion lodged with this Committee on February 3, 1959, by the undersigned.

It is not intended that this collection shall have extensive circulation among all classes of our church membership but neither is it contemplated that it will be confined to the members of the Union Committee.

Our Motion requests the Committee to make the documents contained herein available to the membership of the North Pacific Union Conference and provide for an open, proper, just and sufficient examination of this matter in this field.

Obviously, this Committee cannot reach an intelligent decision and take a proper action upon the Motion until it has read the documents in question. These are not readily available otherwise hence the preparation of this collection. Also, the preparation of this collection will make it easy for the Committee to act favorably upon our Motion insofar as the physical availability of the material is concerned. Since the officers of the General Conference are opposed to having the church become informed on the matter, it would be somewhat embarrassing to have this material published in one of our regular publishing houses. But with the plates already made and the printing facilities under our personal ownership and operation it would be simple to furnish the Union Committee with sufficient copies at a reasonable price to comply with the request at hand.

Inasmuch as it may happen in time that this book shall fall into the hands of some who are not familiar with the facts of the controversy involved we are presenting herewith the Motion Lodged with the Committee and the remarks preceding the Motion.

At the time we made the Motion it was our opinion that the documents enumerated therein were all that would be necessary to a consideration of the subject matter involved. However, at the time of the filing of the Motion the General Conference president who was present represented to the Committee that the third report of the General Conference on the Wieland-Short presentations and the final letter of commitment written by Wieland and Short under date of January 21, 1959, would considerably alter the picture as contained in the documents previously mentioned. We are, therefore, including herein the third report of the General Conference entitled Wieland- Short Manuscript Committee Report and the letter mentioned above. A Preliminary Memorandum of 81 pages previously presented to the Committee contains other documentary material relative to the Wieland-Short representations covering the period preceding the manuscript, 1888 Re-Examined.

PRESENTATION TO UNION COMMITTEE

On February 3, 1959, this Petitioner appeared in person before this Committee making the following representations and Motion.

Preface to Motion

Mr. President: Comes now this Petitioner, A. L. Hudson, appearing in person and makes the following allegations and representations.

I am a lay member of the Seventh-day Adventist church with membership in the Baker, Oregon, body. I was born in the message, as we say, in this same church body and have served it in many different capacities from my childhood. I am now, and for many years past have been, first Elder of this church.

In common with all my brethren of our communion I believe the Seventh-day Adventist church corporation in all its various affiliated associations and corporations to be the legal and corporate vehicle for the promulgation of the three angels messages of Revelation 14.

I believe that unmistakable evidence in both the secular world and the religious world, including our own beloved church, indicates beyond a doubt to those holding the prophetic tenets of our faith that the good ship Zion is nearing the Harbor. We are now sailing between the reefs of infidelity and materialism in full sight of Home.

If we are to fulfill the purpose of God in our existence, we must now take aboard the Harbor Pilot and complete the journey. More than a hundred years ago a handful of God-fearing and Christ-loving men and women joined together in holy fellowship to establish what later came to be known in the world as the Seventh-day Adventist church. In humble dependence upon God for the accomplishment within them and through them of a humanly impossible task they fulfilled the prayer of the Divine Pilot, That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in Me, and I in Thee, that they also may be one in Us: that the world may believe that Thou hast sent Me. John 17:21

With the passing of years and the accession of membership encircling the globe this unity of heart and mind has been lessened until in 1952, Elder R. A. Anderson, speaking at the Bible Conference in Washington, D. C., publicly expressed the apprehension of the leaders of our church to hold such a conference lest the meeting be broken up with adverse factions.

Today the bond of unity and fellowship within our ranks on the basis of unity with the same Christ and Lord is so weak that ecclesiastical authority and intellectual and spiritual despotism have largely taken the place of the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

The issue at hand today is the matter of religious liberty within the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Elder H. L. Rudy, Vice-president of the General Conference, has made the following pertinent observations in his article, The Gift of Freedom, which was presented in pamphlet form to church elders for Religious Liberty Day, Sabbath, January 17, 1959:

"Among all the freedoms men cherish and have struggled to obtain is freedom of conscience. This freedom gives dignity to man when he is in possession of it. Without it the quality of human living is absent. Man cannot refuse freedom for himself if he wishes to maintain his own dignity as a creature made in the image of God. Neither has he the right to deny it to others.

"Psychological compulsions brought to bear upon him by mass propaganda have caused him to cease thinking for himself, to cease thinking creatively. He has not been educated to freedom.

"Freedom is dear only to those who are not satisfied to think as they are told. Too many people have not become aware of themselves as free beings, bearing within themselves the dignity and aristocracy of freedom. The free man not only loves freedom but also affirms it for others.

"Truth demands freedom, both for him who reveals it and for others as well. Religious tolerance accepts the fact that truth is without limit, and is capable of opening boundless perspectives before the mind."

In direct and distinct contradiction of these noble and lofty sentiments just expressed the facts I would like to present indicate that the Officers of the General Conference are violating the principles of religious liberty and vitiating the glorious propositions outlined by this vice-president.

Brief Resume of Wieland-Short Representations

Since you brethren have previously received copies of my letters to the General Conference Officers under dates of November 21, 1958, and January 9, 1959, and because of the shortness of the time which I have requested before you, I shall not make any lengthy recitation of the facts contained in those letters but merely take recourse to a short resume to lead up to the point of my appearance before you.

In June (July) of 1950, Elder H. J. Wieland and Elder D. K. Short made written representations to the Officers of the General Conference at the time of the General Conference session in San Francisco.

On July 11, 1950, these brethren wrote in part as follows:

"The President's stirring address last night, calling upon us to guard the faith once delivered to the saints, and to speak forthrightly in defense of it, presents a challenge. With this in mind, it is imperative that we know exactly what it is that should be guarded, for certainly there is great confusion in our ranks today.

This confusion was evident in the "Christ-centered" preaching urged upon us repeatedly in the Ministerial Association meetings of the past four days. These meetings were supposed to set the stage for a mighty revival among God's people at this General Conference session. This "Christ-centered" preaching is expected by its proponents to bring great reformation among Seventh-day Adventist workers the world around.

No one for a moment would disparage the preaching of the true Christ as the center and substance of the three angels' messages. However, in this confusion, it has not been discerned that much of this so-called "Christ-centered" preaching is in reality merely anti-Christ centered preaching. It vitally affects the outcome of this General Conference session. To make such a statement to the General Conference Committee sounds fantastic. But startling things are not unexpected by the church in the last days.

At the time of the General Conference session no official consideration was given to the subject matter of the Wieland- Short representations. Subsequently in Washington, D. C. these men appeared before a committee at which time both written and oral material was presented.

Wieland and Short were asked to further write out their contentions and the manuscript, "1888 Re-Examined" was the result. They returned to their mission field in Africa and the Defense Literature Committee was asked to make an official report on the representations of Wieland and Short.

In this report which was released in 1951, the Officers of the General Conference rejected the analysis of the 1888 Minneapolis Conference episode which Wieland and Short had made in their manuscript and also rejected the false christ allegations of these men by labeling them as slander against the Adventist ministry.

In this report by the General Conference silence on the subject matter was enjoined upon Wieland and Short by the Officers.

Much to the annoyance of the brethren in Washington, copies of the manuscript were sold by Wieland and Short to some of their immediate friends before they left for their mission field and before the Committee had time to render its official report.

When the official decision was communicated to the authors they complied fully and desisted from any agitation of the subject. However, the few existing copies were multiplied many times in the ensuing years by substantial, loyal Seventh-day Adventists sometimes even under the noses of disapproving administrators and the message of the document got around. Its reception was varied, but at least a sizeable minority in the church have believed it to be a message of truth sent by God at a critical hour.

Concerning this document the Secretary of the General Conference wrote on January 16, 1959: "Many in the field and in our institutions have considered this matter and numerous opinions have been expressed to us."

Relationship of Petitioner to the Problem

Some four years ago the paper came into my possession from a minister friend. Since that time I have been contending with the officers of the General Conference that their evaluation of the representations of Wieland and Short is erroneous and the first official report completely untenable.

On February 28, 1958, I filed a formal Complaint and Request with the officers of the General Conference relative to the matter of the Barnhouse-Martin episode and supported the Complaint with a short Brief. In this Brief I made reference to the Wieland-Short manuscript on p. 30 as follows:

"This manuscript was written some seven years ago and presented to the officers of the General Conference. The manuscript, the letters preceding it and the personal representations connected therewith were a portion too big for the officers of the General Conference to swallow; even as this statement of Jesus to Peter was too big for him to swallow. He could not deny the truth of the Saviour's words, but he did not understand them and thus did not believe nor profit by them. In like manner, the officers of the General Conference have not been able to deny the truth of the positions taken by Wieland and Short; they have not been able to correctly evaluate them and have thus refused to believe them and profit by them."

The officers refused any type of hearing upon the Complaint but did essay to write a reply to the Complaint without giving an opportunity to plead my cause at all. Some of you have a copy of this alleged answer to certain points appearing in the Brief supporting my Complaint.

This purported answer, however, was only half the reply of the officers. The other half was to consist of a second consideration of the Wieland-Short manuscript.

In September, 1958, this second report was released and a copy was sent to me. It was entitled, "Further Appraisal of the Manuscript, 1888 Re-Examined".

The second report was as unsatisfactory as the first, coming to some of the same conclusions as the first report and coming to other conclusions even less tenable.

Officers Refuse to Answer Questions

On November 21, 1958, I requested from the officers of the General Conference an official answer to the following threepart question:

"Is it the purpose of the General Conference (a) to suppress by considering improper, illegal and undesirable an open discussion of the Wieland-Short manuscript and its contents in the world field; (b) to force Elders Wieland and Short to abandon their positions or to keep silent concerning them by the weight of your ecclesiastical authority when you have not been able in eight years to sustain any substantial error in the same; (c) knowing that the statement referred to above from "Appraisal" is false, to force brethren Wieland and Short to take an open stand against the officers of the General Conference, their hiring agency, and to publicly state their true position?"

The officers have twice refused to answer this question as asked and the only pertinent comment they have been willing to make is this:

"The brethren feel that under present circumstances their dealing on this matter should be with Brethren Wieland and Short."

This is, of course, a polite and diplomatic way of saying to us laymen in the field that it is none of our business what is going on in Washington and that a determination of truth and error will be made by men allegedly qualified to make such determinations and that henceforth we are to accept their decisions without question or protest. This position is unacceptable to us in the field. In the words of Elder Rudy: "Freedom is dear only to those who are not satisfied to think as they are told."

Leadership does not Employ Flattery nor Coercion

In reply to our suggestion that coercion or flattery might be used upon Wieland and Short by the officers, they made the following significant reply:

"The leadership of God's cause does not employ flattery nor coercion in dealing with workers. Such an attitude is entirely foreign to our understanding of leadership responsibility. Brethren Wieland and Short are workers of experience and they will make their decisions as they feel they should. The field that employs them may want to come to some understanding with them, but this is in no way related to 'flattery' nor to 'coercion'."

I do not believe the members of this Union committee would want any specific comments upon this statement by way of concrete illustrations contradicting it, but you are all aware that such evidence could be introduced. There are at least three conferences in this Union which have attempted to suppress discussion of vital truths relative to the matter at hand by coercion.

Now, by way of summarizing this short resume, we have the following situation. Ordained ministers of recognized worth and integrity have charged the Remnant church with worshipping in a substantial measure a false Christ. The officers of the General Conference are determined to ignore and discredit this allegation all the while under the pretense of considering it, in the darkness of camouflage, in the secrecy of private conference and committee meetings in Washington and submit the results for us laymen to accept without question.

This we cannot do.

Motion

The representations of Elders Wieland and Short are sufficiently contained in two documents:

- (1) Their manuscript, "1888 Re-Examined", and
- (2) their Reply to the second report of the General Conference on their manuscript.

The official stand of the General Conference is contained in two documents:

- (1) The first report rendered by the Defense Literature Committee in 1951;
- (2) Further Appraisal of the Manuscript, "1888 Re-Examined", released in September, 1958.

WHEREFORE, believing that the prohibition of discussion and investigation of this material which is believed by a considerable minority to be a message from God constitutes departure from the principles of religious liberty in the Remnant church, I MOVE this Committee make the above enumerated documents available to the membership of the North Pacific Union Conference and provide for an open, proper, just and sufficient examination of this matter in this field.

Respectfully submitted,

A. L. Hudson, First Elder Baker Seventh-day Adventist Church Baker, Oregon

When I started my work at the series of articles to the Throne Lines, I thought that I almost reached the end of my work for you. Now I see that God has some more for me and also for you. And with pleasure I submit to His will. This last article of the series to the Throne Lines is published one week before the Session of the General Conference in Atlanta. This is not by accident, but it was never what I have planned. I think it was God's plan.

After five years of studies under the direction of God, I worked for half a year almost day and night to research and publish all this knowledge on websites, in order for you to learn what the Orion wants to teach us. You surely noticed that my attitude and understanding of the Orion message and the churches changed over time while working on it. All of our churches and "offshoot" groups are in difficulties, not just the big church. We all lack of brotherly love, but also particularly of unity in our pillars of faith.

How much did I learn by the study of Orion about Jesus, His character, and the plan of salvation! But I see, that the interest in the Orion message has declined sharply since it became obvious that it is NOT just a pure time message, but a warning message to the church and every individual, to prepare our characters to be Christ-like and to learn to live a sinless life. But I also got to know many of you out there, who no longer belong to the sleeping virgins, because the cry "The Bridegroom comes" did now resound a second and last time from Orion. God's Voice has spoken to many and many have understood it and changed their lives and found back to their first love in Jesus. I thank you for your testimony at this point and that you always encouraged me when I needed it most!

Now, I no longer want to conceal that there are some Adventists in Atlanta, who dreamed some time ago that Atlanta would soon be destroyed. A couple even heard the "voice of God" during a prayer meeting in their house. They were all asked to sell their houses and to leave Atlanta. This suggests that there could come destruction over that General Conference that will be elected in Atlanta and that this could lead to the long awaited cleansing of our church.

I think that the Orion study is the third and last time that the fourth angel is sent to the General Conference. I began the Orion proclamation in January 2010 and I have shown the 1950 Throne Line in several forums and e-mail distribution lists since April. Each of the leaders should have recognized long ago, what kind of warning God is giving here, because only we "normal" members do know nothing about our hidden church history. But there was never ever any positive reaction of the leadership, neither of any of the organized churches nor even an offshoot group.

This time, the warning message was no longer given by two pastors like Waggoner and Jones and also not by two elders as Wieland and Short, but by God Himself, who has placed a monument in the sky, even called by astronomers the most beautiful place in the universe. To convey this final warning message, God used this time a sad farmer from South America, who always hoped and prayed that his church could be healed, so that the faithful to God could feel home again in the church banks. I am convinced that if the General Conference and the officers reject the light again, God will purify His house and others will lead His house in the last days. Ellen White said:

Every wind of doctrine will be blowing. Those who have rendered supreme homage to "science falsely so called" [theology, higher critics] will not be the leaders then. Those who have trusted to intellect, genius, or talent will not then stand at the head of rank and file. They did not keep pace with the light. Those who have proved themselves unfaithful will not then be entrusted with the flock. In the last solemn work few great men will be engaged. They are self-sufficient, independent of God, and He cannot use them. The Lord has faithful servants, who in the shaking, testing time will be disclosed to view. There are precious ones now hidden who have not bowed the knee to Baal. They have not had the light which has been shining in a concentrated blaze upon you. But it may be under a rough and uninviting exterior the pure brightness of a genuine Christian character will be revealed. In the day time we look toward heaven but do not see the stars. They are there, fixed in the firmament, but the eye cannot distinguish them. In the night we behold their genuine luster. {5T 80.1}

The last church is Philadelphia, and consists of those who are active and do not allow that this message, which now brings down from Orion to earth the light of the fourth angel a third and last time, is rejected again. If so, however, and unfortunately it looks quite like this, then God will intervene and the coals under the wheels of the Throne of God, which are the Orion Clock, will perform a work of purification at His church:

Then I looked, and, behold, in the firmament that was above the head of the cherubims there appeared over them as it were a sapphire stone, as the appearance of the likeness of a throne. And he spake unto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill thine hand with coals of fire from between the cherubims, and scatter them over the city. And he went in in my sight. (Ezekiel 10:1-2)

This cleansing by Orion message that is nothing less than the confirmation of God of the message of 1888 and 1950, will take place soon, but for those who preside over the house of God and refuse all His messages and lead His people to the doctrines of Balaam and the Nicolaitans and betray us into the hands of the papacy and sun-worship, shall suffer the following destiny:

And he brought me into the inner court of the LORD'S house, and, behold, at the door of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men, with their backs toward the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east; and they worshipped the sun toward the east. Then he said unto me, Hast thou seen this, O son of man? Is it a light thing to the house of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here? for they have filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger: and, lo, they put the branch to their nose. Therefore will I also deal in fury: mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity: and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them. (Ezekiel 8:16-18)

The number "25" is no accident, just as nothing is coincidence in the Word of God. It is the exact number of the key decision makers in the Executive Committee of the General Conference since the beginning of the last century. Officially, even more members belong to the Executive Committee, but in fact almost all decisions are made by exactly 25 men. Our church structure is not, as Walter Veith recently said (whom I always respect as a bright scholar), structured from bottom to top, but strictly "Catholic" built from top to bottom as we could learn from the representations of elders Hudson, Wieland and Short. The voices from the bottom have no weight. You may look forward to what you may read and learn from the highly explosive documents, that (hopefully) will soon be available here. They include incredible messages and contain so much light!

Therefore, dear brothers and sisters, let your light shine and do not put it under a bushel! Receive the encouraging words of the Spirit of Prophecy, who once again states clearly that our salvation lies in the hands of Jesus, but we must actively participate. History repeats itself, and this time the Heaven is certain. Our Jericho must fall now too, if we want to finally come home ...

The Light of Truth

Nevertheless, the foundation of God standeth sure. The Lord knoweth them that are His. The sanctified minister must have no guile in his mouth. He must be open as the day, free from every taint of evil. A sanctified ministry and press will be a power in flashing the light of truth on this untoward generation. Light, brethren, more light we need. Blow the trumpet in Zion; sound an alarm in the holy mountain. Gather the host of the Lord, with sanctified hearts, to hear what the Lord will say unto His people; for He has increased light for all who will hear. Let them be armed and equipped, and come up to the battle--to the help of the Lord against the mighty. God Himself will work for Israel. Every lying tongue will be silenced. Angels' hands will overthrow the deceptive schemes that are being formed. The bulwarks of Satan will never triumph. Victory will attend the third angel's message. As the Captain of the Lord's host tore down the walls of Jericho, so will the Lord's commandment-keeping people triumph, and all opposing elements be defeated. Let no soul complain of the servants of God who have come to them with a heaven-sent message. Do not any longer pick flaws in them, saying, "They are too positive; they talk too strongly." They may talk strongly; but is it not needed? God will make the ears of the hearers tingle if they will not heed His voice or His message. He will denounce those who resist the word of God. {TM 410.1}

The Sweet Influences

Ellen White wrote a prophecy in a book that no one discovered for a long time:

"These things saith He that holdeth the seven stars in His right hand." Revelation 2:1. These words are spoken to the teachers in the church--those entrusted by God with weighty responsibilities. The sweet influences that are to be abundant in the church are bound up with God's ministers, who are to reveal the love of Christ. The stars of heaven are under His control. He fills them with light. He guides and directs their movements. If He did not do this, they would become fallen stars. So with His ministers. They are but instruments in His hands, and all the good they accomplish is done through His power. Through them His light is to shine forth. The Saviour is to be their efficiency. If they will look to Him as He looked to the Father they will be enabled to do His work. As they make God their dependence, He will give them His brightness to reflect to the world. {The Acts of the Apostles, chap. 57, "The Revelation", 586.3}

If you read this for the first time, it sounds like a nice sermon and very poetic. Read it three times! It has an incredibly deep content ...

Look out for all the Bible verses that are mentioned here:

One is obviously Revelation 2:1:

Unto the angel of the church of Ephesus write; These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks;

This brings us directly to the previous verse, the mystery of the seven stars:

The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches. (Revelation 1:20)

Who are these angels?

Ellen White tells us above that they are the teachers of the church:

These words are spoken to the teachers in the church--those entrusted by God with weighty responsibilities.

The question is ... what are these "weighty responsibilities"?

Answer: The teachers must reflect His glory to the world. What Bible verse is this?

Ellen White about the teachers:

... and all the good they accomplish is done through His power. ... As they make God their dependence, He will give them His brightness to reflect to the world.

This is without doubt a reference to Revelation 18:1:

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory [brightness].

Hence, these teachers, who are the angels of the churches in the mystery of the seven stars and are represented by the seven stars themselves, are those teachers who give the fourth angel's message in the end of time.

And this brings us to another Bible verse:

And they that be wise [in other translations "teachers"] shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. (Daniel 12:3)

What message do these teachers really have? What are these "weighty responsibilities" of the teachers?

It's definitely the fourth angel's message in these sentences. But what is the content of the message of the fourth angel?

Ellen White said it clearly but for so many years since 1911 nobody did find it. The phrase after "weighty responsibilities" explains the exact content of these responsibilities:

... those entrusted by God with weighty responsibilities. The sweet influences that are to be abundant in the church are bound up with God's ministers...

We know that Ellen White used only the King James Version of the Bible. And if we look for the words "sweet influences" in the King James, we find only a single verse that has these words:

Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion? (Job 38:31)

Both parts of the sentence of Ellen White reflected in this verse are not talking about the Pleiades, but the seven stars of Orion!

The word for translated as "Pleiades" is:

3598

kîymâh

kee-maw'

From the same as H3558; a cluster of stars, that is, the Pleiades: - Pleiades, seven stars.

Ellen White is connecting...

1. The mystery of the seven stars
2. The last message for the church given by the teachers
3. The message of the fourth angel
4. And the loud cry

with...

The Seven Stars of the Orion Constellation!

The teachers of Daniel 12:3 are BOUND UP with this message of the "sweet influences" of the seven stars of Orion. To give this message is their "weighty responsibility". And so, they must reflect the light from the throne of God to the world that finally will shine with the glory of the Lord and shows HIS LOVE.

But what exactly are these "sweet influences"? From whom comes the message? Who is the Teacher of the teachers (of the 144,000)?

Ellen White tells us also this:

It is not always the most learned presentation of God's truth that convicts and converts the soul. Not by eloquence or logic are men's hearts reached, but by the sweet influences of the Holy Spirit, which operate quietly yet surely in transforming and developing character. It is the still, small voice of the Spirit of God that has power to change the heart. {PK 169.1}

Let the prayer go up to God, "Create in me a clean heart;" for a pure, cleansed soul has Christ abiding therein, and out of the abundance of the heart are the issues of life. The human will is to be yielded to Christ. Instead of passing on, closing the heart in selfishness, there is need of opening the heart to the sweet influences of the Spirit of God. Practical religion breathes its fragrance everywhere. It is a savor of life unto life {Letter 31a, 1894}

It is the "still, small voice of the Spirit of God" who is the Teacher of teachers. It is the same Holy Spirit who led us to believe in the truth of the "Great Holy Clock in Orion" and will speak very soon for the last time:

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven [have been marked in Orion], and God hath remembered her iniquities. (Revelation 18:4-5)

And only the 144,000 wise teachers (Daniel 12:3) understand this "still, small voice" which is coming from Orion:

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number [the wise teachers], knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. {EW 14.1}

Christmas 2.0

Written by John Scotram and Robert Dickinson

Published: Thursday, December 13, 2012, 2:30 pm

Originally published on Monday, December 10, 2012, 8:40 pm in German at www.letztercountdown.org

Once again, “It’s Christmas time.” We won’t send out Christmas greetings like Ted Wilson, who in his Christmas video, staged all the world’s religions in symbolic form—from the Indian sitar player with the red sun spot of Hinduism on her forehead to the pan-flute-playing worshiper of the Dalai Lama—to show that the Adventist “revival and reformation” is not just about joining the ecumenical movement, but even about marrying the five major world religions. We won’t put on a big show with grand choirs conducted by the father (William Costa Jr.) of the Christian-rocking Brazilian, Sonete, and we will not replace the Christmas tree for you with a giant pipe organ that forms the huge “M” of Freemasonry.

But we will give you a “Christmas present”, which we received last October directly from Jesus: the knowledge of His true and exact birth date, and additionally, the knowledge of our own true birth date.

No serious Christian could have missed the fact that December 25 is not the birthday of the man Jesus. Of course, it isn’t the birthday of the God Jesus either, who existed from the beginning with the Father, and thus had no beginning. But it is about His birth at the Incarnation, which is mistakenly celebrated by all Christians on the day of the sun god Nimrod with all of the associated pagan symbols like the Christmas tree. But that is not the topic of this article; there is plenty of material on the Internet for anyone who wants to learn more details about that.

On October 27, 2012, the Adventist Church, following an invitation provided by Pope Benedict, broke the first and the fourth commandment and dishonored the Sabbath and God by declaring a “Creation Sabbath” on that High Sabbath, when in reality each Sabbath is a creation Sabbath. My corresponding article garnered little attention, my arguments being dismissed as far-fetched. At the time of publication of the article The End of the SDA Church on October 12, 2012, we did not know that Jesus would send us a message in the form of a dream that would highlight the importance of this day even further and in such an amazing way that it left even us speechless, taking our breath away in awe. That’s why only now we write about it, and because we now see that the time has come that the reader of these pages should be informed of the significance of the sin of the SDA church.

An Alarming Dream

On the night of Monday, October 15, 2012 I had a dream that recurred again the following night:

First I heard the voice of Jesus as follows: “Not even you understand how much my people are hurting me with what they will do on October 27.” I was shocked... “Not even you.” Then the infinitely sad voice continued: “This day is not only My birthday, but also leads to the day when I did the following..." And then I saw Jesus in the dream, in the early evening twilight kneeling down by the form of Adam, still lifeless, and He bent over and blew the breath of life into his nostrils.

A repeated dream like this was something completely new to me, so I followed it up by doing some research on its content. The almost desperate voice of Jesus had also stirred me so much that I had to know for sure whether this came from my subconscious or was really a message from Jesus, in which case it would warrant careful attention.

Pondering it, it seems logical that we should also know His birthday, since the movement of the Fourth Angel already has the exact date of the crucifixion of our Lord, and even the exact date of His return. Isn't it self-evident that we could know the exact date of His birth as a human being?

The Great Clock of Time

To 'refresh' my knowledge, I went to the Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary:

Traditional Date.—Probably the most prevalent date assigned to the birth of Christ has been 4 (or 5) B.C., although some date it in 6, 8, or even earlier. The popularity of 4 B.C. probably stems from Ussher, who considered that the Christian Era was four years late. He placed his creation date at 4004 B.C. because he believed that Christ was born in the year 4000 from the creation of the world, that is 5/4 B.C., fall to fall. Thus he placed the date of the Nativity near the end of 5 B.C., and this year has appeared in the margins of many editions of the English Bible for 250 years.... Now 5 B.C. can be regarded as approximately correct for the birth of Christ. However, the evidence is not complete enough to furnish proof of the exact year, as will become evident. (BC Vol. 5, pp. 240-241)

The Bible Commentary goes on and also gives us an indication that Jesus was probably born in autumn in the Northern Hemisphere:

Death of Herod Dated in 4 B.C.—... It is explained elsewhere that if Herod died in early April, 4 B.C., the events between the birth of Christ and the slaughter of the infants of Bethlehem, while Herod was still alive, would put the Nativity in early 4 B.C. at the very latest, perhaps some months earlier, in the autumn of 5 B.C. ... It [Jesus' birth] could not have been far from either 5 or 4 B.C., for Jesus was "about thirty years of age" when He began His ministry in the "fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius." (p. 242)

As always, doubts about many things prevail in Christendom because of a lack of the final revelation of Jesus. And Jesus said, "Not even you." What does this mean?

Another clue from Ellen White gave me the right approach for my research:

But like the stars in the vast circuit of their appointed path, God's purposes know no haste and no delay. Through the symbols of the great darkness and the smoking furnace, God had revealed to Abraham the bondage of Israel in Egypt, and had declared that the time of their sojourning should be four hundred years. "Afterward," He said, "shall they come out with great substance." Genesis 15:14. Against that word, all the power of Pharaoh's proud empire battled in vain. On "the self-same day" appointed in the divine promise, "it came to pass, that all the hosts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt." Exodus 12:41. So in heaven's council the hour for the coming of Christ had been determined. When the great clock of time pointed to that hour, Jesus was born in Bethlehem. {DA 32}

What could this "great clock of time" be other than the Orion clock? On the other hand, isn't it only a judgment clock, displaying the cycle of 168 years since the start of the judgment in 1844?

Let us remember, however, that the judgment time is referred to as "an hour" in the Bible:

[The first angel] Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters. (Revelation 14:7)

We know that the prophecy of the first angel was fulfilled by the Millerite movement. They were the workers of the 11th Hour of Christianity (not to be confused with the workers of the 11th hour of the day of judgment itself). The twelfth “hour” had to be the heavenly judgment, which started on October 22, 1844. This “hour” lasted 168 years, as we know from the Orion study.

So how long would the full 12-hour day have taken for the whole Christian era?

$$12 * 168 = 2016$$

And with the last hour being from 1844 to 2012, when would the 12-hour day have started?

$$2012 - 2016 = -4 \text{ (which corresponds to 5 B.C., since the year 0 does not exist)}$$

As mentioned in the article The End of the SDA Church, we now know that the annual cycle of the Orion clock runs from one Day of Atonement to the next. The Judgment of the Dead began on Yom Kippur on October 22, 1844, and ends on Yom Kippur in 2012. Consequently, “the great clock of time” must also have pointed to a Day of Atonement when the great cycle of 12 hours began in the year 5 B.C.

It is amazing that the Orion clock points to the year 5 B.C., but many questions remain open, such as “When was the Day of Atonement in the year 5 B.C.?” and “Does it really land on October 27 in the year of Jesus’ birth?” With our knowledge of God’s true calendar, we should actually be able to answer these questions.

An Arduous Journey

Anyone who thinks that all we have to do is calculate the Day of Atonement for the year 5 B.C. to determine the birthday of Jesus, has not thought hard enough. Jesus’ parents, Mary and Joseph, were Jews. They had to be in Jerusalem no later than the Day of Atonement, and also be present for it otherwise they would have been cut off from their people:

Also on the tenth day of this seventh month there shall be a day of atonement: it shall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD. And ye shall do no work in that same day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God. For whatsoever soul it be that shall not be afflicted in that same day, he shall be cut off from among his people. (Leviticus 23:27-29)

If Jesus were born on a Day of Atonement, then he should have been born in Jerusalem, otherwise his parents would have been transgressors of the law which reflects the character of God. But Jesus was born in Bethlehem, and therefore his birth could not have been on a Day of Atonement!

A little browsing on the Internet leads us further...

At Keith Hunt we can find some interesting details regarding the events surrounding the birth of Jesus. Although certainly not everything written there is necessarily correct, one statement in particular stands out:

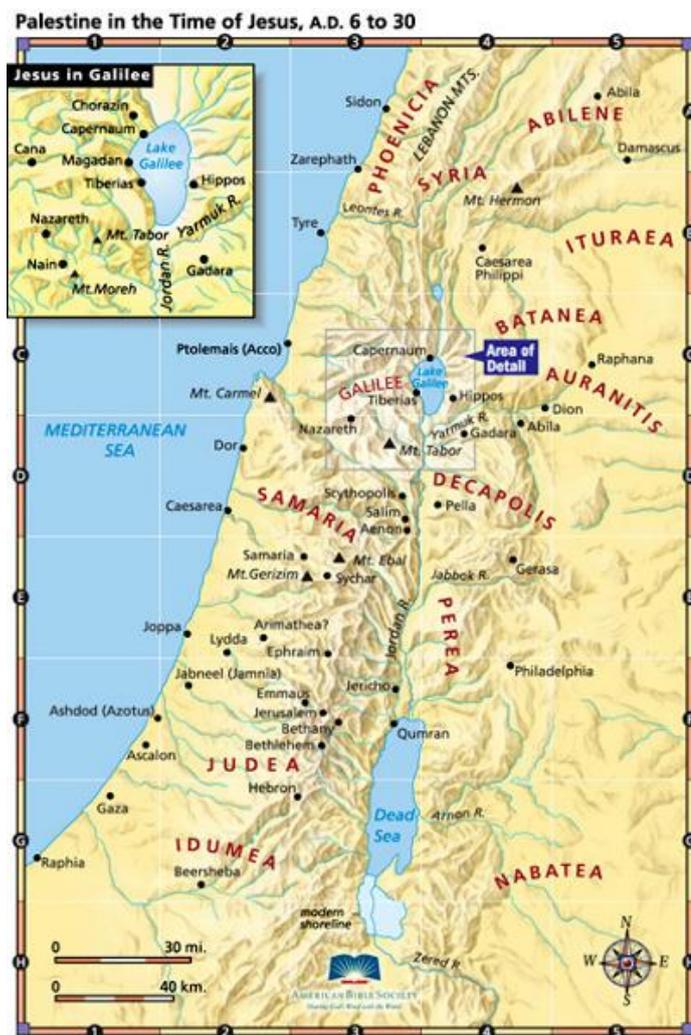

Luke has preserved other evidence substantiating the Autumn birth of Christ. The taxation and census decree by Caesar Augustus was carried out after the Jewish method. It was Jewish custom to conduct such taxations after the fall harvest (see Unger’s Dictionary, pp. 199–200). Furthermore, there were no guest rooms available at the inn when Joseph and Mary arrived in Bethlehem. This shows that many people were already in the Jerusalem area for the taxation and for the fall festival season. Bethlehem was a festival city because of its proximity to Jerusalem.

Luke tells us that Joseph was from Bethlehem and as the man of the house he had to go there for this census after the holy days:

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.) And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:) To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. (Luke 2:1-5)

Let us walk in the shoes of Joseph and Mary for a moment. Undoubtedly they first traveled from Nazareth to Jerusalem to get there at least in time for the Day of Atonement. This was an arduous journey of more than 100 km (- 50 miles) for a very pregnant woman as Mary was at the time. Therefore, they would certainly have decided to stay until the end of the feast season and then, after Shemini Atzeret (the Sabbath after the Feast of Tabernacles), they would travel about 9-10 km (- 5 miles) further to Bethlehem for the census. And then Jesus was born there.

Now we have to put to use what we learned in the Gethsemane study about the astronomical method of calculating the feast days, for the year 5 B.C. When you verify this, please note that Accurate Times requires an input of -4 for that year, as it counts the year 0, although it does not exist. Another note: Accurate Times automatically calculates according to the Julian calendar in this year, which is absolutely correct if we want to find a birthdate to be remembered, because at that time it was the Julian calendar that was in use. Therefore, we keep the results as they are provided by Accurate Times.

The beginning of the seventh month, and therefore the Feast of Trumpets, was on Tuesday/Wednesday, October 3/4 of 5 B.C. and so the Day of Atonement fell on Thursday/Friday, October 12/13. The ceremonial Sabbath after the Feast of Tabernacles was held on Tuesday/Wednesday, October 24/25. Travel was not allowed until the evening of October 25, after the ceremonial Sabbath (Shemini Atzeret) had ended. Then Mary and Joseph could have left for Bethlehem. But no one at that time would have liked to travel at night and certainly not with a wife in the late stages of pregnancy.

In the early morning of October 26, in the cool of the breaking day, something began that today we would call “holiday traffic”. Even the residents of Jerusalem who were born elsewhere departed to go to their place of birth for the census. But the little walk of about 10 km (- 5 miles) to Bethlehem probably would have taken longer for the holy pair because of Mary’s pregnancy, so that they would have arrived later than many others to Bethlehem in the late morning. Those who wanted to stay in Bethlehem to continue their journey later had already occupied available quarters.

Thus began the couple’s nerve-racking search for a place, especially considering the circumstances of Mary’s pregnancy. What if the child would be born now and not even a room in an inn could be found? It is a medically recognized fact that stress can trigger labor, and so it was that Jesus was born on the night of Thursday, the 26th to Friday, the 27th of October. Thus, our human Savior first saw the light of day on October 27, 5 B.C. Now we understand the following Bible verses in greater depth:

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. (Luke 2:6-11)

The shepherds were working that night, which is another indication that it could not have been either the night of a ceremonial Sabbath (Day of Atonement, the first day of Sukkot, Shemini Atzeret) or a Seventh-day Sabbath. The following time line fits perfectly with Jesus’ birth during the night from Thursday to Friday after the autumn festivals.

The Prophetic Confirmation

Everything fits perfectly—except for one thing we have to clarify. Why did Ellen White say:

When the great clock of time pointed to that hour, Jesus was born in Bethlehem. {DA 32.1}

We know that the Orion clock points to the Day of Atonement, but she says that it was “the hour”. If Ellen White as a prophet speaks in prophetic time here, then the question dissolves with a wonderful confirmation of the birth date of Jesus.

How long is a prophetic hour? Since one prophetic day equals 360 literal days, we get the length of the prophetic hour in literal days through the following calculation:

$$360 \text{ days} / 24 = 15 \text{ literal days}$$

Now see for yourself on the following diagram the amazing fact that exactly one prophetic hour of 15 literal days passed in Jewish inclusive counting from the Day of Atonement shown on the Orion clock until Jesus was born in Bethlehem:

Now we have found the true birthday of Jesus. It was October 27, 5 B.C. Therefore, the true Christmas Eve is not on December 24, but October 26 and the true Christmas Day does not come on December 25, but on October 27. The biblical, historical, astronomical and logistical evidence shows that it could not have been on an earlier date, and the Spirit of Prophecy in connection with the Orion clock has shown us that it cannot have been any later.

The Pinnacle of Creation

Now that we have seen a further function of the great clock of time in Orion, we must follow the signs for the creation of man to pursue my short dream. It is well known that Adam was created on the sixth day, so on a Friday. We can bypass calculation of feast days, etc., because everything—including the moon calculations, barley sample, etc.—was introduced much later around 1500 B.C. There remains only the need to check whether the birthday of Adam was on a Friday. In the year of creation, October 27 would have to fall on a Friday.

Ellen White confirms for us that creation was about 4000 years before Christ:

The great controversy between Christ and Satan, that has been carried forward for nearly six thousand years, is soon to close; and the wicked one redoubles his efforts to defeat the work of Christ in man’s behalf and to fasten souls in his snares. To hold the people in darkness and impenitence till the Saviour’s mediation is ended, and there is no longer a sacrifice for sin, is the object which he seeks to accomplish. {CC 518.1}

To find the creation year, all we have to do is follow the logic of the clock and go back two more “great cycles” of 2016 years each:

$$5 \text{ B.C.} - 4032 = 4037 \text{ B.C.}$$

And now it gets interesting. We only have a single “shot”. There is no barley sample, no feast days of any kind whatsoever; we have no options to choose from. The dream gives only a date—October 27, 4037 B.C. and not even in different calendar systems, because we must use the same one that we used for the birth and death of Jesus: the Julian calendar, which you can expect almost all astronomical programs to automatically use when you come to these time ranges.

However, few programs are suitable to check a weekday as far back as about 6000 years ago. We used the following:

1. The date calculator at Nabkal (For the “Kalenderstil” field, select “julianisch”, for the date, enter “Tag” 27, “Monat” 10, and “Jahr” -4036. Click “neu berechnen”, and see the “Wochentag” field. It should read “Freitag” for Friday.)
2. The Julian-Gregorian-Dee Date Calculator by Hermetic Systems (see results below).

Though as we had hoped, it was nevertheless astounding and awe-inspiring: October 27, the birthday of Adam communicated by the dream actually was a Friday. Thus the first conscious day of Adam when he walked with the Lord was a Sabbath, because just before sunset on Friday he had received the breath of life from his Creator, personally. This was clearly shown to me by the lighting conditions in the dream.

Will we yet proclaim the Sabbath even more fully? Does this dream again show that this Ministry is guided by the Holy Spirit?

And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. {EW 33.2}

Isn't this wonderful dream with all its implications reason enough that the rest of the prophecy of Ellen White will also come true?

This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land. The wicked thought that we had brought the judgments upon them, and they rose up and took counsel to rid the earth of us, thinking that then the evil would be stayed. {EW 33.2}

And Again, the "Three"

Therefore, the first and the second Adam have the same birthday, which has a deep and wonderful meaning:

And so it is written, The first man Adam was made a living soul; the last Adam was made a quickening spirit. (1 Corinthians 15:45)

For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. (1 Corinthians 15:21-22)

Much to the displeasure of the anti-Trinitarians, the Great Clock of God in Orion shows once again that the Divine Council, who developed this wonderful plan of salvation, actually consists of three Persons. This time it is indicated by the three grand cycles of 12 heavenly days (each consisting of 168 earthly years), one cycle especially dedicated to each Person of the Divine Council.

The last cycle from 5 B.C. to 2012 A.D. is clearly attributable to Jesus as a human being, while the first two cycles clearly relate to the Father and the Holy Spirit (Son cell, see Our High Calling, Appendix C).

On the other hand, human history does not end with these three grand cycles. There are still three important years remaining that are now here for those who bear witness for God and perform the part of the plan of salvation that God could not do. Fallen, created beings must prove the righteousness of God to the whole universe against the Accuser.

Thus, October 27 is not only the birthday of Jesus, but also the birthday of the human race which was designed to replace the fallen angels in heaven:

Walking as Christ Walked—Those who walk even as Christ walked, who are patient, gentle, kind, meek and lowly in heart, those who yoke up with Christ and lift His burdens, who yearn for souls as He yearned for them—these will enter into the joy of their Lord. They will see with Christ the travail of His soul, and be satisfied. Heaven will triumph, for the vacancies made in heaven by the fall of Satan and his angels will be filled by the redeemed of the Lord (The Review and Herald, May 29, 1900). {7BC 949.2}

From now on and forever we will remember this day especially because it reminds us of our high calling and responsibility to complete the work that Jesus our Forerunner started.

Jerusalem, Jerusalem

We were once asked why we need all this knowledge of the exact days, and our answer was the following:

We published the article The End of the SDA Church in German on October 12, 2012. I received the dream on October 15 and 16, and we knew that even though the Spanish and the English translations of the article were not ready yet, it was not yet God's will to reveal to his former organization, the true deeper meaning of October 27.

The response to the article was mildly shocking to us, especially how comfortable the brethren were with the violation of the meaning of the Sabbath, and how they did not want to accept the fact that they had followed the orders of a Catholic pope, instead of seeing what Jesus had really put into this day. It was not enough for them that it was a HIGH SABBATH, a Day of Atonement moreover, where—as we saw above—anyone who does not humble his soul would be cut off from his people.

So it would not have made any sense to explain to them that it was also the birthday of Jesus as well as the human race. They would have thrown aside this awesome and sacred information too.

Jesus wept with sadness and despair as he gave me the dream. He gave me the dream on a Monday, the same day of the week that he wept over Jerusalem. It was the day after His triumphal entry into Jerusalem, and on this day the leaders of His people had sentenced Him to death. Thus His people had already decided not only His death on the cross, but also their own destruction, because His blood would soon come upon them and their children.

O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate: and verily I say unto you, Ye shall not see me, until the time come when ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. (Luke 13:34-35)

The Adventist Church did the same, tossing to the wind all the warnings and teachings that Jesus gave in recent years since 2010, and now they have begun to pursue those within the church who accept these teachings. What has happened in the weeks since October 2012 defies description and therefore we consider it best that we remain silent about it, as also our Savior did.

As 6 days after His last tears for Jerusalem Jesus rested in the grave, so we rested 6 days after the dream because of our sadness for the SDA church and our lost brothers and sisters. But on October 27 we were not without hope and comfort: We knew that it was Jesus' birthday and we celebrated with supper at sunset on October 26 in due form; and we knew that it was the day of the birth of the human race and we prepared once more for our high calling with prayer and fasting. And above all, we knew that there was yet one more birthday to celebrate: the birthday of the 144,000, for on that day of October 27, 2012 the SDA Church was indeed dead, and thus was terminated the Judgment of the Dead. But the true SDA church arose again as Philadelphia.

This was again one of those moments when the faces of our small tested community lit up with the marks of God's approbation, and it will remain unforgettable to us as another step in the direction of Canaan:

November 20, 1857, I was shown the people of God, and saw them mightily shaken. Some, with strong faith and agonizing cries, were pleading with God. Their countenances were pale, and marked with deep anxiety, expressive of their internal struggle. Firmness and great earnestness were expressed in their countenances, while large drops of perspiration fell from their foreheads. Now and then their faces would light up with the marks of God's approbation, and again the same solemn, earnest, anxious look would settle upon them. {1TT 59.1}

I want to end this article with a simple question: Do you now have the right "Christmas spirit"?

Miller's Mistake

Looking back at how William Miller calculated the date for the Second Coming in 1843, it seems almost incredible how after ten years of studying he missed the fact that there is no zero year between years B.C. and years A.D., and nobody else that followed his studies noticed the error either. In retrospect, we know why the error wasn't noticed:

I have seen that the 1843 chart was directed by the hand of the Lord, and that it should not be altered; that the figures were as He wanted them; that His hand was over and hid a mistake in some of the figures, so that none could see it, until His hand was removed. {EW 74.1}

God deliberately allowed the error. One effect caused by this was the sifting of those who were following the message out of fear that it might be true from those who were following out of sincerity of heart and would continue seeking the truth even despite disappointment and delay. I have heard statements like "I was ready to send this letter of condemnation sooner, but I wanted to wait to see if your prediction would happen first." Remarks like that very well capture the sentiments of the masses in Miller's day who rejected the message and went on to perdition.

Another reason why God allowed the error might be to give the warning more in advance. By an earlier calculation, the warning time—thus God's mercy—was extended. How many actually avail themselves of that extension of mercy is a matter for individual contemplation.

Some have been quick to point to the passing of 2012 and urge us to give up our blessed hope. To such ones, I can find no better expression than to cite the experiences of our pioneers:

...the world was glad, and said to us, "You see now what we told you—we were right. You thought you knew more than your neighbors. Now go and make your confession, and be reinstated in your former position." Though we could not see the meaning of our disappointed hopes, the response to our prayers was, God will justify his word, it will "not return to him void." And this word said, "Light is sown for the righteous," (Prov. 2:7,) [probably Ps. 97:11 was meant] and our minds were made up to wait for it. Our reply was, never! Go back to what? darkness, confusion, Babylon! No, no. We have experienced too much of the power and glory of God, to yield this "waymark in our pathway." If there is no other difference to be seen, one mark is sure; we have been honest, and you have not. {Second Advent Way Marks and High Heaps, BP2 57.1}

Those who waited for time to pass before condemning the message have shown their dishonesty in professing to look for the Second Advent. Secretly, they didn't believe and were restrained only by the superstitious thought that "maybe they're right." They did no study of their own, and had no foundation for conviction of any kind.

The honest, on the other hand, look beyond disappointments to the experience of walking in God's light. Every ray that brightens their path is a token of His tender-loving care toward them. The mere thought of returning to darkness is repulsive.

In this article, I will show you that the second Miller also made a mistake in the year, very much after the pattern of the first Miller.

How long shall it be?

Let us reflect upon Daniel 12 for a moment.

And one said to the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, How long shall it be to the end of these wonders? And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:6-7)

This passage has been thoroughly explained in the Orion study, wherein the symbolism is shown to encode a duration of 168 years for the Judgment of the Dead from October 22, 1844 to the autumn of 2012. The Judgment of the Living, on the other hand, is given in literal terms: "a time, times, and an half" or simply three and a half years. During these three and a half years, the cases of all living people must be decided for salvation or damnation. Figure 1 shows what our understanding was up to this point.

As we explained in the articles about the 1335, 1290, and 1260 days, the Judgment of the Living indeed began in the spring of 2012. It began invisibly, just as the Judgment of the Dead began invisibly in 1844. It began "at the house of God," and will continue until every case is decided. This three-and-a-half-year process must come to an end in the autumn of 2015, its close marked by Yom Kippur (the Day of Atonement) and High Sabbath which falls on October 24, 2015.

This is where the problem comes in. If cases are still being decided up until autumn 2015, is it really possible for the plagues to begin one year earlier in the autumn of 2014 as we understood heretofore?

The plagues come when Jesus stops His mediation and leaves the Most Holy Place, takes off His priestly garments, and puts on His kingly robe. At that time, intercession ceases and the pronouncement is made:

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

Once intercession ceases in the heavenly sanctuary it will be impossible for any more souls to be saved, but while Jesus still pleads His blood, every truly repenting sinner will be accepted. Therefore, it is impossible for the plagues to begin until the Judgment of the Living is finished, which means that the plagues cannot begin until the autumn of 2015. Since the plagues last a full year as shown in the Shadows of the Sacrifices articles, the Second Coming cannot be until autumn of 2016!

Fall Feasts Finally Fulfilled

That the plagues cannot begin until the Judgment is finished seems so obvious in retrospect that the only explanation for why no one saw it earlier is that God had His hand over it, just like He had His hand over William Miller's mistake of exactly one year.

However, we need to exercise due diligence by checking some things. Based on the logic of the pioneers, we expect Jesus to return on Yom Kippur. We already know that the plagues will last $365 + 7 = 372$ days. If we begin the count at the end of the Judgment of the Living on the Yom Kippur of October 24, 2015, will we really arrive at Yom Kippur in 2016? We have to check when the new moons will be, and thus when the feast days fall, according to the correct calendar as explained in the Gethsemane articles. The results for both possibilities (depending on the barley harvest) are shown in Figure 2.

As you can see, Yom Kippur falls on October 12 in 2016, which is only 353 days after the end of the Judgment of the Living. That is not enough time to allow for the year of plagues. What could be wrong? Remember that William Miller's mistake was in the year, and the second Miller's mistake is also in the year, and not in the day. We thought that Jesus would come on October 24, 2015, but we were off on the year. Take a look at the table above and see what day October 24 of 2016 falls on...yes it is Shemini Atzeret, also called The Last Great Day.

Yom Kippur is a type for the Investigative Judgment which began in 1844. It is a fitting day for God to have begun the Investigative Judgment, and a fitting day for God to end the Investigative Judgment, for all of the Jewish feasts must be fulfilled in their time.

Arguments drawn from the Old Testament types also pointed to the autumn as the time when the event represented by the "cleansing of the sanctuary" must take place. This was made very clear as attention was given to the manner in which the types relating to the first advent of Christ had been fulfilled. {GC 399.1}

When the Judgment of the Living (and thus the whole of the Investigative Judgment) is finished, Yom Kippur will have been completely fulfilled. After the Yom Kippur holy day, there is a little break of four days, after which is the week of Tabernacles, a type for the 3 x 40-year wilderness wandering of the Adventist Church from 1890 to 2010. Many mistakenly teach that the Feast of Tabernacles represents the millennium with Christ after the Second Coming, but the Bible is clear: The Feast of Tabernacles commemorates the sojourn in the desert after Israel's deliverance from Egypt, not their dwelling in houses after entering Canaan.

Ye shall dwell in booths seven days; all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths: That your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God. (Leviticus 23:42-43)

The Feast of Tabernacles could also be fittingly applied to the time of plagues when God's people will once again be driven into the wilderness to remain solely dependent upon Him, but certainly not during the millennium when the saints will dwell in the mansions of heavenly Canaan.

Immediately after the Feast of Tabernacles, yet connected to it, is the last and greatest day of the entire religious year: Shemini Atzeret. This is, after all, finally the type for the Second Coming, the great and terrible day of the Lord.

Jesus personally fulfilled the first annual Sabbath day—the First Day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread—when He rested in the tomb, and now He will personally fulfill the last great day of the sacred feasts.

I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last. (Revelation 22:13)

As the Alpha, He tasted death for every man, but as the Omega, He will call forth from death all the righteous dead of the ages.

For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord. (1 Thessalonians 4:16-17)

Then it will be sung:

O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? (1 Corinthians 15:55)

Thus every feast day will be fulfilled in its time. This is how the Holy Spirit leads us into all truth: little by little, with the harmony of our studies improving with each new understanding as the teaching of the Holy Spirit builds upon itself.

The Sealing Has Begun

In her first vision, Ellen White describes the time when God announced the day and the hour to the saints. In her portrayal of the events, the speaking of the time is connected with the sealing. More precisely, it is what leads to, or effects, the sealing of the 144,000. When we discovered that we had been off by a year in our understanding of the time, we realized that only now have we been sealed by the making known of the true time of the Second Coming. Why time is the essence of the sealing message is a whole subject in itself to be reserved for another article. Suffice it to say that the full significance of the time will be both eye-opening and humbling, and it exposes why the message on time is so vehemently resisted by anti-time-setters.

Thus began the process of sealing the 144,000 who know and understand the voice of God like many waters. Our group came to discover the one-year-off error on a Friday night as we opened the Sabbath, with this new understanding fully settling into our minds during the worship service the following day on Saturday, January 5. Later the next week, we noticed that another small group had a very blessed Sabbath on January 5 as well. They also experienced the Holy Spirit's presence, and learned the same truths we did about the sealing and the timing of the plagues in relation to the Judgment of the Living. This was not January 5 of 2013, but a different January 5.

The Sealing

At the commencement of the holy Sabbath, January 5, 1849, we engaged in prayer with Brother Belden's family at Rocky Hill, Connecticut, and the Holy Ghost fell upon us. I was taken off in vision to the most holy place, where I saw Jesus still interceding for Israel. On the bottom of His garment was a bell and a pomegranate. Then I saw that Jesus would not leave the most holy place until every case was decided either for salvation or destruction, and that the wrath of God could not come until Jesus had finished His work in the most holy place, laid off His priestly attire, and clothed Himself with the garments of vengeance. Then Jesus will step out from between the Father and man, and God will keep silence no longer, but pour out His wrath on those who have rejected His truth. {EW 36.1}

What a confirmation of our experience!

We originally thought that the time of plagues would begin on October 18, 2014, but again the year was off by one. With the correction, the time of plagues of 372 days would not begin until October 18 of 2015, still within the 2014 Orion year, but just after the last dying drops of mercy will have been shed upon the world.

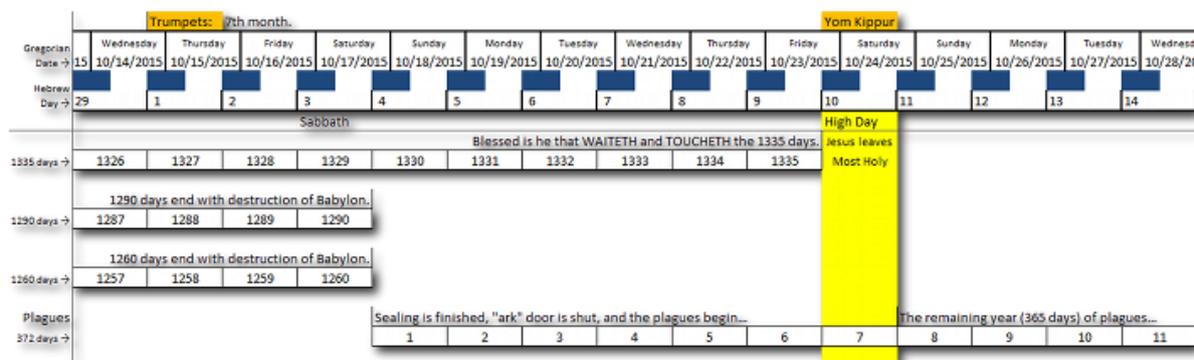

Figure 4 – Detail of the End of the Judgment and the Beginning of the Plagues

That first week corresponds to the “extra” seven days of provision which we thought would be the seven days waiting for the small black cloud to arrive. Those seven days would still end on the High Sabbath, which is now the first Sabbath within the time-frame of the 372 days. Nestled between that High Sabbath of October 24, 2015 and Shemini Atzeret of 2016 is exactly 365 days...the full year of plagues, at the end of which Jesus will come on October 24 as we have been teaching all along, but now in the year 2016.

So we were off one year. We were not off on the month or the day—just the year, just like William Miller. It is interesting to note that the two main charts we have for the Orion message and the Vessel of Time do not need any significant changes, again paralleling the fact that Miller's charts were not corrected. They were as God wanted them.

Now it becomes clear why no visible events have happened to confirm our studies yet. It is because we have been experiencing the events in the Heavenly Sanctuary, the three and a half years which end before the plagues. The corresponding events in the earth are offset by one year and will take their own three and a half years, ending at the end of the plagues at the second coming. That means the major visible events should begin this spring of 2013. We were a year early in our expectations! Take another look at the sequence of events from the article Is This Time Setting? and notice that we are just now getting into the row when the day and hour are spoken and the (little) time of trouble begins.

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming.		Suddenly, almost unexpectedly, we hear the voice of God "like many waters" which announces the day and the hour of Jesus' coming in the first vision. And, behold, the glory of the God [the throne of God] of Israel came from the way of the east [Orion]; and his voice was like a noise of many waters: and the earth shined with his glory. Eze 43:2
The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake.		Rev 14:2 And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps. The sealing scene of the 144,000 is connected with this verse of Rev. 14:2.
When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}	And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully.	This is now the most important point. "WHEN GOD SPOKE THE TIME, HE Poured UPON US THE HOLY GHOST" This is parallel with the second vision and marks the beginning of the time of trouble. There are two phases: The "little" time of trouble before the door of mercy is shut, and the "great" time of trouble after the door of mercy is shut; the time of the plagues. Only in the "little" time of trouble will the Sabbath be preached one very last time to call out the rest of the remnant still in Babylon. This is called: The Loud Cry (see second vision). The 144,000 will receive the Holy Spirit before the "little" time of trouble in order to finish the great commission with the "Loud Cry". And in the comparison of the two visions, we see that this is connected with a message that includes the "day and the hour" of Jesus' coming. The Loud Cry will start when the Sunday Law is declared in the U.S.
The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united.		The Loud Cry leads to the completion of the sealing of all the 144,000. They are perfectly united in one faith.
On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name.		They have just three thoughts: Faithfulness to Jesus (Sabbath), the New Jerusalem (the Second Coming) and the Orion message because it reveals Jesus' new name.
At our happy, holy state the wicked were enraged.	This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us.	Now during the Loud Cry (and this is pure Adventist doctrine) the wicked become angry, because the 144,000 will mightily call out the remnant. Therefore persecution starts.
	I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land.	At the same time we have natural disasters, famine, and pestilences on the earth.

It's a dirty job, but someone's gotta do it.

The entire purpose and plan of God for the 144,000 is to demonstrate to the heavenly court and the on-looking universe that the law of God can actually be kept by created beings, as fully explained in our article entitled Our High Calling. No other beings in the universe can do this work. During the year of plagues, the 144,000 must stand faithful against every imaginable temptation. During that time, the enemy of souls will need only one failure of one member at one moment to win his case. Of course human effort alone can avail nothing, but success is possible in cooperation with the divine will. Ellen White puts it this way:

The controversy was to wage between Christ and Satan throughout all time. The costly ransom that was provided reveals the value that God set upon man. Christ volunteered to become man's surety and substitute, and took upon himself the penalty of transgression, in order that a way might be provided whereby every son and daughter of Adam may, through faith in their Redeemer, cooperate with heavenly intelligences, and oppose the workings of Satan, and thus bring in everlasting righteousness. {ST October 8, 1894, par. 8}

Jesus paved the way for every child of Adam to participate in bringing in everlasting righteousness, but in the same paragraph she makes it clear that this participation is not optional, and not only for the redemption of one's self and of fellow human beings, but that it is necessary for the entire plan of salvation to be a success, including the silencing of Satan and the eradication of evil from the universe forever.

Unless man shall fully cooperate with Christ in the work of rescuing souls from evil, the plan of salvation can never be carried out. {ST October 8, 1894, par. 8}

These words have never been more applicable than they are to this final generation. If mere men will not rise to the occasion of their Lord and Savior, and the Father of all, the plan of salvation will not succeed. God has pawned Himself for us, and the consequences of our behavior will affect His very Person. The entire universe full of un-fallen beings depends upon God for sustenance, and will therefore share His fate even though they are also innocent. Did you notice that Shemini Atzeret does not fall on a weekly Sabbath in 2016? It is not a High Sabbath because the High Sabbaths will have to have already been fulfilled through the Loud Cry and the work of the 144,000 for Jesus to return at all.

Weak, degenerate human beings should clearly see their utter inadequacy for the task at hand, but by cooperation with heavenly agencies, they can succeed.

To the souls that have joined themselves to Him, Christ says, "You are one with Me, 'labourers together with God'" (1 Corinthians 3:9). God is the great and unperceived actor; man is the humble and seen agent, and it is only in cooperation with the heavenly agencies that he can do anything good. It is only as the mind is enlightened by the Holy Spirit that men discern the divine agency. And hence Satan is constantly seeking to divert minds from the divine to the human, that man may not cooperate with Heaven. {2SM 123.1}

Folks who read our articles and judge our message as a product of mere man do so because their mind is not enlightened by the Holy Spirit. The Spirit enables one to discern God as the "great and unperceived actor" behind these messages.

In the context of the 144,000, the oneness which Christ speaks of in the above quote is beautifully depicted in Revelation:

And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God. {Revelation 15:2}

This passage is nestled within the introduction of the seven last plagues (v. 1, 5-6), clearly showing that this scene depicts the 144,000 during the year of plagues. They do not (as some think) literally stand on the sea of glass in heaven any more than they play literal harps. Rather, this symbolic imagery shows that as any person “stands” on the Word of God, these “stand” on the voice of God coming from Orion, or the Orion message, which is represented by the beautiful imagery of the transparent Orion nebula mingled with fiery orbs—the sea of glass. Their playing of harps symbolizes their understanding of the mysteries of God as revealed in these last days. Their hearts and allegiance is to heaven, though they still walk among the temptations of this earth during the year of plagues.

Standing true during “a time of trouble such as never was” might seem too hard, but the all-important question is not “Am I able.” It is: “Am I willing?” Do I actually love God enough to be willing to stand up for His rule no matter the cost? Are there really enough people in the world today who are willing to count every earthly thing as being worth dung, and can dismiss every earthly suffering as being of no offense compared to disappointing the God who so loved them that He put His infinite life on the line for them? God ransomed humanity not only with His son, but with His own Being and the whole wealth of the universe.

For our redemption, heaven itself was imperiled. {COL 196.4}

The salvation of man is accomplished at an infinite expense to Heaven; {GC88 489.1}

The costly ransom that was provided reveals the value that God set upon man. {ST October 8, 1894, par. 8}

Your value in the eyes of God is such that He chose to lose everything including Himself and all of His infinite potential in order to restore your ability to make the free-will choice to return His love.

I implore you, dear reader, to begin today to count the cost and buy gold tried in the fire. God pawned Himself—and by consequence, the whole universe—to redeem you. You can do what He cannot do, to vindicate His law. We, who want to live with Him for eternity, need you, for if the plan of salvation fails, we will all cease to exist. The un-fallen angels who have enjoyed the vast riches of His universe for untold eons need you, because they will lose everything too if sin is not stopped once and for all. But above all, God the Father Himself needs you, because without your selfless service at this critical time, His final recourse will be to pay the debt of immortalized sin with His very existence.

Such responsibility the Father of all would shoulder.

Seven Steps to Eternity

Written by Robert Dickinson

Published: Wednesday, February 13, 2013, 2:25 pm

Created: Wednesday, February 13, 2013, 2:25 pm

In the article entitled Christmas 2.0, John showed how Orion confirms the exact birthdate of Jesus Christ and the very date and time that God breathed the breath of life into the nostrils of Adam on the eve of the first Sabbath. In the article that followed it, Miller's Mistake, I explained how the classic one-year error of William Miller found its counterpart in our experience, and the finally-correct date appointed for Christ's return was unveiled. Those two articles set forth the beginning and end dates of human history.

In this article, I will show how The Clock of God in Orion—the Book of Seven Seals—applies to the entire span of history just like Ellen White said in a passage we will look at momentarily. I will also show how the greatest gem in the first Miller's "casket" shines ten times brighter in the light of Orion. Without further ado, let's consider this mind-boggling quote of Sister White:

We ask John what he saw and heard in the vision at Patmos, and he answers: "And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon."

There in His open hand lay the book, the roll of the history of God's providences, the prophetic history of nations and the church. Herein was contained the divine utterances, His authority, His commandments, His laws, the whole symbolic counsel of the Eternal, and the history of all ruling powers in the nations. In symbolic language was contained in that roll the influence of every nation, tongue, and people from the beginning of earth's history to its close. {2OMR 197.1-2}

Wow. That's a lot of information to be packed into the book! We know that the Orion Clock reaches to the end of history, but can it be that it also reaches back to the beginning of history, not just in giving us the date of creation but even in telling the history of nations from that time to ours?

The White Horse

The opening of the first seal of the book corresponds to the white horse:

And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see. And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer. (Revelation 6:1-2)

It is common knowledge that the white horse represents the pure gospel, and its going forth to conquer represents the spreading of the same as it "conquers" the hearts of men and women who hear it. The riding forth of the pure gospel is rightly interpreted to have begun with Christ, and there are many studies that do an excellent job of explaining how the first six seals met their fulfillment in the Christian era. We call this the "classical" interpretation of the seals. (One such study can be found in Lessons 30-38 in the section titled If I Were Told the Future at Cyberspace Ministry.) This level of understanding has existed since the time of Miller and corresponds to the writing on the outside (or backside) of the book of seven seals. The visible signs of the Great Lisbon Earthquake, the Dark Day, and the Falling Stars (of 1833), which correspond exactly to the sixth seal, woke up the world to the impending judgment and completed the interpretation of the first six seals.

And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. (Revelation 6:12-13)

However, just as the marches of Jericho for six days were all repeated on the seventh day, so the first six (classical) seals are followed by their repetition during the judgment period from 1844 to the end (see History Repeats for the full study). These repeated seals are the subject of the Orion study, and represent the whole cycle from the going forth of the white horse to the close of time. From the Orion study, we know that the white horse began to ride again in the year 1846 when the gospel was restored to purity through the truth of the seventh-day (Saturday) Sabbath.

(Annotation from August 2016: For more information regarding the fulfillment of the classical sixth seal, please see the addendum to History Repeats II. The fulfillment of the repeated sixth seal is explained in the addendum to Signs of the End and slides 101-114 of the Orion Presentation.)

Let's take it one step further. The end of the clock round is marked by the same white-horse star. The cycle begins with the white horse, and ends with the white horse. When the 168-year clock cycle ends in the 2014-2015 Orion year to usher in the plagues, the formation of another pure white gospel will be complete: the 144,000. Just like with the birth of Jesus, by the time the great clock points to that hour, all of the 144,000 will have been born-again into the image of Christ.

There was another point in history when the white horse of the pure gospel rode forth. God created Adam perfectly, without sin. He was pure and clean. The gospel message went forth after the fall, preached by first-hand witnesses who had actually seen and touched the Lord in Eden. The first lessons of the sacrificial system were taught when animals had to be slain to clothe the naked couple, and the gospel promise of that fateful day still exists in the sacred record:

And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel. (Genesis 3:15)

Thus we see that the book of seven seals, which begins with the white horse, applies to three periods delineated by the following events:

- The Creation of Adam (4037 B.C.)
- The Birth of Jesus (5 B.C.)
- The Sabbath-Keepers with the 3rd Angel's Message (1846 A.D.)
- The 144,000 (2015 A.D.)

The three periods between those four dates correspond to the ministries of the three members of the Godhead. The period from the creation of Adam to the birth of Jesus represents the work of the Father. Jesus the Son began His phase at His birth up until He moved into the Most Holy Place. The Holy Spirit began His special work of sanctifying God's people through the Investigative Judgment, which will continue until the intercession of Jesus ceases in the autumn of 2015.

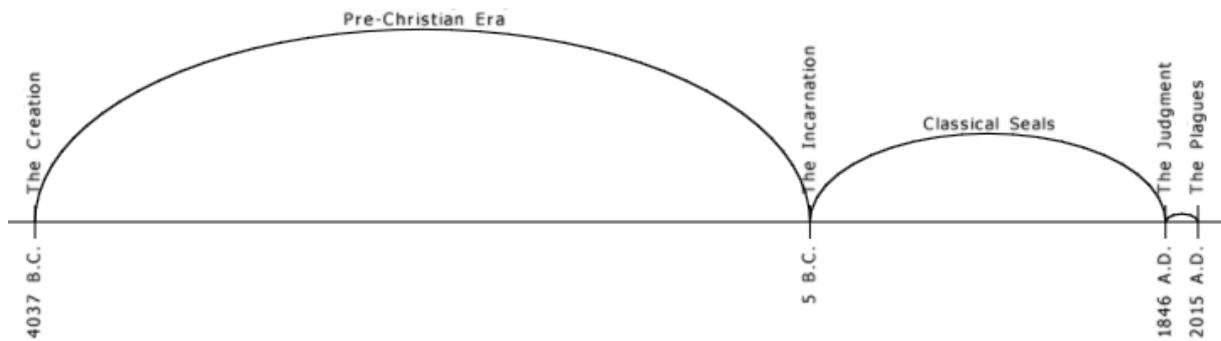

Figure 1 – Three Dispensations (corresponding to the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, respectively)

When viewing the dispensations of each member of the Godhead to-scale on a timeline, it becomes immediately clear that each successive era is shorter than the one before it. This does not imply less activity, but rather testifies to the increasing rate of human activity and knowledge growth. The rate of change experienced by ancient peoples was far less than today. The modes of transportation employed during each era are commonly used to show the drastic acceleration of knowledge within the last hundred and fifty years or so. Travel by foot, by animal, or by an animal-drawn vehicle of some sort was the mode in use for all of ancient history. Within the short span of the “judgment hour” transportation advanced to the point where man can travel around the globe in a matter of hours. More amazing than that is the phenomenal increase in Bible understanding in recent years. The incredible amount of light that is shining from the Bible today glares in stark contrast to bygone times when a single newly-discovered Bible truth was enough to justify the creation of a whole new church denomination! It sure seems like time is running faster, doesn't it—just like we have been told:

The agencies of evil are combining their forces and consolidating. They are strengthening for the last great crisis. Great changes are soon to take place in our world, and the final movements will be rapid ones. {9T 11.2}

A Three-Volume Set

Everyone who understands the Orion clock knows that it is the judgment clock. It spans the Judgment Hour, the 11th hour of the last great two-thousand-year era and is represented symbolically in the throne room scenes of Daniel and Revelation. It is the hidden writing on the inside of the Book of Seven Seals. Moving our attention back to the preceding 11 hours from the birth of Jesus to the Judgment, we see the classical interpretation of the seven seals. Moving our attention back even further to the great four-thousand-year era before Christ, and considering Ellen White's fascinating statement that the Revelator's book of seven seals contains the history of nations from the beginning of time (and much more), one should ask if the Voice of God coming from Orion has yet more to say. Let's find out!

The Book of Seven Seals is also called a roll (Zech. 5). You can imagine rolling up a large chart, like the Orion chart, so that the chart would be hidden on the inside of the roll. The writing on the outside would still be readable, but the inside would not be. Now imagine looking through one end of the roll and out the other end like a telescope, as children often like to do. If you were to point this “telescope” roll at Orion, then you would see a circle containing the stars of the Orion constellation, much like the Orion clock we are so accustomed to looking at.

While we are looking through our imaginary telescope, do you think we might be able to catch a glimpse of the open space in Orion? For that matter, what actually IS the opening of Orion? One of our advent pioneers, Joseph Bates, wrote a worthy essay called The Opening Heavens which is actually very appropriate to our present time. In it, he shows that the coming down of the New Jerusalem out of heaven is a literal event, and he describes the Orion nebula as the vast open hall in the heavens through which it will descend. He is definitely right, but there is more to be understood.

First, notice that the heavens are compared to a roll or scroll in the Bible, similarly to our rolled-up imaginary telescope:

And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; (Revelation 6:14)

And all the host of heaven shall be dissolved, and the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll: (Isaiah 34:4)

As history experiences the transition from one heavenly period to the next, we see that the heavens are opened in a special way. When Jesus began His dispensation, for example, the heavens were opened as follows:

Now when all the people were baptized, it came to pass, that Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened, And the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased. (Luke 3:21-22)

When the Jews had fully rejected Jesus and stubbornly refused to repent, the door of grace for them as a nation closed and the gospel went to the Gentiles. This change was accompanied by the opening of the heavens:

But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, And said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God. (Acts 7:55-56)

When the heavens opened, history not only turned a page, but started another volume of the Book of Seven Seals.

When the Investigative Judgment began in the heavenly sanctuary in 1844, the heavens were opened again. On that very Day of Atonement, Hiram Edson had a vision wherein he saw Jesus entering the Most Holy Place in the heavenly sanctuary:

Heaven seemed opened to my view, and I saw distinctly and clearly that instead of our High Priest coming out of the Most Holy of the heavenly sanctuary to come to this earth on the tenth day of the seventh month, at the end of the 2300 days, He for the first time entered on that day the second apartment of that sanctuary; and that He had a work to perform in the Most Holy Place before coming to the earth. (F. D. Nichol. The Midnight Cry. p. 458. as quoted by Wikipedia)

A couple of years later, Joseph Bates published the work mentioned earlier. It was published in the year 1846, exactly the year of the first seal of the Orion clock.

Is it any surprise that the heavens are opened again today to the minds of those who are under the influence of the Holy Spirit, as the intercession of Jesus in the heavenly sanctuary nears its end? The last message of warning to the world before the literal second coming is introduced as follows:

Now it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I was among the captives by the river of Chebar, that the heavens were opened, and I saw visions of God. (Ezekiel 1:1)

Ezekiel begins his testimony by declaring that the heavens were opened to him. It is this very chapter where we find the vision of the Orion clock with its “wheels.”

Let’s unroll our Orion “scroll” and see what it says, shall we?

In order to see how the clock hands point to historical dates, we can put the clock up against the timeline of history, carefully making sure to align the tick marks of the clock to the year marks on the timeline. Then, we can “unroll” the clock, so that we can see how the whole clock aligns with the timeline all at once:

As we unroll the clock, notice that the center star, Alnitak, is stretched across the entire span of time. Alnitak is the star of Jesus, and this shows once again that Alnitak, the wounded one, was the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. This is why His new name is written on the foreheads of the saints:

Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name. (Revelation 3:12)

Of this new name, Ellen White says:

The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. {EW 15.1}

These short lines are loaded with meaning. Notice that this new name is on their foreheads, and that it is mentioned in connection with the sealing, and that there are three things written on the foreheads of the saints. Just ask any Adventist to explain the seal of God, and they will be quick to explain that it is like the seal of every king, president or leader. It contains (1) their name, (2) their territory, and (3) their office. They will tell you that God's seal is in the Fourth Commandment and contains (1) the name of God, (2) all heaven and earth as His territory, and (3) His office as Creator. Unfortunately, they will be stumped if you ask them to explain the seal in Revelation 3:12 unless they understand the full depth of the Orion message.

This article has shown that the book of seven seals is a three-volume set. We could entitle the volumes something like the following:

- Vol. 1 – Creation to Christ
- Vol. 2 – Christ to Judgment
- Vol. 3 – Judgment to Justice

The contents of the volumes are the unfolding of history, as highlighted by the wounds of Jesus as shown in Orion. We already know the contents of volumes 2 and 3 from Christian and Adventist history books, respectively, and how the seven seals delineate the various periods. Let's venture a peek into volume 1, shall we?

The Great Clock Cycle

As biblical, historical and archaeological scholarship reaches a higher and higher level of excellence, the biblical account of history is confirmed more and more. Utilizing genealogical and other time information contained in the book of Genesis alone, it is possible to form a chronological account of sacred history from Creation to the death of Joseph in ancient Egypt. Adding chronological information from other various books of the Old Testament brings the chronology to the Exodus and the crossing of Jordan. After that comes the time of the judges, the reigns of the kings, the period of captivity, the rebuilding of Jerusalem, and finally the crucifixion. Secular history confirms a good portion of sacred history, reaching as far back as the kings and in some cases even further back than that.

However, anyone who begins to study Bible chronology immediately recognizes that there are difficulties. There are two important chronologies, a long and a short, which are in use. As the expression of the voice of God, the Orion clock is of special value in establishing the exact biblical chronology. We've already seen how it gave the date of Creation and the Birth of Christ, but there is a lot more to learn from the clock. One would expect that the clock would confirm important dates like the year of the Flood, the Exodus, and other very important biblical years.

Indeed, it does:

The judgment clock, with its 24 "hours" of 7 years each, has a resolution of one year. One whole clock cycle spans 168 years. When the Orion "wheel" is unrolled across the much larger period of time from Creation to Christ, the resolution is 24 years. Whereas one "tick" on the judgment clock indicates a year, on the big clock one "tick" indicates 24 years.

By definition, the clock is aligned so that the "tick mark" of the first star corresponds to 4037 B.C. when God created the first Adam as explained in Christmas 2.0 and one full cycle of the clock runs until the birth of the second Adam, Jesus Christ, in 5 B.C. The start and end of the complete cycle are both represented by the White Horse.

Adam was created perfect, but fell away from perfection into sin. God taught him the pure Gospel from the outset, how that God would provide a Substitute to die in his stead. As the years went by, the sin introduced into the world by Adam snowballed into ever increasing trouble, beginning with the shedding of the blood of Abel and spreading until the thoughts of men's hearts were only evil continually.

Notice where the second star points! It is visually obvious that it points to the flood, but there is even more that we can learn if we examine it closely. Remember that the clock pointers have a resolution. In fact, the flood is exactly at the end of the “clock tick” indicated by the star. The destruction of the world by water serves as an example for the destruction of the world by plagues and ultimately fire. The flood happening at the very end of the clock tick is a testament to God’s forbearance. It is a confirmation that the plagues indicated by the 2014–2015 Orion year will indeed happen at the very end of that “clock tick” as well, in the autumn of 2015 as we explained in Miller's Mistake.

Noah’s Flood marks the greatest physical change in the history of our planet since creation. World demographics changed very drastically and suddenly when the flood came. The untold number of inhabitants of the antediluvian world all perished at once, save the eight souls of Noah and his family. If the color red of the red horse of the apocalypse represents the slaying of man, there couldn’t have been a more-red day than that. As we face the flood’s antitype just ahead, let us not repeat their mistakes.

Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord GOD: and not that he should return from his ways, and live? Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel? (Ezekiel 18:23, 33:11)

The biggest reason that the people of the earth did not heed the warnings of Noah was that they thought God would be too “loving” to destroy the whole world. This is a sober reminder for the members of a vast number of today’s churches, where “love” is the only acceptable topic for the pulpit and any mention of the coming destruction is branded as fear-mongering, scare tactics, or alarmism:

The men of that generation were not all, in the fullest acceptance of the term, idolaters. Many professed to be worshipers of God. They claimed that their idols were representations of the Deity, and that through them the people could obtain a clearer conception of the divine Being. This class were foremost in rejecting the preaching of Noah. As they endeavored to represent God by material objects, their minds were blinded to His majesty and power; they ceased to realize the holiness of His character, or the sacred, unchanging nature of His requirements. As sin became general, it appeared less and less sinful, and they finally declared that the divine law was no longer in force; that it was contrary to the character of God to punish transgression; and they denied that His judgments were to be visited upon the earth. Had the men of that generation obeyed the divine law, they would have recognized the voice of God in the warning of His servant; but their minds had become so blinded by rejection of light that they really believed Noah's message to be a delusion.

It was not multitudes or majorities that were on the side of right. The world was arrayed against God's justice and His laws, and Noah was regarded as a fanatic. Satan, when tempting Eve to disobey God, said to her, "Ye shall not surely die." Genesis 3:4. Great men, worldly, honored, and wise men, repeated the same. "The threatenings of God," they said, "are for the purpose of intimidating, and will never be verified. You need not be alarmed. Such an event as the destruction of the world by the God who made it, and the punishment of the beings He has created, will never take place. Be at peace; fear not. Noah is a wild fanatic." The world made merry at the folly of the deluded old man. Instead of humbling the heart before God, they continued their disobedience and wickedness, the same as though God had not spoken to them through His servant. {PP 95.3-96.1}

Jacob's Ladder and the Joyless Jubilee

The next star might not be quite as obvious as the flood but it still confirms biblical history, and at the same time biblical history confirms the clock through this star. After the flood, the weakened race continued to degrade. God made special promises to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, even though each one of them demonstrated increasing tendencies to lying and deception. At the lowest possible point, Jacob found himself destitute, alone and separated from his family, as he laid his head on a stone at night while running away from the promised retaliation of his brother. The child of promise had fled, and the pioneers of truth seemed all but dead. This aptly marks the period of the black horse of the third seal.

It was at this point that God appeared to Jacob and promised him that He would bring him back home once again. It was here that Jacob saw a ladder (like the HSL) to heaven, and he saw heaven open (Orion) and named the place Bethel, because it was there that he had seen "the House of God." Jacob knew where heaven was and where God was. Those who study Orion can know where He is too. The belt stars are still sometimes called "Jacob's Ladder" to this day in memory of his vision. Thus began not only his sojourn in a strange land and service to an oppressive uncle, but the beginning of a new nation of people who would be called God's chosen. True to His promise, God did bring Jacob back safely to his homeland after his own personal "40-year wandering" experience.

During the period of the black horse, the children of Israel (Jacob) descended into Egypt and multiplied there. God kept the promise that He made to Abraham and delivered them from Egypt exactly 430 years from when he departed out of Haran at the age of 75. Figuring in the 40 years of wandering in the wilderness brings us to the entering of Canaan. Both the Exodus and the entering of Canaan are within one "clock tick" of the throne lines and thus the Orion clock once again confirms sacred history. These dates, especially the entering of Canaan, establish the Jubilee cycle among other things. This is a subject of great interest for many, and I am pleased to share our findings on the matter although it might come as a mixed surprise.

Counting to the 70th Jubilee from the Orion-confirmed entering of Canaan brings us to the year 1890. Yes, this once again shows that it was God's plan for Jesus to return in 1890. This harmonizes with all of our studies, but for those expecting the Jubilee in the near future it is a painful reminder of 1888 and the fact that the stubbornness of men's hearts can actually prevent the fulfillment of prophecy. God cannot and will not save a person or a people against their will, and the good He promises can only be accomplished with willing cooperation. Oh! Might it be true that we have learned our lessons from the past! The children of Israel couldn't enter Canaan just any time they wanted; it had to be according to God's time, yet it had to be with cooperation on their part. Our first opportunity was tragically missed in 1890, now confirmed by the Jubilee clock. Now is the time to prepare for our only second chance in 2016. The typical 70th Jubilee has already passed, and the time for the great antitypical Jubilee in heaven has come. Have you made your decision to fearlessly conquer the “inhabitants of the land” (the sin in your life) in the strength of the Lord by serving Him 100% come what may?

*And if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD. (Joshua 24:15)

(It is really an individual matter; you might not be able to serve God with your whole house like Joshua did.) The dividing of the land among the tribes by Joshua is followed by the history of the judges of Israel. Eventually the children of Israel became so worldly that they wanted a king to rule over them “like all the nations”. Thus began the history of the kings of Israel and Judah, which takes us the rest of the degrading way “downward” through this era.

Ten Times Brighter

The “tick mark” of the fourth star, corresponding to the fourth seal and the pale horse, points to the exact year of 677 B.C.

For those who do not immediately recognize the importance of that year, allow me to introduce you to the largest gem in William Miller’s casket of jewels. It is the longest-running time prophecy in the Bible. It is not the 2300-day prophecy of Daniel that is so well-known among Adventists. That is neither the longest time prophecy in the Bible nor the only time prophecy that terminates in 1844.

The “seven times” in Leviticus 26 (see appendix) represents more than just an increase in the intensity of God’s discipline upon Israel. William Miller recognized that it is a prophetic period of 7 prophetic years or $7 \times 360 = 2520$ prophetic days, similarly to how “a time, times, and a half” are interpreted as $3\frac{1}{2}$ prophetic years or 1260 prophetic days. Miller recognized that the 2520 prophecy, along with other prophecies, converged in the year 1843, corrected to 1844. As he lectured on these things in the wake of the sixth-seal meteor shower of 1833, many hearts were moved and turned toward God in the light of the overwhelming evidence. I will give Miller himself the honor of explaining the beginning of these seven prophetic years:

These seven years of servitude must include these four kingdoms, Babylon or Nebuchadnezzar’s, which was the head of gold; Media and Persia, Grecia and Rome, which constituted the whole man of sin, from his head to his toes.

When, then, may we not ask, did the bondage of the children of God begin? I answer, when literal Babylon began to exercise authority over them. In the twenty-second year of Manasseh’s reign, in the year before Christ 677, the last of the ten tribes were carried away, and Israel ceased to be a nation, according to the prophecy of Isaiah, vii.8: “For the head of Syria is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin: and within three-score and five years shall Ephraim be broken, that it be not a people.” Isaiah prophesied this in the year 742 before Christ, which prophecy was literally fulfilled in sixty-five years afterwards, in the year B. C. 677. Then, too, Manasseh king of Judah was carried a captive into Babylon, and the threatenings of God began upon his people. 2Kings xxi.10–14: “And the Lord spake by his servants the prophets, saying, because Manasseh, king of Judah, hath done these abominations, and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did, which were before him, and hath made Judah also to sin with his idols: therefore, thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I am bringing such evil upon Jerusalem and Judah, that whosoever heareth of it, both his ears shall tingle. And I will stretch over Jerusalem the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab: and I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it, and turning it upside down. And I will forsake the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies; and they shall become a prey and a spoil to all their enemies.” Also, xxiv.3,4: “Surely at the commandment of the Lord came this upon Judah, to remove them out of his sight, for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he did; and also for the innocent blood that he shed, (for he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood,) which the Lord would not pardon.” {William Miller, A Lecture on the Typical Sabbaths and Great Jubilee, LTSGJ 16.1–18.1}

I was careful to quote not only Miller’s technical statements, but also the fury of God upon a people so favored. The patience of God has a limit. God forsook the remnant of His people back then to remove them out of His sight, and Jesus has similarly promised that He will spew out the “remnant” that proudly call themselves Laodicea today. The wrath of God is no laughing matter, folks.

A plummet (or plumb bob) is a pointed weight on the end of a string. It is used in construction to ensure that a dimension of the structure is truly “plumb” or vertical. There are exactly three verses in the Bible that mention a plummet. Miller quoted the first occurrence above. The second is as follows:

Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation: he that believeth shall not make haste. Judgment also will I lay to the line, and righteousness to the plummet: and the hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters shall overflow the hiding place. (Isaiah 28:16–17)

These verses lie in the middle of a rebuke to the “drunkards of Ephraim” (the leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist Church) who were given the latter rain in the Orion message but refused it:

To whom he said, This is the rest wherewith ye may cause the weary to rest; and this is the refreshing: yet they would not hear. (Isaiah 28:12)

The third reference to a plummet again has to do with the laying of a foundation:

The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house; his hands shall also finish it; and thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you. For who hath despised the day of small things? for they shall rejoice, and shall see the plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel with those seven; they are the eyes of the LORD, which run to and fro through the whole earth. (Zechariah 4:9–10)

We know that the foundational corner stone is Jesus Christ, the man who still stands in Orion pleading the blood that flowed from His wounds. His star, Alnitak, is at the center of “those seven” of Orion, which are the “eyes” of Ezekiel’s wheels in the heavenly clock. They continuously run their circuit in the heavens and are visible through the whole earth.

The stars of Orion point like a plummet to the historical events that establish the “sure foundation” of our faith, and the fourth outer star of the clock is no exception in pointing to 677 B.C.

I cannot leave this subject without a word about Jeff Pippenger, who is a well-known proponent of the 2520 prophecy. I met him in person a number of years ago at one of his meetings and asked him a few questions, but I would not expect him to remember me. His answer to one of my questions revealed that he is strictly against time-setting, and he is also reported to assert that belief in the 2520 prophecy is a salvation issue. John has already thoroughly dealt with the time-setting issue in the Day and Hour articles, but I’d like to add my two cents to the following quote as well, since it relates to the topic:

The preaching of a definite time for the judgment, in the giving of the first message, was ordered by God. The computation of the prophetic periods on which that message was based, placing the close of the 2300 days in the autumn of 1844, stands without impeachment. The repeated efforts to find new dates for the beginning and close of the prophetic periods, and the unsound reasoning necessary to sustain these positions, not only lead minds away from the present truth, but throw contempt upon all efforts to explain the prophecies. The more frequently a definite time is set for the second advent, and the more widely it is taught, the better it suits the purposes of Satan. After the time has passed, he excites ridicule and contempt of its advocates, and thus casts reproach upon the great advent movement of 1843 and 1844. Those who persist in this error will at last fix upon a date too far in the future for the coming of Christ. Thus they will be led to rest in a false security, and many will not be undeceived until it is too late. {CC 457.1}

Miller's preaching was ordered by God—the stars of Orion were also “ordered” by God. The computation of the prophetic periods (plural, including the 2520) stands without impeachment—so does the Orion clock.

The remainder of the paragraph is directed to those who rejected the un-impeached computations that were ordered by God. THEY lead minds away from the present truth. THEY throw contempt upon all efforts to explain the prophecies. THEIR contemptible time-setting attempts cast reproach upon the great advent movement. If THEY persist, THEY will fix upon a date too far in the future.

By contrast, the Orion clock is not mere time-setting of man's devising. It was ordered by God; it stands without impeachment, and it honors the great advent movement by illuminating its jewels ten times brighter and adding manifold to their grandeur and number.

Now consider this quote which is associated with the 2520 prophecy:

...If ye will not believe, surely ye shall not be established. (from Isaiah 7:9)

My final remark to Jeff Pippenger and his followers, who make the 2520 out to be a salvation issue, is to turn this verse back to them. If YE will not believe the Orion message, YE shall not be established. Brother Jeff, my personal experience with your seminars and videos is that you swim in a prophetic swamp of abstractness and indefiniteness because you don't see that the ban on time-setting has been lifted. In my opinion, you are like a man who knows that he has an appointment with the president, but neither carries a watch to see what time it currently is, nor makes any effort to know when he is expected!

Other proponents of the 2520 who are more liberal and willing to set time do so without any understanding. They are like children who are delighted to own their first watch, but they don't know how to set it. It is just a toy for them—something to entertain themselves with. Anyone who would participate in the second Midnight Cry should study our article that explains what God means when he says Thou Must Prophecy Again...

To conclude the fourth seal, note that the pale horse whose rider is Death is a perfect representation of a nation that had become so worldly that it was even more worldly than the world itself. It was no longer a peculiar people. Its leaders were like corpses bobbling atop a dying horse. The people were eventually all carried away captive, Jerusalem was destroyed, and the temple of Solomon was burned down.

Secular history agrees with the year 677, the remaining years of the kings, the 70-year captivity, the 80 years spanning the decree of Cyrus and the decree of Artaxerxes, and finally the 70 weeks of Daniel to the Crucifixion.

The Authority of the Word of God

The great cycle of the Orion clock confirms the dates from Canaan back to Creation and from the captivity of Manasseh forward to the birth of Christ. Let's take a brief look at the 865 years between Canaan and the captivity of Manasseh. At first, the following verse seems to be extremely helpful:

And it came to pass in the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, in the month Zif, which is the second month, that he began to build the house of the LORD. (1 Kings 6:1)

Taking 480 away from the 865 leaves 385 years for most of Solomon's reign as well as the kings up to Manasseh's captivity. It might not be immediately obvious, but in fact there is no way that the reigns of the kings can be stretched over that many years with any harmonious result. On the other side, Paul's testimony is interesting:

And after that he gave unto them judges about the space of four hundred and fifty years, until Samuel the prophet. And afterward they desired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years. (Acts 13:20-21)

Taking 450 away from the 480 of 1 Kings 6:1 leaves only 30, and we have subtracted neither the 40-year wilderness wandering, nor the 40-year reign of Saul, nor the 40-year reign of David, nor some other smaller time periods! Should we believe Acts 13, or 1 Kings 6:1?

Do you see what is happening? On one side of the temple foundation date there are not enough years, but on the other side there are too many years. The logical conclusion is that the 480 years of 1 Kings 6:1 stands in error. While our own Bible commentary strongly affirms the validity of this text, other commentaries take exception to it for many good reasons. We must tread very carefully if we venture to challenge God's word.

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: (2 Timothy 3:16)

Is it possible that God would allow an error in His written word? We know that He used human instruments to record, propagate, and translate His word over the millennia. We also know that there are some minor errors like misplaced punctuation marks and such. This does not shake our faith in the inspired word because we can easily compare other Bible verses to resolve any questions, but why would God allow such a glaring error as these 480 years in His inspired word? Perhaps there is an important lesson in this.

God's word is the only voice that carries enough authority to interpret and correct itself. The voice of God from Orion is as authoritative as the written word. It is a foundation more solid than the 480 years that Solomon's temple is built on. It clearly confirms the captivity of Manasseh in 677 B.C., and clearly confirms the timeline from Canaan back to Creation. Thus it tells us that the 480 years from the Exodus to the temple foundation are definitely erroneous, and that Paul's summary of the durations of the judges gives a more accurate calculation indeed.

Settling an age-old problem of biblical chronology satisfies more than the curiosity of Bible-history enthusiasts. It shows that the Orion message is as reliable as the same Jesus who stands there interceding for you and me. Let's continue where we left off in the opening quote of Sister White:

This roll was written within and without. John says: "I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon." The vision as presented to John made its impression upon his mind. The destiny of every nation was contained in that book. John was distressed at the utter inability of any human being or angelic intelligence to read the words, or even to look thereon. His soul was wrought up to such a point of agony and suspense that one of the strong angels had compassion on him, and laying his hand on him assuringly said, “Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.”

John continues: “I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth. And He came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.” As the book was unrolled, all who looked upon it were filled with awe. There were no blanks in the book. There was space for no more writing. [Revelation 5:8-14; 6:8, quoted.] {ZOMR 197.3-4}

The Orion clock contains every man’s destiny. The time shown in the clock bridges the chasm of sin between Eden and the New Jerusalem, and provides a foundation that will establish us against the most violent storms mankind has ever known.

Are you facing storms in your life today? Turn your eyes toward Orion and let Alnitak (Jesus), the wounded one, be the center of your affection!

As you make your personal journey around the clock, let His lovely character traits make their impression upon your heart.

“And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: and they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, Holy and true, doest Thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them [They were pronounced pure and holy]; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled” [Revelation 6:9-11]. Here were scenes presented to John that were not in reality but that which would be in a period of time in the future. {ZOMR 197.5}

Friends, the fifth seal is repeating. It will cost a lot to be “pronounced pure and holy” no matter how you calculate it, but I plead with you for the sake of the One who spilled His blood for you, that you will be faithful to Him at any cost. As John the Revelator was “assuringly” comforted by the fact that the book had been opened, we too may be comforted by the now-open book that answers the anguished cry of “how long” we must bear the storm.

You should know that this closing article for the “The Clock of God” section was written and published per divine instruction. God specified the release date through the living Spirit of Prophecy. As human instruments, we are not immune to errors as you well know, but we do know how to listen and obey when God tells us to deliver spiritual food to His people at the right time.

God chose our location here in Paraguay in the southern hemisphere before any of us ever knew there would be such a thing as the Orion message. He is the One who leads and directs us. While you see real, tangible, visible events unfold in fulfillment of prophecy this year, I advise you to take seriously the messages that come to you from the “chambers of the south.”

Appendix A: The 2520 Prophecy

In his preaching, William Miller showed that several great prophetic periods were all coming to a close in 1843 (corrected to 1844). The longest of those prophetic periods was computed to be 2520 prophetic days or 2520 literal years, based upon the "seven times" curse in Leviticus 26 (below). Miller showed from other Bible texts that the carrying-away of Manasseh marked the beginning of the curse, and thus the beginning of this great prophetic period. From historical research, Miller determined that Manasseh was taken captive in 677 B.C. (He repented, and was restored and continued to reign after that, but the curse had already gone into effect.) Miller's computations (see photo of his chart) were as follows:

$$7 \text{ times or years} \times 12 \text{ months/year} = 84 \text{ months}; 84 \text{ months} \times 30 \text{ days/month} = 2520 \text{ days}$$

Correcting Miller's classic error by taking into consideration that there is no zero year between 1 B.C. and 1 A.D., the result becomes 1844 instead of 1843.

Leviticus 26:

[\[Review of the Law\]](#)

1 Ye shall make you no idols nor graven image, neither rear you up a standing image, neither shall ye set up any image of stone in your land, to bow down unto it: for I am the LORD your God.

2 Ye shall keep my sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary: I am the LORD.

[\[Blessing\]](#)

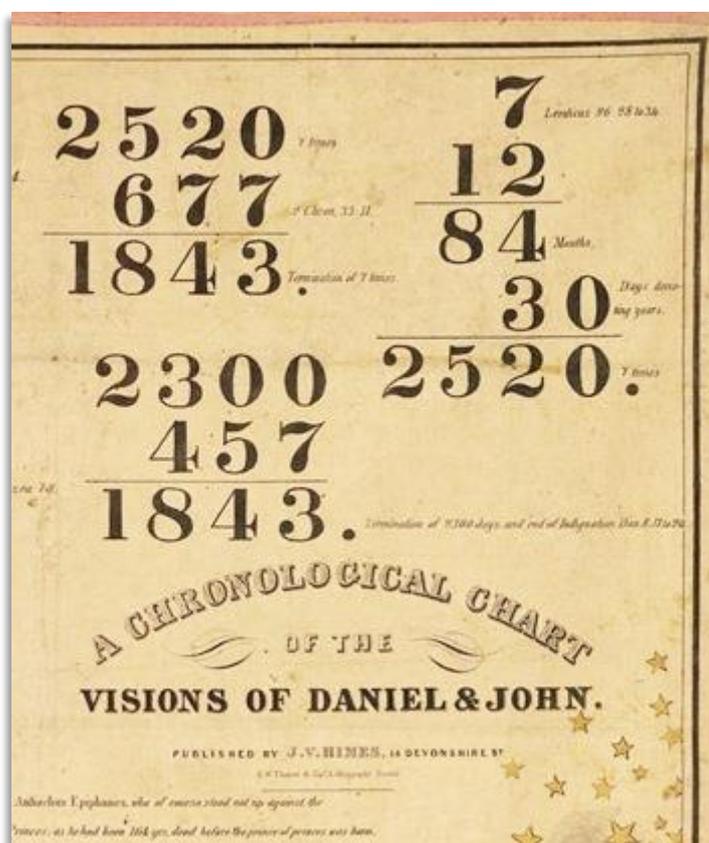

3 If ye walk in my statutes, and keep my commandments, and do them;

4 Then I will give you rain in due season, and the land shall yield her increase, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit.

5 And your threshing shall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage shall reach unto the sowing time: and ye shall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land safely.

6 And I will give peace in the land, and ye shall lie down, and none shall make you afraid: and I will rid evil beasts out of the land, neither shall the sword go through your land.

7 And ye shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you by the sword.

8 And five of you shall chase an hundred, and an hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight: and your enemies shall fall before you by the sword.

9 For I will have respect unto you, and make you fruitful, and multiply you, and establish my covenant with you.

10 And ye shall eat old store, and bring forth the old because of the new.

11 And I will set my tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you.

12 And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people.

13 I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye should not be their bondmen; and I have broken the bands of your yoke, and made you go upright.

[Curse]

14 But if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all these commandments;

15 And if ye shall despise my statutes, or if your soul abhor my judgments, so that ye will not do all my commandments, but that ye break my covenant:

16 I also will do this unto you; I will even appoint over you terror, consumption, and the burning ague, that shall consume the eyes, and cause sorrow of heart: and ye shall sow your seed in vain, for your enemies shall eat it.

17 And I will set my face against you, and ye shall be slain before your enemies: they that hate you shall reign over you; and ye shall flee when none pursueth you.

18 And if ye will not yet for all this hearken unto me, then I will punish you seven times more for your sins.

19 And I will break the pride of your power; and I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as brass:

20 And your strength shall be spent in vain: for your land shall not yield her increase, neither shall the trees of the land yield their fruits.

21 And if ye walk contrary unto me, and will not hearken unto me; I will bring seven times more plagues upon you according to your sins.

22 I will also send wild beasts among you, which shall rob you of your children, and destroy your cattle, and make you few in number; and your high ways shall be desolate.

23 And if ye will not be reformed by me by these things, but will walk contrary unto me;

24 Then will I also walk contrary unto you, and will punish you yet seven times for your sins.

25 And I will bring a sword upon you, that shall avenge the quarrel of my covenant: and when ye are gathered together within your cities, I will send the pestilence among you; and ye shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.

26 And when I have broken the staff of your bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall deliver you your bread again by weight: and ye shall eat, and not be satisfied.

27 And if ye will not for all this hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me;

28 Then I will walk contrary unto you also in fury; and I, even I, will chastise you seven times for your sins.

29 And ye shall eat the flesh of your sons, and the flesh of your daughters shall ye eat.

30 And I will destroy your high places, and cut down your images, and cast your carcasses upon the carcasses of your idols, and my soul shall abhor you.

31 And I will make your cities waste, and bring your sanctuaries unto desolation, and I will not smell the savour of your sweet odours.

32 And I will bring the land into desolation: and your enemies which dwell therein shall be astonished at it.

33 And I will scatter you among the heathen, and will draw out a sword after you: and your land shall be desolate, and your cities waste.

34 Then shall the land enjoy her sabbaths, as long as it lieth desolate, and ye be in your enemies' land; even then shall the land rest, and enjoy her sabbaths.

35 As long as it lieth desolate it shall rest; because it did not rest in your sabbaths, when ye dwelt upon it.

36 And upon them that are left alive of you I will send a faintness into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; and the sound of a shaken leaf shall chase them; and they shall flee, as fleeing from a sword; and they shall fall when none pursueth.

37 And they shall fall one upon another, as it were before a sword, when none pursueth: and ye shall have no power to stand before your enemies.

38 And ye shall perish among the heathen, and the land of your enemies shall eat you up.

39 And they that are left of you shall pine away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; and also in the iniquities of their fathers shall they pine away with them.

[\[Restoration\]](#)

40 If they shall confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that also they have walked contrary unto me;

41 And that I also have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their uncircumcised hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their iniquity:

42 Then will I remember my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will remember the land.

43 The land also shall be left of them, and shall enjoy her sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them: and they shall accept of the punishment of their iniquity: because, even because they despised my judgments, and because their soul abhorred my statutes.

44 And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, I will not cast them away, neither will I abhor them, to destroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God.

45 But I will for their sakes remember the covenant of their ancestors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD.

Shadows of the Future - Introduction

If we consider the efforts of Satan and look very closely at which church he specifically attacks and understand that this is an indirect proof of who the true church of God really is, there remains only one conclusion: It must be the Seventh-day Adventist Church. With these introductory words, unwelcome by many factions, I am back again on the battlefield of the war between good and evil, light and darkness, which will continue just a little while longer.

Many expected John Scotram to disappear or lose his courage, because it seems that no one from his former church—or any other SDA community—supported him and there were attacks against him; but a man of God can do nothing other than to keep preaching the truth, because the Holy Spirit does not give him rest. I received new insights almost daily and the short break which I apparently took was in fact not a break but rather the busiest time of my life because there were so many new discoveries at once that I had to put them into a framework first, then work through many related studies until I could summarize the most important facts for you here.

The responsibility that God has laid upon me is big. The new series that I am now starting to write will probably show that the responsibility is much bigger than just to admonish the church and to tell a few members who are willing to believe what the Lord reveals that we are nearing the last decisive battle and that this has a lot to do with 2012 and 2014.

The messages that I have for the church are so important this time, that even the life and death of the church itself, may depend upon how these messages are interpreted and implemented. I want to state very clearly that this is not just about the big SDA Church, but it is about the survival of Adventism as a whole or its complete destruction.

Lucifer, who will soon appear as an angel of light, has decided to put an end to the church and all its organized offshoots (SDARM or IMS). The great majority are sleeping, waiting for the proclamation of the infamous "Sunday Law in the US" and do not realize that the attacks of Satan on the church are in full swing. The enemy of souls feels great satisfaction when he sees that almost all church members are sleeping and do not realize that their church may soon cease to exist, and then the so long awaited "Sunday Law" would no longer be necessary because the church would have been already successfully destroyed beforehand.

In subsequent articles, I will address the most dangerous heresies, which the ingenuity of the most deceitful created being of the universe has devised to mislead even those who consider themselves the elect, and thus destroy the entire Adventist Church. I stress again that all SDA churches which still believe somehow in the pillars of Adventism, can (and must) benefit from these new findings, provided they would not be led astray by their blind leaders again, to reject all new light and finally just be part of history, without having carried out the sacred trust that they received from Jesus Christ.

In these articles, there will no longer be the question of whether and which of the SDA churches is "Babylon" or "in apostasy". He who is still pecking on his brother who is from the "other SDA community", has not recognized what it's all about in this hour of need and that all Adventists' future is at stake.

Since the attacks of the satanic groups are directed against the sanctuary of Jesus and His church, their primary target is also the heavenly sanctuary, where Jesus performs the ministry of expiation in the Day of the Investigative Judgment since 1844. Our Lord in His wisdom hid the antidote to Satan's poisons in the sanctuary so that it can be taken or used by the church as soon as needed in the last final battle.

Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you. (Luke 10:19)

If you decide to deal with snakes and scorpions and other poisonous creatures, you would do well to take a serum with you that can counter the poisons of the animals around you. But those who do not know which toxins await them may have no antidote or one that has no effect if they are stung or bitten. I live on my farm in South America where we have many poisonous snakes and all sorts of other unpleasant creatures. Just yesterday, I encountered a scorpion right on my dining room floor. After much study, I was tired and wanted to go to bed. I had already turned off the light and at the last moment my wife yelled at me so loudly that I froze in terror. She had seen something moving on the floor. Her "loud cry" woke me from my carelessness and saved me from a lot of pain and possibly death. Because of that, today I am beginning this new series for you.

I know what I am talking about, and I know that we have to be prepared. Here, although it is very inconvenient at temperatures up to 110 degrees, whomever does not take charcoal as first-aid with him to the farm work and wear sturdy boots up to the knee, gambles not just with his life but would have to bear the responsibility of one saying of him that he caused his downfall due to a negligent lack of preparation, and lost his life by his own folly. So it is with all current SDA churches. They know that they are operating in a field full of snakes and scorpions, but they have no serum with them, not even charcoal, and like a drowsy man toddling into his supposedly warm bed while the lights are already switched off, they are unable to see that the scorpion has already extended its tail in order to sting their heel.

"Ah, Jesus will protect us," they say in light-hearted arrogance, and rely on the fact that a messenger of God once foretold that the church (which one?) would go through to the end, and call it "faith". No, this is not faith; it is neglect of our God-given gifts. We do not have a brain just to turn it off, but to use it to counter the enemy with all the power that Jesus promised to those who believe and act according to the light that was given them. New light is only promised to those who seek it and not to those who just warm the pews on Sabbath and have no other questions during week. In general, Jesus has something against those who believe they know everything already. This also means that he appreciates those who ask questions, know that they do not yet know everything, want to know more, ask and explore the scriptures with a lot of prayer.

I may have many character flaws that Jesus has not yet fully cleaned. My tone and my determination may put off some. Some say I do not have the "sweet love of Jesus" when I express in my articles how much the lukewarmness of the churches makes me want to vomit. But, have any of you read at some time the Old Testament, or the words that Jesus says to the church of Laodicea? Or have you read that Jesus drove the merchants out of the temple with a whip? How does all of this fit with the often misunderstood "sweet love of Jesus"? Do you still not understand that Jesus hates sin and that He is just about to put an end to it once and for all, and all sinners with it who did not allow Him to clean them?

There is one character-flaw I do not have! I will not let myself be lulled to sleep by Satan. I am searching every day for the truth, and when I find something new that I think could save a few souls for Jesus I sit down and write it here on the Internet, although the reactions and the attitude of most of you are nauseating and make me almost fraught with despair and sadness. How I have already shed many tears for many of you who blindly run to their doom, and how much more our Creator, who has gone for you even to the cross!

Anyone who has read the other Orion articles knows that all pillars of Adventist faith are confirmed in Orion. Do I have to mention it again, or is it sufficient to refer you to the last series of articles The Throne Lines? I will leave it for now and I hope that the interested reader once again reminds himself so that there is no need to keep asking "How I understand the Holy Spirit, whether I think He is a person or not." How many e-mails of that kind I had to answer, after clearly stating my position about our doctrines in the studies! The Orion Clock could not have been found if I would not have realized that three persons of one and the same divine council would sit on the throne of God. Otherwise, we would have to look for a constellation of five stars, then all references to the "seven stars" in the Bible would be a farce!

How many of you have actually realized the real purpose and the true message of Orion? From the many emails I received, I can only conclude that 99% of the readers are only interested in finding out exactly when Jesus will come and they do not want to recognize that the Orion includes the time only to convince the church that it is 'five minutes to twelve' and there is very little time for repentance. But the greater part of church is meanwhile silent and hides behind some statements of Ellen White that we should not fix the time. They do not understand that it is not John Scotram who determines the time, but Jesus, who now at the end of time is ready to show us His Clock and that He has placed the clock hands so that they mark the sins of His people in the Investigative Judgment and also the lateness of the hour.

This is indeed a dangerously stupid behavior, and whomever knows God knows that He lets us know more precisely what His plans are as we near the fulfilling of a prophecy. The reactions of the churches and of most of those who talk to me are showing that they do not know God and Jesus. God would never let us stay in the dark about His imminent return. Hence He now gives the time, but also the sins so that they could cooperatively repent and avert bigger disaster.

I am ashamed, brethren and friends. I am ashamed of us! I am ashamed that so few realize how much patience and love our Lord has with our stubborn and perverse generation. Yes, I still lack much of the sweet love of Jesus because sometimes I ask myself how long I must stand you, but Jesus already asked that 2000 years ago. I understand my God and I know that He wants to take those that are left who truly know Him home now, and He will do this extremely soon!

The Bible shows us clearly what God is doing when the time of patience and testing is over. There are many examples in the history of Israel, which is the type for the current spiritual Israel, the SDA church/es. We did not want to obey in good times and to remove the evil in our midst so we could have been able to finish our mission. We did not stay pure but made a pact with Jezebel, whether collectively or individually. We have joined the ecumenical movement and spiritually murdered Jesus' messenger, Ellen G. White, by not following her God-given instructions and have taken them all too lightly. We have crucified Jesus once more with our worldliness and again shouted: "His blood be upon us and our children!" Now that the prophesied persecution comes, and hence comes true, what we have caused by ourselves, is the bitter consequence of the fact that we have learned nothing since 1888 and even did not want to learn anything and followed like the blind our blind self-chosen leaders.

What is now upon us is what always came upon God's people when they disobeyed: blood and tears, exile and suffering, death and misery ... until, in the time of Jacob's trouble a small group will have completely realized what has happened. This small remnant of us, just 144,000 persons, will cry then to God for deliverance. It did not have to be that bad. We can also learn this if we read the ancient prophets. Everything that happened was conditional prophecy, but what must happen now cannot be reversed anymore by any condition. The time has passed!

At the election of the new SDA World President, Ted Wilson, the church ship seemed to change its course to the right. This saved the church leadership from immediate destruction during the General Conference, which was announced in dreams and visions by a number of SDA brethren. Ted Wilson is known as a conservative president and of course I have seen his original inaugural speech and also followed his comments in three different languages on the Internet and via mail and analyzed it all. I have not seen it as my job to give an opinion about him. I do not know this man good enough to have a clear opinion already. I just watched. I saw that his statements correspond in many respects to what I believe, and I understand that Jesus did not destroy the General Conference in Atlanta by a disaster for that reason. This was clearly a conditional prophecy and I also stated that. But the shaking of the church, which has begun with the Orion message in January 2010, cannot be averted even by Ted Wilson. It is too late. "The die is cast", a Roman would say, because the church failed miserably in all the tests that we faced since 1888. The prophecy is being fulfilled now. Although the church ship seems to turn slightly.

Everything seemed as though the church would fall... but now, at the very last moment before the announcement of the Sunday Laws, the miracle happens—in the present SDA Church, which is almost completely in apostasy, a man is elected as church president who wants to see old values and pillars of our faith to be restored. He spoke in his inaugural speech about the fact that the global ecumenism would be "a sign of the imminent coming of Jesus". I hope that he wanted to make clear by this that we must not approach anymore the ecumenical movement. But he expressed himself—from what I understand—in very careful terms, perhaps in view of the presence of envoys from the two Chinese ecumenical presidents and the "Jesuit" German leadership of the SDA Church, which voted unanimously against adopting the new wording of the statement of the creation week consisting of six consecutive 24-hour days and thus proved that they are children of the Vatican. The photos of the German leaders at this voting, which I had to watch on the Internet, shocked me.

When I began the studies for the new series, I had no idea that Jesus would have for this new president of the church ship a very special message that had remained hidden for more than 3,500 years before the eyes of His people. At the end of this series Jesus will approach Ted Wilson directly from the sanctuary to make clear what He expects of him and what his task for the last remaining years of earth would be. I can only pray that he will hear and heed this message. But let's talk about this later, in much more detail.

Before we get into the topic, allow me a few thoughts on the events in my country that I can follow as a "subscriber" of German Adventist e-mail distribution lists even from South America. What is going on over there in Germany is simply unbelievable! It is so incredible that those leaders of what for decades has been such an important SDA country, are ruling in complete disobedience to the world leadership and still remain in their positions. That a worldwide church president does not put an end to this Jesuit puppet show, inclines me to doubt again the assertiveness and authority of this new president. Sure, we have to give him a little more time. There is still a little time, until the Sunday Laws will come in Europe and a whole continent will slip through his fingers, if "history repeats" that which was recorded in the years 1914, 1936 and 1986; particularly for Germany and Europe in the Orion and caused a negative trend for the global church. It's all just ridiculous and shameful!

Of course, I do not laugh at the recent efforts of a few faithful brothers and sisters from Germany who are trying in an honest, courteous and patient way to put an end to these Jesuit marionette leaders. But isn't it possible for a worldwide church president to intervene sometimes? Do we have to go through the tiresome and time consuming proper channels when open rebellion exists? What I am missing in all the many and certainly reasonable and legitimate writings of my faithful brethren from Germany to "Jester and Prankster" is the realization that it is not just Germany where a lot is going wrong. Again and again I read about the "intolerable situation, especially in Germany" and that implies that indeed the situation would be different in the world church. Please, dear honorable brothers and sisters, this is denial of the fact that the entire church ship from top to bottom was stained and filthy since 1914, sailing in muddy waters, diverted from its course!

Here in South America, we have just launched a campaign with DVDs and distribution of "SDA Church writings", in which the Sabbath is referred to as an "institution for physical recovery", as the "right of the worker" and as "Family Day". On the enclosed DVD we can see—and I first could not believe what I saw—that it was not a pope who had changed the day of the Lord to Sunday, but the early Christians that wanted to differ from the Jews. The Roman Church would never have been responsible for all of this! The whole DVD—labeled as an Adventist production of the South American division—repeats verbatim complete sections of the 1998 papal encyclical of John Paul II "Dies Domini" written by Ratzinger (or today Benedict XVI). Do you still believe, dear brothers and sisters from Germany, that Rome is pulling the strings of only your leaders?

I do not want to falsely attribute anything to President Ted Wilson who so far appears to me very honorable. But wouldn't it be high time to inform himself of what is going on in other parts of his world church? It is beyond my knowledge whether or not Ted Wilson speaks foreign languages, but if he does, which would be a good idea for a world church president, I would be surprised that all these disagreeable incidents would have happened publicly and unsanctioned while it is his "program" to lead the church to "revival and reformation". Then come on, dear brother Ted Wilson, and act quickly, because the clock of God is ticking and the stars of Orion are rightly known as fixed stars, and they won't shift significantly until the clock hand has reached 2012/2013 and God Himself will take the "revival and reformation" of the church into His own hands, sending for the second time a "ruler of Babylon", to bring the church to repentance under persecution and tribulation "in hard times."

My opening remark for this new series of articles was that I am aware of how many terrible attacks the SDA churches have to face, and I would not like to be in the shoes of Ted Wilson! He certainly has to venture on a difficult task and has very little time left for it. The church is being destroyed from the outside through the ecumenical movement and the pressure of society, but much more from the inside by the ever-growing amount of false doctrines. These teachings are the snakes and scorpions lurking to attack each member and take eternal life away from them through their poison. The fact that the floodgates have been opened for these creatures and they have been received with such uninhibited entry into the church, is the fault of the church and its members themselves, who still do not understand how to correctly interpret the parable of the tares and the wheat. I hope that this at least was sufficiently explained in other articles.

In the articles of this series, which I would like to call "Shadows of the Future," I want to give the church a survival kit with anti-venom for different snakes. If we know what species of snakes threaten us, it is often quite easy to keep the right first-aid kit handy with the proper anti-venom for the area. In my country, such kits exist officially, though I never could get one in a medical center. But a corresponding kit is not yet available for the snakes that threaten our church. Although the snake species have been known by their potent toxins for years, the church has failed through negligence to develop anti-venoms against these poisons, so we have no known serum to rely on. That neglect has fatal consequences now, as these snakes are multiplying like vampires. The one who is bitten turns to a snake himself and bites another church member. So the disease spreads exponentially, as the serpent plague once did in the camp of the Israelites during the time of Moses.

It is not just one snake species that threatens the church, but several. Vampires only come at night and they can be deterred by garlic, so goes the legend at least. The bitten descendants of these church vampires, however, come in broad daylight or at any time day or night, and are immune to garlic, crosses and silver arrows. They cannot be distinguished from church members that have not been bitten. This makes them more dangerous! Only those with the anti-venom, those who have inoculated themselves, are able to distinguish the vampire brethren and protect themselves against them.

What I would like to say with this may be a bit of a rough comparison—that the church has failed to react on certain attacks from inside and outside by intense study which would have enabled it to respond to doctrinal arguments, which are diametrically opposed to Adventist doctrine and to train and prepare its members. Instead of studying how to combat the attacks and their related doctrines with the light that we once received and to gain new light, we have only studied intensively how far we can come closer to the other churches without becoming vampires. This was playing with fire and our fingers got burned badly. It opened the doors to ecumenical vampires and many formerly healthy members have been bitten.

It should have been the responsibility of the BRI (Biblical Research Institute) to study the things that I am now presenting to you so that the church could survive. They should have erected a cross like Moses denouncing the snakes that intend to kill our church. But the BRI, which unfortunately was mentioned and praised by Ted Wilson as the only authority that could study the Bible correctly, is led by the American counterpart of Jester and Prankster who have nothing better to do than to publish an article that says that we should hold back from studying prophecy, that it would be a new abominable addiction among us Adventists to interpret Daniel and Revelation in a way that the events and characters described there would "identify prominent political and religious leaders as specific fulfillments of prophecy" (Obama and Benedict XVI). In other words, the "president" of the BRI, Angel Manuel Rodriguez, says that we should not expect Jesus for a long time, because nothing is in sight and he wants to advise us even not to ponder over it. He accuses the prophecy students that "the present time of relative peace and waiting is disturbing to them, leading them to reinterpret apocalyptic prophecy along futurist lines" and refers to the study of prophecy as an "obsession with prophetic speculation." Is this not clearly the voice of the serpent in his article Problems with the Adventist Futurism from April 2010? When will Ted Wilson fumigate this snake pit?

Because the BRI neglected its real duties and is on the wrong side, we can now find in the church a large number of various heresies advocated by many members, which have never been officially declared by the church as heresies, nor that there would exist any official counter-arguments on a biblical basis against these false teachings. This opens the floodgates for the distribution of certain heresies within the church. You just cannot imagine what goes on in the church forums in U.S. and other countries. Members that uphold the teachings of Ellen White, are blocked, excluded and their membership is cancelled, while clearly ecumenical and Jesuit-inspired elements are present in all the discussion topics; they are the main speakers, and they massacre in a dialectically trained manner everything that is even remotely conservative Adventism without receiving any complaints by the forum administration.

There are youth groups which are encouraged when they ask if we should not simply abolish "1844" because that "rubbish" nobody could hear or believe anymore; while others who discovered additional symbolism in the sanctuary services of the Old Testament and want to talk to the brethren about this, are dismissed as cranks and idiots. If the one who is attacked like this gets annoyed, and expresses in a polite form his irritation, he is immediately declared a fanatic and his profile would disappear from one minute to the next. These forums, which are an exact mirror image of what is really taking place in church life are a horror, and to name the infected brethren just "vampires", is actually much too polite, because their bite even leads to the second eternal death. The correct term should be "fratricide", a person who kills his own brother. I have some readers who say that my way to express was "too sharp or strong" and that I should "calm down". Please say that also to Jeremiah or Ezekiel, if you would have the opportunity to meet them in the kingdom of God!

Therefore, this series about the "Shadows of the Future" is not for those brethren who only want to read about the "sweet love of Jesus" or follow Angel Rodriguez to perdition; who in his book "Spanning the Abyss" speculates so "beautifully" about how the spirit of Jesus in the grave was waiting to give the body of Jesus another time life, and support such theological speculation, which sounds more like spiritualism, and is also taught in Sabbath school. I recommend that these brothers and sisters immediately go to another web site. Maybe you should download instead a new CD of Benedict XVI., who sings to you with his lovely Saint Grandfather's voice a lullaby (of death), or get yourself the beautiful DVD of your South American Division, which tells you with how much "sweet love", "Jesus" your Lord provided that you may go your own ways on Sabbath, and that the Pope followed only the first Christians and never changed the day, but accepted it only at the request of the first Christians led by the apostles. I could go on and on writing about what is going wrong everywhere in church. The conquest by the Jesuits has already taken place and will not take place in the future. Ted Wilson, I do not envy you for the difficult task that you have been entrusted by Jesus!

Do you want to know what is going on in the world? Get a subscription and log in to www.prisonplanet.tv, then you will know where the world stands and that everything that Ellen White wrote about the U.S., now - in this minute - is coming true. Anyone who still does not believe that we are on the verge of the end of history, is a blind fool. And your pastor? Does he inform you? Do you hear sermons or warnings about the fact that thousands of children are dying now because of the flu vaccination? Worldwide? That children and mothers carry brain damage because they were vaccinated? Do you know the background? Do you know why this is happening now? Does it interest you at all? If so, then get the DVD "End Game" by Alex Jones on the mentioned website. It's worth it! A light will dawn on you. Everything fits perfectly together with the Adventist eschatology, which you should certainly not study if you would follow Ted Wilson's - for me incomprehensible - recommendation to believe only what you get prescribed by Angel Rodriguez from the BRI, otherwise you would be "obsessed".

Last year, when I wrote to all pastors that I know in South America and informed and asked them to warn their parishioners not to get vaccinated against H1N1, I did not receive one single reaction from at least one single pastor. It was simply hushed up. I did not even get a polite negative response by the motto - "Thank you, dear brother, for the nonsense that you have sent me." Courtesy among brethren is "out"! If our pastors have the directive by Jesus to save lives, they have also the obligation to watch whether prophecy is fulfilling, and to warn the church members. Or am I the only lunatic in a totally perfect world where everything is OK or am I a "man obsessed with prophetic speculation" when three million North Americans are hearing every day that in the U.S. they soon will begin a dictatorship and military laws with a total subjugation of the American people if they would not vehemently protest against this and that this would lead to a complete dissolution of the religious freedom not only there but worldwide? Isn't this exactly what Ellen White wrote a hundred times?

What does Angel M. Rodriguez want to prevent that we see? Today, we know that the vaccine - and not only this - was forbidden in many countries because there was evidence that it caused brain damage, stillbirths, abortions and was poisoned. Ellen White told us that before the Sunday laws would come, many children and old people would be laid to rest. This is happening right before our eyes. Our drinking water is poisoned, our food too. We are lobotomized by fluorine and lithium doses in our daily dental care and nutrition to become mindless robots. Only those who followed Ellen White's instructions to move to the country side, are escaping these fatal influences of the cities that are already controlled by the New World Order. We are delivered to a gang of truly obsessed murderers who want to eugenize (kill) 90 percent of the human race and the dear grandfather in the Vatican is their boss and his head is the prince of all evil. Do your pastors talk about these things?

And what do you think of the now permanently red-clad Pope? Do you understand that in his occult world the color red is the color of absolute power? Have you noticed that he now "writes history"? The man, who was once called the "Rottweiler" of God, on his recent visit to England was not only the first pope who could speak with a golden fish's mouth hat in red ornament in Westminster Hall, no, he has now also mutated to the "Holy Grandfather". And have you noticed that he is now wearing the pallium publicly in all countries? Did you understand that the metropolitans are only allowed to wear the pallium in their territory and that this is limited to political events? Do you see finally see what the Pope clearly expresses by wearing the pallium in Westminster Hall in London? At Focus [German] you can read:

More than by the speech, many a commentator was impressed for the first occurrence of a Pope at Westminster Hall. "This was the end of the British Empire," commented the respected liberal-left Guardian. "For four centuries England has been defined as a Protestant nation. Rebellion against the Pope was the founding act of the English power", says the journal.

Please note the many alluded Yin-Yang symbols on the red cape with the points ... Satan wants to rule for "infinite" time....

Now is happening exactly what I told you in the articles of the "Behind Enemy Lines" series ... The seizure of power has already taken place! The signet of the Pauline Year was the announcement and the Pope has since long taken the scepter of power for him. You just did not notice it, dear brothers and sisters, because you are only focused on the Sunday laws. Now, it is only a matter of time before the Sunday laws and the prosecution are real, and even that Jesus has not left in darkness, but wrote it clearly in the Bible, in Orion and in the shadowy Sabbaths. We just need to make the effort to dig very deep and exert our gray brain cells. But also that is not enough. If our lives would not be sanctified and therefore we would not receive the help of the Holy Spirit in our studies, it would be impossible for us to find all this new light.

But do you really want to know all this? Are we really still a church that looks out for the soon coming of Christ? Can we still call ourselves rightly "Adventists", as the name implies that we would have a sure expectation that the coming of Christ is near? Most of you make me doubt this.

The Shadow Series

When I started to study the "Shadows of the Future", I had again no idea where the Holy Spirit would guide me. He just led me and I followed Him. It all started when a reader of my articles on August 9, 2010, sent me a personal study and asked me for my opinion of it. The brother's name is Kay Wolfe and he is currently active in several forums and tries to make known his study. I will explain and quote parts of this exciting study, at least those which I could understand to be correct. Other parts I will improve and put in their proper context. His study brought me on the track, but it includes terrible mistakes and unfortunately he comes again to the false conclusion that the church would be irretrievably lost as Babylon. Nevertheless, I would like to attest to this brother that his study contains several correct approaches and thank him for he really helped me to start the shadow studies. "Keep the good things..."

But this will be later on the focus of the third part of the shadow studies which will show and prove the first time very clearly what the true interpretation of the many lunar Sabbaths is, that are undoubtedly mentioned in the Bible. Many have long expected an official statement of the BRI to the moon Sabbaths, which is not available so far because the true interpretation must be unknown to the BRI because it thinks that studying the prophecies is "obsession". The realization of the true interpretation is the wonderful cure for the brethren who are infected with the false doctrine of the lunar Sabbaths. This serum will have extreme healing powers, as it will affirm the glorious hope of the coming of our Lord in a clear manner by the sanctuary service based on the shadowy Sabbaths of Colossians 2:16-17, and even specify the precise time of His coming on the day. Those, who are reading my articles just to find out exactly when Jesus will come, will now be completely satisfied. But I hereby would like to stress once again clearly that this was not the purpose of my studies. I studied the Jewish feasts, because I wanted to find out what it is really about with the moon Sabbaths and because Ellen White asked us to do this, what probably only a few know ...

The time of test is just upon us, for the loud cry of the third angel has already begun in the revelation of the righteousness of Christ, the sin-pardoning Redeemer. This is the beginning of the light of the angel whose glory shall fill the whole earth. For it is the work of every one to whom the message of warning has come, to lift up Jesus, to present Him to the world as revealed in types, as shadowed in symbols, ..." {1SM 362.4}

Through the posterity of faithful Abraham, of the line of Shem, a knowledge of Jehovah's beneficent designs was to be preserved for the benefit of future generations. From time to time divinely appointed messengers of truth were to be raised up to call attention to the meaning of the sacrificial ceremonies, and especially to the promise of Jehovah concerning the advent of the One toward whom all the ordinances of the sacrificial system pointed. Thus the world was to be kept from universal apostasy. " {PK 687.1}

The significance of the Jewish economy is not yet fully comprehended. Truths vast and profound are shadowed forth in its rites and symbols. The gospel is the key that unlocks its mysteries. Through a knowledge of the plan of redemption, its truths are opened to the understanding. Far more than we do, it is our privilege to understand these wonderful themes. We are to comprehend the deep things of God. Angels desire to look into the truths that are revealed to the people who with contrite hearts are searching the word of God, and praying for greater lengths and breadths and depths and heights of the knowledge which He alone can give." {COL 133.1}

We do not half understand the Lord's plan in taking the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage, and leading them through the wilderness into Canaan. As we gather up the divine rays shining from the gospel, we shall have a clearer insight into the Jewish economy, and a deeper appreciation of its important truths. Our exploration of truth is yet incomplete. We have gathered up only a few rays of light. Those who are not daily students of the Word will not solve the problems of the Jewish economy. They will not understand the truths taught by the Temple service. The work of God is hindered by a worldly understanding of His great plan. Letter 156, 1903, pp. 2, 3. (To P. T. Magan, July 27, 1903.) {3MR 259.1}

Around the sanctuary and its solemn services mystically gathered the grand truths which were to be developed through succeeding generations. {FLB 194.2}

I experienced how true and important all these allegations are, when I received several bundles of rays that the Lord sent to me in this wonderful study. You can be sure that this series and especially the third and final part will represent the culmination of all previous studies. But the foundation is laid before in the other parts of the shadow series, without which a comprehension of the last part would be impossible. But even there, you will find many new "jewels" that our Lord has shown me so I can give it to you.

Some of the lunar Sabbath keepers had asked me several times via e-mail and forums to study the feasts and "to change the Orion Clock" because the Jewish feasts have to be fulfilled. They even had some right to do so. But I did not have to change the Orion Clock, not even one millimeter. On the contrary, these very different studies confirm each other in a wonderful way. And that I finally followed their request, ends in a spiritual disaster for those of the moon Sabbath keepers who want to lure their brethren willingly into a trap, for the truth is much more beautiful than we could imagine, and crushes the lunar Sabbath theory to dust. I had no idea what a great harmony would shine from the throne of God in this study. We will never understand better why the woman from Revelation 12 is standing on the moon.

Soon after I already had received a vague idea about the true meaning of the biblical lunar Sabbaths, which are confirming the creation Sabbath that we as SDA churches are keeping absolutely, correctly every Saturday, every seven days, the Lord showed me another truth. Even in my youth I had always wondered what the meaning of the many counts for the victims in the ceremonial service of the Mosaic sanctuary was. Why 2 rams, 7 lambs? Why 3 tenth deals of flour for each of the 13 bullocks? Who actually asked these questions at the annual reading of the Bible starting with the books of Moses and dug deeper? Does this really mean anything and if, is this for us today at all important? Are these not just boring numbers? I will follow up all these questions in the second part of the "shadow study", but one hint before: it has a meaning and it is the solution to a question that a lot of Adventists asked since many years, "How long exactly will last the time of the plagues?"

I have learned from brethren about a German leader who questions the Orion study and refuses it because he preaches in his home groups for decades that the time of plagues will only last 14 days. Although this can be clearly refuted already by other biblical references and no serious student of prophecy can see such a short time of plagues, the study of the offerings and the many numbers that appear, at first sight, confusing, show that this leader is wrong and again is just another member spreading a false personal teaching sanctioned through silence by the German leadership, while the truth is rejected in concert. But this study will also show that our sanctuary doctrine truly is right and perfect, as our Lord is perfect, and that the conclusions we can draw from the study of the shadow services - if we are willing to study deep enough - reach up to the last day of this world's history and tell us exactly how long the time of plagues on very day will last. I just wonder again: Why was all this not already previously discovered in the 166 years of existence of our church?

In the following first part of the study of the "Shadows of the Future" I will answer an open letter, written to the SDA church/es. This letter has caused that not only many members, but even some pastors and leaders who were firmly rooted in Adventism, to begin to doubt our teachings. This letter is just the tip of an iceberg that awaits us and if we cannot resist this attack, Adventism will cease to exist. The authors of the open letter make it clear that if we have no explanation for how it may be that the Passover in April 31 AD astronomically fell on a Wednesday, rather than the Friday taught by us, Adventism would be a goner and we as a church should resign right now.

For me, the solution of the problem cost a lot of sleepless nights. Many prayers to the Lord showed me the wonderful harmonious truth, and that again, only one church has the truth about the exact sequence of the last events of Jesus' life here on earth, namely, our Adventist church even if it was once again not studied deeply enough. This first part of the shadow study will show that the prophecy of 70 weeks was really perfectly fulfilled, how it was possible that Jesus was crucified in 31 AD in fact on a particular Friday, rested at a real Seventh-day Sabbath in the tomb and how this can be proven even at the basis of astronomy and the Bible. Ultimately, the solution to this problem, which many believe to be the end of Adventism, will even come from the very lips of Jesus Himself and might embarrass some who have written many pages on this subject in our existing SDA Bible commentary since the 1950's, without recognizing the wonderful solution of the problem. And finally, this first part of the study of the shadowy services of the sanctuary of Moses, will refute one of the main arguments of the moon Sabbath keepers that says that we as Adventist church would need the moon Sabbath to withstand the attack of other churches against our doctrines. And the knowledge of the exact date of Christ's death is the key for all further studies of the Jewish feasts.

Thus, another important hint that I want to point out in this introduction, is that the findings from the first and second part of these studies, are the basis for the third part in which Christ Himself will once more explain exactly what happened in church since 1844, how He estimates this, what the tasks of the current and the next few years for Ted Wilson are, when the door of grace for the church and a little later for the whole world will close and ... when our Lord will appear in the clouds, and exactly which true Seventh-day Sabbath we will celebrate with Him on the voyage to Orion. He who still believes that the Orion cannot be found in the Bible and taught against these studies, will have to digest a terrible realization, namely that he was fundamentally mistaken. But those who have studied Orion with me will be richly rewarded, and discover through the study of the Shadow feasts even a new line in Orion, when Jesus shed a wonderful new light on the Adventist people during their journey to heaven. Thus Orion will receive its perfect and logical completion and will once again firmly cement all pillars of Adventist faith.

Those, who are starting now to form the 144,000 will welcome with cheers all new light directly from the throne of God, from the sanctuary and clearly see how the Good Pastor guides now His people in these last few years of our pilgrimage on earth into the heavenly Canaan.

It is a pleasure for me to present you the first part of the shadow studies that I called Full Moon at Gethsemane.

Full Moon at Gethsemane - Part I

Written by John Scotram

I would like to invite you once more to go with me on a journey that will lead us almost 2000 years back to the year A.D. 31, the year that we all know and learned to love in Adventism as the year of Christ's crucifixion. This is not just a time travel, but it also leads us to a certain place we all know from the Gospels. In the garden of Gethsemane, where our beloved Lord Jesus sweated blood for us, as our sins had been placed on Him. After Jesus held the last supper with His disciples in the evening, they set out in order to go to this garden. This was in our Adventist understanding and after our usual day, reckoning at the evening from Thursday to the Crucifixion Friday. According to Jewish reckoning, where the day starts at sunset and does not begin at midnight, this was already Friday.

Ellen White began Chapter 74 which is titled Gethsemane in her wonderful book The Desire of Ages with the following words:

In company with His disciples, the Saviour slowly made His way to the garden of Gethsemane. The Passover moon, broad and full, shone from a cloudless sky. The city of pilgrims' tents was hushed into silence.

What most of us take for a seemingly poetic description of the circumstances of Jesus' arrival in the garden of Gethsemane, contains as much dynamite that this bomb is about to explode the entire Adventism. You will surely wonder, what this could be.

An Open Letter

To understand this, we need to read an open letter against our Adventist church/es that is circulating at the moment in the Internet. It was published on March 6, 2009 at the document platform scribd under OPEN LETTER to CLIFFORD GOLDSTEIN and is directed at the former Jewish author Clifford Goldstein who converted to Adventism, and who is well-known for his Adventist books like America in Prophecy, and thus indirectly addressed to all Adventists. The title is:

OPEN LETTER to CLIFFORD GOLDSTEIN: The CROSS was NOT in AD 31.

And just in the intro we can read the following strong words:

If the Seventh-day Adventist calculations of Daniel's prophecy of the 70 Weeks leading to the Cross at Passover on Friday Nisan 14 in 31 AD are not correct, then . . . the entire premise for the foundation and existence of the Seventh-day Adventist Church is demolished.

If the middle of Daniel's 70th Week does not end at Jesus' Crucifixion at Passover on Friday Nisan 14 in 31 AD, then the Decree to rebuild Jerusalem was not given to Ezra by Artaxerxes Longimanus in 457 BC. Neither do the 2,300 evenings and mornings end in 1844 AD. The Day-Year Principle is shown to be false. There is no "Investigative Judgment". Babylon is not yet fallen, and the 3 Angels' messages remain to be preached by the 3 Angels.

This would be reason enough to call into question the foundation of the SDA organization, and to terminate its continued existence. This would force us to question just exactly what else, if anything that Adventism teaches, can possibly be true, if they have gotten something so very elementary, so absolutely wrong!

This church which claims to preach the 3 Angels' messages, and to be the repository of Truth For Our Time, would have been based on a transparent lie.

This church's prophet would be proven to have taught a false message, negating her claim to the title of a true prophet of God. Could the Holy Spirit have "shown" her such a false doctrine? Only false prophets preach false messages, and we must flee from them.

As for the multitudes of educated Adventist scholars since Ellen White, who have endorsed and reinforced her doctrines does not – their silence on this most fundamental and crucial issue, also speak volumes for their faith, their standards, their integrity?

Does this not mean that the Seventh-day Adventist Church would have been founded on an insupportable, reprehensible lie?

Would not this church then have been preaching a lie since 1844?

A lie that no angel, nor Jesus, nor the Holy Spirit ever spoke.

Who regards these statements as exaggeration, finds a friend in me. Even so, I thought this was a mere hyperbole when I read it for the first time. But then followed long studies of the different Jewish calendars and the biblical rules for the feasts, because I wanted to counter the moon Sabbath keepers and had to trace their studies and the comprehension of these calendars brought me back to astronomy (not astrology, as some want to foist on me) and to a startling conclusion: We actually have a problem with the year A.D. 31 in Adventism.

According to our current knowledge and with all recent scientific and astronomical evidence, there could not have shone a full moon in the year A.D. 31 over the crucial scene in Gethsemane on a Friday as we Adventists preach it. Why not? Because each Passover must fall on a full moon (or the day after). But if the Passover in A.D. 31 was in March or April, then the full moon of the 14th Nisan if it was the 27th of March fell on a Tuesday, or if it was the 25th of April, fell on a Wednesday, but never on a Friday!

But just before, we read that Ellen White stated: "The Passover moon, broad and full, shone from a cloudless sky."

And in her writings we find on several occasions a clear reference that Jesus died in the spring A.D. 31 on the cross:

In the spring of A. D. 31, Christ the true sacrifice was offered on Calvary. {DA 233.2}

Two other similar statements are in The Great Controversy, and one each in Spirit of Prophecy, Prophecy and Kings and The Faith I Live By.

And it is confirmed by her that Jesus died on a Friday:

Trouble seemed crowding upon trouble. On the sixth day of the week they had seen their Master die; on the first day of the next week they found themselves deprived of His body, and they were accused of having stolen it away for the sake of deceiving the people. {DA 794.2}

I was shocked and touched to the quick in my Adventist heart. Was it really possible that I would have believed a lie all these years? Was it possible that the prophecies of Daniel had not been fulfilled? Or did we Adventists only have the wrong year, but how then could 1844 still be true? Ellen White confirmed also the 22nd of October 1844 many times! Then she really would be a false prophet? Terrible! Unbearable! That would be actually the end of Adventism. Without exaggeration!

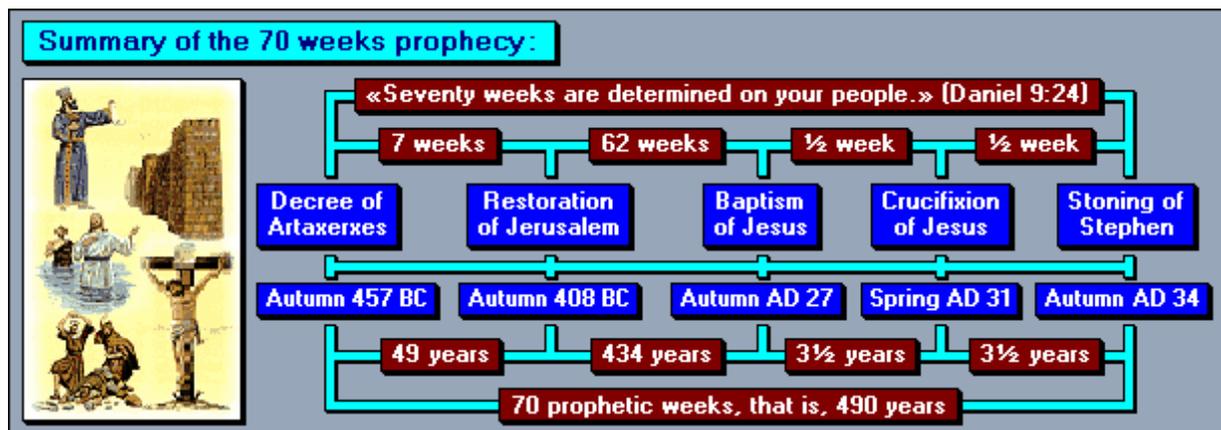

But of course I thought ... calm down first, read exactly, check all ...

This is what I would like now to do together with you ...

The 70 Weeks

The author of the open letter continues, and explains how we as Adventists understand the fulfillment of the prophecy of the 70 weeks of Daniel 9. Who does not know this yet, should first have a look at our basic doctrine in this regard. This can be done in a very nice way at Cyberspace Ministry. All is biblical and beautifully prepared.

Who knows this already and only wants to get an overview, here is the basic diagram of our interpretation of the 70 weeks of Daniel:

Hence we come exactly in the middle of the seventieth week to spring A.D. 31 and the crucifixion of Jesus. The author of the open letter is absolutely right. Exactly in this was how we teach it as Adventists.

The author speaks on:

SDA theology states, apparently without having resorted to the most elementary expedient of actually checking a calendar, that Jesus was crucified at Passover on Friday, Nisan 14, A.D. 31. This doctrine is the fulcrum on which rests the validity of their interpretation of the 70 Weeks prophecy, which to them, is fulfilled in the Messiah being “cut off at the middle of the 70th Week”.

Placing all their faith in the calculations of the pagan Ptolemy, SDAs assure themselves that, since 486 ½ years (69 ½ Weeks) from the year 457 BC (when Artaxerxes Longimanus, they say, gave his decree to rebuild Jerusalem), brings them to the year A.D. 31, they have thus conclusively proven that their method of Bible eisegesis and interpretation, is watertight, unimpeachable, infallible, inviolable. They are convinced beyond argument that this is correct, and do not wish to be confused with facts.

Unfortunately for this doctrine, it is demonstrably false. I have never encountered any SDA proof of this date for the Cross, possibly because, being precipitately convinced of its accuracy, everybody deemed it unnecessary to check this crucial detail.

And unfortunately, I must also admit that I had previously never seen or heard about any SDA verification of the date. But I have to admit too that I had not really researched it. The first time I could read criticism about our teaching in this regard came from the followers of the lunar Sabbath doctrine. But more about this later.

If you read the next 16 pages of the document of the author of the open letter, who calls himself "Jerushah" in his profile, one is confronted with a fairly detailed introduction to the Hebrew calendar in a way like the author imagines the current calendar at the time of Jesus. In no way Jerushah exposes that there are big disagreements and dissensions about, exactly how the Jews

2,000 years ago have calculated their festivals. The real solution to the "year 31 problem" will also show which calendar was really in use at that time.

Actually, what the author and many others who are attacking in the same way our church/es are doing, is fairly simple. They draw a comparison between the nowadays easily predictable and verifiable scientific moon phases with the weekdays of the eligible months, which could have been candidates for the Passover in A.D. 31; and we should do the same. Perhaps with even a better developed program than Jerushah had. He will let me get away with it, because at first glance his results will be confirmed and that will certainly please him. But not us!

What we need is a program that tells us something astronomically accurate about the moon at this time. But first we should ask ourselves the question: "Why is the moon that important?"

The Moon Determines the Beginning of the Month

What we know for certain and what is undisputed is the fact that the ancient Israelites kept lunar months and determined their festivals depending on them. This is biblically proven, and there is no denial. Where we find small differences of opinions, is the question of when exactly the Jewish month started: The astronomical new moon or the first crescent moon, the first small visible sickle.

But we know pretty sure that in Jerusalem a special guard was placed on a hill, that had the task to watch at the time of sunset (the biblical beginning of the day), if after the new moon the small first crescent became visible. If that was the case, this new day that had begun at sunset, was declared the 1st day of the month. This first crescent, which we will abbreviate with "FC" from now on, determined the beginning of the month. Of course, there could occur possible delays, if for example bad weather with clouds prevailed, or the lighting conditions were very unfavorable. I want to emphasize, and will come back to it, that we should not use this possible delays to explain the differences of our doctrine to the astronomical results which soon will be shown, because that would only lure us into another trap.

There are also other groups who like to set the beginning of the month by the astronomical new moon. Since the new moon can last 1-3 days when no crescent is visible, this method would result in discrepancies of the determination at which of the new moon days the month would really have started. Therefore, this method was most likely never used. The further we come in the study, the clearer will be that we, by discovering certain harmonies, will also have re-discovered even the true biblical calendar and the exact rules for the determination of the months and years.

Even today the camp of the moon Sabbath keepers is strongly divided because they are in dispute with each other, when exactly the beginning of the month would be. As they celebrate their new Sabbath at the first day of each month, which can therefore fall on any weekday and is different every month, and keep holy this weekday for the rest of the month as the Sabbath day, various groups of the moon Sabbath keepers are keeping their Sabbath at different days. Since we know how important the sanctified Day of God is, you could tell by the strife of the moon Sabbath keepers amongst them that something must be wrong.

Probably only a few know, that even today in the Arab world the beginning of the religious months and the fixed prayer times are still being determined exactly after the FC moon and since Islam is very strict and the Muslims have to comply with the prayer times which apply to their places of birth even on journeys, they have provided the best downloadable programs for the determination of the FC moons and prayer times on the Internet. We will use one of these programs for the entire series of articles, because it provides very nice pictures and will help us to learn a lot more about our future than just to solve the issue of the year A.D. 31.

Who wants to check these studies should now download the program Accurate Times at International Astronomical Center and verify that I am not fiddling. Of course you can recalculate the data with any other planetarium program too. They provide all pretty good results that differ very little from each other. Another program that is able to give us very accurate simulated views of the moon as being observed directly from a hill at Jerusalem at any given year is Redshift. It is available in several languages and the program costs about 75 US$ and is probably the best you can currently obtain on the market at this price. They have placed particular emphasis on carrying out an absolutely accurate lunar calculation, as this is mathematically/astronomically not that simple because the moon moves not on a straight orbit, but somehow "lurches". The official homepage is www.redshift-live.com. (No, I am no affiliate there.)

Moreover, we will discover later that it is irrelevant for our solution to the year 31 issue, whether the moon was calculated after the new moon (which one?) or the FC moon, because we know that Ellen White saw a full moon in the garden Gethsemane at Nisan 14. She would be a false prophet, if in A.D. 31 there would have been no full moon on the Crucifixion Friday. I will deliberately deal with Ellen White in a very strict way.

The Jewish Day: From Evening to Evening

The Jewish day began at sunset and went until sunset. From the creation account this can be clearly seen in the Bible:

And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness. And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day. (Genesis 1:3-5)

Another verse gives also a clear confirmation:

It shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, shall ye celebrate your sabbath. (Leviticus 23:32)

Here again, Rome introduced confusion and moved the beginning of the day to midnight. We must always think profoundly, if we use Roman calendar dates, because part of the roman day is still in the old Jewish day (midnight to evening) and another part in the next Jewish day (evening until midnight). This can cause quite a confusion. Yet the meaning of Babylon is "confusion".

Was Yom Kippur really at the 22nd of October 1844?

I would like to show you a controversial example, by which nicely can be illustrated how the calculation of the beginnings of the months is done in a modern way. Since there is much dispute about our "Adventist Birthday", 22nd of October 1844, I would like to check at this point if Ellen White, who has often confirmed this date, is right or - as many offshoot sites claim - erred "again". So we must first determine when the first crescent moon prior to the 22nd of October was visible. This would have been the beginning of the 1st Tishri, the seventh Jewish month, of 1844. Then we would have to count until the 10th of Tishri and would get the date of the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) in 1844 because the Day of Atonement always takes place at the 10th of the seventh Jewish month.

If you are using the program "Accurate Times" for the first time, you first need to enter the location of "Jerusalem" because all calculations are based on the old temple site in the city where Jesus preached and was crucified outside of its gates. In this Arabic program, the location is not available by default (wonder why).

A new default location is added by the button "Location". The coordinates for Jerusalem are 35° 13' East (E) and 31° 47' North (N). The time zone is +2 east and the elevation 630m. The "Refraction" does not interest us particularly (I have: temperature: 17° C, air pressure: 914 mb). Nor are we interested in the "City Settings". For the prayer times, you can leave 15 km.

Now enter a name for the new default location: "ISRAEL Jerusalem" and press the "Add" button. And you're set.

Let's look first at the moon phases for October 1844. Click at "Moon Phases". Always use "local times" and "topocentric" calculation because it is more accurate. Now just enter 1844 in the "year" field and click "Calculate". After a short calculation time appears a moon phase table for the entire year 1844. Seek out in the column "New Moon", the first date before 22nd of October 1844. Did you find it? It is the 12th of October, 0:41 hours. Redshift says 1:25 hours. I believe Redshift, but the small difference is not relevant for our research.

The astronomical new moon, when not even the smallest crescent was visible, took place at 12th of October 1844 shortly after our beginning of the day (midnight). Now we need to determine at which day at sunset an observer on a hill in Jerusalem could have spotted the first small crescent. This would be the biblical beginning of the month and this evening the biblical beginning of the first day of the new month. Already here it can be seen that the theories of some brethren, who send me strange studies that the biblical beginning of the day would not be at sunset but in the morning, are complete nonsense. We need to understand exactly how these calculations were then carried out, otherwise we will never discover what God has prepared in His wisdom in the shadowy ceremonial law for our time.

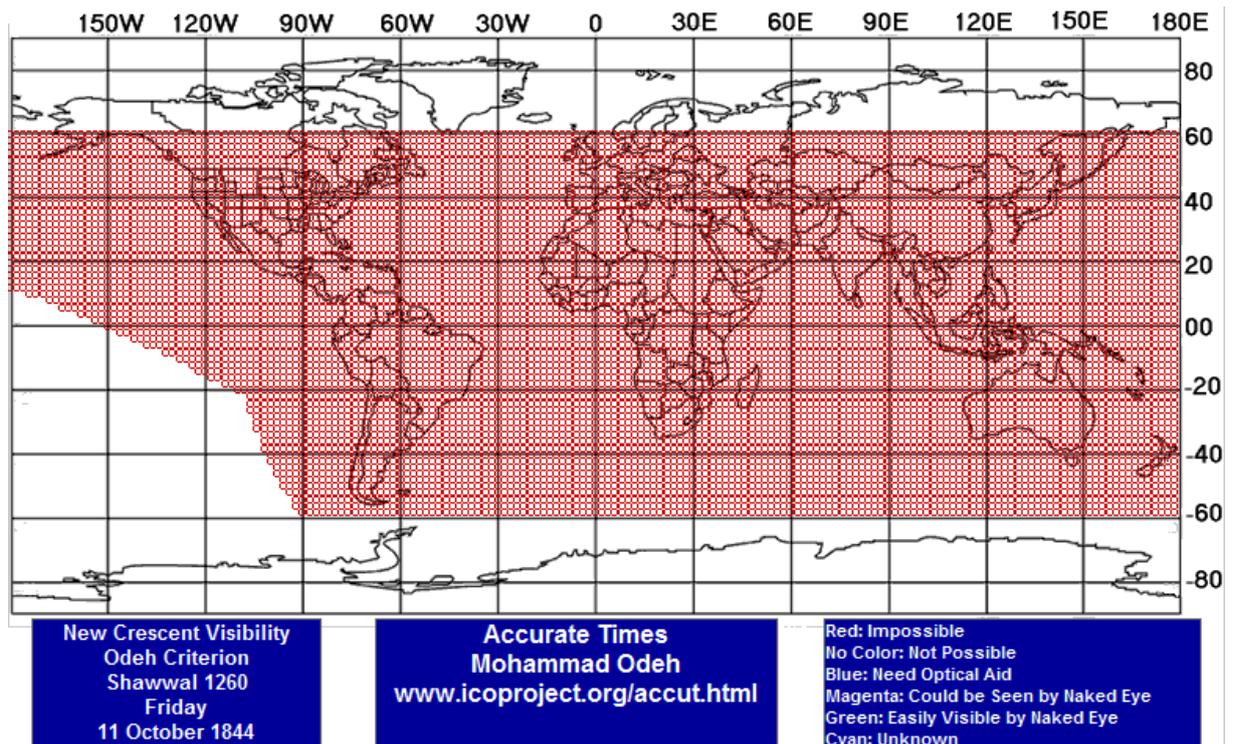

Now we come to the main task of the program "Accurate Times", which is designed specifically for this very question: the determination of when the first crescent moon was visible. Close our moon phase calculation with "Close" and click on the main menu "Crescent Visibility" (visibility of the crescent moon). We will use in all calculations of this series Roman dates because we are accustomed to think and reckon with it. Therefore, at first we mark "Gregorian Date" in the new dialogue window. Now enter 12 for "Day", 10 for "Month" and 1844 for "Year".

The other settings should always be:

- "New Crescent (Evening)"
- "Topocentric Calculations" (but works also with "geocentric")
- "Time of Calculation: Sunset"

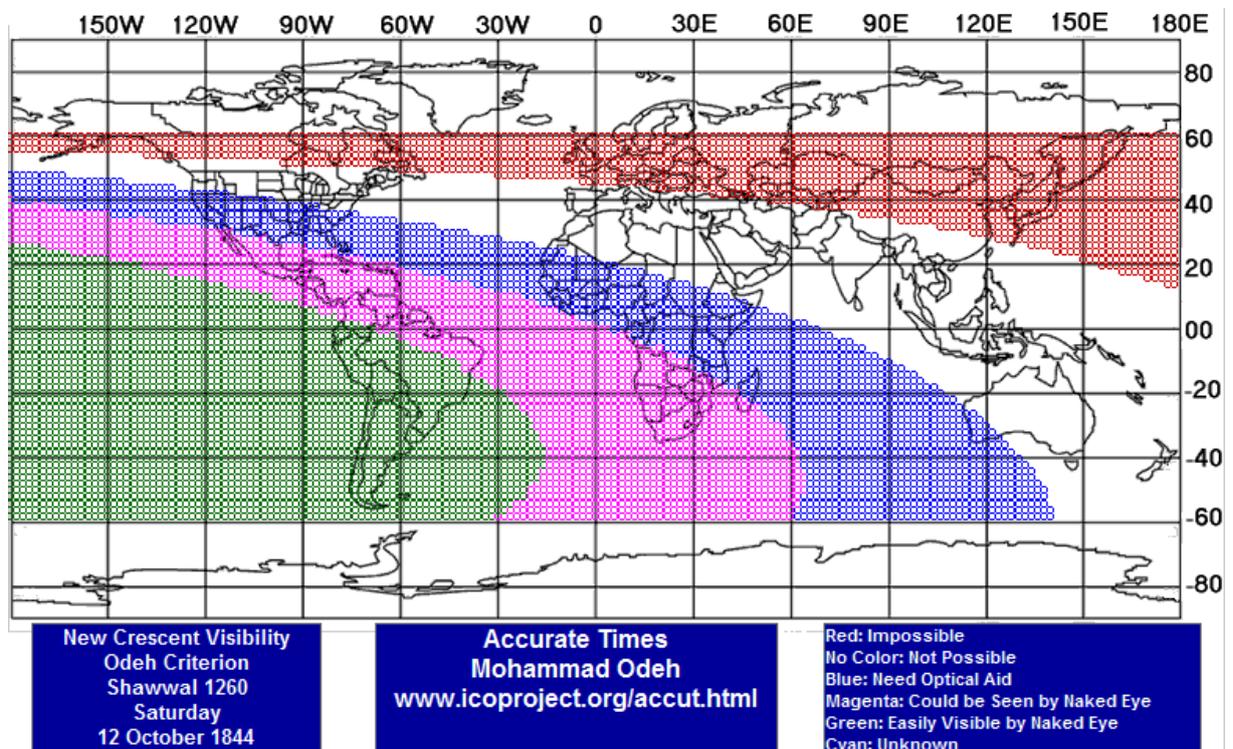

Whenever a new date has been entered, we must first click on "Preview". Then, the program automatically calculates three possible days for the visibility which are closest to our specified date and we can click the red button "Crescent Visibility Map".

First, the program suggests the 11th of October 1844 and we click "Draw" to draw the visibility map. The result looks like this:

The legend of the map tells us that white and red areas indicate, that it is impossible to spot the crescent moon. So the evening of 11th of October 1844 is ruled out completely. The astronomical new moon did not even occur before midnight of the 12th. Logical!

The 12th of October looks like this:

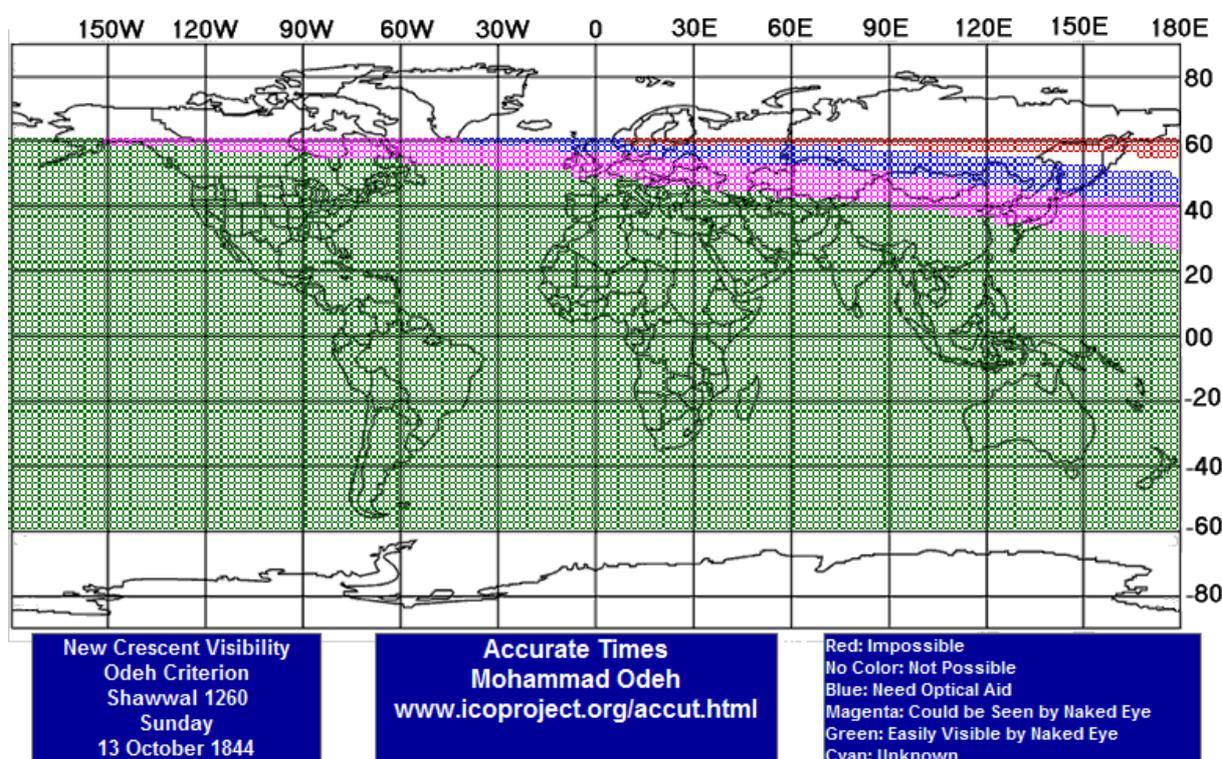

There is a red area right above: impossible. A white area: no way. A blue area in which optical devices for spotting the crescent would have been necessary. We will exclude these blue areas from all calculations, as the ancient Israelites did not have such devices and therefore these areas cannot mark the beginning of the biblical month. We will also exclude magenta areas, where a sighting with the naked eye is theoretically possible at extremely good weather conditions but for only such a brief moment during the sunset, that this also seems impossible. I set up Redshift to simulate all this for me. The results are incredibly beautiful and one feels transported back to those years. But in magenta areas there is just a short flash of a so tiny "crescent" at the moment when the sun has not fully set, that this cannot have been valid.

This is quite different in green areas. On the map above we find such a green area and that is what we are looking for. Here, in accordance with the criteria for the calculations of scientists, it is most likely that a sighting would occur. But the green area on the map above does not cover Israel and Jerusalem, that means that the sighting of the FC moon at sunset of the 12th of October was not possible.

Let's turn to the 13th of October:

Now we've found what we were looking for! The green area covers clearly the whole Israel on the evening of 13th of October at sunset and hence Jerusalem. What does this mean? Which day is now the 1st of Tishri, the 1st day of the seventh Jewish month?

Now we want to count to 10th of Tishri. To make it easy we could use one of the many available calendars in the Internet. I like to use UleDoc. But even if we simply add 9 days to the 14th of October, which we already detected as the 1st of Tishri, we come to the day, at which the ancient Israelites would have celebrated their Day of Atonement in 1844.

And that would be according to Cocker: $14 + 9 = 23$. The 23rd of October 1844.

Wait a minute! In Adventism we still teach that the Yom Kippur day of the year 1844 fell on the 22nd of October and that the Millerites were expecting the second coming of Jesus on this very day. Now it is at once the 23rd instead of the 22nd? Is everything wrong now in Adventism?

No, calm down and think!

Of course the Millerites and the "Movement of the Seventh Month" did not have such programs as we have it today and there was no way for them to observe what could have been seen at those eligible days at sunset in Jerusalem. Further, it was not clear by what criteria the new month has to be determined. Without going too deep into detail, let us ask Ellen White herself, who was an eyewitness of those events on the day of the "great disappointment", what really happened and at what time they expected Jesus:

With bated breath the Adventists, no less than fifty thousand and probably nearer one hundred thousand scattered largely across the northeastern portion of North America, arose to greet the eventful day, Tuesday, October 22, 1844.

Some sought vantage points where they could peer into the clear heavens, hoping to catch a first glimpse of the coming of their returning Lord. When would Jesus come? The morning hours slowly passed and noon came, then midafternoon; finally, darkness settled upon the earth. But it was still October 22, and it would be till midnight. At last that hour came, but Jesus did not come. The disappointment was almost beyond description. {1BIO 53.2-3}

According to our very exact calculation we come to the conclusion that the Millerites and the whole Advent movement, who had calculated this "very last date" for the coming after the previous "little disappointment", actually had been waiting a day too early for the coming of the Lord. But they had made their calculation of this "last possible date of the coming" biblically accurate and very similar to the way how the Jewish Karaites do it by determining the spring barley harvest of the Jewish year.

If we open the web site of the Karaites www.karaite-korner.org, we find at this purely Jewish site, which normally does not deal anyhow with other religions, surprisingly links to sites with the Adventist debate. Once to a site of adversaries of Adventism and once to the Adventist response which is very well-founded at Pickle Publishing. But in this discussion it is not about the exact day - as here - but about whether the month would be correct because the Jews celebrated their Yom Kippur already at 23rd of September in this important year 1844.

What causes this discrepancy of exactly one month? The seventh Jewish month is the seventh crescent moon calculated from the first FC moon and this of course depended on when the Jewish year had begun and when the first month was determined. We still have to talk in detail about how the first biblical month really was determined because there is a lot depending on it. For now, just note this: There are at least two groups of Jews, the Rabbinical who determine their beginning of the year after the Rabbi Hillel II calendar, and the Karaites who rely on their beginning of the year in a more biblical manner - as they say - to the barley harvest alone. I will explain to you these two methods to determine the Jewish beginning of the year in detail and you will recognize very soon that ... both are flawed!

But now many are blaming us Adventists and say we would have errors in our calculations. The worst is that they accuse Ellen White because her visions would have confirmed the date and if it would not be correct, she would be "once again" exposed as false prophet.

First we must understand that the knowledge of the biblical truths and the biblical ceremonial law was still very low at that time. The Sabbath had not yet been recognized, even less the beginning of the Jewish day at sunset. All this should be discovered years later. So, Jesus for example for 16 years did not estimate it necessary to explain to Ellen White that the biblical beginning of the day for the Sabbath celebration is not at 18:00 hours but at the moment of the sunset. But if Jesus at that time did not consider it to be important, that does not mean that it would be as unimportant for us nowadays. The knowledge is growing and my findings in the Jewish ceremonial law and the shadows services and feasts would not have been possible without an accurate understanding of the truly biblical calculation of the beginnings of days, months and years.

Let us examine the statements of Ellen White about the 22nd of October 1844 and what she says exactly:

So history records these miraculous events in Sweden for later generations to recall, lest the Adventists forget or deny the mighty power of God at work in the Advent proclamation of the 1840's and the significance of the judgment that began in the Most Holy Place of the heavenly sanctuary October 22, 1844. {EGWE 108.5}

When exactly did Yom Kippur day begin? At the evening of 22nd of October to the 23rd of October 1844 at sunset. Ellen White's statement is absolutely right. The judgment began exactly at the evening of the 22nd of October 1844! It did not begin at the 23rd of October because that would be about 6 hours late. Our moon calculations confirm exactly this date.

In her biography, we read:

Also she was shown that they were at the beginning of a path, rather than at the end of it, as they had supposed. {BIO 59.3}

It is about the beginning of the judgment and again this was exactly at the 22nd of October, as our calculation shows: sunset at the evening of 22nd of October 1844 to 23rd of October.

In Early Writings, we read about the closed and open door, the true event that took place at this sunset of the 22nd October: Jesus concluded the service in the Holy Place and went on to serve in Holiest Place. No contradiction, all correct!

The only slightly problematic comment from Ellen White that I could find, is from the Great Controversy:

The tenth day of the seventh month, the great Day of Atonement, the time of the cleansing of the sanctuary, which in the year 1844 fell upon the twenty-second of October, was regarded as the time of the Lord's coming. This was in harmony with the proofs already presented that the 2300 days would terminate in the autumn, and the conclusion seemed irresistible. {GC 399.4}

After our definition, the Day of Atonement in the year 1844 would not have fallen upon the 22nd of October but upon the 23rd; but anyhow, this Day of Atonement was never really kept in any place in the world. On the Karaite website we can read that they would not have held at this day their Day of Atonement. (I will show later why they think so.) But it is true that the Day of Atonement began on the 22nd of October 1844! It is a purely dialectical question, for in truth, a part of Yom Kippur fell upon the 22nd of October and another part upon 23rd of October. This is not enough to reprimand Ellen White as a false prophet! But we learn from this how important it is to understand these issues well in order to meet our opponents with the truth.

At the end of our short trip to this topic I want to give the counsel that we should be very careful in our articulation. The properly calculated Day of Atonement would have fallen upon the 23rd of October, but Jesus went definitely at the 22nd of October 1844 into the Holiest of Holies and the Great Judgment Day in heaven began at sunset of 22nd of October 1844 after the Gregorian calendar. The Pioneers had identified the new moon of 12th of October as the beginning of the month, and not the first crescent, as they later also mistakenly thought the Sabbath would begin at 18:00 hours. But Jesus tells us by the prophet Daniel:

*But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased. (Daniel 12:4)

The Biblical Year

In this series, nobody can get around to deal with the unusual Jewish calendar and the complicated-looking feasts. The Bible is full of it and that has a reason that has hitherto not been recognized. Therefore, a little more about the Jewish calendar calculations. We now know that the Jewish month begins with the first crescent (FC) moon and this is every month the same. Now we want to find out when the Jewish year begins resp. began.

First at all there are two theories and calendars. Our "Jerushah" used only one of it, and moreover, one that was probably not in use at this time.

To get into this issue, we need to understand that spring in ancient Israel began with the equinox in March like in our culture. Given the shifts in time of the last 2000 years, the equinox of spring then was around 23rd of March (Julian calendar), and today is around 20th of March. By the way, all my dates will be given in Gregorian dates (after 1582 AD) and Julian dates (before AD 1582). The programs recommended by me, automatically apply the conversion. It is just important for you to know that with the introduction of the Gregorian calendar, the order of the sequence of days did not change and it is mainly about this, because we want to know, whether it was possible that Jesus in the year 31 indeed died on a Friday, spent a Saturday in the tomb and resurrected on a Sunday morning, as we have always been taught.

By the 4th century (there is also a lot of dispute about when exactly, but all agree that it was centuries after Christ), we know that a famous Rabbi Hillel has introduced a calendar that determined the first Jewish month, "Nissan", in the way that it began with the FC moon that was closest to the spring equinox. Some call this calendar "Hillel II" and the previously existing "Hillel I", which of course is not quite right, because Hillel was not even born at that time. But I would like to stay also with this nomenclature because it is so beautifully simple.

Some are assuming now that before Rabbi Hillel and his Hillel II calendar, the Jewish rule for the beginning of the year was to use the first FC moon after the spring equinox or falling together with the spring equinox. As we shall see, the advocates of this theory have come very close to the truth, but there is still lacking something.

So, there are two possible calendars that depend entirely on the spring equinox (March 23 at that time, March 20 today), and one of these was provably introduced centuries after Christ. And exactly this is the one that our Jerushah uses in his open letter ... There he is committing his first big error and many others do the same.

So you think we just need to use the Hillel I calendar and everything is hunky-dory? Far from it! But first let us summarize the possibilities for the beginning of the year we have found so far:

Four Methods

Thus, we already see from the analysis of the various theories of the beginning of the biblical month and year that there are some inconsistencies and uncertainties. If there would be anything included in the biblical feast days for us as last generation, we have first to recognize that it was none other than Satan, who has created so much confusion and we now are having the task of bringing order out of chaos.

We have found so far four different ways in which the Jews in the year 31 might have determined the beginning of their first month "Nissan". Those methods are used by many web sites interchangeably and everybody is assuming the method that supports better the ideas of the author.

1. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the astronomical new moon which is closest to the spring equinox.
2. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the astronomical new moon which is after the spring equinox or falls upon it.
3. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the FC moon which is closest to the spring equinox.
4. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the FC moon which is after the spring equinox or falls upon it.

Jerushah picked out just one of these four methods, the Hillel II method (No. 3), and this method is very unlikely to be the correct one, since we know that Rabbi Hillel introduced the calculation with the FC moon closest to the spring equinox just centuries after the year A.D. 31.

The Karaites

We also cannot get around of this group of Jews, when we are considering what was probably the true calculation of the biblical beginning of the year. They claim - and this seemingly honest - that they would try to reverse the Jewish calendar which was reformed by Rabbi Hillel and to return to the observance of the original biblical calendar demanded by Jehovah. Therefore, they exclude completely the use of the astronomical new moon, because they understand that God showed Moses something in the night sky, when he said to him:

This month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you. (Exodus 12:2)

The word for month is "hodesh" and actually it means "new moon". So if God wanted to teach Moses the beginning of the month, then He pointed to the first crescent, for if there would have been nothing (astronomical new moon), He could not have been showing something. I agree with these Karaites and therefore we will put aside in the future the astronomical new moons, which last sometimes even for 2 or 3 days and would cause other problems in determining the beginning of the month. Only in the calculation of the possible weekdays for the Passover in the year A.D. 31, we will still use it for completeness.

I would now like to present in brief form what the Karaites think. At Nissan 16, the 16th day of the first Jewish month, there has to be offered a certain ceremonial sacrifice: the waving of the sheaf of first fruits.

Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: And he shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it. (Leviticus 23:10,11)

According to the Jewish tradition, the sheaf of first fruits consists of the first barley, since barley ripens first of all grain crops, about one month earlier than the others. Unfortunately, we do not have many other biblical references, but it is a logical conclusion that there has to come up a problem for this spring festival, the second day after the Passover, if there simply wouldn't be any ripe barley available, isn't it? How should the Jews "wave the sheaf" if they could not find any ripe sheaf of barley?

This apparent problem led to the very correct assumption that the beginning of the year would have to be postponed if at the end of the 12th month, no ripe barley (Abib) was available. In this case they had to wait for the next FC moon. But in this way they knew at least two weeks before the Passover festival, whether the sheaf could really be woven at Nissan 16 or not. In the Jewish culture, there does not exist a leap year with an extra day every four years, like we know it, but a 13th month, a leap month. And of course it is heavily discussed again, how this should be determined.

The Rabbinic Jews have a permanent system that intercalates every 19 years a leap month (which incidentally leads to very interesting mathematical problems and a gradual shift of the beginning of the year in comparison with the real solar year), while the Karaite Jews determine their leap month by the Abib (which simply means "ripeness") of barley, what makes far more sense in the view of the Bible:

This day came ye out in the month Abib. (Exodus 13:4)

Observe the month of Abib, and keep the passover unto the LORD thy God: for in the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by night. (Deuteronomy 16:1)

But what about the equinox? This question is completely ignored by the Karaites. They just look at the end of their 12th month for the Abib and if they find it, the next crescent moon marks immediately the 1st of Nissan. If they cannot find it, they intercalate a 13th month and at the end of this month they search again. The beginning of the year for the Karaites is therefore just indirectly dependent on the sun since it gives light and warmth for plant growth. Their determination is more agricultural and less astronomical.

If we now add the Karaite calculation of the beginning of the year to our list of four methods, we get already five ways how the Jewish beginning of the year could have been calculated. Do you see how much confusion was brought in?

1. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the astronomical new moon which is closest to the spring equinox.
2. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the astronomical new moon which is after the spring equinox or falls upon it.
3. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the FC moon which is closest to the spring equinox.
4. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the FC moon which is after the spring equinox or falls upon it.
5. Beginning of the year (Nissan 1) at the FC moon if the Abib could be found.

The Adventist pioneers after the "first disappointment" of 1843 began in the summer of 1844 to teach that Jesus would have to come back "at the latest on 22nd of October 1844, if this year would have been preceded by a leap month because of the absence of the Abib (the 13th month, of course, always belongs to the previous year). We shall see that they were absolutely right!

To the interested reader who would like to delve deeper into this subject and know more details, I would like to recommend especially the web site of the Karaites www.karaite-korner.org and the very informative text on Pickle Publishing. I will limit myself to present here only the facts that are important to understand the solution. I do not want to make it too long.

It will therefore be our task to find out which of these methods is correct and that is certainly not an easy task, as this problem before us no one has solved. The amazing fact about the solution will be that none of the methods will result as completely wrong, but neither as completely right. In this first part of the shadow series, we will find the true biblical method which was still in use at the time of Jesus and only with this knowledge the amazing calculations of the third part have been possible, which in a marvelous way will re-confirm our findings from the first part.

The Passover Feast

According to the Bible, the Passover festival takes place on Nissan 14, in the first Jewish month. That is why it is so important to find out when the Jewish year begins. And of course also the other spring festivals and the fall feasts depend on it. Generally, it is believed that the Israelites were just looking out for the crescent moon before or after the spring equinox, or sought the Abib and if the crescent was visible at sunset they knew that this was that the beginning of the first day of the month Nissan. Then they were able to solemnly proclaim this throughout Israel and the people had almost two weeks time to travel to Jerusalem and to gather there for the preparations of the Passover, which began with the removal of leaven from their houses and the sacrifice of the Passover lamb.

In Adventism is believed that the 14th of Nissan of the year 31, was a Friday and the 15th of Nissan, the first day of the seven days of unleavened bread, would have been a ceremonial day of rest (Sabbath) that fell in this year 31 exactly upon a Seventh-day Sabbath. Therefore, it would have fallen a ceremonial Sabbath "accidentally" upon a Seventh-day Sabbath.

Let's read God's instructions for the Passover:

In the fourteenth day of the first month at even is the LORD'S passover. And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread. In the first day ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. But ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD seven days: in the seventh day is an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. (Leviticus 23:5-8)

Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: And he shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it. (Leviticus 23:10,11)

At this point I'd like to create a small table, to give you some help. The table also includes the days of the week as we Adventists teach them. This table reflects exactly what we find in our Adventist Bible Commentary.

Jewish Date	Nissan 14	Nissan 15	Nissan 16
Name of the Feast	Passover (Lev. 23:5)	1st Day of Unleavened Bread (Lev. 23:6)	2nd Day of Unleavened Bread
Ceremony (Type)	At the 9th hour (15:00 hours) the lamb was slain and eaten at sunset (next day)	Ceremonial Sabbath - Day of Rest	Waving of the Sheaf of First Fruits (Lev. 23,10-11) at the third day after Passover
Jesus - the true Passover Lamb (Antitype)	Jesus has the Last Supper with his disciples at sunset on Thursday and then goes into the garden of Gethsemane, where He is arrested. After this the night and day courts follow, and Jesus is crucified and dies before the end of the day at the 9th hour. Before sunset of Friday, the beginning of the Sabbath, Jesus is laid in the grave.	Jesus rests from His work in the tomb.	Jesus' resurrection at the morning of the third day.
Weekday (as taught by Adventists)	Sunset Thursday - Sunset Friday	Sunset Friday - Sunset Saturday	Sunset Saturday - Sunset Sunday

According to the Jewish inclusive calculation, Jesus spent the predicted three days in the tomb. A small part before sunset on Friday (1st day, 14th of Nissan), the entire Sabbath (2nd day, 15th of Nissan) and the night from sunset on Sabbath until Sunday morning (3rd day, 16th of Nissan). The sacrifice of the first fruits, the waving of a specific type of grain, according to the ceremonial law had to take place the day after the "Sabbath".

Now, the Passover falls only in certain years upon a Friday, that the ceremonial Sabbath (Nissan 15) falls upon a real Seventh-day Sabbath. In the year of the crucifixion of Jesus that was exactly the case.

We know this from John 19:31:

The Jews therefore, because it was the preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away.

The most likely completely correct expert opinion is that a so-called "high Sabbath" or a "great Sabbath" was present whenever a ceremonial Sabbath fell upon a real Seventh-day Sabbath. Of course there is again discussion in Christian circles, as obviously everything must be questioned which is expressed in simple form in the Bible. But it is certain that here in the Bible is mentioned a very special feature of this particular Sabbath, which can be found nowhere else in the Bible. If we could prove that Jesus actually died on a Friday in A.D. 31, then this would be also the proof that "high Sabbath" means the coincidence of a ceremonial Sabbath with a Seventh-day Sabbath. In the third part of this series this will become very important.

If we would have to find out that Jesus in A.D. 31 impossibly could have died on a Friday, that would be the worst case scenario for Adventism. The question would then be a "life or death" issue for us as Adventists!

Therefore, it is now time to calculate the year A.D. 31 with the above-mentioned five methods, and to see if the Passover of Nissan 14 perhaps could have fallen upon a Friday in A.D. 31...

The Verification

For the calculation with the first four methods, we must know the date of the spring equinox. Redshift gives the answer: March 23, A.D. 31, 6:24 hours, Jerusalem time.

Now we have to look for the astronomical new moon before the spring equinox. Redshift says: March 12, A.D. 31, 0:23 hours.

And the astronomical new moon after the spring equinox: April 10, A.D. 31, 13:37 hours.

The astronomical new moon closest to the vernal equinox is that of March 12 (11 days of difference). The astronomical new moon of April 10 has even a distance of 18 days.

According to method 1, beginning of the year with the astronomical new moon, which is closest to the vernal equinox, the Passover would have fallen upon March 25, A.D. 31. Let us quickly look up in the weekday calculator which day of the week this was: Sunday. Unfortunately, this was not a Friday.

According to method 2, beginning of the year with the astronomical new moon, which is after to the vernal equinox or coincides with it, (April 10) the Passover would have fallen upon April 23, A.D. 31. Let us again quickly look up in the weekday calculator which day of the week this was: Monday. Unfortunately, this was also not a Friday.

For method 3, beginning of the year with the FC moon which is closest to the vernal equinox, we have to calculate first with "Accurate Times". If you want to check the results, please repeat exactly the steps that I have shown you at the sample with 1844. Just enter March 12, 31 as the date. In order to shorten the process, I only will show the visibility map of March 12 and the "fulfillment day".

First sunset of March 12:

The area that covers Israel is blue and there would have been necessary optical instruments to discover this FC moon. Those instruments did not exist in A.D. 31. Excluded!

Now March 13, 31:

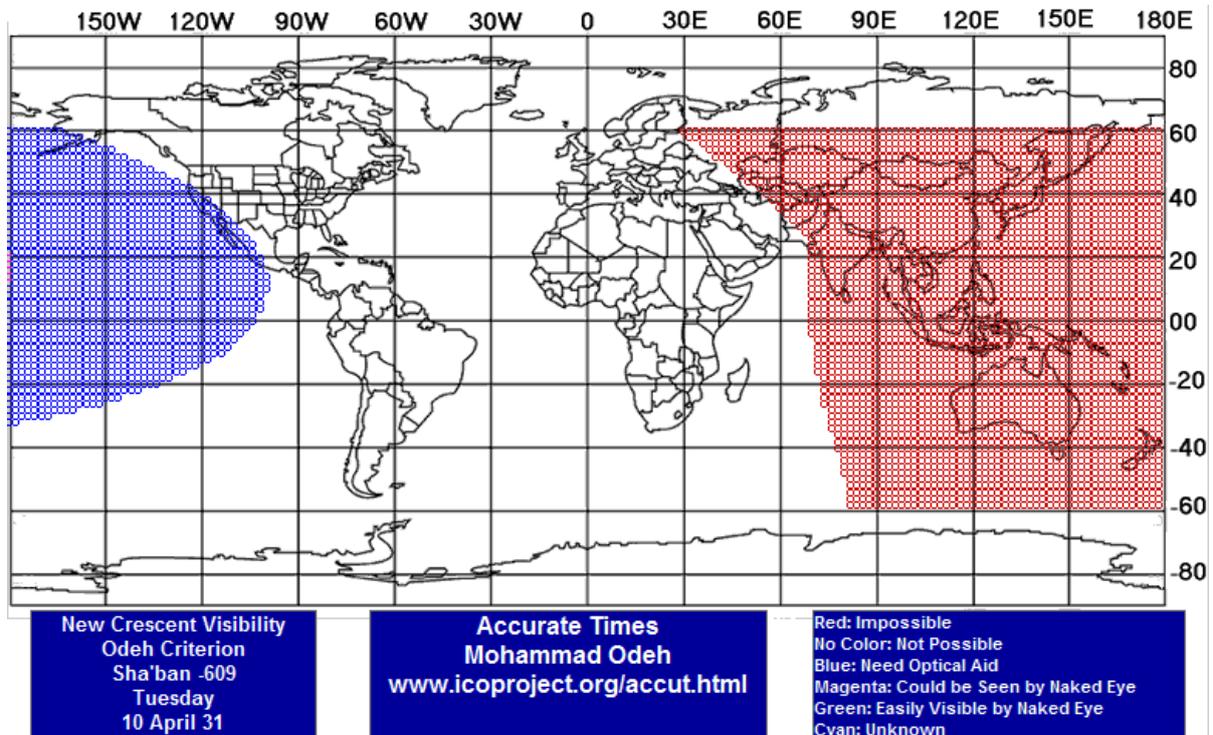

Green! This is the sunset with the FC moon we are looking for. The program tells us that this was a Tuesday evening ... So the first Nissan would have been Wednesday, March 14, A.D. 31. Let's add quickly 13 days in the date calculator to come to Nissan 14: Tuesday, 27th of March A.D. 31.

Again, not a Friday!

But we have still two chances left!

Let's check method 4. According to it, the beginning of the year (1st of Nissan) falls on the FC moon following the vernal equinox or coincides with it. In Accurate Times, we therefore have to use the astronomical new moon date of April 10, A.D. 31 to find the FC-moon.

No, this is impossible. Let's check the other day:

Yes, Israel is green! A Wednesday, April 11, A.D. 31. So, Nissan 1 is Thursday, April 12, A.D.31. And Passover? Wednesday, 25th of April, A.D. 31. Again not a Friday and now it will be a tight squeeze!

For, if we examine now method 5 and follow the rules of the Karaites on their own website, the Abib is first checked in March. If they would have found it in March, the Passover would have taken place after the FC moon of March and this date we already calculated: Tuesday, 27th of March, A.D. 31.

And if we would assume that they couldn't find the Abib in March, we automatically get to the next FC moon in April. Also this Passover, we have already calculated: Wednesday, 25th of April, A.D. 31.

Five different methods and none of the Passovers falls on a Friday. What a shame!

Is it over now with Adventism, as "Jerushah" states fervently?

Let's listen to some isolated voices in our midst, who try to defend us against this apparently fatal attack ...

Pathetic Attempts to Explain

At YouTube, we can see and hear a nice sermon of the Adventist pastor Michael Kunz, which represents the "ultimate" of Adventist answers to this dilemma. I first heard this sermon with great joy, but then I noticed something perturbing.

Michael Kunz explains there basically the same facts that I told you before. He tells us that there is a terrible attack against Adventism because we would not be able to solve the A.D. 31 problem with the Friday. He remarked sadly, that he has been a pastor for decades and even he would have been shaken in the very foundations of his creed. He asked at the outset that no one should leave the room, because he first would have to show that it is really so bad with Adventism, but at the end of his short sermon - that even does not last half an hour, he would show everybody the solution to this problem. He stressed so much that no one should leave the conference before the end of his sermon, because otherwise the person probably never would return to Adventism, missing the solution of the problem.

Despite of my super slow internet connection here at the country side, I watched the whole sermon, which arrived stop-and-go and heavily interrupted for over two hours, with bated breath and high suspense. I wanted to know what the solution to this seemingly irresolvable problem was ...

I saw the time counter of the sermon reaching the last three minutes ... And he was still talking about how bad everything was. But then it finally came! And the solution was so simple. We are all just too blind ...

Giving the gist of the speech, this is what Pastor Michael Kunz said in his sermon of February 13, 2010:

Indeed, the problem is not whether the Passover fell really on a Friday astronomically! The real question is whether it could have fallen on a Friday, according to a human perspective, and by taking into account all errors, which at that time in A.D. 31 could have been possible with the observation of the new crescent moon.

All the world believes that the Passover would have fallen on Wednesday, April 25, as this was the only date astronomically correct and in accordance with the rules of the prevailing Jewish calendar [presumably Hillel I, new moon after the vernal equinox] of that time. But the Jews of that time put on guards to discover the first small crescent ...

So, what if the guards did not discover the very first crescent at sunset on Wednesday, April 11, A.D. 31? Then the 1st of Nisan would have been delayed by one day. And if the bad weather conditions lasted even longer, then there could have been a delay of even another day. After a human perspective, an error of two days at that time without astronomical calculation programs and computers cannot be excluded.

Go home tranquil now! Adventism is not dead, for it was possible that the Passover would have to fall on a Friday because of human error.

So far, the well-intentioned attempt to explain of this certainly pleasant pastor. At first, I thought this would have been something new that he had discovered by himself through severe study of the subject. Later however, I noticed that he indeed only repeated what was already written long time ago in our Adventist Bible Commentary.

On page 252 volume 5 of the Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary, we read under the heading "Possible Years for a Friday Crucifixion":

b. The month beginning three days and about four hours after the new moon of April, A.D. 31 (approximately April 14), if reckoned by a somewhat longer but possible interval after the astronomical new moon (the 14th being Friday, April 27).

This in other words, is exactly what Pastor Michael Kunz explained to us. You have just to "cheat" a little and it fits perfectly. Let us just simply assume that the guards were drunk on the first day and bad weather on the second and we have eliminated the problem.

But nobody can accuse our scholars and say that we Adventists would have never reviewed a calendar. In our Bible Commentary you can read on many large pages printed with small letters (p. 251-266) about an exact analysis of this problem and this is the first slap in the face of "Jerushah", who, while attacking Adventism, does not know anything about our basic writings and declarations. But I admit that even I previously never heard about this problem through a pastor or elder, and therefore did not know that we since the beginning of Adventism do very well know about the "year 31 issue" and are satisfied with a solution "due to human error".

If you read our Bible Commentary, and find in the appendix on this topic even letters of astronomical institutions from the 1950s, it can happen at some point, that after so many quite difficult to digest readings, you snap the commentary shut and say, "Well, these are all experts. They certainly know what is correct!" Afterwards you switch off the bedside lamp and try to recover your brain in sleep. Honestly, I tended to react exactly like this....

But then, the Holy Spirit didn't let me rest anymore. An internal struggle took place in me, and this led me again and again to the garden of Gethsemane, and to the introductory words of Ellen White in "The Desire of Ages" to the chapter "Gethsemane":

In company with His disciples, the Saviour slowly made His way to the garden of Gethsemane. The Passover moon, broad and full, shone from a cloudless sky. The city of pilgrims' tents was hushed into silence.

Have you ever seen the moon two days after the full moon? Was it still a full moon for you? Please, observe this next month, or get yourself this "Redshift" program, which is able to simulate even the "full moon" of the year A.D. 31 on Friday, April 27.

No, it is easy to distinguish and you can see clearly that this is no full moon anymore! And now comes the problem: Ellen White has always said that she had been shown these crucial scenes in vision. She saw the full moon in the garden of Gethsemane and Jesus and his disciples there!

So, if we allow human error in the sighting of the new moon and thus leave aside the astronomical calculations, we automatically make Ellen White a liar, because on April 27, A.D. 31, there was definitely no full moon visible in Gethsemane.

And if we make ourselves Ellen White a false prophetess, then even more Adventism has come to an end.

Another problem. If we allow such big errors in the calculation of the FC moons, we can actually refrain from studying prophecy which is based on the festivals, because all of it depend on the FC moons. If this would be the solution, then, dear brothers and sisters, our Lord in A.D. 31 was not crucified according to the astronomical rules He had setup by Himself as the Creator. Then it was not the intention of Jesus to rest on a prophetically and astronomically predictable Seventh-day Sabbath in the grave. Then the connection between astronomy and prophecy, and also the possible real explanation for the many lunar Sabbaths in the Bible cannot be found. Then Christ just knew before that the guards in A.D. 31 would be drunk and nothing has to do with the astronomical determination of the festival dates. And then we can also forget that the following Bible verse would contain any reference to a prophetic significance of the moon and the sun:

And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years: (Genesis 1:14)

And this kind of mindset was probably the reason that no one in 166 years since the existence of our community really started to ponder about the problem, prayed over it and finally found the real, beautiful and harmonious solution.

We are in a terrible dilemma, brothers and sisters! So far we only know that Friday, the 27th of April A.D. 31 is astronomically wrong and that on this wrong Friday no full moon was shining in Gethsemane, as claimed by Ellen White. Who helps us out of this trouble?

The Solution of the Moon Sabbath Keepers

In this dire hour, the Moon Sabbath Keepers who have been trained on this problem for many years by the Grace Amadon Collection, are offering themselves as Saviors of Adventism and are reaching out their hands to pull us out of the "quicksand of time". Who does not know what the Grace Amadon Collection is, should know that this is a huge collection of studies that was presented to our General Conference in the early 1930s. Grace Amadon was the daughter of one of our pioneers and had studied for decades the biblical calendar, and had come to the (wrong) conclusion that the true Seventh-day Sabbath would be depend on the crescent moon. The General Conference respectively the Biblical Research Institute has never confirmed that this would be true, but it has also failed to study the true meaning of the festivals which indeed depend on the FC moons, and this negligence is the reason why these studies come up again today and are in process to deviate many of our members from keeping the Seventh-day Sabbath on Saturday and want to "convert" the whole Adventist Church to this new system. They call it "The Great Calendar Reform" or "The Great Sabbath Reform."

The solution to the A.D. 31 problem of the Moon Sabbath Keepers is as simple as striking:

As mentioned earlier, most of them look like the Jews for the first crescent moon (with different criteria, but that should not bother us) and begin with it their Sabbath-counting method. This first day of the lunar month is the first Sabbath! Some groups, however, keep the astronomical new moon as Sabbath, which can last from one to three days. So, one has to pre-cook a lot as a Lunar Sabbath Keeper, if the new moon Sabbath lasts for three days. Then they continue to count beginning with the first Sabbath and keep their Sabbath every seven days. In this way, they keep their Sabbaths in a certain month at intervals of 7 days, but the day of the week varies according to the FC moon (or astronomical new moon) because it falls on different weekdays according to the beginning of every new month. They claim to have found the true biblical Sabbath and to be the only true and genuine Seventh-day Adventists.

Hence they state that Jesus would have rested in the grave on a "Sabbath" no matter what weekday he would have died. The First Day of Unleavened Breads that always follows the Passover is according to Exodus 23:7 a ceremonial day of rest (in Hebrew "Sabbath") and always falls on their Lunar "Seventh-day Sabbath". Thus type and antitype would have been fulfilled perfectly even if Jesus would have died on Wednesday, 25th of April A.D. 31 because for them Thursday would have been a "Seventh-day Sabbath", Nissan 15.

For them, every festival which is described in the divine orders like this: "[this day] ye shall have an holy convocation, ye shall do no servile work therein" is automatically a Sabbath. And as the day after the Passover was anyhow declared a Sabbath, it is totally irrelevant which day of the week it would be.

Wow, thank you very much, dear Lunar Sabbath Keepers! Now you have saved Adventism and we can all sleep calmly again. From now on we will all use the "Accurate Times" program and watch the sunset skies to observe if there is the small crescent visible. And then we tell our employers that we would stay at home every month on different weekdays and this will make them surely very glad.

No, friends, it is not that simple! Indeed, the festive Sabbaths have a very complicated rhythm and they do not all have exactly a distance of seven days. In the spring festivals, we also find the rule to count after the First Day of Unleavened Bread seven times seven days to come to the day before Pentecost, and that each of these seventh days is again a ceremonial Sabbath. And this count covers three full months and already in the second month your "Seventh-day Sabbaths" are out of rhythm with this divine order. Another problem for you is that Nissan 16, the day of the First Fruits one day after the First Day of Unleavened Breads was also declared a Sabbath. What is the meaning of all this? Exactly this, no one of you is able to explain precisely.

Oh, I can almost prophesy that those Lunar Sabbath Keepers among you who prefer to use the astronomical new moons, will now argue that this would be the explanation of the above discrepancies of the three-day Sabbath in a row (Passover, Unleavened Breads, First Fruits) because the new moon could last up to three days. No, it cannot be, because the Passover feast is always on Nissan 14, which always falls on a full moon and not on the new moon. Forget it! Your explanations will not save Adventism, but brings it into deeper trouble.

The only thing you can explain regarding the festivals, is that Jesus, according to your theory, could have died in any given year at any given month in spring at any weekday, and would have rested automatically at a ceremonial Sabbath in the grave. But with this you do not save Adventism, because we clearly teach that Jesus died on a Friday.

You are not able to explain, how the other Sabbaths of the spring festivals should prophetically be fulfilled. For you, every ceremonial Sabbath is automatically a fulfillment. You eradicate the real Seventh-day Sabbath and declare the ceremonial Sabbath to its own fulfillment. So, everything fulfills at any given point in time and in every single year. This is pure nonsense and has no significance!

What you offer as an apparent support, leads to the complete destruction of Adventism because you are deviating us from keeping the real Creation Sabbath and make us sin. And so, we would all perish and Satan would have achieved his goal.

The Choice

Hence, we may choose between the following possibilities:

1. We admit that we were wrong with the Friday and that Jesus was not crucified on a Friday. So we would prove "Jerushah" right.
2. We accept the Bible Commentary solution and declare that Jesus out "of human error" was crucified on a Friday. This implies, however, that Ellen White has been misled with the full moon and is not a true messenger of God.
3. We accept the solution of the Lunar Sabbath Keepers and forget the Saturday Sabbath and start keeping from now our Sabbaths according to the crescent moons each month on a different weekday.

What option do you prefer? All are leading to the end of Adventism, as we know it.

Or do you want to see now the real solution? In this case, please read on at Full Moon at Gethsemane - Part II.

Three Months of Spring

After all the many pages I could read on the Internet, on various websites and in our Bible Commentary, I noticed that apparently nobody had ever considered the possibility that the Passover could have fallen on May of A.D. 31. Spring lasts always three months and not just two, right?

So why not? Because all the "scholars" always assume that Passover can only be in March or April. But is that really so? Before I will analyze this issue profoundly, let's calculate what would have happened if the Passover in A.D. 31 AD would have been determined according to the FC moon of May, OK?

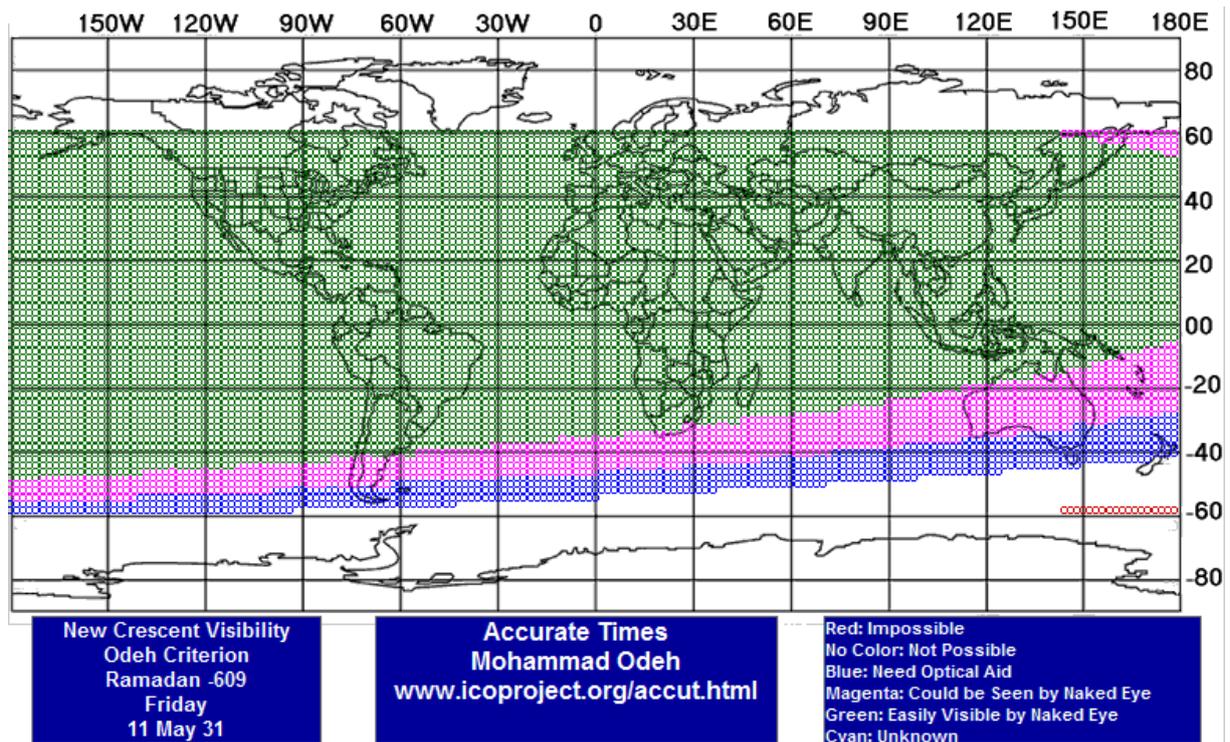

Redshift and Accurate Times tell us that the new moon of May A.D. 31 fell upon the 10th.

Now, let's look together for the first crescent. First at 10th of May:

No, it wasn't visible. Blue!

Now the 11th of May A.D. 31:

Yes, we found it! Israel is covered with green. This was the sunset of Friday, May 11 to Saturday May 12.

So Nissan 1 would have fallen upon Saturday, May 12, A.D. 31.

And now we check again by the weekday calculator at what date and in particular at what weekday the crucifixion of Christ would have taken place:

Friday, 25th of May A.D. 31

Too good to be true?

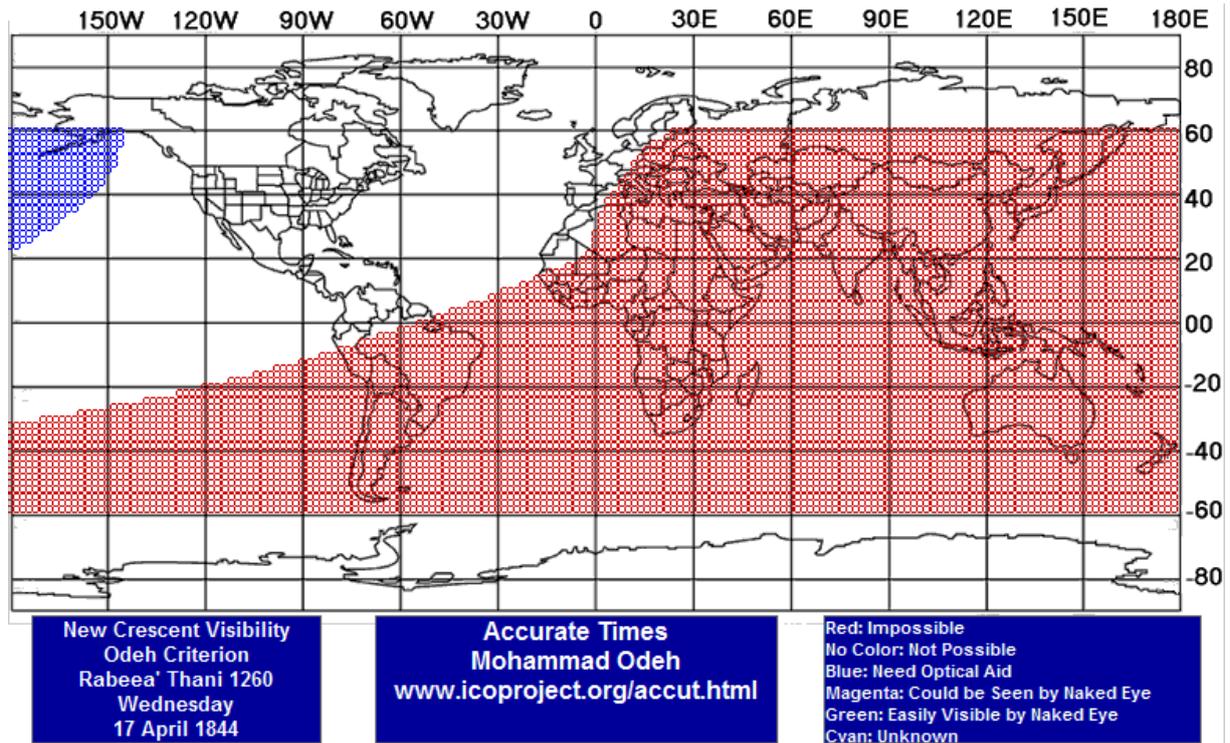

Unfortunately, all five previously established methods exclude May as a potential crucifixion month. On the opponent's website, which has been linked by the Karaites, we find an unwanted hint. There we are attacked because they estimate October 22, 1844 as scheduled too late and say that this would have made necessary a Passover in May 1844. And without further justification, they simply rule out May.

Let's check when the Passover would have been in 1844 according to astronomical calculations if our October 22 would be correct:

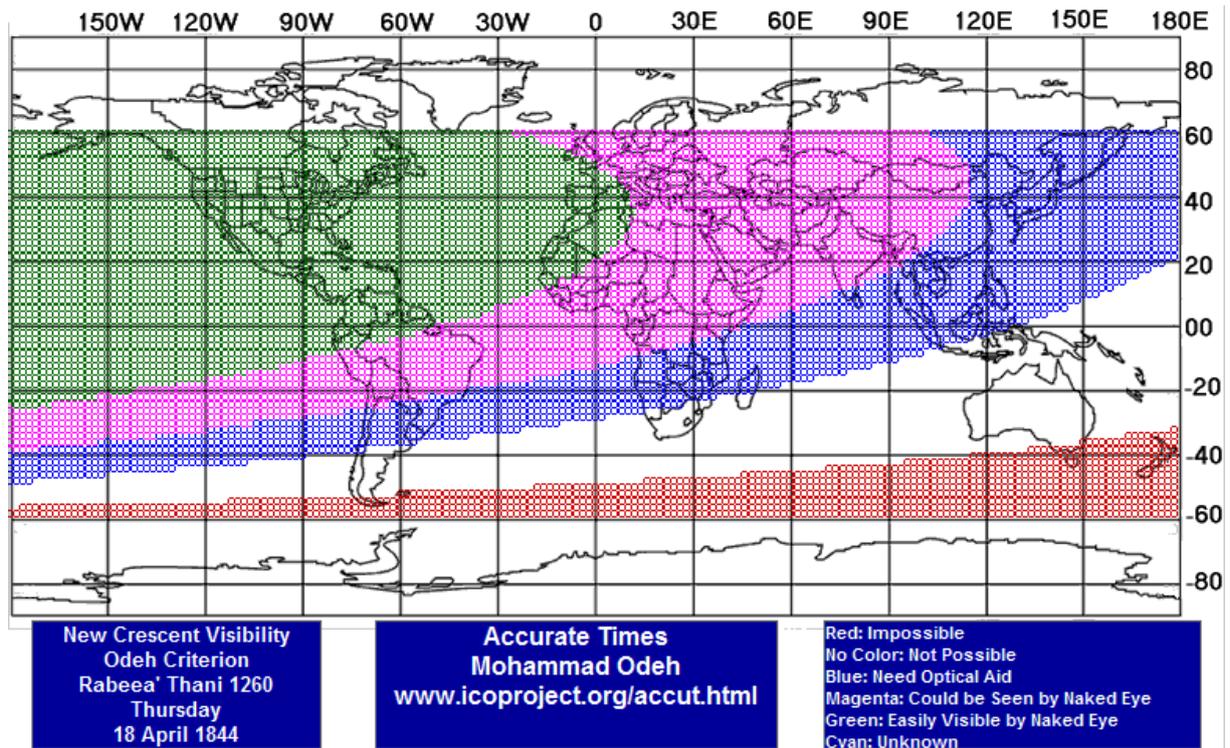

On a lunar calendar, we seek the new moon of the first month (Nissan) that corresponds to October (seventh month, Tishri). This was April 17, 1844 at 18:32 hours local time Jerusalem.

Now let's seek the corresponding FC moon of the first month:

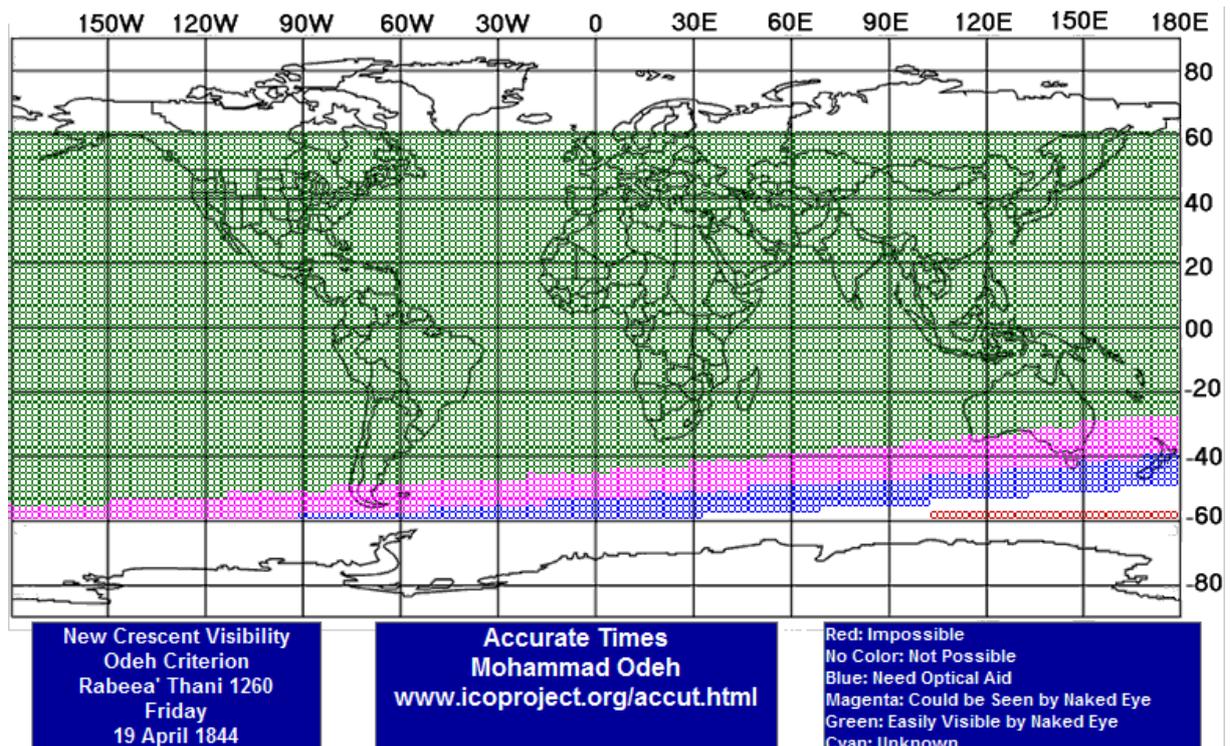

We try April 17, 1844:

No, then April 18, 1844:

Still not found! Then we look at April 19, 1844:

Yes, here it is. Nissan 1 would have been April 20, 1844.

The weekday calculator leads us to a Passover at Friday (!), May 3, 1844.

The whole Adventism is thus built upon a very late Passover festival in May and in 166 years no one had even the idea to check the May A.D. 31 if the crucifixion could have fallen on a Friday?

No, that's not quite so, there was ONE who actually did it like this!

And that was none other than our pioneer Samuel P. Snow, that Adventist who was the first to calculate correctly our 22nd of October 1844 and preached this date everywhere. He had been a student of Miller, thus later being the originator of the "Movement of the Seventh Month", which we understand as the Message of the Second Angel, in summer 1844.

He wrote in 1845 how he was able to show that Jesus was crucified in A.D. 31 in May:

But let us see if it was not in A. D. 31. In the first place let us understand and remember, that the Passover was always either, on the day in which the moon came to the full, or the day following. ...

We find also, that in A. D. 33, the full moon was on the 3rd day of April. From one full moon to another are about 29.5 days. The Karaite Passover in that year would be on the 3rd day of May. As the lunar months fall behind the solar 11 days every year, so, in reckoning backward from A. D. 33 to A.D. 31, there must be an addition of 11 days to each year, making, for the two years 22 days. We see then, that as in A.D. 33, the full moon was on the 3d of May, it must have occurred on the 25th of May in A. D. 31. The true Passover day must therefore have been either the 25th or 26th of May in that year.

Now our "October 22, 1844" pioneer consults a table of another author in order to calculate the weekday and promptly commits a small tracking mistake because this table already contained a little error:

Again, in the Appendix to Townsend's arrangement of the New Testament will be found a very accurate table, exhibiting the time of the occurrence of the passover (according to the Rabbinical Jews,) during our Saviour's life. In that table it is placed for A.D. 31, Tuesday, April 25th. Assuming this as undoubtedly correct, we shall find that 29.5 days which make a lunar month, extend to Thursday, May 25th.

Nowadays we know - and you can verify this by many programs - that April 25 A.D. 31 was not Tuesday but Wednesday and May 25 was not Thursday but already the wanted Friday. Snow had already found the correct date, but mistakenly believed because of the table error that it would be a Thursday. As Snow wanted to come to a Friday, he had to find an explanation that the Passover that he had calculated perfectly and precisely took place one day later, not on Thursday but on Friday that he supposed to be the 26th of May:

And as there is a small excess over 29.5 days in a lunar month, and also over 11 days to a year in the precession of the moon's changes, it came to the full in the latter part of the day. Consequently the passover was on the day following, which was Friday. We come then, to this conclusion, that our Lord was crucified, on Friday, May 26th, A. D. 31.

You can read all this in a document on the "scribd platform of documents", pages 186 and 187.

The author of this document, in which I found the quote of Snow is an advocate of a particular view of the course of events of A.D. 31, which we will analyze later in the second part of the shadow series. But his comment added to the statements of Samuel Snow contains some truth, for he writes:

There are several mistakes in his [Snow's] statements, because he was relying on wrong data. He did not have the resources we have today. For example, April 25th is Wednesday and May 26th is Saturday. Probably he [Snow] came to a wrong conclusion on account of this.

No, the conclusions of Snow had been perfectly right and he had not only found the exact day of the beginning of the Investigative Judgment in 1844, but he was also the first to know the exact date of the crucifixion of Jesus. Unfortunately, he was mistaken by just one single day because of a table bug. This is really excusable taking into account the resources of that age. If his table would have been right, he would have come to the same conclusion as we, namely that Jesus was crucified on the following date:

Friday, May 25 A.D. 31

Now it's very likely that this knowledge is making our "Jerushah" sweat, as well as the Moon Sabbath Keepers, as Samuel Snow's voice weighs more than the voice of John Scotram.

Which calendar was used by Snow?

Many believe that Snow would have calculated with the Karaite calendar because he mentions this. But the Karaites themselves deny fervently on their website that the Adventists would have used the Karaite calendar.

Where does this new confusion come from? Because the Karaites themselves made in 1860 another calendar reform. Previously, they observed the Passover almost always a month later than the Rabbinic Jews and from 1860 they started to have the same Passover that means one month early. The Karaites today do not determine the beginning of the year as the Karaites before 1860!

Let's try to understand that Snow, we, and the Karaites, all have the same goal. We want to understand the calendar again like it was understood by the biblical Israel. But we have the huge problem that this knowledge is lost and it does not tell us in the Bible precisely when the Jewish year began. God speaks only about the month of "Abib" and that means ripeness. He does not even say what fruit or cereal should be ripe. The Karaites assume the barley, because it is the first cereal in the year that gets ripe. And the Karaites since 1860 assume it correct to look for the barley already at new moon in March, even if it takes place before the vernal equinox. Why did the Karaite Jews before 1860 observe the Passover a month later than the Rabbinic Jews?

Many assumptions and questions, but nobody knows for sure. But now, with our knowledge about the true crucifixion day of the Lord, let's try to find out how the true calendar of God worked.

Because of our considerations and calculations, it is unreasonable to assume that the old Jewish calendar was based on astronomical new moons. We can therefore with certainty exclude methods 1 and 2.

What remains are the methods with the FC moon closest to the vernal equinox, the FC moon after the vernal equinox, and the Karaite solution. (But which one? The method before or after 1860?)

I would suggest to examine how we could get to May 25 A.D. 31 and to combine therefore the different methods and to document the results.

Method 3 had brought us to Wednesday, March 14, A.D. 31 as Nissan 1 by the FC moon that was closest to the vernal equinox. This led to a Passover at Tuesday, March 27 A.D. 31. If we combine method 3 and method 5, the Karaite investigation whether before March 14 (which would be far too early) ripe barley actually could be found in the fields; we would come up at most to the next month and therefore to the Passover date we calculated in method 4. This was Wednesday, April 25 A.D. 31. Thus it is impossible to reach May 25 A.D. 31 combining method 3 and method 5 of the Karaites.

The combination of method 3 and method 4 is impossible because they are mutually exclusive.

We now combine method 4 and method 5 of the Karaites. The first FC moon after the vernal equinox was visible at sunset of April 11, and thus, Nissan 1 fell upon April 12 A.D. 31. The corresponding Passover would have fallen like above upon April 25 A.D. 31. But now let's assume that the Jews made the Karaite barley check and could not find ripe barley before April 12. Then April would have been excluded as the beginning of the year and a 13th months would have been included. Just before the next new moon they would have repeated their barley search. The corresponding FC moon would have been visible at sunset of May 11 and this led us exactly to our date of the crucifixion on Friday, May 25 A.D. 31.

We can therefore state that according to our previous findings, method 1, method 2 and method 3 are completely ruled out. What led to the correct result was a combination of the FC moon after the vernal equinox and the Karaite barley harvest search to determine whether a 13th month had to be kept or not.

This corresponds to the combination of the views of large groups of scholars, because many see clearly that the Jews introduced the Hillel II calendar centuries later and used previously and most likely the FC moon after the vernal equinox. What they lack is, however, the Karaite barley harvest search and hence also this big group is partly right. The solution lies not in a method that I would have invented by my imagination, but has its fundament in two major doctrines in combination.

Are there any other clues that this is true?

Yes, one we find through reflection, one is given to us by Jesus in the Bible, and there is a marvelous confirmation through dreams that Jesus gives to a man who cannot interpret those dreams.

1. Through Reflection

Let's put ourselves back to the time when God gave to Moses the instructions for keeping the festivals. That was at the beginning of the wandering in the wilderness after the exodus from Egypt.

Now ask yourselves the question, how the Israelites could have determined for 40 years in the desert their new year, where they lived on manna, had no barley and operated no agriculture. There were no watches, no computers, yet you could call the time service of the telephone company. Difficult, isn't it?

According to our previous findings, how the true biblical calendar really worked, the hardest task for the Israelites at that time would have been the determination of the spring equinox. Could they do this?

Most likely this question is to answer with a resounding "yes". They had been slaves for 215 years in a land of people with a culture that understood a lot about solar observation because of their religion of sun worship; and the Israelites had a leader, Moses, who had received an excellent education in Pharaoh's Palace in all these things.

The determination of the equinox could have been done theoretically in two ways.

a) By measurements with the hourglass. Since the Egyptians were the inventors of the hourglass, as commonly believed, it is very probable that the Israelites requested some of these valuable hourglasses with all the other "gifts" from their Egyptian lords before they fled from Egypt. So, when the days lengthened again, one needed only to measure the length of the day and the length of the night with the hourglass; and if there was an equal number of hourglass turns the equinox was reached.

b) By measuring shadows. In Egypt obelisks were common, as large shadow pointers of sundials. On the length of the noon shadow, the equinox can easily be determined. Of course you need not to have an obelisk at hand to do it. Each vertically erected pole does the same when you have been told the relation of the length of the shadow relative to the rod length at equinox.

Thus, when the equinox was reached, they only had to lookout for the next crescent and this was the beginning of the first month Nissan.

Now let's cross-check our reflection

How would it have worked if the Israelites would have kept the calendar with the FC moon that was next to the vernal equinox? How should they have determined without astronomical calculation tools, whether a FC moon, which appeared before the equinox, would be closer to it, if they could not determine before the equinox upon which day it would fall? Impossible!

For us today this is no problem. But at that time in the wilderness it was impossible. For that reason alone, we can almost certainly rule out that method 3 would have been used in ancient Israel during the wandering in the desert; which in turn blends with the information of historians; that this method recently in the 4th Century AD was introduced by Rabbi Hillel when they already had far more developed astronomical calculation methods than 1,500 years before Christ.

The true biblical calendar is therefore not based on the rule of the FC moon closest to the vernal equinox, but to that which comes after the spring equinox or falls upon it.

But what is about the barley harvest search?

Let's read once more attentively the instruction the Lord gave to Moses in the desert:

Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: And he shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it. (Leviticus 23:10,11)

Here we can clearly understand that the 13th month based on the barley harvest (Abib) has not been introduced before the Israelites came to Canaan under Joshua (see Joshua chapter 5), even if the calendar was explained in its entirety to Moses already 40 years earlier.

We must imagine that the Israelites in the 215 years of slavery had forgotten everything that they knew earlier about their calendar. They had completely adopted the culture of the Egyptians, whose days began in the morning at sunrise instead of sunset; who determined their year in a complete different way and also their months. Therefore, God led the Israelites gradually back to the true divine calendar. First, he told them again to what was the correct beginning of the day. Then came the Sabbath and the day of preparation. Then - as we learned now - the beginning of the year with the vernal equinox. And 40 years later, the barley harvest test when they were already living in the Promised Land.

Something similar, we can find at the time since Ellen White until today. First, Joseph Bates recognized the Sabbath and explained it to Ellen White and her husband James, who then began in 1846 to keep the Sabbath. An important date, which is even noted in Orion (star of the white horse). But they began their Sabbath like Joseph Bates at 18:00 hours and it had not yet been discovered that the beginning of the day was at the evening at sunset. This should be biblically discovered 16 years later and then it was confirmed by Ellen White in a vision. Today, we are starting anew to understand the complete, true biblical calendar because we will enter very soon, once more in Canaan, this time in the real heavenly.

But what is the real reason why we have learned just right now to understand the true biblical calendar on the exact date of Jesus' crucifixion? What does Jesus want to say to us?

Is this - as claimed by the Moon Sabbath Keepers - the threat that Benedict XVI. could introduce, perhaps in 2012, a new world calendar, which would then change the first time in world history, the daily cycle from year to year and move forward our Seventh-day Sabbath each year (or every six months in leap years) to a different day of the week? Wouldn't we then not be able anymore to count from one to seven? Would we then have to change to the observation of the FC moon to know the real Sabbaths? And how would we know when the crescent was visible in Jerusalem, if all our Internet lines would have been shut down because we could not buy nor sell anymore?

I'll provide you with a small "survival table" for true Seventh-day Adventists, lest you need not to switch to lunar observation which would automatically lead to the wrong Sabbath. This small table can be learned by heart and you would be prepared for the next 5 years. Or you just remember that in leap years the weekdays are advancing for one weekday after the leap day of June 30. and in every year the weekday advances by one weekday on "World Day", December 30. This is in any case better than the moon observation determining for every month your Sabbath on the wrong day. By the way, what would the Moon Sabbath Keepers do, if they would be thrown into prison and could not observe the moon? You just have to think about it to realize that all this is pure nonsense.

"Survival Table" for true Seventh-day Adventists, in case of enforcement of the "Benedictine Calendar" in 2012:

Benedictine Date	Weekday of the true Sabbath
until June 30, 2012	Saturday like usual
from July 1, 2012	Friday
from January 1, 2013	Thursday from January 1, 2014	Wednesday
from January 1, 2015	Tuesday

The true reason why Jesus allows that we are right now confronted so heavily with these issues and that Satan is allowed to start such a major attack on us by the "Sabbath Reform" of the Lunar Sabbath Keepers, that you almost get sick just hearing about "festival studies", is that Jesus sealed a wonderful message for us in the biblical festival days for the last days that He would like to show us right now. He wants us to ponder these issues and permits, therefore, that the heat under our melting pot is a little increased.

Satan is determined to prevent that we would get to know the true meaning of the ceremonial Sabbaths and hauls out the big guns in form of the lunar Sabbath doctrine and wants us away from recognizing the message of Jesus. This dawned on me in this study. Only if Satan gives an incorrect explanation for the renewed understanding of the biblical calendar, the true explanation may continue to remain hidden from the eyes of the Seventh-day Adventists.

The bad and sad thing is that those Adventists who believe themselves firmly rooted in the true Seventh-day Sabbath are pushing aside these issues and simply check off the subject entirely and therefore miss the message of Jesus, because they do not want to deal with these issues. As we shall see in the third part, the message is indeed vital for us as God's people.

Please, reconsider the words of Ellen White in the introduction to the shadow series:

The significance of the Jewish economy is not yet fully comprehended. Truths vast and profound are shadowed forth in its rites and symbols. The gospel is the key that unlocks its mysteries. Through a knowledge of the plan of redemption, its truths are opened to the understanding. Far more than we do, it is our privilege to understand these wonderful themes. We are to comprehend the deep things of God. Angels desire to look into the truths that are revealed to the people who with contrite hearts are searching the word of God, and praying for greater lengths and breadths and depths and heights of the knowledge which He alone can give." {COL 133.1}

2. Through Jesus and the Fig Tree

In our examination, whether there are other indications that the Biblical calendar at the time of Jesus was still in use as it was given to Moses by Jesus Himself, it is now time to give the word to our Lord Himself. As you'll see, He gives us in the Bible a wonderful answer to the long-sought question, in which month He went to the cross.

Now in the morning as he returned into the city, he hungered. And when he saw a fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and said unto it, Let no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever. And presently the fig tree withered away. And when the disciples saw it, they marvelled, saying, How soon is the fig tree withered away! (Matthew 21:18-20)

When this event took place chronologically, we are being told at the beginning of chapter 21 of Matthew:

And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples, Saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me. (Matthew 21:1,2)

We are already in the week of the crucifixion. The chapter began with Jesus' entry into Jerusalem on the Sunday before the crucifixion. Mark gives us a some more detail about the event itself:

And on the morrow, when they were come from Bethany, he was hungry: And seeing a fig tree afar off having leaves, he came, if haply he might find any thing thereon: and when he came to it, he found nothing but leaves; for the time of figs was not yet. And Jesus answered and said unto it, No man eat fruit of thee hereafter for ever. And his disciples heard it. And they come to Jerusalem: and Jesus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves; And would not suffer that any man should carry any vessel through the temple. And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, My house shall be called of all nations the house of prayer? but ye have made it a den of thieves. And the scribes and chief priests heard it, and sought how they might destroy him: for they feared him, because all the people was astonished at his doctrine. And when even was come, he went out of the city. And in the morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots. And Peter calling to remembrance saith unto him, Master, behold, the fig tree which thou cursedst is withered away. And Jesus answering saith unto them, Have faith in God. (Mark 11:12-22)

Mark tells us detailed that Jesus cursed the fig tree on Monday after his glorious entry into Jerusalem and on Tuesday it already had withered. We all know that Jesus wanted to give a parable to show the state of His people, the Jewish nation. They had many leaves (were ostentatious), but they brought no good fruit. Therefore, their candlestick would soon be removed.

But so far apparently, no one has come up with the idea of reading even more precisely and to discover another message in these verses that reveals to us exactly in which month the crucifixion week took place.

After a life as computer engineer, five years ago I became a farmer in South America, because I followed the call of Ellen White in obeying God to live a simple life at the country side and to bring the Gospel to the surrounding population. I had to learn many things. There have been terrible disappointments on the way to recognize that there is no more intact nature and that it has become almost impossible to operate today a small agricultural project without a million-dollar investment just to support one's own family. The life of a small-scale farmer can be very difficult. When I bought my little piece of land with lots of rocks in a mountainous area, because I was convinced after a lot of prayers that God had shown me in miraculous manner this land with a drilled deep well and a beautiful mountain creek, I did not have an idea through how many tests I would have to go. At the day of purchase of the land it had been raining still so strong that the creek was swollen into a small river and the cargo area of the pickup of the former owner was filled in minutes to the brim with rain water. Such strong rain I did not know of in Germany.

I was told that the creek never had dried up in the last 35 years and after this downfall it was easy to believe. Later I would meet my present wife, a neighbor's daughter of the first family that I could evangelize and she always told me that this creek actually always had been a river, where you could catch fish weighing up to some pounds. Then began the worst drought that one can imagine. In 2005 it stopped raining about 3 months after I had bought the land and had settled there to some extent. Despite all prayers, it did not rain significantly for a biblical three and a half years and I had to learn what drought means. Tears, loss, suffering, and to see how everything dies around you. First, the "never drying up river" dried up completely. Then my beloved fruit trees started to wither away which I had bought to the hundreds with my land.

We watered from the deep well, bought a motor pump with higher capacity, but we could not save all the trees in those years. Many have been lost. From not too far away we heard the cows of the neighbors yell of thirst, because no one here has such a well like we have. But they did not want to bring their cows to our farm although I offered our water to the neighbors; because the Catholic Church nearby had announced that no one should approach us because we would be Satanists. After several months there was silence. The cattle of the neighbors died. Only our few lean cows, which I had acquired with the land were still alive because we had water and because I was able to buy cattle feed from other regions with my resources; which in comparison was impossible for the poor people around us.

But the worst struggle for us was the fight for the survival of our many citrus, mango, papaya and guava trees. When after three and a half years real rain fell again, I had learned to observe how it can be seen on a tree, whether it will survive or wither away and I learned also to examine whether a tree will bear fruit and if there will be many or just a few. This is actually quite simple, but for a former desk jockey like me it was all new.

I learned that there were years in which we could expect only few fruits and years in which there was plenty of fruit. Mainly, this depends on the amount of rain, but also on the age of a tree and other factors, such as the altitude of the land. Since we are located about 100 m higher than our surroundings everything ripens here a little later. But we also have fruits until later in the year. Just 100 m can make already a difference of up to one month in maturity.

We do not have figs here, so I had to read about the fig tree in the Internet and learned to my astonishment, that fig trees in contrast to most other trees, are developing their buds and fruit before the foliage. Thus, once a fig tree has leaves, it is expected that it also bears fruit.

Jesus had inspected the tree and examined it on fruit because He was hungry. Mark tells us that the time for figs was not yet. The time for figs in Israel is "end of May to early October" (see Israel – Plants in German).

Most scholars take Mark 11:13 as a reason to exclude that it was end of May when the Lord was crucified because it would have been already the time for figs. But Ellen White, who has seen it all in vision, tells us the following:

The entire night Jesus spent in prayer, and in the morning He came again to the temple. On the way He passed a fig orchard. He was hungry, "and seeing a fig tree afar off having leaves, He came, if haply He might find anything thereon: and when He came to it, He found nothing but leaves; for the time of figs was not yet."

It was not the season for ripe figs, except in certain localities; and on the highlands about Jerusalem it might truly be said, "The time of figs was not yet." But in the orchard to which Jesus came, one tree appeared to be in advance of all the others. It was already covered with leaves. It is the nature of the fig tree that before the leaves open, the growing fruit appears. Therefore this tree in full leaf gave promise of well-developed fruit. But its appearance was deceptive. Upon searching its branches, from the lowest bough to the topmost twig, Jesus found "nothing but leaves." It was a mass of pretentious foliage, nothing more. {DA 581.3-4}

The statement of Mark was referring to the area where they walked, the "highlands" about Jerusalem. But the important fact is that she says, "except in certain localities". Therefore, it certainly already was the time of figs in some areas of Israel, and the earliest time that I could find in all the literature is nowhere in all Israel before end of May.

It is also very interesting how she describes the flora at the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem:

It was on the first day of the week that Christ made His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. Multitudes who had flocked to see Him at Bethany now accompanied Him, eager to witness His reception. Many people were on their way to the city to keep the Passover, and these joined the multitude attending Jesus. All nature seemed to rejoice. The trees were clothed with verdure, and their blossoms shed a delicate fragrance on the air. A new life and joy animated the people. The hope of the new kingdom was again springing up. {DA 569.3}

This is a clear indication that we are according to the altitude of Jerusalem already in the middle until end of May, because the trees in Israel get their foliage recently in April and in the highlands even some time later, middle until end of May. The only exception is the almond bloom, but this is already in February and thus excluded anyway.

The story of the withered fig tree has in my opinion an indication that a 13th month had been intercalated in the old year. Why? I'm not a fig tree expert, but as I said, I have learned in three and a half years of drought to assess whether a tree will dry up or not. But that a tree would dry up, as it has full leaves and everything around it blossoms, there must have been a drought before. Many trees that die after major droughts develop excessive foliage like being in panic. It is the last gasp of the tree before its death. But then the end comes very quickly. That may have been recognized by Jesus. I do not believe He would really have used His divine power to curse the tree which He created, not even as a parable for His lost people. But it is possible that this tree was just on the edge of its strength after a drought that now was indeed over, but had left its mark on this tree. Therefore, the tree might have not developed any fruit before the foliage. This drought could also have negatively influenced the barley harvest and could have caused that a 13th month had to be kept, that ripe barley would be available for the festival of first fruits.

Unfortunately, I'm no wine grower, but maybe someone can verify once, in which month a flourishing grapevine can be seen in the highlands around Jerusalem, as Ellen White writes in "Desire of Ages":

Jesus and the disciples were on the way to Gethsemane, at the foot of Mount Olivet, a retired spot which He had often visited for meditation and prayer. The Saviour had been explaining to His disciples His mission to the world, and the spiritual relation to Him which they were to sustain. Now He illustrates the lesson. The moon is shining bright, and reveals to Him a flourishing grapevine. Drawing the attention of the disciples to it, He employs it as a symbol. {DA 674.2}

In the original text, the grapevine is described as "flourishing", which points to already well-developed shoots of the vine. Wouldn't this be a nice opportunity for a joint investigation of Adventist brethren of the GC and Israel, would it?

And yet once again our Lord tells us in the Bible when His crucifixion relative to the seasons was:

Now learn a parable of the fig tree; When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh: So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors. (Matthew 24:32,33)

The little word "yet" makes clear that Jesus showed the disciples a fig tree that already had a tender branch that put forth leaves. This also happened in the crucifixion week when He said: "so you know that summer is near." If this - as almost the entire Christian world accepts - would have been said one week before April 25, not even the first third of spring would have been passed, and there were missing still two months or two-thirds of spring to the early summer.

But if Jesus said that shortly before May 25, then it makes sense because there was indeed only one month left until the beginning of summer.

The many clues that we get from Scripture by the descriptions of nature from Jesus in His wonderful parables, which are in turn consistent with the descriptions of Ellen White, make plain to us that Jesus suffered in the most beautiful phase of spring on the cross, when nature was in its greatest prosperity and growth. This shows once more in marvelous manner, that the Saviour had really come to His people to lead them to an exuberant summer of rich harvests, but His people did not recognize Him and crucified Him instead.

Hopefully this time we will recognize that the time has come. And as we shall see, the correct date of Jesus' crucifixion and the newly found real biblical calendar is the key to the understanding of the last prophecies of the Bible.

Shadows of the Cross - Part I

The second part of the Shadow Series will deal with two issues that, at first sight, do not appear to be very prophetic. But, as we shall soon realize, this is just so at first glance.

The first issue that will provide ample food for thought, is a problem that this time is not only affecting Adventism but the entire Christian world, and touches an apparent contradiction in the Gospels. It relates to the Passover feast, and in my opinion, it has to be elucidated before we would be able to continue to study the feasts with their types and anti-types any further. Only an accurate knowledge of to what extent and how the spring feasts have been fulfilled at Jesus' first coming, may give us clues as to how we should understand the fulfillment of the autumn feasts that are still future. The autumn feasts have to be fulfilled in the same way as the spring feasts in the time of the return of our Lord. This was stated by Ellen White like this:

These types were fulfilled, not only as to the event, but as to the time. On the fourteenth day of the first Jewish month, the very day and month on which for fifteen long centuries the Passover lamb had been slain, Christ, having eaten the Passover with His disciples, instituted that feast which was to commemorate His own death as "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." That same night He was taken by wicked hands to be crucified and slain. And as the antitype of the wave sheaf our Lord was raised from the dead on the third day, "the first fruits of them that slept," a sample of all the resurrected just, whose "vile body" shall be changed, and "fashioned like unto His glorious body." Verse 20; Philippians 3:21. In like manner the types which relate to the second advent must be fulfilled at the time pointed out in the symbolic service. {GC 399.3}

Modern interpretation of prophecy is always based on recognition of historical fulfillment of prophecy, for history repeats itself. If we understand history accurately, we have taken an important step towards the understanding of the future, because we can draw conclusions from already fulfilled types by their anti-types.

In the second issue of this second part of the Shadow Series, we will try to perform an analysis of the festive sacrifices in unprecedented manner, in regard to their number and typified meaning. So far we only understand that all the sacrifices pointed to Jesus. While this is irrefutably true, it has never been investigated (at least not successfully), what was the significance of the fixed amounts of bulls, lambs, rams and related food offerings that had been prescribed in the ceremonial law. We know the individual meanings of the types of sacrifices itself, but not the significance of their numbers. There will be again new light for the diligent readers of these very profound studies, which caters a special blessing for the 144,000.

Therefore, we must once again transport ourselves to the time of the crucial year A.D. 31 and read accurately what the Gospels are telling us about Jesus and how He fulfilled the spring festivals, which have been the prophetic type for His crucifixion and resurrection, and even more.

Back to the Passover Feast

On this occasion, our time machine has to travel even a longer distance; we have to proceed 3500 years to the past to identify the roots of the Passover feast. As we know, the Passover was established at the liberation of the Israelites from Egyptian slavery. The event that should be memorized by all Passovers feasts later, took place in the night of the 10th plague, when the angel of death came and struck all the firstborn of the Egyptians. Only those Israelites who had obeyed the divine instructions of the ritual slaughter of the Passover lamb and had painted their doorposts with the blood of the lamb the evening before, were spared from the plague.

These events and precepts are described in Chapter 12 of Genesis. Let's read through some verses to understand how these orders led to the various festivals of spring, so that we finally obtain an overview of the festivals with their respective type and antitype. You will see that some issues are not quite as clearly understood as we generally believe. Therefore, we must use a systematic approach.

And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, (Exodus 12:1)

The importance of these orders is emphasized because the Lord Himself speaks directly to Moses:

This month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you. (Exodus 12:2)

The word for month was "hodesh" - as we learned in the first part - which means "moon" i.e. first crescent. Thus God established the beginning of the year and the first month "Nissan". All other months of the year depended on this, and thus the determination of the autumn festivals in the seventh month. We basically spent the entire first part of the Shadow Series to find the correct understanding of this one small word "hodesh" and considered how the beginning of the year had been determined. We must proceed very precisely. This reminds me of the bible study method of Miller, who advanced only by one verse, when he believed to have fully understood the former.

At this point, I would like to remark that the original expression for the first month which is used in the Bible isn't "Nissan". Originally, the first month was called "Abib" by God in the books of Moses (Exodus 13:4; 23:15; 34:18; Deuteronomy 16:1). Abib means "maturity" and thus it's already indicated that the determination of the first Jewish month depended on the maturity season of the first crop, which is barley, because the name of the month itself expresses it.

The last word, whether a year begins or not, was upon God, who lets all crops ripen and did not depend just on the sun or the vernal equinox. In contrast, the religion of the Egyptians was purely dependent on the sun and God explained to Moses a striking difference. The people of God should depend on its God, and not on the sun, and this should be seen already in the determination of the beginning of their year.

The term "Nissan" for the first month was first used by Nehemiah and Esther after the captivity in Babylon and was taken from there. Too bad that even we use "Nissan" instead of "Abib" almost exclusively when we talk about the Jewish first month, because we therefore make use of Babylonian nomenclature and not the original Jewish terms. And so we fall too easily into the trap of the moon worshipers who do not want to admit that the barley harvest test was an integral part of the shadow services of the sanctuary of the Jews. I regret having to maintain this nomenclature too because all the literature uses it and I want to avoid confusion. But we must never forget that the implementation of the barley harvest test is biblically detectable already in the name of the month itself!

Now, let us examine the precepts and types for the spring festivals:

A Type, Easy to Be Forgotten

Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house: (Exodus 12:3)

Here we find the first time an instruction that represents a type of Christ. Of course we know that the lamb symbolizes Jesus. And the lamb was put aside already on the 10th day of the first month, and so separated from his flock.

But when was it slaughtered? Let's read on...

And if the household be too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next unto his house take it according to the number of the souls; every man according to his eating shall make your count for the lamb. Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats: And ye shall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it in the evening. (Exodus 12:4-6)

The lamb (whether sheep or goat lamb) was put aside, separated from its flock, and in the evening of the 14th day of the first month, it was slaughtered. Of course we understand that it should be without blemish, because Jesus as the anti-type had no blemish (no sin). And only a male lamb could represent the correct sex of the Son of God.

Just in the middle of my life I became a farmer, and it's true that you are closer to God in the countryside than in the city. Much of the Bible you get clearly only if you are in contact with nature and animals. We must often separate a calf from its mother, either because the mother is sick or the calf must be weaned. It is also not advisable to have a calf with the mother overnight, if you want to have fresh milk in the morning, because otherwise, the calf milks the cow before you. Also, it often happens that a calf strolls away from the flock and remains in our very wild pastures, because it does not find its way back, and in the evening when the flock marched to the stable it is missing. What happens then, you can imagine only, if you have experienced this first hand. The calves really start to cry. They scream and cry the whole night, and only very slowly when they have become accustomed to these processes, the screaming and crying grows less until it stops completely. We often search for hours in the jungle in total darkness for a calf. This separating of a calf some 4 days before its "execution" caused considerable distress to the animals and the end is therefore still more sad. Why was this done in this way? What happened to fulfill the type of this cruel separating of a calf from its beloved flock, and how was this reflected in the passion week of our Savior?

Again, Ellen White gives us the solution... which we of course could find by intensive Bible study by ourselves. In chapter 63 in "Desire of Ages", she describes the glorious entry of our Lord in Jerusalem. Let us read these all-important words:

Never before in His earthly life had Jesus permitted such a demonstration. He clearly foresaw the result. It would bring Him to the cross. But it was His purpose thus publicly to present Himself as the Redeemer. He desired to call attention to the sacrifice that was to crown His mission to a fallen world. While the people were assembling at Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover, He, the antitypical Lamb, by a voluntary act set Himself apart as an oblation. It would be needful for His church in all succeeding ages to make His death for the sins of the world a subject of deep thought and study. Every fact connected with it should be verified beyond a doubt. It was necessary, then, that the eyes of all people should now be directed to Him; the events which preceded His great sacrifice must be such as to call attention to the sacrifice itself. After such a demonstration as that attending His entry into Jerusalem, all eyes would follow His rapid progress to the final scene. {DA 571.2}

The weeping lamb separated from its mother and flock, represented Jesus, who set Himself apart from his people as an oblation. What happened to some as an act of animal cruelty, is in fact an image for our Lord who suffered for us. His suffering and His tears had already begun on the day when He apparently triumphantly entered Jerusalem. But rather than rejoicing, He shed all His tears for this people which was going to kill their Savior. A beautiful image, and if the Jews would have studied the types of their festivals better, then they would have understood why already four days before Passover a small lamb wept bitterly for its flock in their homes. Hopefully, that won't happen to us too, because the fall festivals are types that have not yet been met, and still have to be studied.

In our Bible Commentary on Exodus 12:3, there is no note of what type or antitype could have been met here. It is just stoically pointed out that the preparations for the Passover should already start four days earlier.

With good reason, our Adventist scholars do not make many words about it. Because we've got another problem. And again with Ellen White, who apparently is not able to count days.

Let us think it over. We know now from the first part of the Shadow Series, that Jesus really died on 25th of May AD 31, on a Friday. This was clearly the Nissan 14, because the Passover always falls upon the 14th day of the first month. Let us count backwards. If Friday was the 14th, then Thursday was the 13th, Wednesday the 12th, Tuesday the 11th and Nissan 10 was therefore the Monday of the crucifixion week, 21st of May AD 31.

What? Monday? But wasn't the entry into Jerusalem on the first day of the week, on Sunday! Yes, and this is also confirmed by Ellen White at the beginning of the same chapter in "Desire of Ages" (p. 569) in the third paragraph:

It was on the first day of the week that Christ made His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. {DA 569.3}

No, not again! First, Ellen White says that Jesus entered Jerusalem on Sunday and then she says at the same time that He is the antitype of the separation of the Passover Lamb from the flock on the 10th day of the month according to Exodus 12:3. And this 10th day was a Monday!

Do you understand, brethren, why our scholars keep silence and we never hear sermons or studies about those issues? But do you see also, how we read such books of Ellen White? We read it, but we do not think over it and try things. However, she says so clearly in the previous quote:

It would be needful for His church in all succeeding ages to make His death for the sins of the world a subject of deep thought and study. Every fact connected with it should be verified beyond a doubt. {DA 571.2}

We must study everything so that there are no more doubts or inconsistencies, especially in regard to the events of Jesus' fulfillment of the spring festivals, because it's all about His sacrifice for humanity and our future eternal life.

So, we obviously found a serious contradiction in the logic of some statements of the Spirit of Prophecy. But wait, that for now was just Ellen White! If we examine the events in the days of Jesus' suffering, even the Bible gets under attack. And indeed, the Bible gets under such heavy fire that the entire Christian world has a problem. But I want to tell you in advance, that the real solution of the problem of the inconsistencies of the Passover of the Gospels, and the occurrences in that week in regard to Jesus, will also solve the problem of Ellen White and the tenth day.

The Passover Lamb

The Passover lamb itself is obviously the most important type of Christ, which was already recognized by the Apostle Paul:

Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us: (1 Corinthians 5:7)

Now, please read yourself the entire report of the instructions of Exodus 12, how to handle the Passover lamb. It should be "kept up" (alive), "until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it in the evening." (Exodus 12:6)

And they shall take of the blood, and strike it on the two side posts and on the upper door post of the houses, wherein they shall eat it. And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roast with fire, and unleavened bread; and with bitter herbs they shall eat it. (Exodus 12:7-8)

Christ is our Passover Lamb. Who has accepted Him as his personal Savior, and thus in a figurative sense, stroke the posts of his door (his heart) with His blood, will be passed by the angel of death and live forever.

What day was the Passover lamb to be slaughtered? Please, read the text very carefully! Presumably you are of the same opinion as the rest of Christendom – on the 14th day, because Exodus 12:6 says that "it shall be killed on the evening of the 14th day." Because we know that the Jewish day starts at sundown, we assume with certainty that the Passover lamb was eaten at the evening of the 15th day (at the beginning of the day). Let us therefore set: the entire Christian world understands that the Passover lamb has been slaughtered in the afternoon on Nissan 14 and was eaten at the evening of it (the Jewish Nissan 15).

Another text that obviously confirms this view:

And they departed from Rameses in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the morrow after the passover the children of Israel went out with an high hand in the sight of all the Egyptians. For the Egyptians buried all their firstborn, which the LORD had smitten among them: upon their gods also the LORD executed judgments. (Numbers 33:3-4)

The Unleavened Bread

Another type or another festive arrangement is the seven-day feast of Unleavened Bread. The first day of Unleavened Bread, the day after Passover, Nissan 15 and also the last day of the festival (Nissan 21) have been declared as ceremonial days of rest (sabbaths). I will mark the ceremonial sabbaths with numbers, so you can see how many they are and to which events they relate. I will select the numbers of the ceremonial sabbaths in the order in which they appear in the order of the feast.

And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread. In the first day (1) ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. But ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD seven days: in the seventh day (2) is an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. (Leviticus 23:6-8)

It should be a perpetual reminder of the unleavened bread, which the children of Israel had to prepare due to the haste of their departure from Egypt.

Seven days shall ye eat unleavened bread; even the first day ye shall put away leaven out of your houses: for whosoever eateth leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, that soul shall be cut off from Israel. And in the first day (1) there shall be an holy convocation, and in the seventh day (2) there shall be an holy convocation to you; no manner of work shall be done in them, save that which every man must eat, that only may be done of you. And ye shall observe the feast of unleavened bread; for in this selfsame day have I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt: therefore shall ye observe this day in your generations by an ordinance for ever. In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye shall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even. Seven days shall there be no leaven found in your houses: for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, even that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he be a stranger, or born in the land. Ye shall eat nothing leavened; in all your habitations shall ye eat unleavened bread. (Exodus 12:15-20)

God wanted to show by this, that there even would not have been time to wait until the dough would have been leavened. And He is talking about the sin, symbolized by the leaven. The exodus from Egypt typifies our exodus of spiritual Egypt, if we accept the sacrifice of Jesus. He will banish all "leaven" from our lives. This covers not only sin but also all the false teachings of the false teachers who keep us from worshipping our Lord "in truth":

Then understood they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees. (Matthew 16:12)

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. (John 4:24)

The Sheaf of Firstfruits

The day after the first ceremonial sabbath (1), the first day of Unleavened Bread, Nissan 15 should be carried out as a special rite:

Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: And he shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath (1) the priest shall wave it. And ye shall offer that day when ye wave the sheaf an he lamb without blemish of the first year for a burnt offering unto the LORD. (Leviticus 23:10-12)

This was on Nissan 16 and typified the resurrection of Jesus on the first day of the week. He was the Firstfruits of all Risen:

But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that are Christ's at his coming. (1 Corinthians 15:20-23)*

The Omer Sabbaths and Pentecost

Easily forgotten and often overlooked are the seven ceremonial sabbaths that had to be counted until Pentecost and had to be kept in exact intervals of seven literal days.

And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the sabbath (1), from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave offering; seven sabbaths shall be complete: Even unto the morrow after the seventh sabbath (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9) shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall offer a new meat offering unto the LORD. (Leviticus 23:15-16)

The Karaite Jews refer to this as the Omer sabbaths. In the third part, I will provide an exact list of these many ceremonial sabbaths and put them in their timely order. For this second part of the Shadow Series, it is just important to understand, how many types and feast elements existed at all.

Pentecost fell upon the morrow of the last Omer sabbath (7 * 7 + 1), the 50th day after the first day of Unleavened Bread, and this festival was also declared an ceremonial sabbath:

And ye shall proclaim on the selfsame day, that it may be an holy convocation (10) unto you: ye shall do no servile work therein: it shall be a statute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations. (Leviticus 23:21)

It is quite clear that the feast of Pentecost was the type for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit in the Early Rain, and that the Omer sabbaths symbolized the waiting time until then.

If we add the Passover feast and the Waving of the Sheaf of Firstfruits, which were not specifically declared a ceremonial Sabbaths, to the ten ceremonial sabbaths of the spring feasts, we get again the so often emerged number 12 of the Covenant. This time, this number relates clearly to the New Covenant that Jesus would institute with His blood.

Let's come back now to the problem that I announced. We already understand which feasts had been part of the spring festivals: the Passover, the Seven Days of Unleavened Bread, the Wave Sheaf Offering of the Firstfruits, the Omer sabbaths and Pentecost. We have understood exactly - at least we believe so - how those typifying festivals, which are reflections of the exodus from Egypt, have been fulfilled perfectly in their antitype, Christ's suffering, His resurrection, the waiting time for the Holy Spirit and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost. Then it surely wouldn't be difficult for us to create a chart of the most important days of the year 31 AD, where we show in one row the events surrounding Jesus' death as the Bible describes it, and on another row, the related elements of the spring feasts. We would expect both rows to be in perfect harmony, because the type must match its anti-type.

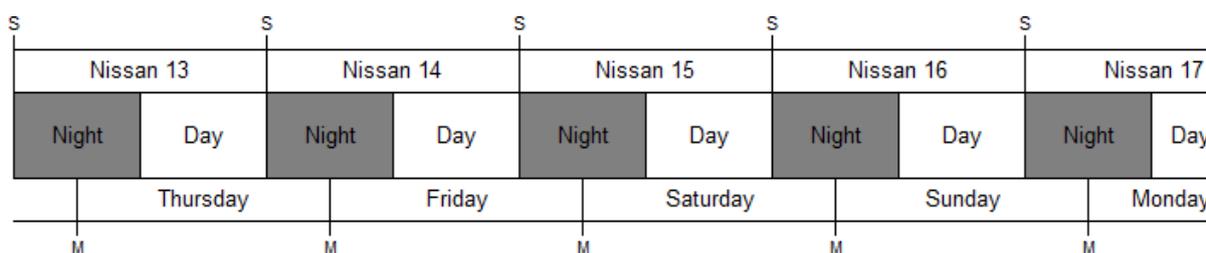

So we must once again return to the Cross, the 25th of May AD 31...

Day and Night and a lot of Confusion

I would like to familiarize you with a basic chart that we so find in our Adventist Bible commentary. I reconstructed it so that I would be able to translate it into different languages, and to help you in these articles step by step on the right track, and to the correct understanding of the sequence of events in the passion days of our Lord.

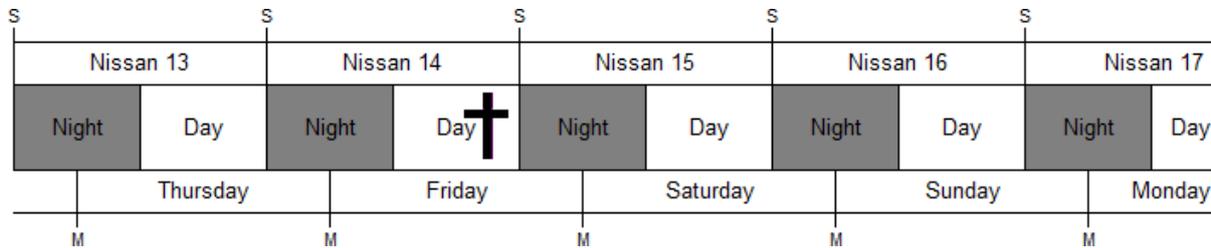

We need to distinguish between different calendar systems and how the beginning of the day had been defined in the various cultures. One thing is certain, a day consists of night and day or day and night. And already here, we find a difference that is used by many groups for support of the lunar sabbath doctrine. The Jews saw the beginning of the day in the evening at sunset. In this way they understand the creation account in the Bible for thousands of years, and so did we in Adventism, before Laura Lee Jones, the originator of "the moon sabbath lie" and her disciple Sascha Stasch in Germany "entered into our lives". But more on this later.

We in our "modern" world have been trained by the Papacy to understand midnight as the beginning of the day. For us, it's hard to "think" using other day beginnings because we have been taught this way since our childhood. The basic diagram below shows these two different day beginnings, and the descriptive names for the days from the end of Passion Week have been registered, as we understand it. The "M" means midnight (our "roman" beginning of the day) and the "S" stands for sunset (the Jewish beginning of the day).

The Jewish days of the first month are named with Nissan 13 to 17 and our week days with the names we know. I will now extend this basic diagram gradually, to give you an understanding of the problems we have to solve.

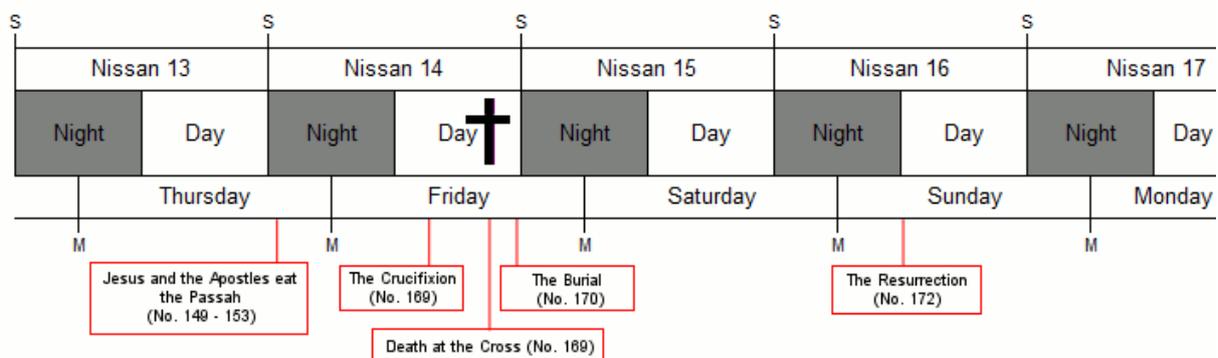

We know from the first part that Jesus died on the cross on Friday, 25th of May AD 31 at the ninth hour which is 3 PM in our time annotation. Let us register this:

Now we note the events of the passion days as they are described by the four Gospels. Each event was given a number taken from the table on page 201 of the English Bible Commentary Volume 5. These numbers refer to the relevant Bible verses of the four Gospels, which tell us when the event happened exactly during the Days of Passion. This was done as help for your own studies.

N°	Event	Matthew	Mark	Luke	John
149	Preparation for the Passover	26:17-19	14:12-16	22:7-13
150	Passover Celebration	26:20	14:17-18	22:14-16
151	The Foot Washing			22:24-30	13:1-20
152	The Lord's Supper	26:26-29	14:22-25	22:17-20
153	The Traitor Revealed	26:21-25	14:18-21	22:21-23	13:21-30
169	The Crucifixion	27:31-56	15:20-41	23:26-49	19:17-37
170	The Burial	27:57-61	15:42-47	23:50-56	19:38-42
172	The Resurrection	28:1-15	16:1-11	24:1-12	20:1-18

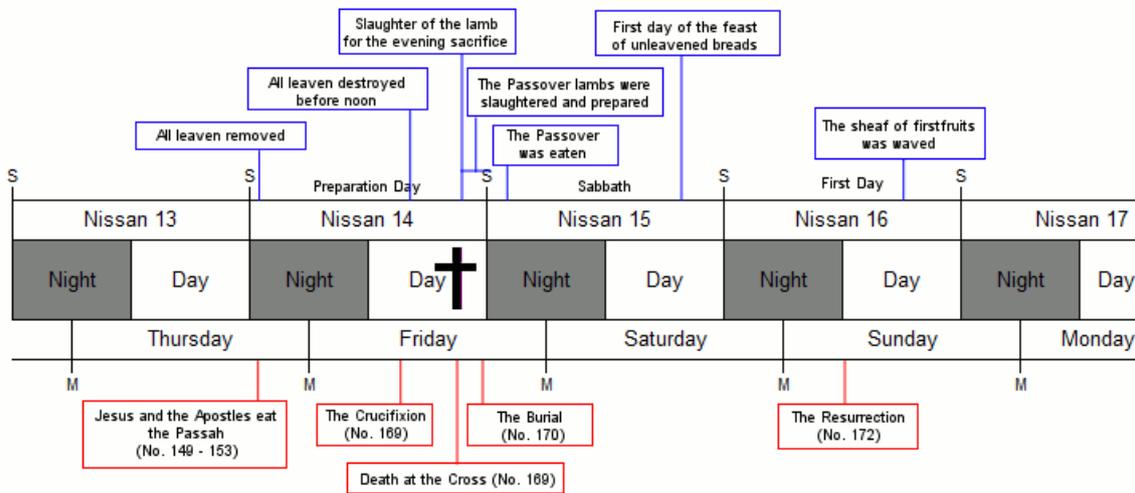

Here is the table of the events from the perspective of Jesus and His disciples, just as the Gospels tell us:

So far, everything is still understandable and fine. But this table was added to our Bible Commentary in order to demonstrate in a completely honest manner, a problem that arises when one tries to harmonize these events with the sequence of the Jewish Passover feast, which actually is the type of all these events around Jesus' crucifixion and resurrection.

An Unsolved Problem for the Whole Christianity

The Bible Commentary shows on the top row the course of the Passover feast, just as Christianity conceives it. And soon, we will see discrepancies between type and antitype. In the following chart, the course of this festival is noted in the way as almost all Christians believe how the usual Passover feast was kept:

Obviously, all Christians agree on this - and we will see soon that this is an error - that the death of Jesus on the cross and the slaughter of the Passover Lamb occurred at the same moment, and thus type and anti-type would have been met. Let's remember what the type was:

Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats: And ye shall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it in the evening. And they shall take of the blood, and strike it on the two side posts and on the upper door post of the houses, wherein they shall eat it. (Exodus 12:5-7)

We all agree that Jesus is the true Passover Lamb! There is no doubt. Where then is the problem?

A Serious Problem

The table above is exactly the same as shown in our Adventist Bible Commentary. It was printed to show a serious contradiction between the first three (synoptic) Gospels and the Gospel of John. The first three Gospels report the following:

Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples. And the disciples did as Jesus had appointed them; and they made ready the passover. Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve. (Matthew 26:17-20)

And the first day of unleavened bread, when they killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the passover? (Mark 14:12)

Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed. And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat. (Luke 22:7)

According to these three Gospels, Jesus orders His disciples to slaughter the Passover lamb for Him and His disciples on the same day when all the Jews killed their Passover lambs. Hence, Jesus definitely ate the Passover lamb with the disciples on the same day when all the other Jews ate their Passover lambs, and that was on Thursday evening, the Jewish beginning of the Crucifixion Friday. Here we are dealing with an apparent inconsistency of our understanding that the death of Jesus on the cross would have been the anti-type of the Passover lamb, because the disciples were preparing the Passover lamb on the eve of Jesus' crucifixion. If you ponder about this, you are going quickly into a skid. And you are not alone!

Our Adventist Bible Commentary further admits that this is a problem that prevails throughout Christendom and has created some confusion, and that the Synoptic Gospels are apparently in contradiction with the Gospel of John:

Then led they Jesus from Caiaphas unto the hall of judgment: and it was early; *and they themselves went not into the judgment hall, lest they should be defiled: but that they might eat the passover. (John 18:28)

When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment seat in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha. And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King! (John 19:13-14)

What an obvious contradiction to the first three Gospels! Jesus there eats with His disciples the Passover lamb on the eve of His crucifixion and the rest of the Jews eat it after His crucifixion! How can all this be possible?

The only thing we can see clearly from John is that Jesus died on the day of preparation and this is without doubt a Friday.

The Jews therefore, because it was the preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. (John 19:31)

There laid they Jesus therefore because of the Jews' preparation day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand. (John 19:42)

Please, let's remember this always. This is clearly established. Whoever wants to displace this, must put up with the accusation that he would speak against the Bible.

But now even more gets mixed up! Because, the Passover lamb was slaughtered only in the temple and there was determined a specific time. This was on the afternoon before the lamb would be eaten after sunset. The disciples had to stick to it. According to the Mishna (Pesahim 5:1) there existed a special rule if the slaughter of the Passover Lamb fell upon a Friday (the day of preparation). And this rule should cause us heavy headaches, if we believe that Jesus' death on the cross would have taken place at the ninth hour on a Friday as anti-type of the daily sacrifice. Because it reads that if the day before the Passover falls upon a day before the Sabbath (Friday), that the daily sacrifice had to be slaughtered between 12:30 AM and 1:30 PM and not at the ninth hour!

A lot of confusion and we know who the father of all confusion is, Satan!

A Challenge

Our "scholars" of the BRI and the authors of the Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary have at least recognized the problem, and in Note 1 of the additional notes on chapter 26 of Matthew, in Volume 5 on pages 532-537 of the English edition, we can read that all experts in all Christendom are searching in vain for a solution. They just do not know how to explain these apparent discrepancies between the Gospels. This is of course to the delight of the enemy of souls and the moon sabbath keepers, who present us their own solution as if it were to throw us a lifebelt. They even cheekily challenge us on one of their now highly trafficked web sites with hundreds of thousands of followers, who are recruited mainly from former Adventists, and promise a million dollars for the one (WorldsLastChance) who could prove from the Bible that the Jews kept the Seventh-day Sabbath on another day as their moon sabbaths. I do not know, dear friends, how you see this, but I in my small one-man ministry do not have enough money to offer similar rewards. Only those who do not have any Christian sensitivity, do not sense that the enemy is clearly behind such web sites. Of course they received again a lunar sabbath explanation for the two-Passover problem by "Grace Amadon" from the underworld. But the real solution was simply "overlooked" once more due to lack of Bible study.

Yes, the Israelites had a calendar oriented on the moon phases, and their ceremonial celebrations were based on this calendar. This had a very specific purpose. We know from Colossians 2:16-17, that the ceremonial sabbaths mentioned there were just "shadow of things to come". What did the Apostle Paul say by that? He underlines there, that the moon-related ceremonial sabbaths (shadowy sabbaths) should not be confused with the Seventh-day Sabbath, because otherwise the 4th Commandment would have been nailed to the cross with Jesus and even the moon sabbath keepers would have no more arguments for their lunar sabbaths and we could stop keeping the Sabbath at all. However, they are not able to explain why Paul is saying indirectly that the lunar sabbaths are shadows respectively prophecies of things to come. They just ignore this most important prophetic indication of the Apostle and the problems which it causes for them.

So what was the purpose of the moon sabbaths and festivals? The more we understand about the Jewish festivals, the more we will see what the purpose of all these festivals was, which were all dependent on the moon. They should - as the Apostle goes on - foreshadow the "body of Christ" or prophesy events that revolve around Christ's salvation plan for mankind. There were some fulfillments of these "shadow sabbaths" in the spring festivals at the first coming of Jesus. This must be shown soon in clear, perduring and incontrovertible manner. Other feasts, however, have not been fulfilled and those will be part of the complex issues of the third part.

Attempts to Explain

Returning to Adventist doctors, theologians and scholars who gave us in the Bible commentary a very comprehensive outline of the two-Passover problem, we find four different explanatory models used in Christendom, which try to explain the apparent discrepancies in the Gospels:

1. One model claims that the Passover meal, which was also the last supper of Jesus with the disciples, was arranged by Jesus as an "advanced" ceremonial Passover. According to this explanation, Nissan 14 would have been the Friday and the Passover mentioned by John would have been the true one. The counter argument is that by a careful analysis of word usage of the authors of the Synoptic Gospels, this can be ruled out as false. We should also remember: Jesus was a Jew, He was even the founder of the Jewish religion, and He has kept the rules given by Himself. He came to fulfill the law, not to destroy it. It was He himself who had spoken to Moses and had implemented the types at the Exodus and who gave to Moses in Leviticus 23 the instructions of how the festivals should be kept. Why then should He violate His own instructions? Therefore, even our Adventist scholars rule out this attempted solution to the problem. And this time I agree with them.

2. The exact opposite argument is that the Passover of John was not the true Passover, but the ceremonial meal that accompanied the feast of unleavened bread. According to this explanation, Friday would have been Nissan 15 and the supper of the night before the official celebration of the Passover at the prescribed time. We will see that this explanation contains a high degree of truth, but still includes a fatal error that necessarily must be corrected, so that everything harmonizes. The authors of our Bible commentary state in their opinion on this theory clearly that it can be shown by the writings of Josephus, that the term "Passover" in a figurative sense was applied to all 8 holidays (Passover and the seven days of unleavened bread) at this time. Therefore, to "eat the Passover" from John 18:28 could have been used for any other day of unleavened bread and had not to be necessarily interpreted as the exact day of the Passover meal. We will see that this was indeed the case.

The fatal error that I mentioned comes up if we try to harmonize the resurrection of Jesus as the antitype of the wave sheaf offering of Leviticus 23.

And he shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it. (Leviticus 23:11)

The Sabbath, which is called in the verse a sabbath, refers to the 1st Day of Unleavened Bread some verses earlier. This was a ceremonial sabbath no matter upon what day it fell. From now on, I will call this a shadowy sabbath according to Colossians 2:16-17. A shadowy sabbath is thus a ceremonial sabbath, which was given by the festive instructions from Jehovah, and could fall upon any day of the week.

In the first day [of unleavened bread] ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. (Leviticus 23:7)

Accordingly, if the crucifixion Friday would have been already Nissan 15, the sheaf of firstfruits should have been woven on the Seventh-day Sabbath (Saturday) and therefore the antitype to Jesus' resurrection would not have fallen upon the first day of the week (Sunday) as other Bible verses state (e.g. Mark 16:2). I know, all this seems very confusing, but don't worry, you're not alone. The whole Christian world is confused and not just you.

And I admit frankly that I was of the same club! But, I study in the following manner. I always pray before I open the Book of books and when I come to a part that I do not understand, I go into prayer. Often, I even fall asleep in prayer over a theme and when I awake in the morning, the Lord has given me the solution or a hint to find the solution in my mind. Then, I praise Him and begin to study the part anew and more detailed. and see with amazement how everything suddenly harmonizes. I myself am just a peasant worker and computer scientist. I would not be able to solve such serious and controversial issues by myself if God would not give me all that. All glory belongs to Him. Everything you read here is, is through His Holy Spirit.

3. The third approach takes into account the fact that Jesus probably would not have broken His own rules, stating that the Lord's Supper described in the Synoptic Gospels would have been the typologically correct Last Supper. But it propones that it was kept just by Jesus and His disciples. The other Jews would have misunderstood the instructions of Leviticus 23 and kept the Passover on the wrong day (a day later). This means that an erroneous tradition had thus crept in. Here again, some elements of truth exist like in other attempts to explain, but nobody can bring everything into harmony because we just get another problem. In this approach, the Friday would have been the Nissan 14.

We know from the Mishna (Pesahim 5, 5-7) that the Passover lamb had to be slaughtered in the temple and this was possible only at the specified date (and all assume that this was Nissan 14). No one, even not the disciples of Jesus, would have been able to come on a different day to the temple to slaughter and prepare their Passover lamb. They would have been expelled from the temple. In evaluating this approach, our Bible commentary explains (Volume 5, p. 536):

The disciples apparently recognized Thursday as the day on which preparations for the Passover should properly be made, in the crucifixion year (see Matt. 26:17, Luke 22:7), and seemed to take for granted that Thursday night was the proper time for eating the paschal meal. Whether the subject had been under discussion and Jesus had informed them that the time of celebration would be an exception and come on Thursday rather than Friday night, or whether they considered that Thursday night was a normal time for the celebration, we are not informed. The synoptic writers are silent as to anything out of the ordinary about the eating of the Passover on Thursday night by Jesus and the disciples.

With this approach, we have again the problem of the wave sheaf offering, and this time it comes from the typologically point of view. Our Bible commentators overlooked this completely. If Jesus and the disciples would have eaten the Passover lamb on Thursday evening (the evening to the Friday), Thursday must have been Nissan 14 upon which the lamb was to be slaughtered. This would have made Friday the first day of unleavened bread and the shadowy sabbath, and the sheaf of firstfruits should have been waved on Saturday (the Seventh-day Sabbath). Therefore, Saturday would have been Nissan 16. As the wave sheaf symbolizes Jesus' resurrection, the Lord would have failed in the fulfillment of this type. On this day, Jesus was proved to have been in the grave and He rested from His works. If He would have kept the Passover correctly and would have fulfilled this type (what was the anti-type?), then He could in this approach never have fulfilled the type of the wave sheaf offering on the first day of the week with His resurrection. Do you still believe that we can solve all those problems?

4. A very interesting approach that shows how big the problems with the understanding of God's calendar have already been at that time, states that in the time of Christ, already existed different faith groups that had different interpretations of the festival orders. Therefore, some Christians came to the conclusion that possibly two different Passover feasts had been kept. They believe that there existed one group that thought that Thursday would have been Nissan 14, while others saw Friday as Nissan 14. So, Jesus would have celebrated the Passover with the "conservative" Jews (Pharisees) on Thursday and the more "liberal" Jewish leaders (the Sadducees) celebrated the Passover the other night, the Passover of John.

This approach leads again to the problem of the wave sheaf offering as described twice before. If Jesus would have celebrated the "correct" Passover with His disciples on Thursday evening, He should have risen on the "correct" day of the wave sheaf offering, and that would have been Saturday and not Sunday. Again this is not mentioned in the Bible commentary, which anyhow does not deal a lot with the fulfillments of these types by Jesus - which seems to me rather strange for a Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary.

The "Conclusions" on page 537 result correspondingly:

We have here one more instance where our present-day ignorance of ancient Jewish practices appears to be the cause of our inability clearly to harmonize the seemingly conflicting statements of John and the Synoptics.

The authors of Bible commentary continue that "without accepting any one of these four proposed explanations", they would now propose their own sequence of events. These proposals in the Bible commentary are in summarized form:

- a. There would have been a double celebration of the Passover, based on which religious disputes among Jews whatsoever.
- b. On Thursday evening, Jesus had correctly celebrated the Last Supper and the Passover meal with the disciples at sunset in the early hours of Nissan 14 and this would have been the true celebration of Passover.
- c. Jesus died at the time of the evening sacrifice and slaughter of the Passover lambs on Friday, Nissan 14.
- d. In the crucifixion year, the official celebration of the Passover was on Friday night after the crucifixion.
- e. Jesus rested in the grave during the Seventh-day Sabbath, which in this year coincided with the ceremonial sabbath, Nissan 15, the first day of unleavened bread.

f. Jesus rose from the grave on early Sunday morning, Nissan 16, the day on which the wave sheaf had to be woven in the temple, which typified the resurrection.

And in the conclusion to these "conclusions" they say:

Happily, it is not necessary to solve this problem in order to avail ourselves of salvation through "Christ our passover," who was "sacrificed for us." (1 Cor. 5:7).

In the next article I will show you, who and to what degree is right. I will show that there was no double celebration of the Passover. I will show that all the Jews and even Jesus together with His disciples have celebrated the Passover meal on Thursday evening according to the appropriate interpretation of the biblical type. I have already shown that Jesus died on the cross on Friday, May 25 AD 31 at the ninth hour, but I will now show that this was indeed Nissan 14 and not Nissan 15, as many claim. I will show that on Friday evening no official celebration of the Passover took place and that the "proposed" BRI Bible commentary solutions in the core are wrong, as well as all other four proposed solutions of Christianity before. It is always that parts are correct, but there still prevails an error that could not be resolved. I will show how it is possible that despite the expected contradictions, point e and point f have been fulfilled exactly, and how the two-Passover and the wave sheaf problem can be solved.

And I completely disagree with the commentators that it would not be necessary to find a solution to these problems, and would like to point once again to Ellen White, who said:

It would be needful for His church in all succeeding ages to make His death for the sins of the world a subject of deep thought and study. Every fact connected with it should be verified beyond a doubt. {DA 571.2}

If we would not know what happened then, we would not be able to refute the moon sabbath keepers with their devilish doctrine, nor the Jews who claim that our Gospels are full of contradictions. So the doubt that was planted in us would rise one day and we would leave the path to life. No one is saved by this knowledge, but our feet must be grounded on a solid foundation so that we are not swept away by the coming storm.

This admittedly complicated study bears a special blessing for those who persevere to the end: The complete understanding of the significance of the Jewish holidays, their past and future fulfillment in the entire history of the Advent people from its earliest days until their glorious entry into the heavenly Canaan, because "In like manner the types which relate to the second advent must be fulfilled at the time pointed out in the symbolic service." {GC 399.3}

If I want to explain to the members of my small home group something about a theme in the Bible that lies far back in time, I counsel them frequently that we are not to read the texts without pauses. We should take breaks to contemplate the time, culture and the situation of the individuals described there. We must put ourselves directly in the position of the players and observe everything as if we had just made a journey back in time and would be directly in the shoes of the participating characters. Those who fail to do so, will always have trouble understanding the Bible texts that were written 3500 - 2000 years ago. Because of this poor way of reading ancient texts and the problem that we are shaped by our own traditions and ways of thinking, interpretation errors creep in that obscure our vision for the truth.

If we want to solve raised issues of the Passover of the first part of the Shadows of the Cross, we exactly need to do what I have just explained. We must transport ourselves back in time, to the culture which still remembered how the Passover was to be celebrated. The scholars of Christianity appear to assume that we would have "transported ourselves back in time" already far enough, if we accomplish a mental journey to the time of Jesus, about 2,000 years before our time. They admit that "we have here one more instance where our present-day ignorance of ancient Jewish practices appears to be the cause of our inability clearly to harmonize the seemingly conflicting statements of John and the Synoptics." {Adventist Bible Commentary, Volume 5, p. 537, English edition}

But this is - as I will show now - by far not far enough. We need to make greater efforts mentally and go back another 1,500 years, to the roots of the Passover, to the time when it was instituted by the Lord, and we have to slip into the shoes of one who has received the instructions directly from Jehovah. We have to put on...

The Shoes of Moses

Reading the honest statement of our scholars - that it is today's ignorance of the ancient Jewish practices which prevents us from understanding what happened back then in AD 31, we must first recognize that our Lord's highest interest is that we fully understand what happened at that time, so that we can face the attacks of false teachers. To dismiss our ignorance with: "Well, we just do not know it, so it is not important for our salvation", as it was written by our BRI-commentators in a figurative sense at the end of their declaration of ignorance, is a pitiful attempt to cover their inability to find solutions to the problems through the guidance of the Holy Spirit, using the argument that we would deal with "non amazing facts". This is a very sad, and a questionable way of thinking for the professed people of God, who should endeavor to know what happened at the crucifixion of the Savior to the most infinite detail, and to harmonize this with the biblical types, especially that a messenger of God was given to us, helping us with loads of information and advices on finding the truth!

But God in His providence, knew already before the creation of time, that we one day would run into a problem with the Passover feast, and that is why we find in the Bible multiple reports that when taken together, perfectly clarify how the exact course of the Passover feast had been. The biblical account includes a character, who like us, also knew nothing of how a Passover feast would work, and who was interested as well, to keep it exactly the way the Lord wanted. He was the first author of the Bible, Moses.

He was in the same shoes as us. He was in complete ignorance in terms of Jewish practice. Perhaps some of you may ask, "Why? He was a Jew, or not? Didn't he have to know how the Jews handled all this?" If you think like this, you have not made the "contemplation pause" of which I spoke earlier. "Who really was Moses?", or at least ... "Who was Moses at the time when he received God's instructions for the exact course of the exodus at the 10th plague of Egypt?" These should be the issues that should concern us if we want to slip into the shoes of the one who received these first Passover instructions from Jehovah.

Moses was the son of Hebrew slaves and was born about 80 years before the expiration of 215 years of slavery of the Israelites in Egypt. According to current state law, he would have probably had a dual citizenship: Israelite and Egyptian. The next question we must ask ourselves is, in what culture Moses was brought up? We all know that he was hidden in the rush basket to escape the persecution of the Egyptians, who wanted to put to death all children under the age of 2 years, by the orders of the Pharaoh. But God in His wisdom, guided the rush basket with the little son of slaves so close to the banks of the Nile, that it was spotted by one of the daughters of the Pharaoh and she saved the little boy. Because she herself could not feed the child, she sent for a Hebrew woman and God brought it about, that it was the mother of Moses himself, who was allowed to breastfeed her son. When the child was weaned, he was given to the daughter of Pharaoh, and became "her son". All this, you can read in Exodus 2:1-10.

Where did Moses grow up? What cultures influenced him? First, it is obvious that Moses as a son of Pharaoh's daughter and grandson of the Pharaoh must have received an excellent education in the palace by the Egyptian scholars. His main formation was through the Egyptian culture, and as we know, this was a political-religious system, characterized by sun worship and the worship of a living human being as a God, the Pharaoh.

But many see in the following verses that Moses also had been shaped by his biological mother and their environment, for he became angry about an Egyptian who was beating a Hebrew slave, and slew him (Exodus 2:11-12). This shows that he was sympathizing with the Hebrew slaves, and that his birth mother influenced him. And now, many people make the mistake to believe that Moses had learned the rituals and the religion-specific features of the Israelites from his biological family. They believe therefore, that Moses, e.g., also understood the Sabbath and that the Israelites could not only keep the Sabbath, because the Egyptians had banned it. They assume that the Jews could retain all their religious and cultural knowledge. But we must not forget that Moses himself was the first Bible writer, and before that, there existed absolutely no record of the cultural and religious heritage of the Israelites!

The most important and fundamental issue for our consideration is, which calendar did Moses understand? How did he understand the beginning of the day, what was for him the beginning of the month, and how did he understand the beginning of the year? Only if we can resolve these questions, we can comprehend what God wanted to tell Moses when He spoke to him in Exodus chapter 12, and began to teach him the type of the Passover, respectively, the sequence of the ritual processes through the exodus from Egypt; what we already examined a little in the first part of "Shadows of the Cross".

Only if we include this in our consideration, we will draw the right conclusions. But if we leave these questions unanswered, and assume without further investigation that Moses, as Israelite, received the instructions of God having a complete understanding of the old Jewish calendar, we come to the confusing contradictions of the two-Passover problem.

Many believe that Moses understood both calendar systems (the Jewish and the Egyptian) and therefore God would have spoken to him in Exodus using Israelite time measures. But as we will see, this is a fundamentally wrong assumption, because it does not take into account that the Hebrews lived already 350 years in the land of the Egyptians, their feudal lords, when Moses was born. When God spoke to Moses, even 215 years of most violent slavery had passed over the nation and culture of the Israelites. No nation could preserve completely its culture under these conditions. And this was certainly even worse for a people that had no written records of its culture and could only transmit their knowledge from generation to generation by the spoken word. For 215 years, they had been forced into service at those working hours that the Egyptians determined for them according to their calendar. The Israelites built the pyramids for the cult and the gods of the sun worshippers, buildings which overwhelm us with wonder still today. They were not just intertwined with the Egyptian culture. As they were serving the Egyptians as slaves, they were forced to give up all their religious services and to adapt completely to the Egyptians. The Egyptian culture, like all cultures of sun worship, was a purely despotic culture, and the statue of Daniel shows that all these cultures pass their basic doctrines from one age to the other, and this is the reason why the Babylonian sun worship still maintains its "hidden" place in the papal system.

The Israelite Sabbath to worship God the Creator was abolished by decree and replaced by the sun-day (Sunday), to worship the god of the sun. A slave does not choose the day on which he rests; this was stipulated to him if he even was allowed to rest a day. A slave does not choose when his day begins; it is stipulated to him, and a slave does not determine the beginnings of months or years. They are determined for him by his feudal lord. A slave does not visit a school of his people, but is educated for slave labor in the "schools" of his feudal lord, at least the lucky ones who did not have to just stomp bricks. Slavery is a condition, in which a human loses completely his autonomy and free will by force.

Even today, a small group of elite criminals who control all the money in the world, are preparing a new enslavement. This time, not just for a small minority, but for all mankind. They want to force the whole humanity to keep the sun worship religion like it was done long ago with the Israelites in Egypt. Under this circumstance, there is no room for your own calendar or a special day of rest like the Sabbath. Just after a few years in slavery, the Israelites had probably already started to "forget" their special calendar and submitted to the military pressure of the ruling power. But, God guarantees us as the spiritual Israel today, that He will intervene personally that this may not happen again. But we must persevere and stay faithful under a pressure that in this vehemence never before existed in the history of mankind.

So, even if Moses was exposed to the influences of two cultures, he never learned the true creation calendar of Jehovah. Because he was under the influence of two cultures that did not know about the true creation calendar. The first culture was the Egyptian's, who kept a very special hybrid of a lunar-solar-stellar nature calendar, and the culture of his biological parents' had forgotten the creation calendar. Thus it was for Moses like us, when God spoke to him in Exodus 12: he was "ignorant in terms of ancient Jewish practices" in two respects:

1. He didn't know the true creation calendar and it never was taught to him.
2. He didn't know the Jewish holidays because so far, they had not been instituted by God.

The only special day that had been instituted by God long before in the creation, was the Sabbath, recurring every seventh day, and even this had been buried in oblivion in the slavery. The Jewish festivals, before the exodus from Egypt had even not been set in their types. 2500 years, since the creation of Adam, the Sabbath existed and had been kept by the Patriarchs, like Noah and Abraham. But the Israelite culture, 215 years after the beginning of slavery, probably just knew that there once had existed something "special". But they had stopped to keep the Sabbath.

Therefore, we may confidently feel comfortable in the shoes of Moses, if we now try to understand anew what God wants to explain to us in Exodus chapter 12. We do not know anything; we do not understand anything of the Jewish culture! We must be willing to think in the same way as Moses would have thought, when he received the instructions for the type of the Passover. We must put on the shoes of Moses, who understood only one calendar and this was the Egyptian one!

The Third Calendar

Whether we like it or not, if we want to put on the shoes of Moses, we have to learn the basic features of a third calendar. The ancient Egyptian calendar that was the actual and valid calendar of Moses at that time.

But do not worry! The brains of my readers are already trained to think in different calendar systems, so it won't be too difficult for you to understand this apparently, rather complex Egyptian calendar. I will confine the issue of what is important to us. Fortunately, the hieroglyphs have been deciphered by the Rosetta Stone that was found in a marvelous way. So, many ancient Egyptian writings in the impressive pyramids and tombs make it pretty clear today, how the Egyptians understood their calendar. Actually, we know about this calendar far more than the creation calendar of God. Who searches the Internet for the appropriate terms, will find many web sites that deal with this calendar.

1. The ancient Egyptian days began at sunrise. The sun was their supreme god (the father of the light bearer Lucifer). So, when at the morning, the first dawn became visible, Re, the sun, began to reign. However, if the sun had set completely, for them began a terrible time. The night was the time of terror and fear, because their god "had gone to sleep". I hear similar statements of the supporters of the lunar sabbath doctrine, who say that the Jewish day began early in the morning and not at sunset. Thus, they violate the Bible, and gain followers by seeding doubt and uncertainty. It's interesting, how they use the ancient Egyptian way of thinking to advertise their pagan worship to those Adventists who do not study enough in prayer, and do not have the remedy against this "leaven of the Sadducees". Finally, they become completely controlled by them.

The mindset that the day would begin in the morning at sunrise, was introduced already at the very beginning of human history, when Satan wanted to place his alleged father, the sun, in the position that belongs only to God the Creator, who started the creation definitely in the darkness (at night) when there was no light. "Let there be light", was the first act of creation, and these words had been spoken in the night when there was no light. Only the sun worshippers understand the night time as an intermediate state that does not really exist and this causes them anxiety and discomfort. So, they try to discredit the time in which Jesus spent the most hours associated in prayer with His Father, and prepared Himself by watching and praying for the tasks of the next day, or even the time when He began His passion in the Garden of Gethsemane, where He made it possible that all our sins were laid on Him, and repeatedly warned the disciples not to fall asleep but to watch and pray, as an "unimportant intermediate state". This is that we may believe their "creation story" with a day beginning in the morning, which is diametrically opposed to the biblical account, "And the evening and the morning were, the first day". Satan always tries to create confusion by his fellow servants. But we always discover his tricks through the study of the ancient Babylonian religions and their offshoots, such as the Egyptian sun worship.

If someone wants to tell us, that the Jews would have understood the beginning of the day at the morning, and that we should agree with that, he wants to lure us into the trap to misinterpret the creation calendar and to draw false conclusions, which ultimately bring us to keep pagan practices, and to transgress the commandments of God. Some believe that in heaven different belief systems will coexist, and that moon sabbath keepers will live there in perfect harmony with traditional Seventh-day Sabbath keepers. No, brothers and sisters! Jesus warned us in the Bible hundreds of times about the fraud and the leaven (the false doctrines) of false teachers. If the verse that says that each one is only judged according to his knowledge, should be understood in the way that anyone who searched for the truth and has gone astray, and drew wrong conclusions would also be saved, a warning of a scam would not have been necessary at all, because in this case, anyone who was deceived would also be in heaven because he just would have committed a mistake. Then, there even would be no need to search for God and the truth, because there would be no difference between those who had found the "real truth" and those who had found the "false truth".

How many "truths" do exist? According to the Universal Church there are as many truths as different religions and faiths. Indeed, they are gathering now in the worldwide ecumenical movement to be burnt up like straw. According to the Biblical statements of the Creator, the only begotten Son of God the Father, there is only one truth: "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." (John 14:6) "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." (John 4:24) If the moon sabbath would be the correct interpretation of God's fourth commandment, all would be lost, who kept the Sabbath "stubbornly" every seven days. If the reverse is true, God may be merciful to those who believed the Lunar Sabbath Lie and replaced the day of God the Creator, with a day to worship of the mother of Satan, the moon goddess, and thus kept a pagan day of rest. It is therefore very important to know what the truth is, and we must search for it as it would be an issue about life and death. Indeed, it is an issue about our eternal life.

Jesus on the question of the disciples, what the signs of the end would be, answered that they should heed that no one would deceive them. That means, that in these last days, fraud will be particularly rampant. Therefore, examine the things that are brought before you in these days! Check the Orion message, examine the lunar sabbath! Prove what in its core, is in accordance with the teachings that were given to the last church of God, through the messenger of God, Ellen G. White! Use your Bible! Check the prophets who were sent to you by the Bible and pray, pray, pray that the Holy Spirit may be given to you, to distinguish the lies from the only existing and only real truth! There cannot be two differing truths about an issue. The word "truth" excludes this already. There is no plural of truth! There are no "truths". No one who will be brought to transgress the commandments of God by fraud has an apology. Because, if they would have been pure vessels, they would have received the Holy Spirit to be led into all truth. This was promised by Jesus. Will we make Him a liar?

Whoever believes that the Jewish nation kept the beginning of the day at sunrise, is right only for the period during the 215 years of slavery in Egypt when they had no other choice. But God, soon after the Exodus from Egypt re-taught the Israelites the correct beginning of the day. More about that later. The ancient Egyptian days can be studied quite detailed at Ancient Egyptian Facts.

2. The beginning of the ancient Egyptian lunar month is explained very well on Wikipedia - The ancient Egyptian moon calendar [in German, please use google-translator]. I limit myself to a summary that represents the key differences to the Jewish calendar, as it was determined in the first part of the Shadow Study. In ancient Egypt, which was an important culture for various millennia, existed different calendar types, including a distinction between an administrative calendar and a religious calendar. We learnt all this by temple records.

We can read on the mentioned web page, how old these calendars really are:

The oldest documented references to lunar calendar data can be found from about 2350 BC in the pyramid texts. The use of astronomical records is already documented by King Wadji at 2880 BC.

Hence, some 800 years before Moses received from Jehovah the creation calendar, we have evidence that there existed a definite satanic calendar in Egypt, in a nation of sun worship.

Let's read more about this lunar calendar:

About 70 BC, Geminus of Rhodes described the ancient Egyptian lunar calendar as a "peculiar principle, which the Egyptians, in contrast to other cultures do not use for the determination of their year." For them, the sacred festivals are important. Their calendars are focused on this." The declaration of Geminus aptly shows the mythological role of the Egyptian lunar calendars, whose central function was limited on the dating of the heavenly feasts, while the Egyptian administration calendar acted as a year calendar.

The priesthood had the task of determining the heavenly feasts. This was done by competent astronomers, who announced the festival days by the "Provost" ("The Greatest of Observers") through observations and calculations. After the proclamation, the actual date was marked in the administration calendar and recorded in the diary of the temple.

We see from the text that the ancient Egyptian lunar calendar had nothing to do with determining the years, but with the determination of the "sacred" heavenly feasts. We can already see from the term "heavenly feasts" that it was about the worship of heavenly bodies (sun and moon), what is idolatry, worship of created things.

But, how did a new lunar month of the ancient Egyptians begin?

Unlike the other ancient Near Eastern countries, the lunar month did not begin short time after the new moon with the first crescent (new light), but with the first day of non-visibility of the moon at dawn. The length of the period between the old (last waning) and the new light (first crescent) is dependent upon factors including the geographical location of the observation site. In southern latitudes of the northern hemisphere, the duration of non-visibility of the moon is shorter than in northern latitudes, leading to longer observation phases of the moon in the southern areas compared to northern regions.

First, we recognize that the ancient Egyptians – as explained before – depended heavily on the sunrise. Hence, their lunar month beginning logically would not depend on a sighting of the first visibility of the first crescent at sunset, but on its counterpart, the first non-visibility of the waning moon at dawn. Thus, while the ancient Jews began their months according to the first crescent ("new light"), the ancient Egyptian lunar month always began with the astronomical new moon at dawn, when there was no "old light" visible anymore.

This leads to a shift of the lunar month beginning between Egyptians and Israelites, which results from the difference of the duration of the astronomical new moon. The time range of the non-visibility in this ancient time period, can be seen for all months in a table that has been attached to the report on Wikipedia. The duration is about 30 – 33 hours in the months that are important for us (March, April). We will come back to this table in detail and we will determine exactly the beginning of the ancient Egyptian lunar month and how it relates to the ancient Jewish calculation. We still want to put on the shoes of Moses, who understood all this as he had been taught by the ancient Egyptians in the school of Pharaoh's palace.

3. The ancient Egyptian year was dependent on a star (Sirius) and the Nile flood and they were already familiar with the 365-day cycle as we are. But they did not have any leap days or leap years. This was introduced later in the third century before Christ.

At Wikipedia - The ancient Egyptian year [in German, please use an online translator] we read regarding this theme:

The Egyptian calendar was a calendar based on nature with a stellar orientation.

The beginning of the year since the earliest times was determined by the heliacal rising of the star Sirius and the Nile flood. Later, there was also introduced an administrative calendar which depended also on Sirius as a "wandering year calendar". The calendar reform of Ptolemy III. in 237 BC resulted in the introduction of a leap day, every four years as the sixth Heriu-renpet-day that was added to the normal year. With the death of Ptolemy III., the leap year rule ended for the moment in the official administrative calendar. But, the two Egyptian calendar forms continued to be used in parallel in the aftermath. It should be reserved for Augustus to be the first Roman emperor in the year 26 BC, who re-established the calendar form of Ptolemy III. according to the Julian calendar.

The New Year's day of the Egyptian calendar, in early times was tied to the Nile flood in the lower or upper Egypt. Possible periods are considered as 4213-4186 BC for Elephantine and 2783-2764 BC for Memphis. As an additional criterion we have to watch for the seventy-day invisibility of Sirius, which was chosen in ancient Egypt as the period of mummification. Taking Elephantine as the observation point, this event only happened in the time period from 4280 to 4160 BC, while for Memphis as reference point the required time was given just since the New Kingdom. Ancient Egyptian texts show that the seventy-day invisibility was already known before the 18th Dynasty, and Memphis can be excluded as source of reference.

In this ancient Egyptian calendar, we clearly see once more the worship of the heavenly bodies as gods. The day was dependent on the birth of the sun (sunrise). The beginning of the month was tied to the moon and that - as we shall see later more clearly - on a legend about the gods of the Egyptians, which was associated to the death and resurrection of one of their deities, Horus. And the year was dependent on the star Sirius.

In many religions, there is a symbol representing the "trinity" of the sun, moon and a star...

The fact that the ancient Egyptian sun worship still takes place even today, is evident in the largest sundial of the planet - the St. Peter's Square in Rome, whose "clock hand" is an original Egyptian obelisk... Search the web for it! You can also find some movies on YouTube, which show the sundial of the Vatican in function, and that it points since centuries to a certain date in 2012.

Perhaps, I will write more on this later in the category Behind Enemy Lines.

If we put on the shoes of Moses, we realize that God must have had a problem with Moses. A problem, that we completely ignored reading the Bible superficially. Moses and the Israelites of the captivity had lost their original culture. One cannot assume that Moses would have understood God, if He had spoken to him in the nomenclature of the Jewish calendar because it never had been taught to him.

But, God doesn't speak to us in riddles. He wants that we understand Him. Much of what God says to the prophets is hidden in symbols and even in images. But when God began to speak to Moses in chapter 12 of Exodus, it was not about prophecies that were to be decoded after some centuries or millennia by later generations. It was about clear instructions. Because 10 days after the declaration, the lamb already had to be taken aside, and another 4 days later it had to be slaughtered, so that the Israelites could escape that terrible angel of death that was ordered to kill all the firstborn. They had to understand the exact day when to paint their doorposts with the blood of the Lamb.

If God, at that moment, would have required of Moses to decrypt first what kind of day and time reference in which calendar system God really used, this plague probably would not have passed by the Israelites, because Moses would have failed, because he did not understand the Jewish calendar. This is the first chapter in the Bible where God gives clear instructions concerning the times of the Passover and this in a situation that requires the clear understanding of what has been said. Any misunderstanding would have been fatal, and it was about life or death.

Let us read again some verses of Jehovah's instructions and this time we put on entirely the shoes of Moses:

God's Marching Orders

And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, (Exodus 12:1)

All of the following verses that we will consider, came directly from the mouth of Jehovah. This is how they had been heard by His servant Moses, who did not understand the time measures as Jewish times, as we had previously assumed incorrectly. Because, he did not know the Jewish creation calendar like we do not know it nowadays. He understood the verbal information that came from God in accordance to his reference system, the ancient Egyptian calendar.

But, God then already began to teach Moses some differences to lead him slowly back to the original creation calendar that was instituted by Him. God taught Moses the creation calendar and if we understand those lessons in the reference system of Moses, He is teaching us too.

First, God declared that the number of the creation calendar month was not in conformity with the number of the current Egyptian calendar month which Moses thought to be correct. The Egyptian months were called "Pezdjenet" and were numbered from 1 to 12 (X). As the Nile flood and Sirius defined the first ancient Egyptian month, and probably the wandering year calendar was still valid, which was also determined by Sirius, the moment when Jehovah spoke to Moses was neither in the last nor the first ancient Egyptian month of the year. For Moses, the following statement must have been a big surprise:

This month [chôdesh = first crescent, new light] shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you. (Exodus 12:2)

With these words, God referred to the first visible FC-moon in late March or early April in a year around 1500 BC and explained to Moses with this simple phrase, two "novelties" for his understanding of the calendar.

1. The first crescent at sunset is the sign of a new month.
2. And exactly this beginning month should be the first month of the "new" Jewish calendar. All other months were dependent on it.

This is easy to understand – for Moses and even for us. And yet it was very unusual for Moses, because for him it was not "normal" that he had to look out at sunset for the first crescent, nor that this would be the first month, because he was used to a completely different calendar system. It is important to understand that to Moses was not explained that once a leap month would be added and also the beginning of the day was so far not re-established. This would come much later after the Exodus from Egypt. We should not read in the text something that isn't there. For Moses it was hard enough to digest that he had to learn a new method for the monthly count, and the determination of the beginning of the month. Moses still persisted in his view that the days began with the appearance of the sun after dawn and lasted until the next morning.

Now we read the next instructions of Jehovah:

Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house: (Exodus 12:3)

Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats: And ye shall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it in the evening. (Exodus 12:5-6)

At this point I would like to talk about the table of the time differences between the first non-sighting of the "old light" and the "new light" (FC-moon) that I mentioned earlier. This small table at Wikipedia - Ancient Egyptian lunar calendar tells us that in the region of Memphis, existed in March a time difference of 30 hours, and in April of 33 hours between these two phases of the moon that are interesting for us. We must now try to figure out, how many "date days" difference this means, if we compare the different beginnings of the month of the two calendar systems. At first glance, 30-33 hours seems to point to a time difference of more than one "date day" (24 hours). But is that really so?

To examine this, I've created a summary table that shows the relationship between the two month beginnings, Egyptian and Israelite.

The table shows that Egypt's new month must have begun at sunrise of the morning of that day, at whose evening the first crescent moon became visible, now spoken in our reference system. This corresponds to a time difference of up to 12 hours, respectively morning and evening of the same day, in our comprehension of a day. But, someone might argue that the time difference of 30 - 33 hours in some cases could be shifted in a way that a difference of an entire date day would occur. First, I thought so too, until I discovered that the inscriptions of the Egyptian tombs tell us even more about the moon days, and that there existed two special moon days, which are already regarded in the above chart. Those cement that only the shown order of the determining events could occur in practice. In the same article we read on Wikipedia:

First and Second Day of the Lunar Month

The ancient Egyptian lunar month began similar to the ancient Egyptian day always at sunrise. Normally, the first non-sighting of the waning moon after the last "old light" fell upon the twelfth night hour of the day before. Just as the sun god Re "renewed" himself in the night of his invisibility, in the ancient Egyptian mythology the first day of the lunar month symbolized the "Day of the renewal of Horus" with the subsequent "birth" that began in the first night of the first day of the lunar month, and was finished at sunrise of the second day of the lunar month.

The last sighting of the old light represented therefore usually always the last day of the lunar month. In the coffin texts, the second day of the lunar month is considered as "the day when the moon is small." [The first small crescent after the astronomical new moon.] A Ptolemaic text from the Khonsu Temple at Karnak, describes the first two lunar days of the month, "The conception of the moon is on the day of invisibility and it is born on the second day of the lunar month." It is clear from the pyramid texts of the Old Kingdom that the second day of the lunar month was connected with the "celestial ascent of the dead king" as "day of his coronation and appearance": "Your appearance belongs to the second day of the lunar month."

Even out of religious reasons, the two lunar days had to be placed so that at the first occurred a non-sighting at dawn and at the second at dawn could be reported the sighting of the first crescent. Therefore, all other possibilities to arrange the diagram above in a different way are excluded. There existed only this possibility. This makes a difference of half a day. The ancient Egyptian month started always half a day earlier than the Jewish, on the morning of the same day on which at the evening - in our time understanding - the new Jewish month began.

In the reference system of Moses, at the moment when God began to speak to him, the ancient Egyptian month had already started a little earlier. To be more precise, it had begun at the morning of the day on which Jehovah showed him at the evening the first crescent. However, let us remember: the start of the day, yet had not been corrected by God! This should happen later, after the Exodus from Egypt. We all know the corresponding verse in Leviticus 23:32 that they should celebrate the Sabbath "from even to even" and we relate this very true to the reintroduction of the Sabbath observance, as it had been maintained by the Israelites until their captivity in Egypt. But we hadn't come that far in the "calendar course" of Jehovah, when Moses received the instructions for the order of the Passover preparations by God in Exodus 12.

Hence, Moses at that time still believed that the day had begun in the morning. That God had shown him the first crescent in the evening, just confirmed for him what the Egyptians believed, namely that the "day" at which Jehovah spoke to him, was the first day of the month. For the Egyptians and Moses, this first day had already begun in the morning and Moses had not yet received the information that the day would begin in the evening. He certainly was surprised, to have received a new method for determining the beginning of the month in the evening, but he could not even grasp why God had so ordered.

On which day should Moses therefore separate the Passover lamb? On the tenth day of the month. And when would this tenth day begin for Moses? Still in the morning and not in the evening.

On which day then was Moses to slaughter the Passover lamb? On the fourteenth day of the month. And when would this fourteenth day begin after Moses' comprehension? Still in the morning and not in the evening.

When should the Passover lamb be eaten? On the evening of the fourteenth day of the month. And this was after Moses' understanding still the same day on which he should kill the lamb, and not yet a new day.

Therefore, if Jehovah spoke to Moses and said:

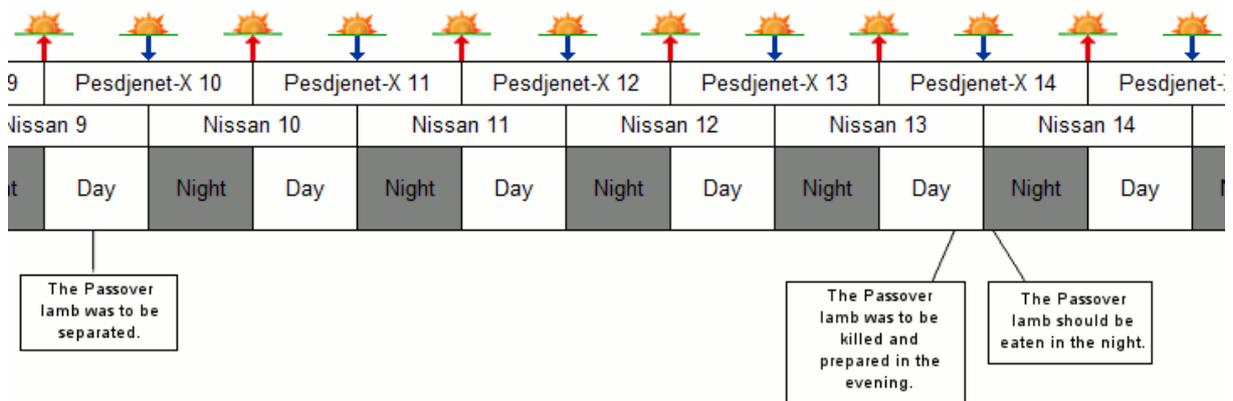

And ye shall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the same month: and the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it in the evening. (Exodus 12:6)

Hence, at which Jewish day AFTER the redefinition of the beginning of the day (which was done later) would the Passover lamb have to be slaughtered and prepared? And, on which Jewish day would it have to be eaten?

I would like to ask you, first to ponder about these questions, before you look at the solution!

If we now draw a diagram of our new findings with the day understanding of Moses in the reference system of the old-Egyptian day, we will find something truly amazing:

Against all current doctrine, we found that the preparations for the Passover had not to be carried out before the evening of Nissan 14, but already before the evening of Nissan 13. Because this corresponded to the ancient Egyptian 14th day of the month (Pesdjenet-X 14). This is how Moses thought and understood God's instructions at that stage of his calendar knowledge. Therefore, the entire Passover preparations move forward by exactly 24 hours.

Finally, having deciphered the ancient type of the Passover correctly, we can now venture out to correct our ideas about the Passover feast. First, we add the corresponding weekdays of the anti-type, the Passover feast in AD 31, to the chart as we did at the beginning of this part II of the Shadow Series. And we will realize that we have solved two problems at once:

The answer to the question, at what weekday of the year 31 AD "the anti-typical Passover Lamb" Jesus would have to be separated, results from a simple reading of this new graph and is: Sunday the 20th of May 31 AD.

Let us recall the preceding article. Quite early on, we recognized a big problem with some statements of Ellen White, where she compared the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem with the separation of this sacrificial lamb, and said at the same time that it had been a Sunday when Jesus entered Jerusalem.

Never before in His earthly life had Jesus permitted such a demonstration. He clearly foresaw the result. It would bring Him to the cross. But it was His purpose thus publicly to present Himself as the Redeemer. He desired to call attention to the sacrifice that was to crown His mission to a fallen world. While the people were assembling at Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover, He, the antitypical Lamb, by a voluntary act set Himself apart as an oblation. It would be needful for His church in all succeeding ages to make His death for the sins of the world a subject of deep thought and study. Every fact connected with it should be verified beyond a doubt. It was necessary, then, that the eyes of all people should now be directed to Him; the events which preceded His great sacrifice must be such as to call attention to the sacrifice itself. After such a demonstration as that attending His entry into Jerusalem, all eyes would follow His rapid progress to the final scene. {DA 571.2}

It was on the first day of the week that Christ made His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. {DA 569.3}

But this did not correspond to the doctrine that the Passover Lamb should have been slaughtered before the evening of Friday, Nissan 14, for then the anti-typical separation of Jesus at his entry into Jerusalem should have been taken place on Monday, Nissan 10. Our new interpretation of the Passover feast type which is ceremonial, correctly tells us that the slaughter of the Passover lambs was not to be executed on Nissan 14 (Friday) but on Nissan 13 (Thursday). Only in this case, the Sunday fits perfectly into the overall picture. Jesus separated Himself from His people on the first day of the week in anti-typical correct manner, in the knowledge that this triumphal entry would mean His death sentence. The Ellen-White-problem mentioned in the previous article is therefore perfectly solved!

We now understand why the synoptic evangelists, Matthew, Mark and Luke, all made no specific mention that Jesus and His disciples would have advanced any particular rite by 24 hours, and would have slaughtered or eaten the sacrificial lamb against the conviction of the people or priests one day earlier. We must logically assume that the Jews of Jesus' time still had the correct understanding of the types and the ceremonies had remained pure.

There is another question we must ask ourselves. What was the anti-type to which the slaughter and eating of the Passover Lamb pointed? So far, the doctrine was always that the anti-type for the slaughter and eating of the Passover Lamb would have been Jesus' death on the cross, about the ninth hour. But that does not correspond in this new arrangement of events. Therefore, we have to correct our original diagram of events of the Passover in relation to Christ's sufferings and actions as we understand the process now.

Now we see which ceremonial rites correspond indeed with the real actions and sufferings of Christ:

Three events and actions accord precisely:

1. The eating of the Passover meal of the Jews and the eating of the Passover meal of Jesus with His disciples. Therefore, the time of eating the Passover lamb does not directly mark the death of Jesus on the cross, but another important event: the institution of the Lord's Supper. The body of the Passover lamb symbolizes the bread, the body of Christ, who would soon be sacrificed. And the blood of the Passover lamb symbolized the wine, Jesus' blood, that was soon to be shed for us.

Again, this view is fully confirmed by Ellen White. I began this part II of the Shadow Series in the previous article with an appropriate quote from her to show how fast we skim through texts and do not understand them properly:

These types were fulfilled, not only as to the event, but as to the time. On the fourteenth day of the first Jewish month, the very day and month on which for fifteen long centuries the Passover lamb had been slain, Christ, having eaten the Passover with His disciples, instituted that feast which was to commemorate His own death as "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." That same night He was taken by wicked hands to be crucified and slain. And as the antitype of the wave sheaf our Lord was raised from the dead on the third day, "the first fruits of them that slept," a sample of all the resurrected just, whose "vile body" shall be changed, and "fashioned like unto His glorious body." Verse 20; Philippians 3:21.

In like manner the types which relate to the second advent must be fulfilled at the time pointed out in the symbolic service. {GC 399.3-4}

She said that this would have been the very same day on which for 1,500 years the Passover lamb had been slaughtered. Which calendar reference system does she use here? Certainly not that of the Jews. She speaks to us and not to the Jews. Here, she makes use of our understanding of the days and uses her own reference system. Definitely the Jewish Nisan 14 began on Thursday evening and the lambs had been slaughtered on Thursday afternoon. For Ellen White and for us this is the very same day and Jesus instituted the feast of the Lord's supper exactly at the beginning of the Jewish Nisan 14. All in harmony!

2. The waving of the sheaf of firstfruits coincided with the resurrection of Jesus on the first day of the week. Ellen White also confirmed this concordance of the type with its antitype in the previous quote: And as the antitype of the wave sheaf our Lord was raised from the dead on the third day, "the first fruits of them that slept," a sample of all the resurrected just, whose "vile body" shall be changed, and "fashioned like unto His glorious body." Verse 20; Philippians 3:21. {GC 399.3}

In this way, Jesus fulfilled His own prophecy, as He said that He would be able to rebuild the temple in three days. He spoke about the temple of His Body:

*And said, This fellow said, I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.
(Matthew 26:61)*

The time calculation of the Jews was inclusive. That is, even if just a small portion of a day was touched, the entire day was counted. Jesus died on the cross on to the ninth hour (about 15:00 hours) on Friday. This was the 14th of Nissan. The first day of the "destroyed" temple. Resting from His works on earth, Jesus spent the entire Sabbath, Nissan 15, in the grave. The Creator of the Universe rested once more on the Seventh-day Sabbath from His work! This time, it was a "High Sabbath" (John 19:31), because the ceremonial Sabbath of the first day of unleavened bread fell exactly onto a Seventh-day Sabbath. This was the second day of the "destroyed" temple. But Jesus still rested almost the whole night of Nissan 16 till the break of day. He rose in the darkest hour just before dawn. This was the first day of the week (Sunday) as mentioned several times in the Bible. And because a part of another day was touched, this half-day counted as the third day of the "destroyed" temple.

I am often asked what it means that Jesus spent three days and three nights in the heart of the earth like Jonah in the belly of the whale ...

For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. (Matthew 12:40)

Please take a close look at the diagram above. In the night of Nissan 14 the suffering of Jesus began. After the Passover meal, He went with His disciples to the Garden of Gethsemane and took upon Himself all our sins. This He compared prophetically with being in the belly of the whale, in which Jonas was separated from any communion with God or man, feeling the large burden of sin. To some extent, Jonas had been covered in darkness by the load of sin. So also Jesus. This was the first night in the heart of the earth for Jesus. Then came the day of Nissan 14. The night courts had been followed by the day courts, the strokes, the taunts, but the biggest burden of all had been our sins. He endured everything for us, even the crucifixion and death. This was the first day in the heart of the earth. Then, Jesus rested literally in the heart of the earth in the grave, another night (night 2, Nissan 15), another day (day 2, Nissan 15) and another night (night 3, Nissan 16) until He rose right before the morning of Nissan 16. For the fulfillment was still missing one day. Jesus said to Mary Magdalene at the grave when it was already daytime:

"Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and your God." (John 20:17)

The Spirit of Prophecy explains us in Desire of Ages on page 790:

And Mary went her way to the disciples with the joyful message.

Jesus refused to receive the homage of His people until He had the assurance that His sacrifice was accepted by the Father. He ascended to the heavenly courts, and from God Himself heard the assurance that His atonement for the sins of men had been ample, that through His blood all might gain eternal life. The Father ratified the covenant made with Christ, that He would receive repentant and obedient men, and would love them even as He loves His Son. Christ was to complete His work, and fulfill His pledge to "make a man more precious than fine gold; even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir." Isa. 13:12. All power in heaven and on earth was given to the Prince of Life, and He returned to His followers in a world of sin, that He might impart to them of His power and glory. {DA 790.2-3}

Jesus' suffering service did not end before He had ascended to heaven on the morning of the first day of the week and brought the entire burden of sin of mankind into the heavenly sanctuary, and sprinkled it to the curtain of the sanctuary. Then He was ready to receive the confirmation of His Father that His blood had been accepted. He was thus relieved of the burden of sin and was sure that His mission had been successful. The missing third day was the brief visit of Jesus at His Father in heaven before He returned to earth to stay still another 40 days with the disciples until He would ascend to heaven ultimately, and intercede there for us as our High Priest until His second coming.

Many wonder why the heavenly sanctuary would have to be cleansed since 1844. They think it never had been contaminated. The exact understanding of the types and anti-types lead us now to the comprehension of when exactly the moment was when the heavenly sanctuary was contaminated with all the sins of mankind, whether past or future: Shortly after the resurrection, Jesus Himself brought the sins there and "contaminated" the sanctuary so that He could later (since 1844) begin the ministry of reconciliation for our sins in the Heavenly Judgment Day and clean the curtain of the temple from all our sins.

And once again we see how accurate the time schedule of God is when it comes to the fulfillment of the types and anti-types. The sheaf of first fruits was not waved just before dawn in the temple, but only in the course of the morning. So when we say that Jesus' resurrection was symbolized by the waving of the sheaf, then this is just correct in the core, but does not meet exactly the type. Jesus was the firstfruits of all the risen and He had to present Himself before the Father in the heavenly sanctuary to receive the approbation of His work. He had refused to be touched by Mary Magdalena just after dawn, but later in the day He allowed it to the Apostles. The difference was that He had already appeared at the Father: the firstfruits of all had been received by the Father in the throne room of the heavenly sanctuary. This is what the waving of the firstfruit sheaf precisely symbolizes, and fulfills the prophecy of the three days and three nights in the heart of the earth: Jesus' entire passion from Gethsemane to the final approbation of His sacrifice by the Father.

3. The crucifixion of Jesus coincided with the daily slaughter of the evening sacrifice. As I said before, it was impossible that Friday would have been the preparation day for the Passover, because if the day of preparation for the Sabbath and the day of preparation for the Passover coincided, the times for the sacrifices were moved so that in the ninth hour the daily sacrifice didn't take place. According to the Mishna (Pesachim 5:1), in this case, the evening sacrifice would have taken place already between 12:30 PM (slaughter) and 1:30 PM (offering) and this would have created a problem with the following passage of the Desire of Ages:

When the loud cry, "It is finished," came from the lips of Christ, the priests were officiating in the temple. It was the hour of the evening sacrifice. The lamb representing Christ had been brought to be slain. Clothed in his significant and beautiful dress, the priest stood with lifted knife, as did Abraham when he was about to slay his son. With intense interest the people were looking on. But the earth trembles and quakes; for the Lord Himself draws near. With a rending noise the inner veil of the temple is torn from top to bottom by an unseen hand, throwing open to the gaze of the multitude a place once filled with the presence of God. In this place the Shekinah had dwelt. Here God had manifested His glory above the mercy seat. No one but the high priest ever lifted the veil separating this apartment from the rest of the temple. He entered in once a year to make an atonement for the sins of the people. But lo, this veil is rent in twain. The most holy place of the earthly sanctuary is no longer sacred.

All is terror and confusion. The priest is about to slay the victim; but the knife drops from his nerveless hand, and the lamb escapes. Type has met antitype in the death of God's Son. The great sacrifice has been made. The way into the holiest is laid open. A new and living way is prepared for all. No longer need sinful, sorrowing humanity await the coming of the high priest. Henceforth the Saviour was to officiate as priest and advocate in the heaven of heavens. It was as if a living voice had spoken to the worshippers: There is now an end to all sacrifices and offerings for sin. The Son of God is come according to His word, "Lo, I come (in the volume of the Book it is written of Me.) to do Thy will, O God." "By His own blood" He entereth "in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." Heb. 10:7; 9:12. {DA 756.5-757.1}

This Friday, the 25th of May 31 AD, was a normal preparation day for the Sabbath during the spring festivals and Nissan 14. It did not coincide with the preparations for the Passover that had to be done always on Nissan 13, as I hopefully was able to demonstrate in this article. This statement of Ellen White is true and again concords exactly with the real events. Jesus died on the ninth hour, and this was exactly the time to slaughter the daily evening sacrifice. Now it becomes clear that the Passover lamb wasn't the direct symbol of Jesus' death on the cross, but the daily sacrificial lamb that had to be offered for the sins of the people. The sacrificial system itself was abolished by the death of Jesus on the cross at once. The curtain ripped in two, destroyed by the hand of God the Father Himself from above. Type and antitype of a prophecy that had lasted for four millennia had met and fulfilled the prophecy. The daily sacrifice was no longer necessary.

In the next article, I will explore other important aspects of this solution of the two-Passover problem and answer a counter-attack of the Lunar Sabbath Keepers against my studies...

What do the Gospels say?

For rounding off our insights, we have to examine a few statements on the use of wording in the Gospels, which were already discussed correctly in our Bible commentary, but still give us more confirmation of our view in the new light.

The synoptical Gospels use the following verses to describe the preparations for the Passover:

Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? (Matthew 26:17)

And the first day of unleavened bread, when they killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the passover? (Mark 14:12)

Now the feast of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the Passover. (Luke 22:1)

Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed. (Luke 22:7)

According to the festival rules of Leviticus 23, we understand the course of the feast as follows:

First came the Passover and this was followed by the seven days of Unleavened Bread. The first day of Unleavened Bread (Nissan 15) was a ceremonial sabbath and also was the last day (Nissan 21). On the second day of Unleavened Bread (Nissan 16), the sheaf of firstfruits was woven. From that day on, we are to count another 48 days, observing seven ceremonial sabbaths until Pentecost was reached on the 50th day, after the first day of Unleavened Bread (Nissan 15).

The day on which the Passover had to be slaughtered, according to this rule, never fell upon the first day of Unleavened Bread. Our Bible commentary describes correctly, that at this time, the terms "unleavened bread" or "Passover" had been used for the entire festival season, and were interchangeable. It is important for the understanding of the third part of the Shadow Series, that you learn the festival course even with its proper nomenclature.

The colloquial use of terms by the evangelists explains the apparent discrepancies of this problem's solution with the Gospel of John:

Then led they Jesus from Caiaphas unto the hall of judgment: and it was early; and they themselves went not into the judgment hall, lest they should be defiled; but that they might eat the passover. (John 18:28)

Our Bible commentary states that the choice of words "eat the Passover" quite well could mean that a ceremonial meal might have been taken place on one of the days of unleavened bread. Now that we know precisely that the Passover lamb had not been slaughtered on Nissan 14 but always on Nissan 13 before the evening, the distinction between Passover and the first day of Unleavened Bread starts to really make sense. In the wrong idea of the festival course, these evenings fell together. But the correct idea is that there are to be kept two separate consecutive evenings on different days. The Passover meal was a meal on an evening of a day that had not been declared a ceremonial sabbath. This meant to some extent, a family meal without compulsory attendance in the temple. Even at the exodus, only the families had joined in their homes and eaten the meal. This allowed the trials and the crucifixion of Jesus to take place at Friday, Nissan 14, because the day of the Passover was a normal working day and only the evening meal (at the beginning of the Jewish day) was observed.

The first day of Unleavened Bread, however, has always been a ceremonial shadowy sabbath and the priests had to act on special services in the temple. This is why the evening meal on the first day of Unleavened Bread was a ceremonial meal which the priests had to attend in the temple, and they had to take care not to be defiled before. John spoke about this eating of the evening meal on the first day of Unleavened bread, when he wrote "that they might eat the Passover". We already discussed this fact in the section "Attempts to Explain" of the first article on this theme.

When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment seat in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha. And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King! (John 19:13-14)

Friday was certainly not the day of preparation of the Passover. "The preparation of the Passover" is an unusual and uncommon expression. Later, John said:

The Jews therefore, because it was the preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. (John 19:31)

There laid they Jesus therefore because of the Jews' preparation day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand. (John 19:42)

What John meant with "the preparation of the Passover" was not that it would have been the day of the preparation for the Passover meal, but that it was a Friday (the preparation day) for the coming Seventh-day Sabbath during the celebrations of the feast of Unleavened Bread, as he expressed it in the course of the same chapter quite correctly.

This view has been recognized by many scholars to be correct.

Let us now compare the conclusions of our Adventist scholars with the reality we found:

a. There would have been a double celebration of the Passover, based on which religious disputes among the Jews whatsoever.

Partially wrong. At that time, there was no double celebration of the Passover and it probably never existed. However, it is correct that trends already surfaced at that time by different groups within the Jewish faith, which offered a distinct interpretation of the Passover in discordance to Exodus 12 and Leviticus 23. When Jesus fulfilled all types of the Passover feast in every detail, this must have been a major shock for the leaders of the Jews. They must have identified that something had happened that could not be easily argued away. So, it was surely only a matter of time before they had the idea to accept the new interpretation of the Passover. They changed the course of the festival, to the effect that Jesus would no longer have met in person all types in respect of time. Of course, they could not change anymore what had happened, but the interpretation of the type and thus the procedure of this festival. And since the Passover after the year 70 ceased to be kept in this way, also the modified version of the festival process, and the fact that it had been changed was very soon forgotten.

b. On Thursday evening, Jesus would have celebrated the Passover meal correctly with the disciples. This would have been Nissan 14 that had begun on sunset and was the true celebration of the Passover.

Absolutely correct! First "hit"!

c. Jesus died at the time of the evening sacrifice and slaughter of the Passover lambs on Friday, Nissan 14.

Wrong. It seems that our scholars did not consult the writings of Ellen White. They still succumb to the misconception that Jesus' death on the cross would have been the antitype of the Passover lamb. No, the antitype of the Passover lamb was the Lord's Supper, which was instituted as a memorial of Jesus' sacrifice by Himself. Jesus died on Friday, Nissan 14, at the time of the slaughtering of the lamb for the daily evening sacrifice. But, the Passover lambs had been slaughtered already on Thursday afternoon. With the death of Christ, the entire sacrificial system ceased, and this was symbolized by the daily lamb and not by the Passover lamb that had to be eaten just once a year, and represented the Lord's Supper. Once as we have understood this, all discussions of how many times per year we (at least) should celebrate the Last Supper are useless. The type of the Passover lamb gives a clear answer: once a year.

d. In the year of the crucifixion the official celebration of the Passover took place on Friday evening after the crucifixion.

Wrong again. The whole article series "Cross Shadows" explains why. The problem was never researched to find a harmonious solution, and it remains a mystery that no one has come up with the idea to relate the statements of God in the crucial chapters of the books of Moses, to the old-Egyptian calendar understanding of Moses.

e. Jesus rested in the grave during the Seventh-day Sabbath, which this year coincided with the ceremonial Sabbath, Nissan 15, the first day of unleavened bread.

Yes, correct, a second "hit"!

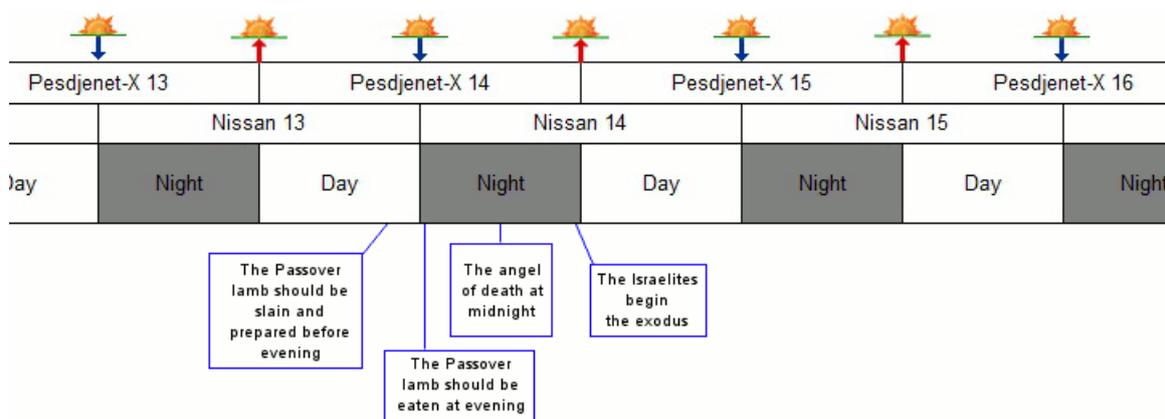

f. Jesus rose from the grave on early Sunday morning, Nissan 16, the day on which the sheaf of firstfruits had to be woven in the temple. This typified the resurrection.

All good things come in threes! Three hits of a possible six. Or, to put it the other way around: 50% wrong. So, if I might dare to give our high academic doctors of theology notes, a "poor" seems appropriate, since "sufficient" does not correspond with the importance of the topic. Again and again, I have to recognize that one gets better results with the Holy Spirit than with the study of theology.

A final argument that could possibly rise against this solution of the two-Passover problem is the verse of Numbers 33:3:

And they departed from Rameses in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the morrow after the passover the children of Israel went out with an high hand in the sight of all the Egyptians. For the Egyptians buried all their firstborn, which the LORD had smitten among them: upon their gods also the LORD executed judgments. (Numbers 33:3-4)

These verses have been used by hordes of scholars to explain that the Passover lamb was slain on Nissan 14 and eaten on Nissan 15 evening (at the Jewish day beginning). After this, the exodus took place at daybreak. Is there a contradiction to my solution? Again, take a look at the chart of the type:

In Patriarchs and Prophets, we read:

At midnight "there was a great cry in Egypt: for there was not a house where there was not one dead." All the first-born in the land, "from the firstborn of Pharaoh that sat on his throne unto the firstborn of the captive that was in the dungeon; and all the firstborn of cattle" had been smitten by the destroyer. Throughout the vast realm of Egypt the pride of every household had been laid low. The shrieks and wails of the mourners filled the air. King and courtiers, with blanched faces and trembling limbs, stood aghast at the overmastering horror. Pharaoh remembered how he had once exclaimed, "Who is Jehovah, that I should obey His voice to let Israel go? I know not Jehovah, neither will I let Israel go." Now, his heaven-daring pride humbled in the dust, he "called for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve the Lord, as ye have said. Also take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said. . . . And be gone; and bless me also." The royal counselors also and the people entreated the Israelites to depart "out of the land in haste; for they said, We be all dead men."

With their loins girt, with sandaled feet, and staff in hand, the people of Israel had stood, hushed, awed, yet expectant, awaiting the royal mandate that should bid them go forth. Before the morning broke, they were on their way. {PP 279.4-281.1}

If we compare the verse of Numbers 33:3 and the statement of Ellen White, we find only a contradiction if we assume that the times were given in Jewish reckoning:

... on the morrow after the passover the children of Israel went out ... (Numbers 33:3)

The Passover took place definitely in the evening and just before dawn the Israelites departed. According to the Jewish time calculation, which begins in the evening, this would have been the same day and was not "the morrow after the Passover." A total contradiction in the Bible assuming the dates were Jewish.

Fortunately, the above chart provides information as it was really to understand if we look at the calculation in ancient Egyptian days. The day of the Passover meal was still Pesdjenet-X 14 and the Hebrews had been waiting with their shoes on their feet for the start signal. Just before dawn, they hit the road, and at dawn started already a new day, the ancient-Egyptian Pesdjenet-X 15. Probably at dawn, not even the entire Hebrew people had left Rameses, for a caravan of 1.2 million people needs several hours until the back rows are on the move. While we can easily forgive the author of the report, this small time difference of perhaps less than an hour, at the basis of the ancient-Egyptian day calculation, in the Jewish time calculation would have emerged an irreconcilable contradiction.

The Rest of the Jewish Calendar

If we compare the real creation calendar with the complicated calendars of other cultures, we get surprised by its simplicity.

Beginning of the day at sundown.

Beginning of the month with the first crescent moon at sundown.

Beginning of the year with the month after or at the spring equinox.

Leap month, if barley could not be found.

Captivatingly simple and still spiritual in its ultimate dependence on the hand of God, who always has the last word in form of His creative power, just as He can grow the barley in its season and gives rain and sun.

After the Exodus from Egypt, Moses still had to learn how the exact start of the day, and how the leap months worked.

To the beginning of the day, I mentioned already the verse from Leviticus:

It shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, shall ye celebrate your sabbath. (Leviticus 23:32)

But in this short verse is still much more than we have previously understood. Of course, the verse contains the precise statement of God – that God fixed the Jewish day beginning in the evening, which was in line with the creation account in which all the days started well in the evening. But again, many argue against this truth and try to ruin even this verse. They believe that God had set this principle of the day beginning just for the Sabbath, and the other days would be exempt.

Wrong, because in the verse is still more, as I said. About what Sabbath are we talking here? A ceremonial sabbath or the Seventh-day Sabbath, or what?

The verse refers to the previous verses in which the Great Day of Atonement is described:

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Also on the tenth day of this seventh month there shall be a day of atonement: it shall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD. And ye shall do no work in that same day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God. For whatsoever soul it be that shall not be afflicted in that same day, he shall be cut off from among his people. And whatsoever soul it be that doeth any work in that same day, the same soul will I destroy from among his people. Ye shall do no manner of work: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. It shall be unto you a sabbath of rest, and ye shall afflict your souls: in the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, shall ye celebrate your sabbath. (Leviticus 23:26-32)

We always must read Bible verses in their context, or we come to wrong conclusions. It would be impossible to explain the text of verse 32 without our new findings, which are based on the fact that Moses had not yet fully understood the creation calendar of God. For a Jew who was familiar with his calendar, the statement of Leviticus 23:27 would have been already clear as daylight. On the tenth day is the Day of Atonement. A Jew would never have thought to celebrate the festival on a different evening than at the evening at the beginning of the tenth day. Error excluded, as all Jewish festivals always started in the evening, for their day began with it and the next evening would have been already the next day.

But, why then does God explain so strangely the Day of Atonement in verse 32? "In the ninth day of the month at even ..." What would that mean for a Jew? Great confusion, brothers and sisters! Because first of all, God says in verse 27, that of the Day of Atonement is on the tenth day of the month, and this means at the evening of the tenth, and a few verses later, God says that it should be at the evening of the ninth. A Jew who just knew the Jewish calendar, would now have been hopelessly confused. For him these verses would have created an irreconcilable contradiction. "So, when does God want us to keep the Day of Atonement, on the 9th or the 10th?", he certainly would have asked helplessly and confused.

We understand, however, that God was about to teach Moses the Jewish calendar anew, and so we have no problem understanding this apparent contradiction. Although God explained in verse 27, that the Day of Atonement has to be kept from evening (beginning of the day) of Tishri (seventh month) 10, and should last until the next evening - clearly in Jewish calendar language. But, Moses still did not understand this very well as we found out. So, God in His loving patience explained it once more to the confused Moses in his old day understanding, after which the day began in the morning and not in the evening. Because for Moses, Tishri 9 would have ended just at the morning of Tishri 10, since he still was not used to the new calendar. So, the Great Teacher explained it once more to him in a language that Moses could not misunderstand: "In the ninth day of the month at even, from even unto even, shall ye celebrate your sabbath."

The leap month rule, overwhelming in its simplicity, we find a few verses earlier and it is explained by God as short and precise:

Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you [prerequisite 1], and shall reap the harvest thereof [prerequisite 2], then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: And he shall wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it. (Leviticus 23:10-11)

There were two prerequisites for waving the sheaf of firstfruits that we came to know as the "barley harvest test", for the determination of the leap month in the first part of the Shadow Series:

1. The Israelites first had to have come into the land of Canaan that this festival rule could start for the second day of Unleavened Bread. "When ye come into the land that I will give you,..."
2. The words "and shall reap the harvest thereof" include the second condition that the sheaf could be woven, namely that they must have been able to find any mature barley. If there was nothing, you could not harvest anything; and if there was nothing to harvest, you could not wave it.

We often have to read carefully if we want to find these small, but in their effect, not to be underestimated, hints of God in His Word. But some do not want to follow this rule ...

The "Empire" Strikes Back

Recently, the Lunar Sabbath Keepers, led by a certain "truth warrior" as he calls himself, Walter Saar, addressed with a circular as they pretend "thousands of German Adventists". It regarded the satanic doctrine of the lunar sabbath. The attached PDF file was about the year 31 problem, which for the Lunar Sabbath Keepers represents the main argument for their lunar adoration day that they call mistakenly Seventh-day Sabbath. The study is titled "When was the crucifixion of Christ - 12 pages that will change your lives". There are propagated the same arguments, which I was able to refute completely in the first part of the Shadow studies. These arguments are used to intimidate members of the church and to encourage them to violate the fourth commandment.

It was obvious that "they" had to come up quickly with some counter-arguments to my research, but what they indeed brought up was miserable.

These are the lines verbatim of the Lunar Sabbath Keepers regarding the first part of the Shadow Series, Full moon at Gethsemane:

Might it not be possible that they had to wait for the first barley, and therefore a leap month was inserted and so the year 31 just began with the month of May?

Surprisingly, the Passover in the month of May indeed fell on the full moon of the 25th upon a Friday! But is it biblical, or merely a Jewish tradition, that the barley had to be considered for the beginning of the year? By the following incidents we will see that the biblical years HAD TO and COULD begin WITHOUT regard to the barley:

1. Incident: In the Jubilee year nothing was sown - no barley

in two consecutive growing seasons (Sabbatical and Jubilee year) no corn was planted, and therefore ripe barley wasn't present to be searched for (Leviticus 25:1-24)

2. Incident: Noah knew the beginning of the year despite the water - no barley

During the flood, Noah was able to determine the first day of the year, regardless of the barley harvest. Genesis 8:13: "And it came to pass in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth."

3. Incident: During the wandering in the wilderness (40 years) - no barley

During the 40-year wandering in the wilderness (desert), Israel kept an accurate record of the months and years - apparently without considering in any case the barley harvest in Canaan...

That was all! These three "counter-arguments" were all that they had to counter my findings of the entire first part of the shadow study.

The same day, on which I received this circular of the Lunar Sabbath Keepers, I wrote a counter-response that I will reprint here also. The Dutch brother, who maintains a large distribution list of German-speaking Adventists, refused to pass on my "Counter-reply to the Lunar Sabbath Keepers" to the brethren. He had sent me some time ago, a pretty shameless mail in which he called me with big letters a "false prophet" because the Sunday law would not have come, as "I would have predicted." The complete e-mail read (font and color taken directly from his e-mail):

On May 1, no Sunday law had come, you are a false prophet!!!!

No salutation, no "God bless you." This is how we "talk" nowadays under brethren! He probably did not read or understand that I stated clearly in the articles of the series Behind enemy lines that I would just try to decipher satanic messages from the Vatican, but - as I am not a Jesuit, or Illuminati - without any guarantee of a correct interpretation. To call me therefore as a brother "a false prophet", borders already libel. But the confusion of the brethren is so big that they cannot distinguish anymore between good and evil.

But that he now refuses to pass on messages like the following, makes himself a servant of the Lunar Sabbath Keepers who are able to send such unsettling and sin enticing letters to our brothers and sisters, unrestrained without a sound counter-response. This makes me very sad, because it shows once again, how much ground Satan has gained to befog the minds of those who once belonged to the elect. It would be good for our brethren to learn to distinguish between true and false "false prophets".

Here is the text of my counter-response that can be better understood on the basis of the second part of the Shadow Series:

In response to the e-mail "Letter to the SDA leaders - The congregations and their members are called for revival and reformation! Z5 p. 15"

Hi Walter Saar, alias "Truth Warrior"!

Your quickly prepared "counter arguments" against the Friday, 25th of May 31 AD, as the date of the crucifixion of our Lord, which I have described in detail in the new articles about the Shadows of the Future as a solution for the year-31-issue, are totally unsustainable and therefore you can only deceive those who do not understand (or do not want to understand) what really happened at that time.

Before I get into that, I want to give you and the Lunar Sabbath Keepers a quote from Ellen White. Ellen White says to you:

I was then carried back to the creation, and was shown that the first week, in which God performed the work of creation in six days and rested on the seventh day, was just like every other week. The great God, in his days of creation and day of rest, measured off the first cycle as a sample for successive weeks till the close of time. "These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created." God gives us the productions of his work at the close of each literal day. Each day was accounted of him a generation, because every day he generated or produced some new portion of his work. On the seventh day of the first week God rested from his work, and then blessed the day of his rest, and set it apart for the use of man. The weekly cycle of seven literal days, six for labor and the seventh for rest, which has been preserved and brought down through Bible history, originated in the great facts of the first seven days. {1SP 85.1}

The weekly cycle of exactly seven days, was therefore preserved up to the present day and never changed.

With the following statement you go completely against the Spirit of Prophecy, and expose yourselves as "false prophets" and the whole moon-sabbath-lie is debunked:

THEREFORE, OUR TODAY'S SATURDAY-SABBATH
IS TO 100% NOT THE SAME SABBATH-DAY
AT WHICH CHRIST WAS IN THE TOMB!!!

[quote of your study]

Ellen White confirmed several times that Jesus rested at the Seventh-day Sabbath in the grave and that He died on the 6th day of the week. The rhythm (cycle) was never changed. It is a clear lie, that the cycle would have ever been changed. This can be proven historically and unequivocally.

So you have read very quickly, and discovered that you are in for it now with your lies, and that finally somebody found the truth about the crucifixion day of Jesus, May 25 AD 31, and knocked out some few quick counter-arguments. Let's see whether they stand...

You say:

"1. Incident: In the Jubilee year nothing was sown - no barley in two consecutive growing seasons (Sabbatical and Jubilee year) no corn was planted, and therefore ripe barley wasn't present to be searched for (Leviticus 25:1-24)"

Where do you get the "knowledge" that the year 31 AD was a Jubilee year? This is nowhere historically verifiable. Anyone who searches a clue when and if there have been Sabbatical and Jubilee years after the Babylonian captivity doesn't make a find. Therefore, for many, the following statement of Jesus in spring of 29 AD represents the "new" declaration of the Jubilee cycle, and they start to count from there on:

And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias. And when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, To preach the acceptable year of the Lord. (Luke 4:17-19)

This is the only indication of when could have been a year of Jubilee. And that was definitely in the year 28/29 AD and not in 31 AD of which you claim erroneously, and out of a historical nothing.

And even if it truly would have been a year of Jubilee, this would not have prevented in any way that barley grew. Indeed, there would not have been sown anything, but in the fields still were grains of barley that produced barley in the Seventh-sabbatical year and in the year of Jubilee. This you can check and re-read by yourself in nicely prepared manner on the Karaite' website at Karaite Korner. The fact that the barley sample was indeed necessary for the determination of the beginning of the year and whether a leap month had to be added or not, can be studied there perfectly. It is all biblical and you have no counter-arguments.

The text about the "Jubilee year" reads:

Question: How can the new year be set according to the barley in Sabbatical and Jubilee years? What about in drought years? Even if barley sometimes sprouts and grows "voluntarily" with no cultivation, isn't this is less likely in the Jubilee year and in years of severe drought.

Barley grows every year in the Holy Land whether farmers intentionally cultivate it or not. Unintentionally cultivated barley, also referred to as "volunteer" barley, is present all over the Land of Israel in very large quantities. In areas where barley had been cultivated in previous years, fallen seeds would have grown "voluntarily" in relatively large concentrations. However, even in areas where barley has not been cultivated since at least 1948, it continues to survive in great quantities. Volunteer barley grows in such large quantities that Arab shepherds have been known to harvest it with sickles to feed their sheep. Modern wheat farmers in Israel complain that they have to actively root out volunteer barley from their wheat fields and even then they can never get all of it. It is specifically the "volunteer" crops which the Torah gives the poor and Levites to eat in the Sabbatical year, as we read in Leviticus 25,4-7:

But in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard. That which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap, neither gather the grapes of thy vine undressed: for it is a year of rest unto the land. And the sabbath of the land shall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy servant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for thy stranger that sojourneth with thee, And for thy cattle, and for the beast that are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat. (Leviticus 25:4-7)

In a Sabbatical or Jubilee year there would have been no difficulty to determine the Abib based on the "volunteer" barley. Even in the severe drought of 1998-1999 the volunteer barley was abundant throughout the Land of Israel, even in the Negev desert!

Hence, your "1. Incident" against the 25th of May AD 31 as the crucifixion Friday is busted as completely false and unrealistic, not to say, exposed as a lie.

You further write:

"2. Incident: Noah knew the beginning of the year despite the water - no barley

During the flood, Noah was able to determine the first day of the year, regardless of the barley harvest." Genesis 8:13: "And it came to pass in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth."

We have only the biblical account of the festivals which were defined in Leviticus 23, to find out how God instituted the calendar of the Israelites at that time. This was after your own calculations on your root web site [www.4angelspublications.org: this domain does not exist anymore] 820 years after the flood! If you understand, for what reason the barley test was introduced – and that you will experience first in the third part of my studies – you will understand also that the feasts are a prophecy, and that it was not necessary to check the barley before the declaration of the prophecy. The months blend in well on the annual cycle of the sun just with the vernal equinox rule. The prophecy of the feast days that indicated not only the first coming of the Messiah, need to be fulfilled according to Ellen White also at the second coming. And to decode this prophecy, we need an understanding of the barley harvest test to determine the intercalary month (depending on the hand of the Creator who gives the rain and the growth). Whoever denies the barley harvest test like you, will fall forever in darkness. But no one knows for certain, and this is even not important, whether before the scene of Leviticus 23, the barley harvest test was ever instituted by God or not. And it also does not matter in connection with the year 31 AD, how Noah has found the beginning of the year and if the year after the flood began with a leap month or not.

Your argument is completely useless related to the topic of the year 31 AD. Theme missed. Insufficient!

Quite similar, when it comes to your "3. Incident":

"3. Incident: During the wandering in the wilderness (40 years) - no barley

During the 40-year wandering in the wilderness (desert), Israel kept an accurate record of the months and years – apparently without considering in any case the barley harvest in Canaan..."

Please, where do we find this "accurate record" and where are recorded the years with or without the leap months of the wandering in the wilderness? I probably will never get this ominous and certainly non-existing "record" from you!

In addition, we have just read that even in the terrible Negev desert, barley could be found and even in years of extensive drought: Even in the severe drought of 1998-1999 the volunteer barley was abundant throughout the Land of Israel, even in the Negev desert!

But, did the Israelites ever need barley at this time?

No, because once again you did not read your Bible carefully enough...

Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: (Leviticus 23:10)

From what time on should the Israelites bring the sheaf of firstfruits? From the time when they had come into the land of Canaan. They had not come there yet while wandering in the desert. So the barley harvest test was not instituted by God for this time, but only from the time they could again pursue farming or find "volunteer barley" in the Land of Canaan. Thus the "wandering in the wilderness" becomes even an evidence that the barley harvest test was necessary, but only from the entry into the promised land. Also, this sequence of gradual establishment of the true festival calendar, which is indeed the most beautiful prophecy of the Bible which was first deciphered in our very last days, is by itself another prophecy. Because only if we would be very close to our promised land, we would recognize what the festival calendar and the shadowy sabbaths really mean.

Thus, your arguments have been weighed in the balances and found wanting.

I hope that many are amongst you who just stepped into the trap of Laura Lee Jones, who works definitely for Satan, and the studies that I publish on www.lastcountdown.org may help to wake you up again and bring you to leave this pagan moon-sabbath. Please, remember once more what Ellen White said:

The weekly cycle of seven literal days, six for labor and the seventh for rest, which has been preserved and brought down through Bible history, originated in the great facts of the first seven days. {1SP 85.1}

Each new month you begin by determining a new cycle of seven days, and thus you mock the God who fixed this cycle for all time in the creation. You never will be able to harmonize this with the Spirit of Prophecy. Not so the year-31-problem, if you follow the scriptures. The crucifixion was on May 25 AD 31 and it was a Friday and there was a full moon over Gethsemane as Ellen White has seen and confirmed.

I am not a friend of those leaders you addressed. But this time I even hope to have helped them a little.

May the God of Creation be with those who love His truth and destroy those who want to lead His children to perdition with lies,

John Scotram

Some think that we should discuss lovingly with this kind of brethren. They overlook the fact that these "brethren" follow their organizations, which have clearly started one of the most cunning attacks of Satan against our church in history. They work on the side of Jesuits and Luciferians who want to bring us to keep the Sabbath on a different day other than the God chosen Seventh-day. No one who falls into this trap, will receive eternal life when Jesus comes! They are all lost!

Therefore, I write these articles and provide you with an antiserum against these vampires who want to suck the blood of the innocent children of God. The theories propagated by the Lunar Sabbath Keepers are teeming with contradictions and "new insights". Unfortunately, these "new insights" are all not in harmony with the old light that was given to us, but they try to replace it with their deadly poison.

Holding fast the faithful word as he hath been taught, that he may be able by sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers. For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision: Whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake. One of themselves, even a prophet of their own, said, The Cretians are always liars, evil beasts, slow bellies. This witness is true. Wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith: Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth. Unto the pure all things are pure: but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled. They profess that they know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate. (Titus 1:9-16)

Can you distinguish between their message and the message I have for you? Do you see where reigns disorder and chaos, and which messages bring contradictions and problems affecting the whole of Christendom for centuries, and which is in harmony and unity with the divine word? Please pray about this, dear brothers and sisters!

If suddenly everything that seemed to be in disarray and contradictory comes into wonderful harmony, then we know that a mere theory has become present truth. For our God is a God of order and not chaos. Confusion is replaced by knowledge, and doubt by certainty.

With this presentation of the solution of a problem that for all Christianity seemed to be insolvable for centuries, the two-Passover problem, I hope to have helped you come a little closer to all truth. In the following article we will take a look at a slightly less difficult issue, which I have already announced on several occasions. It will give us the answer to a question that has been asked by many Adventists with deep concern: "How long will the time of plagues really last, when we have to endure on this earth without an Intercessor?"

Shadows of the Sacrifices - Part I

Written by John Scotram

Published: Sunday, June 5, 2011, 4:56 pm

Originally published on Tuesday, March 29, 2011, 2:59 pm in German at www.letzttercountdown.org

Now that we are approaching the end of the preparatory studies for the last third part of the Shadow Series, more and more signs are becoming visible that we are really nearing the end. This short series, which deals with the sacrifices of the sanctuary, I dedicate to the late 19-year-old Erik Downes of Florida, U.S.A., previously my only helper in the project who corrected the English translations of my articles for me during his period of study beginning in March of 2010.

During his winter vacation school trip to Costa Rica, he drowned at sea. His whole class was endangered by a riptide. His mother flew to Costa Rica, and was informed that her son had told his classmates shortly before he drowned that they should head to shore, for he was the only one who sensed that they were in danger. They followed his advice, but as one of his companions turned around, he saw that Erik was drawn under water by an invisible hand, never to appear again.

As a result of this terrible accident, I got in contact with Erik's mother and aunt, who gave such a wonderful Christian testimony in spite of this infinitely sad situation that I must not fail to mention it here. Before the circumstances of his disappearance were fully known and there was still some hope that Erik could possibly be found, their only prayer was that God's will might be done—and if it would be His will that Erik should be laid to rest before the time of persecution would begin, it would be their only wish to at least recover his body so there would be closure.

As soon as Myrna, Erik's mother, arrived in Costa Rica on January 8, 2011, three days after the phone message that her son was missing, his body had just been found. She thanked God for hearing her prayers. Later, her only wish and only thought was that she would be able to give a strong testimony at Erik's Memorial Service for the righteousness of God and that she would not look like a "broken" mother. She wanted to show all of the young people that to follow Jesus and work in His harvest as Erik had done is the meaning of life. As a Seventh-day Adventist, she knows that she will soon take Erik back into her arms, for the day of Jesus' return is not far off.

The Memorial Service for Erik, my only friend and helper at the time, was held on January 23, 2011 in Florida and was recorded and stored in the archives of Shores SDA. Erik was Myrna's only child. They had a deep and dear relationship. After returning from Costa Rica, she wrote me the following:

Life here in Florida continues with lots of people stopping by to visit and offer their sympathies, they are keeping me busy. I think most of the people who stop by are amazed to see how well I am holding up. I always refer them to the scriptures and especially the hope that we are given in 1 Thessalonians 4:

But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words. (1 Thessalonians 4:13-18)

To those who come expecting to find a broken mother, I share the above scripture and my question to them is always, would you cry for someone who is asleep? The above scripture was one of Erik's favorites. As I was going through his bible, he had underlined the word "comfort". I sometimes wonder whether God was preparing him for such a time as this.

Thank you so much for the email you sent and for sharing the dreams that Erik shared with you. I will use excerpts from all the emails you sent on your behalf. Feel free to use any of the documentation that you have from Erik. I am sure he would want you to, especially if it would win a soul to Christ.

Yes, Erik also had dreams. They were often of a very personal nature, but as my friend he told me about them. From his dreams I could gather what violent, spiritual struggles Erik was exposed to as young Adventist in the secular environment of his own church. He fought a heroic inner battle against secular music, among other things, because he knew he'd have to let Jesus change his taste if he wanted to see the Kingdom of Heaven. In a dream, Jesus appeared to him and admonished him lovingly. In another dream, the "Lion of the tribe of Judah" followed him all over a construction site (our ministry). Erik was sometimes tempted to fall back into the world, but each time that happened Jesus brought him back to Himself with a personal dream.

As it turned out, our last correspondence was about a dream he had had, but it wasn't a personal dream this time. It was about the preparations for the coming of the false Christ. Erik had seen that a special "machine" was being prepared and was almost completely finished. It worked to project a three dimensional image into the atmosphere of our planet and was even able to influence people's thoughts. He also made mention of Project Blue Beam, which you can find on YouTube. A major role in the fraudulent Return would be played by the increasingly occurring UFO phenomena. I was surprised by his dream, because another Adventist had also sent me a dream about our great test and the false Christ shortly before that. He had seen many incredible details of this faked Second Coming and the machine in full operation that Erik saw. One didn't know about the dreams of the other. I was the only one that knew both of them and was able to see the parallels and concordance of both dreams.

The penultimate mail I received from Erik included a personal dream again. He had been worried about me because I had not written for a month. But Jesus reassured him in the dream that I was OK and would write on December 20, 2010. And then Erik felt that something important was going to happen on December 22, 2010. It was like a warning. Erik waited, and in fact, I wrote to him on December 20 after a very busy time. I mentioned the dream of the other Adventist, and that I would not be able to share it with him because that brother had not yet given me permission. He had sent me the dream because he thought it could help me in my studies. Erik expressed his curiosity as to how his dream was included in the other dream, and I prayed for two days about whether I could send him the dream. On December 22, I felt that I could wait no longer, and I sent the dream about our great test to Erik. He was very glad to have gotten it, and that was the last mail that I received from him before his death. He understood the 22nd of December as a warning, and so it was.

I know that Erik was taken from us because Jesus knows the future better than we do, and I know that Erik will be one of the first who I will take into my arms in heaven to thank him personally for his efforts for propagating the Fourth Angel's message, and for his deep friendship. He was the kindest and most respectful brother I have found since my baptism in our ranks.

A few weeks after his death, our Lord answered the prayers of our small group here for more helpers and Erik's aunt, Lynn, became his successor. We all are very happy that our Lord has called her to correct the articles in English, which she does with extraordinary dedication and devoted meticulousness. Thank you, Lynn, that you're on board!

We still pray that more brethren will wake up and translate these messages. I wish I could have more opportunities to explain and tell you so many more things, but the translations take too much time. That is why it takes months for a new article to be published. How sad those brethren will be, who would have been able to serve in the Fourth Angel's message with their talent and knowledge of language to give the Loud Cry a certain sound as Erik and his aunt were doing. Soon they will be faced with the bitter realization that it is too late.

We are all asked to present a living sacrifice, like Erik did:

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. (Romans 12:1)

In addition, we are to build a spiritual house, a united community of holy priests, and to offer up spiritual sacrifices:

Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. (1 Peter 2:5)

A Warning

As we begin to study an almost entirely overlooked theme of the Old Testament that has been pushed aside, we should never lose sight of those verses. We will look at a part of the sanctuary doctrine that has never been deciphered. There is nothing but silence about it. It is a special part of the sacrificial service, which was abolished at the cross. Jesus died on the cross exactly at the time of the slaughter of the evening sacrifice, as we have studied extensively in the Cross Shadows. The sacrificial lamb escaped from the priest for this part of the daily sacrifice, and the veil of the temple was rent in two. No one could enter the temple because the Holy of Holies was exposed. The sacrificial system had come to an end once and for all, because type and anti-type had perfectly met. Jesus was the spotless lamb of the daily sacrifice, and from then on everybody who seeks forgiveness should claim His blood.

In our church we know a lot about the sanctuary service, even though the subject is rarely taught anymore. We know that all the sacrifices were pointing to the one perfect Sacrifice, Christ, the divine Lamb. Therefore, we know the anti-typical meaning of all the sacrifices:

But Christ being come an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building; Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us. (Hebrews 9:11-12)

So, please don't get confused by a study of the feast days or sacrifices to think that we should start to keep the Jewish festivals again. No, that is not God's will:

And you, being dead in your sins and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses; Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us [the ceremonial law of Moses], which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross; And having spoiled principalities and powers, he made a shew of them openly, triumphing over them in it. Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days [i.e. the shadowy sabbaths of the feast days]: Which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ. (Colossians 2:13-17)

Oh, how much discussion there is about the words of the apostle, and how wrongly have they been understood up to the present day!

We, as Adventists, know that it was the ceremonial law that was nailed to the cross. We also understand correctly that the festivals, new moons and ceremonial sabbaths (shadowy sabbaths), which can fall upon any weekday, no longer have to be kept since they are just shadows of things to come. But what does the term "shadow of things to come" really mean? Another word for this is "prophecy". A prophecy is a shadow of the future. And this is the knowledge that we have not yet fully acquired as a church.

There are whole movements inside and outside of Adventism which want to observe the Jewish feasts again. There are even Jewish-Adventist groups that stir thousands of people to keep rites again that Jesus has abolished. No, it is a fundamental misunderstanding and a terrible aberration to think that we might please God without understanding that these rites were foreshadowing Jesus and have been replaced by completely different "sacrifices", namely spiritual sacrifices like I described before. We can never please God by formal ceremonies, but doing that will fulfill a different prophecy. Such people exactly repeat the error of the Jewish people who had a dead religion (Sardis!) because they no longer understood where the ceremonies, like shadows (prophecies), pointed to: the living and saving Messiah.

On the other hand, many believe that we no longer need to study what those rites and ceremonies actually mean, because everything was already supposedly fulfilled on the cross. They believe that there isn't any prophecy left for our days. This is another fatal error, as you will see!

The Autumn Festivals as the Type of our Time

Divine wisdom divided the festivals into two major sections: the spring and the autumn festivals. This division is reflected in the first and the second coming of Jesus. The spring festivals essentially foreshadowed the events of Jesus' passion week until the outpouring of the early rain at Pentecost, while the autumn festivals include all levels of the judgment period since 1844.

The feast of trumpets, which started the autumn festivals with the first crescent moon of the seventh month, foreshadowed Miller's Midnight Cry. This was followed by the Day of Atonement on the tenth day of the seventh month. It is the main component of our sanctuary doctrine and the basis of our entire Advent message. Since October 22, 1844, we are living in the fulfillment of the prophecy of this Yom Kippur day, which in reality takes place in heaven, and will last for a total of 171 years for the Judgment of the Dead and the Living. There was another special celebration, the feast of tabernacles, that began on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, and lasted seven days. In Adventism, we have slight difficulties with the interpretation of this festival because we do not have clear statements from Ellen White about it, but we should be able to understand its significance if God explains it to us:

*Also in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days: on the first day shall be a sabbath, and on the eighth day shall be a sabbath. And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; and ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God seven days. And ye shall keep it a feast unto the LORD seven days in the year. It shall be a statute for ever in your generations: ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month. Ye shall dwell in booths seven days; all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths: That your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God. (Leviticus 23:39-43)

The feast of tabernacles is to be a reminder of the wandering in the wilderness for 40 years. During that time, the Israelites had no roof over their heads, but they were protected and led by God. Even more, however, it was a warning for our time. We would commit the errors of ancient Israel again, and like them we would have to wander for many years in the wilderness as an Advent people.

It was not the will of God that the coming of Christ should be thus delayed. God did not design that His people, Israel, should wander forty years in the wilderness. He promised to lead them directly to the land of Canaan, and establish them there a holy, healthy, happy people. But those to whom it was first preached, went not in "because of unbelief" (Heb. 3:19). Their hearts were filled with murmuring, rebellion, and hatred, and He could not fulfill His covenant with them.

For forty years did unbelief, murmuring, and rebellion shut out ancient Israel from the land of Canaan. The same sins have delayed the entrance of modern Israel into the heavenly Canaan. In neither case were the promises of God at fault. It is the unbelief, the worldliness, unconsecration, and strife among the Lord's professed people that have kept us in this world of sin and sorrow so many years. {1SM 68.3-69.1}

On May 9 1892, Ellen White wrote from Melbourne, Australia, to a brother:

I saw that Jones and Waggoner had their counterpart in Joshua and Caleb. As the children of Israel stoned the spies with literal stones, you have stoned these brethren with stones of sarcasm and ridicule. I saw that you willfully rejected what you knew to be the Truth. Just because it was too humiliating to your dignity. I also saw that if you had accepted their message, we would have been in the kingdom two years from that date, but now we have to go back into the wilderness and stay forty years. (Written from Melbourne, Australia, May 9, 1892) {CCB May 9, 1892}

Soon, in the third part, we will take a closer look at this statement of Ellen White, and discover that it is the key to a wonderful insight.

The fourth angel's message was rejected in 1888, and as Ellen White tells us, this meant that we had to wander again for "40" years in the wilderness. Spiritually, we had lost the solid roof over our heads and we had to live in booths, without a temple, without a city, without protective walls. Our leaders had failed, and a terrible long wandering in the wilderness had started. Since she stated that we could have been in heaven two years from that date, this wandering actually started in 1890, the year in which Jesus could have returned. Rather than enter the heavenly Canaan, we wandered back into the wilderness. Therefore, we should finally understand and admit that the feast of tabernacles pointed to that terrible time, and has already been fulfilled by us with the 3 times 40 years (120 years) from 1890 to 2010. This makes it completely unnecessary to celebrate the feast of tabernacles anew. (The anti-Trinitarians among us should ponder why the number "3" appears here again.) As I said in the article The Power of the Father, the wilderness wandering ended by the fact that our God led us to an oasis with fresh water, the beginning of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit in the latter rain since 2010, and the (re)proclamation of the Fourth Angel's message, which is the true Midnight Cry: "Behold, the bridegroom cometh."

The end of the wandering in the desert was predicted by a special shadowy sabbath, the eighth day after the seven days of the feast of tabernacles.

Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of tabernacles for seven days unto the LORD. On the first day shall be an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. Seven days ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: on the eighth day shall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye shall offer an offering made by *fire unto the LORD: it is a solemn assembly; and ye shall do no servile work therein.

(Leviticus 23:34-36)*

This eighth day, which finished the autumn festivals, is called by the Jews "Shemini Atzeret" as you can study at Hebrew for Christians, the main rite on that day was the "Prayer for the Latter Rain". Since 2010, the Orion message is being given and we pray every day that the 144,000 will finally accept and understand this message, because the anti-type of this festival will soon come to an end. Any Adventist who will not have received the latter rain will soon be sifted out.

Many, however, understand the feast of tabernacles as a symbol for the time of the plagues, in which the angels of our Lord will lead us to the most solitary places on earth, where we will no longer have to take care of ourselves for our maintenance and food. This interpretation is a nice and possible third application, but it does not help us for this article. As we shall see in these articles about the shadows of the sacrifices, all of the autumn festivals together are a symbol for the entire preparation of the people for the time of the plagues.

To understand this, we need to study something that was apparently never examined in detail. I would like to ask you now to skim through chapters 28 and 29 of "Numbers," as this book was quite appropriately titled in Greek. I will not quote all of the verses here, because these are all ceremonial instructions for the spring festivals (chapter 28) and autumn festivals (chapter 29). The statutes for the exact number of sacrifices which had to be sacrificed on every single feast day are listed therein.

Most of us quickly skip these chapters because they are really somewhat "boring". We are buried in instructions, and it is really about as much fun reading these chapters as the long lists of genealogies, or like reading a phone book. Maybe that's the reason why so far nobody pondered why God took the trouble of giving us such detailed instructions. We have been told that the earthly sanctuary is a "shadow of things to come", and therefore the sacrifices are prophecies as well. Ellen White gave us even more evidence in saying that we do not understand the Jewish sanctuary service good enough. Since we understand quite a lot today, our special interest should be drawn to those things that have never been investigated. The numbers of the sacrificial animals and offerings have never been examined before to my knowledge. That is precisely why this "boring" collection of sheer numbers attracted my attention.

If we think according to typology, the figures of the sacrificial animals of the spring festivals should tell us something about the events surrounding Jesus' crucifixion, and the figures of the autumn festivals should tell us something about our time. What might that be?

So that we can learn from the past, it makes good sense to examine the sacrifices of the spring festivals first, and to try to find out if there is any significance to them.

The Sacrifices of the Spring Feasts

I have set up several tables below that give an overview of the various details of the sacrifices of the spring festivals, accompanied with the appropriate verse number. What we are seeking are those offerings that were instructed to be offered within the core time of the festivals, excluding the daily sacrifices, which also included the Seventh-day Sabbath offerings. Therefore, we immediately exclude the regular daily sacrifice from our study, which is explained at the beginning of chapter 28.

It is also striking that the Lord doesn't mention the Passover lamb in Numbers 28. In fact, in this context it has no new typical significance, for it found its anti-type in the introduction of the Lord's Supper by Jesus (see Part 2 of Cross Shadows). We will see that it was by divine intention that this sacrificial lamb was not even mentioned here again.

Other Preliminary Remarks:

1. We find precise information from God regarding the number of units of flour that depended on the kind of sacrificial animal, measured in tenth parts of an ephah (a Biblical unit of measurement). Some recent Bible translations have these measurements converted into pounds or kg, making it impossible to decrypt the prophecy contained therein. We have to stay with the quantities and units that God has given us.
2. The portions of oil that had to be mingled with the sacrificial flour are given in the unit "hin". If you look closely, you will see that the portions of oil (to be mingled with the flour) and the portions of the wine (for the drink offering) are always exactly the same. I have studied this data in detail and could not find a direct prophetic significance, but the details of the amounts of flour have a highly prophetic significance. Indirectly, the amounts of flour include the amounts of the oil, and these contain the amounts of the libations. To avoid unduly complicating this very challenging study, I omit the unnecessary "hin" units, but the reader should know that I have examined this issue in detail.
3. In order to obtain a complete list of all of the sacrifices of the spring festivals complementary to Numbers 28, we must also consult Leviticus 23, as there are listed some more sacrifices which according to our Bible Commentary (references below) were not replaced by the other sacrifices and had to be offered additionally. The prophetic meaning appears only if the list is complete.

The first spring festival with special sacrificial instructions in Numbers 28 is the First Day of Unleavened Bread:

Feast Day	Declared as Ceremonial Sabbath	Verses of Precept	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
First Day of Unleavened Bread Abib (Nissan) 15 (Lev. 23:6-8, Num. 28:17-23)	Lev. 23:7-8 Num. 28:18	Num. 28:19-23	Bullocks	2	3/10	6/10
			Ram	1	2/10	2/10
			Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
			Goat	1	Sin Offering
			TOTALS:	11		15/10

These sacrificial instructions applied to all seven days of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, so that we get the following totals:

Feast Days	Declared as Ceremonial Sabbaths	Verses of Precept		Animal Count		Total Flour
7 Days of Unleavened Bread Abib (Nissan) 15 - 22 (Lev. 23:8, Num. 28:24)	1 st Day: see above 7 th Day: Lev. 23:8, Num. 28:25	Lev. 23:8 Num. 28:24	TOTALS:	77		105/10

However, there are still more instructions for sacrifices during the Feast of Unleavened Bread given in Leviticus 23, which we must not leave out just because they are not mentioned in Numbers 28:

Feast Day	Declared as Ceremonial Sabbath	Verses of Precept	Animal to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Feast of Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits Abib (Nissan) 16 (Lev. 23:9-14)	no	Lev. 23:9-14	Lamb	1	2/10	2/10

The next spring festival for which God has given sacrificial instructions is the Feast of Weeks, Feast of Firstfruits or simply Pentecost:

Feast Day	Declared as Ceremonial Sabbath	Verses of Precept	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Pentecost (Feast of Firstfruits, Feast of Weeks) Day 50 after Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits (Num. 28:26-31)	Num. 28:26	Num. 28:27-31	Bullocks	2	3/10	6/10
			Ram	1	2/10	2/10
			Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
			Goat	1	Sin Offering
			TOTALS:	11		15/10

Again, we find additional sacrifices in Leviticus 23 for Pentecost (see our Bible Commentary Volume 1 on Numbers 28:26):

Feast Day	Declared as Ceremonial Sabbath	Verses of Precept	Sacrifices	Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Pentecost (Feast of Firstfruits, Feast of Weeks) Day 50 after Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits (Lev. 23:15-22)	Lev. 23:21	Lev. 23:17-20	Two Wave Loaves	(2)	1/10	2/10
			Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
			Bullock	1	3/10	3/10
			Rams	2	2/10	4/10
			Goat	1	Sin Offering
			Lambs	2	Peace Offering
			TOTALS:	13		16/10

The spring festivities, in contrast to the autumn festivals, extended over the monthly limit until the second month. This is caused by the waiting time for Pentecost (7 weeks, therefore it was also called "Feast of Weeks"). Beware: it could be easily overlooked that during the seven weeks (Omer Sabbaths) of waiting for Pentecost, there always falls a new moon with 100% certainty. This has to be considered as prophetic too. By the similarity of the quantities, we can see that it is a logical part of the spring feasts:

Feast Day	Declared as Ceremonial Sabbath	Verses of Precept	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
New Moon of the Omer Sabbaths	no	Num. 28:11-15	Bullocks	2	3/10	6/10
			Ram	1	2/10	2/10
			Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
			Goat	1	Sin Offering
			TOTALS:	11		15/10

As always, to understand a prophecy—and this is a prophecy, because the shadowy service is in itself a type of something that would be fulfilled later—we need a key to unlock the prophecy. According to the hermeneutical principle, the key has to be contained in the Bible itself.

In this case, it is actually quite easy to find that key, or at least part of it. It is in fact in the same chapter 28 of Numbers. But first, we have to ponder over flour and oil. We know that all of the animals were pointing to Jesus' sacrifice. What stands out here is the strange dependence on certain units of flour. Of course, the flour was mixed with oil. We do this to bake bread. In the Lord's Supper, Jesus Himself refers to what we have to understand by the symbol of bread:

And as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body. (Mark 14:22)

Why was the bread to be mingled with oil? What does the oil mean?

Let Ellen White explain it to us in one of her best books. In "Christ's Object Lessons", we can read in the chapter on the parable of the 10 virgins:

Lingering near the bride's house are ten young women robed in white. Each carries a lighted lamp and a small flagon for oil. All are anxiously watching for the appearance of the bridegroom. But there is a delay. Hour after hour passes; the watchers become weary and fall asleep. At midnight the cry is heard, "Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him." The sleepers, suddenly awaking, spring to their feet. They see the procession moving on, bright with torches and glad with music. They hear the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride. The ten maidens seize their lamps and begin to trim them, in haste to go forth. But five have neglected to fill their flasks with oil. They did not anticipate so long a delay, and they have not prepared for the emergency. In distress they appeal to their wiser companions saying, "Give us of your oil; for our lamps are going out." (Margin.) But the waiting five, with their freshly trimmed lamps, have emptied their flagons. They have no oil to spare, and they answer, "Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves."

While they went to buy, the procession moved on, and left them behind. The five with lighted lamps joined the throng and entered the house with the bridal train, and the door was shut. When the foolish virgins reached the banqueting hall, they received an unexpected denial. The master of the feast declared, "I know you not." They were left standing without, in the empty street, in the blackness of the night.

As Christ sat looking upon the party that waited for the bridegroom, He told His disciples the story of the ten virgins, by their experience illustrating the experience of the church that shall live just before His second coming.

The two classes of watchers represent the two classes who profess to be waiting for their Lord. They are called virgins because they profess a pure faith. By the lamps is represented the word of God. The psalmist says, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Ps. 119:105. The oil is a symbol of the Holy Spirit. Thus the Spirit is represented in the prophecy of Zechariah.

"The angel that talked with me came again," he says, "and waked me, as a man that is wakened out of his sleep, and said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold a candlestick all of gold, with a bowl upon the top of it, and his seven lamps thereon, and seven pipes to the seven lamps, which are upon the top thereof; and two olive trees by it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof. So I answered and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my lord? . . . Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts. . . . And I answered again, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches which 408 through the two golden pipes empty the golden oil out of themselves? . . . Then said he, These are the two anointed ones, that stand by the Lord of the whole earth." Zech. 4:1-14.

From the two olive trees the golden oil was emptied through the golden pipes into the bowl of the candlestick, and thence into the golden lamps that gave light to the sanctuary. So from the holy ones that stand in God's presence His Spirit is imparted to the human instrumentalities who are consecrated to His service. The mission of the two anointed ones is to communicate to God's people that heavenly grace which alone can make His word a lamp to the feet and a light to the path. "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." Zech. 4:6. {COL 406.1-408.1}

Please read the whole chapter. It contains lots of important information for this last generation of the 144,000.

We should now add up the individual totals, to explore whether this results in numbers that could have a prophetic significance in connection with the outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

Feasts	Totals of Animals to be Sacrificed	Totals of Flour Units
The Seven Days of the Feast of Unleavened Bread	77	105/10
Feast of Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits	1	2/10
Pentecost I (Numbers)	11	15/10
Pentecost II (Leviticus)	13	16/10
New Moon Feast in the Waiting Time until Pentecost	11	15/10
TOTALS:	113	153/10

I had a certain suspicion when I began this study. Many people ask what my study method is. My response is that I let myself be guided by the Holy Spirit. Frequently, there are small problems that I find in the Bible or thoughts during prayer that point me to something specific. Indeed, I started to study the Jewish festivals to counter the Lunar Sabbath Keepers, and so I recognized more and more how little we are able to fully explain of what the Bible says about the feasts. Hopefully, the first two parts of the Shadow Series showed this clearly.

I suspected that the many instructions for the festival sacrifices had a special relationship with certain biblical periods, during which exceptional conditions existed or will exist on earth. I believed that these feast sacrifices would constitute something like a "provision" for those specific hard times. I still had no idea how this study would result and where the keys could be found, but it's always like this when I pursue a case. The Holy Spirit gives an idea and then through diligent study in prayer, I get the solutions. Sometimes I fall asleep after having prayed for it and then I get the solution the next morning when I wake up.

What are these "exceptional circumstances"? When Jesus died on the cross, one such state of emergency came. As we learned in the previous part, the sacrificial system was abolished through Jesus' death on the cross once and for all. He died just at the time of the slaughtering of the daily evening sacrifice, and the lamb escaped from the priest. Ellen White told us of this, confirming this view. The curtain that separated the Holy Place from the Most Holy Place was torn apart from top to bottom by the Father, and thus ended the Jewish sacrificial system.

We must understand, however, what it was replaced by: Jesus' intercessory service in the heavenly sanctuary. Nevertheless, Jesus was laid to rest in the grave for a whole Sabbath, and when He rose again, He spent still another 40 days on earth with the disciples:

For forty days Christ remained on the earth, preparing the disciples for the work before them and explaining that which heretofore they had been unable to comprehend. He spoke of the prophecies concerning His advent, His rejection by the Jews, and His death, showing that every specification of these prophecies had been fulfilled. He told them that they were to regard this fulfillment of prophecy as an assurance of the power that would attend them in their future labors. "Then opened He their understanding," we read, "that they might understand the Scriptures, and said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behooved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day: and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem." And He added, "Ye are witnesses of these things." Luke 24:45-48.

During these days that Christ spent with His disciples, they gained a new experience. As they heard their beloved Master explaining the Scriptures in the light of all that had happened, their faith in Him was fully established. They reached the place where they could say, "I know whom I have believed." 2 Timothy 1:12. They began to realize the nature and extent of their work, to see that they were to proclaim to the world the truths entrusted to them. The events of Christ's life, His death and resurrection, the prophecies pointing to these events, the mysteries of the plan of salvation, the power of Jesus for the remission of sins--to all these things they had been witnesses, and they were to make them known to the world. They were to proclaim the gospel of peace and salvation through repentance and the power of the Saviour. {AA 26.2-27.1}

Who performed the intercessory service during this time when there was neither a sacrificial system nor was Jesus in the heavenly sanctuary as High Priest? What would have happened to the people who had sinned during that time? Would they have been forgiven? These are not just theological questions in regard to redemption, but we encounter there a type for a time when we will be in a similar but even worse situation. I am referring to the time when Jesus will have left the sanctuary and His intercession will have terminated. At that time, the door of mercy will have irrevocably closed. The Holy Spirit will have been withdrawn from the earth and we will have to live without an Advocate in this world. In the model case of the year 31 A.D., Jesus indeed spent some moments with the disciples and certainly gave them hope. But the sacrificial system was permanently abolished and He had not yet taken up His service in the heavenly sanctuary. The Holy Spirit wasn't present yet, which is also a characteristic of the time of the plagues.

I examined the festive sacrifices to their possible significance as a provision, as a "food supply", for these times. Everything that Jesus instructed in types, was done in view of the very last time, so that the 144,000 would be able to decipher the corresponding prophetic significance of the autumn festivals by the example of the fulfillment of the spring festivals, and draw their consequences.

If you calculate a "provision for a journey", you need two pieces of information:

1. The daily food supply of the travelers
2. The length of the journey in days

From these two values, by simple multiplication, the required total amount of the necessary provisions can be calculated.

What if we only know the total amount of provisions for the journey? Then we have to calculate how far one could go with it. We would first have to determine what the daily requirement is, and then we could divide the existing provisions by the daily requirement, and would obtain the maximum possible duration of the journey in days according to the total amount of food.

Believing that the total amount of the sacrifices during the spring festivals was the provision for the period of the emergency state after Jesus' crucifixion, I just had to find the amount for the daily requirement in order to calculate how many days the festive sacrifices would last.

It is quite obvious, which information is needed for the calculation of the daily provision... the amounts for the daily offerings in chapter 28 of Numbers:

Daily Offerings (Num. 28:3-8)	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Morning Sacrifice	Lamb	1	1/10	1/10
Evening Sacrifice	Lamb	1	1/10	1/10
	TOTALS:	2		2/10

The daily requirement was therefore 2 loaves, and so we would come to $153 / 2 = 76.5$ days of provision between Jesus' death and His commencement of the Sanctuary Service, which does not appear to be logical. Something is still missing in our calculation.

Without a deeper understanding of the daily sacrifices one cannot study these things. The priests had the obligation to offer the daily sacrifices for the people, but there was also a special daily offering for the priests of the house of Levi themselves:

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, This is the offering of Aaron and of his sons, which they shall offer unto the LORD in the day when he is anointed; the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meat offering perpetual, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night. In a pan it shall be made with oil; and when it is baked, thou shalt bring it in: and the baken pieces of the meat offering shalt thou offer for a sweet savour unto the LORD. And the priest of his sons that is anointed in his stead shall offer it: it is a statute for ever unto the LORD; it shall be wholly burnt. For every meat offering for the priest shall be wholly burnt: it shall not be eaten. (Leviticus 6:19-23)

The English translation of this text uses the term "meat offering" but indeed there was no meat but only flour and oil to be offered for the priests.

This special daily sacrifice can be easily overlooked, because it was "hidden" pretty well in another part of the Bible. As we shall see, this offering has an outstanding importance for our time. Let us add this finding now to the table of the daily requirement:

Daily Offerings (Num. 28:3-8)	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Morning Sacrifice	Lamb	1	1/10	1/10
Evening Sacrifice	Lamb	1	1/10	1/10
Morning Sacrifice of the Priests			1/20	1/20
Evening Sacrifice of the Priests			1/20	1/20
	TOTALS:	2		3/10

Typologically, the daily sacrifice of two loaves for the people represented the daily requirement of "Holy Spirit" of a "normal" disciple of Jesus in the time after Jesus' death, while the required provisions of an Apostle was lower and just one loaf of bread.

We now re-calculate the foreshadowed maximum time, for which the total stock sacrificed at the spring festivals was sufficient:

$$153 \div 3 = 51 \text{ days}$$

Jesus spent one day in the grave ... Sabbath, Nissan 15, the first day of Unleavened Bread. Then, the instruction was given that one should count from the day after the Sabbath (Nissan 16, the day of the waving of the sheaf of firstfruits) a total of 50 days to come to the feast of Pentecost, the outpouring of the predicted early rain.

And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the sabbath, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave offering; seven sabbaths shall be complete: Even unto the morrow after the seventh sabbath shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall offer a new meat offering unto the LORD. (Leviticus 23:15-16)

If we add to these 50 days set by God, the day on which He rested in the grave, we come to exactly 51 days of needed provision. Jesus Himself had been the evening sacrifice on Friday, Nissan 14. The Israelites, the people and the disciples and apostles (the true Levites and priests), had a specific daily requirement of 3 loaves of bread mingled with the Holy Spirit for the time until the real outpouring of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost exactly 51 days later.

In my opinion, it is correct to conclude that Jesus, although He ascended to Heaven on the 40th day after His resurrection, not yet commenced His ministry in the Heavenly Sanctuary. Only on the day when He sent the Holy Spirit, did He also begin His Intercessory Service, because God in His infinite counsel provided for exactly 51 days of emergency time. As far as I know, there are no contrary statements of the Spirit of Prophecy. If someone finds something, please contact me.

In the second part of "Shadows of the Sacrifices", we will examine the fall feasts and how it was possible that the disciples received their portion of "bread", although at the spring festivals of the year 31 A.D. there could not have been offered any valid sacrifices for provision, because the whole sacrificial system was abolished already with Jesus' death at the cross.

Shadows of the Sacrifices - Part II

Written by John Scotram

Published: Tuesday, June 7, 2011, 1:24 am

Originally published on Friday, April 1, 2011, 8:47 am in German at www.letztercountdown.org

In the first part of the "Shadows of the Sacrifices", I already unveiled the secret a bit on what the offerings of the festivals really mean, namely a certain "provision" of the Holy Spirit for specific emergency periods. In this second part, we will try to find out what kind of emergency it will be that we can expect in our time.

Let us refresh our memory once again as to what the sacrificial animals themselves meant:

Christ Himself was the originator of the Jewish system of worship, in which, by types and symbols, were shadowed forth spiritual and heavenly things. Many forgot the true significance of these offerings; and the great truth that through Christ alone there is forgiveness of sin, was lost to them. The multiplying of sacrificial offerings, the blood of bulls and goats, could not take away sin. . . .

A lesson was embodied in every sacrifice, impressed in every ceremony, solemnly preached by the priest in his holy office, and inculcated by God Himself--that through the blood of Christ alone is there forgiveness of sins. {AG 155.3-4}

Once again I warn you not to commit the error of believing that we have to introduce these ancient rites again in our time:

That which was type and symbol to the Jews is reality to us. {COL 317.2}

We learn from the Spirit of Prophecy that the Jewish rites are prophecies:

All the ceremonies of the Jewish law were prophetic, typical of mysteries in the plan of redemption. {6BC 1095.5}

Through the teachings of the sacrificial service, Christ was to be uplifted before all nations, and all who would look to Him should live. Christ was the foundation of the Jewish economy. The whole system of types and symbols was a compacted prophecy of the gospel, a presentation in which were bound up the promises of redemption. {AA 14.1}

Ellen White also tells us that the fall festivals have to fulfill in our time the same way that the spring festivals were fulfilled in the time of Jesus:

Arguments drawn from the Old Testament types also pointed to the autumn as the time when the event represented by the "cleansing of the sanctuary" must take place. This was made very clear as attention was given to the manner in which the types relating to the first advent of Christ had been fulfilled.

The slaying of the Passover lamb was a shadow of the death of Christ. Says Paul: "Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us." 1 Corinthians 5:7. The sheaf of first fruits, which at the time of the Passover was waved before the Lord, was typical of the resurrection of Christ. Paul says, in speaking of the resurrection of the Lord and of all His people: "Christ the first fruits; afterward they that are Christ's at His coming." 1 Corinthians 15:23. Like the wave sheaf, which was the first ripe grain gathered before the harvest, Christ is the first fruits of that immortal harvest of redeemed ones that at the future resurrection shall be gathered into the garner of God.

These types were fulfilled, not only as to the event, but as to the time. On the fourteenth day of the first Jewish month, the very day and month on which for fifteen long centuries the Passover lamb had been slain, Christ, having eaten the Passover with His disciples, instituted that feast which was to commemorate His own death as "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." That same night He was taken by wicked hands to be crucified and slain. And as the antitype of the wave sheaf our Lord was raised from the dead on the third day, "the first fruits of them that slept," a sample of all the resurrected just, whose "vile body" shall be changed, and "fashioned like unto His glorious body." Verse 20; Philippians 3:21.

In like manner the types which relate to the second advent must be fulfilled at the time pointed out in the symbolic service. {GC 399.1-4}

Learning in Spring for Autumn

In order to support the theory that the number of sacrifices for the fall festivals represent a special "provision" of the Holy Spirit for the great time of trouble (also called the time of the plagues), we must first examine what history teaches us. Based on the spring festivals, we can identify some characteristics of an "emergency period" that must be similarly repeated in our time:

1. Jesus did not yet begin His ministry in the Heavenly Sanctuary - respectively in our time, He will leave the Sanctuary.
2. The Holy Spirit had not yet come - respectively in our time, the Holy Spirit will be withdrawn (from the world).

In Early Writings at the beginning of the chapter entitled The Sealing, we can read the following:

At the commencement of the holy Sabbath, January 5, 1849, we engaged in prayer with Brother Belden's family at Rocky Hill, Connecticut, and the Holy Ghost fell upon us. I was taken off in vision to the most holy place, where I saw Jesus still interceding for Israel. On the bottom of His garment was a bell and a pomegranate. Then I saw that Jesus would not leave the most holy place until every case was decided either for salvation or destruction, and that the wrath of God could not come until Jesus had finished His work in the most holy place, laid off His priestly attire, and clothed Himself with the garments of vengeance. Then Jesus will step out from between the Father and man, and God will keep silence no longer, but pour out His wrath on those who have rejected His truth. I saw that the anger of the nations, the wrath of God, and the time to judge the dead were separate and distinct, one following the other, also that Michael had not stood up, and that the time of trouble, such as never was, had not yet commenced. The nations are now getting angry, but when our High Priest has finished His work in the sanctuary, He will stand up, put on the garments of vengeance, and then the seven last plagues will be poured out.

I saw that the four angels would hold the four winds until Jesus' work was done in the sanctuary, and then will come the seven last plagues. {EW 36.1-2}

The corresponding passage of the Bible is:

And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book. (Daniel 12:1)

Please note Revelation 19 also:

And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns; and he had a name written, that no man knew, but he himself. And he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood: and his name is called The Word of God. And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean. And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God. (Revelation 19:11-15)

In Orion, the white horse represents the year 2014, after which the plagues will begin to fall. This will happen when the clock will have made an entire round from 1846 to 2014, which lasts from autumn 2014 until autumn 2015. Jesus will then leave the Heavenly Temple and the time will begin when we have to live before the Father without an Intercessor.

He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still. (Revelation 22:11)

We refer to this as the time after the closing of the door of mercy (the close of probation), because from that time forward no one else can be saved except those who were previously sealed.

As Jesus moved out of the most holy place, I heard the tinkling of the bells upon His garment; and as He left, a cloud of darkness covered the inhabitants of the earth. There was then no mediator between guilty man and an offended God. While Jesus had been standing between God and guilty man, a restraint was upon the people; but when He stepped out from between man and the Father, the restraint was removed and Satan had entire control of the finally impenitent. It was impossible for the plagues to be poured out while Jesus officiated in the sanctuary; but as His work there is finished, and His intercession closes, there is nothing to stay the wrath of God, and it breaks with fury upon the shelterless head of the guilty sinner, who has slighted salvation and hated reproof. In that fearful time, after the close of Jesus' mediation, the saints were living in the sight of a holy God without an intercessor. Every case was decided, every jewel numbered. Jesus tarried a moment in the outer apartment of the heavenly sanctuary, and the sins which had been confessed while He was in the most holy place were placed upon Satan, the originator of sin, who must suffer their punishment.

Then I saw Jesus lay off His priestly attire and clothe Himself with His most kingly robes. Upon His head were many crowns, a crown within a crown. Surrounded by the angelic host, He left heaven. The plagues were falling upon the inhabitants of the earth. Some were denouncing God and cursing Him. Others rushed to the people of God and begged to be taught how they might escape His judgments. But the saints had nothing for them. The last tear for sinners had been shed, the last agonizing prayer offered, the last burden borne, the last warning given. The sweet voice of mercy was no more to invite them. When the saints, and all heaven, were interested for their salvation, they had no interest for themselves. Life and death had been set before them. Many desired life, but made no effort to obtain it. They did not choose life, and now there was no atoning blood to cleanse the guilty, no compassionate Saviour to plead for them, and cry, "Spare, spare the sinner a little longer." All heaven had united with Jesus, as they heard the fearful words, "It is done. It is finished." The plan of salvation had been accomplished, but few had chosen to accept it. And as mercy's sweet voice died away, fear and horror seized the wicked. With terrible distinctness they heard the words, "Too late! too late!" {EW 280.2-281.1}

At that time, the Holy Spirit will have withdrawn completely from the earth:

The Great Time of Trouble Begins After Probation's Close

When Christ shall cease His work as mediator in man's behalf, then this time of trouble will begin. Then the case of every soul will have been decided, and there will be no atoning blood to cleanse from sin. When Jesus leaves His position as man's intercessor before God the solemn announcement is made, "He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still" (Rev. 22:11). Then the restraining Spirit of God is withdrawn from the earth. --PP 201 (1890). {LDE 253.1}

When He leaves the sanctuary, darkness covers the inhabitants of the earth. In that fearful time the righteous must live in the sight of a holy God without an intercessor. The restraint which has been upon the wicked is removed, and Satan has entire control of the finally impenitent. God's long-suffering has ended. The world has rejected His mercy, despised His love, and trampled upon His law. The wicked have passed the boundary of their probation; the Spirit of God, persistently resisted, has been at last withdrawn. Unsheltered by divine grace, they have no protection from the wicked one. Satan will then plunge the inhabitants of the earth into one great, final trouble. As the angels of God cease to hold in check the fierce winds of human passion, all the elements of strife will be let loose. The whole world will be involved in ruin more terrible than that which came upon Jerusalem of old. {GC 614.1}

Hence, during this time the saints have to live without a Mediator in a world without the Holy Spirit. But does that mean that they themselves will no longer have the Holy Spirit? No! Indeed, they will even have been sealed with the Holy Spirit:

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai.

The 144,000 were all sealed and perfectly united. On their foreheads was written, God, New Jerusalem, and a glorious star containing Jesus' new name. {EW 14.1-15.1}

In the article The Power of the Father, I have shown that this is the moment at which the 144,000 will receive the latter rain. Only they get this "portion" of Holy Spirit that makes them wise virgins who have enough oil in their lamps to await the groom. Now, the last and true midnight cry sounds, "The Bridegroom cometh!" The wedding preparations of the Lamb, which began in 1844, will soon be over and the bride will have been purified to be united with her husband. Now is the moment of the outpouring of the emergency provision of the Holy Spirit for the terrible time of the plagues and the wrath of God! Those who do not understand the voice of God from Orion will stay in darkness, without oil for their lamps.

Just Two Weeks of Plagues?

Because this time will be so horrible, of course some will want to know how long it will last. Perhaps I'll tell you in a later article what the wrath of God and the seven last plagues really are, because even this can be understood now with the knowledge base from all our studies. It is really so terrible that even I was shocked, and had to hold strong to my faith in Jesus as I realized that no one can survive without absolutely supernatural protection. Our God is a consuming fire for those who do not have His seal and this emergency provision of the Holy Spirit.

Some brethren have written me that certain leaders in various countries, including Werner Renz of the German "Hope Channel", say without any true biblical basis that the time of the plagues will last only 15 or 30 days. These can already be classified as "false teachings" because the Bible gives us clear indications of the actual duration of the plagues. We are given the duration in prophetic time in chapter 18 of Revelation. Regarding the destruction of the New World Order, with the papacy leading it, it says:

Therefore shall her [Babylon the great] plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire: for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her. (Revelation 18:8)

Or what's about the description of what will come after the sixth seal?

For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? (Revelation 6:17)

According to the day-year principle, this gives us a clear indication of the duration of the plagues: one year. But then again, the scoffers come who claim that Ellen White said that from 1844 on there would be no more prophetic time. But that was only valid for the period between 1844 until the time of the outpouring of the latter rain and the coming of the fourth angel (see The Power of the Father).

Why do we have this same specification several times in the prophetic books of the Old Testament, where prophetic time was certainly valid?

The burden of Babylon, which Isaiah the son of Amoz did see. ... Howl ye; for the day of the LORD is at hand; it shall come as a destruction from the Almighty. ... Behold, the day of the LORD cometh, cruel both with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land desolate: and he shall destroy the sinners thereof out of it. For the stars of heaven and the constellations [= H3285, same word as for Orion] thereof shall not give their light: the sun shall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not cause her light to shine. (Isaiah 13:1;6;9-10)

Please note, that Isaiah mentions here again Orion and that it shall not give its light in the time of plagues! A spiritual hunger is in the land that cannot be satisfied and no one can be saved anymore.

Or what does Zephaniah say?

That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and distress, a day of wasteness and desolation, a day of darkness and gloominess, a day of clouds and thick darkness, ... Neither their silver nor* their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of the LORD'S wrath; but the whole land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy: for he shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land. (Zephaniah 1:15;18)

Moses in the book of Job, Jeremiah in his Lamentations, Ezekiel in Chapters 7 and 22, all those great prophets knew about the day of God's wrath; and that's one year after the valid interpretation principle of one day for a year in regard to these books.

Isaiah says it even in clear text:

For it is the day of the LORD'S vengeance, and the year of recompences for the controversy of Zion. (Isaiah 34:8)

The rejection of any study of time prophecy, which already crosses the border into fanaticism, causes us not to understand and correctly interpret the great and important messages that Jesus has for our time. It allows teachers like Werner Renz to come and lull the church members into a false sense of security. The sister who wrote me said that she wouldn't have to "prepare" very much for such a little time of plagues of only 15 days. She was a diligent listener of Werner Renz. She believed that "it wouldn't be so bad and that in any case it would only take two weeks". Far from it, as our study of the sacrifices of the sanctuary will show. If she could have known then just how God will destroy the earth, she probably would not have apostatized to Sascha Stasch and the Lunar Sabbath Keepers. These false teachers will soon have to answer to Jesus.

Many of the wicked were greatly enraged as they suffered the effects of the plagues. It was a scene of fearful agony. Parents were bitterly reproaching their children, and children their parents, brothers their sisters, and sisters their brothers. Loud, wailing cries were heard in every direction, "It was you who kept me from receiving the truth which would have saved me from this awful hour." The people turned upon their ministers with bitter hate and reproached them, saying, "You have not warned us. You told us that all the world was to be converted, and cried, Peace, peace, to quiet every fear that was aroused. You have not told us of this hour; and those who warned us of it you declared to be fanatics and evil men, who would ruin us." But I saw that the ministers did not escape the wrath of God. Their suffering was tenfold greater than that of their people. - {EW 282.1}

Actually, I think it's not so bad that the brethren believe that the time of the plagues will be only two weeks. Satan's trick is somewhere else. As Werner Renz announced his "map of the last days" in Austria in front of this lady's table, he made it clear that it would not fit into the heresy of Orion and, therefore, the Orion Message could not be from God. And there we have the real problem! The little light they have is withdrawn from those who study incorrectly, and then they commit even greater errors. It is Satan's will that we reject the true messages of God, which would sustain us through the great time of trouble, and therefore we would perish.

The report of Esther gives us another hint that the plagues will last one year.

And when Haman saw that Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence, then was Haman full of wrath. And he thought scorn to lay hands on Mordecai alone; for they had shewed him the people of Mordecai: wherefore Haman sought to destroy all the Jews that were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus, even the people of Mordecai. In the first month, that is, the month Nisan, in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus, they cast Pur, that is, the lot, before Haman from day to day, and from month to month, to the twelfth month, that is, the month Adar. (Esther 3:5-7)

The planned extermination of all Jews by Haman represents a type of the death decree that will be issued against the people of God who keep the Sabbath. The period from the decision to the execution is approximately one year. The lot was cast in the first month and fell to the middle of the twelfth month.

Ellen White connects this biblical event with the time of the plagues:

On the day appointed for their destruction, "the Jews gathered themselves together in their cities throughout all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, to lay hand on such as sought their hurt: and no man could withstand them; for the fear of them fell upon all people." Angels that excel in strength had been commissioned by God to protect His people while they "stood for their lives." Esther 9:2, 16.

Mordecai was given the position of honor formerly occupied by Haman. He "was next unto King Ahasuerus, and great among the Jews, and accepted of the multitude of his brethren" (Esther 10:3); and he sought to promote the welfare of Israel. Thus did God bring His chosen people once more into favor at the Medo-Persian court, making possible the carrying out of His purpose to restore them to their own land. But it was not until several years later, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes I, the successor of Xerxes the Great, that any considerable number returned to Jerusalem, under Ezra.

The trying experiences that came to God's people in the days of Esther were not peculiar to that age alone. The revelator, looking down the ages to the close of time, has declared, "The dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ." Revelation 12:17. Some who today are living on the earth will see these words fulfilled. The same spirit that in ages past led men to persecute the true church, will in the future lead to the pursuance of a similar course toward those who maintain their loyalty to God. Even now preparations are being made for this last great conflict.

The decree that will finally go forth against the remnant people of God will be very similar to that issued by Ahasuerus against the Jews. Today the enemies of the true church see in the little company keeping the Sabbath commandment, a Mordecai at the gate. The reverence of God's people for His law is a constant rebuke to those who have cast off the fear of the Lord and are trampling on His Sabbath.

Satan will arouse indignation against the minority who refuse to accept popular customs and traditions. Men of position and reputation will join with the lawless and the vile to take counsel against the people of God. Wealth, genius, education, will combine to cover them with contempt. Persecuting rulers, ministers, and church members will conspire against them. With voice and pen, by boasts, threats, and ridicule, they will seek to overthrow their faith. By false representations and angry appeals, men will stir up the passions of the people. Not having a "Thus saith the Scriptures" to bring against the advocates of the Bible Sabbath, they will resort to oppressive enactments to supply the lack. To secure popularity and patronage, legislators will yield to the demand for Sunday laws. But those who fear God, cannot accept an institution that violates a precept of the Decalogue. On this battlefield will be fought the last great conflict in the controversy between truth and error. And we are not left in doubt as to the issue. Today, as in the days of Esther and Mordecai, the Lord will vindicate His truth and His people. {PK 602.2-605.3}

The plagues come "in one year" and the death decree will be in place for about 12 months before its execution. But what is the indicated "year" exactly in days? The Jewish year had 12 lunar months, and sometimes 13 if a leap month was necessary. That would be 360 or 390 days. Or is it about a solar year? That would be 365 days.

And how do we calculate Jesus' seven-day journey to us?

The 144,000 shouted, "Alleluia!" as they recognized their friends who had been torn from them by death, and in the same moment we were changed and caught up together with them to meet the Lord in the air.

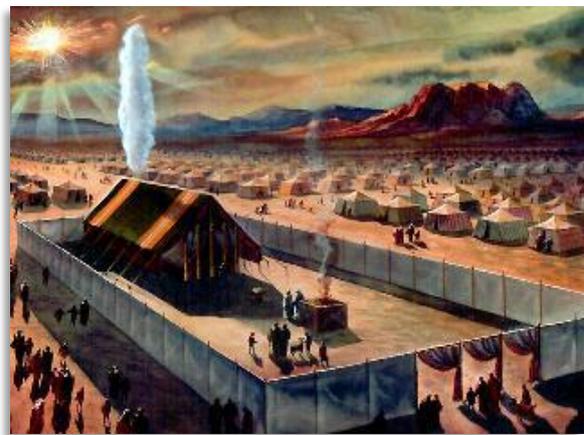

We all entered the cloud together, and were seven days ascending to the sea of glass, when Jesus brought the crowns, and with His own right hand placed them on our heads. {EW 16.1-2}

If the journey with Jesus going back to the sea of glass takes seven days, then Jesus' journey with the angelic hosts to come and get us would also take seven days. Do we have to subtract them from the year or add it? How do we know? That's not in the Bible, right? And who knows, maybe Werner Renz is right anyway? It's all a bit vague, isn't it?

Now we will get the biblical proof that Werner Renz is wrong along with many others who have jumped on that bandwagon. I'm not sure what Walter Veith wanted to say in his new lecture series when he talked about the ship to Rome with the Apostle Paul, hinting that the 14 nights of Acts 27:27 are probably very "typical" for this very last time. I had a strange feeling that he spoke about the time of the plagues. He didn't explain the issue in detail. I just hope he does not succumb to the Renz error, because now we will get the answers to all the previous questions and see exactly how many days the year of the plagues will have, and whether the seven days are included or excluded.

The Calculation of the Fall Provision

The fall feasts began on the first day of the seventh month with the Feast of Trumpets. Here, right at the beginning we have a little problem. We must ask ourselves whether the sacrifices of the new moon feast have to be included or not. That is tricky to answer with our present state of knowledge. Once we see the result it is easy to see that the new moon sacrifices do not count this time, and we will also know from the third part of the Shadow Series (where the result will be confirmed once again).

It can also be concluded from the biblical text, however, and from the logic of the feasts. The new moon sacrifices of the first month also did not count. However, they were not on the very same day as is the case with the Feast of Trumpets. According to the Jewish way of thinking, the beginning of the month had to be detected first and then the feast could begin. Therefore, the sacrifice of the new moon logically took place before the first feast of the autumn festivals. The autumn feasts had not yet begun at the new moon, but only with the first offering for the Feast of Trumpets. That is why in the first part of the "Shadows of Sacrifices" I defined the offerings as considered "in the core time" of the feasts.

Also, the biblical text tells us exactly what was part of the festive sacrifices and what was not. Please re-read everything once more. In the spring festivals, we always found what was excluded from the festival offerings in the instructions:

1. The seven days of the Feast of Unleavened Bread: After this manner ye shall offer daily, throughout the seven days, the meat of the sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD: it shall be offered beside the continual burnt offering, and his drink offering. (Numbers 28:24)
2. The Feast of Weeks (Pentecost): Ye shall offer them beside the continual burnt offering, and his meat offering, (they shall be unto you without blemish) and their drink offerings. (Numbers 28:31)
3. For the Passover Feast and the Feast of Waving the Firstfruits, it went without saying that the offerings (the Passover lamb and the sheaf of firstfruits) were valid just for these feasts.

The biblical text explains in detail for the Feast of Trumpets (and for all the following autumn festivals), what offerings belong to the festival and what not. For the Feast of Trumpets, we find the only single text, which excludes the new moon sacrifices explicitly:

Beside the burnt offering of the month, and his meat offering, and the daily burnt offering, and his meat offering, and their drink offerings, according unto their manner, for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD. (Numbers 29:6)

The new moon festival within the waiting time for Pentecost, however, fell within the "core period of the spring feasts" and was not excluded by the biblical text and has to be counted.

The following charts list of all the festive offerings for the autumn feasts beginning at the Feast of Trumpets, which symbolizes Miller's midnight cry:

It was followed by the highest holiday of the year, Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, which symbolizes the heavenly judgment day, that plays a special role in our Adventist history. Since the second angel joined the first angel, we know that it began on October 22, 1844. Unfortunately, it is beyond the knowledge of most Adventists that this Judgement Day will now soon come to an end:

The seven days of the Feast of Tabernacles followed. Their meaning, I have described in the first part of the "Shadows of the Sacrifices": our wandering in the wilderness for 120 years from 1890 to 2010. Suddenly, there is a very high count of bullocks and lambs:

In the seven days of the Feast of Tabernacles, we find a very nice harmony. We find something like a divine countdown. Beginning with 13 bullocks, the number of bullocks decreases at each festival day by one, until the number of perfection is reached: 7. Ellen White puts it like this:

Peter, carrying out, as he supposed, the teaching of Christ, thought to extend it to seven, the number signifying perfection. But Christ taught that we are never to become weary of forgiving. Not "Until seven times," He said, "but, Until seventy times seven." {COL 243.1}

At the same moment, the total count of sacrificed animals decreases from 30 to 24. 24 is the number of the two covenants that God made with humanity. The 12 tribes of ancient Israel and the 12 tribes of the spiritual Israel, from which the 144,000 will be the remnant (see Revelation 7:4-8).

Isn't this another reference to the basic formula of God's Orion Clock, "7 times 24"? Could it be that God always wants to point to a specific cleansing phase of His church with 7 periods of 24 years? Is it possible that we overlooked something in Orion, or that there is still something extra in the festival types that we have not discovered yet because the Orion clock doesn't display time periods of 24 years?

With the last day of the Feast of Tabernacles, "Shemini Atzeret", the autumn feasts terminate, and we find again the same numbers as before at the Feast of Trumpets and the Day of Atonement:

Feast Day	Declared as Ceremonial Sabbath	Verses of Precept	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Day after the Feast of Tabernacles Shemini Atzeret 22. Tishri (Lev. 23:36;39; Num. 29:35-39)	Lev. 23:36;39 Num. 29:35	Num. 29:36-39	Bullock	1	3/10	3/10
			Ram	1	2/10	2/10
			Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
			Goat	1	Sin Offering
			TOTALS:	10		12/10

What is left for us to do, is to sum up all the offerings of the autumn festivals, as we have already done for the spring festivals:

Feasts	Totals of Animals to be Sacrificed	Totals of Flour Units
Feast of Trumpets	10	12/10
Day of Atonement	10	12/10
1 st Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	30	57/10
2 nd Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	29	54/10
3 rd Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	28	51/10
4 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	27	48/10
5 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	26	45/10
6 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	25	42/10
7 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	24	39/10
Shemini Atzeret	10	12/10
TOTALS:	219	372/10

And we get 372 servings of 1/10 ephah of fine flour. With this amount, we could bake 372 provision loaves mingled with "Holy Spirit". If we would divide this sum as before by a daily ration of 3 bread loaves, we would receive $372 \div 3 = 124$. Therefore, the "year of the plagues" would just take a little more than 4 months? Can that be right?

Of course not! Again, we have forgotten something crucial.

Let us remember the table of daily rations from the first part of the Shadows of the Sacrifices:

Daily Offerings (Num. 28,3-8)	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil per Offering	Total Flour Mingled with Oil per Offering
Morning Sacrifice	Lamb	1	1/10	1/10
Evening Sacrifice	Lamb	1	1/10	1/10
Morning Sacrifice of the Priests			1/20	1/20
Evening Sacrifice of the Priests			1/20	1/20
	TOTALS:	2		3/10

The rations consisted of the sacrifice for the people (2/10 daily) and the sacrifice for the priests (1/10 daily). And that was quite right to apply at the time of the apostles when Jesus had just risen, because the probation for the Jewish people had not yet been closed. The prophecy of the seventy weeks told us that the Messiah would be killed in the middle of the seventieth week:

And after threescore and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself: ... And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, ... (Daniel 9:26-27)

It is Adventist common knowledge that the grace period for the Jewish people went on for 3 ½ years, until the Jews also stoned Stephen in 34 AD. Therefore, the sum of the daily sacrifice for the people and the priests was the measure of the daily emergency ration of the spring festivals, as the type for the waiting time to Pentecost and the early rain.

But, what about the time of the plagues at the end of history? Here – as previously illustrated – probation has already closed. The door to redemption of mankind has shut. Only a small group of God's "priests", the 144,000, will survive through this time, sustained by the grace of God and equipped with a priestly emergency supply of the Holy Spirit:

Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine: And ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and an holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel. (Exodus 19:5-6)

As soon as the cleansing of the sanctuary will be completed, God will have a purified people, which is regarded as a priestly people. Only they will be sealed, only for them is this specific portion of the Holy Spirit, and only in them can live the Comforter, because only they will have been pure vessels for the reception of the third Person of the Divine Council. The symbol of the daily ration for this very special people of the 144,000 at the end of history is the 1/10 portion of an ephah, or one loaf of bread per day, 1/20 in the morning, 1/20 in the evening. They do not need more to survive this terrible time, because they will have already achieved a certain level of sanctification.

The formula for the calculation of the total duration for which there is sufficient emergency supply, is therefore:

$$372 \text{ loaves} \div 1 \text{ loaf per day} = 372 \text{ days}$$

And now it has become very easy to answer our previous questions.

1. How long will the year of the plagues last exactly? Answer: For one solar year according to "And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years: And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was so. And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night: he made the stars also." (Genesis 1:14-16) A solar year lasts an average of 365 days. And this corresponds exactly to the day (for a year) after the last three seals, as indicated by the Orion.
2. If we subtract this year from our total rations of 372 loaves of bread, we come to 372 days - 365 days = 7 days. Before the plagues begin to fall, the door of mercy will be shut according to the model of Noah and his ark, 7 days before the rain starts. Even for those 7 days of waiting for the plagues, the 144,000 will still have enough provision or enough Holy Spirit to also bridge this time of test after probation for the whole mankind will have closed.

Therefore, the sealed 144,000 will have a total stock of 372 units of bread for the year of the plagues. The total duration as specified in the Bible will be ... 365 days after the last three seals, beginning in autumn of 2015, plus seven days for the prophetic waiting days of Noah.

God is perfect and so are His mathematics, and the types that He has given us. And it makes a big difference whether we study these things with or without the Holy Spirit. Before 2010, these wonderful insights were hidden from our eyes, and it is excusable for every Adventist teacher if he was previously in error. Whoever continues to stubbornly refuse these harmonious studies now, however, simply because he does not want to admit that he was wrong, will then receive the tenfold wrath of God justly, for he also seduces others to have doubts and they come to fall because of him.

The Breath of God

As I had briefly indicated in the first part, we still face a specific problem that we should solve now at the end of this second and last part of the "shadowy sacrifices". Jesus abolished all the sacrifices with His death on the cross. Of course they were only shadows, types and prophecies. But still, the logic and the typology should correspond perfectly. Jesus is always exact in all He did and said, and everything is in perfect harmony.

So how was it possible that the apostles would receive their portion of the Holy Spirit that would enable them to persevere until the coming of the Comforter while all the sacrifices had been abolished already on the first day of the spring festivals, the Passover day? The blood of the sacrifices was not valid anymore. And Jesus had not started His service in the Heavenly Sanctuary. For 1,500 years, the victims had pointed to a particular portion of the Holy Spirit that would be needed in 31 A.D. and right in that year 31 A.D., the sacrifices were invalidated and the intercessory service had not begun before Pentecost. There had to be something else! But what?

We have read what happens when the Holy Spirit is absent. Despair reigns. And that is exactly what happened to the apostles while Jesus lay in the grave.

Jesus had several times attempted to open the future to His disciples, but they had not cared to think about what He said. Because of this His death had come to them as a surprise; and afterward, as they reviewed the past and saw the result of their unbelief, they were filled with sorrow. When Christ was crucified, they did not believe that He would rise. He had stated plainly that He was to rise on the third day, but they were perplexed to know what He meant. This lack of comprehension left them at the time of His death in utter hopelessness. They were bitterly disappointed. Their faith did not penetrate beyond the shadow that Satan had cast athwart their horizon. All seemed vague and mysterious to them. If they had believed the Saviour's words, how much sorrow they might have been spared!

Crushed by despondency, grief, and despair, the disciples met together in the upper chamber, and closed and fastened the doors, fearing that the fate of their beloved Teacher might be theirs. It was here that the Saviour, after His resurrection, appeared to them. {AA 25.2-26.1}

If the Comforter is absent, confusion, lack of understanding, and utter hopelessness comes in. Everything seems vague and mysterious. Sorrow, despair, pain, and fear hinder spiritual growth.

The opposite is the case when the Holy Spirit dwells in us. He guides us into all truth, gives clarity, relieves the pain, takes away fear by faith and does not allow us to drown in sorrow, pain and despair.

This portion was missing to the disciples until the day when Jesus resurrected. But was it just the presence of Jesus, which liberated them from this state of hopelessness? No, there was something else. We must read the biblical account very carefully when we search for the replacement of the emergency ration for the waiting time until the outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

In John's Gospel, we'll find it. When the Lord had resurrected, He appeared to the disciples in the upper room:

Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. ... Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you. And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost: (John 20:19,21-22)

Many have never understood the exact meaning of this scene. If the Lord would send the Holy Spirit as Comforter anyway in 50 more days, why did He breathe on the Apostles at His resurrection, and gave them the Holy Ghost? But now, after our study of the emergency rations, this all lies clearly in front of our eyes. It was this lack of supply for the waiting time that Jesus breathed onto the Apostles. In the nearly two days since the crucifixion, they had suffered terribly. They hadn't obtained their "emergency ration". It was therefore an urgent action of Jesus, to breathe His Spirit on them. This was not the person "Holy Spirit", which should be poured out at Pentecost, as He could not even come until Jesus had begun His service in the Heavenly Sanctuary, but it was a strengthening by the spirit of Jesus Himself. The anti-Trinitarians in our rows mix all this up and there is great confusion among them.

For forty days, Jesus was still together with His disciples and taught them:

During these days that Christ spent with His disciples, they gained a new experience. As they heard their beloved Master explaining the Scriptures in the light of all that had happened, their faith in Him was fully established. They reached the place where they could say, "I know whom I have believed." 2 Timothy 1:12. They began to realize the nature and extent of their work, to see that they were to proclaim to the world the truths entrusted to them. The events of Christ's life, His death and resurrection, the prophecies pointing to these events, the mysteries of the plan of salvation, the power of Jesus for the remission of sins--to all these things they had been witnesses, and they were to make them known to the world. They were to proclaim the gospel of peace and salvation through repentance and the power of the Saviour. {AA 27.1}

These forty days are representative of the time when we will receive our rations of "Holy Spirit" and Jesus prepares us for the loud cry. This time is NOW. It has started in spring 2010 and will end with the announcement of the Sunday laws. Who then will not have been taught and strengthened by Jesus and His wonderful messages directly from His throne, will irrevocably not have received the "refreshment by the presence of God".

And our Lord left something else for us, that we would be able to know that this moment has come right now. Copying the verses of the scene of the first appearance of Jesus in the Upper Room, I have left out a verse on purpose, in order to present it to you a little later. This sentence shows us, where exactly we are in the time flow of prophecy and the types of the shadowy sacrifices. Many of you will rejoice when the Holy Spirit makes you understand this teaching, as you will learn that you really have to follow the Lamb wherever it goes, if you want to be among the 144,000 (Revelation 14:4).

It was not the first thing, Jesus did when He breathed on the disciples and gave them the refreshment of His spirit. There happened something before. At His appearance, Jesus had wished them peace and then He identified Himself with a special gesture:

Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord. (John 20:19-20)

First of all, before Jesus breathed His spirit on them, He showed the disciples His wounds. For only after were they finally "glad, when they saw their Lord" and had recognized Him, that it was really He who was talking to them, Jesus would provide them with His spirit. Only those who recognize Jesus by His wounds, will receive the refreshment before the time of tribulation, which will allow them to stand all the tests without despair, confusion and hopelessness.

And all who read the Orion study and know the slides 169 to 178, know from where our Lord Jesus shows us right at this moment His wounds and tells us: "Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you. Receive ye the Holy Ghost."

Do you recognize His voice? Do you know where it comes from?

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming.

The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

Do your faces light up when you read this and does the desire burn in you to give this good news of the imminent coming of our Lord to others, that they may also receive their survival rations?

Or do you stand with Thomas, who was a different case?

Many who are given to doubt excuse themselves by saying that if they had the evidence which Thomas had from his companions, they would believe. They do not realize that they have not only that evidence, but much more. Many who, like Thomas, wait for all cause of doubt to be removed, will never realize their desire. They gradually become confirmed in unbelief. Those who educate themselves to look on the dark side, and murmur and complain, know not what they do. They are sowing the seeds of doubt, and they will have a harvest of doubt to reap. At a time when faith and confidence are most essential, many will thus find themselves powerless to hope and believe. {DA 807.5}

The latter rain is falling since spring 2010. Did you receive it in faith, and did you follow Jesus into the Most Holy Place in the Heavenly Sanctuary, from which He shows His wounds to all the world, so no one will have an excuse, especially not the Adventists who should have recognized the voice of their Lord coming from Orion?

This is the end of the preparatory studies for probably the last part of these studies. It will once again confirm everything that Orion had shown and even more, because time is running out. The Heavenly Sanctuary is reflected in His earthly counterpart. The voice of Jesus also sounds from there! But who will listen, so that His true sacrifice, to which all shadowy sacrifices have always pointed, was not in vain?

Shadows of the Sacrifices - Part III

Written by Robert Dickinson

Created: Thursday, February 20, 2014, 9:54 pm

In Parts I and II of this series, we added up the amount of flour accompanying the spring and autumn sacrifices, respectively, according to the mosaic plan. We learned that these provisions of food symbolized periods of time when God's people would face an acute need for the Holy Spirit. As products of a world that is suffering ever more from the withdrawal of the Holy Spirit, we of all people should realize how great the gift of the Holy Spirit is, and how much we really need it.

The book of Ezekiel contains a blueprint for a temple that was never built on this earth; it is the blueprint for the earthly counterpart to the heavenly sanctuary. With regard to this earthly reflection of the heavenly sanctuary, Ezekiel records amendments to the numbers of sacrifices for the feasts, and the amounts of flour accompanying them. This temple and its services represent the "holy nation" and priesthood of the 144,000. Therefore, the amendments to the sacrifices are especially relevant to the 144,000 at this present point in time.

We have already learned a lot by measuring Ezekiel's temple. We found that the cleansing of the heavenly sanctuary would take 168 years, which corresponds to the first part of the oath of Daniel 12:7 as explained in the Orion presentation. The cleansing of the heavenly sanctuary had to do especially with the Judgment of the Dead.

The priests did not begin to officiate in the temple until after its cleansing, which means that the sacrificial procedures as amended are put into practice after the seven days of cleansing.

*Seven days shall they purge the altar and purify it; and they shall consecrate themselves. And when these days are expired, it shall be, that upon the eighth day, and so forward, the priests shall make your burnt offerings upon the altar, and your peace offerings; and I will accept you, saith the Lord GOD. (Ezekiel 43:26-27)

Today, that is just where we stand in time. Again we see how the book of Ezekiel is the book for this present time. The 168 years of cleansing are over, and now it is time for the amended sacrificial rules to be put into practice. It is time for the priests (the 144,000) to prepare and officiate.

Anyone who follows Ellen White's counsel to strive to be among the 144,000 should immediately recognize the importance of this subject. Do you know what it means to serve as one of the 144,000? How can one serve if one does not know what one should do in one's role of service? I pray that as we study the amendments in this article, the Holy Spirit will unfold His plan for you in a personal way.

*Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ. (Ephesians 4:13)

This study involves a lot of number crunching again. Just as the 51 days and 372 days of Parts I and II pointed to specific time periods, we will again find a number that will give a definite temporal context—this time it will give the context of special periods of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

In approaching this study, we need to leverage the work that has already been done in Parts I and II to calculate the numbers of sacrificial animals. Not every sacrifice was changed in Ezekiel, which means that we need to keep the existing counts in those cases. I will summarize the tables from Parts I and II on the left, and I will show the amended tables on the right.

The first feast that we looked at in Part I was the feast of unleavened bread. The offerings required for this feast are amended in Ezekiel as follows:

And seven days of the feast he shall prepare a burnt offering to the LORD, seven bullocks and seven rams without blemish daily the seven days; and a kid of the goats daily for a sin offering. And he shall prepare a meat offering of an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and an hin of oil for an ephah. (Ezekiel 45:23-24)

Now let's compare the data with what was found in Part I.

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part I:

Amendments of Ezekiel:

The first spring festival with special sacrificial instructions in Numbers 28 is the First Day of Unleavened Bread:

According to the amendments in Ezekiel 45:23-24, we have the following sacrifices for each day of the feast:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
1 st Day of Unleavened Bread Abib (Nissan) 15 (Lev. 23:6-8, Num. 28:17-23)	Bullocks	2	3/10	6/10
	Ram	1	2/10	2/10
	Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	11		15/10

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
1 st Day of Unleavened Bread Abib (Nissan) 15 (Lev. 23:6-8, Num. 28:17-23)	Bullocks	7	1	7
	Rams	7	1	7
	Lambs	0
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	15		14

These sacrificial instructions applied to all seven days of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, so that we get the following totals:

Again, these sacrificial instructions applied to all seven days of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, which total as follows:

Feast Days	Animal Count	Total Flour
7 Days of Unleavened Bread Abib (Nissan) 15 - 22 (Lev. 23:8, Num. 28:24)	TOTALS: 77	105/10

Feast Days	Animal Count	Total Flour
7 Days of Unleavened Bread Abib (Nissan) 15 - 22 (Lev. 23:8, Num. 28:24)	TOTALS: 105	98

From these changes, we can already see that the total amount of provision is quite a bit greater, and we will soon find that this trend will continue in the fall feasts as well. Could this be another hint to the "greater work" that Jesus spoke of?

The next table in Part I is a special offering for the day of the wave sheaf.

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part I:

Feast Day	Animal to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Feast of Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits Abib (Nissan) 16 (Lev. 23:9-14)	Lamb	1	2/10	2/10

This offering is not specifically mentioned in Ezekiel, and therefore the number of animals for it does not change. However, there is a change to the amount of flour that accompanies the animals. We find the new amounts specified as follows:

And in the feasts and in the solemnities the meat offering shall be an ephah to a bullock, and an ephah to a ram, and to the lambs as he is able to give, and an hin of oil to an ephah. (Ezekiel 46:11)

We already saw one ephah per bullock and per ram as we calculated the values for the feast of unleavened bread (and it is given again in 46:5 and 7 in the context of other sacrifices), but this verse now makes a blanket statement to cover all other cases which have not been explicitly mentioned. For example, this blanket statement covers the case of the special wave sheaf offering which was not specifically mentioned in Ezekiel.

Thus, even though the number of sacrificial animals was not changed for the wave sheaf offering, the amount of flour that accompanies it DOES change. Instead of the lambs being accompanied by two tenths of an ephah of flour, they are now accompanied by a quantity “as he is able to give.”

The amount of flour that should accompany each lamb is not specified! What does that mean? It is a freewill offering. It is “as he is able to give.” It is not a hard and fast requirement to give a certain amount of flour for lamb offerings.

This means that in the Ezekiel scheme, the lamb offerings will not contribute to the total amount of flour. Remember, we are on our way to computing the total amount of flour in order to find the duration of time that these provisions are for. Since the lamb offerings will not contribute to the total amount of provisions that the priests could count on, we do not need to concern ourselves with the lambs any further for this study.

(Similarly, goats are always used for sin offerings, which are not accompanied by flour and thus we don't need to concern ourselves with them either.)

So with that in mind, I didn't make a corresponding table for the wave sheaf in Ezekiel's scheme, recognizing that it wouldn't contribute to the total anyway.

Next we come to Pentecost. Pentecost is not mentioned in Ezekiel either, and therefore the number of sacrificial animals remains unchanged for it. However, we must still re-calculate the flour amounts according to the blanket statement of Ezekiel 46:11.

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part I:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Pentecost (Feast of Firstfruits, Feast of Weeks) Day 50 after Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits (Num. 28:26-31)	Bullocks	2	3/10	6/10
	Ram	1	2/10	2/10
	Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	11		15/10

Amendments of Ezekiel:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Pentecost (Feast of Firstfruits, Feast of Weeks) Day 50 after Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits (Num. 28:26-31)	Bullocks	2	1	2
	Ram	1	1	1
	Lambs	7	-	-
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	11		3

Again, we find additional sacrifices in Leviticus 23 for Pentecost (see our Bible Commentary Volume 1 on Numbers 28:26):

Similar calculations apply to the additional sacrifices in Leviticus 23 for Pentecost (see our Bible Commentary Volume 1 on Numbers 28:26):

Feast Day	Sacrifice	Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Pentecost (Feast of Firstfruits, Feast of Weeks) Day 50 after Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits (Lev. 23:15-22)	Two Wave Loaves	(2)	1/10	2/10
	Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
	Bullock	1	3/10	3/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	Lambs	2	Peace Offering
	TOTALS:	13		16/10

Feast Day	Sacrifice	Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Pentecost (Feast of Firstfruits, Feast of Weeks) Day 50 after Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits (Lev. 23:15-22)	Two Wave Loaves	(2)	-	-
	Lambs	7	-	-
	Bullock	1	1	1
	Rams	2	1	2
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	Lambs	2	Peace Offering
	TOTALS:	13		3

Finally, we mustn't forget the new moon feast that is guaranteed to fall during the Omer Sabbaths. The offerings for this feast are amended in Ezekiel as follows:

And in the day of the new moon it shall be a young bullock without blemish, and six lambs, and a ram: they shall be without blemish. And he shall prepare a meat offering, an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and for the lambs according as his hand shall attain unto, and an hin of oil to an ephah. (Ezekiel 46:6-7)

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part I:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
New Moon of the Omer Sabbaths	Bullocks	2	3/10	6/10
	Ram	1	2/10	2/10
	Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	11		15/10

Amendments of Ezekiel:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
New Moon of the Omer Sabbaths	Bullocks	1	1	1
	Ram	1	1	1
	Lambs	6	-	-
	Goats	0
	TOTALS:	8		2

Although we have examined all of the mosaic spring sacrifices to find how they are amended in Ezekiel, we should not proceed to the fall feasts before checking to see if there are new spring sacrifices introduced in Ezekiel.

We find these described as follows:

Thus saith the Lord GOD; In the first month, in the first day of the month, thou shalt take a young bullock without blemish, and cleanse the sanctuary: And the priest shall take of the blood of the sin offering, and put it upon the posts of the house, and upon the four corners of the settle of the altar, and upon the posts of the gate of the inner court. And so thou shalt do the seventh day of the month for every one that erreth, and for him that is simple: so shall ye reconcile the house. In the first month, in the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the passover, a feast of seven days; unleavened bread shall be eaten. And upon that day shall the prince prepare for himself and for all the people of the land a bullock for a sin offering. (Ezekiel 45:18-22)

Notice that all of these offerings are specified as sin offerings, which means that there is no flour to count for them. Thus, we do not need to add any additional amount to our total calculation for these new offerings.

At this point, we can add up the total amount of flour “provisions” for all of the amended spring sacrifices:

Feasts	Totals of Flour Units (ephahs)
The Seven Days of the Feast of Unleavened Bread	98
Feast of Waving the Sheaf of Firstfruits	0
Pentecost I (Numbers)	3
Pentecost II (Leviticus)	3
New Moon Feast in the Waiting Time until Pentecost	2
TOTAL:	106

Remember, this figure is the total provision, but we must find the daily ration amount before we will know how long this provision will last. I would like to save that until after we add up the autumn provisions, but in any case we already have some clues as to what these spring provisions should mean.

We learned in the earlier parts that the spring feasts were always connected with Jesus' sacrifice on the cross, and thus had to do with substitutionary grace. After we total the autumn provisions and begin to see the big picture, it will become clear how this is true once again. And you will see that grace is not cheap after all.

Now we are ready to amend the autumn sacrifices which were studied in Part II.

First of all, we have the Feast of Trumpets. Whereas the anti-type to this feast was met in Miller's midnight cry, we should seriously think about what meaning the feast of trumpets could have in the context of this present study of Ezekiel. This is the first autumn feast, so it should be a hint as to what we should expect at the beginning of the time period that its "provisions" are for. The offerings for this feast are not changed in Ezekiel, but we still need to re-calculate the flour that accompanies the offerings as we did before:

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part II:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Day of the Feast of Trumpets Tishri 1 (Lev. 23:23-25; Num. 29:1-6)	Bullock	1	3/10	3/10
	Ram	1	2/10	2/10
	Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	10		12/10

Amendments of Ezekiel:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Day of the Feast of Trumpets Tishri 1 (Lev 23:23-25; Num 29:1-6)	Bullock	1	1	1
	Ram	1	1	1
	Lambs	7	-	-
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	10		2

Next is the Day of Atonement, and again the sacrifices are unchanged in Ezekiel, so only the flour amounts are different. John noted in Part II that sadly most Adventists still have not recognized that the great anti-typical day of atonement has not only a beginning, but also an end. We will learn more about that after we finish totaling the numbers:

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part II:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Day of Atonement Tishri 10 (Lev. 23:26-32; Num. 29:7-11)	Bullock	1	3/10	3/10
	Ram	1	2/10	2/10
	Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	10		12/10

Amendments of Ezekiel:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Day of Atonement Tishri 10 (Lev. 23:26-32; Num. 29:7-11)	Bullock	1	1	1
	Ram	1	1	1
	Lambs	7	-	-
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	10		2

The next feast is the Feast of Tabernacles.

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part II:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
1 st Day of the Feast of Tabernacles Tishri 15 (Lev. 23:33-44; Num. 29:12-16)	Bullocks	13	3/10	39/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Lambs	14	1/10	14/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	30		57/10

Please note that at each festival day the number of bullock decreases by one animal, while the numbers of rams and lambs remain constant:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
2 nd Day of the Feast of Tabernacles Tishri 16 (Lev. 23:36;39:41-42; Num. 29:17-19)	Bullocks	12	3/10	36/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Lambs	14	1/10	14/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	29		54/10

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
3 rd Day of the Feast of Tabernacles Tishri 17 (Lev. 23:36,39,41-42; Num. 29:20-22)	Bullocks	11	3/10	33/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Lambs	14	1/10	14/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	28		51/10

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
4 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles Tishri 18 (Lev. 23:36,39,41-42; Num. 29:23-25)	Bullocks	10	3/10	30/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Lambs	14	1/10	14/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	27		48/10

Amendments of Ezekiel:

The sacrifices for this feast are completely different in Ezekiel. Whereas we had a nice countdown that represented the countdown of the 120 years of wilderness wandering, now we have a simple statement:

In the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, shall he do the like in the feast of the seven days, according to the sin offering, according to the burnt offering, and according to the meat offering, and according to the oil. (Ezekiel 45:25)

When it says “do the like,” it is referring to the verses that stand immediately before, which specified the offerings for the Feast of Unleavened Bread. Thus, the offerings for the Feast of Tabernacles are the same as for the Feast of Unleavened Bread.

According to the amendments in Ezekiel 45:23-24, we have the following sacrifices for each day of the feast:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
1 st Day of the Feast of Tabernacles	Bullocks	7	1	7
	Rams	7	1	7
	Lambs	0
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	15		14

And these sacrificial instructions add up for all seven days of the feast as follows:

Feast Days		Animal Count		Total Flour
7 Days of the Feast of Tabernacles	TOTAL:	105		98

We have the same relatively large quantity of flour that we had in the spring feasts. Could this be an indication that the sacrificial provisions of the spring feasts and the autumn feasts in Ezekiel are somehow linked?

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
5 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles Tishri 19 (Lev. 23:36,39,41-42; Num. 29:26-28)	Bullocks	9	3/10	27/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Lambs	14	1/10	14/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	26		45/10

In parts I and II we found two completely independent durations. The spring feasts provided for 51 days of emergency rations, which we understood to refer to the time of disappointment after Jesus' death until the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on Pentecost.

The autumn provisions, on the other hand, amounted to 372 days which pointed to the time of plagues.

Those two time periods are separated by nearly two millennia!

We should take special note of the fact that in Ezekiel, the two big seven-day spring and autumn feasts have the same sacrifice counts by definition. There is a strong connection between spring and autumn that we mustn't overlook.

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
6 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles Tishri 20 (Lev. 23:36,39,41-42; Num. 29:29-31)	Bullocks	8	3/10	24/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Lambs	14	1/10	14/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	25		42/10

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
7 th Day of the Feast of Tabernacles Tishri 21 (Lev. 23:36,39,41-42; Num. 29:32-34)	Bullocks	7	3/10	21/10
	Rams	2	2/10	4/10
	Lambs	14	1/10	14/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	24		39/10

Finally, for Shemini Atzeret, the Last Great Day of the feast, we have no new sacrifice counts and only need to re-calculate the flour amounts:

Shadows of the Sacrifices, Part II:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Day after the Feast of Tabernacles: Shemini Atzeret Tishri 22 (Lev. 23:36;39; Num. 29:35-39)	Bullock	1	3/10	3/10
	Ram	1	2/10	2/10
	Lambs	7	1/10	7/10
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	10		12/10

Amendments of Ezekiel:

Feast Day	Animals to be Sacrificed	Animal Count	Flour Mingled with Oil	Total Flour
Day after the Feast of Tabernacles: Shemini Atzeret Tishri 22 (Lev. 23:36;39; Num. 29:35-39)	Bullock	1	1	1
	Ram	1	1	1
	Lambs	7	-	-
	Goat	1	Sin Offering
	TOTALS:	10		2

Adding the totals for the autumn feasts, we have:

Feasts	Totals of Flour Units (ephahs)
Feast of Trumpets	2
Day of Atonement	2
7 Days of the Feast of Tabernacles	98
Day after Feast of Tabernacles: Shemini Atzeret	2
TOTAL:	104

Now remember how closely connected the spring and autumn feasts are in Ezekiel. For the seven days of the Feast of Tabernacles, it literally says “do the same” as for the seven days of the Feast of Unleavened Bread. What we are dealing with is 106 ephahs for spring and 104 ephahs for autumn, for a total of 210 ephahs of provision.

How many days will this provision last? Once again, we need to know the amount of the daily ration:

Thou shalt daily prepare a burnt offering unto the LORD of a lamb of the first year without blemish: thou shalt prepare it every morning. And thou shalt prepare a meat offering for it every morning, the sixth part of an ephah, and the third part of an hin of oil, to temper with the fine flour; a meat offering continually by a perpetual ordinance unto the LORD. Thus shall they prepare the lamb, and the meat offering, and the oil, every morning for a continual burnt offering. (Ezekiel 46:13-15)

Each day, the priests needed one sixth of an ephah for the meat offering, which means that one ephah would last six days. Now we can calculate the total number of days that the provisions will last:

$$210 \text{ ephahs} \times 6 \text{ days per ephah} = \mathbf{1260 \text{ days}}$$

Where do we know this number from? The timelines of Daniel, of course!

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:7)

We recognized this period long ago as the time of the Judgment of the Living, as explained in The 1260 Days article, starting on May 6, 2012 and running up to and including October 17, 2015 for a total of 1260 days. What are the implications of the 1260 days showing up here in the new calculations of the Holy Spirit provisions in Ezekiel? It certainly makes sense that a special portion of the Holy Spirit is needed during the Judgment of the Living, but is there more to it?

Remember, we have spring provisions and autumn provisions. If we compute them separately, we get the following durations:

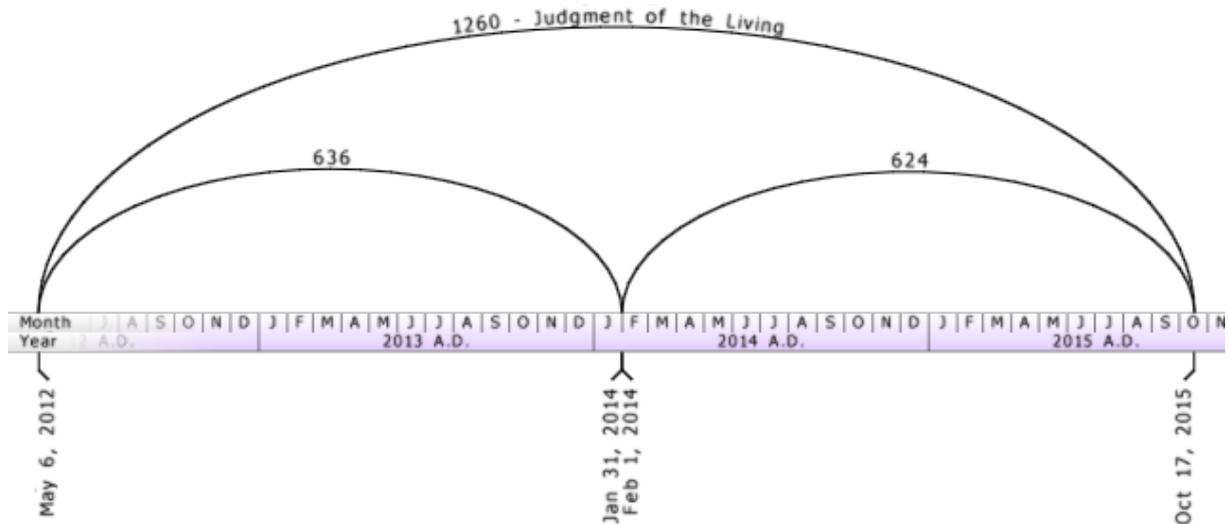

$$106 \text{ ephahs} \times 6 \text{ days per ephah} = 636 \text{ days, and}$$

$$104 \text{ ephahs} \times 6 \text{ days per ephah} = 624 \text{ days, for}$$

$$636 + 624 = 1260 \text{ days}$$

Thus, the sacrificial schedule in Ezekiel delineates two distinct phases of the Judgment of the Living: the early rain phase (corresponding to the spring sacrifices), and the latter rain phase (corresponding to the autumn sacrifices). Counting out the 636 and 624 days, we find that the last day of the early phase is January 31, 2014, while of course the next day, February 1, marks the beginning of the latter phase.

Timeline 1 - Two Phases of the Judgment of the Living

Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the LORD your God: for he hath given you the former rain moderately, and he will cause to come down for you the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month. (Joel 2:23)

What do these phases mean? We will explore the happenings of these two phases in more detail in other articles, but for now it is important to understand that the first spring or early rain phase was the preparatory phase during which the Lord worked in our small group in a wonderful but subtle way. We did not see miraculous manifestations or unmistakable evidence of divine guidance. We studied and moved forward in faith with only a few “token” signs to confirm our faith. We saw “tokens” ranging from the great movements of the popes to a “little” storm here on our farm, with everything in between. Ellen White prophesied that it would be just like this:

It is true that in the time of the end, when God’s work in the earth is closing, the earnest efforts put forth by consecrated believers under the guidance of the Holy Spirit are to be accompanied by special tokens of divine favor. Under the figure of the early and the latter rain, that falls in Eastern lands at seedtime and harvest, the Hebrew prophets foretold the bestowal of spiritual grace in extraordinary measure upon God’s church. The outpouring of the Spirit in the days of the apostles was the beginning of the early, or former, rain, and glorious was the result. To the end of time the presence of the Spirit is to abide with the true church. {AA 54.2}

Notice how Ellen White was careful to let us know that the early rain only BEGAN in the days of the apostles, but that it would come again at the end of time. This passage has never had a clearer fulfillment than today. (Remember that there are multiple levels of application here; it is not my intent to re-define what the early or latter rain mean in general.)

The second phase must therefore show characteristics of the latter rain. The latter rain should be more abundant than the former rain, which means that this second phase should be accompanied not just by token signs, but by weighty events.

For those who have watched or read John’s January 31 sermon, you have an idea what kinds of events I am talking about.

Feast Shadows

We all know what the following Bible passage relates to:

And the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth. And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey. And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter. (Revelation 10:8-10)

The open book is the last part of the book of Daniel from Chapter 8 onward, which was first opened by William Miller. Anyone can read in the books The Great Controversy and Christ In His Sanctuary, and even in Early Writings, what happened over the years as Miller began to preach. He had studied the Bible in depth for five years and had come to the conclusion that Christ would return in 1843 (1844). "Eating the book" of Daniel symbolized his study, and the sweetness in the mouth of the prophet symbolized the sweet hope of the soon return of Jesus.

Then came the Great Disappointment of 1844, and those who took part in it felt a big stomach ache when they had to swallow the bitter pill that the earth was not to be cleansed by fire, but that the heavenly sanctuary had to go through a cleansing process which would take many more years.

Our Sanctuary Doctrine arose out of this single yet consequential mistake of Miller regarding the interpretation of a specific Bible verse:

And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed. (Daniel 8:14)

After the Great Disappointment, our pioneers rightly recognized that the sanctuary which would be cleansed was not the earthly but the heavenly sanctuary. On October 22, 1844, Jesus had not come, but the Heavenly Judgment, the Day of Atonement or Yom Kippur began: The Investigative Judgment of the Dead... which would later end with the Judgment of the Living.

It was not for them to know how long the Judgment would take, but we who are living at the end of the Judgment have a need to know. In the morning, a person goes to work without worrying about the time because they know that they have all day, but when the end of the day is near, a person glances at the clock first before deciding to tackle the next job. In a similar way, we who are living at the end of the Judgment Day need to know the time so that we can focus our work for God in the proper way during the few "minutes" that remain. Let me share with you how this question took shape in my own experience.

How Long, O Lord?

At the end of 2004, I decided to go to Paraguay to do mission work for God. I had prayed for more than a year in vain, and advertised myself as an English teacher or computer scientist in many Adventist missionary groups, but I was rejected everywhere because of my "advanced" age of 45 years. Then God changed my financial situation miraculously, so that after a year of prayer I could open a mission station with my own resources. God had provided for me monthly payments for exactly ten years from an inheritance from my mother, which for 24 years I had thought was lost. That put me in front of a tough decision.

I was living on the beautiful island of Mallorca and worked as an independent IT/computer specialist. My clientele were mostly wealthy Germans, who had built vacation or retirement homes on the island. Some years my business languished going more bad than good, and I often had to live from hand to mouth. I was often on the verge of ending up on the street, especially in the winter time because I had no clients. Almost simultaneously with the reopening of the old inheritance, my business began to flourish after suffering for eight years. Out of the blue, I won a large insurance provider and a world-renowned share broker as clients and the Mallorca airport had come back to me too, because I had a good rapport with them. I don't want to give any figures, but I suddenly had so much cash on hand that I could have easily rented the Boris Becker Villa for my residence.

Since the inheritance process (which I had not even worked for) was decided in my favor in December of 2004, the end of the monthly payments for the ten years came to December of 2014, and were rather "modest" compared to the income from my now thriving one-man IT Company in Mallorca. But still, I had the choice to live life in high society as a super-rich businessman on the sunny island of Mallorca, or to hold to the covenant I made with God in 1999, in which I had promised Him that my life would belong only to Him. I had already been praying for one year for a way to go to a poor country in mission for God. Now I had the means through the inheritance... but that meant farewell to the company, which after eight of the toughest years of deprivation and poverty had finally taken off.

You all know how I decided. I laid my company as an offering at the Lord's feet and let go of all my clients. They were terribly disappointed and even offered me more money, but nothing could dissuade me from giving up my financial security and keeping my promise to God. I realized that my company had exploded only because Satan wanted to set a trap.

I still had a problem, though. The monthly disbursements I would receive were in a framework that would not allow me any big jumps. My dream was to build a natural health sanatorium in Paraguay, but I did not know the country and the circumstances. There were alternatives... orphanage, missionary school, Bible school... and much more.

I wanted to know what God's will was regarding what I should build in Paraguay. And I felt that it would be dependent upon how much time I would have to carry out God's plan. I went into prayer and asked God what His will was, and how long I would have to do "something" for Him in Paraguay.

In this very intense prayer, I received first of all the following advice:

"If you want to know how much time is left, you have to start where the pioneers left off. Begin at Daniel 8:14 and go into the sanctuary."

This advice can also be found in the Bible, in a prophetic Psalm of King David:

When I thought to know this, it was too painful for me; Until I went into the sanctuary of God; then understood I their end. (Psalms 73:16-17)

David had wondered how long the wicked would prosper. And the answer to that question was hidden in the sanctuary. Only those who would go into the sanctuary could find the answer to the question of how long the grace period would last.

My prayer was not over yet, and so I asked God what He wanted to say by that. Where in the sanctuary should I find the hidden answer to my question? What did it mean that I would have to begin where the pioneers had left off?

God replied and told me that the answer is in the Bible and stood right where the verse parallel to Daniel 8:14 was written. Daniel 8:14 symbolizes not only the beginning of the Investigative Judgment but also the Millerite movement, and it is symbolized by the little book of Revelation 10 that would be a bitter disappointment in the stomach.

Prophesying Again

The advent pioneers were blessed with the understanding of the heavenly sanctuary after the Disappointment, and as the Sabbath truth came to light, they soon realized that they had to go on preaching the third angel's message in accordance with the very next verse:

And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings. (Revelation 10:11)

How wonderful it is to walk in the light and be confirmed by the Word of God through victory and disappointment alike! The other Protestant churches, in contrast, dug their own graves by rejecting the 2300 evenings and mornings prophecy. For them, the biggest time prophecy in the whole Bible had failed, leaving nothing but shards. Thus the Protestant churches, which had once cried "sola scriptura," lost their basic right to exist; from then on, they regarded the Bible as defective, and they walk in darkness to this day. They also reject the seventh-day Sabbath for the same reason.

Revelation 10:11 confirmed to the early Adventists that their task was to preach the third angel's message, but they left off fulfilling the prophecy after that verse. The very next verse gives us specific instructions to help us understand how much time would be required to cleanse the sanctuary. Note that the chapter divisions and verse numbers in the Bible are not inspired, and in this case the chapter division falls at an awkward place. Let's read the verses in continuity:

And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings. And there was given me a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein. (Revelation 10:11-11:1)

Now let's follow the instructions of the angel in this verse. First, he says "Rise, and measure the temple of God." It is implied that we should use the reed given us by the angel to measure with. This reed shows up again in Chapter 21:

And he that talked with me had a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof. And the city lieth foursquare, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal. And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the angel. (Revelation 21:15-17)

Here we find that the angel gives us two measurements of the New Jerusalem after the millennium. This seems to be valuable information in answer to our quest, so let's make note of it:

1. 12,000 furlongs (city)
2. 144 cubits (wall)

The observant reader might be wondering why we accept measurements pertaining to the “city” when we were instructed to measure the “temple.” This question is answered by James White, who in A Word to the Little Flock explains that the entire city of New Jerusalem, which will have no temple after the millennium, will itself be the temple:

THE TEMPLE OF GOD.

“And the temple of God was opened in heaven and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament:” – Rev. 11:19.

The Temple of God in which is the ark of his testament, is in heaven. St. Paul while in vision, was caught up to the third heaven, or paradise which we believe is the New Jerusalem. The word heaven, is applied to other places beside the New Jerusalem, see Gen. 1:8 and 17; Rev. 14:6. But as they do not contain God’s Temple, I must believe that the heaven in which is the Temple of God, is the New Jerusalem. Old Jerusalem, and its Temple were types of the New Jerusalem, and God’s Temple which is in it. The ark containing the tables of stone, on which God wrote the ten commandments with his own finger, were put into the Holiest. When John had a view of the opening of the New Jerusalem Temple, he saw the ark in the same place in the antitype, that it was in the type.

Therefore, it is clear that Old Jerusalem, its Temple, and the furniture of that Temple, have distinct antitypes in Paradise. That Paradise was taken up from the earth after the fall of man, is plain, as there is no such place on the earth which answers the description of it given by Moses. – Gen. 3:23,24. Also, the prophet says: “Behold, the time shall come, that these tokens which I have told thee shall come to pass, and the Bride shall appear, and she coming forth shall be seen, that now is withdrawn from the earth. – 2Esdras, 7:26. The foundations, walls, and gates, of the New Jerusalem, have certainly been formed in Paradise, since Old Jerusalem was built: if not, then the New, is older than the Old. Abraham by faith looked for this City “which hath foundations;” but he did not expect to find it, until the faithful were raised. The Temple of Old Jerusalem was built purposely for the Old Covenant worship. The Temple, or Sanctuary of New Jerusalem, of which Christ is a minister, the Lord pitched and not man, purposely for the New Covenant worship. Therefore, when Christ has finished his ministry in the Heavenly Sanctuary, and has redeemed his people, there will be no more use for the New Jerusalem Temple, than there was for the Temple at Old Jerusalem, after Jesus had nailed the ceremonial law to the cross. John had a view of the Holy City when it shall come down, Rev. 21:10, at the close of the 1000 years, Rev. 20:7-9, and said, “And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it – Rev. 21:22. He does not tell us what had become of it; but his saying that he saw no Temple therein at that time, indicates that he had seen one there before. The Holy City is called the Tabernacle of God, Rev. 21:3; Isa. 33:20; but it is not called so, until it is situated on the New Earth. The City is also called the Temple of God, Rev. 17:15 [7:15]; but not until the saints are raised, and gathered up into the City, where they will serve God “day and night.” Then the Holy City alone, will be the Tabernacle, or Temple of God.

(A Word to the Little Flock)

However, these are linear dimensions and do not give us anything in the way of time. Could it be that we need to know linear dimensions as well as time? We shall see, but first let us continue to the next part of the instructions of verse 11:1 and measure “the altar.” Where shall we find the measurements of the altar? The angel who measured the Holy City did not tell us anything about the altar. However, he gave us a clue where to look in mentioning that the angel’s cubit is “according to the measure of a man.” There was in fact another man in the Bible who was also given measurements of the temple of God according to a measuring reed:

In the visions of God brought he me into the land of Israel, and set me upon a very high mountain, by which was as the frame of a city on the south. And he brought me thither, and, behold, there was a man, whose appearance was like the appearance of brass, with a line of flax in his hand, and a measuring reed; and he stood in the gate. (Ezekiel 40:2-3)

Ezekiel saw the city of Jerusalem with its temple in vision, and was given its many dimensions. This temple was never actually built, and for thousands of years Bible students have wondered what it could mean. The Adventist Bible Commentary postulates that it might have been a conditional prophecy that was never fulfilled. One might even wonder if it was a vision of the New Jerusalem, but that idea is quickly disproven by the fact that Ezekiel saw many abominations committed in it which would not be committed in the heavenly Jerusalem. We will soon find that it is a type for the Seventh-day Adventist Church, which speaks volumes in itself. At the moment, we are looking for some very important information that is hidden among its dimensions.

There are many, many measurements given in the following chapters, even for the altar alone. How shall we know which measurement we need? Remember that we are on a quest to find out how long the Investigative Judgment should last. It is a question of time, and so far the measurements that we found in Revelation are not time measurements. We should be looking for a time measurement, and indeed we find exactly one related to the altar:

Seven days shall they purge the altar and purify it; and they shall consecrate themselves. (Ezekiel 43:26)*

This verse not only gives us a time measurement, but the measurement that it gives is even specifically relating to the cleansing of the sanctuary which is exactly what we are looking for. Note that during these days, the priests were to consecrate themselves. As a matter of self-examination, Adventists in particular, who have had the charge of the sanctuary doctrine, should ask themselves whether or not they have been consecrating themselves as priests during this period of time. Even the people who were set apart by God as priests could not serve in the sanctuary services until they had gone through an individual purification process. Have you been consecrating your heart and life for God's service, so that you can work for Him during these last fleeting moments of time?

Now let's think for a moment. Which temple takes seven days to purify? The earthly temple does. Remember that the earthly temple is patterned after the heavenly, just like the tabernacle of Moses was made according to the pattern he was shown on the mountain. We also learned from the angel in Revelation that the measurements of the New Jerusalem are "according to the measure of a man" or in other words, according to a plan or pattern. Thus, Ezekiel saw the measurements of the earthly "building plan" or "pattern" of the heavenly sanctuary; he saw its earthly counterpart. This is doubly confirmed by the vision of Ezekiel itself.

Thou son of man, shew the house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities: and let them measure the pattern. (Ezekiel 43:10)

We need to know how long it will take to cleanse the heavenly sanctuary, but we only know that its earthly counterpart took seven days. This is where a little bit of experience as a carpet cleaner could come in handy. If a 100-square-foot room takes 15 minutes to clean, it is easy to figure out how long a 2000-square-foot house would take: 5 hours. Simply calculate 15 minutes times the ratio of 2000 square feet divided by 100 square feet and in this case convert the result from minutes to hours. The cleaning time "scales" according to the amount of cleaning to be done. In this example, the scale factor is 2000 square feet divided by 100 square feet, which equals 20. (The units of square feet cancel each other out, so the ratio or scale is just a plain number without units.) It takes 20 times longer to clean a 2000-square-foot house compared to a 100-square-foot room.

We know that the earthly sanctuary took seven days to purify, but what is the scale factor between the earthly plan and the heavenly sanctuary itself? Remember that we were given two dimensions of the New Jerusalem. If we can find their counterpart in the earthly plan, we can establish the scale factor. Which of the two dimensions should we be looking for? One clue is that the city dimensions in Revelation are given in furlongs, but there are no furlongs used in Ezekiel's plan and we would have a hard time finding a conversion factor. Furthermore, the angel gives us another clue in his next piece of instruction for us to measure "them that worship therein."

Jesus is the standard of character for measuring human beings, and all have fallen short of His standard. The measurement of a man is the measure of how much sin separates him from God, which is also a measure of how much cleaning needs to be done in his heart as a matter of sanctification. That is why the above quote of Ezekiel 43:10 speaks of showing the house of Israel (the house of Adventism) their iniquities by measuring the pattern. Thus our attention is brought to the second measurement we noted from Revelation: the height of the wall that separates sinners from the presence of God. The wall so happens to be the very first measurement that Ezekiel records.

And behold a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring reed of six cubits long by the cubit and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building, one reed; and the height, one reed. (Ezekiel 40:5)

Here we find that the wall of the "plan" is one reed tall, or six cubits. At this point, we know the height of the separating wall in Ezekiel's plan and in the New Jerusalem in the same units of measure of cubits. To be meticulous, we should make sure that our units are really the same. Ezekiel notes that the cubit used here is the "cubit and an hand breadth," or royal cubit. Is this the same cubit that was used in the measurements from Revelation? We can be sure that it was for the following reasons. First, the royal cubit was used in the king's construction projects, and it makes sense that it would be the unit used by the angel of the Royal New Jerusalem. Second, the angel in Revelation removes all doubt by telling us that his measurements are according to the measure of a man, namely Ezekiel, being the only other man in the Bible having to do with a measuring reed.

Thus we can calculate the scale factor as follows:

$$144 \text{ cubits} \div 6 \text{ cubits} = 24$$

Now we know it would take 24 times longer to clean the heavenly sanctuary compared to the earthly. Since we know that the earthly sanctuary takes seven days to purify, we can now calculate the purification time of the heavenly sanctuary:

$$7 \text{ days} \times 24 = 168 \text{ days}$$

That, of course, translates to 168 years of prophetic time to cleanse the heavenly sanctuary, which we immediately recognize from the Orion study as corresponding to the oath of the man over the river for the Judgment of the Dead. The Judgment of the Living will still require time additional to the 168 years, as indicated by the fact that the seven days of cleansing the altar are not the end of the matter. The priests were to consecrate themselves during the seven days, but afterward the people's offerings would be accepted. God's acceptance is promised on the eighth day and thereafter by the continual offerings:

And when these days are expired, it shall be, that upon the eighth day, and so forward, the priests shall make your burnt offerings upon the altar, and your peace offerings; and I will accept you, saith the Lord GOD. (Ezekiel 43:27)

Thus the offerings of the people beginning on the "eighth day" and following correspond to the Judgment of the Living. This is the time during which martyrs will die and many will be called out of Babylon. The assurance given in this verse is: "I will accept you, saith the Lord God." The blood of martyrs is precious in His sight.

Coupled with the 2300 day/year prophecy which expired in 1844, we now have not only the answer to how long the cleansing must take, but also another basis for preaching a time message like the Midnight Cry of William Miller. Dear friends, now we know something that absolutely no one ever knew before. Please don't just go away only seeing numbers. The heavenly sanctuary is real; it is the Holy City, the New Jerusalem. Those who will be among the 144,000 will even have the name "New Jerusalem" written on their foreheads!

The context of Revelation 10:11 is the Great Disappointment, and where it says "Thou must prophesy again," it is properly referring to the Midnight Cry time message which led up to it. It was the prophesying of the Second Coming which had to be prophesied again. In that sense, the preaching of the third angel's message was not as complete of a fulfillment of the verse as is the preaching of a time message of Christ's imminent return shortly after the end of the 168-year cleansing of the heavenly sanctuary.

The words that Ezekiel delivered to us have great import now in the context of the "real" Midnight Cry of the second Miller:

Son of man, what is that proverb that ye have in the land of Israel, saying, The days are prolonged, and every vision faileth? Tell them therefore, Thus saith the Lord GOD; I will make this proverb to cease, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel; but say unto them, The days are at hand, and the effect of every vision. For there shall be no more any vain vision nor flattering divination within the house of Israel. For I am the LORD: I will speak, and the word that I shall speak shall come to pass; it shall be no more prolonged: for in your days, O rebellious house, will I say the word, and will perform it, saith the Lord GOD. Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth is for many days to come, and he prophesieth of the times that are far off. Therefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord GOD; There shall none of my words be prolonged any more, but the word which I have spoken shall be done, saith the Lord GOD. (Ezekiel 12:22-28)

There are many open questions in our Adventist Bible Commentary regarding Ezekiel's temple. No one knew what the temple really meant. It was generally understood to be something like a "perfect" design, but it was never built. Our scholars hold the opinion that Ezekiel's was a conditional prophecy, and that he saw the temple that would have been built if Israel had not crucified Jesus. As we can see now, this prophecy was the hiding place for dimensions that would allow us to know when the Judgment of the Dead would end. It is a "vessel" containing specific truths that lead quickly into a study equally fantastic as the Orion study.

Again, we've solved at least two puzzles about which our Commentary scholars could only grope in the dark. Now we know what it means that the cubit in Revelation is "according to the measure of a man," and we have a deeper understanding of what the never-built temple of Ezekiel means and how it confirms the Orion formula.

What's in the Formula?

At first glance, this study seems to simply give the same result as the study of Orion and the oath of Daniel 12, but is that really the case? Let's take a closer look at the formulas in the various studies.

First, the formula of the man (Jesus) over the river in Daniel 12 is as follows: Jesus (7) swears (×) to two (2) men (12) on each side of the river (+). The river marks the crucifixion of Jesus and thus separates two time ranges of human history and two groups of mankind from one another: those symbolized by the 12 patriarchs of the tribes of Israel who were looking to the future for a coming Messiah and those symbolized by the 12 apostles who look back to the past and trust in the Savior who had come. The expression is written out as follows:

$$(12 \times 7) + (12 \times 7)$$

Jesus shows His role in the plan of salvation by this expression; namely, that He is the messenger of the New Covenant, and He brought about the justification of both the living and the dead through His sacrifice. (The 144,000 constitute the living.)

Second, the formula of the heavenly courtroom of Revelation 4 gave us the first idea of how the Orion clock would work. In the courtroom, we found the three members of the Divine Council (3) and the four living creatures (4) which make up seven (7) beings. Those are surrounded by twenty-four (24) elders. We identify this arrangement as a 24-hour clock with seven earthly years corresponding to each hour of the clock. Therefore, the formula is:

$$24 \times 7$$

God the Father is the Supreme Judge of the universe and He was the one who sat down and opened the court session. God the Father gave the Book of Seven Seals (the Orion clock) to Jesus, who opened the first seal in 1846 as our attorney. This formula shows God the Father's role as Supreme Judge and the ruler of time. That is why only the Father knew the time prior to the Investigative Judgment. God the Father has the last word in the court, and the glorification of the saints is up to Him.

Third, the formula for the earthly sanctuary which we have been studying in this article once again has a subtle difference in comparison to the first two formulas, although they all equate to the same result of 168. In this study, we found a time measurement of seven (7) days/years multiplied by a scale factor of twenty-four (24). Thus, the formula is a mirror image of the previous one:

$$7 \times 24$$

The factor of 24 was computed as the ratio of two wall heights which point to the work of the Holy Spirit in us, cleaning us so that we can overcome the wall of sin that separates us from heaven. This is the process of sanctification.

All three formulas harmonize perfectly with each other and, with the beauty of God's word, show the specific task of each member of the Godhead in the plan of salvation.

There is still another nice comparison. We already saw how the formula for the earthly sanctuary mirrors the formula for the heavenly sanctuary. Since the formula for the heavenly sanctuary was fully deciphered by the Orion Clock with its 24 periods of 7 years each, there should also be a study that fully decipheres the earthly sanctuary formula of 7 periods of 24 years each, which would likewise open insights into the history of the Adventist Church and our destiny.

The Orion Clock is symbolized by seven stars and indicates not only the past but also the future year of Christ's return. What do you think the counterpart time study will be symbolized by? What information do you think it will contain? Do you think it might actually give us the actual day of Jesus' second coming and maybe even the beginning of the time of trouble, the Sunday Law in Europe and the U.S., the closing of the door of grace, and more? Do you think heavenly bodies will play a role again? If so, which ones do you think would be appropriate to represent the "earthly" sanctuary, since the stars represented the heavenly sanctuary?

Rejoice with me for the wonderful revelations that are coming from our Lord Jesus Christ, God the Father, and the Holy Spirit, who are giving hope and courage to Their distressed people. Consider the words of the true prophet, who always told the truth and because of her faithfulness will stand with the 144,000 to watch the approach of that long-awaited small cloud.

The word of God is to be our study. We are to educate our children in the truths found therein. It is an inexhaustible treasure; but men fail to find this treasure because they do not search until it is within their possession. Very many are content with a supposition in regard to the truth. They are content with a surface work, taking for granted that they have all that is essential. They take the sayings of others for truth, being too indolent to put themselves to diligent, earnest labor, represented in the word as digging for hidden treasure. But man's inventions are not only unreliable, they are dangerous; for they place man where God should be. They place the sayings of men where a "Thus saith the Lord" should be. {COL 109.1}

The first man to correctly calculate the beginning of the Judgment was William Miller. He didn't know the above quote, but he sure lived it. His work was to "eat up the little book" of Revelation 10, as it is recorded there in the Book of books for all time.

According to his own dream (Early Writings, p. 81), another man would receive the honor of being led by the Holy Spirit to find hidden treasures in the Word of God—treasures that would shine ten times brighter than even Miller's. The greatest treasure that Miller found was the beginning of the heavenly judgment. In 2004/2005, another treasure hunt began when the prophesied second "Miller" picked up where the pioneers left off, and he found what was to be "prophesied again"—the end of the heavenly judgment and imminent return of Jesus. This second treasure hunt was only possible because I left my company, my clients and former lifestyle on the altar of God, and "consecrated" myself to work for Him.

Thus, the second and true Midnight Cry announcing the Second Coming of Jesus is fulfilling Revelation 10:11 completely, and Revelation 11 indicates that it will not end in disappointment this time. That is why the treasure of the second Miller shines ten times brighter, like the stars of heaven... and just like the Star of Bethlehem led the wise men to the manger of the new-born King, the stars of heaven lead the wise of today to the coming of the King of Glory.

The Countdown is ticking and we present a new study here that is complementary to Orion and reveals many dates of the end-time events. This is the long-awaited third part and centerpiece of the shadow series. In the end, the diligent student will be rewarded and will know what hour his Lord comes...

Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee. (Revelation 3:3)

We also offer study materials for this study in the download section!

A Prophecy About the Sabbath

As with the study of Orion, we begin this study by looking at statements of The Spirit of Prophecy that are widely known but not understood:

I saw that God had children who do not see and keep the Sabbath. They have not rejected the light upon it. And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, [see also appendix.] as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land. The wicked thought that we had brought the judgments upon them, and they rose up and took counsel to rid the earth of us, thinking that then the evil would be stayed. {EW 33.2}

The Same Event in Another Vision

In Ellen White's first vision, the commencement of the time of trouble was described like this: Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

A Comparison Reveals...

When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost [Ellen White's first vision]

And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. [Ellen White's subsequent vision]

... that the time proclamation at the outpouring of the Holy Ghost (the Latter Rain) is based upon a more complete understanding of the SABBATH!!!

A Hint in the Bible

I stumbled over John 19:31 while searching the Scriptures for a hint as to what the expression of Ellen White about a deeper understanding of the Sabbath could mean...

The Jews therefore, because it was the preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away. (John 19:31)

The High Sabbaths

Definition: A high Sabbath day is a day when a ceremonial Sabbath and a Seventh-day Sabbath fall upon the very same day!

In the crucifixion year of 31 AD, the ceremonial Sabbath of the first day of unleavened bread, Nissan 15, was ALSO a Seventh-day Sabbath.

And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread. In the first day ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein. (Leviticus 23:6-7)

Are the High Sabbaths a Prophecy?

Thinking back on the Shadows of the Sacrifices articles, we can see that the feast day ordinances in Leviticus 23 have the same structure as the ordinances given by God for the numbers of sacrifices for those days, which already revealed a time prophecy in Numbers 28... the duration of the time of the plagues.

First God gives the “key” with the daily sacrifices [Numbers 28:3-8] and then He gives the “prophecy” with the ordinances later in the chapter.

A Key to Time: The Seventh-day Sabbath

We find this very same structure in Leviticus 23.

God first gives the key to the time prophecy in Leviticus 23:3...

Six days shall work be done: but the seventh day is the sabbath of rest, an holy convocation; ye shall do no work therein: it is the sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

Then He gives the time prophecy itself, explaining the ceremonial Sabbaths in detail in the rest of the chapter.

Some More Hints...

Christ Himself was the originator of the Jewish system of worship, in which, by types and symbols, were shadowed forth spiritual and heavenly things. Many forgot the true significance of these offerings; and the great truth that through Christ alone there is forgiveness of sin, was lost to them. The multiplying of sacrificial offerings, the blood of bulls and goats, could not take away sin. . . . {AG 155.3}

Christians who profess to be Bible students can appreciate more fully than ancient Israel did the full signification of the ceremonial ordinances that they were required to observe. [If they are indeed Christians, they are prepared to acknowledge the sacredness and importance of the shadowy types, as they see the accomplishment of the events which they represent. The death of Christ gives the Christian a correct knowledge of the system of ceremonies and \[explains prophecies which still remain obscure\]\(#\) to the Jews. {RH May 6, 1875, par. 12}](#)

That which was type and symbol to the Jews is reality to us. {COL 317.2}

The Lord Jesus was the foundation of the whole Jewish economy. [Its imposing services were of divine appointment. They were designed to teach the people that \[at the time appointed One would come\]\(#\) to whom those ceremonies pointed](#). {COL 34.4}

All the ceremonies of the Jewish law were prophetic, typical of mysteries in the plan of redemption. {6BC 1095.5}

Arguments drawn from the Old-Testament types also pointed to the autumn as the time when the event represented by the “cleansing of the sanctuary” must take place. This was made very clear as attention was given to the manner in which the types relating to the first advent of Christ had been fulfilled. {GC88 398.4}

These types were fulfilled, not only as to the event, but as to the time. {GC 399.3}

In like manner, the types which relate to the second advent must be fulfilled at the time pointed out in the symbolic service. {GC 399.4}

The rites and ceremonies of the law were given by Christ Himself, who, enshrouded in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night, was the leader of the hosts of Israel; and this law should be treated with great respect, for it is sacred. Even after it was no longer to be observed, Paul presented it before the Jews in its true position and value, showing its place in the plan of redemption and its relation to the work of Christ; and the great apostle pronounces this law glorious, worthy of its divine Originator. {6BC 1095.6}

Through the teachings of the sacrificial service, Christ was to be uplifted before all nations, and all who would look to Him should live. Christ was the foundation of the Jewish economy. The whole system of types and symbols was a compacted prophecy of the gospel, a presentation in which were bound up the promises of redemption. {AA 14.1}

We do not half understand the Lord's plan in taking the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage, and leading them through the wilderness into Canaan. As we gather up the divine rays shining from the gospel, we shall have a clearer insight into the Jewish economy, and a deeper appreciation of its important truths. Our exploration of truth is yet incomplete. We have gathered up only a few rays of light. Those who are not daily students of the Word will not solve the problems of the Jewish economy. They will not understand the truths taught by the Temple service. The work of God is hindered by a worldly understanding of His great plan. The future life will unfold the meaning of the laws that Christ, enshrouded in the pillar of cloud, gave to His people. Letter 156, 1903, pp. 2, 3. (To P. T. Magan, July 27, 1903) {3MR 259.1}

Unlocking the Prophecy

How do we use the Seventh-day Sabbath as a key to unlock the prophecy of the ceremonial law?

If the Seventh-day Sabbaths are the keys, the ceremonial Sabbaths are the lock [prophecy]!

But not ALL Seventh-day Sabbaths fit into the lock!

The keys that correctly fit into the prophecy of the ceremonial Sabbaths are only those Seventh-day Sabbaths that fall upon ceremonial Sabbaths:

THE HIGH SABBATHS

Using the Key

Having deciphered Orion in January 2010 and having found the real Jewish calendar after that, I wondered if the history of the Adventist Church which was written into the Heavenly Sanctuary (Orion constellation) would be repeated in its reflection... the earthly sanctuary or in other words: THE CEREMONIAL SYSTEM OF THE FEAST DAYS.

To investigate whether or not this is true, I had to compile a list of all the High Sabbaths throughout Adventist history and later investigate to see if a message were indeed hidden there.

Using the real Jewish calendar as described in the Full Moon at Gethsemane articles, I started to calculate astronomically which ceremonial Sabbaths of the Jewish feast days would have fallen upon Seventh-day Sabbaths since 1841.

Working hard

I spent some weeks between August 2010 and September 2010 until I had the result in the form of a code list in front of my eyes.

The astronomical calculations are rather difficult to do, but they are explained in detail in the articles about Gethsemane.

Additionally, I discovered a very important criterion for the first crescent moon visibility as given by the New Moon Society of Israel. This discovery did not alter the eschatological part of the High Sabbath List (HSL)...

The Wadsworth Criteria

In the first version of the HSL, I did not include the Wadsworth criteria which tells us that the new crescent moon is only visible from the Temple Mount in Jerusalem if the elevation of the moon is above 8 degrees. In a former blog on Michael Rood's website we could read:

According to the parameters established in 1996 by Biblical Astronomer Robert Scott Wadsworth, as published in Michael Rood's first "Astronomically Corrected Biblical Hebrew Calendar" in 1997, and confirmed by the lunar observations in the land of Israel by the Israeli New Moon Society; it is possible for the renewed moon to be sighted in the land of Israel, under ideal atmospheric conditions, when the moon is at least 1% illuminated, 8 degrees above the horizon, at five minutes after sunset.

Because the North American continent is at least 7 hours later than Jerusalem in astronomical time, and as much as 14 hours later in the Aleutian Islands of Alaska, many times the new moon will be sighted after sundown in the Western hemisphere the evening before it can possibly be seen in Israel. Since Jerusalem is the city of the Great King who will rule over all the earth, it is the position of Michael Rood as well as scores of Messianic, Karaite, and even some Rabbinic Jews, that the Creator's time clock is set and established from Jerusalem today – just as it was 2,000 years ago when the Messiah kept the Feasts and the weekly Sabbath according to the same reckoning established by the Almighty when we came out of Egypt.

The 8 Degrees

If you look at the photo you will immediately understand why the moon is only visible from the temple mount if it is at least 8 degrees elevated from the horizon. There is a mountain chain covering the horizon at exactly 8 degrees.

The Result

On September 17, 2010, I had the first HSL in front of me.

It was still not corrected by the Wadsworth criteria, but it already showed the most important aspects of the list. Not to confuse the reader, in this presentation I will only use the corrected version.

When you see the next slide you will understand that it was not easy to decipher the list and that only the Holy Spirit can guide someone to that point...

The Structure of the HSL

First I would like to briefly explain the structure of the “High Sabbath List” (HSL)...

Year	Spring1	Spring2	Autumn1	Autumn2	Code
1840	N2				N2
1841		N3	T1		N3T1
1842				T1	T1
1843	N1			T2	N1T2
1844		N2			N2

The first column is the year number to which the rest of the row relates.

The second column “Spring 1” shows the POSSIBLE fulfillment of a HIGH SABBATH of the spring feasts in the case that the barley was found during the first search.

The third column “Spring 2” shows the POSSIBLE fulfillment of a HIGH SABBATH of the spring feasts in the case that the barley was NOT found during the first search.

The fourth column “Autumn 1” shows the POSSIBLE fulfillment of a HIGH SABBATH of the fall feasts in the case that the barley was found during the first search.

The fifth column “Autumn 2” shows the POSSIBLE fulfillment of a HIGH SABBATH of the fall feasts in the case that the barley was NOT found during the first search.

The last column is a summary of the POSSIBLE fulfillments of HIGH SABBATHS irrespective of which column they appeared in.

The Code Has Two Main Columns!

Year	Spring Feasts		Autumn Feasts		Code
	Spring1	Spring2	Autumn1	Autumn2
1918	N2	N1			N2N1
1919		N3	T1		N3T1
1920				T2	T2
1921	N1				N1
1922		N2	T1		N2T1
1923		N3		T1	N3T1

How Were the Feasts Determined?

As we have seen in the other articles of the shadow series, the spring feasts began in the first Jewish month and the fall festivals in the seventh Jewish month.

The months were determined by the new crescent moon marking the beginning of each month.

The first set of columns show the spring festivals that fall upon a Seventh-day Sabbath (High Sabbath as in John 19:31) and depend on the first new moon after the vernal equinox and the barley harvest.

The second set of columns show the autumn festivals that are fulfilled on Seventh-day Sabbaths (High Sabbaths as in John 19:31) and depend on the seventh new moon after the vernal equinox and the barley harvest.

The Beginning of the Feasts Under the Moon

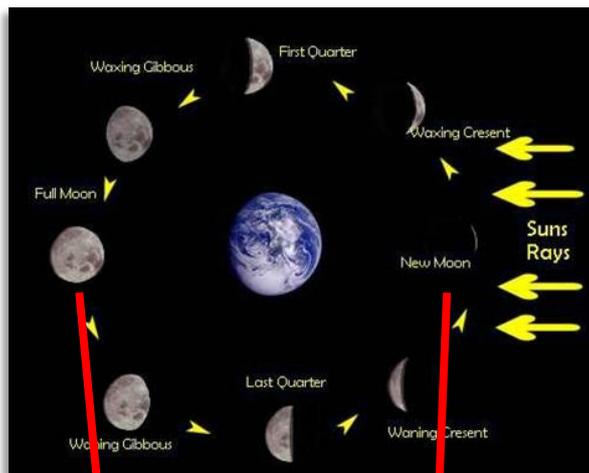

The first feast of spring began with a full moon: Passover.

The first feast of autumn began with a new moon (FC): The Feast of Trumpets.

Spring and Autumn

The two phases of the moon are in opposite places in relation to the sun and the earth just as the code is organized.

Year	Spring Feasts		Autumn Feasts		Code
	Spring1	Spring2	Autumn1	Autumn2
1918	N2	N1			N2N1
1919		N3	T1		N3T1
1920				T2	T2
1921	N1				N1
1922		N2	T1		N2T1
1923		N3		T1	N3T1

The High Sabbath Codes

In the list you find codes like N1, N2, N3 and T1, T2.

Those codes are abbreviations for special groups of HIGH SABBATHS that CAN occur in the spring feasts (Nissan = N) or the autumn feasts (Tishri = T).

There are only three groups of ceremonial Sabbaths for the Spring feasts (N1 to N3) and only two groups of ceremonial Sabbaths for the Autumn feasts (T1 to T2).

The High Sabbath Groups

The N1 code is fulfilled if Passover and the ceremonial Sabbath of the 7th Day of Unleavened Bread fall upon Seventh-day Sabbaths. Those feast days are seven days apart.

The N2 code is fulfilled if the 1st Day of Unleavened Bread and the 7 Omer Sabbaths until Pentecost fall upon Seventh-day Sabbaths. Those feast days are seven days apart.

The N3 code is fulfilled if the Waving of the Sheaf of Firstfruits and the ceremonial Sabbath of Pentecost fall upon Seventh-day Sabbaths. Those feast days are seven days apart.

The T1 code is fulfilled if the Feast of Trumpets, the 1st Day of Tabernacles and the ceremonial Sabbath after Tabernacles (Shemini Atzeret) fall upon Seventh-day Sabbaths. Those feast days are seven days apart.

The T2 code is fulfilled if the ceremonial Sabbath of the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) falls upon a Seventh-day Sabbath.

How Can We Read the HSL?

Now that you understand the structure and the codes of the HSL, ask yourself how to READ the HSL...

What information is in there for us?

How would you decipher the long confusing list of codes?

There does not seem to be any order in it at first sight, but our God is a God of order! His Time Prophecy in the feast days also has order as you will see...

Deciphering the “Hieroglyphs”

When I saw the results of my biblical-astronomical calculations for the first time, I was reminded in prayer about how the Egyptian hieroglyphs were deciphered.

For many centuries, archeologists and linguists could not read the inscriptions of the pyramids because they could not tell if the hieroglyphs formed words, letters or syllables.

As you can read on Wikipedia, in 1822 James Francois Champollion used the “Rosetta Stone” to decipher the whole Egyptian alphabet.

The Rosetta Stone had been inscribed in 196 BC and was found in the sand in 1799 by a French soldier of Napoleon’s army.

It carries a three-language inscription that made it possible to COMPARE the un-deciphered hieroglyphs with the known Greek alphabet, and thus the hieroglyphs began to speak to us.

We are in need of such a “Rosetta Stone” to decipher the HSL. We do not know what the code sequences mean! We do not know the length of the words, syllables or what the letters even are.

Digging for the Rosetta Stone

Where should we dig for a hint if not in the inspired writings?

Our first clues to discover the HSL were found in quotes of the marvelous writings of Ellen White...

So why not search her writings for the Rosetta Stone?

Don’t assume it would be easy to find, but the Holy Spirit gave me the answer after just one prayer...

Digging for Treasures

But there must be earnest study and close investigation. Sharp, clear perceptions of truth will never be the reward of indolence. No earthy blessing can be obtained without earnest, patient, persevering effort. If men attain success in business, they must have a will to do and a faith to look for results. And we cannot expect to gain spiritual knowledge without earnest toil. Those who desire to find the treasures of truth must dig for them as the miner digs for the treasure hidden in the earth. No halfhearted, indifferent work will avail. It is essential for old and young, not only to read God’s word, but to study it with wholehearted earnestness, praying and searching for truth as for hidden treasure. Those who do this will be rewarded, for Christ will quicken the understanding.

Our salvation depends on a knowledge of the truth contained in the Scriptures. It is God's will that we should possess this. Search, O search the precious Bible with hungry hearts. Explore God's word as the miner explores the earth to find veins of gold. Never give up the search until you have ascertained your relation to God and His will in regard to you. Christ declared, "Whatsoever ye shall ask in My name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask anything in My name, I will do it." John 14:13, 14. {COL 111.2-3}

Finding the Rosetta Stone

Searching the Internet, I found a statement that is attributed to Ellen White, but controversial. Indeed, the BRI refuses to attribute it to her, and that denial called my special attention to it...

"I saw that Jones and Waggoner had their counterpart in Joshua and Caleb. As the children of Israel stoned the spies with literal stones, you have stoned these brethren with stones of sarcasm and ridicule. I saw that you willfully rejected what you knew to be truth, just because it was too humiliating to your dignity. I saw some of you in your tents mimicking and making all manner of fun of these two brethren. I also saw that if you had accepted their message, we would have been in the kingdom two years from that date, but now we have to go back into the wilderness and there stay forty years." GCB May 9, 1892 (Melbourne, Australia).

Verifying the Rosetta Stone

To refute the opinion of the BRI, please read the following:

In the Union Conference Record in 1899, Steven N. Haskell, a long time friend and supporter of Ellen White wrote in an article entitled "The Third Angel's Message," as follows: "Do you think we are in the last days? We are in the last days of the very last generation. We are ten years in the loud cry of the Third Angel's Message. There is a testimony in the Bulletin, published in 1892, which says: 'If the people of God had gone to work as they should have gone to work right after the Minneapolis meeting in 1888, the world could have been warned in two years, and the Lord would have come.' God designed to close the work just in proportion as His people felt the importance and sacredness of the work and the zeal with which they took hold of it."

Many scholars would be quick to point out that Haskell must have got it wrong because there was no General Conference Bulletin published in 1892. Although he did get his source wrong, it is hard to believe that someone as prominent in the Church as Haskell would have fabricated a lie and attributed to Ellen White something she never said or wrote. This one thing we do know from the quotes we have already looked at, Ellen White certainly believed that by 1896, God's people could have been in the Promised Land if they had been faithful.

Finally, by 1901, Ellen White wrote the following: "We may have to remain here in this world because of insubordination many more years, as did the children of Israel; but for Christ's sake, His people should not add sin to sin by charging God with the consequence of their own wrong course of action.--Letter 184, 1901."

{Snippet of chapter 8 of "Prophetic Parallels" by Adrian Welsh on www.4hispeople.info}

Applying the Rosetta Stone

We all know that 1888 was a very special year in Adventist history.

Ellen White said that in that year, the light of the fourth angel began to shine.

And if it had been accepted by the people, Jesus would have returned in 1890.

So the years 1888, 1889 and 1890 form a very special triplet of years... those years that bear the CODE of the coming of Christ.

As she said, the feasts have to be fulfilled in type and TIME at the second coming.

And the only conclusion of our study so far can be that the same codes that we find in the years 1888, 1889, and 1890 have to repeat in the last three years of earth's history!

Picking the Rosetta Stone

Let us first look at the code that we find at the important years 1888, 1889, 1890:

Year	Spring1	Spring2	Autumn1	Autumn2	Code
1888	N3	N1			N3N1
1889				T1	T1
1890	N1			T2	N1T2

The summary code is:

N3N1
T1
N1T2

Searching for the Second Coming

When will we have a second chance to go to heaven?

If we search the whole HSL we do not find any repetition of the code of 1888, 1889, 1890 UNTIL...

Year	Spring1	Spring2	Autumn1	Autumn2	Code
1888	N3	N1			N3N1
1889				T1	T1
1890	N1			T2	N1T2
2013	N3	N1			N3N1
2014			T1		T1
2015	N1			T2	N1T2

Orion Confirmed Again!

The Heavenly Sanctuary (Orion) is reflected in the earthly sanctuary (feast days), which shows exactly the same sequence of three (and a half) years ending in autumn 2015. This is the time of the Loud Cry from spring 2013 to autumn 2015, as shown here.

The Date of the Second Coming

When I published the Orion study in January 2010, I already knew that I would eventually find the exact date of the Second Coming with the help of the Holy Spirit.

I do not emphasize the date and therefore I will give it to you right now. Time setting is not my business; there is other information in Orion and the HSL, that is of MUCH more importance for the Loud Cry than just the date of the Second Coming.

We found the time of the Loud Cry in the HSL. It will end in autumn 2015. By that time every case will be decided in the Judgment of the Living, and Jesus will leave the Most Holy Place and sit on the Cloud.

The Investigative Judgment that had started on the Day of Atonement in 1844 will be finished when the Judgment of the Living ends, also on a Day of Atonement.

And there are two possible dates for the Day of Atonement in 2015...

Jesus ends the Judgment on a HIGH SABBATH

For the end of the Judgment in 2015, we have only two possible dates:

Friday, September 25, 2015 or

Saturday, October 24, 2015 which is a HIGH SABBATH

It is most likely that the Great Judge Jesus will end the Judgment on the High Sabbath, October 24, 2015.

Since everything will be as it was in the days of Noah, the door of mercy will be imperceptibly closed 7 days before, on Sunday, October 18, 2015, and the world will not know it.

On the Day of Atonement, October 24, 2015, Jesus will leave the Most Holy Place, take off His priestly robes and put on His royal attire to sit on the cloud.

On Sunday, October 25, 2015, the plagues will start to fall, although the 372 days until the return of Jesus that we know from the study of the Shadows of the Sacrifices will have begun one week earlier on October 18.

Jesus Comes Back on the LAST GREAT DAY

Thus, mathematically, the year of the plagues will last exactly until the next 24th of October in 2016. Is this any special day?

The 144,000 will testify for the Father without an Intercessor for one year. This time is symbolized in the feasts by the Feast of Tabernacles.

The day after the Feast of Tabernacles, the ceremonial Sabbath of the prayer for the latter rain (Shemini Atzeret), is also called the Last Great Day, because with it the entire annual feast period ends.

And thus it also symbolizes the end of the last journey of God's people.

In 2016, it falls on the 24th of October, exactly 365 days after Jesus will have sat on the cloud!

On that Last Great Day of October 24, 2016, the people of God will finally be freed by their Lord when He returns.

And... the Jewish day starts the evening before. It so happens that October 23 is also the very date when Hiram Edson found the truth about the Heavenly Sanctuary some 172 years before the Second Coming.

The Heavenly Jubilee of one the thousand years begins in 2016 on the Last Great Day, after the close of the sabbatical year.

There's more in the HIGH SABBATHS

As with Orion, God's purpose in giving us a time prophecy is not just to know the time or to satisfy our curiosity.

The time prophecy is given BEFORE the Loud Cry and is part of the light of the Fourth Angel that will lighten the whole earth with his GLORY:

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. (Revelation 18:1)

The Loud Cry of the Third Angel will get its strength from this time prophecy of the Fourth Angel:

I saw angels hurrying to and fro in heaven, descending to the earth, and again ascending to heaven, preparing for the fulfillment of some important event. Then I saw another mighty angel commissioned to descend to the earth, to unite his voice with the third angel, and give power and force to his message. Great power and glory were imparted to the angel, and as he descended, the earth was lightened with his glory. {EW 277.1}

The Light of the Fourth Angel

The light which attended this angel penetrated everywhere, as he cried mightily, with a strong voice, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. The work of this angel comes in at the right time to join in the last great work of the third angel's message as it swells to a loud cry. And the people of God are thus prepared to stand in the hour of temptation, which they are soon to meet. I saw a great light resting upon them, and they united to fearlessly proclaim the third angel's message. {EW 277.1}

Joining Like the Midnight Cry

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound everywhere, "Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning, proclaiming the fall of Babylon and calling upon God's people to come out of her that they might escape her fearful doom. {EW 277.2}

Calling a People Out!

To call out a people from Babylon one needs to know two things:

1. What are the characteristics of Babylon?

But even more importantly, we need to know...

2. Where shall we go after having left?

Who has the truth? What are the real pillars of faith? Who has the candlestick of Revelation 2:5?

Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

The Pillars of Adventist Faith

The characteristics of Babylon, the real pillars of Adventist faith and the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844 [especially the Adventist Church itself] have already been the main theme of Orion!

And this theme is repeated in the HSL in a surprising manner.

Digging deeper with the Rosetta Stone of Ellen White, we find other triplets of years that start with the same code sequence...

The Triplets of the HSL

We can find 6 other triplets that have the same beginning (N3N1, T1) as the Rosetta Stone triplet:

1861	N3	N1			N3N1
1862			T1		T1
1863	N2			T2	N2T2
1915	N3	N1			N3N1
1916			T1		T1
1917	N1				N1
1935	N3	N1			N3N1
1936			T1		T1
1937			T2	T1	T2T1
1959	N3	N1			N3N1
1960				T1	T1
1961			T2		T2
1986	N3	N1			N3N1
1987			T1		T1
1988	N1				N1
2010	N3	N1			N3N1
2011				T1	T1
2012	N2			T2	N2T2

The Start-Triplet of the HSL

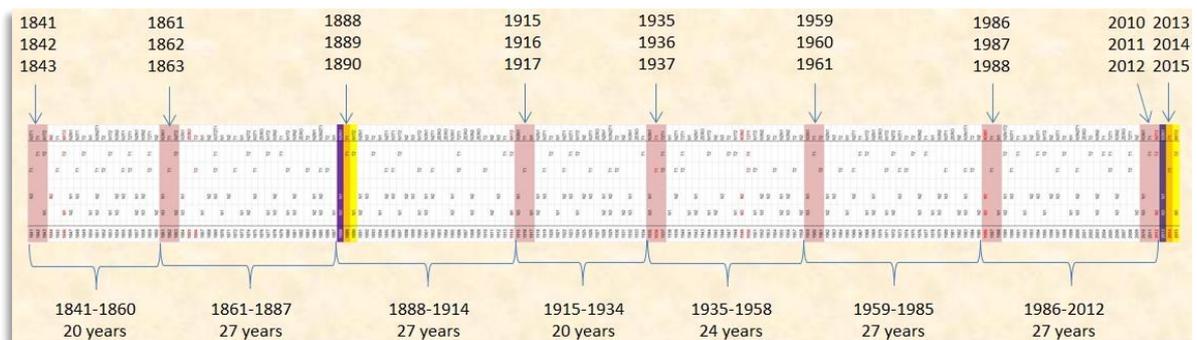

And there is ONE special triplet that ENDS with the same two code lines as the Rosetta Stone triplet (T1, N1T2):

1841	N3	T1	N3T1
1842			T1
1843	N1		T2

This is the Start-Triplet of the First Angel’s Message, which was given by William Miller in 1841 as Ellen White told us:

We understand the present feebleness and smallness of the work. We have had an experience. In doing the work God has given us, we may go trustingly forward, assured that He will be our efficiency. He will be with us in 1906, as He was with us in 1841, 1842, 1843, and 1844. Oh, what wonderful evidences we had then of the presence of God with us. In the earlier stages of our work, we had many difficulties to meet, and we gained many victories. {LLM 156.4}

The Decoded HSL

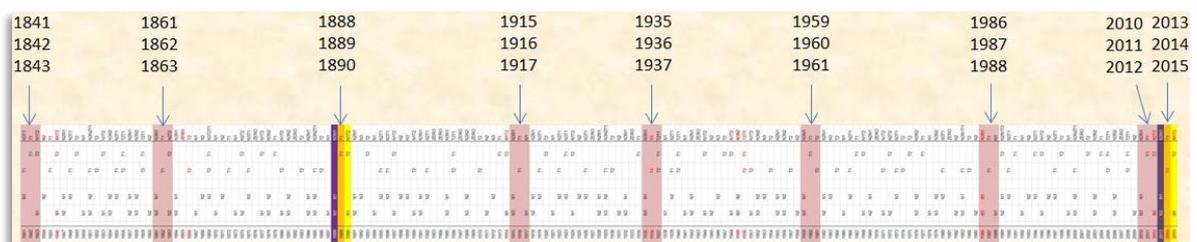

8 year triplets form 7 time ranges of 24 years in average.

The beginning triplet is slightly different than the others and coincides with the Rosetta stone in the last two codes.

The other triplets coincide with the Rosetta Stone triplet in the first two codes.

The ninth triplet directly follows the 8th and marks the end of the Judgment as the repetition of the Rosetta Stone triplet in 2013, 2014 and 2015.

The Seven Thunders

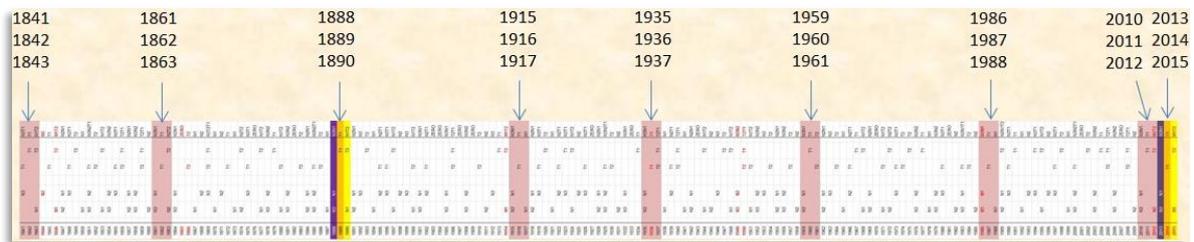

As predicted by Ellen White, the Seven Thunders are those events that unfolded since 1841:

The special light given to John which was expressed in the seven thunders was a delineation of events which would transpire under the first and second angels' messages. It was not best for the people to know these things, for their faith must necessarily be tested. In the order of God most wonderful and advanced truths would be proclaimed. The first and second angels' messages were to be proclaimed, but no further light was to be revealed before these messages had done their specific work. This is represented by the angel standing with one foot on the sea, proclaiming with a most solemn oath that time should be no longer. {7BC 971.6}

She spoke about the seven time periods mentioned but not written by John because they would have to be deciphered right before the end of time... right before the oath of Jesus in Revelation 10 that "there would be time no more" would cease... in 2012 (see The Power of the Father).

The Seven Times of Purification

Seven times have passed since 1841 during which the members of SDA Church have been purified and sifted. But the shaking took place in 2010, 2011 and 2012 as a result of the Orion message.

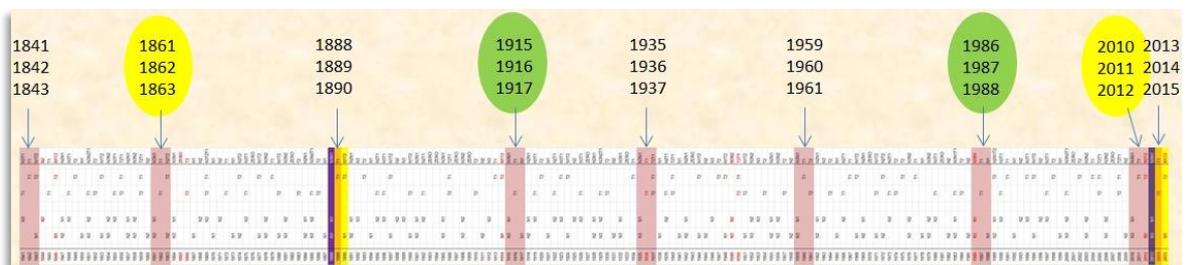

The HSL was given only to those who accepted the Orion message which was the pre-requisite for further studies.

Psalm 12:6 says:

The words of the LORD are pure words: as silver tried in a furnace of earth, purified seven times.

In like manner the Church of God was purified seven times before a remnant of the remnant was ready to testify for the Father in the last day events, being faithful to all the ordinances and Commandments of God, and giving the Loud Cry.

The Great Periods of Time

If we compare the triplets, we see that some correspond 100% with others in their codes.

They seem to mark even greater periods of time within the investigative judgment than just the seven periods of 24 years in average. They are:

1861,1862,1863 corresponds with 2010,2011,2012 and marks a period of 151 years

1915,1916,1917 corresponds with 1986,1987,1988 and marks a period of 73 years

We will have to investigate what each triplet means and also what these great periods of time could mean.

The Start Triplet

The start triplet of the HSL and the first of the seven thunders was the Midnight Cry of William Miller that joined the second angel Samuel Snow in 1843.

It is the real beginning of our Adventist history and was only mentioned indirectly in Orion. The starting year of the Orion clock is 1844 because it only shows the Judgment time.

William Miller correctly deciphered the 2300 evenings and mornings and the seventy weeks prophecy which was confirmed once again by John Scotram in the Gethsemane study.

Remember that the start triplet is different than all other triplets and must be something very special. We will come back to this later.

The year 1844 directly follows this very important triplet, and it is an Orion year!

The Founding Years

The second triplet of the HSL shows the founding years of SDA Church when the pioneers gave the Church its organizational structure:

On the official General Conference site you can read in the book Organized for Mission about those years in Chapter II. Church Organization in 1861/1863.

The official foundation took place in those years and the Church received its official name "Seventh-day Adventist Church" in those years.

As we come further in the understanding of the HSL structure, we will see what the corresponding triplet 2010,2011,2012 means.

The Refused Light of the Fourth Angel

The terrible disaster of the 1888 General Conference Session was explained in the Orion articles and there is a download link to a whole book that clearly shows what happened during those years when the Church went the wrong way: A Warning and its Reception.

Today's Church is denying that it refused the light of the Fourth Angel, but the truth speaks differently. Justification by Faith is only part of the light of the Fourth Angel, but there is much more. That is why Ellen White said that in 1888 we only saw the BEGINNING of the light of the Fourth Angel.

When we come to the triplet of 1935, we will learn about the second part of the light of the Fourth Angel.

Jesuits infiltrate the SDA Church

What started in 1888 and was mentioned in many quotes of Ellen White as a terrible disaster for the Church, was kept in check by she herself until her death in 1915.

In the years 1915, 1916 and 1917, Church appointed new leaders that were no longer controlled by the messenger of God.

Compromise crept in, and the Church elected their own leaders for whose doctrines they had itching ears.

Some sources tell us that it was in these years that Jesuits started to infiltrate the SDA Church.

The corresponding triplet of 1986 will tell us how this story ends!

One year before the beginning of this 1915 triplet, we already saw in Orion how some Jesuit Church leaders reacted in Europe at the beginning of WWI in 1914.

M.L. Andreasen and the Last Generation

But there have also been great men in the Church like M.L. Andreasen who discovered the second part of the Light of the Fourth Angel in 1935/36 and published his book "The Sanctuary Service" in 1937.

Chapter 21 of this outstanding book reveals the Last Generation Theology which is the second part of the light of the Fourth Angel. Read the chapter here to understand what the duty for each one of the 144,000 is in these very last days!

This is not the last time that Andreasen is mentioned in the HSL by God. He gave great positive impulses to the direction of the church ship, but was suppressed by the Jesuit leadership of the Church like all who advocate the truth.

The year 1936 in the middle of the triplet is an Orion year and marks a time of great testing for the Church, especially in Europe. Note how Orion and HSL correspond!

M.L. Andreasen and QOD

M.L. Andreasen was THE man fighting QOD (Questions of Doctrine) as introduced after the text book changes began in 1949 as marked in Orion, and later published in 1957.

This heroic fight against a corrupt and degenerated leadership of SDA Church ended in the years 1959, 1960 and 1961 when Andreasen lost "temporarily" his credentials as a retired minister and died from a broken heart.

His credentials were restored posthumously in 1962, but knowing that the dead know not any thing, this does not diminish the guilt of Adventist Church for not having heard the warnings of this outstanding leader.

Please read M.L. Andreasen's biography on SDA-NET.

The Orion years 1949/1950 and the HSL triplet 1959, 1960, 1961 exactly mark the infamous decade of the 1950s mentioned frequently in Adventist history as the terrible years of change through QOD.

The Jesuit Takeover

What had started in 1915, 1916, 1917 after the death of Ellen G. White concluded in 1986, 1987 and 1988 by the total takeover of the Jesuits and the marriage of SDA Church with the papacy in the ecumenical movement.

The SDA Church laid in one bed with the whore of Babylon and started to fornicate publicly.

Both Orion and HSL mark the year 1986 as the beginning of the end of SDA Church and the Bible tells us in Revelation 2:23 that "the children of those who fornicated with Jezabel will be killed with death; and all the churches shall know that Jesus is He who searcheth the reins and hearts: and He will give unto every one of you according to his works."

The children will have been punished at the end of the next generation triplet... 2010, 2011, 2012! And Orion once more corresponds with the HSL.

The 4th Angel Comes Down From Heaven

Orion was given in 2010 and so was the HSL for those who had already accepted the Orion. Those blessed by the Holy Spirit entered the "Restaurant," a private study forum where we retreated since August 2011 to have a quiet place to study.

In October 2011, the third and last part of the light of the Fourth Angel was given to John Scotram and his study group in the forum. This event was marked by a dream of John on the 22nd of October 2011, the exact anniversary of the beginning of the Investigative Judgment.

This light was published under the title Our High Calling. It is a supplement to the Justification by Faith of Waggoner and Jones and the Last Generation Theology of M.L. Andreasen.

The triplet 2010, 2011, 2012 marks the end of the SDA Church as the corresponding triplet to 1861, 1862 and 1863 when the Seventh-day Adventist name, given by God, was introduced.

The church of Christ will go through till the end (as Ellen White said) but the apostate SDA Organization will find its end in spring 2013.

The Crown of the Woman

In the last triplet of earth's history, the true remnant church, the "Movement of the High Sabbath Adventists" will give the Loud Cry and finish the Great Commission of Jesus. Many will be taught to give their testimony for the Father by giving their lives as martyrs.

Between the 18th of October 2015 and the 24th of October 2016 (372 days), the 144,000 will stand without an Intercessor before God and the universe showing that Jesus will find faith when He returns while the plagues fall onto the earth.

On sunset of the 23rd of October 2016, the small black cloud that has been visible for 7 long days will become the Great White Cloud of the Second Coming and those who are sleeping in Jesus will awake like those who died under the Third Angel's Message will have 7 days earlier.

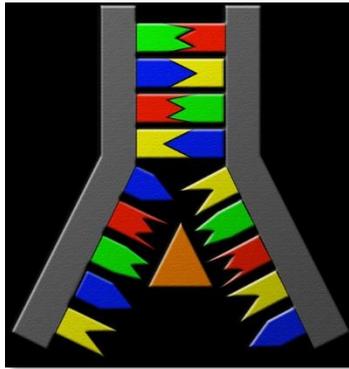

This time, we, the High Sabbath Adventists, will not allow ourselves to miss our second chance to go to heaven. Many of us have made our vows to testify for the Father in the "Restaurant," which was closed to those who did not accept the Orion message in time.

The Genetic Structure of the HSL

Some may have already recognized the similarity between the HSL and the structure of genes, which are the base of every life form on earth (and perhaps the whole universe).

The double helix of the DNA is formed by two strands like a rope ladder. The year column and code column resemble those strands.

The rungs of the rope ladder of the DNA are formed by base PAIRS and only corresponding pairs can form a rung. This is reflected in the HSL by the spring and autumn pairs, and if you compare the code rungs you will see that not every possible combination occurs. Only certain combinations occur, just like in nature.

The genetic code is made up of “words”. It always takes three base pairs to form a word, which is called a “codon”. Now we get to the point: Our year triplets are those codons that are the words of the HSL in which the information is stored. The number three in the DNA and in the HSL suggests that all three Persons of the Godhead are involved in the plan of salvation for the living creatures of the universe.

Stop Codon

Every gene in the DNA that codes a special characteristic of the being begins with a start codon (triplet) that is different from all others. So it is in the HSL!

Gene segments are separated from each other by stop codons, thus forming code ranges. The majority of stop codons are equal in their first two base pairs, and so it is in the HSL.

We discovered several stop codons in the HSL--the year triplets after the starting triplet. Some of them form logical units marking beginning and end of the gene segment exactly as in nature.

In genetic laboratories, if you want to make 100% sure that a sequence should end, and there is no chance that by a reading error the reading of the sequence would go on, they add at the end of a gene a double stop codon. That means that one stop codon follows the other. This is how the HSL ends! After a double stop it is sure that THE END HAS BEEN REACHED. The time has ceased, the plan of salvation will have been completed.

If you want to dig deeper into this, you can do so on TeachingHearts and in the article series The Gene of Life.

The Character of the 144,000

Jesus said: “I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live” (John 11:25)

It makes sense that our God, who IS THE LIFE, expresses Himself in form of the basic structure He created for the life of all planets... the DNA.

Finally, we have discovered what the feast days, depending on the sun (vernal equinox) and the moon (beginning of the months), really mean. Unlocking the structure of the feast days with the HIGH SABBATHS (when ceremonial Sabbaths fall upon Seventh-day Sabbaths) revealed the “genetic” structure of one of those who will be able to stand without intercession in the great time of trouble.

First of all, they will have accepted the first and second angel’s message (1841, 1842, 1843).

They will have understood that the Church that had great light was the Seventh-day Adventist Church founded in 1861, 1862, 1863.

They are those who will have received, accepted and understood the threefold light of the Fourth Angel given in 1888, 1889, 1890 (first part = Justification by Faith) and 1935, 1936, 1937 (second part = the Last Generation Theology) and will very soon (2010, 2011, 2012) understand what the consequences for the universe and God will be if they fail to accomplish their mission (third part).

They will NOT have followed QOD (1959, 1960, 1961) and will not have adopted the Jesuit teachings about the unfallen nature of Christ, and they will have sighed and cried for all the abominations committed by the SDA Church for joining the ecumenical movement (1986, 1987, 1988).

They will have accepted the Orion Message and the HSL and they will therefore have received the Latter Rain to give the Loud Cry with these marvelous messages of hope for the martyrs.

The Sunday Law

Revelation 13:14 says that the people will make an image to the beast! “And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live.”

The day when fire comes from heaven will mark the beginning of that process: “And he doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men” (Revelation 13:13)

After this cataclysm made by men, the paradigm of all human beings on earth will change and the Great Conflict will have entered into the last rapid moments that have been mentioned by Ellen White.

May God be with you! Keep your hearts clean and repent of all sins before that day. Heeding all warnings that have been given to the Adventists you will have a good chance to survive the event and reach eternal life.

The judgments will start at the Adventist Church. God has withdrawn from His sanctuary. Read and understand Ezekiel Chapter 9!

Go out of the towns. Thousands will be destroyed. Do not stay at coastal areas... go to the mountains into higher ground! Tsunamis will destroy mainly coastal areas. Avoid the nearness to volcanoes!

After all this... the Sunday Law will have begun because almost everybody will believe that the judgments of God have begun. But indeed Satan will have been the originator of the death of many believing and unbelieving human beings.

KEEP THE SABBATH OF THE 7th DAY WHATEVER IT COSTS (AND EVEN IF IT COSTS YOUR LIFE!)

The Authority of the Father

We published this study on April 1 2012, because it was the antitypical day when Jesus revealed His real position as King of His people at his glorious entry in Jerusalem. And it was again a first day of the week.

He separated Himself as the true Passover lamb, invoking the wrath of the Church leaders against him. He knew that they would kill Him soon afterwards.

Also we know that the SDA Church leaders and many more will be enraged when they read this irrefutable confirmation of the Orion study through the HSL:

And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully. This enraged the churches and nominal Adventists, as they could not refute the Sabbath truth. And at this time God's chosen all saw clearly that we had the truth, and they came out and endured the persecution with us. I saw the sword, famine, pestilence, and great confusion in the land. The wicked thought that we had brought the judgments upon them, and they rose up and took counsel to rid the earth of us, thinking that then the evil would be stayed. {EW 33.2}

The HSL reveals the end of the SDA Organization as God's Church for 2012/2013. This part of SDA Church that had been unfaithful will separate itself from the true ones. The leaders that the SDA Church now has, like Ted Wilson and the 25 "men in black," will lead their flock to perdition and receive the plagues with them.

The true remnant church of God is not an organization but they are Adventists from the heart and have the correct mindset based on the pillars of faith shown by Orion and HSL.

Do not any longer follow the wolves in sheep's clothing like Dwight Nelson who advocates Islam in the Adventist Church. And to you wolves... GO WHERE YOUR BOSS IS! YOUR TIME IS OVER! WE DO NOT NEED YOUR SERVICES ANY LONGER!

The Will Ross Statement

The Wind Storm

A statement by E.G. White about the year 1908:

Bro. Will Ross now deceased was a personal friend of mine for about 45 years. In our church fellowship we very often spent Sabbath afternoons discussing his experience in the message, and his conversations with Mrs. Ellen G. White.

About 1908, while living in Loma Linda near Sister White, he frequently accompanied her in her walks, and would discuss the message and future events. On one of these occasions, while waiting at the railroad depot, in company with Sister McInterfer and Elder D. E. Robinson, her granddaughter's husband, Sister White related to the three of them about the storm of persecution that was to come upon Seventh-day Adventists. Brother Will related it to me as follows:

"Sister White told us as we three stood there on the depot platform, that a terrible storm of persecution was coming like a windstorm that blew down every standing object. There was not a Seventh-day Adventist to be seen. They, like the disciples, forsook Christ and fled. All who had sought positions were never seen again. ...

"After the storm there was a calm, then the Adventists arose like a great flock of sheep, but there were no shepherds. They all waited in earnest prayer for help and wisdom, and the Lord answered by helping them to choose leaders from among them who had never sought positions before. They prayed earnestly for the Holy Spirit which was poured out upon them making them fully ready for service. They then went forth 'fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners,' to give this message to the world. "I was astonished, and asked if that applied to Loma Linda, as we were looking in that direction. Sister White replied to my question by stating that it applied to the entire denominational world. It so stunned me that I did not ask any more questions."

--- Will Ross, Boulder, Colorado.

May God give you all wisdom to see very soon where the real leaders of the people of God are hidden. Those are "fair as the moon and clear as the sun", those both luminaries that have been created by God to control the times and the seasons (Genesis 1:14), the feasts and the HIGH SABBATH LIST of our Adventist history that shows the genetic code of each and every one who will belong to the 144,000. May God give you the Latter Rain that you may be able to "proclaim the Sabbath more fully" when the time of trouble will have begun. Remember then the High Sabbath List that was created by God 3500 years ago to give hope to the hopeless.

The 1335 Days of Daniel 12

Final Warning

Written by Robert Dickinson

Created: Friday, April 13, 2012, 8:25 pm

[Note as of January 2013: In this article, we initially assumed that the 1335 days would lead to the day of Jesus' coming. However, we were off by one year (the year of the plagues). The 1335 days actually lead to the day when Jesus leaves the Most Holy Place at the end of the Judgment of the Living. The text has been corrected not to confuse new readers.]

Introduction

Dear reader, we are publishing this series of articles as a Final Warning before the terrible unleashing of the powers of Satan upon this world. Although none of us are prophets, and we are susceptible to making mistakes in our studies, we can truly say that the Holy Spirit has been guiding the Last Countdown ministry and these studies. These articles are intended to summarize the matter at hand, providing adequate proof but not so much as to weary the reader to make the warning of no effect. With that, let us begin.

Background

At the foundation of this study are two presentations available on www.lastcountdown.org. These studies are titled The Clock of God in Orion and The Vessel of Time. These studies set the foundation for this article series defining the exact date of the end of the investigative judgment on the Day of Atonement and High Sabbath of October 24, 2015. Additionally, you should know that God is on trial in the Great Controversy between good and evil, and that our redemption and high calling is to testify on His behalf, just like Job, no matter what trouble the enemy sends our way.

The 1335 Days

"Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days."
(Daniel 12:12)

This verse contains two key words relating to the 1335 days. First, it is a time of "waiting". Second, the word "cometh" could be better translated "toucheth" which reminds us of the Hebrew inclusive way of counting. The 1335 days, then, must be a waiting period inclusive of 1335 days. To find the beginning of the period, all we need to do is subtract 1335 days from the date of the end of the judgement. That brings us to February 27, 2012.

To be very precise according to the Hebrew reckoning of days, the first of the 1335 days begins at sunset on Sunday, February 26, 2012, and the last of the 1335 days ends at sunset on Friday, October 23, 2015. The last day does not include the actual day of the end of the judgment because the 1335 days are a "waiting" period, and there is no more waiting once the final sentence has been made.

What Happened on February 27, 2012?

"He said furthermore unto me, Son of man, seest thou what they do? Even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here, that I should go far off from my sanctuary? but turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater abominations." (Ezekiel 8:6)

Ezekiel witnesses in this chapter the apostasy in the Church. It is so bad that God must leave it.

"Therefore will I also deal in fury: mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity: and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them." (Ezekiel 8:18)

In these verses, God is ready to leave the Church to its destruction as He did Jerusalem in 70 A.D. Chapter 9 describes this departure in more detail:

"And the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from the cherub, whereupon he was, to the threshold of the house. And he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's inkhorn by his side;" (Ezekiel 9:3)

Above, we see that God the Father leaves His seat in the Most Holy and comes out to the threshold. From there He commands that the righteous be marked before the destruction.

In the book The Glory of God by Christopher W. Morgan and Robert A. Peterson you can read:

The Departure of the Glory of God (Ezekiel 8-11). As Jeremiah (in chapter 7) states, the people were presumptuous in their relationship with God because they thought he would never let his temple be destroyed. In their minds, God lived in Jerusalem, so they could not imagine that city falling. Thus, they felt they could live with impunity, sinning and worshipping other gods. Jeremiah reminded them what Solomon had stated in his temple dedication service (1 Kings 8:27), that God did not really live in his temple. Jeremiah also reminded them of previous times when God in his judgment had destroyed the place where he was thought to dwell on earth (Jer. 7:12, for instance, where he cites the destruction of the tabernacle at Shiloh at the time of Eli).

Ezekiel addresses this presumption through a prophetic vision that describes the departure of the "glory of the LORD" from the temple. This divine abandonment of the temple thus becomes the preparation for its destruction by the Babylonians who are led by none other than the Lord himself. The extraordinary vision of Ezekiel 8-11 tells of God's departure from the temple. (Footnote: That these chapters are a unified vision is clear from the fact that Ezek. 8:1-3 speaks of Ezekiel's being taken in the vision to Jerusalem, and 11:24-25 describes his return by the Spirit to Babylon.)

The vision begins in chapter 8 when a "form that had the appearance of a man [JESUS]" (v. 2) came and grabbed Ezekiel and took him to Jerusalem and specifically to the "entrance of the gateway of the inner court that faces north" (v. 3). Here he came in to the presence of the "glory of God," which he connects with what he saw earlier in the Kebar Valley (chap. 1).

God then took him on a tour of the temple. He visited four parts of the temple and witnessed the horrible goings-on there. First, in the entrance, north of the altar gate was an "image of jealousy." The exact identification of this image is left unspecified (perhaps it is Asherah), but the jealousy it provokes is God's. After all, the temple should be dedicated completely to the worship of Yahweh, yet here was an idol. The effect of this and the following abominations will be to "drive me [God] far away from my sanctuary" (v. 6). After this, God brought Ezekiel to the "entrance of the court" (v. 7). Here there was a hole that led to a den where there were vile engravings of unclean animals and idols. Seventy elders of Israel were offering incense to these abominations (v. 11). Yahweh then took Ezekiel to a third location, "the entrance of the north gate of the house of the LORD" (v. 14). Here they encountered women who were weeping for Tammuz, an ancient Mesopotamian deity. Finally, they went to the "entrance of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar" (v. 16). Here they found twenty-five men who were worshipping the sun. For these reasons, Yahweh told Ezekiel he will judge the city. Before judgment, though, comes divine abandonment. The next three chapters narrate Yahweh's withdrawal from the city.

In chapters 9 through 11, we read of God's response to Judah's [the Seventh-day Adventist Church's] sacrilegious behavior. He will severely punish the city of Jerusalem. But before the judgment comes, God himself will abandon his temple. In these chapters, God's glory is treated in an anthropomorphic fashion so that the glory stands and walks. This way of talking about God's glory gives Ezekiel's message a strong measure of vividness as well as concreteness.

The movement begins in 9:3 where we learn that "the glory of the God of Israel had gone up from the cherub on which it rested to the threshold of the house." The cherub is a reference to the fact that two cherub figures were placed above the ark of the covenant with their heads faced down so as not to be consumed by God's glory above them. Thus, we learn that God had arisen from his throne and moved to the threshold of the temple. At this time, he also commissioned the devastation of the city.

Chapter 10 notes that the cherub-driven chariot that Ezekiel saw in chapter 1 is waiting for God on the south side of the house. As the glory of God moves out into the courtyard of the temple, the temple and the courtyard are filled with the cloud that represents his glorious presence. By the end of this chapter God's glory has mounted the chariot: "the glory of LORD went out from the threshold of the house, and stood over the cherubim" (v. 18). At the end of the vision, God's glory mounted on the chariot was last seen hovering over the "mountain that is on the east side of the city" (Footnote: Presumably this is the Mount of Olives.) (11:23). God is heading east toward the land of Babylonia. The temple is now abandoned, ripe for its destruction.

The departure of the Father from the Most Holy Place parallels what happened near the beginning of the Advent movement when a special event occurred on October 22, 1844. Jesus, our High Priest, entered the Most Holy Place in the heavenly sanctuary to cleanse it from the record of our sins.

Ellen White saw this entering in two phases in her vision "The End of the 2300 Days". It has never been sufficiently studied why she saw the Father entering the Most Holy Place first, and then our Lord Jesus some time later.

End of the 2300 Days

I saw a throne, and on it sat the Father and the Son. I gazed on Jesus' countenance and admired His lovely person. The Father's person I could not behold, for a cloud of glorious light covered Him. I asked Jesus if His Father had a form like Himself. He said He had, but I could not behold it, for said He, "If you should once behold the glory of His person, you would cease to exist." Before the throne I saw the Advent people—the church and the world. I saw two companies, one bowed down before the throne, deeply interested, while the other stood uninterested and careless. Those who were bowed before the throne would offer up their prayers and look to Jesus; then He would look to His Father, and appear to be pleading with Him. A light would come from the Father to the Son and from the Son to the praying company. Then I saw an exceeding bright light [the Midnight Cry] come from the Father to the Son, and from the Son it waved over the people before the throne. But few would receive this great light. Many came out from under it and immediately resisted it; others were careless and did not cherish the light, and it moved off from them. Some cherished it, and went and bowed down with the little praying company. This company all received the light and rejoiced in it, and their countenances shone with its glory.

I saw the Father rise from the throne, and in a flaming chariot go into the holy of holies within the veil, and sit down. Then Jesus rose up from the throne, and the most of those who were bowed down arose with Him. I did not see one ray of light pass from Jesus to the careless multitude after He arose, and they were left in perfect darkness. Those who arose when Jesus did, kept their eyes fixed on Him as He left the throne and led them out a little way. [This marks a special time period in 1844, about which we will write later.] Then He raised His right arm, and we heard His lovely voice saying, "Wait here; I am going to My Father to receive the kingdom; keep your garments spotless, and in a little while I will return from the wedding and receive you to Myself." Then a cloudy chariot, with wheels like flaming fire, surrounded by angels, came to where Jesus was. He stepped into the chariot and was borne to the holiest, where the Father sat. [The entry of Jesus to the Most Holy Place at October 22, 1844.] There I beheld Jesus, a great High Priest, standing before the Father. On the hem of His garment was a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate. Those who rose up with Jesus would send up their faith to Him in the holiest, and pray, "My Father, give us Thy Spirit." Then Jesus would breathe upon them the Holy Ghost. In that breath was light, power, and much love, joy, and peace. [The Sabbath Truth given in 1846]

I turned to look at the company who were still bowed before the throne; they did not know that Jesus had left it. Satan appeared to be by the throne, trying to carry on the work of God. I saw them look up to the throne, and pray, "Father, give us Thy Spirit." Satan would then breathe upon them an unholy influence; in it there was light and much power, but no sweet love, joy, and peace. Satan's object was to keep them deceived and to draw back and deceive God's children. {EW 54.2-56.1}

Similarly to how the Father and Son entered the Most Holy Place in two phases at the beginning of the movement, as we near the end of the Advent movement the Father left His seat of Judgment FIRST on February 27, 2012 to take His place on the trial bench and in His place Jesus remains to serve as the Great Judge and Intercessor. This is an important new phase of the Judgment, where the Father Himself prepares to go on trial and the 144,000 and the martyrs are called to the witness stand to testify in His defense.

The 40 Days

"Afterward he brought me to the temple...and he measured the length thereof, forty cubits: and the breadth twenty cubits." (From Ezekiel 41:1-2)

The length of the Holy Place which the Father had to travel to reach the threshold of the courtyard was 40 cubits. If each cubit is one step, and each step is one day, then the time for the Father to get to His position at the threshold would be 40 days. Simultaneously, the witnesses must enter the Temple (figuratively) and travel that same distance to get to the witness stand in the Most Holy Place in front of the new Great Judge, Jesus Christ. The forty days began at the start of the 1335 days, with the 40th day starting at sunset on Thursday, April 5, 2012 and ending at sunset on Friday, April 6, 2012. On this day, the leaders of the 144,000 PASSED OVER the threshold from the Holy Place to the Most Holy Place and the Father PASSED OVER from the Holy Place to the courtyard. The very ending day of those 40 days was the correct day for the Lord's Supper according to God's calendar that we had studied in the Shadow Series, and the very anti-typical day that in 31 A.D. Jesus Christ was crucified. It is only by His blood on the doorposts of our heart that we can enter the Most Holy (figuratively) and survive the angel of death that is coming upon the Church.

If you did not participate in the Lord's Supper on April 5, please prepare your heart to observe it as we will explain in the third part of this article. Only those who partake worthily will be protected.

The Showbread and the Candlestick

If the Father is leaving the temple through His walk through the Holy Place and we are entering the same way, there would be a very special moment in that timeframe of 40 days: the very day when we would meet the Father in the middle of the Holy Place. This happened on Sabbath,

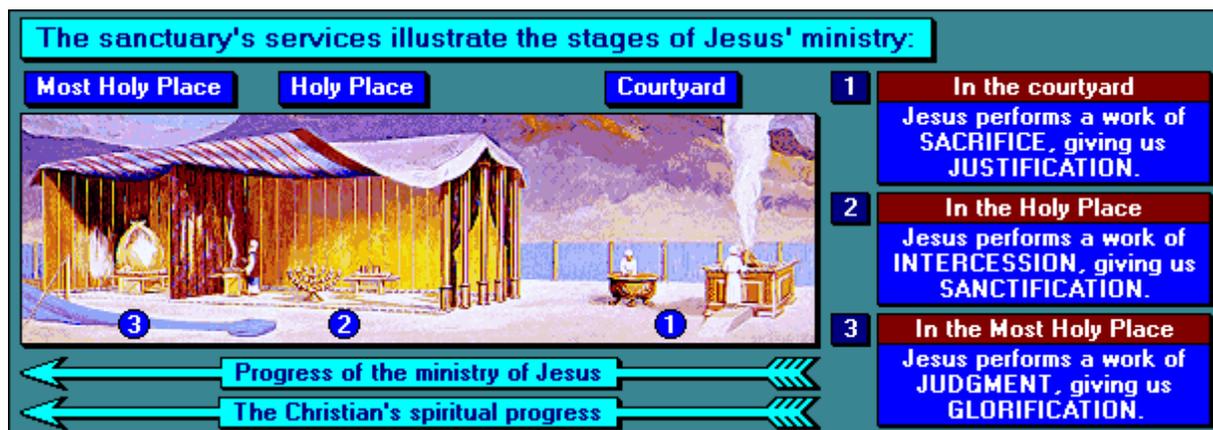

March 17, 2012. John even received a vivid dream on the morning of that day that brought clearly to our remembrance what we thought had to happen on that day.

Let us explore this in more detail.

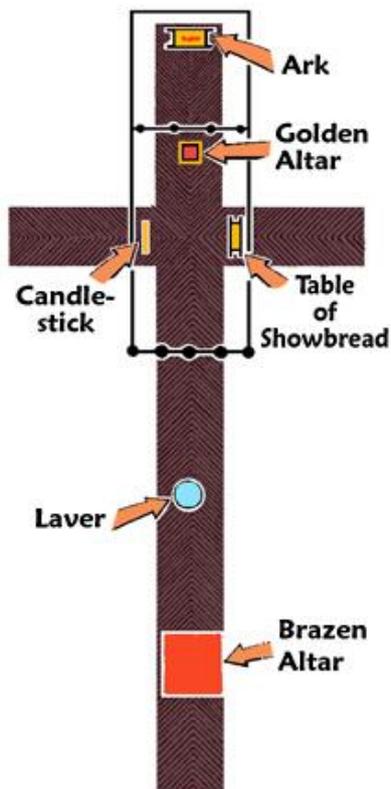

There are definitely several applications of the services and furniture of the sanctuary. One of the most important applications is that the furniture of the sanctuary shows the progress of Christian life:

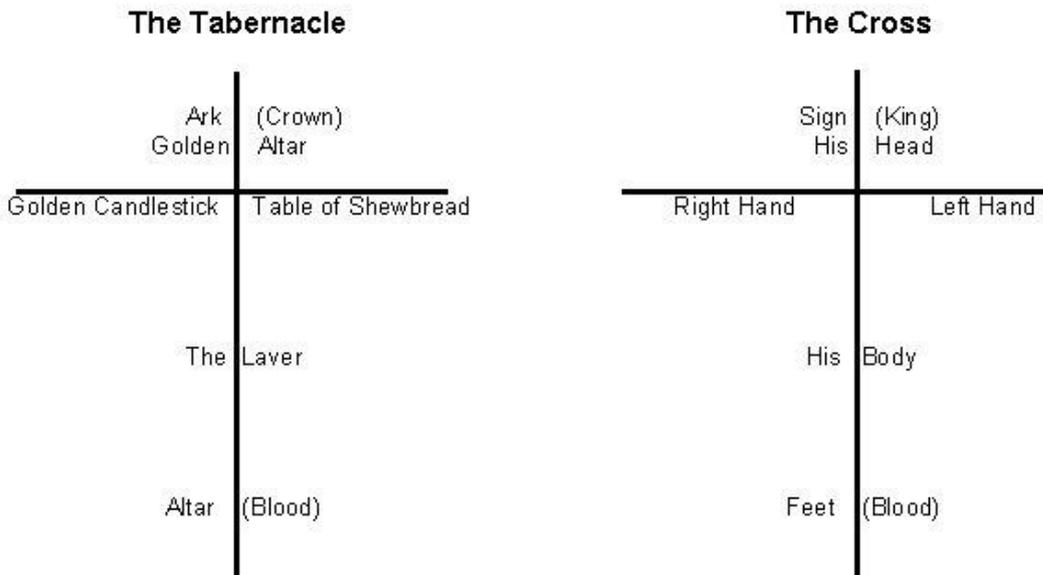

And the services illustrate the stages of Jesus' ministry:

You can place a cross shaped shadow collocated over the of the sanctuary's furniture:

Another explication of the same symbolism:

On March 17, 2012, we who had not given up in the small disappointment of February 27 figuratively reached the point in the Holy Place where we met with the Father at the cross point where the horizontal beam and the vertical beam are connected. Once more the symbolism points to the crucifixion of Christ.

The question is: what should we have expected on that day? Would something special happen when we would stand symbolically face to face with God the Father? Let us start to understand what might have happened on that day by applying the Christian way of progress to the progress of one of us who had entered in faith in the Holy Place at the beginning of the 1335 days.

Let us go back to 2010.

Since 2010, the Orion message has been given as a last warning to the Seventh-day Adventist Church. All those Adventists who accepted the message wanted to know more about the deeper studies that accompanied this message of God. Accepting the Orion message, we figuratively entered into the courtyard of the temple and passed the door called "the way". The only thing we had to accept was the belief that we can see Jesus in Orion. We few remnant Seventh-day Adventists started to meet in a special place on the Internet, asking John for admittance to the private study forum that he had founded; and there we studied together for many months.

In the forum, which we also call the "restaurant" or "the waiting room", we were served loads of spiritual food in the form of studies and we had to sacrifice a lot of private time on the altar of the courtyard to understand what the voice of God wanted to tell us. And we had to learn by those studies like a Christian in the beginning of his spiritual life has to learn from the teachings that have been given by Jesus in the Bible.

A very special last study given by the Holy Spirit showed the consequences for the universe and God Himself, if the mission of the 144,000 and the martyrs should fail. Only we who understood our role in the end time events and our responsibility to follow Jesus OUR FORERUNNER in EVERYTHING, gave our solemn vows to testify for the Father before February 27, 2012 in the forum. This was the symbolic baptism necessary to pass the door to the Holy Place which is called "the truth". This was the moment when we passed by the laver symbolizing baptism (baptismal vows) in the Christian life. On our way, it represented our solemn vows to testify for God the Father with complete understanding of the consequences if we should fail.

The door itself was a first test of our faithfulness to our vows. Only we stayed in the "restaurant" who really understood the three parts of the Fourth Angel's Message that we had learned before and passed the test of the small disappointment of February 27 and entered the Holy Place to begin our walk of the 40 days toward the Most Holy Place. Only we who saw with our spiritual eyes the Father coming out of the Most Holy Place on February 27 passed the test of the small disappointment. The others failed and left the sanctuary.

Jesus was tempted three times in the desert in His forty days. So we had been tempted on the very day we first entered the Holy Place. We had to prove that our faith would stand disappointment.

On March 17, 2012 the remnant forum members had entered 20 steps (days) into the Holy Place coming from the threshold of the courtyard. The Father had also exited the Most Holy Place 20 steps (days) toward us, and we reached the location where the Father was. At the right of us was the table of showbread and at our left was the Father and the candlestick.

Let us first look at the table of showbread:

The original interpretation is that the 12 cakes of bread symbolize the 12 tribes of Israel as the body of Christ. The nutrition of the Word of God for the tribes was symbolized by the bread that Jesus broke at the Lord's Supper. But you know that the 144,000 are made up of 12 "tribe leaders" and of each tribe will be sealed 12,000 members:

And I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Nephthalim were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Issachar were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand.

Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand. (Revelation 7:4-8)

The 12 cakes of bread had been prepared for this very special day on March 17, 2012 when we passed by the showbread table so that each one of us could take one cake of bread with him to feed as teachers the 12,000 members of his own tribe. The type for this day had been David with his men who ate from this bread and David later became king of Israel:

But he said unto them, Have ye not read what David did, when he was an hungred, and they that were with him; How he entered into the house of God, and did eat the shewbread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them which were with him, but only for the priests? (Matthew 12:3-4)

God is cleaning for Himself a people of priests and kings, and those who made it to the showbread table were ready to take their bread that very same day. But there are two piles of 6 cakes of bread each, and this has a very special meaning that we will reveal in a later article of this last warning series.

Now we have to research the candlestick with the seven arms.

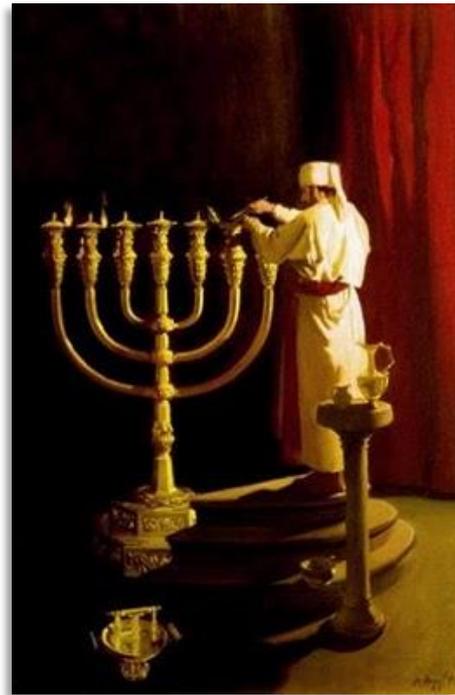

In Revelation we find:

The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches. (Revelation 1:20)

Ellen White told us that the seven stars are the LEADERS of the seven churches. We know the deeper meaning that the stars also represent the Orion constellation and the doctrine that those future leaders have.

There are only two churches without blame: Philadelphia and Smyrna. The last spiritual Philadelphia is the Church of the 144,000 who will not see death and Smyrna is the Church of the martyrs that have to die under the fifth seal.

God the Father turned away from the worldly apostate Adventist Church on February 27 because it did not repent of its sins that have been written in Orion. He started to abandon His temple. This Church was about to lose its status as the bearer of the light for the world just like ancient Israel lost its status in 34 A.D.

But when would God the Father TRANSFER the light to the new spiritual church of Philadelphia and its leaders?

Jesus was warning our pioneers of the church of Ephesus that this one day could happen if they would lose their first love and go into apostasy in the Great Day of the Investigative Judgment:

Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love. Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent. (Revelation 2:4-5)

But to whom would the candlestick be given?

“I know thy works, and thy labor, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil; and thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars.” This labor of purifying the church is a painful work, but one that must not be neglected, if the church would have the commendation of God. But repent, because thou hast left thy first love. Here is plainly presented before us our work as members of the church of Christ. If we are faithless, we shall lose the crown of life and another will take it; for in the dropping out of the faithless the places are supplied by the faithful. If we refuse to let our light shine for the Master, if we do not do the works of God, others will do that very work which we might have done and could have done, but refused to do. When we cease to fulfill our mission, when the candlestick refuses to reflect light, and the great truths committed to us individually in trust for the world, are not given to them, then the candlestick will be removed. “I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place.” Another will be placed in his stead and will shine. Let prayer be ascending now without delay to Him who walketh in the midst of the golden candlesticks. Take not thy Holy Spirit from us. “Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.... Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy Holy Spirit from me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free Spirit. Then will I teach transgressors thy ways: and sinners shall be converted unto thee.” {RH June 7, 1887, par. 17}

From the description of the Laodiceans, it is evident that many were deceived in their estimate of their spiritual condition. They regarded themselves as rich, as possessing all the knowledge and grace that was needed; but yet they lacked the gold of faith and love, the white raiment of Christ’s righteousness. They were destitute and poverty-stricken, walking in sparks of their own kindling, and preparing to lie down in sorrow. Jesus says to them, “I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love. Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works [when the glow of the love of God was upon you]; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.” This warning would not be given if there were no danger of failure on the part of those who profess to be the children of God. {RH December 20, 1892, par. 2}

The candlestick was removed from Laodicea (the organized Seventh-day Adventist Church) on February 27, 2012 and after 3500 years, that one special candlestick remained for the remnant church of God. Its designated leaders passed by it on the very day of March 17, 2012!

And the Father was there at the same time and place to give this very special candlestick to His witnesses who had given their vows to Him before. The Father personally admitted His witnesses!

The candlestick is filled with "oil" of the Holy Spirit and before we would be allowed to advance to the Holiest of Holies to testify for the Father we needed this special unction which was a special blessing that the future leaders of the 144,000 received that day.

Later, in the Loud Cry, every single one of the 144,000 will follow this same way when we will teach them what happened during those solemn days. When they will come to understand what happened in the Heavenly Sanctuary, they will also receive their blessings with the light necessary to become one of the tribe members that will be sealed to form part of God’s remnant church, the anti-type of Philadelphia.

Conclusion

Remember we are not prophets. However, the Holy Spirit has been leading us, just as the Millerite movement was led by God even though they did not have complete understanding at the time of the Great Disappointment. God leads us one step at a time. We thought there would be a visible world-changing event to occur at the beginning of the 1335 days, and we tried to prepare and warn accordingly. We took the safe path. When nothing visible happened, we were relieved but also disappointed because we had hoped for a powerful confirmation of the Second Coming.

Once more as it had happened in the time of the Millerite movement, we waited for a visible event in the world, instead of looking to the Heavenly Sanctuary understanding that corresponding events had to take place before the judgment of the living could begin. The Great Judge, Jesus Christ, presides over the judgment of the living, as God the Father presided over the judgment of the dead. The change of roles had to take place beforehand, and this was marked by the beginning of the 1335 days and the 40 days of the PASSING OVER of God the Father and of us to our correct positions for the last judgment of the living.

We continued to study in faith, and this final warning is a result of the clear understanding that the Holy Spirit has given us. We hope that the same Spirit spoke to you as you read this first article, and that you will take the remainder of this three-part warning seriously to prepare your heart and get ready for a very special Lord’s Supper to begin your own journey into the Most Holy Place to testify later at the witness stand.

Heed this warning if you want to be part of the 144,000 who are described as follows:

These are they which were not defiled with women [not even with the apostate part of the Seventh-day Adventist Church]; for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth [even into the Most Holy Place of the Heavenly Sanctuary where Jesus is now the Great Judge]. These were redeemed from among men, being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb. (Revelation 14:4)

The 1290 Days of Daniel 12

Written by Robert Dickinson

Created: Monday, April 16, 2012, 2:24 am

[Note as of January 2013: In this article, we initially assumed that the 1290 days would lead to the appearing of the small black cloud seven days before Jesus' coming. However, we were off by one year (the year of the plagues). The 1290 days actually lead to the day when the door of the "ark" will be closed seven days before Jesus leaves the Most Holy Place at the end of the Judgment of the Living. The text has been corrected not to confuse new readers.]

A Verse, Difficult to Understand

And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days. (Daniel 12:11)

There are many different interpretations of this verse, and we even had our own different interpretation which is still on our website in the article The Resurrection of the Beast. The first challenge is to correctly understand what the "daily" is. Just take a look in that same article at how many interpretations of the word "daily" exist, from this day all the way back to Josephus in the first century!

The second challenge is to understand the relationship between the "taking away of the daily" and the "setting up of the abomination". Again, there are many opinions about when these two events take place and whether or not they occur at the same time, resulting in many different end-time charts with the 1335-, 1290-, and 1260-day periods in various relations to one another.

What is the "Daily"?

Sister White gives us the following statement on the daily:

Then I saw in relation to the "daily" (Daniel 8:12) that the word "sacrifice" was supplied by man's wisdom, and does not belong to the text, and that the Lord gave the correct view of it to those who gave the judgment hour cry. When union existed, before 1844, nearly all were united on the correct view of the "daily"; but in the confusion since 1844, other views have been embraced, and darkness and confusion have followed. Time has not been a test since 1844, and it will never again be a test. {EW 74.2}

At first glance it would seem that the above quote solves all our problems by telling us exactly that the "daily" is not the "daily sacrifice". However, a careful reading of the text does not allow us to say that. She speaks of the experience of the Pioneers, saying that they understood the "daily" correctly for their time, but she does not exclude the possibility that the "daily" has other interpretations for other times. Yes, the word "sacrifice" was added by human wisdom, and does not belong to the text, but that does not exclude the possibility that the "daily" could mean the "daily sacrifice" in some applications of the prophecy. Truly the correct view for the Millerite movement was given, and confusion has ensued regarding the meaning of the "daily" for the historical fulfillment, but that does not exclude other views for future applications of the prophecy.

Jesus gave us an example application of the verse:

But when ye shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not, (let him that readeth understand,) then let them that be in Judaea flee to the mountains: (Mark 13:14)

He references the verse in Daniel in the context of the destruction of Jerusalem, and the destruction at the end of the world. For now, let's focus on the destruction of Jerusalem. If the desolation of Jerusalem was its destruction in 70 A.D., then the abomination that causes the desolation is the besieging of the city by the Roman army. It was precisely this event that signaled the Christians to flee the city and save their lives, which they did at the first opportunity when the army temporarily went back.

If the abomination was the besieging of Jerusalem, what must have been the prerequisite "taking away of the daily"? Paganism was not taken away at that time; it was Jesus Himself that took away the daily sacrifices by dying on the cross at the exact time of the killing of the daily sacrificial lamb.

Let us compare another verse from Daniel that explains in clear terms what the meaning was in Jesus' day and also what it is for us:

And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, and for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate, even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured upon the desolate. (Daniel 9:27)

Here in verse 9:27 Daniel tells us first in clear words what he was later referring to in brief words in verse 12:11. Here we see that the first application of the prophecy, which applied to Jesus' death on the cross, was specifically about the ceasing of the daily sacrifice, which was the prerequisite for the overspreading of abominations resulting in desolation.

Indeed, many Bible translators correctly (perhaps unwittingly) translated the "daily" as the "daily sacrifice". This is in light of verse 9:27 the more enduring meaning, the one that applies to Jesus, and the one that applies to the final events which we are witnessing in our day.

Two Events Easily Confounded

At first we thought, like many, that the taking away of the daily sacrifice and the setting up of the abomination must happen at the same time in order for both events to begin the 1290-day period. It is easy to make that mistake because of the structure of the sentence and the use of the word "and" connecting the two events.

We already saw in the previous section that when Jesus "took away" the daily sacrifice, the destruction of Jerusalem did not happen immediately. We did not take that expanded time into account in our modern day application and fell into another disappointment as a result. Afterward we realized in our studies that the events require a process of time to happen, but it wasn't until a little later that we received a confirmation of this view that was sitting right under our noses in the Bible Commentary the whole time. The confusion is easily dissipated when we see what the Hebrew language literally says:

11. The daily sacrifice. See on Ch. 8:11. Taken away. The clause may be translated literally, "and from the time of the taking away of the continual, even in order to set up the abomination." This would indicate that the "taking away" was done with the direct intent of setting up the abomination. The focus may be upon the preparatory "taking away" rather than upon the subsequent "setting up." {Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary, vol. 4, p. 880}

As you can see, according to the original Hebrew, the 1290 days begin with the taking away of the “continual” or daily sacrifice, and the abomination is a separate event that could not happen until after the daily was taken away.

The 1290 Days

Now, let's explore what exactly happened that took away the daily in Jesus' day. We know this prophecy was fulfilled by his death on the cross, and by dying on the cross at the exact time of the daily sacrifice, Jesus the anti-type “took away” the type. No longer do we have to wonder what the daily slaying of the lamb means, because now we understand the real meaning by looking at Jesus' death on the cross.

The daily sacrifice was not the only part of the ceremonial system, however. Another part was the feast days, which Jesus also “took away” by instituting the Lord's Supper in their place. Now we no longer keep the feast days the Jewish way, but we do still keep the Lord's Supper. Jesus was also our Passover lamb, and by figuratively eating his flesh and drinking his blood we take part in his sacrifice.

There is still a third part of the ceremonial system that was taken away, and this is the most important part and took place in Gethsemane. This is where Jesus, “sorrowful even unto death” (so sad he could die), three times pleaded for a way out. Three times he demonstrated his selfless and supreme love for the Father and the whole universe, saying “Thy will be done.” He was willing to go through with it, no matter what the cost would be.

The taking away of all three parts of the “daily sacrifice” in Jesus' day met the condition for the abomination of desolation to be set up. Indeed, about 35 years later the Roman armies surrounded Jerusalem, and subsequently destroyed it. This was a type of Daniel 12:11, but not a fulfillment. Remember that the prophecy in Daniel 12 is especially for the last days.

Many Passover Lambs

Growing up as a human being in this world, Jesus had to study the scriptures. He had laid his omniscience aside to take on humanity, and had to learn as a human. As he studied, he found himself in the sanctuary, and from its types he recognized his purpose in being born. Because of his understanding of his role in the prophecies, he knew what duties and obligations he needed to fulfill when the time came. He searched the prophecies, understood them, preached them, and fulfilled them. Long before the Passover in 31 A.D. he announced his death on the cross and his subsequent resurrection. Three times he announced it (Matthew 16:21, 17:22-23, 20:17-19).

Jesus fulfilled the Passover in every way except one: he was not slain in the evening when the Passover lamb was slain. He was slain the next day at the time of the daily sacrifice. That one point has been left open for fulfillment in our day. Many verses also give us the indication that when the 144000 are born, before they grow up into the full stature of Christ, there will be a slaughter of many innocent victims:

In Rama was there a voice heard, lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not. (Matthew 2:18)

Three times (including this warning) we announced the massive deaths of innocent lambs of God by the fire that the beast power brings down from heaven (Revelation 13:13). With the help of the Holy Spirit, we search the prophecies, understand them, preach them, and fulfill them. We can fulfill them because we understand our role, and our duties and obligations for the days in which we live. We found ourselves in the heavenly sanctuary in Orion. We found our purpose, understood our obligations, and knew what to do to observe the Lord's Supper the right day.

The destruction of Jerusalem happened during Passover time when many people from all over were visiting the city. Only the Christians escaped the Roman army because they were under the new covenant in Christ. This is a type for the days in which we live. The anti-type is the world-wide destruction of those who haven't "eaten" the body and blood of Jesus this year. When the beast causes fire to come down from heaven, only those will be safe who prepare their hearts and eat and drink Christ at the coming Lord's Supper. If you did not participate in the Lord's Supper correctly this year, please prepare your heart to observe it as we will explain in Part 3.

We arrived at the Lord's Supper at the end of our 40-day journey into the Most Holy Place (figuratively). That day was the first day of the 1290 days, which began at sunset Thursday, April 5, 2012. The last of the 1290 days will end at the close of Sabbath, October 17, 2015, when the door of the ark will have been closed.

Jesus, Our Example

How did we "take away" the daily sacrifice? In three ways, just like how Jesus "took away" the type in three ways. First of all, by publishing The Clock of God in Orion we show the intercession of Jesus for his people that is taking place right now in heaven. This corresponds to the slaying of the daily sacrificial lamb. The Orion message shows by the wounds in the limbs of our Lord how he has pled his blood for the sins of the Church. It is a personal message for each one of us: do we cherish the same spirit as our forefathers who rejected Christ?

Secondly, in the articles series titled Shadows of the Future, the numbers of the sacrifices are deciphered to show us the duration of the plagues. The real "taking away" happened with the publishing of the countdown to the beginning date of the plagues along with The Vessel of Time presentation. We "took away" the mystery of the sacrificial animals, as the prophecy pertains to our day. It is precisely the beginning of the plagues that marks the time when 144000 people will have been completely purified of sin and will live during the plagues without an intercessor before God.

Finally, and most importantly, we understand the full meaning of our high calling to serve as witnesses for the Father in His trial, and the consequences to the entire universe if we should fail. As we studied the Word, we found ourselves in it just like how Jesus recognized himself in the scriptures. We understand our role, as he understood his. It was this recognition that caused us to pledge our vows to be faithful to the Father, no matter what the cost. After our Lord's Supper here in Paraguay on the same Jewish day we even realized that we might die in the fire balls, and we accepted that "cup" if that is what it would require for us to be faithful to the Father and to the universe to give this message.

It was love that finally took away the daily. It is love that drives us to continue this ministry. It is love that motivates us to study and share the light we are receiving, even to readers that mock and scorn. We left our homes, our comforts, some of us our families, to do this and are even willing to sacrifice our very lives if necessary to fulfill our commission.

Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. (John 15:13)

Preparation for Service

We represent both the beginning and the end of Jesus' ministry. As we are beginning to lead the 144000 into service, we had to go through three tests just like Jesus met three tests in the wilderness at the beginning of his ministry. The first test for us was which one we would esteem more: man's bread or God's bread.

But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. (Matthew 4:4)

In order to enter our “restaurant” we had to first recognize Jesus in the constellation of Orion. This required us to distinguish between man’s opinions and the Word of God. By and large the majority of Adventists failed the first test because they savored the “no time-setting” bread of man’s imagination more than the Bread of Life Himself standing in Orion.

We ate a long time in our “restaurant” before our little disappointment with regard to what took place on February 27 at the beginning of the 1335 days. It tested whether we really believed and assimilated the messages of Orion and the High Sabbaths, or whether we were just going along eating man’s ideas because they tasted good. We who endured found the following words of Sister White to be true:

The season of distress and anguish before us will require a faith that can endure weariness, delay, and hunger—a faith that will not faint though severely tried. The period of probation is granted to all to prepare for that time. Jacob prevailed because he was persevering and determined. His victory is an evidence of the power of importunate prayer. All who will lay hold of God’s promises, as he did, and be as earnest and persevering as he was, will succeed as he succeeded. Those who are unwilling to deny self, to agonize before God, to pray long and earnestly for His blessing, will not obtain it. Wrestling with God—how few know what it is! How few have ever had their souls drawn out after God with intensity of desire until every power is on the stretch. When waves of despair which no language can express sweep over the suppliant, how few cling with unyielding faith to the promises of God. {GC 621.2}

The year and day of Jesus’ coming is indeed a beautiful promise of God, and those of us who clung to that promise endured delay and spiritual hunger for better understanding.

For the second test, Jesus was taken to the pinnacle of the earthly temple. Our study of the High Sabbaths published in the article The Vessel of Time on Sunday, April 1 reveals the history of the earthly sanctuary of Adventism from 1841 to present. We are in 2012 at the pinnacle of that temple. The High Sabbath List confirms all the dates in Orion and includes much more information and detail.

*Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come. (Matthew 12:31-32)

The Son of man is represented by Orion, and those who have rejected Orion can be forgiven. But the evidence is so clear from the High Sabbaths that a person who rejects the message from their vantage point at the pinnacle of the temple, and still refuses to accept the message and repent in the face of such a clear and complimentary sign, has rejected the Holy Spirit to the point that there is no hope for them any longer.

Moreover also I gave them my sabbaths, to be a sign between me and them, that they might know that I am the LORD that sanctify them. (Ezekiel 20:12)

Jesus said unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. (Matthew 4:7)

Each test is sequential; those who don’t pass the earlier tests will not meet the later tests.

After we understood what really took place on February 27 and what would take place at the end of the 40 days, we recognized our duty to come together for the Lord’s Supper, just like the Israelites were supposed to come together to Jerusalem every year for Passover. John’s invitation to observe the Lord’s Supper at his farm in Paraguay was the third test, as many of us including myself had to leave every worldly thing behind in the full knowledge that circumstances might make it impossible to return.

Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. (Matthew 4:8-10)

Many of us faced terrible problems just to come together in Paraguay for the Lord's Supper. Some of us had to leave our families & homes, let go of all belongings and worldliness, and even let go of cherished relationships. For me personally, this test of whether I would cherish more the things of this world or the things of heaven was a severe one, but the answer still stands: "It is written:"

He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me. He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it. (Matthew 10:37-39)

Nothing we did was more than our Lord. He also gave up his home, family, and job to fulfill his ministry. Sister White, a mother of several children, also placed God's cause in its rightful place:

Although the cares that came upon us in connection with the publishing work and other branches of the cause involved much perplexity, the greatest sacrifice I was called to make in connection with the work was to leave my children to the care of others. {1T 101.3}

This three-part warning is coming from the leaders of God's remnant movement to call the 144000 witnesses from among the churches, so that the 144000 can in turn give the final message of warning to the entire world. As the 144000 read our experiences and trials, they will count the cost and be strengthened to endure their own trials in giving their life fully to God's cause.

The 1290 days started with our being "ready" to properly observe the Lord's Supper in full consciousness of our work. During this timeframe the saints will give their witness for the Father. At the end of the 1290 days on Sabbath, October 17, 2015, the "ark door" will shut seven days before the plagues begin on the High Sabbath of October 24, 2015 to signal our liberation from Babylon.

Conclusion

We stress that we are not prophets and our understanding is growing day-by-day as the Holy Spirit leads. We thought the big disaster event would begin at the Lord's Supper on April 5 and published public warnings accordingly. Again, we took the safe course. Our experience through the whole Passion Week and after has paralleled the experience of Jesus and the disciples.

We experienced our own personal "garden of Gethsemane". But we kept studying and praying, with several of the group staying awake in continuous prayer and study until better understanding came. This new light shined on us in our Gethsemane experience like the angel that strengthened Jesus in the garden. We realized that we are walking in the experience of Jesus like no group has ever done before.

As it turned out, on Friday morning we received many mocking e-mails about the message. This corresponds to the insults Jesus received during his mockery of a trial on Friday morning. We even realized that the ministry would "die" with Jesus if the fire balls would not come by the time Jesus died about the ninth hour, and so it was. John shut down the website about the ninth hour for that reason.

As we continued to study and seek understanding of our experiences, the Holy Spirit helped us to see clearly again. We understood that the beginning of the 1290 days was not the beginning of the abomination of desolation, but the prerequisite event that took away the daily sacrifice. After the daily sacrifice was taken away, the abomination could be set up any time after that. Like the angel of the Lord that lightened the sky at the resurrection of Jesus, this new light on the 1290 days “resurrected” our ministry and the website was brought back up on Sunday to give our final warning.

But why was the taking away of the daily sacrifice the prerequisite for the abomination? God was waiting for a long time for his people to be ready:

Christ is waiting with longing desire for the manifestation of Himself in His church. When the character of the Saviour shall be perfectly reproduced in His people, then He will come to claim His own. It is the privilege of every Christian, not only to look for, but to hasten, the coming of our Lord. Were all who profess His name bearing fruit to His glory, how quickly the whole world would be sown with the seed of the gospel! Quickly the last great harvest would be ripened, and Christ would come. {CT 324.3}

The period has begun during which Satan will persecute God’s people without restraint. It began because the faithful leaders were ready. Are you ready too?

Three times Jesus trembled and prayed and asked if it were possible to avoid the cup. Three times he surrendered His will to the Father. It has been hard for us to give these warnings, especially in the face of ridicule and disbelief, and we have counted every earthly thing loss to do it. We gave two warnings so far, one for February 27, and another for April 5. We have one more warning to give in the third part of this series.

The 1260 Days of Daniel 12

All Hands on Deck

In regard to the Passover, God requires full participation. When God brought Israel out of Egypt, there was a clear difference between God's people and the peoples of the world. That difference was demonstrated by the obedience of those who put blood on their doorposts and were "passed over," while those who didn't suffered the destroyer's vengeance.

All the congregation of Israel shall keep it. (Exodus 12:47)

Three times in a year shall all thy males appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he shall choose; in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles: and they shall not appear before the LORD empty: (Deuteronomy 16:16)

The Passover was so important that God gave Moses a special rule requiring them to keep the Passover in the second month if there was a special reason why they were not able to keep it in the first month.

And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man of you or of your posterity shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be in a journey afar off, yet he shall keep the passover unto the LORD. The fourteenth day of the second month at even they shall keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. They shall leave none of it unto the morning, nor break any bone of it: according to all the ordinances of the passover they shall keep it. (Numbers 9:9-12)

A New Reign

There were a couple of times in Bible history when the second-month Passover rule was put into effect. One story in particular is a vivid example for us.

Ahaz was a wicked king and led the kingdom into apostasy. He represents the current leaders of the Church organization, and indeed the Church has reached total apostasy. His son Hezekiah was a good king, and we can see that by his first actions:

He in the first year of his reign, in the first month, opened the doors of the house of the LORD, and repaired them. And he brought in the priests and the Levites, and gathered them together into the east street, And said unto them, Hear me, ye Levites, sanctify now yourselves, and sanctify the house of the LORD God of your fathers, and carry forth the filthiness out of the holy place. (2 Chronicles 29:3-5)

This is our story. In the first part of this article, we showed how we had received the candlestick of authority from God the Father. The Ahaz of Adventism is spiritually DEAD! We (represented by Hezekiah) have been authorized as the new leaders of the church, and we are doing the same good work Hezekiah did at the beginning of his reign.

Just like Hezekiah opened the doors of the temple, we published The Vessel of Time so the abominations in the Church can be seen for what they really are, and corrected. Each one who reads it while looking at the nail prints in Orion will have an opportunity to come to terms with these issues in his own heart, and repent.

And they gathered their brethren, and sanctified themselves, and came, according to the commandment of the king, by the words of the LORD, to cleanse the house of the LORD. And the priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD, to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD into the court of the house of the LORD. And the Levites took it, to carry it out abroad into the brook Kidron. (2 Chronicles 29:15-16)

Kidron was the brook where they ground up idols into dust.

And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, that God had prepared the people: for the thing was done suddenly. (2 Chronicles 29:36)

We have no more time to loose than Hezekiah did! Has God been preparing your heart for this?

Take note of the day when the temple sanctification was completed:

Now they began on the first day of the first month to sanctify, and on the eight day of the month came they to the porch of the LORD: so they sanctified the house of the LORD in eight days; and in the sixteenth day of the first month they made an end. (2 Chronicles 29:17)

It took until Nissan 16 to make an end of the cleaning. This is already past time to observe Passover, and they even had to organize and sanctify the rest of the people too. They were in such an apostate state of affairs, they could not get cleaned up and ready fast enough to observe Passover in the first month.

In our group here in Paraguay we were worshipping early Easter Sunday morning and realized that we had not made a conscious effort to humble ourselves and confess our faults one to another. Of course we were in harmony during all our activities surrounding the Lord's Supper, but a special time of deliberate confession and forgiveness amongst ourselves was lacking. It wasn't until that Sunday morning that we actually "finished" all our cleansing, and what day do you suppose that was on the Hebrew calendar? It was Nissan 16, the Easter Sunday after our Lord's Supper on Nissan 14 (Passover).

If we, the leaders (or priests) of the Church finished the cleansing too late, there was certainly not time to sanctify the rest of the Church for that Lord's Supper!

The Call

Friends, do you understand that we are in an emergency situation? The Church is in total apostasy and the enemies of God are far in advance! What did Hezekiah do to meet his emergency?

And Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the Passover unto the LORD God of Israel. For the king had taken counsel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keep the Passover in the second month. For they could not keep it at that time, because the priests had not sanctified themselves sufficiently, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem. And the thing pleased the king and all the congregation. So they established a decree to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beersheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the Passover unto the LORD God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a long time in such sort as it was written. (2 Chronicles 30:1-5)

We also took counsel together in study and prayer. A few days after our Lord's Supper here in Paraguay, after one of our leaders had returned to his distant home we saw the Holy Spirit working with us wonderfully. In answer to our prayers for understanding, we received on the same day, at the same time, in different parts of the world, the same inspiration from this story of Hezekiah!

We realized from the above verses that our duty is to “send letters” to all Israel to keep the Lord’s Supper in the second month the proper way at the proper time. That is the purpose of this three-part warning: to gather together the remnant who will yet serve the Lord, to dedicate themselves to Him anew. These articles need to go to the entire population of the Church (from Beersheba even to Dan) for them to come together to observe the Lord’s Supper at the correct time. This is for people of all denominations, not just Adventists!

The second-month Passover is the key confirmation of the beginning of the 1260 days: since the church was not properly prepared, God’s grace allowed these last 30 days past the beginning of the 1290. This second-month Passover is now the time when those in God’s Church who’s hearts God has been preparing should receive the body and blood of the Lord. Those who don’t have His blood on the doorposts of their heart will not be protected from the destroyer.

Grace, Grace, Grace!

How long will God’s patience last? Is there no end to His grace?

The men of that generation were not all, in the fullest acceptation of the term, idolaters. Many professed to be worshipers of God. They claimed that their idols were representations of the Deity, and that through them the people could obtain a clearer conception of the divine Being. This class were foremost in rejecting the preaching of Noah. As they endeavored to represent God by material objects, their minds were blinded to His majesty and power; they ceased to realize the holiness of His character, or the sacred, unchanging nature of His requirements. As sin became general, it appeared less and less sinful, and they finally declared that the divine law was no longer in force; that it was contrary to the character of God to punish transgression; and they denied that His judgments were to be visited upon the earth. Had the men of that generation obeyed the divine law, they would have recognized the voice of God in the warning of His servant; but their minds had become so blinded by rejection of light that they really believed Noah’s message to be a delusion. {PP 95.3}

This is our third warning! Will you mock and ridicule again, when our earlier errors were really God’s grace to you?

Many at first appeared to receive the warning; yet they did not turn to God with true repentance. They were unwilling to renounce their sins. During the time that elapsed before the coming of the Flood, their faith was tested, and they failed to endure the trial. Overcome by the prevailing unbelief, they finally joined their former associates in rejecting the solemn message. Some were deeply convicted, and would have heeded the words of warning; but there were so many to jest and ridicule, that they partook of the same spirit, resisted the invitations of mercy, and were soon among the boldest and most defiant scoffers; for none are so reckless and go to such lengths in sin as do those who have once had light, but have resisted the convicting Spirit of God. {PP 95.2}

Will you take part with the scoffers and gainsayers?

Or will you follow the counseled course with us: to renounce our sin, heed the invitations of mercy, heed the words of warning, and endure the trial before us. We need to obey the divine law, and realize that God does punish transgression! (He often does it using our enemies as His agents.)

From the Cross to the Slaughter

In 31 A.D., Jesus entered Jerusalem to a king's welcome, but the chosen people did not want him. The disciples held a very special Passover with their Lord that year, and the same day He was crucified. After that time there was a short space for repentance, and then the Gospel went to the Gentiles and Israel was forsaken. They did not know that their fate had been sealed. At another Passover a few years later, while bursting with people the city was besieged and eventually destroyed. The pre-condition for the abomination of desolation was fulfilled by Jesus in 31 A.D., they sealed their fate in 34 A.D. with the stoning of Stephen, and the massive slaughter finally came in 70 A.D.

On April 5, 2012 the new leaders of the Church participated in a very special Lord's Supper, too. In our own way, we went through the experiences of our Lord. This warning is Stephen's last sermon to Israel, and its reception will seal fates. Will you stone us, like they stoned Stephen? Or consent to it like Saul? Or will you repent and cry out "What must I do to be saved?" At the second Lord's Supper on May 5, 2012 the anti-typical "Jerusalem" will seal its fate. This is the beginning of the 1260 days.

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:7)

A time (360) + times (360 + 360) + an half (180) = 1260 days.

They have dealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children: now shall a month devour them with their portions. (Hosea 5:7)

The above verse from Hosea confirms what we already learned from Hezekiah that the 1260 days would begin exactly a month (or 30 days) after the 1290 began, at the close of Sabbath, May 5, 2012.

That is a High Sabbath (the fourth Omer Sabbath leading up to Pentecost) and it would be a good day to make confessions of faults one to another, study, and pray earnestly for God's acceptance so that the destroyer will PASS-OVER our lives. The Lord's Supper should be held that evening. The next three days should be made a time of watchful prayer.

Our Experience

This year, the Passover feasts landed on the same days of the week as they did the year of the crucifixion. (In the second month Passover, however, the days of the week will be different.) On Thursday evening we gathered in the house and prepared our hearts in anticipation. We expected disaster to strike that night during our Lord's Supper. Each of us took a few moments to re-affirm the vows we made some weeks prior in our private study group. Here is an example declaration of intent before God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit:

I, _____, believe that I have to the best of my knowledge and consciousness ordered my life in a way that I want to ask the Father for permission to testify for Him. I am the husband/wife of one believing wife/husband (or unmarried, etc.) and not living in adultery, and I order my house by the standards of the Bible and the way it was explained to us by the Spirit of Prophecy. The first priority in my life is God, and not even my love for my spouse or family is greater than my obligation that I recognize from the light that I have experienced through the Holy Spirit. I am aware that I could be tried in all things, as it has happened to Job. I know that because of the things that have to happen now it would be better to be laid to the grave and that the survivors will envy the dead. Still, I want to face my responsibilities and follow the example that my Redeemer and Savior, Jesus Christ, has given me, and show other people and the entire universe the wonderful and righteous character of God and His Law.

I declare irrevocably that I consider the Law of God to be just and that I want to keep it. I ask from my intercessor Jesus the strength to achieve this, and I ask from the Father the strength to endure the time of the plagues without an intercessor. I pray for my people, the individual Seventh-day Adventists, that we will still be able to find a great number of them, who will join us, that the many martyrs on the long road to these last days will not have died in vain, but above all that my personal Savior Jesus Christ will not have lived, died, and risen on the third day in vain. I pray also for that part of God's people which still live in Babylon, that they might hear the Loud Cry which will be sounded by the 144,000 soon and that we may be granted the grace to comfort these people with hope for their final journey. I pray to the Father for the grace of the latter rain, so that we can perform this task and I am ready to be shown by him each hidden or open sin, which might still be making it impossible for me to become a truly pure vessel. I believe that with God's help, I will be able to stand in the time of plagues without an intercessor, because I believe that God's power for salvation is unlimited. This I testify and declare in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. AMEN.

In our group, both men and women have given their vows. God's original plan in Eden was for both the man and woman to be his witnesses, but because of sin God placed the woman under the man's rule. As we approach Eden Restored in the judgment of the living and after the judgment of the dead, when the 144000 will have been completely sanctified (purged of sin), there is no longer any reason for the woman to be under the rule of the man. Each stands individually at the witness stand.

Prior to dividing men and women for foot-washing, we read some verses and discussed what the real lesson is: that none of us (whether leaders or otherwise) are higher or lower. The servant is not greater than his master, and since Jesus, the highest, made himself the lowest of all there is no room whatsoever for any of us to see ourselves higher or lower than one another. This applies not only among ourselves as leaders, but also as we go out to teach the 144000, and they in turn as they encourage others. We are all equal benefactors of the grace of Jesus.

After washing each other's feet, we gathered at the table for the supper. The atmosphere was sacred, as if Jesus was there at the table with us. Prayers were said, hymns were sung, and verses were read. John broke the unleavened bread into substantial pieces and we enjoyed a full glass of grape juice. It was a meal together enjoyed with dearest friends.

Afterward, seeing that "nothing happened" yet, we read sections from "Desire of Ages" to help us think on what took place that night after Jesus ate supper with his disciples. It was a very trying time for us as we went through this first disappointment of the weekend. Some of our group stayed up in continuous study and prayer until better understanding came as to when the event was to be expected. At last, rays of light strengthened us like the angel Gabriel that appeared to Jesus to strengthen him:

And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord GOD, that I will cause the sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day: And I will turn your feasts into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation; and I will bring up sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head; and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day. (Amos 8:9-10)

The above verse gave us evidence that the big event would be synchronous with the earthquake and darkness that surrounded the crucifixion. This gave us a little hope, and we slept.

The next morning, Friday, we received many mocking and scolding e-mails, like the jeering crowd that ridiculed our Lord at his trial that same morning. Did these gainsayers not know that they were slighting the last dying drops of Mercy from a God of Justice and Vengeance? In spite of all that, we remained committed to our cause and were even willing to lay down our very lives in the fire-ball event if that is what was necessary to fulfill our commission.

Again, after “nothing happened” at the crucifixion hour, we were in the throes of disappointment and confusion all over again. This was our second disappointment for the weekend. John shut down the website, and we all went back into prayer for more light. The following Sabbath morning, we worshipped in our chapel. John’s sermon recapped our disappointments, then transitioned into new light, grand and glorious indeed. His sermons are “led by the Spirit” not pre-written, and the Holy Spirit truly blessed us with a High Sabbath’s blessing that day.

The Mightiest of the Heavenly Host

The angel Gabriel that strengthened Jesus in Gethsemane is the same angel that returned on Sunday morning to call Him from the grave. Jesus is our example or “type”. If the 144,000 are His pure and spotless anti-type, what could be the anti-type of Gabriel? Let us read a fascinating quote from Sister White on the subject:

“And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven.” Clothed with the panoply of God, this angel left the heavenly courts. The bright beams of God’s glory went before him, and illuminated his pathway. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow: and for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men.”
{DA 779.2}

The next paragraph goes on to describe this angel as the “mightiest” of the Lord’s host. Let’s compare that with the angel that strengthens the 144,000 for their witness:

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. (Revelation 18:1)

Do you see the connection? The outpouring of the Holy Spirit without measure is represented by the angel in Revelation 18, which is the anti-type to the “mightiest” of the Lord’s host that called Jesus from death back to life.

And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. (Revelation 18:2)

The angel decries the fall of Babylon double, because we are making the second cry in like manner as William Miller and his company made the first cry.

We feasted on this new understanding and met early before dawn on Sunday morning to await the fire balls for the third time. We sang, we confessed, we prayed, we peeked out the windows, we sang. Dawn came. We worshipped a little more, and then waited a long while in morbid silence until one-by-one we quietly left the sanctuary.

This third disappointment was almost unbearable. We were beside ourselves. That day passed with difficulty, until rays of light slowly began to shine on our path again. As we discussed in Part 2, we realized that we were looking for the wrong event again, and we had to give the warning one more time. The website was turned on with a new countdown and a new warning.

Three times we were tried with disappointment. Three times Jesus hesitated to drink the cup. If Jesus had failed during just one of those hesitations, we would have been forever lost. If we had given up at any of those three disappointments, we would have failed in our mission.

This is an experience that we as leaders had to go through, but gladly the 144,000 will not have to go through it. Sister White, speaking not so much to the leaders as to the 144,000 says:

Time has not been a test since 1844, and it will never again be a test. {EW 74.2}

If we had failed in any one of our disappointments, this final warning would not have been given. Like Jesus, we reconciled to go through with our purpose, no matter the cost. This is the kind of faith that the 144,000 and the martyrs will need in order to witness faithfully for the Father.

And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth. (Revelation 11:3)

The Orion Message comprise one witness, and the Vessel of Time comprise the other. The power given to those who proclaim those messages is the Holy Spirit, the mightiest of the Lord's host.

The end of the 1260 days would be on the same day that the 1290 ends, and the same day the 144,000 sealed ones will figuratively enter the "ark" seven days before the plagues fall upon the earth. These periods end on that day because it is the plagues that bring a final end to Babylon, and to the weary efforts of the witnesses "clothed in sackcloth".

What Will Actually Happen?

We are not prophets, but here are some clues for consideration as to what to expect.

And he doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men, And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live. (Revelation 13:13-14)

From the above verse, we see that the fire comes down from heaven first, before the Sunday law is pressed by the people. In fact, it is what drives the people to want a Sunday law. Therefore, the first event we could reasonably expect on the evening of Saturday, May 5 is a world-wide disaster involving fire from heaven (fire balls). This could begin with or involve earthquakes, volcanoes, or other phenomena. During the destruction, it seems likely that there would be three days of darkness (perhaps from ash clouds and severed communications) after which the world would emerge with the headlines calling for Sunday laws, just like how after 9/11 the churches were packed. The next Sunday just happens to be the 13th of May, a favorite day for Marian apparitions to appear in past years and could probably be used again this year to bolster the desired Sunday law. The Sunday after that, the 20th of May, 2012, was marked symbolically in crop circles and could probably be the first legally mandated worship day. Of course I don't really know how events will transpire, but we do know one thing for sure: it will be worse than we can imagine.

The "time of trouble, such as never was," is soon to open upon us; and we shall need an experience which we do not now possess and which many are too indolent to obtain. It is often the case that trouble is greater in anticipation than in reality; but this is not true of the crisis before us. The most vivid presentation cannot reach the magnitude of the ordeal. In that time of trial, every soul must stand for himself before God. "Though Noah, Daniel, and Job" were in the land, "as I live, saith the Lord God, they shall deliver neither son nor daughter; they shall but deliver their own souls by their righteousness." Ezekiel 14:20. {GC 622.4}

Many of us have already had to take a stand without even the support of family members or friends, let alone the support of saints like Job or Daniel. As you face your own trials, remember that others have gone before you. And there is One who was the Forerunner for all of us.

Conclusion

Although we are being led by the Holy Spirit, we are still just human. If nothing visible happens at the beginning of the 1260 days, we will have to reevaluate this study, as there simply aren't any days left according to The Clock of God in Orion and The Vessel of Time! But the safe course is to give the warning.

So the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh even unto Zebulun: but they laughed them to scorn, and mocked them. (2 Chronicles 30:10)

We know the response to expect already. But remember, those who don't heed the warning will perish whether they are warned or not, but if we don't warn them, their blood will be on our hands. More importantly, there are a few that will take heed:

Nevertheless divers of Asher and Manasseh and of Zebulun humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem. (2 Chronicles 30:11)

Will you be among the laughers and scorners, or among those that humbled themselves and came?

"I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." "And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues." Revelation 18:1, 2, 4. ... Of Babylon, at the time brought to view in this prophecy, it is declared: "Her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." Revelation 18:5. She has filled up the measure of her guilt, and destruction is about to fall upon her. But God still has a people in Babylon; and before the visitation of His judgments these faithful ones must be called out, that they partake not of her sins and "receive not of her plagues." Hence the movement symbolized by the angel coming down from heaven, lightening the earth with his glory and crying mightily with a strong voice, announcing the sins of Babylon [the voice of God like many waters, announcing the sins of all the churches in Orion]. In connection with his message the call is heard: "Come out of her, My people." These announcements, uniting with the third angel's message, constitute the final warning to be given to the inhabitants of the earth. {GC 604.1}

Will you heed this final warning and pledge your life to God's service for these last days? There is nothing more important or more urgent than the crisis we face.

But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight. (Acts 1:8-9)

In the above verse, we find power (the Holy Spirit) is given to the witnesses (the 144000 and the martyrs) and they will demonstrate the Gospel in all the earth. One of the witnesses will testify with their sanctified life, while the other will testify with their blood. After their days of prophesying are over, their next sight will be the coming of Jesus on October 24, 2016.

It is the prayer of the Last Countdown ministry that as you follow the Lamb during this second-month Lord's Supper, you will fulfill your high calling and the very purpose of your existence which is to testify for the Father in His trial, and that you will receive the power of the Holy Ghost to give a solid defense of His Character and His Law, no matter the cost.

Babylon is fallen!

Summary and Clarification of the Beginning of the 1335, 1290, and 1260 Days

Background: The Great Disappointment

In 1843 and 1844, a series of disappointments took place because the Advent people were looking for the end of the world and for the earth to be cleansed by fire. Their understanding of Daniel 8:14 was in error as to the event. They interpreted "...Unto two thousand and three hundred days; then shall the sanctuary be cleansed" to mean that the earth (sanctuary) would be burned up (cleansed). After all of their careful and diligent studies to determine exactly when this major event would occur, they were greatly disappointed because nothing visible happened.

The faithful few of that group continued to pray and study and hold to their faith in how God had led them up to that point. Because they remained faithful, they discovered one of the fundamental doctrines of the Advent Movement, namely the Sanctuary Doctrine, which teaches all about the anti-typical Day of Atonement which began in the heavenly sanctuary on October 22, 1844. This was the true meaning of Daniel 8:14. In retrospect, it makes sense that the earth could not have been destroyed by fire before the judgment had taken place to decide what reward each person would receive.

Introduction: Our Little Disappointments

Looking back, we have followed in the shoes of the Millerites. We went through a series of disappointments from February through May because we were looking for another "cleansing by fire" in the prophesied fireball event. Our understanding of the time prophecies of Daniel 12 was in error as to the events. We interpreted the commencement of each of the time periods to mean that the fireballs would fall on that date. After all of our careful and diligent and (I must add) Spirit-led studies to determine exactly when these periods would begin, we were a "little" disappointed that nothing visible happened to confirm any of our studies.

Through it all, our small group has remained faithful and we have continued to pray and study and trust in how the Holy Spirit has led us up to this point. Because we remained faithful, we discovered precious truths about what has happened and is happening in the heavenly sanctuary in these unprecedented days, which is the counterpart to what the early Adventists learned. In other words, our studies complete the light of the Sanctuary Doctrine that began after the Great Disappointment of 1844.

We learned from our little disappointments that we have been too focused on earthly things, when our minds should be engaged in heavenly things, particularly what is going on in the heavenly sanctuary. Just as the prophecy in Daniel 8:14 pertained to heavenly things, so the start of the 1335, 1290, and 1260 days also pertain to heavenly things. The prophecies are for us to understand what has happened in the heavenly courts where Jesus is working, not to tell us when Satan will wreak havoc on the earth. As Adventists, we talk a lot about following Jesus into the Most Holy Place. Shouldn't our thoughts then also be in the Most Holy Place?

The time prophecies in Daniel establish the beginning and end of kingdoms, but they do not specify exactly what those kingdoms will do and when they will do it.

Daniel answered and said, Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wisdom and might are his: And he changeth the times and the seasons: he removeth kings, and setteth up kings: he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding: He revealeth the deep and secret things: he knoweth what is in the darkness, and the light dwelleth with him. (Daniel 2:20-22)

God announces His doings, not the doings of the enemy. The fire that comes down from heaven is the doings of the beast power, not of God. I will tell you in this article just who is announcing the fireballs. But that is not the subject of this article; our focus is to show what exactly happened in the heavenly sanctuary that set the stage for the kingdom of Babylon to perform its final drama for the appointed “time, times, and a half”.

The 12 Tribes, Past and Present

In the beginning of the story of ancient Israel, Jacob had 12 sons. Those twelve sons multiplied into the twelve tribes of Israel. God chose to work out his covenant with those twelve. After all of the rebellion of Israel culminating in the rejection of the Messiah, Israel was cut off and Jesus started his new church from the remnant believers of Israel.

Jesus continued the covenant with his 12 disciples. Those twelve went forth in power, preaching the gospel to the world. They became the heads of the Christian church, and multiplied the gospel message among people the world over.

After the Great Disappointment, there were again about a dozen who stayed faithful. Those elders of the Seventh-day Adventist church led an organization that multiplied into the great Christian denomination it is today. However, the church (like ancient Israel) has reached a state of total apostasy, and the Holy Spirit has led another faithful remnant (of the remnant) to take the pure gospel to a confused world in these last days.

...and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel. Of each tribe were sealed twelve thousand. (From Revelation 7:4-5)

The Holy Spirit has led 12 people to be leaders for the new church of the 144,000. Each one will be the leader of one “tribe” of 12,000 according to the above verses. Once the power described in Revelation 18:1 comes down from heaven, these twelve will “multiply” and light the whole earth with the character of God. After that, the wicked and rebellious people of the world will be forever cut-off by the Last Plagues and Jesus will return.

The 24 Elders of Ancient Israel

Ancient Israel was made up of twelve tribes, who were the descendants of the twelve sons of Jacob. The original “elders” of Israel are the twelve sons. Those twelve elders of Israel established the foundation of the Israelite nation and faith. From that time the nation grew and went through all its colorful history until at the end of it all, when the Messiah came, he called twelve disciples to represent the remnant. These were the last twelve elders of the Israelite nation. There were twelve elders at the start, and twelve elders at the close.

The first elders of Israel had the role of establishing the faith of the Israelite tribes. Their life experiences became the heritage of the nation and the foundation for their faith. Although they experienced a profound conversion experience and devotion to God, they did not see the promise of the Messiah come to fulfillment.

The last elders of Israel, the twelve disciples, had a different role. Through the faith of their fathers, they recognized Jesus as the Messiah and followed his call on their life. They walked with, talked with, and touched the Great Promise to Israel. These “last elders” of the tribes of Israel were changed by their walk with Jesus and they were afterward filled with the Holy Spirit and preached the gospel with power.

The 24 Elders in the Throne Room

As ancient Israel was born of twelve sons, so the Advent Movement was born after the Great Disappointment by twelve people. Notice the following:

As we trace the story of the beginning of Sabbathkeeping among the early Adventists, we go to a little church in the township of Washington in the heart of New Hampshire, the state that adjoins Maine on the east and whose western boundary is within sixty miles of the New York state line. Here the members of an independent Christian church in 1843 heard and accepted the preaching of the Advent message. It was an earnest group. Into their midst came a Seventh Day Baptist, Rachel Oakes, who distributed tracts setting forth the binding claims of the fourth commandment. Some in 1844 saw and accepted this Bible truth. One of their number, William Farnsworth, in a Sunday morning service, stood to his feet and declared that he intended to keep God's Sabbath of the fourth commandment. A dozen others joined him, taking their stand firmly on all of God's commandments. They were the first Seventh-day Adventists. {EW xx.2}

Like the twelve sons of Israel, these Adventist "elders" established the foundation of the Advent church and faith. They carefully and painstakingly hammered out the foundational doctrines of the church. The church has likewise grown and has gone through its own "colorful" history until at the end of it all, Jesus is now about to return.

What happened with the twelve disciples of Jesus is likewise a type for the last days of Adventism. Out of the remnant believers of Israel who looked for the coming Messiah, Jesus chose twelve leaders. Likewise, out of the remnant believers of Adventism who look for the Second Coming, Jesus through Orion has chosen twelve leaders. These "last elders" of Adventism are the prophesied leaders of the 144,000 (Revelation 7:4 and following). They are the twelve stars in the crown (SDA Church) of the woman (Christendom) of Revelation 12:1. Each one leads his "tribe" of 12,000.

The first elders of Adventism had the role of establishing the faith of the Advent Movement. Their experiences through the Great Disappointment and the careful working out of their faith became the heritage of Adventism and the foundation of our faith (like the twelve sons of Jacob). Although the Adventist pioneers went through profound experiences and were devoted to God, they did not see the promise of the Second Coming. All of this parallels the experience of the first elders of ancient Israel.

The last elders of Adventism, the twelve "tribe leaders", have a different role. Through the faith of the fathers of Adventism, they recognized in Orion that Jesus is coming and followed his call. They will see the promise of the Second Coming unfold before their eyes, just as the apostles "handled" Jesus. These "last elders" of Adventism were changed by their experiences with Jesus in Orion and they will be filled with the Holy Spirit to powerfully brighten the world with the character of God in like manner as the apostles.

From the Orion study, we already deciphered that the 24 elders represent the 24 hours of the great Day of Atonement. But who are they? Could they include the sons of Israel, or the twelve disciples? Indeed not, because the Orion Clock doesn't start ticking until 1844! The 24 elders must be the elders of Adventism, all of whom served after the Investigative Judgment began in 1844.

The Role of the 24 Elders

What does it mean to wear a crown? Are not crowns worn by kings? Consider who is wearing crowns in the following verse:

And round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold. (Revelation 4:4)

Therefore, the 24 elders are actually "kings" in a sense. This is made even clearer, and elaborated further as follows:

And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints. And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth. (Revelation 5:8-10)

Again, we see that the 24 elders sing a "new" song, saying (among other things) that the Lamb (Jesus) made them "kings and priests" unto God. They also say that their "reign" is on the earth. So the 24 elders are kings for God who reign on the earth.

Now, why do you suppose God has kings to reign on the earth, besides His Son? We have already explained in the article titled Our High Calling that God is on trial and that it is necessary for created beings to serve as witnesses to show the court that the Law of God can indeed be kept, thus refuting Satan's allegation. All of the 144,000 will serve as witnesses, but the 24 elders in particular also serve as kings. Still, what do these kings actually do?

From antiquity, kings have fulfilled the role of a judge. Kings would sit in the gate of a city, or on a throne in their special place of judgment, and anyone who had a matter of dispute could come and bring their case before the kings. Remember that in the Great Controversy, it is now God who is on trial, and Satan who must be judged. This was prophesied in the following verse concerning Satan:

Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightness: I will cast thee to the ground, I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee. (Ezekiel 28:17)

The above verse speaks of God bringing Satan before "kings" to settle the matter between them. You see, every trial has not only witnesses but also a judge. Neither the Father nor the Son can serve as the judge against Satan for the obvious reason that they are not neutral to the case. It is human beings, who were created "neutral" after the Great Controversy began, who will serve as "kings" to judge Satan.

Therefore, in their kingly capacity the 24 elders also fill the role of "judges" to pronounce judgment during their phase of the court proceedings.

The Key of David

The careful reader might have already noticed the clue in Revelation 5:10 that the 24 elders are not physically in heaven:

*And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.
(Revelation 5:10)

These kings, although they pronounce judgment in the heavenly courtroom, actually reign on the earth. Have you ever heard of anyone in the Bible that had authority to pronounce eternal judgment on people of the earth? Consider:

And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. (Matthew 16:19)

The twelve disciples were given the authority to pronounce eternally binding judgment on the people of the earth. But did they really do it? Consider the example of Ananias and Sapphira recorded in Acts 5:1-11, when Peter judged them for lying and they dropped dead! Consider also the miracles they did:

And by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people; ...insomuch that they brought forth the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow some of them. There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one. (From Acts 5:12,15-16)

Keep in mind that miraculous healing was not always only a physical change. Jesus tells us that sometimes the physical healing is also an act of pardon in the heavenly court:

Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk? (Mark 2:9)

Therefore, because the twelve apostles of the Lamb healed “every one” that came to them, they in so doing acted as mouthpieces for Christ who forgave sins, thus binding and loosing in heaven as well as on earth.

Remember that the twelve apostles are a type for the twelve leaders of the 144,000.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. (John 14:12)

Certainly we can say that the apostles did great works, but did they do “greater” works than Jesus? That would be difficult to argue! However, in the article Our High Calling we explain what the “greater works” really are... And it is the last generation who does them, again confirming that 12 of the 24 elders are the leaders of the 144,000.

The figurative church of Philadelphia is given an open door into the Most Holy Place:

And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth; I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name. (Revelation 3:7-8)

We understand that the churches represent spiritual states as well as historical periods. Philadelphia represents the brotherly love that the 144,000 will exhibit. Not only are they given an open door, but it is prophesied that they will be given the key of David itself, which is the authority to open and shut:

And the key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder; so he shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open. (Isaiah 22:22)

Who is this talking about? Verse 20 says “Eliakim the son of Hilkiah” is the one upon whose shoulder the key will be laid. Hilkiah was the man who found the Book of the Law in the temple in Josiah’s day. This prophecy pertains to the Advent people, who also re-discovered the Law of God while searching the heavenly sanctuary. It applies to the pioneers, but also to the last “elders” who through the Clock of God in Orion also re-discovered the pillars of God’s Law while searching the heavenly sanctuary.

The key allows the one who has it to open and shut the door. Namely, the door of grace! In other words, the ones who have the key also have the authority (like the disciples of Jesus) to bind and loose here on earth, with eternal consequences. They have the authority to pronounce judgment on the people of the earth, just like the apostles did.

These have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy: and have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will. (Revelation 11:6)

This again shows that the 24 elders serve as judges during the phase of the judgment they attend.

The 1260 Days: What Really Happened

The 1260 days began when we held our second-month Lord’s Supper. That event represented the end of our efforts to warn the church and call the leaders of the 144,000 together, and therefore the end of the grace period for the Church to assemble for the Lord’s Supper. Many prayers ascended on behalf of the leaders, those who will be among the 144,000, and the martyrs.

Properly cleansed this time with the blood of Jesus on the doorposts of their hearts, the leaders finally entered into the Most Holy Place (figuratively). They took their seats with the other twelve elders, making up the total of 24 elders. The new leaders risked all to answer Christ’s call. They did their duty to warn others of the close of probation, and they kept their faith through all of the trials and disappointments. The Judgment of the Living began.

And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swore by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half; and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shall be finished. (Daniel 12:7)

Here at the end of the 168-year Judgment of the Dead represented in symbols, the 3½-year Judgment of the Living has begun. The first twelve elders (the pioneers of Adventism) have uttered their judgments through the foundational doctrines and the testimonies of the church for the past 168 years, and now in addition the new elders have joined them for the new phase.

This understanding was confirmed to us by various dreams that believers have had. A dream from August 2011 contained the following clues:

I was in a rectangular room longer than wide....A mini orchestra was about to play consisting of strings in a semicircle to my left and brass in another semicircle adjacent to my right....The music is soft and beautiful....

This dream did not draw much attention at first, but when it was re-sent by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit and received the day before our second Lord’s Supper, its import became clear. We already knew from other evidences that the 24 elders were divided into two semicircles, and that only one semicircle was present until now. This dream confirmed to us clearly that it was at the beginning of the 1260 days that the full “orchestra” of 24 elders began to perform together in the Judgment of the Living. Just two weeks before our second Lord’s Supper, our brother was able to identify the event that he had seen in the dream. It was the birthday and farewell party, scheduled for the evening of May 5, 2012, for one of his relatives whom he had seen in his dream at this festival with the orchestra.

Right now, we are waiting for the outpouring of the Latter Rain, when we will receive the Holy Spirit and the power to light the earth with the character of God.

Summary of Events

A.D. 31 – The beginning of Jesus’ ministry in the heavenly sanctuary. Jesus began ministering in the Holy Place.

October 22, 1844 – The beginning of the Investigative Judgment. On this day, Jesus entered the Most Holy Place to begin His work of intercession and cleansing for us in front of the Father, who served as Judge.

February 27, 2012 – The beginning of the 1335 days. On this day, the Father left the Most Holy Place. The Father committed all judgment to Jesus, who remains in the Most Holy Place to serve as Judge as well as Intercessor. The Father’s departure from the Most Holy Place also marks the close of probation for the organized church and clears the way for it to be destroyed. At the same time, the small group of remnant leaders, the 12 last elders, figuratively entered the Holy Place, headed toward the Most Holy Place to begin their testimony as witnesses in the Father’s trial.

March 17, 2012 – The midpoint of the 40-days in the Holy Place. On this day, the little group of leaders figuratively “met” the Father at the half-way point going the opposite direction through the Holy Place. On this day, the Father transferred the candlestick of authority to the new leaders of the “last” remnant people.

April 6, 2012 – The beginning of the 1290 days. On this day, the Father exited the sanctuary, and we reached the door to the Most Holy Place. We observed the Lord’s Supper and took away all the mysteries of the “daily” through the articles we published. This was a 30-day process until the second-month Lord’s Supper, when the process of “taking away the daily” was completed.

May 6, 2012 – The beginning of the 1260 days. The 12 leaders entered into the Most Holy Place with the Key of David in hand and took their seats as judges with the other 12 of the 24 elders. The Judgment of the Living began.

May 20, 2012 – The last day of unleavened bread. This day marks the end of the second week of unleavened bread following our second-month Lord’s Supper after the pattern of Hezekiah (2 Chronicles 30).

Conclusion: Living in the Final Judgment

Dear reader, these are momentous times we live in. We are now in the period of judgment where living souls are being judged. Every thought, every action is weighed in the balances. Each will be held accountable in proportion to the favorable opportunities and privileges they have been given. Now! NOW is always the time to repent of your sins and avail yourself of the grace of Christ. Especially now in these last two-and-a-half years before the door of mercy for everyone will be closed forever at the commencement of the Last Plagues. I urge you to use every breath to glorify God during these final three-and-a-half years of earth’s history.

God allowed His people to experience the Great Disappointment of 1844 for a reason. Had they understood from the start that the event they looked for was not the Second Coming, there would have been no force behind the trumpet blast to warn the world of the impending judgment. Similarly, God allowed us to misunderstand the prophetic events in our day so that our trumpet blast would have a “certain sound” to effectively warn of the new judgment phase.

Satan is announcing his own plans. The dates of his grievous crimes (yes, the fireballs) are being announced all over the public media for anyone who is paying enough attention. Those who are “awake” already recognize that we are facing unprecedented changes in our world, in every realm. We believe that the enemy is working with all deceivableness to make the prophecies appear to fulfill on his schedule, confirming him as the savior of the world. Ground yourself in the messages sent by the Holy Spirit that we have presented, especially the Orion and the Vessel of Time which God gave as a sign to anchor us. Remember that the counterfeit must come before the real thing. Satan’s false plagues, as devastating as they are, cannot be the real plagues because they must come before the real plagues (which we know will be even greater!). Satan’s stupendous false appearance must come before the real Second Coming of Jesus otherwise he would not have an opportunity to come at all. Study to show yourselves approved, and be careful lest you be deceived! Know your high calling, and the consequences of failure.

Our prayer is that you will stay faithful during this time of “tarrying in Jerusalem” and that you will be blessed with the Holy Spirit without measure when the long-awaited but soon-to-come down-pouring of the Latter Rain falls upon God’s people.

The Message of the Fourth Angel

The New Light

OCTOBER 22, 2011 WAS THE 167th ANNIVERSARY OF THE BEGINNING OF THE INVESTIGATIVE JUDGMENT

On the same day, John Scotram informed the members of his ministry:
Dear Friends,

With this message, I am sending you a very unusual dream that I had last Sabbath morning. I told it to my wife before church, and I repeated it again in my sermon so that I wouldn't forget any details. Just before lunch, my wife left the house to feed the cows while I was warming up the food. When she came back, we got the good news that there was a beautiful bull calf born during our worship service. Since I always write down the date of birth of a calf, I looked up the date for the first time that day and recognized that it was the 22nd of October, 2011—the 167th Anniversary of the beginning of the investigative judgment. I think this makes the dream even more important. I called the dream: The Message of the Fourth Angel.

A Dream of John Scotram – Sabbath, 22nd of October 2011

In my dream, I see myself in a city that seems to be in a different time. I'm in a brisk, lively center of a small town, reminiscent of a time shortly before the arrival of electricity. I look down at myself and realize that I'm wearing strange clothes. They are all an antique brown color and the pants only go down to just below the knee, where they are bound together by a buckle. I wear black, finely polished leather shoes, like you cannot buy them anymore today. The leather is very thick and the shoes are of a homemade, craftwork quality. I have thick, wool socks on that scratch me a little. My upper garment resembles a tail coat and goes down under my buttocks. I realize that this is the normal clothing of many people around me, and I do not excite any attention in the crowd. I see gas lanterns everywhere on the square, and I am absolutely clear that I am in a short period before the introduction of electric lighting. The people around me all speak English and I notice that my mother tongue is English. (Everything that was said in my dream was in antiquated English, as it is no longer spoken, but I understood it.)

Then I feel a little hungry. I decide to visit one of the many food booths that are here in the town center. The booths are all built of rather coarse wood and are very primitive. Then my eye catches one that carries a large wooden sign over the booth. The inscription reads, "Hamburger." I realize now that this does not belong to the era in which I see myself translated to, but I am getting closer to the snack stand. Behind a wooden display table, which reaches up to the seller's and my belly height, I see a man of strange appearance. He is different than the people around me, who are of Caucasian origin like me, almost without exception. At first sight, he makes no trustworthy impression. But this impression changes later when he serves me. He has a very dark skin color, almost black, yet he has no traits of a black man, but reminds me more of an Arab. His hair is curly and raven-black, and falls in waves down to just below his shoulder level. I remember his face only vaguely.

He takes my order of a hamburger and then starts with the preparation, which goes completely differently than I expected. First, he takes a huge, round hamburger bun, which has a diameter of at least 12 inches, and he divides it into two halves without using a knife. The “cuts” look absolutely clean as if cut with a knife. I cannot explain how he did this “trick.” When he puts the two halves down on the big counter made of light colored wood, their respective outer side is down, and I see that the two halves have different shapes. The upper half of the hamburger bread is thinner and its cross section resembles a crescent moon (it is concave), while the bottom half is deeper and resembles a bowl.

After that, the man places two large bowls on the table, both of which correspond roughly to the size of the bowl-shaped base of the hamburger bread. In one bowl, I see a red sauce that makes me a little scared. The bowl is filled to the brim with this sauce and almost threatens to overflow. Somehow I know that this is no ordinary tomato sauce, but blood. But I do not stop the man—I know that I must accept this hamburger. In the other bowl, there are two large tomatoes, many lettuce leaves, and some green stuff, which I cannot remember in detail. But I know they are all vegetarian ingredients.

With lightning-fast speed, the man masterfully divides the two tomatoes into four tomato halves, again using only his hands and without a knife, and drapes them in the bottom half of the hamburger bread so that some space is spared in the midst. Then, like a whirlwind, the man takes the lettuce leaves one-by-one from the bowl and places them one after the other around the tomato halves into the lower part of the Hamburger bread, so that a circle of 24 lettuce leaves is formed. The only opening that is left is in the middle of the tomato halves. It all looks very decorative.

Then I notice that the man has a meat grill under the sales counter. It is a hot plate, on which I can see only one large steak of first grade beef. Skillfully, he flips it and it's ready. He puts the piece of meat in the middle of the upper half of the hamburger bread, and now I realize what the space between the tomato halves was intended for. When combining the top half of the hamburger bread with the bottom half, the piece of meat would fit exactly between the four tomato halves. The man tells me that only the red sauce can hold both bread halves together, and that we need the whole bowl of sauce to do it. I watch as the man fills the bottom half of the hamburger bread with the sauce and the whole bowl fits in. I no longer can see the lettuce leaves and tomato halves and the man assembles the giant hamburger fitting the upper half with the piece of meat into the space of the lower part. He hands the hamburger to me and I wonder what it costs. The man says, “If you like it, it costs nothing.”

I eat the hamburger and notice a strong taste like raw meat. I wonder that I eat it because I'm vegetarian, as a Seventh-day Adventist. While I eat the hamburger, my mind is enlightened. I understand at once, the meaning of the symbolism perfectly clearly, and that it is about “righteousness by faith,” which has two parts. One part has Jesus, and the other bigger part has us as His church. (The meat in the top half of the hamburger represents His body, while the vegetarian part in the bottom half represents the Adventist health message.) It is clearly about the Fourth Angel's Message, which I received in the last two weeks in two parts. After eating the hamburger, I understand at once, perfectly clearly that I have experienced something special and that now is the time that I should be shown more.

I sat down to eat at a table facing the snack bar in the open air. Then I see a man approaching, who is of Caucasian origin, and like me, he has only a little hair left on his head, although he is not yet very old. I think he's about 35 or 40 years old. He comes to my table and I see that he looks very, very sad. I feel sympathy and a friendly affection towards him, although I do not know him yet. He comes closer and sits naturally at my table without a question. I ask him why he is so sad, and he tells me that he has problems with his spiritual life. He has sought his entire life for Jesus, but could never find the complete truth. That made him so unhappy that he could not even find any comfort within his family anymore, and he did not understand the meaning of his life. Immediately I realize that this man needs the message that I have just received. I explain to him "righteousness by faith" and that it isn't true that at the cross, everything was finished. While I explain this to him with the illustration of the hamburger, emphasizing how great the task is for every individual in the church of God, I see his face beginning to shine. Both of his eyes shine and I see that he is happy now. We embrace and make an appointment for him to come next Sabbath to my church for worship. I know that he is not an Adventist, but he thinks like one and wants to live like one.

On the next Sabbath, I see myself standing in the foyer of a very large Adventist church. There are many people who talk in low voices. The men and women are all very well and respectably dressed. It is much quieter than in the Adventist congregations nowadays. I'm still in an era where there was no electricity. The hall is lit by gas lamps. Now I see my friend from the snack restaurant come to me. His face is not shining and he looks very sad again. I want to console him. He says, "Doubts were rising in me about whether the message about our mission can really be true. From where do you get the assurance that this is all true?" I look at him lovingly and say, "The whole Sacred Scriptures and the writings of Ellen White are full of confirmations." But he says, "I've read everything in these few days, but I cannot keep the wealth of information, it all seems to confuse me even more." Then I smile because I understand him, and tell him in my old English dialect, "My friend, you have not yet understood that the Scripture is condensed milk. How do you feel when you drink a quart of milk?" He replies, "Good and satisfied." I further ask, "How do you feel when you've drunk a quart of condensed milk?" He also smiles now and says, "Bad. I would probably throw up." "Yes," I say, "that's what has happened to you. You wanted to drink in a few days, the amount of condensed milk that corresponds to one or two gallons of normal milk. This is too much. Sometimes, you have to take a break to digest." I tell him again the symbolism of the hamburger and the importance of our task in the plan of salvation. His face now shines again.

While we were talking, I did not realize that other brothers and sisters in the foyer had become aware of us and heard our conversation. Suddenly I see myself surrounded by a fairly large group of brethren. Men and women almost rush on me. They are all so interested in the topic that I can hardly resist them. They push and knock me unintentionally to press everything out of me that I know. Although I'm pestered hard, I feel that this is a good thing. When I tell them everything, I see their faces lighting up also. All at once, they are full of joy! Many more beset me, but suddenly we hear a siren, and everyone must enter the "auditorium". An important event begins.

I say "auditorium" because, as I enter the hall of the Adventist church, I do not see myself in a normal church with wooden benches on a flat floor, but I am standing behind the back row of pews, which are arranged so that every next pew row is on a higher level than the one in front, like a lecture hall at a major university or a large conference hall of a convention center. I see all the pews filled, but no faces, since I stand behind everyone and am at the highest point of the room. Now I realize that my friend is standing to my left, and to his left is the director of this big congregation. The pews are curved and there are two banks of benches, which are separated in the middle by a staircase aisle that leads down to the podium. I know that the pews at the left are filled with Adventists, but when I look there, I see only darkness and cannot distinguish the bodies of the people. By contrast, I see the contours of the Adventists in the right bank pretty clearly.

On the podium, a woman begins to speak. She gives a very important sermon that I do not understand in detail. But I know that she is talking about what I've found, that the big topic is "righteousness by faith," and that this is the beginning of the light of the fourth angel. I am delighted as I see that many Adventists in the right pews begin to shine. Suddenly, an Adventist in very black clothing wants to get up in the second row and I know it's a "gainsayer" (opponent, interferer). (This word came to my mind so often in the dream that I want to emphasize it, leaving it even in the translations in its original form.) Then something happens which frightens me deeply. Suddenly, three Adventists in the church pew behind him pull out a pistol. I see that it is an antique pistol with only one shot. They hold the gun to the head of the gainsayer and shoot. When they pull the trigger, I do not hear a bang and see no fire or smoke. The head of the gainsayer, which I can only see from behind, falls to the right, and he is "dead." I see no blood and no wounds. He just does not move anymore. The woman kept talking the whole time unimpressed, and I see how the Adventists in the right pew bank shine more and more.

Then approximately in the middle of the rows, the same thing happens again. A gainsayer wants to get up and interrupt the woman and raise some stupid objections. Behind him, three Adventists aim their ancient guns at him and pull the trigger. No smoke, no bang, no fire, no wounds, but the head of the gainsayer falls on his right shoulder and he is silent.

Then I see a gainsayer directly in front of me. Immediately, the director, my friend, and I hold the same kind of pistol in our hands and shoot. Again, no sound, no wound, but the gainsayer is dead. That was the last one.

Then the woman on the podium makes a call to repentance and new surrender to the Lord Jesus with the new knowledge about our destiny. She asks all who want to surrender to God to come to the podium. All the Adventists from the right pew bank go down—all except the dead gainsayers. When I look to my left to the other pews, I notice that everyone who sat there before had left the hall. Suddenly, all of the Adventists at the podium turn to me, and the woman starts to lead them. They are coming up the stairs towards me with shining faces. I notice that they wish to show their gratitude to someone. But in no way do I want to be worshiped by them, so I want to flee. Doing this, I turn my head slightly to the right and at the wall behind me I see a giant, rough-cut cross, which had apparently been there all the time without me having noticed it.

Again, I turn to the crowd led by the woman, which is still getting closer to my friend, the director and I. But now I understand that they do not want to worship me, but fall on their knees before the cross. I wait until they have arrived to me and the woman falls down directly in front of me. At that moment, out of her hand slips a pistol with the same design as the others. Then I kneel down before the woman—not to pay homage to her, but to give respect and worship to Jesus, together with her. I'm so low on my knees, that my hands are touching the ground. Now I see that I have a pistol in each of my hands and I put them in front of the woman's pistol on the floor. My two pistols are now right in front of the woman's pistol and together, they form a triangle. My two pistols are placed in a way that the barrel of one points to the handle of the other.

After we all knelt together and thanked God for all His teachings and the new light, we stand up again. The woman says to myself, my friend and the director, that we now must make a permanent record of what we have experienced here today in this congregation. We must go now to the office of the director and record everything that has happened here in the church journal, so this would never get lost.

We enter the director's office with its dark wood lining. He pulls the huge church book from a shelf on the wall and opens it with much difficulty, since it is very big and heavy. The pages seem enormous to me. Then he begins to make his records with a quill and ink. Everything is very solemn. After some time, we all sign—the director, myself, my friend, the woman, and many of those present. The director puts the book back on the shelf, and we go away happy and with shining faces.

The next Sabbath, I'm standing in front of the big white church house where I had been the Sabbath before. I'm still in the same time period as before. This time, I'm not in the foyer, but outside the huge sanctuary of the congregation. I realize that it is a wooden church with white paint. It is not new, but not too old; the white is not super white, but not too dirty either.

My friend is there with me, and we are waiting for the beginning of the service. Suddenly, the double doors of the main entrance open, and the woman comes running out. She weeps bitterly and with sobbing, runs away toward a small forest. My friend and I run after her, reaching her before the forest, and my friend holds her lovingly. Slowly and with much patience, I begin to talk to her. She is crying so much that I can hardly understand what she wants to say. I already knew as soon as the big double doors of the church opened, that something terrible had happened. When the woman calms down a bit, I can finally understand what she says: "The director! He is dead! When I came to church this morning to clean everything and prepare for worship, I found him lying dead in his office on the floor. I do not know whether someone killed him or if he died of a heart attack. But he's dead!" Again, she sobs and weeps bitterly. Suddenly, it comes to my mind with burning intensity: "THE CHURCH BOOK! My God, maybe they wanted to steal the church book!"

Meanwhile, other brethren arrive, and we take the woman under our arms and go back to the church as fast as her crying allows. Immediately, with excitement and great anxiety, we run into the office of the director. Indeed, he is lying dead on the floor. But I cannot see any blood. He is lying face down. The church book is still on the shelves. We pull out the heavy, leather bound book, and put it on the director's desk and begin to search for the entry from the Sabbath seven days before. It takes a long time for us to turn the big, heavy pages. Each page is written in two columns. We finally find the beginning of the entry—it is on the right page in the right column, starting approximately in the lower third.

It reads "Church Conference 18XX" in big, black letters. (I could not see the exact year, because the characters were kind of blurred. I indicate that by the XX in the year.)

Under this heading is a list of names of those present, all of which I have forgotten. Behind each name is the occupation of the participant. I wonder again at how antiquated the job titles are. There is a lawyer, a pastor, a carpenter and a housewife. I either do not see more, or just forgot it.

The list of attendees ends right at the end of the right page in the second column where it says: "On this day, the following highly important events happened in this house:"

We quickly turn the page. And then we realize that a large rectangular piece has been torn out from the next page. The entire left column is missing, where the events and the new light that we all had received were recorded. We are all scared to death. Suddenly, the woman says, "My God, I saw a piece of paper of that shape this morning at the door of the director's office, struck with a nail. Maybe it's still there!" All of us turn to the door and examine both sides. The paper is no longer there. Where the nail was, one sees only a small hole on the outside of the door to the director's office.

Again, I turn to all the others. I see that their faces are no longer shining. The woman weeps bitterly again. I know what happened today hit her so hard, that she will never forget it for the rest of her life.

Then I look down at myself and my clothes suddenly begin to change. I see everything as if in slow motion, when my knickerbockers change back to my everyday blue trousers and the scratching of the woolen socks stops. My shoes turn back to my work shoes for the farm and now I wear a lightweight summer shirt. Suddenly I hear a loud voice from above and just behind me. Immediately I realize that this was the direction in which I had seen the giant wooden cross in the auditorium. The voice was great and loud, but not unpleasant and solemnly proclaims, "And now it's your turn!"

The Lightning “Arresters” of God's Light

Written by John Scotram

Published: Tuesday, April 24, 2012, 6:24 pm

Created: Tuesday, April 24, 2012, 6:24 pm

It's possible that this could be our last series of articles, either before entering an earth-shaking event, or before we have to take our ministry out of operation.

Of course, we know that more than 99% of Adventists would be cheering and scoffing in the latter case. Instead, they should be very sad. According to their name, “Adventists” are waiting for the return of the Lord, but this would again be relegated to an indefinite time—then Orion would not have confirmed the true church of God, showing its fundamental beliefs, and the High Sabbath List beginning in 1841, would not have shown its seven periods of purification, through which God has meticulously prepared the church to be able to give the Loud Cry. Then in 1888, God would have withdrawn to a corner of the universe, sad and sulking, because the light of the Fourth Angel, whom we identified as the Holy Spirit, had already been rejected at that time. The 120 years of wandering through the spiritual desert would not have ended in 2010 for the Adventist Church, and perhaps we would still have a few hundred years to wait for the return. Anyhow, the majority of Adventists want that time to be unknown, and they use some quotes of Ellen G. White to support their opinion. Accordingly, we would have to live until the last week before the return without knowing the time, and even if the Sunday law were here, no one would know if our suffering would last a week, a month, a year, a decade, a century, or even a millennium. History would not repeat, and every time prophecy of the Revelation would have been given solely for the erroneous first Midnight Cry so that the disappointment would be so great, that no one would ever believe in any time setting after 1844.

In reality, it was reasonable for God to instruct that no time should be set from 1844 until the complete light of the Fourth Angel would be given, because we would not have made good use of it. For example, if we already knew 120 years ago, that Jesus was coming so late, how many Adventists would have truly repented, believed the message and changed their lives? Every day, they should have been prepared for the last day events to begin and especially after the rejection of the Fourth Angel's message in 1888. In spite of their obstinacy, God gave the already-worn-out Advent people another period of 3 times 40 years to wander in the wilderness after 1890.

Nevertheless, the Adventist Church made poor use of the extra time of the 120 years granted by God. It has further corrupted itself and repeated the mistakes of other churches. But it is even worse! It was the bearer of the great light that was given to the end-time church, but it did not let its light shine—a condition that the Spirit of Prophecy repeatedly expressed with great concern. Instead, the Star of Islam is now rising over the church, and our “God” is considered pagan in the sermons of the top 25 leaders of the Adventist Church, while our common ancestor Abraham is emphasized as the root that connects us with Islam and the Jews. So the Adventist Church followed to the letter, what was prescribed by the papal brainwashing program of the Vatican, which the UN gave her in 2000. Total ecumenism, total apostasy!

No, dear Walter Veith, I do not agree with you that we must remain in this church to go through to the end. The end of the Adventist Church as an organization has already been established by divine command. Read The Vessel of Time and use your knowledge of genetics to understand what the stop codon means, which in Adventist History, corresponds to the years 1861-1863. And in God's genetic design, we even find a “double stop” to show that the end of the world's history has really been reached.

The HSL did not begin in 1861-1863, when the organization was founded. Jesus sees the full development of the true church of God as a continuous time line from 1841-2015 which is divided into seven stages. This demonstrates very clearly how the quotes of Ellen White that "the church would go through to the end" are to be understood. The true Adventists have always been those who accepted the teachings and lived up to the light that the church was given. Many are no longer able to bear the total apostasy of the brethren around them, because sin is contagious and they themselves run the risk of being infected if they remain in their congregations. Pray for the brothers and sisters who, by their loyalty to God, have become the loneliest people on this earth—without the support of their converted family members or congregations—for their convictions, which urge obedience to the commandments and statutes. It is a shame to ignore them just because you would like to stay on the payroll of the General Conference.

This last series of articles is specifically addressed to the great influential leaders within the Adventist Church, who should shine like stars and should have gladly accepted the new light that has been given here for more than two difficult years. There are names like Doug Batchelor, who sold himself and his organization to the GC, and David Gates, who worked in a marvelous way in his field, but then also succumbed to the pressure of the masses and the donations.

In the list of those who reject the light, we must include names that I've even revered, such as Gerhard Pfandl, who, with his "Statement on the Orion Message" as the "mouthpiece of the BRI" issued such a self-indictment that my time was too valuable to even answer such a poorly researched, superficial scribbling, and biased opinion of this "scholar." He even admitted in the beginning that he did not bother to read my explanatory articles on the PowerPoint presentation. Why then should I waste my time to reply to a letter that was not even addressed to me? It was forwarded to me by friends, months after it had been widely distributed in the Church. This is how our brethren accuse a brother without giving him a chance to defend himself, contrary to biblical principles. However, I am grateful that I finally know directly out of the mouth of the "BRI", what exactly happened in 1936 in the Church, and that Orion is ticking even more accurately than I thought. The new version of the Orion study incorporates the Statement of the BRI and has become even more conclusive than ever.

Among the great lights that are going out are influential pastors like Hugo Gambetta, who is very much admired, particularly in South America. He does not respond to communications addressed to him personally, putting him on the same level as Doug Batchelor, who is hiding behind Eugene Prewitt to avoid being harassed by "lunatics" and "heretics" like John Scotram. Dear Hugo Gambetta, please read Full Moon at Gethsemane again to finally understand that Jesus did not die at the time of the slaughter of the Passover lamb, as you say in many sermons on YouTube, even directly quoting the passages from Ellen White's works that explain that He died at the time of the daily sacrifice. You could learn from her many important lessons for your "type" research, as could other leaders who also quote from her without complete understanding.

Among them are prominent end-time speakers like Olaf Schröer and Nicola Taubert of Amazing Discoveries, who have at least glanced over the message once, but consider the light to be dangerous. In so doing, they fulfill the following prophecy of Ellen White:

There is to be in the churches a wonderful manifestation of the power of God, but it will not move upon those who have not humbled themselves before the Lord, and opened the door of the heart by confession and repentance. In the manifestation of that power which lightens the earth with the glory of God [the light of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18], they will see only something which in their blindness they think dangerous, something which will arouse their fears, and they will brace themselves to resist it. Because the Lord does not work according to their ideas and expectations, they will oppose the work. "Why," they say, "should not we know the Spirit of God, when we have been in the work so many years?"—Because they did not respond to the warnings, the entreaties of the messages of God, but persistently said, "I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing." Talent, long experience, will not make men channels of light, unless they place themselves under the bright beams of the Sun of Righteousness, and are called, and chosen, and prepared by the endowment of the Holy Spirit. When men who handle sacred things will humble themselves under the mighty hand of God, the Lord will lift them up. He will make them men of discernment—men rich in the grace of his Spirit. Their strong, selfish traits of character, their stubbornness, will be seen in the light shining from the Light of the world. "I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent." If you seek the Lord with all your heart, he will be found of you.

The end is near! We have not a moment to lose! Light is to shine forth from God's people in clear, distinct rays, bringing Jesus before the churches and before the world. Our work is not to be restricted to those who already know the truth; our field is the world. The instrumentalities to be used are those souls who gladly receive the light of truth which God communicates to them. These are God's agencies for communicating the knowledge of truth to the world. If through the grace of Christ his people will become new bottles, he will fill them with the new wine. God will give additional light, and old truths will be recovered, and replaced in the frame-work of truth; and wherever the laborers go, they will triumph. As Christ's ambassadors, they are to search the Scriptures, to seek for the truths that have been hidden beneath the rubbish of error. And every ray of light received is to be communicated to others. One interest will prevail, one subject will swallow up every other,—Christ our righteousness. {RH December 23, 1890, Art. B, par. 18–19}

Why do these "leaders," who have a huge influence on the Advent flock, not listen to the warnings of God's messenger that were given specifically for this time of the new light of the Fourth Angel?

Many of those to whom the people look for instruction are not leading their flocks to the pure water of life. If by reading the Word one is awakened to search for truth, if by seeking to know what the Scriptures teach, he shows that he would become a wise householder, he is charged with doing great mischief. He sees the truth, not as the ministers have declared it, but as Christ has presented it in the Old and New Testaments, and as a faithful steward he tells those around him; for he would have them share with him the message of grace. But how is he treated by the religious teachers?—Just as Christ was treated by the Jewish leaders. He is held up to ridicule. The ministers denounce him from the pulpit, declaring that he is causing division in the churches. Eternal interests are at stake, but those who ought to receive the light with rejoicing, fight against the Word of God as dangerous. They do not say to those they think are misled: "Come, let us examine this subject together. If you have received light, give it to us; for we need every ray of light that is shining from the Word of God. Our souls will be imperiled if we entertain and teach error." {ST March 1, 1899, par. 5}

They really should take to heart the following advice from the Spirit of Prophecy:

To Listen With Candor

When asked to hear the reasons of a doctrine that you do not understand, do not condemn the message until you have given it a thorough investigation, and know from the word of God that it is not tenable. If I had an opportunity, I would speak to the students of every Sabbath school in the land, lifting up my voice in earnest appeal that they go to the word of God, seeking for truth and light. God has precious light to come to His people at this very time, and you should strive earnestly in your investigations to aim at nothing less than a thorough knowledge of every point of truth, that you may not be found in the day of God among those who have not lived by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

The momentous issues at stake through neglect of the word of God should be carefully considered. The study of the Bible is worthy of the best mental effort, the most sanctified ability. When new light is presented to the church, it is perilous to shut yourselves away from it. Refusing to hear because you are prejudiced against the message to the messenger will not make your case excusable before God. To condemn that which you have not heard and do not understand will not exalt your wisdom in the eyes of those who are candid in their investigations of truth. And to speak with contempt of those whom God has sent with a message of truth, is folly and madness. If our youth are seeking to educate themselves to be workers in His cause, they should learn the way of the Lord, and live by every word that proceedeth out of His mouth. They are not to make up their minds that the whole truth has been unfolded, and that the Infinite One has no more light for His people. If they entrench themselves in the belief that the whole truth has been revealed, they will be in danger of discarding precious jewels of truth that shall be discovered as men turn their attention to the searching of the rich mine of God's word. {CSW 31.2–32.1}

The following description fits those leaders:

Our numbers are increasing, our facilities are enlarging, and all this calls for union among the workers, for entire consecration and thorough devotion to the cause of God. There is no place in the work of God for half-hearted workers, for those who are neither cold nor hot. Jesus says, "I would thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth." Among those who are half-hearted are the class who pride themselves on their great caution in receiving "new light," as they term it. But their failure to receive the light is caused by their spiritual blindness; for they cannot discern the ways and works of God. Those who array themselves against the precious light of heaven, will accept messages that God has not sent, and will thus become dangerous to the cause of God; for they will set up false standards.

There are men in our cause who might be of great use if they would but learn of Christ, and go on from light to greater light; but because they will not, they are positive hindrances, forever questioning, wasting precious time in argument, and contributing nothing to the spiritual elevation of the church. They misdirect minds, and lead men to accept perilous suggestions. They cannot see afar off; they cannot discern the conclusion of the matter. Their moral force is squandered upon trifles; for they view an atom as a world, and a world as an atom. {RH December 6, 1892, par. 5–6}

And unfortunately it has always been like this:

The same trials have been experienced by men of God in ages past. Wycliffe, Huss, Luther, Tyndale, Baxter, Wesley, urged that all doctrines be brought to the test of the Bible and declared that they would renounce everything which it condemned. Against these men persecution raged with relentless fury; yet they ceased not to declare the truth. Different periods in the history of the church have each been marked by the development of some special truth, adapted to the necessities of God's people at that time. Every new truth has made its way against hatred and opposition; those who were blessed with its light were tempted and tried. The Lord gives a special truth for the people in an emergency. Who dare refuse to publish it? He commands His servants to present the last invitation of mercy to the world. They cannot remain silent, except at the peril of their souls. Christ's ambassadors have nothing to do with consequences. They must perform their duty and leave results with God. {GC 609.1}

And this is the consequence to the leaders for their constant refusal of the new light from Orion and the Vessel of Time:

Defections Among Church Leaders

Many a star that we have admired for its brilliance will then go out in darkness.—Prophets and Kings, 188 (c. 1914).

Men whom He has greatly honored will, in the closing scenes of this earth's history, pattern after ancient Israel.... A departure from the great principles Christ has laid down in His teachings, a working out of human projects, using the Scriptures to justify a wrong course of action under the perverse working of Lucifer, will confirm men in misunderstanding, and the truth that they need to keep them from wrong practices will leak out of the soul like water from a leaky vessel.—Manuscript Releases 13:379, 381 (1904).

Many will show that they are not one with Christ, that they are not dead to the world, that they may live with Him; and frequent will be the apostasies of men who have occupied responsible positions.—The Review and Herald, September 11, 1888. {LDE 178.3–179.1}

Let us read now what makes it so difficult for the leaders to follow God's call and hear God's voice from Orion:

A company was presented before me in contrast to the one described. They were waiting and watching. Their eyes were directed heavenward, and the words of their Master were upon their lips: "What I say unto you I say unto all, Watch." "Watch ye therefore: for ye know not when the Master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cockcrowing, or in the morning: lest coming suddenly He find you sleeping." The Lord intimates a delay before the morning finally dawns. But He would not have them give way to weariness, nor relax their earnest watchfulness, because the morning does not open upon them as soon as they expected. The waiting ones were represented to me as looking upward. They were encouraging one another by repeating these words: "The first and second watches are past. We are in the third watch, waiting and watching for the Master's return." There remains but a little period of watching now." I saw some becoming weary; their eyes were directed downward, and they were engrossed with earthly things, and were unfaithful in watching. They were saying: "In the first watch we expected our Master, but were disappointed. We thought surely He would come in the second watch, but that passed, and He came not. We may be again disappointed. We need not be so particular. He may not come in the following watch. We are in the third watch, and now we think it best to lay up our treasure on the earth, that we may be secure against want." Many were sleeping, stupefied with the cares of this life and allured by the deceitfulness of riches from their waiting, watching position.

Angels were represented to me as looking on with intense interest to mark the appearance of the weary yet faithful watchers, lest they be too sorely tried, and sink under the toil and hardships made doubly severe because their brethren had been diverted from their watch, and become drunk with worldly cares and beguiled by worldly prosperity. These heavenly angels grieved that those who were once watching should, by their indolence and unfaithfulness, increase the trial and burdens of those who were earnestly and perseveringly endeavoring to maintain their waiting, watching position.

I saw that it was impossible to have the affections and interests engrossed in worldly cares, to be increasing earthly possessions, and yet be in a waiting, watching position, as our Saviour has commanded. Said the angel: "They can secure but one world. In order to acquire the heavenly treasure, they must sacrifice the earthly. They cannot have both worlds." I saw how necessary a continuance of faithfulness in watching was in order to escape the delusive snares of Satan. He leads those who should be waiting and watching, to take an advance step toward the world; they have no intention of going further, but that one step removed them that much further from Jesus, and made it easier to take the next; and thus step after step is taken toward the world, until all the difference between them and the world is a profession, a name only. They have lost their peculiar, holy character, and there is nothing except their profession to distinguish them from the lovers of the world around them.

I saw that watch after watch was in the past. Because of this, should there be a lack of vigilance? Oh, no! There is the greater necessity of unceasing watchfulness, for now the moments are fewer than before the passing of the first watch. Now the period of waiting is necessarily shorter than at first. If we watched with unabated vigilance then, how much more need of double watchfulness in the second watch. The passing of the second watch has brought us to the third, and now it is inexcusable to abate our watchfulness. The third watch calls for threefold earnestness. To become impatient now would be to lose all our earnest, persevering watching heretofore. The long night of gloom is trying; but the morning is deferred in mercy, because if the Master should come, so many would be found unready. God's unwillingness to have His people perish has been the reason for so long delay. But the coming of the morning to the faithful, and of the night to the unfaithful, is right upon us. By waiting and watching, God's people are to manifest their peculiar character, their separation from the world. By our watching position we are to show that we are truly strangers and pilgrims upon the earth. The difference between those who love the world and those who love Christ is so plain as to be unmistakable. While worldlings are all earnestness and ambition to secure earthly treasure, God's people are not conformed to the world, but show by their earnest, watching, waiting position that they are transformed; that their home is not in this world, but that they are seeking a better country, even a heavenly.

I hope, my dear brethren and sisters, that you will not pass your eye over these words without thoroughly considering their import. As the men of Galilee stood looking steadfastly toward heaven, to catch, if possible, a glimpse of their ascending Saviour, two men in white apparel, heavenly angels commissioned to comfort them for the loss of the presence of their Saviour, stood by them and inquired: "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into heaven."

God designs that His people shall fix their eyes heavenward, looking for the glorious appearing of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. While the attention of worldlings is turned to various enterprises, ours should be to the heavens; our faith should reach further and further into the glorious mysteries of the heavenly treasure, drawing the precious, divine rays of light from the heavenly sanctuary to shine in our hearts, as they shine upon the face of Jesus. The scoffers mock the waiting, watching ones, and inquire: "Where is the promise of His coming? You have been disappointed. Engage now with us, and you will prosper in worldly things. Get gain, get money, and be honored of the world." The waiting ones look upward and answer: "We are watching." And by turning from earthly pleasure and worldly fame, and from the deceitfulness of riches, they show themselves to be in that position. By watching they become strong; they overcome sloth and selfishness and love of ease. Affliction's fire kindles upon them, and the waiting time seems long. They sometimes grieve, and faith falters; but they rally again, overcome their fears and doubts, and while their eyes are directed heavenward, say to their adversaries: "I am watching, I am waiting the return of my Lord. I will glory in tribulation, in affliction, in necessities."

The desire of our Lord is that we should be watching, so that when He cometh and knocketh we may open to Him immediately. A blessing is pronounced upon those servants whom He finds watching. "He shall gird Himself, and make them to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them." Who among us in these last days will be thus specially honored by the Master of assemblies?

Are we prepared without delay to open to Him immediately and welcome Him in? Watch, watch, watch. Nearly all have ceased their watching and waiting; we are not ready to open to Him immediately. The love of the world has so occupied our thoughts that our eyes are not turned upward, but downward to the earth. We are hurrying about, engaging with zeal and earnestness in different enterprises, but God is forgotten, and the heavenly treasure is not valued. We are not in a waiting, watching position. The love of the world and the deceitfulness of riches eclipse our faith, and we do not long for, and love, the appearing of our Saviour. We try too hard to take care of self ourselves. We are uneasy and greatly lack a firm trust in God. Many worry and work, contrive and plan, fearing they may suffer need. They cannot afford time to pray or to attend religious meetings and, in their care for themselves, leave no chance for God to care for them. And the Lord does not do much for them, for they give Him no opportunity. They do too much for themselves, and believe and trust in God too little.

The love of the world has a terrible hold upon the people whom the Lord has commanded to watch and pray always, lest coming suddenly He find them sleeping. "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

I have been shown that God's people who profess to believe present truth are not in a waiting, watching position. They are increasing in riches and are laying up their treasures upon the earth. They are becoming rich in worldly things, but not rich toward God. They do not believe in the shortness of time; they do not believe that the end of all things is at hand, that Christ is at the door. They may profess much faith; but they deceive their own souls, for they will act out all the faith that they really possess. Their works show the character of their faith and testify to those around them that the coming of Christ is not to be in this generation. According to their faith will be their works. Their preparations are being made to remain in this world. They are adding house to house, and land to land, and are citizens of this world. {2T 192.1-196.2}

In God's cause, our leaders do not act like God's leaders, but as Satan's lightning arresters, which discharge the light that should hit the Adventist Church, so that it goes unnoticed, when it should have fully enlightened it. The light that shines down to us in bright rays from Orion, framing the throne of God, they use to make fun of God and to throw His warnings to the wind. Instead of investigating the light, they reject the message and the messenger. In over two years, NOT ONE biblically sound argument has been presented to me that could refute the Orion message. They are just full of hot air, and it begs the question why these folks do not accept the light, instead of declaring it to be unbiblical without showing any errors.

I've already dealt in detail with all the anti-time-setting quotes of Ellen White in my articles, and I've explained why Ellen White had to think and write like this. I also showed what the Bible says in this regard. Yes, there was a time after 1844 during which no time should be set, but it is now high time that the many unfulfilled time prophecies of Daniel 12 and Revelation must be fulfilled, because God has not written anything in the Bible that has no purpose.

I was accused of having not used any hermeneutics. Should I? Shouldn't the leaders who have studied theology and rejected the message, tell me "hermeneutically" why they do so? Do I, a theological "redneck," need to explain to the educated doctors of this field what their tools should be? They don't answer because their hermeneutics don't have an explanation for why Orion occurs three times in the Bible and occupies such a very special place in the Book of Books.

Therefore, in this last series of articles before the great disaster, I address those leaders of the church, who still have a spark of loyalty to the Lord in their hearts and are ready to repent, so that they will be able to understand the scope of the light that I will give here analytically and theologically, and prepare it in a way that it will be palatable for Adventists who still just need milk. This light cannot be confirmed or refuted with the Bible directly, but it will be a light that is based on existing Adventist light and just adds to it. The framework of thought has been presented during the Advent history by other highly-respected Adventist theologians, but I followed it to its logical conclusion. And I know that these are not just my own thoughts, but they were inspired by the Holy Spirit at this specific point in the history of the world.

Before I give the word on the subject to my Brother Robert, who examined this "new" light for months in our study group, I have to interpret my dream for you, which I had exactly on the 167th anniversary of the beginning of the investigative judgment in heaven...

The Dream of the Second Miller

Written by John Scotram

Published: Thursday, April 26, 2012, 6:51 pm

Created: Thursday, April 26, 2012, 6:51 pm

My Dream was released months ago on my homepage, but I've never received any questions about it. Either it was ignored or, more likely, it was considered unimportant or confusing. This reflects the fallen state of our Adventist Church, which is simply not interested in such things.

Many overlook the fact that my predecessor, William Miller, also had one very important dream, and it was even endorsed by Ellen White in "Early Writings". No doubt he had other inspirations and dreams, but only this one ended up in the writings of the Adventist Church. It basically said that a second "Miller" would come who would put William Miller's old light back into its proper place, when it would shine ten times brighter. The Midnight Cry would be repeated and the precious stones that Miller had found would be restored. This is now fulfilled with the studies of Orion and the Shadow Series. The findings of William Miller and Samuel Snow have been confirmed by astronomical calculations, and more important things were discovered in the process. For example, Miller had correctly identified 31 A.D. as the year that our Lord Jesus died, but because Snow was relying on a table that contained an error, the exact date was not discovered at that time. Even when the enemy challenged Adventism on that topic, it wasn't the Ph.D. theologians at the BRI who sat down to solve the problem, but the "redneck" farmer John Scotram. He calculated astronomically which Friday Jesus really died in A.D. 31, and the "solution" taught us "accidentally" how God's calendar actually works.

This knowledge, which has been newly rediscovered after millennia, revealing precisely how God's calendar works, eventually led to the deciphering of the prophecy in the feast days using the High Sabbaths, which gave a detailed list of the spiritual milestones in our Adventist history. The Orion Clock and the The Vessel of Time (as I titled the High Sabbath List) are both guides for the people called out of Babylon by the Loud Cry. They are being called into the "vessel," which serves as the container for truth since 1841 and 1844, respectively. Those who refused to accept these messages left the vessel long ago on their own, just as Ellen White said they would, but her prophecy was never properly understood.

Cooperation with the Holy Spirit

A few weeks before my dream, the Holy Spirit began to give me special inspiration during my sermons in my small church in Paraguay, which made me marvel. For years, I was familiar with the phenomenon of inspiration, but it increased noticeably in autumn 2011. As a small farmer, I have little time to prepare sermons in addition to my basic Sabbath school and Bible studies, so I am used to praying before preaching, that the Holy Spirit would give me the words to say. Besides that, I have no helpers here and our Sabbath services usually consist of just a sermon, three or four hours long. (And no one has ever complained about it, either!)

It is frequently the case that I ask questions in my sermons that I don't know the answers to, myself, and then I expect the Holy Spirit to lead in the replies. This "technique" has always been very successful and I learn a lot by listening to what the Holy Spirit wants to tell us. So I became the voice of God for the congregation and myself. Often it would be years later that I discovered that the light that I had received, was already known or even lost in Adventism. It also happened—and this is very remarkable—that sometimes "I" taught things that were later published in Sabbath school lessons or that great, respected Adventist theologians had taught before, but whose light had been suppressed by the apostate church leadership.

The Shining Faces

As I said, a few weeks before my dream, more light was being revealed. That light is now being made plain to the readers of this article. It is such a great light that it brought about what we were all waiting a long time for in our study group;

The living saints, 144,000 in number, knew and understood the voice, while the wicked thought it was thunder and an earthquake. When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

We already investigated these weighty statements of Ellen White's first vision in detail in the Orion study. Focusing on the beginning of the passage, we established that it speaks about the sealing by the Holy Spirit and the proclamation of the time. The last part in red hasn't been treated in detail yet, but it does say something very important that did not come about with the Orion message.

It's about "the glory of God" that is reflected on the faces of the 144,000. This clearly involves the light of the Fourth Angel of Revelation 18, who will make the earth shine with His glory, but what exactly is this light? Isn't it the light of Minneapolis, which Jones and Waggoner brought, commonly referred to as "righteousness by faith"?

Ellen White, putting the light of Minneapolis in its proper scope, says that it was only the beginning of the light of the Fourth Angel:

Let every one who claims to believe that the Lord is soon coming, search the Scriptures as never before; for Satan is determined to try every device possible to keep souls in darkness, and blind the mind to the perils of the times in which we are living. Let every believer take up his Bible with earnest prayer, that he may be enlightened by the holy Spirit as to what is truth, that he may know more of God and of Jesus Christ whom he has sent. Search for the truth as for hidden treasures, and disappoint the enemy. The time of test is just upon us, for the loud cry of the third angel has already begun in the revelation of the righteousness of Christ, the sin-pardoning Redeemer. This is the beginning of the light of the angel whose glory shall fill the whole earth. For it is the work of every one to whom the message of warning has come, to lift up Jesus, to present him to the world as revealed in types, as shadowed in symbols, as manifested in the revelations of the prophets, as unveiled in the lessons given to his disciples and in the wonderful miracles wrought for the sons of men. Search the Scriptures; for they are they that testify of him. {1888 1073.7}

Looking at the faces of my Orion students, I wanted to see if our countenances would really shine like Moses' face when he came down from Mount Sinai. There was a glow, but their faces were not shining yet. We studied the entire shadow message and the wonderful Vessel of Time in the "restaurant" of our private forum, and our faces glowed a little from the wonderful confirmation of the Orion studies and the many additional insights, but were we ready to let our faces shine for Jesus, like Moses was?

Did we really have all the light of the Fourth Angel, and did we receive the Holy Spirit to perform the work of leaders like Moses, to prepare a people to testify for God? I didn't think so, so I prayed for more light for the group.

In early October, 2011, it was time. The light was given by the Holy Spirit here in Paraguay while I was using my trusty method of preaching "by the Spirit," and I saw the countenances of my listeners light up and shine. Then I knew that this was the light that would give us the true motivation for our task to sound the Loud Cry.

Over three Sabbaths, the Holy Spirit expounded the light, and on October 22, 2011 (another Sabbath), I received my unusually complex dream. It confirmed this light in a very clear way. It identifies what the constituents of this light are, where they come from, and what God's original plan was regarding how to give this light. When I published the dream, I was already aware of its importance to affirm and explain the light, so I called it:

The Message of the Fourth Angel

Now let's walk together step-by-step through this dream, which was undoubtedly inspired by God: In the dream, I was brought back in time to the General Conference of Minneapolis, as if by time travel. The whole dream does not pertain to that time, but the beginning of the light of the Fourth Angel is the central theme around which the entire dream develops. This is not surprising, because Jesus is the basis for the entire Fourth Angel's Message, as we shall see. Again, there is only one foundation, namely, our Lord.

The Stage: Minneapolis 1888

In my dream, I see myself in a city that seems to be in a different time. I'm in a brisk, lively center of a small town, reminiscent of a time shortly before the arrival of electricity. I look down at myself and realize that I'm wearing strange clothes. They are all an antique brown color and the pants only go down to just below the knee, where they are bound together by a buckle. I wear black, finely polished leather shoes, like you cannot buy them anymore today. The leather is very thick and the shoes are of a homemade, craftwork quality. I have thick, wool socks on that scratch me a little. My upper garment resembles a tail coat and goes down under my buttocks. I realize that this is the normal clothing of many people around me, and I do not excite any attention in the crowd. I see gas lanterns everywhere on the square, and I am absolutely clear that I am in a short period before the introduction of electric lighting. The people around me all speak English and I notice that my mother tongue is English. (Everything that was said in my dream was in antiquated English, as it is no longer spoken, but I understood it.)

The hint that electricity was about to be introduced, fixes the time period. When I began to examine the dream, my first suspicion was that it could be Minneapolis, and that was confirmed by Internet research. On Wikipedia you can read the following remarkable facts on the page about the History of Minneapolis:

A streetcar system in the Minneapolis area took shape in 1875, when the Minneapolis Street Railway company began service with horse-drawn cars. Under the leadership of Thomas Lowry, the company merged with the St. Paul Railway Company and took the name Twin City Rapid Transit. By 1889, when electrification began, the system had grown to 115 miles (185 km).

Dear readers, I am not an historian and at the most, I knew that the introduction of electricity in the world began sometime around 1900. I was very surprised that the reference was so accurate in my dream. 1888 was the last year before the introduction of electricity in Minneapolis. This information could not have come from my subconscious mind, and must have had a divine origin.

But it gets even better! In another report, you can read that the first hydroelectric power plant already existed in Minneapolis in 1882. Electrical energy was very controversial, and there was competition with the Minneapolis gas company. I had only seen gas lamps in my dream. Does this match 1888?

Electric power was controversial at the time in Minneapolis and the nation because people feared that the wires carrying the power would catch fire, as some had in other cities. Most homes and businesses were lit by gas light in the 1880s, and the Minneapolis Gas Light Company had exclusive rights from the city to light Minneapolis's streets.

Although in 1883 a few electric street lamps were already in place for demonstration purposes, the streets of Minneapolis were not fully lit using electricity until 1924. Here are two pictures of the building where the General Conference was held in 1888:

The picture on the right shows the first SDA church in Minneapolis at a later time, when there were electric street lights (there is also a car parked in front of the church, which must have been after 1900). The left image, on the other hand, is a photo of the GC session in 1888. There is no electric light in front of the church.

Please also note the clothing of the people in the picture: the long coats of the men and the knickerbockers of the children are similar to the very thing I saw myself wearing.

There is no question that English is the spoken language in Minneapolis. The dream clearly shows me as being “from this generation” and rooted in this General Conference of 1888, thus setting the stage for the rest of the dream.

The Hamburger Vendor

Then I feel a little hungry. I decide to visit one of the many food booths that are here in the town center. The booths are all built of rather coarse wood and are very primitive. Then my eye catches one that carries a large wooden sign over the booth. The inscription reads, “Hamburger.” I realize now that this does not belong to the era in which I see myself translated to, but I am getting closer to the snack stand. Behind a wooden display table, which reaches up to the seller’s and my belly height, I see a man of strange appearance. He is different than the people around me, who are of Caucasian origin like me, almost without exception. At first sight, he makes no trustworthy impression. But this impression changes later when he serves me. He has a very dark skin color, almost black, yet he has no traits of a black man, but reminds me more of an Arab. His hair is curly and raven-black, and falls in waves down to just below his shoulder level. I remember his face only vaguely.

When we were analyzing the dream, several didn’t understand what I meant by “Caucasian origin.” This term simply means “belonging to the white race.”

My first impression of the seller at the hamburger stand was slightly negative because he looked very strange, but that changed during the course of the dream. From the description of the person, it is clear that it must be Jesus Himself. Jesus was a Jew, so He was a member of the Arab race. His hair probably was very dark or black and He is generally pictured with long hair. This doesn’t mean that Jesus had long hair, but in the dream, He wanted to make it clear that it was Him, and we would not have recognized Him if He had appeared with short hair. The man’s appearance was unique in my dream, and an Arab in Minneapolis around 1888 would also have been something very unusual.

The Hamburger Message

Now the “Cook,” i.e. Creator—Jesus—prepares a very special “hamburger” for me:

He takes my order of a hamburger and then starts with the preparation, which goes completely differently than I expected. First, he takes a huge, round hamburger bun, which has a diameter of at least 12 inches, and he divides it into two halves without using a knife. The “cuts” look absolutely clean as if cut with a knife. I cannot explain how he did this “trick.” When he puts the two halves down on the big counter made of light colored wood, their respective outer side is down, and I see that the two halves have different shapes. The upper half of the hamburger bread is thinner and its cross section resembles a crescent moon (it is concave), while the bottom half is deeper and resembles a bowl.

First, notice that I placed the order myself. This symbolizes my continual prayers for more light ever since I was baptized as a Seventh-day Adventist. I wanted to eat the bread of God in all its depth. The first light that I received was very different than I expected. And so it was to the many Adventists who later read the Orion publications. No one had expected a combination of Bible and astronomy—like the wise men from the East used to predict the first coming of Jesus—although the type is accurate.

What follows is the “preparation” of the Orion message by Jesus, the Creator of the constellation and the entire universe. Jesus divides the hamburger bun into two parts, each 12 inches. This can be interpreted as a numerical picture:

Jesus (7) separates the Hamburger bun into two parts (2) of 12 inches = $7 \times 2 \times 12 = 168$.

This was the “Orion formula” that was already shown by Jesus in Daniel 12, as I have explained in the Orion presentation.

He does not use a knife. He did the “trick” simply by His Word, because He is the Creator!

The two halves are reminiscent of the moon (crescent) and the sun (if you imagine the second half completed). This is already an indication that the message of Orion with its seven fixed stars would be reflected in the feast days of the earthly sanctuary, which are based on the lunisolar calendar (see The Vessel of Time).

After that, the man places two large bowls on the table, both of which correspond roughly to the size of the bowl-shaped base of the hamburger bread. In one bowl, I see a red sauce that makes me a little scared. The bowl is filled to the brim with this sauce and almost threatens to overflow. Somehow I know that this is no ordinary tomato sauce, but blood. But I do not stop the man—I know that I must accept this hamburger. In the other bowl, there are two large tomatoes, many lettuce leaves, and some green stuff, which I cannot remember in detail. But I know they are all vegetarian ingredients.

I intuitively know in the dream that I must eat this burger, just as John (in Revelation 10:9-10) and Ezekiel (in Ezekiel 3:1-3) were told to eat the scrolls. This means that I would have to study this message, understand it, and share it.

Since Jesus is the Chef, it is also His blood that holds the “hamburger” together. It is the river of Daniel 12, where Jesus stood when He made the oath (see Orion slides 64-74). It is the new covenant—His blood, which can be seen flowing from His wounds in Orion (slides 173-175)—and it is the fiery stream in the Orion constellation (slide 165).

The fact that all the ingredients are vegetarian (except the symbolic blood of Jesus) points to the health message, included in Orion (slides 139-142).

With lightning-fast speed, the man masterfully divides the two tomatoes into four tomato halves, again using only his hands and without a knife, and drapes them in the bottom half of the hamburger bread so that some space is spared in the midst. Then, like a whirlwind, the man takes the lettuce leaves one-by-one from the bowl and places them one after the other around the tomato halves into the lower part of the Hamburger bread, so that a circle of 24 lettuce leaves is formed. The only opening that is left is in the middle of the tomato halves. It all looks very decorative.

Right before my eyes, the Orion constellation is constructed by Jesus, as I later deciphered through the throne room vision in Revelation 4.

The four tomato halves correspond to the four living creatures in the throne room; the shoulder and foot stars of Orion (slide 27).

The lettuce leaves give the number of the 24 elders, who are arranged in a circle around the four living creatures (slide 39) as in the “hamburger.”

The opening that was left between the four tomato halves must represent the center of the Orion constellation, which is filled according to the following paragraph:

Then I notice that the man has a meat grill under the sales counter. It is a hot plate, on which I can see only one large steak of first grade beef. Skillfully, he flips it and it's ready. He puts the piece of meat in the middle of the upper half of the hamburger bread, and now I realize what the space between the tomato halves was intended for. When combining the top half of the hamburger bread with the bottom half, the piece of meat would fit exactly between the four tomato halves. The man tells me that only the red sauce can hold both bread halves together, and that we need the whole bowl of sauce to do it. I watch as the man fills the bottom half of the hamburger bread with the sauce and the whole bowl fits in. I no longer can see the lettuce leaves and tomato halves and the man assembles the giant hamburger fitting the upper half with the piece of meat into the space of the lower part. He hands the hamburger to me and I wonder what it costs. The man says, “If you like it, it costs nothing.”

Jesus became flesh; He is the incarnate Son of God, and He gave His blood for us. His body is represented by the large piece of grade-A prime beef. The sacrificial animals that pointed to Jesus were not allowed to have any defects. All this is symbolized in the Orion constellation. He gave Himself to heal the universe (the joined halves of the hamburger). We have to accept His blood in order for sin to be removed from the universe.

At the center of the Orion constellation is the throne of Jesus. He is Alnitak, “the wounded One” (slides 40-46). The “piece of meat” in the exact center of the hamburger marks that place.

We all know that we are saved by grace, and this grace costs nothing except the willingness to accept Jesus, the gift of God. Likewise, I was given the hamburger with the words: “If it tastes good, it costs nothing.” In a figurative sense, it is also a gift to be among the 144,000 who will not taste death, but you have to accept this special hamburger by eating the Orion message.

Two Plans

I eat the hamburger and notice a strong taste like raw meat. I wonder that I eat it because I'm vegetarian, as a Seventh-day Adventist. While I eat the hamburger, my mind is enlightened. I understand at once, the meaning of the symbolism perfectly clearly, and that it is about “righteousness by faith,” which has two parts. One part has Jesus, and the other bigger part has us as His church. (The meat in the top half of the hamburger represents His body, while the vegetarian part in the bottom half represents the Adventist health message.) It is clearly about the Fourth Angel's Message, which I received in the last two weeks in two parts. After eating the hamburger, I understand at once, perfectly clearly that I have experienced something special and that now is the time that I should be shown more.

By eating (studying) the Orion message, I realized that the top and bottom of the hamburger has an even more significant meaning. As we will learn during the course of the dream, Jesus explains to us exactly how the different parts of the light of the Fourth Angel fit together. The beginning of the light of the Fourth Angel started in Minneapolis (where I found myself in the dream) with the doctrine of righteousness by faith taught by Elders Jones and Waggoner, which was eventually rejected by the Church. It was mostly about us fulfilling our part in the plan of salvation by perfect obedience to the commandments. That is why the errors of the Church are recorded in the Orion constellation, showing where God's people departed from His plan.

In the two weeks before the dream, by the Holy Spirit, I had already been preaching the other two parts of the Fourth Angel's message to my small congregation. These other two parts are given in more detail later in the course of the dream, so I will address them then. It is important, however, to understand that this part of the dream expresses clearly that not everything was finished at the cross, but that we as God's church must fulfill a very important role, remaining in the plan of salvation.

We must learn to distinguish between the two plans of God... the plan of redemption for mankind, which was accomplished by Jesus alone—we could not accomplish it, because no man can die for the sins of another, since he is not God—and the plan of salvation for the universe, which must be accomplished by us and cannot be accomplished by Jesus, because He is God. The next part of this series will shed clear light on this. These two plans of God are represented by the two parts of the hamburger. One portion was bigger than the other, and we will find that in the Bible too.

My Shining Friend

I sat down to eat at a table facing the snack bar in the open air. Then I see a man approaching, who is of Caucasian origin, and like me, he has only a little hair left on his head, although he is not yet very old. I think he's about 35 or 40 years old. He comes to my table and I see that he looks very, very sad. I feel sympathy and a friendly affection towards him, although I do not know him yet. He comes closer and sits naturally at my table without a question. I ask him why he is so sad, and he tells me that he has problems with his spiritual life. He has sought his entire life for Jesus, but could never find the complete truth. That made him so unhappy that he could not even find any comfort within his family anymore, and he did not understand the meaning of his life. Immediately I realize that this man needs the message that I have just received. I explain to him "righteousness by faith" and that it isn't true that at the cross, everything was finished. While I explain this to him with the illustration of the hamburger, emphasizing how great the task is for every individual in the church of God, I see his face beginning to shine. Both of his eyes shine and I see that he is happy now. We embrace and make an appointment for him to come next Sabbath to my church for worship. I know that he is not an Adventist, but he thinks like one and wants to live like one.

The period of study (eating) points to our "restaurant"—our private forum, where we withdrew to study since August 2011, so as not to go against the ban on the time setting then still in effect. We did not want to bring attention to many things like the exact day of Jesus' return by discussing those subjects publicly before receiving the authority to do so from God the Father.

One of my friends, Gerhard Traweger, has been in our "restaurant" since its inception. He came from the New Apostolic Church and accepted the Orion message with a joyous heart in December 2010 and has continued to do a great work in his Church with his own website called My Divine Advocate. He is our "Apostle Paul", if you will, for God's faithful, who are still in the Babylonian churches. His website promotes mainly Adventist doctrines such as the Sabbath, but it is addressed specifically to non-Adventists from the Protestant ranks.

At the time of the dream, we were only friends, and did not know each other personally. The above dream passage describes how we got to know each other in December 2010 through my website, and how we had long and detailed correspondence studies until everything was settled in his mind. But as I mentioned earlier, the wonderful message of Orion, and even the High Sabbath List, did not light up our faces like Ellen White described. The first part (righteousness by faith in Jesus) of the three-part Fourth Angel's Message didn't even have that effect, but when I gave him the last two parts, then his face began to shine like Moses' when he came down from Mount Sinai.

I immediately told him by e-mail about the light that the Holy Spirit had given me over the last two weeks before the dream, and he was really excited about it. Shortly after I had the dream, he was the one who found Chapter 21 of M.L. Andreasen's book, "The Sanctuary Service". It became clear to us that the first addition to the light of the Fourth Angel was exactly that same light. It is what M.L. Andreasen taught—namely, the "Last Generation Theology".

I was not aware that my thoughts followed in the footsteps of such a great theologian, but that's how the Holy Spirit works; He guides us into all truth. Read the important chapter HERE if you are not familiar with this light.

Yet even this part of the Fourth Angel's message did not cause Gerhard's face to light up. It was only when he learned the next part—the consequences for the universe and God if the 144,000 fail—that he completely understood the real meaning of our "high calling" as part of the 144,000, and his face shone. My brother, Robert will explain this in the next article. Gerhard was one of the first of the 144,000 to be sealed with that message, and thus took his place in the Adventist church without having been previously baptized in the Advent faith. A true Adventist is characterized by his faith and how he lives, not by a baptismal certificate from a local church.

Jesus expressed it this way:

For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother. (Matthew 12:50)

Condensed Milk

On the next Sabbath, I see myself standing in the foyer of a very large Adventist church. There are many people who talk in low voices. The men and women are all very well and respectably dressed. It is much quieter than in the Adventist congregations nowadays. I'm still in an era where there was no electricity. The hall is lit by gas lamps. Now I see my friend from the snack restaurant come to me. His face is not shining and he looks very sad again. I want to console him. He says, "Doubts were rising in me about whether the message about our mission can really be true. From where do you get the assurance that this is all true?" I look at him lovingly and say, "The whole Sacred Scriptures and the writings of Ellen White are full of confirmations." But he says, "I've read everything in these few days, but I cannot keep the wealth of information, it all seems to confuse me even more." Then I smile because I understand him, and tell him in my old English dialect, "My friend, you have not yet understood that the Scripture is condensed milk. How do you feel when you drink a quart of milk?" He replies, "Good and satisfied." I further ask, "How do you feel when you've drunk a quart of condensed milk?" He also smiles now and says, "Bad. I would probably throw up." "Yes," I say, "that's what has happened to you. You wanted to drink in a few days, the amount of condensed milk that corresponds to one or two gallons of normal milk. This is too much. Sometimes, you have to take a break to digest." I tell him again the symbolism of the hamburger and the importance of our task in the plan of salvation. His face now shines again.

Although I am still in the same surroundings, the dream seems to be portraying present events, because it shows precisely the situation between my friend Gerhard and I that happened a few days before the dream. Through conversations with acquaintances, Gerhard had come up with doubts about the new light. His acquaintances wanted to make it clear to him that everything had been done on the cross, and that the last generation theology which says there is a specific task for us to do for the vindication of the Father, is nonsense. They said it is unthinkable to assume that there is even a slight chance for the plan of salvation to fail. But it is exactly this assumption that leads to the third part of the light of the Fourth Angel.

We were almost all flooded with information like Gerhard. What the Holy Spirit gave to our ministry in the forum seemed inexhaustible, and it was hard to stay on the ball and “digest” everything that was served to us. In the short time between August and October 2011, more than 2000 posts were generated in the forum by only a few people. All that light could have been given publicly if the Church had been ready to accept it. How many souls are forever lost because of the refusal of the leadership to even study the light?

After some explanations, the shine was back on Gerhard’s face for good. The doubts had vanished, making way for his role as one of the leaders of our ministry. Gerhard had the right motivation for the Loud Cry, and fully recognized the importance of his high calling.

A First Reaction

While we were talking, I did not realize that other brothers and sisters in the foyer had become aware of us and heard our conversation. Suddenly I see myself surrounded by a fairly large group of brethren. Men and women almost rush on me. They are all so interested in the topic that I can hardly resist them. They push and knock me unintentionally to press everything out of me that I know. Although I’m pestered hard, I feel that this is a good thing. When I tell them everything, I see their faces lighting up also. All at once, they are full of joy! Many more beset me, but suddenly we hear a siren, and everyone must enter the “auditorium”. An important event begins.

This part of the dream was fulfilled shortly after I received the dream. Many of Gerhard’s acquaintances and friends witnessed the exchange of ideas between us, and our forum members were also introduced to this new light. Everyone who heard this message suddenly had a shining face. Only a few fell back into the darkness of the world because doubts crept in.

Now the scene changes to the auditorium, where the dream tells many important details about the light of the Fourth Angel.

The Auditorium

I say “auditorium” because, as I enter the hall of the Adventist church, I do not see myself in a normal church with wooden benches on a flat floor, but I am standing behind the back row of pews, which are arranged so that every next pew row is on a higher level than the one in front, like a lecture hall at a major university or a large conference hall of a convention center. I see all the pews filled, but no faces, since I stand behind everyone and am at the highest point of the room. Now I realize that my friend is standing to my left, and to his left is the director of this big congregation. The pews are curved and there are two banks of benches, which are separated in the middle by a staircase aisle that leads down to the podium. I know that the pews at the left are filled with Adventists, but when I look there, I see only darkness and cannot distinguish the bodies of the people. By contrast, I see the contours of the Adventists in the right bank pretty clearly.

In the forum, we later analyzed my dream for what the layout of the auditorium means:

The auditorium is an exact reproduction of the High Sabbath List, which is explained in the study, The Vessel of Time.

The benches, which rise toward the back, represent the triplet years in the High Sabbath List (HSL). The front row starts with the years 1841, 1842, 1843. The higher the row number, the farther we go forward in the flow of time in the HSL. At every pew, the clock jumps to the next triplet, until we reach the highest level behind the uppermost row of benches, where I was with my friend and the director. I stand with them in the time period of 2010, 2011, 2012. My dream came on October 22, 2011, which specifies my exact location in time.

Each level represents one triplet in the HSL, and the three years in each triplet are represented by the actions of three Adventists in certain pews.

Notice that the congregation is divided into two sides, just as the High Sabbath List has two columns for the spring and the autumn feast fulfillments. There is the “left” side where there is only darkness, and the “right” side that is “illuminated” better. The light and dark sides correspond in the HSL to the spring and fall feasts. The first spring feast is the Passover feast, which occurs during a bright full moon, whereas the autumn festivals begin with the Feast of Trumpets at night on a very dark new moon. God used this light-and-dark effect in the dream to represent the conservative and liberal Adventists. Later, the Liberal Left all exited the lecture hall and only the Conservative Right remained seated.

The 1888 General Conference ambience was still there. Jesus wants to show how important that year is, and how central the events of that session are.

The Podium

On the podium, a woman begins to speak. She gives a very important sermon that I do not understand in detail. But I know that she is talking about what I’ve found, that the big topic is “righteousness by faith,” and that this is the beginning of the light of the fourth angel. I am delighted as I see that many Adventists in the right pews begin to shine.

Located on the podium is Ellen White, as if she were speaking in the 1888 conference. Indeed, the 1888 materials are still read everywhere today. We already know that the light relates to the beginning of the entire Fourth Angel’s message, which began with the doctrine of justification by faith in 1888.

The Gainsayers

Suddenly, an Adventist in very black clothing wants to get up in the second row and I know it’s a “gainsayer” (opponent, interferer). (This word came to my mind so often in the dream that I want to emphasize it, leaving it even in the translations in its original form.) Then something happens which frightens me deeply. Suddenly, three Adventists in the church pew behind him pull out a pistol. I see that it is an antique pistol with only one shot. They hold the gun to the head of the gainsayer and shoot. When they pull the trigger, I do not hear a bang and see no fire or smoke. The head of the gainsayer, which I can only see from behind, falls to the right, and he is “dead.” I see no blood and no wounds. He just does not move anymore. The woman kept talking the whole time unimpressed, and I see how the Adventists in the right pew bank shine more and more.

The second row represents the second triplet of 1861, 1862, 1863, which shows the formation of the organized SDA church. At that time, there were already many Adventists who wanted to take a different course and rose up against the organization. They wanted to change the way of the Church, which was still under the influence of Ellen White’s counsel. In the period from 1861 to 1888 (the beginning of the next triplet) the Adventists were organizing, and rejected the light of the Fourth Angel in 1888.

In the King James Version of the Bible, only one verse uses the word “gainsayer”. Because of the repeated mention of this term in the dream, let’s look at the following verses centering on the opponents, the “gainsayers”:

For a bishop must be blameless, as the steward of God; not selfwilled, not soon angry, not given to wine, no striker, not given to filthy lucre; But a lover of hospitality, a lover of good men, sober, just, holy, temperate; Holding fast the faithful word as he hath been taught, that he may be able by sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers. For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision: Whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake. One of themselves, even a prophet of their own, said, the Cretians are always liars, evil beasts, slow bellies. This witness is true. Wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith; Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth. (Titus 1:7-14)

It is the clear instruction of God to silence the opposing party (gainsayer) within the Church. God put this weapon in the hands of the bishops (Church overseers or elders), which is symbolized by the guns of the respective triplet years. In the next pew after a gainsayer, three guns are fired each time, and the associated gainsayer is silenced. Since these are spiritual weapons and doctrines, of course, you see no blood. A dead gainsayer is a false doctrine overcome by the three-year correction of the next period (the three Adventists with the three guns).

The gainsayer from the 1861, 1862 and 1863 years was silenced at the General Conference of 1888 and the following two years (the third triplet of years: 1888, 1889, 1890). Despite the fierce opposition of the beginning of the light of the Fourth Angel, there was still a good part in the Church who held up the light and recognized its holiness. The “Historic Adventists” among us know that I speak especially of them.

The gun triplet 1888 - 1890, the first part of the light of the Fourth Angel—righteousness by faith through Jesus Christ—was God’s antiserum against the poison of the gainsayer.

Then approximately in the middle of the rows, the same thing happens again. A gainsayer wants to get up and interrupt the woman and raise some stupid objections. Behind him, three Adventists aim their ancient guns at him and pull the trigger. No smoke, no bang, no fire, no wounds, but the head of the gainsayer falls on his right shoulder and he is silent.

The middle of the rows are the fourth (1915-1917) and fifth (1935-1937) triplet years. The fourth triplet years we identified in the Vessel of Time as the Jesuit gainsayers who wanted to take the helm of the Church vessel after Ellen White’s death in 1915. Their teachings had to be held in check so that the ship would not break apart prematurely. For this, God put the gun in the hand of Pastor M.L. Andreasen in the years 1935-1937 to at least partially arrest these influences.

In 1937, he published his wonderful book “The Sanctuary Service” with the second part of the message of the Fourth Angel, the vindication of the Father by the 144,000. Once again I urge you to read Chapter 21 of this book as it presents in abbreviated form, what our task is right now at the end of the Great Controversy.

An interesting fact about these two pews: In the dream I could not see exactly where the rows were. That’s why I said in a very early version of the dream “fourth or fifth” and later “fifth or sixth” row. But I only saw that this happened at about medium height. The first version of the HSL had slightly different year triplets because they were later refined by the Wadsworth criteria (as stated in the Vessel of Time presentation). As a result, these pews shifted slightly. It is amazing to me that the dream included then unknown circumstances, and I could not see exactly which pews they were.

Then I see a gainsayer directly in front of me. Immediately, the director, my friend, and I hold the same kind of pistol in our hands and shoot. Again, no sound, no wound, but the gainsayer is dead. That was the last one.

The pew in front of me represents the years 1986-1988, in which the course was set for the church to fall headlong into the ecumenical movement. God started a counter attack in the next triplet years (2010, 2011, 2012) through myself, my friend, and the ominous director character.

This counter-attack was the gift of the third part of the Fourth Angel's message, which will now be explored in its full detail in the following part of the dream.

Despite all the gainsayers, there was always an often invisible faithful remnant in the SDA church, who held up the old teachings and standards. God has always kept a remnant as in the days of the prophet Elijah. And God needs only a few faithful to accomplish a great work. He demonstrated that once before with a remnant of 12 faithful from among all the Israelites. The light of the Fourth Angel was always the light of the Holy Spirit, which led to an ever-deepening understanding of the plan of redemption and the plan of salvation. Ellen White even says that the redeemed will continue to study it throughout eternity and will gain new and rich insights about it.

Our High Calling

Then the woman on the podium makes a call to repentance and new surrender to the Lord Jesus with the new knowledge about our destiny. She asks all who want to surrender to God to come to the podium. All the Adventists from the right pew bank go down—all except the dead gainsayers. When I look to my left to the other pews, I notice that everyone who sat there before had left the hall. Suddenly, all of the Adventists at the podium turn to me, and the woman starts to lead them. They are coming up the stairs towards me with shining faces. I notice that they wish to show their gratitude to someone. But in no way do I want to be worshiped by them, so I want to flee. Doing this, I turn my head slightly to the right and at the wall behind me I see a giant, rough-cut cross, which had apparently been there all the time without me having noticed it.

The third part of the light of the Fourth Angel, covered in the next part of this article series, explains in detail the sacred nature of our work. The Father now sits in the dock because of Satan, the accuser, to be defended by us. We will show what the consequences will be to the universe and to God Himself if we fail.

The woman (the pure remnant church, symbolized by Ellen White) now begins marching in time toward my friend, the director and I. She brings all the faithful Adventists upward who do not follow the teachings of the gainsayers. This group symbolizes those who are not contaminated with false doctrines (like QOD), who are conservative or historic Adventists who have embraced the light of righteousness by faith and the vindication of the Father by the last generation.

The scene clearly shows that no credit belongs to me, but that everything comes from our Lord Jesus who has prepared the way for us. Without Him, we could not perform our duty, as we would all still be condemned to eternal death because of our sins.

The Adventist liberal left emptied their pews and left the auditorium in the cleansing process by the time the messages were given in 2010, 2011 and 2012. This went unnoticed by many Adventists as they were sifted by the Orion message, the HSL, and now the last part of the message of the Fourth Angel.

This part of the dream with the cross gives me the great assurance that Jesus always stood behind the messages, even though I often felt very lonely in the storm of hostility from the Church.

That these Adventists come to me, means that they finally accept the messages and sound the Loud Cry.

The Triangle of Guns

Again, I turn to the crowd led by the woman, which is still getting closer to my friend, the director and I. But now I understand that they do not want to worship me, but fall on their knees before the cross. I wait until they have arrived to me and the woman falls down directly in front of me. At that moment, out of her hand slips a pistol with the same design as the others. Then I kneel down before the woman—not to pay homage to her, but to give respect and worship to Jesus, together with her. I'm so low on my knees, that my hands are touching the ground. Now I see that I have a pistol in each of my hands and I put them in front of the woman's pistol on the floor. My two pistols are now right in front of the woman's pistol and together, they form a triangle. My two pistols are placed in a way that the barrel of one points to the handle of the other.

My two spiritual pistols represent the two basic messages I had received from Jesus since 2010: The Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time. They are pointed toward each other, because one message is the mirror image of the other and they complement each other. The Heavenly Sanctuary (Orion) is reflected in the earthly sanctuary (High Sabbath List). Recognizing Jesus in the two sanctuaries was the test for those Adventists who would belong to the 144,000. They had to challenge human interpretations of the no-time-setting quotes of Ellen White to hear the voice of the Holy Spirit (the Fourth Angel) and make their decision.

Then, and only then, would they get more light—the third part of the Fourth Angel's message, which is represented by the gun of the woman (the church). The message was brought to me through the history of the Adventist Church. The gun of the woman has all three parts of the Fourth Angel's message:

1. Righteousness by faith in Jesus
2. Vindication of the Father by the 144,000
3. The consequences, should we fail our mission

Together, the three guns form a triangle, with the woman's gun at the top:

This triangle represents the three parts of the plan of salvation for the universe, and also the three Persons of the Divine Council who are behind this plan. It is also a sign of the Loud Cry of the Third Angel, who will warn the world not to accept the mark of the beast.

Before I interpret the next part of the dream, I'll let my dear brother, Robert, speak as promised. He will now accurately explain the third part of the light of the Fourth Angel.

We are reluctant to interpret the remainder of the dream in public, because it is about a criminal case of cosmic proportions in which we are involved. It will show who the Judas is in our midst, and what a horrible act of betrayal he has committed. But first, we need to understand what is really at stake here, and what the consequences will be if our mission is a failure. That is the only way to appreciate how sinister the role is that the director plays in my dream.

Our High Calling

Have you ever wondered what would happen if one person were missing from the 144,000 witnesses? What consequences would that have for the Great Controversy? Do you understand why Jesus asked “when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?”

Most people assume without much thought that God is too powerful to ever lose the Great Controversy. Consider for a moment: is God just, or unjust? If He is just, then would the heavenly courtroom give a fair trial, or would it rule in favor of the party with the greatest power?

If you assume that God would not yield Himself to a fair trial, then you misunderstand what the plan of salvation is all about. If God were to rule by the might of His power regardless of fairness, there would be no need for Jesus, and no need for the 144,000 witnesses. But if God does submit to a fair trial, then Satan has a chance to show the universe that at the end of this world's 6000-year history, not even 144,000 created beings will remain who still want to keep the Creator's commandments. This would be the evidence that Satan needs to win the proceedings against God.

Consider for a moment why, after the millennium, Satan will attack the city of God. Is he really that stupid to think he can win? Or are we the stupid ones who can't imagine God risking the whole universe on the faith of 144,000 people like you and me? For sure, Satan does not think his game is over.

First we need to understand what Jesus really did that only one equal with God could do, then we will be able to understand what must yet be done to secure the plan of salvation that could not be done by anyone equal with God. I pray that as you study this article you will recognize what your role is in the plan of salvation.

At The Cross

Jesus paid the penalty of the law for sin. Jesus also taught that the law was not merely ten brief commandments, but the implications of those commandments are as far reaching as the thoughts and intents of the heart. At other times he summarized them into two commandments. In other words, whether we state them briefly or at length, their scope is big enough to encompass the whole infinite character of God; they are a transcript of His character.

The law of God is as extensive as the universe, so it required a sacrifice of equal proportions to pay the price for our breaking it. Only one who was as great as the law could be a sufficient sacrifice.

The salvation of man is accomplished at an infinite expense to Heaven; the sacrifice made is equal to the broadest demands of the broken law of God. {GC88 489.1}

Until we understand the scope of the law, we can have no comprehension of how great our fall, or how great our redemption, or how great our value in the eyes of God:

The value of a soul, who can estimate? Would you know its worth, go to Gethsemane, and there watch with Christ through those hours of anguish, when He sweat as it were great drops of blood. Look upon the Saviour uplifted on the cross. Hear that despairing cry, "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" Mark 15:34. Look upon the wounded head, the pierced side, the marred feet. Remember that Christ risked all. For our redemption, heaven itself was imperiled. At the foot of the cross, remembering that for one sinner Christ would have laid down His life, you may estimate the value of a soul. {COL 196.4}

Have you ever wondered how one man, Jesus, could have actually paid the price for all the sins of the whole world? What exactly did He give up anyway? Did he just suffer a physically brutal death like many other men have suffered, and give up just three days of His life to spend asleep in the tomb? Sister White tells us in clear language that there was a permanent loss associated with His sacrifice:

By His life and His death, Christ has achieved even more than recovery from the ruin wrought through sin. It was Satan's purpose to bring about an eternal separation between God and man; but in Christ we become more closely united to God than if we had never fallen. In taking our nature, the Saviour has bound Himself to humanity by a tie that is never to be broken. Through the eternal ages He is linked with us. "God so loved the world, that He gave His only-begotten Son." John 3:16. He gave Him not only to bear our sins, and to die as our sacrifice; He gave Him to the fallen race. To assure us of His immutable counsel of peace, God gave His only-begotten Son to become one of the human family, forever to retain His human nature. This is the pledge that God will fulfill His word. "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon His shoulder." God has adopted human nature in the person of His Son, and has carried the same into the highest heaven. It is the "Son of man" who shares the throne of the universe. It is the "Son of man" whose name shall be called, "Wonderful, Counselor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace." Isaiah 9:6. The I AM is the Daysman between God and humanity, laying His hand upon both. He who is "holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners," is not ashamed to call us brethren. Hebrews 7:26; 2:11. In Christ the family of earth and the family of heaven are bound together. Christ glorified is our brother. Heaven is enshrined in humanity, and humanity is enfolded in the bosom of Infinite Love. {DA 25.3}

Cumbered with humanity, Christ could not be in every place personally. {DA 669.2}

The fact that Jesus became human permanently explains how infinite His sacrifice really was, though He was only one man. He gave up His former omnipresent nature (the only nature able to atone for all sin of all time). He gave it up permanently, in other words to the "second death", while His human nature only suffered the first death like the righteous of all the ages. He was resurrected as a righteous human man, like the faithful dead will be resurrected, not in His original omnipresent nature. This also explains how God could resurrect Him without "undoing" the second death that He had to suffer for our sins.

The Heavenly Sanctuary

There is no question that Jesus' death on the cross was essential to the plan of salvation, but there is more to the plan that is equally essential:

The intercession of Christ in man's behalf in the sanctuary above is as essential to the plan of salvation as was his death upon the cross. By his death he began that work which after his resurrection he ascended to complete in Heaven. We must by faith enter within the veil, “whither the forerunner is for us entered.” [Hebrews 6:20.] There the light from the cross of Calvary is reflected. There we may gain a clearer insight into the mysteries of redemption. The salvation of man is accomplished at an infinite expense to Heaven; the sacrifice made is equal to the broadest demands of the broken law of God. Jesus has opened the way to the Father’s throne, and through his mediation the sincere desire of all who come to him in faith may be presented before God. {GC88 489.1}

The Clock of God in Orion shows us the intercession of Jesus for the churches. It specifically shows the failures of the churches as marked by His wounds, showing how He is interceding with His blood on our behalf as the court session in the heavenly sanctuary goes on. The Clock also shows us that the intercession must come to an end.

Jesus paid the price for our sin when He died on the cross. However, the law of God is still the rule of the universe, and for us to live in heaven we must not only be forgiven of our sins but also restored to where we no longer commit sin, like Adam and Eve before the Fall. If we still cherish sin in our hearts, we will not be fit to live in heaven. This purity of heart, or sanctification, is what still remains to be completed in the 144,000 witnesses.

And in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault before the throne of God. (Revelation 14:5)

The Plaintiff and the Defendant

There is more than one court case playing out in the heavenly courtrooms. The first case that usually comes to mind is the case involving human souls to determine (judge) whether they should be granted to live in heaven, or be eternally destroyed. This case is further divided into two phases, the judgment of the dead, and the judgment of the living. It is natural for us to think of these judgments first, because we are naturally selfish and interested in the outcome FOR US. But there is another case of vastly greater importance that must be settled, and if it is not settled, heaven will not be heaven!

Let’s identify who the participants are in the court case of greatest importance. Obviously Satan is the accuser, or plaintiff. One would first think that the brethren are the accused, since Satan is the accuser of the brethren, but again that is selfish thinking and the following quote shows that he cares nothing about the brethren except so far as he can use them to injure Christ:

Satan’s accusations against those who seek the Lord are not prompted by displeasure at their sins. He exults in their defective characters; for he knows that only through their transgression of God’s law can he obtain power over them. His accusations arise solely from his enmity to Christ. {PK 585.3}

We will see in the next section just why Satan has such a hatred for Christ. Satan’s real accusations are not against people, but against God:

In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. Every sin must meet its punishment, urged Satan; and if God should remit the punishment of sin, He would not be a God of truth and justice. When men broke the law of God, and defied His will, Satan exulted. It was proved, he declared, that the law could not be obeyed; man could not be forgiven. Because he, after his rebellion, had been banished from heaven, Satan claimed that the human race must be forever shut out from God’s favor. God could not be just, he urged, and yet show mercy to the sinner. {DA 761.4}

The Allegations

In the above quote, we see that Satan claimed that God's law could not be obeyed, that justice is inconsistent with mercy, and that sin could not be pardoned.

Satan was very clever in how he challenged God's love. Reading between the lines of his accusation, it is apparent that He either did not expect God to humble Himself to the point of taking upon Himself the penalty for sin, or he consoled himself with the thought that if God were to do so it would mean the end of God and victory for himself. In essence, he thought to back God into a corner to either rule by power, or surrender. (It is no wonder where Judas Iscariot got the idea.)

Pardoning, redeeming love is brought to view in Christ Jesus. Satan had misrepresented the character of God, and it was necessary that a correct representation should be made to worlds unfallen, to angels, and to men. Satan had declared that God knew nothing of self-denial, of mercy and love, but that he was stern, exacting, and unforgiving. Satan never tested the forgiving love of God; for he never exercised genuine repentance. His representations of God were incorrect; he was a false witness, an accuser of Christ, and an accuser of all those who throw off the Satanic yoke, and come back to render willing allegiance to the God of heaven. {RH March 9, 1897, par. 3}

In summary, Satan's accusations against God are:

1. God's character is not of self-denying love.
2. God's law is unjust and cannot be obeyed by created beings.

It is because Christ demonstrated his first claim to be false, that Satan hates Him so much.

The Defense

In giving His only begotten Son to the world to pay the penalty for sin, God proved his character of self-denying love. He emptied heaven to redeem mankind, risking all. He loved you and me so much that He preferred to have US than His very own "flesh and blood". The sacrifice was not merely or even mostly on the part of the Son, but supremely on the part of the Father. Jesus was the Father's obedient Lamb which He gave as the sacrifice for the sins of the world.

As the priests ministered in the Old Testament sanctuary services, they experienced on a daily basis the killing of innocent victims. Surely for any warm-blooded human being, this had to be a painful experience. Indeed, the purpose of the sacrifices was to give mankind an inkling of the pain in God's heart as He saw forward to the day His beloved Son would die for something He didn't deserve.

While He lived on earth, Jesus kept the law perfectly. He did it while afflicted with the fallen human nature, yet he did it perfectly and was without sin as an example for us.

For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh: (Romans 8:3)

For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. (Hebrews 4:15)

However, Satan's accusation is specifically that "created beings" cannot obey the law. It is nothing for God the Father or His Son to keep the very law that transcribes their character; they could not do otherwise. Jesus had no propensity to sin like we do. Even though Jesus took on the fallen human nature, His life testimony that God's law can be kept could easily be considered as a special case or at best insufficient evidence in comparison to the vast majority of people that have ever lived.

The part of the plan of salvation that has not been completed yet is an overwhelming demonstration that God's law can indeed be kept by created beings. Only when that can be proven in the court of heaven can the Great Controversy be settled.

The Witnesses

Who must prove that God's law can be kept by created beings?

It is easy to answer in the third person:

Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus. (Revelation 14:12)

It is a lot harder to say with Isaiah:

Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me. (Isaiah 6:8)

Do I, do you want to keep God's law, no matter what?

Why are the 144,000 the only people who can show that God's law can indeed be kept by created beings? The un-fallen angels in heaven keep the law, but they are party to the case because they were there when the first rebellion began in heaven. In order to conduct a fair trial, witnesses are needed who are neutral to the case. Adam and Eve were created after Satan's rebellion, and were neutral to the Great Controversy. When they fell, humanity became biased for Satan, and it became necessary for Jesus to redeem the human race in order to restore their capacity to deliver an un-biased testimony.

The 144,000 are being called out from among Earth's last generation: the most degenerated people ever to live, and the ones most severely oppressed by Satan as he perfects his tyrannical rule over the earth. The testimony of the weakest generation that God's law can be kept makes the strongest case in His defense. Again I plead, will you, dear reader, testify on God's behalf by your sanctified life, no matter the cost?

The Earthly Sanctuary

In the study titled The Vessel of Time we see our (poor) record of how well we have kept the commandments of God and had the faith of Jesus as an organized church. In other words, we see our sins which Jesus is atoning for in the heavenly sanctuary.

In the great day of final award, the dead are to be "judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works." Revelation 20:12. Then by virtue of the atoning blood of Christ, the sins of all the truly penitent will be blotted from the books of heaven. Thus the sanctuary will be freed, or cleansed, from the record of sin. In the type, this great work of atonement, or blotting out of sins, was represented by the services of the Day of Atonement—the cleansing of the earthly sanctuary, which was accomplished by the removal, by virtue of the blood of the sin offering, of the sins by which it had been polluted. {PP 357.6}

In the periods before 1888 we were in obedience as a church, but after 1888 when we rejected the leadership of Christ, our works have proven us unfaithful (even in the same things we were once faithful in). This shows that it is only by the faith of Jesus that we can obey the law; it is only possible to have righteousness by faith in Christ.

If ever a people have need of clearer and increased light from heaven, it is the people whom God has made the repository of His law. The men to whom God has committed sacred trusts need to be spiritualized, elevated, vitalized by the sacred truth they profess to believe. When the history of our cause and work reveals that men who have occupied positions of sacred trust, who have been teachers of the truth to others, are found unfaithful and turn away from the holy commandment delivered unto them, what carefulness should it lead us to! What distrust of self! How it should strip us of self-sufficiency and spiritual pride! What humble views we should have of our wisdom and our own insufficiency! How we should sense the fact that we are kept by the power of God through faith! {1888 261.3}

We also see in The Vessel of Time that as we approach the heavenly Canaan, we have one last time to shine, to illustrate to the universe that the Law can be kept indeed by created beings through the faith of Jesus. Time will not go on indefinitely until we get our act together, contrary to popular belief. There are limits set for how long the court can take before coming to a verdict.

Near the close of this earth's history Satan will work with all his powers in the same manner and with the same temptations wherewith he tempted ancient Israel just before their entering the land of promise. He will lay snares for those who claim to keep the commandments of God, and who are almost on the borders of the heavenly Canaan. He will use his powers to their utmost in order to entrap souls, and to take God's professed people upon their weakest points. Those who have not brought the lower passions into subjection to the higher powers of their being, those who have allowed their minds to flow in a channel of carnal indulgence of the baser passions, Satan is determined to destroy with his temptations,—to pollute their souls with licentiousness. He is not aiming especially at the lower and less important marks, but he makes use of his snares through those whom he can enlist as his agents to allure or attract men to take liberties which are condemned in the law of God. And men in responsible positions, teaching the claims of God's law, whose mouths are filled with arguments in vindication of his law, against which Satan has made such a raid,—over such he sets his hellish powers and his agencies at work, and overthrows them upon the weak points in their character, knowing that he who offends on one point is guilty of all, thus obtaining complete mastery over the entire man. Mind, soul, body, and conscience are involved in the ruin. If he be a messenger of righteousness, and has had great light, or if the Lord has used him as his special worker in the cause of truth, then how great is the triumph of Satan! How he exults! How God is dishonored! {RH May 17, 1887, par. 8}

The message of our history in The Vessel of Time is to serve as a warning, and a guide to show us especially which points to watch out for, which points we need to correct in our own characters in order to be faithful witnesses.

For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith. (1 John 5:4)

Consequences of Failure

If there are not sufficient witnesses, either in number or quality, then the defense of God in His trial against the allegations of Satan might not be successful. Our role is to vindicate the infinite law of heaven, which represents the very character of God Himself, and wonder of wonders God has staked His very being and the entire universe on our defense. That is a task far beyond the capability of mere mortals, yet that is our high calling! Jesus led the way by His life, coming in the likeness of sinful flesh, and being in constant communion/union with the Divine. We must attain to His example in every respect! Only through faith in Him, dying to self, letting Him live His life in us, uniting with Him, can we succeed in such an infinite task. Only with the Holy Spirit (the mightiest of the host of heaven) working in us can we measure up to the task.

This is a truth that has never been fully (much less officially) taught by our Adventist Church. It is easy to believe from reading a few quotes of Ellen White that the Great Controversy was finished at the cross and that the whole universe is already decided for God and exempt from any further consequences from sin and the only thing we have to do is rescue the great multitude of humans in the Loud Cry. We Adventists talk a lot about the 144,000, the Loud Cry, the time of trouble, the time of Jacob's trouble, the Sunday Law and the Sabbath, and "justification by faith" (what seems to be the most important theme for Adventist theologians, preachers and writers). But when and where do we talk about our high calling and that we have to follow the example of Jesus to vindicate the Father to finally secure the plan of salvation for the entire universe?

The angels and the holy inhabitants of other worlds watch with intense interest the events taking place on this earth. Now as the close of the great controversy between Christ and Satan draws near, the heavenly host behold men trampling upon the law of Jehovah, making void the memorial of God,—the sign between Him and His commandment-keeping people,—setting it aside as a thing of naught, something to be despised, while the rival sabbath is exalted. They see men claiming to be Christians, calling upon the world to observe this spurious sabbath that they have made. {ST February 22, 1910, par. 3}

Have you ever considered what it means that we will do greater things than Jesus?

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. (John 14:12)

Jesus is interceding for us not so we can continue to live a life of failure in sin, but so that we can be purified of sin to do greater works than even He did! But all these years we didn't understand it and it did not come to our hearts. We thought that we just have to obey God to show our love to Him and that He rescued the universe. But the nature of the accusation of Satan does not allow God Himself to rescue the universe; it has to be done by the creatures that have fallen on the planet that was given to Satan's influence.

Revelation even told us all along exactly whose task it would be to bring salvation to God:

After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; And cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb. (Revelation 7:9-10)

This message in deed is THE LOUD CRY!

Is There Any Recourse, or Risk Mitigation?

The whole universe is looking upon us because we will decide if Satan's reign will fall, or if it will extend to all the far reaches of the universe, poisoning one planet after another with the corruption of sin until it ends in total destruction. God created a universe full of intelligent creatures that could use their free will to love Him and reflect His love, but what if those creatures eventually all decide to separate themselves from The Life and chose death instead?

If that were to happen, God would stand where He stood at the beginning, before the creation of the first intelligent being with free will. His love could only be directed towards one of the three persons of the Godhead. But AGAPE love is directed toward others, not just love in between the persons of the Godhead. God IS love. He cannot be otherwise! He cannot switch off His love. He has to be a Creator, because He has to GIVE His love to others, because this is the NATURE of AGAPE love.

And if there is no one to give this love to because the creatures of the universe decided to follow the god of the dead, and therefore no longer exist?

God would have four possibilities:

1. Recreate the universe knowing that the same deadly circle of free will and refused agape love would eventually destroy the second universe, and the third, etc., OR

- 2. Refuse to create beings and live in all eternity in three persons without giving His love to others, OR
- 3. Create a universe full of robots without free will, OR
- 4. Do anew what Jesus proved even a member of the Godhead can do:

Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. (John 10:17)

Every person of the Godhead has the ability to LAY DOWN HIS LIFE. Jesus could do it, and so can God the Father, and the Holy Spirit. He also has the ability to not take it up again, because this would be HIS free will. Which of those possibilities would you choose if you saw that all kinds of free-will creatures that you created and would create in the future would eventually decide NOT to love you? Have you ever heard a sermon about these consequences? Did you ever understand that even God's personal well-being and His very existence is at stake in the Great Controversy?

The courage to face these questions is the kind of courage the 144,000 need to have in order to vindicate the Father in His great trial in front of the universe.

GOD IS LOVE, BUT LOVE CANNOT EXIST IF IT CANNOT BE GIVEN.

In the same way as mankind would commit suicide to decide not to love God, mankind would not only destroy the universe but the very reason for the existence of God Himself. Love would cease to exist, because it can only exist in being given.

Appendix A: Sin Will Not Rise Up a Second Time

After the witnesses testify in defense of God the Father during these final years of earth's history, what will guarantee that sin does not arise a second time? The following table compares the experience of the 144,000 with the experience of others, in regard to the sin problem.

Table: Comparison of Experiences with Sin
	Innocent (physical) Infirmities <small>i.e. hunger, pain, sadness, etc.</small>	Sinful (spiritual) Propensities	Knowledge of sin	Experience of sin	Resistance to sin	Overcoming of sin (in lifetime)
Adam before the sin fall	NO	NO	NO	NO	YES	NO
Adam after the sin fall (before his repentance and conversion)	YES	YES	YES	YES	NO	NO
Adam after the sin fall (after his repentance and conversion)	YES	NO	YES	YES	YES	NO
Christ as human on earth	YES	NO	YES	NO	YES	NO
144,000	YES	NO	YES	YES	YES	YES (antibodies against sin)

No other group of people has experienced en-masse the overcoming of sin within their lifetime that the 144,000 must experience. There have been a few isolated examples, such as Enoch,

Daniel, Job, etc., but remember that the court needs ample evidence, not a scattered handful of anecdotal “special cases”. Even Jesus Himself did not experience the overcoming of sin, because He was without sin. Again, it rings true that “greater works than these shall he do.” (John 14:12)

The multitude clothed in white are also described as follows:

Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them. (Revelation 7:15)

This verse describes them as serving God continually. These witnesses will serve as ambassadors for God throughout the universe to forever “inoculate” creation against the “virus” of sin. They have in themselves known sin, experienced sin, resisted sin, and overcome sin, and their ceaseless testimony will serve to prevent sin from ever rising a second time!

Appendix B: The Glow on our Faces

A number of years ago, I (Robert) was going through a difficult part of my journey as an Adventist Christian. Weighing on my heart was the question of why the 144,000 must suffer and endure the trials that they must, and generally why this old world is still here. Day after day, this question was in the back of my mind as I went about my life activities. Why must they face the death sentence? Why must they endure the plagues, and the harassment of the wicked world?

At this point in my life, I was on the upward straight and narrow pathway but was only just starting to emerge from a heavy cloud of confusion that I had fallen into. I was searching earnestly for Truth, but I was in constant and deep heart-felt pain day after day as each step on the upward path brought the realization of just how far I had fallen. I did not feel like I could be saved, much less be among some 144,000, but I kept on searching and “looking up” anyway.

It was during this time in my experience that it came to me like a revelation. I began to study and write about it, and when I finally comprehended the full magnitude of what our Father in heaven is suffering in the Great Controversy, and how His very Person and all His beloved universe full of creatures is hanging in the balance, it broke my heart! I knew right then and there that I had found what I was searching for all along: I found my purpose for existence. I found a love for God springing up in my heart that I had never known before. I decided right then and there that no matter what happened to me, I would use every next breath in me to work for His cause. I made that decision at a time that I did not even know if I would be saved, and frankly it didn't matter in comparison.

Years went by until recently this truth, coming down the corridors of church history, was brought to the attention of our study group with even greater definition. As we studied the subject together, one-by-one our faces began to shine like Moses when he came down from Mt. Sinai. With the additional light revealed and in the context of the times shown in Orion and the HSL, I reaffirmed my decision to give “my all” for our Heavenly Father's defense, regardless of the consequences to me personally.

The Reason Moses' Face Shined

And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai with the two tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone while he talked with him. (Exodus 34:29)

These were the second tables of stone that Moses was holding. Briefly, the first tables of stone which were provided by God represent Jesus, who came from Heaven, and had the Law written on His heart.

And the tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the tables. (Exodus 32:16)

The first tables were broken because of the sin of Israel, as Jesus was broken for us. By contrast, the second tables of stone were "hewn":

And the LORD said unto Moses, Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first: and I will write upon these tables the words that were in the first tables, which thou brakest. (Exodus 34:1)

That the tables were "hewn" by Moses shows that they represent no longer Jesus who came from Heaven, but fallen men and women like you and me who's hearts are "hewn" in preparation for the Law (character of God) to be written there. The 144,000 witnesses are represented by these tables.

Something special happened when Moses went up Sinai with the second tables that caused His face to shine by the time He came back down. We can read the verses from Exodus 34:10-26. In these verses God explains the Ten Commandments to Moses in a practical way that he can understand. He shows Moses how the children of Israel will fulfill the law in practice, thereby receiving God's character in themselves and vindicating Him before the heathen nations. Moses realizes his part in God's plan, his high calling to prepare the people to testify for God, and his face shines as a result!

Shining faces have been our experience too, as we have studied the subject of this article. I believe we are experiencing the fulfillment of the prophecy:

When God spoke the time, He poured upon us the Holy Ghost, and our faces began to light up and shine with the glory of God, as Moses' did when he came down from Mount Sinai. {EW 14.1}

Appendix C: The Godhead

Note: in this appendix we will be very careful to use the names of the Persons of the Godhead very precisely according to the illustrations given.

Jesus Himself spoke these most important words:

Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: (John 11:25)

And:

For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself; (John 5:26)

There are two known ways that life multiplies. We usually think about sexual multiplication, where the DNA of a male and a female partner are MIXED and a completely new and unique set of genes is created. The resulting individual or person is NOT exactly like either of the original two. It is definitely unique in its genetic base. The "character" of an individual is formed 30% by its genes. Therefore, even the character of a person is not completely like one of his/her parents.

The second form of reproduction of life is even more fundamental and much more widespread. It is non-sexual reproduction or simply "cell division" or cytokinesis. Even in our own body, all cells are reproducing with exactly this principle like simple organisms reproduce. All "higher" living forms that reproduce sexually are based on cells that reproduce non-sexually with simple cell division. Even plants are based on this principle. The most numerous living organisms (in variety and quantity) like plankton and bacteria are also based on this principle.

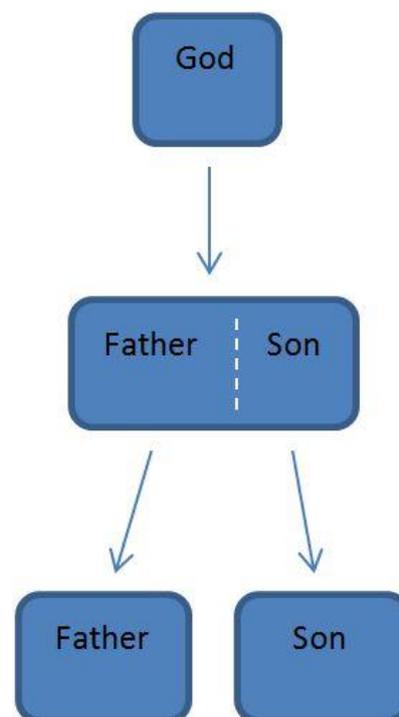

When a cell divides, the resulting individual is not differentiable genetically. The DNA is replicated 1:1 and the cell separates. There is not even another substance involved. All the substance of the "second" cell comes from the first cell!

Now, please understand: when a cell divides, you CANNOT tell which was the original cell or the child cell! Both cells existed prior to the separation; they just were "together". They have the same substance and the same genetic code. There is absolutely NO WAY to differentiate the two cells. You would have to mark them to distinguish them. If you see one cell you would have seen the other, because it is absolutely equal!

You have probably guessed what we are trying to say.

What if God separated once and this is how the Son resulted? This would make very clear what Jesus wanted to explain in John 1:

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. (John 1:1-2)

The question of WHEN God separated for the first time, is directly answered in the next verse:

All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made. (John 1:3)

This separation must have taken place before God created the universe, the heavens and all living beings. That is how ALL THINGS were made by the Son of God.

The original God separated before creation into the Father and the Son. The Father never separated anymore since then. Therefore, John states correctly about God:

For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. (John 3:16)

And Jesus says clearly:

I and my Father are one. (John 10:30)

With the process of cell-division in mind, all these statements become clearer to us. And they shine in even brighter light as you will see.

The Holy Spirit

Why is there no Holy Spirit in the Old Testament? This question opened the door for many discussions, and whole libraries have been written about it. This subject brought Christianity to the verge of ruin. The personality of the Holy Spirit is a hot topic today, and views on the subject have even become a line of demarcation between different groups of professed Christians.

There are just a few places where the term "holy spirit" appears in the Old Testament, and it is always associated with the Person of God, not as an independent Person (Psalms 51:11, Isaiah 63:10-11, Daniel 4:8-9,18, 5:11). The "Spirit of God" is mentioned in the Old Testament several times, firstly during the creation account:

And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. (Genesis 1:2)

But God is Spirit:

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth. (John 4:24)

When God divided into the Father and the Son before creation, both were “Spirit” even the SAME Spirit. So when Genesis 1:2 speaks about the Creator “Spirit” it speaks about the Son “Spirit” and not about the “Holy Spirit” as the third Person of the Godhead.

Sister White makes the following statement that gives room for the many anti-Trinitarians in our midst, but we will counter them with just a few arguments.

Cumbered with humanity, Christ could not be in every place personally; therefore it was altogether for their advantage that He should leave them, go to His father, and send the Holy Spirit to be His successor on earth. The Holy Spirit is Himself divested of the personality of humanity and independent thereof. He would represent Himself as present in all places by His Holy Spirit, as the Omnipresent. “But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in My name, He shall (although unseen by you), [this phrase was added by Ellen White.] teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you” [John 14:26]. “Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will come not unto you; but if I depart, I will send Him unto you” [John 16:7]. {14MR 23.3}

How can the Holy Spirit be Jesus HIMSELF? The anti-Trinitarians immediately explain: "Ha, now you see the Holy Spirit is just a force!" They already forgot how God divides and didn't notice that the Word of God, the Holy Bible, tells us even the very moment when the Son divided again:

And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God. (Luke 1:35)

Indeed, the Son divided into “Jesus” and the “Holy Ghost” at the very moment when the Son overshadowed Mary. Of course you can exchange the names interchangeably because all Persons of the Godhead are made of the same substance and have the same genetic makeup! The Son was the Holy Ghost as well as Jesus at the same time!

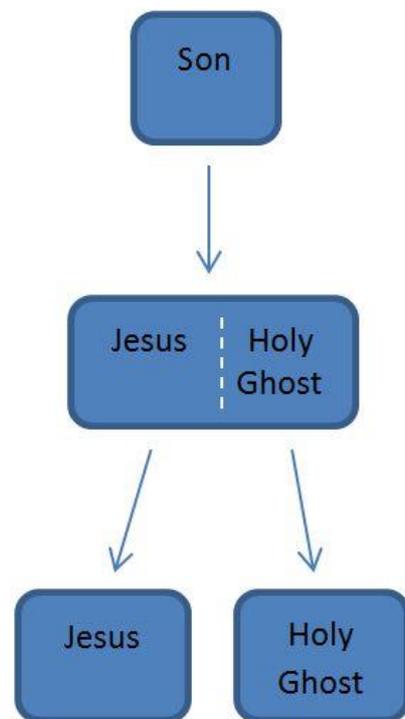

It requires wisdom to understand this. Now the statement of Ellen White becomes completely clear to us:

Cumbered with humanity, Christ could not be in every place personally; therefore it was altogether for their advantage that He should leave them, go to His father, and send the Holy Spirit to be His successor on earth. The Holy Spirit is Himself divested of the personality of humanity and independent thereof. {14MR 23.3}

Just Jesus adopted for eternity the human body! But the Holy Ghost is the same Son as eons before. Jesus and the Holy Spirit are both the Creator!

All these hard to understand and apparent contradictions in the Bible are solved now in a harmonious way! We just have been too blind to see that it was always true and important what Sister White told us:

The book of nature, which spread its living lessons before them, afforded an exhaustless source of instruction and delight. On every leaf of the forest and stone of the mountains, in every shining star, in earth and sea and sky, God's name was written. With both the animate and the inanimate creation—with leaf and flower and tree, and with every living creature, from the leviathan of the waters to the mote in the sunbeam—the dwellers in Eden held converse, gathering from each the secrets of its life. God's glory in the heavens, the innumerable worlds in their orderly revolutions, "the balancings of the clouds" (Job 37:16), the mysteries of light and sound, of day and night—all were objects of study by the pupils of earth's first school. {Ed 21.3}

The messages of the Clock of God in Orion and the Vessel of Time (High Sabbath List) both bear the name of their Author. In the three belt stars of Orion, and in the triplet years of the High Sabbath List, the three independent Persons of the Godhead are represented. The three messages themselves each tell the story of their respective Person: The Clock of God in Orion tells the story of what Jesus did and is doing right now. The High Sabbath List shows how the Holy Spirit has been cleaning the church in seven steps. And the great theme about the Last Generation Theology reveals the mysteries of the Father's great trial in which He has to be justified.

Christ Lives In Us

Jesus explained to us that He had to die in order for us to receive the Holy Spirit:

Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you. (John 16:7)

When Jesus became a man, He gave up permanently His divine nature (as we explained in detail in the section "At The Cross"). That divine (omnipresent) nature that He laid aside was none other than the Holy Spirit. The Son in becoming Jesus laid aside the Holy Spirit.

Jesus, suffering and dying, heard every word as the priests declared, "He saved others; Himself He cannot save. Let Christ the King of Israel descend now from the cross, that we may see and believe." Christ could have come down from the cross. But it is because He would not save Himself that the sinner has hope of pardon and favor with God. {DA 749.1}

Jesus took on humanity when He was incarnated, but through His life He maintained communion with divinity. Many times the Holy Spirit revealed things to Him that He wouldn't have known in His human form. At any point up to His death Jesus could have changed His mind and gone back to heaven, reassuming the Holy Spirit again and remaining the Son in His omnipresent form. But when He died, He sealed His decision to take on the human nature and was separated from the divine nature.

The Son was separated for us, and the death of Jesus (the final separation) was the evidence of the covenant:

And he said unto him, Take me an heifer of three years old, and a she goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtledove, and a young pigeon. And he took unto him all these, and divided them in the midst, and laid each piece one against another: but the birds divided he not...And it came to pass, that, when the sun went down, and it was dark, behold a smoking furnace, and a burning lamp that passed between those pieces. In the same day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates: (Genesis 15:9-10,17-18)

Remember what Jesus said, that He had to die in order to send the Comforter to us. Jesus had to be separated from the Holy Spirit so that He could send the Holy Spirit to us! His death put the covenant into effect, just like how the burning lamp passed between the pieces of the sacrifice that had been separated to confirm the covenant with Abram.

(There is an excellent article about the process of separation that Jesus went through on the cross at Teaching Hearts)

Now we understand how Christ (the Son) lives in us! It is through the omnipresent Holy Spirit, which is the Son Himself divested of humanity, and which can dwell in us when we have prepared our heart by cleaning it of all sin:

For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us. (2 Corinthians 4:7)

The Bible also tells us that our receiving the Holy Spirit is what seals us, and proves to us that our inheritance is sure:

That we should be to the praise of his glory, who first trusted in Christ. In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise, Which is the earnest of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the praise of his glory. (Ephesians 1:12-14)

The End of the Seventh-day Adventist Church

Written by John Scotram

We lifted our heads and looked at Orion. From there, we heard the voice of God telling the story of His end-time people. When we subsequently studied the Jewish holidays and recognized the importance of the “High Sabbaths” (which is when a ceremonial Sabbath falls on a Seventh-day Sabbath), we were given even deeper insights from the milestones along the path of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. God points out and illuminates the career of this unique church in two major books mentioned in the Bible: The Book of Seven Seals in Orion and the Book of Seven Thunders, which we now call the Vessel of Time, written continuously by the sun and the moon.

The SDA Church sees itself as the prophetic fulfillment of the woman of Revelation 12:1

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars: (Revelation 12:1)

1. We will discover a progressively-revealed plan in the image of the woman in Revelation 12:1, which extends to the present day and beyond. Each symbol represents a new era in God’s plan of salvation.
2. Whenever the time came that a transition should take place to a new era of the plan of salvation, there was one preparatory and collecting “prophet.” This divine concept shows God’s infinite grace, because He always gives several warnings before he acts. Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets. (Amos 3:7)
3. God sets before His people an open door with new light and new present truth at each transition to the next stage of the plan of salvation. After a certain point, however, he begins to close the “door of grace” for the unfaithful who do not follow the new light. The unfaithful for the most part, don’t notice the closing of the door and believe they are still on the right track.
4. At each transition to the next stage of the plan of salvation, there is a “Remnant”. Every time, there was a sifting of the unfaithful and a purification and testing of the faithful. And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ. (Revelation 12:17)

The Moon under the Feet of the Woman

The Jewish nation is represented by the moon under the feet of the woman. It symbolizes the shadow services by which the former people of God were distinguished. As the moon only reflects the light of the sun, the ceremonial shadow ministry was only a prophecy of the coming Messiah. Through their ceremonies, their godly life and the rich blessings that would result, the Israelites were to impress the surrounding peoples and so prepare their hearts for the message of the coming Savior. But the vast majority of Israelites failed their task and their unfaithfulness to God grew.

As the time had come that the Messiah was to appear, God announced it clearly to the Jews once again by the second Elijah, John the Baptist, who was to pave the way for the glorious ministry of the Son of God Himself. Jesus Himself took on the role of the collecting “prophet” and preached three and a half years among His people that the kingdom of heaven is at hand and that soon his intercessory service would begin in the heavenly sanctuary. Thus He was a blessing but also a stumbling block for many. Few realized that an opened door was set before them from the courtyard into the Holy Place of the Heavenly Sanctuary. When John the Baptist began to preach, he announced the opening of the door for the faithful, and for everyone who saw and listened to Jesus, it was opened wide and they entered through it.

Then the Jewish nation called to God that Jesus’ blood may come upon them and their children, and God gave them their desire. They sealed their fate by killing the Son of God, who preached to them about the heavenly Sanctuary in their earthly temple, and they chose Barabbas instead of Him. The opened door that was set before them as the “door of grace” for the Jewish nation began to close, yet the Lord of Heaven gave them another three-and-a-half years after May 25, A.D. 31 before He withdrew the candlestick from His people, making them a former people of God.

Why did God wait yet another three-and-a-half years? What could be worse than to crucify the Son of God? Stephen saw the heavens opened, and the Lord standing at the right hand of God, but instead of hearing praises to the God of Heaven through whom his glorious vision was manifest, he felt stones raining down on him out of the hands of his brethren bringing him to a cruel death. Even three-and-a-half years after the death of the Son of God, the Jews had learned nothing. They continued to kill the prophets of the Lord who wanted to tell them something about the Heavenly Sanctuary and the intercession that Christ was performing there, and so the candlestick finally went to those who were to preach to the Gentiles: the first Christian church.

Previously, Jesus had collected the 12 heads—the apostles—who were the remnant out of all Israel, and they honored the Lord and knew where He was now actually physically present; namely, in the Holy Place of the Heavenly Sanctuary. But none of their preaching had been heard. The plan of salvation was preached for three-and-a-half more years to the Jews after Jesus’ death on the cross, and although they saw all the evidences before them and could even hear the witnesses of the resurrection itself, their leaders turned away from the Holy Spirit who wanted to talk to them and so committed the Unpardonable Sin. The door to the Holy Place had been closed for them as a nation.

The Woman Clothed with the Sun

The woman of Revelation 12 herself, standing on the moon, symbolizes the Christian church, whose beginning with the apostles and generally, was in the years A.D. 31 and 34, respectively. She is clothed with the Sun of Righteousness, which is the Lord Himself, who had been designated as its Cornerstone. The sun produces its own light, just as Jesus is the source of the light of truth and life. The shadow service was not needed anymore to symbolize the already crucified and risen Savior in all His glory. However, the Christian church would not remain with the original pure doctrine, but apostatized. An entire seal-and-church cycle describes the terrible mixing of the teachings of the church with those of the ones they should have evangelized. The pagan customs and beliefs penetrated deeper into the church and the papacy became an instrument of Satan to destroy everything that Jesus had given to the church through the apostles. But despite the prevalence of apostasy, the true church of God existed, albeit in severely depleted form, preserved in her purity until another large sifting was to take place.

From the Reformation, many Protestant communities had emerged which had not yet reached the entire separation from pagan and papal influence because they did not understand that keeping Sunday instead of the biblical Sabbath constitutes acceptance of the mark of the Roman Pontiff. So the Reformation, which is established generally from 1517 to 1648, failed on the Sabbath question in the Council of Trent. But God would bring this question forward soon in another way and throw great light on the sacred day of rest that God in His authority established.

Around 1820, God raised up the first preparatory "prophet" for a Bible study. The North American farmer William Miller was the originator of the movement of the First Angel of Revelation 14 and would announce the time of God's judgment. Samuel Snow also announced a great and sublime message: "Babylon is fallen!" and had a strong following as the head of the Second Angel's Message, which showed the sins and transgressions of the apostate Protestant churches that still kept Roman commandments instead of divine. Both angels' movements announced the imminent new phase in God's plan of salvation. When, in the summer of 1844, they were gathered together and even preaching the exact day of the beginning of the Judgment (they thought, however, that it was the day of the coming of Jesus), the big "Midnight Cry" warning for the Christian churches sounded to turn them away from the sins of Babylon and to get them ready for the Judgment.

Those who heeded the warning and prepared spiritually, including their character, would also withstand the test that God had planned for the transition to the next phase. For God himself was the author of the Great Disappointment of 1844, because he had kept his finger on the realization that it was not the day of Jesus' return, which was announced by the Midnight Cry, as everyone believed. When Jesus did not come at the expected time, the only ones who were able to keep their faith were those who had unshakable trust in the reliability of God's Word and no wind could move them. They sought God more confidently than ever before, but had erred in their interpretation of God's word. How many would stand?

The Great Disappointment had involved all the major churches of the earth after the inter-church Midnight Cry of the combined First and Second Angel of Revelation 14. Afterward, there again remained only 12 people in order to keep going, while the others had rejected and discarded the light. It would be these 12 pioneers of the later Adventist Church, who on October 23, 1844 recognized the Sanctuary Truth and followed Jesus where He had gone. Hiram Edson, who was recently chosen by God as the collecting "prophet," with his spiritual eyes like Stephen, saw heaven opened and Jesus ministering before the Father in the Holy of Holies on our behalf. Only the 12 Adventist pioneers also saw this open door of Revelation 4:1 in the Heavenly Sanctuary and with God, passed across the threshold to the Most Holy Place of the Heavenly Courtroom for the intercessory ministry of Jesus in the Investigative Judgment, where He would henceforth perform the cleansing of the sanctuary of the heavenly Day of Atonement. Great truths were revealed to them and they spiritually followed God there, where the Ark of the Covenant with the Ten Commandments was, and the Spirit of God shortly thereafter opened the understanding of the lost Fourth Commandment as the last act of cleansing to return the gospel to its purity.

Each time, when there was a transition from one era of the woman in Revelation 12 to another, it was a time of closing the door of mercy for those who rejected the open door. When the Jews lost their candlesticks, this process began on a (now) exactly ascertainable date: May 25, A.D. 31 when they caused Jesus to be nailed to the cross. But their grace period was not over yet. The Lord gave them another three and a half years until finally, when they still refused and they stoned Stephen, the door was closed. During this time the Gospel was preached in Jerusalem with all its might to Jews and Gentiles, but it was not officially directed to the Gentiles and still no evangelistic trips were taken. Saul was called by Jesus shortly after the stoning of Stephen, and thus the new era of Christianity to the Gentiles had finally begun, although certainly in the three and a half years prior, some pagans were converted to Jesus.

The case was very similar during the transition from the Christian church at the time of the judgment of the people—the SDA Church. As October 22, 1844 passed—the day of the Great Disappointment—many had crucified their faith in Bible prophecy and a soon-returning Jesus. It was again over two years until Ellen G. White and her husband accepted the Sabbath truth and so a truly pure gospel began to be preached again. In the Bible, this transition period is clearly shown by the difference in time of the coming of the “Ancient of Days” and the coming of the “Son of Man”.

The Crown of the Woman

I beheld till thrones were placed, and one that was ancient of days did sit: his raiment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like pure wool; his throne was fiery flames, and the wheels thereof burning fire. A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: thousands of thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: the judgment was set, and the books were opened. (Daniel 7:9-10 ASV)

On October 22, 1844 God the Father already sat, the thrones of the elders were prepared and the Judgment began. The elders (for the Judgment of the Dead) also sat and books were opened. But Jesus Himself was not yet part of this event. His appearance will come in a later verse.

I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed. (Daniel 7:13-14)

In order to better understand exactly when Jesus made His appearance and what happened in consequence, we must, as always, study Daniel and Revelation together. The same scene is in fact also found in Revelation 4 and 5. In Revelation 4, we get the description of the courtroom and the Father on His throne. The open door in verse 1 is the door to the Most Holy of October 22, 1844. But Jesus enters the scene only as shown in Chapter 5 with the big question of who is worthy to open the book with seven seals. When Jesus receives the book from the hand of His Father, the 24 elders pray to Him and make known the reason why all the dominion, glory and kingdom was given to the Lamb:

And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth. (Revelation 5:9-10)

The giving of the dominion, glory and kingdom began shortly after the start of the Judgment and took some amount of time, and only then was the first seal broken by Jesus himself:

And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see. And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer. (Revelation 6:1-2)

Many Adventists have attacked the Orion study, saying that there is no overlap of two years between the Judgment beginning in Revelation 4 and the opening of the first seal in Revelation 6, and therefore the clock showing the first seal in 1846 must be wrong. The opposite is the case. Even the biblical text in Daniel and Revelation insists that such a difference in time and a transition phase exists. During this period, the truth of the Judgment beginning in the Heavenly Sanctuary was preached alone, independent of the Sabbath truth. The Rider of the White Horse did not go forth in the first seal until Ellen G. White and her husband accepted the Sabbath in the autumn of 1846 based on the book of Joseph Bates, which was printed in August 1846. That was when the pure Gospel really began to ride again. Anyone who denies this is going against biblical and historical truth.

And not only that, he is also opposing a divine vision of Ellen White herself, which she received in 1847, which has for a long time given Adventists something to think about. It is the vision of the “end of the 2300 days”, in which the time difference between the entering of the Father and the entering of the Son into the Heavenly Sanctuary is described directly from the mouth of God:

I saw the Father rise from the throne, and in a flaming chariot go into the holy of holies within the veil, and sit down. Then Jesus rose up from the throne, and the most of those who were bowed down arose with Him. I did not see one ray of light pass from Jesus to the careless multitude after He arose, and they were left in perfect darkness. Those who arose when Jesus did, kept their eyes fixed on Him as He left the throne and led them out a little way. [This marks a special time period in 1844, about which we will write later.] Then He raised His right arm, and we heard His lovely voice saying, “Wait here; I am going to My Father to receive the kingdom; keep your garments spotless, and in a little while I will return from the wedding and receive you to Myself.” Then a cloudy chariot, with wheels like flaming fire, surrounded by angels, came to where Jesus was. He stepped into the chariot and was borne to the holiest, where the Father sat. [The entry of Jesus to the Most Holy Place at October 22, 1844.] There I beheld Jesus, a great High Priest, standing before the Father. On the hem of His garment was a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate. Those who rose up with Jesus would send up their faith to Him in the holiest, and pray, “My Father, give us Thy Spirit.” Then Jesus would breathe upon them the Holy Ghost. In that breath was light, power, and much love, joy, and peace [the Sabbath truth, which came in 1846]. {EW 55.1}

We have reported on this extensively in the article The 1335 Days. And just as the Jews were left in the dark when the gospel went to the Gentiles, so the rest of Christendom which turned away from the faith in the First and Second Angel’s Messages were left in spiritual ignorance. The vision goes on to describe their terrible state, having left their old faith and rejected the new light. In the wake of the Great Disappointment, they had rejected both the sanctuary doctrine and the light of the Sabbath in the Third Angel’s Message:

I turned to look at the company who were still bowed before the throne; they did not know that Jesus had left it. Satan appeared to be by the throne, trying to carry on the work of God. I saw them look up to the throne, and pray, “Father, give us Thy Spirit.” Satan would then breathe upon them an unholy influence; in it there was light and much power, but no sweet love, joy, and peace. Satan’s object was to keep them deceived and to draw back and deceive God’s children. {EW 56.1}

Those who resisted the influence of the Holy Spirit and the new light in spite of all the evidence—which still requires faith—finally ended up under the influence of Satan’s Fables. It is a false spirit, a false awakening and fake light poured upon them by the enemy of souls, and they will eventually be ruined.

The door of mercy for the Christian church had started to close on October 22, 1844. Only those who remained steadfast despite the disappointment, could pass the next test—the acceptance or rejection of the truth of the seventh-day Sabbath. In the autumn of 1846 out of the whole church, only the 12 Adventist pioneers chose the Sanctuary truth and the Sabbath truth, and were thus ready to start a new cycle of Seals and Churches as God’s purified church. God gave the other churches two years to repent and then the door into the Most Holy Place closed for them. Then Satan was allowed to exert a particularly unholy influence on them, through which they could never more as an organized community recognize the Present Truth.

In these two years of the transition period, the coronation ceremony of Jesus took place in the Most Holy Place and therefore the woman carries the crown on her head as a symbol of crowned Jesus while she was clothed with Jesus as the Sun of Righteousness during the time of the Christian era. Whether it’s the moon, which pointed to Jesus in the ceremonial services, the sun, which was the interceding Jesus, or the crown that symbolizes the royal High Priest Jesus after the order of Melchizedek, it is always Jesus surrounding the true church of God and at the same time shows their growth in the present truth. Those who will have decoded all the symbols will have reached the end, and Jesus will accompany them on their journey to the Orion Nebula.

Many Adventists unfortunately overlooked the changing symbols in Revelation 12:1 in the transition from the Christian church to the Adventist Church and believe that the progression ends with the woman, respectively that the woman goes through to the end. Yet the symbolism goes further. The Statue of Daniel starting from the head of gold and going down to the end of the kingdoms when the great stone smashes it and fills all the earth, tells the ending to the story of Satan’s declining empire. Similarly, the image of the woman in Revelation 12 describes the buildup of the structure of the infinite Kingdom of God from its foundation, in the opposite direction—from bottom to top. Yet the woman herself is not the last symbol in this order. The SDA Church, which should emerge from the Christian church, is represented by the crown of the woman of Revelation 12.

But this church would also fall away from the pure gospel. In autumn 1846, a new seal-and-church cycle had started, which was written as the sins of the SDA Church by the finger of God Himself in the Book of Seven Seals in Orion. The biggest failures of the church, which had received infinite light by the Spirit of Prophecy—Ellen White—were marked by God for the last generation of the 144,000 to learn from these mistakes. Ellen G. White took on the role of the announcing prophet for the new testing light which should cause the next sifting. Already in her first vision of 1844, she announced the latter rain and the sealing time of the 144,000 and scarcely three years later, she received her vision of Orion, the voice of God and the Holy City, which would also come down from there. She endorsed a dream of William Miller as prompted by God, wherein was predicted the “Second Miller”, and it was reprinted in Early Writings of the Adventist Church as a prophecy.

As the Orion Message appeared in 2010 and the lost jewels of William Miller were “found and cleaned” as William Miller’s dream prophesied, the man who was permitted to read the clock in Orion with the Holy Spirit, now identifies himself as the promised “Second Miller”. He should be the collecting “prophet” for the last generation, and from 2010 began to actively seek people who would recognize these truths and would be willing to teach them.

Ellen G. White had announced the open door as follows: “Dark, heavy clouds came up and clashed against each other. The atmosphere parted and rolled back; then we could look up through the open space in Orion, whence came the voice of God. The Holy City will come down through that open space.” and John Scotram saw with his spiritual eyesight into this open space and his Lord Jesus Christ interceding before His Father with His blood. While the Adventists increasingly lost faith in the Sanctuary Doctrine and the view of the Heavenly Sanctuary, those people who raised their heads began to gather together and see the heavens opened and could see behind the veil of the Orion Nebula and realize that there the Father would soon leave the Sanctuary and Jesus Himself would take the Judgment of the Living.

As of spring 2010, an open door had been presented to the SDA Church, but they vehemently rejected the new light as something dangerous. Ellen G. White had also seen this in vision and prophesied:

There is to be in the churches a wonderful manifestation of the power of God, but it will not move upon those who have not humbled themselves before the Lord, and opened the door of the heart by confession and repentance. In the manifestation of that power which lightens the earth with the glory of God, they will see only something which in their blindness they think dangerous, something which will arouse their fears, and they will brace themselves to resist it. Because the Lord does not work according to their ideas and expectations, they will oppose the work. "Why," they say, "should not we know the Spirit of God, when we have been in the work so many years?"—Because they did not respond to the warnings, the entreaties of the messages of God, but persistently said, "I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing." Talent, long experience, will not make men channels of light, unless they place themselves under the bright beams of the Sun of Righteousness, and are called, and chosen, and prepared by the endowment of the Holy Spirit. When men who handle sacred things will humble themselves under the mighty hand of God, the Lord will lift them up. He will make them men of discernment—men rich in the grace of his Spirit. Their strong, selfish traits of character, their stubbornness, will be seen in the light shining from the Light of the world. "I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent." If you seek the Lord with all your heart, he will be found of you. {RH December 23, 1890, Art. B, par. 18}

God had wanted for so long to give the Latter Rain to the Movement of the Third Angel, who had been supported by the messenger of God, Ellen G. White, but when He finally came, no one was prepared to recognize the Message for what it was. The Orion Message was dismissed by most as time-setting without ever studying it, and the Vessel of Time was also rejected, even though it once again confirms that the SDA Church was God's end-time church which had the truth.

Just before the Midnight Cry and during the Midnight Cry itself, the Christian churches had been warned three times before the door of grace began to close for them (1843, spring 1844, October 22, 1844) and so God would again repeat this characteristic detail when closing the door of grace for the Adventist Church. Due to the timelines identified in Daniel 12, John Scotram and his friends admonished the SDA Church to repent for the sins identified by God and deviations from the straight path before the great events of February 27, 2012, of April 5, 2012, and of May 5, 2012. The warnings were laughed to scorn and a head-hunt began for the "Orion heretics" within the SDA Church. Meanwhile great things had happened in the Heavenly Sanctuary, but they could only be seen by those people to whom God had opened heaven. On February 26/27 the Father left the sanctuary and went the 40 days to the threshold of the court on April 5/6, to face the Judgment against Him, which would finally decide the Great Controversy with the accuser Satan. Here Jesus was appointed to be the Supreme Judge of the universe and the Judgment of the Living began on May 5/6, 2012. We've written about all this in the article series The Final Warning.

These heavenly events were not accompanied by any of the Adventist Church's long-anticipated key events such as the Sunday Law in the United States or the Fireballs, and due to this apparent disappointment, as it was on October 22, 1844, many left their belief in the new Present Truth because they had no spiritual eyesight to pierce the veil of the Heavenly Sanctuary. The door of mercy for the Adventist Church began to close, however, and as the Protestant churches before her and the Jewish people of Jesus' time, they had no idea that their candlestick would finally be withdrawn if they did not confess and repent.

Some had been shaken out and left by the way. The careless and indifferent, who did not join with those who prized victory and salvation enough to perseveringly plead and agonize for it, did not obtain it, and they were left behind in darkness, and their places were immediately filled by others taking hold of the truth and coming into the ranks.—Early Writings, 271 (1858). {LDE 182.1}

And again God convened a transitional time during which it would still be possible to repent. As of May 5/6, 2012, the Judgment of the Living had begun. Imperceptible to the vast majority of the SDA Church, the final countdown for this denomination—richly endowed by God—began. The Holy Spirit, however, had begun to retreat and the worst of problems became visible from this point on in the church. For example, the question of women's ordination caused a fragmentation of the church and yet no one was able to see that the end of the organized SDA Church became clear in 2012 exactly as the Vessel of Time indicated.

But when exactly would the door of mercy for the Adventist Church start to close forever? And what event would usher in the closing of her door of grace? Even John Scotram and his friends faced these questions. To determine the time, we must dig deeper....

The Stars in the Crown of the Woman

The crown of the woman symbolizes not only the crown of Jesus, but also that crown obtained by all who would accept and live the new present truths that would be revealed during the trial period from 1844 on. One crown is given to the faithful of the church in Smyrna, who will ultimately die during the repetition of the Fifth Seal as a martyr, to make up their full number.

Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life. (Revelation 2:10)

And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth? And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled. (Revelation 6:9-11)

The second crown in Revelation given to the church of Philadelphia, represents the 144,000 who had understood the Voice of God with a time message and will not see death. They will be saved from the hour of temptation, which is the time of Plagues, because they are the patient saints who will not have denied the name of Jesus during the Great Test of the Sunday Laws.

Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth. Behold, I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown. (Revelation 3:10-11)

These are the faithful witnesses of God, those created beings who will prove the righteousness of God in the last part of the Great Judgment. Theirs is the crown. Part of them will die, and we look back with them to the Judgment of the Dead. Another part will not taste death, and we look forward with them to the Judgment of the Living and thus to eternal life.

In the great circle of 24 thrones around the throne of God in the courtroom (Revelation 4:4), 12 thrones were symbolically reserved for the pioneers of the Adventist Church, and they were occupied for 168 years during the time of the Judgment of the Dead. But who sits on the second semi-circle?

The symbol of the crown of the woman in Revelation 12 is also not the end. One more detail is still mentioned for us:

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars: (Revelation 12:1)

The community of the Movement of the Fourth Angel under the direction of John Scotram, recommended on May 5/6, 2012, a second Lord's Supper, when 12 men and women symbolically sat down in the second half-circle around the judgment seat of God. After more than two years of searching within the 17 million members of the organized Global SDA Church, John Scotram only managed to find 12 people who had humbly handed over themselves to the Lord that they had received the light the Fourth Angel and the Holy Spirit in the Latter Rain. Again there were only 12 who would take the next step in God's plan of salvation, as it was before with the apostles and the Advent pioneers. As Ellen White prophesied, they did not form a new organization nor even divide from the Adventist Church, but the Adventist Church refused to give the glory to the Lord and at least hold a Lord's supper with brethren who had recognized the new Present Truth.

In this symbol of the 12 stars in the crown of the woman, God even gives the exact number of persons who should be the heads of the 144,000, because it is also a literal number, because they are the 12 tribes of the new Spiritual Israel each to collect 12,000 members with them. They are the chiefs and each represents a character trait that is typical of one of the tribes of Israel, which they have to overcome with the help of Jesus. These 12 people were exposed to most difficult tests before God made them "elders" in the Judgment of the Living. They are the ones who guide the wise from Daniel 12:3, shining like the stars of the Orion Message.

Thus, the Judgment of the Living began unnoticed by the great majority and was an additional test for the few who should soon have the job to sound the Loud Cry. Aware that the Judgment of the Living had already started, now the question of the exact end of the Judgment of the Dead stood before them. In the series of articles on the Final Warning we have already shared with the readers many insights from our own experience, but for us, too much was still unclear and only with time the Holy Spirit led us to clarifying scriptures. Today we have a very clear understanding of this time, which also marks the beginning of the final closing of the door of mercy for the Adventist Church.

When Does the Judgment of the Dead End?

It escaped our mind for some time that there had to be, as in the previous phases, a transition period to change to a new phase in the plan of salvation, which is also true for the transition from the Judgment of the Dead to the Judgment of the Living! The preceding types clearly say so. Therefore, it was incorrect for us to assume that events such as the Great Cataclysm and the Sunday Law would happen at the beginning of the Judgment of the Living. But this was a fallacy and we will correct it now and explain it in all its fullness.

Even in the analysis of the Oath of Jesus to the two men on respective sides of the river in Daniel 12 it should have been obvious to us that Jesus held both hands in a raised position simultaneously. We had perfectly understood that it had to be in order for the two men to be representatives of the Judgment of the Dead and the Living, and we also understand that Jesus had hidden the time of Judgment of the Dead within the image itself ($7 * 2 * 12 = 168$ years), and that the duration of the Judgment of the Living was expressed in spoken form in the oath (for a time, times and half a time) = 3 1/2 years, but if the two times will run with no overlap then Jesus would have to have first raised a hand to only one man and later a hand to the other man for whom the spoken text of the oath should be valid. Holding both hands in a lifted position simultaneously, as the biblical text says, already indicated a transitional period.

Furthermore, we had many errors in the precision of the Orion Clock, which may be forgiven us since we are also just students. When exactly did the Orion Clock start ticking or when exactly did the Judgment of the Dead begin? The simple answer is: On October 22, 1844 at the beginning of the Day of Atonement.

Now two further questions follow, which we had not yet elaborated on because we were constantly exposed to the hostility of the fanatical anti-time-setters in the Adventist ranks who wanted to stop us again and again from announcing a very precise point in time:

1. When exactly does a year begin in the Orion Clock?
2. When exactly do the 168 years of the Orion Clock end?

There is one more interesting question: “Why did God set in the Bible two beginnings to the year?” If we can find the answers to those two questions in this article, then we will know the answer to this third question.

Early in the Orion Presentation since its beginning in 2010, we calculated that the distance between two elders, the points that mark the hours of the clock, must be exactly 7 years. In other words: the 168 years on Earth for the Judgment Day in Heaven were broken into 24 heavenly hours which correspond on the earth to 24 intervals of 7 years each. We should have immediately recognized that this corresponds to a particular rhythm that God explained to Moses more than 3500 years ago:

And the LORD spake unto Moses in mount Sinai, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then shall the land keep a sabbath unto the LORD. Six years thou shalt sow thy field, and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof; But in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard. That which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap, neither gather the grapes of thy vine undressed: for it is a year of rest unto the land. And the Sabbath of the land shall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy servant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for thy stranger that sojourneth with thee. And for thy cattle, and for the beast that are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat. (Leviticus 25:1-7)

But where is it written that the counting of these sabbatical years should begin? God answers this in the same context in the next three verses, while also introducing the counting of the Jubilee years:

And thou shalt number seven sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years; and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years. Then shalt thou cause the trumpet of the jubile to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month, in the day of atonement shall ye make the trumpet sound throughout all your land. And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubile unto you; and ye shall return every man unto his possession, and ye shall return every man unto his family. (Leviticus 25:8-10)

The counting of the years within the sabbatical cycle is to commence after the largest annually recurring Jewish festival, the Day of Atonement!

In the articles of the Shadow Series, we had on the other hand the month Abib as the beginning of the Jewish year. The Bible does in fact give these two different beginnings of the year. Many now believe that these are “religious” and “civil” year beginnings, respectively, but that does not stand. Since both year beginnings can be traced back to God’s commands, both are “religious” in nature! The observing of Rosh Hashanah—the first day of Tishri on the Feast of Trumpets—was introduced much later by the rabbis, and is stipulated as the beginning of the New Year, but it is not biblical. If you want, you can call that the “Political New Year” and it is also recognized by the Jews today.

But biblically, there are two year beginnings... for the festival year, which begins at the Passover on the 14th day of the first month Abib in the spring, and the sabbatical year which always begins on the 10th day of Tishri on the Day of Atonement. God has already shown with these two year beginnings that there are two major prophecies that relate to each of the two year beginnings, and it is based on these counts.

It is logical to assign the Orion Clock hours to the sabbaticals for two reasons:

1. The distance between the elders is exactly 7 years, which is the sabbatical year cycle.
2. The Orion Clock begins with the Day of Atonement on October 22, 1844.

Every single line of the Vessel of Time with the list of the High Sabbaths, on the other hand, consists of "Spring/Autumn"-combinations of the corresponding fulfillments of the festive season. Thus in the Vessel of Time, the year begins with the spring festivals and the month Abib. Thus God in His wisdom established two year beginnings 3500 years ago, the prophetic meaning of which would not be decrypted until the end of time by the Orion study and the study of the Vessel of Time.

Through the Orion Clock we learned pure year dates, not knowing exactly when the year would begin. But there were always two possibilities, either with the Passover in the spring or with the Day of Atonement in the autumn. But this fact escaped us and we just assumed the year began with the spring festivals. Now we know better and understand that the Orion Clock follows the sabbatical cycle and this has major implications for the precision of the fulfillment of certain prophecies and time periods.

So when we read a date in the Orion Clock, we need to understand that this year begins in the fall and with the Yom Kippur day of the relevant year and does not end until the following year, on Yom Kippur. In the Vessel of Time, however, we read the years as beginning in the spring with the first possible fulfillment of Passover and continuing until the following Passover. Interestingly (and this is perhaps the subject of another article) the Ministry of Jesus in the "Harmony of the Gospels" in our Bible Commentary runs from Passover to Passover, with a few events listed during his first six months of ministry that began in the autumn.

Can it be that the three-and-a-half-year ministry of the 144,000 reflects the Ministry of Christ as an anti-type, from Atonement to Atonement with only a half a year delay?

From the beginning of the Judgment of the Living on May 5/6, 2012, all 24 elders were sitting simultaneously in two semi-circles around the throne of God for a transition period established by God. This is because the Judgment of the Dead had not been completed and the symbolic Adventist pioneers still occupied their places at the same time the Judgment had begun on the Living and the 12 elders who are portrayed as the 12 stars of the crown of the woman had also taken their seats.

What Will Happen on the Day of Atonement in 2012?

While our SDA brethren laughed at our little disappointments in the spring of 2012, we, like the Adventist pioneers, kept on looking for the truth and were rewarded. We recognized that according to the Orion Clock, "2012" would not begin until the autumn of 2012 and will last all the way till the autumn of 2013. We also understand that our ministry should be a reflection of Jesus' three and a half years of ministry on earth, and we studied the events in Jesus' first six months to find that there was almost perfect agreement with our ministry. Very few things happened in the first half-year of Jesus' earthly ministry, but the things that did happen are a relevant type for us. If anyone wants to study for themselves, they can take a look at the "Harmony of the Gospels" in the Adventist Bible Commentary, Volume 5, pages 196 - 201. Those who will be among the 144,000 will soon learn from us what has happened in the last six months with us.

The big event that really rang in the ministry of Jesus on earth was his first Cleansing of the Temple at Passover in A.D. 28. At that time, Jesus threw out all the merchants from the temple, which had disgraced the house of His Father. And so we gather that there will also be a cleansing of the temple of the SDA Church, wherein those who only see the church as business will be excluded. All this will begin shifted a half-year, since our year count begins in the fall with the Day of Atonement and not with the Passover in the spring. Interestingly, the majority of the “elders” are now in Paraguay, where the seasons are opposite to the Northern Hemisphere. The Day of Atonement is a “Spring Feast” for us, as the Passover was in Jesus’ day in Jerusalem.

When we look at Jesus’ type of the cleansing of the temple, then there must happen some event that makes Him so angry that He finally begins to close the door of grace for the SDA Church, and to judge all of the Church Temple which owe equally as large a debt as the stoning of Stephen or the refusal of the Sabbath truth. It must be a terrible thing, with which the SDA Church sealed her fate. It must even correspond to the sin against the Holy Spirit.

Can it be the Sunday Law? No, because we have not yet completely analyzed the symbol of the “12 stars in the crown of the woman”. Who in this time after the Day of Atonement in 2012 is the announcing prophet and who the collecting? To understand this, we must first remember that there is still another open door, and yet a door of grace that will close: the open door is of the Ark to leave this planet in the direction of Orion, and the door of grace for the whole of humanity closes according to our studies right after the Judgment of the Living. God will again proclaim the closing of this last door of grace with announcing- and collecting-prophets.

Ellen White prophesied that the Message of the Fourth Angel would unite with the Message of the Third Angel, and that this will be the Loud Cry, when God calls out of the churches of Babylon the last of the faithful. Here, there will be two collections among all nations of the earth... the gathering of the 144,000 who will not see death, and the gathering of the martyrs, who have yet to complete the number of their successors. Just as the Midnight Cry was the announcing “prophet,” which warned that the door of grace would close for the Christian community, the Loud Cry is the announcing prophet for the rest of humanity.

In it, two angels’ messages are united: The Third Angel’s Message, which warns against the acceptance of the mark of the beast (of Sunday) and the Message of the Fourth Angel, which also brings the time factor into play and is the necessary backbone that makes up the character of a follower of Christ. The Fourth Angel’s Message also shows the terrible consequences that a failure of even one of 144,000 would entail for God Himself and the entire universe.

What is the goal of the Loud Cry? The sealing of the 144,000, the martyrs, and the Great Multitude! So who is the “collecting prophet”? Clearly he who performs the sealing, the Holy Spirit Himself, the man with the inkwell of Ezekiel 9 (read carefully!). So whoever fails to obey the Loud Cry will have sinned directly against the Holy Spirit again, as was the case in all stages of the plan of salvation before. It is also interesting that Jesus himself worked as a human being in the first transition of the Jews to Christianity and now through His ubiquitous counterpart, the Holy Spirit.

And now one has to think again carefully! What does the union of the Third and the Fourth Angel to sound the Loud Cry mean? When will the door of grace for humanity start to close? What is the test that accomplishes this last sifting of humanity? All Adventists know: The Sunday Law, which will make Sabbath observance very difficult! The SDA Church as a Movement of the Third Angel has been warned for 168 years of an impending global Sunday Law, which will begin – particularly in the U.S. But no one could receive the mark of the beast yet, because this law needs to be in place so that one can fall thereby. So it’s the first phase of the closing of the door of grace for the world and not the closing of the door of grace for the SDA Church as many assume. All peoples will be tested by the Sunday Law and not just the SDA Church members. Something else must happen which ushers in the closing of the door of grace for the SDA Church just before the coming of the Sunday law—something as final and as terrible as the adoption of Sunday.

The only passage of Ellen G. White which is always used to show that the door of grace closes for the Adventist Church at the Sunday Law is as follows:

The broken ranks will be filled up by those represented by Christ as coming in at the eleventh hour. There are many with whom the Spirit of God is striving. The time of God's destructive judgments is the time of mercy for those who [now] have no opportunity to learn what is truth. Tenderly will the Lord look upon them. His heart of mercy is touched, His hand is still stretched out to save, while the door is closed to those who would not enter. Large numbers will be admitted who in these last days hear the truth for the first time.—Letter 103, 1903. {LDE 182.2}

It is likely quite true that in the Little Time of Trouble just before the closing of the door of mercy for mankind, the door of grace will be closed for the Adventist Church. But there is no basis for a conclusion that the closing of the door of grace for the Adventist Church would be caused through the Sunday Law. That you just can't read from this quote no matter how hard you try.

On the contrary, the declaration of a long-awaited Sunday Law constitutes the last act of the drama and ushers in the closing of the door of grace for humanity, the whole of which must be undergoing this test, so that everybody will have decided to take his stand with Emmanuel or the enemy of souls.

To complete the picture of the stars in the crown of the woman, we must ask ourselves the question: what terrible event finally closes the door of mercy for humanity? Also, we can identify what would be most likely according to the testimony of the Spirit of Prophecy, and it corresponds to the stoning of Stephen by the Jews: the final death decree for the complete extermination of the Sabbath-keepers. Good thing we also know that this execution according to the type of Esther will also be postponed by approximately one year, during which the Plagues are falling, when the 144,000, who have the special Seal of God, will go through this time alive.

Now we are still facing the question of what terrible offense is committed by the SDA Church on Yom Kippur 2012 in order to start permanently closing her door of grace to the Orion Nebula, forever barring her view from the Heavenly Sanctuary. To answer this, we should take another look at the question of when exactly is the Day of Atonement in 2012....

When is the Day of Atonement in 2012?

So now we understand that the years marked in the Orion overlap the years marked in the Vessel of Time by half a year, and therefore we can logically recognize that the Judgment of the Dead, which started in Orion on October 22, 1844, will not be completed until the autumn of 2012 on Yom Kippur. This will be the completion of the period of 168 years, which were prophesied by Jesus Himself in the oath of Daniel 12. Through the Vessel of Time, we also found out that the Judgment of the Living started on May 5/6, 2012 on the second possible 2012 Passover, to go for a period of 1260 days. This overlap again represents a transitional period from one symbol of the woman of Revelation 12 to the other. The overlap of half a year of the Judgment phases is respectively the transition from the crown to the 12 stars in the crown. These 12 stars in the crown of the woman are not a new SDA organization, but are simply the rest of it, who first experienced the new light by hearing the voice of Jesus and have understood through the help of the Holy Spirit to pass it on to others.

With which Day of Atonement in 2012, should we start the beginning of the cleansing of the SDA temple? We know from the Vessel of Time and the rediscovered calendar of God in the Gethsemane study that there are two possible dates for the Day of Atonement. One may say that the barley was found in 2012 at the first possible month and thus September 27/28 should be taken as a day of atonement. But we have learned from the Vessel of Time that the High Sabbaths of God are of utmost importance. And the second possible Atonement this year is actually such a High Sabbath. It will take place on October 26/27, 2012, which is the seventh day of the week! So we have to look for an event that will take place on that day and which is so severe that God will start to close the door of mercy for the SDA Church.

What will happen? What is the Lord—who acts on High Sabbaths—going to do this day forward to judge His church in the Judgment of the Living? We do not know!

But we know that the SDA Church is facing a major shock. We know that her heart is already virtually destroyed by the many heresies and the infiltration by Jesuits in the leadership. We know that the vast majority of Adventists today are as worldly as the rest of the world and they are no longer different from the ecumenical Christian or even “pagan”. But we also know that the Spirit of Prophecy said that it will be cleansed. Nevertheless, this doesn’t say how many will remain after the cleansing!

The message of the Vessel of Time indicates the end of the organized SDA Church in 2012 by a corresponding triplet to the years 1861–1863. In those years, the name of our church was voted and the church organization was created. Something started in these three years that ends in 2010–2012. Ellen White made it clear that the name of the SDA Church was chosen by God and inspired.

We are Seventh-day Adventists. Are we ashamed of our name? We answer, “No, no! We are not. It is the name the Lord has given us. It points out the truth that is to be the test of the churches.”— Letter 110, 1902. {2SM 384.1}

It is about the “Seventh-day” in the name of the church, which will be the test. Some of my friends and I thought for a while that this could indicate that the SDA Church could change its name under the pressure of the Sunday Law, and that the organization would end if they would give it another name that would not be offensive to the churches of the New World Order. A name change from “Seventh-day Adventist Church” to only “Adventist Church” would be a betrayal of God Himself who gave the name. It would also be a betrayal of the Sabbath, the sign of God for His people!

When the Seventh-day Adventist Church would even betray the Sabbath in their name, then surely the beginning of the end for this people would have come. But does the SDA Church really have to change their name when the Sunday Law comes in order to conform to Sunday worship? No, even a very clear “no”! It’s because the papacy itself has for some time spoken in its encyclicals about the seventh-day Sabbath, referring to Sunday! Everywhere people are indoctrinated that Sunday is the seventh day of the week. There are already many countries with calendars that begin the week on Monday. It’s easy to say “We Seventh-day Adventists hold the seventh day of the week as a holy day of rest”, but today that can no longer be seen as a direct rejection of Sunday, because the meaning of this term has been totally distorted. Even the lunar Sabbath keepers, who keep the Sabbath every month on a different day of the week call themselves “Seventh-day Adventists” because within each month they keep the day of rest every seventh day. So why would an apostate leadership make a name change only to wake a sleeping giant, when they could stand just fine with the old name and never be in contradiction to the New World Order?

Nevertheless, according to the Vessel of Time it must be that the name that was given by God in 1861–1863 has something to do with it and the desecration of the Sabbath, and it must be done so covertly that once again the vast majority of the sleeping SDA sheep do not notice that their God is so offended that he even slams the door on His church.

The Betrayal of the Creator and His Sabbath

As we realized all of these things, it only took a Google search to find out what crime the Jesuit leadership of the SDAC plans for October 27, 2012, so that all who support or condone this betrayal of God are led into eternal perdition. And it especially touched my heart when I realized that I had already written about this atrocity here on May 14, 2010 and warned on my website of its terrible approaching. At that time, I had already picked up on what many saw as an unimpressive message in the German SDA press agency saying that the “Day of Creation” should now be kept as part of the Ecumenical Movement on the first Friday in September. The German SDA Church had also commented on this, and published in the same article that the Seventh-day Adventist Church is celebrating the Day of Creation at the end of October.

I was scared to death, because it was obvious that each Sabbath was a memorial of creation and the Creator, and not just a single Sabbath once a year! To deprive the Sabbath worship of the memory of the Creator would be a desecration of the Sabbath without equal. To see the weekly day of rest as only a day of rest for man as a family day or as a leisure day from work is a Catholic practice. In this way, John Paul II was already presenting it in his infamous encyclical “Dies Domini” in 1998—that day is not simply for honoring God any longer, but purely for the people.

But we Seventh-day Adventists should know better. Without having to copy hundreds of quotations from Ellen White about it, I just want to again remind you of the original text of the fourth commandment:

Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it. (Exodus 20:8-11)*

It is the only commandment that begins with a call to remember: “Remember the Sabbath day.” Why should we remember it? For in six days the Lord created and He rested on the seventh day!

And why did the Lord bless the Sabbath day and make it holy? Because man needs a break from work every seven days for his biological clock? Because fathers need to play with their kids once every seven days? Because otherwise we get sick? Because we will go crazy? Because otherwise our marriages would be at risk? No, the commandment is only because God rested from His work of creation on this day. We are to spend this day with God and indeed in full remembrance of His wonderful creation, and that, in 52 Sabbaths throughout the year.

But anyone who declares only one Sabbath as a memorial for creation commits treason against the 51 other Sabbaths of the Creator. He transgresses the Sabbath 51 times per year when once would have been enough to be guilty of breaking all the commandments! If an entire church organization—whose name already contains the Sabbath by inspiration of God the Creator, and the importance and extreme holiness of the Sabbath was pointed out by hundreds of visions and testimonies of the Spirit of Prophecy—would dare to profane the Sabbath this way, it would be such a slap in the face of God that even He would answer it.

“Good,” I thought in May 2010, “it is only the North German Union of the SDA Church, which has already totally fallen into ecumenism, which once again shamelessly proclaims the day of creation. Moreover, they did not even talk of a creation Sabbath, but only a creation day.” Still, I made an almost prophetic statement in my article:

They still have a chance that God forgives them, even his own Judas-church. But very soon the door of mercy will close for all, who believe that the Creation Day is the first Friday in September and keep Sunday, the mark of the beast, and then they will once again lament together:

And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb: And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name. (Revelation 14:9-11)

Then I googled for October 27, 2012 wanting to know if there was anything being announced by the Worldwide SDA Church for that day which might relate to such a serious betrayal of her name, and then I found it...

THE OFFICIAL WEBSITE OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE NOW ANNOUNCES TO THE WORLD THE CREATION SABBATH OF OCTOBER 27, 2012: www.creationsabbath.net

There's no doubt about the authors of this website; here is the official copyright on it:

©2012 Ministerial Association, General Conference | Seventh-day Adventist® Church.

Unbeknownst to the vast majority of Adventists, Satan has managed to cause the SDA Church to betray their God-given name, its mission to proclaim the Third Angel's Message, their vocation and their God, the God of the Sabbath... and all this even on a HIGH SABBATH, and furthermore, one of ATONEMENT, and moreover the day when the beginning of the closing of her door of grace was prophesied.

The condition of the unbelieving Jews illustrates the condition of the careless and unbelieving among professed Christians, who are willingly ignorant of the work of our merciful High Priest. In the typical service, when the high priest entered the most holy place, all Israel were required to gather about the sanctuary and in the most solemn manner humble their souls before God, that they might receive the pardon of their sins and not be cut off from the congregation. How much more essential in this antitypical Day of Atonement that we understand the work of our High Priest and know what duties are required of us.

Men cannot with impunity reject the warning which God in mercy sends them. A message was sent from heaven to the world in Noah's day, and their salvation depended upon the manner in which they treated that message. Because they rejected the warning, the Spirit of God was withdrawn from the sinful race, and they perished in the waters of the Flood. In the time of Abraham, mercy ceased to plead with the guilty inhabitants of Sodom, and all but Lot with his wife and two daughters were consumed by the fire sent down from heaven. So in the days of Christ. The Son of God declared to the unbelieving Jews of that generation: "Your house is left unto you desolate." Matthew 23:38. Looking down to the last days, the same Infinite Power declares, concerning those who "received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved": "For this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: that they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.” 2 Thessalonians 2:10-12. As they reject the teachings of His word, God withdraws His Spirit and leaves them to the deceptions which they love. {GC 430.3-431.1}

And in their logo they even dare to quote John 1 saying Jesus is the Word of God who created everything, which will all soon be destroyed in the plagues—again through His Word. How sad is all this!

Shall I also say by whom the SDA Church was betrayed and what or who is really behind the “Creation Sabbath”?

Do you know for sure or not? Do you think that it is ecumenism, because I wrote about that in the 2010 article about the Creation Day? Then see this article from September 2, 2007. That same day, Pope Benedict XVI proclaimed a worldwide day to rescue creation, the “Save Creation Day”. Compare the words of the General Conference’s “Creation Sabbath” home page to the words of Satan’s henchman in that “Save Creation Day” article and you will finally realize that the General Conference just does what the first beast of Revelation 13 dictates.

I’ve searched the entire General Conference website for the Creation Sabbath trying to find an article or a sermon that would show that the Sabbath was transferred by the Roman Church to Sunday and soon that will be a test of our faithfulness to God through Sunday Laws: No, nothing! But I did find many articles and sermons, the great majority of which did not even include the word “Sabbath!” We talk of “Creation Sabbath” but the Sabbath itself is largely denied. Please take the trouble and search for yourself!

Are you still not completely convinced that the General Conference gives only this particular Sabbath the importance that all Sabbaths should have in accordance to the Fourth Commandment in Exodus 20? Read again exactly what is written on the front page of www.creationsabbath.net:

So, why not, in our worship services, focus on God as our Creator and what this means for us in our daily lives?

Sabbath, October 27, 2012, designated as Creation Sabbath, is:

- “a way of acknowledging God as our Creator and the implications that this biblical teaching has for us
- to create a worldwide sense of unity in promoting this belief in a positive light.”

You can read on the WCC (World Council of Churches) webpage on the day of creation what the referenced “worldwide sense of unity” means. It’s about climate change, global warming, and environmental pollution as an issue for all ecumenical churches. It is again the same content that Pope Benedict already pointed out in 2007. It is in truth not for the Creator, but for mankind who is about to destroy his environment. The “Save Creation Day” of the Pope, or his resulting “Creation” statement for ecumenism is a serious matter for the Babylonian churches, but that the Seventh-day Adventist Church dares to desecrate the Sabbath in favor of the pope’s decree definitively slams the door of mercy on it.

Will you react like one of the Adventist “friends” of one of my allies, who responded to the information of my brother about the soon-coming “Creation Sabbath” and the dangers thereof as follows?

Hello J.,

I've looked at the project and cannot for my best efforts find a trace of a problem with taking a certain Sabbath to particularly design to honor and praise the Creator.

Quite the contrary:

The fact that in the western world some Adventists doubt in creation, it makes perfect sense to put a counterweight that can provide unity and orientation at least among the unsettled. Here the whole church is involved with it: from children to the elderly. Furthermore, the Bible tells us that this day was made for exactly this (Ex. 20:11). Furthermore, a significant emphasis is placed here against Sunday, if it can be ensured that the event will be more publicized.

So this is a case very worthy of support and one which you should absolutely attend!

I believe you missed the mark on this one.

Best regards,
S.

When you consider that a Jew would have been stoned to death in Bible times when he gathered wood on the Sabbath, then the naive SDA brother will be surprised, who will probably stand on behalf of the vast majority of Adventists who on OCTOBER 27, 2012, THE HIGH SABBATH OF THE DAY OF ATONEMENT WHICH MARKS THE END OF THE 168-YEAR JUDGMENT OF THE DEAD—“from children to the elderly” included—will jump like lemmings off the cliffs of corruption by knowingly or unknowingly dishonoring the Creator, who has blessed and sanctified every Sabbath as a Creation Sabbath.

The words that God spoke to the prophet Ezekiel, to straighten out the former house of God, have found their final application in the SDA Church today:

*Son of man, say unto her, Thou art the land that is not cleansed, nor rained upon in the day of indignation. There is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof, like a roaring lion ravening the prey; they have devoured souls; they have taken the treasure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midst thereof. Her priests have violated my law, and have profaned mine holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and profane, neither have they shewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them. Her princes in the midst thereof are like wolves ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy souls, to get dishonest gain. And her prophets have daubed them with untempered mortar, seeing vanity, and divining lies unto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord GOD, when the LORD hath not spoken. The people of the land have used oppression, and exercised robbery, and have vexed the poor and needy: yea, they have oppressed the stranger wrongfully.

And I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it: but I found none. Therefore have I poured out mine indignation upon them; I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath: their own way have I recompensed upon their heads, saith the Lord GOD. (Ezekiel 22:24-31)

Why hasn't the punishment of God come yet?

[Addendum, September 11, 2013]

God is gracious and just. Ellen G. White once said in a sermon:

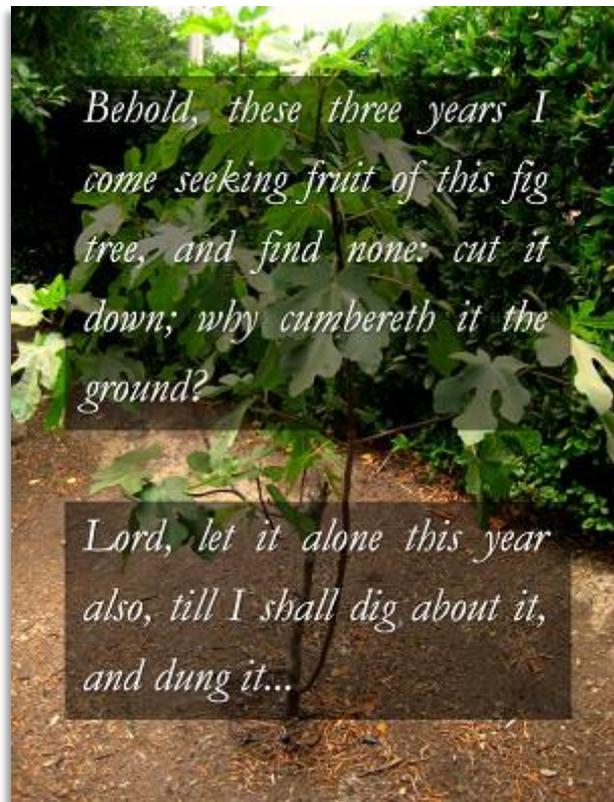

"A certain man had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none. Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig-tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground? And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it; and if it bear fruit, well; and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down." Luke 13:6-9.

The Jewish nation was represented as the fig-tree which God had planted in his vineyard. This people he had taken unto himself as his own. They had been greatly favored with temporal and spiritual blessings, and he looked to them to bring forth the fruits of righteousness. Year after year he had come to them hoping to find fruit, but had found none. He had been long forbearing. Justice had urged, "Cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground?"

But mercy pleaded for still another trial. The Dresser of the vineyard will put forth yet one more effort to save the fruitless tree. The Son of God will come in person to plead with the chosen people. He will take upon himself humanity, and set before them the example of his own life. If this fails to bring them to repentance, it is their last trial. "After that thou shalt cut it down." In the terrible destruction which came upon the Jewish nation we read the fate of the unfruitful tree.

Under the symbol of the fig-tree, Christ represents, not the Jews only, but all who have neglected to improve the gifts of Heaven. He has bestowed upon us greater blessings than were granted to his ancient people, and he claims of us fruit corresponding to the gifts bestowed. ... {HS 180.2-4}

God does not change. He always deals with His chosen people in the same manner. The SDA Church is the chosen people of today and should have been aware that on October 27, 2012, three years had passed since the autumn of 2009 when God began to pour out the Latter Rain upon the Advent people in form of the Orion Message, the Vessel of Time and the message of Our High Calling, which would have ripened the fruit. Every single year of the penultimate triplet of the Vessel of Time (2010, 2011, 2012) Jesus came to the vineyard hoping to find the fig tree of His SDA Church bearing fruit, but even on His Birthday as a human being, the day when He clothed Himself with humanity, October 27, 2012, which was even a High Sabbath in the third year, He couldn't find fruit. Instead, he had to watch as the purpose of this honorable day was disfigured and made absurd. The "Creation Sabbath" had taken the place of God's holy day. In His desperation, Jesus urged the Holy Spirit to cut down the tree, but the Comforter interceded once again for the wayward people.

One more year should be given to the Church; one more chance, one more trial, one last attempt. The parable of Jesus leaves the end open. History tells us what God did to the Jews, and this is impressively described in the first chapter of the Great Controversy. Ellen White also applies that chapter to our present time. It is therefore a conditional prophecy that will have an outcome corresponding to the reaction of the leadership of the Adventist Church. If there is repentance, there will be grace as it was with Nineveh. If the Church remains in its sins, destruction will follow as with Sodom and Gomorrah.

Here is the official response of the Adventist Church to the digging and dunging of the Holy Spirit during the additional year of grace that ends on October 27, 2013:

How will the Lion of the Tribe of Judah decide now?

Note: In the article [The Voice of God you can read what really happened on October 26/27, 2013.]

Note of February 2015: When the door of mercy for the SDA Church finally closed, is explained in the [Last Call article and in the series Babylon Is Fallen. The table below contains this date already. Judgment has been passed over her. Since then, the organized SDA Church is waiting for her punishment.]

The Genetics of Eternal Life

The Gene of Life

Written by Robert Dickinson

Published: Thursday, November 8, 2012, 8:54 pm

Created: Thursday, November 8, 2012, 8:54 pm

Ever since The Fall, mankind has been mortal. While the promise of Eternal Life was given to the race through the Savior Jesus Christ, the rebellious have in all ages applied their genius to acquire by other means the unending youth the race was designed to enjoy. The contrast in those who look in faith to the Savior versus those who try to obtain it another way is shown in the story of the first martyr, Abel, who looked forward in faith to the promised Messiah as he offered his sacrifice in the prescribed manner. Cain, by contrast, thought to acquire eternal life by the fruits of his own efforts.

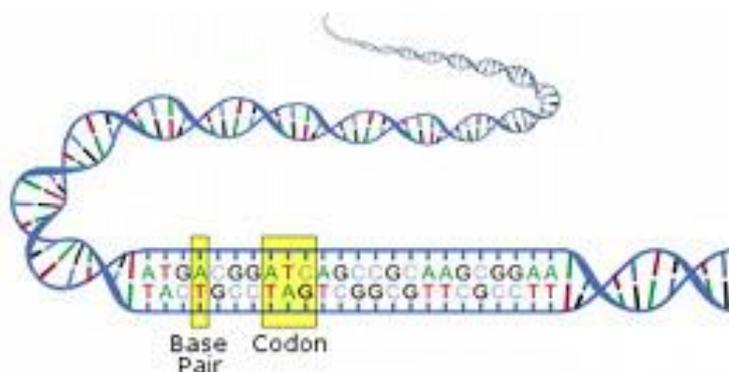

In recent times, the study of genetics has opened new possibilities in the quest for immortality, and the same contrast is seen between those who hope in their Savior and those who try by knowledge to find another way. Those aware of their own insufficiency see in the human genome a magnificent design that is coping remarkably well under the cumulative strain of six thousand years of abuse, degradation, and the continual pressure of morbid influences. Knowing their days are numbered, they cry out to God for salvation and a final end to the wretchedness of sin.

And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life. (1 John 5:11-12)

The rebellious, however, see in the field of genetics an opportunity to find by their own cunning the long sought-after fountain of youth in a suppressed gene waiting to be discovered, which they hope will enable the body to regenerate itself indefinitely and thus grant immortality to their selfish existence. As the serpent in Eden promised immortality to Eve through the tree of knowledge, so today that old serpent, Satan, promises through the tree of scientific knowledge the immortality which he can never deliver.

Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me. (John 14:6)

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. (John 10:1)

The DNA structure itself is an object lesson for the character development of God's people. The two sugar-phosphate backbones of the helix represent the spring and autumn seasons of the calendar of God, which are governed by the heavenly bodies as they scribe their helical path through space. Each base pair in the DNA ladder represents the possible feast days of one year (one spring-autumn combination) in the HSL (High Sabbath List). Each DNA codon, made up of three base pairs, represents one triplet of years in the HSL, and as each DNA codon encodes one amino acid of the gene, so each HSL triplet encodes one aspect or quality of the character of God's people. Special DNA codons in the gene mark the start and end points of the sequence. In the field of genetic engineering, a double-stop (two stop codons one after the other) is used to ensure that gene translation does not accidentally continue beyond the desired end. This feature is also reflected in the HSL, showing not only that the sequence makes up the complete character definition of God’s people, but also that the end of history is sure.

In this article, I will explore the sought-after gene of eternal life which Jesus has made known to us, and the process by which this gene is activated in the human experience through the working of the Holy Spirit. The first part of this message applies to all of God’s faithful, while the second part pertains especially to the 144,000 who have a special purpose and therefore require special information for their character formation.

From time to time DNA strands become damaged and the cell machinery must scan and repair the anomalies. As we study the character traits necessary for eternal life, the reader might discover from time to time some anomalies in their own character that need to be corrected. This is part of the repair process moderated by the Holy Spirit to prepare God’s people for eternity. Thus, each HSL triplet represents not only a trait, but a standard to test one’s own character against and seek conformance to.

In summary form, the “codons” of the HSL represent the following:

2 A.M. – First and Second Angels’ Messages: God’s people will be ones who will recognize the reality of the Judgment. They will take God seriously and reverence Him. They will act in a way that honors Him. They will know when the Judgment is. They will worship Him and Him alone, because He is the Creator of all things. They will recognize the confusion of doctrines in the apostate churches.

S.D.A. – Seventh-day Adventist: The very name of this church was inspired by God, and His people will embrace the truths that have been preached by it. The two distinctive truths emphasized by its name will be of special import. First, that the seventh day (Saturday) is the Sabbath of God, as it is written in the fourth of the Ten Commandments. It begins at sunset on Friday and ends at sunset on Saturday. Second, that Jesus is coming again literally and every eye shall see Him—a biblical truth which stands in stark contrast to the spiritualistic ideas of today.

R.B.F. – Righteousness by Faith: God’s people will be ones who recognize their own unworthiness and insufficiency to live a righteous life. They will accept through faith in Jesus that their sins are blotted out, and His sacrifice for them inspires in them a reciprocal love that motivates their obedience to His law. Thus they will be sanctified (purified from sin) by their faith in Jesus as well as justified (forgiven of their sin).

In the HSL, the R.B.F. triplet is special. Whereas all of the triplets (except the first) represent intermediate stop “codons,” this one is also shown by prophecy to mark the first opportunity for God’s people to have welcomed the Second Coming of Jesus in its ending year of 1890. This is an indication that the first three characteristics of God’s people represent the standard to be attained by all who will receive eternal life, though in the last fearful days of earth’s history it will require a martyr’s death. Our ignorance in times past God winked at, but to knowingly reject any of these truths disqualifies a person from receiving eternal life.

S.o.P. – Spirit of Prophecy: Those who would go on in character development to be among the 144,000 will appreciate the fact that Ellen G. White was a true prophet (prophetess) in the full sense of the word. They will take her counsel and prophecies seriously, and live in a manner that is in harmony with her testimonies.

L.G.T. – Last Generation Theology: The 144,000 will recognize that they have a special role to fulfill in the plan of salvation. God is on trial. The accusation is that His Law is unjust, and can't be kept by created beings. Although Jesus did everything necessary to redeem mankind, it is on mankind to demonstrate to the watching universe that God's Law can indeed be kept by at least 144,000 of the weakest, most degenerated specimens of creation that have ever existed, through complete dependence on God.

H.N.C. – Human Nature of Christ: Jesus lived a sinless life as an example for us. The 144,000 must know that Jesus did not have any advantage over us in resisting sin. He came in the likeness of sinful flesh and was in all points tested like we are, yet without sin. In order to become a human, the Son of God gave up His omnipresence as a permanent sacrifice. He will remain human like us for the rest of eternity. This doctrine humbles by showing the magnitude of His sacrifice and comforts with thought that as He was taken up to heaven in His human form, so will the 144,000 see Him and be with Him in the flesh.

P.H.S. – Personality of the Holy Spirit: Although Jesus sacrificed His omnipresence, He sends the omnipresent Holy Spirit to be with us in His stead as His representative. The Holy Spirit is as personal as Jesus Himself, but not bound by the limitations of the human nature as Jesus is. It is through the Holy Spirit that Jesus lives in us. To deny the personality of the Holy Spirit is to reject the Person Whom He represents, Jesus Himself. The 144,000 must discern this truth.

O.H.C. – Orion, HSL, and the Consequences: This threefold message was given in these last days for the express purpose of preparing the 144,000 for their mission. They are the last threefold test for those who have developed a character in harmony with all of the preceding points. The 144,000 will recognize their Savior in Orion pleading His blood for them. They will see in the "genetic structure" of the HSL the work that the Holy Spirit has been doing in their lives. And they will realize the gravity of the fact that God is on trial, and they are His witnesses, and the outcome of the case rests upon their testimony. An understanding of the consequences of their failure will inspire in them a love for God the Father heretofore unknown.

This triplet completes the "genetic sequence" that expresses the character of the 144,000. The three messages it carries are God's last messages to mankind, which if received in faith and are allowed to do their work in the heart, will seal a soul as one of the 144,000. Translation of the gene should stop here, but in engineering this "gene," God added one more stop triplet immediately after it to form a double-stop just in case the end would not be recognized in time (as it wasn't in the R.B.F. triplet).

T.L.C. – The Loud Cry: This last triplet represents the sounding of the Loud Cry of the Fourth Angel, who lightens the world with His glory. These years span the little time of trouble and will see persecution and the end of the Investigative Judgment. There is no further message associated with this triplet; its message is the cumulative message of all the foregoing triplets. It serves as the last period of grace during which a person's character can still be conformed to that of our Great Example.

The T.L.C. triplet is special because its "encoding" is identical to the R.B.F. triplet, and shows that this "stop codon" marks the second opportunity for God's people to usher in the Second Coming. Being immediately preceded by another triplet makes this a "double-stop codon" indicating the sure termination of the "gene sequence" of the HSL. There will not be another opportunity if the 144,000 fail; this is the only chance left, and the stakes are infinitely high. Those who develop a character that reflects all of the preceding points will serve among the 144,000 and will be rewarded by receiving eternal life without ever tasting of death.

The meaning of each triplet will be explored in greater detail in the pages following.

The First and Second Angels' Messages

This triplet of years represents the proclamation of the first and second angels' messages of Revelation 14:6-8 by William Miller and Samuel Snow. Miller preached the coming of Judgment Day, which at that time was believed to be synonymous with the Second Coming, while Snow denounced the sins of the apostate Protestant churches which were on their way back to Rome.

Those who would receive everlasting life will need to have a character that reflects the first and second angels' messages in their life.

The 1ST Angel's Message: The Judgment Is Come

And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters. (Revelation 14:6-7)

The first angel has the everlasting gospel, or never-ending good news, to share with the world. This is nothing less than the hope of eternal life. It is the same gospel that was given to Adam and Eve after the Fall (Genesis 3:15). The message of the first angel announces that the Judgment has come and makes known the requisites for eternal life. They are:

Fear God. The word "fear" in this sense means to reverence, respect and pay attention to God, not specifically to be afraid of Him (although wrong-doers should). God must have first place in a life for it to be worthy of eternity with Him.

Give glory to Him. The word "glory" means dignity, honor, praise, and worship. To give God glory is to act in a way that honors Him and reflects well on Him.

Why must we fear God and give glory to Him? Because, says the angel, the hour of His judgment is come. Judgment Day is here, and every living soul is being weighted in the balances.

The "hour" refers to a specific time. The Judgment takes place during a specific time interval. Those who are not aware of the time of the Judgment will not be prepared for it. One of the requirements to obtain eternal life is to pay attention to the time.

Worship Him that made. The angel instructs the world to worship the Creator. While hazards are coming upon the land from the sky, sea, and water sources, the world is reminded of Who created all these elements. He alone is worthy of our utmost loyalty, and God's people will not betray Him no matter what calamities befall them or what coercion tactics civil government or fellow man use to influence them to relinquish their supreme allegiance to Him.

This triplet shows that God's people must understand that the Judgment began in 1844, as proclaimed by the first angel.

The 2ND Angel's Message: Babylon Is Fallen

And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication. (Revelation 14:8)

This is the message that the Protestant churches had fallen back into the errors they had come out of. Although the message had been preached even earlier than the first angel's message, it gained strength with the help of the Midnight Cry when the first angel's message joined it.

Those who will be faithful to God must recognize that the churches are in a fallen state and are no longer teaching uncompromised truth or even progressing in the direction of truth.

In summary, we learn from the start triplet of the HSL that in order to receive eternal life, one must:

1. Reverence God and take Him seriously
2. Live in a way that honors God
3. Worship the Creator
4. Recognize that the Judgment period is here
5. Study to know when Jesus will come
6. Recognize that the Churches that follow Rome have apostatized
7. Walk in the clear light of truth

The Seventh-day Adventist Church

The next triplet in the "genetic sequence" of the HSL marks the founding years of the organized Seventh-day Adventist Church. During those years, the publishing work was incorporated under the divinely inspired name of the denomination, and the first conferences were formed. The Orion and HSL messages are a prophetic confirmation of the fact that this church was God's own church, and was given the light of truth like no other church. Thus, its teachings (in their uncompromised form) define the belief structure of those who will be in heaven.

HSL Triplet Data
Years:	1861, 1862, 1863
Subject:	Seventh-day Adventist Church
Code:	S.D.A.
Type:	Intermediate Stop

Just as the call of the first angel's message to "worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters" hearkens back to the fourth commandment, so does the "Seventh-day" part of the church's name:

Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it. (Exodus 20:8,11)

Recognizing God as the Creator of this world and choosing to worship Him by reverencing Him and acting in a way that honors Him implies keeping the Seventh-day Sabbath, which begins at sunset on Friday night and ends at sunset on Saturday night. This is one of the Ten Commandments, and knowingly disregarding it would not bring honor to the One who asks for it to be remembered, not to mention the plagues will fall upon the transgressors of God's law.

And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the

Lamb: And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name. (Revelation 14:9-11)

When the Church organized, the third angel's message was so important that the Sabbath was incorporated into the very name of the organization. The church considered it their primary mission to spread the third angel's message, and this triplet marks the official beginning of their organized work.

The Sabbath is a sign between God and His people. It is the foundation for the HSL, and the HSL in turn provides prophetic confirmation that the seventh day really does correspond to Saturday, not Sunday, for if it corresponded to Sunday, the High Sabbaths would not produce the same sequence of "genetic information" that we are examining in the HSL in these very pages. (Similarly, the HSL disproves the lunar Sabbath.)

The second part of the distinctive name of the church identifies God's people as ones who are looking for his Second Advent in literal, personal, and glorious fashion, and that the Holy City with the Garden of Eden will be restored to this planet, which will be created anew. Among the false religions it is a common teaching that the second coming will be in a spiritual manner and that there will be a millennium of peace here on Earth (not to mention many other related false teachings). God's people will be ones who are looking forward to a literal Second Coming:

For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord. (1 Thessalonians 4:16-17)

Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen. (Revelation 1:7)

God's people will not be among those who run here or there to catch a glimpse of whom they mistakenly think is Jesus.

Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not. (Matthew 24:23)

The 4TH Angel's Message Begins: Righteousness by Faith

This triplet is unique because its ending year, 1890, is confirmed three ways as the year Jesus could have come. Numerous quotes of Ellen White indicate that Jesus could have come soon after 1888 had the light that shined in that year been accepted, but few are aware of the exact year. Ellen White knew, but she didn't publish it in any of her official works.

Her closest friend, Haskell, quoted her as saying that we could have been in the Kingdom two years after 1888, which of course would be 1890. But we also have two bible prophecies that show the same thing. First, in the dialog between Jesus and the Jews:

Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days? But he spake of the temple of his body. (John 2:19-21)

Jesus spoke of the temple of His body, which He would raise in three days. But there is also a prophetic significance to the three days: they represent the last three years of Earth's history (a day for a year) when Jesus will raise up His body, the church (Colossians 1:18, 24). But what of the 46 years mentioned by the Jews?

For those who have studied in detail the history of 1888, the attitude of the Jews in this dialog should be reminiscent of the attitude of the seasoned Adventist leaders of 1888 who sneered at young Jones and Waggoner, their pride and body language effectively saying to them "Since 1844 was this church in building [by us], and wilt thou [youngsters] rear it up?" Now do the math:

$$1844 + 46 = 1890$$

But there is another time prophecy that points to this date. It is the first seven weeks of Daniel's 70-week prophecy. Even Adventists admit in their Bible Commentary that no historical evidence whatsoever could be found to corroborate the fact that anything happened in that year to fulfill that initial segment of seven prophetic weeks from the going forth of the command, to the event (although the rest of the prophecy is applied fairly well).

Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in troublous times. (Daniel 9:25)

Now think for a moment: if the first seven weeks of this prophecy were not fulfilled in the original application, there must be a second application which does fulfill the seven weeks. The Jerusalem (Judah) of ancient Israel was a type for the Adventist Church among the Protestant churches. When was this "Jerusalem" we call the Adventist Church divinely commanded to be built? The HSL (and Ellen White) tell us clearly that the movement began in earnest in 1841. Now the math again:

$$1841 + (7 \times 7) = 1890$$

There it is. Ellen White (through her best friend Haskell) tells us Jesus could have come in 1890 two years after 1888. Jesus Himself tells us in type that He could have come in 1890 exactly 46 years after the Orion start year of 1844. And Daniel prophesied the coming of the Messiah in 1890 seven weeks (49 years) after the HSL start year of 1841. Thus, this triplet marks a genuine opportunity for the people of God to go to heaven, making it not just an intermediate "stop codon" but what could have been the stop of the entire "genetic translation."

The message of Righteousness by Faith, presented by A. T. Jones and E. J. Waggoner to the General Conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in session in 1888 is the next test for the faithful. As a result of rejecting it, several things changed:

1. Like ancient Israel wandered in the desert for 40 years until all that wicked generation died away, and like the Israelites departing Babylonian captivity later delayed 2×40 years before returning to Jerusalem, so the Adventist church was destined to wander for its own period of 3×40 years until the entire church body would be consumed except for a few faithful souls like Joshua and Caleb who would go on into the promised land.
2. No longer was the third angel's message strong enough to stand on its own. It needed to await the mighty help of the angel of Revelation 18 in order to have its effect. Although that light began to shine with the message of Righteousness by Faith, the squelching of the light through the years prevented it from shining in its fullness until the present time, when a time message would once again be given to strengthen it, as the Midnight Cry strengthened the Second Angel's Message.
3. Those who would receive eternal life under the Three Angels' Messages must now suffer death, either during the natural course of time (like Ellen White), or as a martyr in the time of trouble.

4. The Adventist church must pass away as God's people, just as Israel did, and be replaced by a new generation which would be faithful in their stead. That new generation is the 144,000.

The "codons" of the HSL represent tests. While they bring the issues of the day to a focal point for examination, they still encompass many areas. The health message in particular was introduced to the Church in the years before this triplet, and so it is part of this test. At the time it was revealed, science had not yet "caught up" enough to validate the message, but those who walked by faith received the message and made changes in their life according to it. This is how righteousness by faith works obedience in the believer's life. Those who rejected the health message—or distorted it—set themselves up to fail the test of Righteousness by Faith, erring either on the side of "Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink" (which corresponds to the erroneous teaching that "Jesus did everything on the cross") or on the side of extremes that Ellen White called "health deform" instead of health reform (which corresponds to the error of trying to keep the law by human effort alone). The test of Righteousness by Faith encompasses the test of true temperance.

Those who allow God to work in their hearts and lives up to this point in the genetic sequence will receive eternal life, but only through death. The "codon" for this triplet of years represents one of two possibilities to enter the heavenly Canaan. It represents one of the two faithful churches of Revelation that will be granted everlasting life: the church of Smyrna, faithful unto death.

And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive; I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan. Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death. (Revelation 2:8-11)

Thus the "code sequence" of the character "gene" of the faithful martyrs ends here. Their willingness to die for the truths reflected in these first three triplets will show that their characters have been developed by Christ, and His righteousness will be imputed to them for their faithfulness.

*Faith of our fathers, living still, In spite of dungeon, fire, and sword;
Oh, how our hearts beat high with joy When'er we hear that glorious Word!
Faith of our fathers, holy faith! We will be true to thee till death.*

*Our fathers, chained in prisons dark, Were still in heart and conscience free:
How sweet would be their children's fate. If they, like them, could die for thee!
Faith of our fathers, holy faith! We will be true to thee till death.*

*Faith of our fathers, we will strive To win all nations unto thee;
And through the truth that comes from God, We all shall then be truly free.
Faith of our fathers, holy faith! We will be true to thee till death.*

*Faith of our fathers, we will love Both friend and foe in all our strife;
And preach thee, too, as love knows how By kindly words and virtuous life.
Faith of our fathers, holy faith! We will be true to thee till death.*

In the next article in this series, we will explore in detail the remaining "codons" in the HSL that define the character of the 144,000.

The Character of the 144,000

Written by Robert Dickinson

In the previous article, the first part of the “genetic code” of God’s faithful was examined. It represents the character development of those who will receive eternal life, which in the last days will require a martyr’s death.

In contrast, the remaining triplets in the HSL will show the character of God’s other faithful group of people, the 144,000, who will not taste of death. Those who would be among the 144,000 must develop a character above and beyond that of the martyrs because they have a special purpose and mission that requires more of them. They must possess a character that matches all of the remaining “codons” in addition to the foregoing ones.

The Angel of Revelation 18 that lightens the earth with His glory is none other than the Holy Spirit who came on the scene in a special way beginning at the previous waymark of 1888, and began a special work of sifting the Seventh-day Adventist Church to find the few remaining souls in it who would be candidates for the 144,000. Each of the following “codons” represents a core doctrine of the 144,000. Those who accept these doctrines will be candidates for the 144,000 while those who reject them will disqualify themselves from belonging to this special group.

This article will explore the details of each of the remaining triplets and what they mean for the 144,000.

The Spirit of Prophecy

Ellen G. White was a prophet (prophetess) in the truest sense of the word. She received visions from God. She foresaw not only events of the distant future, but also into the secret meetings and personal lives of people in her day in order to guard and guide the flock of God.

Those who reject the inspiration of Ellen White do so at their own peril, as her writings serve to safeguard those who heed them from the snares of the enemy. For some reason the church leaders changed their opinion of Ellen White at some point, and after the 1888 fiasco they sent her to Australia in an act that shows how little they wanted her.

Ellen White died in 1915, the first year of this triplet. Her death was a test for the organized Church, and sadly showed that they were happy to be free from her restraining influence. Seemingly as quickly as they could, in 1917 the General Conference drafted their first statement of cooperation with the other (fallen) churches of the world against the counsel of the late Ellen White. It was just a small seed of compromise, called a Comity Declaration, wherein the church promised to cooperate with other denominations in their missionary efforts in Asia and Africa (Resolutions, Statements, and Other Texts, p. 31). Although the results of this new spirit of cooperation would not be seen for many years, the fact that it began with the rejection of Ellen White's counsel clearly illustrates the importance of living up to the light we have through the Spirit of Prophecy.

An error dangerous enough to be called the "alpha" that Ellen White met a few years before her death was the subtle pantheistic thought expressed in J. H. Kellogg's then-new book titled The Living Temple. Ellen White warned:

Living Temple contains the alpha of these theories. I knew that the omega would follow in a little while; and I trembled for our people. {ISM 203.2}

We will come back to that subject as we explore a later triplet, but the lesson in these years is to take seriously the testimonies of God's prophets, because they are delivering His words for the edification of His people. In this day and age when the opinions of "doctors" of the various fields of study are esteemed higher than the Word of Inspiration, this "genetic marker" illuminates the necessity for God's people to be able to differentiate His voice from mere ideas of men.

Besides an untold number of prophecies for our day, Ellen White also gave us countless volumes of advice for all areas of practical life. It is not always that a person fails of attaining to the standard because they reject the Spirit of Prophecy, but often that they reject the Spirit of Prophecy because they have failed to be willing to climb to the standard. This "codon" does not find a counterpart in the makeup of the character "DNA" of those who are not willing to sacrifice in practical matters, and therefore their unfitness sifts them out from those who will belong to the 144,000.

Last Generation Theology

It was during this triplet of years (1937, specifically) that M. L. Andreasen presented his work to the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. There were false doctrines being introduced into the ranks of the church at that time. Andreasen not only refuted them, but built upon the foundation of Righteousness by Faith set by Jones and Waggoner to show that the church has a special "Mission: Impossible" to accomplish in the last days.

When Satan rebelled in heaven, he accused God of two things:

1. God's character is not of self-denying love.
2. God's law is unjust and cannot be obeyed by created beings.

God has allowed himself to be put on trial, and the court of heaven is in the process of settling the case.

In the opening of the great controversy, Satan had declared that the law of God could not be obeyed, that justice was inconsistent with mercy, and that, should the law be broken, it would be impossible for the sinner to be pardoned. {DA 761.4}

In giving His Son to humanity, and by the Son of God humbling Himself to become a man to serve the needs of His creatures, God illustrated the character of His law and of Himself.

Pardoning, redeeming love is brought to view in Christ Jesus. Satan had misrepresented the character of God, and it was necessary that a correct representation should be made to worlds unfallen, to angels, and to men. Satan had declared that God knew nothing of self-denial, of mercy and love, but that he was stern, exacting, and unforgiving. Satan never tested the forgiving love of God; for he never exercised genuine repentance. His representations of God were incorrect; he was a false witness, an accuser of Christ, and an accuser of all those who throw off the Satanic yoke, and come back to render willing allegiance to the God of heaven. {RH March 9, 1897, par. 3}

The perfect obedience of Jesus to the law, however, could not meet Satan's accusation that God's law cannot be kept by created beings, for Jesus was not a created being. Angels, although they are created beings, could not fill the role because they are biased in regard to the case as they were there when it happened and have a vested interest in the verdict. Independent witnesses were thus needed to serve as witnesses and jurors in the case, and humanity was created to fill that very role.

Mankind was created after the controversy in heaven, so the members of the human race could serve as unbiased judges. After the Fall, humanity became biased toward evil, and it became necessary for Jesus to redeem the race to restore them to their unbiased state. One who is redeemed is again unbiased but has first-hand knowledge of both sides of the case, qualifying them for their role in the judgment.

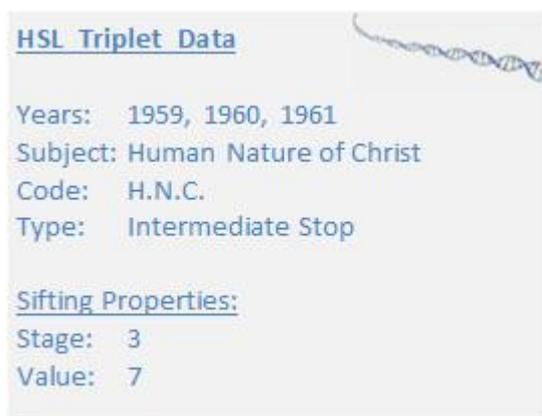

The prophets through the ages have given some clues to understand these things, but it was Andreasen, whose studies were obviously led by the Holy Spirit, that really painted the picture of how the 144,000 are to serve as witnesses for God the Father, demonstrating that the Law of God is just and can be kept in righteousness even by sinful created beings through faith.

In that fearful time the righteous must live in the sight of a holy God without an intercessor. {GC 614.1}

That is the purpose and calling of the 144,000, and therefore anyone who will not accept this mission thereby disqualifies himself or herself from being among this group. The 144,000 would not be the 144,000 without possessing the character trait represented by this triplet in the "genetic sequence" of the HSL, for it represents their very purpose for existence.

The Human Nature of Jesus Christ

One of the strongest attacks against personal sanctification is the false doctrine that Jesus came in the likeness of sinless flesh, because if he took on sinless flesh, he had an advantage in living a sinless life that we do not enjoy, and therefore we feel hopeless to ever overcome. This false doctrine (among others) was adopted into our church and made public through the publishing of the book "Seventh-day Adventists Answer Questions on Doctrine" and later by "Seventh-day Adventists Believe..." which re-wrote the erroneous doctrines in more general, less objectionable language that is sufficiently vague so that it is difficult to argue against.

In fact, the Word of Truth says that Jesus came in the likeness of sinful flesh, and was tempted in all the points that we are, and overcame for the specific purpose of our sanctification:

For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh: That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. (Romans 8:3-4)

And:

The heroic fight of Andreasen against the false doctrines of the decade ended in this triplet of years, 1959 being the tenth anniversary of the year that triggered the whole crisis, and the first year after a GC session where Andreasen was noticeably not a delegate. The following year, 1960, the Review conspicuously and repeatedly left out Andreasen's books from their list of good books, and in 1961, the church suspended his ministerial credentials. Through all this, he remained steadfast and faithful not only to God but also to the church that so injured him. The year after this waymark Andreasen died—as many say, of a broken heart.

Ellen White was faithful to her duty as a guardian of the flock. She makes the dimensions and duration of the sacrifice of Jesus painstakingly clear:

Cumbered with humanity, Christ could not be in every place personally. {DA 669.2}

By His life and His death, Christ has achieved even more than recovery from the ruin wrought through sin. It was Satan's purpose to bring about an eternal separation between God and man; but in Christ we become more closely united to God than if we had never fallen. In taking our nature, the Saviour has bound Himself to humanity by a tie that is never to be broken. Through the eternal ages He is linked with us. "God so loved the world, that He gave His only-begotten Son." John 3:16. He gave Him not only to bear our sins, and to die as our sacrifice; He gave Him to the fallen race. To assure us of His immutable counsel of peace, God gave His only-begotten Son to become one of the human family, forever to retain His human nature. This is the pledge that God will fulfill His word. "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon His shoulder." God has adopted human nature in the person of His Son, and has carried the same into the highest heaven. It is the "Son of man" who shares the throne of the universe. It is the "Son of man" whose name shall be called, "Wonderful, Counselor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace." Isaiah 9:6. The I AM is the Daysman between God and humanity, laying His hand upon both. He who is "holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners," is not ashamed to call us brethren. Hebrews 7:26; 2:11. In Christ the family of earth and the family of heaven are bound together. Christ glorified is our brother. Heaven is enshrined in humanity, and humanity is enfolded in the bosom of Infinite Love. {DA 25.3}

The 144,000 will understand the doctrine of the human nature of Jesus, which Andreasen literally gave his dying efforts fighting for. Like every other "codon," this one serves as a test to separate those who in humility recognize the full magnitude of the sacrifice that Jesus made for them from those who prefer to put Jesus above temptation in order to excuse themselves from His impeccable standard.

The Personality of the Holy Spirit

Many are now falling into the trap of rejecting that the Holy Spirit is a Person. They would be safe if they simply trusted the clear words of inspiration:

Personality of the Holy Spirit—We need to realize that the Holy Spirit, who is as much a person as God is a person, is walking through these grounds.—Manuscript 66, 1899 (From a talk to the students at the Avondale School.).

The Holy Spirit is a person, for He beareth witness with our spirits that we are the children of God. When this witness is borne, it carries with it its own evidence. At such times we believe and are sure that we are the children of God....

The Holy Spirit has a personality, else He could not bear witness to our spirits and with our spirits that we are the children of God. He must also be a divine person, else He could not search out the secrets which lie hidden in the mind of God. "For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God."—Manuscript 20, 1906. {Ev 616.5–617.1}

It is the Person of the Holy Spirit which works in our lives to sanctify us, and it is He who has enlightened the church beginning with the message of Righteousness by Faith down to the Present Truth. The mighty angel of Revelation 18 is none other than the Holy Spirit Himself! Those who reject the personality of the Holy Spirit reject the very means necessary to fit them to be among the 144,000.

Have you ever wondered why the anti-Trinitarian beliefs are attractive? There is something appealing about the idea that the Holy Spirit is not a person but rather some kind of power that exudes from God the Father and Son. It is appealing precisely because it is promised to us, too, which means that if God exudes this power, and this power is promised to humanity, it is implied that humanity can have the power of God! This is nothing more than the age-old lie of Satan that "ye shall be like gods."

Indeed, the Spirit is promised to the faithful, not as a power to be wielded, but as a Person to be received. We submit our will to Him as Christ's representative, and that is how Jesus lives in us.

I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me.

In the first year of this triplet (1986) the church participated in the World Day of Prayer for Peace in Assisi, mingling their prayers with those of every imaginable false religion of the world. This event showed the church's descent into total worldliness. Those who will stand faithful to God must be separate from the world. Again Ellen White's counsel is a safeguard for those who will develop a Godly character:

Intense worldliness has been one of Satan's most successful temptations. He designs to keep the hearts and minds of men so engrossed with worldly attractions that there will be no room for heavenly things. He controls their minds in their love of the world. Earthly things eclipse the heavenly, and put the Lord out of their sight and understanding. False theories and false gods are cherished in the place of the true. Men are charmed with the glitter and tinsel of the world. They are so attached to the things of the earth that many will commit any sin in order to gain some worldly advantage. {1SM 254.4}

Indeed, after compromising its distinctive doctrines in the preceding years, the church finally committed the sin of joining the ecumenical movement in order to gain “worldly advantage.” To see how this is all connected, all you have to do is run an image search for the word “peace” and you will find that the dove symbol ranks very highly. It is used as a symbol for the peace movement. Why the dove? Because the dove is a symbol for the Holy Spirit, as it rested upon Jesus:

And John bare record, saying, I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him. (John 1:32)

Now you can see that the world’s prayers for peace are really prayers for the power of the Holy Spirit devoid of His Personality. The motives behind the peace movement are to establish a one-world government (the NWO). Under the guise of praying for peace, they are really praying for absolute power while retaining self-will, which is the diabolical opposite of the humble submission of self-will to a personal God.

It is more than merely interesting that this apostasy is marked by the identical “codon” that followed the “alpha” of deadly heresies contained in J. H. Kellogg’s 1903 book The Living Temple. Indeed, the denial of the Person of the Holy Spirit is that surprising “omega” that is sweeping many (even including Adventists) down the currents of false religion. The idea that man can exude the power of God without His Person is another way of couching pantheism in terms that are subtle enough to deceive even the very elect if it were possible.

Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden? And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. (Genesis 3:1-5)

The Holy Spirit sanctifies (sets apart from the world). The fact that the “base pairs” of this HSL triplet match those of the 1915-1917 triplet also teaches the lesson that the smallest seed of compromise with the world will eventually bear the fruit of total worldliness. The statement of cooperation with other denominations drafted in 1917 eventually resulted in full participation in the ecumenical movement.

In summary, the 144,000 will not only allow the Holy Spirit to sanctify them, but they will also recognize that He is a Person, the third of the Godhead, the representative of Jesus Christ. This is critical, because the Holy Spirit is the instrumental one in these last days, and the 144,000 must know Him.

The Last Call to Adventism

The final “codon” pertaining to the organized Adventist Church represents the last call that was given to the organized Church to recognize the sins that had entered it over the years, to repent, and to take their stand as the faithful. The “base pairs” of this triplet are identical to the S.D.A. triplet when the organization was established, and thus marks the end of its opportunities to corporately repent.

This threefold message of repentance came over the span of three years, and each message is distinct yet they are all related. They will each be covered in detail in separate sections below.

The response of the Adventist Church leadership to these messages was to denounce, ridicule, scorn, and even search out and harass its adherents. If they could, they would have no doubt forcibly stopped the messages (indeed they sent letters to their churches warning them against the “heresy”). Many individuals (non-leaders) demonstrated behaviors of the same caliber, which would have been shocking to see coming from the unconverted, let alone professed Seventh-day Adventist Christians.

Of those who were at least decent in their behavior, the single most common objection was the time-setting argument. Never mind that they used quotes completely opposite of their contextual meaning. While I could fill page after page unraveling their arguments, one scripture ought to suffice for the honest reader:

And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept over it, Saying, If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes. For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, And shall lay thee even with the ground, and thy children within thee; and they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation. (Luke 19:41-44)

It is no wonder that the HSL connects this triplet, which brings time messages, with the founding of the Adventist Church. Not only is the name “Adventist” a distinctive reference to the earnest expectation of the Second Coming (a time-sensitive stance), but the church was founded on the very principles of Biblical time prophecy as it emerged from the Millerite Movement!

The anti-Trinitarians were another class which dismissed the messages out of hand because, of course, it confirms the third Person of the Godhead in so many ways. This is a stark illustration of how each “codon” represents a standard to test the character. Those who do not rise to the standard of the previous ones cannot meet up to this one.

The class of those who tentatively accepted the messages out of fear that the warnings might be correct later rejected them when “nothing happened” at the time specified. They had little interest in further study and (as in 1844) they rashly denied that God had been leading. They threw the baby out with the bath water, failing to follow the movements in the Heavenly Sanctuary just like the vast majority of the Millerites did.

I had the grave misfortune of hearing an entire Sabbath “worship” service wherein was preached the total denial of time-setting. It was on the 167th anniversary to the day: October 22, 2011. During the entire Sabbath School and Divine Service, every other voice repeated the sentiment “we learned our lesson from 1844...nobody can know when Jesus will come!” Our pioneers would have turned over in their graves. The church at large has denied how God was working through the movement all over again, and failed to turn their attention to the heavenly sanctuary. Those who rejected the messages of the 2010–2012 triplet because “nothing happened” at the expected time belong to the same group; they also denied that God was in the movement, and failed to see the changes in the heavenly sanctuary.

At the end of the day, just a few souls from the organized Church accepted these last sifting messages. The following sections will summarize each respective message, and what they mean to the 144,000 who are sealed by them.

The Orion Message

The Clock of God in Orion is just that: a clock. Clocks tell time, thus it is a time message by its very nature. Ellen White prophesied of this message in the following passages:

Soon we heard the voice of God like many waters, which gave us the day and hour of Jesus' coming. {EW 14.1}

...then we could look up through the open space in Orion, whence came the voice of God. {EW 41.2}

Seven stars comprise Orion (not including what is commonly recognized as the head). The hand and feet stars symbolize the wounds Jesus received for us, which point like clock-hands to the times when the organized Church hurt their Savior. Those who realize that their personal failures are represented in the corporate mistakes of the Church begin to see Jesus in Orion interceding for them personally.

Judgment Day (the Day of Atonement) has been going on since 1844. Israelites were expected on the Day of Atonement to purify themselves and search their hearts to make sure all of their sins had been cleansed. Those who were unworthy were cut off from the camp. Each time throughout Adventist history when the Church failed, it should have been cut off, but four times Jesus cried “Hold!” to the destroying angels and pleaded “My blood!” for His people.

I saw four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and were on their way to accomplish it. Jesus was clothed with priestly garments. He gazed in pity on the remnant, then raised His hands, and with a voice of deep pity cried, “My blood, Father, My blood, My blood, My blood!” Then I saw an exceeding bright light come from God, who sat upon the great white throne, and was shed all about Jesus. Then I saw an angel with a commission from Jesus, swiftly flying to the four angels who had a work to do on the earth, and waving something up and down in his hand, and crying with a loud voice, “Hold! Hold! Hold! Hold! until the servants of God are sealed in their foreheads.” {EW 38.1}

Each of those four points represent the four aspects of Christ’s character, the Lion, the Calf, the Eagle, and the Man. Jesus is King of Heaven (Eagle) and Earth (Lion), our great Sacrifice (Calf), and our Brother (a Man) forever. Going around the Clock as we study the message, we see what it means to attain to or fall short of the character of Jesus. Thus, the clock represents our sanctification, or the process of developing a character like our Savior. The above quote even hints that this message is the sealing message, which means that it has to do with the character development of the 144,000.

The High Sabbath List

The HSL is also called the Vessel of Time because it represents the history of the Church “Vessel” (or Church Ship as it is often called). It shows how the Holy Spirit often works with His church in special ways at special times, especially on Sabbaths, Sabbatical years, High Sabbaths, etc., as well as during ordinary times. God’s calendar is governed by two simple rules:

1. The first day of the month begins with the first visible crescent as viewed at sunset from the temple mount in Jerusalem.
2. The first month of the year begins after the spring equinox, or one month later if the barley is not mature or the previous year has not yet ended.

This foundational calendar knowledge makes it possible to verify many inspired accounts that were previously not possible to verify, as well as compute the High Sabbaths in Adventist history. Most importantly, the events surrounding the crucifixion in the year 31 A.D. are harmonized by this true calendar, and show that Jesus indeed rested in the tomb on the High Sabbath of May 26, 31 A.D. “for that sabbath day was an high day.” (John 19:31)

This fact illustrates that the important work that Jesus did to secure our justification was only one part of fulfilling the plan of salvation as symbolized in the feast days. The remaining feast days must yet be fulfilled by the 144,000 as they submit to the work of their sanctification through the Holy Spirit.

Within the paradigm of genetics, each of the “codons” of the HSL are made up of “base pairs” that are labeled according to the High Sabbath “nucleotides.” The N1, N2, and N3 “nucleotides” represent Nissan (first-month) High Sabbaths, while the T1 and T2 “nucleotides” represent Tishri (seventh-month) High Sabbaths. N2 corresponds to the first day of unleavened bread, which Jesus bracketed on both sides by the two most important events in human history: His death and His resurrection. Thus, Jesus is the basis for our interested search for possible years when the remaining High Sabbaths could be fulfilled. That search results in only two possibilities since Adventism began: the R.B.F. triplet which is confirmed prophetically (as shown in the previous article) and the T.L.C. triplet which shares the identical code. (All of the other “codons” in the HSL differ slightly in one “base pair” from the perfect fulfillment.) This shows once again that Jesus could have come in 1890 and that the last possible time for the 144,000 to fulfill their mission and usher in the Second Coming of Jesus Christ is from 2013 to 2015.

The High Sabbaths give the 144,000 crucial insight into the timing of God’s plans, marking for example the exact day of the end of the Investigative Judgment and the beginning of the seven last plagues. The detailed knowledge of the calendar is in part what leads to the date of the Second Coming. Far from being trivia, the knowledge obtained from the HSL will help the 144,000 to distinguish the counterfeit working of the enemy of souls. The false christ, the false plagues that will precede him, the false worship, etc. will all be easily distinguished from the direct work of God, for:

*Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.
(Amos 3:7)*

The HSL confirms the dates in the Orion Clock, either directly or indirectly. The two messages are complementary, as the Holy Spirit (whose work is represented by the HSL) is the Representative of Jesus Christ, whose work is represented in Orion.

The Consequences of Failure of the 144,000

The Last Generation Theology pioneered by Andreasen was completed in 2012. Not only is the mission understood now, but the ramifications of failure have been made known. In allowing Himself to be put on trial, God has risked the possibility that the court will uphold the accusations against him. If God were to overrule the court, it would in any wise prove the accusations of Satan correct. If God does not win the case, sin will spread beyond the quarantine zone of Earth and into every distant reach of the universe. Thus God would be left with the following recourses:

1. Recreate the universe again (until the next cycle of sin begins)
2. Destroy the universe, and create robots instead
3. Destroy the universe, and remain alone

What a disappointing and meaningless cycle of existence any of those options would be, especially for God who is characterized by selfless love! How could He go on not being able to spend eternity with those He loves? His final recourse would be to do what Jesus already proved that the Divine can do:

4. "I lay down my life..." (John 10:17)

Which of those possibilities would you choose if you saw that all kinds of free-will creatures that you created and would ever create in the future would eventually decide not to love you? Even God's personal well-being is at stake in the Great Controversy. God is love, but love cannot exist if it cannot be given.

The 144,000 need to realize what the Father is going through in order to vindicate Him in His great trial before the universe. With this understanding, and seeing that the un-fallen inhabitants of other worlds have a vested interest too, the words of Ellen White come into perspective:

The angels and the holy inhabitants of other worlds watch with intense interest the events taking place on this earth. {ST February 22, 1910, par. 3}

We must never forget that our high calling is beyond our ability.

We are laborers together with God. The frail instrument is nothing, but worked by the Holy Spirit man can accomplish much. All human effort combined is weakness without the deep moving of the Spirit of God. {2MR 38.3}

There is no one alive worthy of Christ's sacrifice, of the blessing of the Holy Spirit, or of the Father's selfless love. But this message, when it reaches the heart, is the message that lightens up the faces of God's people. It is the last of the last messages to the Church. It is represented by the last "base pair" in the Church's history. After this, there is only one more triplet, and it is not counted as belonging to the organized Church, nor does it contain a further message.

The O.H.C. Triplet in Summary

The Clock of God in Orion which came in 2010 shows us the standard of the character of Jesus Christ, who ministers in the heavenly sanctuary in the Orion nebula. By faith in Him the 144,000 will attain to the standard of His character. The Vessel of Time (or the High Sabbath List) which came in 2011 shows us the same standard of the character of Christ that the Holy Spirit wants to work out here in the earthly sanctuary. With hope in the sanctifying influence of the Holy Spirit, the 144,000 will reflect the character He represents. And finally, the message of the justification of God through obedience and specifically the consequences of the failure, which came in 2012 shows the standard of the character of God the Father, who has staked the entire universe—saving nary His own Person—on His love for and confidence in His people. Through love for the Father who first loved them, the 144,000 will overcome every defect in their character.

And now abide faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love. (1 Corinthians 13:13, NKJV)

This triplet of years represents the fourth angel's message, which comes just in time to join the last work of the third angels' message of Revelation 14:9-11, bringing with it the added mention of the errors that have entered the churches since 1844. Many have claimed to preach the third angels' message with the added mention of the errors in the church, but never before has there been the prophetic basis for the specific identification of those errors as there is now through the Orion and HSL messages. Furthermore, the light of the fourth angel that was to lighten the world had not yet done so. But now, the fulfillment of the following prophecy is actually taking place:

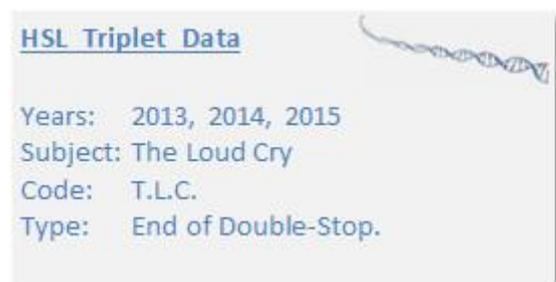

I saw angels hurrying to and fro in heaven, descending to the earth, and again ascending to heaven, preparing for the fulfillment of some important event. Then I saw another mighty angel commissioned to descend to the earth, to unite his voice with the third angel, and give power and force to his message. Great power and glory were imparted to the angel, and as he descended, the earth was lightened with his glory. The light which attended this angel penetrated everywhere, as he cried mightily, with a strong voice, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. The work of this angel comes in at the right time to join in the last great work of the third angel's message as it swells to a loud cry. And the people of God are thus prepared to stand in the hour of temptation, which they are soon to meet. I saw a great light resting upon them, and they united to fearlessly proclaim the third angel's message. {EW 277.1}

As this triplet closes and these messages swell into the next, the experience of God's people today parallels the experience of the Millerites. A detailed analysis of the repetition of the first and second angels' messages will be given in the next article in this series.

The O.H.C. triplet represents the end of the "genetic sequence" and encodes a message for the people of God to prepare them for the end of the world. In His foreknowledge, and to safeguard against another rejection of the message like what happened in the 1888-1890 triplet, God designed one more redundant "stop codon" to immediately follow this one.

The Loud Cry

The last "codon" in the "DNA sequence" of the HSL forms a "double-stop codon" to guarantee an end to the "gene translation" process and finish the character development of God's people. It is comprised of identical "base pairs" to the 1888-1890 triplet of years. It represents the fulfillment of all of the High Sabbaths except the one Jesus fulfilled in the tomb, and marks the time period of the Loud Cry. There is no further message associated with this triplet, but it represents the cumulative messages of all of the foregoing triplets in the "genome" of the HSL. This is when the martyrs must offer up their gift and the 144,000 must shine for the Father. These are the three prophetic days when Jesus must raise up the temple of His body (the 144,000) to demonstrate in the flesh what it means to overcome sin, and live faithfully to God as He did:

Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. (John 2:19)

During this time, the 144,000 will learn to sing their new song (Revelation 14:3), which is their sealing by the messages prior to this triplet. They will strengthen the martyrs who will give their testimony by their blood. They must finish their work of preparation in time for the Judgment of the Living to end in the autumn of 2015, when all character development will cease with the pronouncement:

“He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still.” (Revelation 22:11)

Then the plagues will come upon the world, which is the great time of trouble. The 144,000 must go through the last plagues, and remain faithful without an intercessor, demonstrating to the watching universe that God’s Law can be kept by created beings through faith in Jesus, who will afterward come in the clouds of glory on Shemini Atzeret in 2016. Then the “gene of eternal life” which will have been “replicated” in the 144,000 will culminate in their literal translation as they are changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye. They will spend the Sabbath millennium with Jesus on the sea of glass (in the Orion nebula), after which Satan, his angels, and all the wicked will be destroyed and the world will be recreated.

The climax of their experience of rising out of the darkness of sin and into the light of righteousness (an experience which Jesus did not pass through) will seed the universe with the antidote to sin, to ensure that sin will not rise up a second time.

What do ye imagine against the LORD? he will make an utter end: affliction shall not rise up the second time. (Nahum 1:9)

Thus God’s universe will shine in a glory brighter than it ever has before, and all the creatures throughout the boundless expanses of space will take part in the joy of that assurance. And all of the honor will go to Jesus Christ, who alone could make it possible.

...Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever. (Revelation 5:12-13)

In these first two articles, I’ve tried to show the main characteristics expressed by the “codons” of the “gene” of eternal life in the HSL. In the next article I will explore advanced topics relating to the HSL.

Advanced Topics for the 144,000

In the previous articles, the meaning of each triplet in the HSL was discussed. This article will explore some of the more complex relationships within the HSL. The more we dig for hidden treasures in the revelations of God the more we find, and the HSL is no exception.

The “base pairs” that make up each triplet follow a pattern. All of the “codons” in the HSL have a T1 fulfillment in their middle “base pair.” The T1 group represents the Day of Trumpets, the first day of the Feast of Tabernacles, and the Last Great Day (Shemini Atzeret) which always fall on the same day of the week and are thus always High Sabbaths in the same years. The first triplet, the “start codon,” is distinct from all others in its first “base pair” which includes N3 and T1 fulfillments instead of the N3 and N1 fulfillments that begin every other “codon.” Finally, all of the “codons” that mark the beginning or end of “DNA translation” have N1 and T2 fulfillments in their third “base pair.” The remaining intermediate stop triplets that do not mark the beginning or end of a sequence differ only in their last “codon.”

We can summarize the different patterns as follows:

1. All triplets have T1 in their middle year
2. The starting triplet begins uniquely with N3 T1
3. All of the other triplets begin with N3 N1
4. All triplets that delimit “gene translation” end with N1 T2

The last three triplets in the HSL have “base pairs” that are identical to earlier triplets. Those relationships were explored in the previous article in the context of their respective triplets. All of the triplets other than R.B.F. and T.L.C. differ from the perfect fulfillment by only one “base pair.”

The Light of the Fourth Angel

We are given some clues about the angel in Revelation 18 that lightens the world with his glory. Ellen White penned the following in 1892, just after the R.B.F. triplet:

The time of test is just upon us, for the loud cry of the third angel has already begun in the revelation of the righteousness of Christ, the sin-pardoning Redeemer. This is the beginning of the light of the angel whose glory shall fill the whole earth. {1SM 362.4}

The light that began in the R.B.F. triplet was rejected by the organized Church. It was re-kindled in L.G.T. triplet, but again rejected. Finally, it shined again in its completeness in the O.H.C. triplet, but was rejected for the third and last time. When ancient Israel rejected Jesus, only the handful of unworthy sailors and other unlikely types that made up the 12 disciples held on in faith and soon afterward founded the Christian Church through the power of the Holy Spirit. Once again, history repeats and only an unworthy handful remain from the organized Church to carry the last work forward.

The three bursts of light build upon each other. The message of Righteousness by Faith introduced in 1888 showed that God’s people have a work to do of obedience to the whole law through faith. Upon that foundation, the Last Generation Theology of Andreasen showed that it is necessary for God’s people to do this work in order to end the Great Controversy. The light of these recent years completed the understanding, showing the timeframe in which this work must be done and the consequences to the universe if it is not done.

The fourth angel is none other than the Holy Spirit Himself. We know this from Ellen White’s writings:

The latter rain is to fall upon the people of God. A mighty angel is to come down from heaven, and the whole earth is to be lighted with his glory. {RH April 21, 1891, par. 11}

Thus, the Holy Spirit is Christ’s representative divested of the limitations of the human nature, He is the “Mighty Angel.” He works in His omnipresent way in hearts all the time, but on Pentecost He filled the disciples in a special way.

I have no specific time of which to speak when the outpouring of the Holy Spirit will take place,— when the mighty angel will come down from heaven, and unite with the third angel in closing up the work for this world; {RH March 29, 1892, par. 5}

We also are looking forward to communing with Him in a special way, too, when He will fill the earth with His glory through the messages He has given. So far, His light has not lightened the whole earth. That is the work that must take place in the final triplet of the HSL. Once again He will fill a new generation of disciples, but He will only be able to fill those who have prepared themselves: the 144,000.

But this mighty angel comes bearing no soft, smooth message, but words that are calculated to stir the hearts of men to their very depths. That angel is represented as crying mightily with a strong voice, saying, “Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.” “Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.” Are we indeed as the human agencies, to cooperate with the divine instrumentalities in sounding the message of this mighty angel who is to lighten the earth with his glory? {1888 1015.3}

The Persons of the Godhead

The HSL has many features that testify to the fact that the Godhead is comprised of three Persons. For example, the “base pair” triplets, the set of three messages in the O.H.C. triplet, the last three years of the T.L.C. triplet, etc.

This aspect goes beyond simply the number 3 appearing in the structure. The three messages represented by the O.H.C. triplet, for example, stand for Jesus (who is pleading His blood in Orion), the Holy Spirit (the HSL shows how He has worked through the church), and the Father (the consequences of failure regarding His justification). The messages are actually about each member of the Godhead specifically.

The sifting triplets also bear witness to the Godhead. The L.G.T. triplet speaks of the Father’s trial in the Great Controversy, while the H.N.C. triplet is all about what Jesus sacrificed to make our redemption possible, and the P.H.S. triplet clarifies the manner in which the Holy Spirit works through the 144,000 (not as a power, but as a Person).

The Sifting Time

The period after the 1888 triplet is the time during which God sifts the Church to find the 144,000 faithful. There are five main stages corresponding to the five triplets, but the last triplet consists of three sub-stages in the threefold messages it represents. Each sieve or filter can also be considered a test, as it separates God’s faithful from the rest. The tests are progressive, so a person who doesn’t pass an earlier test will not undergo a later test.

Examining the sifting triplets from last to first, we notice a pattern emerge. The last sifting time of the O.H.C. triplet is unique in that it consists of three distinct parts: the Orion message, the HSL, and the complete message of the Justification of the Father. This is the last “sifting mechanism” to find the few grains of good “wheat.”

The prior triplet deals especially with the Personality of the Holy Spirit. In God’s numbering system, we can represent this filter by the number 3, which represents the Godhead (or more specifically the third Person of the Godhead in this context).

The triplet before that deals with the Human Nature of Jesus Christ. The number of Jesus in the Bible is the number 7. (Incidentally, 7 is the result of the expression 3 + 4. The number 4 represents the world. Jesus was the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. The Godhead (3) through the cross (+) gave to the world (4) the means of redemption.)

Next, we have the Last Generation Theology. It deals with the subject of what the 12 tribes of the 144,000 must do to fulfill their role in the Great Controversy. This has to do with vows, or oaths, which are represented by multiplication (×). The expression that represents this concept is: the 144,000 from the world (4) determine or vow (×) to the Godhead (3) that they would do their part to justify the Father, which is (=) their covenant (12). Thus the number 12 is a fitting number to represent this filter.

Finally, we come to the first filter regarding the Spirit of Prophecy. Although Ellen White was a true prophet, she was not given unlimited insight. While the pioneers were laying the foundations for the church’s doctrines, often Ellen White would receive a vision that would steer them. She herself did not understand the subjects they were toiling over, but her visions served to confirm the pioneers. Ellen White says virtually nothing about the Justification of the Father. The Last Generation Theology of Andreasen was purely new light which Ellen White was not privileged to know. She was given a clear understanding of the human nature of Jesus and the magnitude of His sacrifice, as well as a clear understanding of the personality of the Holy Spirit, but the mystery of the Father was not revealed to her. Those who accept her completely have a good foundation for passing the H.N.C. and P.H.S. tests. To bring this all together into a numeric code, we take the two triplets which the Spirit of Prophecy specifically relates to, and combine them in like manner as the terms in the L.G.T. triplet: 7 (H.N.C.) × (the operation used in the L.G.T. triplet) 3 (P.H.S.) = 21. Thus, the number for this filter is 21.

One could image the Holy Spirit as a chef dressed in all white who comes onto the scene in 1888 during the R.B.F. triplet. Not finding the Minneapolis General Conference wheat cleaned to the necessary quality for immediate use, He carries the best of it like a sack of wheat into a room with five tables. Each table has a sieve (or filter) at the end, and each filter has a finer mesh than the one on the preceding table. For the sake of illustration, let's imagine that the filter grades are measured in millimeters (mm) according to the size of objects that can pass through each filter.

Taking the wheat that represents the true Adventists that were left after the 1888–1890 triplet, He puts it on the first table and sifts it with the 21 mm filter of the Spirit of Prophecy. Then He takes the good grain that is left which represents those who live according to the Spirit of Prophecy, and sifts it on the second table with the 12 mm filter of the Last Generation Theology of Andreasen. Again, taking the good grain that is left representing those who believe that the last generation has a special work to do, He sifts it on the third table with the 7 mm filter of the doctrine of Christ's human nature, and again He sifts the remnant on the fourth table with the 3 mm filter of the Personality of the Holy Spirit.

Lastly, He takes what good grain remains, which represents Adventists who have passed all of the preceding tests, and puts it on the fifth and last table. He sifts it three more times with the very fine filter which represents the Orion message, the HSL, and the universal consequences of the acts of the last generation. The little remnant of good grain that passes these last three tests represents those who will sound the Loud Cry in the final triplet from 2013 to 2015.

Ellen White confirms that the sifting really did begin on the first table from 1891 to 1914:

We are in the shaking time, the time when everything that can be shaken will be shaken. The Lord will not excuse those who know the truth if they do not in word and deed obey His commands.— Testimonies for the Church 6:332 (1900). {LDE 173.4}

Furthermore, in a vision in 1857 she foresaw the disaster of 1888 to 1890 which marks the beginning of the sifting tables, recorded as follows:

I asked the meaning of the shaking I had seen, and was shown that it would be caused by the straight testimony called forth by the counsel of the True Witness to the Laodiceans. This will have its effect upon the heart of the receiver, and will lead him to exalt the standard and pour forth the straight truth. Some will not bear this straight testimony. They will rise up against it, and this will cause a shaking among God's people.—Testimonies For The Church 1:181 (1857). {LDE 175.3}

The Numbers of Divinity, Perfection, and the Law

The “DNA sequence” pertaining to the martyrs is made up of three (3) “codons,” 144,000 must go on to develop a character inclusive of five more triplets. The last of those triplets involves a threefold message, so the total number of additional points for the 144,000 comes to seven (7). However, they also possess the character attributes of the martyrs, which brings the number of their “DNA sequence” up to ten (10).

- The martyrs: 3 tests
- The 144,000: 3 tests + 7 tests = 10 tests

The three (3) character attributes of the martyrs represent that their blood is precious to Divinity and they will receive a special reward for their faithfulness.

The seven (7) additional attributes of the 144,000 represents perfection in Christ, while their total of ten (10) brings them up to the number of the Law, which they attain through the faith of Jesus.

Principles of Time and Eternity

Three of the stop “codons” occur twice, representing a span of time. The S.o.P. triplet marks the beginning of an era of compromise that led from the alpha of deadly heresies down to the corresponding omega in the P.H.S. triplet. The S.D.A. triplet marks the beginning of the organized Church, which ends in the corresponding O.H.C. triplet. Finally, the R.B.F. triplet marks the beginning of the light of the fourth angel which reaches its fullness in the T.L.C. triplet.

Of all the stop “codons,” two of them have no “end.” The L.G.T and H.N.C. triplets have no counterpart to mark their end because the players in those triplets hold the key to eternity. The H.N.C. triplet stands for Jesus’ human nature, which He took on forever. Jesus is, of course, the central player in the plan of salvation, and without His sacrifice the plan would not have been possible.

To assure us of His immutable counsel of peace, God gave His only-begotten Son to become one of the human family, forever to retain His human nature. {DA 25.3}

However, the story doesn’t end there. The 144,000 have a work to do that Jesus could not do, and their part is just as important to the plan of salvation as Jesus’ death on the cross.

The intercession of Christ in man’s behalf in the sanctuary above is as essential to the plan of salvation as was His death upon the cross. By His death He began that work which after His resurrection He ascended to complete in heaven. We must by faith enter within the veil, “whither the forerunner is for us entered.” Hebrews 6:20. There the light from the cross of Calvary is reflected. There we may gain a clearer insight into the mysteries of redemption. The salvation of man is accomplished at an infinite expense to heaven; the sacrifice made is equal to the broadest demands of the broken law of God. Jesus has opened the way to the Father’s throne, and through His mediation the sincere desire of all who come to Him in faith may be presented before God. {GC 489.1}

Jesus was the forerunner for the 144,000 who will reflect the light of the cross. The role of the 144,000, which Jesus makes possible, is just as essential to the plan of salvation. The L.G.T. “codon” has no counterpart to mark its end because, like Jesus, the 144,000 hold the key to the plan of salvation.

And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth; (Revelation 3:7)

And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will call my servant Eliakim the son of Hilkiah: ... And the key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder; so he shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open. (Isaiah 22:20, 22)

The Repetition of the First and Second Angels' Messages

The first angel announced the coming of the Judgment, and was fulfilled by William Miller and company. This warning of the beginning of the Investigative Judgment had its counterpart in the Orion message, which announces the end of the Investigative Judgment. The Millerites mistakenly expected the visible fulfillment of the Judgment to be complete with the purifying destruction of the world with fire at the Second Coming. In a similar way, warnings of destruction by fireballs and other major disasters at the end of the Judgment accompany the Orion message.

The second angel announced the fall of Babylon. The Midnight Cry, "Behold the bridegroom cometh," brought urgency to the second angel's message and strengthened it. Joseph Bates, one of the pioneers of the Advent movement, remarks upon the waymark of the second angel's message as follows:

This way mark was now distinctly seen in our pathway, linked in with, or chained on to the judgment hour cry, and stretching its way through the tarrying time, crying mightily with a strong voice [as was never heard before, nor since Oct. 1844], "Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and is become [not will be] the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." {Second Advent Way Marks and High Heaps, BP2 65.1} [brackets in original]

Remember that the announcement "Babylon is fallen, is fallen," is doubled to indicate that the message would be repeated, but Bates observed that it was only given once. The message was not repeated until recently through the messages of the O.H.C. triplet. Many have claimed to preach the message with the added mention of the errors in the church, but never before has there been the prophetic basis for the specific identification of those errors as there is now through the Orion and HSL messages. Furthermore, the light of the fourth angel that was to lighten the world had not yet done so. But now, the fulfillment of this prophecy is actually taking place:

I saw angels hurrying to and fro in heaven, descending to the earth, and again ascending to heaven, preparing for the fulfillment of some important event. Then I saw another mighty angel commissioned to descend to the earth, to unite his voice with the third angel, and give power and force to his message. Great power and glory were imparted to the angel, and as he descended, the earth was lightened with his glory. The light which attended this angel penetrated everywhere, as he cried mightily, with a strong voice, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird." The message of the fall of Babylon, as given by the second angel, is repeated, with the additional mention of the corruptions which have been entering the churches since 1844. The work of this angel comes in at the right time to join in the last great work of the third angel's message as it swells to a loud cry. And the people of God are thus prepared to stand in the hour of temptation, which they are soon to meet. I saw a great light resting upon them, and they united to fearlessly proclaim the third angel's message. {EW 277.1}

To understand how the announcement that Babylon "is fallen" was repeated, we need to decipher what Babylon actually represents. Joseph Bates helps us with that, too, in saying what it meant for the Millerites:

About this time [August 1844] ten thousand extras of the Voice of Truth, containing the Editors, S. S. Snow, and Geo. Storr's Exposition were published, showing what was Babylon and her fall, &c. &c. This presented the subject in so clear a light, and in accordance with the teachings of the Spirit, that it was clearly seen that Babylon, that great city symbolized by a "woman seated upon a scarlet colored beast, full of names of blasphemy having seven heads and ten horns," represented the existing organized churches which had now fallen in consequence of rejecting the doctrine of the Second Advent of our Saviour, which was now being given by the messengers that were flying through the midst of Heaven, just as the Jewish Church fell by the rejection of the First Advent. See 23d Chap. of Math. {Second Advent Way Marks and High Heaps, BP2 62.4}

In clarifying this even further, he also tells who the target audience was for the messages of that movement:

They called Babylon "Babel," "the city of Rome," "the Catholic Church" and lastly "the World." But those that had been burdened with this subject and felt the cry in them, insisted upon it that these were mistaken, for Jesus had said, "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God." And they knew perfectly well that they had not been to Babel, nor into the Catholic church, nor to the city of Rome, to preach this doctrine, neither were they burdened to preach it to all the world; but to the organized churches, where God's people were. {Second Advent Way Marks and High Heaps, BP2 60.1}

The above record tells how the message of the second angel was given during the Millerite Movement, and we see remarkable parallels as the messages are being repeated in our day. Modern Babylon represents the organized Church that has rejected its final message of warning announcing the Second Advent, just like the Protestant Churches rejected the doctrine of the Second Advent. Let's be clear, the Seventh-day Adventist Church was always God's chosen vessel, as shown by the Orion and HSL prophecies, but because they did not know the hour of their visitation and they rejected the last warning against their errors, their candlestick has been removed and given to others and they no longer stand as God's repository of truth. They have followed in the footsteps of Israel, and have lost their candlestick in the same manner as those it originally came from.

The implication of this message for individuals is that the organization no longer stands as God's chosen repository of truth. This is a stern wake-up call to those who mistakenly believed that the church would go through to the end. It had abundant opportunity as did Israel, but its members chose to crucify Christ (as seen in Orion) just like their fathers. Nevertheless, its history as God's true church remains a prophetic lesson book etched by the positions of the heavenly bodies for all to learn from.

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound every where, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues; for her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities. This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, and joined it, as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning, proclaiming the fall of Babylon, and calling upon God's people to come out of her; that they might escape her fearful doom. {1SC 194.1}

Notice that the above quote speaks prophetically of the Orion and HSL messages as "the last solemn warning," which is the repetition of the second angel's message, or the second "is fallen" of Revelation 14:8. The following table illustrates how the first and second angel's messages were given in the history of the Millerite Movement in comparison to their repetition today.

The First Angel's Message...	The Light that Repeated the Message...

Table 1 – The First and Second Angels' Messages and their Repetition

The third angel's message involves the Sabbath truth:

The third angel's message calls for the presentation of the Sabbath of the fourth commandment, and this truth must be brought before the world; but the great Center of attraction, Jesus Christ, must not be left out of the third angel's message. {Ev 184.3}

Of the Sabbath truth Ellen White prophesied:

And at the commencement of the time of trouble, we were filled with the Holy Ghost as we went forth and proclaimed the Sabbath more fully." {EW 85.2}

This "proclaiming" of the Sabbath more fully is being fulfilled through the HSL message, as the Sabbath is the key determinant of the High Sabbath List, but the complete fulfillment is in the messages of the O.H.C. triplet in their entirety, which is only now being revealed as we approach the spring of 2013.

Conclusion

There are, no doubt, many more treasures to be discovered in the HSL, but my hope in writing these things is most of all that the reader will gain a sense of what the Holy Spirit can do to transform a soul. The damaged and degenerated “DNA” of people like me can be repaired through cooperation with the Holy Spirit, and the gift of eternal life can be realized in all who believe. In the fearful times ahead, it is my prayer that this message will turn many to righteousness.

The Shadow Series is finished, but our work is far from it. On the contrary, God has called us to be a beacon in the wild waters of the Great Storm that now descends upon humanity. In order to achieve this goal and lead the 144,000 teachers, we were subjected to severe tests. We had to find out exactly what Ellen G. White once put as follows:

The season of distress and anguish before us will require a faith that can endure weariness, delay, and hunger—a faith that will not faint though severely tried. The period of probation is granted to all to prepare for that time. Jacob prevailed because he was persevering and determined. His victory is an evidence of the power of importunate prayer. All who will lay hold of God's promises, as he did, and be as earnest and persevering as he was, will succeed as he succeeded. Those who are unwilling to deny self, to agonize before God, to pray long and earnestly for His blessing, will not obtain it. Wrestling with God—how few know what it is! How few have ever had their souls drawn out after God with intensity of desire until every power is on the stretch. When waves of despair which no language can express sweep over the suppliant, how few cling with unyielding faith to the promises of God. {GC 621.2}

During the many tests we went through since February 27, 2012, we did not know that God would give us a special signal so that we would know that we had received the seal of the living God for our work, and that we should yet disclose this wonderful thing in His time. From this seal comes our new section which will accompany you until the time of plagues, at least as long as we still have communication. May God bless this section especially and give the Holy Spirit to those who know Him and understand that He never does anything without revealing His secret to His prophets (Amos 3:7).

The Abiding Gift of Prophecy

At the end of his life in the 1930's, Arthur G. Daniells, former President of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists and long-time colleague of Ellen G. White, wrote an excellent book on the subject by the same title The Abiding Gift of Prophecy. In over 400 perfectly researched and in my opinion also inspired pages, he shows that the church of God was always accompanied by the Spirit of Prophecy, and ultimately how the gift was manifested in God's chosen remnant church through Ellen G. White.

He covers the entire history of God's people up to the present day, tracing the presence of the gift of prophecy among God's people in all ages:

1. From Egypt to Canaan realized through the gift of Moses, who received direct instruction from God from the burning bush onward.
2. From Joshua to Samuel by Joshua himself, "men of God", Deborah and finally with great Samuel, who founded the schools of the prophets.
3. During the rebellion of Israel in the days of the kings when they rejected God as their king, with 30 referred to in the writings of the prophets from Samuel to Jeremiah, plus a few more that were not mentioned by name.
4. In the period during and after the Babylonian captivity from Daniel through Malachi.
5. He demonstrates the presence of the gift of prophecy even between Malachi and John the Baptist.
6. From apostolic times to the present day, as the testimony of the apostles themselves attest, like that of Paul who said: "Quench not the Spirit. Despise not prophesyings." (1 Thessalonians 5:19-20) and especially through the anti-type of the early rain of Pentecost in the time of the latter rain.
7. By the manifestation of the Spirit of Prophecy through Ellen G. White in the Adventist Church during the period of the investigative judgment.

God has never left His people without the gift of the Spirit of Prophecy. Daniells came as far as the time of the judgment of the dead, but what about the time of transition from the judgment of the dead to the judgment of the living, and what about the time of the judgment of the living? Wouldn't the star in the crown of the woman, the smallest church of the remnant of the remnant, especially need this gift? Shouldn't we expect the gift of prophecy now, or are the 100,000 pages that Ellen G. White wrote in the 70 years of her service as a messenger of God sufficient to lead the church through the little time of trouble?

Ellen G. White herself answers the question by pointing to a new light that she herself did not receive, but that could only be received by diligent students of the Scriptures, aided by the gift of the Holy Spirit.

Peter exhorts his brethren to "grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." [2 Peter 3:18.] Whenever the people of God are growing in grace, they will be constantly obtaining a clearer understanding of His word. They will discern new light and beauty in its sacred truths. This has been true in the history of the church in all ages, and thus it will continue to the end. But as real spiritual life declines, it has ever been the tendency to cease to advance in the knowledge of the truth. Men rest satisfied with the light already received from God's word, and discourage any further investigation of the Scriptures. They become conservative, and seek to avoid discussion. {GW 297.2}

Is a Bible student, talented as he may be, a prophet in this sense? No, because the definition of a prophet is that he receives direct instruction from God and hears His voice in dreams or visions. Even when a Bible student is led to certain portions of the Bible and to new knowledge through an occasional dream, that isn't a manifestation of the full gift of the Spirit of Prophecy in him.

On the contrary, we are told how the gift of prophecy acts in relation to those in the church, who explore the Word of God through study, thirsting for more light:

Many of our people do not realize how firmly the foundation of our faith has been laid. My husband, Elder Joseph Bates, Father Pierce, Elder [Hiram] Edson, and others who were keen, noble, and true, were among those who, after the passing of the time in 1844, searched for the truth as for hidden treasure. I met with them, and we studied and prayed earnestly. Often we remained together until late at night, and sometimes through the entire night, praying for light and studying the Word. Again and again these brethren came together to study the Bible, in order that they might know its meaning, and be prepared to teach it with power. When they came to the point in their study where they said, "We can do nothing more," the Spirit of the Lord would come upon me, I would be taken off in vision, and a clear explanation of the passages we had been studying would be given me, with instruction as to how we were to labor and teach effectively. Thus light was given that helped us to understand the scriptures in regard to Christ, His mission, and His priesthood. A line of truth extending from that time to the time when we shall enter the city of God, was made plain to me, and I gave to others the instruction that the Lord had given me.

During this whole time I could not understand the reasoning of the brethren. My mind was locked, as it were, and I could not comprehend the meaning of the scriptures we were studying. This was one of the greatest sorrows of my life. I was in this condition of mind until all the principal points of our faith were made clear to our minds, in harmony with the Word of God. The brethren knew that when not in vision, I could not understand these matters, and they accepted as light direct from heaven the revelations given. {1SM 206.4–207.1}

The last part of that quote from the life of God's messenger reveals an important spiritual principle: The person who is gifted with the Spirit of Prophecy does not understand what the studies of the students mean, not because they are unintelligent or ignorant, but for the purpose that the revelations that are given to the church through them can be recognized as such.

Unfortunately, the story of the gift of the Spirit of Prophecy is also the story of the people's rejection of the Spirit of Prophecy that they should receive. This was the case in all ages, and will drag on even to the coming of Jesus.

Ellen G. White led the church for a long time, even deep into their 120-year wilderness wandering, which began in 1890 because the church rejected even the very beginning of the light of the fourth angel. Not until a long while later were a few of the people finally ready to accept this light in all its fullness. Now, shortly after the beginning of the judgment of the living, this light is to swell to a loud cry, the last great warning to a dying world, which will be destroyed by the judgments of God unmixed with mercy, along with all those who did not want to completely entrust their lives to God.

Since 1915, the year Ellen G. White died, the church had to take their journey through the wilderness on their own without the living Spirit of Prophecy. They had to suffer the trials of following their oft-misguided church leadership from the red, over to the black, then to the pale horse—the dead church of Sardis—for "where there is no vision, the people perish" (Proverbs 29:18). Although her writings accompanied them, the following prophecy of the messenger of God came true:

Satan is ... constantly pressing in the spurious—to lead away from the truth. The very last deception of Satan will be to make of none effect the testimony of the Spirit of God. "Where there is no vision, the people perish" (Proverbs 29:18). Satan will work ingeniously, in different ways and through different agencies, to unsettle the confidence of God's remnant people in the true testimony.—Letter 12, 1890.

There will be a hatred kindled against the testimonies which is satanic. The workings of Satan will be to unsettle the faith of the churches in them, for this reason: Satan cannot have so clear a track to bring in his deceptions and bind up souls in his delusions if the warnings and reproofs and counsels of the Spirit of God are heeded.—Letter 40, 1890. {1SM 48.3–4}

Arthur G. Daniells wrote in the last chapter of his book The Abiding Gift of Prophecy:

The welfare of the church as a whole, and of its individual members, is inseparably bound up with believing and heeding God's prophets. These, as we have seen, are His chosen messengers, His appointed spokesmen, to His church on earth. As we have also clearly shown, this plan of communication has been God's chosen, uniform, and beneficent provision for revealing His will to man, ever since the separation caused by sin. Through this means, God counsels and instructs, He cautions, entreats, and warns, as need may occasion and as divine love indicates. The presence of the prophet among men is not, therefore, something new or unusual, something strange or fantastic. God is the author of this provision, and wayfaring man is its beneficiary. It is as old as the human need, and as constant as the divine love that prompted and instituted it.

The vicissitudes of the church in all ages have been gauged by its allegiance or its disloyalty to the gift of prophecy, and its safety measured by its response to these heavenly leadings. Through the centuries spanning the patriarchal, Mosaic, and 325 apostolic eras, we have seen this inviolable rule in operation, as revealed in the pages of Holy Writ.

Then after the death of the apostles, the tragic march of events in the Christian era begins, is told in blood and tears, and is blotched with drift and apostasy. Steadily the nominal Christian church veers from those foundation principles—the precepts and practices, the letter and the spirit—that characterized the apostolic church. The departure centered in perversion of the law and the gospel, though it permeated every truth of Christianity.

Tragic has been the lot of those who stood for the primitive faith. Hated and maligned, persecuted and isolated, they witnessed to the truth. But from time to time prophets—men and women—arose at the call of God, and denounced the iniquity of the disloyal. They encouraged the fidelity of the faithful, and guided and guarded the adherents of truth through the weary centuries.

Now in these divinely denominated “last days,” God's great plan of redemption and the mad course of the human race approach their climax together. Iniquity so abounds among men, human philosophy is so defiant, man's independence of God and of the provisions of redemption are so affronting in this supreme conflict between good and evil, that it was imperative for the gift of prophecy to be conspicuously manifest in the ranks of the remnant church.

Paramount Need in the Last Days

If ever in the course of the race man needed divine guidance, it is surely in these last days, when all the forces of iniquity have broken loose to confuse and to ruin, when the secular world has gone materialist, and the religious world has turned to modernistic teachings. If ever in history the church needed to have divine guidance, that time was reached at the crisis hour of the advent movement, just following the disappointment of 1844, and throughout the decades following. Farreaching were the issues; but adequate was God's guidance.

The last conflict comes over allegiance to God, and reaches its consummation in our day. The perfect law of God, with its Sabbath seal, is the object of Satan's hatred, and he would swing the world to his side in the conflict. The full salvation provided through faith in Christ is equally the object of his relentless attempts to deny His incarnation, His atoning death, His priestly ministry, and His imminent return in power and glory.

Satan's wrath is focused on God's remnant church, the supreme object of divine love and guidance. This church will finally stand as the sole defender of God's trampled law, to which are joined the full provisions of redemption. Not only is the church as a whole the object of the evil one's attack, but the individual member as well is harassed, because of maintaining the integrity of the law and the gospel. Through injecting doubt, carelessness, defiance, or repudiation, Satan likewise seeks to turn allegiance from the counsels of the gift of prophecy.

Hence the three great issues at stake in this last hour are as clearly and sharply defined as inspiration can disclose them. But these have all become confused in the beliefs and practices among the masses of Christendom.

But now, in bringing this volume to a close, the question of individual and church relationship to God's gift stands forth as of supreme importance. My closing words are therefore a plea for the recognition and heeding of this divine provision for the counsel of the church. They are an appeal to the church to keep these matters ever in mind, and to follow them faithfully in practice.

Give Heed to the Heavenly Counsels

Mark well, in retrospect, what this gift has meant to this people through the decades of the past. Mark well, how crisis after crisis has been met, and how issue after issue has been successfully faced. Time has vindicated the heavenly counsels in every instance. Consider, by way of impressive comparison and admonition, the days of Israel in the time of Moses, and then ponder our own times as a parallel. Here are the words of Israel's great leader of old:

"I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil." "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live: that thou mayest love the Lord thy God, and that thou mayest obey His voice, and that thou mayest cleave unto Him: for He is thy life, and the length of thy days." Deut. 30:15, 19, 20.

Realizing that he was soon to lay down his responsibilities, the aged patriarch, Moses, was giving his final charge to the people whom he had led for forty years, from Egypt to the borders of the Promised Land.

He had great hopes for the future of his beloved people. But knowing, by long experience, their frailties and their weakness at times under temptations and hardships, he also cherished grave fears that they might meet national disaster and defeat. Recognizing that their destiny for weal or woe was conditioned upon their relation to the instruction sent from God, he graphically, and at considerable length, set before them the blessings, temporal and spiritual, that would be theirs if they were obedient, and the curses that would be consequent upon their disobedience. (See Deuteronomy 27, 28.)

Israel's Failure to Remember

When he counseled them to love the Lord God, and to obey His voice, he was thereby exhorting them to heed the messages of counsel and instruction that he, as God's messenger had delivered to them. Save for the Ten Commandments, all the laws and testimonies and statutes enjoined upon them had been spoken through Moses. That they should see or hear only the human instrument in nowise lessened the guilt of their rejection of these divine requirements. That is true also, not only of the generation that he personally addressed, but of the men and women of all time.

Moses made provision for these solemn adjurations ever to be kept in remembrance. Parents were to teach them to their children, speaking of them when they were sitting in the house or walking by the way, as well as in the evening and in the morning hours of worship. (Deut. 11:19, 20.) They were to be written for a memorial in a book, and placed in the side of the ark. Every seventh year they were to be taken out and publicly read before the concourse of pilgrims assembled at the Feast of Tabernacles. For this solemn rehearsal of the prophetic writings, they were to gather the men and the women, not forgetting the stranger who was within their gates. The children who were coming to years of understanding were especially mentioned. They were also to hear, and learn to fear the Lord. (See Deut. 31:9-13.)

In view of the failure of Israel of old thus to keep in remembrance the solemn messages that had come through God's chosen messenger, should not we "upon whom the ends of the world are come” see to it that the instruction that has been given to the remnant church shall be kept vividly in mind?

Prophetic Gift Inseparable From the Movement

Drawing a present-day lesson from the directions of Moses (in Deut. 6:20–25) to rehearse to the children, as they came to the age of inquiry, the signs and wonders wrought in their deliverance from Egypt, Mrs. White wrote in 1882:

“Here are principles that we are not to regard with indifference. Those who have seen the truth and felt its importance, and have had an experience in the things of God, are to teach sound doctrine to their children. They should make them acquainted with the great pillars of our faith, the reasons why we are Seventh-day Adventists,—why we are called, as were the children of Israel, to be a peculiar people, a holy nation, separate and distinct from all other people on the face of the earth. These things should be explained to the children in simple language, easy to be understood; and as they grow in years, the lessons imparted should be suited to their increasing capacity, until the foundations of truth have been laid broad and deep.”—“Testimonies for the Church,” Vol. V, p. 330.

The story of the birth of the nation of Israel, of their deliverance from cruel bondage and their final entrance into Canaan, could not be told without relating the work of Moses as a prophet. Interwoven with every phase of the history were the messages that came from heaven through the great prophet of that period. He was the mouthpiece for Jehovah, making known His will, guiding them in their organization and in their movements; reproving their sins, rebuking their rebellion, and entreating them as a father.

It is likewise impossible today to tell our children “the reasons why we are Seventh-day Adventists” without familiarizing them with the prominent part played by the renewed gift of prophecy in the laying of a scriptural foundation, and building thereon, in guiding in the principles of organization, in fostering every cardinal feature of the advent movement, and in bearing messages of counsel and reproof, or of hope and courage.

It is possible to believe nominally in the gift of prophecy, to accept the messages of former prophets, and yet reject and oppose a contemporary messenger chosen of God to give instruction to His people. In Christ’s day the words of the ancient prophets were read every Sabbath in their synagogues, yet the religious leaders rejected John the Baptist, and crucified the Prophet who came direct from heaven,—the greatest who ever appeared on earth. The reason why they closed their ears against Heaven’s messengers, together with the existence of modern Pharisaism, is well set forth in these words:

“The reproofs, the cautions, the corrections of the Lord, have been given to His church in all ages of the world. These warnings were despised and rejected in Christ’s day by the self-righteous Pharisees, who claimed that they needed no such reproof, and were unjustly dealt with. They would not receive the word of the Lord through His servants, because it did not please their inclinations. Should the Lord give a vision right before this class of people in our day, pointing out their mistakes, rebuking their self-righteousness and condemning their sins, they would rise up in rebellion, like the inhabitants of Nazareth when Christ showed them their true condition.”—“Testimonies for the Church,” Vol. V, p. 689.

Why Testimonies Are Rejected

It was Christ’s rebuke of specific sins in their life that caused the Pharisees to reject His claim of being the Son of God. There is today, as there has always been in the past, a direct relation between the cherishing of some sin and a doubting of the messages of the Lord’s chosen servant.

“Many who have backslidden from the truth assign as a reason for their course, that they do not have faith in the testimonies. Investigation reveals the fact that they had some sinful habit that God has condemned through the testimonies. The question now is, Will they yield their idol which God condemns, or will they continue in their wrong course of indulgence, and reject the light God has given them, reproofing the very things in which they delight? The question to be settled with them is, Shall I deny myself, and receive as of God the testimonies which reprove my sins, or shall I reject the testimonies because they reprove my sins?" — "Testimonies for the Church," Vol. IV, p. 32.

In the early part of this volume it is asserted, with corroborative evidence, that next to the gift of Christ to our world, the gift of prophecy is God's most precious bestowal upon the church. It is therefore certain that Satan, the great adversary of God and man, will have an intense hatred for every manifestation of the gift. Its possession by the remnant church is given in the Scriptures as the explanation of the dragon's wrath against her. Rev. 12:17. Knowing this, we shall not be surprised that the testimonies of God's Spirit are the object of bitter and ceaseless attack. The most subtle arguments that can be devised by a master mind trained in guile and sophistry will be presented as reasons why we should disbelieve them.

Counsel to Our Remnant People

I counsel you who may meet with objections to the claims of the testimonies given for the remnant, to regard a proper balance between the trivial and the great, between that which is difficult of understanding and that which is plain. Here are clear, guiding principles:

"You need not go in uncertainty and doubt. Satan is at hand to suggest a variety of doubts; but if you will open your eyes in faith, you will find sufficient evidence for belief. But God will never remove from any man all causes for doubts. Those who love to dwell in the atmosphere of doubt and questioning unbelief, can have the unenviable privilege. God gives sufficient evidence for the candid mind to believe; but he who turns from the weight of evidence because there are a few things which he cannot make plain to his finite understanding, will be left in the cold, chilling atmosphere of unbelief and questioning doubts, and will make shipwreck of faith." —Id., pp. 232, 233.

"Those who train the mind to seize upon everything which they can use as a peg to hang a doubt upon, and suggest these thoughts to other minds, will always find occasion to doubt. They will question and criticize everything that arises in the unfolding of truth, criticize the work and position of others, criticize every branch of the work in which they have not themselves a part. They will feed upon the errors and mistakes and faults of others, 'until,' said the angel, 'the Lord Jesus shall rise up from His mediatorial work in the heavenly sanctuary, and shall clothe Himself with the garments of vengeance, and surprise them at their unholy feast; and they will find themselves unprepared for the marriage supper of the Lamb.' Their taste has been so perverted that they would be inclined to criticize even the table of the Lord in His kingdom." —"Testimonies for the Church," Vol. V, p. 690.

The words of Moses, linking blessing with obedience and disaster with disobedience, were predictive. They were spoken when Israel was just beginning her national history. The future of the nation was marked with the correlation of prosperity and obedience, and of ultimate captivity and destruction following persistent disobedience. The calamity came sooner in Israel, who rejected the counsels of all her prophets, than in Judah, whose day of doom was repeatedly postponed because of occasional reformatations.

A Lesson for Our Time

The lesson is no less meaningful for our time. Our day of deliverance has been delayed because of our failure to measure up to the wholehearted consecration called for in the heavensent messages committed to us. We are still in this troubled world because we have not gone forward in faith, sacrifice, and earnestness to finish the work of God in the earth to which we have been most solemnly urged by God's servant. Had we fully heeded the admonitions and counsels that have come to us, we might now be enjoying the glories of heaven. This we have been clearly told:

“Had the purpose of God been carried out by His people in giving to the world the message of mercy, Christ would, ere this, have come to the earth, and the saints would have received their welcome into the city of God.”—“Testimonies for the Church,” Vol. VI, p. 450.

“If every soldier of Christ had done his duty, if every watchman on the walls of Zion had given the trumpet a certain sound, the world might ere this have heard the message of warning. But the work is years behind. While men have slept, Satan has stolen a march upon us.”—Id., Vol. IX, p. 29.

Nothing could impress our hearts more, perhaps, than these solemn words. The coming of the Lord for which we have longed and prayed and labored for so many years, might now be an accomplished fact, and the people of God have entered upon their reward, had we only lived up to the high privileges and responsibilities that are ours by the favor of God.

“Believe His Prophets”

Through the words of Scripture, God has given every essential saving truth. He has marvelously preserved that word, and has so multiplied copies of it that everyone may now have it. The characteristics of our day are outlined in that word. The testimonies of God's Spirit, as given to the remnant church, are in harmony with that word, and lead us to that word. But in them is to be found that wealth of detail, needed by those who are living in “the time of the end,” those who must stand against the subtle and supreme wiles of Satan, and perfect a character befitting those who are to be translated. As the telescope reveals, but does not create, details unperceived by the unaided eye, so the reading of the messages sent us does not add to but rather magnifies the eternal word of God.

As we prayerfully and diligently study the counsel and instruction God has so graciously given to His remnant church, bringing our lives into conformity to the standard of character there revealed, and striving diligently to finish the work allotted to us, we shall thereby prove that we are “looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God.” 2 Peter 3:12.

“Believe in the Lord your God, so shall ye be established; believe His prophets, so shall ye prosper.”
2 Chron. 20:20. THE END

How much more does all of this apply to the present time, when—unnoticed by the vast majority of Advent believers—the judgment of the living has already started, and indeed with the elders, the leaders of the 144,000. In a terrible time of total apostasy from the truth in the Adventist Church, out of some 17 million Adventists, including a few Protestants who wanted to be baptized into the Adventist Church but were denied because of their belief in the “Orion heresy”—out of all those, a small handful of men and women of God's choosing gathered. This small group was tested hard! Very hard! Their trials began on February 27, 2012 in a special way, and they had to learn the patience of the saints, and acquire a faith that could endure delay—which Ellen White prophesied, as previously mentioned (see GC 621 quote above). True, the time of the coming of Christ will never again be a test, because Jesus will still come according to the Orion Clock and the Vessel of Time, but the three-and-a-half years of the time of trouble would begin a year later than they expected. They had understood the year of plagues to be part of the judgment of the living, which was incorrect and led them to the belief that Jesus would come in 2015 and the time of trouble would begin simultaneously with the judgment of the living. Actually, these two periods are offset from one another by one year. Therefore, the visible events, like the fireballs and the Sunday Law, had to come later than the other events in the heavenly sanctuary which we explained in our Final Warning articles. So in the future, we have to clearly distinguish between the three-and-a-half times of Daniel 12, which are the three-and-a-half years of the judgment of the living that will end before the plagues begin, and the three-and-a-half years of tribulation that include the small and the great time of trouble (the year of the plagues).

No faith could have withstood this year of "disillusionment" without divine confirmation of the studies of Orion and the Vessel of Time. I myself would never have dared publish the Orion study in 2010 if I had not stuck to the divine "rule" that Ellen White had described in the above quote about her personal experience: For studies to be recognized as genuine, there must be confirmation of them through the Spirit of Prophecy. There must be a spiritual leader who receives a confirmation of the studies through the Word of God and who does not understand the studies themselves. Ellen White had seen that there would be new light just ahead, but she herself did not receive it. A different person had to fulfill this task, another spiritual director who would aid the spiritual growth of the small fledging remnant church that was in transition from the crown of the woman of Revelation 12 (the SDA Church) to the stars in the crown (the church of the 144,000).

The second part of this introductory series for this new section will now finally reveal who the director was in my dream, The Message of the Fourth Angel, and unravel the story of the mysterious circumstances of his "death".

Anyone who knew the early versions of the Orion study and the articles will know who the man was that was chosen by God, and for several years had the gift of the Spirit of Prophecy and thus fulfilled a part of the prophecy of Joel 2:28, which is repeated in Acts 2:17: "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams:"

The daughter of God, Ellen G. White, for the beginning of the judgment of the dead and far into the wilderness wanderings of the Advent people after 1890, had received visions from God; Now—for the end of the judgment of the dead—it was to be a son of God who was to receive dreams from God: An elder, Ernie Knoll, was chosen from an insignificant town in northeastern California by God to foresee the light of the Fourth Angel, dreaming of all that would happen just a little while after the beginning of his ministry.

The Role of the Spirit of Prophecy

As we have already seen in the first part of this introductory series in the new section, The Gift of Prophecy, the spirit of prophecy for a specific reason never comes alone. It's worth underlining again the importance of what Ellen White saw as her gift's relationship to the church work:

Again and again these brethren came together to study the Bible, in order that they might know its meaning, and be prepared to teach it with power. When they came to the point in their study where they said, "We can do nothing more," the Spirit of the Lord would come upon me, I would be taken off in vision, and a clear explanation of the passages we had been studying would be given me, with instruction as to how we were to labor and teach effectively. Thus light was given that helped us to understand the scriptures in regard to Christ, His mission, and His priesthood. A line of truth extending from that time to the time when we shall enter the city of God, was made plain to me, and I gave to others the instruction that the Lord had given me. {1SM 206.4}

To sum up what we just read:

1. Members of the church study the Word of God and at certain points get confirmation and guidance in their studies through the spirit of prophecy.
2. The church leadership receives direct instructions from God regarding how to progress with their teaching and evangelistic mission.

In the same way it worked with Ellen G. White as a type, so it should work with Ernie Knoll's gift.

*Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular. And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues. Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles? Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?
(1 Corinthians 12:27-30)

Just as the apostle Paul said, the gifts are distributed to different people. One has the gift of prophecy and another the gift of interpretation, or teaching. Thus, while the gift of prophecy is indeed inextricably linked with the gift of interpretation, it is manifested not in a single individual but within the body of the church.

But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him speak to himself, and to God. (1 Corinthians 14:28)

Even the gift of interpretation is a gift from God, and is particularly mentioned in connection with dreams in the Bible:

And they said unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it. And Joseph said unto them, Do not interpretations belong to God? tell me them, I pray you. (Genesis 40:8)

The great interpreters in the Bible are Jacob's son Joseph during the hard times of famine and the removal of Israel into Egypt, and Daniel, the judgment prophet who not only interpreted the dream of Nebuchadnezzar, but was also told by God what the dream was that He had given to the ruler. Both men were great leaders of the church in times of distress and captivity in enemy territory, even attaining to second in command to the rulers of those same heathen nations. Only in Daniel was the gift of interpretation and prophecy combined, but Daniel did not interpret his own dreams and visions, only the king's dream.

These relationships need to be perfectly understood before you dare to question the dreams of Ernie Knoll, because Ernie Knoll is a very special prophet and is highly controversial for a reason. Unfortunately, the Seventh-day Adventist Church chooses not to believe this man from California for all the wrong reasons. More on that later.

Ernie Knoll was told very early in his dreams the premise for not being the interpreter of his own dreams...

I [Ernie Knoll] tell him [the Herold = the angel Gabriel] that I do not understand what he is trying to tell me or us. I state that I feel I am not appropriate for the task that has been given me—that there are others who are better suited for this. Smiling again the angel explains, "Because you do not understand, you know. If you were to know, you would not understand.... {Watch, as I AM Coming!}

In the above quotation of this dream from August 2007, Gabriel made it perfectly clear to Ernie Knoll that he does not have the gift of understanding or interpretation, to know what his dreams mean. That was reserved for another man. In the study of dreams, we should never lose sight of the fact that this principle was given once and for all by the heavenly messenger, because much later Ernie Knoll obtained dreams from other sources that contradicted this rule.

Two Men, Two Ministries

In early 2005, two men were called by God to carry together the light of the Fourth Angel to the world. One was to study like the Adventist pioneers that needed divine confirmation and the other was to receive the confirmation of the studies through dreams. One was John Scotram, who relocated from Mallorca, Spain, to Paraguay on God's instruction and received his first Bible study about the man with the measuring reed that indicated the year 2012, and the other was the Seventh-day Adventist elder Ernie Knoll, whose dream ministry began in the spring of that same year.

Neither man knew of the other beforehand. As for me, I met Ernie Knoll in 2007 and then in 2008 I really started to study the dreams intensively to discover the incredible messages of God in them, which would later give me the courage and the strength to publish the Orion study in 2010.

Just as Satan wanted a bridge from the European papacy, the first beast of Revelation 13, to the American superpower, the second beast who reaches across the great abyss, so God wanted to set up the ministries of Ernie Knoll and John Scotram as a bulwark against the machinations of the enemy of souls to lead the last great battle to victory. As the throne of Satan is borne by two men from two particular countries, the German Pope Benedict XVI and the U.S. President Barack Hussein Obama, so God also chose two men from these countries in order to confirm his throne before the universe: John Scotram the German, and the U.S. American Ernie Knoll. Where the apostasy of the Adventist Church had reached the highest degree is where the men were called from to rebuke the transgressions of their countrymen and brothers in their mother language.

That is how one day the first beast of Revelation would unite with the second...

And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon. And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed. (Revelation 13:11-12)

...so should the two ministries unite at the time appointed by God...

Angels were sent to aid the mighty angel from heaven, and I heard voices which seemed to sound everywhere, "Come out of her, My people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues. For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities." This message seemed to be an addition to the third message, joining it as the midnight cry joined the second angel's message in 1844. The glory of God rested upon the patient, waiting saints, and they fearlessly gave the last solemn warning, proclaiming the fall of Babylon and calling upon God's people to come out of her that they might escape her fearful doom. {EW 277.2}

God had a great plan for the two ministries. And the man who had the "understanding" realized early on what was really behind many dream passages, namely the wonderful confirmation of the Orion Message and the Vessel of Time of the Last Countdown Ministry, which we now call the "Movement of the Fourth Angel."

To avoid making this article too long, I will focus primarily on the basics that are necessary to understand the criminal case of cosmic proportions which revolves around Ernie Knoll—because God's plan for the Prophet did not work. Ernie Knoll would fall, unfortunately, and not just once but twice! The first time, God would still pull him out of the muddy water, but the second time he would be run over by Satan and his "black truck" and would die a spiritual death forever.

The First Ministry of the Prophet

In this new section, entire dream confirmations and correct interpretations of many dream passages heretofore not understood by his followers will be published in no particular order. Some will be re-issues of parts of once-published articles. This way, readers can convince themselves of the validity of these interpretations and of the fact that no one else can give any kind of interpretations that bear a similar seal of divinity.

A small example to start with, will suffice at this point. In 2010, I started the Shadow Series with a study of the Garden of Gethsemane. I called the study Full Moon at Gethsemane, which was to ward off a major attack against the Seventh-day Adventist Church by other faiths including the lunar Sabbath keepers. There I took a statement of Ellen G. White, who had seen in a vision a full moon in Gethsemane on the eve of Christ's crucifixion in (according to the Adventist position) the year 31 A.D. and tried to harmonize it using the astronomical calculations of the opponents of God's church. In so doing, I "stumbled" upon the true calendar of God, which He taught Moses in the Bible, and which today is misunderstood and misapplied by all denominations. It was the day of the crucifixion of the Lord that was the master key to understanding how the beginnings of the years and months were really calculated according to the calendar of the God of the Israelites. Only with this genuine creation calendar, the later biblical astronomical calculations were possible which led to the High Sabbath List and therefore the date of the coming of the Lord.

The focus of this study, therefore, was the question of how it could have been possible that Jesus died on the cross in 31 A.D. on a Friday, when the 14th of Nissan (Passover) in the two "classic" views in question came during the months of March or April, and did not astronomically fall on a Friday. The problem could only be solved with a new understanding of the divinely set year-beginning, which depends on the vernal equinox and finally proves that the Israelites—as our Adventist pioneers believed—actually performed the barley harvest test each year.

With this new calendar understanding I finally arrived at a Friday... May 25, 31 A.D. This article even caught the attention of some Adventists who normally are deeply sleeping and was published in a German journal of an Adventist splinter group. On the other hand, the Adventist leadership did not react or recognize it in any way, even though the problem has been represented as unsolved for 50 years in the Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary.

Nevertheless, God had already shown the prophet Ernie Knoll years earlier that I would one day do this study, and it was confirmed in a wonderful way I would eventually find the real crucifixion date:

The Herald says to turn and look up. The sky rolls apart as a scroll and I watch a scene from the throne of God. I notice the image of the Father command a most noble angel that stands next to the throne to go quickly to His Son. I see the angel helping Jesus hold the symbolic cup to His lips. The angel shows Him those that will be saved because of His decision. Jesus knows His choice and for the third time says aloud, "Heavenly Father, if it is possible, please let this cup pass from Me, but may Your will be done, not Mine." As the angel stands up, I see his face up close for the first time. I quickly turn to the Herald who tells me, "You like I are a messenger. We are to provide messages and care for those we are directed to. Who we are is not important. Remember, the only name that all should have on their lips is Jesus Christ--our Creator and Master, your Savior and Brother. The scene I have just shown you is a study all should do not only once but many times. What your Savior did is beyond your understanding now but will be the study of the saved for eternity." {In The Heart of Jesus}

The reference to the study of the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane is repeated several times in the dream and it was even included a picture of Jesus kneeling in Gethsemane, where He is illuminated from above by the full moon.

The final confirmation of the crucifixion date is found in the dream with the distinct name The Cross. There Ernie Knoll is at the crucifixion scene which was presented in an impressive way, with Jesus saying: "What I do, I do because I love you. Tell My people I love them and that I do this so they may live. Tell them to remember what I now do for them." Since Ernie Knoll sees back into time, and Jesus so strongly emphasizes the here and now, one should consider the dream date a little more closely... Ernie Knoll had the dream on the 25th of May 2008.

There is much more to say on this subject that I refer the interested reader to the soon-coming sub-section for Ernie Knoll, under which will appear old and new articles covering all of these interpretations. Despite my submitting this very extensive evidence that the dreams of Ernie Knoll confirmed all the light of the Fourth Angel up to a certain point in time, as it is shown on our website, the followers of Ernie Knoll find it incredibly difficult to think logically and to accept the evidence. They would rather follow a person than examine the word of God, and that will soon be their undoing. Ernie Knoll has been in the camp of Satan for a long time and has become one of his most powerful tools. And even this Jesus foretold to Ernie Knoll himself in several of his dreams.

The Orion clock has been widely confirmed, sometimes in literal terms and sometimes in highly symbolic representations. Here again, a few brief examples should suffice:

The Herald now states that he is to take me somewhere, along with Becky. We are now in a large, light pink-colored room. There are thousands of people dressed in many layers of clothes, including thick coats, gloves, hats and boots over their shoes. Many have back packs on their backs. They have boxes, trunks, carts and suitcases with them.

Looking at the ceiling, I notice the face of a compass without a needle. It is painted on the center of the ceiling. The north, south, and west pointers are the same length from the center. However, the east pointer is three times as long and points to the only doors in the room. There are two doors that open outwards, which form a narrow opening with barely enough room for one person to fit through.

The doors can only be opened by a device above the doors. This device looks like a clock but does not have a face, just a single hand that moves very slowly. Above and to the left is a large see-through gold hopper. It has large, round, silver balls that shimmer. When the single hand points to the top position, the balls fall from the hopper one at a time down the track and into a container, giving power to the hand on the clock. When the single hand is almost at the top, a ball has almost reached the container and another takes its place. The single hand begins its trip around the clock again. The hopper now has very few balls left. When the last ball goes through the mechanism, the doors will open for a very short time and then close, never to be opened again. Those that do not go through remain in the room forever. {Two Cars}

The interpretation of this passage involves the recognition that each of the 144,000 must receive the character of Jesus, the characteristics of the four living creatures (lion, calf, man and eagle) having absorbed with full understanding of all the doctrines of the four creatures displayed in Orion. Only then can a person be sealed.

There is even more in the dream The Good Driver:

The voice continues, "In the halls of heaven is a great clock that shows the Master's time. Watch for when these things will happen, but know that it will be according to when the great clock displays the time of My own choosing. The pastors I will send will do My bidding. They will teach according to My own heart. My earthly sanctuary will be a holy and reverent place to all of those who seek Me."

All is now quiet. The Herald stands up and instructs. "Watch and know that all is according to the great holy clock controlled by Him who controls time. All will be according to His time, as HE IS."

The Rebellious Prophet

I had written to Ernie Knoll in 2008, because I had noticed that the year 2012 was mentioned in two of his dreams, which apparently referred to the Mayan calendar. At that time, I had also recognized 2012 twice in the Bible and was firmly convinced that it was not about the coming of Jesus, but the closing of the door of mercy for the Adventist Church, because of the terrible machinations of Satan that were to be expected for this year. There was never before such a complex preparation for an esoteric event as for this strange year. Shouldn't this have something to do with the persecution of God's faithful?

Ernie Knoll liked to call me "friend and brother" in his negative responses to my interpretations and questions. From the outset, he sent merely anti-time-setting quotes from Ellen G. White, even though these dates were mentioned in his own dreams, and my explanations of the same he always quickly rejected or did not answer anymore for a long time. You could see that he had not really read and studied my profound and detailed explanatory mails. Therefore, our mail contact was sporadic and rather one-sided. The mails that I have in my records will be posted here soon. The evidence against Ernie Knoll will be sobering for many of his followers.

When Two Cars came out with its strange clock mechanism on March 12, 2010, I tried several times to contact the Knolls again. These attempts came to nothing, and well-researched analysis on my part has always been dismissed with statements like: "I also shy away from working with dates and times, so please excuse me if I do not get into a discussion on that." [Mail from Ernie Knoll to John Scotram dated March 30, 2010]

It was a mystery to me how God intended to work it out for this stubborn prophet to one day recognize what his dreams really meant, so that the two ministries could fulfill their mission together. At that time, I didn't yet know about the far more dangerous things which had begun to manifest in Ernie Knoll's former 4HisPeople Ministry. And later, everything would get much worse.

Unfortunately—and I must stress this—you can't get beyond the subject of Ernie Knoll without talking about the character of this man. I know how it hurts, being that he is also attacking my character in his recent dreams. When he first started, before his face was completely set against our ministry and before he dragged my name through the mud, I was first to write a few small articles against him in which I distanced myself from him politely, but later I decided to remove all articles and notes regarding Ernie Knoll from our website (which in the majority were indeed dream confirmations of the studies), since the laundry that needed to be washed here was simply too dirty. However—as will be seen in one of the other parts of this introductory series—it's no longer my decision to air this dirty laundry, but God's, and I can't resist the counsel of the Most High, who wishes that the reader would be informed about what happened back then. How God gave this order will be explained in a different article.

Since Ernie Knoll began to speak publicly about the LastCountdown Ministry in his "dreams" from May 12, 2011 onward, I had no choice but to assume that he had fallen a second time. When you talk about Ernie Knoll, you have to talk about the fact that this prophet already fell into the hands of Satan once in order to understand that it could happen a second time, and what the reasons were for it.

The First Fall of the Prophet

On July 22, 2009, I visited the home page of Ernie Knoll again and instead of a new dream there was the following message:

07/22/2009 - NOTICE FROM 4HisPeople Board:

The 4 His People Ministry Board learned of some very disturbing information the week of July 15. This information has led us to believe that though the dreams appear to be of a supernatural source, we now believe that this source was of Satan. Along with the meetings being cancelled and no future meetings authorized by the board, please know that Ernie and Becky Knoll are suspended from any activity related to the 4 His People Ministry.

Please cease contributing funds to this ministry.

For those of you who read the testimony and/or received emails from someone going by the name of "Candace", we were able to determine through tracking email IP information, that Ernie Knoll is "Candace". When pressed, he admitted to this on July 21 at 2:43pm in a phone call to two ministry board members. We have also determined that the "Great Commission Counsel" is also Ernie Knoll.

We urge everyone who has a “dream book” to throw it away, as we now understand that there are mind control elements in it.

We sincerely apologize to all who have read and believed these messages. We pray that those whose lives have been affected, including those of us on this ministry team and our families, will find closure. Thankfully, we have a loving Savior in Jesus Christ who is willing to forgive all who come to Him with sincere repentance.

While we have concerns about some of the arguments and statements made by those who openly opposed the dreams, we apologize to you specifically. We may at some time in the future ask that you consider the unscriptural positions taken, but it is clearly not appropriate at this time.

Please know that all of us involved in this ministry, only ever wanted to serve in the cause of Christ, to win souls for the kingdom. It is our prayer that those who have returned to Jesus, as a result of these messages, will not cast Him aside. While we cannot trust in man’s opinions, we can trust Jesus. Always look to Jesus for light and strength. May He find us ready, when He returns.

4 His People Ministry Board

Months later, I learned that Ernie and Becky Knoll already sent a message to a few friends on July 17, 2009, which included not quite the whole truth. This shows that neither of them are very EARNEST in telling the truth—even after they were caught in a lie:

07/17/2009 - NOTICE FROM ERNIE: We know this will come as a shock, but we have come to believe that the dreams are not of God. Even though there was truth in them, there was also error. We believe that Candace may have been an evil angel. I also received personal dreams that were obviously not from God. We will be putting a notice on our website soon. Our future meetings have been cancelled. ... Thank you.

Satan knows his time is short and is working to deceive even the very elect. We are so sorry and pray that the Lord will guide us into all truth.

Love & prayers
Ernie & Becky

Emphasis mine. Sources and originals of the statements and other related e-mails can be found [HERE.]

This message on the homepage came as a shock even for me, because Ernie was the only one who had seen the whole mess in the Seventh-day Adventist Church and had denounced it, not to mention the confirmations, especially of my two preliminary studies that would lead to the Orion Message, which did not even exist as an idea in my head at that time yet. However, I had already discovered by that time a lot of strange numeric information in the dreams that coincided with my studies. I could not believe that all of Ernie's dreams came from Satan and so I waited. Even in my preaching I still spoke good about Ernie and cautioned not to condemn him prematurely. Later—as the followers of Knoll know sufficiently well—I would bitterly repent for my loyalty to Ernie. And so it will be for them soon too.

Eight months later, however, my former behavior would appear in symbolic form in one of Ernie's dreams:

As we walk around, I see a young woman with a large bag of fruit. She is giving it to people waiting to get on the ride. As some take the fruit, they leave the park and the woman asks a few of them to work with our group. Many state they do not want the fruit and ask the woman to leave them alone. These people remain in the park.

I now walk over to the woman and tell her I know who she is and that I have seen her before. She says, “I know very well who you are and of the work you have done, how many have accepted the truth you are shown and they are safe. I know how you fell and how you did not see me, but I was there helping you as you got up. I know of the false things others have said and how because of that many no longer are interested in eating the fruit I have to offer. They have walked away and are headed over the edge. The woman continues to approach people one at a time but very quickly offers them fruit and then continues on. {The Amusement Park}

The "young woman" represents our then very young LastCountdown Ministry and the fruits are the studies of the years since 2005. The Orion study was newly published when Ernie had the amusement park dream. We still offer our fruit quickly in the Adventist "amusement park" entering it through Facebook groups, from which, in most cases, we are promptly deleted if we do not leave them by ourselves "shaking the dust off our feet" because of the vulgar behavior of the brethren.

At that time, anyway, I still had like many followers of Ernie Knoll the hope that soon everything would turn out to have been just a "bad dream" and trusted in the providence of Jesus. And so it happened. As suddenly as the ministry had disappeared, it reappeared. On August 2, 2009, less than two weeks after the dissolution of the 4HisPeople ministry, Ernie was back. This time he was not named alone on the website, but his wife was included. In spite of the separation rumors because he supposedly did not even tell his wife that he himself was the prostitute "Candace" and the "Great Commission Council", now in big letters on the new homepage of the newly named ForMyPeople Ministry glared: "Official Website of Ernie & Becky Knoll." This time, they probably wanted to tackle the matter alone and have no other gods before them. Something smelled fishy even then. The "resurrection" of Ernie Knoll had happened a little too fast even for me.

To give you an idea just how far Ernie Knoll went with his lies, I'll quote here from two fake emails from "Candace". One can picture the lively imagination of Ernie Knoll, who can not only slip into the role of a woman, but also into the role of a prostitute. Here is the original text, which could be found on the website of the 4HisPeople Ministry and other supporting sites as a "testimony":

FROM CANDACE – November 2007

[Note: This is an edited version of an amazing testimony from a former prostitute who is now a follower of Jesus Christ.]

Greetings to Everyone:

On June 20 I was working in the evening. I was a prostitute. I had been working the streets since I was 16. The reason I started at that age is not as important as where I am now. I was a heavy drug user. Mostly crack. I drank a lot. I still am battling with cigarettes. This is the really hard part that I have shared with many of my friends who are no longer my friends but some have accepted what I have shared with them to be truth. I do not share this for you to look at me but to look at Jesus, as He is the one who forgave me in the life I was walking and now walk in a new way.

I was on my corner when a man in a convertible said he would like to speak with me. I said, "Sure." I climbed in and we began driving. He looked over at me and called me Candace. I was shocked and thought the worst. He then said, "Do not be afraid." He began to explain to me that he had been sent to give me a message and that message was from Jesus Christ. He told me that Jesus is coming and that He wants me to get ready to go to heaven. I was very scared and told the man that I did not want to die. The man said, "Do not be afraid because no harm will come to you."

The man pulled into a shopping center parking lot and stopped. He told me that there is a man that is receiving messages from Jesus and that this very night Jesus would show him the importance of the cross that He died on. This man told me the man's name is Ernie Knoll, that he has been receiving dreams from Jesus and that the dreams can be read on a web site. He told me the web site and I wrote it down. Then the man told me to find a TV show called "It Is Written" with Shawn Boonstra and another TV show called "Amazing Facts" with Doug Batchelor and that these men will teach me what I need to know. I wrote down these TV shows and their names. Then the man said that these three men have been selected by Jesus to do an important work together for Him, that I was to change the way I live and that Jesus is coming to take me to heaven. The man said to keep watching for Jesus, that there is much to learn and this is a good place to start.

The man then got out of the car and walked around to my door and opened it so I could get out. He pointed toward the buildings and said that there was a meeting going on in there and they would help me with my questions. He said he was to leave but for me to walk in the new way in which I was shown. As I looked at the man, he had the way that he looked change right before me and I fell to my knees and began crying. I watched as I saw this man change into a bright being of light. I watched as he had wings that somehow came out from behind him and he flew up and away.

After a few minutes I got up and noticed there was no car there. I started walking to the place in the shopping center where there was a religious meeting going on. I went in, sat down and tried to listen but I was numb and shaking from what had just happened. After the meeting ended I spoke to several of the people there and they made me feel welcome. They gave me a Bible and a book called The Great Controversy. I was too afraid to tell them what had happened earlier that evening and that they would laugh or think I was a crazy person and have me taken away by the police.

After I visited and asked questions for a while I returned home, took a shower, and spent time looking up and talking to God as if He was up in the ceiling. I shared what had happened and told Him that I was no longer going to live the way I had. I promised Him that I was going to change. I have, except for the cigarette problem, which I am trying to give up.

I went to bed and when I woke up the next morning I kneeled next to my bed. It was the first time in a long while since I kneeled, but I actually talked to God and I felt like He was listening to me. I got up, went over to my computer and went to the www.4hispeople.com web site that the man, or whatever he was, told me about. I began reading the dreams of a man by the name of Ernie Knoll. I was glued to the computer while reading the messages and was getting wrapped up in them. I would cry and then I would be happy. I would read and reread them because I was afraid I might have missed something. Then a few days later when the dream of the cross was posted ("Stand on the Truth"), I cried while praying. This is the dream that the man was telling me Ernie Knoll would be shown that night. I have learned so much from what I have read on this web site. I read later how I am supposed to go to church on Saturday and that it is the day that Jesus wants us to go on. I continued to read these messages and started watching the It Is Written TV show with Pastor Shawn Boonstra and Pastor Doug Batchelor of Amazing Facts.

Anyway, I just wanted to share here how Ernie Knoll and the messages he has been putting on the web site has greatly affected me. I know without a doubt that these are messages from God sent to read and grow in. It has been several months for me now and I have a new way of life, a full time job and I am drug and alcohol free. I have a full time relationship with Jesus. I know if it had not been for the man or who ever it was, I would never be typing this right now. I have no doubt that Jesus is coming, that He is talking to Ernie and that what he is being shown is what Jesus wants him to share. All I can say is thank you Pastor Knoll for posting these messages. I especially thank Jesus for giving these to Ernie, for loving and forgiving me, for making me what I am now and for hearing and answering every one of my prayers. I want to go and see for myself the things Ernie has seen in the dreams. As Pastor Knoll says, keep watching for that small black cloud!

And because that was not enough, Ernie Knoll alias "Candace" had to do it yet again:

Follow-up testimony from Candace - November 21, 2007

I did want to tell you that the angel has come to me again and told me that Jesus has heard the prayers of many that have read what I shared [in my last testimony] and that many lives would be changed and brought closer to Jesus. He said that there are many others who are still walking in the same way I used to and that they will also be invited to walk in a new way. I said, "Praise Jesus," to the angel and he said that Jesus has removed my want to smoke anymore. I have had that craving removed and I no longer smoke. It is the most wonderful thing to no longer want to pick up a cigarette and smoke. When the angel came to visit me this last time he said he had a very special present for me, that it will help me to get ready for Jesus to come and that it will teach me how I need to change. He gave me a book called Creeping Compromise and I have been reading it. Actually I have not been able to put it down. I have read it four times now.

You know there is so much more I need to change in the way I was living. All the jewelry, the meat, all my makeup--I tell you, I don't care. It all went in the garbage. If I am going to be someone Jesus wants me to be then it all had to go in the trash. I mean, I am not going to be wearing it when I go to heaven. The angel told me that soon really bad things will begin to happen and that I am not to be afraid. He said, "Do you remember I told you that no harm will come to you?" He said that Jesus will not allow any harm to come to me, that Jesus has placed special angels to protect me.

I moved from where I used to live to another state as I did not want people to know or recognize me from my old life. I have started a whole new life with a job and found a church where I have been accepted as a new member and was baptized. I should tell you, that was the best day of my life when I was baptized. It was a new day and a new life for me as no one knew about my past and I felt like Jesus said it was no more and that I have a new life.

I did want to share how what Jesus has shown you has changed my life and that there are many, many others out there who believe and are being led by Jesus to hear Him speaking to you. I am not one to give encouragement, but I know it must be hard for you to read some of the stuff folk write about you. But just remember that it is all to the glory of Jesus. I know I want to sit and be in the back where no one will look at me but just look to Jesus. But I know that when I get to heaven I want to have my angel take me to you so I can give you a big hug and tell you thank you for putting what Jesus showed you on the Internet. The angel did say that you will soon be reaching many people as there are important people who will have you speaking and sharing what Jesus has shown you. I hope you don't mind, but I like telling people that I am sitting on that hill watching for that small black cloud. Thank you again, Pastor Knoll, for the things you have shared.

Watching for that small black cloud, Your new sister, Candace

And then Ernie Knoll really began having fun lying and he invented the hair-raising tale of a "Great Commission Council", which purportedly examined all his dreams and concluded that they "came from God." Anyone who reads this now knowing that this is all pure fantasy of Ernie Knoll, knows what this "prophet of God" is capable of when the devil rides him:

The Great Commission Council

NOTE: We were sent an email with the following and asked to share it. Although it mentions names and ministries which we have refrained from doing on this website, we felt that since it is a testimony and because of where it has come from, we should add it here for all to see.

Wednesday, October 01, 2008

Before I quote this cock-and-bull story, this time allow me to make a NOTE: Displayed on the old site of the 4HisPeople Ministry, this tall tale clearly proves the rumors completely false and unfounded that Becky wanted to separate from Ernie after he was discovered. Which wife, so interested in her husband's ministry that she would later even be able to write a book of more than 1000 pages about the work and purpose of the ministry and the apostasy within the Seventh-day Adventist Church in every detail with names of all ministries and responsible people, would not have asked her husband who these ministries and pastors actually were that supposedly collaborated as the "Great Commission Council"? Ernie would then have already had to confess at this point in time to his wife! A carefully prepared fake e-mail with the names of unknown persons or of persons and ministries that Becky could verify would also not fulfill his purpose. Even a "prophet" as clumsy as Ernie Knoll, who doesn't understand Internet IPs, would have had to know that his highly intelligent wife could easily see through such a scam. Thus, only one logical conclusion remains: Becky Knoll was party to it from the outset. She fully supports her husband's lies to create an apparent success for the "work of God." That was also fully recognized by the Board of the former 4HisPeople Ministry and therefore when the two were found out nearly a year later, the following sentence appeared in the official closing statement from the ministry (see above): "... please know that Ernie and Becky Knoll are suspended from any activity related to the 4HisPeople Ministry." Later, we will see the true motives of "Bonnie and Clyde" Knoll.

Greetings in the name of our Lord and Master Jesus Christ.

With this document we want to share the united opinion of many who have studied and compared the dreams of Ernie Knoll against the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy. However, a little background on who we are and the process is in order.

Our small weekly study group first heard of Ernie Knoll and his dreams on May 16 2007. One of the brothers in our study group brought the dream he had called Go Forth! and shared it that evening. After reading and discussing the dream we had a long season of prayer. The following week we met and it was decided that we should begin reading and study all of the dreams brother Knoll had had. We decided to compare them as we have been instructed, "to the Law and to the Testimony." It was decided that we needed to compare these messages to the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy. It was also decided as we studied to keep our findings to our self as to not promote a fore or against decision. As time went and additional dreams came we decided to broaden our group study. Invitations were sent out to 'select' individuals to participate in an in depth study of the dreams. The stipulation was set forth that the invited individual would remain anonymous along with the rest of the established group and that their name would never be shared. As the group grew the group moved to an email discussion in a closed online forum. The men in this now large study group are made up of the following individuals. Active and retired pastors from the General Conference. Select leaders from different Unions. Active and retired pastors from select Seventh-Day Adventist churches. Active and retired teachers and professors from different academies, colleges and universities. Literature evangelists. Attorneys from private as well as firm based. Select ardent students of the Bible. It was this large group that we began an ardent and exhaustive study of the dreams of Brother Ernie Knoll.

Following the example given from Spirit of Prophecy shown below we began. We know that we had to follow the council from God given to Ellen White. "First submitting it to brethren of experience. Lay it before them in a humble, teachable spirit, with earnest prayer; and if they see no light in it, yield to their judgment; for "in the multitude of counselors there is safety."-- Testimonies, Vol. 5, pp. 291-293"

In taking direction from Spirit of Prophecy on reorganization at the beginning of Solomon's reign.

In planning for the administration of the affairs of the kingdom, after David abdicated in favor of Solomon, the aged king and his son and their counselors regarded it as essential that everything be done with regularity, propriety, fidelity, and dispatch. So far as possible, they followed the system of organization given Israel soon after the deliverance from Egypt. The Levites were assigned the work connected with the temple service, including the ministry of song and instrumental music, and the keeping of the treasures. {RH, October 12, 1905 par. 3}

The men capable of bearing arms and of serving the king were divided into twelve courses of twenty-four thousand each. Over every course was a captain. "The general of the king's army was Joab." "The courses . . . came in and went out month by month throughout all the months of the year." Thus every group of twenty-four thousand served the king one month during each year. {RH, October 12, 1905 par. 4}

David appointed Jonathan, his uncle, as "a counselor, a wise man, and a scribe;" Ahithophel also was "the king's counselor. . . . And after Ahithophel was Johoiada . . . and Abiathar." Hushai was "the king's friend." By his prudent example, the aged king taught Solomon that "in the multitude of counselors there is safety." {RH, October 12, 1905 par. 5}

The thoroughness and completeness of the organization perfected at the beginning of Solomon's reign; the comprehensiveness of the plans for bringing the largest number possible of all the people into active service; the wide distribution of responsibility, so that the service of God and of the king should not be unduly burdensome to any individual or class, --these are lessons which all may study with profit, and which the leaders of the Christian church should understand and follow. {RH, October 12, 1905 par. 6}

This picture of a great and mighty nation living in simplicity and comfort in rural homes, every person rendering willing and unsalaried service to God and the king for a portion of each year, is one from which we may gather many helpful suggestions. {RH, October 12, 1905 par. 7}

We set forth to either prove or disprove these messages. They were either from God or from Satan. It was decided early on that we would not rush forward with our findings. We have seen many others who have done this and we as a group will address these as well.

The other item which was decided was the testimony of a prostitute by the name of Candace which is found on Brother Knoll's Web site. The testimony is located at this address <http://www.4hispeople.com/divineinterventionspg2.html>. It was decided to prove her as real or made up. It was decided that a private investigator would be hired. We gave the investigator a copy of the testimony and a little information we had gathered to begin his research. In July of 2008 he was successful at locating her. It was then decided that three pastors would visit her. It was also decided to make the visit unplanned. In August of 2008 three pastors arrived at her location. One of the visiting pastors stated "when the young lady opened the door to our shock and surprise she looked at each of us and called us each by our name." She explained that her angel had told her not only the exact day but also the hour the three pastors would arrive but also the names and what the three pastors would look like. The three pastors conducted a long interview. At the end one requested to see the Bible and the book Great Controversy she was given at the shopping center when the angel dropped her off. He also requested to see the book Creeping Compromise which the angel had delivered to her later. It was reported that all three pastors were overcome with emotions and they all fell to their knees in supplication for God's goodness. At the end of the meeting Candace requested that the three pastors never disclose where she lives nor her real name. On behalf of the group that sent the three pastors a request was made that she not disclose the names of the three pastors.

Now dear followers of Ernie Knoll, watch out! What follows in Ernie's fictitious text is the early version of the "devastating" counter attacks against his opponents, which now permeate most of his dreams as perpetual repetitions of the same facts, but with ever-increasing threats. However, instead of the "Great Commission Council", the lying Ernie now puts the "Herald/Gabriel", "Jesus" or even the "Father Himself" on the stage in his "dreams" to make them condemn the same people to eternal death over and over again. And because the lying couple is working hand in hand, these people were naturally also named in Becky's "Truth Book" with an entire chapter dedicated to each one.

The following names, familiar to the readers of the dreams and the "truth book", will now be mentioned in this order: Steve Wohlberg, G. Edward Reid, Eugene Prewitt, Linda Kirk, Vance Farrell, David Gates and Laura Lee Jones.

Only later did Ángel Manuel Rodríguez get added as an opponent on Ernie's death list, along with a former friend of his, John Scotram... the most frequently mentioned and "worst" of all, a blasphemer for the "sin" of time-setting. Whether lunar Sabbath keeper, Jesuit, or simply faithful Adventist who fervently expects his Lord, all are thrown into the same cauldron to burn in the eternal fires of Ernie Knoll's imaginary hell.

Of course, some people are listed who represent seductive doctrines and probably really will suffer eternal death, but it's certainly not because of a judgment of Ernie Knoll or of one of his "dream characters" and certainly not in the way of "being eaten alive by the earth" as he and some of his followers desire (see his latest dream Final Events and the First Supper). Such a perverse fantasy can only be developed by someone under demonic influence and something like this can only be esteemed as good and true by those people who have similarly sick minds and have never experienced the love of God.

So, those who dare say anything against Ernie Knoll, watch out! Ernie's dream-Jesus will then eat you alive, body and soul, nibbling slowly and with relish! To me at least, this imagery is very reminiscent of the Catholic Inquisition with its spread of fear and panic, and we know who the "boss" of the pope is.

Now let's proceed with "Ernie's Story Hour" where he "masterfully" intertwines truth and lies...

As a study group we have read and discussed the negative comments that have been made. We wish to briefly discuss a few of these in this document.

We found it interesting that no tangible decision had been made as to the origin of the messages Brother Knoll had been receiving till the February 5 dream called Stand Fast. The first comment was made regarding the execution of many till Revelation 20:4 was discussed. Things quickly escalated when the statement of the tithe was made. A quick decision was reached by Pastor Steve Wohlberg who is the director of White Horse Media and G. Edward Reid who is the Stewardship Director for the NAD. Both of these individuals rushed comments to discredit Brother Knoll. Brother Wohlberg quickly denounced the messenger who speaks with brother Knoll and stated the messenger was of Satan. We are cautioned against this in both the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy. Not long after this comment Brother Wohlberg states that 1st John 4:1-3 is not a valid test. The entire study group had a problem with this comment from brother Wohlberg. Another item was the fact that he denies that Jesus came in the flesh as Adam after sin without the propensity to sin. This setup another red flag to the study group as to the validity of his thinking. When we studied in the April 12, 2008 dream titled Love and Rebuke, we quickly realized that this was addressing Steve Wohlberg and White Horse Media.

"Let he that rides dismount and prostrate before the Lord of hosts, the Creator of the universe, He who came to be the created. Bow before your Master and confess your sins so all will hear of your rebellion. A message was sent to a chosen messenger and you denied your Lord's ear and convinced others to turn away. Repent now and ask for forgiveness so the Father will hear and turn His face toward you. Ask this through and in the name of His Son. Kneel, confess your sins lest the streams and rivers dry up and the horse that drinks die, lest you walk the face of the earth and every ear turn away from you as the words you speak fall like rocks from your mouth. Repent lest the Lord God spew you out of His mouth as boiling seawater."

Now we see on the White Horse Media web site a plea for emergency funds. God is fulfilling His rebuke. It appears that brother Wohlberg's ministry is dying. You can find his plea for emergency funding at this link. news_29 (webmasters note: the newsletter the original link pointed to was changed by White Horse Media so we are providing a copy for all to see.)

As for Brother Reid, it is obvious why many of this group wish to remain un-named. Many are still receiving financial support but we ask for how much longer. Brother Reid's comments he made regarding brother Knoll was unprepared. It was a quick release to discredit brother Knoll and no study was given. After a thorough in depth study of what the messenger told brother Knoll, we have found that the message is in complete agreement with the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy. The other item which needs to be addressed is the usage of the story of the widow and her few mites. This is not the illustration Jesus was giving that she gave all she had to a corrupt storehouse but that she was faithful in paying a tithe. This is what brother Knoll was shown. It is important to pay a tithe but that the payer will be held accountable if the payer knows the tithe is being used against God's will. This is in agreement with Spirit of Prophecy. As we studied further in to Gods storehouse it is shown that Sister White specifically stated that the conference is not to be the only storehouse. So the question came as to where should tithe be sent. The answer was simple. To those who are doing the work of God. How would one know if they are doing the work of God? We are told by their fruits you shall know them. Some have stated that it is wrong that brother Knoll is accepting tithe but then again it is also realized that the fruit of his ministry has brought more souls back to God than many churches through a course of many evangelistic series. We have found that so many are blinded by wrong leadership that wrong decisions are being made by individuals. One final note is the group discussed how it was announced recently a conference placed the entire retirement fund for pastors in a stock and then lost all of the funds. If you the reader are hearing of pastoral layoffs and or how pastors will be now having several churches in their district this is a contribution to the misuse of Gods money. The comment is stated that tithe is at an all time low. It is also at an all time high that the tithe is being misused by the one who holds the keys. United are we in watching to see the keys knocked from brother Reid's hand. Ed this plea also comes from your co-workers. Choose you this day our brother. How long oh Lord must we watch till your church be cleansed! It was also discussed how Brother Reid contacted the churches via the NAD to not allow Brother Knoll to speak in any of our churches. We discussed who these churches belong to. We have always believed they belonged to God. We invite pastors to re-think whom you report to.

There is no question that I also agree with Ernie's substantive statements about tithing, but the fact is he is claiming to have a right to receive tithe payments for the wrong reasons, be it in this first lying letter on this subject, or be it in the more recent dreams in which he makes his dream-Jesus beg for money for him. Ernie Knoll stated in the above paragraph that he "has brought more souls back to God than many churches through a course of many evangelistic series" justifying it by the fictitious individual he invented, "Candace." Then he invents this "Great Commission Council", which affirms his claim. One thing is sure thus far: Ernie Knoll actually is a prostitute.

An individual named Eugene Prewitt performed a study and discredited brother Knoll. We will not take time to go over his many comments as others have already done this on other web sites. A few of the web site that go over brother Prewitt's comments is www.pinkoski.com and www.4hispeople.info.

Linda Kirk shared a testimony regarding brother and sister Knoll. The open letter she shared was not against the message but against the messenger. We found it interesting that her letter made the Adventist email rounds but the response he made did not. We feel it is important that brother Knoll's response to Linda Kirk be given equal viewing. Following this link will take you to the response given by brother Knoll.

<http://ernieknoll.com/documents/Letter%20to%20Linda%20Kirk.pdf>

Vance Farrell wrote an article subjecting his view points with Linda Kirk. The article lends itself to Linda Kirk. We the group found Linda's loyalties to her former boss she used to be Steve Wohlberg's secretary.

David Gates who was sharing the messages of brother Knoll received an email from someone named LJ. In the email she discredits Brother Knoll. Brother Gates without verifying what he read was true or not quickly dismissed brother Knoll and sided with LJ. LJ are the initials of an individual named Laura Lee Jones. It was found in WorldNetDaily what Laura Lee Jones believes. It was found that David Gates had joined hands with a woman that not only promotes Feast Days but also according to her article, all of the "Sabbaths" in the month of August fall on Sunday. Here is a copy of the article with photos of LJ.

Laura Lee Jones is one of the main channels that preach the Lunar Sabbath doctrine, so please spare me the further translation of this work of lies. We are really focusing on Ernie Knoll. By the way, I would be very surprised if David Gates ever had anything to do with the Lunar Sabbath heresy! Ernie Knoll, however, is already bordering on character assassination!

Another note: The text is quoted exactly. Unfortunately, Ernie Knoll uses such a clumsy language that a blind man reading it would notice that it is no writing of an academic "pastor", but rather of the awkward Ernie Knoll. The fact that Ernie's followers didn't notice it long before is a sign of the lack of discernment on their part.

These are a few of those who have taken the mantle of the ability to critique who they believe is and what God's message will be. These individuals have made their decisions and have documented their findings to convey the opinion of God's people. We the "Great Commission Council" study group will not do that. We invite each in through prayer and study to re-evaluate the messages brother Knoll has received. Call not evil good and good evil. Each will stand before God without the individuals mentioned above. We should follow the council given with "If you indulge stubbornness of heart, and through pride and self-righteousness do not confess your faults, you will be left subject to Satan's temptations. If when the Lord reveals your errors you do not repent or make confession, his providence will bring you over the ground again and again. You will be left to make mistakes of a similar character, you will continue to lack wisdom, and will call sin righteousness, and righteousness sin. The multitude of deceptions that will prevail in these last days will encircle you, and you will change leaders, and not know that you have done so." RH, December 16

Yes, Ernie Knoll, here it is: The one who does not truly repent and confess his faults because of stubbornness of heart, pride and self-righteousness will ultimately choose Satan as his leader. You did not notice that you stepped into your own trap, as you have by your own deception dedicated yourself to the Lord of Lies. Your second fall was inevitable, because your repentance was not genuine or else only lasted a short while, and so you were brought over the same ground again and continued repeating your mistakes. Today you call sin righteousness, and righteousness sin. You oppose the true message of God because of the many deceptions you succumb to by your lack of wisdom.

You continue as the "Great Commission Council" to abuse quotes from Ellen G. White for your own purposes:

How do we meet with the comments of the critics?

Those who have departed from the faith will come to our congregations to divert our attention from the work that God would have done. You cannot afford to turn your ears from the truth to fables. Do not stop to try to convert the one who is speaking words of reproach against your work, but let it be seen that you are inspired by the Spirit of Jesus Christ, and angels of God will put into your lips words that will reach the hearts of the opposers. If these men persist in pressing their way in, those who are of a sensible mind in the congregation will understand that yours is the higher standard. So speak that it will be known that Jesus Christ is speaking through you.--9T 148, 149

Well now, Ernie Knoll, did you obey this advice from the messenger of God as you turned against the Message of the Fourth Angel? Can anyone recognize in your never-ending dream-threats against your opponents that Jesus Christ speaks through you? Are the words of excessive scaremongering in your recent dreams Jesus' words or your own? Is that Jesus' voice in Final Events and the First Supper, or is it just your own imagination controlled by Satan, which promises the following to your favorite aforementioned enemies, including your arch enemy with the clock and sextant:

Suddenly, the ground opens just a little, and each one is standing in a hole up to their ankles. They are separate from each other. They try to free themselves but are not able to. As they stand there for a little while, the ground suddenly opens and closes. They are now in the ground a little below their knees. As others run to rescue them, they also become trapped in the ground. Many stand at a distance in horror, because the ground now holds all these people.

As time goes by, the ground is constantly shaking them back and forth. It looks as if the ground is hungry and literally devouring them. No one else nearby feels the earth moving, only those who are trapped. The bystanders are unable to help. Slowly, the ground continues to devour its victims, who now are held captive just a little above the knees. The more they try to free themselves, the harder the ground becomes around them. In some places it looks like they stand in the middle of a solid rock.

Many of those watching fall to their knees and beg for God's mercy on those who are trapped. Many cry out that it was through one of those individuals that they were brought to Christ. Others mention all the great things another individual has done. However, just because someone does great things for God, does not mean they will be saved automatically. Notice the following Bible verse: "For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them." 2 Peter 2:21.

I now look up and see angels writing cloud-like letters in the sky. The words tell how each was given ample opportunity to approach God's throne. Each one had been contacted personally by individuals who had written them, asking them to repent. Every once in a while the ground opens up then quickly closes, and all these individuals slide further down into the mouth of the earth.

As time progresses and the earth shakes, the individuals are covered to their waist. Then they are swallowed to their ribs. Moments later the ground opens and they are under the ground up to their necks. They each have time to contemplate the things they have said and done. Each knows that the final judgment is upon him or her. They had stood proudly to dismiss God's messages and lead people away from the truth. Now the ground opens for the last time, and each one drops slowly down, buried in the earth.

Those who do not know your schemes against us should now clearly see that you have put us under heavy psychological pressure through your "envoys" in recent months. Again and again messages that we should "Repent or die in agony!" or "What a shame it would be that everything has to end like this!" have come from your minions Edgar Rico Briñez, Elias Sanchez and Sandra Weingarten not to mention the poor Damian Nelson Alderete, who was so totally confused by you that he sent you a big part of his savings for your fairytale lecture tour, which was more like a vacation according to how Becky described it in one of your newsletters. After months of living like a parasite, you still needed another two weeks of vacation from the vacation. What a stark contrast to our farm life here, where we haven't seen a day off for seven years and folks here only have the weekly Sabbath to recover both physically and mentally. Are you not ashamed to rob people's possessions so you can take vacations on their dime to invent new "dreams" which you later make a profit on?

Ernie Knoll, do you really think that your torture threats can convince someone to leave the narrow way when he gave up EVERYTHING for Christ and out of love is doing everything possible to be faithful to Him, and wishes only that His advent is as near as the Orion and the Vessel of Time show? Can you show me one quote from Ellen White saying that time setting is really a sin that needs to be punished so cruelly? I would like to say something... As we read it, we all said unanimously... If that's how it is, then so be it. None of us who trust that Jesus does nothing without telling His servants the prophets both event and time, want to be together with such people in heaven whatever it would look like. We would all prefer eternal death to that!

You, a.k.a. "Great Commission Council", go on to violate Ellen White's words:

The item of open forums were discussed and we noticed a couple are controlled by certain individuals. We share this if only to alert our findings. Knowing that God has said "I must warn all our churches to beware of men who are being sent out to do the work of spies in our conferences and churches,--a work instigated by the father of falsehood and deception. Let every church-member stand true to principle. We have been told what would come, and it has come." Special Testimonies.

Why, Ernie Knoll, did you act against your own advice as quoted here by sending spies into our private forum to siphon information that was not intended for the public? Did you want to avenge yourself because by God's providence some of your unpublished dreams came to us without us being actively involved, and have therefore resorted to the basest form of warfare of sending your followers to creep in among us under pretense of faith in the Orion message to spy on the faithful of God to find out what they have given up for God, so you can use it against them in your imaginary dreams? Have you no respect for the WORD OF GOD, which says: "Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee. And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake, Who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting." (Luke 18:28-30) Where did you get the audacity to discredit people who have left absolutely everything to serve God, and in your fake dreams call them bad parents, husbands, or wives who are blindly following a "sect" leader?

Is it you, the one who "does not understand", who missed the fact that the WORD OF GOD teaches that religious reform involves dissolution of mixed marriages with heathen or unbelieving or apostate spouses, when it would prevent them from following Christ, or if the time has come to walk only for the Lord?

Now when Ezra had prayed, and when he had confessed, weeping and casting himself down before the house of God, there assembled unto him out of Israel a very great congregation of men and women and children: for the people wept very sore. And Shechaniah the son of Jehiel, one of the sons of Elam, answered and said unto Ezra, We have trespassed against our God, and have taken strange wives of the people of the land: yet now there is hope in Israel concerning this thing. Now therefore let us make a covenant with our God to put away all the wives, and such as are born of them, according to the counsel of my lord, and of those that tremble at the commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the law. Arise; for this matter belongeth unto thee: we also will be with thee: be of good courage, and do it. Then arose Ezra, and made the chief priests, the Levites, and all Israel, to swear that they should do according to this word. And they sware. Then Ezra rose up from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the son of Eliashib: and when he came thither, he did eat no bread, nor drink water: for he mourned because of the transgression of them that had been carried away. And they made proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem unto all the children of the captivity, that they should gather themselves together unto Jerusalem; And that whosoever would not come within three days, according to the counsel of the princes and the elders, all his substance should be forfeited, and himself separated from the congregation of those that had been carried away. Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem within three days. It was the ninth month, on the twentieth day of the month; and all the people sat in the street of the house of God, trembling because of this matter, and for the great rain. And Ezra the priest stood up, and said unto them, Ye have transgressed, and have taken strange wives, to increase the trespass of Israel. Now therefore make confession unto the LORD God of your fathers, and do his pleasure: and separate yourselves from the people of the land, and from the strange wives. Then all the congregation answered and said with a loud voice, As thou hast said, so must we do. (Ezra 10:1-12)

Why do you lie, Ernie Knoll, in proposing that this little handful of people who came to Paraguay experienced "separation between husbands and wives for no good reason?" {Other Sheep} Did your spies not tell you that they all invited their spouses to come too and none of them wanted to? None of those who were left behind were left behind for a good reason! None of them wanted to be faithful to God and spat in His face. Why doesn't your dream-Jesus know this? He not only doesn't know his own time, but he doesn't even know the reasons behind people's actions. Then what kind of a judge will your dream-Jesus be? Someone like you, who only judges others but can't see the beam in his own eye?

The next part of your "Great Commission Council" tale takes the cake:

As we tried to participate in some of the forums it did not kindle a Christ like spirit. On one forum it was noticed that the testimony of Candace was deleted. We as a group feel that the individual who removed her testimony might meet with the criteria in the following statement. "I have been shown that evil angels in the form of believers will work in our ranks to bring in a strong spirit of unbelief. These powers of evil will assemble in our meetings, not to receive a blessing, but to counterwork the influences of the Spirit of God. In this time evil angels in the form of men will talk with those who know the truth. They will misinterpret and misconstrue the statements of the messengers of God." Selected Messages.

Ernie Knoll, how do you so cleverly swap truth with falsehood? You were the evil angel who appeared in our ranks in the form of a former prostitute who supposedly came to the faith. You are the power of evil that counter-works the Spirit of God in the studies of the Orion and the Vessel of Time, and it is you who misinterprets and misconstrues the messages of God. You clearly demonstrated here how you work, how you think, and that you will shrink back from nothing—not even a lie—to satisfy your bruised ego with your insatiable and perverse vindictiveness. You are a true child of your father Satan, if not he himself.

Therefore, your conclusion is as follows:

Conclusion

We have seen in a study of Zacharias and how dangerous it is and how careful we need to be before rejecting a message that comes from heaven. We recall how the leaders dismissed Ellen White. Are we going to make the same mistake again? Are we to reject Ernie Knoll's dreams? We have found NO error in the messages that have been presented so far. We the group aforementioned do stand behind and support the ministry of Brother Ernie Knoll. We encourage those faithful pastors to pray, study and review these messages God has sent. We have found that gross errors have been made by the critics mentioned and we watch as God deals accordingly.

It is our prayer, as a united group that we allow God to speak to all of us in unity.

Ernie Knoll, what truly believing man would dare even remotely call upon the Spirit of God while lying? It could be that it was just a different spirit that you summoned, namely the spirit of the Master of Lies. Friends, if a person is capable of such a thing as to even say a prayer within a lie, what else is such a person capable of? The least thing might be to take a dream that you only poorly remember, and turn it into something that satisfies the pride, ego and one's own claim to power. The motivation behind your dreams, Ernie Knoll, has become yourself, your alter-ego "EARNEST - the Truth." All your recent dreams show this. Only the old ones are still inspired by God and in them you were repeatedly warned to stay faithful to Him. You were even told that you would not have any more dreams when you were unfaithful. And what today you think are dreams from God, are the same as what you received when you were "Candace": dreams from Satan. Your own wife and accomplice says this in her "Truth Book" by citing the following passage from In The Heart of Jesus in the chapter on your "fall":

The Herald explains the following. "I have waited to return to you but as before I had to wait till I was told to return. I come to you as a messenger. I am here to show you many things that you are to show to all. I know you wanted confirmation of what was happening. I watched as Satan began to deceive you. He shared great truth with you in some of your unpublished, private dreams, but there was always a little wrong along with all of the truth. I watched as he deceived you more and more. You were convinced that this was direction from the Father of all truth, but I watched as you received direction from the father of all lies. Our Father could have stopped him, but He allows things to happen when He knows it is for the betterment of all. Remember He knows the beginning to the end. He already knew that Satan would deceive you....

And you yourself say as the "Great Commission Council":

There are a thousand temptations in disguise prepared for those who have the light of truth; and the only safety for any of us is in receiving no new doctrine, no new interpretation of the Scriptures, without first submitting it to brethren of experience. Lay it before them in a humble, teachable spirit, with earnest prayer; and if they see no light in it, yield to their judgment; for "in the multitude of counselors there is safety."--Testimonies, Vol. 5, pp. 291-293.

Ernie Knoll, you yourself have never taken this advice to examine our studies. You don't get the argument that Ellen White's anti-time-setting statements were only for a specific time, and then the Holy Spirit will come with The Power of the Father. You did not examine, just like the Adventist Church did not. You are guilty of the same negligence as they are. Now everyone can read your e-mails, wherein you yourself admit that you have not even read the presentation of the Orion study completely. When you saw the 2012 date, you threw away the study even though your own dreams call out 2012 twice. Has it never occurred to you that God also warns of this year twice, once in Orion and once in the Vessel of Time?

Not even your friends have examined anything. You had dreams that even stated how things must be tested (i.e. Testing the Spirits), but none of them has even taken the trouble to study the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy to scrutinize. Instead, they blindly trust in you as their spiritual leader. Yes, Ernie Knoll, the way they follow you and how you allow no other gods beside you, you are perfectly fulfilling the image of a cult leader. You always say that your dreams are to be tested, but of others you warn that they should not waste their time with them. This is sectarianism in its most unpleasant, dangerous form.

To put the icing on the cake, you end your Great Commission spectacle with:

Our prayer is that God guide each as we study and not depend upon any man. You stand alone before God in that it is your decision. May God fill you with His Holy Spirit as you study.

The Great Commission Council

One can hardly believe it! What audacity a person must have in order as a single man to point out that you should not look to a single man, who plays a whole bunch of pastors, scholars, and leaders!

But when this individual was identified as a man and was pressed, he finally admitted what he had done. Except that very soon after that, he covered his tracks. Not even two weeks of remorse passed before he was back with Bonnie Knoll for a real selling out this time.

Have the friends of Ernie and Becky never noticed that now every dream only contains a "defense" of the poor misunderstood "prophet" that still is "the Truth" himself? Ah, and what about this... Bank account and transfer order of Jesus Christ directly to the ForMyPeople Ministry! How many of you gave away your homes, life insurance and retirement to this man, who has nothing to give you in return? Not that you'd still need it, but what if you wanted to invest it in the cause of God? Why didn't you prove him then? Why do you believe everything from a "dreamer without understanding" and why have you not examined the studies of John Scotram with the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy as you should? Why do you believe the slanderous words of a man who has already proven and demonstrated to you that he has a strong tendency toward lying?

True Repentance?

In the so-called Truth Book that Becky Knoll wrote in defense of her husband, we find a whole chapter on Ernie's first "fall". In it, Ernie's wife uses comparisons with Bible characters to excuse his fall. Abraham at one point also lied to Pharaoh and Abimelech, Jacob also deceived his own father, David had also deceived others, and sinned with Bathsheba, Peter was also a coward, Moses had also dishonored God, Solomon also strayed far away from God and Jonah even disobeyed, and therefore God also had to forgive Ernie Knoll for inventing a prostitute named Candace.

One must question why he did that!

The justifications Ernie's wife gives for the first fall of her husband are as follows:

1. Ernie was affected emotionally because so many people were not accepting the messages he was asked to give to God's people.
2. The false statements that were written about him also troubled him.
3. Instead of taking these issues to God, Ernie became discouraged.
4. His discouragement led to a lack of faith.
5. As a result, Ernie made up the testimony of Candace.
6. As Ernie created the story, he noticed the words flowed easily. This led him to believe that God must have inspired him to write it like a parable.
7. Once he had posted the testimony, Ernie was sorry he did it, but he didn't know how to get out of it.
8. Ernie then began to beg God to stop giving him the dreams as he felt unworthy.
9. As time went on, Ernie began to justify that God was inspiring him to write about Candace.
10. When opposition to the dreams grew and websites started to appear that were against the dreams, Ernie made up the Great Commission Council.
11. For a few months before Ernie was found out, he had been sending emails to friends and the board of the ministry as "Candace" asking them to pray for Ernie as Satan was attacking him and Becky (his wife).

My follow-up questions are:

1. Shouldn't I be much more affected emotionally if all of God's people not only reject the messages that I've studied through the influence of the Holy Spirit, but also the prophet sent by God to confirm the studies? Have I capitulated and let myself fall because of the emotional stress Ernie has caused me and the psychological pressure that his "dream-Jesus" exerted on me with his torture and death threats? Did I allow myself to be carried

- away into lying against Ernie and/or his ministry and attacking Ernie's character (before I received a command from God, which I am complying with in writing this)?
2. Did I let Ernie's false statements (which we will treat individually in the second part) worry me so much that I began to lie? Did the false accusations of the BRI bring me to lash out? Did the "affectionate" tirades of my brethren in Facebook bring me to defraud them?
 3. Yes, I was often discouraged, especially by Ernie's behavior. But I've always taken it all to Jesus. I agree with Becky that that is what a true man of God should have done!
 4. No, discouragement does not lead to a lack of faith, but a lack of faith leads to discouragement. Apparently Becky herself knows nothing of that fact. By her statement she is acknowledging that Ernie has a lack of faith, and that obviously Ernie can't be a prophet of God, and moreover that he can't even be sure of his own salvation. The just shall live by faith, and it must be a very strong faith. We have to demonstrate the patience of the saints and the faith of Jesus if we want to endure, and a man who wants to be a prophet of God has to set a shining example. Faith is the only thing we can give to the Lord... and it's the only thing that is destroyed by a lie.
 5. - 11. There is no excuse or explanation for what chain of events or feelings led to Ernie inventing "Candace" and the "Great Commission Council". Perhaps he can be forgiven before God if he truly repents, but the requirements for a prophet are extremely stringent, as I will yet show at the end of this part. What can never be required, however, by anyone—not even God, because it contradicts His own laws—is that you have to believe a fallen, lying prophet a second time. On the contrary, God warns of that throughout His Word. As I will show in the next article, we can't even allow fallen ministers to return to their posts again. There are clear statements of Ellen White, which Ernie Knoll completely contradicts in his recent dreams. Again, a prophet is something very special. What you can, however, see beautifully in the sequence of Ernie's wife's statements is the fact that one lie leads to another and once you get started it is almost impossible to break away and escape the vicious cycle of sin. And for a man with lack of faith it is even harder.

The Bible gives us clear indications of what a high level of responsibility the prophetic office includes, and what to do with a prophet who lies:

If there arise among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder, And the sign or the wonder come to pass, whereof he spake unto thee, saying, Let us go after other gods, which thou hast not known, and let us serve them; Thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for the LORD your God proveth you, to know whether ye love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul. Ye shall walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye shall serve him, and cleave unto him. And that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death; because he hath spoken to turn you away from the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the house of bondage, to thrust thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in. So shalt thou put the evil away from the midst of thee. (Deuteronomy 13:1-5)

But the prophet, which shall presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or that shall speak in the name of other gods, even that prophet shall die. (Deuteronomy 18:20)

Ernie Knoll should think hard about the example of another false prophet recorded in 1 Kings 13. The man of God had to die too, because he disobeyed a simple command of God. When God knows no mercy on prophets, it is because their office carries the highest responsibility and great damage can be done. A Bible student, however, may make a mistake as he has never claimed to be a prophet and the source can be verified by each individual by himself. A prophet like Ernie, however, claims to receive direct instructions from God which cannot be easily verified and therefore only the most honest and humble people can fulfill this duty. Ernie Knoll possesses neither of those characteristics, as this article demonstrates.

Still remaining to be examined are Becky's attempts at his defense using Bible characters, which she lists in her "Truth Book" and which later increasingly appear in the more recent dreams:

1. Abraham was not a prophet, but a patriarch and never prophesied anything. His faith was reckoned to him as righteousness, a kind which Ernie has yet to demonstrate.
2. Jacob was also no prophet, although he tended to lie like Ernie.
3. David was king of Israel, and Ellen White only called him a prophet and messenger of God because of a personal vision of Jesus he once had. This is not the same as holding the real prophetic office. Ernie, however would like to be both king and prophet in one, and only in his lust for power can he be compared to a king.
4. Although Peter was "cowardly", he truly and deeply repented. Ernie's remorse, however, was only superficial and he soon began to lie worse than ever when he fell for the second time (this will be discussed in the next article).
5. To God, it was not Moses that was a prophet but his brother Aaron: "And the LORD said unto Moses, See, I have made thee a god to Pharaoh: and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet." (Exodus 7:1) He was the meekest of all people, something you cannot say about Ernie Knoll, if you have read this article. It's almost a slap in the face to God for Ernie to compare himself with Moses.
6. Solomon was also no prophet, and only his enjoyment of money and wealth can compare to Ernie's dreamed but unjustified claims to tithes and large donations.
7. Jonah was the only prophet in the series of repentant characters applicable to Ernie. But did he ever lie? No, quite the contrary. He wanted to lie, because he did not like what God wanted to say through him, but since he could not lie he fled from God's sight, which was just as hopeless as Ernie trying to hide in his self-invented hell-hole before awaiting his eternal punishment.

A two-week repentance is certainly not enough to immediately begin receiving new dreams again. I have talked to people who also have dreams and are Adventists. None of them would have ever dared have their dreams appear in public again after such a fall. They all would have been happy with the judgment of Jesus, if only their life were spared and they would still be allowed a chance to enter into the Kingdom. No one would ever think of just picking up right where they left off. One would have asked God to transfer the office, which was obviously too hard for the fallen, to someone else. Ernie claims to have done that, but the fact that he's lying again today and has now even published lying dreams clearly proves that his repentance was not genuine.

Ernie was the one who was the designated "director" of the Ministry of the Fourth Angel, who should have delivered God's counsel to the leaders in a humble way like Ellen G. White had done in the past. He wanted to be in the lead, but his pride and lust for power did not allow him to be satisfied with his position. He wanted more than what God had granted him. He wanted not only the dreams, but also the understanding, the power and the top position. Nothing but the #1 position would be enough to make him happy.

Without intending to, Becky gives us an important hint in the "Truth Book" to find out what the real reason was for Ernie's first fall:

Pray for Protection

It is interesting that the last dream Ernie had before he made up Candace was dream 25, Pray for Protection. In the dream he was being tortured. When he wakes, he finds that he is pinned down and cannot speak. It is only when Becky wakes and offers to call on the name of Jesus that he is released. God gave Ernie a warning of his imminent fall, but Ernie did not recognize this warning.

What Becky is hiding from us, is a fatal relationship between dream 24 and 25. First, notice that the dream 24 The ABC was dreamed on October 24, 2007 and the following night of October 25, 2007, the physical attack of Satan on Ernie took place in Pray for Protection. Why was Satan suddenly overcoming Ernie, and why was he permitted to attack the prophet physically? It had to be something Ernie did that separated him from God to the point that Satan's hands were untied. It had to have something to do with what he had dreamed the night before, because of the obvious temporal relationship between the two dreams.

Read the dream and decide for yourself. In examining all of the previous dreams of Ernie, the possibility was never excluded that Ernie could have been not only the prophet but also the head of the 144,000, and that, along with Becky. It is very likely that Ernie believed that, and now it is even more sure than ever as all of his recent compromised dreams indicate. But the ABC dream popped Ernie's bubble and dashed his claim to power, for suddenly there appears an ominous man who will apparently be the new head of the remnant in due time... and Ernie recognizes something terrible... it is not him!

We go outside and begin walking down a sidewalk. We walk a very short way and stop. My angel puts his right hand on my shoulder and says, "God watches all." He tells me to watch. I see a man I do not know but sense that he is a Seventh-day Adventist and well-grounded in the Bible and Spirit of Prophecy. He walks past and goes into the ABC. Moments later all the employees leave the ABC with their personal belongings. As the manager walks out and passes us, I ask him what happened. He replies, "We were all told our services were no longer needed."

The Herald now tells me to look up. The sky rolls back, angels descend and their wings fold and fold and fold again. Their appearance now changes into human form. My angel and I quickly follow the small group back into the ABC. I watch as the SDA man instructs the "angel employees" to place empty boxes onto hand trucks and put certain books into the boxes. While they are busy doing this task, the SDA man says to one of the larger angel employees, "Please get rid of that." He is pointing to the CD, DVD and music stand. I watch as this large angel walks over, wraps his very large arms around the whole display stand and rips it from the wall with ease. We follow as he heads toward the end of the loading dock where a large dumpster sits. He hurls the display into it and smiles at me as he presses a button on the side of the dumpster. He continues smiling as this dumpster, which has a built-in compactor and chipping machine, grinds everything into small bits and then compresses it. He keeps smiling all the time while the machine is smashing and chomping the CDs and DVDs. I turn to see angels lined up with boxes of books on hand trucks. The large angel picks up a heavy box of books and throws it into the dumpster. He keeps smiling as the books are ground to pieces.

You might have noticed the clear parallel between the cleaning of the ABC by the Adventist man and the dream of William Miller which is published in Early Writings. There is also a "second Miller" to help the first, after the jewels of the former were scattered and scoured all over the floor. The second Miller comes with a broom and takes over the cleaning and arranges all of the jewels into a much larger "casket" than the first Miller had. The first Miller found his jewels in the Bible, which is represented by the standard Bible dimensions given at the beginning of the Miller's dream. The bigger "casket" of the second Miller, however, had to be something much "larger" than the Bible.
